30 Army, Air Cadets To Get Commissions

Even area students will be among the thirty Air Force and Army ROTC cadets receiving military service commissions as second lieutenants today at 2 p.m. at Union.

Receiving USAF commissions will be Dale H. Kock, Brookfield, Wis.; John M. Voss, Okemos; Robert R. Brown, Galesburg, Mich.; Robert J. Nelson, Jr., Olivet; and three cadets have received commissions to report for flying training according to Major Clarence A. Powers, director of leadership.

U. S. ARMY commissions will be awarded to William M. Anderson, Jr., Ludington; Donald H. Roper, Olivet; Richard H. Byrd, Lansing; Arthur G. Dowd, Jr., Birmingham; William E. Durrell, Jr., Hamburg, N. Y.; Robert L. Lansing; Melvin D. Gruhn, Lansing; Richard L. D. Hammond, Lansing and Garwood P. Jensen, Menominee.

Dean Milton E. Muelder, vice president for research and development and dean of the school for advanced graduate studies, will be the principal speaker at the ceremony.

The platform party will include William H. Combs, dean of University services; Tom King, dean of students; Dorsey E. Rodney, dean (Emeritus), college of business and public service; Col. Thomas J. Barrett, PMS; Col. Merton E. Munson, PMS; Lt. Col. Goudreau; Maj. Clarence A. Powers and Chaplain George R. Meyers.

An estimated 200 guests are expected to attend, including members of the cadets' families, Capt. Lion said.

Cold Wave Heading Our Way

Warm weather bathed the East Lansing area Monday but colder weather is coming.

Last Monday afternoon the thermometer climbed to 51 degrees at Capital City airport.

Tuesday was expected to be even probably in the low 30s, the U. S. weather bureau reported. Snow already blanketing the Plains states could reach this area.

In the area skies will probably be partly overcast, but will clear Tuesday night. It will also be colder Tuesday night, the weather bureau said.

Monday afternoon a snowstorm packing winds up to 30 miles per hour spun across the Midwest and headed back northward into Canada Monday night.

It made harsh weather over much of the Midwest, piling 6 to 12 inches of snow and snapping utility wires, stopping buses, boats and airlines with icy visibility, and chilling the Midwest.

The storm center drove across northern Minnesota and Upper Michigan in a wintry enforcer for another snowy, windy, cold day. The storm center drove across the same area of the northern middle-border country.

Temperatures dipped sharply, with daytime readings between 15 and 25 degrees in northern Michigan, and 20s prevalent over the snow-covered sections.

By contrast, the mercury rose to the high 50s along the Atlantic coast, and Miami had mid-60s. It was sunny, but not quite as hot as the West coast as on the East.

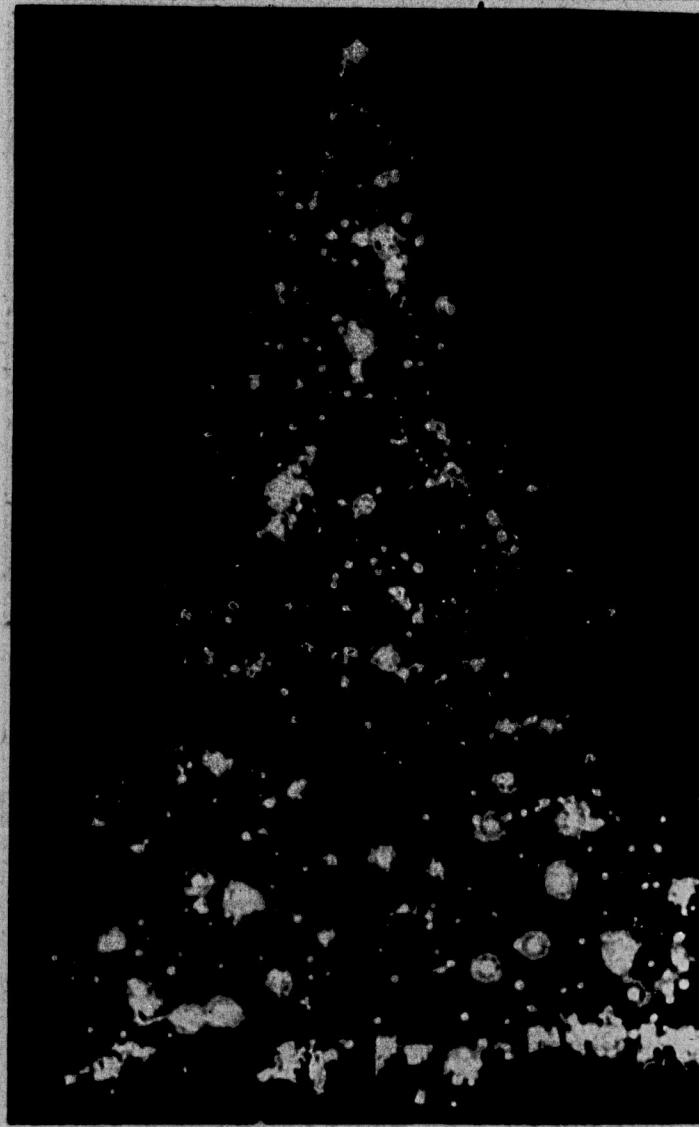

Number Of Women Increasing

Women in the next generation will be more numerous, live longer, marry earlier and have a better education.

Research on women in future societies indicates these predictions will come true, according to Helen F. Southard, associate director of the Bureau of Research, Studies and Program Resources, National Young Women's Christian Association.

Speaking at a national YWCA staff conference here last week, Mrs. Southard revealed these 11 basic facts about the next generation:

1. People — more people — people — more people!
2. More young people.
3. More young married people.
4. More young working people.
5. More young people in college.
6. More combinations of work, college and marriage among young people.
7. More mobile population.
8. The rearing of children finished sooner.
9. Over half of all women in the work force are married.
10. Women have a longer life span — many women are left without mates.
11. Girls and women's goals and methods are blurred.

Liberal Arts Courses in 20 Cities

No Finals for Adult Programs

While most students this week are in a race with time as last minute cramming gets under way for final exams a small number of students will go nonchalantly about their business with no concern for credits, final exams, or degrees.

Unusual attitude? Not at all—for students enrolled in non-credit courses in the liberal arts program for adults. The courses are conducted cooperatively by MSU and local institutions or educational groups in more than 20 Michigan cities.

The Liberal Arts Program for Adults, under the direction of Dr. Duane L. Gibson, was made possible by a $350,000 grant in 1957 by the Fund for Adult Education, an autonomous agency of the Ford Foundation.

"IT IS AN informal program," Gibson said, "to provide an opportunity for people who have an interest in basic disciplines of liberal arts to study them systematically—free and clear of requirements for credits and examinations."

Gibson said the program is based on three kinds of adult education: a study of man as worker, man as citizen and man as man.

Man as worker includes such subjects as rapid reading for executives, supervision skills, and new developments of technology in business and industry, he said.

Gibson said the study of man as citizen includes current issues of American affairs, tension in Southeast Asia and a course titled "The United States of Europe—Myth or Reality?"

"Why Modern Art?" "Fiction of the Fifties," and "Love of the Stars," an astronomy course, Gibson continued, are all concerned with man as man.

"FICTION OF THE Fifties," he explained, "is an examination of man's search to understand himself in recent writings. Works studied include Kerouac's 'On the Road' and Salinger's 'Catcher in the Rye.'"

Gibson said the informal adult program is based on the notion that too frequently undergraduates do not have the experience to give meaning to and appreciate poetry, Shakespearean plays, music and ethics.

"It is our hope," he said, "that the University will carry on this program after the expiration of the grant." The grant expires July 1, 1961.

The winter term liberal arts program includes "Background of the Bible," an examination of the cultural setting in which the Bible was written, to be taught in Lansing by Dr. Robert Anderson of the department of religion.

Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra, head of the Hope college philosophy department, will teach a course in existentialism.

"The Rise of Jazz: What It Is and Why It Is" will be taught in Kalamazoo by Dr. M. E. Hall of the music department.

Others are "Understanding the Cold War," to be taught in East Detroit by Dr. Murray Seidler, assistant professor of political science at Wayne State University, and "Economics and Foreign Policy," scheduled for Wyandotte, to be taught by Ronald Shearer of the University of Michigan department of economics.

Gibson said that there has been an unusual interest in the astronomy course, "Love of the Stars." He said this may have been a result of the influence of the first Sputnik.

Whenever possible, Gibson said, an effort has been made to make the program a cooperative venture between MSU and other local schools or universities, public and private. MSU has enlisted the cooperation of the University of Michigan, Wayne State, Central Michigan, Western Michigan, Hope and Albion.

Kennedy Aides Propose New Defense Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tightly controlled defense force, dispensing with Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries and emphasizing speedy military decisions, was proposed to President-elect John F. Kennedy by his defense advisers Monday.

Annual savings up to $8 billion were claimed for the proposed reorganization.

The three armed services would continue to be separate units under the plan produced, at Kennedy's request, by a committee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.).

But the committee frankly recommended reducing the influence of the separate services. It said the country can no longer afford the luxury of letting each service strive to develop in itself the capability of fighting any future war by itself, and that interservice rivalry is steadily increasing.

Defense planning cannot continue to consist of compromises among the three, the committee contended.

Moreover, Symington, himself a former secretary of the Air force, said the plan recognizes "the nuclear space age instead of continuing to have this arbitrary and ridiculous division between land, sea and air."

Certain to set off a furor in military circles and Congress, the Symington committee report sought to justify its sweeping recommendations by saying that in the past the United States has had 18 months to build and mobilize its defenses for war, while there should ever be a World War III, we would be fortunate to have 18 minutes to react.

And it said saving time and money are crucial in the race with the Soviet Union for mastery of space mastery. Symington estimated at a Palm Beach news conference the committee's recommendations could save 20 per cent of the defense budget, or $8 billion, which probably would have to be invested in new weapons development and arms control.

The Symington committee would redefine the services as "separate organic units within a single defense department." It cited the example of the Marine Corps, a self-contained force which is, however, part of the Navy Department and has no separate secretary.

Each service would continue to have its own chief. But these three chiefs, plus another officer as chairman, would no longer constitute the Joint Chiefs of Staff which is now the nation's top military authority in uniform.

A new post created would be that of Assistant Secretary of Defense for Arms Control. He would represent the secretary in disarmament planning. Symington said such a post might be regarded as "the most important job in the government with the exception of the president himself."

Each chief would simply head his own service. Another group of senior officers, appointed by the President from the three services but permanently separated from any particular office, would make up the military advisory council.

Court Rules Against Bus Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today outlawed discrimination against Negro passengers in restaurants that regularly serve interstate bus travelers.

Avoiding a constitutional question that might have had an important bearing on other issues involving Negro rights, the court based its 7-2 decision on the Interstate Commerce act.

The ruling struck down the conviction of Bruce Boynton, a Negro traveling from Washington, D. C., to Selma, Ala., who refused to leave the restaurant for whites in the Trailways bus terminal in Richmond, Va.

Boynton was fined $10 under a Virginia law which makes it a misdemeanor to refuse to leave premises on demand of persons in charge.

Justice Hugo L. Black, author of the decision, went no further than necessary to decide the case. He noted that constitutional questions had been raised in Boynton's appeal, including the due process and equal protection clauses of the 14th amendment.

"We think there are persuasive reasons, however, why this case should be decided, if it can, on the interstate commerce act question raised in the Virginia courts," Black wrote.

"Discrimination is the core of the two-fold constitutional questions presented us by petitioner (Boynton), just as it is the core of the Interstate Commerce act question presented to the Virginia courts. Under these circumstances, we think it appropriate not to reach the constitutional questions but to proceed at once to the statutory issue."

The court thereby avoided any hint as to what attitude it might take on long-term civil rights demonstrations in the South, as well as on other similar questions.

Black said the Interstate Commerce act "uses language of the broadest type to ban discrimination of all kinds." He recalled that the act forbids railroad dining cars to discriminate in service on account of color.

Black agreed with the contention of Virginia that the evidence did not show the bus company owned or controlled the Richmond restaurant. He said, however, that the Interstate Commerce act did not exempt motor carriers from their duty not to discriminate.

Black said the court was not holding that every time a bus stops at an independent roadside restaurant the Interstate Commerce act requires that restaurant service be supplied in harmony with the provisions of the act.

"We decide only this case, on its facts, where circumstances show that the terminal and restaurant operate as an integral part of the interstate passenger service for interstate passenger," Black said.

"Under these circumstances, an interstate passenger need not inquire into documents or title of ownership arrangements in order to determine whether he has a right to be served without discrimination."

Justice Charles Whittaker wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justice Tom C. Clark concurred.

Bagwell Asks GOP-Dem Cooperation

LANSING (AP)—Paul D. Bagwell, defeated Republican candidate for governor, Monday called for bi-partisan cooperation to solve Michigan economic, climate, tax and constitutional problems.

Bagwell said there is no longer any argument over whether Michigan has an economic climate problem and the relationship of taxes to that problem.

He said the Democratic administration should name a bi-partisan citizens tax committee to look over the facts and present a comprehensive program to attack the problem. This should be an action, not a study committee, Bagwell said.

"It should not be dominated by any special interest group and should cut across party lines," the GOP spokesman said.

A bi-partisan constitutional convention commission, also should be named at once to lay the groundwork for a constitutional convention if one is called for by the voters, Bagwell said.

Funeral Rites For Student This Afternoon

He was killed Saturday night in a hunting accident near Lake Lansing.

Smith was majoring in wildlife and fisheries.

News Short's

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP)—Two U. S. Senators and President-elect John F. Kennedy's younger brother, Edward, flew into Elizabethtown Monday.

They promptly dispelled any idea that the new U. S. administration would recognize the independence of the breakaway Congo province of Katanga.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The Louisiana legislature held a 90-minute secret session Monday shortly after a federal court refused again to let the legislature take charge of New Orleans public schools.

"We want to tell the people of New Orleans that we are not quitting."

TOKYO (AP)—Already the most populous city in the world, Tokyo is expected to top 10 million next year, the government's statistics bureau predicted Monday.

A census last October gave Tokyo a population of 9,673,600. London is second with 8,222,000 on the basis of a 1958 census.

Con-Con Plan Gains Support

LANSING (AP)—The drive for a constitutional convention rolled forward Monday under a new head of steam generated by Michigan Republicans and the Michigan AFL-CIO.

Steering groups for both organizations endorsed the proposal at weekend meetings here.

The action by the Republican State Central committee came as no surprise, but approval by the union's Committee on Political Endorsement (COPE) was a complete reversal of form.

AUGUST (Gus) Scholle, state AFL-CIO president, said his union would support the ballot proposition chiefly in hopes of "restoring representative government in Michigan."

Scholle went to the State and U. S. Supreme Courts this year in a futile attempt to force reapportionment of the state senate, dominated by Republicans 22-12.

The question of calling a convention to rewrite the 52-year-old state constitution was endorsed by voters Nov. 2 and will be put on to a statewide vote in the regular spring election April 3.

The Democratic State Central committee, which also met for the first time since the general election, took no stand either way on a constitutional convention. The subject was not even discussed.

BEFORE THE election, the committee took a neutral stand on the issue, advising Democrats to vote as they saw fit. The decision took cognizance of a wide split in Democratic ranks on the question.

Gov. Williams led party support for a convention and Gov.-elect Swainson spearheaded the opposition.

Trustees Smith, Harlan Seek Spring Re-election

Members of the Michigan State University Board of Trustees have announced that they will be candidates for re-election this spring.

They are Dr. Conner D. Smith, chairman of the board, and C. Allen Harlan, vice chairman.

The board consists of six members with six-year terms. They are elected at each biennial spring session.

Eligible to fill the two posts are April 3. Candidates in the election are formally nominated at Republican and Democratic state conventions in February.

The board has general control and supervision of the University, including election of a president, salaries of faculty, president and employees, and all state and Congressional appropriations to the institution.

Dr. Smith, 53, is serving his second two-year term as chairman of the board. He is a native of St. Johns and a veterinary medicine graduate of MSU in 1929.

material appointment to fill vacancies in 1952-53 and 1954-55.

Smith is the senior member of the six-member board and for three years prior to 1955 was the lone Democrat on the then traditionally Republican board.

Smith, who has practiced veterinary medicine in Standish since his graduation from MSU, is married and has one son and one daughter. He is a member of the Methodist Community church.

Harlan, 53, was appointed to the board by Gov. G. Mennen Williams Oct. 29, 1957, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of William E. Baker, Mesick Democrat.

A native of Tennessee, the Birmingham Democrat is president of the Harlan Electric company of Detroit and an officer or director of ten other Michigan business firms.

Harlan attended the University of Tennessee and received an honorary bachelor of science degree from the University of Detroit in 1937.

Harlan is married and has five sons and two daughters. He is a veteran of World War II and a member of Central Woodward Christian church.

'Fighting Irish' Went Too Far!

NEWS releases emanating from the University of Notre Dame last week told of a curious and disheartening phenomenon.

These news releases stemmed from a demonstration by some of the university's students who congregated in front of the president's house, holding high a giant sign that urged university officials to "Abolish Academic Excellence."

The urging clearly was the result of Notre Dame's dismal football season in which they lost eight games in a row for the first time in history. Students had generally blamed the poor showing on a tightening of academics at the school.

Granted, this could all be written off as an overdose of "rah rah" college spirit. Irish fans aren't used to seeing their team humiliated and because of this we can't blame them for feeling that some steps should be taken to remedy the situation. But we fail to see how what they advocate will solve anything.

WE FEEL that there is a real danger involved when students start believing that the proverbial cart should come before the horse. And to suggest that academic excellence should be thrown out the window in order to win more football games is doing just that.

Iowa Paper Urges Honor System

AN honor system is a moral code. Like morals, honor cannot be legislated and can just barely be enforced. The students and faculty members who recently entertained the idea of putting the honor system to work on the SUU campus must surely have been faced with the near imponderable—how?

The problem of installing—perhaps institutionalizing—would be a more proper word—the honor system demands honorable participants. Not just the Greeks or the independents or the faculty, but the entire SUU student body must wholeheartedly accept the idea of the honor plan. Next, they must realize that acceptance of the idea demands the kind of constant support that causes the system to be workable.

THE ANSWER to the problem of workability rests with the faculty as well as with the student body. What happens when final examinations are conducted without proctors or any supervision other than a functional sense of honor? Can the instructor release his most carefully guarded quiz to his class, leave the examination room, and return to find every exam returned? Can he fairly evaluate a suddenly brilliant paper from a normally dull student? In this sense, the honor system tests the instructor as well as the student.

The most important mission that a university can undertake is to strive for an excellence that will enable its students to compete in and contribute to an excellent society. This must be one of its primary goals and we would hope that our readers realize it.

While the winning of athletic contests may be regarded by some people as a symbol of prestige for a particular school, it should be remembered that this kind of "excellence" is of a secondary nature. As such, it must never take precedence over excellence of an academic nature.

WE GATHERED from the news stories that the crowd demonstration in South Bend made up only a small segment of the student body and for this we are grateful.

We are also cheered by the fact that we don't seem to be having the same sort of foolishness here. We don't remember hearing one complaint aired when MSU's basketball team was shorn of three key players just before the opening of the Big 10 season last winter because of academic difficulties. Thus, Spartan students seem to be taking this university's increasing academic tightening in stride.

We strongly urge responsible students at Notre Dame to do likewise, and to take steps to see that similar demonstrations of such shallow caliber don't happen again.

There can be no exceptions or exclusions within an honor system. Yet, when a violation does occur—perhaps the exception proves the rule—what will happen? How would the administration act to discipline the violator, maintain the principle of the honor system, and still insure the protection of someone who might be wrongfully accused? How would the administration—student or dean—be able to act with surety, fairness, and (ironically) honor?

A PHILOSOPHER is alleged to have observed, "When a man begins to compromise with himself, you begin to see the deterioration of the man." Being less philosophical but equally practical, the honor system simply requires an attitude of no compromise. The system cannot deteriorate without being preceded by the deterioration of its practitioners and participants. Deterioration of the system is an effect, never a cause.

Its worth lies in an abiding and deep sense of satisfaction, not only in a college education in and of itself, but in the means as well as the end. Most of all, the honor system instills a well deserved pride in self.

But it isn't easy.

"We Extend Our Hand To All Still Struggling Under Colonialism"

U. N. Debate Would Hurt De Gaulle

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

There are several unfortunate factors in a United Nations debate over Algeria at this time.

It comes in a very delicate period when President De Gaulle is making one more effort to end the war and arrive at a workable status for Algeria within the French community.

It serves to harden the cleavage between France and her two former colonies, Tunisia and Morocco, at a time when the Western Powers particularly need their help in influencing the course of African affairs. Tunisia and Morocco have just made business deals with the communist sphere.

The position of the United States in these affairs is damaged because this country has so far respected the French claim that the Algerian trouble is an internal affair which she must settle in her own way. This French position indirectly and in principle supports the contention of the Soviet union that the United Nations is intervening in an internal affair in the former Belgian Congo.

De Gaulle has announced plans for a referendum which he hopes will serve notice on the rightists in the army and in Algeria that the French people are tired of the war and want a settlement. That settlement, he hopes, will be establishment of a Republic of Algeria, controlled by the overwhelming Moslem majority, but providing ample guarantees for the economic and social security of the European colony, and remaining within the French community.

In recent years the pro-rebel faction in the UN has just barely failed in each attempt to make demands or record censure of France. This year it looks as though this group will have the votes.

Letters to the Editor

Writer Gets in 'Last Licks' At Southern Foe of NAACP

To the Editor:

A letter appeared Nov. 18 concerning the NAACP and large scale Negro illiteracy. I do not agree with the writer of the letter which implies that the only reason for such gross illiteracy as it exists stems from the inability to read or write.

If the writer had been fair, or, assuming a normal degree of intelligence, reflected for a moment, I'm sure he could not have written such a letter. I would like to offer the following comments and a possible explanation for such illiteracy which does exist.

Assuming some illiteracy exists, what are the reasons for the situation? If the problem were traced back to its foundation it would be found that it is, in most instances, the result of unequal and segregated facilities in educational areas.

The NAACP is not only crying "prejudice" but is attempting to eliminate it within the framework of law. My home state, Louisiana, offers a present day example of efforts of the NAACP to gain equal educational opportunities for Negroes.

As for the question of illiteracy in the South, who defines or interprets the term? All those declared illiterate are not, and certainly many of those accepted as literate are not.

The basic points of the South when defining the term are the ability to read, to write and to think rationally. Under such criteria for interpreting the term, term, is there any form of illiteracy so valid as that displayed by the howling mob of "illiterate voters" and, or their children who paraded through the streets of New Orleans last week over the attempts of four small children to enter a segregated school.

To say that the mob as a whole was composed of teenagers is a weak explanation because a child reflects the image of his parents, our "illiterate voters."

If the obstacles which prevent one from obtaining the same type of education as another are removed, a large percentage of the Negro illiteracy which now exists would disappear. Education is not the only reason many persons being denied the right to vote.

In many instances people have been denied the right to vote on other technicalities and interpretations of this term "illiteracy." The NAACP is correct in crying prejudice because if the situation was left to those who define the term, I'm sure they would find the same number of so called "illiterate" Negroes in the South.

DECK THE HALLS

The time has come to make out our Christmas shopping lists. For Christmas will be upon us quicker than you can say Jack Robinson. (Have you ever wondered, incidentally, about the origin of this interesting phrase "Quicker than you can say Jack Robinson"? Well sir, the original phrase was French—"Plus vite que de dire Jacques Robespierre." Jack Robinson is, as everyone knows, an anglicization of Jacques Robespierre who was, as everyone knows, the famous figure from the French Revolution who, as everyone knows, got murdered in his bath by Danton, Marat, Caligula, and Aaron Burr.

(The reason people started saying "Quicker than you can say Jacques Robespierre" is quite an interesting little story. It seems that Robespierre's wife, Georges Sand, got word of the plot to murder her husband in his bath. All she had to do to save his life was call his name and warn him. But, alas, quicker than she could say Jacques Robespierre, she received a telegram from her old friend Frederic Chopin who was down in Majorca setting lyrics to his immortal "Warsaw Concerto." Chopin said he needed Georges Sand's help desperately because he could not find a rhyme for "Warsaw." Naturally, Georges Sand could not refuse such an urgent request.

(Well sir, Georges Sand went traipsing off to Majorca, but before she left she told her little daughter Walter that some bad men were coming to murder daddy in his bath, and she instructed Walter to shout Robespierre's name when the bad men arrived. But Walter, alas, had been sea-bathing that morning on the Riviera, and she had come home loaded with sea shells and salt water taffy, and when the bad men came to murder Robespierre, Walter, alas, was chewing a big wad of salt water taffy and could not get her mouth open in time to shout a warning. Robespierre, alas, was murdered quicker than you could shout Jacques Robespierre for Jack Robinson as he is called in the English-speaking countries.)

(There is, I am pleased to report, one small note of cheer in this grisly tale. When Georges Sand got to Majorca where Chopin was setting lyrics to his immortal "Warsaw Concerto," she was happily able to help him find a rhyme for "Warsaw" as everyone knows who has heard those haunting lyrics.

In the fair town of Warsaw,
Which Napoleon's horse saw,
Singing cuckles and minnie, alive alive o'!

Yes, Virginia, there is...

But I digress. We were speaking of Christmas gifts. What we all strive to do at Christmas is, of course, to find unusual, offbeat, different gifts for our friends. May I suggest then a carton of Marlboro Cigarettes?

What? You are astonished? You had not thought of Marlboro as unusual, offbeat, different? You had regarded them as familiar, reliable smokes whose excellence varied not one jot or tittle from year to year?

True. All true. But at the same time, Marlboro are unusual, offbeat, different, because every time you try one, it's like the first time. The flavor never palls, never gets hackneyed. Each Marlboro is a fresh delight, a pristine pleasure, and if you want all your friends to clap their hands and exclaim, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus!" you will put them at the very top of your Christmas list.

And for further Yuletide joy, give Marlboro's non-filtered companion cigarette, mild, flavorful Philip Morris—in regular size or the occasional new king-size Commander. You'll be welcome aboard!

Conant Report Urges

Streamlined Schools in Future

HPR Study Finds

Milk Gets Athletics Approval

By VIC KAUCH
State News Staff Writer

A study of the belief of many athletic coaches that milk impairs endurance performance has been completed by the university's department of health, physical education and recreation.

There are no differences in training response or in all-out performance over a period of time equivalent to the usual season for a single sport whether milk is included or excluded from the diet, the report concluded.

The subjects of the experiment were nine members of the track team. The control group drank milk and included dairy products in its diet; the experimental group was allowed no milk or dairy products for the duration of the ten week trial.

THE TRACKMEN trained and were submitted to endurance tests for the length of a normal athletic season. During this time checks were made to see if differences in metabolism between the groups.

Subjects were analyzed at various of rest, activity, and exhaustion. No difference attributable to milk was found.

Dr. Wayne Van Huss, professor of health, physical education and recreation, said this study would not include long range effects of excluding milk from the diet because of breaks in training and diet between school terms.

The research was aided by a grant from the National Dairy Council. Mikles said the study was launched because a number of coaches had discouraged their athletes from drinking milk because competition or for the competitive season.

Many coaches, he said, believe that milk causes excessive dryness in the mouth (cotton mouth), stomach cramps, and a decrease in the efficiency of muscular activity.

The research concentrated on the last belief. To find whether training the fat intake by drinking milk would affect muscular efficiency.

The experiment was conducted at Michigan State's Energy Research Laboratory.

The laboratory is directed by Dr. Henry J. Montoye and Dr. Wayne D. Van Huss, professors of health, physical education and recreation.

lished in early October, is based on a year's study of 237 schools in 20 states. The study was done by former Harvard University president, Dr. James B. Conant. It covers the junior high school grades—seven, eight and nine.

Fifty years ago, says Conant, our educational system was almost universally organized on the basis of eight grades of elementary schooling and four years of secondary schooling. And, almost two-thirds of American youngsters dropped out of school before ninth grade.

ABOUT 1905, educational reformers called for the inclusion of some secondary school training in the seventh and eighth grades. They wanted a "junior" high school program to give some benefits of high school to students who would not go on to high school.

By 1930, over three-fourths of all public school students went beyond the eighth grade. What should be the position of the ninth grade in the high school system? Conant asks. Should it be at the top of a three-year junior high program or at the bottom of a four-year senior high program?

"Because of wide diversity in school organizations, professional disagreement and my own observations, I conclude that the place of grades seven, eight and nine in the organization of a school system is of less importance than the program provided for adolescent youth," Conant said.

"This revolutionary transformation of the American high school has meant that a major reason for an earlier introduction to secondary education no longer exists," Conant said.

ACCORDING to Mrs. M. H. Doty, assistant professor of foreign languages here, "An instructor must be deeply interested in all academic and cultural aspects of his field."

Learning never ends, as clarified in early October, is based on a year's study of 237 schools in 20 states.

Fifty years ago, says Conant, our educational system was almost universally organized on the basis of eight grades of elementary schooling and four years of secondary schooling. And, almost two-thirds of American youngsters dropped out of school before ninth grade.

ABOUT 1905, educational reformers called for the inclusion of some secondary school training in the seventh and eighth grades. They wanted a "junior" high school program to give some benefits of high school to students who would not go on to high school.

By 1930, over three-fourths of all public school students went beyond the eighth grade. What should be the position of the ninth grade in the high school system? Conant asks. Should it be at the top of a three-year junior high program or at the bottom of a four-year senior high program?

"Because of wide diversity in school organizations, professional disagreement and my own observations, I conclude that the place of grades seven, eight and nine in the organization of a school system is of less importance than the program provided for adolescent youth," Conant said.

"This revolutionary transformation of the American high school has meant that a major reason for an earlier introduction to secondary education no longer exists," Conant said.

ACCORDING to Mrs. M. H. Doty, assistant professor of foreign languages here, "An instructor must be deeply interested in all academic and cultural aspects of his field."

Learning never ends, as clarified in early October, is based on a year's study of 237 schools in 20 states.

fication of students problems often lead to questioning and research. The instructor is always learning, Mrs. Doty added.

"Teachers with an unusual combination of qualifications are needed . . . mature teachers who have both an understanding of children, a major characteristic of elementary school teachers, and considerable knowledge in at least one subject-matter field, a major characteristic of high school teachers," Conant said.

Conant said he believes that his report's recommendations are purposely conservative.

"There are many new and interesting developments that may revolutionize instruction . . . in years to come—different forms of staff utilization, the use of television and teaching machines . . . I see no inconsistency in adapting the best of current practices and looking forward to new ideas," Conant concluded.

"School boards in many communities should make it plain to the public that more money is needed if better schools are to result."

State News Scribes To Meet Jan. 4

New and old State News staff members will meet Jan. 4 during registration week of winter term at 7:30 p.m. in the State News office.

Appointments for winter term positions have been made and are posted in the State News office.

AUSG Student Loans Due by 5 p.m. Today

All AUSG student loans are due today. Any loan not paid will result in a hold for registration next term. The Loan office, 338 Student Services, will be open today from 2 to 5 p.m.

New Dormitory to Open For Winter Term, 1962

A new five million dollar undergraduate residence hall will be ready for occupancy at the beginning of winter quarter 1962, said Ed Zabrucky, information services.

It has not been decided whether the dorm, capable of housing 1,056, will be used to house men or women students.

"It depends on how crowded housing conditions are by then," said Zabrucky. "It may be used to house both men and women students."

Lansing's Christmas Construction co. was named the lowest of four bidders on the general contract with a bid of $2.8 million. R. L. Spitzley co., also of Lansing, set a low of $557,309 among seven bidders for the mechanical work.

The Hall Mechanical co. of Muskegon was the lowest of four electrical contract bidders with a $273,981 bid. The bids totaled $3,758,981 according to Phillip J. May, university treasurer.

May explained that bids are now under study by the university officials and architects who will make their recommendations on the awarding of finishing contracts when the Board of Trustees meets Dec. 16.

Approximately $1.3 million will be allotted for the utilities, furnishings, site work and architectural fees, according to Clair Humington, university supervisor of construction.

The new hall will be located southeast of the fire station on Shaw lane and will face east, according to Zabrucky.

Sarvis Associates of Battle Creek is handling the architecture for the hall, which will be similar to that of Owen, the new graduate center, he said.

Zabrucky explained that the structure will be of brick. The center section's roof will be unusual in that it will consist of folded plate-type cement slabs, he said.

Roughly 2,262 sq. ft. will comprise the living units which will be arranged in four six-story wings with about 45 students per precinct.

There will be two students to a room with two rooms having a connecting bath. There will be elevator service to each floor, Zabrucky said.

The lounge, dining and recreation facilities will be housed in the three-story central portion of the dorm.

Ample student parking will be provided immediately behind the dorm.

This is the first unit of a dormitory complex that may be constructed in the barracks area to meet the future housing needs of the students. It is the first six-story structure built to house students on campus.

There has been no decision as to what to call the dorm, Zabrucky said.

The construction of the hall will be financed on a self-liquidating basis, he added.

abiding hatred for the bottom crust of rye bread. There is no particular reason for making this point, except that whenever I think of Fort Lauderdale, I think of rye bread.

There is no particular reason for that either, but I have been thinking of Fort Lauderdale. Fort Lauderdale is "where the boys are." Right now, that is. Most of the time, scenery reigns in Fort Lauderdale. (The Chamber of Commerce will hate me, they say it never rains in Fort Lauderdale.) But, for two weeks, twenty thousand collegians descend on this peaceful community and take it apart, piece by piece. They call it Spring Vacation, but it's more like an amateur night at Cape Canaveral. They capture Florida and throw the Keys away. But I shouldn't joke—no while people are holding mass prayer meetings for an early hurricane season.

This is "where the boys are." And girls, too. Six girls, it makes you dizzy to look at them. If you look long enough, you reach an advanced stage of dizziness called aphrodisiac. It's like being in love. That's what happened to me, and it will happen to you, too. Everywhere you turn—beaches full of them, motels and hotels full of them, cars full of them, pools full of them, bathing suits full of them. Ah, bathing suits when the man said, "It's the little things in life that count." he must have been thinking of bathing suits. But mostly, it's the girls.

Girls in love, girls in trouble, bright girls with a future, not-so-bright girls with a past, rich girls in the lap of luxury, poor girls in any lap that'll have them, girls of every size and discretion. It isn't any wonder that this is "where the boys are." And the things that happen are wacky and wild and weird and warmly wonderful "where the boys are." Someone should make a movie about it. Hey, someone did! It's called "Where The Boys Are."

starring Dolores Hart, George Hamilton, Yvette Mimieux, Jim Hutton, Barbara Nichols, Paula Patton, with Frank Gorshin and introducing popular recording star Connie Francis in her first screen role. You'll want to see all the things that happen "Where The Boys Are."

Memo-Goldwyn-Mayer presents "WHERE THE BOYS ARE" A Euterpe production in CINEMASCOPE and METROCOLOR. Screenplay by George Wells based on the novel by Glendon Swarthout. Directed by Henry Levin. Produced by Joe Pasternak.

New Defense Force Proposed

Chiefs, redesignated chairman of the Joint Staff, would head this group. He would be next in the chain of military command below the secretary of defense.

Moreover, the plan would establish three commands made up of units of all forces and each self sufficient. These—the Strategic command, responsible for all strategic missions; the tactical command, responsible for limited and conventional missions, and the Defense command, responsible for defense of the continent—would report directly to the Chairman of the Joint Staff.

The separate services would continue to perform their own administrative and housekeeping functions.

The committee said "there must be a shortening of the time factor in bringing new weapons systems from conception to utilization without duplication and wasted effort."

The committee suggested a special post of undersecretary of defense for weapons systems, responsible to the secretary "for the complete cycle of weapons development, procurement and production and also for construction and installations, including bases, housing and depots."

Another undersecretary would be in charge of administration. Cutting a wide swath through the Pentagon, the proposed reorganization would eliminate the retaries and also of seven assistant secretaries of defense—ice secretaries, but of their undersecretaries and assistant secretaries abolished.

AEROSPACE CORPORATION

are creating a climate conducive to significant scientific achievements

Essentially, this corporation will be people—people of the highest quality. The United States Air Force recognizes that men of great scientific and technical competence can perform in their best only when they can exercise their initiative to the full under leadership which creates the climate for creativity. We expect Aerospace Corporation to provide that kind of environment.

Secretary of the Air Force
Among those providing their leadership in this new non-profit public service corporation are: Dr. Ivan A. Getting, president; Allen P. Donovan, vice president; William J. Parsons, vice president; and general manager, engineering division, and Dr. Chalmers W. Sherwin, vice president and general manager, laboratories division.

These scientist/administrators are now selecting the scientists and engineers who will achieve the mission of Aerospace Corporation: concentrating the full resources of modern science and technology on rapidly achieving those advances in missile/space systems indispensable to the national security.

The functions of Aerospace Corporation include responsibility for: advanced systems analysis; research and experimentation; initial systems engineering; and general technical supervision of new systems through their critical phases, on behalf of the United States Air Force.

Aerospace Corporation is already engaged in a wide variety of specific systems projects and research programs—offering scientists and engineers the opportunity to combine their full capabilities, on assignments of unusual scope, within a stimulating environment.

Immediate opportunities exist for top and Ph.D. candidates completing requirements in engineering, physics, and mathematics, and interested in:

- Thrusting Physics
- Experimental Physics
- Inertial Guidance
- Propulsion Systems
- Computer Analysis
- Applied Aerodynamics
- Space Communications

Those capable of contributing in these and other areas are invited to direct their resumes to:

Stallion Joins Arabian Herd

Michigan State possesses a distinguished and valuable herd of Arabian horses, according to Byron H. Good, professor of animal husbandry and head of the university farms.

Recently MSU received the much-publicized stallion, Ghali (pronounced golly), from Extra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture.

While on a marketing tour in August of the Middle East, Benson visited an Egyptian experimental farm near Cairo. Dr. Sayed Marei, United Arab Republic minister of agriculture, presented Ghali to Benson as a gift from the UAR to the U.S.

The president of the Arabian Horse club of America, Daniel C. Gaine, wrote Benson that MSU would be an excellent place for this horse, Good said.

Benson wrote the Board of Trustees, saying he knew the herd here was considered the best publicly-owned herd of Arabian horses in the country.

Ghali is gray, three-years-old and descended from one of the finest Arabian horse blood lines in the world.

He comes from the Baheim Livestock Breeding Farm, in Cairo.

Because of an African virus that he might carry and spread to the rest of the MSU herd, Ghali spent about a month at the USDA quarantine station at Clinton, N.J., Good said.

He arrived at MSU Nov. 15, according to the animal husbandry office. He is stabled at the horse barns on Collins rd.

With Ghali the MSU herd totals 3 stallions and 12 mares.

MSU's first Arabian horse, Avildore, a stallion, came here in 1935. Avildore died in 1957, Good said.

"Avildore was a royally bred horse," Good said. "He was given to the university by W. K. Kellogg, who owned the Kellogg Arabian farm in Panama, Calif., and the Kellogg Cereal Co. at Battle Creek."

In 1942 Kellogg gave MSU two more stallions and three mares. These horses formed the base on which the present herd is established.

"The two stallions are dead and we have three daughters of all three mares now," Good said.

"There is also an imported mare here, Silfretta, foaled in 1953. She was imported from the Crabbet Arabian Stud in England by a man in Canada."

Silfretta was reserve Grand Champion at the Royal Winter

Fair in Canada," Good said.

The university has the horses on campus as a teaching aid, according to Good. They help teach the student in animal husbandry the fine points in selection, breeding and care and feeding of the animals, Good said.

Marketing and veterinary work are also included in the fields where the horses are used, Good said.

To set the accurate money-value of the horses would be hard, he said.

A five-month-old may sell at from $500 to $700 or more and a mature horse may sell at $5,000—depending upon the horse, he said.

Kellogg paid $25,000 to Lady Wentworth for Raseyn, whose father, Skowronek, was considered the most valuable horse in the world by Lady Wentworth, Good said.

According to a book called the "Crabbet Arabian Stud," Lady Wentworth organized and controlled one of the best managed estates in England and was the finest judge of an Arab horse in the world.

Arabians are the oldest breed of livestock in the world, Good said.

The "Crabbet Arabian Stud" says: "The Arabian Horse. Breed stands alone among equine breeds as a separate species, whose fundamental skeleton is as different from other horses as that of an antelope."

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A missile era ended here Monday when the Air Force fired the last Snark in its research and training program.

The launching followed the successful 1,600-mile flight of a longer-range Polaris.

An Air Force crew sent the Snark winging over the Atlantic on a 5,000-mile training flight, ending a program which began here eight years ago. More than 80 of these 66-foot swept-wing guided missiles have screamed skyward since then.

The Snark was this nation's first missile capable of intercontinental range. But it became a victim of advanced technology and eventually was overshadowed by the swifter, more powerful Atlas Intercontinental Range Ballistic missile. One Snark base is operational at Presque Isle, Me. No others are planned.

The Snark pioneered many techniques for the overall U.S. missile and space program.

The Polaris success was the second in as many launchings for the longer-range model. The Navy reported the missile achieved all test objectives in covering the course in 15 minutes after a land-based firing.

DESIGNATED A1, the new Polaris is 30 inches longer and more potent than the operational A1 rocket being loaded on the early Polaris submarines. The A2 is being developed to deliver a nuclear warhead 1,725 miles, compared with the 1,330-mile reach of the A1.

The Snark is essentially a pilotless aircraft. Cruising at about 600 miles an hour, the rocket takes more than eight hours to travel 5,000 miles. The Atlas blazes the same distance in 25 minutes and carries a bigger nuclear payload.

Principal value of the 60 Snarks deployed at Presque Isle is to run interference for manned bombers in case of war.

The A2 Polaris will undergo a series of underwater launchings from a Polaris submarine before its operational target of early 1962. The Navy and Lockheed Aircraft, which makes the missile, plan a 2,875-mile Polaris by 1964.

The shorter-range Polaris became operational in November when the submarine George Washington went on patrol with the first load of 16 nuclear-armed missiles. The USS Patrick Henry will follow later this month.

Bailey Hall Entertains 34 Needy Children at Party

The men of Bailey Hall entertained 34 needy children in their annual Christmas party held last Sunday, Dec. 4th.

850 men living in eight precincts put together over 350 dollars to buy more than a hundred presents for the little children.

Bud Wright, Social chairman of Bailey Hall termed the party a great success.

Over a hundred men, plus women from Landon, Gilchrist, Yakeley and Mayo played host and hostess to the children as Santa Claus (Chuck Gagliano) handed out gifts to the kids. Many happy and laughing faces were seen as the children opened their gifts with the help of many anxious students, sang Christmas carols and ate ice cream and drank punch.

Saturday night before the party also saw much action in the Bailey Hall lobby as the men busied themselves wrapping Christmas packages with the women of Yakeley Hall to the background music of Harry Belafonte. After the Saturday night festivities the men joined by students from Emmons, Bryan and Butterfield went and serenaded the women's dorms across from Landon field.

Shivering Students to Migrate to Sunny South

By ANNE MAYER
State News Staff Writer

Winter term is coming and with it comes the annual migration of MSU students to the sunny land of Mexico.

One hundred students attended the 1960 winter quarter at Mexico City College, according to Mrs. Elizabeth T. de Lopez, registrar and dean of admissions. It is estimated that twice this number will enroll at MCC this winter.

There are students from all but five of the fifty states in attendance at MCC, coming from such schools as UCLA, Harvard, Bucknell, Ohio State and Princeton. There are also many foreign students on campus from such countries as Canada, Germany, Italy and Switzerland.

THE REASONS students give

School Heads Eye Academy

Interservice cooperation was displayed Thursday afternoon when an Air Force C-47 aircraft, on loan to the Army, left Capitol City airport for West Point Military academy with a group of Army personnel and 14 Michigan high school principals and superintendents who will attend a four-day tour of the academy.

Capt. Francis L. Lion, Army ROTC information services officer, said the group would study the academy's academic schedule and view teaching procedures and facilities during the tour.

Maj. Gen. George E. Bush, Army 6th Corps commander, and other Army personnel accompanied the group, which included Benjamin Leyrer, principal of Lansing's Everett high school, three representatives from the Upper Peninsula, four from Grand Rapids and six from Detroit. All the high schools represented offer ROTC programs.

Also, the Mexican immigration law does not allow a foreigner entering with a tourist permit or student visa to engage in remunerative work. Thus the possibility of supplementing income while at MCC is practically nil.

Entertainment expenses constitute the greatest variable, according to the offices of the dean of women and dean of men at MCC.

Charges in first-class Mexican night-club are more or less the equivalent of those in the United States. The finest restaurants in Mexico City, while charging less than the finest in the U.S., nevertheless probably charge more than the tourist is accustomed to paying when dining out in his own home town or city.

A much better bargain is to be found in the sights and experiences available only in Mexico, such as native markets, scenic drives, archeological sites and rural villages.

for transferring to MCC range from the sublime to the ridiculous.

One 20-year-old junior from Detroit stated that she was going because this was the greatest opportunity she had to go to school in a foreign country for barely more money than she would spend at MSU.

Another junior from Muskegon said she is going so that she may travel, meet new people and live in a new culture.

Others said that they are going just out of sheer pleasure and to get away from the cold weather.

One 21-year-old senior said he is going because the price of beer is only eight cents a bottle.

THE TUITION at MCC is $185 a term. Rent in a furnished, two-bedroom apartment ranges from a low of $100 to a high of $200 per term. However, the administration at MCC advises that because of rising costs in Mexico, the difference in attending school there is no longer decisive, unless heroic efforts at economy are practiced.

Charges in first-class Mexican night-club are more or less the equivalent of those in the United States. The finest restaurants in Mexico City, while charging less than the finest in the U.S., nevertheless probably charge more than the tourist is accustomed to paying when dining out in his own home town or city.

Final Examination Schedule for Fall, 1960

The last day of classes for Fall Term is Tuesday, Dec. 6. All final examinations will be given in accordance with the following schedule. The time of the examinations in Basic College courses is given below. Examination rooms will be announced by the instructor during the last week of class.

Communication Skills
Natural Science
Social Science
Humanities

Thursday, Dec. 8, 10:15-12:15
Friday, Dec. 9, 10:15-12:15
Saturday, Dec. 10, 10:15-12:15

The time of examinations in sections other than Basic College courses is determined by the days and the time the class is scheduled during the term. Examinations will be given in the same classrooms used for class meetings during the term.

At least two of the days and hours follow the regular pattern, all students, instructors, and room schedules will automatically clear. In a few cases, at the request of the department concerned, the final examination has been scheduled by the single hour lecture section, and in some instances students may encounter conflicts. In that event, the examination scheduled by the class meeting two hours each week will take precedence over the examination scheduled by the single hour lecture. The examination will be arranged between the student and the department requesting in special scheduling of its examination. All instructors having examination from 9 to 10 a.m. and from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. are requested to terminate their examinations promptly so that rooms and building may be cleared for the examination periods which follow.

Residence Honorary Is 1 Year Old

Have you seen a girl wearing a small golden circle pin?

Don't worry, she's not lost. She is one of the 43 members of Circle Honorary, a year-old organization for outstanding residence hall women.

Alice Bonomo, Vandalia sophomore, found the honorary at MSU in fall 1959. She said the organization was unique in that it has no stipulation for scholarship other than a 2-point grade average.

Recommendations for membership are made by head advisers, resident assistants, and resident hall presidents.

Mrs. Bonomo, who is president of Women's Inter-residence Council, was active in organizing the Circle Honorary. The honorary was begun at University of Michigan about five years ago.

Members of the Circle hope to organize activities to center around women's residence halls, she said.

She listed talent shows, art and craft work, and volunteering for information booths to new incoming freshman women as planned projects.

Members are selected on a basis of outstanding leadership, citizenship, and service to residence halls," she said. "Tapping takes place spring term."

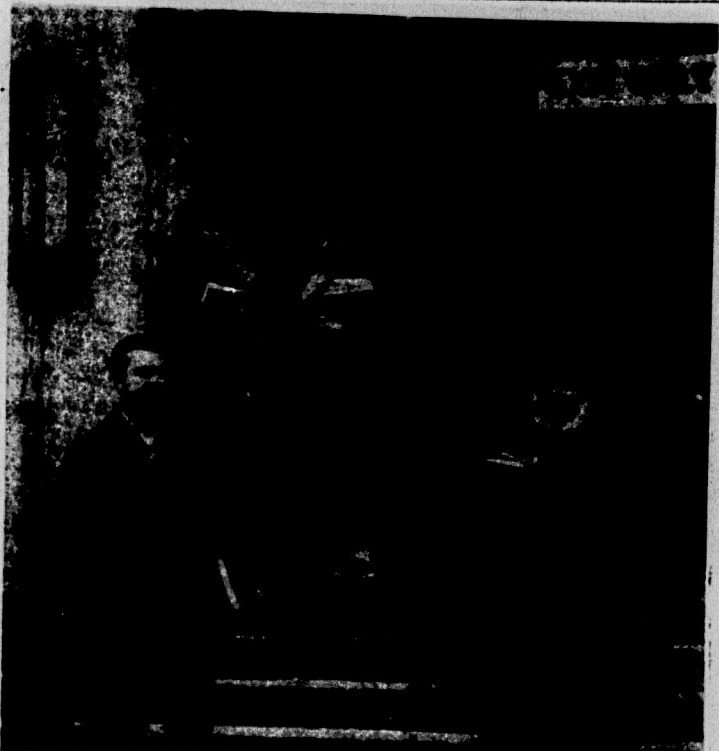

President of Circle Honorary is Pat Wineland, Jackson sr. The group adviser is Frances De Lise, director of women's division of student affairs.

Christmas Is Party Theme

"Holiday Ideas" and Christmas Entertaining" will be the theme of the "Y" Campus Wives next general meeting. A tour will be taken at the Consumers Power Co., 530 West Willow St., at 7:45 p.m., Tuesday.

All student wives are invited. Recipes and ideas for holiday entertaining will be given during the tour.

A car pool is being arranged for the tour. Call Mrs. Gary Marpe, ED 2-4062 for reservations.

Ahhhhhh, freedom. These students say goodbye to Berkeley without even a fond farewell glance. It's the last day of classes and only a few agonizing finals remain between today and the Christmas holidays. (State News Photo by Art Wieland.)

Pistol Team Shoots Way To Triumph

The varsity pistol team Saturday defeated the University of Wisconsin varsity and the MSU Army ROTC teams. The teams shot 1329, 1314 and 1240 respectively, of a possible 1500.

Michael Belding, East Lansing sophomore, fired a high for the team of 272 with Gerald Medler close behind with a 270 of a possible 300 points.

The pistol team's next match will be against the United States Military Academy from West Point, N. Y.

Kennedy's Looking For Virginia Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-Elect John F. Kennedy said Monday he and his wife, with two young children now, are looking for a house in Virginia.

He said they are seeking a place away from Washington "because with two children I think it's good for young children to get out of the governmental atmosphere."

Kennedy said they hadn't signed any papers yet.

The President-Elect talked to reporters after visiting his wife and baby son in Georgetown University hospital for about 45 minutes this evening. He went straight to the hospital from the airport after returning from a weekend in Palm Beach, Fla.

He reported his wife and son, John F. Kennedy Jr., who will be two weeks old Friday, are doing very well.

Answering a reporter's question, he said a decision will be made in a day or so about the baby's christening.

Mrs. Kennedy plans to leave the hospital when the baby is ready to be released in a few days and go to Florida where daughter Caroline, 3, is waiting for her at the Palm Beach home of Kennedy's father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Shoppers... Lights... Toys... Cards... It's Christmas!

Look around... It's Christmas.

In department store Toylands, children reluctantly approach laughing Santas as bulbs flash to capture that special "smile-for-mama" grin.

Dad, after the first four poses, sneaks away to the electric train counter where he and a crew of junior engineers pilot seven engine models in and out of mountains, villages and display boxes.

WHISTLING MINATURE

Emulative circle tracks of tooth-pick steel, picking up speed at the command of pudgy little fingers, pushing used-to-be shiny controls.

Other trains, pushed to the rear, shout commands.

Unheard they are, too, by little and big girls hovering silently over the doll counter.

Here, wrapped in soft pink blankets, is what really makes Christmas for most curly-headed mopheads.

EITHER THE 6-inch or 4-foot kind will do—especially of these make-believe babies cry, drink water, and have washable, curlable hair.

Some of them walk, others actually speak words in muffled, back-switch inspired tones.

And there on the shelf stands Yogi Bear, Huckleberry Hound and Boo-Hoo—lifelike in fur and plastic keeping watch over the whole toy kingdom.

FOR the athletic at heart, there's the sports counter filled with hockey, basketball and golf games especially tailored for the living-room use. Tiny puckmen spin their sticks at the command of hand-operated levers on one game. On another, taut springs toss ping-pong balls into a small string-tied "basket."

Where there's candy in toyland it's Christmas candy. Bright red and green jelly beans entice young appetites especially just before dinner time.

And who can resist Santa Claus cookies? He's there... baked in both face and form.

Tucked away in a corner is the heart of the holiday itself—a fireplace. Hung of course, with red felt stockings... the very biggest ever. But how about the business end of the brick structure? Children stop to check the Santa space themselves, just to be sure there's really room for him.

CHATTERING voices fill the air, quite overcoming sounds of Christmas carols, songs and stories triumphantly echoing from a children's record player.

WITH LESS than 20 days remaining, stores are already doing a brisk yuletide business.

BOB HART, Grand Rapids senior, and Katherine Gargett, Rochester junior, select Christmas cards to send to their friends.

WINDOW decorating, a common sight along Grand River, often attracts the attention of curious passersby.

Kennedy Sparks ABC's Essay Contest

President-elect Kennedy's statement that the country must move ahead to a "new frontier" has inspired the title of an essay contest sponsored by the American Broadcasting Radio Network, in connection with journalist-broadcaster Edward P. Morgan.

In announcing the contest, which is open to all university and college undergraduates, Mr. Morgan stated:

"The people with the greatest stake in this movement are the men and women known as 'America's youth,' so it is fitting they should be asked what they most want the U. S. to accomplish at home and abroad in the 1960's.

"Furthermore, I think they have some provocative and responsible ideas on the subject which need listening to."

Timed to climax with the winners' participation in coverage of John Kennedy's Inauguration Day, the contest runs through December 28. Each contestant may submit any number of entries, each with a maximum of 600 words.

The judging panel, in addition to Mr. Morgan, will include former Presidential assistant and author Emmet J. Hughes; nationally-syndicated columnist John Crosby; and Dr. Paul A. McGhee, Dean, General Education Division of New York University.

All entries should be mailed to: America in the 60's Contest, P. O. Box 12E, Mount Vernon, 10, New York.

Asian, African Nations Criticize UN Secretary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld ran into sharp criticism from several Asian and African members of his Congo advisory committee Monday for not getting Patrice Lumumba released from custody.

Informal sources said India and Nigeria were among those taking the Secretary-General to task in a stormy private session of the 16-nation group. Both demanded that Hammarskjöld act immediately to free the deposed premier.

The committee was reported to have rejected a proposal by the secretary-general that an advance guard of the U.N. Congo conciliation mission be sent immediately to the Congo.

These developments came as Moscow dispatches declared the Soviet Union was moving for an urgent U.N. debate on the arrest of Lumumba and other Congo developments.

In the General Assembly's 99-nation budgetary committee, Venezuelan delegate Antonio Arraiz said the prospect of a continuing cost of $10 million monthly in 1961 for the U.N. Congo operation is disturbing. He questioned whether the United Nations should begin to consider reducing its commitments in the Congo.

Canada announced it was cancelling its air transport cost of U.N. forces to the Congo and was ready to advance $1.5 million to its 1961 budget to help the United Nations over its financial crisis. The air transport cost amounts to about $650,000.

A. K. PUPLAMPU of Ghana said his government was willing to contribute its share of the Congo costs on the regular scale of U.N. assessments up on any equitable formula that is arranged.

He praised the United States, Britain, Canada and Sweden for making vast contributions to the cost and said Ghana would be happy if Belgium, former ruler of the Congo, made an announcement of a similar generous cash contribution.

Library Drop Box Gives Drive-In Book Service

One fall-term innovation which students and faculty members will appreciate even more during the winter is the new drive-in drop box for returning books to the library.

The box is located next to the parking lot in back of the library and makes it possible for someone to return a book without leaving his car.

Possible damage to the books is minimized by a spring floor inside the box, which prevents the books from falling too far and lowers gradually as the books pile up.

RICHARD CHAPIN, director of libraries, said the box is of special help to the faculty members who want to return books and can't find a place to park.

Chapin said the box was ordered last summer and installed at its present location on a temporary basis. It will be moved if another location is found which better suits the purpose.

"We thought of putting it on West Circle drive in front of the library," he said, "but cars stopping to return books might be a traffic hazard."

"So far," he said, "the present location has worked very well."

THE BOX is emptied once a day at 9 a.m., Chapin said, but will probably have to be emptied more often, especially in colder weather.

Chapin had one note of caution, however.

Assigned reading books must not be returned in the box, he said, because it takes too long to return them to their proper places in the library.

The box is a service to students, and misuse of it to return assigned reading or overdue books will cause it to be discontinued, he said.

Shift Your Problem From Lung to Heart

LONDON (AP) — Middle-aged men with a yen for a minor vice were advised Monday to give up smoking—and try flirting instead.

Dr. Alastair McKinnon, 45, father of five, wrote in the medical journal "Practitioner."

"If a patient must have a minor vice he should look around for a healthier one—peanuts, chess, beer, or a platonic flirtation."

McKinnon said the advice applies particularly to men with heart or bronchial trouble. For such people, smoking is like rubbing dirt into a wound, McKinnon said.

"I wouldn't suggest flirtation as an alternative for younger men. That could be dangerous," he added.

IT'S SO EASY — Drivers can return books without leaving their cars thanks to newly-installed drive-up boxes at the library. Here, a driver leans over to deposit a book to be collected later by the library staff.

Thievery Increases At Yuletide

Christmas is a time for children, Santa Claus, plum pudding, roasting turkeys, religion and merriment.

Christmas is also a time for thievery and heartache. Many holiday shoppers lose their Christmas savings to petty thieves.

According to FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, at least $7 million of goods was shoplifted during 1960, about $1 million during December.

FBI reports do not reflect the extent of shoplifting, police say. Many merchants are reluctant to report thefts for fear of hurting business. Many other cases are settled quietly between the persons involved to avoid unwanted publicity.

Veteran store detail detectives believe modern sales displays have caused an increase in shoplifting. Although modern displays bring more business, they welcome easy stealing.

Large crowds, easy-to-get-at merchandise and tired clerks all present during the Christmas shopping rush, work to the advantage of the thief.

Tragic financial loss to the individual can be avoided if shoppers are careful in the handling of their purses and pocketbooks. Shoppers should avoid playing with large sums of money. Then trouble may be avoided.

Issue Manifesto

Reds Say Communism Can Defeat Capitalism Peacefully

LONDON (AP) — The Communist world declared unanimously tonight war is not inevitable and that communism can win out over the capitalist West in peaceful coexistence.

Its manifesto, approved at a recent Moscow meeting of red leaders from 81 countries said war will come only if the West starts one.

The solid front reversing Marxist doctrine and bringing Red China into line was first sprung on the world by communist spokes outside the Soviet Union—in London, Paris and Rome.

Then Moscow Radio beamed later to Britain its version of what the official party organ counties can proceed in building toward eventual power without revolutions.

The manifesto alerted communists everywhere that the "peace" campaign is the task today.

In rejecting war as a road to communist victory, the document accused what it called imperialist reaction of spreading the idea the reds favored war.

Imperialist reaction, seeking to provide diffidence toward the communist movement and its ideology, continues to intimidate the masses, affirming that communists would have

Cagers Squeeze Past Bowling Green, 70-67

Hall, Fahs Lead Team To 2nd Straight Victory

Michigan State staved off a second half rally by a pressing Bowling Green team to win its second victory of the season, 70-67, Monday night.

Dick Hall and Dave Fahs led the Spartans in scoring with 23 and 20 points respectively.

State held a 21-point advantage early in the second half before a half-hawking Bowling Green squad cut the lead to three points as time ran out in the ball game.

The Spartans were never headed in the ball game that saw MSU enjoy a 13-point half-time advantage on some fine shooting. State hit on 34 per cent of their shots during the first half of play. The score at the half was 37-24.

With Hall hitting from outside, MSU built up its lead to 21 points during the second half, 59-38. Then Bowling Green, behind Captain Dave Rauton and center Bob Turmond began whittling away at the Spartan lead.

Art Schwarm and Fahs caught with some key defensive plays to keep State in the lead late in the ball game.

During the first half, MSU's man to man defense stymied the Falcon squad as they could hit on only 24 per cent of their shots. Bowling Green seemed to give the Spartan defense in the second half as they began hitting with deadly accuracy.

Five pass plays played both of the squads during the evening. Both squads were consistent.

TOM DECKER

Decker's Picks

By TOM DECKER
State News Sports Writer

The football season will wind up during the winter vacation as most of the top teams in the nation compete in the annual bowl classics.

December 17, in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Texas, we go with underdog ALABAMA over TEXAS. This will be close and a field goal might decide it.

It will be PENN STATE over OREGON in a good intersectional clash on the same day.

THE GATOR BOWL in an effort to become a major bowl, on Dec. 31 finds two great teams but BAYLOR is favored over home-state FLORIDA.

Last year in the "daddy" of all the bowls, the Rose Bowl, we picked Washington 20 points over Wisconsin. This year, however, we see MINNESOTA as a touchdown favorite over WASHINGTON.

MISSOURI over NAVY is our choice in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla. This should be the most evenly matched game.

DOWN AT NEW Orleans in the Sugar Bowl we stick with undefeated, but tied, MISSISSIPPI over RICE.

And finally in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, it is definitely ARKANSAS over DUKE.

Last year in our Bowl we were fortunate enough to hit all seven. For the football season this year we finished with 135 right, 39 wrong and 6 ties for a .77 per cent final National... Champion was IOWA.

FINAL FOOTBALL RATINGS:

Rank	Team	Rating
1	Iowa	100
2	Minnesota	99
3	Mississippi	98
4	Arkansas	97
5	Missouri	96
6	Washington	95
7	Navy	94
8	Ohio State	93
9	MICHIGAN ST.	92
10	Kansas	91
11	Alabama	90
12	Michigan	89

In answer to a few letters as to why we picked STATE sixth in the nation in basketball, we suggest that they read it again as it referred to their finish in the Big Ten.

Lambda Chi IU Bumps Edges 69ers K-State. 98-80 For Title

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Wolf Bellamy and Tom Bolvard led a 10-point rally that sent Indiana off to a 98-80 basketball victory over the Kansas State Wildcats Monday night.

Kansas State led two-thirds of the game before the Hoosiers took control. Indiana had a narrow 71-69 margin with 8:35 left when the Hoosiers hit five straight field goals to make the score 81-71, and the issue never was in doubt thereafter.

Bellamy, opening his bid for a second All-America berth, and Bolvard each made two buckets in that hot streak. The 6-11 Bellamy counted 26 points and Bolvard 22.

Both were outdone, however, by K-State's Gordie Price who made 29 points, blocked four Bellamy shots and was a workhorse under both backboards. Price made 15 points in the first half, leading K-State to a 45-40 intermission advantage. Indiana now has a 2-0 record and Kansas State's is 1-1. Indiana sank 41 of 83 field shots for 48.6 per cent and was deadly at the free throw line on 16 of 18. Kansas State hit 34 of 81 shots for 32 per cent from the field and counted only 12 of 21 free throws.

HIGH SALES VOLUME LOW PRICES!

THIS IS THE STORY OF OUR STORE. From the beginning we've realized that college students are on a limited budget—a budget that must include clothing expense among other essentials. With this in mind, we set out to make low prices possible by smaller margins... and smaller margins possible by high volume sales.

So far it's worked... for both of us! Our customers have profited from our low prices and we've gained from their high volume purchases.

And we plan to keep things just as they are—that is, we'll continue to offer high style, quality clothing at the lowest prices in town.

THIS IS A TRUE STORY. If you've shopped with us before, you know... if not, why not stop in and check it out for yourself.

East Lansing Group Aids West Indies College

Plans are now underway for a new senior college in Barbados, West Indies to be formed by September, 1962.

New Hope college which is being sponsored by a group of West Indians living in the U. S. will seek affiliation with one of America's leading Negro colleges.

The group, known as New Hope College Foundation, is headed by Mr. Aaron C. W. Haynes, a Barbadian medical student who conceived the idea in February last year. The foundation aims at raising $3,000,000 to launch this bold and far-reaching project.

The college's four schools will be: The School of Liberal Arts and Science, the School of Nursing and Education, the School of Business and Economics, and the School of Fine Arts.

The campus will consist of 100 acres including a 50-acre farm. A faculty of 50 is being recruited and it is anticipated that 300 full-time students and an equal number of part-time and evening students will enroll for the opening.

It is hoped that students from MSU will also enroll, according to Clavin C. Victor, MSU graduate student, president of the local group here.

The East Lansing Group of the Friends of the New Hope college are planning a banquet at Lansing on Dec. 20. The time and place are presently undetermined.

The President of the New Hope College foundation, Mr. Aaron Haynes; and the Dean of the New York University Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, Dr. James Hester are scheduled to attend.

The group here was started by West Indians attending the University. It is one of the latest national groups formed to advance higher learning in the West Indies.

The public is invited to attend the banquet.

Titans Sneak By Aggies

DETROIT (P)—John Morgan, a junior college transfer student playing in his second major college basketball game, calmly dropped in two free throws in the final five seconds Monday night and lifted Detroit's sluggish Titans to a hectic 70-63 victory over Utah State.

The 6-foot-8 sophomore was fouled by Darnel Haney as the Titans tried to weave in close for a final basket.

Morgan got the first one, then made his bonus shot that sealed the victory over the Aggies, ranked eighth in the nation last season.

Sharp-shooting little Mac Perry, a 150-pound senior guard, nearly pulled out a victory for the Utah State club that defeated NYU Saturday night.

Detroit lost half its 1-2 scoring punch when Charlie North went out on fouls with nearly five minutes to play. Detroit was leading 64-62 at that time.

Perry dropped in a free throw and then a long jump that shoved the Aggies in front 65-64. Dave Debusschere bounced the Titans in front with a shot from close range but Perry tied in again with a free throw.

Tom Villenure scored for Detroit but Cornell Green deadlocked it again with two free throws that set the stage for the decisive free throws by Morgan.

Morgan, a transfer from Coal-inga (Calif.) JC, had 11 points for the evening while Debusschere and Perry shared game honors with 26 each. North finished with 16. It was Detroit's second straight victory.

Utah State led at the half 38-37, Perry scoring 18 of the Aggies' first half points.

Spartan Wives To Give Party

The Spartan Wives will host 20 underprivileged children Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in the university chapel basement.

The names of these children were secured through the Red Stocking agency.

Cookies, candy and ice cream will be served to the children, and each will receive a specially selected gift.

Be perspicacious!

Most think a student who studies drowsily no matter how much sleep he gets.

This! Perspicacious... chump! NoDoz keeps you awake and alert—safely!

If you find studying sometimes soporific (and who doesn't?) the word to remember is NoDoz. NoDoz alerts you with a safe and accurate amount of caffeine—the same refreshing stimulant in coffee and tea. Yet non-habit-forming. NoDoz is faster, handier, more reliable. So to keep perspicacious during study and exams—and while driving, too—always keep NoDoz in proximity.

The safe stay awake tablet—available everywhere. Another fine product of Grove Laboratories.

Freshmen Have Largest, Smartest Class Ever

This year's freshman class is the smartest and largest ever enrolled at MSU, according to Dr. Gordon A. Sabine, director of admissions and scholarships.

Total freshman enrollment was 4,600 students, a growth of 53 per cent over last year, and 55 per cent over the entering class of two years ago.

The average freshman ranked a tiny fraction below the top fifth of his graduating class, Sabine said.

Three-fourths of the freshmen ranked in the top one-third of their high school classes, and 168 were valedictorians or salutatorians.

Sabine said that 1,197 freshmen are potential members of the Honors college, an increase of 51 per cent over last year.

A potential member of the Honors college is a student who had grades of half A's and half B's (a 3.5 on the four-point system) or better, or one who ranked in the top ten per cent of his graduating class.

The freshman class growth occurred although there was no change in the University's admission policy, he said.

Freshmen in the top one-third of their high school class are generally admitted without question, while those in the middle third are sometimes admitted, sometimes not.

Sabine said the growth of quality and quantity was caused by top programs, the Honors college, and the Alumni Distinguished Scholarships.

Ohio State Throttles St. Louis

COLUMBUS (P)—Ohio State stumbled through the first half against St. Louis Monday night but eventually outtried the Billikens for an 81-66 basketball victory, the second of the season for the NCAA champions.

The Bills broke into a 4-0 lead on a pair of baskets by 6-10 Bob Nordmann and, except for two ties, led the first 19 minutes of play.

Blue Team Picks Pair

MIAMI (P)—Guard Fred Boyen and halfback Ike Grimsley, both of Michigan State, Monday agreed to play for the North in the annual North-South football game here Dec. 26. They are the first to be signed by either squad.

St. Louis used a slowed-down offense, an aggressive man-for-man defense collapsing on All-American Jerry Lucas.

Lucas, limited to one missed field goal and six free throws in the first half, finished with 23 points as the Buckeyes turned on their steam in the second half.

Ohio State led for the first time, 34-33, on two free throws by Lucas, but Tom Kieffer also made a pair for a 35-34 Billiken lead at halftime.

Ohio State broke on top at the start of the second period, running up an 11-point lead, 50-39, and coasted in from there.

Larry Siegrist supported Lucas with 20 points on an assortment of jump shots and drives. Leading scorer for the Bills, now 1-1, was Kieffer, also with 20.

OSU Coach Fred Taylor said, "We were tremendously impressed with the way big Nordmann played defense in the first half. We had never seen him move that fast. I think that was what caused us the most trouble."

Nordmann eventually fouled out with 4:58 to play after having scored 14 points.

TROUBLE SPOT

PARIS (P)—A leader of the French rightist uprising in Algiers and four others on trial here vanished Monday, raising fears of new trouble when President Charles de Gaulle goes to Algeria Friday.

CHURCHILL

LONDON (P)—Sir Winston Churchill went by ambulance Monday from his home to a doctor's office for an X-ray check-up on his injured back. The former prime minister, 86 last Wednesday, chipped a vertebrae in a fall at his Hyde Park residence three weeks ago.

Flying Santa 'Bombs' Lone Lightkeepers

BOSTON (P)—Edward Rowe Snow, New England's flying Santa took off Monday on a 25th anniversary flight to drop Christmas packages at lonely lighthouses on the Maine coast.

The Marshfield chronicle of seacoast tales will "bomb" Boston light, Thatcher's island off Cape Ann and the Isles of Shoals off Portsmouth, N.H., on his flight up the coast. The first Maine lighthouse will be lonely Boon island off York.

Weather permitting Snow plans to turn southward today for flights over beacons on Cutchunk, Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket and Block Island.

Wednesday Santa plans to drop his well-wrapped gifts at New York and Connecticut lighthouses. Cape Hatteras, N.C., will be visited Thursday.

Snow says he figures the four-day flying will add up to 3,150 miles to drop 228 packages. He always carries reserve packages in case his aim is poor on the first shot.

This is the B-52. Advanced as it may be, this airplane has one thing in common with the first war-galleys of ancient Egypt... and with the air and space vehicles of the future. Someone must chart its course. Someone must navigate it.

For certain young men this presents a career of real executive opportunity. Here, perhaps you will have the chance to master a profession full of meaning, excitement and rewards... as a Navigator in the U. S. Air Force.

To qualify for Navigator training as an Aviation Cadet you must be an American citizen between 19 and 26½—single, healthy and intelligent. A high school diploma is required, but some college is highly desirable. Successful completion of the training program leads to a commission as a Second Lieutenant... and your Navigator wings.

If you think you have what it takes to measure up to the Aviation Cadet Program for Navigator training, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Or clip and mail this coupon.

There's a place for tomorrow's leaders on the Aerospace Team.

Seventeen White Students Break Segregation Boycott

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A thin line of blockade-running white children—17 in number—added Monday to the break up of a segregation boycott at William Frantz school, one of the city's two integrated units.

But, not a single white child showed up at McDonogh No. 19, the other integrated school.

And, an official suggestion that the pickets would give up if newsmen stopped recording their actions brought hoots of derision.

"We're going to see this thing through," said one woman who apparently voiced the sentiment of many.

TEMPERS STILL simmered just below the bubbling point. Demonstrators lobbed two eggs at the Rev. Lloyd Foreman when he drove past his home after picking up his daughter, Pamela Lynn, at William Frantz kindergarten. One hit his car.

Federal judges — also determined to see it through — cut down the latest attempt by the Louisiana legislature to supplant the Orleans Parish (county) School board.

Three federal judges issued a temporary restraining order which bars the legislature from putting into power a new state-named five-man board to replace the present board. The legislature passed this measure last Saturday.

M. Hapburn Many, U.S. attorney for eastern Louisiana, asked for the restrainer. Judges Richard Rives, J. Skelly Wright and Herbert Christenberry complied.

Santa to Visit Employees

The seventh annual Christmas party for non-academic employees will be held Dec. 15 from 8 to 11:30 p.m. in the Union.

This party will be the largest employee Christmas party to date. The party will include exhibits and demonstrations, dancing, movies, cards, bowling, billiards and a large refreshment supply. In addition, a variety show will be presented by five area high schools.

A weekend rumor that an attempt would be made to crack Donogh No. 19 brought out in the total white boycott of McDonogh No. 19. The rumor proved false. But, to be on the safe side, New Orleans police for the first time in days ringed the building, an officer stationed every 20 feet.

NOT EVEN WARM, often sunny weather failed, however, to materially increase the crowd of hard-core pickets at William Frantz.

Although there is no official measuring device, there seemed to be less tension among the general run of New Orleanians. School attendance is about normal except at two of the city's 121 schools.

Business and civic leaders worried, nevertheless, over the cost in income and reputation to the city. This concern was reflected Monday in a conference with news media leaders held by Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison.

Mayor Morrison—withholding specific figures until receipt of sales tax figures some days from

Even Nancy Has Trouble With Contacts

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—If you happen to run into Miss America somewhere, she's not winking at you. The 18-year-old eventful has lost one of her contact lenses.

Nancy Anne Fleming, who won the Miss America 1961 title here last September, told a reporter today a contact lens popped out of one of her gray-green eyes and down the drain during her travels around the country.

Nancy was back at this resort over the weekend to attend the annual family dinner of the pageant board of directors. She left today for New York.

The nearsighted Montague, Mich., lovely has contacted her hometown optometrist for another lens.

now—admitted a drop in tourism mirrored in hotel and downtown store receipts.

The mayor wanted a three-day holiday in news coverage of the integrated schools, and establishment of a pool by which all news media would receive pictures and news.

Newsman turned the ideas down.

DEMONSTRATORS turned their anger on those returning white children they could see at William Frantz school Monday.

"You're as black as they are," shouted one woman.

But there were no individual incidents and an observer could walk from turmoil to the peace of a quiet residential area in a few steps.

Dr. James Redmond, superintendent of schools, said six of the 17 children inside William Frantz were first-grade pupils.

But, if the other five first-graders were boys, the Negro girl still would be alone in her classroom. First grades under token integration are separated by sex.

Redmond said he did not know if any white first-graders were girls.

He said there would be no more assignments of Negroes to white schools this term.

Tunisia Demands UN Intervention in Algeria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Tunisia opened debate Monday on Algeria with a demand that the United Nations guarantee by its presence the honesty of any referendum on the political future of that explosive North African territory.

France boycotted again the debate in the 99-nation political committee in order to demonstrate its long-held position that Algeria is an internal matter of no concern to the United Nations. Two African nations sym-thetic with France—Chad and Congo Brazzaville—called off at least temporarily a plan to seek postponement of the debate. Supporters of the Algerian Independence movement among U.N. delegates expressed confidence they could defeat the move.

Tunisian Ambassador Mongi Slim, whose country has sheltered the provisional government of the Algerian rebels, accused French President Charles de Gaulle of raising new fears over Algeria. Referring to a speech by de Gaulle in Paris on Nov. 4, Slim charged the French president with putting emphasis on the possibility of partitioning Algeria.

He acknowledged that de Gaulle still maintained the principle of self-determination for the Algerian people, but he added the French leader's statement was "full of dangers."

Slim said partition would only prolong the rebellion now in its seventh year, jeopardize the position of Tunisia, plunge Algeria into chaos, and threaten international peace.

Representatives of 25 Asian-African nations who asked the United Nations to debate Algeria for the sixth successive year are expected to bring in a formal resolution for U.N. supervision of any referendum in Algeria.

Slim did not submit any concrete proposal, but he made clear Tunisia regarded it obligatory for the United Nations to supervise a referendum.

He said U.N. presence would calm any apprehensions as to the validity of the referendum and thus give the world a guarantee of its authenticity.

Slim said that the principle of self-determination had now been accepted by both sides in the Algerian dispute, but that in view of continuation of the rebellion and failure of the parties to get together, the only way left was an appeal to the United Nations.

Swainson Fills Top Staff Jobs

LANSING (AP)—Governor-elect John B. Swainson Monday filled out the roster on his executive staff with four new appointments.

The Democratic lieutenant governor, who will succeed Gov. Williams Jan. 1, named: Thaddeus Ogar, 43, of Detroit, editor of the Michigan AFL-CIO News, as his press secretary.

Mitchell Tendler, 35, of Detroit, deputy state racing commissioner, as executive secretary.

Jordan J. Popkin, 33, of Lansing, administrative aide to Gov. Williams, to fill a new position of administrative officer.

Richard L. Miller, 29, of Haslett, as his legislative aide. Miller currently is administrative assistant to House Democratic Leader Joseph J. Kowalski of Detroit.

Swainson said Sidney Woolner, executive secretary to Gov. Williams, would remain an executive officer during the changeover between the outgoing and incoming administrations. Williams said earlier he had asked Woolner to go with him to Washington, D.C., next month when he takes up his duties as assistant secretary of state for African affairs in the Kennedy administration.

The governor is taking two other members of his executive staff to Washington—John T. Abernethy, an aide, and Miss Julie Lawler, his personal secretary.

Banks Fear Penny Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some banking authorities are fearful that Christmas business in the Midwest and Northeast may be hampered by a shortage of coins, particularly pennies.

With more coins in circulation than ever before, the exact cause isn't known. One factor certainly has been the increased demand for coins stemming from more vending machines, more shopping centers and more sales.

Post Office Facilities Expanded for Holidays

An all time record for Christmas mail this year has been announced by A. Ray Krider, East Lansing postmaster.

EVERY facility of the Post Office has been expanded to render maximum service, Krider said. In conjunction with the expansion program, extra trucks and personnel have been added. Special mailing schedules have been set up to insure prompt handling of the tremendous flood of both incoming and outgoing Christmas mail.

"The vast volume of Christmas mail is only part of our problem," the postmaster said.

"Carelessly written names and addresses, poorly wrapped packages, insufficient postage, and other oversights are bound to result in delays and disappointments."

"While it's too late to talk about early mailing of Christmas gifts and cards," the postmaster said, "you can avoid disappointing your friends and loved ones on Christmas by using airmail. There's still time for local deliveries, but be sure to send all Christmas cards by first class mail, and do include your return address on all Christmas card envelopes and package labels."

POSTAL employees are digging in for the final drive to get everything delivered by Christmas Eve. The Post Office will remain open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., including Saturday.

"Now that the end of the big rush is in sight," Krider said, "I want to express my thanks for the fine cooperation from our patrons. The 1960 'Mail Early for Christmas' campaign will be a rousing success if you'll just keep up the good work. On Christmas Eve this year, I'd like to see every mail bag empty and every Post Office employee relaxing at home."

to overcome capitalist regimes and establish a social order," the manifesto said.

"The Communist parties resolutely reject this 'calumny.' The fact that both world wars, unleashed by the imperialists, have ended with socialist revolutions does not signify that the way toward social revolution must definitely pass through world war."

The Moscow Radio summary of the manifesto said the communist system is bound to win in peace over capitalism "by the force of its example." The broadcast added that victory in the socialist countries is so complete "that a return to capitalism is socially and economically impossible."

Manifesto summaries were published first by the Communist Party's London Daily Worker, the French Communist organ L'Humanite in Paris, and the Italian Communist paper L'Unita in Rome.

Packaging Important To Sales

The position and importance of marketing in today's economy and packaging as one of its tools was the topic of a speech given by Paul R. Freyd, vice president, director of Batten Barton Durstine and Osborn, Inc., Wednesday night in the Kiva.

Freyd expressed his surprise in the fact that marketing was not a requirement of packaging students since he claims that all companies in industry must be market-oriented.

All decisions of a company are based on how they will effect the consumer, not by producer's desires, he said.

One of the functions of marketing is sales promotion for the discretionary spending of consumers, Freyd said.

How marketing influences the producer and consumer was exemplified by Freyd's explanation of the organization and functions of BBD&O's marketing department.

Freyd said, "The people in the sales department are sales-oriented, not advertising-oriented."

He said that sales is the major concern of the marketing department and advertising is viewed as to how it aids in sales.

Freyd supplemented his explanation of marketing by explaining the importance of packaging as a component of marketing and a tool in advertising.

Freyd said of packaging, "You're not after the strongest or the one that lasts the longest, but one that will move goods."

Eisenhower Welcomes 'President-Elect' John F. Kennedy at White House Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy returned to Washington Monday for a final preparation for his ceremonial inauguration today with the man he'll succeed in the White House.

President Eisenhower, who has not met personally with the Massachusetts senator in a couple of years, arranged a full-scale honor guard and a formal photographing of Kennedy at the much-photographed north portico of the executive mansion.

After that the two men will have a private discussion of the changeover of the administration from Republican to Democratic hands.

Kennedy's first call after a four-hour flight from Palm Beach in his private plane was at Georgetown University Hospital where he visited his wife and 10-day-old son, John Jr.

Kennedy then arranged a dinner session at his Georgetown home with Clark Clifford, Washington lawyer who has been serving as the president-elect's liaison man at the White House working out details of the power transition.

The president-elect planned to remain in Washington only briefly this time, going to New York for a Wednesday morning meeting with Dag Hammarskjöld, secretary-general of the United Nations.

While in New York, he is expected to make another announcement of a cabinet appointment before returning to the capital.

Kennedy was accompanied back to Washington by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), who earlier Monday presented the president-elect with plans for a sweeping revision of the defense department.

Kennedy flew to the family home at Palm Beach last Friday with the Kennedy's other child, 3-year-old Caroline. The little girl did not return to Washington with her father but remained in Florida where she will be joined late this week by her mother and new brother, Mrs. Kennedy and John Jr. are to leave soon after their discharge from the hospital where the baby was born on Nov. 23.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty had this to say about Tuesday's Eisenhower-Kennedy meeting: "I would suspect that after the meeting there would be a joint statement given out by myself and Mr. Salinger." Pierre Salinger is Kennedy's press secretary.

Court Bans Illegal Listening

WASHINGTON (AP) — A shiny needle microphone and a routine gambling charge provided another supreme court battle Monday in the long legal war over electronic eavesdropping by police.

Directly at stake was the case of three men convicted on gambling charges through evidence obtained in part by thrusting the 12-inch steel spike into a wall of their office and picking up their words.

But the whole question of evidence-gathering by use of listening devices was at issue as defense counsel urged the court to overturn earlier decisions, if necessary, to preserve the right of privacy which he said is menaced by new gadgets.

The government, in its hour of argument, told the court that if more safeguards for the constitutionally protected right of privacy are needed, they should be provided by legislation at federal and state level.

Julius Silverman and Robert L. Martin of Washington and Meyer Schwartz of Pittsburgh were convicted in 1958 of running what police described as a $40,000-a-day gambling operation in a house in northwest Washington close to the state department.

Each drew a sentence of 20 months to five years. The conviction was upheld by the U.S. Court of Appeals in a 2-1 decision and the Supreme Court agreed to review the case. It was taken under advisement after Monday's two hours of argument and there was no indication when a ruling will be made.

Undisputed testimony at the trial was that the microphone spike, about the size of a large knitting needle, was thrust into the common wall separating Nos. 410 and 408 on 21st St. N.W. This needle carried sound through an amplifier into earphones worn by internal revenue agents and metropolitan police officers. Notes on the conversations overheard were used in obtaining a search warrant to raid No. 408 and later accepted in evidence at the trial.

Jack Junior To Go South

WASHINGTON (AP)—The baby doctor said Monday he thinks little John F. Kennedy Jr. can leave the hospital Friday to go with his mother to Palm Beach, Fla.

"I think everything will be all right by that time," Dr. Edward B. Brooks told a reporter. Both mother and baby were doing nicely in Georgetown university hospital. The baby, born prematurely by caesarean operation Nov. 25, is out of the incubator and taking a powdered milk feeding formula.

President-Elect Kennedy took daughter Caroline, 3, to Palm Beach last Friday to await her mother there. Mrs. Kennedy and her children will remain there through the Christmas holidays. The President-Elect plans to commute to Washington from Palm Beach.

FOR $37777? This is the question asked bluntly by East Shaw students about the cost of the above items sent to give them "nourishment" while they study for finals. The items estimated at an actual cost of less than $1 are: a bag of peanuts, a package of gum, a package of lifesavers, a container of apple jelly, a bag of figbars, a package of pretzels, six cookies and a piece of fruitcake.

'Panic Kits' Cause Students Trouble

A self-generated meeting of 100 students was held Monday night in East Shaw to complain about numerous food packages sent to them through a "student rescue project."

The project apparently was organized to send cookies, candy and nuts upon request of a student's parents for a nominal charge.

The students who received the "Exam Survival Kits" and "Panic Kits" as they are called, complained that the contents of the packages weren't worth the money paid for them.

An estimated 10,000 letters had been sent to parents of MSU students advertising the "rescue kits" containing various items which are supposed to give "nourishment" to students while studying for final exams.

Students attending the meeting reported that they had received packages Monday containing small portions of the sweets advertised along with letters from their parents.

The "Panic" kit is advertised at $5, with double portions of candy, cookies and assorted items.

One student estimated the value of his package at 50 cents. Another said his "Panic" kit contained between $80 and $90 worth of goods.

A meeting with Dean Tom King and Provost Paul A. Miller is planned for today according to student representatives.

Wrapping for cookies and brownies was termed unsanitary by one of the complaining students.

"They gave us a bag of peanuts for what they called 'assorted nuts,'" said another.

Fruit filled squares were found by some to be fig bars.

Spokesmen for the protest group are Charles Cwieka, Flint sophomore, and Wayne Anderson East Lansing freshman.

Salinger Blasts Publisher

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pierre Salinger accused publisher William Loeb of being irresponsible and said Loeb "can't take it" when he is challenged.

It was another round in a controversy between Salinger, President-Elect Kennedy's press secretary, and Loeb, publisher of the Manchester, N.H., Union Leader.

Salinger last week criticized the Union Leader's coverage of the presidential campaign, saying it was one newspaper which did not "observe the rules of fairness."

Loeb denounced Salinger's remarks as untrue and challenged

Salinger either to apologize "or people, without regard to the facts, 364 days of the year and when his irresponsibility is this issue."

"The trouble with Mr. Loeb is that he feels free to attack can't take it."
