The 35-cent charge being collected for reflectorized license plates Thursday was ruled illegal shortly after the Senate passed a bill to repeal the law.

Blondy urged that the law be left standing and reflectorized plates issued next year. He said:

"Then if people find they don't want such plates, we can repeal the law next year."

In other action, the Senate approved the reappointment of Mrs. Zoe Shaffer Hirschowitz of Benton Harbor as a member of the State Board of Charities for a term expiring Feb. 1, 1965.

Gov. Swainson submitted a capital outlay budget to the Legislature calling for a $382 million program for construction of 27 projects.

Only nine of the projects are new building starts. Construction already has begun on the others.

The new program includes a supreme court building, which Swainson said is necessary to meet present-day requirements. Currently the court meets in the Capitol building.

Other projects include:

Michigan College of Mining and Technology—mechanical and physical building, $2,290,780.

Central Michigan University—science arts building, $2,120,000.

Eastern Michigan University—five and industrial arts building, $1,440,000.

Northwestern Michigan College—practical and fine arts building, $2,300,000.

Northville State Hospital—children's building, $1,650,000.

Pontiac State Home and Training School—store and food service facilities, $335,000.

Customs building, $1,679,000.

Vassar State hospital—nurses' building, $7,130,000.

Blood Drive Lags Behind 1500 Pint Goal

The AHS Blood Drive, which has today, needed 519 pints at 9:30 Thursday to reach the 1500 pint goal set by Jackson on inmates.

The all-university total was 1400 at that time, with 240 pints needed for a 4-hour total. More donors were expected between 6 and 8 p.m.

AWS urges students and faculty to give blood today between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. We've been behind in achieving our goal each day so far and won't get up unless everyone takes advantage of the drive's last day.

STUDENT donations still lagged by faculty members with Sigma Kappa fraternity leading the list of student donations.

The third consecutive day the State News erroneously listed Phi Kappa Sigma as the top donor on Thursday.

The College of Science and Arts led in faculty donations with a total of 30 pints.

Jan Landon held its lead over other women's dorms with 13 per cent participation with Phi Campbell's 20.5 in second place and West Yaker's 14.6 third.

East Shaw still led the men's group with 9.1 per cent participation and West Shaw's 8.7 in second place. Emmons was tied with 6.4.

Sorority donations were led by Sigma Gamma with 20 per cent, 42 per cent. Delta Zeta held second place with 20 per cent, and Delta Gamma came from third to third place with 17.1.

Fraternity donations were led by Phi Sigma Kappa and in second place was Farmhouse building with 11.5. Third place was held by Delta Upsilon with 45.6.

Bill Favors Anti-Bias Among Greeks

A bill was introduced Wednesday by student congress member which would require all campus fraternities and societies to revoke discriminatory clauses by Sept. 30, 1965.

But Taylor, Lansing representative, introduced the bill during committee work.

Seeking in support of Taylor's position was the Sigma Kappa fraternity. He said discrimination is morally wrong and against the purpose of a university.

It would require all fraternities and societies to revoke discriminatory clauses by Sept. 30, 1965.

Campus Projects Planned

Governor Swainson's capital outlay program will include a $5 million-dollar allocation to MSU for campus construction.

Details of the Governor's $382 million capital outlay program to be financed by bonding were revealed to the legislature Thursday.

The university had requested over 7 million dollars from the State Legislature, according to material prepared by the building division of the department of administration.

Jobless Aid Bill Approved

Ways and Means Clears Kennedy's Billion Dollar Plan

WASHINGTON, (P)—A billion-dollar aid-to-the-jobless bill—No. 1 on President Kennedy's priority list—cleared the House Ways and Means committee Thursday and headed for passage by the House next week.

The key committee approved emergency extension of unemployment compensation benefits after changing the financing provisions to meet objections from Republicans and business groups.

Within an hour after the Ways and Means group acted, Democratic leaders indicated the bill for House consideration next Wednesday.

The Kennedy administration, selective to start additional payments to the long-term unemployed by April 1, and Democratic leaders said they hope to meet that deadline.

THE BILL would provide up to another 13 weeks of benefits to jobless workers who have exhausted their rights since last June. The emergency program would run for two years from that date.

The Kennedy administration has estimated 300,000 or more unemployed persons already have reached the limit of their benefits under regular unemployment compensation programs, and that another 24 million will do so in the future.

Passage was assured when House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana announced support of a temporary extension of benefits and

Rusk Tells Russians Of Plans

WASHINGTON, (P)—The United States is ready to submit all future aid to the Royal Laotian government to the screening of a neutral nation's watchdog commission.

This evidence of full U.S. support for a genuinely neutral Laos was made known Thursday by authoritative government sources here.

They said the offer had been presented to King Savang Vatthana of Laos, the Soviet Union and neutral nations in Southeast Asia. The King has called for the neutrality of Laos.

THE U.S. action was discussed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a 30-minute meeting Wednesday night with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Medvedev.

Members will meet again in the session he would inform Moscow of the discussion.

Rusk gave him a translation of King Savang's message, promising that Laos "will not join in any military alliance... and will not have on its territory other foreign forces or military bases."

U.S. officials said the United States would be prepared to withdraw its more than 100 military advisers now training the royal army and turn over $200 million in military experts from neutral countries. This proposal would depend upon a cease-fire in the fighting between leftist and government forces and a withdrawal of any foreign military advisers or technicians now aiding the leftist Pathet Lao.

The U.S. decision represented a considered judgment by President Kennedy and his top advisers, officials said.

WASHINGTON, (P)—Pledges on all sides, flight engineers of six airlines decided Thursday to return to work at once, ending the nation's most paralyzing air-line strike.

The Flight Engineers International Association agreed to end its strike of Pan American, American, Trans World, Eastern, National, and Flying Tiger Airlines.

The announcement of the walkouts end was made personally by President Kennedy Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg, who played a key role in the negotiations.

Are You Guilty? One of Professor's Irritations: Students

By VIK BAUCH
State News Staff Writer

Some students are a source of college professors' irritations.

Dr. Harry H. Kimber, director of the division of social sciences, said in a talk to 25 graduate students Wednesday that an irritating student can be classified as one or more of four types.

1. "THE KNOW IT ALL" This type of student, said Kimber, considers himself an authority on a subject when he has read some outstanding book.

2. A "Grumpy Hound" is one who is in the course to get a grade. This one will argue up and down over five points on an examination.

3. The "Visibly Bored" student, he said, is the most irritating of them all. "They just sit there and stare, watching every move you make."

4. A "Student Who Can Never See You" will always complain that he stops by to see the professor, but he's never in. What time does the student come to see him? Well — during the lunch hour or a convenient five minutes after office hours.

"STUDENTS" are not the only irritants to the college professor, Kimber listed four others irritations and obligations—but he also has the reward of security, position, a chance to lead a meaningful life, and by master of his own time.

Kimber said that a professor must show responsibility to his employer, family, and profession; charity toward his colleagues; respect for students; and have self-discipline.

Dr. Richard Schlegel, professor of physics and astronomy, spoke on the same subject. For the most part he echoed Kimber's ideas.

SCHLEGEL began a discussion of research and teaching which touched off a question and answer period. He said he believed that teaching may be becoming secondary in importance to research.

He said that little recognition of good teaching is shown, whereas research is being built up as a standard by which professors are judged.

Kimber, who was puffing a large cigar, disagreed by saying that good teaching is recognized without regard to research.

When asked why the university must hire "poor" teachers, he replied, "there aren't enough good teachers to go around."

Restrictive Clauses Prevent Equal Rushing Opportunities

The problem of discriminatory clauses in fraternities and sororities has, as mentioned in an editorial Wednesday, become nationwide. There has been considerable dispute between local chapters and their national headquarters, particularly Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Chi and Sigma Nu.

Since the Civil Rights commission issued its report containing a recommendation that federal aid be withheld from state universities and colleges practicing discrimination, the problem will no doubt soon come to a head. A Greek organization is a part of the university, and the group with a clause brings discrimination to the university.

THERE ARE presently few national Greek organizations which contain discriminatory clauses. These are the groups at which action will no doubt be directed.

No one can deny that some groups do not have members of several different races and religions. However, the fact that these groups do not have such members is not definite proof that they are practicing discrimination.

It is the clauses that we object to, not the fact that all religions and races are not included in a group. For such a clause prevents a group from even considering a person whose race or religion is against membership qualifications.

MEMBERS OF a Greek organization, or any organization for that matter, should be able to select the members they wish. However, they should be able to view prospective members from an unrestricted group. A clause prevents such open consideration.

We feel a "universal pledge" requirement such as the one at Williams College is wrong. Under such a requirement, all men who rush, and list in order of preference every fraternity must receive a bid to pledge. If one rusher fails to receive a bid, no fraternity can pledge new members.

A regulation such as this defeats the purpose of selective membership. A fraternity may well be forced to pledge a person who would not fit in with the active members for many reasons. This would be a mistake not only for the chapter, but for the pledge.

WE DO NOT condemn selective membership as such; everyone has the right to select his friends. But when membership is restricted from the beginning, a prospective member who is a Jew or a Negro or a Moslem or a Chinese cannot have the opportunity to be included in that selection.

Every individual should have a chance to be considered.

Lumumba Protest Statement Gives Reason for Marc

African club president Lekan Are has asked us to print the statement that was read before the protest demonstration against the death of former Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba Saturday. While the State News takes no editorial stand on the demonstration, we think it is right that the demonstrators be given the opportunity to explain their position.

It has become fanciful in America to blame everything on the communists, even when a Belgian imperialist captain shoots African premier. Americans are quick to blame crime on their communist enemies.

Let it be clearly understood that this is a communist group, nor are our activities communist-inspired. We are African students in a country who feel a deep revulsion at the developments in the Congo, particularly events leading to the criminal murder of a man whose love for his country was his only crime.

Our activities today are a demonstration of the African Students Association's protest what can only be regarded as the suspension of a legally constituted African government by the Western powers, and the savage murder of Prime Minister Patrice Lumumba by the Belgian government with the direct or indirect aid of its NATO allies.

WHO CAN DENY that Patrice Lumumba is the legal chief of the Congo State? Who can deny that he won this position of honor and power a political contest over his foes, including the present Joseph Kasavubu, whom Lumumba is appointed to that nominal post? In these circumstances can anyone in his sound mind deny that the appointing officer was the chief of state?

It was at Premier Lumumba's invitation that United Nations forces went to the Congo. World organization had been called in to help out the Belgians who were giving military aid to Tshombe of Katanga and other separatists who had rebelled against the legal government of the Congo, and thus to stabilize the government of that infant Republic.

We doubt that any Western nation would act differently if outsiders were going to help a segment of its population, that they would not even tolerate foreign intervention in Cuba or some other place in this hemisphere much less on its soil.

AND YET, the United Nations did not advocate its responsibilities in the Congo, sitting idly by while the Belgians sought military assistance to the detriment of the state, but it also deplored the very Premier who had invited its forces. The United Nations also by refusing recognition to the government of the legal government of the Congo.

But why was Lumumba deposed? Why did the United Nations fail to discharge the duty which formed the legal basis for the government of the Congo? Because the Premier had become an obstacle to further Western capitalist expansion. He perhaps more than most African leaders realized the meaninglessness of political independence without economic freedom and he determined to make his country's freedom truly meaningful, riding it of outside exploiters. This was the "communist" by western definition, but he became a threat, which had to be removed any means.

LUMUMBA LIES in a cold grave because he loved Moscow more than he loved his own people. He lies in an unknown grave, and he might never be surrendered to his wife, but he might reveal the true manner of his death.

Lumumba is dead, but he will continue to live in the hearts of liberty-loving men everywhere. The principles for which he fought will be a shining example to African peoples. Our hero has been killed, but if we Africans recognize the lesson of his death, we will have died in vain.

The lesson is this: Western colonialism is dead; it has only changed its form to become more vicious. This is the form of independence is granted in order to protect security people's false sense of freedom, while the grotesque capitalist system, the economic vitality of the country, and no doubt that such freedom is hollow.

MAY AFRICANS forgive but never forget the enemies of African freedom, and we turn to ourselves to be most cautious and not trust entirely those who have been deceived. Beneath the smiles of diplomacy is a deep feeling that the blackman is not equal of the white man, and that the white man has no rights which the white man is bound to respect.

The distortions of the issue in the light situation and the opposition of the Western powers to a motion of culture against Belgium are understood in this light. Let each African realize it was Lumumba yesterday, but it may be one of you tomorrow.

Letters Protest, Defend Demonstration for Lumumba and Clauses

Enough, Tshombe

To the Editor:

Tshombe has now called the pretensions of the UN to disarm the Belgian troops in the Congo a declaration of war.

It is a pity that this leader of the Belgians doesn't realize that he has outlived his usefulness to them, now that Lumumba and his followers have been killed and the movement toward national liberation has been crushed.

Jack Gerritsen

Against Protest

To the Editor:

It is a great insult that I saw the protest demonstration for the death of Congolese ex-premier Lumumba. What should have been a more serious and dignified affair was reduced to the picketing of the administration. They were clearly anti-American, as they did not leave any doubt in anyone's mind who was behind the demonstration.

During my five years in this country, I have found that Americans are far more open-minded and tolerant than I have seen elsewhere, even if they see their abridging freedom and democracy. America will never shut a foreigner out but put him in his place, even when he is behaving wrong.

Being a foreigner myself, I do not feel very kind toward ungrateful guests in this country. Lumumba is a country which has suffered also under various occupations and detentions, including communism, which made all previous detentions look like his recent detentions.

I therefore call the demonstration for Lumumba a disgraceful and ungrateful interference with what is a Congolese internal affair. What are they and what do they know about Lumumba and the Congo besides the press and secondary news in the newspapers?

How do they know that Lumumba is a hero in the West? How do they know that he was a hero in the West?

A student who has had the responsibility of making a choice without bias and prejudice, after seeing the facts, and not be stirred up by emotions or self-propaganda.

Under no circumstances should they force that they are guests in this country and that Americans pay for their education as well as for the very existence of their own countries on free soil. While freedom and democracy are the greatest gifts to mankind, their abuse and misuse are a plague.

A guest should never insult a host. If he does not like the hospitality, nothing keeps him from going back home. I hope they make the most out of the greatest opportunity in their lives, to visit and live in the greatest democracy on earth. Never have so few had such a great luck as to inform so many back home about what democracy and freedom really is.

Why We Protest

To the Editor:

In Wednesday's paper, Alvin Butzen asks for a reason for the mourning of the death of Patrice Lumumba. I imagine Butzen also wonders why American prestige has declined in the eyes of the African nations.

Butzen answers the second question with his statement that the participants who were probably searching for a martyr to make noise about.

I would like to attempt to answer his first question. The African students were mourning the loss of their elected leader—the man that was to bring them freedom. The death of Lumumba dashed these hopes, much as the death of Lincoln dashed American citizens in the 1860's.

Patrice Lumumba was an African leader searching for the freedom of his people; he was not a communist. First, having voluntarily in the answer to some of the African nations, I don't know. But I do know that the African people need more than just freedom, and that choice should be honored.

The participants in the demonstration included many future African leaders, sent to our universities for an education. These people will be going back to Africa soon, to take positions of responsibility and leadership. One individual will be a publisher of a newspaper in Nigeria.

Can we expect these African students to forget how they have been treated in America? The United States and its citizens hope to win the friendship and support of the African people. This can be accomplished only through mature, intellectual actions—not by saying "Nigger, so homo."

For Freedom

To the Editor:

I congratulate you on your recent editorial concerning the Mass T-9000 incident. This is a more independent expression than I have seen in the State News for some time.

I wholeheartedly endorse your freedom of expression and extend a plea to you—for your dignity as humans, for the good of the university and the student body. Continue it.

John K. Belaski

Clauses Okay

To the Editor:

I am not a member of a fraternity on this campus or elsewhere.

However, the recent editorial in the State News asking for action by the university to pressure these groups into changing clauses in their constitutions seems to me to be a great injustice to their members.

These people have banded together because they enjoy the same things; they have much in common; they want to pick their own friends; and they do not want to be subjected to the rabble collected by a university. They pay considerable sums to insure some medium of privacy.

These goals seem to have fallen into disrepute. They seem to me to be far more democratic than those of persons who would have consultations on private issues. Free choice is being attacked and ridiculed.

If universities force these groups to change their rules, it seems far more likely that the university is forcing them to lie and cheat. For the same people who are not now excluded in their memberships will then be excluded on other grounds.

Don't jam "democracy" down their throats. Allow them to choose their own bedfellows. It is a far greater assurance towards understanding.

John Herr

Poor Sports

To the Editor:

As longtime residents of East Lansing, and having watched many excellent MSU athletic teams perform, we have been accustomed to high quality performance of which any university could be proud.

However, we recently witnessed a most pathetic spectacle—the MSU-U of M wrestling meet. It appeared that MSU was far more interested in winning the meet than in how it was won in the quality of sportsmanship.

Being avid wrestling fans, we are used to seeing matches in which the participants are interested in wrestling. This particular meet seemed to be more a game of cat-and-mouse with MSU doing the running. While not true in all matches, most Michigan wrestlers had difficulty getting their opponents to stay on the mat.

This reached the point where more than half of the MSU wrestlers were warned or penalized for stalling, while no Michigan man was called for this offense.

Although MSU won the meet, through their display of poor sportsmanship and lack of aggressiveness, the name of MSU has undoubtedly suffered. We will be greatly disappointed if such attitudes continue uncorrected, causing the reputation of your university to remain in the shadow of this incident.

We are looking forward to a performance more becoming to a wrestling team representing a university of your status in the coming Western Conference Meet.

Propaganda

To the Editor:

Mr. Mort Butzen's letter of protest about Lumumba demonstrators has a somewhat undemocratic ring. Freedom of expressing one's views is absolutely essential in a democracy; coupled with this however should be the intense desire to hear new or differing ideas.

Applying this then, we see that the African students here have a different concept of Patrice Lumumba than most Americans do. We see him firstly as the legally elected Premier of the Congo, secondly as a patriot of Africa, and thirdly as violently anti-colonialist. He was in short to us a heroic figure, because he was among a very few Africans who successfully fought for freedom from the white man.

True, his assassins have not been individually identified, but he was killed in Katanga whose leaders are still intertwined with the Belgians. Former exploiting colonialists do not suddenly change overnight. Today in Africa these Western powers are seeking a more subtle form of colonialism, namely economic control, while reluctantly giving up political control.

Under these conditions new African leaders must be ruthless in dealing with the imperialists. Lumumba was such a person, and this is the cause of his loss of power and ultimate execution. Kasavubu and Tshombe are pawns in implementing this more subtle colonialism.

These are the reasons why we mourn his untimely death, and demonstrate in hope that our voices will be heard to prevent repetition of such crimes. We hope that certain basic freedoms such as peaceful demonstrations are also the right of visiting foreign students. We hope too that Mr. Butzen and other Americans would think independently and carefully about Africa by doing more than simply taking as "gospel" what your news reporters tell you.

In order to gain the full spectrum of views and thoughts, so necessary to anyone who calls himself a democrat, one should eagerly welcome the opportunity of listening to the side which was provided by the demonstrators, without prematurely labeling them as "stupid" and "pseudo-intellectual."

Mr. Butzen has a perfect right to criticize what he wants to. However, his letter implies a desire for the curtailment of the rights of others and this would be undemocratic.

Ashes Signify Repentance

Christians Observe Lent By Penance, Sacrifice

This is the first in a series of articles on the meaning of Lent as observed in American Churches.

By JILL MARBLEY, Staff News Religious Editor

For six weeks preceding Easter, Christians all over the world observe the holy season known as Lent.

This is a time of penance in the Church, a time when individual sacrifices are made in remembrance of Christ's suffering and death.

Lent extends for a period of 40 days, excluding Sundays which are considered as feasts and begin with Ash Wednesday.

WE OBSERVE Lent appropriately enough in the spring, when universal nature is awakening from her dull sleep.

MORTIFICATION

On the other hand, in a more private and individual form of self-discipline, in which certain pleasures are given up for the duration of the Lenten period and sacrifices are made in imitation of Christ.

Four sacrifices are held dear throughout Lent in the Catholic Church, as well as the service of holy communion.

At this time of the year, individuals all over the world observe Lent as an expression of their devotion and acceptance of Christ.

A BRITISH diplomat here welcomed as "most generous" the American offer to have all of its future aid screened.

The Soviet reaction is being watched closely. Menshikov told newsmen after his meeting with Rusk that the Soviet Union has always thought Laos should be neutral in accordance with the 1954 Geneva agreement.

Earlier, the State Department called on the neutral nations of Southeast Asia and all other interested governments including the Soviet Union to work together constructively to restore peace and concord to this troubled area.

As for the United States, it said, "We shall certainly respect the wishes of the Lao people in the King's declaration."

CONTROL SYSTEMS: ORDERS FROM A COMPUTER NOW CONTROL GIANT OIL REFINERY UNIT

Every 24 hours, the world's largest distribution unit separates crude oil into ten different categories which end up as six million gallons of finished products. This involves continual monitoring of 196 instruments, followed by precise balancing of controls. To operate at peak efficiency, control directions are changed seventy-two times daily to compensate for a multitude of variables. The IBM computer that recently took over this job now reads the instruments, makes the calculations, and issues the orders for the control changes. It is guided in its work by 75,000 instructions stored in its electronic memory. Just a few years ago electronic control of such a complex industrial process would have been impossible. But such is the progress in computer systems that in the sixties it will become commonplace. This dramatic progress means exciting and important jobs at IBM for the college graduate, whether in research, development, manufacturing, or programming. If you want to find out about opportunities in any one of these areas, you are invited to talk with the IBM representative. He will be interviewing on your campus this year. Your placement office can make an appointment. Or write, outlining your background and interests, to: Mgr. of Technical Employment, Dept. 888, IBM Corp., 390 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y.

Solid opportunities with solid state devices

A big part of Western Electric's job is to manufacture the miniature "new arts" products that are changing the scene of communications. It's a job which offers you a challenging career—a chance to plan new methods of mass producing ever-improving kinds of transistors, sensitive devices, diodes, special purpose electronic tubes, etc.

You'll be with a company that is expanding rapidly in this field. At present our Alhambra and Lancaster, Pa. plants are devoted exclusively to making electron devices, and a new plant is under construction in Kansas City. The work of the Bell Telephone System for these products are increasing daily and will multiply enormously with the introduction of Electronic Central Office switching new clearing trial operations.

These devices are changing the scene at all our manufacturing plants as they go into the working new communications products developed by our associates at Bell Telephone Laboratories. From miniature transistors...

Economist Tells Committee: Federal Arms Cost Is Economic Loss

There would be no damage to the American economy if armaments were not needed, Dr. Anita P. Lerner, professor of economics, said Tuesday night.

Lerner, internationally known economist, told the committee for a New Nuclear Policy that disarmament would not vitiate the economy of this country.

A simple solution would be to merely continue producing armaments and then the bombs, gas, and other weapons in the middle of the Pacific, Lerner jokingly said. "Or we might prefer doing other beautiful things, such as space exploration."

Lerner said, however, the government could find more useful things to do with the 40 or 50 billion spent on armaments each year if disarmament took place.

He listed some items as housing, schools, and food for the unemployed and increased expenditures.

Lerner also said the government could reduce taxes even though complications might develop in the foreseeable future.

"People might buy more things if they had the extra money," he said. "There would be a scarcity of goods, prices would rise, and we would have inflation."

ON THE OTHER hand there might be a time when people might not want all the things produced, Lerner said. Depression could be the result.

He pointed out, however, that it would be up to the government to see that these things did not develop.

If the people with money don't want to spend it, give the money to those people who want to spend it," he said.

However, Lerner said there is a sociological problem involved in disarmament.

"MYTHS OF what government should and should not do are the greatest problem facing disarmament," he said.

Lerner listed as three of the most significant myths:

1. Government paying off the national debt.

2. Belief in the Keynes theory of economics.

3. The concept of "creeping socialism."

We would be in trouble if the government attempted to pay off the national debt," Lerner said. "The government would be spending 40 to 50 billion every year if they did this."

There is no reason why people would want to spend more if the government tried to reduce the national debt," he said.

IT WOULD BE harmful to the economy, according to Lerner, if people did not spend more as a depression might develop.

Lerner said belief in the Keynes theory, which says employment depends on what people spend, is a second myth.

"I have been shown that although an individual can't print his own money, the government can provide it if there is not enough spending," he said.

The Keynes theory doesn't apply because of this."

A third myth, according to Lerner, is the conservative belief that increased governmental spending is bad.

"This argument is based on two meanings of the word socialism," he said.

Lerner said the first definition refers to government's assigned tasks such as running the post office.

The second meaning is that government sees that a policy is followed through," he said. "An example of this is when government sees to it that there is enough spending to keep the economy stable."

The conservative's charges of creeping socialism, according to Lerner, are based on the second definition.

AF Cadets Tour Air Defense Unit 2,500 Pizzas Sold During Pizza Week

After seeing a film on the purpose and operation of the SAGE Semi-Automatic-Ground Environment center, the cadets were taken to the Operations Room for a closer look at the radar and communications equipment.

The nation-wide system's reason for being, said Maj. M.F. Tagne, who accompanied the group, is to detect, identify and if necessary, destroy enemy aircraft entering the United States.

THE OPERATIONS Room is buried inside a four-story concrete blockhouse that also houses giant electronic computers and miles of wire for communications that are necessary for the center's functions.

Information on aircraft flying in the SAGE area, such as altitude, speed, course and type, is sent to the SAGE center from radar sites in Michigan, Canada and neighboring states.

This information is stored in "memory drums" in the giant computers and a touch of a button will flash the data on a glass screen for viewing.

The location of each aircraft in the control area and its information appear on the screen. If an aircraft cannot be identified by electronically checking previously filed flight plans, the commander, Col. Sluder, can order jet interceptors to investigate.

If the aircraft is identified by the interceptor pilots as hostile, orders will be given to open fire.

This year's Pizza week earned a profit of $375, more than four times as much as last year's event earned. Over 2,500 pizzas were sold and 1,900 deliveries were made by Fresh-Soph crewed during the three day event last week.

The kitchen could not produce pizzas fast enough to keep up with the demand.

Drivers worked until 2 a.m. to fill every order but some pizzas could not be delivered because the women's dorms were closed or the prospective customers were asleep.

This profit makes Fresh-Soph collect practically self-supporting.

Farm Show Return Marks Sign of Spring

Some people regard the ground hog as the first sign of spring, others the position of the stars.

To members of Central Michigan agricultural communities, the first sign of spring is the return of the program "Farming Today" over WKAR radio.

The program will return March 1, when WKAR, which broadcasts from local sunrise to sunset, increases its broadcast schedule.

"Farming Today," with Art Burroughs, WKAR farm editor, opens with the weather summary at 7 a.m. and continues with interviews of people on campus.

American Attitude 'Passive' Toward Red Infiltration

There is a definite American passive attitude toward the spread of Communism in the world, according to Ray DeWolfe of General Electric, Electronics Defense Division.

DeWolfe spoke Tuesday to Alpha Phi Sigma, national policy honorary. He showed two films in conjunction with his talk, "Communism on the Map" and "Operation Abolition."

He pointed out that the attitude of Americans must be changed or our well being as a free country may be in peril.

The Communist infiltration into our youth organizations and the complete and total disrespect for law enforcement as demonstrated in San Francisco during the meeting of the House Un-American Activities Committee were cited as cases toward which Americans have a passive attitude.

The members of Alpha Omicron Pi will honor their fathers at a Dad's weekend this Saturday and Sunday.

Bedpushers Won't Lay on Job—Promise

Last year, it was crumpling into a tepid sea. This year, it's bed-pushing—at MSCU anyway.

About 94 members of the Oakland branch plan to push a bed from their campus to East Lansing and back. The distance to be covered, about 130 miles, will take 24 hours, according to the students.

Despite the craze for students, students insist this year has a purpose. They are asking, as they push the bed by, that people think about it. These will be donated to the World University Service which supplies books for underprivileged university libraries.

One question remains to be answered before this act of charity can take place. Is bed-pushing legal on Michigan highways? Because no one has been able to find a law prohibiting it, the students are now trying to get a ruling from Gov. Swanwick.

Unless someone is questioning prevents, pushing will begin on Friday, March 1, at midnight.
