

'Freedom Train' Scored in North

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A proposal to send a "freedom train" north carrying 1,000 Negroes on a free one-way ride away from segregation in the South drew cries of outrage and defiance Tuesday.

Northern political leaders, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) spoke stinging words against the idea originated by the Citizens Council of Greater New Orleans.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) defended the proposal. He said it was merely "freedom riders" in reverse.

George I. Singelmann, director of the Citizens Council, made the idea public, announcing unnamed donors had agreed to underwrite the train. He said the council wants to provide the one-way transportation for Negroes unhappy with segregation customs in New Orleans.

The program to pay for one-way tickets for Negroes wishing to go north already has drawn the anger of Louis Boyd, his wife and eight children want to New York by bus. The Citizens Council paid the $263 fare and gave each family member $5 for incidentals. The Boyds left New Orleans last Thursday.

In a Senate speech, Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.) called the freedom train idea a "cruel hoax." He said the American people "will be aroused by this senseless display of theatricality."

Clarence Laws, field secretary for the NAACP, termed the freedom train idea a "cruel hoax." He said "it runs counter to our belief in the dignity and worth of the individual."

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller said the plan "violates every fundamental concept that we believe in as a people" and added "it runs counter to our belief in the dignity and worth of the individual."

But, Rep. Herbert slapped the NAACP for its "hypocritical cry of anguish" and contended it was the NAACP "which helped the freedom rider pattern when it wholeheartedly endorsed freedom rides from north to south, even though the southbound rides caused widespread disorder in flagrant disregard of law."

He referred to whites and Negroes touring from north to south last year, testing segregation customs. Hundreds were arrested.

"Is it possible the NAACP has a genuine interest in the advancement of colored people?" Hebert asked in Washington. "What happens to the NAACP dues and contributions; or are they to be used only to finance touring in peaceful southern communities?"

Boyd was the first to accept the Citizens Council offer. He started Tuesday as a $100 per day handymen with a Jersey City, N. J., medical electronics firm. He said he and his family "couldn't be happier anywhere else in the world."

Laws said it would be a "tragic mistake for Negroes to assume that they can go to New York or any other northern city

Liberties Watchdog Proposed

Two professors urged Wednesday that All-University Student Government establish a joint faculty-student watchdog committee on civil liberties.

Charles P. Larowe, professor of economics, and Robert Repas, assistant professor in the Labor Industrial Relations Center, said alleged civil rights violations could be reported to the committee for investigation, analysis and recommendations.

In a letter to AUSG President elect Bob Howard, the professors said they endorsed the recommendation of the Student Congress student rights committee calling for an end of photographing students in peaceful demonstrations by the Department of Public Safety.

Repas and Larowe said, however, that they do not endorse the committee's conclusion that "the State News was guilty of irresponsible journalism in printing the as it did a series of articles on student civil rights last spring by staff writer Mary Basing."

They urged, instead, that AUSG adopt a resolution commending Mary Basing and the State News "for their part in improving civil liberties on the campus by bringing these matters into the light."

The two charged that within the past 12 months one faculty member's promotion was held up on the basis of erroneous information about his political activities in such a report.

"Even if these are isolated instances, as indeed they may be," they said, "such use of reports scarcely warrants complicity."

Larowe told the State News that two faculty members involved in the reports had asked that their names not be involved.

The letter countered the student committee's conclusion of irresponsible journalism in the State News series by saying while both sides in an issue are ideally presented, "Miss Basing was afraid that if certain administrators knew that such a series of articles was being written they might prevent its publication."

Howard said Wednesday that the Larowe and Repas letter would be referred to the new student rights committee as soon as its members are named.

AUSG Officers Take Oath

Forty-six representatives and the All-University Student Government president Bob Howard will be sworn in by Tom Morrow, Chief Justice of Student Judiciary, at a Student Congress meeting Wednesday.

Larry Campbell, past president of AUSG, will give the new Congress a summary of the year's activities in student government.

Dr. Eldon Nontamaker, AUSG adviser, and Dr. David C. Ralph, associate professor of speech, also will speak to the group.

Ralph will discuss rules of procedure in Student Congress.

Nominations for speaker, speaker pro tem, secretary, and committee on committees will also be made at the meeting.

Elections for these congressional offices are scheduled for next Wednesday.

The meeting is open to all students.

Troops Arrive in Algiers to Battle OAS

ORAN--Troop reinforcements began to mass on the outskirts of rebellious Oran Tuesday to break the resistance of the defiant European settlers.

Official sources indicated, however, that it may be some time before Oran Commander Gen. Ralph Katz throws his men into action against the city's European quarter held by the terrorist Secret Army Organization.

Starting Tuesday, steel-helmeted French infantrymen seized three tall buildings in the heart of Oran and set up gun positions on rooftops.

Literacy Battle Delayed in Congress

WASHINGTON--A prospective great battle over literacy tests for voters was delayed Tuesday when leaders were unable to round up a quorum.

It was a skirmish victory for Southerners who are organized for a filibuster against the Kennedy Administration's proposal to exempt anyone with a sixth grade education from having to take a literacy test to qualify as a voter in a federal election.

Proponents of the bill contend many Negroes in the South are kept from voting by pronouncements from voting officials that the Negroes have failed a literacy test.

Cost of Living Reaches New Peak

WASHINGTON--Higher spring season prices for women's and girls' clothing helped push the nation's living costs up to a new peak in March.

The Labor Department reported Tuesday its consumers price index rose two-tenths of one percent to reach the record level of 105.0 percent of the 1957-59 average.

Coupled with a February increase, this meant a rise in two months of 1 1/2 percent. But Arnold Chase, the department's consumer price expert, said he could see no sign of an inflationary uptrend.

Guido Yields, Cancels Election Results

BUENOS AIRES--President Jose Maria Guido Tuesday nullified election results in the last four months and ordered federal appointees to take control of Argentina's provinces.

The president acted by executive decree, after resisting pressure from his military chiefs for more than three weeks, when generals in three provinces forced his hand by taking control of three provinces from civilian governors.

By annulling March 18 elections he erased the victories of Peronists who elected five governors and supported four more successful candidates for governor.

Swainson Makes $2,000 Grant Stated By Analogy in Speech Ingham Alumni Club

Governor John B. Swainson likened the people of Michigan to a football team Monday as he gave a pep talk at a regional Michigan Week meeting at Kellogg Center.

Turning to Clarence L. "Biggie" Munn, athletic director and regional chairman for Michigan Week, the Governor said:

"The first thing to do in building a great football team is to sell the players on their greatness, and with this achieved they will do the rest."

"The same thing applies to the people of a state. If we sell our eight million citizens on the greatness of their state, they will become super salesmen or ambassadors and let the rest of the world know how great we are."

The Governor told the representatives from Ingham, Eaton, Clinton, Ionia and Shiawassee counties that Michigan Week affords all people and communities an opportunity to carry forward a program for community and state betterment.

The week will officially open in Lansing with ceremonies on the state capitol steps at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, May 20.

Reds Launch Third Sputnik In Five Weeks

MOSCOW, (AP)--The Soviet Union Tuesday launched its third instrument-packed sputnik in five weeks. At the same time it fully reported the communications failure aboard the American moon rocket Ranger 4.

The Soviet News Agency Tass said the new sputnik, Cosmos III, represented another step in a program of outer space probes to check and improve spaceship construction.

Apparently the Sputnik was unnamed.

Tass said preliminary data indicated the satellite was in an orbit close to its calculated path and that radio telemetric signals indicated all its equipment was functioning normally.

Tass carried detailed accounts of the communications breakdown aboard the Ranger 4, launched Monday, and emphasized what it called Western dismay at loss of contact with the U.S. Spaceship.

It was the first time the United States and Russia had launched space vehicles so close to each other in time.

A session of the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, recessed early so that delegates could hear the announcement of the Cosmos III.

Tass also quoted her as saying: "Data on the state of distant space routes, the complex of problems relating to the functions of a human organism during space flights--this is the sphere in which information could be exchanged."

Russian cosmonaut Gherman Titov will attend the space science symposium in Washington April 30, along with U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

Crippled Rocket May Strike Moon

PASADENA, CALIF., (AP)--The crippled spacecraft Ranger 4 coasted Tuesday toward a crash on the moon's backside, or to a possible near miss and a fiery end in the earth's atmosphere.

Calculations indicate a collision at 8:50 a.m. EST Thursday, 36.9 hours after blastoff from Cape Canaveral, Monday.

Jet propulsion laboratory scientists who created and are tracking the craft said, however, that it could barely miss.

In this case, it would hook around the moon's backside, return toward earth and incinerate itself Sunday night like a giant meteor.

Ranger 4 was launched beautifully Monday by an Atlas-Agena B booster combination. But two hours after launch scientists determined that a timer, supposed to govern many of its functions, had failed.

This in effect rendered useless its electronic brain. Unable to act on or respond to commands from earth, unable to lock on to the sun and stabilize itself, it simply tumbled end over end out of control toward the moon.

Disappointed scientists found cause for cheer in the guidance. Hitting the moon with an unguided spacecraft is likened to hitting a bird on the wing with a rifle. The Russians have hit the moon once. The United States has failed to achieve its goal in seven previous moon shots.

The 730-pound silver and gold interplanetary voyager had these goals: to radio back photos of the moon's surface; to measure lunar radioactivity; to measure its radar reflection properties; to land instruments in a balsawood ball that would record moonquakes and meteor impacts.

Calculations indicate that Ranger 4 will skin the moon's leading edge at a height of 900 miles and curve in to crash on the hidden backside.

It could, if there were a tiny error in calculations, curve behind the moon without impacting and hurtle back to burn out in the earth's atmosphere.

The craft's main battery went dead Monday night because it was unable to tap solar power.

It is being tracked by the jet propulsion laboratory's giant antenna at Goldstone, Calif., via a 50 milliwatt battery operating a

Faculty Reacts to $25 Fee

Faculty reaction to the charging of a $25 parking fee varied, with some questioning if the parking problem is great enough to warrant the fee, and others believing that the fee was inevitable.

Clinton Burhans, instructor of English, said:

"I think the fee is necessary. If the University is going to build ramps, they have to get the money from some place, and I don't imagine they can get it from the legislature. I don't mind the fee."

William Sweetland, associate professor of humanities, said:

"In as much as the University is faced with financial problems, they had to charge a fee to pay for parking facilities. I feel that there can be no justifiable complaint against the fee."

Paul Axt, assistant professor of mathematics, said:

"I am not at all convinced that with the present restrictions on parking on the north side of campus that there will be a great enough increase in the need for faculty parking to justify the fee."

Donald Johnson, professor of psychology, said:

"The parking situation is very bad, but I don't know of any other employer who charges his employees for parking. This seems to be peculiar to universities."

David Hess, acting director of honors college, said:

"The parking fee was inevitable. It was either that or lose all the grass. I, personally, would rather have the grass."

Herbert Phillips, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, said:

"The fundamental issue is not the cost of parking lots, but rather if large parking lots are necessary. After visiting three universities recently, I would say that the parking situation here is comfortable."

Law Day Slated For Tuesday

MSU will participate in the nationwide celebration of Law Day U.S.A. next Tuesday.

Began in 1958, Law Day U.S.A. is celebrated annually to encourage a deeper respect for the rule of law upon which the United States is founded and to promote responsible citizenship.

Paul L. Adams, Michigan Supreme Court Justice and former Michigan attorney general, will highlight the day with a talk at 4 p.m. in Fairchild.

Provost Clifford Erickson will introduce Adams. The public is invited.

730 Blood Donations Set Record

GRIM REAPER--This specter wandered through campus as a part of the promotion of the current ROTC blood drive. Student reactions to his gruesome satire resulted in an upswing in blood donations over the Monday level.

Nearly 730 pints of blood were donated in the second day of the ROTC blood drive, setting a record for one-day donations.

The total for two days is 1063, six pints above the total for the same period last year.

The drive is nearly half-way towards its 2,512 goal.

"It looks like we'll make the goal," said Mrs. Isabelle Borgman, Red Cross recruitment director.

The spring term blood drive is sponsored by Air Force ROTC and Army ROTC, with co-operation from the American Red Cross.

Army is leading the Air Force with a 35.4 percent to the A.F.'s 24.4 percent.

Army ROTC has won the drive for three years in a row.

"But we're out to beat them this year," said AFROTC Cadet Lt. Jim Baldwin, a member of the drive's publicity staff.

MSU is the "world's blood drive champion," winning the title last year.

Trophies are awarded to units donating the highest percentage of blood. Standings are published daily in the State News.

A Red Cross spokesman urged civilian students not to donate blood during ROTC drill periods to avoid congestion.

Wednesday's ROTC drill periods are 8-9 a.m. and 12-4 p.m.

Leaders in the drive are as follows:

Women's Dorms
1. West Mayo
2. S. Williams
3. N. Campbell

Men's Dorms

Detroit 1, Kansas City 0

Detroit defeated Kansas City last night 1 to 0, behind the pitching of Don Mossi.

Detroit's run came in the eighth inning when Jake Wood doubled to open the inning and was singled home by Rocky Colavito.

Mossi and Brown were the Detroit battery. Pfister and Sullivan worked for the A's. The win was Detroit's fifth against four losses.

Campus Politics: Dying A Slow Death?

If the student response to the recent AUSG and class elections is any indication of the state of campus politics then it can be said that MSU student politics is on its death bed soon to be buried.

Nearly two weeks after the end of the elections, seven dorms, the sororities, East Lansing and Lansing still need representatives for Congress. In all, eighteen positions are now open.

Excluding three openings which resulted from the disqualification of three candidates whose averages were below the required grade point, there are fifteen positions which still must be filled because not even enough students were willing to become candidates.

People ran unopposed. In some dorms which have two representatives, there are still two positions open -- both of them.

Eight AUSG representatives were elected as write-in candidates. Some received two, three and four votes. Legally they were elected. Several of the candidates for class office ran unopposed. The deadline for petitions for junior class president had to be extended because no petitions were ever submitted by the original deadline.

The whole business was a farce.

Why did such a ludicrous and, yes, embarrassing situation happen?

Last term, the State News reprinted an article originally appearing in the New York Times which reported the waning interest in and position of student politics on American campuses. The writer expounded upon two reasons for this development.

In the first place, there has been, on some campuses, a slow but steady clamping down by the administration. Such actions have limited the scope of student politics to render it weak and ineffectual.

Certainly these practices tend to discourage many enthusiasts. Rather than waste their time as rubber stamps for the administration and/or rather than devote their energies to trivial, insignificant matters, these students have shunned campus politics completely. These cases are most unfortunate and, indeed, deploable.

The other reason, according to the article, which, ironically, draws forth a kind of optimism, is that Americans are finally waking up and realizing they no longer can live in a cozy state of traditional isolation in a rapidly shrinking world.

Students are devoting less of their time and intellectual energies on fraternity charters, housing recommendations and constitutional amendments. They are looking beyond to national and international issues -- to the pros and cons of medical care to the aged, to the question of nuclear testing and disarmament, to the problems of the endless cold war.

Unfortunately, we can not conclude that the present circumstance here is a result of any sudden student awareness and interest in domestic and foreign affairs. Nor would it be fair to use the Administration as a scapegoat, which, ruling with an iron hand, had so frustrated and inhibited student government as to discourage interest and participation.

Perhaps there is a tinge of each but even together their influence is probably negligible.

The culprit is nothing new. It is an emotional state that seems to be deeply imbedded into the character of an overwhelming number of the students on this campus. It is apathy.

The response to the election two weeks ago was the culmination of apathy on the part of potential student leadership. AUSG positions and class offices couldn't even be given away.

Perhaps the time has come to evaluate the whole situation before some AUSG President in the not too distant future finds himself addressing an empty congressional hall.

Editors Resist Administration

Editors of the University of Michigan student newspaper, The Michigan Daily, took a commendable step last weekend in an attempt to resist influence on the newspaper's editorial policy by the university's administration.

The senior editor staff announced its resignation Saturday because the school's Board in Control of Student Publications failed to follow completely the staff's recommendations in appointing a succeeding staff.

Senior editor John Roberts said the Board "usually follows our recommendations to the letter."

The newly appointed junior staff members refused their new positions for the same reason. They agreed to operate the newspaper as night editors until petitioning for positions is reopened.

What aroused the seniors and juniors was the Board's appointment of two co-editorial page directors instead of the traditional one editorial page chief and an assistant.

Michael Olinick, who refused the senior editor's job, said he saw the Board's move as an attempt to influence the Daily's editorial policy without open censorship.

The two persons appointed to run the editorial page represent opposite political and campus viewpoints, Olinick said. That way Board members hoped to reach a medium on the editorial page.

"We (juniors) feel that the Board's move was an infringement on our independence," Olinick said. "We feel that the board should let us seek our own level of policy within the established framework."

We agree with Olinick. Student editors should be allowed to control their own editorial policies and the content of their editorial pages, just as the State News has had the right and privilege to do for several years.

Monumental Silliness

Summer is generally regarded as the silly season. Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota has jumped the gun by several months with his proposal that the Mount Rushmore statues of Washington, Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt and Lincoln be wired for sound.

There is something wildly ridiculous about the thought of these monumental figures, hewn from the eternal rock, bellowing choice sentiments about democracy ....

Letters: On Graduate Representation, Visiting, Etc.

To the Editor:
The recent letter to the editor written by graduate students in the Department of Physics provided the impetus for a formal poll of 110 graduate students in the Department of Chemistry. This poll resulted in the collection of a number of signed statements which are presently stored in a safe in 213 Kedzie. The results of this poll are as follows: Of the 110 persons polled, 79 replied. Of these, 58 voted against the measure, 1 voted for the measure, and 20 did not vote. It must be pointed out that at least one third of those who did not vote were ineligible or were legally eligible but were unjustly refused a ballot.

The question of validity of the whole balloting process is presumably to be dealt with by the proper authorities. While they will need to gather more information than is presented here, copies of this letter are being sent to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, The Dean of Graduate School, the president and election commissioner of AUSG.

New Vote

To the Editor:
Regarding the recent vote on the question of graduate student membership in AUSG, I would like to make the following observations.

In the first place, no identification was required at the polling place. Secondly, there was no supervision of the ballot boxes or identification of the boxes. Lastly, the total number of votes does not reflect a quorum of graduate student body at MSU. And yet this vote would require participation by all graduate students.

On the basis of the above, I would like to suggest a new vote on the issue. Let's have adequate supervision of the polls and require student I.D.'s.

Shaw Dances

To the Editor:
There is, on this campus, a university sponsored event which certain individuals, although they have absolutely no connection with MSU at all, are quite free to attend, and others duly enrolled full-time students of Michigan State, can not. We are speaking of course of the Shaw dances.

It is a well-known fact that many girls enrolled in the greater Lansing high schools regularly attend the Shaw dances, even though these same girls haven't the slightest connection whatsoever with Shaw, with any dorm council, or with any other part of MSU. Still, they are encouraged, and even openly invited to attend these dances.

Any off-campus male, however, be he in a fraternity, a co-op housing unit, or his parent's home; be he a four-pointer, star athlete, club president, or merely an ordinary full time student of this University, is prevented from attending these same dances.

Regardless of what Shaw's student representatives would lead you to believe they are showing unfair discrimination against off-campus men. The students who may attend Shaw dances, as quoted from the letter by the two Shaw presidents and published April 16 said: "All residents of men's resident halls on campus are invited to attend Shaw dances. All registered guests of Shaw residents are invited to attend Shaw dances. All women, on or off campus are invited to attend Shaw dances."

A much shorter, but equally accurate and descriptive list reads "anyone, no matter who they might be, may attend Shaw dances, as long as he is not an off-campus male."

The two reasons for this policy, as explained in the previously referred to article, were (1) The dances were overcrowded and (2) certain non-Shaw residents were causing trouble at the dances.

In regard to the first reason, it is certainly the prerogative of Shaw to limit its dance attendance if it so chooses, but in doing so care should be taken so as to openly discriminate against any one particular group. One good way might be to open the dance to everyone until a Shaw determined limit is reached. Then admit no one, except Shaw residents, their dates and guests.

As to the second, we can only say that not only did the Shaw residents fail to mention how it was determined that only non-Shaw residents were at fault in causing trouble, but also how it was known which group of non-Shaw residents was in the wrong.

If the Shaw dances policy and the given reason for it are compared the only inference that can be made is that off-campus men, as a group, create an undesirable element at a Shaw dance. The evidence offered for such a conclusion is negligible.

And yet, in their article the students representing Shaw said, "We are accusing no one; we are defining no first and second class citizens; we are attempting to punish no off-campus students." The self-inflicted contradictions to that statement are only too obvious, as has already been pointed out.

In short, Shaw should either correct the situation itself, or it should be brought to the attention of a University body capable of dealing with such matters.

"Censorship"

To the Editor:
Recently a friend of mine, who also lives in Precinct 9 East Shaw Hall, found in his mailbox a typewritten paper which, with tongue-in-cheek, gently and somewhat humorously criticized certain facets of dorm life and precinct government.

I later learned that one was put in each mailbox of the precinct, but very few ever reached the people to whom they were intended. Why? Because one of the officers, the Governor to be precise, ordered them removed. Now I realize that the University has certain controls over the students, and the Governor certain powers and functions, but I was unaware that censorship and confiscation of the mail were among them.

I enjoyed reading that little satire. I just wish that I could have received one, too . . .

Looking At U.S.

To the Editor:
The spring vacation exodus of college students to Florida is over. The last of the sun-burned, sweat-soaked, "Casual" students have returned to these northern halls of higher learning. But,

The following article was given in the form of a sermon delivered by Duncan E. Littlefair, pastor of the Fountain Street Baptist Church in Grand Rapids. The second part will try to answer the question, "What does a Conservative believe?"

As children we had a couple that we used to throw back and forth at one another, "Sticks and stones will break my bones but names will never hurt me." It can be safely said that names never save us but as we grow older we learn that names can hurt, that names can be exceedingly destructive and most confusing; and at a time of confusion such as we are now in names can be exceedingly dangerous.

I believe this is what Jesus meant when he said, "There are many who will prophesy in my name and say, 'Lord, Lord,' and I will say, 'Depart from me, I never knew you, you who work iniquity!'"

We are at a point now where if we start running with hares, with slogans, with banners we are apt to run headlong into destruction. We are at a time when it is all too easy to substitute slogans for thought and action for critical analysis and understanding.

This is not a time for easy, quick solutions. We are much too tightly knit and the situation is much too critical and mass action is called into play much too quickly for us to be so careless of our thinking and of our descriptions.

We must know what lies behind the names and, far more than that, we must learn to distinguish not by name, for as I said last week, a person can wear any name and any dress and be in any party, and the name and the dress and the party is not sufficient distinction for us to be able to identify him. We must know who he is and what he is, and we must know on the basis of principles. What does he stand for? What is he advocating? In other words, what are his fruits?

So it is important, it seems to me, that we all be much more keenly aware of the differences between what we call liberals and conservatives, and we must understand each of them a little more accurately and carefully.

What is a liberal? A liberal is not someone who believes in centralized government. A liberal is not someone who believes in bureaucracy. A liberal is not someone who believes in the United Nations or who believes in foreign aid or international alliances. A liberal is not someone who believes in old age pensions nor is a liberal anyone who believes in social security or in insurance for unemployment. A liberal is not a socialist. A liberal back on campus, a new movement is in the cool spring air -- the summer trip to Europe. The bulletin boards about campus are covered with various pamphlets, folders, posters, and letters, telling of the wonderful experiences to be encountered this coming summer in Europe.

I am: still a college student. I have experienced the enthusiasm and the enjoyment of planning a trip to Europe. I have worked and saved in time. I have taken a trip to Europe. My motivation was to seek the European experience: to see some of the cities, countries, and peoples that I, as a history student, had often studied.

I went to Europe alone and for three months I traveled through much of Western Europe. Like most Americans, I did take some pictures as I traveled, but more important, I kept a journal of the people and the experiences I encountered. For three months I filled my notebook and my head with new sights, sounds, and ideas. It was a good experience, a part of a liberal arts education.

When I did return home, I found I had learned not so much about Europe as I had about the United States. From Europe, I attained a point of observation, a place from which I could look to the country from which I had come.

The Europeans I met opened my eyes to the United States and for the first time, I became aware of its size, character, and resources we all too often take for granted. For those who now prepare for a trip abroad, I would say, like Thorau, you go to the woods not so much to learn of the woods, but of yourself. Go to Europe and learn of the United States.

Hitchhiking

To the Editor:
I would like to commend the State News on their fine article concerning hitchhikers.

By advertising this practice, you not only informed the public of our destination, but also stated that hitchhiking is legal except for the 100 and 200 blocks of Grand River. There may have been those on the past that refrained from picking up because of the legal consequences or the unknown destination, but thanks to you, their fears and apprehensions have ceased and hitchhiking is better than ever.

To the Editor:
Recently I read an article in your paper which enumerated on the great cost of grounds clean up due to the throwing of paper by our students. Did they ever think of adding a few more trash cans on the campus?

Philosophy of Liberalism

is not a communist. A liberal isn't even a Democrat.

A liberal is not anyone who believes in any one of these things though any liberal may believe in all of them or in none of them. And it should be very clear to us by this time that there are exceedingly large numbers of people who believe in all of these things that I have mentioned (and a great deal more) and are not by any stretch of the imagination liberal.

Liberalism is a philosophy, it is an attitude. It never pre-termines any given viewpoint. You cannot say, at any time, what a liberal will believe or support or vote for. The issues are never that clear. If you can predict what any person will do, then to that degree he is not a liberal. Liberalism is a philosophy. It is an attitude based upon principles or upon a philosophy. I give you three simple principles that characterize a liberal. There may be others, but these will be enough.

First, The liberal believes that there are no absolutes, that there are no final truths. Therefore, any given position, any given belief, any given dedication, any given membership or belongingness may come to be real and valid for him. He may not belong to the same group tomorrow that he belonged to today. He may not make the same vote tomorrow on the issue that he voted on today.

A liberal, if he believes that there are no absolutes and no final truths, therefore cannot rest himself ultimately in any given conviction or belief or vote. He cannot stay forever, for instance, in any given party or he cannot support all that any given party stands for within himself as a liberal.

A liberal, secondly, believes in the use of reason and scientific method. For if there is no final authority that you can go to get the final answers that have been always true, are true now and always will be true, then we must find the facts, we must discover the truth.

The truth is a constantly changing thing and the best possible means for discovering the truth are the only valid means at our disposal. We will stop at nothing less than the best. So the liberal believes in the use of reason, his rationality, and in the use of scientific method in order to direct and guide his reason. He believes in the free and open discussion of ideas leading to enlarged understanding and deepened appreciations.

Thirdly, The liberal believes in growth and development, and you can see that the second two principles must necessarily follow from the first principle. For if there are no final truths, then man must constantly be growing in his knowledge and in his understanding. He will always be seeking the new. He will always be prepared to leave behind the old. He will always be prepared to discover that what he has been wrong and that which was good enough for his parents is no longer good enough for him, and he will equally be ready to discover that that which is good enough for him is not good enough for his children.

This leads to a very fluid and flexible person. There is no one who would pronounce that the liberal is without danger. There is no one who would pronounce that this is completely and successfully valid for all occasions. No one who really understands liberalism would not be prepared to admit that in many cases liberal attitudes have led to too rapid and too frequent changes and too radical changes.

There is no one who understands liberalism who would not be prepared to admit that it has deficiencies and failures which are sometimes very costly. No one who would not agree, in his congregation, to the validity of these three principles? We cannot predict what you or anyone else will come out with as a result of these principles, but you can stand on the principles. The highest point, it seems to me, to which our growing knowledge has brought us.

SPU Activities To Be Discussed

A Student Peace Union organizational meeting will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in 23 Union. The meeting is open to all those interested in SPU activities, whether or not they desire membership.

The SPU is a national pacifist organization comprised entirely of students, with chapters on campuses throughout the country including Wayne State University and the University of Michigan. This chapter will be the first of its kind in the area.

The SPU encompasses widely divergent ideas on approaches to the cold war problem and serves as a meeting ground for ideas and discussion.

It generally holds that "war can no longer be successfully used to settle international disputes and that neither human freedom nor the human race itself can endure in a world committed to militarism." (From the SPU Statement of Purpose)

Membership does not commit anyone to a precise statement of policy.

Local groups are autonomous, served by the national office, provides literature and guest speakers on request. The SPU engages in demonstrations such as petitioning, peace marches, and canvassing on local, regional, and national levels.

Noted Ceramist Here To Lecture Wednesday

Glen C. Nelson, noted ceramist from the University of Minnesota, will give an illustrated lecture on the crafts and ceramics of the Scandinavian countries Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Kresge Art Center gallery.

He will be the first of a series of visiting artists to spend a week in special sessions with students at Kresge throughout the spring term.

An accomplished ceramist, Nelson has exhibited widely and won many awards, besides selling his own work. He has designed and built several gas kilns for use in firing ceramic pieces.

Several trips to Scandinavian countries in recent years have acquainted him with the role of the crafts and craftsmen in these countries.

Other artists who will visit the campus are John Walley, Chicago designer, who will work with commercial, industrial and interior design students, and Lee Chesney, University of Illinois printmaker, who will discuss and demonstrate etching and lithography with art majors.

Chesney will visit April 30 to May 4, and Walley May 7-12.

May Morning Sing Set For Tuesday

Outstanding women from the freshman and junior classes will be honored at the annual May Morning Sing, Tuesday, at 7 a.m., in front of Beaumont Tower.

Members of Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary, with top 35 freshman, chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership and character, in a ceremony accompanied by singing.

Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary, will tap about 25 juniors for membership.

These women are selected after careful screening for high scholarship, leadership and exceptional service to the university.

The event is sponsored by Mortar Board and the Spartan Women's League.

The tapping ceremonies are sponsored by Tower Guard and Mortar Board.

4 High School Students Get GM Scholarships

Four Michigan high school students have won General Motors Corporation scholarships ranging from $300 to $2000.

They are William E. Bachmann of East Lansing, Orville C. Barr of Cheboygan, George E. Kloss of Morrice and Terry M. Weisenberger of Saginaw.

The lone out-of-state winner of the five annual scholarships was Douglas Durasoff of South Ozone Park, N.Y.

Naval Scientist To Discuss Space

Albert Dave, chief scientist of the naval research, Chicago, Ill., will give a talk on "Mammalian Hibernation Research," Monday, at 4 p.m. in 140 Natural Science.

The talk, organized jointly with the Naval Reserve Research Company refers to the widely discussed ideas among the space specialists on the possible hibernation of human beings during the century long space trips outside the solar system.

Honor Sophomores Represent Congress

The average Student Congress representative is a third term sophomore carrying 16 credits this term.

His all-university average, according to figures compiled by acting speaker Mike Barbour, is a little above a 3.1.

"Most of the new Congressmen are majoring in English or in social science," Barbour said, "although some have majors as diverse as interior design and mechanical engineering."

Barbour said the number of credits the new representatives are carrying ranged from the minimum 12 to 22.

Feurig Discusses Twist Injuries

We've had cases of Twist injuries at MSU too, said Dr. James S. Feurig, director of Olin Health Center, referring to a recent American Medical Association report which cited such cases as being widespread.

The AMA report said that the Twist ranks along with the Hula Hoop as a potential source of dislocated joints, slipped discs, sacroiliac damage or back muscle strains.

"We have had several cases of knee injuries resulting from the severe twisting of the knee ligaments caused by an individual keeping his foot planted and gyrating from side to side," Feurig said. "There have also been cases of sprains and torn cartilage."

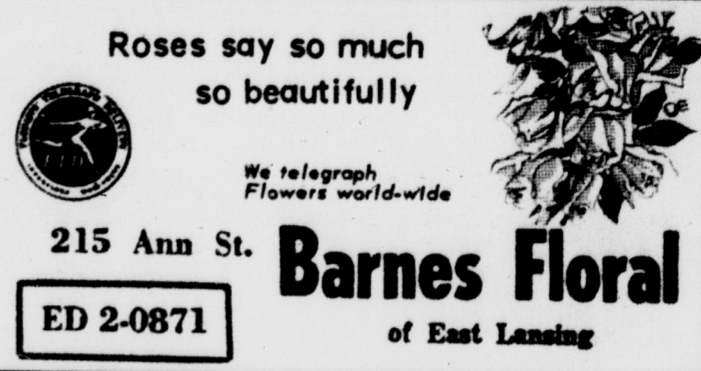

The chest pains which many people suffer while twisting are the result of the chest muscles being pulled back and forth in opposition to each other, he said.

Baseball at Old College Field Alma College Here In Today's Twin Bill

Michigan State's baseball team tangles with Alma College in a doubleheader here today at 1 p.m. on Old College Field.

Gary Ronberg, a hard throwing righthander, will start the first game for the Spartans.

He will probably be opposed by Terry Eubright, one of the top rated hurlers on the Alma squad.

Malcolm Chiljean, regular Spartan shortstop, has been hampered by a sore arm and is a doubtful starter.

Should Chiljean miss the game, third baseman Jerry Lumianski will be shifted to shortstop and outfielder Pete Smith will be brought in to play third base.

State Coach John Kobs said he planned to play as many of his players as possible in the two games.

"We will start with our regular lineup but we'll switch and give some of our other players a chance to play as soon as possible," he said.

Kobs pointed out, however, that even though he planned to do a lot of substituting the Spartans would still be going all-out to win.

"We'll only substitute if it's safe," he said. "If the games are close I won't hesitate to bring in one of our top pitchers."

Other pitchers slated to see action for the Spartans besides Ronberg include John Aquino, Bill Knapp, Doug Miller, Dick Proebstle and possibly Jim Jones, a senior who has been plagued by a sore arm most of the spring.

Alma comes to town sporting a two-game winning streak. They defeated Ferris Institute in a doubleheader last weekend.

However, on the season, the Scots have lost one more game than they've won. They stand 3-4.

Alma has five regulars back from a year ago. Most notable is first baseman Don Philippi, who batted five hits in eight at-bats in a doubleheader against State last spring.

This year the Scots have a relatively small, 13 man squad. Over the years Alma has had one of the better small college teams in the state.

The Spartans hold a 22-2 advantage in the series.

Last year State swept a twin-bill from the Scots, winning by margins of 7-1 and 7-2.

To warm up for the Alma games the Spartans scheduled intrasquad games Monday and Tuesday. State's batting, which was strong last weekend, continued to look good.

The pitching, however, was a different story. Supposedly State's strongest department, the hurling wasn't up to par against Illinois, according to Kobs.

"The pitchers were still committing too many walks Monday," he said.

Here is State's starting lineup against Alma, including Big Ten batting averages.

Faculty-Employee Books Available

Current holders of Michigan State University faculty-employee athletic books will receive their renewal application and authorization forms this week, it was announced by William Beardsley, athletic ticket manager.

The renewal forms for new books are to be returned to the athletic ticket office at Jenison Gymnasium by Saturday, May 12, together with proper remittance if the holder desires to retain the same or secure improved football seating location from 1961.

Sale of new faculty-employee athletic books will open Monday, April 30. The price of the books will be $14 each, with sales limited to the faculty member or employee and his or her spouse. If both are employees of the university, the sale is limited to one for each person.

Faculty members and employees not currently holding books must obtain authorization forms from their department heads before applying for tickets at the athletic ticket office.

Koufax Fans Eighteen

Major League Record Tied

CHICAGO, (AP)—Southpaw Sandy Koufax equalled the modern Major League strikeouts record, fanning 18 Chicago batters as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Cubs 10-2 Tuesday.

It marked the second time in his career that Koufax struck out 18 batters in a game.

He fanned 18 San Francisco Giants on Aug. 31, 1959. Bob Feller is the only other pitcher to whiff that many in a nine-inning game. He accomplished the feat for Cleveland against the Detroit Tigers in Oct. 2, 1938.

Koufax finished with a four-hit, retiring the side on strikes in the ninth to set a National League daytime strikeout record.

The old National League day game strikeout record of 17 was shared by Dizzy Dean of St. Louis and Art Mahaffey of Philadelphia.

Cleveland's Feller struck out 18 in a losing day game against Detroit Oct. 2, 1938, and Koufax did the same against San Francisco in a night game Aug. 31, 1959.

Koufax, scattering six hits, including a leadoff homer in the ninth by Billy Williams, struck out 12 Cubs in the first five innings.

Tennis Team Whitewashes U of Detroit

Michigan State's tennis team shut out the University of Detroit Tuesday by the score of 9 to 0. In the number one singles match, Brian Elsner defeated Roger Ober 6-4 and 6-0.

The other scores are as follows:

Dick Colby d. Lightbody 6-3, 6-3.

Tom Jamieson d. Bodary 6-1, 6-1.

Ron Lickman d. B. J. Tally 7-5, 6-1.

Tom Wierman d. Kroener 6-1, 6-3.

Bill Lau d. O'Brien 6-1, 6-1.

In the doubles action State's Elsner and Jamieson teamed up to down Ober and Lightbody 6-0, 6-3.

Colby and Wierman defeated Bodary and Tally 6-3, 6-4.

Lickman and Lau downed Kroener and O'Brien 6-1, 6-4.

This victory gives the Spartans an overall record of four wins and three losses.

Dan Currie

Ex-Spartans Tour For Old Timers

Two of Michigan State's greatest football players -- Al Dorow and Dan Currie -- will tour the state next week to boost the 6th annual Old Timers' Football Game at Spartan Stadium Saturday, May 12.

They will visit with press, radio and television sports people from Detroit to Grand Rapids in a promotional effort for the grid battle between alumni stars and Spartan varsity.

"Not enough fans realize what a great game and spectacle this Old Timers' game is year after year," said Dorow, Spartan in 1950 and now the great quarterback of the New York Titans.

"Too many think this is kind of a glorified scrimmage, when in actual fact it is one of the hardest hitting, thrilling football spectacles they'll ever see."

Currie echoed Dorow's sentiments about the game.

"This is straight, hard football all the way. The alumni team has built a tradition and pride in its play to match that of Duffy's varsity. We want to win as much as they do."

"Last year there was a fist fight in the first quarter that looked for awhile like it might become a real brawl, that's carrying things a little too far, but it illustrates that this game is for keeps."

Currie was an All-American center in 1957 and is a linebacker for NFL champions Green Bay Packers.

The series stands all-even at two victories each and one tie. The Old Timers won last spring 14-8 in one of the greatest clashes of the series.

Tickets for Michigan State's sixth annual Old Timers' Football Game on Saturday, May 12, at Spartan Stadium, have been placed on sale.

They are priced at $1 each for an unreserved seat sold in advance of the contest. Tickets sold at the stadium on the day of the game will be priced at $1.50 each. The duets can be obtained by mail or purchased over the counter at the MSU Athletic Ticket Office, Jenison Gymnasium.

The charge for Michigan State students and all others of school age will be $.50 for an unreserved seat.

A GLASS DARKLY

Looking At SPORTS

NEW YORK, (AP)—Floyd Robinson, one of the hottest hitters in the majors, slammed a two-run homer in the eighth inning Tuesday for a 3-1 Chicago White Sox victory over the New York Yankees.

BOSTON, (AP)—Spray-hitter Pete Runnels, who managed only three home runs last season, clubbed a pair Tuesday in helping Boston to a 4-1 victory over the last place Washington Senators.

The 1960 American League batting king sent the Red Sox ahead 1-0 with a leadoff homer in the third inning and broke a 1-1 tie with another solo round tripper in the eighth.

MOSCOW, (AP)—The Soviet Union will not send a team to the 1962 World Basketball championships in the Philippines next December, the USSR basketball federation announced Tuesday.

Moscow Radio, which broadcast the announcement, gave no reason.

WICHITA, Kan., (AP)—Southern Illinois University may join the Missouri Valley Conference next month, Bill Hodge, sports editor, reported in the Wichita Eagle Tuesday.

"Officials of Southern Illinois stated openly at the K.U. relays last weekend in Lawrence that they think their school has a better chance of MVC membership than either Memphis State or Louisville," Hodge wrote in his signed column.

Eickwort Awarded Graduate Fellowship

George C. Eickwort, Lynbrook, N. Y., senior, is one of 97 college seniors who has won a Danforth Graduate Fellowship for 1962. The fellowship is given to college seniors who plan to teach in college.

Eickwort, an entomology major, will receive a fellowship that provides four years of study in any U.S. graduate school in any field of study common to the undergraduate curriculum.

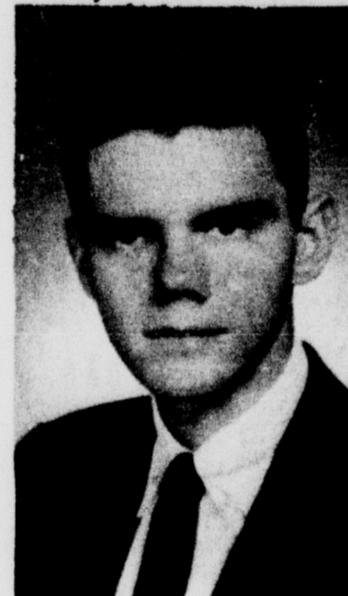

He said that he plans to accept the Danforth Fellowship for one year without pay and then apply for a renewal for three years with pay.

Eickwort has accepted the National Science Foundation Cooperative Graduate Fellowship for next year.

At present he has a graduate assistantship in entomology and teaches five lab sections.

Eickwort has been president of the Inter-Cooperative Council, Elsworth House, Beta Beta Beta, a biological science honorary, and of Phi Eta Sigma.

He has also been an officer of Tau Sigma, Green Helmer, and the Canterbury Club. At the same time he has been an active member of Phi Kappa Phi and Blue Key.

George C. Eickwort

He was also the MSU nominee for a Phi Kappa Phi scholarship. He received honorable mention.

He was named an Outstanding Junior and Senior of the year last year.

Eickwort started school here on an Honors Scholarship, which pays tuition and out-of-State fees. Since then he has turned down the Woodrow Wilson Scholarship and was the Michigan nominee for the Rhodes Scholarship.

IFC and Panhellenic Sponsor Joint Sing

Greek Sing will have two new features this year.

First, IFC and Panhellenic, who previously had separate Sings, will join in a combined Sing, Sunday, May 13 at 2 p.m. in the auditorium.

Home Econ Staff Heads for Meets

Several home economics staff members are taking parts in different out-of-state conferences this week.

Dena Cederquist, head of the department of foods and nutrition, will discuss "Nutrition Education -- 1962" before the Indiana Home Economics Assn. meeting in Indianapolis on Friday.

Katherine Hart, head of the department of institution administration, and Miss Jean McFadden, instructor of institution administration, are participants in the Conference for College and University Facilities for Institution Management at Manhattan, Kan., Wednesday through Saturday.

Hart is part of a panel that will present views on institution management from the academic world, from hospital internship directors, and from industry. Miss McFadden is to present a paper on "Academic Preparation for First-Line Supervision."

Modern Art Work On Sale At Kresge

Lithographs, etchings and woodcuts by many modern artists, such as Picasso, Braque, Cezanne and Peckelstine will be on display and for sale in 108 Kresge Art Center beginning May 1. John D. Wilson of Ferdinand Roten Galleries, Inc. said Monday.

"One of the finest charcoal drawings by Kollwitz will be on sale for about $3,000," he said. Prices will run from $3 to $3,000, Wilson said.

Other artists in the showing, which will last from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., are Friedlander, and Kinchner.

Behind This Facade Is A Little Bit of Reality

Support our PSEUDO society at Water Carnival, May 18-19. Display on tickets until May 5. On sale at Campbell's, Union High Gymnasium.

Sunday, at 2 p.m. in the Union ballroom, will narrow down the competition before the Sing and thereby provide better entertainment.

Eight sororities and eight fraternities will be selected from 18 competing sororities and 12 fraternities to sing in the Greek Sing.

The May Greek Sing will also include the presentation of awards by President John A. Hannah, tapping of Green Helmets, presentation of IFC and Panhellenic scholarships, and presentation of the Outstanding Junior awards by Dick Winters, junior class president.

Zerby To Discuss Space Radiation

Clayton Zerby, scientist in the neutron physics division of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, will talk on "Space Radiation and the Astronaut," Wednesday, at 4 p.m. in 140 Natural Science. The talk will involve the hazards in the case of Van Allen belt radiation and solar flare radiation.
