Gopher Coach Murray Warmath Cites "Best Team Effort Ever"

One by one the Michigan State football players filed silently out of the locker room. When all had gone, all that remained in the locker room were pictures of Minnesota's outstanding tackles -- Bobby Dell and Carl Eller -- hanging on the bulletin board.

This told the story of Saturday's stunning 28-7 defeat at the hands of the Minnesota Gophers. The two tackles played an outstanding defensive game, as did the whole Minnesota team.

They contained the Spartans, who led the nation in rushing, to only 30 yards on the ground. In the second half, Coach Murray Warmath's charges held MSU backs to a minus six yards rushing.

Coach Warmath said after the game that it was "the best team effort he ever had at Minnesota."

"It was the best game of the year . . . it was a good defensive effort, and I am delighted with the defense."

When asked what the Gophers defense had added for the Spartans, Warmath, just leaned back, and said that it was the same Minnesota.

Hannah Predicts 'Rough Weather' For Education

John A. Hannah, president of the three-day national conference in Detroit Thursday with national weather report, said wind changes and weather ahead.

He spoke of the onrush of scientific and technological advances which are bringing changes in formal instruction in colleges and universities, and to some extent in our primary and secondary schools.

He said educators now realize they must put far more stress on fundamentals of knowledge, far less on the practical application of what we know and far more on research to add to our expanding store.

They also realize that a scientific or technical education may be obsolete the moment a student leaves his last class to receive a diploma, he continued.

"There are very real implications for adult education in this shift to emphasis on fundamentals," he maintained.

"It opens up greatly expanded opportunities, because industry is increasingly willing to teach techniques and procedures in their own plants and shops to graduates already well grounded in the fundamentals."

He then switched to what he termed "a meteorological phenomenon in education, where we find the wind blowing in opposite directions at the same time."

"On the one hand, we find great public concern about the waste of intelligence, and present and pending shortages of personnel in virtually every professional field," he said.

"On the other, we find great public concern about the rising costs of higher education, and a concerted effort to shift the cost from the public to the student and his parents. Thus we have some of our people struggling mightily to get more young people into college, and another group advocating actions that would have the effect of keeping them out."

Social Functions Dominate

Traditional homecoming activities enlivened a drizzly MSU campus this weekend in spite of a disheartening 28-7 gridiron defeat by Minnesota.

A crowd of 64,783 at Spartan Stadium saw the Underdog Gopher team hold State's rushing offense to a scant 30 yards. The Spartans gained 56 yards passing total.

The usually explosive running of Sherman Lewis and Dewey Lincoln was slashed to a meager 26 yards in 19 carries. Fullback George Saines was held to 31 yards in 7 carries.

The only Spartan scoring drive of the day was sparked by Ron Rubick's 64-yard return of a Gopher kickoff in the second period.

The tough Minnesota defense threatened to halt the Spartan drive at the 3-yard line but Rubick went over for State's only touchdown on a fourth-down play. Although Spartan fans found little to cheer about the rest of the afternoon during the game, the homecoming celebration drew an enthusiastic response from students and some 25,000 alumni.

Queen Patty Johnson was presented before the game. Miss Johnson and her court circled the field in green and white automobiles.

Members of the 1962 homecoming court were Ruthann Helmrich, Sheila Evans, Carol Ann Coates, Mary Jane Walker, Irene Hilker, Margaret Allen, Maria Colucci, Sharon Thurman and Jane McKinley.

Winners of the annual homecoming display competition were announced at the football game. Top displays in the sorority division were those of Alpha Xi Delta, first place; Alpha Phi, second place and Kappa Delta, third place.

Theta Chi, won first place in the fraternity division. Phi Sigma Kappa, earned second place and Delta Sigma Phi took third place.

Winners in the men's residence halls were West Shaw, first place and South Case, second. West Mayo won first place in the women's residence hall division and Mason Hall took second place.

Groups Dispute Liquor Issue

With the East Lansing "wet-dry" issue to be decided at the polls Tuesday, the Chamber of Commerce listed economic reasons why the sale of liquor, beer and wine under certain conditions should be granted.

A "yes" vote for the repeal of the dry law, the Chamber said, would aid in expansion and in tax benefits. It would mean growth for the community by making it easier to annex surrounding areas, and it would also mean increased revenues in personal, real estate, sales, and personal property taxes, the Chamber said.

The repeal of Section 18 would mean a state-licensed merchant could sell liquor, beer or wine for consuming off the premises; a class A hotel could sell beer and wine for consuming at the hotel.

It would also allow a state-licensed merchant to sell only beer and wine by the glass if his business is 500 feet from church, school and University property.

An already established non-commercial private club could get a state license to sell liquor, beer or wine at the private club, and a non-profit religious, fraternal, civic or patriotic organization could get a special state license to sell beer and wine for consuming on the premises at a specific event.

"The question of liquor has been settled in both the national and state constitutions, and, therefore, it should pose no problem to either East Lansing residents or Michigan State University," the Chamber said.

The Better East Lansing Committee, a group fighting the repeal of the dry status, denies the Chamber's claim of increased tax benefits.

East Lansing taxpayers will be paying higher taxes, the committee said, to pay for higher court and law enforcement costs resulting from an increased crime rate caused by an increased consumption of alcohol.

The dry status has not stopped East Lansing from growing steadily through annexation of surrounding areas, the committee said, and there is no evidence that it will in the future.

The East Lansing Chamber will have a luncheon meeting at Kellogg Center Wednesday noon.

Assembly Establishes Committee

This committee, unnamed as yet, shall provide through investigation, the available fact on an issue. These facts shall be drawn up and presented to AUSG representatives from men's residence halls, to have at their fingertips the information which is needed to discuss and decide on any bill or issue.

Crisis Or Peace? U.S. Bides Time

WASHINGTON (AP) -- U. S. officials marked time on Cuba Sunday awaiting the outcome of Havana talks that may well determine whether the crisis will be laid peacefully away or burst back into dangerous life.

The talks are between Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet Deputy Premier, and Fidel Castro, Cuba's Communist Prime Minister.

Technically they are a consultation but practically the U.S. view is that Mikoyan can, and should, prod Castro into accepting at least the fundamentals of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's program of proven elimination of Russian nuclear rockets from Cuba.

No official word came from the Cuban capital even on the nature of the subjects under discussion between the bearded Cuban and Khrushchev's acrobatic trouble-shooter. But there was no doubt here they center on Soviet missile bases and rockets once judged a lethal peril to the United States.

The urgency of the meetings was made dramatically clear when Mikoyan decided to remain in Havana despite the death in Moscow of his 64-year-old wife.

It was assumed that Mikoyan was seeking an agreement from Castro to withdraw, or at least modify, his flat refusal to allow any on-the-spot inspection of the Cuban missile sites which are known to be in the process of being dismantled, in accordance with orders announced a week ago Sunday by Khrushchev.

Aerial surveillance last Thursday showed the razing of the bases was well along but the (Continued on page 3)

Nine hundred and sixty two persons donated blood during the fall drive co-sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, and Spartan Women's League (SWL).

Of this total, 186 pints were given Friday, the final day of the drive.

Three living units obtained a trophy in the drive by getting 100 percent participation from its members. Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity, Farmhouse Fraternity, and Bower co-op will receive the golden engraved Red Cross plaque.

"APO and SWL would like to thank all those who donated to this fall blood drive and remind the students who didn't give this time that there will be another drive winter term," Noah Speer, Falls Church, Va., sophomore and APO publicity chairman said.

Speer said that compared to previous fall blood drives, APO members were not too disappointed in the turnout.

"It (the drive) was scheduled at a bad time in the middle of mid-terms. I think a week earlier or later would have been much better," he said.

In reference to falling far short of the intended goal, Speer said: "We aren't dissatisfied with the total. We also found out that 2,200 pints is quite a high goal (Continued on page 3)

As Tuesday election day nears, Democrats and Republicans in East Lansing are busy adding final touches to their "get out the vote" campaigns.

They predict a higher turnout this year but they aren't taking chances.

Both parties are concentrating on extensive telephone calls to bring the voters out Nov. 6, but party volunteers will also be on hand to babysit and provide transportation to the polls.

MSU married housing with its transient students presents a special problem to the "vote" campaign, according to Robin A. Dorek, Democratic East Lansing chairman.

Students come to East Lansing too late to allow for tightly organized volunteers to get out the vote, he said. But volunteers will work Nov. 6 among married housing to urge people to vote.

The Republican party has canvassed part of married housing, said Gerald F. Marshall, East Lansing Republican chairman. Those students identifying as Republican will be contacted on election day if they have not voted by late afternoon.

Marshall expressed regret that married housing was not completely canvassed, but said that student volunteers were not available to help until October. He urged anyone needing assistance to the polls to call him at 555-2706.

Other students wishing transportation or babysitters should contact Democratic volunteers. Delores Miller at 555-6078, Beth Lemahieu at 555-7227 or Judy Muehl at 555-8030.

Poll Shows GOP Leading

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit News state election poll reported Sunday Republican Gov. Romney still leads incumbent Democrat Gov. Swainson, though Swainson has cut the lead.

The poll, avoiding a prediction of Tuesday's election day outcome in the gubernatorial race, said Romney currently is favored by 50.9 per cent of the poll's cross-section of voters and Swainson by 48.4 per cent.

This compared to 51 per cent for Romney and 47.5 per cent for Swainson in the last, pre-poll report Oct. 21.

Hayworth Challenges Chamberlain Re-election

The bid of Republican incumbent Charles Chamberlain for a fourth term in Congress is challenged by Dan Hayworth, former Democratic congressman and professor of speech at MSU.

Hayworth served as congressional representative from the Sixth District 1954-56. When Chamberlain defeated him for re-election, Chamberlain has held his congressional position three successive terms.

Hayworth and Chamberlain have similar backgrounds. Chamberlain's family settled on a farm in the Sixth District in 1839. He was born on the same farm and reached 100 years of age.

Hayworth was born on a farm in Tipton, Iowa. He is a graduate of Grinnell College, received his M.A. in international relations from the University of Chicago, and his Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin.

Chamberlain received his B.S. and M.A. in commerce at the University of Virginia. He has extensive legal experience as assistant prosecutor and deputy attorney in Ingham County. He served as East Lansing city attorney and counsel to the Michigan senate judiciary committee 1955-61.

Hayworth has been a teacher at MSU for 25 years. He was one of the sever founders of the MSU employees Credit Union which now has total assets of over $4.5 million.

Voters in the Sixth District receive news reports and questionnaires from Chamberlain about once a month. A Chamberlain spokesman said the questionnaires are employed by the GOP congressman to sample opinion on all issues of major importance.

Major legislation sponsored by Chamberlain during his terms in Congress includes liberalization of social security laws, tax relief for small businesses and housing safety laws.

Chamberlain recently sponsored an income tax amendment which would provide deductions for college expenses and transportation to and from work.

President Kennedy's 1962 foreign aid appropriations bill was passed with an amendment sponsored by Chamberlain to prohibit purchase of foreign-made military vehicles for the

Jail Bond Decision Tuesday

Ingham County voters are faced with two proposals on Tuesday's ballot to finance a new $1.75 million county jail.

Ballot D lists a proposal which would raise the tax limitation of a mill (50 cents per $1,000 of valuation) to finance bonds. All registered county voters may decide upon ballot D.

Ballot D-2 lists the actual bonding issue. It asks voters to authorize $1.75 million bonding for a period of six years. Only voters with assessed property within the county may ballot on proposal D-2.

County supervisors have already authorized purchase of a 22-acre site for the new jail. The location is accessible from US-127 and is near the proposed 1-49 connection at Mason. The land cost $22,700.

The proposed jail will accommodate 240 prisoners, double the present capacity. Cell blocks will hold 12 prisoners. Each cell will be equipped with modern sanitary facilities, double deck bunks, a steel table and a bench.

First offenders will be segregated from habitual criminals in the new jail. Sex offenders will be segregated from other prisoners. Those awaiting trial will also be separated from those awaiting sentence.

State jail inspectors warned repeatedly for ten years that Ingham County jail conditions were inadequate. The jail inspectors have cited overcrowded conditions and lack of proper prisoner segregation as violations of the state jail code.

State inspectors warned in 1961 that the jail may be closed if facilities are not updated to comply with the state jail code.

U.S. Army. Major auto manufacturers and union leaders in Michigan had favored the amendment.

Chamberlain's voting record is basically conservative in domestic matters although his stand on income tax deductions is supported by many liberals in both parties.

Chamberlain voted to recommit President Kennedy's aid-to-education bill to committee last year. He voted against raising the minimum wage to $1.35 and opposed Kennedy's multi-million dollar housing bill.

While the Medicare bill did reach the house for a vote, Chamberlain has said he would oppose financing medical care for the elderly through social security.

Hayworth says he would back increased federal funds for housing, federal aid to education, hiking of the minimum wage to $1.25 and the Medicare bill.

Hayworth has strongly backed civil rights legislation throughout his career. He introduced anti-lynching and anti-poll tax legislation during his 1954-56 term.

Romney and Swainson: What They Propose

By DENIS GOSSELIN
Of The State News

During these last hectic days of the gubernatorial campaign, the political bandwagons of Gov. John B. Swainson and Industrialist George Romney have shifted into high gear and are racing at breakneck speeds toward the finish line on Nov. 6.

The 1962 race to see who will hold the reins over the Michigan government has already produced dramatic events rarely seen in this Midwest state.

The campaign has mushroomed out into the national spotlight because of the GOP's obvious consideration of Romney for Presidential candidacy in 1964 and because of the appearance of national democratic figures from Washington to stump for Swainson.

But the national prominence, the use of television and extensive citizen participation only surface implications which sometimes tend to overshadow the most vital aspect of any political race—how do the candidates stand on the issues, and what programs do they propose to cope with these issues?

Gov. Swainson has based his campaign largely on the record of his administration during the past two years.

The youthful incumbent has contended that Democratic leadership in Michigan has produced the lowest unemployment rate since 1955, administrative savings of $2.5 million a year, an increase of seven percent in state school aid and more beds for the mentally ill and mentally retarded.

Swainson has said that "despite legislative opposition from the GOP," his administration has established a State Fair Authority, authorized the state's first youth conservation rehabilitation camp, and adopted a "seal of quality" to promote agricultural produce marketing.

He has cited that Michigan was the first state to initiate a training program under the Manpower and Training Act and that the state was among the first to utilize the Area Redevelopment Administration and the accelerated federal public works program.

His administration also has established the first defense contract information center in the country, he has told audiences.

As for his opponent, the governor has contended that Romney "sold out to reactionaries" at the Constitutional Convention and that as the leading GOP gubernatorial candidate he should have done more to promote fiscal reform by the Republican-controlled legislature.

If re-elected Swainson has said that his program would include: —Endorsement of President Kennedy's Medicare program for the aged, tied in with social security.

—Fiscal reform based on his tax program which was defeated by one vote last April 24. The program included the elimination of the four percent sales tax on food and drugs, repeal of the business activities tax, exemption of manufacturing machinery and equipment from the personal property tax, enactment of the three percent corporate and personal income taxes and a five percent tax on financial institutions.

—Enactment of a Full Employment Act, a Youth Opportunities Act and a Comprehensive Employment Safety Act.

—Support of a state scholarship program, and educational appropriations designed to avoid increases in tuition.

—A community mental health program and a human relations (civil rights) act.

The Republican gubernatorial candidate's campaign has been devoted to attacking the present administration's record and stressing the need for Romney's leadership in Lansing.

He has charged that Swainson's administration is dominated by organized labor.

The industrialist has told audiences that Michigan's average personal income is 47th among the 50 states, that there are 76,000 fewer people working today than two years ago, that the state deficit is growing higher and higher, and that welfare costs are up $12 million a year.

Romney has repeatedly said that leadership is the major issue of the campaign and that "effective persuasion" is needed to stimulate economic growth in the state.

If elected the ex-American Motors president has promised to work toward:

—Tax revision which includes

Republican candidates for eight Ingham County offices are all incumbents.

Kenneth Preadmore, seeking his second term as county sheriff, served nine years as head deputy sheriff before his first election to the sheriff's post in 1960. He received much of his police training with the FBI, MSU police and School of Police Administration.

Harry Spenny, running for his first elective term as Ingham County treasurer, was appointed last January to fill the unexpired term of Laurence Parker who had resigned. Previously, Spenny was secretary and business manager of the Ingham County fair board.

Leo Farhat, seeking his second term as prosecuting attorney, served as chief assistant prosecuting attorney in 1960. He, studied at MSU 1946-48 and earned his law degree at the Detroit School of Law in 1952.

William Berryman, 59, has held the post of county surveyor since 1944. Berryman, a civil engineer, attended Tri-State College, Angola, Ind.

Gerald L. Graham is seeking his eighth term as county drain commissioner. He attended MSU 1920-22 and studied civil engineering at the University of Michigan. Graham worked with the Ingham County Road Commission before his election as county surveyor.

The two Republican candidates for county coroners are unopposed.

Dorwin Hoffmeyer, 51, is seeking his fifth term as county coroner. He attended Danville high school and later completed his mortuary science apprenticeship at Graham Funeral Home, Ann Arbor. He has been a partner in Lansing's Gorsline Runciman Funeral Home for 15 years.

Jack Holmes, 39, is seeking his third term as county coroner. He attended East Lansing high school, Penn Military College and is a graduate of the Wayne State University School of Mortuary Science.

Reid, Lesinski Fight for No. 2

Reid

Clarence A. Reid, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, feels the office he is seeking is one of the most valuable in the administrative board. In an interview, Reid said the lieutenant governor, as presiding officer of the senate, is a liaison between the governor and the senate.

Recalling the one term he served as lieutenant governor in 1952, he said he had experienced the importance of such a position in the smooth running of the state. He added that he had solved a number of disputes between Democratic Governor Williams and Republican senators during his term in office.

He first entered politics in 1932 when the 15th congressional district was formed. He lost the nomination and decided to enter state politics.

He was elected for five terms from 1932 to 1942 in the 18th state senatorial district.

The 69-year-old candidate was born in a log cabin in Pickaway County, Ohio. He received his law degree from the University of Michigan in 1919 and has practiced law in Detroit the last 42 years.

While in the senate, Reid sponsored a bill for the construction of the Northville Mental Hospital and a bill to include a certain dust disease in workman's compensation benefits.

He said he also aided a move for an automobile finance law which prevents excessive financial charges on car purchases and bills for assistance to the aged and handicapped.

Reid hits the state finances in his platform:

"We have sufficient taxes," he said, "What we need to do is get industry back on its feet. I'm against the income tax. The people are fed up with taxes. We were told the sales tax increase would be enough. I think the state should live up to it."

Reid also said he has always been in favor of aid to state universities. He said he thought the problems involved with rapid growth and enrollment increases at state universities could be handled.

"We met the situation with G.I.'s after World War II so we can meet the present increase also."

Reid is a member of the Masons, Lions, Elks, Eagles, American Legion, 40 & 8, Detroit and American Bar Associations and Dads of Foreign Service Veterans. He is a veteran of World War I in which he served as a lieutenant in the infantry.

Critical issues of the race for Lieutenant Governor center about the integrity and personal character of the individuals involved. Norman T. Miller, Democratic campaign manager, said:

T. John Lesinski, the Democratic candidate, has shown the past that he has the personal leadership and the ability required to carry out the duties of the Lieutenant Governor, the duties of the President of the Senate, Miller said.

Miller cited Lesinski's action in the income tax debates which tied up the Senate during the session.

Temperatures ran high and shot in a round-the-clock effort by the Republicans in the Senate to defeat the bill, but Lesinski determined not to be wobbled down in his objective running of the Senate, Miller said.

Lesinski was born in Detroit in 1925 and attended the Catholic parochial schools of Detroit.

During World War II, he served as a Warrant Officer in the Marine Corps and saw action in the Atlantic, Pacific and Iwo Jima theaters.

In 1950, he obtained an LL.D. degree from the University of Detroit Law School and is a member of the law firm of Lesinski and Parik.

Lesinski entered the political scene in 1950 when he was elected to the House of Representatives. He was re-elected in 1952, 1954, 1956, and 1958, and was elected Lieutenant Governor in 1960.

In his terms in the House, he has sponsored bills for improvement in workman's compensation, employment compensation, education and health and welfare laws.

Lesinski is married and has five children. He is a member of the Kiwanis, the Chamber of Commerce, the Polish National Alliance, the Knights of Columbus and the Detroit Hunt and Fish Club.

Youngsters Battle

Two men with different views of the Kennedy Administration's New Frontier are waging a stout battle in Massachusetts for the U.S. Senate seat once occupied by President Kennedy.

One is the President's youngest brother, Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy. The other is George Cabot Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge, who was ambassador to the United Nations during the Eisenhower administration.

Other than matching proud political names, the two young men are presenting varied views of the President's program.

Kennedy has campaigned as the backer of the New Frontier, but with some reservations.

GOP Victory Sought in State Races

Voters in 35 states elect governors Tuesday.

The outcome could affect the political future of the United States more than the congressional elections.

For while the G.O.P. has no hope of winning control of the Senate, and is a long shot to capture the House, U.S. Republicans have high hopes of electing governors in a dozen and more states now controlled by Democrats.

Among them are several which carry a powerhouse punch in national politics.

If they do as well as they expect, G.O.P. leaders boast it will be a long stride in making John F. Kennedy a one-term President. They frankly acknowledge that is their goal in concentrating on the state races.

The professional politicians, Democrats as well as Republicans, never behind the impact of governors hold life and death power to encourage or frustrate presidential ambitions.

In addition, governors, historically, are considered springboards for the leap to the White House, although that tradition has been weakening in recent years.

While most of the gubernatorial races will have some impact on national politics, attention will be centered on six big states: California, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Texas, all Democratic now, but facing potent Republican opposition; and New York, where the G.O.P. figures Republican Governor Nelson Rockefeller is a sure winner for re-election.

But Rockefeller isn't campaigning as though he's a shoo-in, even though his Democratic opponent is a political novice, former U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau. Enrolled Democrats outnumber Republicans by 400-0 and in New York State, and Republicans conservatives have added to G.O.P. political headaches by threatening to field an independent slate.

And so Rockefeller is taking no chances. He's pushing one of the most vigorous campaigns in the nation, backed by a tight-knit, high-powered organization.

Besides, Rockefeller long has had his eyes on the Republican presidential nomination. His supporters are out to win him a second term as governor by a popular mandate which will command national attention.

In California, former Republican Vice-President Richard Nixon is campaigning for Governor with a hard-hitting style which goes back to his earlier days in politics, rather than the restrained performance in 1960. Having been beaten in the 1960 White House race, this is a life-or-death political come-back attempt by Nixon. Defeat by Democratic Governor Pat Brown would plunge Nixon into political obscurity. Victory would revive the Nixon name in presidential politics.

The professional politicians, Democrats as well as Republicans, never belittle the impact of gubernatorial races on the national scene.

Reid, chairman of the Michigan Republican committee, said since we've been responsive to responsibility and business was a success was a success.

appointed members include Governor Brown, president of the Michigan State University, and Lesinski, West Michigan representative, and ALSC representative. A third from the state has not been

People Watchers Find Great Variety in Library

It is easier to determine a person's character in the library than anywhere else on campus. People using the library are easier to spot than in any other place. The person who is looking for a book is usually looking for a book. The person who is looking for a book is usually looking for a book. MHA

For two hours of discussion, the president of East Lansing, Michigan, moved to set up a committee under the sponsorship of MHA. It was decided that the committee will consist of three men's residence hall representatives and their AUSG representatives. A seventh man, Gil Reid, MHA's AUSG representative, was appointed.

Reid, chairman of this committee, said "We have since we were designated a responsible body, a sense of responsibility as well as responsibility was needed."

Appointed members of this committee include Mike Rome, president of East Lansing; Ken Macdonald, president of West Shaw; and Bob Hackenbush, president of Emmons. A third AUSG representative from the Case-Wilson has not been appointed.

Hannah

 National Science Foundation, Hannah said that slightly more than one-half of the students in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating classes do not become college graduates.
 He said that to counteract this obvious waste of needed brainpower, we should redouble our efforts to get the brighter youngsters into college, and identify those who will not go on to college and encourage them to use their brains for their own improvement and benefit of society.
 The National Science Foundation, he also noted, concludes that the lack of financial resources is the largest single reason for failure of students to enter college or to remain once they get there.
 And student fees continue to increase, he admitted, as educational administrators search desperately for the resources required to operate their colleges and universities.

 Looking ahead, Hannah asked the adult educators to consider the implications should a permanent surplus of manpower develop.
 "The great drive in business and industry is in the direction of replacing human beings with machines,"
 Although he reminded that automation and advancing technology will eventually create more jobs than they destroy, he said the basic problem is whether the displaced workers will fit into the new jobs.
 Labor is agitating for shorter work weeks, challenging educators to provide workers with socially useful outlets for their leisure time, he noted.
 Senior citizens are growing in number, and predictions are that by 1980, nearly 10 percent of a population of 245 million will be of age 65 or more, he added.

Folk Music Group To Hold Meeting

The Folk Music Society will hold its first meeting of the year Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Union music room.
 The meeting will be organizational and include group singing, according to Joe Fineman, Detroit sophomore, who founded the society last year.
 Plans for this year include sponsoring a concert with guest performers such as folk singer Pete Seeger, the Limelitters, Clancy Brothers, Tommy Makem, Jean Baez and other well known artists in folk music.
 Fineman said the society also plans to coordinate a folk festival with the Union Board utilizing campus talent and schedule caravans to the University of Michigan to attend folk concerts.
 All interested students are invited to attend.

Homecoming Enthusiasm

A series of open houses for students and alumni were held throughout the campus after the game. Most residence halls and Greek houses opened their doors for some type of post-game party. The parties included mixers, buffets, dances and open houses. Billy May's orchestra played for the homecoming dance Saturday night in the Aud. The band was conducted by Frankie Lester and featured the "Nail Driving Six."
 Miss Johnson, who is designated Miss MSU for the remainder of the school year, was crowned during intermission at the dance.
 New members of Excalibur, senior men's honorary, were introduced.
 They are seniors Fred Levine, East Lansing, Bob Johnson, Detroit and Tom Plough, Traverse City.
 Trophies were presented to winning living units in the homecoming display competition during the intermission.

GLOOM AT THE TOP

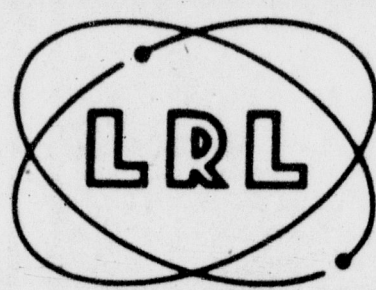

Oh, sure, you've been busy, what with going to classes, doing your homework, catching night crawlers, getting married—but can't you pause for just a moment and give thought to that dear, dedicated, lonely man in the big white house on the hill? I refer, of course, to the Prexy.
 (It is interesting to note here that college presidents are always called "Prexy." Similarly, trustees are called "Trixie." Associate professors are called "Axy-Pixy." Bursars are called "Foxy-Woxy." Students are called "Algie.")
 But I digress. We were speaking of the Prexy, a personage at once august and pathetic. Why pathetic? Well sir, consider how Prexy spends his days. He is busy, busy, busy. He talks to deans, he talks to professors, he talks to trustees, he talks to alumni. In fact, he talks to everybody except the one group who could lift his heart and rally his spirits. I mean, of course, the appealing, endearing, winsomest group in the entire college—you, the students.
 It is the Prexy's sad fate to be forever a stranger to your laughing, golden selves. He can only gaze wistfully out the window of his big white house on the hill and watch you at your games and sports and yearn with all his tormented heart to bask in your warmth. But how? It would hardly be fitting for Prexy to appear one day at the Union, clad in an old rowing blazer, and cry gaily, "Heigh-ho, chaps! Who's for sculling?"

No, friends, Prexy can't get to you. It is up to you to get to him. Call on him at home. Just drop in unannounced. He will naturally be a little shy at first, so you must put him at his ease. Shout, "Howdy-doo, sir! I have come to bring a little sunshine into your drear and blighted life!" Then yank his necktie out of his vest and scamper goatlike around him until he is laughing merrily along with you.
 Then hand him a package and say, "A little gift for you, sir."
 "For me?" he will say, lowering his lids. "You shouldn't have."
 "Yes, I should," you will say, "because this package is a carton of Marlboro Cigarettes, and whenever I think of Marlboro, I think of you."
 "Why, hey?" he will say curiously.
 "Because Marlboros have taste, and so do you," you will reply.
 "Aw, go on," he will say, blushing furiously.
 "It's true," you will say. "Moreover, Marlboro has a filter, and so do you."
 "In my swimming pool, you mean," he will say.
 "Yes," you will say. "Moreover, Marlboro has a soft pack, and so do you."
 "My limp leather brief case, you mean," he will say.
 "Yes," you will say. "Moreover, the Marlboro box has a flip-top, and so do you."
 "But I don't have a flip-top," he will say.
 "But you will," you will say. "Just light a Marlboro, and taste that tasty taste, and you will surely flip your top."
 Well sir, you will have many a good chuckle about that, you may be sure. Then you will say, "Goodbye, sir, I will return soon again to brighten your lorn and desperate life."
 "Please do," he will say. "But next time, if you can possibly manage it, try not to come at four in the morning."

DETROIT — The vigilance tax committee says it will hold its next meeting on November 17th, at which time it will disclose the results of the drive to halt the collection of city income taxes. The committee was formed last spring to fight the one percent income tax of Detroit. Since then, the city of Hamtramck has enacted a tax of its own. The committee contends this is taxation without representation. The committee is seeking 300,000 signatures on petitions to present to the legislature.

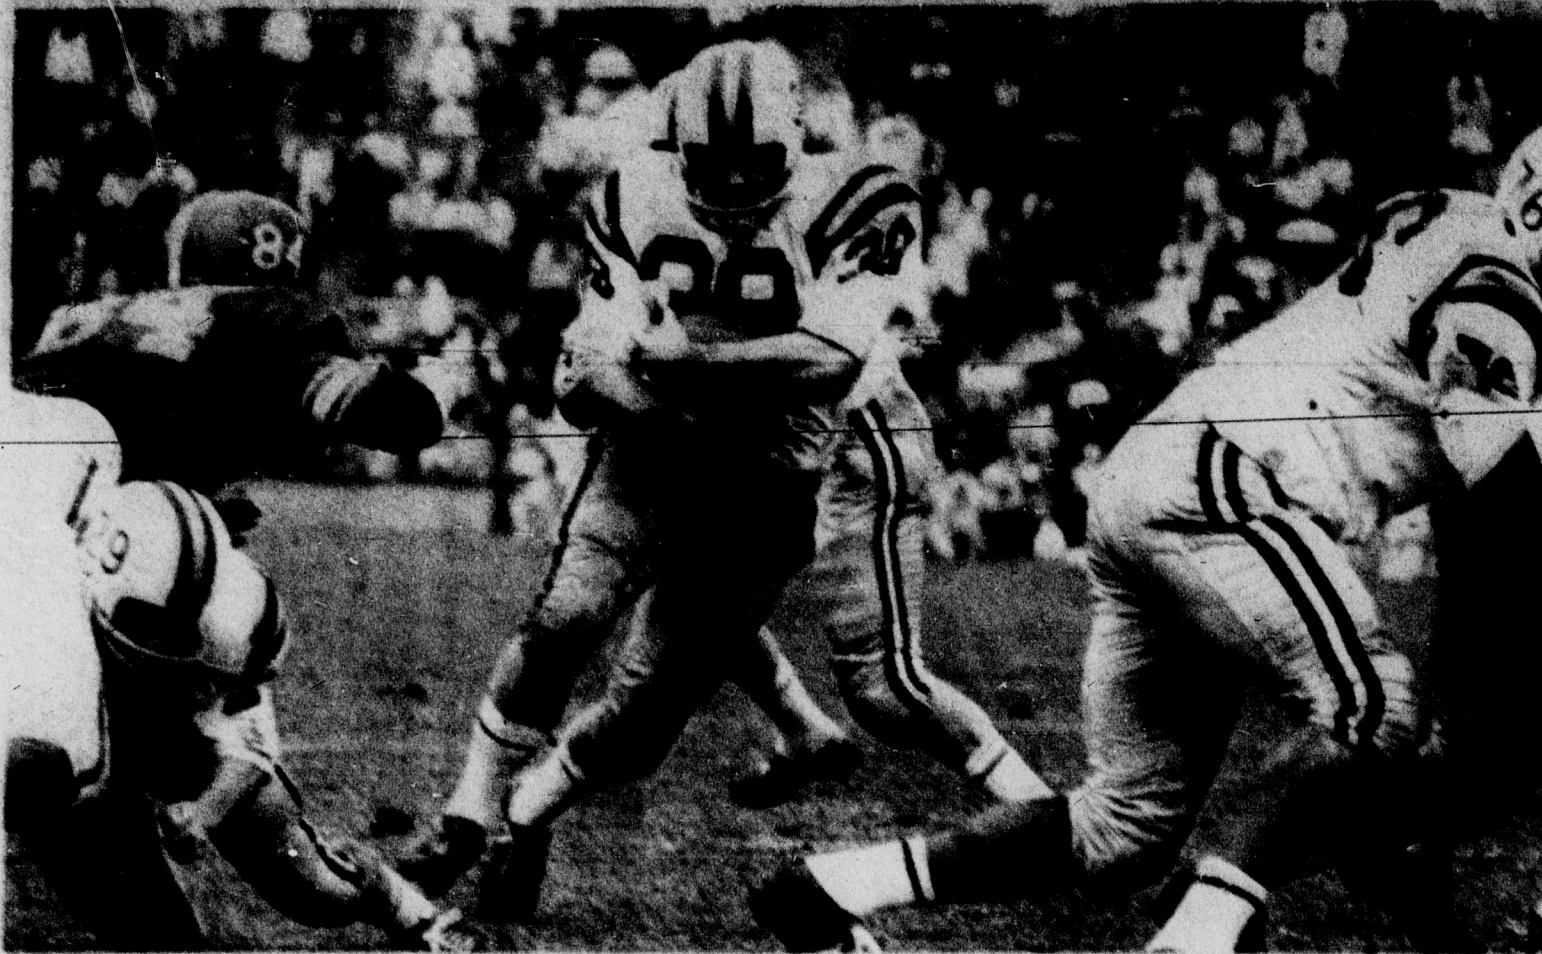

FLINT — The residents of Flint, Michigan have a chance to learn their own history for friendship. The city is playing host to 25 students from Brazil who will live in Flint for 10 days as part of "Operation Amigo." The group arrived Saturday, each bearing five pounds of Brazilian coffee as a gift. They will stay with families who have children attending Flint Northern high school.

DETROIT — A young Detroit supermarket clerk will face charges today that he made more than 1,000 obscene telephone calls during the past four years.

Police say that 24 year old Paul Herrick has admitted making the calls to the wives of professional men almost daily since 1958. Herrick was arrested late Saturday by a team of Detroit and Redford police.

Authorities baited a trap for Herrick when he telephoned the wife of a Redford physician and made obscene suggestions. He also demanded money for the husband's safe return. The woman agreed to meet him and pay him

Finds Radioactive Traces In Human Milk

ROME—An Italian scientist says he has found traces of radioactive activity in human milk, apparently as a result of nuclear testing. He says the amount is smaller than found in cows and is well below the danger level.

Prof. Paolo Fontana, director of radiolabeling laboratory of Catholic University at Piacenza, spoke at a Rome symposium Saturday.

Educators Face Changing Society And Profession

There is today a distressing lack of discipline both at home and at school, Moyer said. Schools where discipline is minimized, he noted, tend to produce a creature termed "the triumphant slob, the perfect antithesis of everything education stands for."

Careful analysis of long-range goals and possible alternatives is needed in effecting curricular changes, he told the group of some 450 key officials from the state's universities, colleges, high schools, elementary schools, parent-teacher associations and department of public instruction. Effective changes, Moyer stated, are best accomplished through group decisions based on open discussion of all the factual information available.

Educators who fail to adjust to a changing society and educational conditions are committing slow professional suicide, Michigan school officials meeting at Kellogg Center Thursday and Friday have been warned.

Moyer, addressing a conference of the Michigan Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, called for thoughtful consideration of change in areas of discipline and curriculum adapted to a rapidly evolving technological society.

Feurig Says Students Today Britain Launch First Nuclear Sub

Students are more concerned about the food they eat today than they were five years ago, said James S. Feurig, director of University health services.

He said that the student is no longer interested in just satisfying his hunger. He tries to eat a well-balanced meal that will provide the necessary nourishment to maintain good health.

Feurig said that the tendency to not take sufficient time to eat adequately is still present among some students.

"This lack of nourishment will not hinder the growing process," he said, "because the body is already physically developed by the time a student enters college."

Goal-- A Multiple Harvester

Agricultural engineers and horticulturists are hoping to harvest cucumbers like wheat.

N. C. Ries, associate professor of horticulture, and R. A. Stout, associate professor of agricultural engineering, have been working from 1957 to 1961 to perfect a multiple harvester. But they have failed so far.

Ries and Stout now believe that the revolutionizing growing practices that cucumbers can be planted and harvested at one time in less than 50 days instead of 85 days which is now the procedure.

Presently most cucumber harvesting is done by migrant laborers from the South and Mexico.

Picking cucumbers are by hand.

money crops. Their annual value in the U.S. is over $10 million a year. Michigan farmers alone produce 4.2 million bushels of cucumbers a year, bringing $5 million a year for them.

But the 1951 minimum wage law hurt pickle growers. Much of the industry was forced to abandon the crop share method of worker payment.

As a result, up to 75 per cent of the harvest value goes to labor. And pending legislation makes uncertain the availability and cost of harvest labor in future years.

so growers are anxious to have a cheaper method of harvesting their crop.

To design the best possible harvester, Ries and Stout considered plant characteristics as well as mechanical features of the machines.
