

College Bowl Could Be Frosh-Soph Project

Last spring/term, one of the State News columnists suggested in his article that Michigan State should organize a campus quiz bowl similar to the format of the popular TV counterpart, "College Bowl."

The idea was not original. In fact, the idea came from Indiana University and Northwestern where academic competition among living units has become a reality.

The State News was very much in favor of seeing this activity worked upon by some campus organization.

Sure enough, Union Board expressed interest and began work on the project. Plans were made, rooms were reserved, gifts were promised to the victors by the Union Bookstore.

However, Union Board now admits that it found the project too unwieldy, given its limited human resources and other commitments -- that is, constant activities.

Union Board has dropped the project.

But there is no reason why it should die.

We still feel strongly that here is an activity that, if well organized, could not help becoming a success, indeed, maybe a University tradition.

There is no reason why academic competition with this format cannot rival the enthusiasm of intramural athletic competition between living units.

Michigan State is ready for a campus quiz bowl. The State News is willing to provide publicity, news coverage and editorial encouragement.

And we are ready to suggest that Frosh-Soph Council take up where Union Board left off.

There are a number of capable students on the Council. And we doubt if the organization is overburdened with activities.

If the Frosh-Soph Council is willing to give it a try, its members may decide that the Quiz Bowl, and not Pizza Week, could become their big annual affair.

Letters to The Editor

On Self-Interest, 'Garbage'

To the Editor:

As a lawyer, as an instructor of business law here at Michigan State, but mostly as a former student at all three of our State Universities, I feel obliged to contribute a few more words to the current speakers committee controversy.

To begin with, over 25,000 students have joined the university community of Michigan State in order to receive an education, presumably in the large sense of that word. In addition, food and lodging must be taken care of for a large proportion of them. Many of these students are mature adults. I suppose all are supposed to be adults by the time they are ready to leave the University. Yet politically students have a small and barely audible voice in the decisions which affect their lives.

Can it be safely assumed that such decisions are always made in the students' best interest? I don't think so. Administrators and faculty by the very nature of their jobs must concern themselves with protecting the University's public image with problems of administrative efficiency and with their own roles and status.

For example, I've studied students housing over a period of years and have become convinced that many of the basic decisions made in operating the residence hall system are based on administrative efficiency and convenience and are actually detrimental to student health and welfare.

I would be more lenient with the recent speakers committee, although it is also another case in point. I can only guess that the desire to reserve a veto power over speakers coming to campus is based on a fear of offending the state legislature. At least this is the only motive I can discern. (Can it be seriously argued that the debasement of ideas from a University is in the interests of education?)

But on the other hand, the desire of faculty and administration to protect the University's source of revenue, is a legitimate administrative concern and one that ought to be respected as important. If the university had simply stood firm, we might end by saying that perhaps student leaders acted irresponsibly. But instead, they were dismissed from their positions--as if to say that they occupied no real political positions at all, but were merely figureheads. If student leaders are dismissed from their positions and faculty policies, in effect, the student body is being told that it may not exercise independent political judgment.

I cannot agree that the decisions of any authority should be accepted uncritically by students. It is plain that students have a vital interest in their own health, welfare and education. If we believe this, we must believe that students have a legitimate interest in using political power in opposition to administrative or faculty decisions so long as they use this power in good faith (which may or may not have been the case here).

And the administration I think has an equal obligation of good faith which extends to recognizing the right of independent political action by students and the need for compromise rather than punishment.

When the apathetic student body at last shows signs of political wakefulness, we should shout "Hurrah!" rather than trying to suppress it so that perhaps this university will be a real community.

WILS Editorial

To the Editor:

The reprinted editorial about the "peace demonstration" in the Thursday State News strikes me as a mess of flag-waving paranoid garbage! I assumed, and still do, that the thought behind the demonstration was not a permissive one, as suggested, but rather a plea to lay off the saber-rattling and get the missiles out of Cuba safely.

The editorial, with a lot of tired platitudes about preserving freedoms and whatever, attempts to hide the fact that Kennedy's particular action could have led to global nuclear war, and attempts to paint the demonstrators as Communist sympathizers or "better-than-leaders."

It should fool no one, however, for it is a typical example of bad, issue-evading journalism, disguising ugly facts by wrapping them in the Good Old American Flag.

Misery makes strange bedfellows, and in this case the demonstrators consisted of such diverse elements as Socialists and Quakers. I am convinced, however, that at least 90% of them are perfectly in agreement with the platitudes in the editorial; they do not want to lie down and wait for the Communist bulldozer to sweep them away either.

Get tough, yes, but if we can still stand bulldozer in some other way why condone an action which could easily trigger the panic button?

OK, JFK is a hero now because it did happen to work out all right. But at a time when the students are rightly incensed about censorship, I ask them to devote a portion of their thoughts also to possible consequences of an action which constitutes the breaking of international law. I would be the last to lie down and let myself be enslaved, but if my life is at stake I would prefer to see first if I could avoid it by firm, aggressive negotiation.

Iranian Plan

To the Editor:

Take heed you students! Mr. Houssemeh is right! Freedom of speech must be preserved in all forms and at all costs. One small act of tyranny or suppression of our rights, which is ignored or passed off as irrelevant, is like a wedge driven into a log. It makes room for larger atrocities and larger wedges. Soon the log is split and divided, each portion becoming weaker finally to be broken by only the pressure of the thumb and forefinger.

We can see an example of this in current history. Hitler, the Austrian paperhanger, was allowed to drive his wedges of Nazism through one entire nation, rotting it and then working his forces out into the world.

Now is the time to act. End this suppression of rights, before it becomes a part of our way of life. I am not just referring to life on the University level, but beyond, in a world which we leave to our grandchildren. Let us leave them a heritage as great as the one presented to us by our fathers and their fathers before them.

Yes, let us back the Iranian students--for they have truly known the heavy arm of suppression. You will no doubt recall the face of those gallant University of Tehran students who peacefully sought their human rights last year. Many were imprisoned by their government while a few were mercilessly machine gunned.

These same students have shown us the way to preserve our liberties--the American way. A way which is guaranteed to us by the Constitution--our Constitution. A way which will insure our ideals and set a precedent for future disputes. I am referring to the court systems of the United States of America. Let us support the Iranian students--for what they do, they do for us.

Clappers Clobbered

To the Editor:

What happened to the carillon in Beaumont Tower at midnight on November 3? We feel that an institution the size of Michigan State University would take all steps humanly possible to insure the proper working condition of the campus landmark. Michigan State University, like all great institutions of higher learning, has through the years established numerous traditions, one of which is the tradition of the "Coordination ceremony" under Beaumont Tower at midnight.

The campus was literally swarming with prospective clobberers during Homecoming Weekend; however, the familiar chiming of Beaumont relentlessly turned away many disappointed visitors. After weeks of anticipation for performing said ceremony, was registered students feel our reputation as the "Carillon Casanova" has been shattered.

Text Of Committee's Recommendations

(Following is the complete text of the policy recommendation made by the present Speakers Committee concerning new policy to deal with outside speakers on campus. It is subject to the approval of higher University authorities.)

I. Reconsideration of the rule adopted by the faculty in September 1936. As in all instances of University enacted legislation is recognized that ultimate authority rests with the Board of Trustees who represent the people of Michigan, and to turn, to the President whom the Board has designated as the principal executive officer.

II. The committee recommends strict adherence to the principles.

A. Sponsorship must be by a recognized and authorized student organization and approved by its faculty sponsor.

B. The speaker must not advocate or urge actions which are prohibited or illegal under University, state, or federal regulations. Advocating or urging the modification of the Government of the United States or of the State of Michigan by violence or sabotage is specifically prohibited. It is the responsibility of the student organization to inform prospective speakers these prohibitions.

C. Sponsoring organizations must complete a form indicating the subject to be discussed, the names of all speakers, and time and place of the meeting. This form is to be certified by the appropriate officer of the organization and the faculty advisor.

D. Sponsoring organizations shall not invite speakers who have as their purpose the advocacy of obscene behavior.

E. Officers of student organizations have the responsibility to consult with their faculty advisors, before inviting outside speakers. This responsibility is reciprocal.

III. Public announcements concerning the speaker shall contain statements that clearly and accurately identify him.

IV. At meetings dealing with controversial issues ample time shall be allowed for questions and free discussion of the subject presented.

V. It is recommended that a committee known as the Michigan State University Forum Committee be established.

A. It should consist of five faculty members and five students. The faculty members are to be appointed by the President to a list of ten faculty to be nominated by the Committee. The five student members are to be named by the President from a list of ten graduate and undergraduate students nominated by a committee composed of the presidents of all University Student Government, Inter-fraternity Council, Hellenic Council, Women's Inter-residence Council, Men's Association, and Association of Off Campus Students. The President shall appoint a chairman from among his nominees. He shall also appoint as secretary the Dean of Students, or his designee who shall serve in an ex officio capacity.

B. The Committee shall have four major responsibilities:

1. The Committee shall make itself available for consultation on all questions concerning public lectures at Michigan State University.

2. The Committee shall work with the Director of Student Organizations in establishing programs whereby organizations and their faculty advisors shall be informed about the University policy on speakers.

3. The secretary shall receive the speaker registration forms for the Committee.

4. The Committee shall encourage a well balanced program of speakers on controversial subjects of great public interest.

CONCLUSION

If the above report is accepted, the committee hopes that faculty staff and students recognize the responsibilities inherent in the proposal. Such responsibilities were aptly expressed by the historian Carl Becker when he stated:

"...there is, to be sure, no Bill of Responsibilities in our constitutions, but a careful reading of them will disclose the annoying fact that for every right or freedom that is conferred they impose, implicitly if not explicitly, a corresponding obligation or responsibility."

How in the world are we going to show our potentialities without the proper musical atmosphere? It is one thing that the Homecoming Committee did not refer to the calendar to see that there was no moon for the big event, but under a double handicap we had less chance than the Spartans without their line.

We feel that the proper disciplinary action should be taken against those at fault. We only pray that the next time opportunity arises, will the spirit of Mr. Beaumont please guide those bells.

University Divers at Spotlight Water Show

University divers stole the show at the Aquatics Go To College water show Saturday.

Divers: Van Lowe, Birmingham; Steve Johnson, assistant from Colorado Springs; Larry Rose, Evanston, Ill.; and Jim Chambliss, Lansing sophomore, won the competition in the "Jump Off the Deep End" event.

The "typical college togs" of jeans and T-shirts, the divers hit the water with large splash and very little Olympic grace.

The panel also discussed what stand the American Negro should take when his country is involved in an international crisis.

The debate centered on the question, "Am I a Negro first, or an American citizen?"

The panel was moderated by Ron Brown, president of the NAACP. Participants included Ivanhoe Donaldson, New York, senior; Mel Buchholz, New York, senior; Gilbert Hill, Lansing junior; and Charles Jones, Huntsville, Alabama, senior.

The opinions of the panel were divided. Some felt the Negro has a responsibility to defend his country as a citizen; others felt no man can truly fight for something which he does not possess.

Jones, a Korean Veteran, said that although the Negro in America had not yet achieved the status of a first-class citizen he must nevertheless fight for his country.

Donaldson, who spent the summer working for Negro rights in the South, said that the Negro has less to gain by fighting in Cuba, than he does by fighting in Kentucky or Mississippi.

All the panelists agreed they would fight in self-defense if America was attacked by a foreign nation.

It was thought at first that someone may have been playing a joke and hidden it near the school. However, a search of the 300-acre site failed to turn up the art object.

Health Survey Indicates Low Campus Disease Rate

University students on the average are in good health, according to James S. Feurig, director of university health services.

He said that a recent survey conducted by the American College Health Association revealed that State has a low rate of respiratory diseases compared with other universities.

Feurig said that this is because students are in a better position to seek treatment for illness since student hospitalization insurance is available at low cost.

For $14 a year the insurance will pay fees charged by Olin over $5. At a private hospital the insurance will pay for doctor fees, drugs, and surgery.

"I feel that the insurance program now being offered to students is excellent," said Feurig. "because it provides broad coverage at an unbelievably low cost."

Feurig said that the University is characteristic of the national low rate of disease.

MSU Aids Development Of Okinawa University

Of the many international programs undertaken by the University, one of the most ambitious has been setting up the University of the Ryukyus in Okinawa.

The American Council of Education asked MSU in 1951 if it would set up a university in Okinawa that year.

The University grew from an initial enrollment of 560 in 1957 to 2700 in 1961.

In 1955, a library was built, containing 30,000 volumes.

Training of library personnel there was termed inadequate.

R. E. Chapin, director of the University Library, went to the Ryukyus in November, 1958 to study the problem.

With support from the Rockefeller Foundation, MSU formulated a library program for the University in two years.

The first advisor sent by MSU was David W. Heron, associate director of the Stanford University library and now director of the University of Nevada library. He worked there until 1961.

In 1961, Eugene de Benko, divisional librarian and assistant professor of education at MSU, was assigned Heron's duties. He left the Ryukyus in June of 1962, and serves in an "honorary" capacity at Michigan State.

The program undertaken by these men consisted of in-service training of Okinawan librarians, organizing library education courses in the University and a preparation of qualified librarians for advanced library science training in Japan and the U.S.

A vigorous acquisitions program was instituted, a special reference service, a reserve book system, inter-library loan cooperation and library science summer institutes were started.

Since the inception of the program, nine Okinawans have received or are receiving advanced library science training, said de Benko.

"Most of them are graduates of the University of the Ryukyus," de Benko said. "These young men, who continued their graduate work in the U.S. or Japan, proved to be highly successful in their work."

"The MSU library constantly strives to strengthen its resources relating to these areas in which we are involved," he added.

"Some of our faculty members may start research projects of their own during their tour of duty. They should be able to continue their research during here and have the material to do it with."

The present speaker committee is composed of five faculty members and students appointed by President Hannah. Eldon Nonnamaker, dean of men, is chairman of the group.

The report concludes that "any kind of a screening committee, no matter what it may be called, cannot protect the University from attacks by hostile critics."

The present speaker committee is composed of five faculty members and students appointed by President Hannah. Eldon Nonnamaker, dean of men, is chairman of the group.

Complete Work On Housing Office

Another step in the University building program was marked last Monday by completion of the new Married Housing Office.

The old buildings occupied by the Married Housing personnel since 1949 will be eventually torn down.

Ray Lamphear, manager of married housing, said that this will make more land available for the new Wonders Hall now under construction.

"Actually we've just changed the physical location, Lamphear said, but the new $160,000 building will be more adequate than the old office."

The new office, located at 1205 S. Harrison Road, also will house the maintenance and storage departments.

"This location will serve the major portion of married housing much better than the old one because of the central location, Lamphear said.

The main functions of the Married Housing Office are applications, assignments, and maintenance of the apartments.

All activities of married housing will be made through this office, Lamphear said, but rental payments will still be made at the Administration Building.

An added feature of the new office is the multi-purpose room which can be used as a meeting center for clubs and activities.

Billikens Continue To Hold Soccer Jinx; Spartan Booters Lose 2-1 In St. Louis

By LARRY MOGG
Of The State News

Inside left Tom Klein's second goal, coming in the waning seconds of the final period Saturday, cut short a desperate comeback behind rally by the Spartan booters, as the St. Louis Billikens edged State 2-1 in the crucial battle for the NCAA Midwest playoff spot.

In winning the game the Billikens maintained their stranglehold over the Midwest berth. In the four years of the NCAA soccer tournaments, the Billikens have been the Midwest representative all four times.

But the gloom that settled over the MSU locker room following the loss, lifted when it was learned that State was being considered for one of the two "at large" berths in the upcoming tourney. The NCAA Selections Committee though will not announce their selections until later in the week.

Billikens as a titanic struggle between two unbeaten giants, as overflow crowd in the Mound City saw just that. The Billikens tallied first early in the opening quarter as the St. Louis offensive style seemed to catch the Spartan booters off balance.

Tom Klein took an out of bounds pass from All-American, Gerry Balassi and drilled the ball pass surprised goalie, Bill Onopa. From then on the Spartan's seemed to dominate play.

In the second period State missed two good scoring chances, when Jean Lohri and Dutch Kemelung shot wide on close in shots.

The third period found the Spartans still trying for the equalizer. Midway through the stanza, the crowd was brought to their feet as the Green and White stung four straight shots at the Billikens' goalie, Roger Rupp, without scoring. Mabicio Ventura started it off by hitting the post. George Rendon took two shots which were stopped. Sam Donnelly hopped on the rebound of Rendon's last shot and kicked it toward the left corner. A Billiken defenseman stepped into the goal mouth to bat the ball out.

That play brought a storm of protest from the Spartan bench, as it is illegal for a defenseman to go into the goal. But the protest went to no avail, as the referees apparently didn't see the play.

At 17:04 of the final stanza outside left, Jean Lohri finally broke the scoreless skell on a give and go play from Ventura. Deep in the Billikens' territory Lohri passed off to Ventura, squirted through two Bill defenders and took a return pass from Ventura, which he booted into the left hand corner.

Shortly afterwards the same combination (Ventura and Lohri) almost scored again. But a Lohri shot sliced off his foot.

The Billikens' winning goal came at 20:10. Klein took a wing pass from Terry Knox and ran the ball into the nets, and was immediately swarmed on by his jubilant teammates.

The Billikens' fine defense choked off the rest of MSU's assaults as the clock ticked the last threatening seconds away.

The Spartans' defense turned in another great job, limiting the Billikens to only eleven shots on their net. The defense was anchored by Kemelung, Donnelly, Dennis Checkett, Sean Stelmashenko, and Ted Stachow.

Standings Tighten In Big Ten Race

Big Ten gridiron witnessed several key decisions over the weekend as teams battled into the home stretch of the current campaign.

At the outcome, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Minnesota were deadlocked for the top berth with 4-1 marks and Purdue kept with in striking distance extending its record to 3-1.

Northwestern's Rose Bowl aspirations received a crushing jolt as upset-minded Wisconsin unleashed a devastating attack to register a 37-0 rout knocking the Wildcats from the unbeaten ranks.

The Badgers sealed the victory in the opening period as Gary Kroener, a senior halfback, launched onto an 11-yard heave from Ron Vanderkelen to tally a TD.

Wisconsin struck for 21 points in the third quarter to account for the rout. A 34-yard pass by Wilcox quarterback Tom Myers in the final stanza into the hands of Steve Murphy averted a shut-

'Powder Puffers' Battle To 0-0 Tie

The annual Powder Puff Bowl between the Delta Gamma's and the Gamma Phi Beta's ended in a scoreless tie at the IM field Saturday morning.

The tight defensive game was marked by lots of bumps and bruises, but no serious injuries to the sweatshirt and Levi clad girls. The girls wore numbers that were significant. Some had their telephone numbers on their backs, others had football players' numbers.

Georgia O'Connor, Grasse Point senior, who is to be married Dec. 29, wore number 24.

The queen of the bowl, Elliott Friesling, New York junior from Alpha Epsilon Pi, was judged by the juries of the girls. The contestants were boys sent from the fraternities.

Cheerleading and coaching for the Delta Gamma's was provided by the Sigma Chi's. The Kappa Sigma's were dressed as cheerleaders for the Gamma Phi's and they were coached by the Beta Theta Pi's.

The girls used the platoon system, running two units for defense and offense. The quarterback for the Delta Gamma's was Bev Barich, a Birmingham junior, while Lynne Cartier, Grand Rapids senior, called the signals for the Gamma Phi's.

Harriers Seek Conference Title At Iowa City

State's cross country squad will be seeking to continue its domination of Big Ten cross country championships when the Spartans run this afternoon at Iowa City, Iowa.

Since State's admittance to the conference in 1950, the harriers have won nine of 11 titles, losing only in 1954 and 1961.

Last year the Spartans were runners-up to Iowa, which had finished second to State in the four previous meets.

The Hawkeyes and the Spartans have had the individual winner in eight of the last 10 Big Ten races. Each school contributed four of the eight.

State's last champion was Jerry Young in 1960. Last fall Iowa's Jim Tucker defeated Young in a personal duel as he led the Hawkeyes to the conference title.

This year Young and Tucker are gone, and it is unlikely that the individual champion will wear the colors of either State or Iowa.

Once again the conference race shapes up as a battle between the Spartans and the Hawkeyes. Iowa, with three key men returning and a 14 meet winning streak, is a solid favorite.

State, along with Wisconsin, are regarded as the leading contenders.

The seven-man Spartan squad left Lansing Friday afternoon for the flight to Iowa City. They arrived Friday evening, but were too late to get in any practice.

Saturday Coach Fred Dietrich put his charges through a light workout over the Iowa course, and Sunday was reserved for church, rest and studying.

Assignment: find a filter paper that works harder the dirtier it gets Results: Up to 30,000 miles between filter changes in Ford-built cars for '63!

The 1963 Ford-built cars you see on the road these days can eat dust and keep coming back for more, thanks to improved carburetor air filters.

In our continuing quest to build total quality and service-saving features into Ford-built cars, our engineering research staff explored the entire field of physical chemistry for new air-purifying properties in materials.

The result: a filtering material made of chemically treated wood pulp and paper that permits Ford-built cars under normal operation to go from 24,000 to 30,000 miles before carburetor air filter replacement is required.

The new, tougher filter paper is accordion folded to increase surface area four-fold, permitting higher filtration in a smaller package. The more matter it accumulates, the better it filters right up to its full rated service life. It saves owners time and money. It keeps Ford-built engines livelier longer.

Another assignment completed—and another example of how Ford Motor Company provides engineering leadership for the American Road.

Spartans Stumble, Fumble And Fall

DAVE HARFITS

The State News

played as well as any this year, except for the one and penalties, that is Michigan State football coach Daugherty summed it up in his postgame remarks. "We were out of sync in a row, the second year in a row, the Spartans suffered a defeat by Minnesota on Saturday, a 17-9 loss, and a national audience, Purdue was on several State misadventures in the thick of the game. We lost all but eliminated the Spartans from the chase, Michigan State stands 2-2 in the conference and 4-3 for the season. We were at the top of the pack and marks are Northwest, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Purdue is a half-game behind a 3-1 record. Daugherty referred to State's losses, four of which Purdue won, and two costly penalties.

Fumbles have plagued the Spartans all year long, with one exception—the Notre Dame tilt played in a steady rain at South Bend. The half dozen bobbles by MSU backs Saturday ran the season total of 33. Two of the four fumbles lost were deep in Boilermaker territory, while the other pair were inside State's 40 yard stripe.

It was Daugherty's third loss on national TV, the other two coming in 1954 and 1958. In those two seasons, the Spartan coach experienced his only two losing years at MSU.

Following the loss to Purdue, several students hung Daugherty in effigy on the north campus, but little did the students realize that a coach cannot control fumbles or penalties.

Daugherty himself said after the game that he hasn't found a way to teach the boys how to hang on to the ball. "We hit hard and had good blocking. If you took away six plays, we had played a good game."

He was correct with one exception—it was seven plays that stymied the Spartans.

A Pete Smith pass was intercepted and run back 47-yards for a touchdown by Tom Bloom in the third period.

The first period of play was scoreless, as Purdue's Omer Ohl missed field goal attempts from the 25 and 26 yard lines of State.

The second quarter saw State get the ball on its own 33. From there it moved to the 40 where Lou Bobich was forced to punt on fourth down. Bobich boomed a long spiral kick that carried into the end zone on the fly.

On the Boilermakers first play from scrimmage following the punt, fullback Tom Yakubowski fumbled and Dan Underwood pounced on the pigskin on the 21.

With the Spartans unable to move the ball, tackle Jim Bobbitt kicked a 27-yard line drive field goal to put MSU in front, 3-0.

The score stood until halftime. With 7:42 left in the third quarter, Bloom picked off Smith's pass intended for Lonnie Sanders and raced untouched down the sideline. Ohl converted and Purdue led, 7-3.

State was forced to punt, and Purdue came marching up the field. Charlie Brown ended the threat when he hit quarterback Gary Hogan on the State 37 and forced a fumble, which Underwood again fell on.

On the first play from scrimmage and his first rushing attempt of the afternoon, speedy Sherman Lewis dashed 54-yards around right end for a Green and White score and a 9-7 lead, as the third period ended.

A field goal attempt from the 17-yard line of Michigan State by Ohl, put Purdue in the lead to stay.

The Spartans mustered a final threat midway through the period, but were unable to punch across the goal line. State had the ball with a first and 10 situation on the Purdue 17. Dewey Lincoln fumbled for a four yard loss.

On the next play, Lincoln carried to the five-yard stripe. But a holding penalty put the pigskin back on the 32 with second down and 25 coming up. Quarterback Charlie Mlyanka was hit from behind and fumbled on the 32. It was recovered by Don Brumm of Purdue.

In just five plays, the Boilermakers scored and added the extra point for the final 17-9 margin.

The loss was the 175th in Michigan State grid history dating back to 1896. The sport has been played here under the colors of Michigan Agricultural College, Michigan State College and presently Michigan State University.

The only year, State did not compete on the gridiron was in

RIGHT MOMENT — The ball shifted ineffectively, but Sherman Lewis shined and here he is off and running his 54 yard touchdown run in the third period against the Boilermakers. Lewis didn't play most of the game because of a knee injury, but as usual gave a good account in his short appearance. —State News Photo by Skip Mays

Team Wins Canada Cup

RESAUPD—A typical finish by Arnold Palmer, the U.S. to keep the World Cup at Buenos Aires. Individual International went to Raulo Roberto of Argentina who won a 278.

Summy Sneed fell to the back nine of the 17th hole. It was Palmer who brought the U.S. through as he birdied the 11th, 12th and 15th hole to wind up with a team total of 557 strokes. Argentina, thanks to De Vincenzo's final 68, finished two strokes off the pace.

1943 due to the war. To date, State has a 444-175-33 mark for 66 years of football competition. Spartan fans were probably as surprised as any time in history Saturday.

Daugherty inserted a new set of offensive plays and tactics to try and jar the always rugged Boilermakers. One such series saw the second unit use a series of quick huddle calls. This worked for two plays, but on the third a fumble cost the Spartans the pigskin.

The other innovation was the shotgun offense, dubbed "Hail-ey's Comets" by Daugherty. Sophomore signal-caller Roger Halley, saw his first varsity action with the third unit with three minutes left in the first half.

The loss in Spartan Stadium marked the final home game for 17 seniors.

It was a hard loss for the Spartans to absorb, as they lead Purdue in every statistical category. As the addage goes, statistics tell the story.

ALMOST BUT NOT QUITE—Steve Mellinger tried to block a punt off the foot of Ron DiGravio, but Mellinger was knocked into the air by a Boilermaker who had other ideas. —State News Photo by Skip Mays.

which students may protest and appeal restrictions placed on their freedom to govern their personal affairs," the Assembly adjured, "are not only insufficient and ineffective but are a source of insult and frustration."

The Assembly also recommended that the means of student government and communication with the Administration be made far more effective.

Leonard Rall, professor of economics and a member of the student - faculty speaker screening committee, told the campus U.N. that the committee exists to formulate a policy.

"This committee is not trying to tell anyone what to do," Rall said. "A ruling from 1936 states that outside speakers must be screened to address the student body in general."

"If the faculty ducks the responsibility, then the Administration gets it in the neck. If the administration passes the responsibility, the Board of Trustees as general policy-makers, has the solution of this problem as its final task."

When the board ducks it, the problem moves into politics and chaos results.

"This committee," Rall concluded, "cannot dismiss itself until it comes up with a better policy to deal with the clearance of outside speakers on campus."

Amachio Amunga, president of the Campus U.N., resigned to become the organization's new secretary-general.

Amunga, a native of Indaga, Asia, Kenya, succeeds Walid Khadduri who resigned recently because of a dispute with the speaker's committee.

John Wingate, a junior from Warren, became second vice-president.

Corps Need Musicians

It's help-wanted time again this year for the Stereomoon Drum and Bugle Corps, MSU's second marching musical unit. The 24-man Army ROTC unit is presently recruiting to fill its ranks for the upcoming parade and tour season scheduled to begin in the spring.

Headed by Cadet Sgt. David Cutner, White Plains, New York, junior, the Corps plans to move into the exhibition field this year, playing pop favorites as well as the usual marches. They will use new march steps patterned after the British slow march and the Italian Cabriani Band which plays at a double-time trot.

"The basic function of the Corps is parade performances," said Cutner, "but this year we plan to perform with more showmanship than we have previously shown."

Solo buglers will be spotlighted by the unit, as well as Scotch drumming thus far unused by the Corps. Freshmen and sophomore cadets interested in joining the corps are asked to meet Thursday, Nov. 8, at 5 p.m. in Room 21, Dem Hall.

Urge Price System Change For Independent Truckers

EVANSVILLE, Ind. -- "If independent trucking firms want to survive, they will have to change their pricing system," Frank H. Mossman, professor of marketing and transportation, said here Friday.

Mossman was one of the panelists for a symposium on "Transportation: Today and Tomorrow," at the 15th annual Atlas Van-Lines convention.

"Trucking firms," said Mossman, "frequently charge one customer less than another in order to avoid making a return trip empty or only partly loaded. This imbalance of charges also occurs when business is bad and trucking firms have more hauling capacity than cargo."

Such practices, Mossman said, mean that some shippers pay more than their share of actual trucking costs and others pay less. This tends to make the shipper paying more look for less costly transportation, often his own or chartered trucks.

"Pricing should be based on the cost of the service provided, rather than on what the traffic will bear," he said.

One basis for better pricing," said Dr. Mossman, "is the development of flat charges or a constant charge plan."

Distance, number of pieces, weight and the weight to space relationship of cargo, are the main factors causing cost differences in motor transportation, Mossman said, citing a Michigan study which included these costs.

"In computing costs for various combinations of these factors," Mossman said "it was found that there seemed to be a base cost of approximately $7 per shipment under 500 pounds at distances up to 25 miles. This was true regardless of the number of pieces or their destiny."

"On this basis, the study proposed a flat charge for shipments weighing up to 500 pounds. Beyond 25 miles, a distance charge was built into the rate."

"The same study included a rate scale for less than truck load shipments of over 500 pounds."

Mossman also emphasized the need for trucking firms to substantially reduce their own costs on small shipments by improving their technology.

Genetic Research Topic Of Confab

The social and moral implications of genetic and environmental control on persons with personality defects will be studied at the fifth annual Mental Health Research Conference Monday and Tuesday in Kellogg Center.

Sheldon C. Reed, director of The Dight Institute for Human Genetics at the University of Minnesota, will discuss genetic research. Approximately 60 psychologists, psychiatrists, sociologists, physiologists and biochemists representing the Michigan Department of Health are expected to attend.

Pre-Service Training Helps Hotel, Restaurant Majors

Students majoring in hotel, restaurant and institutional management (HRI) have, as an extra requirement for graduation, the completion of two summers of pre-service training in their career fields.

"Usually students in the HRI school find summer jobs on their own to fulfill this requirement," said Dean Kullervo Louhi, acting director of the HRI school.

"However, the HRI school can place its students in various summer jobs if necessary."

"The summer job that an HRI major takes often aids him in choosing his career goal."

The HRI school offers training for management of hotels, restaurants, hospitals, penal institutions and related fields of service industries.

"The HRI school has often been referred to as a vocational school, because of the emphasis placed upon field training," Louhi said.

"The program of studies for HRI majors provides students with a strong background in the principles of business and management, Louhi said.

Beaumont Tower Traces Heritage To M.A.C.

Blueberry bushes marked the site of Beaumont Tower when Michigan Agricultural College was founded in 1855.

John W. Beaumont, an 1882 graduate, donated the tower to commemorate the site of College Hall, the first American building for the teaching of scientific agriculture.

The first M.A.C. students waded through mudholes and skirted blueberry bushes to attend classes in College Hall. The building was in constant use until it collapsed in the midst of renovation in 1918.

Beaumont, a Detroit lawyer, wished to preserve the site of College Hall where he studied. Beaumont Memorial Tower, dedicated in December of 1928.

Communication Arts Students Must Pre-Enroll

Pre-enrollment appointments are necessary for students in the College of Communication Arts because of the wide range of electives, said John Marston, assistant dean of the college.

Advertising, journalism, and TV-radio majors may phone 355-2314 or go to 204 Journalism Building to make an appointment for Nov. 19 - 21 or 28 - 30.

Speech majors may make an appointment for Nov. 26 - 30 by phoning 355-6690 or by going to 149 Aud.

Communication majors may make an appointment to pre-enroll on Nov. 26 - 30 by phoning 355-3472 or by going to 322 Union.

Students should bring a completed winter term schedule to the appointment, Marston said.

PENNY WISE

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Brad Schaefer of Des Moines spent a weekend with his grandmother, Mrs. Clema L. Junkin of Des Moines, and she put him in a taxi for the seven-mile trip home.

About halfway home, the 8-year-old told the driver he had forgotten something very important — he wouldn't say what — and had to return to his grandmother's.

So, back went the cab, the meter ticking. Brad ran into his grandmother's house on his return there — to retrieve a 5-cent candy bar he had left in the refrigerator.

Killingsworth Gets Alumnus Award

Charles C. Killingsworth, university professor of labor and industrial relations, received an Outstanding Alumnus Award at Southwest Missouri State College.

Killingsworth, who has been a member of the faculty at Michigan State since 1947, was graduated from SMS in 1938, at which time he was presented his A.B. degree "with highest honors." He did graduate work at Oklahoma State University and the University of Wisconsin, from which he received his M.A. and Ph.D. respectively.

His distinct interest in labor is apparent by the numerous labor disputes which he has helped arbitrate. President Kennedy has twice appointed him a member of special labor dispute boards in recent months.

In October 1952, he took a seven month leave of absence from State to serve as chairman of the National Wage Stabilization Board.

Killingsworth, the author of three books, has also contributed many articles on labor to law reviews and academic journals. He is married and has two children.

Students Involved In 2 Accidents

Students were involved in two accidents in East Lansing and on the campus this weekend.

John Dickey Freeman, 19, Rochester freshman, was ticketed by East Lansing police for improper lane usage, when he struck a car driven by Richard Keith Toaz, 4440 Dell rd. Lansing.

The Freeman car cut in front of the Toaz vehicle when attempting to overtake the Toaz car on Harrison Road.

Sally Jane Kendal, 20, Birmingham, was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way by East Lansing police, when she struck the left front of a car driven by Judith Helen Crissey, 2756 E. Grand River, East Lansing. The accident occurred at Delta and Michigan in East Lansing.

Harris has performed as soloist with "civic" orchestras, such as the Lansing and Jackson symphonies, and with the more noted Pittsburgh and Minneapolis orchestras. He has given lecture-recitals on radio and TV piano recitals.

Pianist Presents Eighth Recital

Henry Harris, pianist-teacher of the music faculty, will present his annual piano recital in the Music Building auditorium on Tuesday, at 8:15 p.m. This will be Harris' eighth recital since joining the music department in the fall of 1954.

Harris has performed as soloist with "civic" orchestras, such as the Lansing and Jackson symphonies, and with the more noted Pittsburgh and Minneapolis orchestras. He has given lecture-recitals on radio and TV piano recitals.

Firemen Spend Busy Weekend

University-based fire trucks made a run to the Journalism Building at 3:30 Sunday when a faculty member thought he smelled a strong odor of cleaning fluid in the building.

The odor was blamed on recent for Dutch Elm disease by the grounds department, according to police.

A plugged incinerator at West Wilson Hall Friday evening brought firemen to the scene, but no damage was reported.

Firemen also unplugged an incinerator at Kellogg Center.

Club Members Travel To Auction

Thirty-five Farm Equipment Sales and Service Club members will go to Archbold, Ohio Tuesday to attend the National Marketing Auction.

The group will study operational methods and observe the variety of goods and products sold. Farm machinery is the primary item handled at the auction, but anything from apples to watches can be bought.

The National Marketing Auction, held every Tuesday, is the largest wholesale auction in the world.

Lansing Players Stage Shakespearean Comedy

"Twelfth Night," the William Shakespeare comedy, will be produced by the Lansing Community Circle Players at their Sheridan St. Playhouse on Nov. 16, 17, and 22, 23, and 24.

This inane tale of the mishaps of twins after being separated in a shipwreck is the second production of the Circle Players current season.

Director-scene designer for the show is William Spicer, doctoral candidate in comparative literature. Spicer has directed shows for the University Theater, including "Royal Gambit," and Arena Theater production in 1959.

At Louisiana State University Spicer directed "A View from the Bridge," by Arthur Miller, and Strindberg's "The Father."

For three years he was stage designer at the Dunes Summer Theater in Michigan City, Ind.

Spicer is currently a member of the campus library staff. Playing the feminine half of the shipwrecked duo will be Christine Bergstrom, Bloomfield Hills sophomore. Miss Bergstrom appeared in the UT production of "The Good Woman of Setzuan" last year.

Duane Miller of Lansing, a member of the Circle Players, will portray Miss Bergstrom's brother.

Appearing as Orsino, the Duke of Illyria, will be Michael Swift, Ashtabula, Ohio, junior, and president of the MSU Players. Swift won an award as best supporting actor here last year for his performance in the Arena Theater production of "Three Medieval Plays."

Mary Ellen Finucan, Lansing sophomore, will play the part of Olivia. Last year, Miss Finucan studied on a scholarship at the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York City. She has appeared in the UT productions of "Royal Gambit," "The Cave Dwellers," "The Skin of Our Teeth," and "You Never

Can Tell."

Other members of the "Twelfth Night" cast are Don R. Belch; Aldon Smith, Coe, Conn., senior, as Sir Aguecheek; John H. Heron, senior, as Sir Toby; Earlene Bates, Salt Lake City, as Maria; Marie Junior, as Maria.

Douglas Norwick, Plains, N.Y., junior, as John Ippson, as a sea captain, and William Harris, Lansing, as a sea captain.

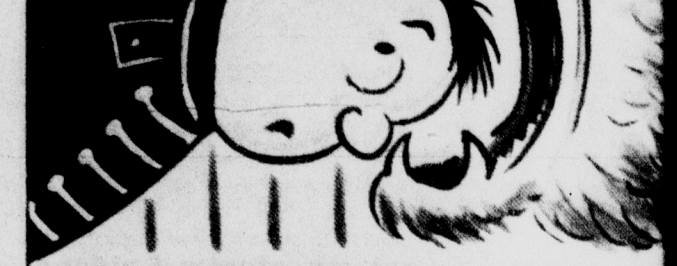

Tickets for the Circle Players production of "Twelfth Night" may be obtained at the St. Playhouse. Admissions are $2 for students with ID or $1 for students with ID.

Arnold Air Society members treated 30 orphans from the St. Vincent's Home in Lansing to the MSU-Purdue football game and lunch Saturday.

Arnold Air Society is the Air Force ROTC honorary.

Pall Mall Presents - GIRL WATCHER'S GUIDE

CAMPUS TYPE IV

Few sights in all the world of girl watching are as breathtaking as the unexpected observation of a Gym-Dandy in midair maneuver. Plato might well have had the Gym-Dandy in mind when he wrote, "When a beautiful soul harmonizes with a beautiful form, and the two are cast in one mould, that will be the fairest of sights to him who has the eye to contemplate the vision."

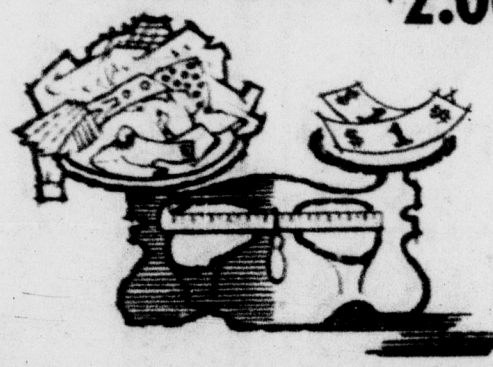

Although the Gym-Dandy is a joy to behold even while tightening the laces of her sneakers, she must be seen in action to be fully appreciated. The same thing is true of a Pall Mall. It's a long, firm cigarette in a handsome package, but it must be tasted to be fully appreciated. Try Pall Mall and see.

Pall Mall's natural mildness is so good to your taste!
So smooth, so satisfying, so downright smokeable!
