Tshombe Concedes Defeat; Bows To Central Congo Rule

Academic Council Urges Decision

The Academic Council sent a prepared resolution back to the steering committee Monday after informally advising that MSU policy include a statement on the University's position toward academic freedom.

Rollin S. Simonds, professor of personnel and production administration, said discussion centered around the right of professors to express themselves in a non-academic capacity.

Simonds said the resolution under discussion was part of a statement on academic freedom by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

Campus attention has focused on the issue of academic freedom since MSU-O denied tenure to Samuel Shapiro, a professor who has made several controversial statements on U.S. policy toward Cuba.

Hannah To Assess MSU Faculty, Student Leaders Invited To Convocation

The first annual "State of the University" address will be delivered by President John A. Hannah Monday night to faculty members, their wives, selected student leaders, and officials of nearby communities.

President Hannah said he has spent two weeks preparing the address which he described as "very serious." In analyzing the present situation of the university, he is also expected to outline a blueprint for the new year.

The faculty convocation, scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Auditorium, will replace the winter term assembly of the Faculty Senate. Similar convocations have been held at irregular intervals in the past.

But the convocation Monday will mark the beginning of annual "State of the University" addresses by Hannah. Such events are traditional at other universities throughout the country.

Deserted By Chiefs Of 8 Tribes

(UNITED NATIONS) -- High diplomatic sources at the United Nations say Katanga President Tshombe has conceded defeat in his bid for an independent province.

According to the diplomats, Tshombe announced over Radio Katanga he accepts Central Congo rule over his secessionist province.

The sources said Tshombe bowed to U-N Secretary General Thant's ultimatum to negotiate Katanga's return to the Congo as a defeated power or face further U-N military action.

The diplomats said Thant expressed satisfaction that his main conditions have been met, but a spokesman said Thant had not yet heard the report and could issue no comment.

Tshombe returned to his capital city of Elisabethville today and shortly thereafter, eight of his most powerful tribal chieftains deserted him. The chieftains -- one is Tshombe's own father-in-law -- called for the central government to arrest him as a traitor.

City Proposes 50-50 Split On Bogue Bridge Cost

The East Lansing City Council approved a proposal for an agreement between the University and the city on the Bogue Bridge project.

The comparative cost of the first was $226,600 and the cost of the other plan, which would be a single structure with four lanes, two in either direction, is $170,059.

The council approved the second plan in a divided vote. The council decided to pay half the cost of the second plan in four equal payments with no interest to be paid by the city.

However, this does not limit the bridge to the first scheme. The council would go along with the more expensive proposal provided the city pays its share.

The biggest previous monthly quota was a year ago when the Army took 15,000 men as part of its draft program.

The sharply increased quota was foreshadowed by an Army announcement last November that it would expand its strength by 20,000 men through increased draft calls for a six-month period.

The higher draft is aimed at building the Army's strength to 980,000 men.

The quota for this month and for next stands at 4,000 men. In December, 6,000 were drafted.

Draft Quota Shows Jump

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Defense Department today asked the drafting of 9,000 men for the Army next week to double the quotas of recent months.

The sharply increased quota was foreshadowed by an Army announcement last November that it would expand its strength by 20,000 men through increased draft calls for a six-month period.

The higher draft is aimed at building the Army's strength to 980,000 men.

$5.2 Million Contract On Tap For Biochemistry Building

A $5.2 million contract for a biochemistry building will probably be awarded in February, Richard U. Byerrum, dean of the College of Natural Science and acting director of the Institute of Biology and Medicine, said Tuesday.

Plans for a new veterinary medicine building which will cost an estimated $3.5 million are not final. It is hoped a contract will be awarded in the spring, Byerrum said.

A recent $2 million grant from the U.S. Public Health Service will furnish nearly one-fourth of the cost of the two new buildings. The new grant was announced by Michigan Senators Philip A. Hart and Patrick V. McNamara Dec. 27. It is in addition to an early grant of $1,213,000 by the National Science Foundation which was announced in November.

Byerrum said the money will benefit the two-year medical program MSU plans to start in the fall of 1964.

The veterinary medicine building will house the Department of Surgery and Medicine and the animal clinic. The space these units now occupy in Giltner hall will be converted into rooms for human medical studies.

The microbiology and public health, physiology and pharmacology, anatomy, and pathology departments are already housed in Giltner Hall.

Dean Byerrum said the biochemistry department presently occupies offices and laboratories in three of the University's older buildings.

JFK Plans Union Talk Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Kennedy met with congressional leaders of both parties on the eve of a new legislative session tonight and agreed to deliver his State of the Union message next Monday.

The chief executive brought his top advisers on defense, diplomatic and intelligence affairs into a meeting with republican and democratic leaders from Capitol Hill for a briefing on defense and foreign policy.

White House officials said no legislative matters of any kind, foreign or domestic, came up tonight.

But Kennedy will go over what he wants in the way of domestic legislation in another meeting tomorrow around the breakfast table with just the democratic chieftains from congress in attendance.

Stabbing Victim's Health Improves

An MSU coed, stabbed three times Saturday night while visiting friends in Detroit, was reported to be in improved condition at Detroit Receiving Hospital Tuesday.

Deborah Huffman, Detroit freshman, underwent surgery for a ruptured spleen and is being treated for serious lacerations. She was attacked by a man who forced his way into her girlfriend's apartment on the west side of Detroit. Miss Huffman was alone in the apartment at the time of the attack.

Traffic Aided By Blocked Walk

Chains ease traffic congestion on Abbott Road.

The blocking of the sidewalk crossing on the west side of the Grand River and Abbot Rd. intersection is part of a city project to control the flow of traffic at that point.

The chains were installed during the MSU holiday recess as a convenience to the city and to prevent confusion.

The chains prevent pedestrian traffic with cars turning off Abbott Rd. They were installed to improve the traffic flow on Abbott Rd. and eliminate traffic congestion.

Other regulations include a prohibited left turn at Abbott Rd. Albert, a ban on parking in front of the post office, and five minute parking regulations to reduce meters.

Students may see one of the new attractions. The Ballet Theatre will appear Jan. 17, and the Chicago Symphony on Jan. 20.

Ex-Students May Charge Police

Benjamin J. Taylor, 21, Camden, N.J., and Ivanhoe Donaldson, 21, New York City, former MSU students, arrested Christmas week, said they may file charges against policemen in Clarksdale, Miss.

The two were arrested for violating Mississippi drug laws when delivering food, clothing and medicine to needy Negroes in Clarksdale, Mississippi.

Taylor and Donaldson were spending 11 days in jail. A Coahoma County grand jury which meets next week is expected to consider charges the two youths violated state drug laws.

The youths say they will attend a rally at Clarksdale on Jan. 16 and will make another trip to Mississippi if their attorneys decide to press charges against Clarksdale police. Taylor and Donaldson are now in Louisville, Ky.

They alleged they transported barbiturates in violation of Mississippi laws in a station wagon. They plan to return the vehicle to its owner, Mrs. Jo Ann Elliot of Ann Arbor and then return to East Lansing to see about re-entering MSU.

GOP Splits Ranks; Ford Named New Caucus Head

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Michigan Representative Gerald Ford was elected GOP Caucus Chairman here Monday, as a group of young Republicans toppled Rep. Charles Hoeven of Iowa from his former post.

The mild surprise took place Tuesday night when Ford, 49, defeated Hoeven, 67-year-old veteran of 20 years in the House, had been caucus chairman since 1957. He was defeated by a secret ballot of 86 for Ford and 78 for Hoeven, with two members not voting.

Ford, 49, has been a House member since 1954. He was the first open dissension in GOP ranks since Halleck replaced Rep. Joseph W. Martin (Mass.) as floor leader four years ago.

Charles E. Goodell (N.Y.) and Robert P. Griffin (Mich.) who led the fight for Ford, said their sole purpose was to win greater representation for newer members in party councils. They said they had no quarrel with the House GOP leadership.

Ford said he repeats his victory "in no way indicates a division in our leadership." Halleck, who took no open part in the brief fight, greeted Ford as "one of the most able, diligent and effective" members of the House.

Jazzmen Wail Parting Notes For Musician

NEW ORLEANS (AP) -- As the jazzman say, they passed the body of John Casimir Tuesday.

The people who loved the mournful wail of his E-flat clarinet turned out in this city to bid adieu to the late jazzman.

Not rich, not famous, but adored by the faithful for the things he could do with his clarinet, Casimir died Thursday. He was 64.

Registration Dilemma

The Registrar's Office found the dilemma concerning winter term registration scheduling. The dilemma was quickly resolved but not without inconveniencing some students.

For the second straight year, more than 1,000 students were forced to cut short their New Year's Eve celebration and travel on the "First" in order to make registration Wednesday, Jan. 2.

Registration could have begun a day later, on Thursday, and ended Saturday. But such a situation would have meant not only opening up all the University colleges and departments on Saturday but also making University employes work on a weekend day.

Moreover, many students work in the area on Saturday. Consequently, conflicts would have arisen requiring special excuses which usually means chaos (unless, of course, these students work for sympathetic employers willing to release their help for a few hours).

Thus it was a question of inconveniencing approximately 1,300 students forced to travel on Jan. 1 or inconveniencing the part-time student workers.

In any case, the outlook for next year's winter term registration is far more satisfying for all. New Year's Day falls on Wednesday which means that the pre-class ritual won't begin until the following Monday -- a very respectable vacation.

And it will give all the students ample time to return from Pasadena... hmm... hmm.

Royal Welcome

East Lansing has a new and distinguished resident--one who'll be around for a guaranteed two years at least.

Governor George Romney, his wife Lenore, and son Mitt, 15, will live in the Glencairn district. Mitt will attend school in East Lansing next fall.

We welcome the Governor to East Lansing and wish him luck with his plans to "make Michigan move again."

And since the Michigan legislature convenes today, we hope that all are prepared to work with the new legislation into effect.

I'm sorry but I seem to have forgotten the password!

Woody Plants, Not Wildlife, Are Arboretum's Primary Asset

By George Parmelee
(This is the last of a two-part series dealing with the problem of spraying DDT on campus elm trees afflicted with the Dutch elm disease.)

One final charge demands airing here; that "the MSU campus is known far and wide as one of the best examples of the bad effects of an ill-conceived and excessive spray program." Prior to the publication of Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring" such a statement might safely have been ignored and allowed to fade into oblivion. However, the work of an acknowledge literary craftsman, however biased and fallacious that work may be. The charge must, therefore, be refuted in the interest of doing our bit to ward off possible restrictive legislation by a deluded public. If enacted, such legislation could, and undoubtedly would, do untold damage before the electorate could see and correct its mistake.

Compus Arboretum

The charge, of course, goes far beyond the question of elm disease control, for our green campus is far more than an American elm refuge. It is, in fact, to use the words of another letter writer, a "campus arboreum." It includes nearly five thousand species and varieties of plants and trees. It is as important as to try to assign a monetary value to this great assemblage. Suffice to say it is very great and is further enhanced by the way the plants are arranged.

Wherever practicable, they are grouped in taxonomic or use categories where they may be efficiently studied while simultaneously serving their varied landscape functions of screening, softening, shading, accenting, etc. Thus are served the primary functions of an arboretum: study and research; illustration of correct usage and placement of plant materials; creation of beautiful vistas and landscapes. That these functions are served well is evidenced by the continuing acclaim showered upon the campus by qualified judges of beauty from all over the world.

Valued everywhere as a secondary function of an arboretum is the wildlife habitat it affords. Freed, as they typically are, of normal predation and persecution by man, the birds and mammals of an arboretum are always rather easily observed, frequently amazingly tame and sometimes exceedingly abundant.

Wildlife Secondary

However conspicuous or valuable an asset they may be, I must emphasize this painful but silent point: they are a secondary asset; if a choice must be made between the wildlife and woody plants of an arboretum, then the latter must invariably be favored. After all, there can be no habitats without a habitat. Moreover, it takes a lot longer to produce a habitat than bird or mammal to inhabit it. Thirty or more generations of birds and mammals are produced before an elm seedling reaches seed bearing age, well over a hundred before it can be judged mature. Creation of a forest community takes even longer. Nature needs upwards of three centuries of a forest community takes even longer.

The M.S.U. Grounds Department bears the heavy responsibility of arboretum maintenance. It maintains close liaison with, and enjoys a respected position among similar departments throughout the East and Midwest. In carrying out its mission to protect and maintain campus plant materials in a vigorous and attractive condition, it regularly consults with and acts upon the recommendations of M.S.U. faculty experts in many fields. When confronted with the threat of a serious pest or disease, it reacts just as the modern forester, farmer, orchardist, or gardener does: it effectively brings to bear the modern weapons of horticultural science.

Spray Problem Not Excessive

Our spray programs are not excessive -- if for no reason other than cost. Pesticides are expensive often distressingly so. You may be sure we have far better places to spend maintenance funds than on excessive spray applications!

But there are other reasons. Contrary to the general impression, we do not use DDT. Our program at M.S.U. are not based on liquidating every last bird or mammal on campus. My two immediate superiors are avid students of songbirds, faithfully feeding feeding stations in winter, and to the best of my knowledge have never aimed at a bird with anything more lethal than a camera. I am not so glibly stimulated by a "Readers Digest" article ("To Bring-Back the Bluebird", April, 1962) by helping my 4-H son build 67 nest boxes for a housing development scattered over several miles of Aoliedon Township.

And, finally, I depart from verifiable fact to report what nevertheless is gospel truth. The Grounds Department was often called upon to provide mosquito control for genteel campus functions. Out of concern for the undesirable side effects of the DDT spray on the campus bird life at least one of these gatherings was placated by the hydraulic equivalent of the psychological sugar pill -- 100 proof water straight out of the campus wells!

Spray Okay

There are, of course, extremists who would maintain that any spray stronger than water is "ill-conceived and excessive". Arrayed against them, however, is a veritable "Who's Who" of respected scientists, physicians and other technically qualified people who concur that chemical pesticides are an indispensable tool of modern U.S. agriculture and horticulture.

To find out who these people are and what they say, write to the National Academy of Sciences in Washington, D.C., and ask for the two exceptionally pertinent reports: "Evaluation of Pesticides in Food Production" and "Evaluation of Pesticide - Wildlife Problems." Or, if that is too much bother, merely go to the library and read authoritative articles in Time (Sept. 28, 1962) and U.S. News and World Report (Nov. 26, 1962). By so doing you will have risen to the challenge of good citizenship and found documentation for the following closing arguments:

1. Statutes have long since been adopted freeing our public officials from the need to seek a vote at election time each and every time a pest control program is contemplated. These officials are thus fully authorized--indeed are obliged--to undertake the control of pests and diseases in the public interest.

2. Our scientists are not nearly so uninformed concerning the

Tough Sledding Ahead For JFK As Congress Tackles 1963's Problems

Dave Jaehnig

Cold war, Washington style, begins today as the 88th Congress convenes. Battle-lines of the New Frontier, already drawn last year, have been strengthened.

The four major well-picked bones, still unsolved from previous administrations and Congresses, will receive major emphasis again this year.

Heading the list of Kennedy's concentrated proposals, a sort of big four in the presidential mind, is a tax bill, complete with income tax cuts.

Any tax reduction during a time of great national debt, however, is bound to sit wrong with incoming Congressmen, and may well find itself stilled.

Kennedy's idea on the tax proposal seems to indicate that a long period of national deficit is preferable to the current sluggish economy.

Medical care for the aged, which nearly made the national scene as a part of the social security program last year, is number two on the Kennedy program.

Strengthening of the Democratic Senate stronghold might get the Medicare bill through that section of Congress, but the House is another story. With Southern representatives pulling most of the strings on the strategic Ways and Means Committee, the bill would seem to have little chance of success, if last year's indications hold up.

Aid to education, with the questions of aid to parochial schools and integration, should again be a real bombshell. Meredith and "The Miss" will put the big presidential push on dangerous ground as legislators think twice before passing the education bill.

Underdeveloped countries, which always look to the United States with an extended palm, are pretty certain to remain empty-handed. Congress, currently worried about uncertain results of years of foreign aid to these countries, is apt to keep more money and goods at home, and try to pull our own sometimes floundering economy into line.

Setting the Big Four into a box score prediction, it looks like a big goose-egg for Kennedy despite a heavily loaded Democratic Congress.

A tendency to bipartisan cooperation between the traditional hardheads and a greater feeling of responsibility to the homelike that is traditional of post-election years could well mean that Congress will show a mind of its own, despite presidential wishes.

Congress can be expected to back some bills the President is pushing, including one to control production of feed grains and dairy products, which may get the farmer on the road to economic stability.

Young people also could get a boost from a program in job help, geared to high school dropouts who have trouble finding jobs now.

Unemployment, a chronic thorn in the economy, will come under immediate consideration, but the program looks like an expansion of the old ideas thrashed about during the opening year of the 87th Congress.

A plan to subsidize public transportation, already a snarl in many large cities, will also come up for consideration, and should get fast action because of the heavily Democratic voting trends of some of the larger cities.

All in all, it looks like the new faces, unpredictable faces in many instances, will tell the story. But it will be tough sledding for Kennedy.

Of Thinking And Feeling

It is a mistake to believe that people have to learn to think better, for the world to get better. I prefer, because if our basic feelings are wrong, the more accurately we think, the more diabolical will our conclusions be. The worst people are those who use impeccable logic to justify their basic assumption of selfishness.

One Small Voice

Massachusetts: Right Or Wrong

Whether Washington deserves another Kennedy, or vice versa is a question which has been used as much as the proverbial old shoe. Like it or not, when the 88th Congress convenes, will be watching yet another new face with the same old face. This most recent member of the clan to move to the Capitol is Teddy Kennedy, freshman Senator from Massachusetts.

The problem of how many Kennedys are too many is a question with many political, philosophical, and emotional ramifications. Therefore I will not try to answer such a complex question here.

Vaughn Meader is much better equipped to dispense with the problem since he has had more experience with the family. I am sure that he would dismiss our qualms about the dynasty with a statement similar to this one. "Welcome to Washington, Teddy. And thank you for getting elected and helping my tax to move ahead with vig-ah."

Even if we are not sure how many Kennedys are too many, there is one fact of which we can be certain. It is that the United States can afford another Kennedy of the type that Teddy has to this point personified.

The type to which I am referring is the elected official who comes to Washington with the primary aim of furthering the interests of his home state. Unfortunately, such an attitude places most importance on getting the best for your constituents works to the detriment of the nation as a whole. Even more fortunately, Teddy has fit this mold perfectly.

Our nation needs elected representatives in Washington who will be citizens of America first and then citizens of their respective home states second. We must have Congressmen who will make the laws with equity and justice for all instead of seeking favors for a few. We do not want to have our government run by narrow-thinking little people who place primary emphasis upon re-election through satisfying the folks back home.

Today Congress is disgracefully handicapped by those who represent sections of the country and their home states more than they represent what is right and good for everyone. It is also sad that because of their policies, these are the representatives of the people who are returned to serve again after election time. It is even sadder still to witness any new member of the august body following that same pattern. It is especially heartening when this individual holds the unique position of brother to the President.

From the campaign to the present moment, Teddy has been a shining example of those who place the interests of their first above all else. He has been such an example, that is, his picture was not appearing in Time magazine vacationing in the Virgin Islands or skiing with Bobby in Colorado.

When Teddy won the Senate seat from Massachusetts, his campaign slogan was "I can do more for Massachusetts." He much better it would have been to hear instead "I can do more for the United States."

A few weeks ago, Teddy made the news once again. This time he was accused by Senator Kenneth Keating of "pirating" New York business. Needless to say, although Teddy did not become very popular with Senator Keating, he won rave notices in Boston papers.

More recently at his first news conference in Washington, stated that he was certain that he would not go along with the administration on every issue. He said that he would disagree with any policies which affected the people of Massachusetts adversely.

It is true that Ted Kennedy is one of the smallest offenders in the Senate today. Many of the other Congressmen are the least interested of all.

Mr. Kennedy's only crime up to this point is that he carried on a campaign to be elected in our form of political democracy. Since election, he has been carrying on a good public relations campaign to keep his name in the thoughts of his constituents. No one could blame him for these actions.

However, Congress is in desperate need of leaders who will place the national good above petty interests. Our country could justly expect more of the junior Senator from Massachusetts. It is detrimental to the nation to have another of its representatives following this old, harmful pattern.

I am sure that this Senator will be returned many times to serve the interests of the people of Massachusetts. I only hope that there is something left after he and those like him finish dividing the spoils.

ecological impact of pesticides as the recent flurry of allegations would seem to suggest. The stringent provisions of the National Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act do, in fact, result in more data concerning the possible hazards of pesticides than is available for most pharmaceuticals.

3. Except in certain specific instances, biological controls cannot hold in check the hordes of pests spawned by man's massive disruption of natural habitats. Therefore, before we support a policy of "Letting Nature Take Its Course" we might ponder the statement made in the Time article that while pesticides "it is possible the experts would find the probability of disposing of the 200 million surplus human beings even perplexing than the problem of disposing of America's current corn, cotton and wheat surpluses."

Lions And Bears Hit In New Sift

DETROIT (UPI) - Police Commissioner George Edwards says he told the Detroit Lions 10 days ago some of the club's players have been associating with "notorious gamblers."

But Edwards declines to name the players involved. He said "we have no evidence of anything involving criminal activity on the part of any Lion player."

He identifies the gamblers as Dick Casares, and Bill Briner, Anthony.

The police commissioner says he told Lion Coach George Wilson that associations between the gambling brothers and the players included entertainment and bus trips to out-of-town games. The bus, Edwards said is registered in the name of Odeus Tinscher, who has been convicted three times of gambling.

Also present on these trips, Edwards charged, were several

Illinois Tops

Michigan, Indiana and Illinois stretched their unbeaten strings to two in the Big Ten last night. Michigan thumped Iowa, 88-67; Illinois best Ohio State, 90-78, and Indiana trounced Purdue 85-71.

Bill Buntin led the Wolverine's to a comeback victory over the Hawkeye's. The lanky sophomore netted 34 points and captured 16 rebounds. Dave Koach led the Hawkeyes with 15 points. The Wolverine's are now 10-1 on the season while the Hawkeye's are 4-7.

Illinois established themselves as the team to beat by knocking off the Buckeyes. The Illini had too much balance in their starting five for the Buckeyes who rely heavily on Gary Brads. Brads racked up 33 points but tired in the second half. Tal Brody, Dave Downey, and Bill Small combined to give the Illini 66 points. Illinois is 10-1 on the season while the Buckeyes are 9-2.

Jim Rayl again paced Indiana as the Hoosiers downed Purdue's Boiler-makers. Rayl got 25 points while only playing 30 minutes. Rayl made the Big Ten in scoring with 67 points and Indiana is tied for the Big Ten lead despite a 5-6 season. Hughes led Purdue with 27 points.

DETROIT (UPI) - Tiger Manager Bob Scheffing isn't predicting where the Tigers will finish this year in the American League pennant race.

He only says "We'll give 'em fits." But Scheffing is sure of one thing—namely that Frank Lary will be able to pitch again this year. Lary was out all last season with a sore arm and Scheffing says this is the reason the Tigers finished fourth in the pennant chase.

"We'd have won last year if Lary hadn't been injured," Scheffing said. "A two-month lay-off by Al Kaline didn't help either, but Kaline still had a great year and the Tiger decline can't be attributed to the rightfielder's injury."

Howie Young Back

DETROIT (UPI) - The bad man of the Detroit Red Wings, defenseman Howie Young, is in everyone's good graces again. Young played Tuesday night when Wings met Hamilton, their junior "A" Farm Club.

Young will also play Thursday and Saturday in National Hockey League games at Montreal and Toronto.

Young had faced possible suspension for a five-day disappearing act he pulled last week. Young, who leads NHL defenses in penalties this season, failed to show up for several practices after a trip to Chicago. He pulled the same stunt last season and was termed down.

However, the Wings are hurting badly in recent weeks. They have slipped from first to fourth place and are in danger of falling to fifth if they don't start scoring some goals. Apparently Sid Abel figures the club needs Young.

Chicago, Too

CHICAGO - Investigations into the actions of Phil Handler, Chicago Bears backfield coach, and other officials are connected with the gambling business and part-owner of a Las Vegas gambling resort and hotel, were broken by the Detroit News in a special story Tuesday.

The story told of Samuels betting upwards to $90,000 on football one season, and his association with Handler and Bears backfield coach Rick Casares. To date, Casares has taken two lie detector tests and was cleared, according to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Ewbank Fired

BALTIMORE (UPI) - The National Football League Baltimore Colts have ended weeks of speculation by firing Coach Weeb Ewbank.

Don Shula, defensive backfield coach of the Detroit Lions, was named to replace him.

Shula, who has been coaching the Lions since 1958, was named to replace Ewbank.

Ewbank was offered an undesignated job with the Baltimore organization but if he declines to accept he will be in good shape moneywise. He has two years to go on his present $30,000 contract so he can leave with a $60,000 going-away present.

Ewbank was the toast of pro football when he guided Baltimore to back-to-back National League championships in 1958 and 1959. But the club fell on

The coach said he first broached the subject of retirement to Layne last Sunday after the Steelers played Detroit in

Gymnasts Busy During Holidays

Michigan State's gymnasts were busy during the holidays...

Kowal then banged home Wilson's pass at 2:50 of the final stanza and tied it on another screen shot at 6:42.

State had the pressure on when Wilson grabbed the puck in front of the Denver net and skated the length of the ice, splitting the Spartan defense and scoring from four feet out.

DJ's Ron Nastlund clinched it at 17:18 when he tipped in Dom Pragonen's shot.

Chandik was great in the nets, however, kicking out 46 shots.

Against Colorado College Saturday night, the Spartans came from behind with three goals in the third period to send the contest into sudden-death overtime.

Senior wing Art Thomas pumped in Johnstone's rebound with 4:20 remaining to tie it after Johnstone had gotten his third goal and sophomore Doug Roberts his second earlier in the period.

But CC's Art Berglund scored his third goal of the night on a breakaway at 2:16 of overtime to ruin State's comeback.

As the Spartans prepared to leave, Coach Broadbent World Arena, Lansing said:

"I'm going to have to shake up our lines when we get back home. I'll probably move Roberts to defense and put Gary Goble back on the third line with Rich Hargroves and Jim Lawrence."

A GUIDE FOR THE UNMONEYED R. L. Sigfoos was a keen, ambitious lad, and when he finished high school he wished mightily to go on with his education. It seemed, however, a forlorn hope. R. L.'s father could not send the boy to college because a series of crop failures had brought him to the brink of disaster. (R. L.'s father raised orchids which, in North Dakota, is a form of agriculture fraught with risk.) It was, therefore, apparently up to R. L. He could go to college only if he worked his way through. This was a prospect that R. L. considered with a certain amount of trepidation. The task would be too great, that he would never be able to carry on a full, busy college life and still find time to do odd jobs and make money. Racked with misgivings, R. L. paced the streets, pondering his dilemma. One day, walking and brooding, he came upon a park bench and sat down and lit a Marlboro cigarette. R. L. always lit a Marlboro when he was low in his mind. R. L. also always lit a Marlboro when he was merry. The fact is there is no occasion—happy or sad, pensive or exuberant, cheery or solemn—when Marlboro with its fine filter and fine flavor is not entirely welcome, as you will discover when you go to your favorite tobacconist and buy some, as we—the makers of Marlboro and I and R. L. Sigfoos—hope you will do real soon. Sitting and thinking and smoking a Marlboro on the park bench, R. L. was suddenly interrupted by a small, quavering voice which said, "My boy, you are troubled. Can I help?" Seated beside R. L. was a tiny, gnarled man with wispy, snow-white hair. His skin was almost transparent, showing a delicate tracery of fragile bones beneath. His back was bent, and his hands trembled. But his eyes were bright and clear. R. L. looked into those eyes, into the wrinkled face. He saw wisdom there, and experience, and kindness. "Do you think, sir," said R. L., "that a boy can work his way through college and still enjoy a rich, full campus life?" "Why, bless you, son," replied the stranger with a rictus chuckle, "of course you can. In fact, I did it myself." "Was it very hard?" asked R. L. "Yes, it was hard," the stranger admitted. "But when one is young, all things are possible. I, for example, used to get up at five o'clock every morning to stoke the furnace at the SAE house. At six I had to milk the ewes at the school of animal husbandry. At seven I gave a fencing lesson to the Dean of Women. At eight I had a class in early Runic poets. At nine I gave haircuts at the Gamma Phi Beta house. At ten I had differential calculus. At eleven I posed for a life class. At twelve I had a class in the history of the world. At one I had a class in the history of languages. At two I exercised the mice in psych lab. At three I gave the Dean of Women another fencing lesson. At four I had qualitative analysis. At five I went clamming. At six I cut meat for the football team. At seven I ushered at the movies. At eight I had my ears pierced so that at nine I could tell fortunes in a gypsy tearoom. At ten I had a class in astronomy. At eleven I tucked in the football team. At twelve I studied and at three I went to sleep." "Sir," cried R. L., "I am moved and inspired by your shining example!" "It was nothing," said the stranger modestly, shaking his frail white head. "It was just hard work, and hard work never hurt anybody." "Would you mind telling me, sir," said R. L., "how old you are now?" "Twenty-two," said the stranger. You don't have to be a rich man's son or daughter to enjoy Marlboro cigarettes, available in soft-pack or flip-top box at your favorite tobacco counter.

Change in Dress Raises Comment

The change in dress regulations at MSU's dormitories, which now require students to wear a coat and tie to dinner, has prompted student comment.

Louis DiCicco, Birmingham junior, said, "The white shirt looks just as clean and neat and is much more comfortable."

Some students thought the change wasn't significant. Wayne Gates, Davidson junior, said, "I don't really think the change has any constructive effect. You will have to change, and you still have to pay the laundry bill."

"I don't think the change should appease anyone. All they did was to take off the coat and tie," Glenn Erickson, MSU sophomore, said.

Don Bybee, Lapeer senior, questioned the significance of the change.

"Much ado about nothing, but it's nice that they proved it," Coed comments were more unfavorable. Pam Monette, Freeport freshman, said, "I want you to change the regulations back. I think guys look much better in suits. After all, if the guys are dressed up, the girls tend to be more dressed up too."

One comment was agreed upon by the majority of men in the residence halls. Jim Cornelius, Kalamazoo sophomore, said, "I'd like to see stronger regulations for the girls, such as elimination of the tennis shoe and the t-shirt sock."

Prof's Book Accepted By Leading Universities

One-hundred twenty leading schools and universities have adopted the revised edition of Professor Robert W. Johnson's book, "Financial Administration."

Johnson, professor of financial administration, said he attributes the success of the book to its subjective approach.

"The student is placed in the role of financial manager," said Johnson, "and this helps him to understand the processes by which financial decisions are made."

He claimed that this approach, involving the student's individual personality, contrasts with the dated descriptive approach.

"The emphasis is on financial decision making," he added, "and

Donkey's Artistic Tail Gives Khrushchev Slap

BALTIMORE, 2 (AP)—A painting artist by the name of Jack has scored his first commercial triumph. He does it with his tail. Jack, a Mexican burro whose pad is in the Baltimore zoo, has sold his first painting for a cool $50.

The painting is "Black Wisk," and some critics of abstract art have suggested, appropriately enough, that it looks like it was done by a jackass.

"Jack's success saga began

An unknowing art critic summoned to judge the abstract painting praised it warmly before Watson slyly broke the news.

But the tale doesn't end here. Norman Brock of San Antonio, Tex., read the story of Jack's artistic debut and wrote Watson: "I would like very much to own 'Black Wisk' by Jack. I have enclosed a check for $50 if you should choose to sell it. Also $5 for packing, insurance and postage."

The zoo director disclosed he had received several other letters expressing interest in the budding artist and at least one other offer of money for an original "Jack."

In "Newser E. Powell," Assistant Pathologist at the Hillcrest Medical Center in Tulsa, Okla., wrote suggesting that the painting be sent to Khrushchev.

"Certainly the international situation could stand a little good clean humor for a change," Powell suggested. He even offered to help defray some of the cost of sending the painting to Moscow.

"With this kind of money," Watson quipped, "We could toss a swell one-man exhibit and reception for our art."

Bogue Bridge

The city will pay off its share in four equal payments beginning July, 1964.

This is only a proposal and the University has not yet been consulted as to the city's plans. There will be a future meeting between the city officials and the University to map out formal plans.

Members of the council were disturbed because of the funds they had to pay for the new 1-496 project. The amount the city will pay has jumped $70,000 and since the Bogue Street bridge was not in the city's budget for this year, Dillinger and Darling were concerned about the city budget.

In other council action, they approved the State Highway Department's plans for the 1-496 project and the interchanges in the East Lansing area.

Council approved the construction of a 54-inch and 60-inch sanitary sewer that is to run beneath the 1-496 project. They also approved the construction of Troubridge Road from Arbor Drive to Harrison Road at a cost of $65,000 to the city for the divided highway project.

Councilwoman Darling moved for the appointment of Frank Warden, city assessor, to fill the unexpired term of Russell Runquist on the Ingham County Board of Supervisors. The motion was supported and approved and Warden will serve out the term.

Former Student Heads Can Return To Office

The four former leaders of student organizations who were placed on probation for disciplinary reasons have been cleared and can return to their offices.

Dean of Students John A. Fuzak said Monday.

Fuzak said whether the students re-assumed their offices was "entirely up to the individual organizations." The University ruling against students holding office while on probation does not apply once the probation is revoked.

JFK Plans

Pierre Salinger said that Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., and democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana invited Kennedy to deliver his State of the Union address at a joint senate-house session in the house chamber at 12:30 p.m. Monday, Kennedy accepted.

It is in the annual State of the Union message that the President looks back on the year past and then lays down his program for the year ahead, putting legislative requests sometimes in general and sometimes in specific language.

The budget message with its recommendation for funds to carry out the program will come later.

Kennedy was flanked at tonight's meeting by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and John McCone, Director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The conference lasted little more than an hour and Salinger said it was limited to foreign policy and defense matters.

Kennedy conducted the meeting -- an annual event in advance of a congressional session -- shortly after flying back to Washington from a three-week stay at Palm Beach.

Howard said he would not try to succeed when he was placed on probation Oct. 30 by former Congress Speaker Jim Barnes.

Tom Steinfatt, Lansing junior, was the president of the now inactive Forensics Union. Peter Warbe, Detroit senior, headed the Humanist Club and Dick McLellan, East Lansing junior, was NSA coordinator.

"The probations were under consideration for several weeks during fall term," Fuzak said. "No 90-day minimum ever existed. This applied only to the driving prohibition which goes along with probation."

Fuzak said that many revocations of probation become effective at the beginning of a new term. No minimum time is ever attached to probations.

The ban on driving applied for 90 days because students

When placed on probation there is no "cut-and-dried" rule concerning probation. Each case is considered individually. The University does not release specific information concerning probationary action according to a standing policy.

AUGS officers seemed gratified by the action taken by the committee.

President Jim Barnes commented, "While the means employed by the students is somewhat questionable, a solution evolved. The continued probation of the students is ended."

Jan Garret, Gainesville, P. sophomore, and Bob Henck, Huntingdon Woods, junior, remain on probation.

Calls Death Penalty 'A Tragic Failure'

The history of capital punishment in Michigan reflects a heated controversy which has become nationwide.

Michigan University professor of sociology and anthropology at MSU, calls the death penalty "a tragic failure."

Smucker said he approves Michigan's stand against revival of the death penalty. The new Michigan constitution which will be presented to voters on the April ballot does not recognize capital punishment. Con-Con voted against the death penalty.

Michigan became the first state to outlaw capital punishment in 1847. A bill reviving the death penalty was signed by the governor in 1937 but was revoked in a referendum.

The most frequent crimes punishable by the death penalty in the United States are first degree murder, kidnapping, treason, rape, armed robbery, burglary, espionage and aggravated assault.

Harold Kachelke, administrative assistant of the Michigan Department of Correction, said the theory behind the death penalty is that it deters crime.

Kachelke said most murders are committed on the spur of the moment with little thought of the consequences. Kachelke said murders which have been planned to death are not affected by capital punishment. He says such murderers don't think they will be caught.

Smucker noted that fear of the death penalty has not served in any way to deter the death rate.

Of the 10 states with two or less murders per 100,000 population, four have abolished capital punishment. Michigan has 4.29 murders per 100,000.

Kidnapping increased after the Lindbergh kidnapping law was enacted, Smucker said.

Smucker pointed out that capital punishment may create more crime due to the sensationalism which surrounds trials for capital crimes.

Smucker and Kachelke agreed that capital punishment does not fit into modern concepts of penology or human behavior.

"It serves no purpose," Kachelke said. "It is way out of keeping with our times and social philosophies."

Smucker said the death penalty is not conducive to treating individuals. "We can learn a lot of motivation by studying people and we certainly can't study dead bodies."

The alternative to the death penalty is life imprisonment. It usually carries a minimum term at the completion of which a person may be paroled. There is no parole for first-degree murder in Michigan.

Capital punishment is more expensive in the long run than life imprisonment, Smucker said, because it creates more crime and more delay.

Confer On Education Of Mentally Handicapped

The latest methods for educating the mentally handicapped in Michigan's secondary schools will be discussed Friday and Saturday at a conference of special education teachers.

Nearly 300 public school teachers, diagnosticians and school administrators are expected to participate in a Conference for Secondary Type A Programs for the Mentally Handicapped.

The two-day meeting at Kellogg Hotel will give the teachers an opportunity to air their problems and share in the most effective ways of solving them, conference officials explain.

Speakers for the two-day event include, Herbert Goldstein, professor of special education at

Wanted: 1,500 Pints Of Blood

Colors are out for blood...

as helpers of the American Red Cross, that is, beginning Feb. 4.

A.W.S. members, working to boost University blood donations, after a mediocre fall blood drive, have established a goal of 1,500 pints, according to Kay Lawrence, Chicago Junior and general chairman of the drive.

Miss Lawrence attributed the relative failure of past drives to a lack of publicity and a lack of response from the faculty and staff.

"Also the fact that we couldn't use the Union in the fall may have been a factor," she said.

The drive will make the special bid for East Lansing residents from throughout the area.

In the past the people of East Lansing have been able to donate blood on campus but no direct appeal was ever made.

Plans call for the sending of letters to the mayor, churches and service organizations to aid in bringing a bigger turn out. In the past East Lansing has not had a generally sponsored blood drive.

Miss Lawrence said an added incentive to giving should be the fact that with each pint you donate you build up your "credit rating." If ever you need blood it will be available to you for free.

The household troops of France's King Louis XIV (1638-1715) are believed to have worn the first truly military uniform, designed to mark them as a unit. It was a single-breasted frock coat with turned-up cuffs.

East Lansing Police Investigate Malicious Destruction And Theft

Illegal possession of alcohol...

escapes mental patient, and opening a charge account under a false name are some of the items recently investigated by the detective bureau of the East Lansing Police Department.

Nancy Spector, Newark, N.J. senior, returned to her campus home at 253 Gunson from the holiday vacation to find clothing, cosmetics and art supplies missing. Police are still investigating the theft.

Officers investigating a property damage accident arrested three students on a charge of Illegal possession of alcohol. The students attempted to dispose of the alcohol prior to the arrival of the police, but did not succeed.

The charge is still being investigated.

Barbara Wiadyka, 1551-J Spartan Village, found the rear window of the convertible she returned to her parked car in the East Lansing High School parking lot. Snowballs were used to break the plastic window. Damage was estimated at $50.

Windows were also broken in the Pinecrest School, East Lansing, by someone using a BB or pellet gun. Damage was estimated at $100. Detectives are investigating both cases of malicious destruction.

An escapee from the Wayne County Hospital, Detroit, was turned over to East Lansing police by a taxi driver over the weekend. The cab driver had picked up Thomas Robert Mihon in Detroit and had driven him to East Lansing where Mihon informed the driver he was unable to pay the $31 cabfare.

The driver learned that Mihon was an escapee only after he had stopped at the East Lansing Police Station in an attempt to collect his fare.

Jerald Nathan Lemisch, Niagara Falls, N.Y. freshman, was charged with opening a charge account under a false name, using false identification. Posing as another student, Lemisch purchased $30.68 worth of goods from Redwood and Ross Clothing Store, using the false identification.

detectives, Lemisch also confessed to using a Shell-Oil Company credit card to purchase $20.90 worth of gas in the area. The credit card was made out to a former resident of Lemisch's present campus address.

Arraigned in East Lansing Municipal Court, Lemisch pleaded guilty on both counts. He was fined $25, plus $4.30 court costs and given five days in the Ingham County Jail. He was also ordered to make restitution of $59.96.

AFROTC Adopts Flight Program

A flight instruction program that can lead to a Federal Aeronautics Administration pilot's license is now available to Air Force ROTC cadets.

The program consists of 36 and one-half hours of flying time and 40 hours of classroom instruction. The flight time includes dual and solo instruction.

The flight instruction is under contract to Francis Aviation at Capital City Airport.

Music Prof Presents Paper On Composer

Hans Nathan, associate professor of music, read a paper entitled "Conversation with Dallapiccola" at the national convention of the American Musicological Society which was held at Ohio State Dec. 27-29.

He reported his work on the composition method of Italian composer Luigi Dallapiccola, undertaken in close collaboration with him in Florence during 1961-62. Twenty-one sessions, which were held in Italian, materialized.

All of them, with the exception of the first, were recorded on tape. In addition, Nathan was able to study and film many manuscripts and sketches of the composer in preparation of a book on his creative processes.

Stieber Book Finds UAW Basically Democratic

Auto Workers is the title of a new book, "Governing the UAW," published by John Wiley & Sons, New York.

Director of the School of Industrial Relations, Stieber says all unions, including the UAW, are high on the list of four characteristics of a democratic organization: accountability to members, and guarantee of fundamental individual rights.

Stieber issues a warning along with four suggestions for a more democratic UAW.

He suggests some changes in convention and judicial procedure and other changes to improve the environment for development of opposition. He also suggests, "making explicit in the constitution rights which, in practice, members have enjoyed and exercised since the UAW was organized."

"But," said Stieber, "the UAW, already basically democratic, should be more democratic only if greater democracy would not weaken the ability of the union to represent the membership effectively."

"If democratic processes within the union can be improved only at the expense of union strength, they would be undesirable both for the membership and for society at large."

"First and foremost, members' economic status."

"Furthermore, strong unions, independent of state control, are essential to the maintenance of democracy in the larger community."

Stieber's comments are based on a review of UAW history and a study of its internal functions on a national level.

"The purpose of this book," he says, "is to examine the way in which one of our largest unions conducts its internal affairs, with a view toward helping each reader to answer for himself the question: 'How democratic is the UAW?'"

The book is one of a series of studies of competitive union governments supported by a grant from the Fund for the Republic.

Unlimited hours for senior women might be desirable under certain circumstances, Dean of Women Frances DeLisle says, but practical considerations would make them difficult to put into effect at MSU.

Commenting on a recent proposal by the Associated Women Students organization at the University of Wisconsin to abolish all hours for senior women and weekend hours for junior coeds, Miss DeLisle said:

"I am not opposed in theory to unlimited hours for senior women. I have always believed that we should regard each year of college as meriting treatment which will give a student a maximum of a student's life after she graduates. However, hours must be subject to individual circumstances and practical considerations."

Miss DeLisle pointed out that abolition of hours would mean the expense of hiring personnel to lock and unlock dormitories at night. She called a good security system "absolutely essential" for women's dormitories.

The University of Michigan recently abolished hours for senior women. Girls in sorority houses were given keys. However, U. of M. has not been able to apply the plan to residence halls.

"This might be possible in a sorority house with a smaller number of girls," Miss DeLisle said, "but it would simply be out of the question in a large women's residence hall. The locks would be worthless if several hundred girls had their own keys."

Practicalities Limit Late Hours--De Lisle

Residence halls at MSU house women of all classes. Miss DeLisle said unlimited hours for seniors would be particularly difficult to put into effect under these circumstances.

Miss DeLisle commented that hours should be "entirely dependent on individual circumstances."

"Because hours have been abolished at some universities, it is not necessarily a good policy here. A study of the matter should include consideration of factors such as the time necessary for transportation."

Hours for women at MSU are 10:30 p.m. weekdays for freshmen, 11:30 weekdays for sophomores, juniors and seniors, and 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays for all girls.

Miss DeLisle said no demand had ever been made by AWS here for unlimited hours. She said the hours here are more liberal than at most of the Big Ten conference schools on weekdays.

Late permissions can be obtained from the Dean of Women's office for special circumstances. Miss DeLisle said the only night it is "really difficult to obtain a late permission for a good reason" is Saturday. This is partially due to a local ordinance which prohibits dancing after midnight.

Meyer To Discuss Russian Policy

Alfred G. Meyer, political science professor, will be the featured speaker at the International Relations Club meeting Thursday, at 7 p.m. in 22 Union.

Meyer will speak on "Soviet World Policy -- The Motivation Behind Soviet Behavior."

Language Department

Foreign language department introducing another first in accelerated classes in French, Spanish and German.

Townsend, department head, said the courses are open to students who have obtained a B minus grade in 101 sections and who plan to continue with the language for two years.

These courses will not be a shortcut to the normal oral practice in the language labs, Townsend added.

"There is a tendency to confuse the accelerated sections with the old honor sections," he said.

The two sections are quite different since the accelerated classes cover the work of the regular sections but at a faster pace and overlap into the next term's work, and the honor sections are for Honor College students," Townsend emphasized.

Weathermen Hold Confab On Campus

Professional and amateur weathermen will meet on campus tonight, for the meeting of the Southeastern Michigan branch of the American Meteorological Society.

Irving I. Gringorten, chief of the government's applied climatology branch of the meteorological development laboratory, will report on the research program being conducted to meet Air Force design problems.

Gringorten is a graduate of the University of Michigan in physics and geology, and postgraduate of the same university in meteorology. His professional career began in California as a part-time forecaster for American Airlines.

Gringorten entered government service with the NACA, now the NASA, and subsequently transferred to research and development in the Air Force with the Cambridge Research Laboratories.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Physics-Math Building, and is open to the public.

NEWS BRIEF

From UPI Wire

Michigan Nuclear Reactor Gets Go-Ahead

WASHINGTON -- The Dean of Harvard University's Division of Engineering and Applied Physics Monday joined another prominent physicist in endorsing the safety of the nuclear reactor at the Enrico Fermi plant at Lagoona Beach, Mich.

Harvey Brooks, who is also deputy chairman of the President's Science Advisory Committee, joined Hans A. Bethe, a Cornell University professor who helped develop the world's first atomic bomb, in giving the endorsement.

They testified before a safety and licensing board of the Atomic Energy Commission in behalf of Power Reactor Development Co. which seeks authority to operate the Fermi Reactor at Lagoona Beach at the trial power of one megawatt.

If all goes well with the test, the company is expected to seek construction of a second reactor of 200 megawatts.

UPI Expands Lansing Bureau

DETROIT--United Press International Monday expanded its Lansing staff to provide added coverage of the coming legislative session. Veteran newsmen Clark Hallas joins the Lansing Staff of UPI Bureau Manager James Brooks. Replacing Hallas as UPI Michigan Sports Editor is Vito Strellino, a former member of the Detroit Free Press's Grand Rapids Bureau. Pat McCarty, Lansing editor, and administration beat reporter for the State News was also added to the staff.

Boy Scout Slayer May Get Hearing

MUSKEGON--Muskegon County Prosecutor Harry J. Knudsen Tuesday filed in circuit court a petition requesting a sanity hearing for Herman Barmore, now serving a life term for the 1955 slaying of boy scout Peter Gorham. Barmore was recently granted a reversal of the circuit court verdict by the State Supreme Court. He is currently serving his life sentence in the Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson. In his petitions, Knudsen alleged that Barmore "is criminally insane and incapable of standing trial." The prosecutor also alleged that Barmore was "a habitual criminal."

Pontiac Department Store Burns

PONTIAC--Thousands of dollars worth of appliances and furniture went up in smoke Monday night in a fire at the W.K.C. Department Store here. Firemen battled for three hours in sub-freezing temperatures to get the blaze under control. A store spokesman said the one and a half story building was a total loss. He added, however, that no damage estimate could be made until insurance adjusters visited the scene.

Beatty Re-elected Mt. Pleasant Mayor

MOUNT PLEASANT--Jackson K. Beatty Monday was elected to his second consecutive one-year term as mayor of Mount Pleasant. Norman J. Zuker won a second term as mayor pro tem. The men were elected at a regular meeting of the city commission. Both men are in their second three-year terms as commissioners.

U-D Evening College Dean Dies

DETROIT--Dean William B. O'Regan of the University of Detroit Evening College died of a heart attack Monday at his home in Detroit. He was 64 years old. O'Regan had been dean of the college since 1956.

Jerome Hines

Toured Russia During Cuban Crisis

Artist Hines Doubted War

"Nuclear war with Russia was never a real threat after Kennedy's Cuban quarantine," said Jerome Hines, the famous bassist, in an interview Tuesday.

Hines was on tour in Russia when Kennedy made his announcement and was scheduled to sing "Boris Godunov" at the Bolshoi Theater in Moscow the following night.

"I was the only American who had seen Khrushchev after Kennedy's speech, and probably the only American at that time who knew whether or not there would be a nuclear war," said he.

Khrushchev attended the recital that night and personally led a standing ovation, Hines said. "He came down to use me as a musical example."

Hines said that this was the first indication and probably the strongest that Khrushchev planned to use the "softline". Hines said that the Russian people knew nothing about Kennedy's speech and were wildly enthusiastic about his performance.

But, he said, in general most Russian audiences are more appreciative of foreign performance. "I was the only American who had seen Khrushchev after Kennedy's speech, and probably the only American at that time who knew whether or not there would be a nuclear war," said he.

Hines, an active religious figure in private life, is often connected with the Salvation Army. He said that most of his work is done in the form of musical testimonials, along with the Bowery, and talks to the men there.

Hines, who is originally from California, studied chemistry and mathematics while in college there.

"I had no conception of singing as a career then," he said. During this time he became interested in music, as many of his friends did, and joined a glee club.

Although singing is his career, he has published papers in mathematical research and said he is "toying" with the idea of going back to California to write a thesis for his master's degree.

Hines is married to an actress and has three young children.

State Graduate Committee Adds Members

The Faculty Committee on State Graduate Appointments has added two members during vacation.

James B. McKee, professor of sociology and anthropology, and Charles Titkemeyer, associate professor of anatomy, have been named to positions on the committee.

Five members in addition to Dean of Students John Euzak are on the committee. Edward Robacz, 39, joined the highway department in 1948, after graduating from MSU. Transferred from the Jackson district, Robacz is special assistant to district engineer J.A. Willis in the Pontiac area.

The second appointee, Roger VanderMeulen, 33, assumes the position of special assistant to district engineer John Hautala. He was a 1956 graduate of Michigan Tech.
