

Fun, Nostalgia Highlight Play

'Happy Time' Opens Summer Circle Season

By JACKIE KORONA State News Staff Writer

'The Happy Time,' which could easily be retitled 'On Becoming A Man in a Most Curious Family,' opened the Summer Circle season Wednesday with a lot of fun and a little nostalgia for University Theatre patrons.

The production, directed by speech instructor Robert L. Smith, is the tale of a 13-year-old boy growing up in a Canadian atmosphere with a "crazy musician" father, a Scotch Presbyterian mother, a young uncle who chases girls, and another uncle who "has been dying for the past 20 years," yet manages to wander all over the stage carrying his water cooler full of wine.

In the Summer Circle arena theatre, "The Happy Time" isn't quite believable, but with such ingredients, what production could be? It shows just what happens when a young man grows up.

Playing the somewhat-confused, wanting-to-be-a-man Bibi is East Lansing teen-ager Brian Downey. And although the young man speaks his lines almost flawlessly, his actions seem superficial.

Rather than creating a character to fit Bibi, the actor is taking Bibi's place in the Bonnard home, attempting to become the young man without actually changing his own characteristics.

But every so often the two young boys are one and the same. For example, the attention of a female singer, being protected in the Bonnard home, has Bibi stunned. The result is an audience reaction of sympathetic laughter. Wouldn't any boy be flattered by the "love" of such a beautiful woman, and an older one at that.

The singer, played with a convincingly realistic French accent, by Earlene Bates, Sault Ste. Marie senior, adds a little humor, and a lot of confusion to "The Happy Time," especially when she falls in love with the garter-collecting, girl-chasing Uncle Desmond.

Frank C. Rutledge, speech instructor, and Dorothy Pitts, Atlanta, Ga., graduate student, play the musician father and Scotch mother with a quality of emotion great enough to capture the hearts of all theatre-goers.

As Rutledge explains the "birds and the bees" to his son, his manner is that of a father who wants to explain real love to his son, but cannot seem to put across what he means. His concern, and love for his son, are in his eyes and in his voice, along with a sort of unhappiness that his words are inadequate.

And when Rutledge storms into the office of his son's school principal, accompanied by his two "brothers," to protect his son from an unjust accusation his eyes breathe the fire of a

Kennedy, Khrushchev Both Visiting Berlin

The two great "K's" will be within one mile of each other this week, and a possible meeting is forecast by some authorities, although it seems unlikely.

President John F. Kennedy visited Berlin yesterday, the Western sector. Premier Nikita Khrushchev will arrive in Berlin today, the Eastern sector.

As a part of his trip to Germany, to impress upon the people of that country and the world that the United States is sincere in its promises of European defense, Kennedy visited Bonn and West Berlin.

In speeches there, the President emphasized that this country has born a major burden of European defense for 18 years. And he said he expects the NATO countries to consider this in shaping their economic, trade and monetary policies.

counter the effects of Kennedy's visit. The President's reception in West Germany was one of overwhelming confidence. In Frankfurt he was almost mobbed by tens of thousands of West Germans who enthusiastically welcomed him to their land.

And his arrival in Wiesbaden was met with inhabitants lining the route of his drive between the two cities.

Such a welcome accorded the President of the United States may well be the basis for speculation concerning the reason for the Soviet Premier's trip to the Eastern sector of Germany.

The idea of a possible meeting between the two was not confirmed by officials of either country. In early July, Charles de Gaulle, president of France, will

Church's 'Project Peru' Takes Students 4,000 Miles Away

Vacations and part-time jobs have been left behind by 21 MSU students for a job without pay in Peru, 4,000 miles from East Lansing.

"Project Peru," sponsored by St. John's Student Parish, brought the students June 17 to Arequipa, 400 miles south of Lima, to work with the Rev. John Waldie, N.M., at the Maryknoll Center.

Their work schedule includes well digging, playground reconstruction, catechism teaching, home visitation and social work. The project was no overnight idea. A Maryknoll priest addressed the students at St. John's in East Lansing last year. His experiences in China sparked the idea among the students to do something of value in a South American country.

Numerous fund-raising dinners, dances, plays, rummage sales and car washes followed. Donations were made by outsiders and parish members. One member of the project even sold his car.

The students left East Lansing June 11. The Rev. Thomas McDevitt, project coordinator who accompanied the group to South America, offered a mass for the success of the venture. Transportation to Florida was provided by the Oldsmobile Division of General Motors Corporation in five 1963 air-conditioned Oldsmobiles.

Mary Sue Marz, Bronson junior, wrote in her first letter to the Rev. Robert Kavanaugh, pastor of St. John's: "Had a grand reception in Lima! Ate dinner at a restaurant that serves American food and had a good time paying for our hamburgers with 'soles.' (Draft rate in 1954 was 19.39 soles equivalent to U.S. $1) We toured the Palace of Torre Tagle, the Palace of Government and then had the added honor of being allowed in the President's Private Residence. That evening we had a special dinner in our honor and the Minister of Education was present.

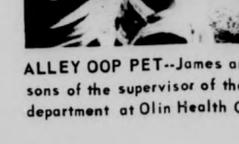

"After two days in Lima, we boarded the bus for Arequipa. We got into the mountains late in the afternoon and our bus couldn't make it up the hill, so we had to get out and push. Everyone walked about two miles to the top of the hill." Arequipa is the third largest city in Peru with a population of 103,000. The second largest national university is located there. The province of Arequipa comprises one arch-diocese. Some 4,000 Catholic churches are established in Peru.

Miss Marz is one of three students assigned as correspondents for the group. Jane Adams of Arlington, Va., and Mike Gilhoel of Dearborn will alternate writing the daily reports.

The group director is Patrick B. Smith, Owosso graduate student, who is in charge of all decisions and situations affecting the group as a whole. A complete photo coverage of the trip is being made by David Walsh, East Lansing junior, and Tony Miceli, Detroit graduate student.

At the end of two months of volunteer work, the group will return to MSU, Father Kavanaugh says.

State News Office Quiet In Summer

The State News office is a pleasant place in the summer. Deadlines for the bi-weekly issues exist off in the future somewhere with the Last Judgment. There is nothing to do but copy-read the handouts from Information Services and wait for silly-season stories to come in: crocodiles in the I.M. pool, ghosts in Beaumont Tower.

The glass cubicle for editorial writers stands like the deserted den of some migratory animal. The printers have put their 72 point type into storage, since all the big stories--Project X, the Speaker Screening Committee--have become epics of the glorious, never to be equalled past. Even John Hannah giving Russell Kirk a bear hug would rate no more than 48 point-not during the summer.

The five summer staffers stare at the abandoned typewriters like a patrol moving past knocked-out tanks wondering what happened to old buddies. Our envisioned magnum opus, the Welcome Week issue, fills our shriveled brains with the same hazy magnificence as does that Great American Novel we are all going to write...someday. Yep, it sure is pleasant up here. Nothing to do but...What!

DEADLINE ALREADY ????????

Council To Study Bogue Bridge Offer

By SUE JACOBY

State News Staff Writer

The East Lansing City Council will consider the offer of a Birmingham construction company to sell land to the city for the Bogue Street Bridge, right-of-way at its meeting Monday night.

Pat Pulte, co-owner of J. Pulte Incorporated of Birmingham, said the company will sell the land to East Lansing for the same it (the company) paid. The land was formerly owned by Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Arthur Carney, acting city manager, said the cost per square foot was probably figured on the basis of the entire property value of the area surrounding the Bogue Street Bridge site. A large portion of the land near the bridge is owned by an individual, Carney said.

Gordon Thomas, East Lansing mayor, said he considered it "unlikely" that the council would take final action on the land offer Monday.

"This is a complex matter, and I wouldn't venture to say whether the Council will be willing to pay the price suggested by the Birmingham company," Thomas said.

Carney said the Birmingham construction firm quoted a general price range in its letter to the City Council.

"I don't feel that the price can be disclosed before the council meeting Monday."

An alternative to purchasing the land from the Pulte Incorporated would be to curve the bridge so that it would be built entirely on University property. Mayor Thomas said this could be done by building the bridge 50 feet west of the proposed site.

Thomas pointed out the curved bridge would be more difficult to engineer than a straight one and cost would have to be considered. Cost of the bridge is estimated at $200,000.

The four-lane bridge has been in planning stages for two years. The bridge would divert a portion of heavy traffic from East Lansing and open a route to Shaw Lane and South Campus, according to East Lansing city engineer Robert Bruce. He said it is possible that construction could begin this summer if the Council takes immediate action.

"It is becoming increasingly obvious that the bridge should be built as soon as possible," Thomas said. "Traffic is getting heavier and the bridge will alleviate the tangle greatly."

MSU will pay half the cost of the bridge construction. Thomas said the University is "extremely anxious that the bridge be finished by this fall."

He said it is possible the Pulte offer will be referred to the city council real estate committee.

"At any rate, action will be taken by the council within the near future. The offer could speed things up--if the price is agreeable."

Congress Of Strings First Of 6 Concerts

The 1963 Congress of Strings makes its debut Tuesday in the first of six public concerts scheduled for its eight-week session at MSU.

Izler Solomon, musical director of the Indianapolis Symphony, will conduct the concert, which begins at 8:15 p.m. in the Aud.

Solomon has been associated with the Indianapolis Symphony since 1956. A native of St. Paul, Minn., he was both a student and instructor of violin at MSU 1928-31. He was music superintendent of Lansing Public Schools for four years during which he helped organize the Lansing Symphony and served as its first conductor.

Solomon is widely known for his work as director of the Aspen (Colo.) Music Festival. He has been guest conductor of such orchestras as the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Chicago Symphony, the Detroit Symphony and the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

The concert conducted by Solomon will feature the premiere of "A Wisp of Time," a composition by Dr. Paul Harder of the MSU music department.

Harder says the one-movement work for strings "exploits the youthful enthusiasm of the performers and provides a challenge for their technical abilities."

The 1963 Congress of Strings is being held at MSU for the third consecutive year. Sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians, the congress includes 101 men and women between the ages of 15 and 23. The students are chosen through community auditions.

The winners are awarded full scholarships for the congress, which brings outstanding composers to the campus each summer.

Eugene Ormandy, musical director of the Philadelphia Orchestra; Donald Johanos, conductor of the Dallas Symphony; Louis Lane, conductor of the Akron Symphony; and Mishel Piatro, conductor of the Longines Symphony and Ralph Hunter, choral director of Radio City Music Hall, will participate in the Congress this summer.

Dr. Paul M. Oberg, professor and chairman of musical and music education at the University of Minnesota, is the dean of the Congress of Strings.

Instructors include Piatro; Rafael Druian, concertmaster, Cleveland Orchestra; Frank Houser, concertmaster, San Francisco Symphony; Louis Krasner, professor of violin and chamber music, Syracuse University; Hyman Goodman, concertmaster, Toronto Symphony; Warren Benfield, double bass, Chicago Symphony; Robert Jamieson, principal cellist, Minneapolis Symphony; William Lincer, solo viola, New York Philharmonic and Theodore Salzman, principal cellist, Pittsburgh Symphony.

Vets End Centennial Celebration

About 400 veterinarians from all over Michigan gathered at the Jack Tar Lansing Hotel for the 81st Annual Michigan Veterinary Medical Convention. More than 90 per cent of them are MSU graduates, according to Mrs. Pat Loomis, executive secretary. The group celebrated the 100th anniversary of the beginning of veterinary medicine in the United States.

Highlighting the conference was a dermatology symposium by Dr. Donald Dragutin Makic, Dr. Erwin Small and the staff of the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Illinois. The symposium brought out problems of skin diseases of small animals.

Thomas Millerick, retiring president and MSU alumnus, criticized the spread of government into medicine. If the government gets into medicine, it could also come into the field of veterinary medicine, he indicated.

Governor George Romney attended a breakfast Tuesday morning honoring the profession. MSU alumnus Charles Hodder from Detroit is the organization's incoming president for 1963-64.

Ford Awards Go To 3

A MSU faculty member and two graduate students have been awarded Ford Foundation Fellowships in business administration and economics for the 1963-64 academic year.

Dr. Alfred L. Edwards, assistant professor of economics, was awarded a faculty fellowship for research on public finance and economic development in Nigeria.

John G. Maurer, Detroit graduate student, received his second doctoral fellowship in business administration.

Dwayne Earl Wrightman of Lansing was awarded a doctoral dissertation fellowship in economics of the impact of private pension funds on the concentration of economic power.

Point Of View

Mississippi On Trial

Murders are relatively common occurrences in the United States. Reports of such occurrences seldom make the front pages of newspapers unless the events are local or extra-sensational.

But two weeks ago, there was a murder in Mississippi that shocked the entire nation.

Less than 24 hours after the President of the United States had spoken to the country about the need for racial toleration and the moral question involved in Negro and white cooperation, a Negro leader was shot to death in Jackson, the capital city of the State of Mississippi.

Medgar Evers, a field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was returning home from a civil rights rally. As he stepped from his car, a killer fired from ambush, a bullet ripped through his body and into the wall of his home.

Mrs. Evers, their children and their neighbors ran from their homes to watch Evers taken to a hospital, later to hear of his death.

Monday, just 12 days after this slaying, a Mississippi white man with old Southern family ties, was charged with the murder of Medgar Evers.

The case of Byron de la Beckwith, a member of the White Citizens Council, which militantly represents total segregation, was heard in the Hinds (Jackson) County court Tuesday. His two attorneys entered a plea of not guilty.

The county's District Attorney, William L. Waller, who is prosecuting the case for the State of Mississippi, said he will seek the death penalty should de la Beckwith be indicted.

The Tuesday hearing was the first in a series of legal steps before the case can come to trial. Normally such a hearing is waived, and the defendant is held for the grand jury.

The fact that Beckwith's attorney requested the hearing is taken as an indication that the case will be extremely hard fought.

Reports concerning the State's case say it will be based on physical evidence developed by the FBI from the alleged murder weapon, a 1917-model rifle found near Evers' home and traced to de la Beckwith.

The defendant's fingerprint was supposedly found on the sight of the murder rifle.

De la Beckwith was first arrested Saturday night by FBI agents under provisions of a 1957 Civil Rights Act. Monday the defendant was released without bond, but Jackson police immediately served a murder warrant and de la Beckwith went back to jail.

The next time the defendant leaves his cell will prove a major step in Mississippi's racial crisis. Basically, Eyrone de la Beckwith is not the person on trial. Rather, it is the State of Mississippi.

State officials have said that justice will prevail, whether for white or Negro. The case of the death of Medgar Evers will either prove or disprove this.

Whether or not de la Beckwith is freed will set a precedent in such matters of racial violence in the State of Mississippi. If he is not indicted, the State's claim of justice will be shown to lie, and the hard-core segregationists prone to express their ideas in the form of violence will be encouraged. Racial problems in the state will increase, and situations of violence can be expected to become the common occurrence rather than the exception.

Byron de la Beckwith will be indicted or freed next week. The action will chart the future course of racial problems in the state.

Don't worry mom, I'm going to study as soon as the floor meeting is over!

They said "rock 'n roll" was bad, but the Michigan State Fair is out to prove it.

Horses and cows are being given the spotlight and the space while popular "jive" entertainers are being given the gate.

Farm entries have literally shoved the entertainment program out of the Coliseum where livestock displays have been put on for seven of the ten fair days each year.

"Even so the over-taxed State Fair facilities in Detroit will not be able to handle all entries for the entire State Fair," Walter A. Goodman, general manager, said.

The 114th Annual Michigan State Fair will be held August 23 through September 2 at Detroit.

'Happy Time'

father whose son has been wronged.

Miss Pitts, with her own Southern drawl, and a combination of Scotch and French accents, shows her concern as a mother, with the influence of the men in the family on her son.

As she stomps about the house, protesting Uncle Desmond's donation of his garter collection to Bibi, and the talk of his escapades as the "Casanova of Canada," Miss Pitts is a loving mama trying to keep her son a little boy in this world of Bonnard men.

And her rendition, in French, of "Loch Lomond" is one of the most clever pieces of mixed-up culture in the production.

The uncles of "The Happy Time," played by graduate students Tom Clark and A. L. Kadlec, add to the show's funny confusion in their efforts to help Bibi grow up.

Clark's imitation of Rudolph Valentino and Kadlec's discussion of marriage with his daughter's suitor are two of the show's most humorous scenes, especially when the suitor gets drunk.

Grandpere, played with the old-type youthfulness needed, by graduate student John E. Clifford, is both human and humorous. His most priceless moments are those of advising Bibi on exactly what love is, and his escapades with a certain widow-friend.

The French accents in "The Happy Time" are atrocious, except for that of Miss Bates. With each of the characters spouting little phrases in French throughout the show, it's hard to understand what they're talking about, even with a background in French.

Even though the show takes place in Canada, a bit of understanding would add to an overall picture of "The Happy Time."

Costumes, set, and other technical aspects of the show are well-done.

And even under those lights in the warm arena theatre of Demonstration hall, "The Happy Time," is just about that.

Stratford, Conn.

3 Plays Open 9th Festival

The American Shakespeare Festival in Stratford, Conn., which opened its ninth season this month with three consecutive openings of "King Lear," "The Comedy of Errors" and "Henry V," has scored its greatest critical and advance box office sales success in its history.

Jack Gaver, the United Press International's drama critic summed up this year's repertory with "This is a good summer to stop off in Stratford, Conn.," and William Glover, who covers theatre for the Associated Press wrote, "There's something in the wind, as Shakespeare remarked, it bodes well for this Stratford."

John Chapman in the New York Daily News enthused, "This is the best Stratford troupe yet," and Newsweek Magazine's critic reviewing the three Shakespearean plays headlined "All's Well."

"The Comedy of Errors" changed the atmosphere of the Connecticut playhouse sixty miles from New York City. From tragedy to comedy the reviews were equally excellent for the lighter fare and Taubman in the Times hailed "Praise be! It romps and roars in the exuberant high spirit in which it was composed."

"Henry V," the third Shakespearean work of the Connecticut Stratford season brought forth more admiration from the critics with the N.Y. Times' Taubman calling it an "impressive team job, a glowing picture."

Miles Kastendieck in the New York Journal American wrote "Henry V is brilliant" and Elliot Norton of the Boston Record-American joined the acclaim with "One of the great shows of this summer season is 'Henry V.' By any standard, modern or classical, and from any reasonable point of view, this is a rousing and satisfying production."

Theatregoers are moving into Stratford from various parts of Connecticut and throughout the country via auto, train and boat. The theatre is located on the banks of the Housatonic River where it flows into Long Island Sound and the theatre has docking facilities for those who come via motor cruiser, sailboat or yacht.

Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Caesar and Cleopatra," will break precedent at the Stratford, Conn. theatre being the first non-Shakespearean play produced

'Devil' Debut Here Friday

The Indian motion picture "Devil" (The Goddess), produced by noted film maker Satyajit Ray, makes its debut in the Lansing area in the Foreign Film Series, June 28 and 29.

Showings will be at 7:30 p.m. in Fairchild Theatre.

The two stars of the award-winning "The World of Apu," Sharmila Tagore and Soumitra Chatterjee, are again cast in husband and wife roles.

Miss Tagore plays the part of a young wife who, under the influence of her religious father-in-law, becomes convinced that she is a goddess with divine healing powers. The plot of the movie turns on the threat that this condition represents to the woman and her husband.

It will join the repertory season on July 30.

2 Gridders To Play In All-American Tilt

Two recent Michigan State gridiron greats—George Saimes and Dave Behrman—will team up again when the East team clashes with the West in the American Football Coaches' All-American Game at Buffalo, N.Y., June 29.

Saimes will be returning to his familiar fullback position, while Behrman will try his hand at guard for the East squad.

Both Saimes and Behrman will play for the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League in the fall.

Ten fullback for two years and was considered one of the best backs in the country last fall. Behrman, a 6-4, 263-pound giant who was the top draft choice of the Bills, was a brilliant all-around performer. He earned All-Big Ten and All-American honors while playing tackle and center.

A native of Dowagiac, Behrman was noted for tremendous strength and surprising agility. The game will be telecast on ABC starting at 9 p.m. E.S.T.

Auditions Start Today

Often called "Mr. Everything" while playing for the Spartans, Saimes was picked on almost everybody's 1962 All-American selections. He captained the Spartans eleven last fall and was the team's leading ground gainer in his junior and senior years.

A brilliant runner, devastating blocker and fierce tackler, Saimes toted the pigskin for an average of 6.2 yards per try in 1962.

The 5-10, 185-pounder from Canton, Ohio, was an All-Big Auditions for "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof," the fifth production of the University Summer Circle season, will be held today in 49 Auditorium from 4:30-6:30 p.m.

Parts in the Tennessee Williams production are open to students, faculty and townspeople.

DEAN LOOK--FORMER SPARTAN STAR

Dick Guesman, a 250-pound defensive tackle, will do the field goal kicking for the New York Jets in the American Football League.

Tigers Sign 4 Players

DETROIT - Detroit Tiger scouts have signed four additional players to 1963 contracts with clubs in their farm system since the close of the school term.

Two of them, pitcher Darrell Clark and catcher Tom Hinkle, were signed out of California Polytechnic College, where Clark graduated and Hinkle completed his junior term this month.

Signed as a third baseman off the University of Southern Illinois campus is Gerald Qualls, a right-handed hitter who posted a .420 average in college ball. In 1958 he led Murphysboro, Ill., to the state American Legion Junior Tournament championship. Qualls stands 5-foot-11 and weighs 185 pounds.

The fourth youngster signed is Walter Perry, a right-handed pitcher from Louisville, Ky., who hurled DuPont Manual High School to the Kentucky scholastic championship. He is 6-1, weighs 185, and has been assigned to the Thomasville club of the Georgia-Florida League.

Clark, who along with Qualls has joined the Lakeland club of the Florida State League, was named to the Chico, Calif., Little League, Pony League and Colt League All-Star teams before going to Cal Poly, where he led the varsity in strikeouts and made the District Eight All-Star college team. He struck out 16 University of Southern California batsmen in one game and the Trojans voted him the best pitcher they faced all season.

Hinkle, who has reported to the Knoxville club of the South Atlantic League, was a Little League, Colt League and high school star at Colton, Calif., before entering Cal Poly, where he hit .369 during the past season.

Highest single game in the 1963 Women's International Bowling Congress championship was 268 turned in by Suzanne Crum of Bloxi, Miss., Dorothy Rowe of Phoenix and Sylvia Wene of Philadelphia.

Dean Look Signs Lions' Contract

Former Michigan State star halfback Dean Look signed a Detroit Lions contract Tuesday.

"We plan to give Look a crack at a defensive halfback job and also use him as a punter," said general manager Edwin Anderson.

The Lions drafted Look in 1959 but he passed up pro football to play baseball with the Chicago White Sox.

He dropped out of baseball after a two year trial to sign with the Buffalo Bills in the American Football League.

Look was traded later to the New York Titans. He was waived out of the league after suffering a back injury.

Intramural News

Open Softball League

Deadline to sign up for the IM softball league is Friday at 5 p.m. Interested persons should sign up at the IM office in the Men's Intramural building.

Umpires Needed

Umpires for the softball league meet tonight at 7 p.m. in 208 of the Men's Intramural building.

Younger brothers of two former Michigan State football All-Americans are members of the current Spartan varsity. Halfback Bruce Look is the brother of Dean Look, 1959 All-American quarterback, and center Mike Currie is the brother of Dan Currie, 1957 All-American center.

Strong Printing Editor

RUSSEL STRONG

Russell A. Strong, currently director of news and information services at Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo, has been named to the position of university editor in the Department of Information Services here.

He succeeds Dr. A. Westley Rowland who is joining the staff of the State University of New York at Buffalo as assistant to the president.

Strong, a native of Kalamazoo, received a B. A. degree from Kalamazoo College in 1948 and an M. A. degree from Western Michigan University in 1959.

He has been a member of the Western Michigan staff since 1951. For three years prior to that he was state editor of the Kalamazoo Gazette. He is chairman of the Kalamazoo County Board of Censors.

As university editor, he will supervise editing and production of the official publications of MSU.

McDonnell Construction

Construction on McDonnell Hall is proceeding on an "extremely tight schedule," a spokesman for Christman Construction Co. said Wednesday.

Alan Conrad of Christman said there is "a very good chance the dorm will open as scheduled this fall." It is scheduled for completion by Sept. 10.

Most of the men's wing of the new coed dorm is completed, Conrad said.

"Of course, construction can always be hampered by the unforeseen."

Lyle Thorburn, manager of residence halls, pointed out construction has been hampered by strikes and severe weather last winter.

Over These Prison Walls They'll Fly?

Hundreds of prisoners may get out of prison because of a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision. The tribunal decided in favor of a Florida man who was tried and sentenced without benefit of a legal counsel.

Clarence Earl Gideon was convicted of breaking into a poolroom in Panama City, Fla. He fought the case up to the Supreme Court for the reversal of the lower Florida court's ruling.

Before the Gideon decision, only Federal cases were required to furnish lawyers for penniless defendants. Each state was free to make its own rules for those who could not afford legal advice.

Since the ruling, the high court has ordered new trials for 32 penitentiary inmates in 19 states, including 19 from Florida.

Many prisoners are asking for new trials, but will never get them. They will have to be given their freedom instead.

The reason is that witnesses are either dead or cannot be located and new evidence nearly impossible to uncover.

One Louisiana convict, asking for a new trial, indicated he was questioned for 60 hours without a break, never even saw a lawyer, and pleaded guilty because detectives told him he would get only a year in jail. His sentence--18 years for armed robbery.

A new trial was granted to a Pennsylvania man who was convicted for armed robbery in 1937. Another Pennsylvania man won a new trial for a 1944 conviction for attempted train robbery.

An Ohioan was sentenced to life imprisonment, without seeing a lawyer, for the rape of an eight-year-old girl. Another Pennsylvania resident went to prison on 14 charges with sentences totaling 230 years, without being given legal counsel.

In all 23 cases, the U.S. Supreme Court threw out the previous state convictions and ordered the state court to reconsider the matter in the light of the Gideon ruling.

Jockey Robert Lee Baird, 42, rode his first winner in 1938 and has compiled more than 2,300 victories.

Ranks 13th State's Tax Limit High

Michigan's tax capacity is larger than that of most states, according to Dr. Alfred L. Edwards, assistant professor of economics.

In an article, "State Tax Capacity," in the June issue of "Michigan Economic Record," Edwards shows how the ability to contribute to government in Michigan compares with the ability in other states.

The "Michigan Economic Record" is published by the Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

In terms of income, he reports, only 12 states have a greater fiscal capacity than Michigan. Two have the same capacity.

Another system of measurement used by Edwards is to apply the same theoretical tax system to each state and compare the returns. The theoretical tax system is an average of the tax structures which actually exist in the 50 states.

Under this system, 27 states exceed Michigan in tax capacity.

Measuring the extent to which states succeed in tapping their capacity, Edwards finds that Michigan is making a greater tax effort than Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and about the same effort as Wisconsin. Actual tax collections in 1960, figured as a percentage of income, show Michigan tied for 25th place with Mississippi.

Under the theoretical tax structure, Michigan was tied for 14th place with Wisconsin.

"It should be emphasized," says Edwards, "that tax capacity and effort have no direct significance for such important questions as tax burdens on individuals and business or on tax equity."

Edward's article is based on a recently released staff report of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Michigan State's athletic facilities are used for annual and effort have no direct significance for such important questions as tax burdens on indi-

PHILIP J. MAY

May's Signature Worth Money

Anyone receiving a check from MSU knows the name of Philip J. May, vice president for business and finance.

His name appears on every check the university issues. Over $70 million pass through his hands each year.

May's other title is treasurer of the board of trustees. He has ultimate charge of all MSU finance.

Although no miser in his private life, May is careful about spending MSU funds so that the University gets the most for its dollar.

He also has charge of buildings and utilities, dormitories and food services, administration of research grants, endowments and new construction on campus.

He indicated that most people are surprised at the number of students that work.

"In 1962, nearly 10,000 student checks were issued at a value of over $2.4 million," he said.

Besides handling MSU finance, he serves on the Athletic Council, the MSU Press Board and the MSU Publications Board.

May is the only employee of MSU who signs his own check. All other checks have his name on them.

Of the money that Michigan State receives, $31 million comes from state appropriations, $9 million from federal grants, $9 million from student fees, and $20 million from gifts and other sources.

The University deposits its funds in 16 banks throughout Michigan.

A certified public accountant, he served as deputy state auditor for South Dakota before coming here in 1947.

He was born in Philip, S.D., and attended South Dakota State College.

Genetic Code Ethical Problem

Biochemists working on the Genetic Code, a chemical structure which transfers hereditary characteristics from generation to generation, are faced with an ethical problem, Allen S. Fox, professor of biochemistry, told the MSU's Men Club Tuesday.

"The problem," he said, "is similar to that of the developers of the A-Bomb before World War II.

"Social science has developed more slowly than biochemistry or genetics and is not yet able to handle the possible applications of the Genetic Code. Knowledge of the Genetic Code, if put to use in human society, might raise social problems more serious than those raised by the Atomic Bomb."

"The action of three basic chemicals determine life characteristics. They are deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA), ribonucleic acid (RNA) and protein," he said.

In this theory, DNA, the hereditary material, consists of many repeated parts of four different kinds. DNA determines the structure of RNA which also has similar repeated part of four different kinds.

"Then, the different parts of RNA, taken three at a time, determines the position of 20 different acids in the protein molecules. With the development of this Genetic Code, the control of human heredity is well within reach," he said.

Good Eye Sight Not Sufficient To Drive

Does this summer weather make you think of a "Sunday drive"?

If it does, you'd better realize that it takes more than 20/20 vision to be a safe driver. And it makes no difference whether you're planning a vacation trip or simply going to the supermarket.

A National Safety Council study of 658,000 traffic accidents reveals that nearly nine in ten occur at speeds below 40 miles per hour. Most accidents happen under "safe conditions"—clear, dry roads, and daylight.

Why? Worry, daydreaming, impatience are causes. Many drivers don't look where they are going, and too many can't see adequately when they do.

You would hesitate to take your care on the road with a major mechanical defect. The Michigan Optometric Association points out that one out of every five drivers—with or without glasses—has at least one vision problem which affects safe driving.

For safety's sake, the association suggests a few basic visual facts to keep in mind while driving:

*Keep your eyes moving. A fixed stare at a pretty girl might get you into trouble; a fixed stare as a driving habit is certain to.

*Make sure drivers and pedestrians see and hear you where possible. Don't assume traffic laws will protect you. Watch what you're doing, but keep an eye on where the other driver is going.

Sleep, Study Rooms

Suites For 2 Dorms

A new concept in student residence halls which separates sleeping and study rooms will be launched off the drawing board this week when construction begins on two dorms at Shaw Lane and Hagadorn.

The new rooms will have sleeping and study accommodations for four students. The Case-Wilson-Wonders complex and McDonnell Hall are constructed on a two-man suite plan.

The suites are composed of an entrance hall, two bedrooms with double beds, a study room and a bathroom. James L. Andrews, assistant manager of residence halls, said the four-man suites have more square feet than suites in the Case-Wilson group.

"We were able to cut costs in places where we couldn't in the other new dorms. For example, the bathrooms in Case have two doors and the ones in the new dorms will only have one.

"This sounds like a small saving, but it's big when multiplied by hundreds of rooms."

The new dorms will have numerous special features which are not found in the other large residence halls.

A space-saving device which was designed for the new structures is a chest of drawers which is built into the wall. It has the same amount of drawer space as chests in all the other dorms but occupies less space in the room.

Another special feature is closet space at the front of the suite which muffles sounds from the halls.

The two $6 million dorms will house 1,224 students each.

Paul VI Combines Best Of John, Pius

That Pope Paul VI will share the best qualities of both Pope Pius XII and Pope John XXIII is the hope of the Rev. Robert Kavanaugh of St. John's Student Parish in East Lansing.

Giovanni Batista Cardinal Montini, the archbishop of Milan who was elected Holy Father Friday by the College of Cardinals, was a close friend to both former Popes. The scholarly foundations for Catholic reunion laid by Pope Pius were executed during the ten-year reign of Pope John.

It would be difficult to imitate Pope John's uncanny ability to communicate friendship and good will, according to Father Kavanaugh, but the fact that the former archbishop of Milan was accepted as his good friend is promising.

The 262nd supreme pontiff is also an exceedingly scholarly man, as was Pope Pius XII. He advocated the priest-worker movements instituted in France during Pius' reign, revealing that he is completely aware of the working man's problems and social justice.

Pope Paul VI has also visited Detroit twice, in 1954 and 1960. Father said that the Holy Father is consequently aware of the modern needs of the Church in Michigan.

Pope Paul is scheduled to reconvene the ecumenical council in September and is expected to to continue the move toward Christian unity. He has also retained John's secretary of state.

The Roman Catholic Church is more concerned with "aggiornamenti" (-bringing the Church "up to date")-than with labeling the visible head of the Church as liberal or conservative. Montini was closely associated with some of the conservatives in the Curia, to which he belonged for 30 years. Father Kavanaugh said that this indicates he is understanding of them but not that he is either liberal or conservative.

When Montini accepted his position as supreme pontiff, he became inflexible concerning questions of faith and morals, according to Roman Catholic doctrine. This means he cannot err when speaking on issues of faith and morals. This belief stems from the Scriptural position of the Apostle Peter and Christ's messages to him.

Father Kavanaugh said that Catholics do not question papal infallibility, only its extent. He said that its original meaning is often blown out of context. Pope John did not make one infallible statement in his ten years as supreme pontiff.

As head of the Roman Catholic Church, Pope Paul VI holds the power of Peter's keys.

Pastoral Point of View

To some people, one of the most disturbing aspects of Christianity is the confident claim that Jesus Christ is God. Almost anything less than this might be acceptable.

Skeptics of His deity might go so far as to acknowledge Jesus Christ to be a religious genius with keen spiritual insight. They might accept Him as a forceful reformer who persisted in His efforts to remove certain trivialities from a religious system. They might regard Him as a gifted teacher with amazing ability to communicate truth. They might grant Him a secure place among the great prophets of all time. But to declare Jesus Christ to be God, one in essence with Jehovah, and to do so without reservation, becomes a barrier too great for some people to overcome. Yet nothing short of this will satisfy the claims Jesus Christ made concerning Himself, or the claims that the Holy Bible, especially the New Testament, makes concerning Him.

In the Scriptural passage of Hebrews 1:8 it is recorded that the first Person of the Trinity speaks to Jesus Christ, the Son of God, and declares that He is God: "But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever." On other occasions in the Scriptures the deity of Jesus Christ is attested by statements from God the Father. The Apostle Peter, according to Matthew 16:16, made this identifying statement as he addressed his remarks to Jesus Christ: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." In another instance Peter said: "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life and we believe and are sure that Thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God" (John 6:68, 69).

Thomas, the doubting disciple, finally cried out to Jesus Christ, "My Lord and my God" (John 20:28). The Apostle John gave testimony to the deity of Jesus Christ in such specific terms as "This is the true God, and eternal life" (1 John 5:20).

Concerning Jesus Christ, the Apostle Paul states that "in Him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily" (Colossians 2:9). Paul tells Timothy that Jesus Christ was "God manifested in the flesh" (1 Timothy 3:16). To the Romans, the great Apostle declared "Christ came, who is over all, God blessed for ever" (Romans 9:4,5). Paul encourages Christians in his letter to Titus to look forward to the wonderful fulfillment of their hopes when "the great God and Savior, Jesus Christ" will appear (Titus 2:13).

The most amazing claims to His deity were made by Jesus Christ Himself. He said, "I and my Father are one" (John 10:30), and "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father" (John 14:9). He claimed to be eternal and referred to Himself by using the name reserved for absolute deity (John 8:58).

In spite of such claims, clearly presented, persons doubting the deity of Jesus Christ are legion. Conversely, many believe the claims Christ made to be absolutely true and would re-echo the statement made by Daniel Webster, great American statesman, "I believe Jesus Christ to be the Son of God...I believe all His declarations."

New Major Brings Pastor Joins Added Opportunity Lutheran Staff

Growth of the department of religion and expressed interest in its work has led to the establishment of an undergraduate major in religion.

Approved this year as a major in the College of Arts and Letters, the study of religion is defined by Harry H. Kimber, dean of the department of religion, as an interdisciplinary humanities program with emphasis on theology. It includes courses in history, philosophy and theology as they apply to an understanding of religion.

The operational philosophy of the department of religion expresses in action the words written by Dean Geddes Macgregor of University of Southern California:

"Our modern universities are so strong and so influential that, ideally, they can become the site for the realization of the vision of a truly free school of religion in which men of all faiths may earnestly study the immensely valuable theological traditions to which they are heir, and in full view of the humanistic and scientific work being conducted in so many different forms within these citadels of modern learning."

The first offering of courses in religion under the name of religious education occurred at MSU over a quarter of a century ago. The department was established in April, 1948.

Kimber said significant developments in the history of the department have been the broadening of course offerings, building of a faculty of regular university staff members and increased interest in religion as a field of study among students.

Until this year it was possible to include religion courses in any undergraduate program on an elective basis. Religion has been the minor field in many graduate studies.

Students who intend to enter a theological seminary are advised to take such a major. Among seminaries there is an increasing concern for adequate pre-seminary education with emphasis on a broad liberal arts curriculum, but with sound grounding in fundamental pre-seminary subjects.

The work in religion in a modern university, together with appropriate language and cognate subjects, furnishes a basis for professional lay church work, the proposed curriculum of the religion major meets the requirements.

The major program in religion is essentially a liberal arts degree program with specialized religion courses and a specific number in allied subjects.

The school requires 40 credits of religion for majors, 24 being upper class courses. The required courses are introduction to Christianity, Old and New Testaments, history of Christian thought and comparative religion.

Allied credits may be taken in language, with a mandatory one year of Greek, hymnology, primitive religion, history of philosophy, ethical theories, oriental philosophy, existentialism, philosophy of religion and ancient and medieval history.

University Lutheran Church will install the Rev. George W. Gaiser as assistant pastor Sunday at 7 p.m. He will join the Rev. Walter R. Wietzke and Miss Tecla Sund, campus worker, on the present staff.

The Rev. Robert Wietelman, assistant president, Michigan district of the American Lutheran Church, will conduct the service of installation and deliver the sermon.

The Rev. Howard Christenson, assistant president, Michigan Synod, and the Rev. Mr. Wietzke will also participate in the service. An informal welcome reception will follow.

After receiving his B.D. degree from the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Ohio this month, the Rev. Mr. Gaiser was ordained by his father at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Cleveland, Ohio. He received his B.S. degree from

REV. GAISER MSU in 1956. The Rev. Mr. Gaiser and his wife will reside in East Lansing.

UCM Announce Head

The Rev. Ernest Dunn has been named new coordinator of United Campus Ministry. He is a pastor in the Wesley Foundation (Methodist) on campus.

Nine members of the ministerial staff of UCM chose the Rev. Mr. Dunn to coordinate its activities during the following academic year at State. He will preside over business meetings, organize retreats, bring speakers to the campus and assume charge in making the annual report to the UCM directorate.

The directorate is composed of the board of directors and is separate from the ministerial staff. The Rev. Walter Kania and the Rev. John Duley, pastors for United Campus Christian Fellowship, are responsible to this body.

It includes board members from the Wesley Foundation, Lutheran Association, All Saints Episcopal Church, Disciples of Christ and Peoples Church, and it operates to survey the work of all the denominations repre-

SCF Coffee Hour

Spartan Christian Fellowship graduate group, local chapter of Inter-varsity Christian Fellowship, will hold a coffee hour Friday at 8 p.m.

Former members of Spartan Christian Fellowship and interested students are welcome. The meeting will be held at 225 Haslett St., East Lansing.

Becoming involved in a ministry to married students is the primary goal of the Rev. Mr. Dunn as new coordinator of UCM. He is joining George Tuma, curate at All Saints Episcopal Church, in calling on married students at State this summer.

The Rev. Mr. Duley is mapping out plans for a UCM-sponsored faith and life seminar to increase faculty-student relations in the fall.

UCM will continue the pre-marital counseling seminars for engaged couples which was initiated this spring at MSU.
