US Helps Avert Full-Scale War In Border Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—The outlines of a major U.S. role in efforts to head off a full-scale war between Algeria and Morocco are emerging from behind a more than usually heavy curtain of diplomatic secrecy.

The story is unfolding bit by bit and still isn't being officially told, but these salient points were clear Sunday:

The United States served unmistakable notice to all concerned that the border dispute must not be allowed to develop into a confrontation from which neither side could withdraw without serious loss of face.

Washington brought pressure to bear on Egypt to restrain its help to Algeria and exercise similar diplomatic force on Spain to keep it from strongly backing Morocco.

The administration had early and precise knowledge about the three Cuban ships and the arms they delivered to Ben Bella.

The United States feels France contributed indirectly to the border violence by its failure to define boundaries before it withdrew from Algeria.

For weeks the State Department declined to make any comment on the violent border clashes. It also refused to say whether it knew about the factor which concerned the administration most—the arms delivered to Algeria.

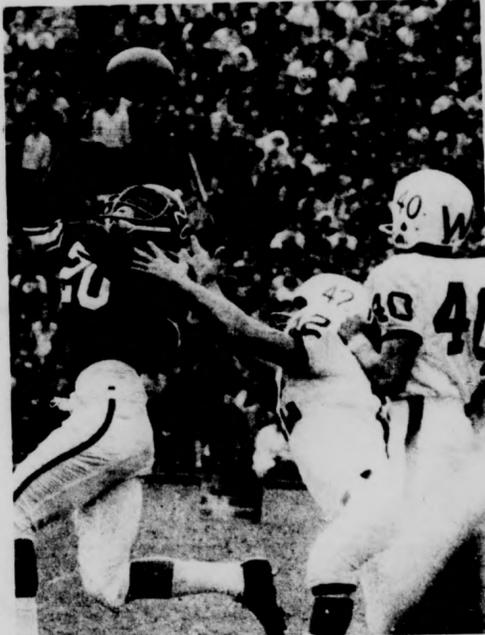

Though the State Department still does not acknowledge it publicly, the administration had precise knowledge about the three Cuban ships which delivered arms to Ben Bella and about their cargo of light tanks, armored personnel carriers, jet fighters, and various kinds of guns.

It was also known that several hundred Cubans and an even greater number of Egyptian "technicians" also arrived in Algeria before the ceasefire was signed.

Washington has mixed feelings about the war material Fidel Castro has sent to assist Ben Bella. While there is some satisfaction that Soviet military hardware was removed from Cuba, everybody would be much happier if its destination had been some Soviet port instead of the power keg in the Mediterranean.

Ever since Algeria became independent in July 1962, Morocco has been pressing for a settlement of boundary lines, claiming that large areas rich in natural resources, now under Algerian control, belong to Morocco.

Grid Win Brings Big Title Closer

Greatness is as rare in college football as it is in any other field endeavor.

But 71,033 fans saw the Spartans bask in greatness for 60 minutes Saturday afternoon in a 30-13 Homecoming victory over Wisconsin.

Pre-season pollsters foresaw a dismal season for the Green and White, but the Spartans dispelled the fallacy once and for all with a display of determination and good football against the Badgers.

They overcame the Wisconsin hurdle despite the injury of starting quarterback Steve Juday, who suffered a shoulder separation late in the first period.

The Spartans still find themselves in a three-way tie for the Big Ten leadership with Ohio State and Illinois. Purdue and Illinois remain on the MSU conference schedule.

"This is our biggest conference victory in several years," said coach Duffy Daugherty. Later he added, "I don't think I've ever seen a team play harder than this one."

Some fans have gone so far as to use the words "Rose Bowl" when speaking of the immediate future of MSU football.

Student Ticket Rules Tougher Next Game

HOLDERS of student tickets who attempted to enter Spartan Stadium without ID cards Saturday were given the benefit of the doubt and admitted.

Bill Beardsley, university ticket manager, said "We were more than lenient. About 70 or 80 people did not bring ID's, but we cannot continue to let students come in without ID cards," Beardsley said.

At the Notre Dame and Illinois games, students will definitely not be admitted without ID cards.

"If a student loses his ID, he can get another without much trouble," Beardsley said. "We don't intend to work a hardship on students, but a student ticket is just not a negotiable item. It cannot be given or sold to a non-student."

Beardsley said about three or four ID cards were confiscated when non-students attempted to use them for admittance.

"The athletic department turns these over to the Dean of Students office for action," he added.

The ticket office has had no trouble this year with students pasting low numbers on activity book coupons in order to get tickets earlier in the week. This

Reactions Mixed Over Viet Coup

By SUE JACOBY
State News Staff Writer

Relief at the downfall of Ngo Dinh Diem's government in South Viet Nam mixed with regret at the violent deaths of Diem and his younger brother Ngo Dinh Nhu was expressed Sunday by MSU students and professors who have lived in South Viet Nam.

Vietnamese students here, long silent on the subject of the Diem government because of fear of reprisals, are generally jubilant at Friday's military coup which ended Diem's nine-year-old regime.

Hanh Phung, Saigon junior, said she had hoped for a long time that there would be a revolt against the government.

Miss Phung, a member of the 1963 homecoming court, emphasized that "there was a great deal of repression under the government of President Diem."

"When I was home, I never dared say anything. Everyone was afraid of the police," said the dark-haired coed who came to MSU a year ago.

"But I don't think it right that Diem and his brother should have been killed," she added. "However, all of the underground resentment against the government was destined to explode in a revolt such as this one."

Nguyen Huu Chi, Saigon graduate student, said the Diem government has hindered economic and political development in his country during the past few years.

Chi, whose family fled from North Viet Nam's Communist regime in 1954, said Diem was dominated by his brother Nhu. "This does not mean the blame can be shifted from Diem. It was his fault, because he would not listen to his other advisers. The only way to speak to Diem was through Nhu."

Vote On Changes In AUSG

AUSG elections will be held Tuesday and Wednesday to vote on seven proposed constitutional amendments.

Students can vote in their dormitories during meal hours or at Berkeley Hall, the Union, and South Campus Grill from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. by presenting ID cards.

There has been much controversy over Proposal 2, which would allow AUSG to raise or lower student assessment on the basis of a majority of the votes cast rather than a majority of the student body.

Presently Proposal 2 requires a majority vote of the entire student body.

"However, Bob Kerr AUSG president said, "it has been our experience that a majority of the student body never votes on any issue."

"We'd like this amendment passed just as any other amendment would be passed," said Bob Hencken, speaker of congress.

"It allows student tax to be raised or lowered in accordance with a majority of those students voting on the issue. To raise the tax one cent would still require the students to vote for referendum."

"Under the present constitution we are required to have a majority vote of the student body (continued on page 7)

Washington Summons Ambassador

JAKARTA, Indonesia.—The US embassy announced Sunday Ambassador Howard P. Jones has been summoned to Washington for consultations on Indonesia and the southeast Asia situation in general. The announcement came amid signs of a possible harder US policy toward Indonesia because of its opposition to Malaysia.

The embassy said Jones would leave with his wife Tuesday, stop off in Manila for talks with US Ambassador William Stevenson and arrive in Washington

Russia Launches Satellite, Asks Cooperation

MOSCOW.—The Soviet Union launched an unmanned space vehicle Sunday which it said was capable of performing complicated maneuvers on command from the earth. A few hours later Premier Khrushchev commented that he would look with more warmth on the idea of U.S.-Soviet space cooperation if international tensions eased.

The Soviet Premier commented after making his announcement. "We would have nothing against Russia and America joining in such a project."

A Soviet scientist said that the new space ship, "Polyot-1", is the forerunner of vehicles which may be used for building a moonshot launching platform in space.

Chinese Claim U-2 Hit Near Shanghai

TOKYO.—Peking Radio claimed Saturday the Red Chinese Air Force unit shot down a Nationalist Chinese U-2 plane over Hua Tung, near Shanghai.

Nationalist Chinese Air Force Headquarters at Taipei reported one of its planes failed to return from a reconnaissance mission over the Chinese mainland but declined to say whether the missing plane was an American-made U-2.

A Red Chinese radio broadcast said the high-altitude craft was on a "harassing mission."

College Aid Bill Progresses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A $1.2 billion college aid bill received a major boost Friday when House-Senate conferees cleared two obstacles that were impeding final passage.

The conference committee agreed to eliminate a Senate provision that would have allowed court suits to block federal aid to church-connected schools.

The one remaining major difference to be settled involved the formula for distributing $50 million a year to two-year junior colleges.

Report Cuban Arms Cache In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela.—Venezuelan troops found a crated arsenal of modern weapons, including flame throwers, rocket launchers and heavy machine guns, in the mountains of the Paraguan Peninsula, the interior ministry said Sunday.

Interior Minister Manuel Mantilla said the origin and manufacturer of the weapons was not immediately known.

Braces For Possible Red Move

The United States will not and cannot be expected to accept any responsibility for the violent events that overtook the two ruling brothers in the wake of the successful military coup, US sources said Sunday.

High U.S. officials expressed regret that South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu had met violent death while in the custody of revolutionary military forces in Saigon.

A high government source said the administration repudiates an earlier view expressed privately by an official that the brothers had reaped the harvest of their own misdeeds.

This does not represent the opinions of the top leaders of the U.S. government, the high government source said.

The State Department had no comment on the charge by Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu that the death of her husband and President Diem is "an indelible stigma against the United States."

But the department did relay to Mrs. Nhu information from the new rulers of South Viet Nam that her three younger children are safe and will be flown to Rome.

US officials privately deplored the bloody aftermath as most unfortunate, but they said the reaction in Saigon to the change of regime indicated the bitterness of the people and the unpopularity of the old rulers.

No official announcement had reached Washington by Sunday afternoon of the formation of a new provisional government by the military leaders led by Lt. Gen Duong Van Minh. This probably will set back temporarily at least plans for speedy US recognition of the new government.

Information reaching here gave no intimation of dissension within the military leadership over the formation of the new provisional government.

In fact, officials said the developments thus far have been (continued on page 7)

Vietnamese Tango, Twist At Diem Fall

SAIGON, Viet Nam.—They danced the twist and the tango—and any other dance banned under Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu's morality laws. The night clubs of Saigon joyously threw open their doors at noon Sunday and the crowds flocked in.

They celebrated the downfall of President Ngo Dinh Diem by thumping their noses at the morality laws introduced in April, 1962, in Madame Nhu's crackdown on such things as beauty contests, dancing, cock fights and boxing matches.

As part of the new look, bar girls and night club hostesses doffed the white hospital-like smocks they had been required to wear under the morality laws, and donned the eye-catching slit skirt Vietnamese women traditionally wear.

Hut-Toop-Threep-Four!!

What looked like an attempt to start a women's ROTC turned out to be a mistake when two freshman co-eds received incompletes for not attending ROTC-100 classes.

"It's a sign of the times," said Capt. Ralph C. Waara, assistant professor of military science. "They are getting pretty liberal when they let women into ROTC"

The students, Patricia K. Jencks and Susan B. Hill, were both surprised to find this out.

"I am shocked," Miss Jencks said. "How did girls ever get into ROTC?"

"I am flabbergasted," Miss Hill said. "How can I be registered in ROTC if I'm a girl?"

Both said they had known nothing about the situation before being informed of it by the State News.

Maj. Richard M. Clohency said their registration showed good spirit and good citizenship.

"Shame on them for not attending," he said.

Maj. Clohency said since the social science desk was next to the ROTC desk at registration the co-eds' cards probably got mixed in the wrong pile.

Campbell Hall's Winning Homecoming Display

Alums Love Homecoming

Crisp, sunny football weather and an MSU victory over the Wisconsin Badgers Saturday afternoon set the tone for this year's homecoming weekend which brought some 25,000 alumni to the campus.

More than 70,000 watched the Spartan gridders roll to a 30-13 victory over favored Wisconsin. The afternoon was marred only by an occasional snowflake and an appearance by Stanley, Beta Theta Pi's basset hound, on the field after State's first touchdown.

Members of Excalibur, senior men's honorary, escorted the homecoming queen, 20-year-old blonde, Donna Beukema, Holland junior, and her court around the field in convertibles before the game.

At least one member of the homecoming court had mixed feelings about the Spartan victory. Paula Allman, Hinsdale, Ill., sophomore, and first runner-up in the contest, is pinned to Hal Brandt, the quarterback who sparked Wisconsin's passing offense. Each of the court members represents a Big Ten school. Because the first runner-up traditionally holds the title of the opposing school, Miss Allman represented Wisconsin.

Following the game, alumni gathered on the field around their class standards.

The queen was crowned at the homecoming dance intermission Saturday night in the Auditorium. More than 2,500 students and alumni danced to the music of the Claude Thornhill orchestra.

Three new members were tapped for Excalibur at intermission. They are Bill Volmar, Cleveland, Ohio, president of the Men's Hall Association, Bill Boettcher, East Lansing, chairman of Water Carnival; and Mel Chilleau, Flushing, captain of the baseball team.

Homecoming float display contest winners received trophies.

A Student Challenge

Right now while the iron is hot from the fire, it would be a good idea if some student organization looked into the possibility of sponsoring next years Homecoming Dance.

If it already is not a fact in the public domain, the dance this year was not sponsored by students but by the Ingham County Alumni Club. This, in fact, has been the practice for so many years that no one can remember if students ever did sponsor the affair.

Maybe they have or haven't, we don't know; but we think its about time they did. The success that recent Junior Class Councils have had with the J Hop, proves that a student organization can handle a big dance. . . as well if not better than. . .

Take for instance this years dance. With all respect to a fine Alumni organization that has done a "lions" job for many years, just how many people have ever heard of or would care to hear. . . Claude Thornhill? It's not that he doesn't have a good band, he does; but for a Big Ten Homecoming Dance?

There is one indication that the Dean of Students Office would cast a kind eye toward a student sponsored dance. They leave themselves open to criticism when they approve late permissions for the Homecoming weekend, but then have to say that the central event of the evening, the dance, won't be on the approved list.

In this case, the rules they operate under won't permit them to approve a dance for a late permission unless it is a student sponsored affair. Perhaps a little more coordination between the Alumni Office and the Dean of Students could have qualified the dance, but that's an editorial of a different color.

For the case at hand, we think it's time for a top-flight student organization to step forward and take the reins of this time honored affair. How about a combined committee of MHA and WIC.

The Ingham County Alumni Club has produced many fine dances and have put their profits to good use in student loan programs etc. . . But the dance is by nature a student affair, and it should be sponsored by students.

British Universities Expand

European universities have always been held up as a model for American universities when discussing the quality of education received.

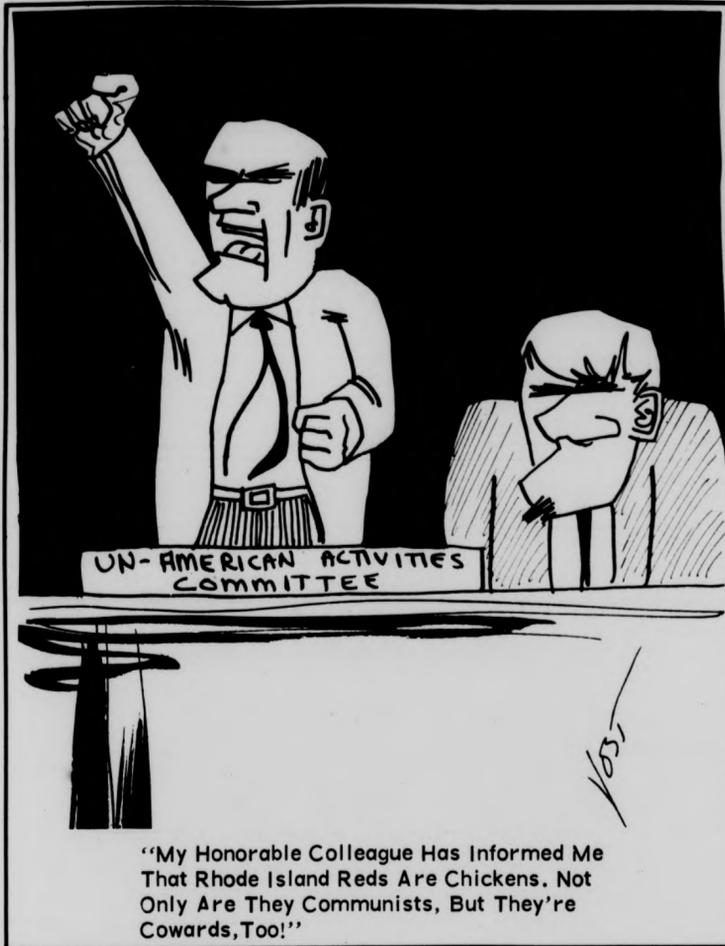

This comparison was made because the ancient and traditional methods of education across the Atlantic have produced many outstanding scholars. But the number of colleges and universities is limited so that the percentage of population with a college education is small compared with the United States.

Now there is an educational crisis in Britain because of a rapidly increasing number of people seeking college educations.

Some British educators are worried about the loss of quality if the university system is expanded. The large state universities in the United States are rapidly expanding, but there is no fear that quality will suffer.

The American university system is based on the theory that a college education should be open to anyone who can qualify. This education is becoming increasingly important in this nuclear age.

If the British build their expanded college system as it has been built in the United States, they certainly should have no fear of a lack of quality. -- From The Ohio State Lantern

Bicycles—Fair Deal?

To the Editor:

It is probably safe to assume that in a typical community, the majority of people who drive a car are mature and responsible adults, while many people who ride bicycles (being children) are irresponsible, if not careless. However, at MSU the people who drive cars as well as those who ride bikes, be they mature or immature, responsible or irresponsible, careful or careless, are from the same population.

Consequently, if it is felt that it is necessary to put "drop offs" at the end of bicycle paths to prevent students from darting into traffic, why don't automobiles have to ease past strategically placed humps and holes at busy intersections? Or again, should not pedestrians, by the same reasoning, have to fight some obstacle before they can cross a street, i.e. "dart into traffic?"

Would not stop-signs accomplish the same result, relieve the University and the automobile drivers of any blame, and place the responsibility upon the bike-riders without the present inconvenience? At least give us credit for knowing who would come out second best in an auto-bike collision.

Bryan Support

We, the house presidents of Bryan Hall, wish to let it be known that we and the residents of our houses support Andy Rogin, Bryan Hall President, in his present stand on AUSG. An effective and efficient student government is a necessity of a university as large as Michigan State. We sincerely hope that the representatives, especially Mr. Kerr, the president, will recognize the discontent of not only Rather and Bryan Halls, but what we think is the discontent of the student body as a whole with the present functioning of AUSG, and that the necessary steps will be taken to correct this situation.

Mr. Kerr, you pledged to give us, the students, an effective student government and we plead with you to fulfill your campaign promises.

Sincerely yours, Paul O'Brien, Bill Zillmer, Don Schimp, John Waiker, Ted Slicer, Ron Yonker, Mike Kelly, Gary Langdon

Smokers

To the Editor: In your editorial entitled "Responsible Capitalism" you stated, "In recent months cigarette makers have redirected their advertising away from a youth appeal to an adult appeal." Have they now? Does the following sound familiar? "Smoking was meant to be an adult habit." Meant by whom? And where did "whom" get such authority?

It is claimed that "one cigarette separates the men from the boys. . ." If this is a sincere statement the implication should be obvious; smoking this cigarette apparently constitutes manhood, if not adulthood.

The editorial goes on to say, "In television ads, they have noticeably restricted their appeal to women."

Do you mean by this statement that the advertisers are directing their entire advertising effort toward women? Do you mean advertisers are directing less advertising effort toward women? Moreover, why should either be the case?

Apparently women are either significantly more or significantly less susceptible to ill effects from smoking than are men. Please leave "responsible capitalism" praise to those who intentionally practice it and not to those who by their own admission simply wish to avoid federal regulation.

To the Editor: We wish to express our appreciation to the students and faculty at Michigan State University for making the Fall Term Blood Drive as successful as it was.

Although we did not reach our goal of 2,000 pints, the sixteen hundred pints we did receive was greatly appreciated by the Red Cross. As soon as the blood was received at the Lansing chapter offices, it was dispatched to the thirty-one counties in Michigan serviced by them. Over seventy-two hospitals in this region will receive blood from the campus drive.

Chicago and Little Rock, Arkansas will receive blood from our drive to help alleviate their present need. The Michigan Department of Health will also receive some of the blood for the manufacturing of anti-hemophilic globulin. This derivative is made exclusively in Michigan.

MSU students and faculty who have donated will be able to receive blood free of charge while residents of Ingham county. This may be obtained by submitting a request to the chapter. This service is extended to both in and out of state students up to a year after graduation.

Alpha Phi Omega and the Red Cross are hoping that the generosity of the students and faculty will be even greater next fall.

Point of View

Pro Or Con ?

By Carl Tanigawa

Motivated by today's controversial issues, and being caught in many so-called "bull session," I analyzed my own feelings on why people are "pro" or "con" on such issues.

When I was in high school, one of my instructors chose a controversial topic for discussion. He let the students divide themselves into a "pro group" and a "con group". After the students had settled down (smiling discreetly at their own personal, un-debatable arguments), my instructor voided the class of all unwarranted confidence by switching our roles for the discussion. The "pro group" was to defend the cause of the "con group," and the "con group" was told to develop the "pro" cause.

After two weeks of investigation and data-seeking, the discussion took place. The results were very interesting. Some of the students did not change their opinions at all. Some were "not as sure" of their original stand, and some were, like I was, "just plain confused." In actuality, some of the students may have changed their personal ideology after the discussion, but egotistical pride played an important part in the conservative statements of these students.

Whenever a discussion becomes "heated," I feel that this is due to one, or the combination of two reasons. The first one is rationalization to defend one's own ego. When your opponent in a discussion is beginning "to make sense," your ego is being threatened. You do not want to see his point of view, but paradoxically, your mind is mature enough to comprehend that your opponent is speaking sensibly. You then resort to various phases of rationalization or evasion of the topic. This reason is self-explanatory, because everybody who is not completely objective, has probably been in a similar position.

The second reason that I offer deals with the differences in total environment. It is my opinion that people who come from the same environment do not differ in basic sentiments. I stress the word "basic," because along the edges of each regional, socio-ethnic group, the factors of conservatism and liberalism lie. That is why I feel that the clash of environments is, indeed, the clash of issues.

What I have said may not strike you as being new, but we should realize all possible motivations in a controversial issue. We should be like Political Scientists, who, while being objective in their teaching, realize that this country survives, progresses, and ascends on "pro or con" issues.

HOW SMALL CAN YOU GET?

Today let us address ourselves to a question that has long rocked and rolled the academic world: Is a student better off at a small college than at a large college?

To answer this question it is necessary first to define terms. What, exactly, do we mean by a small college? Well sir, some say that in order to be called truly small, a college should have an enrollment of not more than four students.

I surely have no quarrel with this statement; a four-student college must unequivocally be called small. Indeed, I would even call it intime if I knew what intime meant. But I submit there is such a thing as being too small. Take, for instance, a recent unfortunate event at Crimscott A and M.

Crimscott A and M, situated in a pleasant valley nestled between Philadelphia and Salt Lake City, was founded by What, exactly, do we mean by a small college?

A. and M. Crimscott, two brothers who left Ireland in 1625 to escape the potato famine of 1841. As a result of their foresight, the Crimscott brothers never went without potatoes for one single day of their lives—and mighty grateful they were! One night, full of gratitude after a wholesome meal of French fries, cottage fries, hash browns, and au gratin, they decided to show their appreciation to this bountiful land of potatoes by endowing a college. But their generosity contained one stipulation: the enrollment of the college must never exceed four students. They felt that only by keeping the school this small could each student be assured of the personalized attention, the camaraderie, the esprit, that is all too often lacking in larger institutions of higher learning.

Well sir, things went along swimmingly until one Saturday a few years ago. On this day Crimscott had a football game scheduled against Minnesota, its traditional rival. Football, as you can well imagine, was something of a problem at Crimscott, what with only four undergraduates in the entire college. It was easy enough to muster a backfield, but to find a good line—or even a bad line—baffled some of the most resourceful coaching minds in the nation.

Well sir, on the morning of the big game against Minnesota, its traditional rival, a capricious fate dealt Crimscott a cruel blow—in fact, four cruel blows. Sigfords, the quarterback, woke up that morning with an impacted meisor. Wrichards, the slotback, flunked his taxidermy exam and was declared ineligible. Beerbohm-Tree, the wingback-tailback, got his necktie caught in his espresso machine. Yuld, the fullback, was stolen by gypsies.

Consequently, none of the Crimscott team showed up at the football game, and Minnesota, its traditional rival, was able to score almost at will. Crimscott was so cross after this humiliating defeat that they immediately broke off football relations with Minnesota, its traditional rival. This later became known as the Succo-Vanzetti Case.

So you can see how only four students might be too meagre an enrollment. The number that I personally favor is twenty. Why? you ask. Because, I reply, when you have twenty students and one of them opens a pack of Marlboro Cigarettes, there are enough to go around for everybody, and no one has to be deprived of Marlboro's flavor, of Marlboro's filter, of Marlboro's staunch and steadfast companionship, and as a result you have a student body that is brimming with sweet content and amity and harmony and concord and togetherness and soft pack and Flip-Top box.

That's why.

There are twenty fine cigarettes in every pack of Marlboros, and there are millions of packs of Marlboros in every one of the fifty states of the Union. We, the makers of Marlboro and the sponsors of this column, hope you will try our wares soon.

Mississippi Progress Slight

There are 67 "Agitators" in Mississippi, and 62 of them are in jail. Their work, which is to try and bring Mississippi out of the pre-Civil War era into the 20 century, is carried on without publicity.

It is mainly because of these facts that few people outside of Mississippi have heard of the Mississippi Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, or "SNICK." Known to the Mississippians as "outside agitators," (this is one of the milder terms used) these people are doing a job that may have no visible results for at least 50 years.

The immensity of their job cannot be imagined unless one under stands the social conditions of Mississippi. Of all the states, Mississippi is the poorest with a per capita income of $1229 per year. Politically and economically controlled by a group of rich whites who want to retain their power Mississippi has never managed to industrialize. In this respect it has become a separate and unique state within the Union.

Dissent is quickly suppressed in Mississippi; it usually involves complete social and economic ostracism.

With its own ideology of "Segregation and the Mississippi Way of Life," it resembles South Africa. For this country with its policy of racial apartheid, is a separate state within the world community.

Because of this static society, Mississippi is politically going in circles. A progressive leader is needed to start Mississippi moving from the 1800's to the 20th century, and yet no leader has ever been, or ever will be, produced by that type of society. Both of the men running for governor, for example, are avowed segregationists.

To counteract this situation, SNCC has launched a program to get more Negro voters registered. Robert Moses, the director of Voting Registration for SNCC in Mississippi, said that ". . . in the past five months, about 1300 Negroes have tried to register. We aren't sure how many will be PERMITTED to pass the tests—but maybe the situation is a little more hopeful, because the Justice Department is examining the records and has filed a suit to abolish these tests as unconstitutional. Of course, it takes a long time for the case to work its way through the courts."

It will take many years before the goals of this committee, and others like it, are realized. But as the society of Mississippi changes, and the two races learn to live together, these goals will be realized to the benefit of, not the detriment of, Mississippi.

Iran Experiencing Social Revolution

For the next 10 years a revolution will be taking place in Iran, said John Hanessian, lecturer and professor for the American Universities Field Staff.

The most important factor will be the social revolution that the Shah is trying to bring about, he added.

Hanessian said it normally takes 20-50 years for such a revolution to take place. The Shah hopes to accomplish it in ten years.

In addition to the time factor, the plan is being met with many problems.

Hanessian said that there are four main reforms in the revolution.

The first is land reform. The Shah is giving land title to the peasants, who comprise 80 per cent of the population. Since they are scattered over 49,000 vil-

Secondly, he is trying to give women equality. It was just a few years ago that every woman in Iran wore a veil. This year for the first time in its history, women were allowed to vote.

The most violent objectors to this reform are the religious leaders, who say that equality for women is against the Muslim belief.

Thirdly, the Shah has made a new law that all factory owners must set aside 20 per cent of their profits for the workers.

Finally, the Shah is trying to raise his country's literacy rate, which now is only 10 per cent of the population.

A literacy corps, patterned on the U.S. Peace Corps, has been formed. Instead of doing military service, a high school graduate can elect to teach the basics of community development, sanitation, and education in one of the villages.

"Naturally," said Hanessian, "all these reforms are meeting opposition except the literacy one, which is one aspect of the revolution that everyone is in favor of."

In spite of the problems, Hanessian believes that the Shah's revolution will succeed.

Police List 19 Accidents

East Lansing Police reported 19 traffic accidents happened immediately before the MSU-Wisconsin Homecoming game and two afterwards, police said.

A car driven by Larry E. Ellington, 22, of 1547-H Spartan Village, reportedly struck the rear of a car driven by Cathryne Voorheis, 1113 N. Hayford, Lansing, near the intersection of Liliac Lane and Harrison Road, police said. No one was injured in the accident which occurred at 4:25 p.m.

About midnight a car driven by Peter H. Smith, 124 Haslett Road, was struck broadside at Hagadorn Road and Grand River. Police said Samuel A. Barker, 800 W. Lapeer, Lansing, was driving east on Grand River and crossed Hagadorn with the yellow flashing signal in his favor.

Ann Barker, also of 800 W. Lapeer and a passenger in the Barker auto, received a ship-lashed neck and was taken to Sparrow Hospital for examination.

U Of Md. Cracks Down On Women's Overnights

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—Miss Helen E. Clark, Dean of Women at the University of Maryland, has cracked down on overnight absences by women students.

Miss Clark announced that undergraduate women who reside at the University may not leave the campus to stay overnight in a hotel, motel or similar public lodging unless they are accompanied by their parents or have written permission to do so.

"A number of instances of student partying in apartments, considerable imbibing of alcohol and lack of moral behavior have been drawn to our attention," the Dean was quoted as saying by the university newspaper, Diamondback.

"The students know we realize this is going on, but since we haven't taken a public stand the students believe we condone such behavior."

She said the memorandum was intended to interpret a section of university regulations dealing with parents' authorization for student absences. She referred to a form which parents may fill out stating that their daughters may be absent overnight without their permission for a specific occasion, provided the girl tells university officials where she will be and how long she will be absent.

This section, the Dean said, frequently is interpreted incorrectly by some women students as meaning they may go anywhere any time so long as they tell truthfully where they will be.

Miss Clark said she believes the university administration and parents interpret the regulation to mean that permission is granted to visit where there is an older woman as hostess.

The Philippines' opposition to Malaysia has been much less hostile than Indonesia.

Indonesia has opposed Malaysia since its birth in September, claiming it amounts to an extension of British colonialism in southeast Asia. The dispute has brought a severance of trade ties between Indonesia and Malaysia's important port of Singapore.

Indonesia and the Philippines have refused to recognize the new nation, created by Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaya as a bulwark against Communism.

The Philippines claims part of Sabah, formerly North Borneo, which is part of Malaysia. The anti-Malaysian opposition erupted into violence in Indonesia in September with rioters burning down the British subjects' sacking homes of British subjects and stoning the Malaysian embassy.

Cavanagh Challenges Students

DETROIT (UPI)—Detroit's college students have been challenged by Mayor Jerome Cavanagh to form a Detroit service corps similar to President Kennedy's projected program for a domestic peace corps.

Cavanagh, in an address to the Mercy College Social Problems Forum, said "we should do what we can on a voluntary basis to meet existing community needs."

Cavanagh said the corps could work with the commission on children and youth in special programs for youngsters who "need guidance in getting jobs" and working with oldsters who need company.

The team will be interviewing students in the Union Concourse Tuesdays and Thursdays 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Rescuers Contact Workers Caught In Mine 10 Days

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP)—Surface workers made contact Sunday in the flooded Lengede iron mine with 11 men who had been given up for dead, with 29 others, a week ago. Drillers hoped to rescue them by Wednesday.

A narrow supply shaft was quickly sunk 200 feet to the trapped band in the third such rescue operation since a broken dam poured millions of gallons of water from an ore-washing reservoir into the mine Oct. 24.

Ten trapped men had been pulled out previously after extensive drilling, though a drop in the water level permitted seven of these to raft to safety rather than use an escape shaft specially sunk for them.

A stream of supplies—tea, soup, chocolate and zwieback, tiny lamps, warm underwear and socks—moved down the supply shaft to the narrow mine chamber where stagnant water sealed the 11 with 10 of the dean men.

Pedestrian Strikes Back!

SWINDON, England—Peter Gould, 20-year old student, was fined 5 pounds ($14) recently for taking mankind's revenge against the auto.

He was, he explained, in the company of a friend who told him:

"We've had enough of these cars running over men. It's about time a man ran over a car."

Within minutes a hobby spotted a trail of footprints leading over a parked car's front bumper, across the hood and roof and down the boot.

The trail stopped at a pair of shoes encasing Gould's feet.

John LaCost wanted a part in scientific progress

He has it at Western Electric

John LaCost received his B.S.E.E. from the University of Illinois in 1962. One of the factors which influenced him to join Western Electric was the quick manner in which new engineers become operational.

During the short time John has been with us, he has worked in several areas which are vital to the nation's communications complex. And with his future development in mind, John attended one of our Graduate Engineer Training Centers where he studied the front-line Electronic Switching System. He is currently working as a systems equipment engineer on such projects as cross bar switching and line link pulsing.

John's future at Western Electric looks promising indeed. He knows he will be working with revolutionary and advanced engineering concepts like electronic switching, thin film circuitry, computer-

Fem Swim, Hockeyettes Win

New Dives Give Lola Miller First

Michigan State's women's swimming team upended the University of Western Ontario, 66-35, Saturday morning at the Women's IM pool. Lola Miller, attempting some new dives for the first time, performed them well enough to earn her second blue ribbon in the event. Co-captain Chris Kluter tied her own 50-yd. backstroke National Collegiate record and almost did the same in the 50-yd. freestyle, with times 29.6 second and 26.4 respectively. It was the second win of the season for the Spartans. They have one loss.

Varsity-Alumni Hockeyettes On College Field

Old Grads Do Poorly In Hockey

Someone ought to tell the women's field hockey team and the basketball varsity that homecomings are a time to be pleasant to returning alumni. While the cagers were downing a team of former MSU basketball greats, 85-80 Saturday, the women's field hockey showed the same courtesy by beating an alumni squad 3-1 at Old College. Kay Stoney with two goals led the hockeyettes to their third win of the season, while co-captain, Margo Lusch added one. The squad had several scoring opportunities in the first half, but left the field with only a 1-0 lead at intermission. Coach Dorothy McKnight's squad will travel to Kalamazoo Nov. 9, for a Sport Day at Western Michigan University. They will play WMU and Kalamazoo College.

NU Problems Just Pile Up

CHICAGO (UPI)—Stu Holcomb, athletic director at Northwestern, had a problem as he drove to the television studio in Chicago Sunday morning for his weekly show. How was he going to open his weekly program? Only Saturday Northwestern had been dealt a final blow in its bid for the Big 10 title by losing to Michigan. Holcomb didn't realize how fast he was traveling. Suddenly he noticed a police car behind him, signaling him to pull over. The policeman listened sympathetically as Holcomb told him who he was and where he was going. After a minute, the policeman warned Holcomb about speeding. Then added, "Okay, you've got enough troubles. . . you can go."

Top Ten For 'S'?

The worth of State's skyrocketing stock will be measured this week when the nation's pollsters compile the week's top ten listing.

Hoopsters Top Alums 2nd Time

It was a bit closer this time, but once again Coach Forrdy Anderson's basketball varsity down a highly touted alumni squad. The cagers edged the alumni 85-80 Saturday at the Jensen Field House practice gym after swamping them 97-75 in their first meeting. The alumni are getting in shape and are a pretty fine ball team with players like Lance Olsen, Horace Walker and Ted Williams in there, said Anderson. "We were a little cold this morning, but it was a nice, hard scrimmage," he added. The team will now begin working on more specific phases of the game, after spending nearly three weeks on fundamentals and basic offensive and defensive patterns. Anderson says he may have found some of the depth he has lacked for the past few years. In a scrimmage described by Anderson as "very fine," the "Reds" downed the supposedly first team "Blues" 82-73 Thursday afternoon at the Jensen Field House practice gym. "The red team did an excellent job on the fast break and on defense," said Anderson. "We've been emphasizing defense and they looked real good." Anderson plans to name a starting combination this week and will begin working with them on the same team in order to, as he puts it, "get down to business." Saturday the hoop squad will go on public display. The varsity and selected freshmen players will play before the high school coaches attending the two-day clinic sessions, which begin Friday at Kellogg Center.

Tie Season Mark

Soccermen Storm Ohio

By RICHARD SCHWARTZ
State News Sports Writer

ATHENS, Ohio--Wind gusts up to 20 miles an hour failed to match the whirlwind surge of Michigan State's soccer team as it stormed by Ohio University, 11-1, Saturday, tying the Spartan record for goals in a season.

The mark of 58 goals set in 1960 rates a fair chance of seeing revision when the Spartans square off against St. Louis, next Saturday on the home soccer field.

In scoring their eighth consecutive win, State held its rank alongside the unbeaten Billikens in the running for an NCAA bid to post-season playoffs. St. Louis, a 10-2 victor over Illinois, Saturday, is defending national champion.

Inside right, George Janes, paced the Spartans with four goals in sending Ohio to its eleventh loss of the season.

Janes, with a season tally of 14 goals, is tied for the lead with Bill Schwartz. Schwartz, inside left, tallied twice against the Badgers and recorded two goals in the 1-1 tie with Larry Christel, who also tallied twice. Men Clare DeBoer, Patraschuk and Van Dimitrie also scored.

In addition, John Haynes, a halfback, scored the only tally in the opening period. A second score was provided when State goalie, Charlie Dedich, made a difficult save of a second period penalty shot.

State, still pestered by the inability to strike fast in the opening periods of play, scored game absence, found his leg injury to be insufficiently healed to allow him to play.

Turgud Enuston, Kenney's choice to replace Stelmashenko at left fullback, proved to be a welcome addition to State's defense.

"I found an extra defenseman in Enuston that I didn't realize I had," said Kenney. "He played an exceptionally fine game."

"Although I expect Stelmashenko to see action against St. Louis," he noted, "at least I know that we'll have some depth on defense, something I've been uncertain about during the season."

said Daugherty. "Holy smoke, we've still got three games left to play!"

No matter what happens in the next three weeks, nothing can erase the memory of the game which saw MSU rack up 394 total yardage, while holding the Badgers' highly-touted running attack to 29 yards.

Wisconsin outgained the Spartans 288-121 through the air, but their 19 completions weren't nearly as dynamic as one MSU pass play which brought the crowd to its feet early in the first quarter.

A familiar halfback named Sherman Lewis took a pass from Steve Juday on the MSU 45 and outdistanced two Badger runners to score on an 87-yard play with 3:06 gone in the first period.

Wisconsin took over the lead four minutes later when quarterback Harold Brandt tossed a five-yarder to Lou Holland for a TD, and Dave Fronck ran for an extra point.

The Badger touchdown, however, was not the most fortunate event for the Spartans in the first quarter.

That moment came about two minutes later when quarterback Steve Juday was injured while throwing a block for Dewey Lincoln. The Northville sophomore suffered a shoulder separation which will probably keep him out of the lineup for the rest of the season.

Dick Proebstle directed the team for the remainder of the afternoon and scored MSU's second touchdown on a two-yard plunge with 5:09 left in the half.

Roger Lopes blasted over from the three for the Spartans' third TD at the 2:03 mark of the second period. The possible run for a 20-7 MSU lead was blocked.

The Spartans' 80 yards in the first quarter, however, were not the most fortunate event for the Spartans in the first quarter.

That moment came about two minutes later when quarterback Steve Juday was injured while throwing a block for Dewey Lincoln. The Northville sophomore suffered a shoulder separation which will probably keep him out of the lineup for the rest of the season.

Dick Proebstle directed the halfback Ron Rubick put the ball on the Badger three early in the fourth period, and Lopes bulled his way over from the two-yard-line two plays later.

When a MSU drive stalled with 5:14 remaining in the game, the Spartans called on Earl Lattimer who came through with a booming field goal from 44 yards out.

The boot was the fifth field goal in six games for the Spartans, and it ended the afternoon's scoring.

Steve Juday and Dick Proebstle were voted co-winners of the "Spartan of the Week" award.

Spartan end Bob Viney (85) appears to be clipped as he tries to block Wisconsin's Don Hendrickson's second quarter field goal try. The referees, who called eleven penalties in Saturday's game, apparently missed this one.

Sharkey Leads Harriers In State

By LARRY MOGG
State News Sports Writer

KALAMAZOO, Mich.--The appetizer was licking good, sobbing on the main course!

State's cross country outfit got their first taste of the '63 tournament season here Saturday and quenched their appetite by dominating the State Federation Championship meet. Team scores were not kept in the meet, but the Spartans were clear victors.

State placed four runners in the top ten, led by the record shattering first place finish of Dick Sharkey, to tame the eight-team field. The 5-7, 130 pound sophomore speeder whirled the tough Western Michigan four mile course in a record breaking time of 20:15, eclipsing the former top clocking by a scant 3 seconds.

Sharkey once again started fast, and built up a comfortable lead to outdistance Western Michigan University's fine freshman prospect, Don Clark, by nearly 200 yards. Bronco, Bruce Barston, finished third.

Spartan team-mates Rick Zemper and Jan Bowen waged a personal duel for fourth place, with Zemper beating Bowen to the tape by the margin of one second. Zemper was clocked in 20:46.

Junior Mike Kaines wrapped up eighth place as he registered a fast timing of twenty-one and four tenths seconds. The Spartan's fifth finisher was fast improving sophomore Paul Mc-

Collam, who tallied a timing of 21.19 for thirteenth place.

Other Spartan runners in the first twenty were seniors Ron Berby and Bob Fulcher, and freshman Keith Coates. Coates turned in a good performance by finishing 17th among the nearly 80 runners.

Coach Fran Dittrich commenting on his team's showing said, "They showed the improvement I expected to see."

Juday. Although Proebstle saw limited action until this week, his passing has been far short of Juday's. Proebstle is five for 15 in the passing columns for a 33 per cent completion mark, which includes one TD pass.

Juday, on the other hand, is now passing at a 44 per cent clip, with five touchdown tosses and a 30 for 68 completion record good for 509 yards. Proebstle has gained only 55 yards via the aerial route.

Juday has been averaging 16.6 yards per completed pass, while Proebstle is getting 11 yards on each completion.

In the rushing department, however, the junior outshines Juday. He has picked up 53 yards on 15 rushes for a 3.6 yard per carry mark. Juday has lost 58 yards on 41 carries.

Daugherty has been quick to point out that a quarterback loses yardage in the rushing column when he is thrown into a play on a pass play, and that is what Juday--with more attempted passes--logically has more yardage lost.

But last Monday Daugherty admitted Juday was "a bit too calm." He said that while the

Freedom from Washday

Dear Spartan Wives:

Where time is concerned, at Capital Laundry, we know your day cannot always be planned by the clock. Both marriage responsibilities and student obligations make it impossible. Too often there isn't time to finish the housework, even less for leisure . . . because the average day's too short.

We value your time. That's why we pick-up and deliver at ALL University married housing units -- to save you valuable extra hours a week otherwise spent doing laundry. Why not let us help you make the best of every 24-hour day. Call now. Join our family of over 3,000 regular satisfied customers. We're only as near as your phone.

Sincerely
Capital Laundry Staff

meeting of Vietnamese students in Chicago. "The intellectuals and the students were partially to blame for the dictatorship," he said. "They did not resist hard enough. Many of them fled to France or the United States, and there was just no one left to resist."

"At the meeting, we decided the students must form some type of organization, so that if there ever is another dictator, there will be some resistance."

Ngo Tu Hien, also a Saigon graduate student, said the reports from his country are "too vague to speculate on the composition of the new government."

He said, "It is right that there has been a change, but I, too, am saddened that Diem and Nhu were killed. This seems to be the wrong way to begin a new democratic government."

Robert Scigliano, professor of political science, returned from Viet Nam in 1961 "convinced that the liabilities of the Diem government far outweighed any assets."

"I am extremely pleased at the coup," he said. "I am convinced that changing the Diem government is worth any risk. I believe the Buddhists deserve a great deal of credit for this revolt, simply because they were the only group to take a non-violent stand against Diem."

SO WHAT'S THERE TO DO THE REST OF THE DAY?

very encouraging. The complicated process of forming the new government is a time-consuming task, it was pointed out.

US Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has been informed that the military junta intends to retain as many experienced officials from the old regime as it can. There has been no blanket condemnation of officials who served in the old Diem government, US officials were told.

There is a state of high alert not only in South Viet Nam but throughout southeast Asia for any possible Communist effort to exploit military thrust.

US officials said they are keeping a close watch for a Communist reaction that could flare up in Laos as well as in Viet Nam.

The United States sent a detachment of marines from Okinawa to the vicinity of Viet Nam during the weekend as a precautionary move.

Mc Donel Students Request Jukebox

Nine hundred McDonel Hall students, recently signed a petition to have a jukebox installed in their snack shop. The petition was accepted and turned over to Lyle Thorburn, head manager of residence halls, but action has been delayed.

Harold Johnson, McDonel manager explained that the management is trying to promote an "academic" rather than a "country club" atmosphere, but student opinion will be considered when the final decision is made.

"The snack shop is equipped with an F.M. tuner and a portable amplifier," he said. "F.M. has good music, more in keeping with the academic atmosphere."

Homecoming

According to Johnson, at McDonel the snack shop manager chooses the stations to be heard, and normally complies with the requests of the majority of the students.

"We find F.M. can satisfy almost every kind of musical demand, except for rock and roll," Johnson continued. The lack of commercials makes F.M. as good as the canned music played in other public areas of the dorm.

"What we'd like to do is try this system for a term and see how students react. We're not giving a definite 'no' to the jukebox question, but we'd rather wait to see how things work out."

First places went to Campbell Hall, women's residences; Asher House, men's co-operatives; Delta Delta Delta-Zeta Tau Alpha, sororities; and Sigma Phi Epsilon, fraternities.

"Daemoniacus," the homecoming pep rally, kicked off activities for students Friday night. About 3,000 students attended the rally, which was preceded by a parade featuring the homecoming queen and court, sorority floats, Sparty, the Delta Upsilon bell and the marching band. Students stood in freezing temperatures to hear a speech by Dean Look, former all-American quarterback for State.

Committee To Study Racial Problems In East Lansing

A newly-formed group which will investigate discrimination toward minority groups in East Lansing includes two MSU faculty members and a student.

According to East Lansing Mayor Gordon L. Thomas, campus representatives of the nine-member East Lansing Human Relations Commission set up this fall are Mrs. Stephanie H. Barch, research associate in zoology, Robert L. Green, assistant professor of education, and Robert F. Morgan, Buffalo, N.Y., graduate student.

Describing the tentative organization and operation of the group, Morgan said that the commission hopes to study situations in the East Lansing community in which human relations conflicts might arise and act to alleviate or improve these conditions.

He said that exact operational procedures are vague at present since the commission has met only once in its entirety, but added that plans outlined by H.C. Tien, commission chairman, call for a three-step program to study and improve East Lansing human relations.

"Our first step will be to receive information about any existing or potential human relations conflicts. Then, we will integrate all our information into general studies, and act to improve or alleviate conflict stemming from complaints that can be proven factual," he said.

The commission will have two available ways to improve human relations when it reaches the action stage. The group hopes to publicize all discrimination proven factual in order to alert the entire community to the existence of human relations problems. It can also make an annual recommendation to the East Lansing Common Council to call the lawmakers' attention to conditions which may warrant legislative action.

Morgan said that he was selected to commission membership primarily as a representative of the MSU student population, which nearly equals East Lansing's population of 30,000.

"I know personally that housing discrimination exists in East Lansing, and I'm interested in representing the University and any students that might be discriminated against in the community. I think my position on the commission will enable me to help these people, now that we have a formal way of dealing with discrimination problems," he said.

The two faculty commission members voiced similar comments about their membership.

"I agreed to serve because East Lansing is my home and I feel we all have civic duties to perform," said Mrs. Barch, who has lived in East Lansing since 1955. "I'm interested in seeing that all minority groups are as well represented as possible."

Green, an East Lansing resident for three years, said that he feels he can make a contribution to improved human relations in East Lansing through his commission membership.

"There is a definite need for a group of this type in our community," he said.

Mayor Thomas, who is a professor of speech at MSU, described the establishment of the commission and the method used to select its members. The idea for the commission's formation was initiated late this summer when approximately 50 East Lansing residents petitioned the city to set up a group comparable to the 12 other human relations commissions across Michigan.

"We tried to approximate a cross-section of the East Lansing community in our selections," said Thomas, who appointed the representatives with council approval. In addition to the three MSU representatives, the commission includes a housewife, a banker, a psychiatrist, an attorney, a minister, and a realtor. The members are of three races.

on proposals," said Louis F. Hekhuis, director of student activities. "Student Judiciary has ruled that the only way to change the tax clause is through a majority vote of the student body."

Proposals 1 and 4 would allow two representatives from the Dean of Students Office, Hencken said.

In addition, Proposal 4 would allow the vice president of AUSG to sit as an observer on Student Judiciary. The AUSG and the student body would be more aware of problems confronting student judiciary and the handling of student disciplinary problems.

Proposal 3 would increase the power of the president and Student Congress, Hencken said. "It allows the president to veto power of who shall be on Judiciary Court and allows Congress to oversee the rules of procedure of the court. It also removes the necessity of the Dean of Students approving the appointment of the Judiciary Chief Justice."

Proposal 5 would allow the president of Student Congress to approve nominations to Student Congress, Hencken said. "Presently nominations can be made without the president's approval."

Proposal 6 will allow all hearings involving student infraction of university regulations and public laws to be made open.

"Students feel that requesting an open hearing will jeopardize their chances of a more lenient decision," said Hencken. "By this amendment we hope to encourage more students to have an open hearing, thereby letting AUSG and the student body be more aware of how judiciary operates."

Sue Loving and Bryan Carpenter Broadcast Campus News

Students Broadcast MSU News

"On the air" in red letters, an open microphone waits....

With professional aplomb, two students combine personality and campus events to be the unofficial radio announcers for the student body.

Sue Loving and Bryan Carpenter broadcast news of organizations and events each Wednesday night 9:30-10 on Campus Highlights over WJLS.

For both students, the program is merely an avocation. Neither plans to go into the field of radio or television.

"I had listened to the program and thought it sounded like fun to do. But the idea of being on radio kind of scared me," says Miss Loving, Columbus, Ohio, junior.

She has been announcing since last year when she took over from a Delta Gamma sorority sister.

Miss Loving reports most of the general events while Carpenter, Franklin sophomore, concentrates on sports.

The program is done live with out three to four hours of organization, says Carpenter. He got interested in the job through his fraternity, Sigma Phi Epsilon, when a graduating brother asked him if he wanted to take over.

Miss Loving feels that with the campus as big as it is, there is a need for some method of telling students about coming attractions.

"Students may call and tell us if they want something said about an activity," she says.

Campus UN Doooms Rule In Rhodesia

The campus United Nations passed a resolution condemning the present white minority government in Southern Rhodesia by a vote of 24 to 18.

There was one abstention, and the United Kingdom was present but did not vote at the Friday night General Assembly meeting.

Ghana detailed the plight of Rhodesia's blacks, saying the problem in Southern Rhodesia is a "human problem... and the world is implicated."

Delegates told the assembly not to let semantics stand in the way of the "bitter facts there," citing the disparity in wage scales and living conditions between Negroes and whites.

While the whites are greatly outnumbered, they possess a large voting majority. Ghana called this a political tyranny.

James R. Hooker, assistant professor of history, introduced the topic. Hooker was in Southern Rhodesia until last September.

He outlined much of the historical background behind the current situation and said that Southern Rhodesia has had de facto independence since 1920.

Thus an internal autonomy has been fairly well established. It is this factor which would make it especially difficult for Britain to effect any sudden change.

Hooker disputed the resolution's claim that the situation was a threat to world peace.

He cited the insulation this part of Africa has from world opinion—they just don't care.

There are at present no real political organizations representing the Negroes of Southern Rhodesia as all African parties have been banned.

The US delegate was also warned to note that US mining investments in Southern Rhodesia are substantial and that US investment is still flowing into the country.

The United Kingdom cited its record of granting independence to 600 million people in the past 15 years.

Delegates were told that it would be an error to have Britain act unilaterally to solve the problem in Southern Rhodesia.

Passage of the resolution would make a real solution more difficult, it was said.

Beneficial Conclave

Tues., Nov. 12

Carlin Named Head Of Education Group

Edward A. Carlin, dean of the University College, was elected chairman of the Association for General and Liberal Studies at its convention at the University of Chicago, Oct. 24-26.

Carlin and about 20 other members of the University College faculty attended the conclave, the theme of which was "unresolved problems of general and liberal education."

Emphasis was placed at the convention on general and liberal education programs such as the one at MSU which is embodied in University College. Main areas of study were problems of evaluation, interdisciplinary courses, and course curricula.

"The University College at Michigan State is being copied to an increasing extent, although other universities have different problems," Carlin said. "Southern Methodist University has just established a University College very similar to the one here."

There was also much interest at the convention, Carlin said, in college honors programs across the country.

Piano Recital

Ina Fae Porias, graduate assistant in the music department, will be presented in a graduate piano recital tonight at 8:15 in the Music Aud.

Her recital will be in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the Master of Music degree.

Miss Porias' program will include "Fugue from Sonata No. 3," Hindemith; "Sonata in E flat Major," Haydn; "Sonata in G minor, Op. 22," Schumann.

Following an intermission, Miss Porias will perform "Three Selections from Iberia Suite," Albeniz; and "Fantasie in F minor," Chopin.

Miss Porias received her Bachelor of Music degree at the University of Miami, Florida, in 1961, prior to coming to Michigan State.

"The kind of Honors College we have at MSU is being copied in a number of places. It's a visible thing and, for that reason, is an attraction," he said.

The 1964 convention, the groups third annual meeting, will be held here at MSU, Carlin added.
