Soviets Arrest Yale Prof On Espionage Charge

MOSCOW (AP)—Prof. Frederick Charles Barghoorn, a Yale University Russian specialist who has been touring the Soviet Union, is under arrest on a charge of spying, the Russians announced Tuesday.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said Barghoorn, 52, the author of several books critical of the Soviet Union, was picked up "the other day" in Moscow for espionage by state security men and an investigation is under way.

The foreign ministry notified the U.S. embassy of his detention—the first such case involving an American since the summer thaw in the cold war.

Neither the foreign ministry nor Tass disclosed when he was arrested, where he is held or details of the charge. Embassy officials were not permitted to see him.

The arrest provoked astonishment in Western quarters. Doubt was expressed as to the basis for any charge against him, for Barghoorn's activities were largely on the cultural side and he did not even carry a camera.

A usual Soviet charge against foreign tourists accused of espionage is photographing military installations, which can mean subjects as ordinary as a bridge.

There was speculation that Barghoorn was arrested in retaliation for a roundup of three Russians Oct. 29 at Englewood, N.J., by FBI agents investigating a spy conspiracy case.

Of that group, two Russian diplomats accredited to the United Nations claimed diplomatic immunity. They were expelled from the United States. The third—Igor A. Ivanov of New York City, a chauffeur for the Soviet Trading Agency (AMTORG) is still held. He faces charges along with John William Butenko, 38, of Orange, N.J., an American electronics engineer.

Trip Rules For Soviets Revised

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Tuesday informed the Soviet Union it was revising regulations on areas in this country closed to Russian travelers by opening up some areas formerly closed and closing others.

As a result slightly more than one fourth, or approximately 26 per cent, of the nation is closed to Soviet citizens. This is the same proportion as the territory of the Soviet Union which US citizens are forbidden to visit.

Today's action did not represent much of a change as far as the Soviet Union was concerned. The revision did not alter the size of the territory closed to Soviet citizens and reflected only "the continuing review of the system of closed areas which takes account of the security requirements of U.S. defense establishments as well as restrictions placed on American citizens" in the Soviet Union, the State Department said.

Barghoorn is a professor in Yale's political science department and a member of the council on foreign relations and the editorial board of the American Slavic Review.

Reds Cool Cultural Exchange

Alfred G. Meyer, professor of political science and expert on Soviet political behavior, said that his treatment by the Academy of Science in Moscow is indicative of the marked stiffening in cultural relations between the Soviet Union and the West.

Last winter Meyer was notified that he had been accepted by the Academy to work in Russia on a project dealing with social change in the Soviet Union. While in Europe this summer, Meyer was notified that the Academy would not accept him. No satisfactory explanation was given, said Meyer.

While the economic and political differences between the Soviet Union and the United States have decreased, said Meyer, the cultural aspect of the relationship has moved in the opposite direction.

"The Soviet Union has been getting more careful and suspicious in regard to foreigners for the last few months," stated Meyer. "It is difficult to say just what the reasons are."

Meyer said that perhaps Khrushchev is aware of getting old and is having trouble politically, or perhaps Soviet bureaucrats wish to show the United States that they are not willing to go to great lengths in liberalizing their international outlook.

Mass Transportation Planned

Editor's Note: This is the first part of a three-part series on the campus traffic problem.

By SUE JACOBY
State News Staff Writer

Michigan State finally may be approaching a solution to persistent traffic problems which have plagued the campus since World War II.

The Board of Trustees approved a recommendation last summer which will replace student driving on campus with a mass transportation system controlled by the University. The plan is to become effective next fall.

War Baby Boom Hits Too Soon

America's post war baby boom is hitting colleges and universities a year sooner than expected.

"The number of students enrolling in state universities and land-grant institutions has exceeded the institutions' estimates and the estimates of the U.S. Office of Education," the Association of State Universities and Land-grant Colleges reported recently.

"Enrollments were not supposed to increase substantially until 1964 when the first peak group of war babies will be ready for college."

MSU officials predicted that about 26,000 students would enroll here fall term 1963. Instead, 27,669 registered. Some administrators have conceded privately that MSU's enrollment may top the 30,000 mark in 1964.

"But the boom carries a boom-erang," the association report continues. "This year's boom was not created by entering freshmen, but by students already enrolled in college who stayed there."

This brings up the problem of what educators call "attrition," or the drop-out rate.

Arvo E. Juola, department of evaluation services, said that MSU's enrollment is up eight or nine per cent while the birth rate for 1945 (the year in which present freshmen were born) went down.

Another MSU faculty member who followed the enrollment in-

Meeting Results In No Action

From Our Wire Services

Governor Romney and Democratic members of the legislature spent more than three hours together in his office Tuesday afternoon and accomplished little more than agreement that tax reform is needed—and needed now.

What form it should take and how many votes could be mustered to support any particular program was not determined.

Democrats planned to caucus later Tuesday to discuss their meeting with the governor and future action.

The essence of the lengthy meeting, which was dotted by several heated exchanges between Romney and the Democrats, was:

Many of the Democrats want the governor's tax bills out of committee.

Romney wants to know how many votes are available before the bills come out to the floor.

The governor said the impact of failure to accomplish fiscal reform now would be a bad reputation for the state through out the nation, harming the state in its attempts to develop economically.

The entire three hours was packed with a general merry-go-round atmosphere—with the governor seeking ideas on general principles of tax reform, and the Democrats providing specific objections to his present program.

One of the main objections brought out was the duplicity of taxes which would exist under Romney's program. Senator Basil Brown of Detroit noted that Detroit residents would pay federal, state and possibly two local income taxes.

Educators Warned To Expand

CHICAGO (AP)—State universities can and must expand their facilities to handle the hordes of high school students who soon will be demanding admission to college, a panel of state university presidents said Tuesday.

But, they added, it is going to be a fierce struggle, and the universities will need more state and federal support than they now are getting.

"Even if we had no more students, we would still have problem keeping up with expanding knowledge," President Charles Odegaard of the University of Washington told a news conference.

"We still would have to build new buildings and remodel the old ones."

When you add to this the population explosion, and the growing problems of state finance across the country, the over-all problems become almost overwhelming. But we can and will do the job, if the public will support us."

Mason Gross, President of Rutgers, said his university recently had to construct a building to house a "tandem Van De Graaf accelerator," a basic research tool in nuclear physics.

"Ten years ago," Gross said, "we hadn't even heard of such a machine. We now have to leave space for equipment that hasn't even been dreamed up yet."

Michael Pontti's Turkey Trot Trophy

Shaw Hall 'Pilgrims' Mother Turkey Dinner

Not many people around the University can claim a turkey for a mascot, but Michael Pontti, Ispeming freshman, has brought that distinction to East Shaw Hall.

Pontti's turkey was the prize he won as a runner up in last week's Turkey Trot. It is currently the mascot for his house's dorm champion football team, Turkeys, like other animals, are not allowed to live in dormitories, so the mascot has established his living quarters in a clump of trees behind Shaw Hall. Shaw men bring him food and water, and he seems to be quite comfortable.

After the football season the turkey will be donated to an orphanage in time for the Thanksgiving season, said Elliott Mendelson, Oak Park junior and Shaw Hall president.

Card Pick-Up Continues

Distribution of early registration reservation cards has been extended.

Registrar Horace C. King said that the remaining cards will be given out in 106 Administration from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mass distribution was Monday and Tuesday in the Union.

"Only a few of the reservation cards are left for seniors and graduate students to reserve the time they want to register,

Distribution of the winter term time schedule will continue this week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the cloak room window at the Union first floor concourse.

Then The Lights Went Out

The state legislature found it difficult to see why Michigan State needed a new power plant.

Yet all last winter our present power capacity was taxed to the limit. On several occasions the supply proved inadequate.

So last spring the state legislature appointed a committee to investigate the problem.

In the meantime the University was obliged to continue buying 1,000 kilowatts of power from the Lansing Board of Water and Light.

Finally, in late October, the Legislature managed to pass a bill providing for the construction of a new power plant on the campus.

But, alas, on Friday a blast halted operation in Lansing's Moores River power plant.

Suddenly the University was not receiving the added power it had been forced to buy--the strain proved too much and then there was none.

It doesn't take much scholarly insight to imagine what difficulties this caused and most of us experienced some of them.

At the same time it showed how dependent we are upon the foresight of the men serving the state in the big white-domed building down Michigan Avenue.

This Team Called Desire

Rose Bowl. . . Rose Bowl. . . Rose Bowl! The same old fever is back and yet it's a little different this year. With only one game between us and at least a share of the Big Ten championship, the possibility of celebrating New Years Day in a short-sleeve shirt is more real than in many a year.

If "this team called desire" takes the measure of the fighting Illini two weeks hence, we will be at least co-holders of the Big Ten title no matter what anyone else does. This has not been the case since even the crustiest senior was a doughy freshman.

Two years ago, for instance, we stood a chance to go Rose Bowl, but at best the invitation would have come from the back door. As it turned out, Minnesota, which finished second to Ohio State (OSU's administration turned down the bid), was extended the invitation for the second consecutive year. MSU, a third place finisher, had actually been hoping against hope.

Then there was last year. . . or was there really a last year? Lets pretend there wasn't.

This year makes up for all of

German Peripheral Logic

Not long ago the sober Sueddeutsche Zeitung newspaper of Munich pointed out that Americans have asked Bonn time and again: "What suggestions do you have to offer to accomplish the reunification of Germany?" And it went on to say that, because no ideas were offered, the Americans had no alternative but to orient themselves along the lines of practical politics pursued by the Bonn government.

One was the relatively lively trading with a nonexistent country, East Germany; the other was the decision to resume diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

The author of the editorial suggested that it is not unreasonable for the Western powers to attach less significance to the welling up of German feelings about reunification, when Bonn's aim is not the re-establishment of "the unity of the German State," but the alleviation of the lot of the unhappy people who live in the Eastern zone, who yearn for more freedom."

The candid writer concludes that it is therefore understandable that in the view of responsible Americans this can be accomplished only through a relaxation of tension.

Meanwhile, Gerhard Schroeder, the German Foreign Minister, has publicly stated that the new German policy is based on the idea that if progress on some peripheral East-West problems results in a détente it may then make it easier to tackle the more stubborn central issues.

Letters To The Editor

Scientist Stands Alone

To the Editor -

With respect to the article, "Red Scientists Freer Than U.S. Counterparts," I wonder how much longer we will have to suffer from the worldwide disease of over-expectation, over-simplification, and over-generalization? How is freedom defined for the scientist despite his nationality, his race, his creed and the political controls under which he lives?

Freedom for a scientist is internal, although the external expressions of the results of his research may be subjected to suppression or rejection. All external instruments are the tools of the scientist and are independent of his creative power.

The Newtonian concept that for a certain amount of money a corresponding amount of worthwhile research will be forthcoming is erroneous.

All knowledge is fragmentary, even though this fragmentary knowledge may be tremendous in scope. Pascal recognized the fact when he announced that he could engulf the universe with a thought but that the universe was greater than his personal thought.

All that external instruments can do is to verify or deny what originated in the mind in the first place, nothing more and nothing less.

The dichotomy of the scientist and his instruments will always exist but to be of any worth to humanity, this dichotomy must have a higher goal than a financial reward and personal pride.

This letter is not intended to deprecate Russian or American science because both are more than adequate.

But unfortunately, modern science is directed by political and industrial support; although that is not the main problem. Science suffers not from lack of freedom because of political and industrial direction but is afflicted with laziness, vanity, pride, jealousy, hatred and fear. The world heartache man so desperately seeks to heal by science, is increased by his inborn destructive tendencies.

A scientist should reflect in true humility that his discipline is not the sole pillar of the universe and that it is his responsibility to share with all disciplines his knowledge.

Not Enraptured

To the Editor:

Precisely: The Cleveland Orchestra is a "machine." But I do not want a machine interpreting the music I love, especially Mozart.

Leon Wheeler, I presume by his review, holds the popular opinion (expressed in the program notes) that Mozart's range of expression is limited in contrast to that of Beethoven and the romantics.

But to me, for sorrow or joy, peace or conflict, poignancy, beauty, or any other human feeling, there is no equal to Mozart. And Szell displayed a misconception of the symphony with clipped phrasing, lack of inflection, and an all too brutal approach to the great "Jupiter" (particularly in the finale).

In other words, I was not, as Wheeler suggests, "enraptured."

Aside from the personal matter of interpretation, I must take exception to Wheeler's comments about the orchestra's technique.

The Cleveland Orchestra is a good orchestra, but I do not believe that it approaches either the dynamics or the precision of The Philadelphia Orchestra -- I am from New Jersey.

And concerning the tone of the orchestra, I am cognizant that I am not familiar with the MSU auditorium (I am a sophomore transfer), but my notes do contain the observation that the woodwinds were unreasonably dry.

Not Even Churchill...

To the Editor:

I am a freshman. I attended the House Council Meeting in which Rather decided to withdraw. I did not uphold this decision and others share my opinion.

One argument against staying was "what could one representative do internally?"

Bob Kerr can no more completely destroy AUSG than Sharon Ries could completely save it. Not even Winston Churchill could save AUSG until every hall and every representative decide to do something.

It's only logical that AUSG must solve its own problems before it can be expected to assert its authority elsewhere.

If students would stop blaming Bob Kerr and Bob Hencken and begin looking to themselves for answers, they might soon have a better AUSG.

Iranians Protest

Shah - Dictator

In Iran a vigorous struggle for national liberation has been waged by the Iranian people in the postwar period. The struggle has been, however, frustrated so far by an alliance of the international reactionary forces supported by foreign interests. In August 1953 a coup d'etat was organized with the support of the Central Intelligence Agency that successfully overthrew the legal and liberal-democratic government of Mossadegh. Since then, thanks to the "technical aid" offered by the CIA, the Shah's secret police have made Iran a police state. Added to the Iranian secret police is the coercive power of Iran's 230,000 man army financed by U.S. military aid and Iran's oil revenues. Minnesota Senator Hubert Humphrey's verdict on the use to which this army has been put is: "Do you know what the head of the Iranian Army told one of our people? He said the army was in good shape, thanks to the U.S. aid---it was now capable of coping with the civilian population. That army isn't going to fight Russians, it is planning to fight the Iranian people."

Basic Human Rights Disregarded

The Shah's dictatorship in Iran has distinguished itself for its unscrupulous disregard and violation of basic human rights, suppression of political parties and persecution of the opposition leaders under the pretext of an anti-communist campaign is the order of the day.

The brutal suppression of June 1963 demonstrations which lasted for five days from June 4 to June 9, according to eye-witness reports, killed at least 2,000 people in the capital alone.

Troops were given "shoot to kill" orders by the Shah.

To "justify" this brutal massacre of an unarmed population that was exercising its rights of protest, the government branded it as "religious" and "reactionary". But we believe that the fundamental cause of the demonstration was the glaring and widening class divisions between the rich and the poor.

Life Becoming Intolerable

The rising cost of living, inflationary pressures on prices of necessities, indirect taxations comprising 34 per cent of the governmental revenues and imposed on the lowest income groups, rising rate of unemployment coupled with the self-seeking of the Shah's clique of corrupt officials have made life intolerable to Iran's teeming millions.

If discontent sometimes expressed itself in a religious guise, it is only because religious meetings were the only mass rallies allowed under the tight control of the Shah's security police.

Land 'Reform' Protects Aristocracy

The Shah portrays himself in the Western press as a progressive leader who wants to implement a "revolution from the top". But facts speak otherwise about His Majesty's real intentions. His land reform, which has been well publicized in the press, is a program fundamentally designed to protect the interests of Iran's parasitic landowner class. As one of the Shah's former premiers, Ali Amini, said: "It is a program to give up three cents out of ten in order to protect the remaining seven cents" for the Iranian ruling class.

Out of an estimated 15 million Iranian peasants, only 600,000 have been so far sold parcels of land, and out of Iran's estimated 50,000 villages, only 3,005 have been bought from the landlords. And all this in a period of almost two years and in return for burdensome installment payments that Iran's poor peasant cannot afford but must pay to keep the land "given" him.

New Facilities Boost International Work

Many related programs now operating in various parts of the campus will be expanded and centralized when the new International Programs Building and Inn now under construction west of Erickson Hall is opened.

The building, set for completion May 15, will house international programs offices, exhibit areas, meeting rooms, a cafeteria and the MSU bookstore.

Glen L. Taggart, dean of international programs, said that although most foreign studies and projects have close relation to various colleges on campus, they will have space in the International Programs Building.

"The new building will give us some needed space," he said, "but still keep international projects interrelated with colleges."

Essentially an office and activities facility, the International Programs Building will also house an exhibit area at the front entrance to display the university's involvement in international education. Furniture from Michigan's Constitutional Convention Hall will be used in an assembly room.

Taggart said that a special room for foreign students will also be in the building. However, some foreign student activities will remain in other buildings on campus. "We don't want to isolate all their activities in the new building," he said, "but make them a more integral part of the university. One of the real virtues of having foreign students is the atmosphere they create with Americans."

The International Programs Center offices, now located on the fourth floor of the library, will move to the new building.

The International Inn, forming, will replace the South Campus Grill, with added features, said Michael Dmochowski, Union Manager.

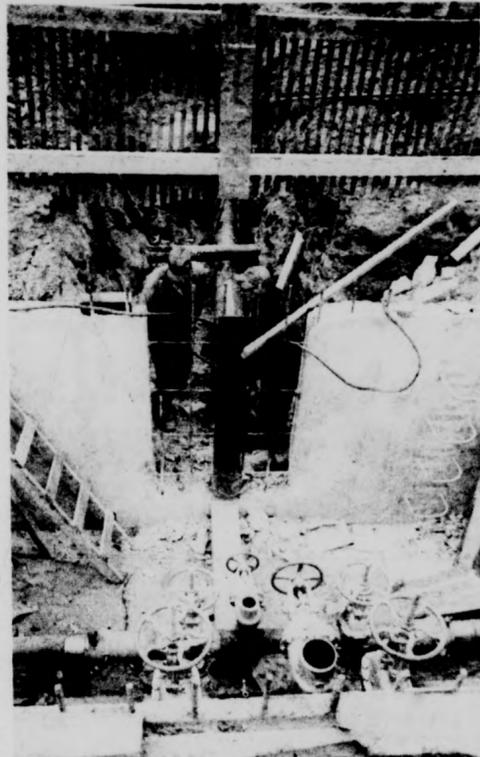

The MSU bookstore, which will open in the new building, will replace the Union Bookstore. Dmochowski said that the new operation will remove one barrier between the book and its purchaser by storing all books on the main floor.

Keeping some books in storage has proved confusing in the Union Bookstore, Dmochowski said.

"Nothing has been done in the Union Bookstore to promote the writings of MSU professors," he said. An author's corner in the new MSU Bookstore will enable students, professors and publishers to discuss books.

Highlights of the MSU-Purdue football game Saturday will be shown at 7 tonight in the Union Ballroom. The Union Board-sponsored film will be narrated by a member of the football staff.

Debaters Win 10 Matches In Ann Arbor Tournament

Twelve members of the Spartan Forensic Squad who participated in the University of Michigan debate tournament Saturday won 10 of 18 debates.

Thirty debate teams from 10 colleges and universities entered the tournament.

Debaters who represented MSU were Helen Altman, Clark Davis, James Hudek, Andrew Kramer, Harlan McGahn, Kenneth Newton, Tom Partridge, James Robinson, Connie Simpson, Mike Stevens, Kermit Terrell, and Herb Wingo.

Three MSU debaters were rated among the top 10 speakers of the 60 speakers in the event. Those cited were Harlan McGahn, with 67 points out of a possible 75 points; Kenneth Newton, 66 points; and James Hudek, 61 points.

Our Mistake

Students interested in studying Japanese winter term should attend a meeting at 4:30 p.m. Thursday in 314 Morrill Hall, not 7:30 p.m., as was reported in Tuesday's State News.

crease indicated that attrition figures from universities can be misleading.

"Some universities figure attrition rates by subtracting the number of students who graduate for a given year from the number that entered four years earlier," said Joseph L. Saupé, assistant director of institutional research. "This presents a very misleading picture of attrition rates."

A study of students who graduated in 1957 and in 1962 showed that from 30 to 40 per cent graduated by the end of the fourth year, he said. Another 20 per cent will still be registered for the first term of the fifth year.

"Actually the percentage of students that graduate in the same class from an institution they entered together is about 50 per cent," Saupé added.

"MSU is one of the few universities in the nation to compile the drop-out rate for a given class."

"Most merely follow the student totals for a given class instead of following the individuals in that class. Then they brag that they have very low attrition figures when they may actually be very high."

The idea that students are staying longer in the same colleges and universities to complete their degrees does not agree with the MSU study, he added. Another interesting aspect of the MSU study showed that females usually graduate at the twelfth term while males usually go longer. Saupé said the differences in men's and women's programs are responsible for this. About the same percentage of men and women get degrees, he said.

Because the ability of college students is rising, he said that figures in future years may show that more students are staying in college until they earn degrees.

may take to handle the crush of college students.

"It may be the pattern of California and Florida, with a state network of junior colleges. It may be the pattern of Michigan State University, with a cluster of small colleges surrounding a large university."

"We can expand indefinitely--with help."

Odegaard said the United States is "the world's outstanding example of the development of an underdeveloped country."

"The last of the original 26 white settlers of Seattle died only in 1939" he said. "By that time, the Boeing Aircraft Company was a well-established firm."

"Here, in the lifespan of one man, was a link from the pioneer past to the space age future." That link, Odegaard said, was forged by public education.

cars, there are more vehicles in motion between classes and at the lunch hours, the most crowded times of the day."

There are approximately 11,000 parking spaces on campus, according to Harold Lautner, director of physical plant planning. An additional 2,200 parking spaces are provided in married housing developments.

Student parking facilities near the old center of the campus in the area of the Union, Berkey and Morrill halls are practically non-existent. Major areas where students are allowed to park at all times are located off Shaw Lane, on Kalamazoo Street near University Village and opposite the Case-Wilson-Wonders dormitory complex.

Student parking is permitted 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. in lots near the Men's IM Building, the Education Building, Jenison Fieldhouse and Spartan Stadium.

A new $1.7 million parking ramp now under construction opposite Shaw Hall will hold 1,000 more cars. Lautner said the ramp is expected to open at the start of winter term.

The only outside transportation on campus is now provided by Lansing Suburban Bus Lines. An official said buses circle the campus every 20 minutes, stopping at key points which include the Union, Kellogg Center, the library, Berkey Hall and Spartan Village.

Thursday's article will deal with the progress already being made on implementation of the Student-Faculty Motor Vehicle Committee problem.

Like Summer In Europe?

The American Language and Educational Center (AMLEC) is offering a summer in Europe for foreign language study.

An informative meeting for all interested students will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union sun porch.

AMLEC cooperates with a non-profit Swiss foundation to offer college students an opportunity to study Spanish, German, French or Italian while immersed in the culture and daily life of the countries where these languages are spoken.

Study is combined with independent travel throughout the country.

The total cost of the summer abroad, including transportation, ranges from $550 to $800.

'New' Lineup

MIKE CURRIE

The Spartans will take a "new" starting lineup into the Notre Dame game Saturday. Starting for the first time will be MSU's alternate line, which coach Daugherty felt played a shade better offensively and defensively against Purdue than the regular unit.

Members of the line include center Buddy Owens, guards Mike Currie and Bill Benson, tackles Charley Brown and Jerry Rush and right end Matt Snorton.

Co-captain Dan Underwood and Tom Krzemiencki will continue to alternate at defense and offense respectively at left end.

Although the second unit hasn't started yet this season, its linemen are no strangers to Spartan football fans.

BILL BENSON

They've help MSU become one of the best defensive teams in the nation this year.

Daugherty will compare the performances of both lines in the Notre Dame game to determine which one will earn a starting assignment against Illinois.

State Could Back Spartans Soccer Hosts; Schwarz Top Scorer

The Spartans could back into the Rose Bowl this weekend. Should Ohio State and Illinois lose, the Spartans would almost assuredly be Pasadena bound even if they lost to Illinois. The Illinois are reported weakened from their loss to Michigan--not in the physical sense, but in mental attitude. Pete Elliott's team has reportedly gone down for the count and may fall victim to Wisconsin's resurging Badgers this weekend.

Ohio State, the team that only wins the games that count, is expected to rebound from its weekend loss to Penn State and drub Northwestern. Yet Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty still feels Northwestern can dump any team in the Big Ten on a given afternoon, and this Saturday could be "Buckeye dumping time."

State fans will be waiting anxiously during the MSU-Notre Dame game Saturday to hear the scores from Madison and Columbus.

The Spartans will be the host for the first round of play in the NCAA Soccer Tournament. Although the Green and White's foe has not yet been picked or the playoff date set, the site of the game will be the MSU soccer field.

The winner of the game between the Spartans and a mid-west opponent will advance into the quarter-final round of the tourney on Nov. 27. The Far West champion will be the mid-west champion's foe.

Team statistics released Tuesday show Bill Schwarz the individual scoring leader with 14 goals in the team's nine contests. George Janes is second in the scoring race with 13 tallies. Peyton Fuller is third with 11.

The team's 62 goals for the season set a record. Schwarz also set an individual game assist makr with 5. He tied another record by scoring six goals in one game.

Janes and Schwarz also have set a new season assist mark. Each has 11 and should increase their totals in the tournament play.

State's 9-0 record is their best ever, one win over the 1958 mark. Coach Gene Kenney calls his team the greatest he's had in his 7 years here.

Irish Still Fighting Despite 5 Losses

There's good reason to call Notre Dame the Fighting Irish even though they've lost five games so far this season.

One of their two victories came from Southern California. They dropped contests to Wisconsin and Purdue by a combined total of only six points.

The Spartans will have those facts in mind when they meet the Irish at 2 p.m. Saturday in Spartan Stadium.

Notre Dame will be trying to rebound from a three-game losing streak which includes setbacks to national powers Navy and Pittsburgh.

The Irish play one of the toughest schedules in the country, but most Notre Dame fans would agree that they point to the MSU game a little more than any of the others.

Michigan State hasn't lost to Notre Dame since 1954 when the once-beaten Irish nipped an underdog Spartan team 20-19.

In fact, the Spartans have out-scored the Irish 190-41 in their seven outings since the last Notre Dame victory.

Irish hopes will be riding on the performances of fullback Joe Kantor and halfback Bill Wolski, both top rushers.

In the pass department, the visitors will be counting on Frank Budka and John Huarte, who have completed over half of their passes this year.

The Spartans are practicing in Jenison Fieldhouse this week in preparation for Saturday's game. Workouts in the fieldhouse are conducted the same as they are outdoors, but there's no need to worry about health problems from mid-November weather.

Dick Proebstle twisted an ankle against Purdue, but has been working out at full strength from the quarterback slot all week.

The only other casualty against Purdue was Joe Begeny, who injured his knee. The second-team fullback underwent a light workout Monday, but he too should be back in top form for the Notre Dame game.

Green Splash Lists Tryouts

Tryouts for Green Splash will be held at 7:30 tonight in the new pool in Women's IM.

Those wishing to participate in the club's spring water show must perform a kip, ballet legs, somersault, catalina and one optional maneuver, either a knight, heron, swordfish, double ballet legs or barracuda.

Guitar Workshop Begins Tonight

A guitar workshop, sponsored by MSU's Folklore Society, will be held at 8 tonight in 22 Union. Interested students are asked to bring their instruments.

Membership cards will be available for $1, and will allow free admission to workshops this term and next term.

Admission cost to each workshop will be 50 cents without a membership card.

Harriers Prep For Run

Amateur Athlete's of America) championship meet at Van Cortlandt Park next Monday.

The Spartans, one of the few outsiders in the predominately eastern tournament, have had much success in the IC4A's. State has captured 13 titles in the tourney, since 1933 with most of them coming in the late 30's and 50's. The Spartans can lay claim also to 10 individual titlists in the championship meet.

Monday's Big Ten win which proved less of a hazard than expected, was Coach Ditttrich's fifth in six seasons here. Iowa interrupted Ditttrich's string two years ago.

Ditttrich put his championship squad through a stiff workout in preparation for the IC4A meet.

State will leave East Lansing Friday to get a few workouts on the hilly five mile course.

Morality

ment of all regulations results simply from a lack of gumption, of courage to take a stand on what is right and what isn't right."

A clash has become apparent at numerous universities between advocates of the "statistical approach to morals," which cites evidence like the Kinsey Report that old moral codes are consistently violated and should not be enforced, and exponents of traditional morality, who believe frequency of rules violations has no bearing on their validity. Fuzak emphasized he believes some rules do become outmoded and need constant re-examination. "At this University, we are engaged in this. We are examining the appropriateness and effectiveness of rules in areas like drinking and off-campus housing. This re-examination process is a continuous one. "However, there are some standards which do not change, some things which cannot be rationalized away. We have no right to abdicate our responsibility by saying that because rules are violated by some people, there should be no attempt to enforce them. Moral standards are a broad area covering far more than sex. For example, the ethical code of honesty is violated in many areas of our society. Does that make it right?" Everett Lee Hunt, dean emeritus of Swarthmore College, says there is one group of students which attacks restrictions on men visiting women's rooms because of "undue suspicion about a perfectly normal desire to talk together, study together and listen to records together." Assistant Dean of Students Laurie E. Fitzgerald pointed out there are many places at MSU for couples to enjoy activities like "talking and studying." Commenting on the Harvard situation, Fuzak said: "We might as well be honest. There are plenty of places at this university for couples to enjoy a certain amount of privacy on dates. However, entertaining in bedrooms generally is not sanctioned in the rest of society. Students must know this type of privilege would be abused, as it apparently has been at Harvard. I do not believe it is the function of a university to provide students with a situation which they would not find anywhere else in society."

Welles' 1938 'War Of Worlds' Scheduled For Replay In Union

An unearthly invasion and an earthly panic will be recreated at 8 p.m. Thursday in Union Parlor C when the Television-Radio Department presents a re-recording of Orson Welles' famous "War of the Worlds" broadcast. The recording is a reproduction of the original broadcast, made Oct. 30, 1938, which convinced thousands of people that a regular program was being interrupted by invasion bulletins.

Arthur Weld, associate professor of TV-radio, will moderate the program and will lead an informal discussion of the broadcast. The "War of the Worlds" recording has already been presented once this term in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the original broadcast. "We're playing it again because we had to turn students away the first time," Weld said.

"This production has become a classic in the annals of broadcasting." "War of the Worlds" marked a point in the career of Orson Welles, who produced the program as part of his Columbia Broadcasting System Series "Mercury Theatre on the Air." Rising personalities such as Joseph Cotton, Ray Collins and Kenny Delmar were in the broadcast with Welles.

Years To Add New Jobs

The most significant factor of the world today is that it is changing faster than it has ever changed in all history, a world-famous author, lecturer and traveler said here Monday night.

"Fifty years from now more than half of our graduating classes will be making their living at jobs no one has yet heard of," according to John Furbay, International Education Director for Trans World Airlines.

He spoke to more than 1,100 farmers and delegates at the annual Michigan Farm Bureau Banquet in Kellogg Center, held in conjunction with the organization's 44th annual meeting, Monday through today.

Furbay doesn't believe there will be a nuclear World War III.

"Because of the weapons of total destruction available today," he said, "it would be impossible for anyone to win a third world war."

Program Offers European Study

The Institute of European Studies announced in Chicago that students wishing to apply for full-year study programs in Paris, Vienna and Freiburg, West Germany have until June 5, 1964, to submit formal applications for the 1964-1965 programs.

A folder describing programs is available from the Institute of European Studies, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

The Paris program offers qualified liberal arts students opportunities to study their major fields at the University of Paris and other Paris schools. Enrollment is limited to B average juniors and a few outstanding seniors.

The University of Vienna offers a choice between German or English-taught courses. Intensive German language instruction and opportunities to take regular German-taught courses is available.

November 16, 1933

Recognizing student opinion prevalent on the extension of late hours for co-eds on week-end nights, the Student Council at its regular meeting presented the following resolution: "The Student Council favors an extension of co-ed hour rulings to allow 1:30 permission of Friday nights and 12:30 on Saturday nights." This resolution will be presented to AWS.

Nigeria Project Two To Aid Study On Students' Role

Eldon R. Nonnamaker, associate dean of students, and Walter F. Johnson, professor of education, will leave Saturday to conduct a two-week seminar in student personnel administration at the University of Nigeria. "The role of students in administration and student government are two vital areas to be covered at this seminar," Nonnamaker said. "Training young people for leadership positions is naturally one of the most important functions of higher education in an emerging nation." George Axinn, Nigeria project director, said the growth of the University of Nigeria has necessitated examination of student administration.

"In its fourth year of operation, the University of Nigeria has students of all classes for the first time this year. It now has 1,650 students and is expected to grow every year," he said. Faculty members from two British schools are participating in that we are trying to devise a program uniquely suited to the needs of Nigerian students Nonnamaker said. "If we were simply trying to make a carbon copy of MSU, it would be a much easier job."

Other areas to be discussed at the seminar include organization of student personnel services and administration.

The seminar is the last of a series which has included programs in education, agriculture, social science, natural science and general studies. Axinn said the aim of the series has been to promote a long-range plan for the University of Nigeria with sufficient flexibility to accommodate any number of students.

Nonnamaker and Johnson will return Dec. 6.

Editors Say Kennedy To Win Re-Election

MIAMI BEACH, FLA. (AP)—A cross-section of the nation's daily newspaper editors feel President Kennedy will win re-election, defeating Richard M. Nixon -- a Republican compromise candidate.

The editors were in Miami Beach for the annual Associated Press Managing Editors meeting which started Tuesday.

All but a handful of the first 50 editors arriving felt Kennedy would win re-election.

They were questioned by the Miami Herald.

Editors named Nixon as the probable Republican candidate. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona received 12 votes. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Michigan Gov. George Romney received the remaining votes.

Editors emphasized to the Herald poll-takers that their selections were based upon their own political estimations and not necessarily on their political preferences.
