

Mental Health Probe Calls For Student Aid

Editors Note: Mental health and the university student is a relatively unpublicized area. According to a recent survey, mental problems affect one student out of every three who endeavors to gain a higher education. Following is the first part of a four part series examining mental health, its problems and the attempts of the University to aid students with mental problems.

By NECIA BROWN
State News Staff Writer

Some 8,000 students at Michigan State University should be seeking mental treatment. A recent survey of 600 colleges reveals that about 15 per cent of their students are seeking counseling of some kind for mental disturbances and that about 30 per cent ought to seek such mental aid. If this figure is correct, 8,000 MSU students may be in need of mental treatment.

"In recent years the Michigan State University Counseling Center has seen about 5,000 students a year, or a little less than 25 per cent of the student body," says Rowland R. Pierson, professor and Counselor.

There is good reason why the college group should be called the "tense generation". There is no time in the average school year when the relentless pressure ceases, except between the last final exam and registration for the next term. Even during this time students find it difficult to relax and realize that no paper is due next week, no exam, no report, no spot quiz, no project. Many students merely collapse after final exams.

The competition is stiff. The psychological strains of college are another contributing factor to the nervous disorders so frequently found in college students. The search for personal identity, the struggle for some recognition or acknowledgement, the confusion between family-taught morals and college standards, the adjustment to people with differing social-economic-religious beliefs, the battle for self-discipline, all this and more confronts the college student.

And after a rigorous five-day week of concentration and study the two-day week-end arrives. Freedom? No, merely more "free" time to catch up on that paper due Monday or cram for that exam. Few feel that they can let a week-end slip by without cracking a book. Therefore, Saturday and Sunday become no more than a two day reprieve until Monday.

But Friday and Saturday nights may turn into a nightmare. With the threat of the relentless Mondays hanging gloomily over their heads, many students attempt "to forget for a while." Disciplinary officials report that week-end drunks, unruly riots, sexual promiscuity, speeding, the formidable hypodermic or the innocent-looking "snow" frequently are devices by which the student forgets.

More pitiful techniques - overdose of sleeping pills, slit wrists, gas poisoning - may bring desperate students permanent escape.

Then Monday dawns, and many cringe in the daylight of realization. Shame, disgust, fear, and desperation hit hard. Then the question, "Is it really worth it?"

An increasing number of students are dubious about their major, or the fact that they are in college at all. Our society in general and our parents in particular have greatly contributed to this pressure.

Today college is a must - for the bright, for the not-so-bright, and for the academic failure. The better the college, the better your chance for success. It is no longer dependent upon individual preference; it has become a mass acceptance.

No matter if Johnny isn't too bright. He fought his way through high school, and he can fight his way through college...or so many seem to think and proceed to toss every Johnny into a 20th Century lions den of quick-witted competition where truly only the strong survive to be graduated.

Frequently sold in campus drug stores are large quantities of pills - aspirin, pep pills, tranquilizers, sleeping pills, vitamins, and stay-awake pills. It is not unusual to find a student retching before an exam or suffering from cramps or diarrhea.

Johnson Urges War On Poverty

Asks Congress To Reduce Tax

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8--President Johnson declared "unconditional war on poverty in America" Wednesday and called on Congress for enactment this month of a tax reduction designed to create new jobs and markets.

In his State of the Union Message Johnson urged a many-sided legislative assault on the causes of unemployment. It should assure full-time jobs at full-time pay, he said, for the millions, Negro and white, who now "live on the outskirts of hope."

Ramp Holds 378 Cars

Outside of the message itself, Johnson put a price tag "in excess of $1 billion" on that program.

Quick action on the $11.1 billion tax reduction bill would reduce the paycheck withholding rate from 15 per cent to 14 per cent, Johnson said in the message million a month to spendable income this winter.

But a major portion of Johnson's relatively brief message was devoted to his so-called poverty package, a 15-point attack on the problems of the aged, unskilled, underprivileged, illiterate and ill-housed.

Bare of the details, the poverty package ranged from medical care and broader coverage of the $1.25 minimum wage to a national service corps and a broadened food stamp program for the distribution of surplus foods to the needy. Heading the list was a "special effort in the chronically distressed areas of Appalachia."

Johnson estimated his request for the Appalachian program at (continued on page 9)

Campus parking problems will be eased this term with the opening of 378 spaces in the new parking ramp off Shaw Lane.

Shaw Hall residents, visitors and faculty are eligible to park in the $1.7 million structure, which will hold 1,000 cars when it is finished. Parking is free.

Harold W. Lautner, director of physical plant planning, said the rest of the ramp will probably open in about two months.

The additional parking space provided in the new ramp is one facet of a plan for campus traffic control recommended last summer by the Faculty-Student Motor Vehicle Committee and approved by the Board of Trustees.

The plan calls for elimination of all student driving on campus by next fall. Adequate parking space and an improved mass transportation system controlled by the University were key requirements in the plan.

New East Lansing Chairman

Schepers Heads Bias Group

The East Lansing Human Relations Commission Tuesday night elected a new chairman to replace Dr. H.C. Tien, who was censured a week ago for a bitter attack on the Lansing Board of Realtors. Thomas B. Schepers, an official of the East Lansing State Bank, was elected in a private session following Tien's resignation at the public meeting to discuss methods of combating housing discrimination.

Tien said he could no longer remain as chairman after the censure, but that he would continue to work on the commission for a fair housing ordinance. He pledged full support for the new chairman.

At the meeting Jan. 2 which resulted in his censure, Tien had torn up a statement of principles maintaining it is the duty of realtors to follow the wishes of clients in selling their property. He said the principles "weren't worth the paper they were written on."

Acting as chairman for the public meeting Tuesday, Tien broke a 4-4 tie to pass a motion which put the commission on record as favoring an open housing ordinance if a need for one is indicated by community research. The resolution was introduced by Robert L. Green, instructor in the College of Education.

The motion stated the commission (continued on page 8)

MSU Shares Grants Totaling $4.75 Million

MSU will share in two Ford Foundation grants totaling $4.75 million for the next five years.

The University received an outright grant of $1.25 million to expand present on-campus academic programs concerning international educational activities. It will enable MSU to expand present academic programs and will allow new international research and study projects.

MSU will share the second grant with three other Big Ten universities. It is a $3.5 million Foundation grant for a five-year, cooperative international educational program.

Organized as the Midwest Consortium for International Activities, MSU, University of Illinois, Indiana University and University of Wisconsin will pool their resources to strengthen international subject content of academic programs on the four campuses.

The Consortium will develop overseas research centers and provide graduate internships and research grants for participating institutions, indicated Glen L. Taggart, dean of international programs.

"The organization will also maintain a roster of persons from the four universities who are qualified for international projects and will assist in training a staff for service abroad," he said.

An executive director responsible to the consortium was elected by the member universities to administer the Consortium's programs.

MSU Favors Open Housing

Robert F. Morgan, Buffalo, N.Y., graduate student and a member of the East Lansing Human Relations Commission, said Tuesday night that the University has set a precedent in support of open housing occupancy.

Morgan reported a telephone conversation in which President John A. Hannah said the off-campus housing office refuses to list homes which discriminate on the basis of race, creed, color or national origin.

Morgan said when an off-campus householder is found discriminating, the house is taken off the approved list. This has been a policy throughout Hannah's 22 years as MSU president.

"There are instances of discrimination in off-campus housing," Morgan said. "But the University does its best to prevent this, and on the whole has a good record."

Ticket Policy Changes

A new admission policy to home basketball games for State students will go into effect next week.

Athletic ticket manager Bill Beardsley announced yesterday afternoon that starting with the Notre Dame game on Jan. 18 it will be necessary for students to pick up general admission tickets in advance of each contest.

According to Beardsley, the plan, which is similar to the football ticket distribution system, is being instituted because of the increasing attendance at Jenison Fieldhouse, site of the Spartans' home hoop games.

For Saturday games, student general admission tickets are to be picked up on a first-come, first-served basis on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Union second floor concourse or at the Jenison Fieldhouse ticket office. Any student may come on any of the days.

For Monday games, the ticket pickup days will be Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, for Saturday-Monday home game set. (continued on page 4)

REGISTRATION PROBLEMS EASED? -- Although many students found the three-day registration period much simpler this term following early registration of seniors and graduate students fall term, this student was one of the many who were still confronted by closed classes and the other perplexing problems of registration. ## Pressure Eases In Registration

By CHARLES C. WELLS
State News Staff Writer

The real test of early registration in November came during regular registration, which ended Wednesday.

Those are the sentiments of Registrar Horace C. King.

From many indications, early registration, along with another innovation--early distribution of class cards--helped take much of the pressure out of registering at the Intramural Building. About 5,000 seniors and graduate students were registered in November.

Another 2,000 students in veterinary medicine, English, arts and letters, and residents in Case, Wilson, Wonders, and McDonel received some of their class cards before going to the IM for registration.

The registrar estimated that about 85 per cent of the students who could get class cards early did so. Cards for classes being held in residence halls were issued first to those living in residence halls. This was so those students would have first priority, he explained.

"Early distribution of class cards and early registration resulted in greatly reduced pressure at the IM Building this term," King said. "These things also gave us greater lead time in which to make changes in space and instructor requirements."

He said that in the future more of the work will be done by computer and by early registration of students.

Commenting on how the new innovations helped registration, a sample of personnel working at the IM indicated a favorable reaction.

"There is no doubt about it--this registration is much better than the others," said Dilmus James, who has worked the social science desk for two terms. "The longest line we've had has been 10 students."

Union Address Reaction

Fiscal Magic Needed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8--Congress members of both parties welcomed Wednesday President Johnson's proposal for a reduced spending budget for the next fiscal year, but some Republicans questioned whether he can hold it.

They split sharply, however, on other aspects of the program Johnson outlined in a State of the Union message to a joint session of Congress.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Senate majority leader, said Johnson delivered "a hard-hitting message, without wasted verbiage," and added:

"The President has stated what we should do. The responsibility is now up to us--not to the President. His requests are entitled to prompt consideration."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Johnson outlined "a progressive, positive approach to the problems facing our nation."

To Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., it was "a stirring message of reassurance and dedication that we are going forward to complete the unfinished business of this great nation."

But Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House Republican leader, said "the proposals and promises are the same, including some already rejected by the Congress for lack of public support."

Halleck promised wholehearted Republican support for the budget reductions but added "I only hope the administration's new-found enthusiasm for economy in government is as great in June as it is in January."

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the House Democratic whip, said "I liked his stress on economy and particularly liked his stress on the tax bill to stimulate the economy."

But Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, the House Republican whip, called the message "merely a 1964 political campaign document," which he said was full of promises for everyone.

Romney Will Accept Presidential Draft

Gov. George Romney Wednesday restated his willingness to accept a draft for the GOP presidential nomination, but he said he did not expect the situation to arise.

Research Group Members Selected

Members of a metropolitan research committee were announced Monday by President John A. Hannah.

Members of the committee include Milton E. Muelder, Louis A. Weil, Jr., publisher of the Lansing State Journal; Edward G. Hacker, realtor; Harold M. Davis, realtor; Harold Gross, president of Gross Telecasting, Inc.; and Robert N. Young, executive director of the Tri-County Planning Commission.

feels alone and frightened? To whom may he turn when his own wisdom no longer suffices, when rushed into an adult's impersonal world he gropes as a child for a strong, sure hand, and an open ear?

Some students need no help. The majority need some kind of guidance, and a few should undergo continual psychiatric treatment.

Professors haven't the time to attend to the needs of each of their students; dorm advisors often have neither the time nor the experience; friends and peers have not the wisdom.

The Counseling Center is set up to provide the students with a helping hand in solving personal and academic problems. As Olin Health Center provides medical attention to physical illness, the Counseling Center attends to mental health.

New Procedures Set For Course Changes

Changes in enrollment procedure will begin Monday, according to Horace C. King, registrar. Wednesday will be the last day for late registration, adding courses or changing sections. Jan. 22 is the last day to drop courses.

King said that several new procedures will be used for changing sections this term. Changes may be made in the first floor Union concourse instead of the Administration Building. Hours are from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Capital Complex Expanded

State government will take on a new look in months to come as work begins on the recently approved $35 million Capitol Area Development expansion program.

The reason for this additional card is to achieve a higher degree of accuracy in course changes," King said. "Last term there were 1,600 drops and adds that were processed in error because of illegible writing."

Also one card will take care of lectures, labs, and recitations. Previously several cards were used for course and section changes.

Section changes will be handled by the departments. All other changes should be made at the Union, with the exception of changes affecting fees.

Placement Bureau Reports

Grads To Enjoy Salary Rise

The average 1964 MSU graduate will earn a starting salary 2 to 4 per cent higher than his counterpart of a year ago, according to a Placement Bureau report.

Scientific and technical graduates will command the greatest increases in starting salaries, with employers needing about 15 per cent more new employees this year.

Accounting majors who would have had starting salaries of $524 last year will earn about $544 per month this year.

Salaries for graduates in the College of Communications arts and the College of Arts and Letters will increase about two per cent.

Education is one field in which increased demand has not raised salaries proportionately. Bachelor's degree graduates will begin making about $100 a year more than last year. The most marked increase in salaries is at the administrative level. Education majors with a master's degree can expect $250-$300 more per year than those who have only a bachelor's degree.

Government agencies are also stepping up recruitment and raising salaries to narrow the gap between government and industry, according to the report.

"Government salaries are generally lower than industry, but it depends on the field," Shingleton said.

"Social science majors generally do as well on starting salaries in the government as anywhere else. In the technical fields, they may be $25-$30 lower," he added.

Shingleton emphasized that the salary figures are not exact and vary among employers.

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

Off to one of the hottest starts in recent years, the Michigan State basketball squad left East Lansing for the holidays sporting a 4-0 mark.

Tulsa stopped the rumblyings by tipping the nationally ranked State five 89-88 in Oklahoma and the MSU offense sagged further in a 78-66 thrashing by California in the Sun Devil tourney opening in Tempe, Ariz.

The Green and White rebounded by almost doubling their previous output with a convincing 118-100 victory over Oklahoma behind Pete Gent's 33 point effort to capture consolation honors.

Two days later, the Spartans traveled to Provo, Utah where they lost to Brigham Young, 95-90.

Gent again went on a scoring binge against Butler, scoring 29 points, to pace State to a 76-65 victory over the Bulldogs at Indianapolis.

With a 6-3 count, State moved to Champaign, Ill. to open their Big Ten season against the Illinois quintet. The Illini lived up to their high billing by drubbing Coach Fordy Anderson's crew 87-66, holding the Spartans to 25 points in the second half.

Despite several bad passes and streaks of shabby play, the Spartans toppled the University of Wisconsin team 106-90 before 10,231 fans at Jenison Field House Monday night to boost their season mark to 7-4.

Gent again led the way with 25 points as the Spartans set a home court record erasing the previous mark of 103 against Michigan in 1959.

The game was extremely close in the first half, but State never trailed after Bill Berry, replacing the injured Marcus Sanders, gave them an 8-6 edge after three minutes of play.

The Spartans moved to a 50-44 lead at intermission and were never threatened in the second half. It looked as though State would shatter all scoring records when Jim Kupper hit on a long jumper with five and one half minutes remaining to give them a 98-75 margin, but then the Spartans went cold for nearly three minutes until Dan Floberg tipped in point number 100 with 2:41 left.

It was the fifth time in 11 ball games that Coach Fordy Anderson's high-scoring cagers topped the century mark.

Gent received fine scoring support as Berry and Bill Schwartz both connected for 16 points and Fred Thomason added 15. Sophomore Bill Curtis grabbed 16 rebounds to lead in that department while another sophomore, Stan Washington, had 12.

Bob Johnson, with 14 points, paced a poor Wisconsin scoring attack which could hit only 30 percent from the floor. Ken Gustafson and Dave Roberts each tallied 12. Johnson also paced Badger rebounders, snaring 15.

The victory over Wisconsin gave MSU a 1-1 mark in Big Ten play. Wisconsin left the court with a 0-2 conference record and now stands 5-6 against all opposition.

Saturday the Spartans play host to Indiana in a conference encounter at Jenison Field House. The Hoosiers have an 0-2 league mark.

State's Pete Gent (30) drives in for layup during Spartans Big Ten victory over Wisconsin Monday night at Jenison Fieldhouse.

the tickets for both contests can be secured at the same time, beginning on the Tuesday prior to the first game.

Students will be required to present validated ID cards for each ticket requested. Activity books will not need to be presented. When entering the fieldhouse, students must present their ID card and the ticket which they previously picked up.

The student seats will be in the general admission section. There will be no reserved seats for students.

Beardsley commented, however, that holders of general admission tickets will be assured of seats.

A similar plan for faculty and staff members will be announced in this week's staff bulletin.

Beardsley also said that because of the new set up for students, there will no longer be any general admission seats available for the general public.

Reserved seats, priced at $2, will remain available for purchase for home games for non-university personnel. These tickets can be obtained at the Jenison ticket office.

UCLA Captures First In UPI Cage Ratings

Undefeated UCLA is the leader in this week's United Press International basketball ratings.

The Bruins, conqueror of Michigan and winner of the Los Angeles Classic, moved into first place last weekend after first place Kentucky lost to conference foe Georgia Tech.

Kentucky is second in the polling, with Loyola (Chicago) in third and Michigan fourth. Rounding out the top ten are: Davidson, Oregon State, Vanderbilt, Cincinnati, Duke and Villanova.

Heading the second ten is Wichita, with Utah in twelfth and Texas Western holding down the thirteenth spot. The rest of the top twenty are: Kansas State, St. Louis, St. Bonaventure, Stanford, Bradley, Illinois, LaSalle and Minnesota.

Kentucky and Utah have already suffered their second losses of the season in play this week and are expected to drop in next week's standings.

The weekly UPI ratings are based on the voting of 35 hoop coaches.

Hockey Mark Over .500; Orme Leads State Scorers

The Michigan State hockey team compiled a 4-3 record during the winter vacation period.

The stickers began the season by splitting a pair of games with St. Lawrence. The Spartans won the first game 5-1, but St. Lawrence came back to capture the second contest, 5-3.

State then dropped a 7-1 decision to Clarkson. Coach Amo Bessone calls Clarkson one of the best teams in college hockey.

Ohio University became State's first home victims. The Green and White topped the men from Athens 6-4 and 7-1. Colorado then proved to be too much for the State team in their first encounter. But the stickers rallied to defeat the same squad the next night in a 5-4 overtime thriller.

Mac Orme, State's leading scorer, pushed through his third goal of the game to stop Colorado with 29 seconds gone in a sudden death overtime period. It was Orme's third goal of the evening.

Coach Bessone thinks defense is the Spartan's strong point this season. Captain Carl Lackey, playing most of the season with a fractured ankle, James Jacobson, Jack Ford and Nick Mustat have been the defensive standouts to date.

Bessone says the Spartans have been skating well, but hopes to bring balance into the "S" scoring attack. Orme has seven goals this season and five assists. The scoring standings are as follows:

	G	A	P
Orme	7	5	12
Roberts	4	3	7
Heaphy	4	2	6
Lackey	1	5	6
Hargreaves	3	0	3

G-goals; A-assists; P-points

The icemen will be in action over the weekend, meeting Minnesota-Duluth on the opponent's ice. The next home match will be held on Jan. 31 at the Ice Arena.

By JEROME CAPLAN
 State News Sports Editor

If athletics build strong minds, as well as bodies, State should have a bumper crop of budding brains this term.

Not that there are many more men and women competing on the intercollegiate level this term, but over 2600 are expected to be running, diving and dancing all over the IM buildings this term.

There are seven team and 11 individual events listed by the Men's IM department for the winter term, plus a pair of team events and a quartet of all-university individual championships on the female side.

Eleven basketball courts spread over six gyms give the fraternity man sorority woman, residence hall member or independent plenty of room to maneuver for that jump shot.

A highly developed intramural program is one of those intangible trophies that Athletic Director "Biggie" Munn likes to include in his "why MSU is great" trophy case.

Munn, Intramurals Chairman Frank Beeman and Women's IM Chairman Carol Harding have established a program that probably isn't equalled anywhere.

But this trio, and all those working on the "S" IM set-up, aren't satisfied. They'd like to have more participants and more sports, although play space is about as plentiful as parking spaces during a football weekend.

Such dissatisfaction probably built up the IM program to where it is today.

In intramural competition, unlike varsity sports, there is always room for one more. Too few students realize the scope of the program.

That may be hard to believe when "Intramural News" appears daily in this paper, but then when you waste your time reading this column there just isn't time for the rest of the page.

So put down that cup of Union Grill coffee. Take a walk over to one of the IM Buildings--preferably the one where you can use the locker room without too much embarrassment---and build up your mind, as well as your body.

There's a rumor that intramurals may even help your grades. And after last term's marks we're one of those who'll try anything this time.

Michigan Likely Site For Space Center

Michigan has a good chance of getting a new $50 million space electronics research center to be built by the National Space Agency (NASA).

Gov. George W. Romney, Michigan industrialists, educators, labor leaders and members of Congress teamed together to try to influence the space agency to locate in southeastern Michigan. Representing MSU at the meeting last Wednesday was Milton E. Muelder, vice president for research development.

"Michigan was the only state to present a united front," Muelder explained. "Educational institutions in other states which want the center are sharply divided over where the center will be located if their state gets it."

He indicated this was a very strong point in favor of the Michigan bid for the installation. However, he was neither optimistic nor pessimistic, but had a "wait-and-see" approach. During the 90-minute hearing, Michigan representatives contended with color slides and statistical graphs that no other area of the United States offers as many advantages to NASA as the university-industrial complex of southeastern Michigan.

"If Michigan is picked as the site, we will get the job done," said Governor Romney during his presentation. "We have the tools, the ability and the desire."

He also outlined Michigan's industrial and scientific achievements during World War II, Michigan, he said, can do the same thing again.

In outlining some of the advantages to MSU if NASA picks Michigan for the research center, Milton E. Muelder said:

"The center would bring a community of scientists and technical people to Michigan and MSU would share in this improved scientific and intellectual climate."

John Hoffman, director of engineering research, also attended the meeting.

School Attains University Status

Michigan Tech at Houghton became Michigan Technological University on January 1, thus giving the state nine universities. The new name is the fourth for the mining and engineering school, founded in 1885. It has also been called Michigan College of Mines, Michigan College of Mining and Technology and Michigan College of Science and Technology.

Credit Offices To Move

The Michigan State University Employees Credit Union is scheduled to move to new quarters next December.

Construction of a 2 1/2 story, $200,000 office building will begin early this year. It will be located on Trowbridge Road near Harrison Road.

Loren K. Wight, chairman of the organization's planning committee, said the structure is needed to meet the growth and needs of the credit union.

Wight said the credit union has grown 700 per cent over the past seven years and is continuing to grow at the rate of $1 million a year.

"Our projected potential is better than $10 million and over 10,000 members," he said.

The credit union now has 5,600 members and $5.8 million in assets.

The credit union is presently located in the Manley Miles Building.

Evening College Plans 40 Courses

This term more than 40 courses will be offered by the Evening College of the Continuing Education Service.

"This is a 50 per cent increase over the number offered last term," said Director Richard E. Sharer. "We expect there will be about 1,000 students enrolled by the end of next week."

Sharer said that Evening College courses began Monday, but that interested students can enroll until Wednesday. Registration is at 8 Kellogg Center from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The courses usually meet one night each week and are non-credit. They vary from 4 to 12 weeks and range in cost from $5 to $35.

"This term there are many Lansing area business and professional people enrolling in the courses," he said. "Most attending are from the local area, but we have had some come from as far as Cadillac and Royal Oak."

Of special interest to MSU students, Sharer said, are remedial courses in basic instruction like mathematics, English and physical science. Also popular are physical fitness and self-defense courses.

A complete listing of Evening College Courses is available in 8 Kellogg Center. Only one course, in veterinary medicine, is not listed in the directory and that is for veterinarians only.

Operating Fund

Increase Asked

A recommendation that the operating fund of Michigan's 10 public universities and colleges be increased by $25 million for the next academic year was made Tuesday, in a report of the Citizens' Committee on Higher Education mailed to the schools and alumni in the state.

The report, distributed through the schools by the Coordinating Council for Public Higher Education, points to a "tidal wave of new students that calls for at least $48 million in new construction each year for the next several years."

"We who serve as the people's representatives feel it is our responsibility to call the attention of the people to the serious plight of their public universities and colleges," said Council Chairman Warren M. Huff, Plymouth. Huff is a Michigan State trustee.

Love Gets New Post As Kresge Director

Paul V. Love, professor of art, has been appointed the first full-time director of the Kresge Art Center by Paul A. Varg, dean of the College of Arts and Letters.

William S. Gamble, assistant professor of art, filled a part time position as acting exhibition director before Love's appointment.

Love's plans call for exhibitions designed to serve the study needs of art students and the interests of the public. He will continue to teach courses in modern painting, sculpture and architecture.

At present he is working on the 1964-65 schedule of exhibits. He is particularly concerned with the exhibit entitled "Turn of the Century," which is to run April 10-May 4.

"Most shows come ready-made," he said. "But we are doing extensive borrowing from a number of museums to design this one ourselves."

He also intends to develop a permanent Kresge collection, beginning with the present collection of prints.

Love has been a member of the art department since 1946. He received degrees from Princeton and Columbia Universities and has studied at the University of Pennsylvania and New York University.

Before he joined the MSU faculty, Love was a theatre and dance critic in New York City and headed a high school art department in New Jersey.

sion's approval of an open occupancy policy for East Lansing and said it would recommend the City Council adopt a fair housing ordinance "in the near future" if research shows one is needed.

Although the entire commission went on record as approving an open occupancy policy, only Tien and four other members voted for the resolution to recommend an ordinance if one is needed. Voting in favor of the resolution were Green; Robert F. Morgan, Buffalo, N.Y., graduate student; the Rev. Wallace W. Robertson, pastor of the East Lansing People's Church, and Mrs. Mahlon S. Sharp, an East Lansing housewife.

Voting against the motion introduced by Green were Stephanie H. Barch, a research associate in zoology, Dan C. Larned, an attorney, James R. Ehinger, a realtor, and Schepers. All of them went on record as favoring an open occupancy policy.

Morgan suggested the commission take a poll in the community to determine its opinion on the open occupancy question.

Green responded: "If 90 per cent of the people think it right to deny civil rights, it does not change the moral issue. It only means we must work harder to guarantee those civil rights."

Johnson

--"Modernization" of unemployment insurance, presumably, by enlarging benefits extending the duration of jobless pay.

--Hospital insurance for the elderly, "financed by every worker and his employer under social security contributing no more than $1 a month during the employee's working career."

The heaviest applause crashed through the House chamber when Johnson got around to civil rights.

"As far as the writ of federal law will run," he said, "we must abolish not some but all racial discrimination."

He said that this is not merely an economic, social, political or international issue but a moral issue that must be met by passage this session of the strongest civil rights bill in a century.

--Expansion of the area redevelopment program of federal aid loans and grants to attract industry into depressed communities.

--Youth employment legislation to put "jobless, aimless, hopeless youngsters to work on useful projects."

--A national service corps to "help the economically handicapped of our country as the

JAH Named To Council

President John A. Hannah has recently been named to the national council of the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Foundation.

The foundation, established by an act of Congress shortly after Mrs. Roosevelt's death in 1962, seeks to continue her work for medical research, underprivileged children, human rights and international peace. Its goal is to raise $25 million to carry out these programs.

Professor's Wife Dies

Mrs. Mary D. Barbour, 70, wife of J. Murray Barbour, professor of music, died Sunday in a local hospital.

She had lived in East Lansing since 1939, coming here from Ithaca, New York.

Mrs. Barbour was a member of Peoples Church and the Women's Society of the Church, a member of Faculty Folk Club, East Lansing Women's Club, Pinetum Literary Society, Women's League for Peace and Freedom, Sigma Alpha Iota, and on the Girl Scouts camp committee.

Ryder Honored

John D. Ryder, dean of the College of Engineering, has received an honorary doctor of engineering degree from Tri-State College, Angola, Ind.

Richard M. Bateman, university president, presented the award Dec. 14 at Tri-State's winter commencement.

New Road Aids Campus Traffic

Incoming traffic will have easier access to the campus due to the opening of the Pine Tree Connector linking MSU, East Lansing and Lansing with Interstate Highway 96.

The $7 million Pine Tree Connector west of the campus was opened officially Dec. 20. Highway officials expect the new road to relieve congestion on South Cedar Street, which carried the bulk of traffic between the freeway and Lansing last year.

The roadway should also ease traffic problems at home football games next fall.

The connector was built in record time, according to Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

Congressman Distributes Grant List

A Detroit Congressman is now distributing copies of the first two editions of his unique list of college scholarships.

Rep. Harold M. Ryan (D-Detroit) has compiled a partial list of organizations which grant scholarships to high school graduates. He intends to enlarge it annually.

Copies of the first edition are available to the Lansing area.
