

Prof Says Cyprus War Unlikely Despite Fears

British diplomats are not hiding their concern about the Cyprus crisis. They say an eastern Mediterranean war is a distinct possibility between Greece and Turkey unless the crisis is resolved.

"Anything which causes human suffering is very serious, of course," Bruce L. Smith, professor of political science, said, "but I would be very surprised if a full-scale war resulted. Such a war wouldn't result in anything worth having for either nation."

War would come, British diplomats claim, if there is another serious clash between feuding Greek and Turkish factions. Aside from either of the participants, they say, the one big loser in any such war would be the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, established after World War II to halt the spread of Communism. "All NATO powers are doing all they can to stop the fighting,"

BRUCE SMITH

Smith said, "This is gravely weakening NATO defense lines." British diplomats gave the inside report on explaining Britain's decision to request a meeting of the U.N. Security Council on Cyprus. The move appeared to be a reversal of the previous U.S. and British positions—positions taken to avoid the influence of the Soviet Union in any peacemaking action.

These diplomats say, however, that mounting dangers in Cyprus required a new diplomatic initiative to head off an explosion that seems dangerously near.

Undersecretary of state George Ball has left London after a week devoted to negotiations aimed at solving the Cyprus problem. Ball's departure followed an intensive round of meetings with British Foreign Secretary E.A. Butler and Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sands.

Ball told newsmen the British and U.S. governments are "completely in accord" on the Cyprus crisis. The problem will come up for U.N. Security Council consideration today. Ball is expected to report to President Johnson on his return to Washington. The situation is further complified by inner Cypriot politics. President Makarios, political leader of the Greek community and head of the republic, has lost control of his own government. He is under pressure by the Communists on the left and the Union With Greece group on the right.

"Makarios is egging on the Greek nationalists to enhance his own position," Smith said. "He is trying to obtain power for the Cypriot Greeks at the expense of the Cypriot Turks."

Arms are reported to be reaching Cyprus from various places in the Eastern Mediterranean, including the United Arab Republic. But there is no proof to date that Soviet weapons are getting in.

"I shouldn't wonder if the Communists are trying to take advantage of anything that will make the capitalists fight among themselves thereby proving their contention that capitalism is inhumane and socialism is peaceloving."

At the United Nations, Makarios may seek a U.N. decision which would be interpreted as overriding the London and Zurich agreements granting Cyprus independence from Britain and establishing it as a republic in 1960. This would prevent Turkey from intervening in Cypriot affairs as a guarantor.

The United States and Britain oppose this and stand by the treaties. Thus, in the event of Turkish military intervention, the United States and Britain would not employ their troops to turn the Turks back. Makarios has been so informed.

"Cyprus was set up deliberately by Britain, with the smiling approval of the United States, in the hopes that the republic would be strong nationally and anti-Communistically," Smith said. The Soviet Union is always eager to exploit any such situation, Smith said. Their main objective is propaganda. They would like to get this situation debated at great lengths in the United Nations, but even they do not want a full-scale war to result.

What caused the powderkeg to explode?

"Extreme nationalism on both parts," Smith believes.

"The United States and Great Britain are greatly dismayed at the cruelty and crudity that has resulted," Smith said. "They are shocked that this nationalism would turn into such primitive fighting."

"The inhumane dealings of the Greeks and Turks with one another is like the southern white treatment of the black southerner in our own country," he said, "the inhumane tormenting of a minority group."

Yet, Smith believes, all responsible people are taking great steps to insure peace. No one wants a full-scale war.

UB Offers Jazz, Film Program

Jazz, popular music, fashions, films and basketball—five diverse areas of student interest—will make up the 10th annual Union Board Week which opens today. University jazz groups will perform for the first event tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Maurice Crane, associate professor of humanities, will narrate the jazz show. Cost is 25 cents per person. A musical will be held Wednesday night in the Ballroom. Campus dance bands will provide entertainment.

Fashions from across the world will be modeled by Mr. and Miss MSU courts, homecoming court, class leaders and foreign students in the International Fashion Show Thursday night in the Union. The show begins at 7:30 p.m. and is free of charge.

"The Hustler" will run Friday night in the Ballroom.

Union Board will move out of its usual locale, the Union, to sponsor the final event, a donkey basketball game, in Jenison Fieldhouse Saturday night. Faculty members will compete with varsity players astride donkeys.

Jim Tuman, New York City senior, is general chairman for the week.

Dan Riley, President of Union Board and Bloomfield Hills senior, said the week is planned to run after mid terms to give students a break.

Petitioning for membership on next year's board will run through the week in the UB office. Directors will be selected in the next few weeks.

LEO CHERNE

Cherne Main Speaker At Seminar

Leo Cherne, chairman of the board of the International Rescue Committee and executive director of the Research Institute of America, will be the keynote speaker at the "Winds of Change in the Emerging Nations" seminar to be held on campus Feb. 28-March 1.

The seminar is designed to stimulate a wider concern among students of participating schools in the field of international relations and provide better insights into current world politics.

Cherne has served as chairman of IRC for the past ten years.

Cherne will speak at 8 p.m. at Kellogg Center Feb. 28. His topic will be "Revolution in Our Time, the Tragedy of its Betrayal."

Ruby Trial Begins Today, Pleads Temporary Insanity

DALLAS (P)—Jack Ruby goes on trial for murder today, his life at stake and the pride and prejudice of Dallas at issue.

Ruby, 52-year-old strip joint operator, stepped from a crowd last Nov. 24 and, while a national television audience looked on aghast, shot down Lee Harvey Oswald, accused of assassinating President Kennedy 48 hours earlier.

Ruby's defense will be temporary insanity, brought on by the tragic death of the President. His attorney, Melvin Belli, declared:

"Everyone saw Ruby shoot Oswald, but no one saw into this man's mind."

Belli spent many hours last week trying to get the trial moved out of Dallas, on grounds that a fair hearing here is impossible. He argued that Dallas' pride in its civic image was badly wounded in November's mad cycle of murder, and that prejudices now are too deep to be erased. Belli maintained:

"The people of Dallas, perhaps unconsciously, have to have a sacrifice in order to cleanse themselves, to prove that Dallas is a law-abiding community. They feel if Ruby is executed, it would reestablish some sense of law and order."

"The big problem here is not just that everyone is prejudiced but that Dallas is on trial. It is not that these people lack integrity, but this is a case where the city is on the defensive..."

However, Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade expressed his conviction that a fair jury may be selected and declared:

Security Council To Enter Crisis

LONDON (P)—Fearing possible new outbursts on Cyprus, Britain announced Sunday night it is increasing the strength and mobility of its peace-keeping force on the eastern Mediterranean island.

The announcement came as Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, President Johnson's special envoy, wound up crucial talks with British officials and headed for home to report on his week-long series of visits to Greece, Turkey and Cyprus.

Britain and Cyprus are taking the crisis into the U.N. Security Council today.

Diplomats here expressed concern that another serious clash between feuding Greek and Turkish Cypriots could inflame the island and spark a war between Greece and Turkey, partners in the North Atlantic Alliance.

The British Defense Ministry announcement said about 300 more troops were being added to the present peace force of around (continued on page 6)

Med School Critics Get Hannah Retort

President John A. Hannah answered charges leveled at MSU's plans for a two-year medical program Friday.

Harlan Hatcher, University of Michigan president, told an Alumni Clubs legislative dinner in Lansing Thursday that there is no room in legislative budgets for a third medical school in Michigan.

Hannah indicated Hatcher's remarks were a misreading of the facts.

"I don't know how many times I've stated our position. MSU has no plans to establish a four-year medical school in the foreseeable future—at least in my time," Hannah said.

The legislature two years ago gave MSU an appropriation to establish a two-year medical school. Legislators have expressed fear that MSU may try to change this into a four-year program for "prestige reasons." Countering remarks that MSU's program would cost between $75 million and $100 million, Hannah said that next year's budget will be $164,000 to start the MSU program by 1965.

This is the total budget for next year, he added. It will include salaries, equipment, clerks and travel.

He said the University decided to start a two-year program after studies made by the Commonwealth Fund indicated one answer to the current doctor shortage was establishment of several two-year schools to counter the 800-student a year dropout rate in the third year of America's four-year medical schools.

Union Board Faces Changing Role

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a five-part series on Union Board, its functions and effectiveness. Today begins the tenth annual Union Board Week.

By LINDA MILLER
State News Staff Writer

Where does Union Board go from here?

The Union used to be the campus center of activities, but the physical expansion of the University has brought about a decentralization of most aspects of college life.

Union Board is no longer regarded by University personnel as the core of co-curricular activities. It can give students very little that dormitory complexes cannot provide.

UB President Dan Riley, Bloomfield Hills senior, does not believe that there can be a center on a campus this large. "Students tend to look more to their own part of the campus now," Riley said.

"Dormitories recognize that students have a certain amount of leisure time and are looking for things to do. They sponsor activities we were alone in for many years."

Etoyle White, student activities director of the Union, believes that the values of the University are changing as it grows.

"Other campuses don't have our problem if they don't have coed housing," she said. "But they will have to face it eventually."

It is a long walk on cold nights from McDonel Hall to the Union. Students have as a result come to depend on their place of residence for leisure activity.

"We should not have activities students don't want," he said. "But the problem is, what do they want? We really are not sure anymore."

Union Board is not as effective in some areas as it used to be. Riley and Miss White agree that UB dances have declined the most.

"Students seem to shy away from dancing in an organized, supervised setting," Riley said. "This will probably be even more the case of the campus gets larger."

Miss White blamed lack of interest in UB dances on the trends in types of dancing.

The UB talent file, a collection of the names of individuals and groups on campus who provide entertainment, could be of real service to the University. But students do not seem to want to apply.

Last Chance lectures were well received when first organized, but Riley said they receive little response now.

UB film showings, at 25 cents per person, dropped off last term and the Board lost money. The most well-attended movie last term was "Death of a Salesman" but only took in $11.

Continuous events appear to be lacking in student appeal, while such once-a-year events as Union Board week, now in pro-

Reds Bomb Saigon Theater

SAIGON, Viet Nam (P)—A Viet Cong terrorist shot and killed a U.S. military policeman outside the American movie theater here Sunday, and seconds later a powerful bomb in the lobby killed two other Americans and wounded at least 49.

Inside the theater were about 500 U.S. servicemen, civilian officials, women and children.

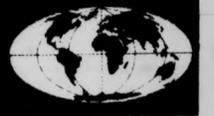

A number of Vietnamese outside the theater were wounded or killed in the explosion, but there was no indication of the exact number.

According to a surviving witness, one of the dead Americans, a marine corps captain, had spotted the terrorist placing his white, box-shaped bomb a few feet inside the outer gate to the lobby. The marine officer ran inside the theater and was yelling a warning to the theater audience to take cover when the bomb exploded. He was buried by falling debris and killed.

Testimony by various American witnesses indicated the latest bombing attack on the capital Kindo Theater was a team effort.

One American saw the Viet Cong point a homemade pistol at a military policeman at very close range and fire.

Negro Leader Sees 'Direct Action'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Negro integration leader said there may be what he called "direct action" against any senator who doesn't try to end a Southern filibuster against the civil rights bill. James Farmer, National Director of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE) told a television panel the nature of the action has not yet been determined.

Farmer didn't foresee another march on Washington. He indicated instead there might be protest marches in the hometown of any senator not voting for cloture to end a Southern filibuster which is considered a certainty.

On Faculty Cannibalism

"Faculty cannibalism," against which President Hannah warned in his state of the University address, has taken hold once again.

Two professors of African languages have announced that they have received higher salary offers from Northwestern University than MSU can offer, and will be on the faculty there next year.

The University has been victimized by a policy which it considers distasteful and potentially detrimental to the educational program, but one which has been practiced here as at other universities.

President Hannah said recently, "The practice of faculty cannibalism that has become almost universal in the university world in recent years is not good for higher education. If continued in the extreme forms now practiced by some universities, it may well react to the long-time detriment of the academic profession."

"Our future will best be served by identifying able and promising young faculty members and then encouraging them to grow in their own disciplines, establishing their enduring reputations as a part of this University."

Nevertheless, this University, like all the others, does indeed play the game of bidding for the biggest names in a particular field, in order to get the men who can help build reputations.

The same two faculty members now planning to transfer away from here both came to East Lansing within the past several years on similar promises of greener pastures and more fringe benefits. The fact that they are now leaving may be some sort of reflection on the transitory nature of their own academic dedication, but it is just as much a comment on this University's unwillingness and inability to follow through with its own practices.

No amount of moralizing on the part of the University president and no amount of regret in the foreign languages department is going to solve or eliminate the problem.

Faculty cannibalism, like the other facts of academic life making themselves felt here, is something to which the University will have to admit and in consideration of which the University will have to adjust its policies. In this way the faculty, and consequently the University as a whole, is to become the powerful educational tool it is intended to be.

It will do no good to bemoan the loss of faculty members. The only way to face faculty cannibalism is to take the challenge and bargain for the top names, with the help of sufficient state appropriations to enable bargaining, or to accept the fact that without funds the University also becomes without faculty.

Letters To The Editor

Says More Funds Not Needed

To the Editor:

It has been written in the State News that MSU is hoping to receive additional funds through new state legislature proposals. It seems that this call for more money is both ancient and trite.

Undoubtedly, the school is growing and has plans to create for our society an educational giant. Not to be mistaken, there is room for many such giants in our society, but at the same time, such growth need not always be stimulated with a money catalyst.

I claim that under the present fiscal budget, the University can reach its goal of 40,000 students in 1970 with correct proportionment of their monies and careful educational policy making.

To give the reader just one example of waste, one need not look further than the dormitory system. Just because the enrollment increases, it doesn't mean that dormitories have to be built in place of classrooms. I'm sure that the University could build its classrooms and leave the housing problem in the hands of private entrepreneurs who would be more than willing to take over this responsibility.

All the University needs to do to accomplish this is to change its policy regulating off-campus housing, just as the University of Michigan and other colleges across the nation have done. If the University feels that certain regulations are necessary for the students' welfare, these, in all probability, could be accomplished through policies made between the entrepreneurs and the University.

This could be just one of many ways to cut expenses and truly, a rational beginning. After all, the job of the University is to provide education, not housing!

To the Editor:

can't load his car in front of his dorm without getting a ticket, things have gone too far. The parking ramp was a good idea except that only the privileged have access to it. This ramp is of no use to northeast campus students. To use it they must be one of the selected few or a woodsman.

There doesn't seem to be much sense in new bridges and improved roads for vehicles when there won't be any to use them. Wake up, University traffic committee, and do some serious thinking, for time is short. Student traffic should not be abolished by September as planned. The rights of students should not be infringed upon unless the school is for the minority and not the masses.

Hits Review Of 'Seasons'

To the Editor:

In his condemnatory review of Robert Harris' performance as Sir Thomas More in "A Man For All Seasons," Mike Kindman offers no evidence but, merely asserts that Mr. Harris ruined the play by a "sterile," "burlesque," "vaudeville" performance.

Unlike books and films, where there is some objective evidence for critical discussion, a live performance on stage is transitory; either you saw it or you did not.

I have no more objective evidence to offer than Mr. Kindman, but I wish to submit a contrary judgment—that while there were some weaknesses in the production (particularly in the lighting), Mr. Harris gave a brilliant and profoundly moving performance, one of the finest ever to grace the MSU Auditorium.

Student Traffic Too Limited

To the Editor:

It is evident to me, and to other intelligent students, that parking and driving regulations on this campus just about prohibit one from having a car at all.

There are offenders and therefore a need for traffic control regulations, but not ones that will stop traffic altogether, which seems to be the goal by September.

To complain about a ticket and regulations is just as useless as a pen with no ink. It also seems evident that some campus police are ticket happy. They have a responsibility but when a student

Says TW3 'Cowardly'

To the Editor:

What many young Americans had hoped would be a program of superior satire has shown itself to be a vehicle of cowardly invective. I am referring to the NBC television production, "This Was the Week That Was," specifically to the broadcast of Feb. 7, during which Germany, and by direct inference all people of German descent, were categorically denounced and labeled "scum."

This attack on the German nation and national character is without parallel in the history of American communications; it was an instance of an appropriation of mass public media to calumniate and slander both a nation and a national group.

The venomous tactics employed by the NBC writers were as vicious and devastating as those employed by the Gestapo during the last war. The action of these writers was an example of pure, unadulterated racism. The insidious undermining of everything German which took place last Friday evening was not the thought-product of a majority of Americans, but the onerous work of minority interests, interests which are unrelenting in their zeal to deprecate and shame all things German.

The skit presented was totally irrelevant to any major news event. There were plenty of more timely incidents which could have been selected and which would have fit the context of the program—but not someone at NBC decided it was time to reopen some very painful wounds, which the majority of Americans consider healed and healthy.

The type of aggravation promoted by NBC against a country which we Americans are trying to nurture in the ideals of democracy, is tantamount to a hideous betrayal of all trust, a violent rape of human dignity.

The outrage caused by "This Was the Week That Was" demands abject and unconditional apology from all those responsible. In a country based on principles of tolerance and good will the vile swill thrown against another nation of superior intellectual achievement by a few rabid racists in New York must not be allowed to go unpunished.

Whose Urgent Needs?

The new two-year medical program planned for 1965 was again subjected to attack last week, from one of MSU's least devoted supporters.

President Harlan Hatcher of the University of Michigan came out against establishment of the program in a talk in Lansing. He said that the state's resources "are not unlimited. Priority must be given to the most urgent needs," which he said was the expected increase in the number of undergraduates in the next several years.

Hatcher admitted that U-M in opposing the med school here "may appear to be jealously protecting a vested interest," but said, "nothing is further from our minds."

This just doesn't fit the facts. Hatcher said the new school could be expected to cost $75-100 million, but President John A. Hannah said afterward that the 1965 budget was only $164,000 over the expected cost of the previously approved Institute of Biology and Medicine.

Hannah's statement that "there's no sense in institutions fighting a civil war over this" pretty much wraps up the essence of the matter.

The two-year med school is an answer to the urgent need for facilities in this field. It is not, as Hannah has repeatedly said, intended to clear the way for a future four-year school. This seems to be what both U-M and Wayne State fear.

Hatcher, and other jealous-sounding educators, are in fact guilty of institutional in-fighting, and are clearly not considering the needs of the state as the most important factor in the future.

Michigan State's new medical school is about to become an educational fact, and a sorely-needed reply to the state's needs.

The less we hear of the type of short-sighted, self-centered complaints with which Hatcher and others have replied to its founding, the better off the school, the University and the state will be.

Church Annuls Princess' Union

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 16—The Roman Catholic church has annulled the previous marriage of Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, and she and her present husband since have solemnized their present union in a church wedding ceremony.

Vatican officials reporting this Sunday said the annulment was granted more than a month ago by the Sacred Rota and that the church marriage was performed shortly thereafter in London.

The Rota's action annulled the 1953 Catholic church marriage of Mrs. Kennedy's sister to Michael Canfield, former U.S. diplomat who now is a publisher in England. This union ended, after a year, in divorce, which the church did not recognize.

The princess, the former Caroline Lee Bouvier, then married Prince Stanislaus Radziwill, a Polish nobleman, in a civil ceremony at the county courthouse in Fairfax, Va., March 19, 1959.

She had been seeking a church annulment of her marriage to Canfield since 1958.

The New York Sunday News said in a dispatch from Vatican City Saturday that the Sacred Rota granted the annulment on the claim that Canfield, a non-Catholic, had no intention of having children when he married Mrs. Kennedy's sister in a Catholic ceremony in Washington. "Since having children is regarded as a primary aim of marriage in the Catholic church, Canfield's reservation was construed by the Rota... as constituting grounds for annulment," the News said.

Selection Criticized

MHA Approves Spirit Award

Men's Hall Association Thursday night defeated a motion not to accept the Spartan Spirit trophy if it is awarded this year.

Several MHA representatives expressed dissatisfaction with the manner in which the winner is to be selected. The largest objection seemed to be that no system of evaluating points was made public until last week.

David Seidel, Saginaw sophomore and chairman of the point evaluation committee, argued that it was impossible to publish a system for evaluation earlier. He said that since this is the first year for the trophy, no system could be established earlier because it might have to be changed. He added that the system now in use seems to be very good.

Seidel said five men's dorms were in contention for the trophy, including Bryan, East and West Shaw, and Wonders.

Wonders President Warren Platt, St. Johns, Ariz., junior, asked to know exactly where his dorm stood, but Seidel refused to reveal the information. He did say, however, that Bryan and West Shaw had the best chance at the present time.

Seidel, who earlier said he thought the trophy was "no more than a bribe" to the dorms to promote spirit for athletic events, also said he did not favor letting dorms know what the point standings were or giving a point breakdown either before or after the awarding of the trophy.

The reason, he said, is to prevent disagreement over the number of points awarded in a certain area and to prevent dorms which lag behind in the standings from giving up because they don't think they have a chance.

Andrew Rogin, Birmingham sophomore and president of Bryan, said "The way it's set up now, Fee or Akers could win the award. The men shelled out time, effort and money for the trophy."

He added that the men don't want pompons or derbies.

The point system calls for points to be awarded on the percent of derbies and pompons sold in the dorms.

The motion not to accept the trophy was defeated by a vote of five in favor of the motion, four against and two abstentions.

An earlier amendment to the motion that MHA go on record as favoring the continuation of Spartan Spirit and the awarding of a trophy next year, passed by an eight to two vote. One member abstained.

It is possible, however, that no trophy will be awarded this year. A bill introduced at last week's Student Congress meeting would prevent the awarding of the trophy if passed.

Ventilation Meet Begins Today

A talk by John D. Ryder, dean of the College of Engineering, and a tour of the Engineering Building will begin the Industrial Ventilation Conference today.

Industrial problems on ventilation will be worked out in classes during the conference.

T. F. Hatch, from the University of Pittsburgh, will speak on ventilation and man's requirements and responses at Kellogg Center Wednesday.

25 Grants Will Be Awarded

Some 25 new doctoral degree students will soon get fellowship help from the federal government.

The U.S. Office of Education announced the new fellowship grants recently. MSU will be paid $2,500 for each student enrolled in advanced study. In addition, the student will get stipends of $2,000 the first year, $2,200 the second, and $2,400 the third to enter the new program.

Allan Tucker, assistant dean for advanced graduate studies, said the total places MSU among the top three universities in the country in utilization of the National Defense Education Act (NDEA) fellowship program.

"The 26 fellowships approved for last year placed MSU fourth in the nation behind the University of Oregon, with 28, and Cornell and Syracuse, which had 27 each," Tucker said.

MSU currently has 69 students enrolled under NDEA grants, meaning that the University has received $172,500 for student support, he added. The money will be used to hire new personnel and purchase new equipment to carry on the studies.

Recipients of the 25 new fellowships for 1964-65 have not been named, he said.

Wayne Prof Points Up Dangers Of Cold War

"Because the world is so much more complex today, internal situations are open to conflict," Otto Feinstein, professor at Wayne State University, said Thursday night.

Feinstein, speaking at a meeting of the Lansing Area Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, said that we have reached a major turning point in the cold war since parties in the Western and Eastern blocs have reached an equilibrium which neither can control.

"The danger to government comes from underdeveloped areas where minor changes can cause international conflicts," Feinstein said.

Feinstein pointed out that a sensible program to deal with poverty would have to have the support of groups who are at present often fighting among themselves, such as salaried and small income workers.

"If there is to be a real slum war, the money to support it can only come from unlikely means such as a 'tax cut' or from the diversion of the military budget. This is like transferring funds from one war to another," Feinstein said.

Police Check Lights As Accident Cause

An investigation is being conducted to see if the newly installed traffic lights at Shaw and Farm Lanes may have caused an auto accident Saturday morning that injured two people.

Maurice G. Larian, professor of chemical engineering, received cuts inside his mouth and Charles P. Olender, Great Neck, N.Y., sophomore, had cuts on his forehead and left side.

Olender was traveling west on North Shaw Lane and Larian was going north on Farm Lane when their cars collided.

According to campus police, both drivers reported they had green lights. Officers are investigating to see if this is possible for the traffic activated signal.

Larian was saved from possible serious injury because he was wearing a seat belt, police said. His car received an estimated $300 damage.

Olender managed to brace himself before the collision which caused an estimated $1,200 damage to his car. The impact pushed the motor of his car back a foot and a half and bent the frame.

The accident report indicated that neither car was speeding. No tickets were issued pending final investigation.

Rally Puts Focus On Summer Work

A summer of fun in Europe, or at a picturesque resort, can be yours by attending the Summer Employment Rally on Tuesday from 7-8:30 p.m. in the second floor parlors of the Union.

Representatives from camps, resorts and the American Youth Hostels will be on hand to discuss job opportunities in these areas, said Tom Rand, assistant director of the Placement Bureau.

Robert W. McIntosh and Miss Gladys E. Knight, professor of hotel, restaurant and institution management will answer questions concerning resort employment.

Miss Knight and McIntosh, through the school of hotel, restaurant and institution management, have done extensive work in the resort field.

Also on hand will be Mrs. Diane Faux, representing Sunnyside Farm Resort, and Alexander S. Wells, manager of Owen Graduate Hall, who is an experienced resort manager.

Information concerning travel and work abroad can be obtained at the Rally from Judy and Doug Clark, representing American Youth Hostels, or Mike Rosenstein, campus representative of

Cuts Off To D.C. For Board Meet

EVOL SPELLED BACKWARDS IS LOVE
They met. His heart leapt. "I love you," he cried.
"Me too, hey?" she cried.
"Tell me," he cried, "are you a girl of expensive tastes?"
"No, hey," she cried. "I am a girl of simple tastes."
"Good," he cried, "for my cruel father sends me an allowance barely large enough to support life."
"Money does not matter to me," she cried. "My tastes are simple; my wants are few. Just take me riding in a long, new, yellow convertible and I am content."
"Goodbye," he cried, and ran away as fast as his little stumpy legs would carry him, for he had no yellow convertible, nor the money to buy one, nor the means to get the money short of picking up his stinky father by the ankles and shaking him till his wallet fell out.

He knew he must forget this girl, but lying on his pallet at the dormitory, whimpering and moaning, he knew he could not.
At last an idea came to him: though he did not have the money to buy a convertible, perhaps he had enough to rent one!
Hope reborn, he rushed on his little stumpy legs (curious to tell, he was six feet tall, but all his life he suffered from little stumpy legs) he rushed. I say, to an automobile rental company and rented a yellow convertible for $10 down plus ten cents a mile. Then, with many a laugh and cheer, he drove away to pick up the girl.
"Oh, bully!" she cried when she saw the car. "This suits my simple tastes to a 'T.' Come, let us speed over rolling highroads and through bosky dells."
Away they drove. All that day and night they drove and finally, tired but happy, they parked high on a wind-swept hill.
"Marlboro?" he said.
"Yum, yum," she said.
They lit their Marlboros. They puffed with deep contentment. "You know," he said, "you are like a Marlboro - clean and fresh and relaxing."
"Yes, I am clean and fresh and relaxing," she admitted. "But, all the same, there is a big difference between Marlboros and me, because I do not have an efficacious white Selectrate filter."
They laughed. They kissed. He screamed.
"What is it, hey?" she asked, her attention aroused.
"Look at the speedometer," he said. "We have driven 200 miles, and this car costs ten cents a mile, and I have only $20 left."
"But that is exactly enough," she said.
"Yes," he said, "but we still have to drive home."
"Oh," she said. They fell into a profound gloom. He started the motor and backed out of the parking place.
"Hey, look!" she cried. "The speedometer doesn't move when you are backing up."
He looked. It was true. "Eureka!" he cried. "That solves my problem. I will drive home in reverse. Then no more miles will register on the speedometer and I will have enough money to pay!"
"I think that is a smashing idea," she said, and she was right. Because today our hero is in the county jail where food, clothing, and lodging are provided free of charge, and his allowance is piling up so fast that in two or three years he will have enough money to take his girl riding again.
Marlboro Cigarettes, good as they are, should not be smoked backwards. We, the makers of Marlboro, most earnestly urge you to light only the tobacco end. Otherwise your smoking pleasure will be substantially diminished.

Frosh Find College Baffling, California Study Group Says

Editor's Note—Every year many college freshmen and their teachers find they aren't ready for college and the problem is growing worse. Here's a look at it from the standpoint of a group of prestige colleges whose new students are carefully chosen and still are often found lacking.

CLAREMONT, Calif. 1-- "College is a strange and baffling world to most freshmen. They just don't know what they are getting into."

It is a national problem, and it is not new. But it becomes increasingly urgent as growing hordes of students pound on college doors for admission.

Sometimes it is a matter of their high school preparation. "There is a great gap between high school and college courses in the social sciences, and even great in economics," said G. N. Rostvold, acting dean of Pomona College, one of the Claremont group.

"College freshmen have no idea how exciting these subjects can be." Sometimes it is a matter of status.

"It is astonishing why so many bright youngsters want to go into science," says John Brownell, of the Claremont Graduate School and University Center.

"They think 'it's the thing to do.'"

But in college they find out they aren't really bright in science, they're just bright. They can be happier, and just as successful, in some other field."

Sometimes it is a part of the process of growing up. "The door to college may also be the doorway to maturity," says William Frenaye, assistant to the president of Pitzer College.

"There is a vast difference in the thinking of a high school senior living at home, and that same person just a few months later living in a dormitory with young people from all over the world."

"It is understandable if he becomes confused and a little lost." Despite the care with which the entering students are chosen, and despite the efforts made to keep round pegs out of square holes, the people at Claremont know there is no such thing as a perfect prediction on how any student will perform.

"The students who flunk out are not the ones with the lowest ability," says Procter Thomson, economics professor at Claremont Men's College.

"The ones who flunk out are the goof-offs. "And it's a shame--it's a shame that life has to be real and life has to be earned for the eight years of high school and college."

"Young people ought to be able to goof off. "But we are driven by that status thing. It's going to produce a dull generation."

Wednesday In Auditorium

Vienna Symphony Performs

The Vienna Symphony Orchestra, on its first visit to the United States, will present a concert at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Auditorium. The program is a series "A" attraction of the University's Lecture-Concert series.

Under the baton of conductor Wolfgang Sawallisch, the orchestra will perform the "Symphony No. 6 in E Major (Pastoral)" by Beethoven; the "Symphony No.

8 in B Minor (Unfinished)" by Franz Schubert; and "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" by Richard Strauss.

Beethoven's "Pastoral" symphony, a masterpiece of descriptive music, renders in musical terms the composer's "recollections of life in the country." Its first performance was given in Vienna in 1808, and it soon became a standard work in the symphonic repertoire.

Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony, on the other hand, was never performed during the composer's lifetime. In fact, the manuscript of the work was not discovered until 37 years after Schubert's death, when, in 1865, the composition also had its first performance in Vienna.

A work of incandescent beauty, the "Unfinished" symphony has been immensely popular with concert audiences. The lyrical two-movement work seems to spring from a well of inexhaustible melody.

Richard Strauss' symphonic tone poem, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," is a sophisticated and witty musical joke based on the exploits of a traditional rogue from German folklore. The work was first performed in 1895.

Organized in 1900, the Vienna Symphony is now on its first American concert tour. The 120-member orchestra has been hailed as one of Europe's finest musical organizations. It has been conducted by such famous maestros as Bruno Walter, Gustav Mahler, Richard Strauss, Sir Thomas Beecham, Herbert von Karajan, Otto Klemperer, Felix Weingartner and Ernst Ansermet.

Since its inception the Vienna Symphony has presented some 500 new works including 150 world premiere performances.

Wolfgang Sawallisch, the orchestra's youthful conductor, has led the major symphony orchestras and directed performances of many leading operas in Europe.

Top Seniors Share Music, Sports Love

A love for summer sports is shared by Rae Ramsey and Bud Sudara, seniors of the week.

This past summer, Miss Ramsey worked at Mendelson's resort in South Haven. For the past two summers, Sudara has been building a sailing sloop, which he hopes to sail in the Mackinac race this summer.

They also share an appreciation of music, both being music chairmen for their Greek houses. Miss Ramsey is a music major and has sung in Brigadoon, the University Theatre's major musical in 1962. She was a member of State Singers and is now in the MSU chorus. She is secretary of Delta Omicron, music honorary.

With a 3.5 all university point average, Miss Ramsey is in Honors College and Mortar Board. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and Kappa Delta Pi education honorary.

A history major, Sudara is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity and History Club. He was on his dorm's General Council and J-Council executive board. He was also public relations chairman for J-Council and is publicity chairman for Senior Council.

Sudara has a 2.5 point average. He was a member of the experimental Student Education Corps.

After graduation, Miss Ramsey would like to teach vocal music for a year and then go on for a masters degree in applied voice. Sudara plans to go to law school after graduation.

Negro Heritage Week

Plan City Wide Observance

A celebration highlighting the Negro's role in history is planned Feb. 16-22 by the Lansing Negro Heritage Week Committee.

The committee seeks to educate the entire community, Negro and white, about the values found in Negro heritage, according to Mrs. Jacqueline Warr, co-chairman.

"It is hoped that this project will help break down the barriers surrounding the Negro by providing clearer understanding," Mrs. Warr said.

Originators of the project, Mrs. Warr, a Michigan State University graduate, and Gilbert Hill, a former MSU student, said they felt there was a need for recognizing the Negro's role in history more often than once every 100 years (referring to the recent Emancipation Celebration).

The committee has asked Governor George Romney to issue a state wide proclamation of "Negro Heritage Week."

"We realize that the Negro has not always fought alone but has had help from other interested parties. Therefore the proposed emblem is a Negro and a white man on either side of a balanced scale. The theme is "Co-existence through Understanding."

Negro firms and Negroes from medicine, law, the arts, education, labor, sports and entertainment are participating.

The Greater Lansing Youth Coordinating Council, which includes several campus groups, and the alumni chapters of Omega Psi Phi fraternity and Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority have pledged support.

Honorary board of advisors include: Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University; James M. Hare, secretary of state; Otis M. Smith, Supreme Court Justice; Mrs. Mary Sharpe, member of Fair Employment Practices Commission; William W. Layton, Regional director of FEPC.

Committee chairmen include: Mrs. Clinton Canady Jr. and Robert Runyan, program; Lee Williams, research; Benjamin E. Dennis and Albert Adams, social; Rudolph V. Wilson and Stuart J. Dunning Jr., exhibits; Mrs. Ralph E. Riddle, literature; Richard D. Letts, sports and entertainment; Mrs. Josephine F. Wharton and Gilbert Hill, public relations.

Princeton Prof To Address Economic Group On Taxes

Richard A. Musgrave, professor of the Woodrow Wilson school of public affairs at Princeton University, will address the economics faculty-graduate colloquium twice Wednesday in Union Parlor C.

At 3 p.m. he will speak of "The Balance-of-Payments Aspects of U.S. Tax Policy" and at 8 p.m. he will discuss "Alternative Ways of Measuring the Effectiveness of Fiscal Policy."

Musgrave was formerly at John Hopkins University, the University of Michigan, and the research staff of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors.

In addition to numerous technical articles, he is the author of "The Theory of Public Finance" and "The Incidence of the Corporation Income Tax," and he is co-author of two books of readings on taxation.

Why Do You Read So Slowly?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of rapid reading which should enable you to double your reading speed and yet retain much more. Most people do not realize how much they could increase their pleasure, success and income by reading faster and more accurately.

According to this publisher, anyone, regardless of his present reading skill, can use this simple technique to improve his reading ability to a remarkable degree. Whether reading stories, books, technical matter, it becomes possible to read sentences at a glance and entire pages in seconds with this method.

To acquaint the readers of this newspaper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing rapid reading skill, the company has printed full details of its interesting self-training method in a new book, "Advances in Reading Improvement" mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Simply send your request to: Reading, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 5022, Chicago 14, Illinois. A postcard will do.

Lazy Sunday Spent Sleeping, Socializing

TOO MUCH -- That's what studying seems to be for Ed Turner, Mt. Pleasant freshman. Sometimes those themes just have to wait. Photo by Bob Barr

Sunday for the MSU student is a day of rest and restlessness. It is recuperation from the two nights before and the last chance for preparation for the coming Monday.

As he climbs out of his Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes after a bounteous dinner or groggily out of bed after a lengthy slumber, the student suddenly realizes there are innumerable little tasks to be done before Monday morning that were somehow overlooked during weekend activities.

There is assigned reading to be read, tests to be studied for, a paper to be written, a blue-book to be bought, and socks to be washed. With a groan and a sigh he acknowledges the necessity of getting busy.

Sunday, however, is still weekend, and a weekend means visits from relatives and friends, male and female. So it is just as likely the MSU student will conduct a cross-campus tour, or spend the afternoon talking in the lounge.

And even if there are no visitors, there is still talking on the telephone--or sleeping.

Sunday means return of students who spend weekends at home and the resulting exchanges of "what we did this weekend."

And Sunday evening is debates over who gets what change after ordering hamburgers and cokes from the grill, and the recurrence of the realization that there is still that book to be read, that paper to be written, and even that dog to be walked.

ONE THING NEVER CHANGES -- Amid all the other activities that fill the hours each Sunday is that special time set aside for getting the day's calories. Photo by Bob Barr

AND A TIME FOR STUDY -- Typical of a Sunday scene are these students in the library preparing to check out the books that will occupy their time during the week.

DOGS AND DUCKS TAKE IT EASY, TOO-- Sunday on campus means a friendly hand feeding bread to the ducks along the Red Cedar River, while it means a walk with one of the SAE brothers to Bruno, the fraternity's St. Bernard mascot.

D.C. To Vote For First Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—An older woman registering to vote in Washington, D. C., says she doesn't know whether she is Republican or Democrat—"It's too early."

A 109-year-old man registering for the first time in his life says he wants to belong to "Mr. Roosevelt's party."

A young man wants to know whether the bars would be closed on election day.

It shows what a strange new world this voting business is for Washington, D.C.—the very center of national politics.

For the first time in its 162-year history as an incorporated city, residents of the District of Columbia will vote for the nation's president and vice president this year.

The 23rd amendment to the U.S. Constitution, adopted in 1961, authorized it, and Washington will get three votes in the Electoral College.

Right now, it's going through the problems of registering.

All the questions that have been asked and answered in other cities through the years are being asked for the first time and all at once here.

Washington residents still have no voting voice in their municipal affairs. The President names the three city commissioners to administer city affairs under the direction of Congress.

The city had to carve out 91 voting precincts and find 91 centers, such as schools, churches, even a hotel lobby, for registering and voting.

Some 56,000 had registered by the middle of February, with the deadline for registering for the primary March 21. Approximately 100,000 citizens are expected to register.

Washington has a 764,000 population with almost 500,000 of voting age. However, unknown thousands—possibly 50,000—federal workers keep their voting residence back in their home towns.

EXCITING THINGS HAPPEN AT FORD MOTOR COMPANY!

Good news for aficionados of medium-cubed V-8's who prefer to remain shiftless!

Four-on-the-floor is fine but not everyone's cup of tea. If you're an automatic devotee, we think you'll be cheered by what Ford Motor Company transmission engineers have designed in the way of exciting goodies to go with our new hotter V-8 mills in the medium-displacement class.

It's a spanking new 3-speed automatic drive that adds more hustle without extra muscle in Comet, Fairlane and Ford models for '64. Among its many virtues: less avoidupolis... fewer parts... smoother take-offs... up to 35% more go in Low... extra braking in downhill work... whisper-quiet in Neutral... quarterback-style passing performance!

The men at Ford who design such intricacies as transmissions are not just walking slide rules or talking computers. They're men who get excited about cars and the fun of driving them. They enjoy meeting challenges like "Design a new automatic drive with 4-speed stick-shift performance built right in." Frankly, they are among the most avid car buffs around and it shows in their work!

More proof of the exciting things that happen at Ford Motor Company to bring brighter ideas and better-built cars to the American Road.

Packaging School Attempts To Produce 'Generalists'

MSU attempts to produce packaging 'generalists' rather than specialists, David Olsson, instructor in packaging, said.

The field of packaging is so broad, he said, that MSU cannot possibly specialize. It is so necessary to teach methods and tools, not applications.

The school merely tries to give the student a wide and general background and acquaint him with the fundamental techniques, Olsson said.

The school of packaging has been growing slowly but steadily since its beginning in 1952.

There are about 180 students enrolled in the school of packaging this term, including two women.

The school will be moved to a new building near South Shaw Lane when it is completed in about a year.

The building plans are in separate phases which provide for future expansion. The first phase is expected to cost $500,000.

Included in the plans is a new $400,000 packaging research laboratory. It will be paid for by packaging companies which will benefit from the student research data. The site development cost will be paid by the University.

A research program for the school of packaging is being sponsored by various packagers. About 20 companies make $3,000 annual contributions in return for research data, Olsson said.

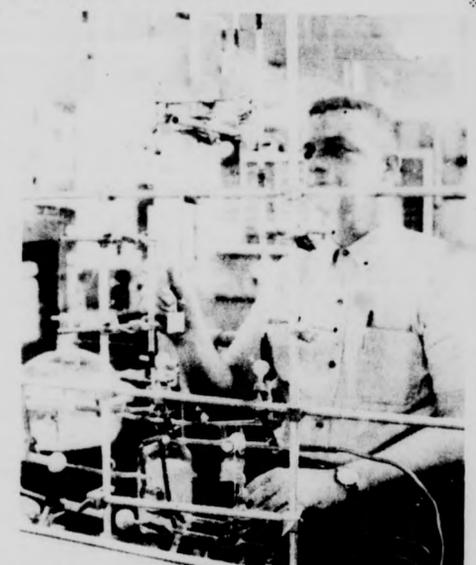

The school of packaging is one of the very few schools qualified by the armed services to do packaging cushioning research, he said.

The present packaging center includes typical packaging line machinery to give the student fundamental experience, Olsson said.

A computer is also used in the laboratory for cushioning research. It assigns theoretical degrees of impact to experimental materials and determines the results, he said.

Students design and make packages using various materials and methods as part of their study. In order to do this they must have a knowledge of tensile strength, permeability and other physical properties of the materials involved, Olsson said.

The role of packaging is growing with advertising, marketing, and physical distribution—fields which are inter-dependent in their task of getting the product to the consumer, he said.

CHECKING FOR LEAKS -- Shown is a test made on plastic bags at the packaging school. Gas is pumped into the bag in order to check its flow through the bag.

Center Union Party Wins Greek Vote

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Veteran statesman George Papandreou led his Center Union Party to a stunning election victory today. It will put him in firm control of his country at a time of crisis over Cyprus.

The 76-year-old Papandreou and his moderate party were certain to capture an absolute majority in parliament, allowing them to rule Greece for the next four years.

With more than half the votes counted from Sunday's balloting, the Center Union was running far out in front.

Without waiting for further tabulation, Papandreou's chief rival, Panayiotis Canelopoulos, leader of the Rightist National Radical Union, conceded defeat. Shortly after midnight Canelopoulos announced:

"The will of the people shall be respected. The National Radical Union has proven it knows how to govern, and it will prove that it is able to be a useful opposition. I will do my best for the normal functioning of the democratic parliamentary regime."

Cyprus Outburst Feared

3,000 men who seek to curb communal strife on Cyprus.

Although the boost in manpower amounts to only a 10 per cent increase in strength, the reinforcements are expected to help British commanders on Cyprus reorganize their forces for better mobility.

An armored car squadron from the Queen's crack life guards -- 140 men and about 20 cars -- will join a similar group already there. Another squadron of headquarters troops will leave by plane today to organize intermediate command posts scattered across the island.

The British forces were praised by Ball for "remarkable restraint, understanding and compassion" before he left London.

He also praised the Turkish government, which had held off intervening in Cyprus at Ball's request.

"I was very impressed with its (the Turkish government's) seriousness," he told newsmen at the airport.

"The views of the United States and British governments are completely in accord on the very difficult problem of Cyprus," he added. "As far as my government is concerned we will try to do all we can in this tragic and dangerous situation. We must seek a solution with the closest cooperation."

NEW YORK (AP)—The market in "Beatles" items is so lucrative that unlicensed manufacturers are getting into the act, it was charged Sunday.

The attorney and licensing agent for the British rock and roll quartet and a clothing manufacturer who is making "Beatles" T-shirts, sweat shirts and other items made the charge at a news conference.

They said court actions are underway in New York, California, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania against firms allegedly making "Beatles" items without authorization.

Mermen Sink OSU Sixteen Marks Set

The unbreakable record may be a modern invention to those in the music industry, but when it comes to athletics, specifically swimming, unbreakable records are things of the past.

The State Swimmers and the Ohio State Buckeyes proved the point Saturday by breaking 16 records in a meet won by MSU, 61-44, at the IM pool.

Coach Charles McCaffree's squad, returning to the home setting after two weeks' absence, put 12 new varsity marks on the books, and the visiting Buckeyes added four. For State, it was only the fourth victory over Ohio State in 24 meetings and the first win since 1961.

"Thanks to a fine team effort," McCaffree said after the meet, we finally showed that we have the squad to beat Ohio State's. Everyone contributed to make it a thrilling afternoon, especially our sophomores who are just catching fire as the season moves along."

One such sophomore was Jim MacMillan who churned the 100- and 200-yard freestyles for new dual meet, pool and MSU varsity marks.

In the 100, MacMillan placed a tie for first with teammate Darryle Kifer, also a sophomore. MacMillan's time of :48.2 to Kifer's clocking of :48.4 was good enough to better the previous dual mark of :49.0, pool mark of :48.3 and varsity time of :48.4.

In the 200 freestyle, MacMillan in the 100, took top honors in the 50-yard freestyle splashing to a finish of :21.8 for another triple record. The old pool mark was :22.0, old dual mark :22.1

Return Of Lewis Aids Epee

By RICHARD SCHWARTZ
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State's fencing team celebrated the return of John Lewis to the epee lineup with a pair of victories in their final home appearance of the season, slashing Wisconsin, 18-9, and edging Iowa, 15-12.

Lewis, who was found to be ineligible after the opening meet with Air Force Academy and Wisconsin and forced to forfeit his matches, had a second crack at the Badger outfit and came away with wins in two of three bouts.

To qualify for varsity competition, Lewis needed to take an examination in a course where he had recorded an "X" or incomplete grade. Before doing so, he was .014 of one grade point shy of eligibility.

His return to the epee trio helped put that weapon in winning figures at the close of the dual meet, 10-8, for the first time this season. Foil fared the best for the Spartans, with an overall performance of 14-4. Sabre wound up 9-9 for the afternoon.

Key man for the MSU foil team was Lew Leonard with the only perfect record, 6-0. Nels Marin, State's No. 1 foilsmen, finished 4-1. The single loss snapped a winning streak of 11 for Marin. Bryan Kuchins, the only junior in foil, finished 4-2.

MSU Capt. in Lou Salamone gave the team a taste of the fencing which gave him the Big Ten sabre title last year, chalking up a 4-1 record. A sophomore on the rise, Mark Haskell, continued to post victories, walking off with four wins in six bouts.

In Epee, Lewis finished 4-2 for the day. Another key figure in this weapon was Joel Serlin, whose sweep of three matches in the meet with Iowa steered him to a 4-2 showing.

"What we proved," said MSU Coach Charles Schmitter, "is that we have developed good balance. Except for a lapse in sabre against Iowa, every weapon turned in winning records throughout both meets. And it wasn't Iowa's greater strength in sabre, but rather our weakness, which enabled them to win in that weapon."

Hoosiers Bow To Spartan Gymnasts

The Spartan gymnasts won five of seven events and tied another in chalking up their fourth victory of the season against Indiana Saturday at Bloomington.

It was a team effort that won the meet for State, according to Coach George Szypula. "We were a little sloppy, but came through in pretty good shape," Szypula added.

The Spartans lost only in the sidehorse--the team's weakest event, according to the coach. The tie came about on the trampoline, where Ray Strobel and Indiana's Bob Lilly posted identical 9.35 scores.

Dale Cooper remained undefeated in dual meet still ring competition. Cooper's 9.6 gave him the nod over teammate Ted Wilson.

Dick Giliberto won the floor exercise with a 8.75. State's Tom Hurt was second. After Strobel on the trampoline was Steve Wells, who placed fifth with a 7.3 mark.

Wilson with a 9.15, led the Spartans in a 1-2-3 sweep on the horizontal bar. Dave Price (8.3) was second, with Bill McFillen (7.0) in third.

The gymnasts also took the top three spots in the parallel bar competition, with Todd Gates, Price and Hurt winning, in that order. Gates had a 9.35, Price a 9.1 and Hurt a 7.3.

State finished up the meet by again taking all the tumbling positions that counted. McFillen (7.5), Wells (7.3) and Giliberto (6.95) outclassed the two Indiana competitors.

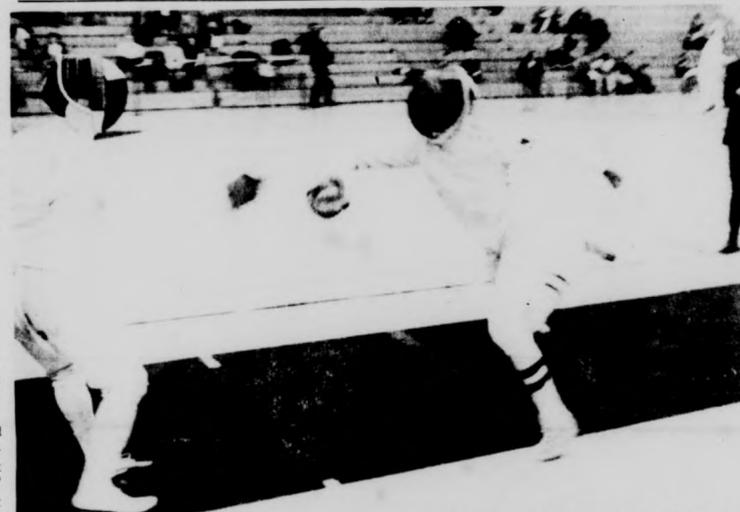

Indiana's Keith Ruggles won the sidehorse with a 8.7 mark, while Hurt had a 8.3 to take second.

Giliberto is still bothered by a knee injury and McFillen is still suffering from a heel injury.

Szypula credited the "strong nucleus" of Hurt, Price and Wilson for the Spartans consistent improvement. How much the team has developed will probably be decided in the next two weeks.

Saturday the Spartans face Michigan at Ann Arbor and on Feb. 28 they travel to Carbondale to meet "powerhouse" Southern Illinois.

Michigan won the Big Ten and National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) meets last year.

CHARGE -- Wisconsin saberman scores point against State opponent. Unfortunately for the Badgers there weren't enough instances like this and State won the meet at the IM Saturday.

Homer Still Unbeaten; Grapplers Stop Indiana

Rebounding from a 22-5 setback last week at the hands of the University of Pittsburgh, State's wrestlers downed the Indiana's Hoosiers Saturday afternoon 14-11. The win pushed the Spartans back over the .500 mark for the season with a 4-3-1 mark.

Joe Ganz, State's 137-pounder, removed the "unbeaten" label from the Hoosiers' Bruce Curth, topping him 5-3. Indiana's two other undefeateds, Bob Campbell and Dick Isel beat Gary Smith and Emerson Boles by respective scores of 4-1 and 3-2.

Al Huckins started things rolling for the Spartans with his 6-5 opening match victory over Larry Mann. After Smith and Ganz had worked their matches, Bob Hansen, substituting for ailing Dick Cook, boosted State to a 9-3 advantage.

Monty Byington then lost his 157-pound encounter with Don Bennett, 42, as the Hoosiers closed the gap. But Terry Leonard, tightening his grip on first place in team scoring honors, downed Dale Thomas 2-1 and State was again up by six.

Boles then lost in the feature match of the evening and Indiana once again drew close. Homer McClure assured State's fourth win of the season by drawing with the massive Dick Conway, 1-1, and leaving his record at 5-0-2.

State Coach Grady Peninger was "considerably pleased with the overall performance."

The meet was the last one on the road this year for the Spartans, who now have three straight on the home mats.
The first will be next Saturday against the Wolverines from the University of Michigan. It will start at 3 p.m. in the Sports Arena, Mens IM. The Wolves will be, according to Coach Peninger "Loaded for bear."

U-M Downs Skaters; Goalie Woolf Injured

State's hockey team came up against "the best team they've faced all year" Friday and Saturday nights, and dropped two hard fought contests.

The top team, according to State coach Amo Bessone, was

UCLA Nears Season's End

The nation's number one college basketball team is a step closer to an undefeated season with only five games left on the regular schedule.

UCLA ran its streak to 21 games with two victories over Washington last weekend. The Bruins, who hold two victories over Stanford, face the Indians again on Saturday night in their only game this week.

Kentucky, ranked second, was idle Saturday, but faces seventh-rated Vanderbilt tonight and Auburn on Saturday night.

Number three Michigan has road trips to Minnesota on Tuesday night and to Wisconsin on Saturday.

Fifth-ranked Duke turned back number four Davidson, 82 to 75 and sixth place Wichita went into overtime to edge Cincinnati, 59 to 58. . . in other weekend action.

and still is Michigan. "Our team did a tremendous job both nights, but Michigan was just too good," Bessone commented.

State lost the first game, played at the State Ice Arena 2-0. Bessone said that "this was the best game he has seen in five years."

The crowd of 2,340 saw great performances by goaltenders Harry Woolf and U-M's Bob Gray.
The first period was scoreless, with Woolf making some beautiful saves to keep State in the game. In the middle of the second period, Jack Cole slapped in a 30 footer to give the Wolves a 1-0 lead. At the 4:07 in the final period, Gary Butler hit on another 30-footer, giving Michigan a 2-0 lead.

The Spartans had opportunities to get back in the game but failed. The Wolverines were called for four straight penalties and at one point Michigan had two men in the penalty box. Bob Gray turned back 17 shots in the final stanza to preserve the win. He had a game total of 31. Woolf also played a great game turning back 24 shots.

Michigan scored three times in the first period as they went on to post their second straight victory, 7-2, over the Spartans

Hoopsters Stun Iowa, Even Season Record

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State basketball Coach Fordy Anderson said last week that his cagers had yet to come up with a game where they were together both offensively and defensively. Saturday night they did, with a 107-82 triumph over the University of Iowa at Jenison Fieldhouse.

The win gave State a 4-6 seventh place record in the conference and a 10-10 mark for the season. Iowa dropped to 2-5 in the Big Ten and 7-9 overall. The visiting Hawkeyes were in the game for the first three and one half minutes but a hook shot by center Fred Thomann gave the Spartans a 7-5 lead which was never relinquished.

State seemed to toy with the losers building up a ten point lead midway in the half in rolling to their easiest Big Ten win of the season. Iowa managed to come within eight points of the winners with 3:33 remaining in the first stanza but the Spartans reeled off nine straight points to turn the game into a rout. The Green and White left the court holding a commanding 55-38 lead at intermission.

Substitutes Bill Berry, Bill Curtis and Bill Noack turned in strong relief performances when the Spartans ran into foul trouble in the second half. The trio combined for a total of 35 points and 25 rebounds.

Fifty seven fouls were called in the contest. State committed 29 miscues while Iowa was called for 28. At one point in the second half nine straight fouls were called.

Pete Gent, Marcus Anders, Thomann and Berry were sent to the bench in the final frame with five personals. Dennis Pauling was fouled out for Iowa. The victory for the Spartans produced the largest MSU win margin over Iowa in Big Ten history. The 25 point spread easily topped the previous record of 15 when State downed the Hawks 52-37 in 1937.

State also equalled its Big Ten scoring record set earlier this season in a 107-103 triumph over Indiana.

Sophomore Stan Washington led all scorers with 28 points while Iowa's Jim Rodgers tossed in 22 to lead the Hawkeye attack. Six men were in the double figures for the Spartans. Bill Schwartz tallied 14 points, Berry had 13, Sanders hit for 11 and Gent and Thomann both added ten.

Curtis, playing less than half the game, grabbed 17 rebounds in addition to scoring eight points. Thomann and Washington had 12 apiece and Gent grabbed off 11. The Hawks, outrebounded 84-49, were led by Gary Olsen with eight. Michigan State now faces the University of Illinois Monday night at Jenison Fieldhouse in another Big Ten encounter. Opening tip off is set for 8:00 p.m.

36 NCAA Cagers For Olympic Trials

NEW YORK (UPI)—The NCAA will provide 36 players for the Olympic basketball trials slated for New York in April.

Six of the players will come from the NCAA championship team crowned at Kansas City March 21. The remaining 30 will be selected from the NCAA membership by a committee of the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

The 36 players will be put on three 12-man squads to compete against two AAU teams, two Armed Forces teams and a team from the NAIA.

The trials are April 2-4

Illini Foe Tonight

State's basketball squad, inspired after a convincing 107-82 victory over Iowa Saturday, will attempt to gain its eighth victory in ten starts on their home court when the University of Illinois invades Jenison Fieldhouse tonight at 8.

The Spartans, 10-10 for the season and 4-6 in the Big Ten, have won only three of eleven on the road, but have taken seven of nine verdicts at home.

Illinois, 3-4 in the conference following a 92-8 weekend loss to Minnesota, should prove to be a real test for coach Fordy Anderson's forces.

The Illini, after winning their first three conference games of the season, including an 87-66 victory over the Spartans in Champaign, have dropped four straight league contests and are anxious to get back on the winning trail.

Center Skip Thoren leads the Illinois scorers and rebounders with marks of 20.3 and 13.8 respectively. Tal Brody, a 6-2 guard, has tallied 162 points in his last eight games to move into second place on the Illini squad with a 17.5 average.

Swimmers Win

Both Kiter and MacMillan figured in the record performance by the Spartan entry in the 400-yard freestyle relay along with sophomore Bob Sherwood and junior Dick Gretzinger. The time of 3:14.2 replaced the previous dual meet best of 3:17.6, pool mark of 3:14.4 and varsity record of 3:14.4.

Another rookie swimmer for the Spartans, Lee Driver, set a new varsity record in the 200-yard breast-stroke with a 2:18.7, 2.1 seconds off the old time.

In the 200-yard butterfly, Terry Hagan gave State another record with a 2:01.2 effort clipping a second off the old dual meet mark.

Hockey

Saturday night. At the five minute mark of the first period State lost the services of goalie Woolf who had a recurrence of the injury he received Friday night, a muscle spasm in the back. Alex Terpay was put in and he did a remarkable job considering that this was the first time he has played goal in his life.

The fans in Ann Arbor applauded him for his effort. Terpay made some fantastic saves,
