

Degrees Go To 3,460 In Sunday's Ceremonies

Romney Questions Goldwater

CLEVELAND (AP)—Gov. George Romney told a news conference Sunday that unless Sen. Barry Goldwater convinces him that he stands four square for traditional Republican principles "I will do everything I can to keep him from becoming the party's candidate."

Shortly after Romney spoke, Gov. William Scranton said at the 56th annual governor's conference here that he is available for the Republican presidential nomination but won't campaign for it.

There is a feeling, Scranton said, that "perhaps the party is wedging away from the principle of equal rights and equal opportunity."

Because of this he said he is making himself available for the nomination although he said he is not a candidate for it.

Romney said he was breaking his rule against engaging in any political activity on Sunday because he fears that Goldwater might cement the nomination even before the governors' conference ends this week unless some action is taken by those who believe the Republican party should stick by its traditional support of civil rights.

Goldwater, expected to arrive at the conference today, has opposed some provisions of the civil rights bill now pending before the Senate. Scranton and Romney support this measure.

Signature Is Authentic

The "mark of distinction" about a Michigan State diploma is that it is personally signed by the president and the secretary.

Most university diplomas have the signatures of the chief administrators on them, but these are printed instead of being signed personally. This even applies to smaller colleges with as few as 200 students.

But the MSU "mark of distinction" does not come easy. Just picture yourself signing your name to over 3,400 parchment sheets as both President John A. Hannah and Secretary Jack Breslin had to do this year.

Hannah said he signs about 500 at a time, but even then he admits his hand gets tired.

Another problem is that the diplomas cannot be stacked on top of one another because the India ink used would smear. They are stacked in three separate piles when he signs them in the Board of Trustees meeting room adjoining his office.

The tradition of personally signed diplomas began long ago, Hannah said. He himself estimates that he has signed almost 90 per cent of the diplomas issued by the University thus far.

"I feel that the president can at least take time to sign student diplomas if the students will go through four years of education to earn them," he said.

Class Size Sets MSU Record

Carnegie Head To Be Speaker

Some 3,460 students, the largest number in MSU history, will receive their degrees at 4 p.m. Sunday during spring term commencement exercises.

Baccalaureate degrees will be awarded to 2,763 and advanced degrees to 695. These are records in both categories.

Scheduled as commencement speaker is John W. Gardner, president of the Carnegie Corporation. He will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

Herman L. King, assistant to the provost, said he believed there will be as high as 70 to 80 per cent attendance by the graduates' parents.

A change from previous years is that bachelors and masters candidates will not go to the platform to receive their diplomas. Instead four senior class officers will receive token diplomas for those graduating.

Candidates for their doctorates will go to the platform, however.

Honorary Doctor of Laws degrees will be awarded to Ralph J. Bunche, United Nations under-secretary for special political affairs, and Jay L. Lush, distinguished professor of agriculture at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa.

Maurice J. Day, senior vice-president of Crucible Steel Company of America, Pittsburgh, will receive an honorary Doctor of Engineering degree.

Distinguished Alumni Awards will be presented to J. Joseph Cranmore, Port Chester, N.Y., president of the Packaging Machinery Division of Crompton and Knowles Corporation; Doretta S. Hoffman, Manhattan, Kan., dean of the College of Home-Economics at Kansas State University; Thomas W. Kimen Sr., Western Springs, Ill., vice-president of R. R. Donnelley and Sons of Chicago; and Clarence H. Shaver, Glencoe, Ill., chairman of the board, United States Gypsum Company, Chicago.

In case of inclement weather, a decision to move the ceremonies indoors to Jenison Field House will be made by 2:30 p.m. Sunday and announced at frequent intervals on MSU radio stations WKAR and WKAR-FM.

Tickets issued to graduates for their parents will be necessary ONLY if the ceremonies are forced indoors.

'64 Grads Swing Out In Fairchild Ceremony

Two Highland bands, a long procession of black-clad seniors and President John A. Hannah's address to departing students were features of Senior Swingout Sunday afternoon in Fairchild Theater.

President Hannah reminisced over tradition of past swingouts as he told the graduates, "In the past four years you have changed. If you have changed for the better, then the college experience has been a success."

More important than the individual growth of each person Hannah said, is the collective growth—the growth reflected in the growth of the nation.

Senior of the year awards were presented to Jim Barnes, Fenton, and Leanne Trebilcock, Milwaukee, Wisc.

Jamie Blanchard, Royal Oak, received the senior award for outstanding participation in campus activities.

Board of Trustees scholarship awards for highest academic awards for highest academic achievement during the past four years were awarded to Carolyn MacDougall, Flint, and Herman Feikema, Rockford. They each received a $200 check.

Miss MacDougall had the highest graduating average with 3.984. Feikema had the highest men's average of 3.929.

Parents Must OK Move Off-Campus

Students over 21 who are moving off campus for the first time this summer must have a parental acknowledgment letter on file with the off-campus housing office.

The letter must state the parent's knowledge that his son or daughter is living in unapproved off-campus housing. This regulation is in effect throughout the academic year.

The housing office sends the letters to parents, and they should be returned before the start of the term. For this reason, Patrick B. Smith, director of off-campus housing, urged students who are planning to move into unapproved residences summer term to notify his office. Students who are taking less than six credits during the entire summer do not have to file a parental acknowledgment letter.

A report by the off-campus housing office indicates that students will not be able to complete registration if they do not have a local address. If a student passes through registration without giving a local address, he is in violation of University policy.

"Students who feel they have sufficient reasons to warrant an exception to the housing policy may seek special permission at this office," Smith said.

He emphasized that arrangements for exceptions to housing policies must be completed before the start of a term. The special permission must be filed before a student registers or he is recorded as being improperly housed.

"Special permission is given to many students each term," Smith said. "But the student must take the responsibility for initiating proceedings and following proper channels. He should not hope that things will somehow work themselves out after registration is over."

Today Marks '30' For Term's News

This 14-page edition of the State News is the final issue of spring term. Bi-weekly summer edition will begin June 25.

The State News would like to take this opportunity to wish students good luck on finals and extend best wishes to graduating seniors.

Javits Urges

'Get In Mainstream, Barry'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., called on Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Sunday to vote for cloture to end the marathon debate on the civil rights bill.

The vote, scheduled for Wednesday, "presents a great opportunity for Senator Goldwater to come forward and make it clear that he wants to be in the mainstream of Republican thinking," Javits said.

Goldwater, leading the field in the fight for the Republican presidential nomination, has said he opposes cloture on the civil rights measure which has been debated three months in the Senate.

Javits gave his views on his weekly program transcribed for New York television and radio stations.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., considered a Goldwater backer, told a reporter he expects the Arizona senator to oppose cloture but then to vote for the civil rights bill on final passage.

Goldwater, however, has said some parts of the bill go too far and are unsatisfactory to him.

Javits said "the Republican party, as the party of Lincoln, ought to be four-square for civil rights."

He added that "the new responsibility brought by the California victory" should make Goldwater reconsider his position against cloture.

"Eighty per cent of the Republican members of the House of Representatives voted for the bill, and at least two-thirds of Republican senators would vote for it," the New Yorker said.

"So I sincerely hope he will take this opportunity to change his position and put himself in the mainstream of Republican thinking on civil rights."

Last Chance For Waiters

Students wishing to make application for summer term waiver examinations in University College courses must get permission to do so today.

Permits may be obtained in 222 Bessey.

Viets Denounce Lodge In Massive Saigon Protest

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Boisterous Vietnamese crowds denounced U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Sunday in a massive Roman Catholic demonstration that packed Saigon's downtown streets. Fear arose that the demonstration might be a portent of danger for the present government as grave as the Buddhist crisis of 1963 which toppled the Diem government.

Before a tropical downpour finally dispersed the demonstration after three hours, one group tried to pull down a stone memorial plaque to President Kennedy in newly named John F. Kennedy Square.

Some Vietnamese who tried to tear down anti-Lodge banners carried by some of the demonstrators were attacked. Several elderly men and women fainted in the crush. Red Cross carts shuttled around the fringes of the crowd removing the injured.

Police were unable to say how many were hurt, but the number did not appear to be high.

Most of the demonstrators—estimated to number about 40,000—were orderly, but a few peeled off to scuffle with opponents.

Banners carried by demonstrators read: "Down with Cabot Lodge," "Go home Cabot Lodge."

Faculty Group To Discuss Bias

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs will meet today for the final time this term.

The group is expected to discuss University policy toward racial discrimination in off-campus housing. The campus chapter of the NAACP requested three months ago that the University issue a strong statement on discrimination in unapproved housing.

According to present policy, landlords are taken off the approved housing list if they practice racial discrimination. The NAACP has asked the University to announce that students will not be permitted to live in any unapproved housing where discrimination exists.

Jets Downed In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP)—A second American jet reconnaissance plane has been shot down by communist ground fire in the Plaine Des Jarres area of Central Laos, the State Department reported Sunday.

The pilot of the RF8 fighter from the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk parachuted to the ground as did the pilot of the American reconnaissance craft downed in the same area Saturday.

The department said search and rescue operations are underway for both men. The search for the airman downed Saturday has not succeeded in finding him yet.

New Troubles For Korea?

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Death in a Seoul hospital room raised fears Sunday of new student trouble for the pro-West government of President Chung Hee Park.

With his father at his bedside, University freshman Lee Yoon-Shik, 20, died of injuries received in anti-government rioting last Wednesday. Three major operations for head, chest and abdominal injuries failed to save him. He never regained consciousness.

Out of this personal drama came the possibility of serious student repercussions—possibly more demonstrations against Park's regime after a weekend of peace.

Lawyers Favor Prayer Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—A plea to Congress to oppose any amendment to the constitution to permit public school religious exercises was made Sunday by 223 constitutional lawyers.

The group, which includes 55 law school deans, joined in a public statement submitted to the House Judiciary Committee, which last week completed hearings on proposed amendments.

JFK Drive Nets $2,500, 9,000 Names

The John F. Kennedy Library Fund has collected about $2,500 in its drive. There are 9,000 signatures on the sheets distributed during the collection.

The signature sheets will be bound and sent to be shelved in the library, which is being built in Cambridge, Mass.

Jamie Blanchard, Royal Oak senior and chairman of the campus drive, said, "We of the drive expected to get more signatures and less money. Things worked in reverse."

Pay Day Friday For Grad Ass'ts

Pay day for graduate assistants will be Friday, June 12, rather than Monday, June 15, due to the end of spring term.

786, 804, 825--Hike!

MSU students may hide from the outside world behind their textbooks and under Red Cedar blankets, but they can not escape the reality of the cost of living.

While some can tune out the state, national and international news, few can ignore the constant tug at their billfolds.

Undoubtedly, next year when returning students have to pay $21 more than this year for dormitory fees there will be groans and a few sharp cries of protest.

The new room and board fee--$825, up from $804 for 1963-64--is the second straight hike in dormitory fees and the third increase in the last four years.

Seniors who entered MSU in September, 1961, will need $39 more for dorm fees next fall than they did as freshmen--plus $69 more for tuition if they live in Michigan or $315 more if they are non-residents.

Basic college expenses have jumped higher right along with the cost of living across the country:

Complaints that the University is "robbing us blind" will rumble around campus and back home when Dad gets the word, but the extra dollars will be paid, along with the extra dollars for cars, clothes, bowling balls, dentist bills, and, of course, meat and potatoes, rent or mortgage payments.

A rising cost of living seems to be a fact of American life--on campus as well as "out there" and students will be reminded again next fall at registration.

Bus Scheme Raises Doubt

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the administration for their shrewd maneuvering of the campus traffic problem. The plans have been released so discretely that, as usual, opposition by faculty and students could be neatly controlled. The tactics used were beautiful in their simplicity.

First came the broad hints during fall and winter terms. Nobody really knew the whole story, and thus the planners could finish their task without being bothered by such trivia as student (or even faculty) objections.

With spring term came the deployment tactics, the promises. Just a few short weeks ago, President Hannah told a Brody Group audience that free shuttle bus service would solve the problems of commuting students parked twenty minutes from their classes. With all the groundwork laid, the plans were submitted to the Board of Trustees and approved; the task was complete.

Then came the only flaw. A few students remembered hearing promises of an improved bus service, something which the University was not prepared to provide, on such short notice, for so many students. Even this problem has been deftly dealt with. By imposing a $36 per annum financial test, the number of students using the buses can be limited to a number that the University can handle.

There remains only the possibility that the new bus service may not get enough subscribers of sufficient affluence to pay the fee. While this possibility is slight, it should be provided for, lest our improved bus service fail. Therefore, may I suggest a fifty cent per wheel roller skate tax. This, in view of the new locations of dormitories, far from classes, should provide sufficient revenue.

A Fair Shake

To the Editor:

Hugh Hefer, editor-publisher believes that the people of today exist in a sick and confused society. What he implies is that people are still adhering to the old adage that sex is an evil that should not even be talked about let alone condoned in any way, shape or manner.

However, one does not have to come to the conclusion that man is living in a sick and illogical society by resorting to such a controversial topic as sex and morality.

One can easily come to the same conclusion by examining the highly moral practice of utilizing social pressure to force the underdog male to foot the entire bill for two people for an evening's entertainment solely because his companion for that evening happens to be female.

What possible basis is there for this ludicrous practice? Woman professes to be the equal of man, both intellectually and socially. If this indeed is the case, why does she continue to subject herself to this type of wretched - down prostitution? Must man pay for the pleasure of her company while receiving nothing tangible in return for the pleasure of his company?

The reason for this practice lies in the fact that it is merely traditional, though unfounded and illogical, for man to prostrate himself before the every wish of woman. In this day and age of modern progress, let us throw back the dark veil of outmoded social tradition and discard the insidious beliefs of the past.

Dumbfounded

To the Editor:

In essence, Joe Panyard's Point of View sets out to prove with facts that he has the right to hate Negroids because they are inferior. It will be pointless to disprove whatever ideas he now holds, and one cannot rightfully begrudge him his attitude. But, in all fairness to his capacity to collect facts and prove his point, why must he find it necessary to hate something which is inferior?

I must confess that the said Point of View momentarily dumbfounded me for throwing light on profound ignorance sustained by enlightened facts and proofs.

Proper Voice

To the Editor:

I am delighted that at long last an Israeli student has answered an Arab student's letter about the Palestine problem. It is to each one's credit that he wishes to present his homeland's case in the dispute. But why didn't the editor immediately invite an Israeli student to reply to Mr. Khaduri's letter, or why didn't Mr. Ben David reply sooner? It is proper than an argument initiated by a citizen of one country should be answered by a citizen of the opposing country.

But it was not proper for American citizens, which I presume Mr. Edelson and Mr. Spar to be, to intervene in a debate between citizens of foreign countries--unless Mr. Edelson or Mr. Spar is a paid propagandist for Israel, duly registered with the Department of State, in which case the writer should have announced the connection. On matters not related to the United States we American citizens cannot speak with the same authority as citizens of the foreign countries concerned. We should listen to both sides and come to our own conclusions.

DDT Research

To the Editor:

George Wallace of the University's zoology department deserves more credit than anyone else for his research and concern about wildlife on this campus. If it hadn't been for his research which proved that DDT could and would kill songbirds nothing would be accomplished to find out more about the pesticide-wildlife relationship on the campus.

Editor's Note: The following letter was received recently by Deran Markarian, assistant professor of horticulture.

Dear Sir:

I am a Peace Corps Volunteer serving in Colombia, South America. My site is a small area in the mountains about 12,000 feet above sea level. I work with the Guambiano and Pay Indians of this area trying to improve the nutritional standards and agricultural habits of these people. To give you an idea of how primitive these people are, they still plant all their corn up and down the slopes. The only vegetables they grow are onions, cabbage, and potatoes, and instead of eating these they usually sell all that they grow.

The reason I am writing this letter is to ask your help on a few things I am having trouble with. Since the climate of your state is about the same as here could you suggest some varieties of some of the major vegetables especially tomatoes, peas, spinach and other "greens" plants, and carrots that might be adapted to this climate? I would also like to know of a variety of early maturing field and sweet corn since the corn here takes from 10 to 13 months to mature. If you could suggest addresses that handle these varieties, it would also be helpful. I am also interested in small fruits for this area, if you can suggest a text book or supply me with additional information in this area I would greatly appreciate it.

Thank you very much for your time and any help you can give me. If there is any cost in handling or mailing please notify me and I will be glad to pay for it.

--30--"; the journalist's symbol for the end of a story, a job completed. The familiar sign around the newspaper office that signifies that the task is complete on an assignment, and that it is time to go on to the next one.

Three terms of newspapering, ten weeks each, five papers a week (. . . special Welcome Issue in September), have been a valuable experience in academic and human relations for everyone on the State News staff, and a chance to do the University and the people that make it up a great service. Whether or not each of the 134 issues put out September to June has been well received, each has served a function in the University, and each has added to the education of everyone involved with it, from the editors down to the most casual reader.

The 134 sets of news assignments, page lay-outs, paste-ups and press runs have dealt with a variety of important problems, and a few of little importance, covering what we hope was a balanced range of local, national and world events.

Today's is the last paper to be put out by the staff that haltingly took stock of itself in September, which by a process of grinding and oiling has turned into a reasonably efficient journalistic machine. Beginning with the first class day of summer term, a new staff will begin the painful process of finding out its mistakes and working up an effective operation.

All this goes on at the same time the news, and the News, comes out every day, spreading word of the important events and some of the significant comments on them to an audience made up of 97 per cent of the people around the University.

The graduating seniors on this year's State News staff are about ready to leave the old job behind, anxious to get away from the routine of six to fourteen pages daily with which they have been living. And the others on the staff are ready to move into the new positions they will hold in getting out the next volume of papers.

The University has continued moving forward, if sometimes haltingly and in spite of periodic bombardment from these editorial columns, and the same relationship will continue next year and on into all the years following.

The deadline for the first summer issue is approaching.

Hope springs eternal. The grounds and maintenance department is still trying to grow grass in the South Campus area.

To the Editor:

Doesn't it get tiring constantly hearing people complaining about MSU? It seems like you cannot take a five-minute coffee break without hearing someone tear down the MSU administration with regard to various subjects such as:

"The never ending increase in enrollment and the faculty's inability to keep up with it" or the rumor that "MSU professors are the lowest paid in the Big Ten" (This last comment is usually followed by "and the faculty parking fee is really a sneaky way to further cut staff salaries") and lately of course everyone is screaming about the $36 per year bus fee. Isn't it about time someone defended the administration? Would it be too much to ask for constructive criticism? Why can't people look at some of the majority in the long run? Certainly it does not take a genius to figure out that the money from the faculty parking fee will be used to improve the physical plant of the whole University, and that the $36 bus fee is really an excellent and subtle way to limit enrollment.

Obviously all it takes to see the positive side of things is a little rational thought and what better place to begin thinking than in an institution of higher learning which is world famous.

NAACP Continues Picketing Against Open Housing Stand

Single Out 3 Members Of Council

Members of the campus chapter of the NAACP continued to lead protest marches Friday against the East Lansing City Council's stand on open occupancy.

For the second time in four days, students, faculty members and East Lansing residents marched in front of the City Hall and the East Lansing Savings and Loan Association.

Picketing started Tuesday after members of the Council rejected a resolution Monday by the East Lansing Human Relations Commission to recommend that the city attorney draw up a fair housing ordinance.

Nearly 250 whites and Negroes, led by Melvin M. Moore, campus NAACP president and Inkster junior, picketed Friday for two hours. The protests were aimed directly at three council members: Max Strother, MSU purchasing agent, Kenneth Dillinger of the Savings and Loan Association and Tod Kinter, a realtor, all of whom vocally opposed open housing legislation at the Council meeting.

The demonstrations began Friday after Moore, accompanied by over 100 pickets, closed the campus NAACP account with East Lansing, Savings and Loan. About 30 persons marched in front of the bank, while the rest moved to the front of the City Hall and the City Hall annex.

After two hours of marching, Moore led the pickets, which grew to 250, in pairs down Grand River Avenue from Abbot Road to Division Street, then back up Grand River to the Union.

Moore repeated his plans Friday to call in national civil rights leaders in the summer to discuss the problem of racial discrimination in East Lansing housing. He promised that more picketing would result when students return to school in the fall, unless the City Council adopts fair housing legislation.

Decor To Stay In Abbot Lobby

Abbot Hall, presently a women's dorm to be converted to men's residence, recently faced the decision of stripping the dorm of its personality or leaving souvenirs to the new occupants. "We wanted to leave Abbot a dorm, not a shell for the men," Sharon Stickie, Detroit junior and president of the dorm said.

With the new changeover, the women had to decide what to do with books and trophies and the balance of their budget.

They decided to leave their complete library, including encyclopedias and reference books, to the dormitory to give the men a start.

The silver service was donated to the Women's Service for their usage at banquets and teas.

A three-hundred dollar balance remained after bills were paid which the women donated to the Mississippi Summer project. Abbot Hall will send two of its representatives to add to the 150 quota.

"We hope the men in Abbot will invite the members of the Project to return and tell of their experiences," Miss Stickie said.

The Spartan Spirit Award, which Abbot Hall was the first women's residence to receive, will be returned to be presented again next year.

Miss Stickie said she perceived no bitterness as a result of the conversion, as has been noted in previous years.

"The girls seem to look forward to moving around," she said. "Many are moving to West Circle dorms, but the majority signed up for McDonel."

Ad Campaign Development Presented

The development of an advertising campaign was the subject of a presentation by Oldsmobile Division of General Motors and their advertising agency D.P. Brother, Thursday evening.

The advertising campaign of the "Vista Cruiser" station wagon was presented to 150 advertising students by a five man panel. Oldsmobile advertising manager, Lee Witten, moderated the panel which traced the introductory campaign for the new car from drawing board to introduction in mass media.

Alpha Delta Sigma, men's advertising fraternity sponsored the program. New officers of ADS were presented at the meeting. They are: president, Dennis Martin, Dearborn junior; vice-president, Mike Bidwell, East Lansing junior; secretary, Dave Sanovich, Berkley junior; and treasurer, Bob Hoeksema, East Lansing junior.

Bureau Doors Remain Open As Job Service Continues

The MSU Placement Bureau is a year-round operation.

Although the bureau does not conduct a formal interviewing program during the summer, it continues to aid students in finding temporary and permanent employment.

John D. Shingleton, placement director, said that numerous individual employers request interviewing time at the bureau during June, July and August. "Students who are graduating in July or August and do not have jobs yet should register here as soon as possible," Shingleton said. "It is very possible that employers will be looking for students in a wide variety of fields."

Shingleton pointed out that while most companies, government agencies and schools have hired the bulk of their employees for next year, they will still be looking for a few college graduates on a selective basis. "The student who is graduating this summer and has not found permanent employment still has a chance of getting a job," Shingleton said. "But he has to work at it."

The Placement Bureau also aids students through its job card files during the summer.

The Student Employment Office, headed by Tom Rand, is also active during the summer. Rand's office aides students in finding employment on and off campus. The bulk of the jobs are temporary. In the summer, jobs for students range from lawn mowing to dipping ice cream cones.

The Student Employment Office is an agency of the Placement Bureau.

returned intact as Alumni Officers of the 1964 Class. Sixty-four outstanding seniors were named to the 1964 Club.

The band-accompanied march to Fairchild from Beaumont Tower was preceded by a half-hour musical and marching display by the MSU Highlanders and the Flint Scottish Pipe Band.

Discussions, Decisions In 'Year That Was'

By OYARS BALCERS
State News Staff Writer

Over 27,600 students witnessed the events, felt the moods and changed the character of the University as they completed another academic year.

For the first time in its history Michigan State had a greater enrollment than the University of Michigan. The total swelled to just over 30,000, including the University of Oakland.

Accelerated dormitory construction schedules fell just short of the arrival of the students; some lived in unpainted Wonders Hall rooms. Others waited a week in McDonel before they could take a shower.

Among buildings that reached completion during the year were Abrams Planetarium, the Cyclotron, the Biochemistry Building and the parking ramp. Nearing completion are the Chemistry Building and the International Center. Programs initiated during the year were the Fee-Akers dormitory complex, the Psychology Research building and power plant.

The Bogue Street bridge which had been a topic for discussion much of the preceding year threatened to remain at the discussion level for another year. However the University and East Lansing finally agreed on plans, purchased the right-of-way and called for bids. The bridge is now scheduled to open for traffic on Aug. 1.

President John A. Hannah's Educational Development Plan gained Academic Senate and Board of Trustees approval during the year. The action followed months of controversy during which much was said and many faculty members resigned. The program included larger classes and more use of audio-visual methods.

A lively controversy raged between Michigan State and U-M over the location of a medical school here. The debate reached the state legislature before feelings started to simmer down. Michigan State prevailed with its plans to start a two-year medical school.

The Atomic Energy Commission decided in October to support a research project and laboratory on campus to investigate the effects of radiation on plants and trace this in terms of the ramifications on the world's food supply.

Brody residents breathed a cautious sigh of relief at the announcement of plans for a new sewage treatment plant.

The 1963-64 academic year has been a year of changes in many areas. Many innovations were initiated; many were discontinued.

Early registration for seniors and graduate students for winter term was held in November. Students were enthusiastic over the possibility of 30 minute registration. But the program was discontinued.

New parking and driving regulations were announced. Next year no students will be allowed to drive on campus from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. A fleet of 10 buses will circle the campus to replace the use of cars and "manpower."

The college of Business initiated the move towards a lower credit requirement for graduation, cutting requirements to 183 credits. The move was followed by the other colleges. The College of Engineering also cut back to 206 credits.

The state legislature entered into the college life in a number of ways. Michigan State received its highest appropriation ever—more than $39.6 million. In its capital outlay budget the University was given funds for the construction of four new buildings.

Fraternity and sorority members fought for five months against personal property tax levied by the city of East Lansing. After numerous appeals to the Council and the Board of Review, the Off-Campus Anti-Taxation Committee struck home in the state legislature. The legislature granted a $5,000 exemption to all fraternities, sororities and student cooperatives.

U.S. Surgeon-General announced his findings concerning the relationship of cancer and smoking. A slight decline in student smoking followed the announcement, but it was short lived.

Out-of-state students survived another tirade from the state legislature. Cutbacks in student enrollment from the eastern states was promised by the administration, but a move by the legislature to financially punish the universities with high numbers of "foreign students" was defeated.

Earlier, a move to limit the size of Michigan colleges to a maximum of 30,000 students was also defeated.

The U-M and Michigan State rivalry reached another high over the enrollment of merit scholars. Michigan administrators cried "foul" at Michigan State's policy of giving scholarships to any merit scholar who listed State as his first college choice. MSU enrolled a record 207 for the coming year.

All-University Student Government suffered its usual ups and downs during the past year. The spring term election of a new president resulted in a re-election to decide the winner. Bob Harris won by a slight majority over James Jesse in a computer-tabulated race.

A fall term referendum saw only four of seven AUSG constitutional amendments receive student approval. These included a provision changing AUSG congressional elections from spring term to fall term. The amendment which would have permitted an AUSG tax increase was defeated when a majority of the student body failed to vote.

Robert Hencken, speaker of congress, and Sandy Henry, public relations director, resigned their positions late winter term. They gave their reasons "the ineffectiveness of AUSG."

A flurry of personalities and speakers left their mark on campus with brief appearances. For a few days the students lived in anticipation of the possible arrival of Madame Nhu. However, she cancelled her appearance.

Her father, Trang Van Chuong, did speak to an overflowing audience at the Kiva pointing out the atrocities of his son-in-law's regime.

"Winds of Change," a conference co-sponsored by AUSG and the National Student Association brought together a number of high level armed forces personnel, political authorities, governmental agents and foreign experts.

Rosebowl fever hit campus in November. Students participating in what police termed "riots" but the students justified as "spontaneous demonstrations" swept the campus preceding the Illinois game.

Enthusiasm which reached a fever pitch just before the scheduled Thanksgiving Day game was shocked into emptiness with news of President John F. Kennedy's death.

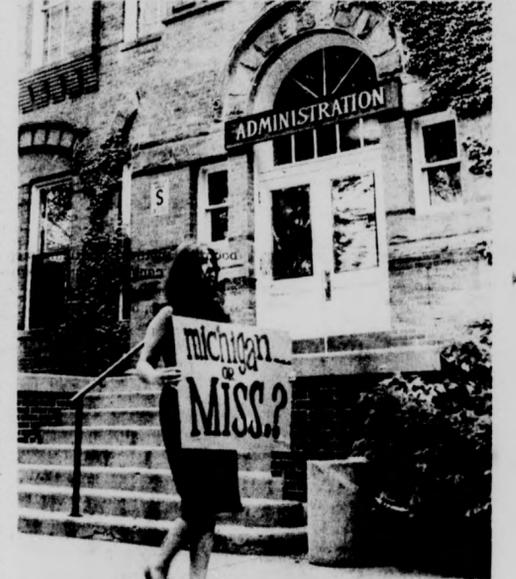

Walter Reuther addressed the winter term graduating class. The deputy postmaster general spoke at the Interfraternity Council's installation banquet. Dick Gregory drew an enthusiastic audience to hear him ad lib and quip about everything from the civil rights movement to general comments about life.

The library made news with the announcement that a cool, air conditioned study atmosphere would be on tap in the spring. The announcement was followed winter term with a disclosure of Donna Buekema, Holland Junior, reigned as Homecoming Queen. Judy Smith, Birmingham sophomore was crowned Miss MSU at the J-Hop in February.

Bruce Osterink gained the title of Mr. MSU at the Spinster Spin, also in February.

Subjects ranging from dress regulations, to AUSG to ticket policies drew student protests during the year. During much of winter term, the weekly meetings of the Men's Housing Association were dominated by discussions of changes in men's dress increasing library thefts. Checkers tightened up, security precautions were talked about; but emotion slowly waned and things returned to normal.

A mock primary, held late in spring term, nominated a Johnson-Kennedy Democratic ticket and chose Henry Cabot Lodge as the Republican nominee.

A number of students gained distinction during the past year, regulations for meals in dormitories.

A change in basketball attendance regulations for home games requiring the acquisition of tickets for each game, drew fierce student protest for a number of games.

Rather Hall decided to break with AUSG only to find out that it couldn't do it--but after it had done so.

The new apartment boom attracted hundreds of students to "push living." However, the dean of students office grew alarmed at the number of students who were living in the unapproved unsupervised housing though they would not turn 21 until sometime during fall term.

Students returned en masse to the dean's office spring term as a result of a series of raids on grassers in Shiawassee County. Sheriff Porter's name grew to student infamy as the result of 111 student arrests. Irregularities were reported in the court procedures, but when the State Attorney General reviewed the procedures he found nothing out of order.

Parents Weekend and Water Carnival saw thousands of parents and visitors flock to the campus. Greek Weekend, scheduled a week earlier, featured the Drifters, an outdoor Greek feast and a sorority tricycle race.

Seniors attended the traditional reception at Cowles House and Senior Swing Out, and June 14 over 3,460 students culminated their academic careers at commencement.

PRESIDENT HANNAH

Hannah Reflects, Finds Year's Events Pleasing

By CHARLES C. WELLS
State News Staff Writer

With quiet reflection, President John A. Hannah Friday afternoon outlined the accomplishments of Michigan State during this academic year.

The president seemed pleased with MSU's many accomplishments. But anyone knowing him knows that while he is pleased, he is not self-satisfied. He still subscribes to his basic thesis that MSU can and must "forge ahead" to meet the responsibilities of the future.

One of the most significant happenings on the campus scene, Hannah indicated, is the favorable treatment that MSU received by the state legislature.

"Even more significant than our appropriation was the legislature's indication that it is changing its attitude toward the needs of public higher education in Michigan," he said.

"This change in thinking by legislators really reflects a change in the attitudes of the people of this state toward higher education's needs."

The legislature passed a record $39.6 million budget for Michigan State in May. The MSU appropriations bill was tied into a general appropriations bill for all state supported institutions in Michigan. The education bill passed the senate with little change, but encountered stormy opposition in the house.

Secretary Jack Breslin, MSU's chief legislative liaison official, expressed his satisfaction with the outcome in the house by saying it was a "very generous appropriation."

The second point the MSU president mentioned as memorable was the approval of the Educational Development Program (EDP) by the Academic Council in October.

"The naming of John E. Dietrich as director marks the beginning of progress in this area," Hannah said.

EDP is an administration and faculty approach to meeting future problems of rising enrollments and limited funds. Specific areas include increasing effectiveness of the academic program; evaluating the effectiveness of co-curricular activities; and increasing efficiency in non-academic areas.

Both the EDP report and an economic profile for 1960 through 1973 were sent to a Michigan foundation for study and a possible grant. If the grant does come through, it is expected that the money will help implement the program quicker than if MSU had to do it with its own limited funds.

Announcement of an award of the grant should come during the summer.

Hannah mentioned the current campus building boom as another significant step forward.

"More construction of permanent facilities was put into action this year than during any other year in our history," he added.

New construction started during this academic year has an estimated value of $8 to $10 million dollars. Residence hall construction boomed and students started using the term "East Campus" as a designation for the area where the new Fee-Akers Residence Halls are nearing completion.

The president said that public recognition of the MSU faculty in bringing credit to the University in the areas of research, teaching and public service has been more apparent this academic year than any other year.

"Generally I think that we have received more public recognition for the efforts of our faculty people this year than any other year," he said.

The Board of Trustees decision to appoint Howard R. Neville as provost was listed as still another move forward.

"The appointment of Neville is significant because it will give our academic programs a high degree of leadership," he said. "He performed his duties well during the months that he was acting provost."

Hannah noted also in this area that the Academic Council is experiencing a coming of age in academic leadership.

"The Academic Council is really discussing significant problems of this University and is showing by its recent actions that it can deal with important and controversial items with good judgement."

Another memorable event in the current history of MSU was the finalizing of our commitments to proceed in the field of medical education, he said.

MSU will open its two-year medical program in the fall of 1965. Despite a coalition of Wayne State University, University of Michigan medical heads in the Michigan Coordinating Council, the MSU program was approved and is getting underway.

Andrew Dickson Hunt, Jr., was appointed dean of MSU's new medical school by the Board of Trustees in February. Hunt will assume the duties of the $35,000 post in July.

With respect to the student body, Hannah listed student government accomplishments as significant.

"The attitudes of student leaders seems to be changing," he said.

"They are taking a comprehensive look at student government and the role they can play in the total University picture."

"I am favorably impressed with the All-University Student Government study group examining the role of student government. I believe that the student's attitudes are exceptionally good."

12 Students Prove It

Man Can Live By Bread Alone

Bread may truly be the "staff of life" but 12 men students here are tired of it.

They will be eating their first meat in nearly two months today.

For 50 days, bread (about one full loaf a day) and other wheat products, have made up 90 per cent of the protein in their diet and 75 per cent of the calories. The men have had no milk, meat, cheese or eggs, and seem to be thriving.

The 12 young men volunteered for an experiment conducted by a graduate student from Iran, Simin Bolourchi, and her professor, Olaf Mickelsen, professor of foods and nutrition.

Preliminary results, reports Mickelsen, indicate -- contrary to common belief in nutrition -- that wheat products consumed in large-enough quantities will meet normal protein requirements.

If final results (which will not be known for about two months) bear out the preliminary findings, they could have profound influence on how the experts advise underdeveloped countries and on the U. S. wheat surplus, the MSU professor notes.

The MSU study got its start when Miss Bolourchi began research on ways of improving the nutritional value of the bread which makes up a large part of the diet of the people in her native Iran.

Mickelsen suggested she see how much complete protein a person would get if he consumed about 1,750 calories -- roughly a full day's quota in Iran -- of bread. Her figures showed that at such a high rate of consumption -- a person would get more than twice as much protein builders as the minimum daily requirement calls for.

received a grant of $24,042 from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Volunteer men students were called for and 40 responded. After a battery of physical examinations and personality tests, 12 were selected. Both graduates and undergraduates were chosen.

The special dieting began March 30. For the first three weeks, the men ate a diet low in animal products. For the past seven weeks they have received 90 per cent of their protein and 75 per cent of their calories from bread and other wheat products. Other items in their diet included vegetables, fruits, butter without the whey (which contains the protein), jam, water and coffee.

In spite of the restrictions, the men say they have not found the diet unpleasant. A typical evening meal included spaghetti with a sauce made of tomatoes and other vegetables, a cabbage salad, and a piece of apple pie. Fresh-baked, home-made bread or rolls made up a large part of every meal. Each man ate about one pound (roughly a full loaf) every day.

The only serious complaint has been that the meals are too filling, reports graduate student Carolyn Friedeman, who has been in charge of meal preparation.

Starting today the subjects will begin receiving animal products on a gradually increasing basis. On June 12 they are to get a complete steak dinner.

Championship Efforts In X-Country, Soccer

Sharkey Thinclad Stalwart

Maybe "you can't win them all" but don't tell the Spartan cross country team that.

After coping its 11th Big Ten championship in 14 tries last fall, State athletes are not likely to be persuaded of this fact.

Even on a greater scale the Spartans fared unusually well in '63. State scored 154 points in ICA competition to finish third and 174 points in the NCAA for fifth place.

On the dual meet level, however, the best the Spartans could manage was a 2-2 split.

Victories came over Wisconsin, 25-33 and Penn State, 20-40, while defeats were at the hands of Ohio University, 21-39, and Notre Dame, 19-40.

Sophomore Dick Sharkey earned his varsity "S" many times over with finishes of second in the Big Ten, third in the ICA and 10th in the NCAA.

Sharkey's time in the Big Ten for four miles was 19:43.

Behind the Spartan speedster was 10th place finisher Jan Bowen, with a time of 20:39, Eric Zemper in 11th with 20:44, Ron Berby 15th with 20:53, and Paul McCollam, 16th with 20:54.

The attempt of Willie Hartack and Northern Dancer to cop the triple crown was ruined Saturday as Quadrangle won in the Belmont Stakes, the third event in the "triple crown."

What could be more beautiful than 60-7-3 measurements? Well, in soccer, anyway.

Perhaps with the exception of St. Louis, no other collegiate team in the nation can match these figures which tell the success story of the young sport at Michigan State.

And certainly no other team in the Midwest Collegiate Soccer Conference can match the 9-0 slate which gave by Coach Gene Kenney's Spartans the league title.

What says even more for the Spartans is the fact that it was the effort of an almost all-rookie team which produced the results.

Though waiting until his senior year before trying his foot at soccer, basketball star Bill Schwarz had more than beginner's luck—he had a 14 goal, 11 assist scoring total to pace the team.

Also having banner rookie seasons were George Janes, second in scoring with 13 goals, 11 assists, and Payton Fuller, third with 11 goals and 8 assists.

Highlight of the '63 season was a victory over NCAA chapter, St. Louis in the final game of the regular season deciding the conference championship. It was the first decision over the Billikens by a Spartan team.

It will go down as a good year in Spartan sports annals with greatness just one step away.

In football, a determined, highly underrated Spartan team was to miss out on a Rose Bowl trip on the final day of the season when Illinois scored a 13-0 win at Spartan Stadium on Thanksgiving Day.

MSU fans cheered their athletes to fine performances in 13 sports during a year that saw the Spartan finish second in the unofficial overall Big Ten standings to Michigan.

Despite an excellent overall showing, the biggest prize of all, a conference title, was to be deprived all teams but Fran Dittich's cross country squad which won its 11th Big Ten crown in 14 seasons.

Another fall sport, soccer, was also to enjoy a championship, but it was not a strictly Big Ten affair. The kickers captured the Midwest Conference crown with a victory over NCAA champion St. Louis on the last day of the season.

Winter and spring athletes, too, were to enjoy big moments only to have the conference championship elude them.

Batsmen Set Win Record

A new coach, a cleaned-up ball park, 16 lettermen and hopes for a Big Ten title were all present at the opening of the 1964 Spartan baseball season.

Dan Litwhiler, State's first new diamond coach in 40 years, piloted the team to fourth place in the rugged Big Ten with an 8-7 record and 22-12 over-all.

Pennant fever was high when the Spartans rolled to a 5-1 Big Ten mark at mid-season. It seemed State would win its first championship since 1954.

But a three loss weekend away from home reduced the batsmen to the role of spoiler.

And spoilers they were, tripping Michigan 3-2 during the final week of action and splitting a twin bill with Ohio State on the last day of the season to eliminate both from the Big Ten championship struggle.

The Spartans closed out the season with back-to-back night games against Western Michigan. It was the first time in Michigan State baseball history that a game had been played under the lights.

The 22 wins tied the regular season record and the team also hit more home runs (27) than ever before.

Illini Blank Spartans, 13-0 To Earn Rose Bowl Berth

"Nobody expects much of us but ourselves," Coach Duffy Daugherty said a few days prior to the opening of the 1963 season, and in the next nine weeks the Spartans showed the football world exactly what he meant.

Doomed to a mediocre year in the pre-season polls, the Green and White hustled to victory after victory, and it wasn't until the last day of the season that the Spartans were eliminated from a trip to the Rose Bowl.

Close to 76,000 fans gave up their Thanksgiving Day dinners to watch MSU battle Illinois in a showdown for the Big Ten title. The Spartans lost 13-0, but the defeat did little to dim the memories of previous Saturday afternoons during the fall.

MSU finished the season with a 6-2-1 record, a tie for second place in the conference standings, and the distinction of having been led by an All-American halfback.

The feats of Sherman Lewis became more amazing week after week as the 5-9" Louisville senior helped destroy some of the finest college teams. Lewis executed five runs of 80 yards or more during the season, and his election to most All-American teams surprised no one.

Though the Spartans were denied the biggest prize of all on the last day of the season, they didn't deny MSU fans the thrills and excitement.

A Gent Named Gent Sparks Hoop Squad

Football was in the air when basketball Coach Fordy Anderson and 18 cage hopefuls began work to improve on last season's ninth place Big Ten finish.

Few thought they would. But the determined Spartans, ended up fourth in the conference with an 8-6 mark, were 14-10 overall, and became the third highest scoring team in the nation.

State opened the season with a new all-time (but soon to be broken) high of 109 points and got off to their fastest start in years. Five wins came before the Spartans were finally beaten and the cagers had the somewhat new experience of being ranked nationally.

MSU dropped the season's conference opener but came back strong in Jenison Field House to dump Wisconsin and Indiana.

A disastrous mid-season road trip, after the Spartans had surprised champion Ohio State 102-99 in Jenison, dropped the cagers to a 3-6 mark and the doubters-turned-believers became doubters again.

But State rebounded with five straight conference victories, in-Winning championships is one thing. Repeating them, another. That's what Spartan Fencers learned at the Big Ten meet at Illinois this winter.

Seeking to defend the Big Ten crown it took from the Illini the year before, State met with disappointment. They wound up settling for a second-place tie with Iowa as Illinois swept the affair.

The showing was good enough however, to rate tops among winter sports.

Bryan Kutchins, a foil fencer who turned to epee for the first time in his career one week before the Big Ten, took second in that weapon.

Defending sabre champion Lou Salamone, Spartan captain, fell to fourth position.

Other scorers included Mark Haskell, fifth in sabre, Lew Leonard fourth in foil, Nels Marin, fifth in foil, and John Lewis, sixth in epee.

State's dual meet mark was 7-3, including a forfeit to Wisconsin because of ineligible players.

Swim Future Bright As Sophs Sparkle

It's difficult to look back on the 1964 swim season because most Spartan fans spent their time looking toward the future. MSU has had a long tradition of winning swim teams, and the 1964 season was no exception.

Youth was the key word during a year that saw MSU fans watch numerous pool and varsity records fall with one eye while casting a sparkling glance at the future with the other.

The Green and White went through the conference schedule with a setback against Michigan and a heartbreaking loss to Minnesota providing the only blemishes.

At the conference meet at Minneapolis, Coach Charles McCaffree's crew placed fifth in team standings but walked off with a Big Ten championship in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Sophomores Darryle Kifer, Jim MacMillan, and Bob Sherwood, and junior Dick Gretziner formed the victorious relay squad that will be able to defend its crown with the same team next year.

The team's top honor of most valuable swimmer went to Detroit sophomore Jim MacMillan who splashed to victory and record-setting performances meet after meet in freestyle events.

Besides a large carryover of sophomores and juniors for next year's team, the Spartans can count on the help of this season's freshman squad.

Ed Glick, Huntington Ind., sophomore, gave an indication that he'll be strong in the distances next season when he won a marathon swim at the Barbados Islands earlier in the spring.

JUST THE BEGINNING--Spartan swimmers dived into Big Ten competition with a 79-26 victory over the University of Iowa and proceeded to tally five wins against two losses. The Spartans placed fifth in the Big Ten meet at Minneapolis. Photo by George Junne

Linksmen Repeat '63 Showing

Despite early optimism, Spartan golfers could do no better than repeat last year's seventh place finish in the Big Ten.

Early season hopes rested with Phil Marston and Bob Meyer. Both did well enough, although Marston experienced a late season slump. But consistent support seemed to be lacking. State's best showing was on its home course when it topped a five-team field and finished the day with a 3-1 dual mark.

On a dual meet basis, the Green and White finished with an overall mark of 7-12, 6-8 in the conference.

It was a distinct disappointment for Coach John Brotzmann, who felt that his team could have a better showing with the return of several lettermen and the arrival of some good sophomores.

'S' Wrestlers Grapple With Inexperience

The Michigan State wrestling team, riddled by injuries throughout the season, could do no better than 5-5-1 for the year and finish last in the conference.

With most of his top grapplers gone, either through injury or withdrawal, Coach Grady Peninger used relatively untried men and felt the effects.

Heavyweight Homer McClure was the only representative of first-line caliber on the team, although the rest of the team performed quite capably. Next year should see the results of experience and a better showing should be in order.

McClure was State's leading scorer during the season, finishing with an undefeated mark of 6-0-5.

Seven Tracksters Finish Fifth In Central Meet

The Spartans entered only seven men in the Central Collegiate Conference track meet at Notre Dame, but they were still able to tally 19 1/2 points for a fifth-place team finish. Jim Garrett led the way with second-place showings in the broad jump and hop-step-jump. He placed second in the broad jump with a leap of 23-7 compared to a 24-2 1/2 effort by defending champion Dennis Holland of Western Michigan.

The 880 trio of Ron Horning, Mike Martens, and Bob Fulcher placed third, fourth, and fifth in their event with Dave Mutchler finishing third in the shot put.

Eric Zemper came in fourth in the 2-mile run with Fred McKay tying for fifth position in the high jump.

Defending champion Notre Dame retained the team title by copping 35 1/2 points.

The meet was the last one for the Spartans before the NCAA at Eugene, Ore., on June 18.

Swinging Season For State Netmen

It was another successful season for Coach Stan Drobac's tennis team with the biggest campus net news of the year still to come.

The Spartan squad finished the season with a 14-6 mark, but four MSU players still have one more meet remaining. The meet will be the NCAA tournament that will be held at MSU starting next Monday.

Tom Jamieson, Tony O'Donnell, Dwight Shelton, and Charlie Wolff will represent MSU in the meet after consistently proving themselves to be the top four players on the Spartan squad.

MSU placed fourth in the Big Ten meet behind Indiana, Northwestern, and Michigan, the only teams to defeat the Green and White during the regular conference season.

Drobac called this year's crop of conference performers the best he's seen since he began coaching the Spartans, but the Green and White fared well against the competition.

The Spartans received an early indication that the season would be a success when they highlighted their spring tour of the South with a repeat victory in the Cherry Blossom tournament at Washington, D.C.

Jamieson, O'Donnell, Shelton, Wolff, and Dave Click had good years, but the MSU cause was also bolstered by sophomore surprises Laird Warner and Mike Youngs who showed that they can be counted upon for points in the next two years.

Curzi Key Gym Discovery

"He flies through the air with the greatest of ease..."

That's what they were saying about sophomore gym sensation Jim Curzi. That is, they were saying it until after the horizontal event in the opening meet of the season.

In the time it would take you to gasp with surprise, Curzi made a costly slip which resulted in a shoulder dislocation and separation.

All hope was lost of having Curzi back in time for the Big Tens. Or so they thought.

But Curzi made a startling recovery and returned before returned before season's length to capture the all-around championship in the Big Ten meet.

Spurred by his return, State took third with 93 points.

The University of Michigan, which was only able to manage a tie with State in a dual meet encounter, ran away with conference title with 131 points. Iowa was second with 112.

State's dual meet record was 5-3-1 with victories over Wisconsin, Ohio State, Navy Pier, the University of Illinois and Indiana.

In the NCAA tournament, the Spartans totaled 23 1/2 points for an eighth place finish. Southern Illinois was the winner with 84 1/2.

Pucksters Slip On Ice

In Innsbruck, Austria it was a winter of disappointment for the United States' Olympic Hockey team.

And in East Lansing, it was much the same for the Spartan ice squad.

Coach Amo Bessone would like no better than to forget a 1-12-1 Western Collegiate Hockey Conference record and an 9-17-1 overall mark.

State's only league win and tie came by Colorado College.

Though the Spartans will be losing the services of all-American defenseman Carl Lackey and high scorer Mac Orme among others, Coach Bessone is looking for brighter days ahead.

A trio of Copper Cliff, Ontario, skaters, Tom Kikkola, Mike Jacobson and Bryan McAndrew, give next year's picture a glossy coat.

Next Year Crucial To AUSG

CSO Lauds IM Softball

To the Editor:
It is our desire to send a few complimentary words to the men's intramural department at Michigan State.
During the past softball season, while working under often times restrictive circumstances (weather, scheduling conflicts, and the usual complaints), Larry Sierra and his assistants have arrived at a reasonably excellent intramural sports program for men.

We have always found the entire staff to be courteous and eager to help. We feel confident the future will see a continuation of the effort put forth by interested parties.
Thanks again.
The CSO Softball Team

Weight Lifted

Snyder Hall, which recently became the first men's dormitory to provide weightlifting facilities for its residents, is now beginning to take a dim view on the sport.
Fact is, they now view it as a crime.
The change in outlook came about when a 25 pound weight was "lifted" last week.

Trackmen Notch 5th In South Bend Meet

There were no team titles for the Spartan track squad during 1964, but some fine individual performances gave MSU fans good reason to consider the season a success.

The Green and White placed third in the conference indoor meet and fourth in the outdoor event against a strong Big Ten field.

Jim Garrett in the broad jump, Mike Martens in the 1000-yard run, and Bob Moreland in the 60-yard dash brought home coveted first-place finishes from the indoor meet to highlight the Spartan showing.

MSU was deprived of victories in the Big Ten outdoor affair, but Garrett, Martens in the 880, and Ron Horning in the 660 each posted second-place finishes.

Martens and Garrett each placed third in their specialties at Villanova to give the Spartan delegation 15th place in team scoring.

At Notre Dame, MSU finished fifth with 19 1/2 points with Garrett's second-place showings in the broad jump and hop-step-and-jump leading the way.

Tennis Tickets Still Available

Tickets are still on sale at Jensen Fieldhouse for the NCAA tennis meet which will begin a week from today at MSU.

Some of the finest tennis players in the nation will appear in a meet that promises to be one of the best in the history of the event.

Admission will be free for Monday's action, but students will be charged 50 cents and adults $1 for Tuesday through Thursday action.

Friday's semifinal duets will sell for $1 for students and $1.50 for adults with prices rising 50 cents for Saturday's finals.

Students may purchase a ticket for the entire series for $3, and adults may do the same for $5.

Lockers

All Students with lockers in the men's intramural building must turn in lockers today. Any property left in the lockers will be considered abandoned.

WIM Closes

The women's intramural building will close for the summer today at noon. It will reopen fall term.

Students will be able to use the recreational facilities of the men's building during the summer.

All -University Student Government has done a good job this term, but let's wait and see what it does next year.

That seems to be the reaction of most students toward the present AUSG administration. But, from all indications AUSG President Bob Harris has every intention of working hard to improve the position of student government at MSU.

One of the biggest things he said must be done is getting to incoming freshmen and transfer students and telling them about student government before they have a chance to become exposed to the disease known as "student apathy."

Harris, Bryan, Ohio, junior, has several methods he hopes to use to prevent student apathy among this group.

He said he will be a resident assistant at the summer counseling clinics and will thereby have an excellent opportunity to talk to freshmen and transfer and inform them of the services which AUSG provides. He also hopes to interest some of the more qualified new students to become active in AUSG.

The Welcome Week booklet that is sent to new students will also contain a section on AUSG. The booklet is put out by the Counseling Center and the AUSG Organizations Bureau, Chuck Stoddard, Chicago, Ill., freshman is in charge of orientation for the Organizations Bureau.

man is in charge of orientation for the Organizations Bureau.

Harris said a booklet on AUSG will be sent to freshmen and transfer students during the first week of school next fall. This will explain in more detail the workings and services of AUSG, and will also contain sections devoted to other major governing groups, such as Men's Halls Association, Union Board, and class governments.

In addition a newsletter explaining AUSG will be sent out shortly after the beginning of fall term.

Another area about which Harris has expressed concern is the fall congressional elections. He has indicated that he wants to try to get responsible people into student congress and is willing to actively support those who show that they are responsible.

In speaking of this year's congress, Harris said he thought it had changed in its attitude toward what approach should be taken and that it began to realize that "trying to assume authority where it had none not only gets them nowhere but prevents them from gaining any authority."

The fall elections will be held Oct. 13 with petitioning beginning on the first Monday of classes. "Quite a bit of time will be spent encouraging high-caliber people to work in congress," Harris said.

will do much of its work during the summer.

Committee members will interview students and officials from other universities and will do much corresponding in order to get as many ideas as possible. The committee will also play a part in the pre-school leadership workshops next fall. At this time the committee will present ideas and materials to the students who will be next year's campus leaders.

Harris said he was "very optimistic about the future of AUSG" and that he was beginning to think "we can achieve things I never even hoped for while I was campaigning."

"If students continue to realize that student government is not just a small group of people in the Student Services Building but consists of the entire student body and that it takes their interest and support, we can achieve many goals we are desirous of," he said.

Student Traffic Appeals Court and All-University Student Judiciary have already filled their memberships and will be ready to function fall term, he said.

Most of these things will happen next fall, but AUSG will not be entirely idle during the summer. The re-evaluation committee, which is seeking to investigate various forms of student government with the hope of coming up with a plan which would make AUSG as effective and representative as possible,

11 Seniors' Memories Of 4 Years, 4 Points

Editor's Note: The following students are the academically highest of the graduating seniors in each of the 10 colleges. Madelon Miller of Flint was the recipient of the highest average in agriculture with a 3.55 grade point in floriculture.

has been sorority scholastic chairman and has been on the AWS sorority complex. She was vice president of the German Club and received an outstanding senior award from the German department.

reading, studying and traveling, and plans to teach in college. Of the four times she has received a 4.0 grade reports, Miss Fink said the first time was in her freshman year. "I was mildly surprised," she said, "I had always received 4.0 in high school, but I didn't expect to do it in college."

The third member of the college's trio of top grads, Hill is also graduating next week as a Distinguished Military Student from Army ROTC.

He described himself as not very concerned with extra-curricular activities. He has been a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary, and Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary.

Hill feels that students who worry about high averages are "too concerned about grades." He said, "It shows that one has been working too much for one thing and not enough for another."

He said he feels he has missed an important part of college by not taking part in more activities, and if he were a graduate school admissions officer, he said, he would be hesitant to accept a student who had concentrated very heavily on grades to the omission of other things.

Graduate schools which have not been hesitant about accepting Hill with his high average are Johns Hopkins University and the University of Michigan. He will major in classics at one of these schools next year, and plans eventually to teach, probably Greek and Latin, he said.

Business

The outstanding senior from the College of Business is William H. Laitinen, graduating with a 3.89 average.

William H. Laitinen

He is the winner of a Harvard Law School fellowship. The Orchard Lake student has been active throughout his academic career in MSU affairs.

Serving as a resident advisor at Wilson Hall for a year and a term he was also a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshmen men's honorary. He was AUSG representative for one term.

Laitinen won distinction with his work during a winter accounting internship with Haskins and Sells of Detroit. While there he was awarded that firm's outstanding student accounting award.

He has held memberships in Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, Omicron Delta Kappa, junior and senior men's honorary, Beta Gamma Sigma business honorary, and was treasurer of Beta Alpha Psi accounting honorary.

The girl who won the hearts of all America in 1960 has proved that beauty and brains do mix. Nancy Ann Fleming Johnson will be graduated June 14 with the highest grade-point average in the College of Communication Arts.

Mrs. Johnson was able to maintain a 3.74 average despite an unusual college life.

Her reign as Miss America caused Mrs. Johnson to enter college a year late, but with heavy credit loads and summer school she was able to make up the year and graduate on schedule.

Her first year on campus was hectic as she was still under the Miss America Pageant committee and had to make many appearances around the country.

At the end of her freshman year, however, she was initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's scholastic honorary, and Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary.

In March 1963, the Michigan miss who vowed to "go home and be just me again" became a mis-sus. Her husband, William F. Johnson, formerly of Okemos, is now a graduate student in the University of California, at Berkeley, Law School.

To climax a hectic college life, Mrs. Johnson completed her undergraduate work at Michigan State through correspondence courses from California.

Education

A transfer student with a wide variety of activities and hobbies has managed to earn the highest average in the College of Education among graduating seniors.

Jill Viemeister, Huntington, N. Y., elementary education major, is graduating with a 3.85 average. She spent her first two years of college in Principia College, Elmhurst, Ill.

She is a member of the local Christian Science Organization, having served on the lecture committee this term, and has been in the International Club and the Campus U.N.

Miss Viemeister has student taught in Pontiac, and will be teaching elementary school in Charlottesville, Va., after graduation.

Her hobbies include horseback riding, sewing, knitting, traveling, art and music.

She plans to earn a masters degree after teaching for awhile.

Jill E. Viemeister

Engineering

Herman C. Feikema, Rockford, Ill., is the College of Engineering's top graduate, finishing with a 3.93 all-University average.

He is an electrical engineering major, and will return to MSU in the fall to work on a masters degree. He is the winner of a National Science Foundation grant which will enable him to work for IBM Development Laboratory in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., this summer.

Feikema has been a member of the Engineering Council, Pi Kappa Phi fraternity, Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honorary, and Eta Kappa Nu, national electrical engineering honorary.

Feikema plans to work in the field of research and development.

Home Economics

A 3.94 over-all average makes Phyllis A. Messick, Albion, the highest-ranking graduate in the College of Home Economics.

She is an Honors College student and a member of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary. Miss Messick plans to be married June 20.

She is presently student teaching in Albion, and after marriage and graduation will teach either kindergarten or first grade in the Cincinnati area.

Phyllis A. Messick

ing in Albion, and after marriage and graduation will teach either kindergarten or first grade in the Cincinnati area.

She may go on for a masters degree in special education.

Social Science

Graduating with a grade-point average of 3.82 and top senior in the College of Social Science is Linda S. Fleibing, social science major, Traverse City.

Miss Fleibing is a member of Delta Gamma sorority, Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, Phi Gamma Mu, social science honorary, Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, and Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary. She is historian - editor for

Lindo S. Fleibing

Mortar Board and a member of Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary.

Miss Fleibing was recently awarded the Outstanding Greek Scholarship Award for the student with the highest average in the Greek system.

Miss Fleibing, who received her first 4.0 as a first-term freshman, has received an all-A grade report seven times.

"I was very surprised when I got my first 4.0," she said. "I heard college was so hard, and I came here with the idea that everyone worked like the devil and came out with a 2.0. I sure was happy that it didn't work out that way."

Miss Fleibing plans to work for a year before beginning her graduate studies at either the University of Chicago or an eastern school.

Natural Science

Just one B grade has marred the perfect average of the University's highest-ranking graduate this term, and it was "worth it."

Carolyn MacDougall, Flint chemistry major, is graduating with a 3.98 all-University average. The only B on her record was in a music course which, she said, taught her to change her views toward music and really appreciate classical music.

She said studying Beethoven and fundamentals of reading music changed her attitude toward music. In addition to appreciating classical music, Miss MacDougall spends her spare time skating.

Miss MacDougall has earned 12 4.0 grade reports in her four years. She is a member of The Honors College.

Following graduation, she will work at a summer job at the Los Alamos, New Mexico, national laboratory, working in the metal lab.

She plans to do graduate study at the University of Illinois and expects to earn a Ph.D. within three years.

Veterinary Medicine

Topping the College of Veterinary Medicine is Mrs. Ethelbert (Martha) Thomas, housewife, student, and mother of two.

A medical technology major, Mrs. Thomas has a grade point average of 3.9. She said out of the five terms that she has been a full time student, she has earned a 4.0 four times.

Mrs. Thomas is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, and the American Society of Medical Technicians and recently won the Runnells Award.

The Runnells Award which is given annually is to one outstanding MSU student for scholarship in pathology.

Mrs. Thomas, who begins her internship at Sparrow Hospital this month, said she has thought about returning to graduate school after serving her internship. "However, I can't face the idea right now," she said, "it's too close to finals time."

Home Economics

With seven four-points behind her, Carolyn A. Kiebler will be graduated June 14 as one of the top five scholastically graduating seniors in the University.

Miss Kiebler is a general textiles and clothing major in the College of Home Economics.

While working to maintain her 3.9 grade point average she has also found time for outside activities.

She has been a member of Honors College; Alpha Lambda-Delta, freshman women's scholastic honorary; Omicron Nu, home economics honorary; and the Retailing Club. She also served as publicity chairman for the Home Economics Council.

After graduation, Miss Kiebler will enter Kansas State University to work on her masters degree in the social economics of clothing.

When her education is completed, she hopes to become a college instructor.

Receives Grant

J. Murray Barbour, professor of music, has received a travel grant from the Council of Learned Societies to attend the Ninth Congress of the International Musicological Society, which takes place at the Mozarteum, in Salzburg, Austria, August 30 through September 4. He will participate in a round table entitled "The Relations Between Opera, Oratorio and Instrumental Music in the Baroque Era." His contribution will be taken from the second chapter, "Clarino Style," of his book, Trumpets, Horns and Music, just published by the MSU Press.

Arts & Letters

The combination of English and German has been the key to success for two of the three top graduates in the College of Arts and Letters.

M. Carol Christian, Vicksburg German major with an English minor, and Joanna C. Fink, Midland English major with a German minor, are tied with Christopher Hill, Lansing English major, for top honors in the college. All three have a 3.79 over-all average.

Miss Christian is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, Tau Sigma, science and arts honorary, and Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary. She

Joanna C. Fink

Her hobbies include reading, tennis and dancing. She has received four all-A grade reports in her college career.

Miss Christian will enter graduate school at Northwestern University in the fall, and eventually plans to teach at the college level.

Miss Fink, sharing top arts and letters honors, is a member of Delta Phi Alpha, German honorary, Tau Sigma, science and arts honorary, Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, and the German Club.

She was recently awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for graduate study, and will attend Columbia University in the fall.

Woodrow Wilson awards are presented to about 1,000 students in the nation each year.

Miss Fink said she enjoyed

JERRY LEWIS SAYS...

"Group, do you realize everytime you put your best foot forward there's a leg attached to it? And is that leg covered with some old gunny sack cloth? Dress up, gov! Good looks are an asset."

We agree, Jerry, good looks are an asset. And when good looking slacks can be bought for $4.50 to $8.95, there are hardly any reasons left for not being sharp. A-1 slacks are made in 7 styles and all the latest fabrics. Ask for A-1's by name at your favorite store or campus shop.

Shingleton Goes To Goodyear

John D. Shingleton, placement director, will learn firsthand the career opportunities The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company has to offer college graduates this week.

He will be a guest of the company at its annual College Placement Directors' Forum which will be held June 9-11 at the rubber firm's Akron headquarters.

The purpose of the forum is to acquaint placement directors with the company's organizational setup, products, manufacturing facilities, distribution program, training methods and personnel policies.

Finals Still Unpopular

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party. But finals are near and no one can help you pass that day, that hour, that obstacle course but YOU.

Besides, a party won't help. It will only divert your attention and serve to confuse the issue.

It can be safely said that finals are a trial to all college students all over the world. They tax your brain, your memory and your health. Sometimes they become a self-defeating marathon race for time. Many times they serve only to test your wily ways as you eenie, meenie, minie, mo.

How valid is the final examination with respect to what the student has actually learned? Which is a better test of the student's knowledge - essay or objective? Can students who have "goofed around" all term still make a more healthy grade by cramming at the last minute than students who have studied all along?

These are eternal questions which are indeed significant which crop up toward the end of every term but are immediately forgotten, along with much course material.

A survey made by the State News revealed that the opinion of the validity and the method used to study were often related to the all college grade point. "I definitely don't think finals are a valid means of judging a student's knowledge of a course," Sharon Lee Jackson, Birmingham sophomore said. Too many things might affect the student's performance on that all-important exam. One test shouldn't count that much.

NO FINAL EXAMINATION MAY BE GIVEN AT ANY TIME OTHER THAN THE REGULARLY SCHEDULED TIME EXCEPT BY FACULTY ACTION.

Miss Jackson generally prefers an essay exam to an objective saying she feels an essay may be a more real test of knowledge.

"I never cram," Miss Jackson, who has over a 3.0, said. "That only makes me too tired to solve it."

Wayne J. Devries, Grand Rapids sophomore who has over a 2.5 all-college, feels that final exams are "just a bunch of baloney."

Devries thinks there is too much emphasis on them. He says he prefers an objective type test as it enables the student to relate to other knowledge and choose the answer. An essay may present a question that the student has no knowledge of, and he is put to a great disadvantage, he said.

"I object to having Monday classes just before finals begin," he said. "Some professors throw an hourly at you that day which shoots the week-end."

Suzan E. Kreis, a Birmingham senior with over a 2.5, feels there is too much sudden pressure on the student for him to be able to do well.

"It is like a psychological upset carried all through final week. If you flub up on the final, the professor may figure that you haven't studied all term, when in reality you have."

Miss Kreis prefers an objective test if during the course the professor has given an essay to test your writing ability. An objective is easier, she says, and there is less likelihood of panic.

Miss Kreis combines her final study habits which seem to characterize the good student last-minute fear.

"I study all along and cram at the last minute," she said. Larry Roth, a St. Joseph junior who has over a 3.0, labels finals "a necessary evil."

way to test your knowledge," he said. "The amount of good the final exam does is highly questionable. A lot of kids can raise a poor grade by cramming."

Roth seriously disagrees with the basic finals saying that it does nothing but segregate the good guesser from the bad.

"They are nothing but multiple guesses and the professor knows it. Some of them even tell you that there are questions they don't expect you to know."

He prefers to take an objective test because they are easier, he says, but they are not a fair test of knowledge.

"I think the trouble with an objective is many times in the scoring. The right minus wrong method confines the guessing but is unfair to the student. Every wrong answer cancels out a right one."

Roth admits that he does quite a bit of cramming at the last minute because he is unable to complete all the work assigned.

Larry Knapp, a Breckenridge junior with over a 3.0, says he crams for finals but doesn't long retain any of the material.

"You can study all term and really think you know something and then discover you are flunking. On the other hand, a student who hasn't studied all term may pass with flying colors by cramming. But I can't complain. Finals always saved me," Knapp admitted.

He doesn't like essay tests because "I always freeze on them. But my roommate is just the opposite. He panics with an objective. 'Although I don't see any other..."

Flags Of All Nations To Fly At Ceremony

This commencement will mark the 10th year that MSU has displayed the flags of members of the United Nations at its spring ceremony. The tradition started in 1954 when flags of every member nation of the United Nations were placed on display in alphabetical order at the rear of the speakers platform.

"This year the flags will be flown for those United Nations members with students attending Michigan State," said Walter F. Swartz, assistant to the registrar.

Some 82 flags from foreign nations will be displayed with the blue and white United Nations Flag in the center, he said. Flags from Kenya and Malaysia are the latest additions to the list.

"The flying of these national flags is symbolic of this University's involvement in world affairs," he added.

A special page of the commencement program lists this year's flags as they will be arranged at the ceremony.

C. DAVID MEAD

Mead Heads Manila Seminar

C. David Mead, professor and chairman of the department of English, has been named Distinguished American Lecturer by the University of the Philippines.

Mead has been a member of the MSU English faculty since 1948. He was appointed chairman of the department in 1959.

He will direct a special four-week seminar in American Studies at the Manila University in July and will lecture on American literature.

A graduate of Ohio State University (B.S., M.A., Ph.D.), Mead has written extensively on American culture. He is the author of "Yankee Eloquence in the Middle West" and coauthor of the "Prentice-Hall Handbook for Writers."

The international seminar will be held under the auspices of the Fulbright-sponsored U. S. Educational Foundation in the Philippines. Participants will include both Asian and American faculty members.

He served as English consultant and chief of the MSU mission to the University of the Ryukyus in Okinawa from 1955-1957.

$1 Million A Year For Suntan Oil . . .

What If Tan Is Permanent?

Editor's Note: Benjamin R. Hickok, professor in American Thought and Language, submitted the following article as a "point of view."

Walking past campus sunbathers, I'm reminded that white Americans spend over $1 million a year on suntan oil.

Obviously, the suntan is one of our status symbols--temporary tans, that is. We crucify people whose tans are permanent. I think it is time for us temporary tanners to ask ourselves some major questions, make some decisions and stand up and be counted.

Question 1: Am I a pillar of the Church? If so, of what kind--stone or styrofoam?

I remember when, as a boy in upstate New York, our city was visited by Negro singers and lecturers. No hotel in town would take them in, and my mother frequently entertained them. My aunt would say, "How can you do it?" My mother would reply, "Either I offer them our home or I leave the Church!"

Question 2: Do I revere the Declaration of Independence--the document which declares: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal." If I hold the Declaration dear, how can I deny a Negro the liberty of living in the house next door?

Question 3: Do I uphold the Constitution of the United States and the new Constitution of Michigan?

The 14th Amendment declares: "No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

The Michigan Attorney General has ruled that the state Civil Rights Commission, under Michigan's Constitution will have authority "to enforce civil rights to purchase, mortgage, lease or rent private housing."

How ironical it is that those who work to uphold both federal and state Constitutions in these matters are so often referred to as "radicals"!

Question 4: Do I "know" that property values will go down if Negroes move into my neighborhood?

The realtors have been parroting this idea so long they apparently think it's true. Let them read "Property Values and Race" by Dr. Luigi Laurenti, a professor of economics at the University of California.

Question 5: But what if I don't like Negroes?

The person who asks this would question my sanity if I were to say, "But what if I don't like whites?" Negroes ask only to be treated as individual human beings.

If they were, we and our children would live in a new, more sane and sensible world.

It presents the results of research in Philadelphia, San Francisco, Oakland, Chicago, Kansas City, Santa Fe, Detroit and Portland, Oregon. It shows that white home-owners can force property values down if they work at it with sufficient panic, but that "during the time period and for the cases studied, the entry of non-whites into previously all-white neighborhoods was much more often associated with price improvement or stability than with price weakening . . ."
