

Barry, LBJ Go To It; Campaign Gets Hotter

From Our Wire Services

Sen. Barry Goldwater hammered hard Wednesday for morality in government and law and order in the streets, pledging personal leadership in a war on crime.

Meanwhile, President Johnson was telling a nationwide television audience that the foundations of peace are under attack in the American political campaign in a manner that could put the world "in grave danger."

Prosperity, he said, also is under attack from within.

The Republican presidential candidate stressed his twin themes as he stumped for votes in New Jersey, lashing out also at the growing concentration of power in Washington.

He rapped Johnson for slogans, saying: "We have heard of and seen many wars in the time of the present administration. But have we yet heard of the only needed war—the war against crime?"

"This I can pledge to you—that I will launch the attack."

The Arizona Senator said that if elected he would use "our power and influence to see that law enforcement officers, on the state and local level, get back the power they need to carry out their job."

Goldwater made no mention of rioting earlier this year in three New Jersey cities—Jersey City, Paterson and Elizabeth—in his speech prepared for delivery at the West Orange Armory near here.

He said law enforcement was strictly local and state responsibility, but there were three things he could do as President:

--Appoint judges to the Supreme Court qualified to carry out their judicial duties and to respect the Constitution.

--If the court decisions should remain unaltered, urge amendments to the Constitution.

--Urge Congress to consider changing some of the rules of judicial procedure in the federal courts.

In what he termed a turning point in the nation's history, Johnson said in his first nationwide television address of the campaign (CBS) that:

"We must decide whether we will move ahead by building on the solid structure created by forward looking men of both parties over the past 30 years."

"Or whether we will begin to tear down this structure and move in a radically different, and -- I believe -- a deeply dangerous direction."

The speech was taped in Washington yesterday for use while the President was hunting votes in the Midwest.

The prepared text carried obvious allusions to Goldwater, but no mention of the name.

Today, Johnson said that the whole approach to an array of economic policies that have fostered prosperity are under attack and "we are told that we, the people, acting through government should withdraw from education, from public power, from agriculture, from urban renewal, and from a host of other vital problems."

These views, he said, have been supported by a consistent record of opposition in Congress to every progressive proposal of both the Democratic and Republican parties.

"This," Johnson said, "is a radical departure from the historic and basic current of American thought and action. It would shudder the foundation on which our hopes for the future rest."

"Too many have worked too hard and too long to let this happen now."

Fuzak Appointed As Supervisor For Intramurals

By SUSAN J. FILSON
State News Staff Writer

Administrative responsibility for MSU's intramural athletic program has been transferred from Athletic Director Clarence L. Munn to the Office of Student Affairs headed by John A. Fuzak.

Supervision of the IM program is one of the duties allotted to Fuzak, vice-president for student affairs.

Munn will report to Fuzak on specifics concerning the IM program. Fuzak has the responsibility for overall coordination of the program and recommendations concerning its future.

Sole responsibility for intercollegiate athletics rests with Munn. In addition, Munn's office reports to the College of Education on the programs of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

"Without exaggerating, I can say that our IM program is the best in the nation," Munn emphasized.

Fuzak listed several reasons for the shift in administrative responsibility.

"I think this is in part a recognition of the fact that intramural athletics are a broad student activity," he said. "In addition, the job of administering every type of athletic program at this University is almost too big for one office."

Fuzak noted that the IM program has always been "separate and distinct" from intercollegiate competition, in spite of the heavy financial support which IM sports receive from intercollegiate athletics.

He added that the combined use of facilities and staff is also a link between the IM and intercollegiate programs.

Fuzak's job will probably include some responsibility for budget, selection of staff and recommendations for future development of the IM program.

Last year more than 13,000 students participated in the men's and women's IM programs. The IM program provides for league competition among students in dormitories and all off-campus living units.

Football, softball, bowling, paddleball, badminton, handball, fencing, gymnastics, archery, wrestling, table tennis, swimming, volleyball, hockey, squash, weightlifting and basketball are only a part of the huge program.

Fuzak said that he will raise many questions concerning the IM program as the University continues to expand.

"An important question is whether a centralized athletic facility can serve the needs of a campus which is rapidly becoming decentralized," he pointed out.

"Another concern is how to attract an even larger number of students."

Pooh-Poohs Protest At U of M

By LINDA MILLER
State News Staff Writer

University of Michigan Daily Editor H. Neil Berkson told the State News Wednesday that the "maximum 200" student demonstrators on the Ann Arbor campus Tuesday "have taken a very superficial look at University problems."

Berkson said that the news service release on the protests made a "sensational event out of something very small."

According to the wire story, at least 200 U-M students demonstrated Tuesday against overcrowded living facilities and a minimum wage of $1 per hour for student employees.

"The number 200 is a maximum," Berkson said. "I doubt if that many participated. Anyway, it started at lunchtime when students have little else to do."

The rally was sponsored by the Voice Political Party, which led nearly 100 students to the home of U-M President Harlan Hatcher, bearing placards demanding higher faculty salaries, better housing, a higher minimum wage and a University book store.

According to the story, Hatcher was not at home, but Mrs. Hatcher met with the students and said her husband would welcome a meeting with the students Wednesday.

"President Hatcher is holding an open house (Wednesday) for all students," Berkson said. "He is not meeting with one particular group."

Renowned Professor To Speak At Union

Pulitzer Prize winning MSU professor Russell B. Nye will speak on the controversial American For Democratic Action (ADA), tonight in the Union.

The speech, explaining the group's history and background, is sponsored by the University Volunteers for Johnson, a group of Republicans, Democrats and independents supporting the Johnson-Humphrey ticket.

The ADA has become a major campaign issue. Senator Barry Goldwater and Congressman William Miller have labeled it an "extremist" group, equating it with such organizations as the John Birch Society.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, was among the founders of the ADA and takes pride in belonging to the vigorously anti-Communist organization.

Russel Nye, who holds the rank of distinguished professor in the MSU English Department, is an internationally celebrated authority on American intellectual history.

Among his books are "George Bancroft: Brahmin Rebel" (1944), "Fettered Freedom" (1949), "Midwestern Progressive Politics" (1951), "Baker's Dozen" (1957), and "Cultural Life of the New Nation: 1776-1830" (1960).

Congress Reps Voting Today

Elections for All-University Student Government (AUSG) congress representatives will be held today in lunch and dinner lines in residence halls and in the Union, Berkeley Hall and the International Center.

Polls in the residence halls will close at 6:45 p.m. and polls in other campus centers will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. All ballot boxes must be in the Student Congress room by 7:30 p.m.

During registration week, the Student Employment Office's busiest week of the term, calls for employers with job openings averaged about 45 a day, Rand said.

The number of new job openings received daily has tapered off now to about 25 or 30.

Last year over 4,800 part-time jobs were filled through the Placement Bureau.

Information about available part-time and full-time jobs, including type of work, salary and hours, is posted on bulletin boards in the Student Employment Office, of the Placement Bureau.

The office is open from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Hart, Milliken Speak; Please Union Crowd

By WILLIAM R. PRITCHARD
And RICHARD JOHNSON

U.S. Sen. Phillip Hart, D-Mich., and State Sen. William Milliken, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, spoke about their parties' beliefs before student political groups in the Union Tuesday night.

Milliken told the Young Republicans Club the main issue in the state campaign this year is the Republican Party's record in the last two years of Gov. Romney's administration.

"The question is, was it a good program, in the interest of the people of the state?"

There are 150,000 more jobs than two years ago, he said.

"Michigan is now first in the United States in terms of the rate of personal income growth."

Turning to what he considered the more general role of the party, Milliken said:

"It is vital for the Republican party to live in the present while taking the best from the past. There is room within the party for the full range of the philosophical spectrum."

On the subject of the national ticket, Milliken said he would do the best he could in the state to promote the Republican cause and that this would help the Goldwater-Miller campaign on all levels in Michigan.

"As a party man I will support Sen. Goldwater."

Sen. Hart spoke briefly to more than 100 persons attending the first fall meeting of the Young Democrats.

He didn't make a hard-hitting political speech designed to draw all the sheep into the fold. Nor did he try to convince the audience that the Democrats had all the answers. But what the Senator did do, the crowd liked.

He spoke off the cuff and the audience liked what they heard.

They gave the senator a standing ovation at the conclusion of his remarks.

"In my youth," said the senator, "it was assumed that the future of the nation was successfully guaranteed. But this generation knows that success is not necessarily guaranteed."

Bill, Barry Would Aid U.S. Cuban

AUGUSTA, Ga. (P-R) Rep. William E. Miller said Wednesday that he and Sen. Barry Goldwater favored giving assistance to Cubans in exile so that they could take back the island from the Castro Regime.

The Republican vice presidential nominee took this stand in addressing a crowd of about 4,000 people gathered outside the Confederate Monument in the heart of downtown Augusta.

He headed immediately for Florida where he was to speak at a rally attended by veterans of the unsuccessful invasion of Cuba at the Bay of Pigs in 1961.

Miller keyed his Augusta speech to a full-page newspaper ad published by local Democrats challenging him and Goldwater

Trustee Takes Post

Paul Bagwell, MSU Board of Trustees member and president of K-S Funds, Inc., Detroit, was appointed by Gov. George Romney to serve a four-year term on the reorganized Michigan Higher Education Public Assistant Authority.

He is one of three of the 13 new members appointed to receive four-year terms.

Bagwell said Wednesday that the major responsibility of the Authority is to administer scholarships and loans, particularly under the half million dollars appropriated recently by the Michigan Legislature to the Department of Public Instruction.

Carnival Will Offer Job Variety

By JOAN SOLOMON
Student Services Writer

Some 82 industries, businesses, government agencies and educational fields will be represented at "Horizons '64," MSU's sixteenth Career Carnival, Oct. 12-13.

The event is sponsored annually by the Placement Bureau. Over 250 representatives will be on hand to informally discuss with students career opportunities and job outlooks in various fields.

They will also offer advice concerning choice of major and selection of courses.

Industrial representatives will include such giants as Ford, Chrysler and General Motors Corp., Standard Oil and Reynolds Metals Co., J.L. Hudson, IBM and Pan American World Airways will be among businesses represented.

Governmental agencies will include the U.S. Air Force, Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard, Civil Service Commission and Public Health Service.

"This will be the biggest and best Career Carnival yet," said Ed Fitzpatrick, assistant director of the Placement Bureau and Career Carnival adviser.

Last year over 11,000 students visited the Carnival, at which some 73 companies and agencies were represented.

The Carnival will be held on the first and second floors of the Union, where displays will be set up.

Displays will be open from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Oct. 12 and from 10 to 11:30 a.m., 1:15 to 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 to 10 p.m. Oct. 13.

A banquet honoring all representatives will be held from 5:30 to 7:15 p.m. in Kellogg Center.

Carnival committee members have been working since last January planning and organizing the event, Fitzpatrick said.

General committee chairman is Pete Wade, Birmingham senior. Other chairmen are John McQuitty, East Lansing junior; Paul Kinney, Huntington Woods junior, staging and Barb Scheuneman, Grand Rapids senior, banquet.

Also Sally Dusseau, East Lansing senior, theme; and Pat Taggart, Birmingham junior, art.

Cynthia Cuthbertson, East Lansing senior, is executive secretary.

Career Carnival has received national recognition as one of the largest activities offering vocational information on a college campus, Fitzpatrick said.

Many representatives who attended the first Carnival in 1949 have been back each year, he added.

Companies, industries and agencies must be invited to attend Career Carnival.

N.Y. Police Arrest Dozens Of Mothers; Sit-In Broken

NEW YORK (P)—Police battled a near-riotous mass of demonstrators Wednesday to arrest dozens of white mothers and break up a three-day sit-in in a newly integrated Queens Elementary School.

In the melee outside P.S. 149 in Jackson Heights, at least two women fell to the ground. Children wept and screamed and one tot being forced into the school building by his mother wailed:

"I don't want to go."

The sit-in began Monday in protest against the forced transfer of white first and second graders away from P.S. 149 to make way for Negro youngsters from another neighborhood.

Eventually, with 65 white adults under arrest, order was restored by 50 policemen and 15 policewomen. More than 60 school children aged 5 and 6, plus a score of younger tots went into court with the mothers.

Some of the mothers sang "God Bless America" as they were taken to court.

In the courtroom, babies were fed from bottles while women were paraded before the bench.

Rally Tomorrow

"Beat-UM" is the theme of a pep rally sponsored by Spartan Spirit, to be held Friday night at 7 p.m. at the IM field. Louie Bender, "Ugliest Greek on Campus", will be master of ceremonies, and head coach Duffy Daugherty will "kill" a helium-filled Wolverine balloon as part of the rally.

in groups of five. Criminal Court Judge George Balback's repeated shouts of "quiet!" were all but drowned out by the squalling of babies and the disorder of older children.

Correction department officials fed peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and milk to the older children.

The sit-in and demonstration was sponsored by the parents and taxpayers organization, Frederick M. Reuss Jr., chairman of the group in Eastern Queens, declared:

"It's a dreadful sight when a courtroom in New York is filled with mothers with babes in arms. They are here simply because they are trying to protect their children from the ravages of the Board of Education."

AUSG Vote Important

Elections for All-University Student Government Congress will be held today, in dormitories and in three polling places for off-campus students. Although little time has been available for publicity of the election, there is no excuse for students not to show enough interest in student government to take the trouble to vote.

Donn Schimp, AUSG elections commissioner, said, "If you don't vote you don't have the right to criticize." Few students are likely to consider this when they begin their annual barrage of attacks on AUSG.

Many races in this election--Bailey, Van Hoosen and North Case among the dorms, eleven off-campus seats--are open to any write-in candidate who receives even one vote and then files a petition with Schimp by Friday evening. Every other race has at least one registered candidate running for Congress.

Regardless of whether a particular precinct has an announced candidate or a write-in race, there is every reason for each student to vote.

AUSG this year has shown signs that it intends to clean up some of the confusion and indirection which has hampered its work in the past.

A large turnout today will give the encouragement, and the full representation, which can make AUSG a body more representative of student opinion and more in a position to bargain the students' part in discussions with the administration.

Despite the limited publicity which has accompanied the petitioning and campaigning for Congress this fall, today's election marks a significant turning point in what could be a successful year for student government.

If you don't vote, you shouldn't criticize your government.

Period Of Adjustment

Two episodes in the continuing attempt of the South to adjust itself to the march of civil rights progress are filling newspaper front pages this week. They represent two aspects of the impact of the tremendous fervor behind the rights movements on the area in which it is most apparent that civil rights are being denied to some citizens.

The calm, legalistic aspect of the South's resistance to the strong federal system which has become the representative of the inevitable spread of guarantees of civil rights is shown by two cases now before the Supreme Court. In the first business of its new term, the court is expected to uphold the constitutionality of the new civil rights act in two cases involving an Atlanta motel and a Birmingham restaurant.

In both cases, in which federal district courts have handed down opposite decisions, the owners of the establishments have claimed that Congress overstepped its legal bounds in using interstate commerce provisions as justification for parts of the civil rights act passed this year. The court's expected decisions will be additional statements of the justices' faith in the expanded view of federal powers which has become the basis for much recent action in this area.

The interstate commerce consideration is primarily a device by which Congress provided for itself an excuse to act in an area in which it believed federal action was necessary.

This concept of the purposes of the federal government, one of the main points of debate in the presidential campaign, is only in part the cause of contention in this week's other developments.

What has been called the southern "way of life" is the real problem in the case of the arrest of a group of men charged with frequent bombings in McComb, Mississippi.

The circuit judge who ordered an inquiry by a grand jury into the bombings said that some things "foreign to our way of life as we have always known it" are occurring in his state. Judge W. H. Watkins, Jr. said that it is important for Mississippians to resist the temptation to react emotionally to these occurrences--presumably the introduction of federal controls of civil rights violations and the enthusiastic work of young volunteers.

But whether or not Southerners react emotionally to the stresses being put on them and on their way of life by increased federal action in the area of civil rights, it becomes increasingly obvious that the improved way of life of guaranteed freedoms for all citizens is coming to the south as well as to the north. The disagreements, both calm and violent, which are now making headlines are destined to fade as the reality of the civil rights legislation becomes more a part of all Americans' way of life.

Hasten 'Deliberate Speed' By Title V Of Rights Act

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a ten-part series dealing with aspects of the civil rights act of 1964. It was written by Jim Spaniol, Cassopolis freshman.

"(In our school decisions we) never contemplated that the concept of 'deliberate speed' would countenance indefinite delay."--Supreme Court in decision in 1963.

The idea held in the quotation above is the main reason why the authors of the civil rights law included title IV, desegregation of public education. This particular section of the law, though very disagreeable to most Southern Congressmen, managed to get through Congress with few if any weakening amendments.

The title begins with the definition of specific terms used in this section. One of the most significant is that of desegregation. It reads as follows: "Desegregation means the assignment of students to public schools and within such schools without regard to their race, color, religion, or national origin, but desegregation shall not mean the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance," as many people have been led to believe.

The commissioner of education is authorized to conduct a survey and make a report to the president and Congress, within two years after the enactment of the law, concerning the progress being made under the authority of this title. It also provides for technical assistance, grants and training institutes to help communities prepare for school desegregation.

The attorney general, as in title III, when he receives a complaint from a person or persons, whose claim is meritorious in the eyes of the Justice Department and the persons mentioned are unable to initiate or maintain appropriate legal proceedings, may intervene in their behalf.

He will also, after notifying the appropriate school and school board, and giving reasonable time to them to cope and correct their problem, will if the situation is not corrected, initiate a civil action in the appropriate district court.

Defendants who are taken to court under the authority of this title have the right to a jury trial, if they desire. The title also states that it in no way hinders an individual from filing his own legal action, and lastly states that it in no way prohibits the classification of students for reasons other than race, color, religion or national origin.

Opponents of this title say that this section is unnecessary because of the Supreme Court's decision in 1954. They also claim that this title extends the powers of the federal government and attorney general far beyond the limits set for them, which in turn will bring about more and more federal control. In addition the dissenters claim that the technical assistance and grants are little more than bribes to those who will comply, and that those who do not will be harshly punished.

Supporters and authors of the law believe that the progress made since the Court decision in 1954 has been much too slow. In the deep South today less than 2 per cent of all Negro students attend integrated schools. They say also that this title was not written to extend federal power but to insure that all students, regardless of their color or creed, receive equal education facilities. Finally they claim that by providing technical assistance, if desired, they are attempting to make desegregation of schools as smooth and profitable as possible.

As the whole country looks on at the proceedings in the South, most hope for the good of the entire nation and world that integration, as initiated under this law, will become as deeply entrenched in the way of life in the South, as segregation has been in the past. No one believes that the change will come over night, but the change must come.

Friday: Title V, commission on civil rights.

Advice From Romney

To the Editor:

I would like to remind the students at this school who are registered to vote in Michigan that they have until Saturday, October 31, to apply for their absentee ballots for the November 3 election.

This is a vitally important election for all of Michigan and it is our obligation as citizens of a free nation to cast our ballots for the candidates of our choice. Ours is still a government of the people; our votes are an expression of public opinion and therefore help to shape our community, state and nation.

I urge every student at this school who is qualified to vote in Michigan to obtain an absentee ballot before the October 31 deadline. All you need do is to write your township or city clerk and request an application for the absentee voter's ballot, complete it and return it to the same clerk by mail.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,
George Romney

Point Of View

Great Disparity Presents Threat

By Dave Stewart

An election campaign that was touted as America's real opportunity to pound out the issues looms now as merely a gathering rage of invective and accusations; a clash of bitter and simple scorn. Where the Greeks saw the profoundest discourse, where Jefferson saw the Republic's strength, we see only clamor, a clamor with an ugly ring.

One wonders whether it's indicative of a two-party system which cannot withstand such an extreme disparity. All common respect, all ground for deliberate debate has been wracked by slander and threat.

Loyalists on both sides must know a hate rare in American politics, as the campaign moves on with this growing chant of doom and disaster.

As never before, the election is bound to leave a large segment of the nation with utter contempt for whomever is present. No doubt this was in part foreseen by the nation's founders, men who never sought the two-party system to begin with.

Wars Waged Over Less

Battles and revolutions have been waged over less than the hate and fear current in this campaign. A two-party system was never meant to generate government out of such torn feeling.

Common sense would see the party setup as a clear process of effective consensus combined with a wide-ranging respect. But today there is no respect and what major consensus there is will remain two types of consensus, rigid and far apart.

At least enemies at war have their own territory, a haven for comfortably sustaining mutual conviction. But not so the forces of liberalism and conservatism in America. Here, come what may, we are all together; we cannot retire from the field of battle. And together we are bound to continue the cutting war of opinion, this state of furious and irritated conviction.

Unleashed Ignorance Threatens

While the charge and counter-charge is simply put, it ignores and distorts a reality that is never well known, even with the deepest desire. Yet it spurs emotion to heights, and unleashes without logic and knowledge, this can only threaten the nation. It is the sort of rhetoric that breeds radical and suddenly sweeping movements.

A situation like the present can only seem an irony in this nation so revolutionary in its faith in the individual's judgment in concern for his own country. Both sides seem to view each other as either lunatics or traitors--and it is not so much the timely wrought charge of political oratory, for it has an abiding sincerity.

No nation was ever meant to function on such ground. Debaters appreciate and respect, still retaining firm position, but this ranting sort of demagoguery leaves little room for any genuine or effective cooperation.

A democracy, we are taught, is a continuous discourse, a series of views, of change, of compromise, and through it all, progress. But today there isn't even a conversation, only the sullen bitterness that flows at political rallies where opposing placards meet, and where shoulder to shoulder one cheers and one boos.

Polarized On Social Lines

More so than ever, it seems the nation is being polarized along terribly clear social lines. The demarcation runs between the different races, the different religions and neighborhoods and wealth with haunting uniformity. Such division can only weaken the democracy; this is the sort of division Marxists predict and America could always to a large extent refute.

For we have always heard of the electorate as 'the people'. Are we now to know it so clearly as 'the liberals' over here, 'the conservatives' over there, then 'the Negroes', 'the suburbanites'? Worse yet, as those 'creeping socialists', the 'backlashers', the 'haters' and the 'soft'.

Is the electorate going to be a horde of those 'against'?

Alleged Bomber Arrested for Robbery

JACKSON, Miss. (P)—The FBI Wednesday arrested a 35-year-old McComb man, already charged in racial bombings, in charges of holding up the Lawrence County Bank at Monticello March 2.

Roy Moore, head of the FBI office here, said Sterling L. (Bubba) Gillis was picked up by FBI agents and highway patrolmen in the $40,000 robbery after officers found $1,800 in his possession when arrested on a bombing charge.

Gillis, son of a wealthy McComb businessman, was identified by witnesses as the holdup man, Moore said. At the time of his arrest, Gillis was free on $5,000 bond in the racial bombing case.

Khrushchev, Johnson May Attend U.N. Meet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (P)—Official U.N. sources said Wednesday Premier Khrushchev and President Johnson may attend the forthcoming session of the U.N. General Assembly.

The sources said Khrushchev may attend next year before the assembly adjourns in February. No date was mentioned for the Johnson visit, which depends on the outcome of the U.S. presidential election.

Both leaders were invited to visit the United Nations by Secretary-General U Thant, who saw Khrushchev in Moscow in July, and Johnson in Washington in August.

American Motors-UAW Negotiations Break

DETROIT—Negotiations between American Motors Corporation and the United Auto Workers broke down Wednesday following a dispute over whether to scrap profit-sharing.

American Motors Vice-President Edward Cushman said it appears, as he put it, "extremely unlikely that we will develop a plan that will include profit sharing." He meant a settlement plan.

Indonesia Claims Rocket Launchings

TOKYO (P)—Indonesia claimed Wednesday it recently launched five rockets and indicated one or more was of Indonesian make.

Jakarta's Antara News Agency said the launchings took place "somewhere in West Java." In a dispatch from Jakarta, monitored in Tokyo, Antara said the quality of the guided missile "was not inferior to foreign-made missiles of that type." The range of the rockets was not given. The Russians have sold Indonesian arms but there has been no mention of rockets.

Anti-Queen Pamphlets Distributed

QUEBEC (P)—About 20,000 pamphlets inviting Quebec City residents to a rally protesting the queen's visit were distributed door-to-door by Le Rassemblement Pour L'Indépendance Nationale Tuesday night. The distribution had the permission of Police Chief Roger Lemire.

Quebec's leading separatist group called the rally for Friday evening, about 12 hours before the Queen is scheduled to arrive at Wolfe's Cove aboard the royal yacht Britannia. It said the meeting is being called to spell out the position to be taken by the group toward the queen's visit to Quebec.

Mrs. Goldwater Visits Old Hometown

MUNCIE, Ind. (P)—Peggy Goldwater, excited about "going home again," arrived in Muncie this morning from Washington for "Peggy Goldwater Day" and her first solo campaigning trip for her husband, GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

Looking forward to being with all her childhood friends again, Mrs. Goldwater rested after three days in Washington, spent her time on the plane reminiscing of the huge three-story mansion on the corner of Washington and Elm where she spent her girlhood.

Can Morgan Keep Up With the Joneses?

MERIONETH, Wales (P)—Jones should get quite a few votes in the Merionethshire district of Wales in Britain's general election Oct. 15.

The candidates include T.W. Jones, Labor; R.O. Jones, Liberal; and A.E.C.L. Jones-Lloyd, Conservative. Since names appear on the ballots without party designation, this presents a problem for the voters.

There is one other candidate, a Welsh nationalist. His name is Morgan.

Spartan Spirit
Awards Planned

The Spartan Spirit trophies award system has been revised to put the emphasis on participation, according to Jim Tanck, Waterford, Wis., junior, and Spartan Spirit director.

Smaller, permanent trophies will be presented as well as the larger, rotating trophy so that living units may have a permanent record of having won the award.

The competition will have four divisions; women's residence halls, men's residence halls, sororities and religious living units, and fraternities and co-operative living units.

Winners in the on-campus division will be announced every two weeks and the final award will be made at a spring term pep rally. Halls will judge themselves, under a system to be explained more fully to dormitory representatives at a meeting tonight. Competition in these divisions starts today.

Off-campus competition starts Friday and living units presidents will receive letters explaining their judging system this week.

Selection of the final award winners off-campus will be under the direction of off-campus chairman Sharon Waters, Lincoln Park Junior, and her committee.

Taken into consideration will be such things as attendance at pep rallies and athletic events, student blocks at such events, residence hall signs and participation in or sponsorship of all-University activities.

"For example, we're more interested in what percentage of a dorm actually worked on a homecoming display than how effective it is," Tanck explained.

He also noted that sales of shakers, ribbons, etc., will not be included in the judging.

Students Receive
Newsletter

The first All-University Student Government (AUSG) newsletters will be distributed today to students in all residence halls and off-campus living units.

"The newsletters have several purposes," said Bob Harris, AUSG president and Bryan, Ohio, senior. "They are to explain the policies of student government and mainly to provide a channel of reciprocal communication between AUSG and the student body."

The first campus blue sheet, modeled after the faculty blue sheet, will be distributed to resident advisers and off-campus living units Monday. This sheet will cover all activities on campus for a two-week period.

Speech Prof
To Preside

Herbert J. Oyer, professor of speech and hearing at Michigan State, will preside at the annual fall meeting of the Michigan Speech and Hearing Association Oct. 16 - 17 at Boyne Mountain Lodge, Boyne Falls.

Oyer is the current president of the MSHA. James Hillis and Leo Deal, speech and hearing educators at MSU, will also participate in the meeting which will take place at Boyne Mountain Lodge, Boyne Falls.

Student Aid Lost
With Bill's Death

WASHINGTON (CPS)—An estimated 275,000 students have lost the opportunity to collect up to $90 a month in cash benefits as a result of the demise by stalemate of proposed social security legislation.

The failure, because of a dispute over medicare, of a House-Senate conference committee to reach agreement on the final form of a social security expansion bill killed a program for aiding some 18-to-22-year-old students.

The bill was a casualty of congressional adjournment fever, which was running high after a nine-month session and with the election only four weeks away.

The current social security act provides payments of up to $90 a month for each child under 18 whose father is deceased, disabled or retired. A proposed amendment to the act would have continued payments to those who became full-time college students.

Students in vocational, junior, private or public colleges would have received payments until their 22nd birthday.

The "child benefits" were to be extended to students on the theory that full-time students over 18 are as financially dependent as children under 18.

The child benefit extension provision was part of the administration-backed election-year social security bill which would have raised general cash benefits and which included in its Senate version a compromise medicare provision.

Clergyman Outlines Job Of Church

The task of the Christian Church was outlined by one of the world's foremost clergymen speaking Wednesday before a mixed group of students, educators and ministers at Kellogg Center.

"The task of the Christian Church is to give meaning to the human person, without obstructing the process of nation-building," said J. E. Lesslie Newbigin, Bishop of the Church of Scotland and a world-leader in Christianity.

He was a missionary in South India and director of World Missions and Evangelism of the World Council of Churches.

The five major points in his address included:

--Christians must rid themselves of the idea of an all-dominant church of the Middle Ages.

--They must rid their minds of the idea that the business of religion is to obstruct revolutions in the emerging nations.

--The Church cannot retreat into history and must accept missionary failures in China and Southeast Asia.

--Christians can rejoice that the churches in Asia and China are realizing their responsibility for nation-building. We must throw our whole strength into the task of nation-building, he added.

--The Church must keep the balance between the two essential elements of the problems confronting emerging nations. These are the "new meaning of the value of human life" and the "developing process produced by the influence of Christianity on these societies."

Actors Not Only Practice, Have To Sell Tickets, Too

Members of the 1964-65 Performing Arts Company have dual roles the first weeks of this fall term.

They are selling season coupon books for the five dramatic and seven film productions to be presented at Fairchild, as well as rehearsing for the two fall productions.

The first film classic, "The Game of Love," will run 8:15 p.m. Friday in Fairchild.

The company is presenting a solid program, one designed to touch a variety of styles and tastes, Mary Bosch, public relations worker for the Performing Arts Company, indicated.

The season coupon books, $7 apiece, may be purchased at booths on campus or in 149 Auditorium. Individual admission to events is $2.

A 400-year-old formula for success, the duel of wit and will between sexes, is the subject of the first of the season's performances. The company will present Shakespeare's robust comedy, "The Taming of the Shrew," Oct. 27 through Nov. 1 in Fairchild.

Not only will the company offer a University run of "The Taming of the Shrew," but they will also take the show on tour for a month for 20 appearances.

A dramatic study of a man who gives up his principles to achieve success, Ibsen's "The Master Builder" will be the second Performing Arts presentation for the fall term. It will run Dec. 1 through 6.

Productions for the remainder of the season include "The Italian Straw Hat," "Long Day's Journey Into Night," and "The Marriage of Figaro."

In addition to the live performances the coupon books include tickets for seven film shows: "The Game of Love," "Cabinet," "Doctor Caligari," "Tilly's Punctured Romance," "W.C. Fields Festival," "Intolerance," "Blood and Sand," "All Quiet on the Western Front" and "Shane."

Block-S, Freshmen Meet Set

A meeting of all freshmen who wish to join the Block-S for MSU home football games will be held at Spartan Stadium today at 5:15 p.m.

Block-S membership cards and tickets for the game will be given out at the meeting.

The meeting will last only 30 minutes, leaving time to return to the dorms for the evening meal.

"If not enough time is left to get back to the evening meal on time, arrangements have been made in each dorm for late meals," said Bob Amsler, head of Block-S.

In the MSU-Southern California game not enough freshmen were present to fill in the Block-S section.

"We had to recruit members from the stands to complete the block," said Amsler. "Therefore none of the major stunts and cheering could be executed since we had no rehearsal."

Flint's U.M. Now 4 Years

ANN ARBOR--The University of Michigan has announced that it will expand its program in Flint to four years beginning next September. It will admit 200 students to the Flint first freshman class.

Plans for the expansion of the school's Flint college have been under study for more than a year following a request for the change from the Flint Board of Education.

Flint also has a community junior college, which enrolled more than 2,500 students this fall.

Applications for the freshman class at Flint are now being received.

They Don't Want To See Leaders

Second sessions of a "Meet Your Leaders" program to enable freshmen and interested students to meet heads of various campus organizations was canceled Wednesday night after turnouts of about 20 at Tuesday's programs in Shaw and McDonell residence halls.

Charles Stoddard, East Lansing junior and director of All-University Student Government (AUSG) internal affairs, blamed lack of attendance on publicity difficulties.

LBJ Gets Eppert's OK

The president of a giant industrial corporation has endorsed President Johnson for reelection, according to Walter Adams, professor of economics and chairman of the University Volunteers for Johnson.

Ray R. Eppert, president of the Burroughs Corporation, who was described as a "staunch Republican" by the Detroit News, sent his endorsement in a special message to the University Volunteer group. The message was in lieu of a personal appearance before the group which Eppert was unable to arrange because of other commitments.

"I think very highly of Lyndon Johnson," Eppert said. "He took over a very rough situation last November, and he deserves at least a term on his own on the basis of what he has done so far."

Eppert added that many Republicans are impressed with the President's performance and predicted there will be "considerable crossing of party lines this fall."

About 75 per cent of the industrialists who have so far endorsed President Johnson are registered Republicans. The list includes two members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet, Robert B. Anderson, former Secretary of the treasury, and Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare.

Humphrey Attacks Goldwater's 'Fear'

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said Wednesday night that Democrats have no intention of "dismantling the federal government so that it cannot fulfill its constitutional mandate to promote the general welfare."

Yet, he said, Sen. Barry Goldwater, has stated "I fear Washington and centralized government more than I fear Moscow."

"To Senator Goldwater," he went on, "this kind of government is 'the greatest threat to freedom.'"

"What is this freedom which Senator Goldwater sees as threatened?"

"This is freedom for the sweat shop proprietor, the slum landlord, the robber baron of a century ago. This is not liberty for the many—it is a license for the privileged few."

Humphrey said Americans support federal programs now because they "have a deeper understanding of freedom."

In the morning, Humphrey outlined his concept of a bipartisan foreign policy that he said has been developed since the end of World War II, to a convention of United Press International editors and publishers in Washington.

But Goldwater, he continued, "is totally at odds" with the policy, disagreeing with most Republicans as much as he does with Democrats.

He "is a candid man and he has told us where he stands," Humphrey said.

"He rejects foreign aid; he disdains negotiation; he dismisses the United Nations; he opposes our bridges to the people of the communist nations; he terrifies our partners and allies; and he condemns our efforts to end the armaments race."

Humphrey said, "A man fit to conduct our foreign policy must understand that, although the United States is the world's most powerful nation, America is not omnipotent—and that there can not be an American solution to every world problem."

But, he said, Goldwater is so impatient with the world as it is that he "wishes to back the Soviet Union into a corner where its only alternatives would be retreat or nuclear war."

In reply to editors' questions, Humphrey said:

The United States is not losing the war in Viet Nam but it faces a long road. Negotiations might be possible but "only when we have restored the balance that has been upset by infiltration and subversion from the north."

He does not expect the Democrats to win all 50 states. "I think we have hard-fought battlegrounds yet in several states."

he said, is whether this nation can meet the challenge of the Soviets with our present ideals of liberty and our wide breadth of knowledge.

"Yes," said the senator, "we can. But our ultimate weapons are ideas. The longest reaching missile, the first flag on the moon will not meet the test."

Referring to the kind of men we need in Washington, the senator quoted Justice Holmes' statement, "I do not trust a man of principle."

"We must have men of principles," he said, "and they must be able to establish a priority among their principles. Principles, he said, but sometimes we must sacrifice one for the other.

Before closing, the senator tied his talk in with politics. He said Senator Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee, is one of four men he has been privileged to know in Washington. The other three are the late President Kennedy, President Johnson and Senator Humphrey.

I've never doubted Senator Goldwater's sincerity," he said. "But in his reading of history, he seems to skip the basic lessons."

Cuban Exiles

to state where they stood on various issues.

"We are for a strong, firm foreign policy that mimes no words with the Communists," he declared.

Miller said that he and Goldwater favored supporting a Cuban government in exile and "we are for giving them assistance and letting them take back their own land."

He did not say what type of assistance he had in mind.

The ad also questioned the extent of Miller's role in the prosecution of Nazi war criminals at Nuremberg.

Miller said he was surprised that Democrats would raise a war record issue because he and Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee, had served a combined total of eight years in the military service. By contrast, he said, President Johnson served seven months and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey "wasn't in the military service at all because he had a double hernia and was color blind."

During his visit here, his first campaign swing into the deep South, Miller told newsmen he believed the GOP national ticket was running ahead in all southern states except Texas and Georgia.

3 Plan To Leave

Students' Goal—Peace Corps

Three Michigan State students --two graduates and a senior -- are home on a brief vacation before leaving for their assignments in the Peace Corps.

James S. Seidel, June graduate in zoology, from Little Neck, N.Y., will leave September 24 with 40 other Peace Corps public health workers for the new African nation of Malawi.

These volunteers will assist the growth of a health program recently slowed by the emigration of trained European personnel.

The economic and social progress of Malawi (formerly Nyasaland) is already being aided by 97 volunteers working in secondary education and law.

The new volunteers will concentrate on the control, treatment and prevention of tuberculosis. A few will operate a mobile X-ray unit while most will serve as rural health officers following up cases and treatments. Some will be medical assistants in district hospitals and dispensaries.

The major duty of the volunteers is to put themselves out of a job by training Malawi citizens to take over.

Seidel has completed six weeks of training at Harvard University and six weeks at the University of North Carolina. The course emphasized instruction in public health techniques, the basic elements of the Bantu language, U.S. institutions and world affairs. Courses were also taken in Malawian history and culture.

Judy A. Vallender, a June graduate from Beaverton, is joining 270 other Peace Corps volunteers when they leave for Ethiopia, September 17.

They will join over 130 volunteer secondary and university education teachers, health workers and lawyers already at work in the country.

Miss Vallender will be teaching in a secondary school.

Before such volunteers arrived in Ethiopia only one child in eight was enrolled in school. In the past three years with a 35 per cent increase in the number of secondary school teachers, the number of children in school has increased measurably.

Their assignments include: math, science, geography, history, teacher training, physical education, home economics, business subjects, and industrial arts.

These volunteers are now helping local educators write Ethiopian textbooks. They are also renovating old schools and libraries, in efforts to develop more usable space for badly needed classrooms.

Miss Vallender trained for 10 weeks at the University of California at Los Angeles, where she studied Amharic, the language of Ethiopia. She also received instruction in the country's history and culture, reviewed American history and was brought up to date on world affairs.

John Kempainen, senior, from Peikie, left MSU winter term, 1964, and is now a member of the Peace Corps going to Colombia. Kempainen will be one of 24 physical education teachers who will join the more than 500 volunteers already working in the country.

Their assignments include community development as well as education.

The Colombian government requested volunteer physical education teachers in the belief that sports and proper recreation are important in teaching concepts of fair play to the country's youth.

Peace Corpsmen are given flexibility in determining what will be most effective in promoting sports in their assigned communities. Some will start athletic programs in schools. Others will form neighborhood baseball or basketball teams to help youngsters turn wasted hours into productive ones.

Kempainen received 12 weeks of intensive training at the University of New Mexico. Instructions emphasized the Spanish language and teaching methods. Other courses concentrated on the history and culture of Colombia, U.S. history and institutions, and world affairs.

Watery Race Set By Shaw

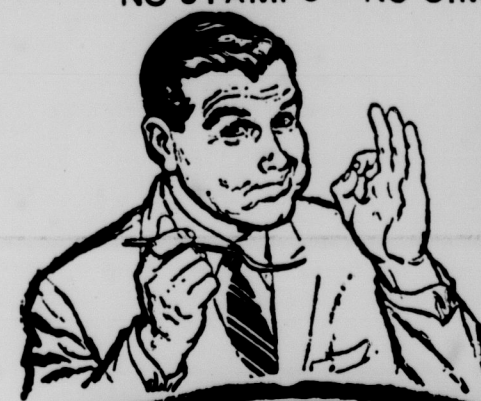

Hollers of dunked canoeists, splashing and plunking of paddles, or once in a while, the ripple of a smoothly gliding canoe will be heard at 1 p.m. Oct. 16, as Shaw Hall starts its All-University Canoe Race.

The three to four-hour race is scheduled to be better than ever with entertainment by the "Road Runners" and bleacher accommodations for those who would rather watch.

The race itself is half the distance that it was last year, making viewing easier.

As a special feature, East Shaw will race West Shaw in a heat between qualifying races and the finals.

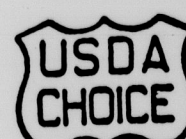

All entries for the race should be handed in to 165 West Shaw before Saturday.

Deportation Possible For Mystery Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—A Russian mystery couple whose spy trial was called off to protect government secrets waived deportation proceedings Wednesday indicating they wished to go to Czechoslovakia.

Railroad Brings Top Ballet

The Grand Trunk railroad and good relations with a New York booking agent combined to bring the Leningrad Kirov Ballet to the University, Monday and Tuesday.

East Lansing is conveniently located between two stops made by the Ballet: Toronto, Canada and Chicago.

"We've arranged to have coaches sidetracked on the Grand Trunk Railroad so the troupe can come into East Lansing Monday before the performance and leave as soon as possible after the performance Tuesday," Wilson Paul, director of the Lecture-Concert series, said.

He explained that these arrangements would prevent the ballet from losing a night by coming onto campus.

"With approximately 175 people needed to produce the ballet, the troupe can lose eight to ten thousand dollars for an extra day," Paul said.

Activity book coupons for both series "A" and series "B" may be exchanged beginning today at the Union Ticket Office.

The couple, Alexandre Sokolov, 41, and his wife, 34, gazed out a window at the Statue of Liberty during most of a hearing conducted by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Edward Brodsky, court-appointed attorney for the respondents, said his clients would offer no objection to a final order of deportation.

He said they would refuse to testify on the ground that their answers might tend to incriminate them.

Ira Fieldsteel, special inquiry officer for the Immigration Service, remarked that since it was understood there would be no appeal the parties concerned would be notified of the government's decision.

The government abruptly halted its espionage trial of the couple last Friday on orders from Washington. Lawyers indicated.

He said they would refuse to testify on the ground that their answers might tend to incriminate them.

Cancer Warning: Color Of Mouth

An old folk song bemoans the fact that cigarettes and whiskey are two of the things liable to "drive you crazy, drive you insane."

On a more sobering note, research has shown that these two habits tobacco and alcohol--play sinister roles in causing mouth cancer.

"While tobacco and alcohol are not immediate causes of cancer, they have their conditioning effect," Dr. Donald E. Kerr of the Department of Oral Pathology, University of Michigan told 200 dentists here recently.

Dr. Kerr said that the lip, tongue, floor of the mouth, gum, inside of the cheeks and the palate are the most frequent sites of oral cancer.

Although sun is the factor involved in most lip cancer, he said, causes of cancers in other areas of the mouth are mechanical, chemical and thermal. "Burning tobacco produces chemical and thermal irritation," Dr. Kerr said.

He also noted that the disease cure rate is low among alcoholics, and that the treatment is not as effective.

Dr. Kerr said the danger signals of oral cancer are any change in color contour or consistency of any oral tissue. "Cancer, regardless of site, is associated with age," he said.

"The older we become, the more it behooves us to have a periodic examination, including examinations of the oral cavity," he said.

Dr. Robert L. Harding, chief of the department of plastic surgery for Harrisburg Hospitals, said that dentists can play an important role in the early detection of mouth and throat cancer.

"The dentist, because he has the opportunity to examine the mouths of many patients once or twice a year, is in the enviable position of being able to recognize the disease early," he said.

Dr. Harding reported that about 10 per cent of all cancers are in the head and neck region, with approximately 4 per cent in the mouth and larynx.

U-M Protest

protests say that a record enrollment at U-M has created overcrowding in residence halls and that an unusually large number of rooms formerly occupied by two students now have three in them.

Berkson said, "The Voice is groping for issues. The party, which has been on the Ann Arbor campus nearly five years, is not as strong as it used to be. 'It's had nothing to complain about the last few years,' he said.

Berkson also remarked that the residence hall situation is not an abnormal situation and that many students in triple rooms are being moved to keep the load down to two per room.

The students also protested against faculty salaries and student wages.

"Who doesn't want more money?" Berkson asked.

The wire story said that the U-M rally was patterned after similar demonstrations last week at the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

"There's no tie-in at all," Berkson said. "The students at Berkeley had something to complain about."

The U-M students were protesting overcrowded residence halls, a problem also encountered by MSU students where two-man rooms sometimes are made to accommodate three, and in some cases, five have been placed in four-man suites in Fee and Akers residence halls.

The protest was also aimed at raising minimum student wages and the opening of a University book store.

U of M's minimum wage for students is $1 an hour. MSU students get a minimum $1.25. Michigan State also has a University book store, now located in the Center for International Programs.

Is U-M Double Trouble?

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

Is Michigan twice as good as the Spartans?

Only a statistician would dare make such a statement until the question is answered late Saturday afternoon.

After two games, the Wolverines have won twice as many games and have rolled up almost twice as many yards as the Green and White.

But the Spartans are used to being underdogs, and they outpointed USC last week even though they were beaten in most of the statistics.

"We can't hope to match Michigan touchdown for touchdown," said Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty.

Wolverines Have Offensive Power

"We'll have to play a good defensive game and force them to make mistakes."

Such a statement would seem to be in order after Michigan's strong offensive showing against Air Force and Navy and the Spartans' outstanding defensive performance in the victory over USC.

To date, the Wolverines have rolled up 583 yards rushing and 212 passing for a total of 795 yards overall.

The Green and White, on the other hand, have held to 234 yards rushing and 172 passing for 406 total yards.

Defense has been the key to MSU victories in recent seasons, and the Spartans will be trying to keep the tradition alive when they tangle with the U. of M.

In MSU's last 30 games, only one opponent, Minnesota in 1962, has been able to score more than two touchdowns in one game, and no one has turned the trick in the past 14.

To go with a strong defense, the Green and White will field an offensive unit that has been led by Clinton Jones and Dick Gordon in the first two games.

Jones is currently the Spartans' leading rusher with 95 yards in 14 carries for a 6.1 average with Gordon gaining 89 in 26 tries for a 3.4 average.

Leading Michigan on offense is halfback Jim Detwiler who has chalked up 149 yards in 22 tries for an outstanding 6.7 average.

He'll team at halfback with Carl Ward, a sophomore, whose 122 yards in 24 tries puts him third in the ground-gaining department behind Detwiler and quarterback Bob Timberlake who has picked up 131.

Timberlake's passing helped spell defeat for the Wolverines' first two opponents as he completed 14 of 25 for 197 yards.

ENTRIES SOAR TO 220

IM Football Sunday Nights?

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

Sunday night football may be on the agenda this season as IM participation continues to match the growing student body.

IM Director Frank Beeman announced Wednesday that Athletic Director Clarence "Biggie" Munn and Vice President John Fuzak, chairman of the Athletic Council, have approved the suggestion of Sunday night ball if it becomes necessary.

Last year touch football drew 187 teams and 2,618 participants. With the addition of Fee and Akers dormitories, and nine extra teams from Abbot, the figure rises to 220 entries and nearly 3,000 players.

In addition, parking lot "L," which is adjacent to the playing fields, will be open to the touch footballers after 5 p.m. Beeman also announced the addition of independent league soccer to the IM roster this fall. Entries are now being accepted with the deadline set for Wed., Oct. 16.

Soccer, which is open to all students, was dominated last year by two Brody group clubs. Last year's league included six teams and 78 participants.

No fewer than 16,783 students took part in last year's vast IM program on a competitive level and those who used the intramural facilities informally is all but beyond measure.

In addition to football, favorites include basketball in the winter and spring softball. The basketball program includes 226 teams and 2,260 participants while softball attracts 196 squads and 2,940 men.

"Not only has there been 21 per cent increase among the male participants in the past four years," says Beeman, "but a 37 per cent increase in the equipment issued."

"So, not only are we dealing with more men but the men are coming back more often."

In all, 14,448 initial participations were recorded in the organized sports program. Reservations by students, faculty and staff for informal recreation approximated 6,000 individual hours per week.

The total sports provided included 19 team, 22 individual, 41 sport activities and 26 different sports, which adds up to a vast, complex program.

To meet the complexity of the program, four different gymnasium areas provide seven basketball courts, eight tennis, 12 volleyball and 26 badminton courts. In the basement there are four golf driving nets.

Other areas include rooms for wrestling and tumbling, fencing and archery, weightlifting, table tennis as well as a fitness room for individual workouts.

There are two large pools, one indoor which is 121 feet in length and an outdoor one which is 165 feet long.

Dittrich Expecting X-Country Victory Despite Obstacles

You're a Big Ten coach and your team is last year's conference champs.

This weekend you have your season opener, and two of your finest runners are injured.

If that isn't bad enough, you haven't even had a chance to hold a time trial yet.

How do you feel? Sick?

Well, not if you're Fran Dittrich. Dittrich, Spartan cross-country coach, minus All-American Dick Sharkey and freshman mile-record-holder Keith Coates, is confident that his team will win.

The Spartans will be going against league foes Wisconsin and Indiana Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at Forest Akers golf course. Dittrich will enter a team with plenty of depth and individual class. Although they haven't been timed yet, most of them have been training since the middle of August, and are in good shape.

While not trying to play down the strength of the opposition, Dittrich did mention that both had lost their first meet. Indiana, shut out 15-30, fell to a Miami of Ohio team with such strength that two of its members could gain All-American honors while the team contends for a high NCAA finish in November.

Wisconsin, on the other hand, had the first- and second-place finishers as they suffered a 25-36 set-back at the hands of Minnesota.

This should indicate that they will bring a team to Akers which lacks any true depth.

Four members of last year's championship squad will lead the Spartans into action. Seniors Mike Kaines and Jan Bowen, and juniors Paul McCollam and Eric Zemper carry plenty of credentials into the meet.

Kaines, Bowen, and Zemper have all placed well in past Big Ten track championships in addition to their cross-country records, and McCollam, now strictly a cross-country runner, has proven himself by his performances of last season.

Senior Jack Amie, after a very successful season as a two-miler with the track team last spring will be worth watching. Ray Pletcher, a junior, will be trying to continue where he left off last year before breaking his leg in a dual meet.

The sophomores could also come through with valuable places as George Balthrop and Claudell James, who both showed good progress with the freshman track team, will now get their first fling at varsity status.

Rounding out Saturday's lineup will be another junior, Paul Bryan, who will also be seeing his first varsity action.

Women's Club

The women's HPER club will hold its first meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the Women's I.M. Faculty members will speak of past summer experiences. Students and faculty members in the department are invited to attend.

LEADING THEM IN CIRCLES--That's what Coach Fran Dittrich's cross country teams have been doing in recent years to other Big Ten squads.

Erhard Wants N-Fleet Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—The West German Government reportedly is pressing the United States to join down a NATO nuclear fleet agreement by the end of this year. Germany evidently is prepared to act without participation of other allies.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard told a news conference in Berlin yesterday that "A beginning has to be made." His words were generally interpreted to mean that if other nations refuse to participate Germany and the United States might still go ahead.

The nuclear fleet has always been envisioned as a surface force armed with U.S. Polaris missiles and manned by crews from many NATO nations. So a two-nation force would mean a radical switch in United States policy.

Top officials declined, however, to rule out that possibility though they insisted that no firm decision to that effect has been made. Some informants said the United States might have to go along with a U.S.-German force plan but would be reluctant to do so.

Erhard is said to have several developments in mind in raising this possibility.

One is that he is moving toward a meeting with Soviet President Nikita Khrushchev, an outspoken foe of the nuclear force project because he says it would be a step toward West Germans obtaining nuclear weapons.

U.S. officials think Erhard feels it is important to settle the issue soon to keep it out of partisan politics in West Germany, which will have elections next year.

With the U.S. presidential campaign in its final month, State Department authorities are not anxious to discuss any foreign policy question at the moment. They did point out Wednesday, however, that Erhard and President Johnson agreed months ago to try to get a nuclear force agreement wrapped up by the end of the year.

The only thing a State Department spokesman would say on the record was that "we hope it (the agreement) will be as widely multilateral as is possible," that is that many nations will participate.

Some officials said they are confident that several nations would join even if the agreement is signed in the immediate future.

In addition to the United States and Germany, they mentioned Greece and Turkey as urgently interested, also the Netherlands.

New Equipment, Facilities Improve Photo Services

Modifications to the State News photographic laboratory along with the installation of new equipment are being completed this week.

David L. Jaehning, photographic adviser, said that prior to last spring most of the equipment had been in the laboratory in the Student Services Building for nearly nine years.

He said that with the renovation project all of the equipment was now either new or reconditioned.

The 24 photographers and technicians on the staff are rated as the best college picture team in the country, according to Jaehning. They scored the maximum possible points in national competition and won more than 60 percent of the college prizes in Michigan last year.

The original team that was set up nearly nine years ago handled most of the student publications photographic work on campus, Jaehning said.

The present team concentrates almost entirely on the campus newspaper since the State News has expanded its operation, he added.

To keep up with this expanded operation the physical layout of the laboratory was changed. The darkroom was partitioned off so that development of film, photographic printing and final processing could be carried on at the same time.

A new copy camera was added to the equipment and cuts processing time from one hour to two minutes. A new film dryer cuts previous drying time from a half an hour to two minutes.

A computerized printing set-up was installed that will enable the technicians to save both time and money since it eliminates a great deal of trial printing.

Along with the other major construction a complete filtered water system was installed.

Jaehning said that the major purpose of the photographic laboratory was to train prospective professionals for the field.

He said that they are able to get experience not only in the area of newspaper photography but that the present system makes it possible to do advertising work for the State News.

There are 11 students undergoing training on the staff at present.

Viet Cong Kill More Americans

SAIGON (AP)—In action taking place Tuesday only 13 miles west of Saigon, Communist Viet Cong gunners shot down three U.S. Army aircraft and all the six men aboard one—a helicopter felled in flames—were presumed to have perished. The crewmen of the others survived.

One of the helicopters, carrying five Americans and a Vietnamese observer, fell burning in the midst of their attackers.

Troops who later fought their way to the wreckage found three bodies charred beyond recognition. They considered the other three also were dead, though there was some possibility they had been taken away by the Viet Cong as prisoners.

The U.S. crewmen were three officers and two enlisted men. Confirmation of the loss of all would increase to 200 the roll of American combat deaths in Viet Nam since 1961.

The second helicopter was shot down near the Communist lines, but its crewmen lived through the landing. They were reported to have made repairs to get it back in flying condition.

Lost 55 miles farther west was a U.S. Army Mohawk, a twin-engine plane used for both scouting and combat. Ground fire crippled it and the American pilot and the Vietnamese copilot took to their parachutes. A helicopter rescued them.

Barry Bandwagon To Tour Michigan

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—A six-day Goldwater bandwagon caravan will tour 30 counties and over 50 Michigan communities starting Oct. 17 -- but it won't cross the Romney cavalcade -- it was announced here Wednesday.

The "whistle-stop" tour, sponsored by the Michigan Goldwater Bandwagon Headquarters, will feature Barry Goldwater Jr., Mike Goldwater, sons of the presidential GOP candidate, Philip Crosby, Bing Crosby's son, and leading Republican candidates who will join the week-long tour.

Charles R. Sligh, Jr., assistant Michigan Goldwater campaign manager and Ted Brink, Michigan Goldwater bandwagon coordinator, announced the tour and said it will be comprised of 10 vehicles, and preceded by a town crier, "a Paul Revere" on a horse who will announce the arrival of the group in each community.

Sligh said the tour purposely had been delayed and scheduled not to conflict with Gov. Romney's cavalcade which will have ended its tour by the time the Goldwater group gets into action on its junket.

Romney has withheld wholehearted support for Goldwater.

Local and county candidates will join the Goldwater tour as it enters their communities and Sligh said state and national GOP candidates will join the caravan from time to time.

The tour officially gets underway in Grand Rapids with a kick-off rally Oct. 17.

Berkeley Students, Administration Collide In Political Activity Issue

BERKELEY, Calif. (CPS)—A truce between protesting students and University of California officials has ended 2 1/2 days of demonstrations on the university's campus, but the future of the ban on partisan political activity that caused the uproar is still in doubt.

The demonstration broke up when Mario Savio, one of the spokesmen for the protesting students, climbed on top of a police car that had been immobilized by a sit-in for over 36 hours and told some 1,500 demonstrators and a crowd which had swelled to over 10,000 that a temporary six-point agreement had been reached with the university administration.

The agreement stated that university President Clark Kerr was in favor of deeding the disputed area to the student government or to the city of Berkeley so that the university's no-politics regulations would no longer apply to it.

The agreement also provided that the university would drop charges against Jack Weinberg, a member of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), whose arrest during a Thursday morning (Oct. 1) demonstration had sparked the massive sit-in around the quad car, trapping Weinberg and two campus policemen inside for 11 1/2 days. In addition, the agreement stipulated that students would refrain from using civil disobedience to protest university regulations; that a special student-faculty administration committee would be set up to study all aspects of student political activity, and the cases of eight students placed on "indefinite suspension" for their parts in the demonstration would be considered by the faculty senate's student conduct committee.

The eight were Savio, Mark Bravo, Don Hatch and Bryan Truner, all of the Friends of SNCC (Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee); Art Goldberg and Sander Fuchs of SLATE (A liberal student political party); and David Goins and Elizabeth Gardner.

The truce ended a period of demonstrating that began (Sept. 30), when university officials began taking the names of students violating the ban on partisan political activity in the Bancroft-Telegraph area.

Shortly after noon on Wednesday, Assistant Dean of Students George Murphy and Associate Dean Peter Van Houten moved to stop the violators.

The two deans first asked the Young Socialist Alliance to suspend their activities. They agreed to (although they didn't) and to apply for a permit—which would have permitted them to distribute certain types of literature, but would not have permitted them to recruit members or solicit funds.

Murphy and Van Houten then approached SNCC's stand.

The table was manned by Truner, who greeted the deans by demanding that they show proper identification. The two did, and then Murphy asked Truner if he realized he was "subjecting himself to disciplinary action."

"I don't want to stab my group in the back by leaving," Truner replied.

He was then ordered to report to the Dean of Students' office. Hatch immediately filled Truner's seat and was also ordered to appear. The deans left and the demonstration began.

At about midnight, a spokesman for university Chancellor E. W. Strong announced the eight students whose names had been collected that afternoon had been suspended indefinitely for their "willful misconduct in deliberately violating rules of the university."

Strong's statement said the university "regretted" the action but that it was necessary to keep the university from "endangering its future as an independent educational institution."

Meanwhile, on Thursday morning protesting groups again set up tables in the Bancroft-Telegraph area—this time equipped with large numbers of chairs so that a number of persons could violate the ban "legitimately."

A rally was scheduled for noon. Shortly before noon, the police car drove into the area, and a campus police officer asked Weinberg, who was manning the CORE table, to produce his identification.

Weinberg, who is a graduate student, but who was not registered for classes this semester, refused, and was arrested.

As police tried to take Weinberg to the car, students blocked their path. When they finally got him into it, the demonstrators were packed so tightly around the car that it could not move.

At that point, Savio jumped on top of the car, and addressed the crowd, which by this time had grown to three or four thousand, on the reasons for the demonstrating and the right of free speech.

Speech-making continued throughout Friday. By this time the police car's tires were flattened, its suspension was collapsing, and its roof and hood were caving in. The car bore a number of political stickers—apparently distributed despite the ban.

At 5 p.m., protest spokesmen were able to meet with Kerr and an informal faculty committee. The committee offered the six-point compromise, which both sides accepted.

Hunt Driver

A coed received a slight hip injury when her bicycle hit an auto at parking lot 'O' 5:30 Wednesday afternoon.

Mary L. VanEdmond, 681 Fee Hall, East, told campus police the driver of the car, stopped to offer assistance, but that she did not leave her name, Lt. Allen Andrews said.

Andrews said he would like to speak to the driver of the auto for purposes of police records.

A Final Reminder TO Liberal Arts Majors

You must apply by Oct. 14th to be eligible to take NSA's Professional Qualification Test

The PQT itself won't be given until Saturday, October 24th, but, in order to take the test and qualify for a career position with the National Security Agency, you must stop by the College Placement Office, pick up your PQT brochure, and mail in the enclosed application card. NO LATER THAN WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14TH. You are not under any obligation to NSA if you take this test, but all Liberal Arts majors (Mathematicians excepted) must pass the PQT before they can be considered.

Remember—whatever your specialty—finance & accounting, personnel, business administration, data systems programming, political science, history, languages or linguistic research... you can make immediate use of your college-acquired capabilities with the National Security Agency, headquarters for secure communications research and development... unusual design refinements for computer and edp systems... and cryptographic techniques.

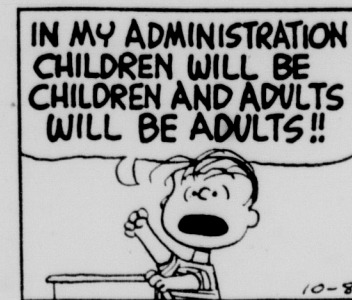

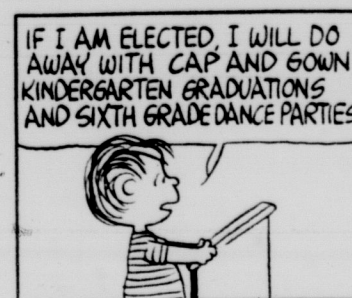

Remember, too, these special NSA advantages:

1. Widely-diversified research programs not available anywhere else.
2. Advancement geared to either technical or administrative capabilities.
3. Unique training in new disciplines and methods.
4. Encouragement and financial assistance in your advance degree work.
5. Association with staff members and consultants of recognized stature.
6. Ideal location midway between Washington and Baltimore... and near the Chesapeake Bay resort region.

Starting salaries of $6,050 (for B.A. degrees) plus regular increases, excellent promotion possibilities... and all the benefits of Federal employment.

Apply now and be sure. You must be a U.S. citizen, subject to a character and loyalty check. Engineers, scientists, and mathematicians should also consult their College Placement Officer for information on NSA and interview dates.

Head In Clouds, Feet On Ground

A Cleveland senior is a girl and meeting people." Maggie offered. "It's exciting, but a six or eight-hour flight with meals to be that Maggie Allen has reached almost cooked and served is have not been dreams, but reality.

London, Berlin and Beirut are just a small section of her travelogue for a job that she once was not even sure that she wanted.

Two years ago Pan American Airways (Pan Am) initiated a trial recruit program for hostesses. Michigan State was the first university to participate, and Maggie was the first coed in the United States to be chosen for the job.

As the program was originally designed, she was to speak to coeds on campus about the airlines and airline hostesses. Plans were abruptly altered during the spring of her sophomore year when Pan Am volunteered to train and "fly" Maggie internationally.

In this way, the airlines decided, Maggie would have both knowledge and first-hand experience with which to recruit other interested coeds.

"I would recommend flying to anyone who is interested in travel and meeting people." Maggie offered. "It's exciting, but a six or eight-hour flight with meals to be that Maggie Allen has reached almost cooked and served is have not been dreams, but reality.

When asked if she had ever flown with any famous celebrities, Maggie volunteered, "Well, I don't know whether you would consider it famous, but I did have the Beatles' manager on a flight from London last year."

She has also flown with numerous United Nations dignitaries to their respective countries, even East Berlin. Here, on a four-day layover, she met a young man who spent time touring the area with her. The inevitable romance? "Well," answered Maggie, "in Munich we climbed the highest mountain and had a great snowball fight - right in the middle of July."

She then returned to her base city, New York, where she lived with a sorority sister. Her job at Michigan State is mainly that of public relations between the airline and the coeds at the university. This year 11 other girls from the larger universities were

J-Council Slashes Budget For Dance

At the first fall term meeting of J-Council last Thursday, it was announced that the J-Hop budget for this year has been reduced approximately $3,000.

This reduction is primarily due to compensate for the $2,000 loss incurred by J-Hop last year. At the meeting, plans for this year's events were discussed and each chairman reported his summer activities.

Projects being planned for fall term include: a hootenanny on Oct. 31, a leadership conference on Nov. 21, and the annual Christmas card project for charity.

J-Council is the representative of the Junior Class and coordinates its various activities and functions. It undertakes academic, social and service programs.

The general council is composed of five committees totaling 25 members in all. These committees are led by the Junior Class officers. They include:

1) Publicity, 2) Public Relations, 3) Major Events, 4) Special Projects, and 5) J-Hop. Another 100 members comprise the committee-at-large which helps publicize and execute the many activities of the Junior Class.

Working under a general chairman and sub-chairman, about 100 members of the Junior Class organize the J-Hop. Students interested in petitioning for the J-Hop general committee may do so from Oct. 8 to 12 at the Union or Room 317 Student Services. J-Council officers for this year are:

John Miller, president, Bangor; Ron Kirk, vice president, Detroit; Frankie Fred, secretary, Dearborn; Ed Wallis, treasurer, Clinton, Iowa.

The J-Council office is located at 317 Student Services. Office hours are from 2 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Roses For Sally After Big Game

Sally Noble, Miss Michigan and MSU freshman, will be presented with roses at an MSU-UM Mixer Saturday at 10 p.m.

Load Topples Breadman

"Rolling in dough" might describe the plight of a bakery truck driver and his helper whose van struck a tree on Shaw Lane early Wednesday.

Flipped beneath dozens of loaves of bread was Clifton J. Smith, 21, 1011 E. North St., Lansing, campus police Lt. Allen Andrews said.

James R. Lukes, 29, 4150 Dallas Ave., Holt, told police his load of bread shifted as he turned right onto Shaw from Chestnut St., causing him to lose control of the truck, Andrews said.

Campus police extracted Smith, who suffered a leg injury, and administered first aid to Lukes, who received minor cuts and bruises, he said.

The bread truck was considered a total loss, according to Andrews.

Both Lukes and Smith were taken to Edward Sparrow Hospital.

"The driver will be issued a summons for failure to exercise due caution," Andrews said.

New Credit Union Hours

New hours announced for the MSU Employees Credit Union are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, including the noon hour. The change, which went into effect Oct. 1, was made for the convenience of the members.

The credit union, in promoting its car finance service, is offering 50¢ off gas to any member who finances his car through the union. All employees are eligible.

For further information, employees should contact Frances Lesmeski at 1405 Harrison Ave. or phone 355-0293.

East Meets West— Shaw Tug-Of-War

The tug-of-war match to end all is ready for Saturday.

The grudge match between East Shaw and West Shaw, which began and ended in 1961, has been renewed for Saturday at 10 a.m. William Floate, president of East Shaw, said that his hearty team of 400 had challenged a like number from the other end of the dormitory.

The husky duel is to take place across a 250 foot water hole south of the new East Shaw building.

Pershing Rifles Invite All Cadets

All interested ROTC cadets are invited to a meeting of the National Society of Pershing Rifles tonight at 7 p.m. in Room 11 of Demonstration Hall.

This organization plans to teach cadets the skills necessary for small unit tactics, combat leadership and individual combat skills taught at summer camp.

Bob Milne, president of West Shaw, and his squad will be trying to win the roving trophy that their opponents presently hold.

Former Prof Named Veep

Former MSU faculty member Harry C. Beaman Jr., has been named vice president and general attorney for the Merchant Dispatch Transport Corporation in Chicago. The firm is a subsidiary of the New York Central Railroad.

Beaman, the son of Mrs. Harry C. Beaman, 1712 N. Genesee Drive, Lansing, received a masters degree from MSU in 1939.

After two years teaching in the MSU English department, he enrolled in the University of Detroit law school. He received his law degree cum laude in 1956 and joined the Chicago firm that same year as an attorney.

Fantasy Becoming Scientific Reality

Some of the "fantasies" of early space travel speculation may yet become realities, according to Paul R. Fuller of Lear Siegler, Inc., Grand Rapids.

Fuller, speaking on bioastronautics Monday before an MSU seminar on high atmosphere and space, said that there has been a great deal of advancement with some of the bizarre and exotic designs for "closed-systems" in space.

The "closed-systems", which are designed to make space vehicles self-contained for humans, have more advanced chemical equipment, and are based on the principle that man's waste can be reused.

Fuller also said that scientists must be careful in the future to limit the capabilities of space travel to the capabilities of man.

He said that at present the space program is enhanced by the use of the "160 pound blackbox", the human computer, but in a few years this factor may hold back technological advancement.

He pointed out that attempts to reproduce the human in the form of a robot need a fresh and original approach and that present thinking is too limited in trying to reproduce rather than create.

The most serious problem facing human travel in space, he said, is radiation caused by solar flares on the sun.

Although solar flares are statistically predictable, present study in the field indicates that they are possible at any time. During these flares the radiation which is emitted can easily penetrate the thin skin of the space vehicle and injure man.

Fuller said that research is being done to protect certain parts of the body, such as the spleen, from this radiation. However, he said, 100 per cent protection is impossible.

Nkrumah Proposes Peace Plan

CAIRO (AP)—President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana proposed Wednesday that an African Peace Force be sent to pacify the Congo, and that all foreign soldiers and mercenaries should be forced to leave immediately.

The arch foe of Premier Moise Tshombe also asked the conference to order foreign powers to keep hands off the Congo and to demand withdrawal of white mercenaries brought in by Tshombe to fight leftist rebels in the Eastern and Northern Congo. The United States has sent planes and crews to ferry Congo troops to the fighting fronts.

Nkrumah did not mention Tshombe by name. He also failed to mention that Tshombe had asked several African countries to help him put down the Congo rebellion. These requests were refused.

Nkrumah said the force should be sent by the Organization of African Unity and stay there until elections could bring about "a democratic government."

Nasser's government, now holding Tshombe hostage, said he will not be released until Congolese gendarmes surrounding the United Arab Republic Embassy in Leopoldville are called off.

An aide to Tshombe replied that Tshombe might decline a plane out even if the Egyptians permitted him to leave.

2. How about letting an old buddy in?
Don't spread it around, but a very dear friend of my Uncle Ed's cousin Jim told him confidentially that he heard from a reliable source that Chippewa & Wabash has made a significant breakthrough in potash.

3. Chippewa & Wabash? They just filed bankruptcy proceedings.
Uncle Ed didn't mention that.

4. What's more, the president of the company is reported to be on his way to Brazil.
How come you know so much about it?
