Surging Spartans 'Spoil' Purdue, 21-7

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

Spartan Stadium will be empty for another year but it should still be filled with memories for MSU fans.

The Green and White made certain of that Saturday afternoon by scoring a 21-7 victory over Purdue before a sellout crowd of 75,433.

It won't be a championship year for the Spartans but they saved their best 1964 home performance for last and gave MSU rooters just reason to be proud of the Green and White's Big Ten spoiler role.

The Spartans are now 3-2 in conference play, 4-3 overall, and are tied with Minnesota for fourth place in the league race.

The defeat was heartbreaking for the Boilermakers who slipped into a second-place tie with Michigan in the Big Ten with a 4-1 mark.

The setback didn't eliminate Purdue from a trip to the Rose Bowl but it means they'll need help from the Wolverines who play league-leading Ohio State a week from Saturday.

Spartan fans don't feel badly about putting the Boilermakers in trouble. Purdue has had a reputation for spoiling MSU bowl bids in the past and, besides, roses aren't supposed to bloom in November anyway.

Dick Gordon set the pattern for the game when he broke over left tackle for 48 yards on the first play from scrimmage. The scoring drive was eventually halted but nobody ever stopped the Spartan halfback.

Gordon carried the ball 24 times for 145 yards to help put him in a class with some of MSU's all-time great halfbacks. He now has 630 yards for the year, sixth best season performance in Spartan history, and by gaining 62 yards during the remainder of the season, he can move into third place.

But Gordon wasn't the only reason for MSU's success.

Clinton Jones scored two touchdowns and defensive tackle Harold Lucas even got into the act.

When Claude Thornhill blocked a Purdue punt with 6:09 left in the half, Lucas caught the ball in the air at the Boilermaker three and loomed into the end zone with MSU's first touchdown.

Purdue had taken the lead in the first period when fullback Randy Minnear ran eight yards for a touchdown to climax a 74-yard drive.

Jones scored from the three in the third quarter to put State ahead to stay. He added the Spartans' final TD with 5:57 left in the game when he grabbed a 15-yard pass from quarterback Steve Juday.

The touchdown pass was the high point of a great comeback for Juday, who was helped off the field during the second period after being shaken up while throwing a block.

Juday completed 8 of 10 passes for 71 yards to run his season completion total to 60.

Purdue's sophomore quarterback Bob Griese had a more difficult afternoon in passing a Boilermaker air attack that was hampered by an ankle injury to end Bob Hadrick early in the game.

Griese's performance was also hampered by MSU defenders like Claude Thornhill, Charlie Migyanka and George Webster who spent most of the fourth quarter in the Purdue backfield.

Next week's opponent will be nationally top-ranked Notre Dame.

The Irish nipped Pittsburgh 17-15 Saturday for their seventh straight victory.

After losing 11 of their last 12 games with MSU, there can be little doubt that Notre Dame will be ready for Saturday's game.

The Spartans will be ready, too.

Proposed Campus Center Could House Auditorium

A student activities center comparable to the Union may be constructed on the southwest end of campus sometime in the next few years.

Just what the building will contain is another question, Secretary Jack Breslin said.

He outlined three needs such a building might fulfill—a second and improved auditorium or music hall, more meeting rooms for campus organizations and a gathering place for commuting students.

The center would be constructed on Harrison Road between Shaw Lane and Kalamazoo Street. Administrative officials have been asked to consider what the building would include.

"The University needs a new type of building to perform as the Union used to," Breslin said.

"The Union is in the wrong place."

The problem is: Does MSU need a building just like the old one?

The Union grill used to be a gathering point for all students. Each new dorm now has its own grill, Breslin pointed out.

"We definitely need a new University theater and music hall," he said. "The present auditorium is inadequate and the Union doesn't have any rooms large enough."

A new auditorium would be bigger than the present one, which seats 4,500. It would be designed like an amphitheater and outfitted with an improved acoustics system.

The proposed student center would also serve students who do not live on campus.

The Student Services and Union Buildings no longer have enough rooms to give campus organizations necessary meeting and office space.

Breslin said the building would probably be constructed to meet the three needs he cited, but he did not know if it would contain other facilities which the Union has, such as the cafeteria and bowling lanes.

AUSG Plans Department

All University Student Government (AUSG) is investigating the re-organizing of a department of junior college relations, created by Student Congress in 1958.

It has been discontinued for the past four years.

"We will be contacting junior colleges to find out whether they believe there is a need for such a program," Bob Harris, AUSG president, said.

"It's purpose would be to make them aware of the opportunities at MSU and to assist their student governments."

Don Strange, special assistant to John McQuitty, executive vice president, is in charge of the program.

DATONG YOKE LIN

Malaysian Diplomat To Speak

Ambassador of Malaysia Datong Yoke Lin will speak on "Malaysia and Its Role in Southeast Asia" at 4 p.m. today at the Con Con Room in the International Center.

Ambassador Datong is Malaysia's permanent representative to the United Nations. He is also a minister without portfolio in his own government and a member of Parliament from a constituency near Kuala Lumpur.

Datong is also a businessman—a proprietor of a commercial company, the director of a tin company and the representative of an American air-conditioning firm in Malaysia.

Datong will be the first speaker for the international Forum Series.

The series, developed by the Office of International Extension of the MSU Continuing Service, will periodically feature representatives from many countries who can speak with authority on a wide variety of topics with international significance.

Cosponsoring this first program is the MSU Asian Studies Center.

All interested students are invited.

Music Practice Building Fire Case Of Old Floor, Hot Pipe

By JOHN ELMER
State News Police Reporter

"Spontaneous ignition" was named as the cause of a two-alarm fire on campus Friday afternoon.

Arthur P. Patriarche, East Lansing Fire Marshal, said the blaze at the Music Practice Building apparently started when the wood flooring that tightly surrounded a steam pipe burst into flame spontaneously.

Patriarche explained that the wood around the pipe had been slowly turned to charcoal over a long period of time, and that the ignition temperature, high originally, was steadily reduced until it was touched off at a relatively low level of heat.

"If there had been just one-half inch of clearance around that pipe, this never would have happened," he said.

Four firemen were injured in fighting the fire that broke out in the basement at the southwest corner of the two-story structure.

Fire Chief Murte V. Croy, 62, of 308 Center St., received a back injury when he tried to carry his fallen aide to a window. He was reported in satisfactory condition at Edward W. Sparrow Hospital, Sunday.

The downed man, Sgt. Roger M. Capen, 36, of 605 Theo Ave., Lansing, who had been overcome by smoke, was also admitted to Sparrow Hospital Friday. He was released later in the day.

Lt. Floyd Klepser, 54, of 1633 Snyder Road, and Sgt. John Cain, 51, of 5634 School St., Haslett, were treated for cuts at the scene.

Students rushed from the building about 2:30 p.m., when flames began to burn their way up a first floor partition.

Smoke was billowing high into the air when four fire companies consisting of 25 men and four engines, along with a rescue truck, arrived at the building.

Since all local fire-fighting equipment was on the scene, Meridian Township sent a truck and crew for standby duty at the East Lansing station.

Fire Marshal Patriarche praised MSU students Sunday for their conduct and cooperation at the scene.

Patriarche said students in the vicinity of the blaze "kept out of the way" and that they "quickly responded to firemen's requests for assistance with fire hoses."

The Music Practice Building has housed private lesson studios, a large classroom and offices.

James F. Niblock, head of the music department, said he didn't think the fire damage, estimated at $2,000, would interfere with MSU's music program.

Built in 1886, the building is one of the oldest on campus. It was originally a girl's dormitory, then became the School of Economics, and was the Music Building until 1940.

'SMOKE GETS IN YOUR EYES'--That could easily have been a hit song in the Music Practice Building Friday afternoon. A fire sent several people to the hospital suffering from smoke inhalation. Here firemen set up a fan to draw the smoke from the building. Photo by Larry Fritzman

Fall Blood Donations Shoot Over The Top

Fall term blood drive donations totaled 1,518 pints, topping the goal by 18 pints.

MSU All-American Don Coleman awarded plaques to Bower House Co-op, FarmHouse, Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Sigma Delta and Theta Delta Chi fraternities.

Also receiving plaques for best participation in their divisions were Phi Mu sorority, with 52 per cent participation; West Mayo women's dormitory, with 7.4 per cent; and Armstrong men's dorm with 46.3 per cent.

Second place winners were East Shaw men's dorm, with 42.2 per cent; West Landon women's dorm, with 7.1 per cent; Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, with 42 per cent; and Howland House Co-op, with 26.7 per cent.

The State News also received a plaque for publicity and new coverage during the drive.

Yemen War: Firing Stops

SAN'A, YEMEN (AP)—A cease-fire halted fighting in Yemen's two-year civil war at 1 p.m. Sunday, President Abdullah Al-Sallal announced. A national unity conference between Sallal's Republicans and dissident Royalists is expected to be held Nov. 23. Sallal said the cease-fire went into effect 12 hours before the deadline agreed upon in Republican-Royalist talks in Sudan last Monday.

"We open our hearts to all our brothers and sons," Sallal said. "And God will forgive the past."

Backed by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, Sallal ousted Imam (king) Mohammed Al-Badr in a revolt Sept. 26, 1962. Badr fled from his palace into the northern hills, where he rallied enough tribal leaders to launch a counter movement.

Nasser sent troops and military equipment to Sallal's forces while Saudi Arabia slipped aid across its border to the Royalists.

In the end, it was Nasser and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia who were credited with bringing about a cease-fire. Sallal called their efforts "brotherly intervention."

Armstrong Pulls Plug On WBRs

WBRs, Brody Radio, has "pulled the wire" on Armstrong Hall radio service.

The move resulted from a 9 to 5 vote by the Armstrong Hall Senate Thursday night against paying the regular $100 WBRs service fee.

WBRs pulled the closed-circuit wire at 10:55 a.m. Friday, about 12 hours after the Armstrong vote.

Armstrong's move was not an unexpected one. Residents said they have been dissatisfied with WBRs for at least a year. Listener surveys indicate this.

A listenership survey taken last fall showed high WBRs ratings in all Brody dorms except Armstrong. Forty-five per cent of Brody listeners in the afternoon were listening to WBRs. However, 18.9 per cent of Armstrong listeners were listening to WBRs compared to 71.7 per cent to WJIM. WBRs either led or was equal to WJIM in listeners in the other Brody dorms.

Two more surveys were established before the Senate meeting Thursday night. Both surveys, according to WBRs station manager "Kip" Arnold, Muskegon junior, were based on listener phone calls to the station.

Vietnamese Petition

Troops Halt Demonstration

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A demonstration demanding the resignation of President Ngo Dinh Diem, who was slain a year ago in a military revolt.

Plans called for the dissidents to march through the streets to add more names to the petitions and later to present the petition to President Suu at his Gia Long palace. But the dissidents' enthusiasm waned as truckloads of unarmed troops rode down a highway past the Buddhist headquarters.

The collapse of a planned march to the palace of President Phan Khac Suu, the ceremonial chief of state, brought the four-day-old government of Premier Tran Van Huong cleanly through its first political crisis. Huong warned dissidents Saturday his government would use force, if necessary, to halt demonstrations.

Despite the warning, the dissident groups began assembling at Buddhist headquarters in Saigon Sunday morning. There they circulated a petition demanding the resignation of the Huong government on the ground that some of its members served the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem, who was slain a year ago in a military revolt.

ters. Then police appeared with clubs.

Late in the morning the dissidents dispersed and Buddhist leaders called off memorial services for a Buddhist follower who died of wounds received during an anti-Diem demonstration last year.

The failure of the demonstration apparently bolstered Huong's new regime. Many had feared widespread demonstrations could plunge the nation into another serious political crisis, further hampering the joint U.S.-Vietnamese military efforts in the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

Meanwhile, on the military front, 24 Vietnamese fighter-bombers—with Air Force Commander Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky flying among them—dropped 120 tons of bombs Saturday into a jungle area near Saigon where about 800 Viet Cong guerrillas are believed operating.

Terry Henderson, Birmingham sophomore, told campus police Saturday the culprit took his car battery, which was fairly new, but replaced it with another.

Foreign Policy Gets New Energy

One of the first areas in which the temperament of the revived Johnson administration will show itself, and the one in which the administration will have the freest hand, is that of foreign policy.

By tradition, the President and his advisors can handle most foreign policy problems almost without control from any other branch of government. The Johnson administration looks as though it is planning to take advantage of its authority in this area, and move to revitalize relations with other nations.

It is reported that Vice President-elect Humphrey will begin traveling around the world even before his inauguration with the President in January. The twin goals, it appears, are to establish Humphrey's major role in the government both at home and abroad and to leave behind the necessarily cautious attitude of the past year and firm up our dealings with our allies.

The NATO alliance is going through the greatest crisis in its history, with French President de Gaulle still intent on following nationalistic policies rather than cooperating with the alliance and with a new socialist government in England promising to move that country toward a position even less committed to leadership of the western alliance.

It may not be possible right away to reverse these trends, or to reduce the apparent feelings among many Europeans that some reconciliation with the Soviet Union, despite its communist philosophy, may be preferable to committing national suicide by standing up to the Kremlin.

A major goal of the Johnson foreign policy should be to reach new understandings with our allies and to redefine the western position in relation to the Soviets.

Not many changes are predicted in the make-up of President Johnson's foreign policy advisory team. All guesses are that Secretary of State Rusk and Secretary of Defense McNamara will remain in the posts they have held for four years, and that most of the President's personal advisors and trusted aides throughout the administration will stay on.

The stability this trend promises can probably be expected to aid our overseas relations.

Johnson's landslide reelection was hailed by world leaders as an indication that the United States is not moving to the right, as Sen. Goldwater's candidacy had threatened, and will continue on its present peace-seeking, calm course in foreign policy.

The major dissenting voice to the chorus of cheers with which the world reacted to the American election was that of Communist China. Peking saw so few differences between the two American candidates that Johnson's victory moved it very little.

But practically every other major nation, on both sides of the Iron Curtain, has hailed the election results.

Western allies and neutral nations, including the Soviet Union, apparently expect new possibilities for negotiations with the West, and foresee a much safer time for the world than would have come if Goldwater had been elected.

There is no real reason to believe that President Johnson and his staff will not seize the opportunity they have been given to step up activities around the world.

The Viet Nam war will probably be given a critical re-examination, and many observers expect to see a speed-up in the fighting there.

The world is in better shape with President Johnson back in office than it would have been with a President Goldwater. We can probably expect to see a lot of activity in foreign affairs as the world adjusts to the thought of Johnson's new authority and power as an elected president.

You'll Have To Leave Now Mr. Hannah. We Have To Go Pick Up The Students.

AUSG Leaders' Goals

Wilchins: Active Student Congress

To The Editor:

In the past Student Congress has viewed itself primarily as an arena for student protest.

The reason for its lack of success in this area is that it has failed to realize that the Board of Trustees is the major governing body of the University, not the administration, faculty or students. Our approach has been unrealistic and misguided.

The present Congress is determined to re-evaluate its position in Student government. We are committed to directing our actions in areas of student need, areas which are more properly within our realm.

The area of academics, often neglected, will be given greater emphasis. Care will be taken to deal with problems in a comprehensive and responsible manner. We will not tolerate individuals who use Congress only to embarrass particular segments of the university community.

Student Congress was established over 13 years ago for the expressed purpose of providing an outlet of service under the auspices of responsible student leadership.

In the following weeks, we shall do our utmost to accept this challenge.

Howie Wilchins
Speaker, Student Congress

In Case Of Fire In CC: Jump?

To The Editor:

During the past few years I and innumerable others have been watching how the Computer Center has continued to be flooded by the new students and classes.

This year, in particular this fall term, the CC is flowing to capacity with students, as is evident by the long waiting lines to get from the third floor down to the ground level.

What would do if a fire should just happen to break out say on the second floor? Take the elevator perhaps? Or perhaps the so-called fire escapes could manage to hold the already overflowing capacity.

No, they most probably could not. But what will the fire authorities say if some unexpected blaze should somehow occur: "Well the building was supposed to be fireproof."

What will the administration do about this? Nothing? Or perhaps wait until a little "something" happens.

Harris: People To People Project

To The Editor:

The People to People Project, being undertaken at Michigan State University this year, will provide an opportunity for Michigan State to take national leadership in the area of student involvement in international relations on a wide scale.

Even though the final plans for the South Viet Nam project have not yet been made public, there is already a wide-spread national interest in it.

The publishers of Reader's Digest have displayed a great deal of interest in the program and have indicated a desire to do a feature story on it once it gets underway.

Wesley Fishel, professor of political science, Michigan State University and member of the advisory board for the project, has found, on two different occasions, a great deal of student and faculty interest in the project. While attending an international relations club convention at Purdue University, Fishel mentioned the possibility of such a project being undertaken at Michigan State and received many questions indicating the desire of many other schools to undertake a similar project.

While visiting Southern Illinois University last week, Fishel was bombarded by student questions concerning the project. The international relations director at Southern Illinois stated that for the first time students showed a real intense desire for student involvement in an international program.

Although, at present, plans are being made specifically for our own project, we are also looking ahead to the future and considering the possibility of having Michigan State University serve as the national co-ordinating center for projects undertaken by other schools across the country.

LBJ's Win Makes History

By Mike Kindman

The election we have just experienced will be recorded as one of the most significant in our history. This is not just for the record-breaking proportion of President Johnson victory or the total destruction of Goldwater conservatism; this election will mark a turning point for both major parties and for the political system as a whole.

1964 leaves no question that we have passed through the demarcation from the post-war period of the 50's to what will be seen as a new period in U.S. history. The decisive vote for the Democratic party and the remarkable switches in party allegiance make it clear that the change that was foreseen in 1960 has now come.

The most notable elections in American history have all signaled significant changes from the policies immediately preceding them.

The election of Andrew Jackson in 1828 was the first time the presidency had been awarded a man from what was then the western part of the nation. The American system of elections was changed significantly that year, and hasn't yet moved back to the "eastern establishment" of the Founding Fathers.

The 1860 election set off the chain of events that led directly to the Civil War. The nation did not move in a beneficial direction that year, but Abraham Lincoln's election marked perhaps the single most significant turning point of the 19th century.

Similarly, the election of William McKinley in 1896, marked the start of what would become the political trends of the 20th century, as well as the defeat of the Populist movement that came close to being the movement of the new century.

The defeat of the progressivism of William Jennings Bryan by the Republican moderation of McKinley left a split in the nation's politics that was not to be healed until at least 1932, and in a sense is still with us.

The same split brought the three-way election race of 1912, in which Woodrow Wilson won out over Republican incumbent William Howard Taft and party-bolting Theodore Roosevelt.

The liberal trend in foreign policy and the emerging world leadership which characterized Wilson's administration brought about the conservative reaction which put Warren Harding into the White House in 1920.

Harding signaled the start of a conservative period that ended in another election, probably the most significant of our times, as Franklin D. Roosevelt ousted Herbert Hoover in the middle of the Great Depression and liberalized the United States as it had never been liberalized before.

The resounding victories of the New Deal in 1932 and 1936, and the changes in government attitude and policies which the New Deal brought have affected every election since then. Not a single conservative has won the presidency since 1932; President Eisenhower could as easily have been a Democrat as a Republican.

This year's election joins the ranks of the biggest in American history for several reasons. Merely the size of President Johnson's popular vote majority, more than 15 million, would make him the most smashing victorious president in history. The rejection of Goldwaterism, unless the Senator's optimistic remarks of concession improbably turn out to be accurate, should put at least a temporary halt to any conservative reaction in this country.

At the same time, the indecisive, give-and-take balance which has marked partisan politics for some two decades suffered greatly last Tuesday. The Democratic majorities in 1936, and even when Eisenhower cut down Stevenson in 1952 and 1956, he had Democratic Congresses to contend with. People voted then for Eisenhower, not for the Republican Party.

Last week, people voted not only for Johnson, but for the Democratic Party he leads. Both the Senate and the House of Representatives are more than two thirds Democratic. State legislatures that haven't been Democratic since FDR's heyday are Democratic once more.

In those states where Republicans have made gains, it is an intelligent, moderate breed of Republicanism that has won. Governor Romney's win in Michigan stands out, but there are also the successful races of Sen. Hiram Fong in Hawaii, Governor-elect Daniel J. Evans of Washington, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Governor-elect Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin and some others to mark the small but useful strength of the Republican Party which will rebuild after this election.

The changes in party lineups this year will be historic. Aside from the scattered victories of moderates, the Republicans' greatest strength was in the former fortress of Democratic strength, the deep South.

Vermont, on the other hand, chose a Democratic presidential candidate for the first time since before there was a Republican Party to vote for.

The tremendous strength of the Democratic Party in this election, in the White House, on Capitol Hill, in the state houses and state capitols, will mark one of the biggest sweeps for a party in American history, and should, if all the signs are right, mark the start of a period of vast and major legislative innovations on every level.

Resolution Rejected

The Campus United Nations rejected a resolution calling for the condemnation of Indonesian government action in Malaysia at its regular meeting Friday night.

This resolution, presented by Ron Ashley, Grand Rapids junior and representative of Malaysia, stated that the Indonesian aggressions were in violation with Article 2, Section 4 of the charter.

The charter states, "All members shall refrain in their international relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state."

Sheikh Noor, Pakistan graduate student and representative for Indonesia, debated that the Indonesian government was fighting a power group, not the people of

'Other Side' Meets Tonight

A meeting will be held today at 9 p.m. in the Union Art Room to discuss the possibility of presenting an opposing view-point to that of Fred Schwarz.

Schwarz, the leader of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, is scheduled to speak in Lansing Tuesday.

In a meeting held Wednesday, a group of students, professors and members of the community announced that it strongly supports Schwarz's right to speak. However, it feels that an opposing point of view does exist and might well be presented at a meeting.

'Hit-Run' Driver Assails Junior

Campus police are seeking an unidentified man in connection with the assault of a Lathrup Village junior on campus early Sunday.

Richard Lawton, 128 Haslett St., told police he was walking across the circle near East Fee Hall when he was nearly struck by a car whose driver screamed at him to "get out of the way."

While the shaken student was getting himself together, the driver stopped abruptly, rushed over and popped Lawton in the eye.

The assailant, believed to be drunk, then jumped back into his car and drove off.

Talk To Be Given On Red Threat

Frederick C. Schwarz, president of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, will speak on "The Communist Threat to America," Monday at 4:30 p.m. in the Erickson Kiva.

His speech is co-sponsored by the Conservative Club and All University Student Government.

The Christian Anti-Communist Crusade founded by Schwarz in 1953, is an organization to promote better understanding of communism.

Members of the organization travel throughout the country holding five-day anti-Communist schools or seminars.

Dr. Schwarz, 51, is a native of Brisbane, Australia. He graduated from the University of Queensland in Brisbane with both science and arts degrees.

He later taught at Queensland Teachers' College in science, while attending medical school. Dr. Schwarz earned his degree in psychology.

He became interested in communism in 1940 after an argument with an Australian Communist. After the debate, he determined to learn all he could about communism.

Schwarz later became an anti-Communist orator and in 1950 gave a two-month lecture tour in the U.S. He returned to the U.S. in 1953, gave up his medical practice and formed the Crusade in Southern California.

He is the author of, "You Can Trust a Communist-To Be a Communist," the 1960 best seller.

Soccer Team Ties St. Louis To Earn Title Deadlock

GEORGE JANES

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

In its most sparkling performance of the season, MSU's soccer team, Saturday battled a powerful St. Louis squad to a 1-1 tie, earning itself at least a share in the Midwest Collegiate Soccer Conference title.

Riddled with injuries, the underdog booters invaded St. Louis and startled the high-flying Billikens before a partisan crowd of 5,000.

"It was a rough and tumble ball game all the way," remarked a pleased Coach Gene Kenney, "and our players fought as hard as possible. They wanted to win this one very badly."

St. Louis was only able to score on a penalty shot by center forward Carl Gentile, which came at 1:18 of the second quarter. George Janes, at inside right, tied the game for MSU at the 17:55 mark of the second quarter.

The score came as Payton Fuller, outside left, centered the ball in front of the St. Louis net. Sidney Alozie, inside left, then head-bumped the ball back to Janes, who drilled it in from 18 yards away.

The NEWS In

SPORTS

Both teams missed scoring opportunities during the second half. MSU literally came within inches of winning the contest when halfback Jean Pierre Diane bumped a shot over the St. Louis goaltender.

The ball failed to completely cross the goal line, and the booters had to be content with a tie.

Halfbacks Manny Ruschinski and Pete Dedich sparked MSU's defensive unit, surprising St. Louis's highly-rated offense. The Billikens had averaged better than 10 goals a game before encountering the Spartans this season.

Van Dimitrious, center forward, played most of the first half, but aggravated a knee injury and had to be taken from the game late in the second quarter.

The game was extended to two five-minute periods but to no avail, and it finally ended in a deadlock.

For the second straight year, MSU has closed out its regular season undefeated. It has gone undefeated in the past five out of nine seasons.

The final choice of the Midwest champion will not be made until after the season has officially ended. Since MSU and St. Louis tied, a vote will be taken among the coaches in the division, to determine the champion or champions.

Indiana's squad, which also boasts an undefeated record, still has three games remaining to be played, and might figure in the title race.

Last year, MSU defeated St. Louis 4-3 at home to win the Midwest championship. St. Louis then defeated State in the NCAA playoffs and went on to win the NCAA title.

Rules for playoff procedure have been revised this year, so that two at-large teams will be selected from the Midwest for the NCAA tournament besides the champion. The first and third place team will meet, while the second place squad will play the top team from the South.

This means that St. Louis and MSU will not meet until later in the tournament schedule, should each remain unbeaten.

'TOP FIVE' CAN DO IT—DITTRICH

Harriers Defend Title Today

By MIKE BROOKS
State News Sports Writer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—State's cross-country team will attempt to defend its Big Ten crown today after a day of study and relaxation.

The Spartans capped their pre-meet workouts Saturday with a "get-acquainted" jog around the Club-site of the conference meet.

With the exception of George Balthrop, a sophomore who has been among the top five Spartans all season, State is in excellent shape.

Balthrop has been bothered by an Achilles tendon aggravated in last Tuesday's workout and was unable to practice Saturday. He will run today, however.

Minnesota is expected to be the Spartans' biggest threat. On Oct. 17, State edged the Gophers 27-28. Minnesota showed good team balance, but was unable to offset several fine individual Spartan efforts.

Wisconsin, second behind State in the Big Ten meet last year, and Indiana, the fifth place team, were both easy prey when MSU opened its season Oct. 10. Purdue and Iowa will also enter teams, but neither will be serious contenders for the title.

On Oct. 30, State showed the balance Coach Fran Dittrich has been working for all season. Dittrich said the first five Spartans would have to finish within 40 seconds of each other to pose a challenge in the championship meet.

That Friday afternoon, the first five were within 30 seconds of each other, as State shut out Northern Illinois 15-42. Eric Zemper and Paul McCollam both broke the Forest Akers record by seven seconds.

Zemper and McCollam, both juniors, gave good performances in last year's Big Ten championship, finishing 11th and 16th respectively.

Senior co-captains Jan Bowen and Mike Kaines will be running in the Big Ten meet for their third time today. Kaines was 39th in last year's meet, but has a good chance to finish in the top five today. Bowen was tenth last year, a long way from his third place finish as a sophomore.

Another senior, Jack Amie, will be running in his first Big Ten meet, along with Tony Hunt, a junior, and Balthrop.

"I think that this is a stronger team than the one that won the title last year," Dittrich said. "The times are better, and so is the time spread between runners."

In last year's meets, State was an easy victor, finishing with 46 points. Wisconsin edged out Minnesota 87-91 for second and Indiana squeaked past Illinois 103-106 for fourth.

Illinois, the supposed host of today's meet, will not be represented this year. The Illini failed to comply with the established deadline for team entries.

Meet scoring is the same as a dual meets. A team score is the sum of its first five runners' places.

The sixth and seventh runners' places serve as blocks to keep opponents from gaining these spots but are not added into the total. These two men, by blocking low enough spots in front of the opponents' fifth man, can decide the meet as easily as the scoring runners.

State has won the Big Ten title 11 out of 14 times since entering the conference in 1950. That year, State had to settle for second, as in 1954 and 1961. The last time State won the individual title was Jerry Young, in 1960. Young was a sophomore at the time.

Dick Sharkey, a sophomore on last year's team lost first place to Al Carius of Illinois. Sharkey is not running this year because of a leg injury.

Savoy, with flat terrain and few obstacles, is what cross-country runners refer to as a "lazy" course. State practices and runs its home meets at Forest Akers, which is known for its steep hills. In meet competition at Savoy, runners have to go over hills three times.

Today's meet will start at 11 a.m. With good Spartan performance, it could be over shortly after 11:20.

Upsets A La Big Ten Spice Up Grid Race

How do you go about winning the Big Ten championship?

Ohio State, Michigan and Purdue each have the answer.

MSU's 21-7 win over the Boilermakers added confusion to the conference race but it still boils down to three-team race between the Buckeyes, Wolverines and Boilermakers.

The Spartans can still hope for a tie for second place which would be a far better finish than most experts had anticipated before the season began.

Ohio State (4-0) could win both the championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl with wins over Northwestern and Michigan.

With victories over Iowa and Ohio State, U-M (4-1) would assure itself of at least a tie for the conference title with Purdue with a 6-1 mark.

If the Boilermakers defeat their final opponents, Minnesota and Indiana, they'll be 6-1 and will hope that Michigan is able to defeat Ohio State.

A tie for the title between Purdue and Michigan would probably result in a Rose Bowl invitation for the Boilermakers. They have never made the trip to Pasadena and they're the only team to stop Michigan this season.

The biggest shock of the Big Ten season came at Columbus Saturday where Penn State rolled to a 27-0 non-loop win over the Buckeyes.

It's no secret that OSU coach Woody Hayes isn't enthusiastic about non-conference games but the size of the Nittany Lion victory is more than anyone could have expected.

At Ann Arbor, Coach "Bump" Elliott defeated his brother Pete for the fifth straight season as the Wolverines clouted Illinois, 21-6. Halfbacks Carl Ward and Jim Dewiler and quarterback Bob Timberlake each scored touchdowns in a contest highlighted by a strong Michigan running game.

Minnesota nipped Iowa, 14-13, at Minneapolis as the Hawkeyes lost on extra points for the second straight week.

Iowa quarterback Gary Snook tossed an 87-yard pass to Craig Nourse for a touchdown with less than two minutes left in the game. The Hawkeyes missed a two-point conversion and a chance to win.

Northwestern snapped a five-game losing streak by topping Michigan, 21-14, at Evanston. The Wildcats used a strong rushing attack to earn the homecoming victory.

In a non-conference battle, Oregon State topped Indiana, 24-14, in a contest marred by several fights. The score was 14-14 at the half but the Beavers wore down the Hoosiers during the final two periods.

Interested growers may contact the MSU Short Course Department for further information.

Flying Club Buying Two More Planes

Two airplanes, a trainer and a cross-country cruiser, will be additions to the Michigan State flying club, according to Jim Popp, president.

The club is selling another trainer to help meet the payments. The planes are being purchased for $9,760 each and the overall financing will run in excess of $16,000.

"We have the biggest flying club in Michigan with more than 90 members and probably the biggest circulation of capital of any club on campus," he said.

The fliers already have $15,000 in their budget and the purchase of the planes is all but completed.

Popp said he felt the club could conceivably fly MSU athletes to away games in the future if they received University backing.

"We already have two commercial pilots," he said, "but something like this won't happen for the next year or two at the earliest."

The club offers a complete program with an opportunity to advance from student pilot to a private pilot to a commercial one.

To become a private pilot, the applicant must put in 200 hours of flying time. By passing a written ten exam and a two and one-half hour flight test, a private pilot, passing physical qualifications, can advance to the title of commercial pilot. All can be achieved through the club.

"It is interesting how many people think that a pilot must have perfect vision," he said, "but a student pilot needs only 20/200 vision while a commercial pilot is required to have 20/50 vision."

"Some commercial pilots even wear glasses while flying," he added.

The club meets every other Tuesday night at 7:30 in Old College Hall and invites any interested student to attend.

"We're primarily interested in people with no flying experience," Popp said.

ACS And You

M.H. Arveson, president of the American Chemical Society (ACS), will speak Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in 333 Kedzie Chemical Laboratory.

Arveson, who is also Coordinator of Research for Amoco Chemicals Corporation, is being brought here by the MSU section of the American Chemical Society.

His topic will be "ACS and You."

ANYONE GOT A MATCH?

A cigarette tycoon with a sagging sales chart; a television "niece" looking for his self-respect; a Southern belle dreaming of her war time lover; and the most wonderful wife in years of American fiction: the biggest, best, funniest novel yet by the author of Rally Round the Flag, Boys!

When Mike Pyle goes skiing...

'Chap Stick' goes along!

"Any guy who spends as much time outdoors as I do really needs 'Chap Stick,'" says the Chicago Bears' star center. "For me, it's a necessity. What with the real raw Sundays on the field, hot summer practice, and winter skiing off-season, my lips used to get weatherbeaten twelve months a year. But a couple of swipes with 'Chap Stick' and my lips feel great--it helps heal them fast!"

A favorite in Canada.

Chap Stick

The lip balm selected for use by the U.S. Olympic Team.

Expert Tells Of Highways

The highways that your children and grandchildren will travel in Century 21 are already being planned, Rex Whitton, federal highway administrator, said at a gathering of MSU College of Engineering alumni Friday night. Whitton praised our interstate highway system in his speech. When completed in 1972, it will include only one per cent of our total highway mileage, but will carry 20 per cent of all highway traffic and will save the taxpayers $11 billion a year, he said. It is currently giving America the priceless benefit of saving 3,500 lives a year through better safety features and will save 8,000 lives a year upon its completion, he added.

Whitton also emphasized the importance of improving the safety and efficiency of the rest of America's highways. He said this could be achieved by improving unsafe areas of roads, safer construction of automobiles and uniformity of traffic signs and signals throughout the nation. Whitton indicated that every citizen has an interest. The decisions now being made will affect the American's personal and business affairs, and those of his children and grandchildren.

tion poll last Monday night. The second was a two-day musical request survey, in which requests were phoned in and written down. In both surveys, the dormitory and the floor of the caller was noted. These surveys showed 17.9 per cent of those calling WBRS were from Armstrong, according to Brody Radio Board Chairman Tom Gunn, Detroit sophomore. Manager Arnold presented the findings of this survey at the Senate meeting before the vote. However, the senators who also ran surveys on their floors, decided to vote against paying WBRS the $100. Arnold plans to bill Armstrong Hall for the period up to the vote. The charge has not yet been determined.

'Seduced': A Skillful Satire

By GEORGE COOK
State News Reviewer

Producer-director Pietro Germi has followed his hilarious satire "Divorce Italian Style" with an equally entertaining and provocative production, "Seduced and Abandoned."

Superficially the film mocks an Italian law that in essence forbids a man to marry a woman who is pregnant.

The film concerns a young man's attempts to escape the ultimatum of his discovered seduction: marry the 16-year-old girl he has seduced or face a prison sentence.

Folk Concert Slated Tuesday

Folk singer Judy Collins and the Modern Folk Quartet will appear 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Auditorium. Miss Collins was voted the "Most Outstanding Female Folk Artist in 1963" by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences.

The Modern Folk Quartet is recognized for its distinctive modern approach to folk singing. Tickets for "A Night with Judy" are available at the Union, Brody, Akers, Wilson, and the International Center, $2 for main floor seats and $1.50 for balcony seats.

ABSF Symposium

Timothy Schobert, Cassopolis junior, will lead the American Baptist Student Fellowship's symposium at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 332 Oakhill Drive. The subject will be "Evaluation of Christian Literature from the Christian Perspective."

His wailing complaint: "Why must I be forced to marry an unchaste woman?"

The entanglements arising from the situation produce a deft, vigorous hilarity that is, however, linked with a feeling of horror and the grotesque. The hypocrisy of the characters suggests an examination of our personal standards might be in order.

"Seduced and Abandoned," currently at the Campus Theatre, is worth seeing, both for its enjoyable, skillfully-handled comedy and for its perceptive social commentary.

College Bowl Teams Register For Contest

Registration for college bowl competition will be Monday through Friday in 330 Student Services from 2 to 5 p.m.

"We have revised the program this year and tried to iron out difficulties we've found in the past two years," said Laura Leichter, All University Student Government (AUSG) director of academic affairs.

There will be two leagues, one for residence halls and one for Greek living units, playing independently of each other. Scholarship chairmen of men's living units are to select a women's living unit as a partner and form four-member teams consisting of two men and two women. Contestants may play on only one team in a given year.

The program covers fields of general knowledge and involves quick recollection of factual information.

formation, Miss Leichter said. She pointed out that it is not a measure of intellectual ability, but a game.

The program consists of two 10-minute question sessions divided by a 10-minute break. The first correct response to questions, called toss-ups, receives the points. All ties are disregarded.

Contestants have 10 seconds in which to answer questions, and the team with the largest number of points is the winner. Bonus questions are spaced throughout the sessions.

Programs will be held at 3 p.m. on Sundays in the Erickson Kiva and Union Ballroom. Moderators will be William Sweetland, professor of humanities, and Alex Cade, assistant professor of social science.

Smothers Brothers To Perform Thursday

Pianist Gives Solo Recital

Pianist Henry Harris, professor of music, will perform works by Brahms, Chopin, Beethoven, Mozart and Ravel, in a solo recital 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in the music auditorium.

Harris has performed with symphony orchestras in Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati and throughout Michigan.

For most of the 10 years he has been a faculty member, he was performer-lecturer on "Piano Profiles," the WKAR radio program. Recently he has been a regular pianist on the WMSB "Great Composers" series.

On the program is Chopin's "Fantasies in F Minor, Op. 49," one of the composer's few large-scale works. It is considered a composition suitable only for the virtuoso pianist.

Most musical faculty members give a recital either by themselves or in collaboration with other members once during the

of their first album, their fame had spread far beyond the "Purple Onion" of San Francisco and won them national television appearances.

Comic brother Tom provides a humor based on an unconcern for his own stuttering bewilderment. Straight-man Dick vainly tries to straighten out Tom's garblings and muffs. The result is light satire.

Tickets for the Smothers Brothers performance are available at the Civic Center and at Paramount News. Prices are $2.50, $3, $3.50, and $4.

Space Seminar

Kwang-Tzu Yang will speak at 4 p.m. today at the weekly seminar on high atmosphere and space in the Engineering Auditorium.

This subject concerns nuclear engines. The College of Engineering sponsors the seminar, and students and faculty members are invited to attend.

Farm Groups Disagree On Increasing Profits

Farmers must make an effort to get their share of profits, a representative of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) said Wednesday night.

John Kuch, National Director for the NFO, said that "farmers are fighting to uphold the American way of life—the family farm—so that democracy will live."

Languages Offered Afar

Florence, Madrid, Barcelona, Cologne and other world-famous European cities will become the winter, spring and summer campuses for American college students participating in a MSU program of language study abroad.

In cooperation with the "Stiftung für Europäische Sprach- und Bildungszentren," the MSU Continuing Education Service is offering intensive programs in French, at Lausanne and Neuchâtel, Switzerland; in Spanish, at Barcelona and Madrid, Spain; in German, at Cologne, Germany; and in Italian at Florence, Italy.

Applications for winter and spring quarter programs are now being accepted.

In addition to classes in conversation, composition, grammar and reading, participants will visit points of historic and geographic interest which become the topics of lectures and seminar-type discussions covering cultural, political, social and economic institutions of the country in which they reside.

To promote use of the foreign language and provide them with opportunities to understand their European counterparts, American students will attend classes and share living accommodations with students from Germany, France, Italy, Spain, Denmark, Sweden and Great Britain.

Additional information about the winter, spring and summer programs may be obtained by writing AMLEC, 12 Kellogg Center, MSU, East Lansing.

Suddenly I Lost My Memory!

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Simply send your request to: Memory Studies, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 5028, Chicago 14, Ill. A postcard will do.

Kuch was one of a five-man panel speaking at the Agricultural Economics Club meeting. The others were Ernie Knochi, secretary of the Ingham County NFO; Norman Fisher, Asst. National Organizational Director for five counties; Norwood Mills, treasurer of the Ingham County NFO; and Bert Schertzing, secretary of the Ingham County NFO.

Kuch said: "Farmers are going into debt at a rate of 1 per cent per year. He said farmers want, and must receive, costs of production plus a profit. The farmer is the only businessman who doesn't make a profit, he said."

"Food is what the world will always need," he said, "and yet, people are leaving the farm at a rate of 100,000 every 30 days."

Higher prices for their products will help keep people on the farm, he said. Higher prices can be forced by "holding action."

The panel mentioned the American Farm Bureau as their opponent in trying to raise prices. Representatives of the American Farm Bureau (AFB) told Alpha Zeta, agricultural honorary, Thursday, that it didn't consider itself the NFO's opponents.

"We are both working for higher prices for the farmer," Larry Ewing of the Michigan Farm Bureau, said.

The only difference, he said, is in principles. The NFO wants to force price raises by holding actions. The AFB hopes to solve the problem by market research, he said.

Don Moore, Manager of the marketing division of the Michigan Farm Bureau explained that by the use of co-operatives, produce can be pooled, thus eliminating the middle man.

"The AFB is primarily interested in marketing," he said. Co-operatives, such as the Michigan Milk Producers' Association and the Michigan Elevator Exchange, advertise to make people use their products more, which ups the demand, and, consequently, prices for the farmer.

Conservative Club President:

'Conservatism Is Still Alive'

By MIKE MORRISON
State News Staff Writer

Far from killing conservatism in American politics, Barry Goldwater's defeat at the polls indicated to conservatives that different tactics must be used in the future, said John P. Dellera, president of the MSU Conservative Club.

This election showed conservatives that their future successes must be based on the endorsement of those who control public opinion—the press, radio, T.V.—he said.

"Goldwater's campaign was premised on the belief that there was a silent vote, a large number of voters who were only waiting for a truly conservative candidate to come along," Dellera pointed out.

"This was a myth. The people in this country are not as a whole ideologically committed. They vote for the candidate endorsed by the opinion makers."

"Once conservatives are able to influence public opinion through the benefit of an impartial press, I feel confident that our political structure will experience a shift to the right," said Dellera.

He believes that the image of Goldwater as a madman advocating nuclear war and the abolition of social security was primarily responsible for his defeat at the polls.

"Despite Goldwater's defeat, the conservative wing of the Republican party will remain a forceful element," Dellera believes.

"It is too early to tell whether Goldwater or someone with his strong conservative principles will be the Republican candidate in 1968," he said, "but it will at least be someone acceptable to the conservatives."

Dellera is not discouraged by the number of Republicans defeated in the Democratic landslide, feeling that most of them were victims of the same factors that worked against the top of the ticket.

Professors To Meet Here For Education Conference

An estimated 450 educators are expected to converge at Kellogg Center Nov. 19-20 for the annual conference of the Michigan Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.

The association is a department of the Michigan Education Association.

"Teaching and Learning: Using What We Know and Searching for What We Need to Know" is the theme of the meeting. A special symposium will apply this topic to local school situations.

Herbert A. Thelen, head of the educational psychology faculty at the University of Chicago, will be the main speaker. Thelen's topic will be "Must We Teach Ignorantly? or The Stubborn Facts About the Teaching-Learning Process."

Other conference speakers will be Earl Kelley, professor of education at Wayne State University; Ned Flanders, research consultant and professor of education at the University of Michigan;

John E. Ivey Jr., dean of Michigan State College of Education; E. Dale Kennedy, Michigan Education Assn. executive secretary; and Wendell M. Hough, president of MASCD and associate professor of education at Wayne State University.

Much of the conference will be devoted to small discussion sessions. Participants may choose from such topics as teacher evaluation, the process of curriculum change, mental health in the classroom and schools as instrument for social change.

William C. Miller, deputy superintendent of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, is conference chairman.

Education Week Throughout Nation

American Education Week, the 44th annual celebration, will be observed Nov. 8-14 with schools across the nation holding open house for parents and citizens.

The nation-wide theme of this year's observance is "Education Pays Dividends" to call attention to the fact that an investment in education pays the highest possible dividend.

Open houses and school programs are traditional with American Education Week to give interested citizens an opportunity to examine the latest teaching methods and equipment.
