Reds Say 36 Downed In Vietnam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Communist jet fighters, identified as Soviet-built MIG 15s and 17s of Korean war vintage, shot down two U.S. Air Force supersonic F105 fighter-bombers Sunday in a 60-plane attack on a strategic bridge 65 miles south of the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi. The Red jets escaped unscathed.

A number of other aircraft were brought down by heavy and accurate groundfire, U.S. officials in Saigon reported. They declined to give the number because rescue operations were under way.

A Red Chinese dispatch said the North Vietnamese claimed 37 enemy planes were downed in three separate U.S.-South Vietnamese air attacks on the north. The dispatch made no mention of the MIGs.

While U.S. Air Force jets pounded the bridge and a power station at Thanh Hoa, 36 South Vietnamese planes hit Ho Chi Minh bridge near the southern border and 41 U.S. Navy planes riddled a North Vietnamese coastal railroad and Route 1 running south.

Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Moore, U.S. Air Force Commander in South Viet Nam, said the subsonic MIGs, bearing North Vietnamese markings, attacked in three flights as the U.S. Air Force jets were about halfway through a 45-minute plastering of the 600-foot suspension bridge and power plant. Despite the MIG challenge, the bridge was rendered unusable and the power plant was about 75 per cent destroyed, Gen. Moore said. He reported the bridge was only moderately damaged in the first attack that drew only a feeble challenge from three MIGs Saturday.

Six MIGs this time presented the first real air challenge to American planes since the attacks on the North began Feb. 7. "The war has clearly entered a new phase with the entry of these MIGs in combat," a U.S. spokesman said.

Cotter Charge On Housing Denied By City Officials

By SUSAN J. FILSON
State News Staff Writer

A candidate for the East Lansing City Council has charged in a letter to some 3,000 registered voters that a proposal for an open occupancy ordinance would require homeowners to sell their property at a price fixed by the city.

THE LETTER

The following is the partial text of a letter mailed to approximately 3,000 registered voters in East Lansing by David A. Cotter, a candidate for the East Lansing City Council in today's election:

Because of the nation wide frenzy over civil rights, it has become unfashionable for anyone to speak out for traditional values and individual rights. We are exhorted to legislate away what is left of our diminishing freedom in exchange for an illusory panacea for racial problems. Shall we allow emotion to rule us? Shall we join the stampede toward an illusory panacea? There is no racial conflict in East Lansing. There never has been.

But there are zealous and well-intentioned reformers among us who would attack and cure all of the social evils of the world.

It follows, then, that if the attack is to go forward, the evils must be created. But how does one create an imaginary evil? The answer is simple. One talks it into existence.

The key weapon in the reformers' drive to correct the alleged evils of discrimination and injustice in East Lansing is the "open occupancy" ordinance--sometimes known as the "fair housing" ordinance. What would an open occupancy ordinance do? Supposedly it would redistribute "rights" and alleviate "injustice."

One draft of an open occupancy ordinance contains substantially the following terms:

- any owner of residential property who desires to sell the property shall list it with the city clerk;
- the city assessor shall appraise the property so listed and set a sale price;
- the property shall be sold to any qualified buyer who offers to purchase it.

One could expect such an ordinance to contain comparable provisions for the lease of houses and income property. Thus a presently innocent city official could, by law, become a petty tyrant with great economic and social power over our lives.

Let's take a closer look at the ordinance itself. Obviously it will have to be construed. What is meant by a qualified buyer? Will the owner be required to sell to a convicted rapist or murderer? Must the apartment owner lease to the swindler, the burglar and the child-molester?

Such an ordinance, no matter how carefully drafted, would take away traditional rights. It would be discriminatory. It would interfere with the right of contract. It would be class legislation. It would put local government in the real estate business with a vengeance. It would give local government absolute control over real property.

I oppose the open occupancy ordinance, and if I am elected to the City Council, I will resist such an ordinance. An open occupancy ordinance will solve no problems, but it will create them.

At the present time every property owner in East Lansing is guaranteed by law the freedom to sell or lease his property to any person. But he is not compelled to sell or lease. No person is entitled to preferential treatment under the law. If I am elected to the council, I will not trade any part of your freedom and mine for any measure of repression, no matter how enlightened it seems to be.

David A. Cotter

David A. Cotter asserted in his letter that "one draft of an open occupancy ordinance would require homeowners to sell their homes to any qualified buyer at a price determined by the city assessor."

City officials flatly state that no such proposal has ever been brought to the attention of any person involved in East Lansing city government. Said City Attorney Raymond R. Campbell:

"As a matter of fact, I've never heard of this type of ordinance being proposed anywhere in the country. As city attorney, I've heard of a good many plans for ordinances, but never one which remotely resembled this."

Cotter says that he "is not at liberty" to reveal the identity of the persons whom he says have drafted such an ordinance.

Mrs. Mary P. Sharp, another candidate for the City Council, commented:

"I am shocked that a candidate for City Council in East Lansing would issue such a statement, especially since Mr. Cotter previously circulated a petition declaring that he believed in the principle of open housing but not by compulsory means."

"On the weekend before the election he now demands that all candidates for City Council state their position on this issue, completely ignoring the fact that I have been the only candidate who from the very beginning of this campaign has clearly and unequivocally said that I am op-

Two Campaign For City Judge

East Lansing voters will elect two City Council members and a municipal judge today.

More than 2,800 registered voters in Spartan Village, University Village and Cherry Lane Apartments are eligible to participate in the election, City Clerk Mary Slavik points out that only 38 of these students voted in the City Council primary earlier this year.

"Any student registered in precincts 7, 8 and 10 is eligible to vote today," said Miss Slavik.

Voting will take place at the regular precinct polling places used in the last presidential election. The polls will be open until 8 p.m.

The City Council members will be elected from a field of four candidates. They are Donald S. Barrett, owner of an auto parts shop; David A. Cotter, an insurance agent and real estate appraiser; Mrs. Mary P. Sharp, a member of East Lansing's Human Relations Commission; incumbent councilman Max R. Strother, an assistant to the MSU purchasing agent.

All of the candidates have declared their opposition to an open occupancy ordinance. Strother, Barrett and Cotter all say that racial discrimination is not a problem in East Lansing.

Mrs. Sharp maintains that racial discrimination is a problem here. She says she favors achieving open occupancy through "mediation and conciliation."

Voters will also decide on a proposal to raise the pay of City Council members from $5 to $25 per meeting. The proposal would

'Teach-In' Organized By Faculty

The MSU Faculty Committee for Peace in Viet Nam has organized a "teach-in" beginning at 8 p.m. Thursday in Anthony Hall.

Students, faculty and interested off-campus persons are invited to attend the all-night "teach-in" marathon in which activities are scheduled until 2:30 a.m. Friday.

The MSU administration has agreed to open its facilities until that time.

Women's dormitory curfew has been extended until 2:30 a.m. for those who want to attend the meeting.

Among the off-campus speakers are political scientist Stanley Millett, long-time resident and teacher in Viet Nam, and Alexander Ekstein, China specialist and economist at the University of Michigan.

Professor of anthropology John D. Donoghue, the chairman of the Viet Nam committee, said several other renowned lecturers will participate.

In addition, spot speakers representing various political parties, religious organizations and government groups will deliver brief talks.

Folksingers will be featured intermittently.

The purpose of the "teach-in" is to acquaint the audience with views and information on Viet Nam and U.S. policies in Southeast Asia, Donoghue said.

"This information is not generally available in the press or in official government information releases," he said.

"The committee believes that

Douglas Against Influence

Senator Raps Special Interest Groups

By JO BUMBARGER
State News Staff Writer

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., attacked the influence of special interests on legislation in a speech here Friday, using income taxes and oil and gas regulations as examples.

"It is estimated that if equal incomes were taxed equally, the tax rates could be cut in half," Douglas said.

He accused groups such as the Building and Loan Associations of trying to block public interest bills, and suggested that government commissions have not always enforced existing regulations.

"A diffused general interest is always the hardest to defend," he stressed, illustrating his points with bills which have come before him.

The senator said tax loopholes are making the present revenue system a shambles.

"When one hole is left open, everybody else thinks he should have equal favors," he said.

Research has discovered 20 persons with annual incomes of over $5,000 who legally pay no federal taxes, including one person with an income of $26 million, he explained.

Douglas suggested a withholding tax on dividends and interest savings as a way to equalize reported revenue.

He said 97 per cent of wages and salaries are reported to the Internal Revenue Service under the withholding tax, while an estimated 10 per cent of dividends and 33 per cent of interest earned go unreported.

Building and Loan Associations were instrumental in spreading misleading, although true, information about such a bill which was defeated, he said.

"We found the reason was not that it would be too much trouble for them, but that the interest is usually added to the principal," explained Douglas.

"The bill would cut the amount of revenue investments and the general rate of growth of the institutions would decrease."

The senator also objected to depletion allowances given to gas and oil companies.

"Oil is a fortuitous gift of nature which gives private in-

For Progressive Leadership: Mrs. Mary Sharp

Can vicious smears win an election in East Lansing?

The State News joins responsible citizens of this city in deploring the campaign tactics of David A. Cotter, one of four candidates for the East Lansing City Council in today's election.

In a letter circulated to some 3,000 registered voters Thursday, Cotter charged that "one draft of an open occupancy ordinance" would require property owners to sell their homes to any buyer at a price determined by the city assessor.

Cotter has not offered a shred of evidence to prove the existence of such a plan for an ordinance--on paper or in the mind of any resident of this community. He says he is "not at liberty to disclose the people who are behind this ordinance."

Responsible city officials--including the Mayor, the City Attorney, the chairman of the Human Relations Commission and several realtors--have flatly denied that any ordinance resembling the one in Cotter's letter has ever been suggested to anyone connected with East Lansing's city government.

The letter is couched in inflammatory terms which would do credit to the old Hearst scandal sheets or to the demagoguery of a George Wallace. Cotter asks:

"What is meant by a qualified buyer? Will the owner be required to sell to a convicted rapist or murderer? Must the apartment owner lease to the swindler, the burglar and the child-molester?"

This type of crudity has never appeared in an East Lansing election before. The State News urges the voters of this city--including 2,800 married students and several thousand faculty members--to vote against such smear tactics at the polls today.

Two City Council members will be elected from a field of four candidates. Mrs. Mary P. Sharp is the most outstanding of these candidates.

A member of the East Lansing Human Relations Commission, Mrs. Sharp has made her position on open occupancy clear from the beginning of the campaign. She is in favor of achieving open occupancy through conciliation and mediation. She does not support an ordinance at this time, because she believes that it would result in civil disorders similar to those in Ann Arbor and Detroit.

Mrs. Sharp has lost some support from both sides for her stand on open occupancy. Some members of our community would like to bury their heads in the sand and deny the existence of racial discrimination in East Lansing. Others feel that Mrs. Sharp has not gone far enough in support of open occupancy.

Nevertheless, it takes some measure of courage to stick to a position when you are under fire from both sides. Mrs. Sharp is the only candidate who recognizes the fact that racial discrimination and injustice are pressing problems in East Lansing.

With a long record of community and public service, Mrs. Sharp is highly qualified to serve on the City Council. She will provide a sorely-needed progressive voice on that Council.

The State News finds it difficult to extend unqualified support to either of the two remaining candidates.

Max R. Strother was one of the most vocal opponents of open occupancy legislation on the City Council last spring. He believes that discrimination is "not really a problem" in East Lansing.

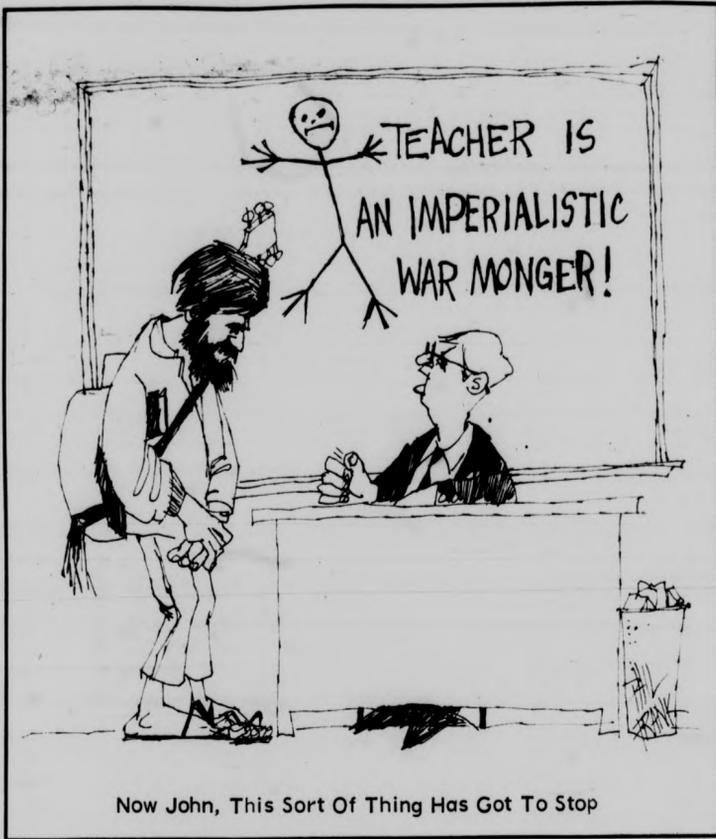

Donald S. Barrett, a newcomer to politics, seems somewhat wishy-washy on the subject. He has not made any public statements on the problem of discrimination in East Lansing.

However, Strother has served on the City Council for 16 years. It is possible that Barrett would be more receptive to new ideas and new policies.

Neither Barrett nor Strother has used the low campaign tactics exemplified in Cotter's letter. The State News believes that Cotter's unsubstantiated charges have disqualified him from any further consideration by responsible voters.

For municipal judge, the State News urges support for William K. Harmon, a 37-year-old attorney. William H. Wise, the incumbent, has served as justice of the peace and municipal judge in East Lansing for a decade. We believe that city government is best served when municipal offices change hands regularly.

We urge every registered student and faculty member to join thousands of other citizens of this city in an overwhelming vote for progressive, responsible community leadership.

Criticizes Commencement Speech

To the Editor:

It is extremely unfortunate that students of this University who graduated at the Winter Commencement were subjected to the incredible oration which Rep. Gerald R. Ford delivered himself. After hearing President Hannah's introduction of Rep. Ford, I was under the impression that an impressive discourse would follow. Instead, Rep. Ford displayed a lack of insight into American ways of life and American problems that was frightening--considering, as Dr. Hannah put it, his rapid rise in the political theater of this country.

If, indeed, we do have "procedures in our units of government, in the courts of the land, by which controversies can be settled with dignity and justice," one wonders why conditions that should have been eradicated a century ago produce the much-maligned demonstrations Rep. Ford so harshly criticized, today. In any case, I thought any responsible government representative would see these wrongs, not as matters of controversy, but, indeed, as wrongs that must be righted.

It is to be hoped that the selection of Commencement speakers, and awarding of Michigan State University honorary degrees, will in future produce more distinguished representation at our University's Commencements.

Praises Courtesy Of Campus Police

To the Editor:

This afternoon my daughter was stopped on campus by a University patrol car for an infraction of the law. Although there was some confusion in our minds, ignorance of the law is no excuse, and the officer was entirely within his rights in giving us a ticket.

He very courteously explained our error, and pointed out the consequences of everyone's doing what we had done and the necessity for the ruling. We certainly would have paid the ticket willingly, but he merely issued the verbal warning.

Then to come home and read about the police brutality in Selma, Ala. The politeness and courtesy of our campus patrolman is something to be commended and cherished.

Candidates Present Views

Don Barrett

Donald S. Barrett, 37, has been a resident of East Lansing for 12 years. He is the owner of an auto parts shop. A member of the East Lansing Chamber of Commerce, Barrett was one of the founders of the Independent Garage Owners of Michigan.

He advocates expansion of parking facilities and safety services in East Lansing.

"Not only do we have a population increase by virtue of birth rate, but the University is ever-expanding, and the continuous building of new subdivisions, plus annexation, only multiply these existing problems of traffic planning, public protection, street improvement, sewage and water--the latter being a very serious problem at present."

On University-city relations, Barrett says: "The University and East Lansing are closely related, and there must be close cooperation between the two. Parking and housing are two major problems at the moment. Just because East Lansing has close relations with the University doesn't mean that MSU will 'run' the town."

On student participation in community affairs:

"I think it's fine for students to participate in community affairs, but only if they plan to settle down and own property in the town--only if they are sincerely interested in East Lansing."

On open occupancy: "I don't believe that any open occupancy ordinance is needed. I really don't think that evidence has established that discrimination against minorities is a great problem in East Lansing. There aren't too many minority groups who live here."

On housing:

"I am interested in the real-estate zoning and other pertinent issues of real estate, but I don't believe they would have the first priority. So far this year, there doesn't appear to be any housing shortage with the construction of new apartment buildings. I have no extensive real estate holdings, and not being in the real estate business, I will be objective regarding any issues that may come up in the future. I am opposed to the city government interfering in the business of real estate."

D. Cotter

David A. Cotter, 50, has been a resident of East Lansing for 30 years. He owns an insurance agency in the city. He is also a member of the Lansing chapter of real estate appraisers.

Cotter is the president of the Michigan Children's Aid Society and a member of the Mayor's Recreational Development Committee and the East Lansing Citizen's advisory committee on population trends and school facilities.

He says that "money--or the lack of it" is one of the biggest problems facing the East Lansing city administration.

Cotter, who is dubious about the $40,000 contribution which East Lansing made toward the construction of the Bogue Street Bridge, says that "the city council needs some members with the courage to say 'no' to some of the schemes proposed to it--even when pressure groups are pushing certain proposals."

On University-city relations, Cotter says:

"They're both here. The college needs East Lansing, and East Lansing needs the college. Cotter says, should be expanded."

On open occupancy:

"I oppose any statute or ordinance which would compel an owner of property to sell or lease his property under conditions unacceptable to him. The force and power of government, which derives its authority from the people, should not be employed to crush the rights of the people."

"Right now any property owner in this community is guaranteed by law the right to sell or lease his property to any person he wishes--regardless of race or religion. But he is not compelled to sell or lease. We need no further laws in this field."

"Every person is entitled to full and equal protection of the law. Every resident of the community is entitled to the public services that the community provides. Every person is entitled to courtesy, dignity and respect. But no person is entitled to have preferential statutes and ordinances enacted in his behalf."

Mary Sharp

Mrs. Mary P. Sharp, 48, has been a resident of East Lansing for 17 years. A graduate of the University of Michigan law school, Mrs. Sharp is a member of the East Lansing Human Relations Commission.

She has served on the Michigan Fair Employment Practices Commission, the United Community Chest Board, the Community Services Council and the Michigan Welfare League Board.

She says: "One issue which seems to be of concern to our citizens has several elements, but might best be expressed as a feeling that the Council needs to develop more imaginative and progressive approaches to our problems; that it needs to be more responsive to various interest groups in the community; that we could draw more upon the many talents in our midst; that there needs to be more discussion before decisions are made; and that it should provide more leadership in promoting good relations between town and gown."

On open occupancy: "Racial discrimination in housing exists in East Lansing, and it is ridiculous to deny this. At one time, I sincerely believed that an ordinance was the best way to secure equal rights for all of our citizens. However, the reaction against such ordinances in California and Detroit and the civil disturbances in Ann Arbor have convinced me that an ordinance at this time will not be as effective as mediation and conciliation. However, I believe the city must provide active leadership in the fight to eliminate discrimination."

On student participation in community affairs:

"Students are a vital part of this community, and I believe they have every legitimate right to voice their opinions in community affairs. I believe that East Lansing will be a better place because of this."

On relations between "town and gown":

"We must realize that the University and East Lansing do not stand in opposition to each other, that they have mutual interests and mutual concerns. The tremendous growth of MSU has posed new problems which must be met by progressive action on the part of the City Council."

M. Strother

Max R. Strother, 56, has been an East Lansing resident for 45 years. He is the assistant to the MSU purchasing agent.

Strother has been a member of the East Lansing City Council for 16 years. He served as mayor for six years. He has worked on the city traffic commission and the downtown planning committee.

Strother is a strong advocate of more parking facilities. He says, "I've been in favor of this and I've been working for it since 1947."

Strother has said many times that he is opposed to an open housing ordinance. He was the most vocal opponent of an ordinance when it was proposed at a City Council meeting last spring. He said at the time:

"In matters pertaining to real estate, there is a matter of rights, the right of an individual to dispose of his property as he sees fit. His reasoning should be his own."

Strother says he has no objection to students participating in community affairs, but he says they should not "single out one group like the Human Relations Commission for special attention."

He believes that:

New traffic patterns will have to be established to better serve the citizens and our neighbors from all directions from outside as well as within the city. City planning will have to tie this and the development together. Recreational areas will have to be developed in sections of the city where they will be of most value to the citizens.

A serious look at the ordinances during the recodification, which is in progress, to assist in keeping the community the type we will be proud of.

Many problems have arisen with the multi-housing buildings concerning litter and handling the trash and rubbish and the carelessness of those involved. This will have to be taken care of and worked out with the owners, as well as the parking facilities around these housing units, and to set up standards for the future buildings.

I hope to continue to give of my knowledge and service and of myself, for good government for the citizens and our beautiful city.

Judge To Be Elected

When East Lansing voters elect two city council members for four-year terms, they will also elect a municipal judge.

Candidates are William K. Harmon, an attorney, and incumbent judge William H. Wise.

Harmon has written that the Canons of Judicial Ethics should provide the best guide for a judge.

"A judge should be courteous to counsel, especially to those who are young and inexperienced, and also to all others appearing or concerned in the administration of justice in court."

Wise is running for a second term. He says that "fair and prompt" administration of justice in municipal court is a basic ingredient of orderly progress in a community.

also raise the yearly special allowance for the mayor from $30 to $1,200.

A municipal judge will also be elected today. Candidates are William K. Harmon, 34, and incumbent judge William H. Wise, 65.

Harmon is a graduate of MSU and the University of Detroit Law School.

Wise has served as municipal judge since 1961.

Latest Attacks Annoy Hanoi

TOKYO--A broadcast from Hanoi says the North Vietnamese cabinet has met in special session to decide what steps must be taken after the latest U.S. attacks. The broadcast said the cabinet decided its most pressing duty is to defend North Viet Nam, but did not mention any specific steps that might be taken.

Hungary "Free" 20 Years

BUDAPEST--Hungary celebrated the 20th anniversary of its liberation from the Nazis Sunday with a military parade including new Soviet rockets and supersonic planes. In close imitation of Soviet military parades in Red Square, Hungarian ground, air and Danube River flotilla troops marched past premier Janos Kadar and a group of Communist delegates from several countries, including Soviet President Anastas I. Mikoyan.

Bomb Attempt Uncovered

DA NANG, Viet Nam--Police seized a man Sunday in the Grand Hotel carrying a little more than a pound of plastic explosive in a small radio. Civilian and military police, Vietnamese and Americans, then emptied the hotel and made a thorough search without result. The hotel, in downtown Da Nang, is the largest in the city and many of its occupants are U.S. military personnel. These include members of a new military police detachment that arrived here two days ago to provide security around American billets and installations in the Da Nang area.

Indonesians Caught In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia--Seven Indonesian guerrillas were killed and one captured in an ambush set by government forces Saturday in the swampy jungles of Malaysia's mainland, a defense ministry spokesman reported Sunday. He said the ambush led to a 20-minute pitched battle marked by heavy automatic weapons fire. No casualties were reported on the government side.

Laser May Have Hidden Danger

DETROIT--New Army-supported research suggests that the magnetic light of laser beams may have hidden dangers for man in industrial and medical use, a scientist reported Sunday. Dr. Edmund Klein of Buffalo, N.Y., did so in urging increased awareness by researchers of the "potential hazards" of the powerful beams, both to themselves and to medical patients receiving them.

China In Trouble

TAIPEI, Formosa--President Chiang Kai-shek said Sunday people on the China mainland are in a serious plight and asked the Free China Relief Assn. (FCRA) to give them more aid. Chiang issued the call in a message to the FCRA, which has been air-dropping supplies to the Communist mainland. The association, which is marking its 15th anniversary, said it has spent $9.8 million on relief for mainland inhabitants since 1950, including 106 airdrops. It also paid for supplies delivered to the mainland by balloons sent aloft from the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Britons Protest U.S. Action

LONDON--London police Sunday dispersed a crowd of about 150 who tried to demonstrate in front of the U.S. Embassy to protest American actions in Viet Nam. They marched there from a rally in Trafalgar Square while a leader, Canon John Collins of St. Paul's Cathedral, went to 10 Downing St. to hand in a letter for Prime Minister Harold Wilson expressing the same sentiments.

March Tested

SELMA--Negro leaders hoped to muster hundreds here today to register to vote on the first registration day since the much publicized 50-mile march from Selma to Montgomery led by Martin Luther King Jr. Civil rights leaders called off street demonstrations and mass meetings here the last five days to concentrate on voter registration for today.

Decision Due On Flint

The bubbling pot of controversy over the expansion of the Flint branch of the University of Michigan is expected to finally be served up by the state Board of Education this week.

Board President Thomas Brennan told United Press International the eight-member board probably will come to a decision on the explosive issue at a closed meeting Tuesday night in Lansing.

The controversy began in February when Gov. George Romney failed in his budget message to recommend funds for the addition of the first two years to the current junior- and senior-level instruction at Flint.

The governor said any expansion by the state universities should wait for a master plan for higher education in Michigan to be formulated.

University of Michigan President Harlan Hatcher then defied both the governor and the board by admitting 126 of an expected freshman class of 200 for next September had been accepted to the school.

The Flint-based Mott Foundation has chipped in $2.4 million dollars already to help construct the facilities needed for the expansion.

The quarrel between Romney and Hatcher boils down to one basic point. Romney believes there should be a statewide plan for higher education first and expansions later.

Hatcher says the need for new facilities demands that some action be taken now without dependence on additional studies.

The state Board of Education is the chief "planning and coordinating body for all public education" in the state.

It has no technical power -- however -- over the constitutionally autonomous state universities.

The board has been studying the problem at the request of the Senate Appropriations Committee from whom university officials and Flint citizens are requesting funds for the expansion program.

The board held public hearings in Flint March 4 -- has met with the Board of Regents of the university twice -- has sat with the Senate Appropriations Committee in studying the problem -- and has had a chance to study the recommendations of the Governor's Blue Ribbon Committee on Higher Education issued March 19.

That report recommends "appropriate ways" be found to provide Flint with a four-year college.

Many educators believe Flint would be better served by combining the freshman- and sophomore-level courses at the Flint Community Junior College with the final two years offered by the University of Michigan in Flint.

Brennan says he also has appointed a committee to "gather information" on the question of whether to establish a medical school at Michigan State.

Critic Gives First Talk In Series

Alfred Kazin will discuss "Tradition As Style: The Education of Henry Adams" this afternoon as the first in his series of provost lectures.

He will speak at 4 p.m. in Fairchild Theatre.

The general title of the series is "The Imagination of Society: American Novelists and Story-tellers."

The schedule for the week is as follows: Tuesday, "The Poet of the Big City: 'Leaves of Grass' to 'Specimen Days,'" Thursday, Howells and the Novel of Manners and Friday, "Dreiser and the Coming of Naturalism."

His appearance is sponsored jointly by the Honors College and the All University Student Government (AUSG) department of academic affairs.

Kazin, presently is distinguished professor of English at the State University of New York at Stony Brook, Long Island, and has received both the Guggenheim and Rockefeller fellowships.

He is the author of several books including "Contemporaries," "The Inmost Leaf," "On Native Grounds" and "Walker in the City."

Writers Play Name-Game For Cage Coach

Goodrich Hurls 5-Hitter

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Baseball coach Danny Livshiller may have found the substitution for the great hitting he enjoyed last spring.

Much of the sting is gone from Spartan bats with the graduation of All-American first baseman Jerry Sutton and All-Conference outfielder Joe Porrevecchio but State's pitchers have more than compensated for the lessening of hitting power.

The Spartans closed out their successful spring training tour with a 10-3 mark Saturday after blanking Wake Forest 6-0 behind the five-hit pitching of righthander Jim Goodrich.

But Goodrich wasn't the only Spartan hurler throwing goose eggs. Rollie Walcott went the distance the day before beating Duke 4-2 and allowing eight hits. The Blue Devils got their only runs in the second inning on a two-run home run.

Howie Miller and Fred Devereux, both righthanders, combined to defeat Florida State by the same score in the second game of the Friday doubleheader.

State hitters, meanwhile, were not hitting the ball with the authority they demonstrated a year ago. The Spartans got only seven in the Wake Forest victory and four enemy errors led to two of State's 5 runs.

The Spartans collected just three hits against Duke and only one extra base blow, a double by third baseman John Biedenbach, but four Duke errors led to the Spartan win.

The team flew home to East Lansing immediately after the Wake Forest contest.

Season Rerun Sees Fencers Split Meets

State's fencing team ended a delayed season on a familiar note Saturday ... winning one meet and losing another.

In its only home show of the season, the Spartans had little trouble in disposing of Indiana

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

If Alfred Hitchcock were writing a story about the Michigan State basketball team he'd call it "The Case of the Missing Man."

That's the situation facing Spartan cage fans who are waiting for a surprise ending in the search for a successor to Fordy Anderson.

The list of possible successors is growing longer every day but fans don't know any more about the situation than they did Thursday afternoon when Anderson was officially relieved of his duties as head coach.

Names most frequently mentioned by sports writers throughout the state include John Bennington of the University of St. Louis and Bob Stevens of Oklahoma. Each has had a successful tenure at his respective school and each served as an assistant to Anderson and former coach Pete Newell.

Other possibilities include Vanderbilt coach Roy Skinner and Tennessee mentor Ray Mears.

Mears helped conduct a basketball clinic at MSU last fall before guiding the Volunteers to a successful season.

The second part of the two-part mystery concerns the fate of Anderson who indicated that he would like to remain with the University in some capacity.

An Associated Press story noted the possibility of Anderson being named to a coaching job with the Detroit Pistons. That, too, is conjecture.

Despite a 1-13 record in the Big Ten, Spartan hopes appear brighter for next year.

Firing: Too Late Or Too Soon

RICHARD SCHWARTZ
State News Sports Editor

In baseball, it's three strikes and you're out. Boxing gives you an 8 or 10 count.

And basketball ...

Well, if you're the head coach at Michigan State, the number "13" is more than unlucky—it's unacceptable.

At least that was the view taken by Athletic Director Clarence (Biggie) Munn Thursday in leveling the axe on Coach Fordy Anderson whose Spartans could scrounge up but a single victory in the face of 13 defeats this season.

"It was a most difficult decision for me to make," Munn said, "but our basketball fortunes of late have not been what we'd like them to be, and in order to improve the picture, this decision was made."

Make no mistake. Forrest A. Anderson, a man of many moods indeed, has but one today.

Bitterness.

Sure, his public declarations were worded with a modicum of resentment, but the terseness tells you it's something more than mere disappointment.

"It is with deep regret that I learn of being relieved of my duties as basketball coach at Michigan State ... I am sorry Mr. Munn does not consider me adequate to continue the duties involving the basketball fortunes of Michigan State and for this I am deeply disappointed."

Need one read between the lines?

On paper, Anderson must live with the fact that not only was this season's 10th place finish the most unsuccessful in the annals of Spartan basketball, but it came amid a bleak epoch, the 60's, in which only one team has placed in the first division.

Perhaps that is ample ammunition to sound the gun, but it is difficult to understand the timing of the firing.

Simple logic would argue that if Anderson was to be bounced, the time was two years ago or a year from now. Either it should have come on the heels of four straight unsuccessful seasons or else after Anderson has showed what he can do when the "best freshman team in the Big Ten" becomes the sophomore and plays beside the likes of Stan Washington and Bill Curtis.

As for the abrupt, yet dilatory manner in which the announcement was made, one has only to wonder the why's and wherefore's of relieving a coach of his duties a month after a season is over and at a moment when he is in the throes of recruiting.

Generally a coach is notified of any decision immediately after the season is ended. This allows him to feel out the market at the post-season coaches' meeting in Chicago. Likewise, it hastens the selection of a successor and smoothes the transition process.

If, as word has it, Anderson's present recruiting effort could prove the match for last year's, you readily see the predicament this lends itself to.

Let's say you're Lee Lafayette, the most sought-after high-schooler in Michigan, and acknowledged as a top prospect for accepting an MSU bid May 1. How would it sound to hear an assistant coach tell you how his old boss was a nice guy, but the new fellow, well, he's also nice ... maybe nicer.

Yet nobody even knows who the new guy will be.

No, you want to know whether there's a coach who can deliver. Does he have the ingredients you think are essential to develop the best that's in you.

Firing connotes insecurity, uncertainty, failure, desperation, lack of leadership.

Contrast this with another Michigan university where Big Ten championships and NCAA accomplishments create an atmosphere of contentment, stability and confidence.

Curiously enough, when jobs have been taken at Anderson's performance, they have dwelled on his inability as a recruiter—not as a coach. Certainly when he has had the talent—and he did during most of his career at Bradley University and at least part of his 11-year stint here—the bright lights shone.

Now, when it appears that Anderson has finally tapped at talent for upcoming campaigns, he is suddenly held to account as never before for past failures.

It was Anderson himself who promised that "this is the last season we'll have to suffer."

"If you don't think this school has a basketball tradition," he said, "just hang around the next four years."

No doubt he meant it, and was set on proving his word. Should he not at least have had this one, final chance?

'Half For Me, For You'

Although the "splits" was not among the events scheduled Saturday night at the Lansing State Journal-Spartan High School Relays at Jenison Field House, both Roseville and Ypsilanti of Class A performed the feat.

The two teams tied for first-place honors at the second annual meet with 17 points apiece and then actually set about the task of physically splitting the trophy in half, while a crowd of 2,274 cheered them on. Birmingham Seaholm placed third with 15 points.

Defending Class B champions River Rouge took first again in the meet Friday evening, amassing a total of 25 points. Romulus placed second with 17.

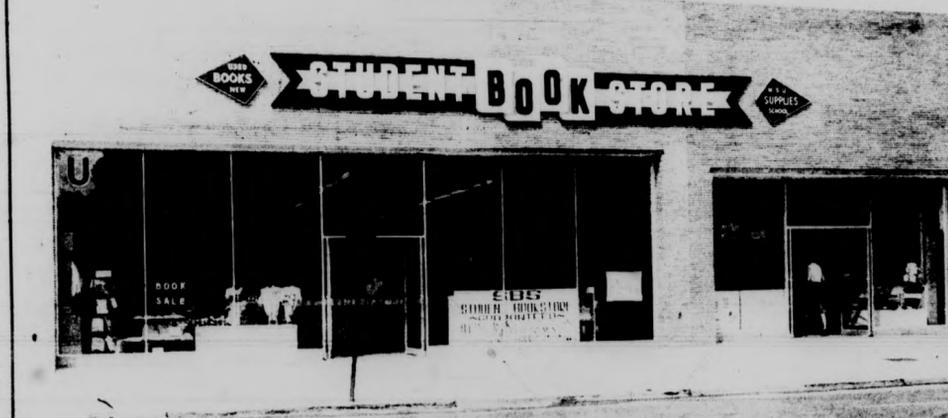

Records fell in almost every event, and two athletes from Mt. Clemens along with one from both Battle Creek and Kalamazoo turned in performances that would have placed in this year's Big Ten indoor meet.

The Class A struggle wasn't decided until the final event of the meet, the mile relay, which Roseville took, with a 3:28.6 performance. Ypsilanti placed second at 3:36.6, which tied it with Roseville for the championship.

Acting Excellent In 'Green Eyes'

Good directing added to skillful acting makes "The Girl with Green Eyes," running through Thursday at the State, something more than just a tender love-story.

An Irish girl (with green eyes) falls in love with a romantic writer-explorer twice her age. She becomes his mistress, but the fixity of his ways conflicts with her youthful exuberance, and he leaves her. She is broken-hearted, but her youth and buoyancy heal the wound, and she is made more mature by the experience.

It is a simple story, and is treated tenderly, with touches of poignant humor. Rita Tushingham plays the girl, Katie, an innocent child who finds her first love. She brings the characterization off beautifully.

The best performance, however, is that of Peter Finch, as the writer-explorer. The character has seen life, and in the process has lost his capacity for such single-minded love as Katie's.

The only trouble is that the director, Desmond Davis, is too good for the material. The plot comes straight from the pages of "Ladies' Home Journal," while Davis is equipped to handle deeper and more significant material.

The result is a degrading effect on some of the directing for example, just as Katie opens her door to meet her lover to go to his country home, the church-bells of the town start ringing--and off she goes leaving the door ajar.

Despite the limitations of the material, Davis presents some quite good sequences. When Kate's happiness is at its fullest, she and her lover carry on the same conversation throughout scene shifts, from street to cafe to seashore.

While this, too, is obviously unrealistic, it is a novel technique that is wonderfully suited to its intended effect.

The movie is fair, but only because Davis' directing skill wins out over the mediocrity of the plot. Hopefully, Davis will come up with something more suited to his abilities in the future.

Visiting hours are 2-4 p.m. and 7-8 p.m.

2-Year Probation Set For Chieger

A former MSU student has been placed on two years probation for negligent homicide.

Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash Friday placed Robert D. Chieger, 19, Bloomfield Hills sophomore, on probation and ordered him to pay $300 court costs in the Oct. 18 traffic death of William M. Wetzel, 21, East Detroit sophomore. Chieger pleaded guilty.

Wetzel was killed as he was crossing Chestnut Road near East Wilson Hall at 1:20 a.m. Oct. 18. His leg was severed by the impact and he died three hours later at Edward W. Sparrow Hospital.

Chieger, who had formally withdrawn from MSU after the fall term accident, was charged with "wanton, willful and reckless disregard of traffic laws." He was also accused of "speeding, accelerating his automobile while it was dark and limiting his ability to observe pedestrians in the area of two large dormitories, where he should have realized other persons would be on the streets."

Wetzel was one of three MSU students killed in automobile accidents over one of the most tragic weekends in recent history. He was the first pedestrian killed on a campus street. University police said.

posed to an ordinance and committed to a policy of education and voluntary negotiation to achieve civil and human rights.

"East Lansing has always been proud of the high character of its election campaigns. I think it is tragic that anyone would attempt to inject the racial issue into this campaign at this time, particularly in a manner which can only be described as inflammatory and demagogic. I have never seen or heard of such an ordinance as he describes, and I would be unalterably opposed to it."

"I regret very much this violation of the fair and honest spirit which has always marked our public discussion of community problems in East Lansing."

Max R. Strother and Donald S. Barrett, the two remaining candidates for council, did not comment on Cotter's letter.

come," he contended. "In a sense any profits made after the original expenses are recovered is a windfall."

He suggested that the depletion allowance has been leading to over-investment and more rapid exhausting of resources.

"These specific allowances have touched off a rash of similar bills for other industries," Douglas said. "There are allowances for sulphur, coal, sand gravel and even clam and oyster shells."

He said there is now a proposal to extend the allowance to dirt holes used for dumps in the sense that filling them destroys their value as holes.

Douglas, a senator since 1948, is a member of the Finance and Banking Committee. He has taught at the University of Chicago and has served on several of the city boards.

He said it is "inconceivable" that any agency of the city government would seriously consider such a proposal.

Roland J. Ledebuhr, a local realtor, said that Cotter "has not offered any evidence to prove that such a plan for an ordinance exists."

"Before I'll believe something," Ledebuhr commented, "I need to see proof that it is real."

Robert L. Green, the only Negro member of the Human Relations Commission, said that he has never heard a plan for an ordinance resembling the one in Cotter's letter.

"It's no secret that I favor an open occupancy ordinance," Green said. "But neither I, nor any other person who supports an ordinance, have considered any law which would give the city powers such as the one detailed in Mr. Cotter's letter."

Eight members of St. Thomas

Aquinas Parish in East Lansing have issued a statement on Cotter's letter. They are Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Coomes, Mr. and Mrs. David Froh, Mrs. Thomas A. McGuire, Mrs. Fred E. Tripp and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Metts. The statement reads in part:

"We deeply regret Mr. David Cotter's injecting the race issue into the East Lansing city election. Because we do not express any preference for any candidate in the Monday election, we feel free to answer Cotter's statement 'there is no racial conflict in East Lansing.'"

"Mr. Cotter's statement mailed to the residents of East Lansing three days before the election gives the appearance of a last-minute appeal to racial bigotry. We consider this to be a violation of the Michigan Fair Election Practices Code. Further, it is in direct opposition to Michigan public policy as contained in the 1963 constitution."

Curzi: NCAA Champ In Parallel, High Bars

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Michigan State's Jim Curzi left the 23rd annual NCAA Gymnastics Championships held here Friday and Saturday as the best parallel and high bar performer in the nation.

Curzi, who forsook all-around competition to concentrate on the two specialties, took a blue ribbon in the parallel bars and shared the high bars crown with Penn State's Mike Jacobsen. Jacobsen led his team to the national title.

Last year as a sophomore, Curzi captured third place in the all-around event won this year by Jacobsen.

In both performances Curzi exhibited the smoothness and skill that earned him the praise of all at the meet.

"I wish we had Curzi," said Gene Wettstone, coach of the champion Nittany Lions. "He did a magnificent job. I had no idea how he improved over last year's performance."

Last year Curzi as a sophomore captured third place in all-around.

Spartan coach George Szypula also had praise for Curzi. "Once again, he was brilliant," Szypula said. "He just seems to thrive on competition."

The finals wound up two days of touch competition in a slambang finale Saturday night with a capacity crowd of 10,000 packing Southern Illinois new arena to see the top gymnasts in the nation crowned.

Competition opened Friday afternoon at 1:30 and was continued in an evening session starting at eight. The preliminary rounds dwindled the ranks of entrants from 112 to 40 for the finals.

In final competition both team and individual titles were at stake. Penn State, fresh from an overwhelming defeat of Southern Illinois (defending champions) in the Eastern Regionals, dazzled spectators with stellar performances by Jacobsen and others, as they took undisputed possession of the national title, besting the University of Washington, Western division finalist, 68 1/2 to 51 1/2.

In many respects this was Jacobsen's weekend. Along with his individual all-around victory, he edged out Washington's Bob Hall, 54.9 to 54.8 in that team event, as well as winning a half of the individual high bar crown with a 9.4 mark.

In team scoring he took two first in the bar events, a second in the floor exercise, tied for second in the side horse, took a third in long horse and finished fifth in the rings.

The MSU Physics Club will hold its first spring term meeting today at 8 p.m. in the Physics-Math Conference Room.

Peter van de Kamp, director of the Sproul Observatory of Swarthmore College, will speak. His visit is sponsored by the American Astronomical Society.

Canadian Sound Set

London as seen by Londoner Vaughan Williams and the beauty of the Czech River Moldau as felt by native composer Smetana take form in music as the Toronto Symphony performs at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Auditorium.

In the first Lecture-Concert series presentation of spring term, the Toronto Symphony will perform "Overture, 'Leonore' No. 3," by Beethoven, "Triptych" by the Canadian composer Pierre Marcure and "The Moldau" by Smetana.

The Toronto Symphony has chosen to devote the second half of the program to Ralph Vaughan Williams' "A London Symphony," a composition as true to type as Gershwin's "An American in Paris."

Students may exchange coupon books for tickets to the symphony between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Union ticket office.

Conductor Walter Susskind will conclude his association with the Toronto Symphony at the end of the 1964-65 season, his ninth with the orchestra.

Phi Gamma Nu To Rush Tonight

Phi Gamma Nu, professional business sorority, will hold open rush tonight and tomorrow night at 7:15 in the Student Services lounge.

All women in fields related to business, advertising and accounting are invited to attend. Dress will be casual.

Interested women may call 355-4892 for rides.

Teach-In Marathon

a more effective and more morally acceptable policy can be found," he said, "and that the government is willing to seek earnestly for such an alternative."

These issues are to be discussed in smaller group sessions headed by MSU faculty members from midnight until 2 a.m.

The protest is a part of a national movement for new information and for more discussion on Viet Nam policies.

"Fifty other universities are engaged in 'teach-ins,'" Donoghue said. "These will culminate in press conferences in Washington and a student bus-ride on the Capitol."

Donoghue heads the MSU committee of 20 members. They are: Edmond Alchin, Lawrence Battistini, George Borgstrom, Thomas Greer, Harold Hart, Abba Learner, Vernon Lidke, Stewart Marquis, James McKee, Russell Nye, Seymour Parker, Frank Pinner, John Reinoh, Joseph Roberts, Milton Rokeach, Richard Schlegel, Daniel Walden, Charles Wrigley, David Zivlatt and Donoghue.

As the result of an advertisement placed in the Lansing State Journal by 200 MSU faculty members protesting U.S. policies in Viet Nam, faculty members at the University of Michigan staged the first "teach-in." They also called a teaching strike which aroused national attention.

Donoghue was one of the speakers at the U-M "teach-in."

"When we started, we received seven telegrams from other universities supporting our action," he said. "By the end of the evening, we had 30."

Money to pay for speakers and other costs is coming from donations from faculty members, Donoghue said.

Wanted: A 'Deputy' Cast

Tryouts for Rolf Hochhuth's controversial play "The Deputy" will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. today and from 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday in 49 Auditorium.

"The Deputy" examines Nazi persecution of the Jews during World War II. Its implied accusation that the Roman Catholic Church stood silent while Nazi persecution continued has created contention throughout the world.

More than 20 roles, open to University students, will be filled at tryouts. "The Deputy" will run May 25 through May 29 in the Auditorium arena theater as part of the Performing Arts Company's arena theater program.

Should freshmen use it, too? (They'd probably let it go to their heads)

But then, wouldn't any man? If he suddenly found all those starry-eyed gals looking at him? So, if you think you can handle it, go ahead, use SHORT CUT! It'll tame the wildest crew cut, brush cut, any cut; give it more body, more life. Keep it under control. And make you look great!  WHAT IN THE WORLD ARE ALL THESE DANDELIONS DOING ON THE PITCHER'S MOUND?
 THEY GREW THERE! AND MY STUPID GIRL-OUTFIELDERS WON'T LET ME CUT THEM DOWN! THEY SAY THEY'RE CUTE AND I LOOK CUTE STANDING HERE AMONG THEM!

THEY'RE RIGHT. YOU DO LOOK KIND OF CUTE STANDING THERE.

THEY'RE RIGHT. YOU DO LOOK KIND OF CUTE STANDING THERE.
