

Committee Favors Faculty Raises

Extension Service Funds Cut

A tentative accumulative pay raise of $900,000 for University faculty members was approved in the budget reported out of committee in the State Senate Monday night.

The Senate Appropriations Committee recommended that Gov. George Romney's suggested MSU budget of $46.5 million be accepted with the addition of the $900,000 which it specifically earmarked for faculty raises.

Sen. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Cadillac, said the committee felt there was a definite need to improve faculty salaries at all of Michigan's state supported institutions.

A total of $4.9 million was earmarked by the committee above and beyond the governor's budget for the purpose of improving salaries at state supported institutions.

The University of Michigan's share was also pegged at $900,000. Wayne State University was suggested for the largest single share, $1.2 million.

Vander Jagt said that this was because salaries at the Detroit school are lagging behind the other big state universities.

The budget passed by the Appropriations Committee would give MSU $47.1 million in state funds if passed as recommended.

A cut of $234,799 in funds earmarked for the Cooperative Extension Service was approved by the committee. Vander Jagt said this cut was made with the stipulation that the cuts must be made in urban areas.

Four Professors Air Views On Viet Nam

Four professors will explain their views on Viet Nam tonight at a discussion sponsored by Associated Students of MSU.

The free program will begin at 8 p.m. in 109 Anthony. Speaking will be Wesley Fishel and Guy H. Fox, professors of political science, L.H. Battistini, professor of social science, and Thomas H. Greer, chairman of the Humanities Department.

Fishel and Fox support the present policy. The other two were sponsors of the recent Teach-In on Viet Nam, opposing U.S. action.

Each side will have 20 min-

Total 512 Years Service

Hannah Honors Retirees

MSU honored 18 retiring faculty members, including two who have taught more than 40 years each, at Monday's annual retiree luncheon.

The two with longest service to MSU are Walter L. Mallman, professor of microbiology and public health who will retire July 1, 1966, after 48 years, and Hubert M. Brown, assistant professor of crop science, who ends 44 years at MSU on July 1.

President John A. Hannah presented "diplomas of honor" to each retiree.

He noted that the 18 retiring faculty had given a total of 512 years to MSU, an average of more than 28 years each.

President Hannah said that if "there were such a curious thing as an average retiree," he would have joined the faculty in 1937 when 5,212 students were enrolled.

At the 1937 commencement he added, 575 bachelor's degrees were conferred. This contrasts with nearly 4,500 to be given during 1964-65, plus 1,500 master's degrees and more than 300 doctor's degrees.

Hannah observed that "no institution, least of all a university, is built by any one man, or woman, or any small group of individuals.

"It is built instead by the loving labor of many persons." Those who have been retired during the past year are:

Mrs. Irene M. Baird, Cooperative Extension Service (CES), 11 years; Victor C. Beal, (CES), 28 years; Paul R. Krone, horticulture, 35 years; Miss Grace Mitchell, (CES), 29 years; Clarence C. Mullett, (CES), 35 years; Francis L. O'Rourke, horticulture, 19 years; Mrs. Grace E. Vanderkolk, (CES), 29 years; and Orville F. Walker, (CES), 28 years.

Scheduled to retire this year are: J. Murray Barbour, music, 26 years; Werner A. Bohnstedt, humanities, 19 years; Karl Dressel, forestry, 39 years; Miss Florence Kempf, nursing education, 15 years; Mrs. Lydia Lighting, health, physical education and recreation, 35 years; and Mrs. Thelma Porter, home economics, 15 years.

Two persons will retire July 1, 1966: William Morris, engineering instructional services, 19 years, and G. Malcolm Trout, food science, 38 years.

U.S., Viet Pilots Slash Dozen North Bridges

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. and Vietnamese pilots slashed at North Viet Nam's bridges through darkness and daylight Monday in the continuing effort to halt Communist traffic. They were reported to have destroyed or damaged at least a dozen.

U.S. spokesmen said ground fire was light to moderate and all planes returned safely. No enemy aircraft were sighted.

Official accounts gave these details: U.S. Navy planes from the carriers Coral Sea and Midway opened the day with a series of sorties from midnight to 4:45 a.m. Ranging as far north as the 20th parallel, 65 miles south of Hanoi, they damaged four bridges and also hit four trucks and a large junk.

A group of U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers took to the air at noon with an escort of 32 fighters. In what was called a highly successful operation, they dropped one span of the Ha Tinh Bridge on Route 1, 150 miles south of Hanoi; demolished one span of

Wessin Quits Dominican Army

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 10 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin, whose planes and tanks beat off Dominican rebels in the bloody first days of the Dominican revolt, resigned from the armed forces Monday under reported U.S. pressure. His retirement appears to have removed a major obstacle toward settling the Dominican crisis.

Wessin's resignation came after meetings with U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. and Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of the 21,000 U.S. Marines and parachute troops in this troubled Caribbean country.

The tough career officer agreed to leave the army and his post as commander of the Armed Forces Training Center, but he balked at leaving the country. Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno, rebel-proclaimed provisional president, has been demanding that Wessin go abroad.

Holed up in a maze of crowded apartment houses and business buildings, the rebels showed no tendency Monday to capitulate to a tank and Howitzer-backed force of U.S. and Dominican troops surrounding them.

Scoffing at an invitation to quit the revolt, Caamaño's insurgents appeared to be organizing their stronghold in Ciudad Nueva, a low income residential and business section in southeast Santo Domingo.

A U.S. military spokesman said American forces had moved 105 mm. Howitzers and six smaller cannon into position in the U.S.-occupied international safety zone west of Ciudad Nueva. The guns are "tuned on rebel targets," the spokesman said.

In addition, 15 U.S. M-48 tanks rumbled into position in the city. Wessin fought army rebels and armed civilians who tried to restore former President Juan Bosch at the outset of the revolution, before the arrival of U.S. troops.

His opponents said he was regarded by many Dominicans as the man responsible for the air bombardments of the city that took more than 1,000 lives in the first week of the fighting.

U.S. Marines and paratroopers were sent in by President Johnson to protect Americans and to prevent a Cuba-style communist takeover of the country. U.S. officials charged that communists had infiltrated key positions of the rebel movement.

The U.S. embassy had no comment on Wessin's resignation but it was understood the U.S. government had pushed for Wessin's retirement as a means of removing roadblocks to "composing the situation," as a spokesman put it.

The rebels announced they would not receive, converse or negotiate further with OAS representatives until it ousts Jose A. Bonilla Atlies as the Dominican Republic representative in the OAS. Bonilla represents the junta regime in the Dominican Republic which sent a surrender demand to the rebels last night. This was rejected by the forces led by Col. Francisco Caamaño.

The proposal for a three-man commission, composed of former presidents Jose Figueres of Costa Rica and Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela, and former Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico, was reported to have met with stern opposition within the OAS itself.

The crisis caused postponement of a session of the OAS special conference on the Dominican situation which had been scheduled for 9:30 a.m. EST Monday.

7 Divers Probing Ship Hull

MACKINAW CITY (UPI)—Diving for bodies continued Monday in the hull of the ship Cedarville which sank Friday after colliding with the Norwegian freighter Topdalsfjord in the Straits of Mackinac.

Officials of U.S. Steel Corp., owners of the sunken Cedarville, said they had not yet reached a decision on whether they would attempt to salvage the limestone carrier.

The bridge of the ship is about 35 feet below the surface of the water and the Coast Guard said if she remained there, she would not be a menace to navigation.

Meanwhile, another phase of the inquiry was held at Cleveland. In that session, the captain of the German ship Weisenberg told how he saw the shadow of the Cedarville on his radar and heard the "hissing" sound through the fog as the giant ship went under in less than 25 minutes.

Four divers in suits and helmets joined three scuba divers in probing the hull of the sunken Cedarville. The suited divers probed the aft section and the scuba divers the fore section.

The divers did not find any of the bodies of the missing men.

V-E Program Tape Slated

A tape recording of a radio program originally broadcast on Victory in Europe Day, May 8, 1945, will be played back tonight at 8 in Parlor C, Union.

The program "On a Note of Triumph," which was written by Norman Corwin, an outstanding radio writer, and featured the voice of William L. Shirer, a well-known broadcaster, is being presented to commemorate the 20th anniversary of VE Day.

This is the sixth in a series of playbacks of radio classics called "Radio Encores" presented by the Department of Television and Radio.

NATO Ministers Try To Break Deadlock

LONDON (AP)—American, British and West German ministers launched a new attempt Monday night to break their deadlock with France over the future of Germany.

They met at a dinner in the American Embassy given by Under-Secretary of State George W. Ball on the eve of a ministerial conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

One purpose of the get-together, which has become traditional at NATO meetings, was to resolve if possible French objections, which last week thwarted publication of an American-British-French declaration of German policy. This was to have been issued May 8 to mark the 20th anniversary of V-E day.

But hopes of agreement were slender.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France was reported under President De Gaulle's orders to stand fast on his new insistence for a European approach to a German settlement. Such an approach would seem to imply the ultimate exclusion of the Americans from the settlement.

France's line has been hailed by Communist powers, including

Two Britons Sell Secrets

LONDON (AP)—Britain sent two government employes to jail Monday for espionage—one for selling guided missile secrets to the Russians, the other for hawk- ing defense ministry secrets to two Arab nations. Both men said they were driven to their acts by their need for money.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson immediately announced in the House of Commons that a top-level investigation had been ordered to learn how the two men wriggled through the security net.

The separate trials in the same old Bailey court on the same day were without precedent in London history. Lord Chief Justice Parker heard them both. Both defendants pleaded guilty.

In the first case, Justice Parker sentenced Frank C. Bossard, 52-year-old electronics engineer in the aviation ministry, to a 21-year term.

The Constitution And...

...The March

Lansing is an all-American city. So all-American that a week ago it refused to grant a parade permit to a group of students protesting American policy in Viet Nam.

So American that when they paraded anyway, walking on sidewalks in order not to break any laws, the Lansing police were out in teams to prevent them from becoming violent in their peaceful protest and to prevent many other loyal Americans from becoming tainted by exposure to their views.

Lansing is so all-American that the police out to patrol the 40- to 50-person protest march had ax-handles on their motorcycles and tear-gas packs and gas masks strung over their shoulders, and sat in unmarked cars on nearly every corner the marchers passed and, contrary to the figures released in most places, nearly outnumbered the marchers.

Lansingites are so American that many of them would deny the students the right to picket for their ideas. Some even said Thursday, when the marchers reached the capitol, that they had no right to protest because our leaders are elected to do a job and we shouldn't interfere with them.

Very few Lansingites around the capitol Thursday were so un-American as to defend the right of people to bring their dissenting viewpoint to light, even though it may not be a popular one.

A lot of Lansingites last week reacted to the Viet Nam protests in much the same way. They called the protestors Communists, told them they had no right to speak up, called them un-American.

That's an interesting question. Is it more American to defend to fanatical lengths if necessary the established policy of the United States or to recognize, claim and test, if need be, your right to your own opinion, even when it is opposed to the established policy?

We tend to believe the latter. Lansing, by implication if not explicitly, seems to believe the former.

The Lansing City Council in turning down the Viet Nam protestors' parade permit claimed it had not had enough time to deliberate the question, and feared tying up traffic at peak hours. But it also debated the wisdom of "endorsing" a political activity critical of federal policy. The question should never have entered the councilmen's minds.

The Lansing police, while they could claim to have been protecting the marchers, seemed awfully suspicious at some points. They were massed at the city line when the marchers approached along Michigan Avenue, in some cases swinging the ax-handles they later propped into their motorcycles' handlebars, presumably ready for use.

They looked at no point as if they were overly concerned with the critical faculties of the marchers, but rather more with their presence as dissenters, or as beatniks, or as enemies, or as un-Americans, or even as C...

We wonder, who is more American.

...Distribution

When the Men's Hall Association and the Women's Inter-Residence Council last month adopted new rules on the distribution of printed materials in the residence halls, including a ban on door-to-door distribution, they meant it. Almost.

The evening after the passage of the new rules by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs was announced in the State News, a new issue of Logos was distributed by the Committee for Student Rights.

The evening of April 22, CSR's dorm "coordinators"--who decide on the distribution methods in each dorm--had a new factor to contend with. Few of them had any trouble. Some had it easier than ever.

Not so in South Case. CSR coordinator Greg Martin attempted to distribute Logos under room doors, as a test of the new rules. He was caught by an RA and told by the head adviser not to continue. He did continue, and asked two other CSR leaders who live off-campus to come in and help him.

All three were stopped. All three were told they would be disciplined according to the provisions of the new rules. Martin by the dorm government and the others through the dean of students office.

Martin is now completing three weeks of social probation in the dorm, with weekends off. He does not want to appeal. He is benefiting from the extra study time.

The two others--one the editor of Logos, the other executive secretary of CSR, both graduate students--have not been contacted. The dean of students office has not come through with any discipline or promise of discipline.

It would seem that dormitory residents are more susceptible to the restrictions of the new rules than are off-campus students. Or perhaps those in charge do not want to go too far testing the rules, but just want them to keep in line those most in need of being kept in line.

The rules were somewhat questionable from the first, and were frankly intended by their formulators to regulate the flow of printed materials into the dorms.

The rule-makers said this was to allow the greatest effectiveness to the materials, and to keep dormitory residents from being bothered by their distribution. CSR seemed to feel otherwise.

But when the rules are enforced selectively, not only with different interpretations in different dorms (apparently a permanent factor of University organization) but with varying applications in the same dorm, then they are proving themselves to be lacking somewhat in protection of the spirit of free expression.

Greg Martin is still on probation. Paul Schiff and Stu Dowty are not. The residents of South Case read Logos anyway. Schiff and Dowty finished the distribution when Martin was stopped. Several reportedly have said they prefer under-the-door distribution to the hand-to-hand or desk distribution methods required by the new rules.

Who has been protected, and who has merely been restricted, by the new distribution rules?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Phantom Sampling

To the Editor:

I was greatly disappointed in the naive exhibited by Mr. Stewart in his column appearing in the State News on May 6. It appears to me that Mr. Stewart was carried off on a runaway horse.

If this type of thinking is a sound basis for macro-integration, I would suggest that Mr. Stewart avail himself of the privilege of informing himself, rather than couching vague opinions in the form of fact and gospel.

I must join Mr. Stewart in voicing my disappointment with the Greek system at Michigan State insofar as the practice of Negro discrimination is concerned. Other universities have taken the initiative to break this racial barrier, and I am sure that Michigan State in due course will be following their examples, as we usually do when it comes to precedent-setting.

With regard to other forms of racial discrimination, I am convinced that Mr. Stewart must have used a phantom sample in determining the extent to which these other forms of discrimination exist.

A quick look at the Sigma Alpha Mu and Psi Upsilon fraternities reveal that these organizations don't find it that hard to live with each other. In fact, Psi U has been served this past year by a Jewish secretary, and this same brother was designated outstanding junior by the rest of the primarily Christian chapter.

I'm sure that Mr. Stewart would do himself a big favor to acquaint himself with the objectives of our Greek system. Our fraternities and sororities don't "prefer races," they "prefer" people, people who can live together in harmony. Please observe, Mr. Stewart! Kevin D. Connelly, Bloomfield Hills sophomore

The 'Pros' And The 'Coms'

To the Editor:

I deplore the public approach of the University administration and the national Establishment in general towards "student unrest." At this University this issue appears centered on the existence of "outside" or "professional" agitators using a battery of "standard" techniques.

I feel I know personally every campus radical; all are students; most live all year in East Lansing; none are "professional" anything. Their techniques have been used before; they come from the national miracle known as the civil rights movement.

Their issues are varied because their cause is the varied problem of the defense of freedom, and yet the more they set about their work the more the University hastens to assure the community that the students are "under control."

It would be a far more disturbing and dangerous situation if they really were.

Nationally, one need only cite the incredible smear suffered by the DuBois Clubs, Hoover's letter, circulated some months ago, branded the clubs Communist-inspired, yet failed to offer one shred of evidence for its assertion.

As of now, not one item has been offered in proof, yet the charge has been leveled in the mass media hundreds of times, right down to the Saturday Evening Post.

The country has yet to free itself of these McCarthy-like insinuations, and one wonders if there will ever be a day when McCarthy will be squarely faced. The valid refutation of the charges is not "the clubs really aren't Communist" (which they aren't), but: "What if they are; we should judge them by their actions and not their label."

Some Ideas Are More Equal

To the Editor:

The Orwellian principle called "double-think" has long been a staple in the American political cupboard, but it seems to have ingrained itself so deeply that, again in Orwell's terms, it's nearly impossible these days to tell the truth from the farmers.

The Cold War has, it seems, spawned a generation of political transvestites.

Thus, we find the Lansing City Council abrogating the right of assembly and peaceful demonstration in the name of Patriotism by the curiously Southern tactic of denying the MSU Committee for Peace in Viet Nam a parade permit, thereby hoping to squelch their proposed march to the capitol to protest U.S. aggression in Southeast Asia.

Like a dog and a postman, a second injustice snapped at the heels of the first, this one the work of student Patriots who evidently believe that the best way to beat The Enemy is to join him.

These students, although extremely voluble themselves, tried to silence the opposition in the person of Reinhard Mohr and the MSU Committee for Peace in Viet Nam, through the time-dishonored techniques of jeering at what one cannot attack logically, laughing at what one is incapable of comprehending, and smearing all those with whom one disagrees.

When I, naively secure in the idea that I was acting within my Constitutional rights, defended Mr. Mohr's position, my "fellow Americans" were very quick to point out that my supposed rights were mere figments of the American imagination.

These two incidents, when coupled with the steadily emerging pattern of like events which have burgeoned like hydra's heads from McCarthyism, lead me to the inevitable conclusion that Patriotism is a Communist plot to subvert the American way of life. Richard A. Ogar, East Lansing graduate student

Oh, That!

Pro-Israel

By FRANKLYN COHEN, Shrewsbury, N.J., senior

And Con

By KHALIL NIAZY, Saudi Arabia, freshman

In reference to the letter of Mr. Khadduri, the land that he has been writing about belonged not to the Arabs, but to the British mandate. It was given to the Jews by the British--we did not take it from the Arabs.

Secondly, six Arab nations chased their fellow Arabs from Israel, hoping to defeat tiny Israel in 1948; then, of course, the Arabs would return. They failed to defeat Israel; thus, they were not able to fulfill their obligation to the displaced Arabs of Israel.

Of all the things that seem most ironic to me in this Israeli-Arab letter-writing is that every spring term Imad Khadduri here in the United States criticizes pro-U.S. Israel while the Arabs exhibit questionable behavior in respect to the U.S.

Their leader Gamel Abdul Nasser no more than two months ago told the U.S. to go drink from the sea. On May 9, 1964, the leader of the Communist world, Nikita Khrushchev, arrived at Alexandria, Egypt, to have a friendly 16 day visit with Nasser; and by the way, President Abdel Salam Arif of Mr. Khadduri's country was at their side. Ulbricht of East Germany recently visited with the Arab-world leader for seven days, much to the dismay and disapproval of the West.

The Arabs speak of war while possessing Russian-made weapons.

Now I do realize that the Arabs are not Communists, but the aforementioned certainly makes me wonder how pro-U.S. the Arab states are.

Israel is closely united with France and the United States. She is aiding the newly-emerging African nations. She scorns Russia, Red China, East Germany and other enemies of the Western world.

Israel tries to extend peace towards the Arabs, but they refuse to negotiate. In fact, the other day when Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia advocated friendly relations with Israel, the other Arabs condemned him for doing so, and promptly withdrew their ambassadors.

Why aren't the Arabs friendly toward Israel? With this existence of Israel the Arabs have a common enemy to unite against.

Actually, Israel is good for the Arab nations. It helps greatly to unify these people who unfortunately cannot get along with themselves, let alone with Israel.

It was boring for me to read the letter by Mr. Howard Finkel in the May 6 State News, but I forced myself to read so that I would know the ideas of uninformed people about a problem as complicated as the situation between the Arab states and Israel.

It was very clear that Mr. Finkel has heard only the Israeli side of the story and was pushed by these one-sided views to write as he did.

The Jews didn't choose Palestine as a permanent home because it was theirs 2,000 years ago. (If every land is to revert to its original owners, why not give America back to the Indians and Spain to the Arabs, who occupied it for four centuries?)

They chose Palestine because it was one of the richest Arab states in soil, not a desert wasteland. Palestine was famous for the citrus fruits and other products developed by its original Arabian owners.

Many of the Arab refugees who supposedly left Israel of their own accord were killed on their way out. More than a million of them live in the desert now, suffering hunger and disease, not because the Arab states haven't tried to help them, but because they want to return to their Palestinian homes.

But Israel has so far ignored instructions from the U.N. to let the refugees return to their homes.

The only "first-class" Arab Citizens in Israel are a minority who are considered traitors to Arabia because they swore against their culture over Israeli radio. The majority of Arabs in Israel live in squalid poverty.

Incidentally, women aren't legally required to be veiled in any Arabian country.

After World War II, the Palestinians were very sympathetic to the Jews who had suffered so much brutality under Hitler, and accepted the refugees into Palestine, sharing money and property with them.

But the Jews were fair--they fought and killed their own country men and neighbors instead of appreciating and respecting the sympathy and kindness that had been extended to them.

I hope after this, Mr. Finkel makes the effort to learn both sides of the story before he writes.

Expert To Consider Medical Education

The purpose and needs of medical education today and in the future will be discussed in a public lecture by a federal medical executive here Wednesday.
William L. Kissick, M.D., Dr. P.H., who has served on several top-level government health programs, will speak at 8 p.m. in the Anthony Hall Auditorium.

Stolen Books Listed In Local Book Stores

The value of books stolen from MSU students since January totals about $1,260, an MSU public safety officer has reported.
Safety officer Ronald H. Mahaffy said that of this amount, approximately $331.13 in books has been recovered. Stolen books are sometimes recovered when a student tries to sell them to local book stores, he said.
"I average one or two student apprehensions a week," Mahaffy said.
In order to aid the book stores in detecting stolen books, a stolen book list is distributed to them by the campus police, he said. The list contains the name of the book, the author and any markings such as the student's name and student number on the inside cover.
The MSU book store checks closely on students who sell books to make sure they aren't stolen. Robert H. Frew, manager of the MSU book store, said, "We have students show their identification card and sign their name and student number in books they sell." Frew said, "Then if a book is stolen we know who sold it to us," he said.
"It is difficult to detect a stolen book from other books," a sales clerk at the MSU book store said. "However, there are some ways that a clerk can tell if a student is selling a stolen book."
"We watch for students who act suspicious or have books with the name and student number of another person marked out. Sometimes the first page of a book is torn out which suggests that the book is stolen," she said.
If a sales clerk suspects a student of selling a stolen book, she goes ahead with the transaction, Frew said.
After the purchase she checks the book with the stolen book list and if it is stolen the campus police does not attempt to apprehend the student, he said.
Many times a book store will not press charges against a student, Mahaffy said. However, if they do, a student is charged with simple larceny and turned over to the Ingham County Prosecutor, he said.

Young Dems Elect Officers

By unanimous vote, Peter White, Bay City junior, was elected area representative from Lansing and Ann Arbor, and Janel Shogan, Detroit freshman, state secretary, Saturday at the Michigan Young Democrats Convention.

With 12 representatives at the convention held in Capitol Park, Lansing, Michigan State had the second largest number of votes. The only other officers elected unanimously were first vice chairman and college coordinator, both University of Michigan students.

Joseph Rauh, national vice chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action, addressed the convention on the need for young people's participation in the civil rights movement.

'Tokyo Joe' Or 'College Joe,' Puleo At Home With Weights

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

Athletes lift weights as an integral part of their on and off-season conditioning programs. Adipose blobs lift weights to become the heroes of tomorrow. Girls lift weights to gain leveler figures.

Joe Puleo lifts weights because he's a weight-lifter. Sounds sensible, doesn't it? To Puleo, weight-lifting is a sport, not just a physical conditioner or pastime. He is the stellar member of the MSU Weightlifting Club, with a score of world and national titles to his credit.

Just last weekend Puleo added to his trophy collection, lifting a total of 960 pounds in three attempts, to capture an NCAA crown in the 181-pound class.

Although many sports fans may not be familiar with lifting, it is one of the 21 sports contested in the Olympic Games and has a history dating back to ancient Greece.

The first weightlifter of record was a fellow named Milo. He didn't have weights in Milo's day, so he improvised—he carried a newborn calf around on his back. He went around the country like that day after day and, as time went on, the calf grew up and he grew stronger, until his training was complete and he was ready to demonstrate his phenomenal strength in the Grecian Olympiad. Milo wowed the crowds by carrying a full-grown bull on his shoulders.

Fortunately for men like Joe Puleo, they don't have to plunder farmers' herds in search of weights, but have equipment of their own with which they can execute their feats of strength and skill.

The last century saw the arrival of what has been called the "Era of the Strong Man." During this time, the sport progressed rapidly from one in which there were no set rules or weights to a sport which is laid out along set lines. The early competitors just lifted; each man could proclaim himself a champ, for there were no standards by which to judge.

Weightlifting has made leaps and bounds since the turn of the century in improving the caliber of lifting. Naturally, strength is the prime factor, especially in Olympic lifts, but other elements have entered the picture as well, namely speed and agility. The muscle-bound lifter is almost obsolete, as evidenced by the Russian and Japanese athletes.

Today's lifter must be a superb all-around athlete as well. This is one area where the Europeans have an advantage over the American lifters. Europeans play a good deal of soccer, basketball, and track and field to keep themselves in top condition. At the Tokyo Games this summer, several of the Russian lifters were entered in gymnastics competition as well.

"Dynamic" Joe Puleo has been lifting for some six years, during which time he's amassed the teenage and junior national championships, the 1963 Pan American Games title and the national crowns in 1962 and 1964. Formerly a middleweight, Puleo now lifts in the 181-pound class, one of the seven Olympic rankings.

The Tokyo Olympics capped off a successful year with a bitter disappointment. After he had qualified for the team in his class, the AAU officials decided to hold retrials.

General opinion as to the reason behind holding these extra and unscheduled trials rested on the results of the 198-lb. class, and outside pressures that were brought to bear on the AAU. Puleo, clearly the winner in his division, was told that he, too, had to compete again.

The outcome of the trials sent both of the men in the 198-pound class to Tokyo and left Puleo in Michigan. There was no representative from his division at the games.

Joe is rated as the second-best light-heavyweight in the nation, behind Minnesota's Gary Cleveland, and ranked among the top ten lifters in the world.

BONUS BABY FOR BASKETBALL

Baseball Tender Lures Jordan

Rich Jordan, the 5-7, 160-pound jumping-jack from Fenntville, signed a baseball tender with Michigan State Monday, much to the delight of basketball coach John Benington.

Jordan, who is an outstanding pitcher-outfielder this season for the Class C school, is also a top-flight cager, and there is speculation that he could help the basketball team even more than coach Danny Litwhiler's baseballers.

Lee Lafayette, the all-American center from Grand Rapids South, was sent a tender Thursday, immediately after his records had been cleared by the Big Ten office, but has not yet returned it. However, he told United Press International Monday that he had signed the tender and it was on its way here.

Today is the deadline for tenders to be filed with the school if the athlete plans to attend.

Jordan's signing doesn't count against the six tenders State is allowed for basketball, so now Benington is scanning the junior colleges for other signees.

If State got short-changed by the acquisition of the not-too-big athlete, it will take a lot to prove it to Benington.

"Even if he hadn't signed a baseball tender, we would have signed him for basketball," Benington said. "Michigan State wouldn't have tendered Jordan if we didn't feel he could make the grade."

Litwhiler appears just as happy over the deal. "He's a fine athlete," Litwhiler said. "Usually a good basketball player can become an outstanding baseball player and I'm sure he'll help us."

Both Litwhiler and Benington said they felt Jordan could make the grade despite his small size.

The NEWS in

SPORTS

"Nobody realized the challenge Jordan will face better than he himself," Benington said. "As a coach, it'll be my responsibility to make the most of every inch we have."

"I've had smaller guys play for me who went on to the major leagues," Litwhiler said, referring to Cleveland shortstop Dick Howser.

"Dick was the same height as Jordan but didn't weigh as much—only about 140," Litwhiler added. Jordan's high school basketball coach, Ray Feher, is just as high on the chances of the former all-stater.

"I don't have any doubt in my mind that he'll do all right," Feher said. "He's got ability, he's strong for his size and has one of the best shots I've seen." "He'll get his shot off, too," he added, "because of his fantastic jumping ability."

Feher said Jordan has already cleared 6-2 and just missed 6-4, which is nine inches higher than the top of his head.

Benington, whose recruiters have already signed 6-11 all-state center Tom Lick from Gaylord and former Lansing Sexton standout John Holms, seemed the most jubilant over the Jordan acquisition.

"Now that we have signed him and Lick and Holms, the main task is to keep them from the clutches of non-conference schools who can still sign them up," he said.

Holmes Allows 3 Hits, Spartans Beat Irish, 3-0

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

MSU pitcher Dick Holmes allowed just three hits and struck out ten Notre Dame batters as the Spartans nipped the Irish 3-0 at Lansing Municipal Park Monday night.

Holmes also got one of the three Spartan hits off Notre Dame pitcher Dan McGinn.

State took an early lead when Steve Juday, playing first base, walked, moved to third on a throwing error by the pitcher, and scored on a passed ball.

The Spartans added the clinchers an inning later when third baseman John Biedenbach singled and left fielder Bob Speer walked. Catcher Dick Kilbourn moved the runners along with a sacrifice and Juday drove them both home with a double.

Michigan State is now 22-7 for the year and Notre Dame dropped to 14-12. The Spartans now have only to win their next four games—which are conveniently scheduled within the next five days—to set a new season record for victories. The old mark, 25 wins, dates back to 1954.

Holmes, hurling before a crowd of 1,503 fans, allowed only singles and prevented Irish baserunners from getting to second base.

After a 3-0 off single by Alan Kristowski, Irish second-baseman, the only man to touch Holmes was Tom Tencza, Notre Dame shortstop, who singled in the second and fifth innings.

State threatened to score in the fifth inning when McGinn walked three batters. However, he then got Jerry Walker on a force play at the plate, and retired Holmes on strikes.

McGinn is now 4-2 and Holmes, 2-0.

Wolves Stalk MSU Nets

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

Spartan tennis coach Stan Drobac has made an impassioned plea to all spectators to remain in the bleachers provided for them at the varsity courts this afternoon, from 2:30 on, purely as a safety precaution.

Six vicious Wolves will be released onto the playing area at that time, and State's tennis team will then be confronted with the arduous task of catching these critters by the tail.

The Wolves, who hail from nearby Ann Arbor, have waited patiently for the coming of the spring thaw before venturing to East Lansing. Last year, bold MSU stalked the Wolves in their own den at the University of Michigan, but the hapless Spartans were savagely torn apart, 8-1.

Michigan is undefeated in Big Ten competition this season with a 3-0 record. U-M was predicted to be a chief contender for the conference title this spring and has more than lived up to its billing.

Leading the Wolves' pack is team captain Flood Brian, a Canadian product. Other team members are Karl Hedrick, John Fraser, George Russell, Hal Lowe, Jim Swift and Bo Barker. New to the team is sophomore Jerry Steward, who has shown much promise.

Coach Bill Murphy is in his 17th season at Michigan. During his tenure there, his squads have won seven Big Ten championships and one NCAA title.

The Spartans are on a hot streak, having won their past four matches. At present, State holds a 2-2 conference record and is 8-5 overall.

Laird Warner, number three singles, Vic Dhooge, number five man, and number six Mike Youngs all are the lead in the team's individual performance record, with 9-4 marks. Warner and Youngs are tops in doubles competition with an 8-3 record.

Dwight Shelton (4-9) will start for State at number one singles and Captain Charlie Wolf (6-7) will take the number two spot. Phillips will play number four singles for the Spartans.

Shelton and Wolf will team up for number one doubles, while Phillips and Dhooge will see action at the number two slot.

Coach Drobac has been excited recently over his squad's performance and new-found confidence. He felt that the turning point in State's successful campaign came last week in the Western Michigan match, when MSU squeaked by with a 5-4 win.

The ultimate test comes this afternoon, and while the Wolves cannot be described as "lean and hungry," they certainly have proved themselves to be "maulers" on the courts -- and the Spartans have only their racquets to fend them off.

South Korea Wants U.S. Aid Guaranteed

SEOUL (UPI)--South Korean President Park Chung Hee flies to the United States Monday May 17 to strike a bargain--several of them, in fact. And from the way the U.S. administration is handling his visit, it looks from this distance as though he has every chance of getting them. The diminutive (5 feet, 2 inch) 47-year-old Park, his wife, and a 10-man official party that includes four cabinet ministers are being flown in a U.S. jet plane dispatched especially to Korea to pick them up. Officials here see a good deal of difference between this treatment and the brush-off given to Indian Premier Lal Bahadur

Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan. There is a reason. South Korea is a keystone ally in Asia for the U.S. It maintains a tough 600,000-man army. It is staunchly anti-Communist, having been the victim only 15 years ago of violent Communist aggression. Most important, it is already involved in the Viet Nam war with 2,000 troops there and more likely to come.

Park has been Korea's constitutionally elected president since November, 1963. Before that he was its dictator as head of the military junta that tossed out a gang of corrupt politicians on May 16, 1961. Park has proved to the satisfaction of the United States and his nearby neighbor Japan that he can put a strong hand on the tiller. This is not to say that Park hasn't had his troubles. He is having them right now, in fact, and that is one reason he's going to Washington. Park will meet President Johnson twice on business and at three social affairs, and will confer with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. He wants a guarantee of continued military and political aid.

Hannah OKs Distribution

President John A. Hannah approved Monday the new printed material distribution policy in a letter to the chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

The proposals by the Men's Halls Association and Women's Inter-residence Hall Council can now be considered official University policy, said Charles Titkemeyer, associate professor of anatomy and committee chairman. Unchartered student organizations may leave non-commercial material at residence halls desks under the new policy.

'Singing Statesmen' Return

The Men's Glee Club, who will present their spring concert Sunday in Erickson Kiva, have been the University's ambassadors of good will to thousands of people throughout the nation.

Their performances at 3 and 8 p.m. Sunday bring them home for an all-University concert after a spring break tour on the Upper Peninsula where they sang to audiences who plowed through four feet of snow to hear them.

Water Show Now 'Carney'

For decades, MSU's spring festival has been called Water Carnival. After 43 years, the "carnival" aspect of this event has become a reality.

This year, an actual carnival is being set up with between 12 and 14 rides. The rides include a ferris wheel, a roller coaster and an "octopus," among others. The carnival will take place at parking lot C, adjacent to the Judging Pavilion, between the Engineering Building and the International Center.

Other innovations of this year's Water Carnival include the use of choreography in the production. A new stage has been built on the side of the bandstand, and a 15-piece band will provide musical accompaniment.

Also new this year, children from local Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops have bought blocks for the Thursday night performance.

Miroir," a highly specialized catalogue for exhibition, uses the original blocks for lithographing and the original plates for etching in producing its copies.

"You might call these lithographs half-origins," Paul Love, director of Kresge Art Center, said. "They are produced from the original blocks, but they lose some value by being put out on a large scale."

Tal-Coat and Bazaine are known primarily as painters and Chillaia as a sculptor.

The first graduate exhibition also ends Sunday. The second graduate exhibition, concentrating on sculpture, will open May 20.

THE MARRIAGE OF FIGARO BY MOZART ENGLISH LIBRETTO

MAY 21-22, 1965 MSU AUDITORIUM Sponsored by the MUSIC and SPEECH Departments

Tickets for Sunday's concert are on sale at the Union ticket office and from members of the Glee Club at $1 for students and $1.50 for the public.

Under the direction of J. Loren Jones, assistant professor of music, the glee club, or the Singing Statesmen, will present a program of choral music that ranges from Lotti's "Crucifixus" to their own arrangement of "Old King Cole," one that Mother Goose would never recognize.

The Burgundy Trio, who are members of the Glee Club, are scheduled to provide intermission entertainment with the folk song flavor.

In their ambassadorial role, the Singing Statesmen went on an Eastern tour last year that included an Easter performance in Rockefeller Center in New York City. They chalked up 26 performances on tours this year.

During their spring break tour, the management of a ski slope near Ironwood treated the club to a day on skis, Steve Peterson, Rockford Junior and president, said.

Next year, the Statesmen plan an exchange with the University of Puerto Rico, and while the plans have not yet been confirmed, profits from this Sunday's concert will go towards this goal.

"The glee club has been improving every year," said George Steinmetz, assistant professor of German, who has been with the Statesmen 18 years. "If they ever started going downhill, I imagine that I would retire."

In addition to their concerts, the Statesmen have appeared on television and have made several recordings which are available at the Union, the MSU Bookstore and through the glee club.

Nursery Conference, Clinics Held Today

How does the young child handle aggression? What are the emotions involved in learning? What are the new story-telling devices for the picture book set?

Answers to these and other questions will be provided in workshops and clinics at the 14th annual Conference of the Michigan Council of Co-operative Nurseries today.

This year's meeting at Kellogg Center is expected to draw between 500 and 600 cooperative nursery school parents and teachers from all parts of the state.

Blaine Porter, chairman, Department of Family Life Education, Brigham Young University, will speak tonight on "Communications in the Family with Young Children." Esther Middlewood, chief, Education Section, Michigan Department of Mental Health, will talk at the final noon session on "The Young Child's Handling of Aggression."

In-depth workshops will deal with such topics as discipline, meeting emotional needs, creative ideas for nursery play, art in the nursery school, creativity and patterns of growth.

Open houses at nurseries on campus and in the community, new films for nursery school and parent education programs, exhibits of creative arts, books and music and demonstrations of various kinds are other highlights.

The conference is jointly sponsored by the College of Home Economics.
