$853 Million Pay Hike Asked

U.S. GI's
Now Total
45,000

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress Wednesday to give an $853 million a year pay increase to about 5 million U.S. civilian and military employees.

He accompanied his proposal with a bill that would create a "Federal Salary Review Commission" which would let the executive branch almost automatically set future pay increases for federal employees, ranging from Army corporals to congressmen and Supreme Court justices.

In a special message to the House and Senate, Johnson said "I reject the proposition that government employment is somehow inferior to employment in business, in the professions, in university life or in any other occupation."

If Congress passes the review commission bill, federal salary increases would go into effect automatically at a given date unless they were specifically turned down by the House or the Senate. There would be no need for a specific pay increase bill.

As for Wednesday's suggested increases, they would become effective next Jan. 1. The President proposed these average increases: 3 per cent in federal civilian salaries; 4.8 per cent in compensation for all uniformed personnel except enlisted men and women with less than two years service; 2.7 per cent in base pay for enlisted men and women with less than two years' service.

The top class covered by the proposed new pay schedule would be civil service grade 18, which now commands an annual salary of $24,500. Under Johnson's new proposals, this would increase to $25,235 a year.

Pay raises amounting to $850 million a year for civilian employees went into effect last July 1. The last military pay raise was effective Oct. 1, 1963. The latter averaged about 2.5 per cent, although some officers received increases of as much as 8.5 per cent in over-all compensation.

The new increases Johnson proposed would comprise $447 million for uniformed personnel and $406 for civilians. The 5 million persons covered are split roughly 50-50 between civilian and military.

The current federal civilian payroll runs about $14 billion a year. The military payroll is about $16 billion.

Not covered in the proposal were Cabinet officers and agency heads, members of the federal judiciary, the House and Senate or their staffs. Administration officials explained that what members of Congress do about the pay structure of their employees is their own business.

The legislative, judicial and executive branches would, however, be included in Johnson's proposal for the "Federal Salary Review Commission." This commission would propose changes in salary schedules for top officials in these branches, as well as for civilian and military employees, every four years.

It would mean among other things that congressional pay increases could be put through every four years without members having to go on record as voting higher pay for themselves.

Under the proposal, changes in salary schedules would be put before Congress in the manner of a reorganization plan which goes into effect after 60 days if Congress does not reject it.

Fete Sales To Pass '64 Show

Ticket sales for this year's Water Carnival are well ahead of last year's sales, reported Bob Musmanno, ticket chairman for the show.

"We have already sold 4,500 tickets and our peak sales period will come today, Friday and Saturday," Musmanno said.

Last year ticket sales totaled 4,600.

Sales for Saturday's performance are running ahead of Friday night sales. Saturday sales total 2,600 while Friday sales are 1,000 tickets.

Accompanying the Water Carnival this year is a carnival of rides.

The rides, 14 in all, are being set up in parking lot C across from the International Center.

The rides will open at 5 p.m. Friday. They will run until Water Carnival show time at 7:45 p.m., break for the show and begin operation again at 8:30. They will close Friday at midnight.

Saturday the rides will open at noon and run until midnight with an hour break during the carnival performance.

The rides are priced at 20 and 25 cents.

Farmer Sets Talks For STEP, Teach-In

James O. Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), will make two appearances on campus today.

He will speak at 4 p.m. in Fairchild Theatre to raise money for the STEP project in Mississippi this summer. Admission is $1.

Under the STEP project, MSU will send students to work at Rust College, a Negro school near Holly Springs, Miss. The aim of the project is to help raise the educational level of Negroes in the surrounding area.

Farmer will also be the concluding speaker at a teach-in tonight on housing discrimination in East Lansing. Beginning at 8 p.m. on the lawn near Beaumont Tower, the teach-in will feature speakers from the University and local and state government agencies.

They will include state Democratic chairman Zolton A. Ferry; Charles Orlebeke, an aide to Gov. George W. Romney; Mrs. Mary P. Sharp, newly-elected East Lansing city council member; Paul A. Varg, dean of the College of Arts and Letters; and Robert L. Green, assistant professor of education.

Failure Indicated

Lunik V Crashes On Moon

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union announced its spacecraft Lunik V hit the moon Wednesday night but indicated it had failed to make a "soft landing" on the lunar surface.

Such a landing would have put the Russians at least half a year ahead of the United States in the race to put man on the moon.

The first announcement distributed by Tass news agency after the landing said Lunik V "hit the moon in the area of the Sea of Clouds" at 10:10 p.m. Moscow time (2:10 p.m., EST). It said "a great deal of information was obtained" as the 3,250-pound craft approached the moon.

The purpose of a soft landing is to continue to receive radioed information after the craft lands on the moon. By saying information was obtained only in the approach, the announcement indicated the moon shot was at least a partial failure.

The announcement implied—but did not say—that the spacecraft had failed to lower itself gently onto the moon as the first such venture by man in his effort to put himself on the lunar surface.

In the past, Soviet space scientists have not said ahead of time what their ventures were intended to do. Then, whatever they did could be claimed as at least a partial success and the world did not know the extent to which accomplishment might have fallen short of intentions.

Russians broke this rule by announcing early Wednesday that Lunik V would test elements of a soft landing system.

With indications of a soft landing failure, the Russians worded their announcement of the results so as to emphasize the accomplishments in gathering data.

It said information obtained was necessary "for the further elaboration of a system for soft landing on the moon's surface."

A western observer suggested this meant they had learned what went wrong this time and hoped to avoid that trouble the next time.

450 Hear Pro's, Con's Of Viet Nam Issue

By JO BUMBARGER
and
MARJORIE MARSH
State News Staffwriters

Applause, laughter and stiff rebuttals marked the Associated Students of MSU-sponsored discussion on Viet Nam Tuesday night. Although the meeting was not proposed as a debate, heated discussion concerning aggression in the war almost turned it into one. Speaking in favor of United States policy were Guy H. Fox and Wesley R. Fishel, professors of political science. Opposing were Thomas H. Greer, Humanities Department chairman, and Lawrence H. Battistini, professor of social science.

Although each side was allotted 20 minutes in which to present its views, individual speeches ranged from 15 to 30 minutes. About 30 persons out of the audience of about 450 gave Greer a standing ovation as he concluded his reasons to pull out of Viet Nam.

"After that, I'm not sure whether to address you as Members of the Madmen's Society or Future Beasts of America," said Fishel as he began his talk.

His side had its supporters, too. A slightly larger number of students rose to applaud him and about 25 gathered around Fishel and Fox's table after the discussion. Four persons stayed to talk to Battistini and Greer.

The audience was composed of students, faculty and even one or two children. Most campus leaders of the May Second Movement, a student activist group opposing U.S. policy, attended. The question and answer period lasted until almost 11 p.m. During the question period, Carl Friberg, moderator and president of the Inter-Co-op Council held the professors to a six-minute time limit on each topic.

All of the professors have studied U.S. foreign policy. Fishel is a consultant to the U.S. government on Viet Nam and was a special adviser to the South Vietnamese government from 1956 to 1958. He was in the country in November as a special correspondent for the Washington Post and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Greer was former chief of historical studies for the Army and Air Force and in 1960 received the Distinguished Faculty Award.

Fox headed the MSU project to help Viet Nam in 1961 and was acting chairman of the Political Science Department 1957-58.

Battistini was on the central staff of the allied powers in Tokyo during World War II.

PRO Professors Support Role In Viet Nam

The war in Viet Nam is a case of aggression, not a civil war, said Wesley R. Fishel and Guy H. Fox at the Associated Students of MSU's discussion on Viet Nam Tuesday night.

"The risks involved in the administration's policy are less than those involved in handing Viet Nam over to the Communists," said Fox.

He gave five reasons why the U.S. must stay in Viet Nam in his speech opening the discussion:

1. The U.S. must prevent loss of confidence in its ability to defeat guerrilla warfare.
2. Surrender in Viet Nam would be an invitation to Communists to start similar wars all over the world.
3. The U.S. has an obligation to the people in South Viet Nam and those who are fleeing from the North.
4. Administration policy requires negotiations from strength.
5. Bombing of military equipment has raised morale in South Viet Nam.

"This is not a civil war," Fishel said.

Fishel said there has been an increasing number of Communist-manufactured weapons found in the South, as well as a rise in the percentage of native Northern agents infiltrating the South.

"At least 75 per cent of these infiltrators are North Vietnamese by birth with no reason to be in the South except to wage war," he said.

CON Action Called Legal, Moral Violation

U.S. action in Viet Nam violates legal and moral principles and harms national self interest, said Thomas Greer Tuesday night at a discussion sponsored by Associated Students of MSU.

Greer, chairman of the Humanities Department, teamed with L.H. Battistini, professor of social science, to criticize U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

"We are not in Viet Nam to defend the Vietnamese people or to preserve the non-existent democracy," Greer said.

"Our real policy is to prevent establishment of communism wherever and however we can."

Battistini quoted Ngo Dinh Diem, former president of South Viet Nam, as saying Viet Nam was a nation at war in 1959.

"This dirty war has expanded to the dimensions everyone now knows," Battistini said, concluding an outline of Viet Nam history.

Not only is the U.S. policy hurting the national interests, but it is not going to achieve military victory in Viet Nam, Greer said.

Greer suggested four steps in solving the Viet Nam problem.

1. Negotiate with all powers actually involved, including the Viet Cong.
2. Commitment to gradual withdrawal of all forces.
3. Hold free elections under the supervision of an international commission.
4. Let the Vietnamese decide their own future.

Rebels, OAS Anticipate Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A broadly based interim government embracing both government and revolutionary leaders emerged Wednesday night as the probable vehicle to preside over a return to peace and order in the Dominican Republic.

The goal would be free elections within about six months. The United States is giving full support to efforts by the Organization of American States to establish such a government.

Latin American diplomatic circles reported it may be in sight.

And Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, head of the Dominican rebels and their designated president of the republic, was reported possibly more amenable to such a plan than he has been in the past.

A Wise Recommendation

The state Senate Appropriations Committee has recommended a budget increase of more than $6.8 million for Michigan State next year.

After approving Gov. George W. Romney's recommendation of $46,269,600 for MSU's operating budget, the committee earmarked an additional $900,000 for faculty salaries.

An appropriation of $7,250,000 for new construction was also recommended in addition to the operating budget. A library addition and an administration building head the priority list for new campus construction. Secretary Jack Breslin said construction of the library addition should begin next March.

University officials seem to be highly pleased by the budget recommendation of the Appropriations Committee. But it is important to remember, as Trustee Warren Muff told the committee in hearings earlier this spring, that the budget recommendation represents only the "rock-bottom" needs of the University.

The recommendation of the Appropriations Committee now goes to the Senate for approval. It must then be voted on by the House and signed by Gov. Romney.

Since both the House and Senate are controlled by Democrats, there is every reason to hope that the budget will not be cut in the legislative process.

Since the University needs every penny, it is vital that the additional funds be used wisely if they are approved. The appropriation for new construction will be decided on by a joint capital outlay committee of the House and Senate.

The additional money for faculty raises, however, is completely under the control of the University. It would be wise to use this money to benefit the "teaching professor" rather than to attract "big-name" research professors who teach one course a term and never have the time to see their students.

MSU already has many outstanding research professors on its faculty. Unfortunately, the teaching professor seems to be a disappearing breed. It is possible that the extra funds from the legislature will help deter this trend -- if the University uses the money wisely.

The Appropriations Committee has shown by its budget recommendations for all the state's major universities that it understands the needs of higher education in Michigan. It is important for the University to use the money where it will do the most good.

Close To Home

The civil rights teach-in to be held on the mall near Beaumont Tower tonight will explore a problem which should vitally concern every MSU student--racial discrimination in East Lansing.

The speakers won't be talking about Selma, Ala.

They will be talking about the fact that the Negro football star you cheer for might have a difficult time renting a room near the campus.

They will be talking about the fact that a distinguished Negro professor left MSU several years ago and that one of his main reasons for leaving was his inability to purchase a house in East Lansing.

They will be talking about what you, an MSU student, can do to make East Lansing a town in which any student, regardless of color, can find a place to live.

The speakers will include James O. Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality; Zolton A. Ferency, state Democratic chairman and Charles Orlebeke, aide to Gov. George W. Romney.

Also Mrs. Mary P. Sharp, newly-elected city councilwoman; Paul A. Varg, dean of the College of Arts and Letters; and Robert L. Green, assistant professor of education.

The student committee which is sponsoring the teach-in made every effort to include a wide variety of viewpoints.

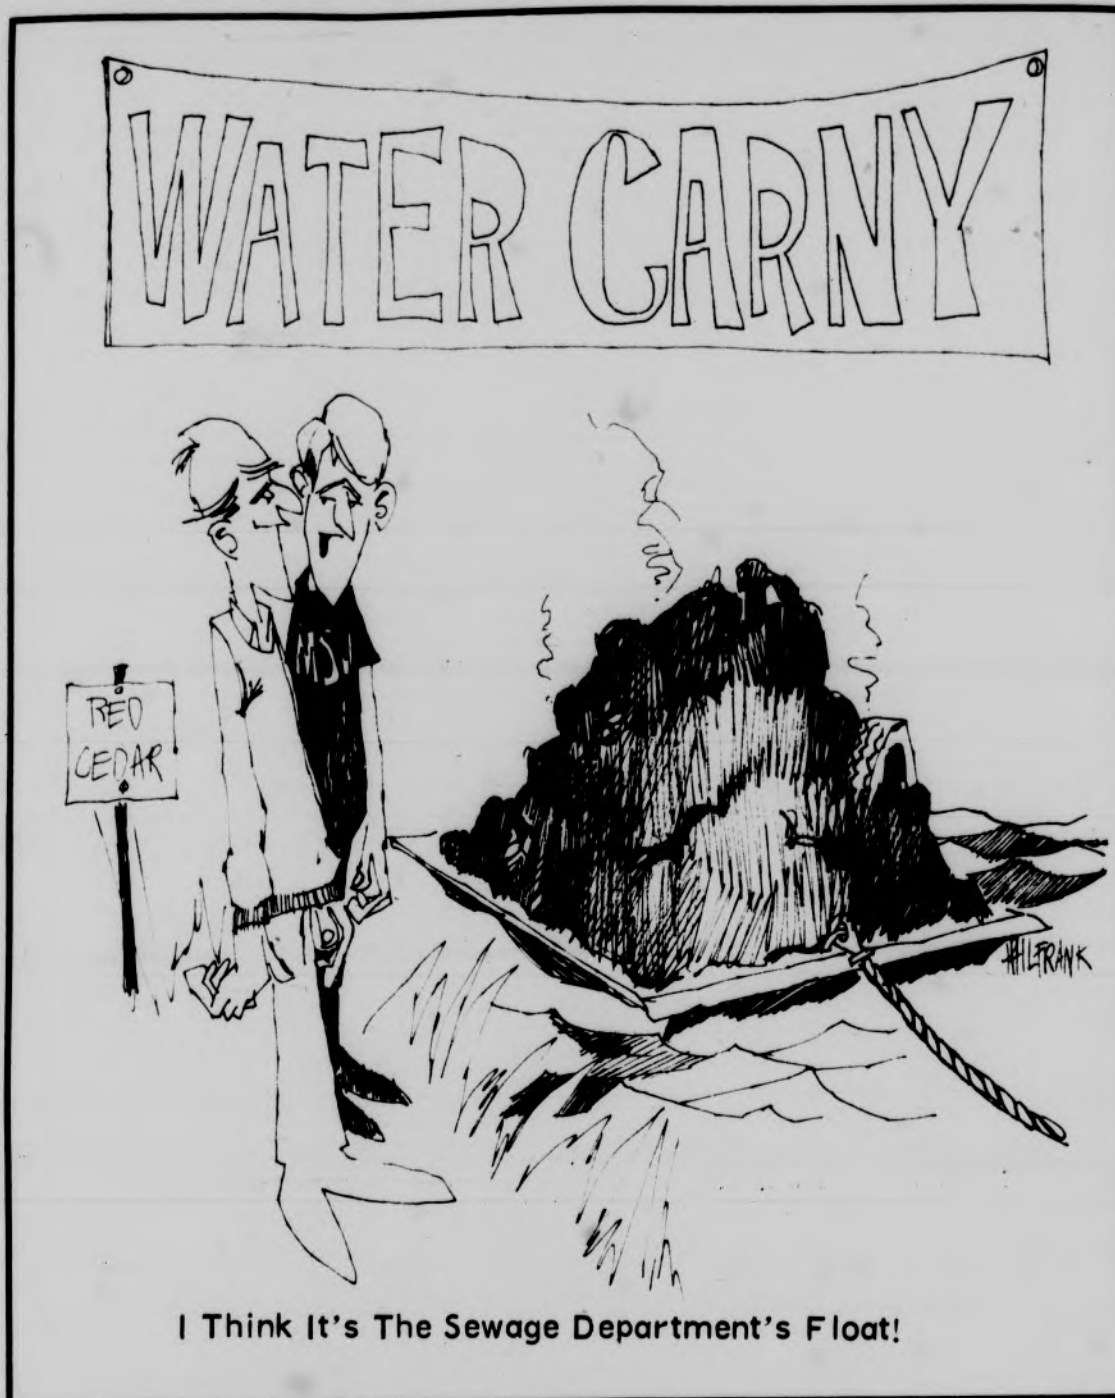

Unfortunately, MSU administrators and local realtors refused invitations to speak. This seems to indicate timidity on the part of local realtors to present their views on housing discrimination at an open forum.

We are glad the students made the effort to invite these speakers. We hope that those who refused the invitation will change their minds in the interest of free inquiry.

The teach-in tonight is an event which no student should miss.

We can do more about racial discrimination in East Lansing than we can do about discrimination in Alabama.

We live here.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
Do Bunnies Represent U.S.?

To the Editor:

This past Saturday foreign students on campus and the International Club presented an International Festival.

The well-planned and colorful students were eager to explain their countries' exhibits, and the atmosphere was one of gaiety and good-will. Refreshed and intrigued by this aspect of the festival, I proceeded to attend the floorshow, which fulfilled my highest expectations.

Bright costumes, highly-competent singers and dancers, and well-written commentary held my interest throughout. At the end of the performances by the foreign students, I waited expectantly for a presentation of similar caliber by the United States.

What was my horror when the curtains parted to reveal three girls attired as "bunnies," who proceeded to writhing about the stage to blaring music for an interminable three minutes. Many members of the audience seated near me were as disgusted as I. Was this revolting display representative of United States culture?

As a long-time student of modern dance and ballet, I readily concede that the dancers showed control and a fair mastery of technique. Orchestras, the modern dance club, is surely capable of better productions. Why then were we subjected to this ridiculous display, suitable only for a burlesque theater or perhaps a Playboy Club?

I firmly believe that the students (and especially the dancers) of MSU are capable of better things, and I fervently hope that next year our contribution to the International Festival will be a credit, not an insult, to America's great cultural heritage.

Creeps Of The World, Unite!

To the Editor:

Most of you are at least partially acquainted with the several groups owing their existence to the Viet Nam controversy. Well, I have formed a new pseudo-intellectual organization called the Committee Representing Every Expatriated Political Scientist (CREEPS).

Of course, our group has not limited itself to the non-professionals on campus. For the last three weeks our core members have scoured the local barber shops for names on the growing list of "Untouchables," that is, those who would rather use their seldom-earned money for a new pair of sunglasses or hiking boots. These desirables, and of course, members of the Young Socialist Club and the DuBois Club, are cordially invited to join forces again.

Although we expect political action by our members, we are primarily a group for education. Honorable people, such as Mario S. and Gus Hall, will be extended speaker positions.

Naturally, we expect our members to think for themselves, and so we have encouraged questions from them, and have asked questions ourselves. As a matter of fact, CREEPS has already received sound answers. "Who needs New Zealand, Australia and Thailand anyway?" was the most often-heard query by our members when asked of the military importance of Viet Nam.

I suspect that the steel chains are merely the tangible representatives of the more powerful intangible chains which enmesh the University and force student life into grotesque patterns.

Not until the great power of the petty bureaucracy is relinquished or broken will the chains come down. Until that millennial day, however, many of us will continue perhaps quixotically to attempt to get an education befitting free men. And thus, despite chains, straight paths will be worn.

Notes From Underground

Extend
Finals Week

By Char Jolles

Because the violent overthrow of MSU's, or for that matter, the American university's, status quo won't be this afternoon, we must still function within the system.

I should like to make two suggestions that would not necessitate revolution: a new classroom attitude for a needy few and an extension of the finals week period.

As it is, finals week is incredibly bizarre. Because we're not machines, etc., we can't always keep up with weekly reading, pursue supplementary reading and prepare papers at the same time. We have no choice but to procrastinate.

Only an elite few can cram well. The rest of us not only don't like to stay up all night, but some feel ashamed if they don't have the time to do justice to a course.

The time factor has an intellectual impact, too. We're stale by the fourth exam. It's impossible to stay alert and astute after long stretches of sitting and reviewing, even with those stupid 10-minute study breaks on the hour.

I suggest a kind of reading period--we could afford four days--just before finals week. We could move registration up to Monday, end classes on a Thursday and start finals week the following Tuesday.

As a student, I feel a little qualified, perhaps presumptuously, to comment on a factor of the teaching method, namely, classroom attitude. The discouraging classroom attitude isn't an overwhelming problem here, but it needs to occur at all.

Some instructors seem to feel that the most effective way to stimulate the student mind is through fear and shame.

These instructors thus tend to be hypocritical and belittling in the classroom, in an effort, it seems, to grip an individual where it most hurts--in his self-image.

I doubt that anyone who uses this method is aware of it. If he could somehow realize the effects of this approach, he would certainly, as a teacher, make an effort to change. No teacher should consciously want to offend his students.

This approach can accomplish only an immediate goal. It can never encourage what is truly creative and sincere in a student, nor any lasting respect for the subject matter involved.

When an instructor has to resort to this method, he obviously has little faith in himself, the student or the potency of the subject matter.

This approach does little more than put the student on the defensive, shame him into studying and create resentment. Is that A or B on the exam worth the bitter after-taste?

A professor here once told me that he never judges a student on the basis of grades or academic output, but "I will disrespect a student only if he stops growing."

He attempted to provide an atmosphere that was liberal and congenial. He kept no seating chart in lecture: "If my lectures aren't stimulating enough, then I don't want them to come."

He kept a seating chart in lab only in order to learn names. He took even wrong answers seriously.

No one felt ashamed or guilty, and all felt free to express themselves and grow.

Smoot Report Slanted

By Judi Nicol

A copy of the Dan Smoot Report entitled "Communist Student Riots" was sent to nearly everyone on campus last week.

"Americans have grown accustomed to reading about student riots in foreign lands, not knowing that the turmoil is part of a long range assault whose principal target is the United States," Smoot warns.

Smoot says this Communist plot has already begun to gain force at Berkeley. I gather that, from the content of the article, MSU is next.

The letters sent to the campus carried the return address of Allan B. Clink in Detroit. Clink is the head of the John Birch Society in Michigan.

In 1964 Smoot filed suit against four members of the Traverse City League of Women Voters, who had accused him in their locally-circulated bulletin of spreading "slanted information, half truths, innuendoes and sometimes worse."

Smoot sued for $500,000 damages, but after innumerable delays, dropped the case. The Traverse City women then sued Smoot for legal fees charging that Smoot lacked good faith in instituting the case. This suit is still pending in the Federal District Court in Grand Rapids.

In a New York Herald Tribune interview, Smoot held that Negroes are an inferior people, that the Supreme Court should be impeached, and that President Johnson while a senator from Texas was a "traitor."

Smoot advocates a brand of "Americanism" that proclaims democracy is a vicious form of government never intended by the founding fathers.

Such unsolicited material can be marked "rejected" and returned to the postal box if a student does not want it, the Lansing postal inspector said.

Quick Action On Anti-Poverty Promised

Powell

WASHINGTON--Quick action on the administration's anti-poverty program was promised Wednesday by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., after a "summit meeting" with the program's directors.

Powell, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, said he would move a bill to enlarge and continue the program through a subcommittee and the full committee today.

At a news conference, he said a meeting Wednesday of Democrats on the committee and officials from the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) had produced "a satisfactory solution of the problems."

NATO Avoids Backing LBJ

LONDON--The NATO allies declared Wednesday night the war in Viet Nam threatens world peace but they avoided proclaiming support for President Johnson's specific policies there.

Sources at the spring meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) foreign ministers said France was standing by its call for ultimate withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Viet Nam.

Britain Cancels Dominican Relations

LONDON--Britain has withdrawn diplomatic recognition from the Dominican Republic government, qualified sources reported Wednesday.

They said the British consider that neither the junta led by Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras nor the rebel regime led by Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno can claim to be in effective control of the country.

This is London's normal standard of judging whether a regime is entitled to be recognized.

Shastri In Russia

MOSCOW--Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India arrived here Wednesday to begin an official eight-day visit to the Soviet Union.

The visit is expected to strengthen ties between India and the Soviet Union at a time when relations between India and the United States have soured.

Poll Tax Ban Revived

WASHINGTON--An outright ban on poll taxes for state and local elections was nailed into the voting rights bill Wednesday by the House Judiciary Committee.

A 19-13 vote overrode administration efforts to knock out the anti-poll tax provision, which was put into the bill earlier by a subcommittee.

The vote reversed a defeat suffered by civil rights groups in the Senate Wednesday when an anti-poll tax amendment was defeated 49-45.

The vote in the Judiciary Committee cleared the way for final action on the bill by the committee late Wednesday. It will probably be several weeks before the bill comes up in the House.

Philippines May Send Troops To Viet Nam

MANILA--The Philippine House of Representatives Wednesday night passed a bill calling for the dispatch of 2,000 Filipino army engineers and supporting combat troops to Viet Nam.

The bill, endorsed by President Diosdado Macapagal, was sent to the Senate where it faces tough sailing. The opposition Nacionalista party holds the majority in the upper body.

Support for the bill was voiced Wednesday by the acting chief of staff of the Philippine armed forces, Maj. Gen. Rigoberto Atienza.

Alleged U.S. Spy Ring Castroized

HAVANA--Communist Cuba Wednesday announced discovery of another alleged U.S. "spy ring," this one in the interior of the island. The government said 31 persons were arrested, two of them women.

The announcement coincided with postponement until Friday of the start of the trial at grim Cabana Fortress of 53 Baptists, two of them American, accused of being American espionage agents.

Klan Investigation Steps Up

WASHINGTON--The House Committee on Un-American Activities is stepping up the tempo of its investigation into the Ku Klux Klan. It may question Klan leaders at preparatory, closed hearings in two weeks, sources said Wednesday.

They also said committee investigators have reported the Klan is active in at least six Southern states and that while the FBI has infiltrated the Klan, there is evidence the Klan has infiltrated some Southern law enforcement agencies.

Getting the investigation into a higher gear, Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., appointed a subcommittee this week to conduct the inquiry into what President Johnson called "the hooded society of bigots."

Flash Fire Startles Students Near Mayo

An electrical flash fire caused considerable excitement for some students near Mayo dorm Wednesday afternoon.

The fire was caused by a falling chunk of concrete cutting through an underground electrical cable. The resulting flash sent one worker to Olin with a minor flesh burn. The worker, Charles Fry, Lansing, was back on the job in a few minutes.

A spokesman for Hall Electric, a Muskegon electrical contracting firm replacing electrical cables for Mayo, said there was no damage to equipment and progress would not be delayed.

In other police activity, Carol L. Lundberg, Lansing, was given a summons for failure to yield the right of way after her car struck a bicycle ridden by Albert M. Strowbridge.

The accident happened at noon at the exit to Parking Lot C on Engineering Road. Strowbridge was treated and released at Olin for minor cuts and abrasions.

Late Tuesday firemen were called to East McDonell Hall to put out a fire in a car owned by Belden B. Smith, Milan junior. The car was not damaged.

Engineer's Body Found In Ship

SALT STE. MARIE (UPI)--The body of F. Donald Lamp, chief engineer aboard the sunken limestone carrier Cedarville, was recovered today from the hull of the ship.

Recovery of Lamp's body brought the known dead in last Friday's collision in the fog-shrouded Straits of Mackinac to six. Four others are missing and presumed dead inside the ship, now resting on the bottom about 100 feet down.

The Cedarville went down when she collided with the Norwegian merchant ship Topdalsfjord.

Committee Recommendation:

Class Councils To Be Dissolved?

The committee on class councils was scheduled to recommend Wednesday that these groups be dissolved and their activities incorporated into the Associated Students of MSU structure.

The Student Board committee was to make these recommendations in a written report at Wednesday night's meeting, but no action is to be taken until next week's meeting.

Senior Council would become a vice-presidency in the ASMSU cabinet with the vice president elected by a popular vote. An ASMSU committee would narrow the field of petitioners to three before the election.

His responsibilities would be to represent the senior class at commencement, receptions and Senior Swingout, co-ordinate senior activities, and serve as the permanent class contact for the Alumni Relations office after graduation.

All senior activities would be run by this office except Water Carnival, which has been moved under the vice president for special projects.

Advisers from the Alumni Relations office and the office of student affairs would work with the students in this department.

Fresh-Soph Council and J-Council would be dissolved upon the recommendations of their presidents, said Frankie Frei, committee chairman.

The recommendation says that these two groups serve no unique function and activities could be handled by other organizations.

The report suggests that popular entertainment and J-Hop be placed under the vice president for special projects; freshman activities under the new freshman orientation bureau; and the Outstanding Junior Awards under the vice president for University Affairs.

OUR MAN AT MUNICIPAL:

Finds Closed Doors, Minds

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

The elderly members of our population, harshly dubbed as "old people" by society and fondly labeled "senior citizens" by the press, are usually considered if not lovable, then at least tolerable, and the cause of little trouble.

A sub-group of this social caste, however, unemotionally called ticket-takers, are exempt from the warm and kindly attitude that people usually hold towards persons beyond the middle-age bracket.

Case in point:
The Notre Dame baseball game last Monday night was one of the few this year for which the University charged admission for State students.

Apparently, they were charged admission to members of the press as well.

I was refused admission after showing to no less than three people (they work in groups), both my State News and United Press International passes, for I was covering the game for both organizations.

My first reaction was one of mild indignation. I stomped off, called a busy number, and somewhat ferociously announced that I had just called my employers who were, at that moment, writing a tart letter of complaint.

It didn't impress the gate man or the fellow behind the cage, who murmured something about a "big deal" and began regarding me as one would an annoying fly. I got desperate. Turning to the third man, whom I knew, I tried a bit of soft-sell.

"Aw, come on, Sy," I said,

"remember me? I did a feature on you last winter. You know that I'm a reporter."

Nothing.

I got more violent. "This pass had gotten me into State's football games," I said, whereupon the fellow behind the cage commented that this wasn't a high school baseball game where anyone is allowed in for nothing.

"Well, it's being run like one," I roared, "and you're all a bunch of incompetent nincompoops!"

With that off my chest I paid my admission and walked to the bleachers, searching for Sports Information Director Fred Stabley.

Stabley summoned ticket manager Bill Beardsley, who refunded my dollar from his own pocket (thanks, Bill). The ticket-taker shifted responsibility to the man in the cage, who said he didn't admit me for two exceptionally logical reasons—I didn't look like a newsman and the game was being played at Lansing Municipal Park, not on State property.

Next time around I'll be sure not to make the same mistake again. By then I should know what a REAL newsman looks like.

Morley Fraser, head football and baseball coach at Albion College, must have thought he was coaching the fall sport Wednesday when his Britons fell before Michigan State 20-1 at Old College Field.

He used the right amount of players, also, as 22 Albion players saw action, including five pitchers. State used 21 as both coaches nearly emptied the benches.

The Spartans collected 24 hits enroute to their 23rd victory of the season against seven defeats. Albion is now 8-8.

Bill Collins started for the Spartans and pitched six innings, giving up all six Briton hits and the only run, to bring his record to 2-0.

Starter Doug Falan pitched only one and 2/3 innings, but gave up seven of State's 20 runs to take the loss for Albion.

John Biedenbach proved to be the best of several prolific hitters with a home run, triple and single and five runs batted in three times at bat.

Left fielder Bob Speer and centerfielder Bob Maniere each had three hits while Albion shortstop Pete Boroday had two hits and the only run batted in.

State jumped on Falan for five hits and three runs in the first and roughed up reliever Mike Kinsley just as bad. By the end of the third inning the Spartans were leading 11-0 and had batted out 13 hits.

The Spartans got revenge for Albion's only run in the sixth inning by batting around the order for the second time in the afternoon and scoring five runs as substitute Bruce Pettibone started the inning with a single and ended it by grounding out to short.

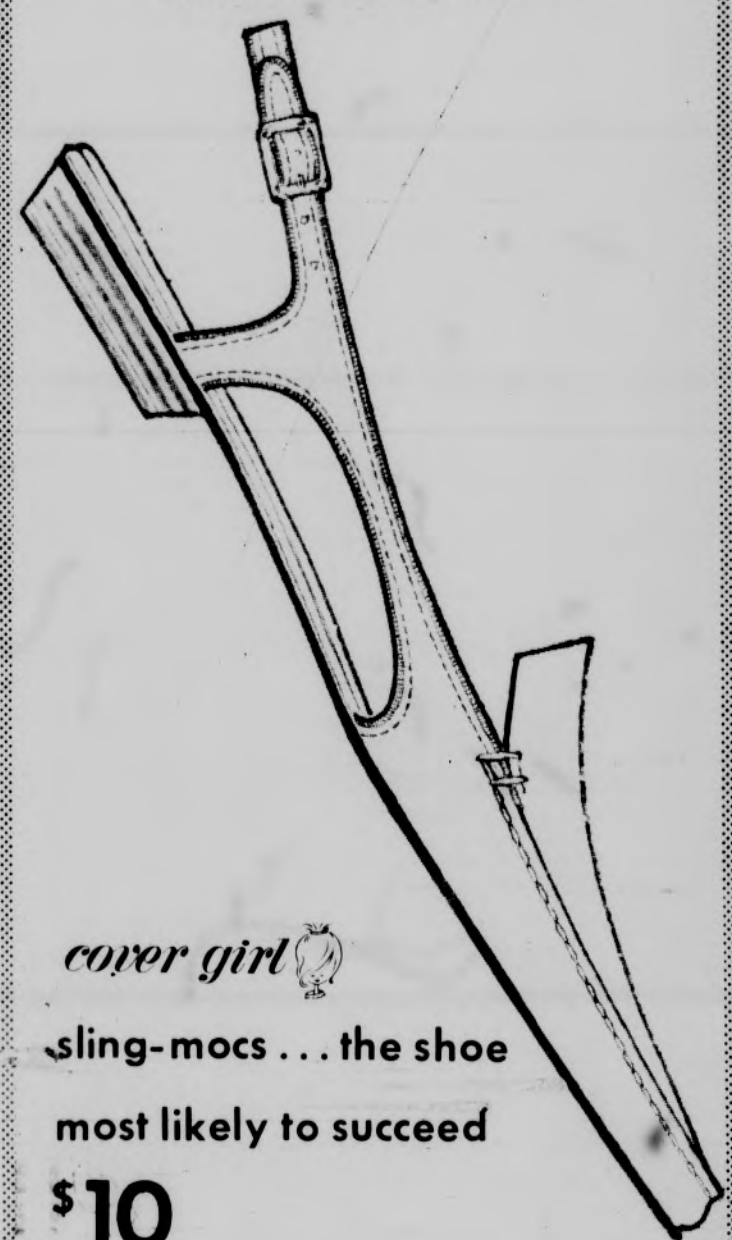

The Spartans added two each in the seventh and eighth innings

It amounted to little more than batting practice for coach Danny Litwiler's squad in preparation for a big three-game series with the University of Michigan this weekend.

State, 6-3 in the Big Ten, plays the league leaders in Ann Arbor Friday before returning to East Lansing for a twin bill with the Wolves on Saturday.

MSU OR UCLA FOR ALL-AMERICAN

Don't Discount Academics In Final Decision--Lafayette

By LARRY MOGG
State News Sports Writer

Now it's official. After some anxious moments, Lee Lafayette's signature finally reached the desk of basketball coach John Benington.

Benington received a signed tender from Lafayette Wednesday morning, which means other Big Ten clubs must keep their hands off the 6-5 all-American from Grand Rapids South.

But only half the battle has been won in the cloak-and-dagger affair revolving around Lafayette.

After filtering through more than 60 cage offers, Lafayette has narrowed the field down to two schools--UCLA and State. UCLA is still in the running, despite the signed tender MSU received, because the West Coast school doesn't recognize the present Big Ten aid program.

"I will make my decision sometime next week," said Lafayette over the telephone.

"Everybody stresses the basketball angle," he said. "But the education either school can offer is just as important to me."

Benington, who doesn't want to lose his prize prospect, plans to stay in close touch with Lafayette in an attempt to persuade him to come here.

Both MSU and UCLA have several factors that might sway him their way.

Lafayette visited the UCLA campus three weeks back and was impressed with what he saw. The Bruins, under coach John Wooden, have molded a winning basketball image, helped out by two NCAA titles.

It was this image that lured Lew Alcindor, the 7-1 New York City giant, into the Bruin fold a week ago.

Lafayette met Alcindor at a University of Michigan recruiting banquet earlier in the year and was impressed with him as a person and a basketball player.

"He (Alcindor) seemed like a very nice guy," Lafayette said, "but the possibility of being on the same team with him won't necessarily effect my decision."

On the other hand, the Spartans have made an all-out effort to recruit Lafayette for some time.

Lafayette is a product of the same high school as cage captain Bill Curtis, who could divert him from the Bruin's paws. Curtis told the State News that he hadn't tried to pressure Lafayette into coming here.

"Lee's kind of a quiet guy," said Curtis, "and so many people have approached him, that I haven't tried to press the issue of his coming to State."

As a result of several trips to MSU, Lafayette has made friends with several freshmen cagers, including Art Baylor, Jerry Geistler and Heywood Edwards.

Of late the Spartans have been mired in a defeat rut in basketball, and Benington thinks that Lafayette might be the answer to a reversal. The 19-year old fired away at better than 30-point clip in three years on the South varsity.

Rugby Club Greets Irish

State's rugby club takes on the University of Notre Dame in a match at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the rugby field in front of Case Hall.

The contest will probably be the stiffest test of the year for the club which has a 2-6 record.

The Irish are hailed as the champions of the midwest after having won their own tournament which involved several top rugby schools in the U.S. No admission will be charged.

Cascade Films

Two 30-minute color films of the Cascade mountains of Washington will be featured at the meeting of the MSU Outing Club in 204 Natural Science at 7:30 tonight.

The films are "Glacier Peak Holiday" and the award-winning "Wilderness Alps of the Stehekin."

'Roses Have Thorns' To Be Shown Here

"Roses Have Thorns," a distinguished film documenting the dramatic experiences of a WOOD Radio-TV staff member confined within a state mental institution, will be presented Thursday 7 p.m. on WMSB (Channel 10), University television.

Last April, Tamra Wood, assistant public affairs director of Time-Life Broadcast, Grand Rapids, volunteered to pose as a patient in the Kalamazoo State Hospital. Her two-week impersonation was known only to a handful of people -- not to staff personnel or patients.

The special program, "Roses Have Thorns," is the result of Miss Wood's attempt to learn the kind of treatment that awaits the mentally ill today.

The narrative of the program was compiled from Miss Wood's on-the-scene tape recordings. The pictorial representation of her startling experiences was later filmed in the hospital.

President John F. Kennedy told Congress in 1963, "We have long neglected the mentally ill and this neglect must end." The shocking inadequacies disclosed in this compelling program dramatically illustrate the truth of his words.

Perhaps Shakespeare recognized a similar failing in society when he wrote: "Roses have thorns and silver mountains mud. Clouds and eclipses stain both moon and sun, and loathsome canker lives in sweetest bud. All men make faults."

Huff To Address Business Dinner

Warren Huff, chairman of the Board of Trustees, will be the guest speaker Friday evening at the annual banquet of Beta Gamma Sigma and the Graduate School of Business in Kellogg Center.

Huff's topic is "This Business of Education."

Immediately preceding the banquet, Beta Gamma, a national business administration honorary fraternity, will initiate 30 new members.

Negro Challenges
Business Community

Eli Ginsberg, director of conservation of human resources at Columbia University, told a campus audience that the Negro, in his struggle for civil rights, is challenging the "Business Community" also.

Speaking in Erikson Kiva Wednesday afternoon, Ginsberg said that the Negro wants "jobs, better jobs and more than just jobs."

In relating this challenge, Ginsberg started by explaining the Negro's position in American Democracy.

The U.S. has "choked" on its promise of democracy to the Negro, he said. The American Democracy has never really included the Negro within it.

The whole country has in fact been very anti-Negro. Laws were passed in many states to keep Negroes out, he said.

The Negro in the past has been on the periphery of American Society, but great advances have been made in the past 25 years.

The changing code toward the Negro is forcing the business community to re-evaluate its position, he said.

In response to the Negro challenge, the business world must change in three ways.

Discrimination does exist in hiring practices among business today, Ginsberg charged.

This may be unintentional, but still it exists. Each business should decide that they should personally try to eliminate as much discrimination as possible.

Fellowship Offered By Drama Department

The Department of Drama at Michigan State will award a $2,500 Shubert Fellowship in playwriting to a graduate student who is interested in working on a complete three-act play.

Lawrence Shubert Lawrence Jr., chairman of the Shubert Foundation, said that the sole interest of the Sam S. Shubert Foundation is to aid young men and women in the early, difficult days of what he hopes will become their profession, their craft and their art form.

Applicants for the fellowship must be admitted to a graduate program at MSU by Sept. 15, 1965.

E.C. Reynolds, associate professor in speech, said the candidates should submit at least one one-act or three-act play. Additional examples would be beneficial, he said.

"If an individual is working on a script, he may submit the basic outline as well," Reynolds said.

His Choice Was
Rights Or Riches

DETROIT (UPI)--Martin Luther King, had he not wanted to be a leader of the civil rights movement, could have become the pastor of Central Methodist Church at an annual salary of $25,000.

The Rev. Ralph Abernathy told several civil rights rallies in Alabama Monday that King had been offered the Central Methodist pastorate in 1958.

He said King, who is associate pastor of his father's Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, turned down the offer to remain at the head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Henry Hitt Crane, pastor emeritus at Central Methodist Church, said he made the offer to King after he had preached at the church.

"I told him it would be my greatest desire to see him follow me in the pastorate," Crane said.

"He said he was grateful for the offer, but he turned it down because he wanted to continue in his civil rights work."

Crane, who served the church for 20 years and became pastor emeritus in 1958, said he even went so far as to ask for approval of such a move from the church board composed of about 50 laymen and women.

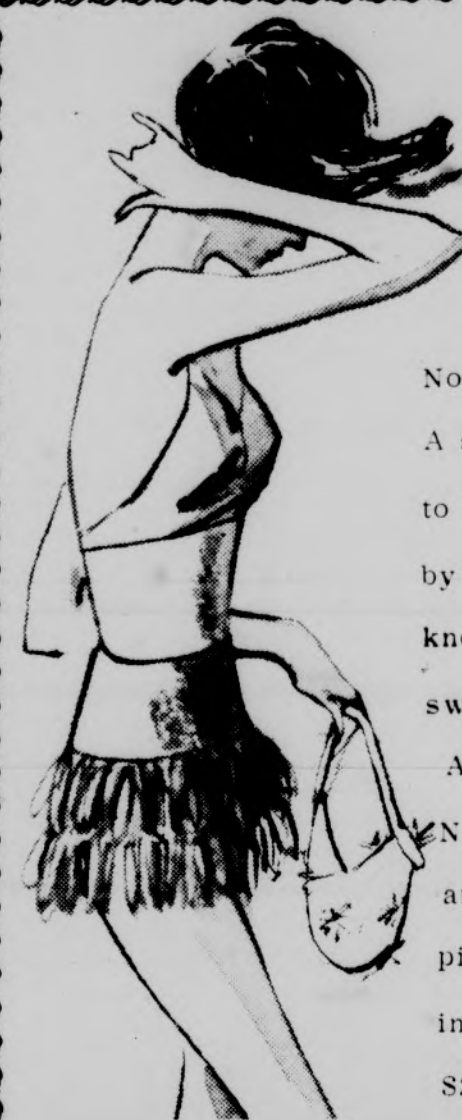

"I told him (King) that the Central pulpit is the freest in the land," Crane added. "Central was the first white church in Detroit to fully integrate."
