'Act Now,' Plead Rights Backers

THE MORNING AFTER--An interested observer stares from the Farm Lane bridge at what is left of this year's Water Carnival. Water Carnival Judged Winner

It was a sink or swim situation for Water Carnival this year, and the results are in. It looks as though 'Water Carnival' will stay afloat.

The success of this year's carnival was to determine whether the carnival was to continue as an all-University event. An estimated 9,000 to 10,000 people saw the show from Thursday to Saturday night and brought in between $2,000 and $3,000 profit. This is the first time in four years that Water Carnival has made money.

David Jackson, Detroit, senior and general chairman said he was very pleased with the results. "I am extremely satisfied," he said, "We had many breaks, especially the weather Saturday night."

Jackson said that he felt the main reason for the carnival's success this year was because of the various committees.

"Every committee," Jackson said, "did a better job than before. This year we cannot single out any one special area as doing a special job."

Norman Hefke, advisor to the Water Carnival committee, said: "We are more than pleased with the results, both financial and otherwise. The committees functioned smoothly and the students did an excellent job."

One lighting technician who works for the University said that this was the biggest crowd he had seen at a Water Carnival show in the years he had been working at them.

More parents who were on campus for Parents' Weekend, also attended the show than before.

Head Detective Says He Sent Liuzzo Report

DETROIT (UPI)--Detective Inspector Earl Miller, head of the Detroit Police Criminal Intelligence Bureau, Monday admitted he was the one who gave information on slain civil rights worker Mrs. Viola Liuzzo to Warren Police Commissioner Marvin Lane.

Lane sent the confidential report to Dallas County Sheriff James Clark in Selma, Ala., and it subsequently turned up in the hands of the Ku Klux Klan.

Miller was suspended from his command after a meeting Monday and will serve in the crime control center of the department. Detective Inspector Robert Grindle has been assigned to the Criminal Intelligence Bureau.

The disclosure was made by Police Commissioner Ray Girardin, who had ordered Chief of Detectives Vincent Piersante to investigate the case.

Girardin said in a statement that Miller told Piersante "that he transferred the information in good faith and on a confidential basis."

"This was done at the request of Commissioner Lane, a retired chief of detectives of Detroit police who has enjoyed a good reputation for reliability."

Bomb Set Off By Telephone

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana--Saboteurs broke into a $100,000 telephone exchange, hooked dynamite to the wiring, then went away and dialed a number--and the exchange blew up.

This was the theory put forward by a British army captain while troops and police mounted a massive manhunt for the saboteurs Monday.

The automatic exchange 10 miles outside Georgetown was dynamited Sunday.

LBJ Proposes Two Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON--President Johnson asked Congress Monday for a $4-billion excise-tax reduction, promised that "it will not be our last" tax cut, and called on industry for price cuts to match. His long-awaited message proposed two big bites of $1.75 billion each, the first on July 1 and the second next Jan. 1, followed by another $464 million in smaller cuts to be put into effect in annual stages until 1979.

A prospering economy can afford the business-boosting, job-creating cuts, Johnson said, while still whittling $1 billion off next year's anticipated budget deficit.

He reassured those who fear a steep rise of defense costs in Viet Nam that there is no military spending increase in sight "that would make these excise tax reductions inadvisable."

Congressional reaction seemed to be unanimously favorable to the proposed reductions.

However, the President asked also for some increases in various highway-user taxes. The reaction to these proposals was not unanimous and it appeared they will be considered separately from the cuts.

It seemed likely, therefore, that business and the consuming public can expect the cuts to take effect on this Presidential timetable:

July 1, 1965-- Repeal of all the retail "nuisance" levies on luggage, furs, jewelry, handbags, cosmetics and toiletries; and repeal of a score of factory-collected taxes on electric appliances, radio and television sets, and other items ranging down to matches and playing cards.

And--the biggest item of all--a midyear cut from 10 per cent to 7 on new cars, for savings of nearly $70 a car retroactive to May 15.

The rate would drop to 6 per cent next Jan. 1 and 5 per cent on Jan. 1, 1967.

Repeal of the admissions tax on movies, theatres, racing and sports events, and night clubs; and of the taxes on club dues, light bulbs and auto parts.

Also, the tax on local and long-distance telephone service would drop from 10 per cent to 3 per cent. It would go down 1 point a year thereafter, until its elimination on Jan. 1, 1969.

BEARING TORCHES--Singing demonstrators march toward East Lansing City Hall Monday night where they shed more light than heat on the proceedings within. The group of about 300 conducted an orderly demonstration both directly in front of the building and across the street.

300 March At City Hall

While the East Lansing City Council talked, about 300 students and East Lansing residents carried torches, sang freedom songs and marched in front of City Hall Monday night.

The marchers, outside supporters, the people inside who used the city council to pass an open housing ordinance for the East Lansing community.

Any other business of the council was literally locked out, as the students poured into the council chamber, filling it to capacity.

Fire Chief Phil Patriarche had to enforce the fire laws and shut the doors about 7:15--45 minutes before the council meeting was scheduled.

One member of the Human Rights Commission outside commented: "It's criminal that it's not the citizens of East Lansing in there. This problem should have been handled by the adults of East Lansing and not by MSU students."

Observers of the torch light march seemed impressed by the demonstration.

"What can I say?" said one. "This is a national movement. It's just a little bit slow getting to some towns."

"I think it's pretty brave of them and I think it's an exciting thing," a coed said.

"The general apathy of East Lansing seems to be dissolving in a new wave of student concern," another marcher commented.

But not all the comments were favorable.

"I think it's ridiculous. There are better ways to accomplish things than by burning torches. I don't think they're any better than the Ku Klux Klan with their torch burning," a dissenting student said.

"Students think the people of East Lansing didn't like them before. What will they feel like now?" another said.

An Indian student commented, "I'm glad so many Americans are taking part in this. We have nothing like this problem in India."

"I see more white Americans marching here than Negroes," he added.

75 Crowd Hallway With Sit-In

By JIM STERBA
State News Staff Writer

Civil rights leaders pleaded with the East Lansing City Council Monday night to "act now" to pass an open occupancy housing ordinance and test it in the courts later, as about 75 demonstrators staged a "sit-in" in the hallway outside the council chambers.

Mayor Gordon Thomas insisted that the council was doing everything it could and that it was "working with all possible haste" to eliminate discrimination in East Lansing.

Chants from the demonstrators outside the building filtered into the council chambers as civil rights spokesmen charged that the council has hesitated and avoided the issue of open occupancy for the last three years.

In the early stages of the meeting, which lasted over two hours, the council unanimously passed a resolution reaffirming its support for an end to discrimination in the city.

Chief spokesman for the civil rights groups, Byron Peterson, president of the campus NAACP, requested immediate passage of six proposals designed to bring about a speedy end to housing discrimination.

Councilwoman Mrs. Mary Sharp said the council had already taken action on most of the proposals.

East Lansing resident and MSU history professor Alan Schaffer asked why the council must refer all matters to the City Attorney.

"I wonder if the city council would take so long to act and ask for legal advice if women were being raped in the city," he questioned.

"The impression you give is one of hesitation and avoidance," he said.

"I deny that we are walking away from the problem," said Mayor Gordon L. Thomas. "I think we are doing everything in our power to bring about a solution to these problems."

Thomas outlined the steps that the city council has taken: "We're looking into the legality of an open housing ordinance. We've placed advertisements in the local newspapers stating that East Lansing is an open city. We included an item in our budget to pay for a part-time director of the Human Relations Council. We've talked with CORE director James O. Farmer and the discussion was fruitful. Tonight, we passed a resolution in favor of ending discrimination. And we've offered to meet with civil rights groups and talk the issues out."

Several East Lansing citizens agreed, in an open discussion period, that the council is lagging and has put off the issue.

East Lansing resident Louis Rosewood said that there was direct evidence of "under the surface bigotry," but that the solution to the problem had to come from within each citizen and not from the passage of laws.

East Lansing police said they would begin to remove demonstrators from inside the building ten minutes after the meeting ended.

Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, junta president, said he reminded Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy and other top-level peace envoys sent by President Johnson that the stated mission of American forces here was to prevent the Dominican Republic from falling under Communist domination.

The White House mission was reported trying to get the junta to resign in an effort to reach an understanding with the rebels.

"I made it clear," Imbert said, "that we would continue fighting for the same objective even if it meant the American troops would have to be turned against us."

He also reminded the Americans, the general added, that the Dominican armed forces "were solidly behind the junta."

Imbert said he rejected a call by the Organization of American States (OAS) truce commission for a cease-fire north of the corridor. He said to do so would give the rebels a chance to regroup and would "defy public opinion" which, he said, favors a cleanup of the area.

The junta offensives aimed at wiping out rebel resistance in the largely industrial and slum area of northeastern Santo Domingo.

A U.S. spokesman said five of the Americans killed in the disaster have been identified and 22 are listed as missing or presumed dead.

Another 500-pounder, one of 10 such bombs armed for the raid, blew up harmlessly by itself in the smoldering wreckage on the main air strip of the base, 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

Korean Gets Assurances

WASHINGTON--President Johnson assured South Korea's visiting president Chung Hee Park today that U.S. defense commitments to this country are durable and will continue so long as danger remains.

In a formal welcome for a two-day visit here starting Park's 10-day tour of the United States, Johnson assured the 47-year-old Korean leader that the United States will work "steadfastly with you to better the lot and lives of your people."

Park responded that his nation and the United States are "bound together with a bond of friendship too strong to ever be broken."

And adding endorsement of U.S. policies in Viet Nam, Park said: "Along the truce line in Korea, in the jungles of Viet Nam, your beloved sons and husbands share the same encampment and trenches with our own men to defend freedom from Communist aggression."

Welsh Mine Gas Kills 28

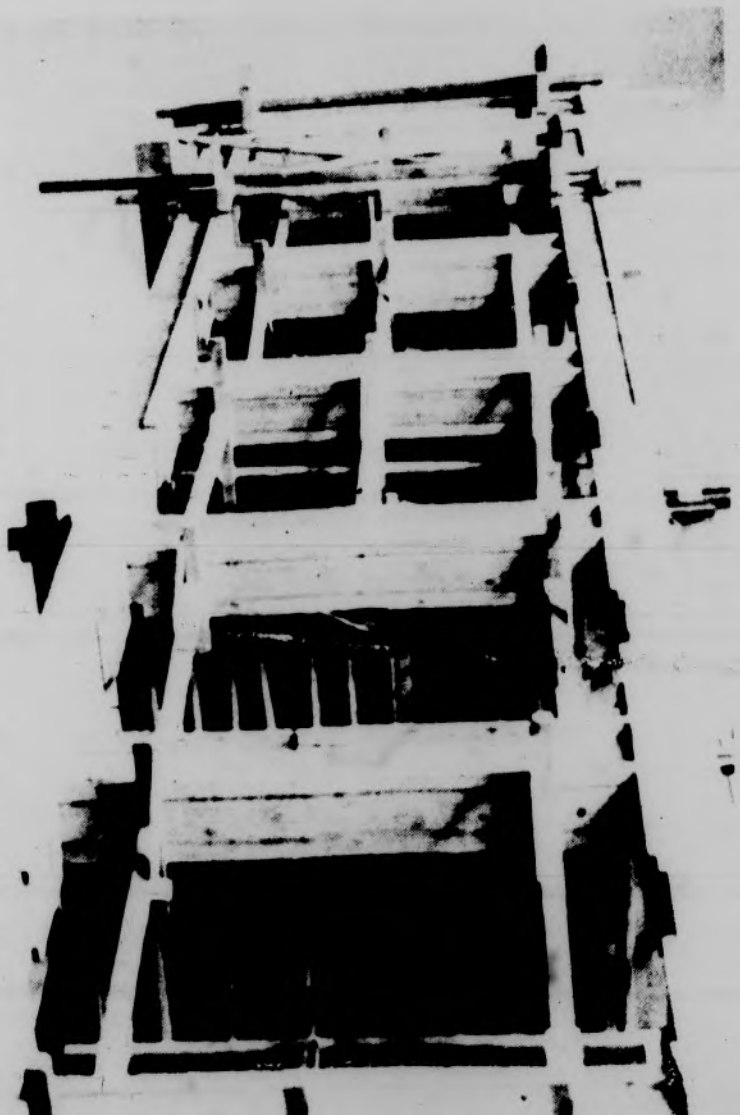

TONYPANDY, Wales--A gas explosion killed 28 coal miners Monday in a narrow gallery cut deep under the storied Rhondda Valley. The mine, one of Britain's most highly mechanized, had been destined for closing soon.

All the bodies were recovered. A dozen miners were brought up from the scene of the explosion--850 feet down--suffering from injuries and shock.

An official of Britain's National Coal Board, which operated the government-owned Cambrian Colliery, said the blast occurred in an area where the coal seam was only 2 feet 8 inches high, and the gallery not much higher from floor to ceiling.

Yugoslavian Ag Officials Tour Campus

A delegation of the top Yugoslavian agricultural officials will tour the Michigan State campus and southeastern Michigan this week to study farm methods, marketing and research.

Primarily they will be trying to see what's being done about the cereal leaf beetle, a serious Midwest grain pest which is also plaguing their home country.

Leading the group will be Jozef Ingolic, Yugoslavia's secretary of agriculture and forestry. He will be accompanied by Milun Ivanovic, counselor for agriculture and forestry; Geza Tikvicki, chairman of the agricultural committee of the federal assembly; and Bogdan Sestan, associate professor of agriculture at Zagreb University.

Observers of the torch light march seemed impressed by the demonstration.

"What can I say?" said one. "This is a national movement. It's just a little bit slow getting to some towns."

The Movement Is On

Student Board has agreed, on the eve of the biggest open occupancy campaign to date in East Lansing, to study discrimination in off-campus housing.

If its study results in the predictable conclusion that discrimination is a problem to students, the board will have taken a big step toward responsible participation in student affairs.

Most people around campus have taken it as axiomatic that East Lansing discriminates against Negroes, and sometimes against Jews and foreign students. Few have taken upon themselves to measure the extent of the problem, and fewer still to find solutions to it.

We are now in the midst of the most widespread campaign yet to eliminate the problem. A number of student groups have launched a strong program of pressure against the city to find a solution to the problem. They have received some support from individual faculty members and private citizens, and have predicted help from national rights groups.

Monday night's confrontation with the City Council and today's follow-up to it are the biggest assaults so far in their campaign, but this does not mean that more concern is not needed. The Student Board study can add significantly to the weight of the evidence of discrimination and can add prestige to the campaign to end it.

Byron Peterson, president of the Campus NAACP and one of the leaders of the campaign, correctly told the board last Wednesday that its study need not be an endorsement of the direct action campaign. It can be an additional front in what should be a massive attack on the complacency and reluctance that has allowed the problem to go on this long.

Racial discrimination in East Lansing is becoming a symbol of the kind of problems that should concern students. It is becoming representative of the "social interests" which all students must have if they are to become responsible citizens.

Student Board can take the lead in endorsing this concern, while it need in no way support any specific actions with which it does not agree.

If the board can make this distinction and not let criticisms of direct action techniques stop it from concerning itself with a very real problem, it will make a real contribution to the cause of student activities and student activism.

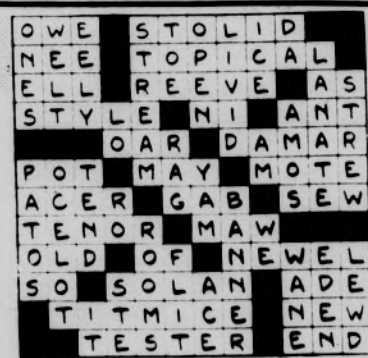

An Apology

I would like to clarify the use of a quote from Robert L. Green, assistant professor of education, in my "Campus Summary" column in Monday's State News.

Green's statement—"There is no problem here. East Lansing is an open community"—was meant purely ironically and was, in light of his strong stand in favor of open occupancy legislation, to point up the error of the opposing position. This was not made clear in my column.

Green has in no way changed his stand on this issue, and was a leader of Monday night's demonstration for open occupancy in East Lansing.

China's Bomb Carried By Missile?

TOKYO--The Japanese newspaper Asahi Shimbun said Monday Communist China's second nuclear bomb was carried aloft by a missile and detonated in the air.

The Asahi correspondent in Peking said he obtained the missile report from "authoritative" sources not otherwise identified.

The bomb was exploded last Friday over western China, according to the official Red Chinese account. It made no mention of the means of detonation but the use of the word "over" touched off speculation that the device was possibly dropped from an airplane.

Hot Line Too Hot

WASHINGTON--Eight teen-agers groping through a sewer line with matches and candles accidentally set fire May 1 to a telephone cable that included the "hot line" between Washington and Moscow, it was disclosed Monday.

The incident occurred in the Baltimore, Md., suburb of Rosedale. There was no disruption of the hot line. A Defense Department official said it automatically shifts to alternate circuits instantly in the event of any disruption.

Teachers' Strike Ends

SOUTH BEND, Ind.--More than 350 union school teachers ended a strike against the South Bend city school system and classes returned to normal Monday for the first time in nearly a week.

Spokesmen for the AFL-CIO South Bend Federation of Teachers implied an ultimatum issued by the administration late last week to go back to work or face discharge was not responsible for the return.

Steel Talks Cancelled

PITTSBURGH--Steel contract negotiations which had been scheduled to resume here Tuesday were cancelled Monday until sometime after the United Steelworkers (USW) Executive Board rules on the union's contested presidential election. The cancellation announcement was made by a USW spokesman.

Mrs. Oswald Under Surveillance

FORT WORTH, Tex.--Mrs. Marguerite Oswald telephoned the Associated Press and tearfully reported Monday she has been placed under surveillance by city officers.

The mother of presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald said the action apparently was linked to an appearance in nearby Dallas Monday by Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

A Fort Worth detective confirmed that Mrs. Oswald was being watched and said the surveillance order would remain in effect until Humphrey leaves Dallas.

Grand Rapids Bank Robbed

GRAND RAPIDS--Two bandits held up the Union Branch Bank at 30th St. and Eastern Ave. Monday afternoon and escaped with between $50,000 and $75,000, sheriff's deputies reported.

The holdup occurred about 1:18 p.m.

A car presumed to be the bandits' getaway car was found abandoned near the scene, officers reported.

Pope Pleas For Peace

VATICAN CITY--Pope Paul VI appealed to the people of the Dominican Republic Monday to seek "every means to restore unity, peace and internal collaboration."

The pontiff's appeal came in a telegram to Alvaro Emanuele Clarizio, the papal nuncio in the Dominican Republic who has been acting as a mediator in the strife-torn nation.

Record Plan Is Popular

From an occasional program related to humanities study the humanities record program has grown into a once-a-week informal get-together for all University students.

Friday evenings starting at 7 p.m., students and professors begin wandering into 114 Bessey. Some study. Others listen to musical and dramatic selections ranging from early Italian to contemporary.

They come and leave as they please. During an intermission refreshments are served. It is an easy-going way to utilize the $1500 audio facilities of the Humanities Department.

This Friday night the concert series includes "Stabat Mater," by 18th century composer Pergolesi; a violin concerto by Tchaikovsky, and a 20th century opera, "The Cradle Will Rock," that takes as its theme the exposing of various kinds of figurative prostitution.

The humanities record program selections are related to the current studies in the humanities curriculum, with at least one selection apiece for 241, 242 and 243.

Those records not in the humanities collection come from the Disc Shop and private collections.

The program started last year on the suggestion of Bishop Pipes, associate professor of humanities, as a lecture-demonstration aimed at a specific class. Response was good enough to put the program on a weekly basis the beginning of this school year.

Cyclone Rips East Pakistan

NEW DELHI, India (P)--The world probably will never know the full horror of last week's devastating cyclone that cut through isolated areas of neighboring East Pakistan on a barge of death and destruction.

Fragmentary reports reaching India from Dacca, East Pakistan's capital, said the official death toll is 5,492--and is expected to rise. But, as in past cyclones that have hit even harder, nobody can say for sure.

There is no way of telling with certainty how many people lived in East Pakistan's marshes and on its river islands before the cyclone, let alone how many died. But the population density is one of the greatest in the world.

Tens of thousands of Pakistanis live on river boats and in lonely villages which the census takers rarely visit.

Driven by poverty and a booming population increase, East Pakistanis push out into the dangerous marsh flats, especially vulnerable to cyclones and tidal waves this time of year.

Death tolls in previous storms have been staggering: an estimated 12,000 in May, 1963, about 20,000 in 1960-61 monsoon storms and 11,000 and 10,000 respectively in 1942 cyclones and tidal waves.

In the past, entire villages have been wiped out, leaving no one to report the losses.

Even under the best possible conditions, government officials in Dacca don't always have fool-proof communications with the outlying districts. Narrow footpaths, boats and, in recent times, helicopters are the only link with some of these areas.

East Pakistan's latest ordeal struck last Tuesday night. The cyclone was said to have roared north up the "funnel" created by the Bay of Bengal, slammed into the coastline and hammered away for about nine hours until shortly before dawn Wednesday.

Pakistanis newsmen reported Chittagong and Cox's Bazar hard hit. More than 1,000 persons were said to have perished in Barisal district.

The newsmen quoted survivors as saying tidal waves followed, surging across coastal areas that have only hillocks and tree lines to break the full force.

Raging 100-mile-an-hour winds were then reported to have struck flimsy huts, telegraph wires and trees.

Thousands of cattle--the difference between poverty and riches for Pakistanis--were reported swept away.

One witness who reached Dacca from Chandpur was quoted as saying "At night I saw so many boats on the river--but next morning Chandpur had no boats on its water."

Some government officials in West Pakistan said five million persons probably were homeless, but even this figure could only be an educated guess.

The United States was the first country to step forward with help for the devastated area. Ambassador Walter P. McCaughy handed over $25,000 for disaster relief.

Rally, Film, Funds
Planned By SNCC

This week has been designated SNCC week by the MSU Friends of SNCC (Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee) chapter. Events are planned for most of the days of the week.

Today, fund-raising booths will be set up all day in the Union lobby and the International Center.

Tower, noon to 8 p.m. Wednesday, will discuss the topic "Civil Rights in East Lansing and the Campus."

Thursday fund-raising booths will again be up in the Union and the International Center.

Saturday, MSU graduate Ivanhoe Donaldson, now a SNCC field secretary in Mississippi, will speak following showings at 7 and 9 p.m. of the film "The Man Called Ivanhoe," a documentary about his work. The film will be shown in the Union, room to be announced.

The Friends of SNCC supported Monday night's open occupancy demonstration at City Hall in East Lansing, a spokesman said.

Central's President Testifies

(UPI)—Central Michigan University President Judson Foust told a Senate investigating committee Monday he had made every effort to cooperate with the CMU faculty in his nearly six years as president of the university.

Foust, testifying before a committee investigating administration-faculty relationships at Central Michigan, denied allegations he had changed students' grades or granted sabbatical leaves only to his friends.

"I have not been furnished a list of allegations," Foust said. "I have read many things that are not true. I read that I changed students' grades. That is not true. I defy anyone to prove it. I have never brought pressure to bear," he said.

He also said he read a charge "that I give sabbatical leaves only to my friends. That is not true. The sabbatical program has only been reinstituted two years and only one sabbatical leave has been turned down." He said that leave was refused because the faculty member did not have an adequate program outlined.

The public hearing was a part of an investigation into Central Michigan called for by Sen. Edward J. Robinson, D-Deerborn.

Foust, the first witness before the committee, read a statement from E. Allan Morrow, chairman of the CMU Board of Trustees, that unanimously extended the board's confidence to Foust and the entire Central Michigan University administration.

Robinson, in opening the hearing, said, "It is the intent of this committee to further the cause of higher education in the state. I think it will justify this intent when it completes its investigation in the future."

Foust recounted a dispute in which the Faculty Senate reconstituted itself. The Senate, he said, apparently objected because of the number of department heads and administrative personnel on the body.

"When they got down to it, it was the administrative and department heads they wanted a smaller number of," Foust said.

The faculty, he said, is not deprived of any academic freedom. "They determine the curriculum, the credit hours, the courses, who graduates. I ask anyone to say where we interfere in academic freedom. They—the faculty—choose their own textbooks and own methods."

In answer to a question from committee member Roger Craig, D-Deerborn, Foust said he knew of no instance in which anyone in the administration changed a student's grade.

And in answer to another question from Sen. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Cadillac, Foust said he had made efforts to cooperate with the faculty.

"I thought I was, but apparently I am not succeeding with some people," he said.

Cancer Kills Kids

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Dr. John W. Hope, an X-ray specialist, disclosed Sunday that cancer is now the second biggest killer of children in the nation.

In an address before about 700 members of the Pennsylvania osteopathic Association, Hope said this fact "would be news to most people, including many physicians, who still believe infectious diseases to be the number one killer after accidents."

Homeowners Need City License To Rent

Students who live in East Lansing rooming houses may be living under worse conditions than necessary, according to Mary J. Slavik, city clerk.

A city ordinance, which provides for the licensing of rooming houses, stipulates that no one may rent out rooms without a license, which costs $1.

"We haven't had adequate help in checking to see if people are renting without a license," she said. "I think there are people who don't know about the licensing procedure."

Only 155 licenses were applied for last year. Miss Slavik could not estimate how many people were operating without a license. Miss Slavik suggested two ways to get people to apply for licenses:

Students may check on their own rooming house's conditions and call her if it does not meet the standards of the ordinance. She also suggests appointing a full time inspector.

A full time inspector was requested in the city budget, which came before City Council last night.

A rooming house and its rooms should meet certain minimum standards, Miss Slavik said, "so that students would be living in a half-way decent place."

A "rooming house" is defined as a private home or building which rents out rooms to two or more roomers. The rooms should not contain cooking or kitchen facilities.

A licensee must follow all of the Michigan fire and health regulations.

Each sleeping room should be provided with a separate bed for each roomer or combination of two roomers.

No basement used as a furnace room or laundry should be used for housing purposes, the ordinance says. No other basement.

Poli Si Honorary Holds Elections

Alpha Omicron chapter of Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science honorary, has elected Bob Borosage, East Lansing junior, president.

Also elected were Richard Toles, Pontiac sophomore, vice president, and Christine Kane, Algonac sophomore, secretary-treasurer.

Membership in the honorary is limited to undergraduate and graduate students who have at least a 3.0 average in at least 15 credits of political science, and rank within the top fourth of their class.

The honorary and the Political Science Department sponsor films, guest lectures, panel discussions and debates.

Herbert Garfinkle, associate professor of political science, serves as adviser.

Students who live in East Lansing rooming houses may be living under worse conditions than necessary, according to Mary J. Slavik, city clerk.

Each floor of a house should have adequate fire escape facilities conforming to state statutes and should be kept clean and free of obstructions, it says.

For each eight roomers, or less than eight, one set of bathroom facilities should be provided.

It is also up to the licensee to keep the rooming house thoroughly clean and "free from all dirt, vermin, garbage and rubbish."

Students who feel these minimum standards are not being met, can call the City Hall at ED 7-1713 and ask for the city clerk's office.

Autonomy For Indian Co-ops

"It is the intent of the Indian government to transfer the functions of the credit cooperative movement into the hands of the people," said Bhagwati G. Shah, of the Indian Institute of Management, in a seminar for the Grad School of Business Administration Monday.

Shah addressed a group of faculty members and grad students on "Cooperative Policy in India Since Independence".

"Autonomy has always been the ultimate goal," he said, "but each year the government invests more in the program and becomes more reluctant to release their control of the cooperatives."

Shah said that now would be a good time to let the credit cooperatives evolve into autonomous organizations, free from the control of the national banks.

"The present system is too bureaucratic," he said. "The best progressive farmer is entitled to no more credit than the poorest."

He indicated that localized control would make better use of co-op funds, since the local officers could better evaluate the needs of the individual farmer. "Under the set of rigid rules we now use for dispensing credit, the large farm owner reaps most of the benefits," he said.

A further advantage of the autonomous system would be that the farmer could feel the "self-help" spirit of the program, rather than feeling that the government is giving him charity, Shah said.

"In spite of some difficulties, the cooperative program has made great progress in helping India's economy during the past few years. Availability of credit is expanding and interest rates are declining," he said.

Marriage Of Figaro-- The Eternal Chase

The men chase the women in "The Marriage of Figaro," but in the end it's the women who really hold control.

"The Count and Figaro think they are in control of the situation, but like most cases it's the women who hold the power," Frank Rutledge, instructor in speech, said.

Rutledge is in charge of staging the University production of "The Marriage of Figaro," to be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the Auditorium.

Mozart's comic opera "The Marriage of Figaro" relates the amorous entanglements of a philandering count, his countess, and Figaro and his bride-to-be, Susanna.

Tickets are available at $2 for main floor seats and $1 for balcony seats at the box office in the auditorium. All seats must be reserved.

The majority of the cast are music majors but several speech majors have major roles and the chorus includes students from throughout the University.

"The Marriage of Figaro" is the first major operatic production presented by the departments of speech and music in five seasons. They presented "Hansel and Gretel" during the 1959-60 season.

Since then the speech department has cooperated in music department presentations of one-act operas by supplying set and technical help and a staff director.

"The Marriage of Figaro," considered one of Mozart's finest operas, was first produced in Vienna in 1786 and since then has become a standard in the repertoires of the world's greatest opera companies.

At 7:30 tonight Mitchell will make another appearance at the Union as the speaker for the Winged Spartans. MSU flying club. This is open to interested students.

Science Fair Head Named

T. Wayne Taylor, associate professor of science and mathematics in the MSU Teaching Center, has been named chairman of the advisory council for the National Science Fair International to be held in Dallas, Tex., next year.

Taylor organized the first science fair in Texas in 1952 and served as state director of science fairs there before coming to Michigan.

The announcement was made following the Science Fair in St. Louis, Mo., last week where 423 high school students from across the country and six foreign lands placed their science projects on display.

The presentation of scholarships will be made and new members of Omicron Nu will be initiated.

'Ding-A-Lingers' Get D.C. Invitation

The Spartan Bell Ringers will appear by special invitation June 24 and 25 at the annual convention of the National Guild of English Handbell Ringers in Washington, D.C.

The guild is giving the group an all-expense paid trip to the capital city. It is the first time the guild has extended such an invitation.

While in Washington, the bell ringers will also perform in the Senate rotunda.

Director and founder of the Spartan Bell Ringers is Wendell Westcott, assistant professor of music and University carillonist.

In announcing the Washington trip, Westcott also called for new members to replace those graduating this year. Students qualifying must have an adequate musical background, but no previous bell ringing experience is necessary. Both men and women students are needed.

Interested students can make appointments for auditions by contacting Westcott from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday at 104 Music Practice Building.

Case Halls Win In Bowl

North and South Case defeated Hedrick House and Van Hoesen Sunday for the all-University college bowl championship.

Case and Hedrick-Van Hoesen were already the residence hall and off-campus champions, respectively.

Members of the Case team were Diana Kujawa, Detroit junior; Pam Breakay, Cody, Wyo., freshman; Bill Kietzman, Milford junior; and Don MacKenzie, Houston, Tex., freshman.

From Van Hoesen were Gerry Sell, Bethesda, Md., junior; and Anne Peters, Eaton, Ohio, senior; Hedrick, Fred Westcott, Los Angeles, Calif., junior; and John Cunningham, Cincinnati, Ohio, junior.

Competition, modeled after the television program of the same name, included 66 living units.

"Judging from the interest expressed so far we should have over 100 entries next year," said Marilyn Seiber, ASMSU academic affairs publicity director and Pontiac sophomore.

Vets Assn. Slates Vote

Guard Merger Postponed

LANSING (UPI)—Plans for reorganizing the Army Reserves and National Guard in the state are not expected to be sent to the National Guard Bureau in Washington this month as expected because of a continued study of the merger on a national basis by Congress.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara announced Saturday his proposed plans for reorganizing the Guard by merging the country's 268,000 reserves with Guard forces would be delayed to give Congress more time to study the recommendation.

Plans for merging the units in Michigan were to have been completed by the end of May, according to Col. Clarence Schnipke, acting adjutant general of the Michigan National Guard.

"We may not submit our plans this early now," he said.

The proposed strength of the Guard after merger in Michigan would be about 13,904. Michigan would lose about 3,000 reserves in the shift.

McNamara made the proposal late last year. He said the merger would allow for economies in the nation's military budget and also permit a more efficient reserve military force.

However, the controversial proposal has been under fire and Saturday McNamara announced the plan would be delayed until Congress could study it further.

Under the proposal the 46th Infantry Division of the Michigan National Guard would be merged after the annual summer camp at Camp Grayling this July with the 38th Infantry Division of Indiana. The merger was scheduled to be completed by March, 1966.

E. Roy John of the New York Medical School and Flower Fifth Avenue Hospital will deliver the fifth talk in the Science Lecture Series on the campus Wednesday.

He will speak at 12 noon in the Auditorium of Anthony Hall. His topic: "Electro Physiological Studies of Conditioning and Generalization."

All interested students, staff, faculty and others are invited.

The Science Lecture Series is presented by the College of Natural Science, in cooperation with the Continuing Education Service. They are designed to probe the physical and biological approaches to the function of the brain.

Digging To Enlarge South Campus Piping

What does the digging near the Computer Center have in common with the South Campus IM field?

They have a great deal in common, according to Engineer Joe Finn of MSU's Engineering Dept. The digging is being done to enlarge the IM field irrigation system.

Currently the pipe that runs from the North Campus Power Plant to South Campus is not large enough to do an adequate job. It is being replaced by a longer and better pipe of concrete and asbestos, Finn said.

The irrigation system of the IM field is completely underground through the use of piping that allows the water to run directly from the pipe to the ground below the grass.

The small building between Bessey and the Computer Center is presently being used as a water inlet for the Power Plant's condensing system, he said.

By this building will be changed to an irrigation main for South Campus, he said, and will further improve the irrigation system.

The panel is sponsored by the Advertising Club, the Women's Advertising Club and the Better Business Bureau of Grand Rapids and the Western Michigan chapter of the American Marketing Association.

Representatives of community and commercial organizations have been invited to attend.

Burning Ballast

The smell of burning insulation brought firemen to Student Services Monday morning.

When the entire squad of firemen arrived all they found was a burning ballast in one of the fluorescent lights in the south wing's third floor hall. Damage was confined to the ballast.
