THEY'RE OFF--With a rattle of wheels and a pounding of running feet, the Lambda Chi Alpha Junior 500 began for another year. The torturous race was marred by only one accident, but there were probably several cases of aching muscles afterward. Photo by Jonathan Zwickel

SAE 'Carts' Off Junior 500 Honors

By LINDA BOYLE
State News Staff Writer

Sigma Alpha Epsilon (SAE) really wanted to win the junior 500 this year and they did.

Other men's housing units placing were Omega Phi Psi (second) and Alpha Tau Omega (third) fraternities. Gamma Phi Beta sorority won in the women's divisions with Kappa Kappa Gamma coming in second and Chi Omega taking third.

SAE won six out of the last nine years' races. Last year they might have won, too, only they were disqualified because their cart cracked up.

So this year they were really out and practicing. Team members Chuck Maines, Mike Mars, Mike Jolly, Bob Sherwood and Doug Tinsler raced a fifth of a mile apiece in the last run against Omega Phi Psi. Tom Menninger steered all the way for the team.

At the last leg of the race Doug Tinsler found himself leading the rest of the carts by four feet with Sherman Lewis of Omega Phi Psi running behind him in a tangle of other carts. Tinsler had always wanted to beat former football star Lewis. Here was his chance.

Suddenly Lewis pulled out in front of the ATO cart and was gaining on Tinsler. Lewis managed to challenge Tinsler three times as they neared the finish line. At one point Lewis was ahead by a wheel length.

But at the finish Tinsler crossed the line with a cart and an half lead over Lewis. Alpha Tau Omega came in third.

Ponnie Barnes, Gamma Phi Beta pledgee, steered her cart to victory this year with five men doing the running. The sorority came in second last year.

The runners practiced an hour a day for three and a half weeks.

The event began with a parade through East Lansing led by the starting car for the Indianapolis 500. The car was followed by cars containing Junior 500 queen Cinda Scandling, Lansing freshman, her court and queens from the living units entered in the race.

Starter for the race was Sam Williams, all-pro defensive end for the Detroit Lions. Music was provided by the Kingtones.

Trustees Approve 150 Faculty Appointments

The Board of Trustees approved appointment of 150 persons to faculty positions at its May meeting Friday at the Gull Lake Biological Station.

President John A. Hannah told the board that this was the longest list of appointments ever considered by the trustees.

Provost Howard R. Neville said that Friday's appointments raise the number of new staff positions now filled to 164.

"We have several positions yet to be filled," he said. "Some more are now being processed, and we are having some difficulty in getting candidates for other positions."

Neville told the board the University is doing much better now in retaining key faculty members than it was three or four years ago.

Key appointments made Friday included the naming of John D. Wilson, former associate director, to the position of director of the Honors College, and the naming of Eni Njoku, vice chancellor of the University of Nigeria, to the position of visiting professor of biology and plant pathology for one year.

In other action, the board let contracts for two construction projects at MSU and one for a new dormitory at Oakland University and discussed the possibility of expanding Olin Health Center.

Contracts totaling $321,219 were awarded for construction of a greenhouse which will be part of the Plant Science Research Building. Also approved was a contract for sidewalks and bicycle parking areas at Holmes Hall.

The Oakland residence hall will be a seven-story building housing 572 men and women students. Contracts awarded for its construction totaled $4.35 million.

President Hannah told the trustees that booming enrollments are rendering Olin inadequate and expansion of campus health facilities merits their early consideration.

Hannah read a communication from Olin Director Dr. James S. Feurig which, among other things, suggested the possibility of establishing clinical facilities for minor in-dormitory treatment and asked the trustees to consider the possibility of annual health check-ups for faculty members.

JOHN WILSON

Honors Director Named

John D. Wilson, a Rhodes Scholar and associate director of Honors College for the past two years, has been designated director of the Honors College.

His appointment was approved Friday by MSU's Board of Trustees, meeting at the Kellogg Biological Station at Gull Lake.

Wilson will assume the directorship Aug. 1, succeeding Stanley Idzerda, Idzerda, director of the Honors College since its establishment eight years ago, will join the faculty at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn. He has a year's leave of absence from MSU, beginning Sept. 1.

A 1953 graduate of MSU, Wilson spent 1953-55 at Oxford University in England as a Rhodes Scholar. He received the master's degree from Oxford in 1955.

He served a year as assistant to MSU's vice president for academic affairs before becoming assistant to the president at the State University of New York, Albany, in 1959.

He rejoined the MSU staff in 1963 as associate director of the Honors College.

As an undergraduate at MSU, Wilson earned three letters in football and was a regular defensive halfback on Michigan State's national championship team of 1952.

Report Cites Freedom At Public Universities

Students at large universities like MSU are among those with the greatest amount of freedom, according to a report of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

The association found that large public universities offer their students the greatest amount of freedom to hear controversial speakers and discuss controversial topics.

It also found that students at universities like MSU have more freedom to picket, sit in, publish uncensored student newspapers and participate in policy-making than students at most other schools.

The large public universities lagged only in the areas of "partisan" political advocacy and petitioning the government, according to the association's report.

"This finding lends credence to the hypothesis that a university president must determine the possible freedom for his students by evaluating the 'cost' of freedom in terms of a number of competing opposite forces," the report said.

"The president, therefore, is particularly sensitive to the mode of student's petitioning public officials," the report said. "But apparently private and religious college administrators do not face the same restricting influences."

"This does not mean, however, that there is no freedom for students in public universities to employ petitions to express their opinion, since almost 70 per cent of the presidents of public universities report that students may indeed petition," the study added.

The study was conducted by E. G. Williamson and John L. Cowan of the University of Minnesota. It was based on data supplied by 757 college presidents, 813 deans of students, 807 student government presidents and 785 students editors of campus newspapers.

About 850 of the nation's approximately 1,000 regionally accredited four-year institutions supplied data for the survey.

Forum Set On Problems At Library

Students and faculty members who are dissatisfied with current conditions at the MSU library will have an opportunity to offer suggestions and criticisms and ask questions about the problem tonight.

An open forum on the library problem will be held at 7:30 in 100 Engineering Auditorium. Co-sponsors are the University Library Committee and ASMSU.

Director of Libraries Richard E. Chapin will be present to review the building plans and long-term development.

Charles F. Wrigley, director of the Computer Institute for Social Science Research and new chairman of the library committee, will be the moderator.

The forum is designed to give all those interested an opportunity to suggest ways in which the present library conditions can be improved, Wrigley said.

Recently students have voiced concern over the library, saying that they think current facilities are inadequate and need improvement.

Lift Set For Early Tuesday

Pegasus Shot Count Begins

Minh Says He Won't 'Knuckle'

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)--The countdown got under way at this bustling spaceport Sunday for a spectacular first-of-a-kind night-time launch early Tuesday of a Saturn-1 super rocket.

The 188-foot tall space booster, the free world's mightiest rocket, will be carrying a giant Pegasus "space-duster" satellite designed to orbit the globe for more than a year examining meteoroid hazards to space ships.

It will be the second of a four-shot series of space launches that started Saturday with a successful "Project Fire" atmospheric re-entry test. The activity will be climaxed June 3 with a four-day, two-man Gemini space flight. A radiation-monitoring satellite is scheduled to be orbiting the earth.

Engineers started the first half of the Saturn two-part 16-hour 45 minute countdown at 8:30 a.m. (EDT) Sunday. A space agency spokesman reported several hours later that it was proceeding smoothly.

After a 24-hour break the launch team will pick up the final portion of the countdown Monday afternoon and aim for a 3:30 a.m. (EDT) blast-off Tuesday.

Despite the early hour, the launch and its promise of a brilliant display of fire and smoke is expected to attract missile watchers by the droves to nearby beaches.

While preparations were under way for the Saturn shot, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced details of its planned launch Friday of a satellite called "IMP" for interplanetary monitoring platform.

Officials Believe Dominicans Safe

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)--U.S. officials now believe the Dominican Republic will not fall victim to a Communist take-over. American lives have been saved and Dominican lives are safer because of the U.S. intervention, they say.

These officials indicate they have reason to hope that serious fighting will not resume.

The political crisis, however, is not over, and the United States' main problem is to find a political solution to the crisis and thereby stop the bloodshed.

The U.S. position remains that there was clear evidence that American citizens were in danger when the crisis began last month. It sent troops to protect them.

That mission was enlarged when it appeared that the Communists might win.

Now, the emphasis is on restoring a constitutional government with Organization of American States OAS support.

It is clear that the United States has accepted the responsibility for transmitting ideas aimed at a solution back and forth between the junta forces and the rebels.

Names of persons proposed for a new government have been discussed and the United States has participated in those discussions.

The United States does not exclude the possibility that its troops could be needed to keep the rebels and junta forces from resuming serious fighting.

It realizes that the residual power here is in the hands of the U.S. troops. Those troops would be used to avert all-out war.

OAS Gets Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)--The Organization of American States (OAS) announced Sunday it has worked out an informal cease-fire agreement in the Dominican Republic.

OAS mediator Jose A. Mora reported the agreement was made at a meeting Sunday morning in Santo Domingo with rebel leader Col. Francisco Caamano.

SAIGON (UPI)--Nearly 160 U.S. and Vietnamese planes struck at North Vietnamese targets Sunday with bombs, rockets and missiles in day-long raids.

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh declared his country would never knuckle under to U.S. bombing pressure.

The attacking aircraft blasted barracks, bridges, railroads, highways and a radar station. One U.S. Air Force jet was downed but its pilot was rescued from the sea.

From his headquarters in Hanoi, Ho Chi Minh said the air strikes would only cause the North Vietnamese to "fight resolutely until final victory." He made the statement in an anniversary message to the Indonesian Communist party.

On the ground, U.S. paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade suffered their first casualties of the war. Two of the paratroopers were wounded by a booby trap and grenade in a mine on patrol near the strategic Bien Hoa Air Base outside Saigon.

Disclosure of the airborne casualties followed two bloody ambushes north of Saigon in which three U.S. Army men were killed, one wounded and another feared captured by the Communists Saturday.

Near the big U.S. northeastern base of Da Nang, American Marines engaged in a firefight with Communist snipers. In the midst of the clash, a six-year-old Vietnamese girl in a nearby house was killed by small arms fire. In Saigon, South Viet Nam's Premier Than Huy Quat won military endorsement of his government's crackdown on conspirators accused.

East Lansing Union Group Raps Budget

Bruce Baird, president of the East Lansing City Employees Union, said in a letter to the State News that his union is "thoroughly disgusted with the manner in which the East Lansing City Council distributed the additional monies in this year's budget."

The city manager's wages were upped from $17,000 to $20,000 annually, and a new assistant city manager post was created at a salary of $9,500 a year. The employees were given a four per cent raise.

Baird said the new $9,500 post amounts to about the cost of paid health insurance for employee dependents which the union had requested.

"This budget puts us even farther behind Lansing city employees," said Baird. The Lansing city employees were just given a four per cent raise plus paid dependents' health insurance.

The union leader said, "we are not arguing the value of the top men who got huge raises or the necessity of creating a new high cost position, but it seems extremely unfair to make these new expenditures while a large number of employees are having a very difficult time making ends meet on their present salaries." Because of the low salaries most of the city employees are forced to "moonlight" or have their wives work, said Baird.

Baird said he is calling a special meeting of the local union to determine what should be done.

Timidity And Doubletalk

The Student Board's reluctance to investigate racial discrimination in off-campus housing provides one explanation for the civil rights demonstrations which other students are staging in the streets of East Lansing.

In a meeting which would do credit to far more experienced bureaucrats, the Board killed a move to investigate discrimination in organized living units such as fraternities and sororities.

The Board also stripped a nine-member committee of all power to investigate discrimination in unsupervised living units such as apartments and rooming houses. It reduced the committee to two members and directed it to "study University policy" before taking further action.

Presidents of the Inter-Fraternity and Pan-Hellenic Councils soberly pointed out that Greek organizations are not permitted to discriminate according to race, color, creed, religion or national origin.

What official policy permits and what actually happens can be two different things, of course.

Discrimination in unsupervised housing has even more serious implications for the majority of MSU students.

This is particularly true because--purely by chance--most dark-skinned foreign students and Negroes are not Greeks.

A study of discrimination by an impartial group such as the Student Board would have been of great value in determining the scope of racial discrimination against students in off-campus housing.

It is highly unfortunate that the Board members were too naive or too timid to recognize the value of such a study.

Many objections to student demonstrations have centered around the idea that students should go through "regular channels."

The refusal of the Student Board to investigate discrimination in housing once again raises the question of whether our duly elected representatives are really responsive to student needs.

In an article on this page, David Gottlieb, associate professor of sociology and education, says that the faculty, as well as the administration, has a rigid bureaucracy.

It seems that student bureaucrats have also become snarled in red tape and timidity.

'Sociologists Shy Away From Action'--Gottlieb

By SUSAN J. FILSON
Editorial Editor

WASHINGTON -- David Gottlieb, educational director for the Job Corps, is convinced that many of his colleagues in sociology are "stuffed shirts who have very little contact with reality."

Most MSU students remember Gottlieb for his work in founding the Student Education Corps (SEC). He has taken a leave of absence from his position as an associate professor of sociology and education to join the war on poverty.

Gottlieb deplores the "publish or perish" system which he says has "infected" most sociologists.

The reluctance of sociologists to participate in social action programs deters many bright students from entering the field, he says.

"A good many faculty members opposed SEC when it was getting started," Gottlieb said, "because they were horrified at the thought of having 'untrained' students teaching in schools."

Most sociologists are too worried about their research grants to participate in programs aimed at eliminating racial discrimination or poverty, Gottlieb believes. "It's really very simple. If programs aimed at eliminating social injustice don't succeed, an honest teacher or researcher," Gottlieb says that faculty members have a bureaucracy just as administrators do.

"Sociologists are very afraid that if they participate in action programs, they won't get recognition in their profession. So they write their papers and read them at meetings of other sociologists."

Student demonstrations throughout the country are an indication of unrest with faculty bureaucracy as well as administrative bureaucracy, Gottlieb says.

"It is becoming obvious that the greatest impetus in anti-poverty and anti-discrimination programs is coming from the students."

When students don't get recognition through regular channels, they are bound to make their voices heard in other ways, Gottlieb added.

"What the students are saying to the faculty is this: 'We want more out of you than computerized examinations, sterile research papers and a token appearance two or three times a week.'" is intolerable. I condemn the University administration, which blissfully ignores the situation; the student government (fraternity members all) which willfully endorses the situation; and the student-at-large who, regrettably, turns his eyes away from the situation!

This is the same familiar doctrine of Separate but Equal which continues to plague the South. But refined to Greek-Speak language, of course.

The situation at Michigan State

Let's set the record straight. Yes, "white, Christian" Psi U does have one Jewish brother--among 57 other actives! This ratio does not even represent token integration. It is an exception, a rare oddity.

Yet this example of integration is the best that the Greek system can come up with on this campus. They are hard put, indeed, to silence their critics; and with just cause. They cannot!

The aura of exclusiveness assumed by MSU fraternities is very real. Most, including Psi Upsilon, have "white, Christian" clauses written blatantly into their national constitutions and charters.

The abortive hypocrisy inherent in the Greek system was painfully evident when Mr. Connelly piously proclaimed that: "Our fraternities... don't prefer races. They prefer people who can live together in harmony."

A subtle and obvious conclusion: white lives with white, Jew with Jewish, and so on. Not a harmony of intra-action, but of interaction.

Have you noticed the warm weather we've been having lately? Such is the influence of air masses, but I bet not all that warm air came from the Gulf of Mexico.

So now "As-Moo" (that's ASMSU, people) replaces AUG.

Pledge Quits Because Of Discrimination

To the Editor:

It was amusing indeed to read the recent efforts of Kevin D. Connelly in attempting to exonerate the Psi Upsilon fraternity from the charges of racial discrimination that currently indict all the fraternities on this campus. It was a futile spectacle.

His defense rested solely on the fact that Psi Upsilon has one Jewish brother. That his ridiculous example of white-washing was not immediately refuted in this column is a distressing sign.

Political Rights Denied In Iran

Editor's Note: The name of the author of this column is being withheld upon his request for what the editors considered valid political and personal reasons.

In August, 1953, the Shah's army overthrew the legal and democratic government of Mohammed Mossaddegh, who, by nationalizing the oil industry in Iran, was trying to modernize and industrialize the country on the basis of its own resources.

Once more the international oil cartel, mostly American, poured in and was given the right to exploit the black gold. Thanks to American aid, the Shah has ever since ruled the country by force.

Violating the constitution, he has been using every means to suppress the democratic rights of every group in Iran. The revolution of 1963, in which several thousands were massacred, was labeled as one staged by religious fanatics opposed to the Shah's land reform and the emancipation of women in Iran.

No group in Iran, including the religious groups, is opposed to such reforms. What the people are demanding is their constitutional rights and an end to the Shah's dictatorship.

Thanks to the Shah's 60,000-man secret police force and his 200,000-man army, every democratic movement in the country is not only ruthlessly suppressed, but is labeled as one incited by Communists and inspired by their agents.

In Iran, demanding constitutional rights, an end to dictatorial power of the Shah, freedom of speech, assembly and press--all are equal to being a Communist!

Hundreds of students of universities and colleges across the country and scores of professors and teachers are now at the Shah's prison.

Economically, the country is broke. Iran is in debt up to her neck, mostly to the U.S., the international monetary and financial institutions and even to some socialist countries.

The Iranian oil revenue, if appropriated to the economic development in the country, is able to bring economic prosperity to Iran in a short period of time.

But unfortunately this revenue, together with foreign aids and loans and the revenue from indirect taxes (which have been frequently increasing), is devoted to preserving the Shah's secret police and his huge army.

Every group is suffering from price inflation except the army officers, who are well-paid and well-fed to keep the Shah in power. Six months ago, the prices of gasoline and other oil products were doubled. It is unfortunate, but the citizens of oil-rich Iran are now paying 40 cents for a gallon of gasoline!

No doubt the high prices of the primary products will soon affect and raise the prices of other goods.

Contrary to what has been reflected in the American press media, the Shah's land reform is nothing but a hoax. He is not distributing but "selling" his land to peasants with no supplementary appropriation of seeds, water and irrigation facilities.

The ever-increasing misery of the peasants, who make up about 65 per cent of the population of Iran, indicates how "effective" this reform has been.

A documentary account of how large a part of the American economic aid and the oil revenue is poured into the Pahlavi Foundation account in a Swiss bank is reflected in the April 12, 1965, issue of Nation magazine in an article entitled "The Pahlavi Foundation of Greed."

According to this account, the Pahlavi Foundation is the members of the royal family, the large sums paid to some American leading journalists to say "good" about the Shah in their publications, and fat money paid to the U.S. agents in Iran all come from this fund.

But this is not all. The recent assassination of the Iranian prime minister and an attempt made to assassinate the Shah by one of his palace guards reflect a deep dissatisfaction with the regime.

Following the revolution, the government has arrested seven men, four of whom are graduates of Manchester University, on charges of conspiracy in recent attempt on the Shah's life and of being "pro-Chinese Communist extremists," a usual maneuver inspired by the characteristic McCarthyism of all dictatorial regimes.

One of these, Parviz Nikkhat, is believed to have been killed under torture.

Iranian students in Iran and abroad protest most energetically against this arbitrary arrest of their friends, demand their immediate release and take solemn oath to do all in their power to come to their friends' help and draw the attention of all democratic-minded people upon this maneuver of diversion and intimidation and appeal for their help and solidarity.

Red Cedar Report

By JIM DeFOREST

I know of one Spartan who has a grasser no matter what the weather is. All he needs is one girl, one or more six packs, and an electric blanket with a long cord.

Have you noticed the warm weather we've been having lately? Such is the influence of air masses, but I bet not all that warm air came from the Gulf of Mexico.

So now "As-Moo" (that's ASMSU, people) replaces AUG.

That's bureaucratic alphabet soup. Will too many, or in this case, too few cooks spoil the broth?

I'm offering a reward (a picture of me bareheaded) to anyone who will steal Don Sockol's hat and deliver it.

The situation changes with the modification of the off-campus housing rules. My buddy and I were going to live in a tent next year, but we couldn't afford a luxury apartment.

Attempted Overthrow Communist Inspired

SAIGON, Viet Nam--The government charged Sunday an attempt to overthrow premier Phan Huy Quat's regime last week was a Communist scheme to steer South Viet Nam toward neutralism and eventually to Communism.

The charge was issued in a communique following a three-hour meeting called by Quat and attended by the nation's top military leaders. The communique said:

"The plot of May 20 to overthrow the government was clearly a scheme of the Communist Viet Cong."

Klan Couple Tie Knot

FARMVILLE, N.C.--A Ku Klux Klan wedding was performed under the glare of spotlights on a dusty, plowed field in the heart of North Carolina's tobacco country Saturday.

The bridegroom, James Earl Taylor, 27, wore the white robe and peaked cap of the Klan.

The bride, 37-year-old Bessie Irene Tyson, was in a light blue party gown with hooped skirt.

Keller, Roosevelt Honored

Keller

NEW YORK--Author Helen Keller and the late Eleanor Roosevelt are the top choices among 10 living and 10 deceased American women of the 20th century named to the Women's Hall of Fame at the World's Fair.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the President's widow, was chosen as one of the 10 living winners but declined the honor. She said she is still not accepting any honors or awards at this time. Her husband was assassinated 1 1/2 years ago.

Soviets Charge U.S. Economic Intervention

MOSCOW--The Soviets charged Sunday that President Johnson apparently has decided to begin destroying North Viet Nam's economic potential. They pledged to boost Soviet military help to the Hanoi regime "if necessary."

The Kremlin warned at the same time that there must be no Munich-type appeasement of aggression.

Bolivian Army Moves On Miners

LA PAZ, Bolivia P--The ruling military junta ordered the army Sunday night to occupy Bolivia's strikebound nationalized tin mines.

Troops immediately moved on the mining center of Kami, near the city of Oruro, officials said.

In the decree, the government declared the mining centers of the state-owned Bolivian Mining Corp. as military zones and put all residents under military law and jurisdiction.

Army troops were fighting the leftist miners in the southern area of Quechisla, the commandant of the 2nd division, Col. Efraim Guachalla, reported. He said there had been some dead and wounded. Quechisla is about 391 miles south of La Paz.

The Quechisla miners were reported to have blown up four railroad bridges, interrupting rail traffic with Argentina, the government said.

Soviet-U.S. Split Causes Wars--De Gaulle

LA FLECHE, France--President Charles De Gaulle Sunday blamed Soviet-American rivalry for the continuation of the Vietnamese conflict and the Santo Domingo civil war.

In a speech winding up a five-day tour through western France, De Gaulle again urged an end to the "two hegemonies," or alleged American and Soviet domination over the world.

Security Council On Call

UNITED NATIONS--The U.N. Security Council Sunday remained on call in case an emergency situation develops in the Dominican Republic requiring its action.

The Soviet Union insisted on this standby procedure Saturday when the council recessed its Dominican debate until Monday afternoon. Other council members agreed.

SEC Talk Scheduled

A Student Education Corps (SEC) co-ordinator will speak to the Governor's Conference on Student Volunteers at Eastern Michigan University today.

Frank Blanco, East Lansing graduate student, will explain the structure of the SEC, the original volunteer group helping economically and socially underprivileged children.

Blanco has worked with the State Human Resources Council in planning the conference. All universities, junior colleges and community colleges in the state have been invited.

Also going from MSU will be Robin Ruhl, SEC co-ordinator and Bloomfield Hills senior; Andy Rogin, Birmingham junior; Steve Plavnick, Oak Park freshman; John Miller, Bangor junior; John A. Fuzak, vice president for student affairs; and Lana Dart, assistant director of student activities.

MSU Accepts Funds

Gifts and grants totaling $881,438.37 were accepted Friday by Michigan State's Board of Trustees.

The board met at the MSU Biological Station at Gull Lake. Included was a $155,136 grant from the U.S. Office of Education for continued support of an experimental program called Interpersonal Process Recall (IPR).

The program, directed by Norman Kagan, professor of education, utilizes videotape recordings to help students, teachers and counselors relive and describe their thoughts and behavior during experimental teaching or counseling sessions. The current grant will support the study for two years.

A National Science Foundation grant for $66,700 will provide for new equipment in a process control laboratory being planned for undergraduates in the College of Engineering.

The grant, together with matching MSU funds, will be used to buy a digital controller and to extend an analog computer. Director of the grant is Richard J. Reid, associate professor of electrical engineering.

The Agency for International Development has awarded $63,406 to support research of problems of Nigerian rural development. MSU, which provides technical assistance to the University of Nigeria, will do the research with a consortium of three other institutions: Colorado State University, Kansas State University and the University of Wisconsin.

Ralph H. Smuckler, acting dean of international programs, and Glenn L. Johnson, professor of agricultural economics, will direct the project.

MSU's Development Fund has received $60,000 from the estate of Burr Wheeler, an MSU alumnus who died last July 30. Wheeler, a graduate of 1903, was executive vice president of the Chile Exploration Co. until his retirement in 1952.

The bequest will be used for special programs and projects of the Development Fund.

An NSF grant for $55,700 will support research on the validation of a computer model of social behavior. Directing the study are John Gullahorn, professor of sociology, and Jeanne Gullahorn, research associate in psychology.

Another NSF grant, for $44,200, will provide for a study of the components of food expenditure. Victor E. Smith, professor of economics, and Dena Cederquist, professor and chairman of foods and nutrition, will conduct the research.

The board accepted $31,300 from the American Federation of Musicians to support the seventh Congress of Strings. This year's Congress, the fifth at MSU, is scheduled for June 28-Aug. 21.

Olaf Mickelsen, professor of foods and nutrition, will continue research of how cycad flour affects experimental animals under a $21,456 grant from the National Institutes of Health.

The board also accepted $6,931 in scholarship grants to MSU.

Marketing Chairman-- Educator Of The Year

The chairman of the Department of Marketing and Transportation at Michigan State will be honored Tuesday for his national and international work in marketing education.

Thomas A. Staudt will receive the 1965 Marketing Educator of the Year award from the Sales and Marketing Executives International (SME-I), a professional organization with more than 25,000 members in the free world.

The presentation will be made at the 30th International Marketing Congress in Seattle, Wash.

As vice president of the American Marketing Association, Staudt is responsible for the professional programs and activities directed toward 1,200 university professors in marketing. In this connection he will direct a special commemorative international symposium of educators in Washington, D.C., in September.

Staudt recently worked with the U.S. State Department in developing marketing ideas in foreign aid programs.

An author and professional tively heads one of the largest marketing faculties in the nation.

Staudt holds three degrees from Indiana University.

Garrett Sparks Trackmen In Conference Win

Big Ten Champions

Mike Bowers

Keith Coates

Gene Washington

Jim Garrett

After setting field, meet and varsity records with a jump of 6'7 1/2" last week, Bowers, another talented sophomore, bounded back to take the Big Ten high jump crown with a 6'7" mark.

A sophomore who also runs cross-country, Coates owns both the outdoor and indoor conference mile titles and the records that go with them.

Washington's victory in the 120 high hurdles topped off a record-breaking year that saw him set meet, field and varsity marks in the 330's.

The Big Ten indoor long jump king, Garrett, now adds the outdoor long jump and 220 titles to his credits. The Columbia, S.C., junior also works the 100 and triple jump for the Spartans.

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

IOWA CITY, Iowa--56 in '65.

That summed up the picture here Friday and Saturday for the Michigan State Spartans, as they won the Big Ten track championships, setting a conference record as well as a number of varsity marks and exerting a team effort which proved them worthy of the title.

The Spartans accumulated 56 points in their victory, followed by Michigan at 43 and Wisconsin, the defending champ, at 37. Behind the top three were Iowa and Minnesota--28 each; Northwestern--13; Illinois--9; Purdue and Ohio State--each 6; and Indiana--5.

The title meant more than the importance of being champ. It marked the first time that a Spartan track team has brought a Big Ten crown back to East Lansing since Michigan State entered the conference 14 years ago.

The victory was more than the individual titles earned. It represented, in the overall picture, the extraordinary depth that Coach Fran Dittrich brought to Iowa City, and the united effort presented from the minute the starting gun went off in the preliminaries to the last man to cross the wire in the finals.

"For two weeks I said we could do it and we did," Dittrich said, as he spoke of the team's triumph. "The boys did exactly what they set out to do. They all wanted to contribute; that's why we won."

"It was a team effort from the word 'go.' The boys feel wonderful. They're real proud of the fact that they got one."

The meet fulfilled many Dittrich's prophecies. It saw Jim Garrett become the Big Ten long jump king. It saw sophomore Keith Coates start off a promising career with his record-breaking win in the mile. It saw Tom Herbert finally reach his peak in the discus. It saw Gene Washington run off with the 120 high hurdles crown.

The preliminaries took only one man from the Spartan ranks. Norm Sinclair lost out in his two events, the 100 and 220, both by narrow margins. Bob Steele, who qualified for the 330 intermediate hurdles but ran out of the money in the finals, missed out in the 120 high hurdles.

"They all ran terrifically," Dittrich noted. "In the 220, the first four men all crossed the wire at the same time--:21.6-- a very good time considering they were running into the wind. "Washington's :36.3 in the 330 intermediates for second place bettered the varsity mark he set against Western Michigan and Miami, :36.8. Steele, who was sixth, was timed at :36.9, which shows just how close the races were.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS--That's what the rival Big Ten track coaches would have given, and more, for what State's Fran Dittrich planned in his conquest of the conference title. Photo by Jon Zwickel

"The performance I was most delighted in was that of Tom Herbert," Dittrich remarked. "He finally came through in the 330 yard race, :44.4, which was the best of his career and tops the varsity mark. That's not bad, is it?"

None of the performances could be termed bad. Keith Coates ran a blazing mile to establish a new Big Ten record with his 4:08.2

clocking, cancelling the 4:08.5 mark set by Bob Lake of Michigan State in 1959.

Garrett won the long jump on his last leap, scoring 24' 5 1/2". His second victory came in the 220 with a time of :21.6. He placed in the 100 behind Michigan's Dorie Reid, who crossed the wire at :10.0.

Bowers' Big Ten high jump title came on a jump of 6'7". He topped Bill Holden of Wisconsin, who looked to be the favorite on the basis of his 6' 8 3/4" jump during the dual season which led the standings.

The 120 high hurdles went to Gene Washington, clocked at :14.2. Minnesota's Bryon Giger nosed out Clint Jones for the second spot.

Iowa's Jim Reimer provided the home crowd with its share of excitement when he won the 330's in :36.1, besting the Big Ten mark of :37.1 and the national collegiate record of :36.2.

There were no Spartan entries in the 660, which went to Jim Harris of Northwestern, timed in 1:18.7. Wisconsin's Barney Peterson crossed the wire at 1:50.6 to take the 880.

Kent Bernard, the only returning Big Ten champ, retained his 440 title, finishing at :46.6, with Das Campbell second at :47.4.

The two mile earned Minnesota's Norris Peterson a new Big Ten record. His time of 9:01.5 topped the old 9:02.6 mark set by Purdue's George Harvey.

The Hawkeye quartet of Dale Thompson, Fred Ferec, Al Randolph and Jon Reimer edged the Michigan combine for honors in the mile relay with a time of 3:12.1.

Bogie Redmon of Illinois took the discus crown with a toss of 167' 3 1/2", while the shot went to Minnesota's Tom Barnes, the Badger, scoring with a put of 55' 3/4".

Rounding out the competition was the pole vault, which was minus State entries. With a vault of 15' 9 1/4", George Canamare of Michigan put on a spectacular performance to topple the old record of 15' 3/4" set by the Wolverines' Rod Denhart in 1962.

Netters Finish 4th In Big 10 As Wolves Romp To Title

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., --Michigan State's tennis team finished fourth in the Big Ten meet here Saturday, while arch-rival Michigan snatched the conference title with a 142-point total.

Two Spartans fought their way to the finals competition, only to be knocked off by the Wolverines. Vic Dhooze, State's No. 5 singles man was defeated by Hal Lowe, 6-2, 7-5, while the No. 2 doubles team of Jim Phillips and John Fraser, 8-6, 6-2.

State finished the meet with 82 points, just two behind third-place Northwestern. Coach Stan Drobnac said that if the meet had been scored under the old system, which only counted meet points, the Spartans would have finished in third place, eight points ahead of Northwestern.

It might also be noted that Minnesota, which finished sixth in the conference, claimed a default of the two doubles matches that State was unable to complete May 14, instead of playing them here just prior to the meet, as Coach Drobnac had hoped. These two points would have given the Spartans a tie for third with the Wildcats.

State ran into trouble in the semi-finals Saturday, after taking five of six singles matches and sweeping all of the doubles contests in the opening round Friday.

Indiana's Rod McNeely, who eventually won the No. 2 single title, defeated Captain Charlie Wolff, 6-4, 7-5, and Michigan's John Fraser tripped up Laird Warner in No. 3 singles, 6-2, 6-2.

No. 4 man Jim Phillips, 6-1, 6-2, while teammate George Russell stopped Spartan Mike Youngs, 9-7, 6-2 in No. 6 singles. Fraser, Stewart and Russell all lost in their respective singles divisions.

In semi-final doubles matches, Hoosier Dave Powers and McNeerney topped State's Dwight Shelton and Wolff, 9-7, 6-2, while Michigan's Brian Flood and Jim McPherson beat Warner and Youngs twice by the same score, 6-2, 6-2.

Clark Graebner, Northwestern's champion in the No. 2 singles last year, advanced to the No. 1 singles crown with a 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Indiana's Powers.

The No. 1 doubles title went to Powers and McNeerney of Indiana, who whipped Michigan's Karl Hedrick and Jerry Stewart, 6-3, 6-3.

U-M's Swift and Flood earned the No. 3 doubles honors with 7-5, 6-3 win over Charles Fletcher and Bob Wham of Indiana.

The Wolverines, who entered the meet trailing first-place Indiana by only one point, put on a neat exhibition of tennis, earning 73 points to the Hoosiers 57.

Following State in the final standings were Illinois, with 62 points; Minnesota, 41; Iowa, 32; Wisconsin, 31; Ohio State, 30; and Purdue, 21.

AT BIG TEN MEET

7th Place For Six Swingers

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind., --"You gotta know the territory," sang the man in "The Music Man," and State's golf team proved that it did over the weekend.

Results from the Big Ten golf championship held here Friday and Saturday indicated that the Spartan swingers have found themselves a familiar conference niche to settle into. For the fourth consecutive year, the golfers finished seventh in their bid for the league title, and are now beginning to think that they can do no better. Since 1951, they have held down the number seven position seven times.

In the two-day, 72-hole meet, Purdue's Boilemmakers retained their golf crown and captured their 10th league title since 1950.

Michigan gave a strong challenge for team honors, but the Wolverines lost out on the final 18 holes and finished a close six strokes behind Purdue, 1472-1486. Indiana was third with 1497 and Wisconsin fourth with 1504, followed by Ohio State, 1521; Minnesota, 1523; Michigan State, 1540; Iowa, 1543; Northwestern, 1545 and Illinois, 1570.

Michigan, however, had the top individual scorer for the meet in 21-year-old Bill Newton. The junior pre-med student finished third last season, but this time carded a final round of 73 for a three-over-par 287 for the 72 holes.

State's top performer was Ken Benson, who finished the 72-hole affair with a score of 301. After the first 36 holes on Friday, he led the field with rounds of 70 and 74 for a 144 total. With intermittent downpours of rain, Benson slackened off on Saturday and carded scores of 77 and 80.

Fred Mackey was State's second best golfer with a card of 306. His final round of 73 was his best overall score.

Other Spartans and their scores: Doug Swartz, 309; Sandy McAndrew, 311; Doug Hankey, 317 and Buck Morrison, 333.

Coach John Brotzmann was not pleased with his team's performance, but he did indicate that he was surprised that State finished as high as it did.

"I thought that we would end up in eighth or lower," he said. "I knew that we could beat Illinois and Northwestern, but I was unsure about Iowa."

The rain on Saturday raised scores generally, but it was especially tough on the Spartan totals. After 18 holes on Friday, State's golfers were in third place, only nine strokes behind Michigan. By the end of the first 36 holes, they were in fifth place and Brotzmann had hopes for a first division finish.

Scores in the high 80's dropped the Spartans to ninth place after the first 18 on Saturday, and only fine performances by Mackey and Swartz on the last 18 brought the team to its final resting spot in seventh place.

Louis Smells Out Clay's Fight Plan

By JOE LOUIS
(Copyright 1965
By Associated Press)

I've seen all kinds of heavyweights since I first walked up the street in Detroit to work out at the Brewster Center Gym. When I was champion I defended against bruisers, boxers and clowns. But I can say I never fought anybody exactly like Cassius Clay.

I don't think he is as great as he thinks he is—that's a little too much for one man. I do think he is unusual. That's why Sonny Liston failed against him fighting a usual fight and why Sonny must fight better to win this return.

Clay's plan isn't complicated, it's just a way of getting the best out of what he has—his reach, his height and his speed around the ring.

He will be working to stretch Sonny's legs, to bend Sonny's back muscles and to burn him up and to tease him.

It may sound goofy to the average person what with all that money involved, but I'm not wrong when I tell you this all is still a game to Clay, a dream world.

He's like a little boy who makes up stories. There has to be a villain—that's why he calls Sonny the ugly bear—and there has to be a hero—that's why he keeps talking about how pretty he is.

Yes he is serious about it. But that doesn't make him any more grown up. Didn't you ever see a child bust out crying at the end of a story that has a sad ending? Well, that's Cassius, who always has to have a happy ending.

If he were grownup about these things, he wouldn't be half as tough to handle in the ring. Because he's still a kid, he takes the risks without worrying.

And, when the ugly bear comes growling at him, Cassius will be ready to stab in a punch or two, usually a left hook. And, if he thinks he has the bear off balance, he spurts, left, right, left, right. Then he backs off, to glide around until it's time to annoy the enemy again.

There's nothing much else to it, no complications. It's hit and run, hit and run. But he's fast as they come and with a born confidence in himself. Until he gets his first walloping, he'll stay cocky.

But so far he hasn't had to think about it. It has been a big party to him. And he doesn't mind what happens so long as he can keep blowing up the balloons, eating the cake and drinking the lemonade.

BUCKEYES SWEEP PAIR, 13-10, 2-0

State Wins Bat Title (Ohio State, That Is)

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Before this weekend's baseball series with Indiana and Ohio State, coach Danny Litwiler said winning a double-header was the toughest job in baseball and that a team has to be both good and lucky to do it.

Fickle Lady Luck left the Spartans Saturday and State lost the Big Ten title by dropping a twin bill to Ohio State 13-10 and 2-0 in Columbus. The crown went with the first game loss and second place left with the second game.

"We just ran out of breaks Saturday," said assistant coach Frank Pellerin.

The Spartans, 28-10 for the season and 9-6 in the Big Ten, stayed in contention for the championship by whipping Indiana 6-1 Friday in Bloomington and had the Bucks 8-1 before an eight-run third inning gave Ohio State its first baseball title since 1951.

OSU finished at 11-2 in the Big Ten. Ohio State and Michigan State swapped runs in the first inning but the Spartans roared ahead with four runs in the second, two coming on a home run by center fielder Bob Maniere.

The visitors put a three-run cushion on their lead in the top of the third on a single by Dick Billings, a run-producing double by Steve Juday and Bruce Pettibone's two-run single moments later.

Then the Buckeyes went to work on starting and losing pitcher John Krasnan.

A walk and five consecutive singles, two of which barely trickled through the infield, sent Krasnan off the mound and left fielder Russ Nagelson greeted reliever Rollie Walcott with a 400-foot home run before the Spartans could get a man out.

Walcott gave up two more singles and a double before the Buckeyes were through with the outburst.

The Spartans tied the score 9-9 in the fourth with the aid of two walks and an error but back-to-back home runs in the sixth by center fielder Don Harkins and Nagelson accounted for three runs and gave the Buckeyes a permanent lead.

"Ohio State was ready to give up by the third inning," Pellerin said, "but those eight runs really picked them up."

MSU had a final chance in the eighth inning, scoring once and loading the bases with no one out but reliever Jim Merrel struck out the next two batters and got Maniere on a pop fly to end the inning.

The Spartans' last hope, as Maniere topped all hitters with a home run, double and single in five attempts. Nagelson's two home runs led the Buckeyes.

Pettibone had three singles for the Spartans.

Dave Singerman got the win for Ohio State in relief of starter Ron Kitchon.

The seven-inning nightcap probably took less time than the third inning of the first game but the result was the same.

Left hander Doug Dobrei pitched a one-hitter and struck out eight batters but unearned runs in the first and sixth innings sent him down to his first defeat in six decisions.

Third baseman Dick Redd, who got the only hit off Dobrei, a double in the third inning, led off the first with a walk and scored on a three-base error by first baseman Steve Juday.

The Bucks added the other in the sixth on a walk, a sacrifice, a passed ball and an infield out.

Merrel scattered six Spartan hits to gain the shut-out victory.

Maniere, who went 6 for 13 over the weekend, got two of the hits, a double and a single and was the only player in the game with more than one hit.

"We got great pitching in the second game," said Pellerin. "We could have used some of it in the first game."

The Spartans put together a better combination of pitching and hitting the day before as Dick Holmes went all the way with a seven-hitter and got the support of 10 State hits against Indiana for a 6-1 victory.

Left fielder Bob Speer and Billings paced the hitting with two hits apiece with Billings getting his third home run of the season.

Holmes and Hoosier pitcher Rich Scott worked three scoreless innings before Indiana opened the scoring in the fourth on singles by Kess Scarff and shortstop Fred Nori and a walk.

State came back in the fifth to tie the score on catcher Bill Steckley's single and a couple of errors and took the lead an inning later on a two-run home run by Billings.

It was smooth sailing for sailing club and the Spartan lacrosse squad as well this weekend as spring club action neared its end.

Coach Paul Cauldwell's lacrosse team held off a last minute scoring threat by Notre Dame Saturday on Old College Field to beat the Irish, 6-6. Steve Harrington, second leading scorer in the Midwest Lacrosse Association with an average of four points per game, tallied for two goals and an assist.

Actually, the sailors could not lose in their Commodore's Cup Regatta held Saturday at Lake Lansing. Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity sponsored the regatta to decide the best MSU sailor. Dave Chavkin, freshman from Roslyn, N.Y., and his crew of Sue Baker, from Sarasota, Fla., won the event.

The rugby team nearly missed in picking up its third victory Saturday when it faced the Sarnia

Three first period penalties by the Spartans led to Sarnia's only goals and, as it turned out, was enough for a 9-8 victory.

Seniors Of The Week

Well-Traveled Out-Of-State Pair Have Much In Common

Co-chairmen of the '65 Club, Anne Greenwalt, from Willmette, Ill., and Steve Mandell, from Baltimore, Md., are the reigning seniors of the week.

Anne, who is an art education major, spent this spring break in Florida. She has traveled through Colorado, and the East, and plans to go to Canada this summer to work in costume and the theater.

Steve, who is a restaurant administration major, spends his summers in Baltimore working in his father's restaurant. He spent some time during the summer of his sophomore year working as a management trainee in restaurant services for Johns Hopkins University. Steve plans to visit Europe with a friend this summer.

Anne spent about two weeks of winter term in Olin with appendicitis. "It's not that they don't feed you," she said, "but I lost 15 pounds."

Anne has served as secretary for the freshman Home Economics Club, as first vice president and chairman of the organizations council of AWS and as a member of Senior Council.

She has acted as social chairman and treasurer of her sorority and was decorations chairman for Water Carnival. Anne has also served as art chairman of Greek Week, and for Pan-Hel.

Steve, a member of Senior Council, served as administrative vice president of the Interfraternity Council last year. He was also publicity director for the 1964 J-Hop and has served as editor of the rush brochure which the interfraternity council publishes each year. Steve was the originator of the Outstanding Greek Alumnus Award. This award was given in 1963 to Frederick Belen, who is the deputy postmaster general of the United States.

Steve has worked on Greek Feast for four years, serving as its chairman in 1963 and 1964. He was chairman of the IFC installation and honors banquet for three years, and has worked on publicity for the IFC-Pan-Hel Ball. Steve was elected vice president and steward of his fraternity, Sigma Alpha Mu, in his sophomore year.

Steve believes that isolation is the biggest problem for the Michigan State student. He said that the "bigness" of the University is too widely promoted, and that the State News, which is "the most powerful organization on campus" should use its power to publicize individual students and their relationship to the University more than it does.

Anne, who is student teaching this term at Union High School in Grand Rapids, plans to teach art and home economics next year at Willmette Junior High School, Willmette, Ill. She believes that "teaching is the best possible thing a girl can do."

Study 4-Man Rooms

Akers Evaluated In Student Poll

By JIM HUCKA
State News Staff Writer

How do four-man rooms on campus fare in comparison with two- and three-man rooms? This is one of the types of questions asked the men of East Akers Hall in an evaluation of their type of living unit.

John D. Bacheller, head adviser of the dorm, sent out evaluation questionnaires to all the men who had lived at least one full term in Akers in a four-man room. He sent out 440 questionnaires and got back 280, nearly two-thirds.

For the replies to be meaningful, Bacheller said a two-thirds reply is desirable.

One hundred of those replying were freshmen, while the rest were non-freshmen. About 55 percent of the men living in East Akers are not freshmen.

The head adviser said the student evaluations were intended to find out student reaction to the types of rooms at Fee and Akers in comparison to McDonell, Case, Wilson and Wyner, with suites having adjoining bathrooms, and Brody group dorms, with communal bathrooms.

TV Driver's Test Tonight

A television program tonight from 10 to 11 p.m. could be the most important hour of the year for the organized safety movement.

In those 60 minutes the most massive short-term safety communication effort ever will be focused on the American public. In those 60 minutes, television's most ambitious effort to educate the masses will be attempted.

Object: Alert drivers everywhere to the absolute necessity of developing new (and sharpening old) driving skills to cope with today's complex transportation system.

The hour will be called the National Drivers' Test. It will be a gripping presentation of 70.

OLIN HOSPITAL REPORT

Visiting hours are 2 to 4 and 7-8 p.m. daily.

Districting Committee Charged With Failure

Gov. George Romney's Committee for the Reorganization of School Districts was taken to task here Friday.

Speaking before the Michigan Conference on Intergroup Relations in Education, George Johnson, former member of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, said that the committee, appointed to implement the School Redistricting Act of 1964, failed to take into consideration the implications of the U.S. Supreme Court decisions in school segregation cases.

Johnson, a member of the Department of Administration and Higher Education of the College of Education, said it also failed to consider the recommendation of the State Advisory Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity, that "redistricting, if necessary, should be guided by principles which promote integration."

No member of the educational opportunity group served on the redistricting committee, Johnson said.

Johnson said that the concept of the "neighborhood school", based on common interests and socio-economic cohesiveness, is not conducive to integration.

Columbia Broadcasting System locally (WJIM-TV, Channel 6). It should be a historic moment for safety. It could be a lever for opening up an entirely new approach to accident prevention, using the planned combination of the pre-selling power of mass communication with the follow-through effectiveness of face-to-face communication.

Robert Nolan of the MSU Traffic Safety Center was on the board of consultants for the drivers' test, which has been in preparation for over a year. After its showing tonight, copies of the program will be made available by the Shell Oil Co. to school groups and others who want to incorporate the test as a permanent part of their classroom work. At least one state has indicated a desire to do exactly this.

Mozart's 2nd Night Ranked Among Best

By LEON WHEELER
State News Reviewer

Unfortunately, his passages of behind the conductor's baton, and his voice still tended to be far too boomy on vowel sounds even on the second night.

Donna Robins as Marcellina and Ina Kaplan as Cherubino, natural in their roles, were superb both nights. Marcellina was almost regal in her stage presence, and Cherubino's antics possessed the necessary self-discipline to keep them from being overdone.

Burt Perinchief, Robert Pepel, Gerald Leckrone, Gerald Vermeuler, and Diane Skentzos performed their roles well. The female chorus was superb, achieving a fine balance with the orchestra that no others in the performance matched. Both nights, however, the orchestra drowned out the singers in spots.

Shari Anderson's voice, which in the upper register lacks the round, smooth quality of her middle voice, nevertheless took on new luster and became more potent dramatically throughout Saturday night. Miss Anderson performed the role of Susanna. Before she sang her first note, Sharon Koelsch conveyed the dramatic agony of the countess. Her voice, too bright on opening night, became rounded and more controlled Saturday.

The count, portrayed by J. Michael Bloom, seemed more like a pampered child instead of the flirtatious scoundrel of Mozart's opera Friday, but on Saturday, he was every bit as convincing as he was not the night before.

Knapps Moves Into Marie's Shop

As part of a major expansion step in East Lansing, the J.W. Knapp Co. has purchased Marie's Fashions, Howard Grimes, president of Knapps, explained that it was running out of space in its other East Lansing store.

The new store will be called Knapp's College Corner and will be located at 231 MAC Ave. directly across the street from Knapp's East Lansing Store.

College Corner will be managed by William Low, manager of the big East Lansing store. The new shop will have about seven or eight employees at the start.

Sportswear at the present store will be moved across the street to Marie's location, and additional stock added.

Before the complete change-over to the new shop, a clearance sale will be held at the former Marie's location.

$500 Court Costs RemainLibel Suit Dismissed

A $25,000 libel suit filed four years ago against a State News staff member was dismissed this month with $500 in court costs remaining to be paid.

Mary Basing, then a junior, had written a series of articles criticizing the University and asking with what outside pressures the University had to contend.

In the final article, which appeared on May 31, 1961, Miss Basing criticized the activities of William Hicks Jr., then the chairman of the Americanism Committee of the American Legion post in Lansing.

The following day Hicks filed a $25,000 libel suit against the reporter, claiming that he had not said the things she had attributed to him in her article.

The University offered a legal defense for her, but Miss Basing declined the offer because she felt there would be a conflict of interests and wanted to remain free to continue her criticism.

Charles Larowe and Robert Repas, both of the school of Labor and Industrial Relations, had helped Miss Basing with information for her articles and helped her find a Lansing attorney for her defense.

"We felt she should get the best legal advice possible and wanted to help her as we felt partly responsible," Repas said.

Four years later, this April 20, the case was dismissed. However, a $500 court cost fee remains.

Larowe and Repas are trying to raise money to pay the fee as they "don't feel that the case is one that Miss Basing should have to finance by herself."

The two men are in the process of contacting faculty, administration, groups and students in an effort to pay the bill.

Anyone who wishes to contribute or wishes more information should contact Charles Larowe or Robert Repas, 216 Marshall Hall.

Students Sought For Protest

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A move is under way to recruit 500 American college students willing to die in the Dominican Republic in an effort to discredit American foreign policy, the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner said in a copyrighted story Sunday.

The newspaper quoted a reliable source as saying the students would be flown secretly to the Caribbean island and landed where their lives would be endangered by fire from both sides.

The story said the sponsors of the plan included the Communist party, the Socialist Workers party, Women's Strike for Peace and the Committee to End War in Viet Nam, which has sprung up on some college campuses recently.

The source also said two organizations officially recognized by California's state colleges and universities—the Students for a Democratic Society, and the W.E.B. du Bois Clubs, have given at least tacit support to the plan.

TRAMP, TRAMP, TRAMP—Despite official protests from the consul general of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, the march for Peace in Luxembourg was held as scheduled Saturday. The march, which was designed to show that protests of this type are being over-used, started in campus and proceeded to the capitol in Lansing.

Luxembourg March Seen A Moral Victory

Want to support peace in Luxembourg? You can buy a Countess Ermesinde button for a quarter from the Ad Hoc Committee for Peace in Luxembourg—they've got a surplus of 200 from their Saturday march.

Committee chairman Carl J. Stensel, Lorain, Ohio, freshman, called the march "an unqualified success." Some 20 students participated.

The march, organized partly as a joke and partly as a demonstration of the marchers' feeling that the right to protest has been abused at MSU, was not altogether without incident.

At the capitol, the marchers met opposition from a committee favoring war in Luxembourg. Undaunted, the peace committee marched around the statue of Austin Blair and listened to "rousing" speeches for their cause.

The speeches were followed by a dramatic reading of the MSU Fight Song to clarinet accompaniment. Countess Ermesinde buttons, "honoring" the liberator of Luxembourg, were passed out.

The committee plans a fall term campaign to save the Rock of Gibraltar. "It's being eaten by bacteria," Stensel joked.

Tape Grant Renewed

The U.S. Office of Education has awarded Michigan State a $155,136 grant to continue a novel experimental program that employs videotape as a teaching and counseling aid.

The grant was accepted Friday by MSU's Board of Trustees at its meeting at the MSU Biological Station at Gull Lake.

Norman Kagan, associate professor of education, is directing the research work, called Interpersonal Process Recall (IPR). It utilizes videotape recording as a means of helping students, counselors and teachers relive their thoughts and actions during counseling and teaching sessions.

Working with Kagan in the research are David Krathwohl and William Farquhar, both professors of education.

Started three years ago, the technique makes use of television cameras and microphones to record sessions between a counselor and a student or between a teacher and a student.

"When they see their behavior played back on videotape," Kagan explains, "the participants are able to remember, relive and describe what they were feeling and trying to communicate during the interview."

IPR, he points out, helps teachers and counselors gain insights into what a student is thinking during an interview, even if the student's thoughts are contrary to what he is saying.

Kagan says the technique has utility for professional teachers and counselors as well as prospective ones.

Each participant, he notes, knows in advance that his interview is to be videotaped.

When the tape is played back, each subject has a control device which enables him to stop the tape and explain the meaning of a gesture or facial expression.

This allows both the student and his counselor to expand on the meaning of non-verbal responses, he adds.

Vienna Election

VIENNA, Austria (UPI)—Socialist Franz Jonas, 65-year-old mayor of Vienna, Sunday was elected Austria's fourth postwar president, narrowly defeating the Conservative candidate, former Chancellor Alfons Gorbach, 66.

The Jonas' victory continued the Austrian tradition of voting Socialist in presidential elections.

Pottery Valuable As Biblical Tool

Pottery is one of the most valuable aids in enhancing knowledge of Biblical times, according to Bastiaan Van Elderen, professor of New Testament Studies at Calvin Theological Seminary.

Speaking in the Honors College Lounge of the Library Thursday evening, Van Elderen said that he is mostly interested in pottery that dates from Hellenistic, Byzantine and Roman periods.

Van Elderen was a member of an archaeological expedition to Jordan in 1962 and again in 1964.

At the site of the ancient city of Dithion, in Jordan, the expedition uncovered a burial chamber full of artifacts. "We located the city easily because it was under a mound rising about 200 feet in the air," Van Elderen said. These mounds are very common in the East, according to Van Elderen.

"Each time an ancient city was destroyed, for instance as in war time, the city was rebuilt on the same spot, eventually creating a mound," Van Elderen said. This particular tomb contained about 5,000 artifacts, one-third of which were still intact after 4,000 years.

The expedition also explored the city of Cumran, near the Dead Sea. The city, Van Elderen said, was inhabited by a group of Essenes with a strong messianic feeling.

The Dead Sea Scrolls were found in some caves near Cumran. The scrolls were hidden in 11 caves on the face of a large cliff.

"The first scroll was 10 inches high by 24 feet long and was made up of 17 animal skins sewn together," Van Elderen said. This first scroll contained the entire first book of Isaiah, Van Elderen stated.

"The scrolls can be dated in four ways. One is carbon-14. Pottery of the period, money of the period or the paleontology of the scrolls themselves can be used," Van Elderen said.

Van Elderen was speaking to the Central Michigan Society of the Archaeological Institute of America.

Ford Research Expert To Speak

The marketing research manager for the Ford Division, Ford Motor Co., will discuss product development at 7:30 tonight in Parlor "A" of the Union.

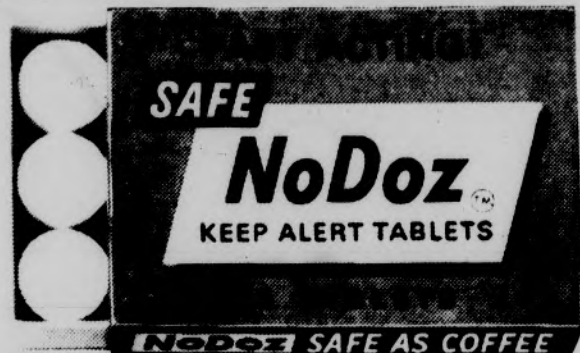

Dr. Seymour Marshak is sponsored by Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, and is open to the public.

As market research manager, Marshak is responsible for all consumer studies in connection with Falcon, Fairlane, Ford, Thunderbird, Mustang, Ford trucks, and parts and service activities.

He joined Ford as consumer research manager for the Ford Division in 1961. Prior to that he was vice president and director of client development for National Analysts, Inc. for four years. Marshak was assistant professor of marketing at DePaul University in Chicago, and held the same position at Rider College, Trenton, N.J. He was also a marketing instructor at the University of Detroit from 1949 to 1951.

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., he received a B.S. degree from Temple University in 1948, an M.B.A. degree from the University of Michigan in 1949 and a Ph.D. from New York University in 1957.
