AUSG Shortage?

Sift Launched Into Finances

By JO BUMBARGER
ASMSU Writer

A full scale investigation is being launched into the financial records of the now defunct All University Student Government (AUSG).

An ASMSU audit shows unaccounted expenditures of $111.40 and an undetermined number of long distance telephone calls, some of which may have been personal.

Records show a $191.40 discrepancy between receipts and deposits for mimeograph and silk-screening service, Spartan Spirit, and Student Sample Books. They are as follows:

Mimeographing, $354.70 received, $78.38 deposited.
Spartan Spirit, $350 received, $165.25 deposited.
Student Sample Books, $997.25 received, $995.25 deposited.

No one is sure whether recorded receipts of $84.85 from programs sold at the Miss MSU pageant belong to AUSG or to Blue Key, men's service honorary which co-sponsored the pageant.

An original petty cash fund accounts for $25 of the difference between receipts and deposits.

Other deposits of $396.52, labeled miscellaneous in the records, are believed to consist of some of the missing Spartan Spirit and mimeograph service incomes.

The audit committee has accounted for approximately $105 of this difference, but cannot find receipts for the remaining $111.40.

Neither John McQuitty, ASMSU Student Board chairman, nor Rick Hollander, comptroller, could estimate the exact amount spent on telephone calls.

"All the records will not be available until fall, but we will continue this investigation until we have all the facts," said McQuitty.

Bill Floate, Men's Halls Association president, who has been working with the audit, did say at Wednesday's Student Board meeting that the telephone calls amounted to at least $100.

"We suspect some of the calls were personal," said McQuitty. AUSG kept no records of long distance calls and did not have a ledger showing current balances, said Hollander.

Payments on student loans were occasionally put in the mimeograph service money envelope, and also used as additional petty cash fund.

Bills from other organizations were mistakenly charged to AUSG several times, the audit committee's report shows.

Blue Key still owes AUSG $318.64 as part of the joint expenses of the Miss MSU pageant, while AUSG owes the Miss Michigan pageant a $125 entry fee for MSU.

Records also indicate that AUSG paid a $50 registration fee at the Associated Student Governments (ASG) national convention last fall twice.

McQuitty said a check for this fee was to have been sent to the ASG convention offices before he and Bob Harris, AUSG president, arrived.

The check had not been received, so the delegates used money earmarked for the return trip to pay the registration fee and used their personal money to return.

A check was to be sent to Bob Harris, in care of ASG, but it appears that ASG cashed both checks without refunding Harris, McQuitty said.

"We did not realize how complex the financial situation was," said McQuitty. "There was mismanagement of public funds in many areas."

"The budget set by Student Congress was exceeded many times," said Jim Graham, Student Board member at large and former Student Congress member. "There was no control whatsoever over this."

Bruce Osterink, chairman of the audit committee, said he did not believe there were any deliberate attempts to misuse funds.

long distance phone calls, Osterink said.

"We didn't investigate them because we have no way of determining whether they were strictly personal. I don't think

EDWARD WHITE

JAMES McDIVITT

'Like A Parade' Say The Parents

From Our Wire Services

Parents of astronaut James McDivitt described from their Jackson, Mich., home the viewing of their son's launch into space as "like watching our first parade."

"I don't think anybody in this world is as happy as we are now that Jimmy and Ed are in orbit," Mrs. James McDivitt Sr. said.

In Houston, Texas, Pat, the wife of space-stroller Edward H. White said she was "thrilled to death. It's the moment we've been waiting for. There is no description for how I feel."

The McDivitts emerged from their home to face a battery of television cameras and newsmen about 25 minutes after their son and White had lifted off from Cape Kennedy in the Gemini-4 spacecraft. The astronauts were over Africa by that time.

"The tension was pretty high before the rocket left the launch pad, but when it did, it was such a beautiful shot we were relieved right away," McDivitt said.

"My toughest moment came when there was a delay and I was afraid we would have to go through this all again," Mrs. McDivitt said. "I just wanted them to get off today."

Equally proud was McDivitt's wife, Pat. She and her three small children had sat raptly on a bedroom floor in front of one of four television sets in the house as the countdown neared its climax.

She said it seemed "almost unreal" to realize that her husband was inside the capsule atop the huge rocket, ready to be blasted into space.

McDivitt's father, an electrical engineer who has visited Cape Kennedy for other space shots, said he felt a little more tension than he did when watching John Young and Gus Grissom rocket off.

Astronaut Gets Eerie View Of West Coast

HOUSTON. — Astronaut Edward White eased himself out of a Gemini capsule 135 miles above the earth Thursday and floated for 20 eerie minutes in the chilling void of space, chatting nonchalantly and darting about with a space gun.

The dramatic excursion clearly was the high point of a bold celestial adventure scheduled to last four days.

Another cosmic feat, a proposed rendezvous with another orbiting satellite, had to be scratched from the flight plan because of a lack of sufficient maneuvering fuel in the two-man capsule.

White's space twin, pilot James McDivitt, had hoped to be able to pull up alongside the burned out second stage of the mighty Titan 2 rocket which blasted the pair into orbit from Cape Kennedy at 10:16 A.M. (EST), President Lyndon B. Johnson was among millions of Americans who watched the launch on television.

McDivitt followed the huge rocket booster to and fro in the heavens but soon used up too much fuel and had to give up the chase.

White's thrilling experience in the unyielding vastness of space, where even the stars refuse to twinkle, came during the third orbit, one later than planned, as he streaked at 17,500 miles an hour through the skies above his own homeland.

The feat matched that of cosmonaut Alexei Leonov who drifted for 10 minutes outside Russia's Voskhod 2 space ship March 18.

The Russian maneuver was televised; the American was not. But Americans could hear the three-way conversation between White, McDivitt and ground controllers which was broadcast publicly as it happened. The Russians did not broadcast.

White had planned to step outside during the second orbit but the space twins reported they were simply too pressed for time to get ready.

"We'll do it next time around," McDivitt reported casually. "That's okay with us," replied mission director Christopher Kraft from the Houston Control Center.

Next time around White methodically prepared his special gear—gold colored face plate, thermal gloves, emergency oxygen chest pack, golden tether, maneuvering gun shaped like bicycle handlebars with a camera attached.

He closed his sun visor and unlocked the hatch. Gingerly he stood up on his contoured couch and poked his head through the hatch. Then, without effort in the weightless other world, he glided outside.

Glancing down to earth, he said to McDivitt: "Looks like we're coming up on the coast of California."

As he began darting here and there, propelling himself with his space gun, McDivitt said into the microphone: "One thing about it, when Ed gets out there and starts wiggling around it sure makes the spacecraft tough to control."

In space there is no resisting friction and a man can move a 7,600-pound spacecraft with a mere nudge.

From below, Grissom gave an order: "Take some pictures." Then McDivitt and White began chatting like a couple of tourists.

"Hey, Ed, can you see the camera here?" McDivitt asked.

Class Of '65 Swings Out

MSU's class of 1965 will meet at Beaumont Tower Sunday at 2:30 p.m., clad in caps and gowns, to observe the 55th traditional Senior Swingout.

From Beaumont, the class will march to Fairchild Theatre where they will honor this year's top seniors and listen to a speech by President John A. Hannah.

Jack Kenney, director of alumni relations, will address the seniors and welcome them into MSU's Alumni Association. The class will also elect its class alumni officers.

Seven seniors will be honored at the ceremonies, including the two senior men and two senior women with the highest grade point averages.

Other awards will be given to the outstanding senior man and woman, and to the top senior in student activities.

Members of the '65 Club, the outstanding seniors in service of MSU, will also be presented.

70 South Viet Troops Killed In Cong Attacks

SAIGON, Viet Nam. — Viet Cong detachments killed about 70 government soldiers in two ambushes in the central highlands Thursday. A red battalion attacked Binh Chanh, only 10 miles southwest of Saigon, but was driven off by six U.S. armed helicopters.

Government troops pressed an operation in the Bac Lieu area, 120 miles southwest of Saigon. A U.S. spokesman said they estimated they killed 40 guerrillas. No casualties were reported among the soldiers.

Warplanes struck hard at Communist targets both north and south of the border. Round-the-clock missions by U.S. Navy and Air Force squadrons against North Viet Nam made it one of the heaviest days of raids in recent weeks. Barracks, bridges and trucks drew fire.

U.S. and Vietnamese planes joined for the fifth consecutive day in bombing and strafing Viet Cong positions in the area of Quang Ngai, 320 miles north-east of Saigon, the scene of heavy fighting last weekend.

SWINGING SCOTSMEN—Rhea Sharpe, left, pipe major of the Essexville Scottish Band; and Charles Thomson, pipe major of the Flint Scottish Band, will combine their organizations with the Scots Highlanders to lead Sunday's Senior Swingout.

State Official Protests Open Housing Ruling

By LINDA BOYLE
State News Staff Writer

The East Lansing City Attorney's favorable ruling on an open occupancy ordinance has brought an unfavorable reaction from the state attorney general's deputy.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon Cohen pointed to the state official opinion saying that the state has sole jurisdiction in housing discrimination cases. City Attorney Raymond Campbell reported the opposite opinion Wednesday in a 14-page documented memorandum to the Human Relations Commission.

Cohen expressed great confidence in the attorney general's opinion.

"It was the result of several weeks of intensive study by several men and women with years of experience," he said.

He quoted from a speech delivered in Dearborn by Frank Kelley, state attorney general.

"This state already has an agency—the Civil Rights Commission—which has the complete power to investigate and enforce civil rights in housing at the local level," Kelley had said.

"That commission is in operation," he said. "It employs 40 people, 25 of whom are professionals in the field."

"It has already reviewed 90 complaints specifically related to civil rights in housing," Kelley said. "Thirty of these have been settled by negotiation and conciliation. Sixteen have been

Keep Politics Out Of This

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey came to campus Tuesday to kick off the MSU People-to-People Association's Viet Nam fund-raising drive--and used the occasion to defend and reaffirm American policy in Southeast Asia. In so doing, he may have given a clue to a failing of MSUPPA's otherwise admirable undertaking.

The originators of the People-to-People program seemed to feel that through economic aid to the Vietnamese people they could do more to help rebuild the war-torn nation than they could by subscribing to the platform of either the "war hawks" or the "doves."

Their idea was an excellent one and promised success for their project. They spoke repeatedly of the non-political nature of their plans, and that was what made theirs seem so encouragingly different from other Viet Nam programs. This is still its greatest asset.

But Humphrey's speech emphasized the political situation which has produced America's Viet Nam policy. He spoke of People-to-People as "working to defeat a new and pernicious form of aggression against mankind," and of helping to fight the "new sophisticated form of warfare" that fights ideologies as well as men.

Possibly without realizing it, MSUPPA has become uncomfortably involved with political discussions. Humphrey's appearance gave a clue to this. The choice of location for the initial project and the fact that the State Department and the Saigon government will be largely responsible for administering it provide more than clues.

The village of Long Yen is said to be a base for pro-government troops. It is in an area that strongly supports the established government in Saigon, in a country where large areas are in open rebellion or are neutral.

The value of the schools and the health center the program's money will pay for there will be great. But the value and appropriateness of using some of the money for soldiers' uniforms is to be questioned. This gives an unnecessary and unpleasant political air to the whole thing.

These are admittedly small complaints, and do not alter the fact that People-to-People is a fine idea.

Humphrey said other campuses have been "sparked" by word of this program. If similar projects are begun elsewhere, they will almost surely provide aid for many persons in many areas that would otherwise suffer needlessly. They probably would also fill in gaps in the MSUPPA program, and be beneficial to all of Viet Nam.

This is the real and valid purpose of the project. But it may become lost in war-time politics if care isn't taken to maintain its humanitarian outlook.

But Seriously...

And The Final Score Is...

By DON DRINKLEY

As final exams come into view, the State News team swings into action once again.

Drinkley: Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. This is David Drinkley.

Drinkley: And Donald Drinkley.

Drinkley: We're here in Spartan Stadium where 30,000 Michigan State students are on the line waiting for final exams. The instructors are facing them. The instructors are favored in this exam.

Drinkley: But the students look heavy, David?

Drinkley: Yes, they do, Ronald.

Drinkley: Donald!

Drinkley: Yes, Ron. It's going to be an exciting final exam here today. Wait a minute! The Proctor has tossed the coin. The students have won the toss. They can either take the exams or flunk. And they elect to take the final!

Drinkley: And that means the instructors have the choice of questions.

Drinkley: Yes, Roger. And the instructors have chosen the multiple choice question.

Drinkley: Donald! And there's the kick-off. The fans are going wild. Over 60,000 parents have crowded the stadium today to cheer on the students.

Drinkley: But the fans are fickle, Martin. When the students lose the parents turn on them.

Drinkley: Down on the playing field, the first question has been picked up by number 342004, and he's looking around wildly. He doesn't seem to know what to do with it.

Drinkley: It's a fumble! The instructors were on him like a shot.

Drinkley: Yes, David, and it looks like he's been hurt. We'll have a word on that in a moment.

Drinkley: Both teams are lining up again. All the instructors throw a long, looping question... and...it's intercepted. The interception was by 347062, a junior with a 3.5 average. He's going to run it by himself, 20...40...60 yards and he crosses the goal line for a correct answer. Listen to the crowd roar. He's being patted on the back by his teammates as he falls back into line.

Drinkley: Donald! It looks like play on the field has intensified, David. The instructors have been pretty tricky and it's all the students can do to keep up with them.

Drinkley: Yes, Chet. With one minute left in the exam it could go either way. And here comes the final question. It's a beautiful spirally question and it's pulled down by an economics student. He's got it, but he sees it's a history question. He tosses it to a history major.

Drinkley: I don't know, David. That was a trick one. It looked like it had a lot of English on it.

Drinkley: You're right, Duane. He's tossing it back to an ATL student. The ATL student is wrestling with it. He's got it firmly now. He's over the goal and the exam is over!

Drinkley: Here comes Bob Innis, Kalamazoo junior with a straight 4.0 average and one of the stars of today's exam. How did you feel out there, Bob? Were you nervous?

Bob: Well, I'm always nervous during a big exam. Anybody who says he isn't is just not telling the truth.

Drinkley: Who gave you the toughest time out there, Bob?

Bob: Well...that's hard to say. Some of those instructors are pretty rough boys. I'd say I was worried the most when my engineering professor came at me. That boy can really pack a question and I'll admit I was stumped for a while.

Drinkley: Thank you, Bob. David, we're just got word from the Proctor. The exam was so close that they're going to have to run it through the IBM machine to determine the final score. We won't have the results for another two weeks.

Drinkley: Yes, Gus. But already the instructors are asking for a rematch. They want it held next December.

Drinkley: That'll be an exciting one to see.

Drinkley: Yes, Herb. And we'll all be looking forward to it.

Drinkley: This program has been brought to you live by the producers of No-Doz and the Michigan Council on Higher Education. Good night, David!

Drinkley: Good night, Mike.

The Mayor Answers

A Passion For Facts

By Gordon Thomas

At the risk of belaboring the issue, I would like to reply to the article written by Professor Repas which appeared in Wednesday's State News. At least, I wish to answer to the comments he made regarding me and about the city.

I do not consider that I am in a position to reply to the advice given to the University.

Prof. Repas seemingly criticizes me for having "a passion for facts." I do not deny this charge, but as a rational being, a member of the University faculty, even as a politician, I had thought this was a commendable attribute and not a reprehensible one.

Perhaps Prof. Repas is content to make judgments without the utilization of facts but I would prefer to err in the other direction. While we are talking about facts, why don't we take a look at a few of those mentioned in Prof. Repas' article?

1. Prof. Repas states that "for months" I have indicated that I was in favor of an open occupancy ordinance. This is incorrect, for nowhere, publicly or privately, have I said that I was in favor of such an ordinance.

I have repeatedly said, however, that I am in favor of open occupancy, of the right of all persons to buy, sell, or rent property without regard to race or nationality.

2. Prof. Repas says that opposition to an ordinance on the grounds that it would be divisive cannot be justified in light of the history of the U.S. Constitution or Bill of Rights.

But surely, if Prof. Repas remembers his history, as I am sure that he must, he will recollect that important parts of our Constitution were agreed to only because some kind of accommodation was reached between advocates of widely divergent views. Both sides, for example, on the matter of representation made concessions and found a workable solution supported by both sides.

3. Prof. Repas maintains that the Ann Arbor court case deals with the very subject of discrimination regarding rental units and not those for sale. Surely Prof. Repas, who has all the facts, knows that almost the reverse is true.

The Ann Arbor ordinance specifically exempts "any owner or lessee of a housing unit in which he or members of his family reside, who rents or leases a rooming unit or rooming units in such housing unit to another person or persons."

It goes on to say that the "provisions of this Chapter shall not apply to a housing unit retained as the homestead of its owner while the same shall be leased and the owner absent therefrom." It does, however, specifically prohibit discrimination in the sale of housing units, although these are restricted to accommodations having five or more of such units.

4. Prof. Repas says that civil rights "occupy a relatively low priority with the city fathers." The only thing I can say to this observation is that I can think of no other problem faced by the city of East Lansing which has received so much thought and time and effort on the part of city officials as has the question of civil rights.

I am not about to put my views and beliefs concerning civil and human rights alongside those of Mr. Repas at any time. I do not think that our goals differ. As I remarked the other evening, we do not agree on how to reach those goals.

The solution is not to use

"emotional means to solve an emotional problem" but, like those who worked out the Constitution, to reason together in good faith. Recollect the words of Benjamin Franklin in the closing moments of the Constitutional Convention: "I have experienced many instances of being obliged by better information or fuller consideration to change opinions which I once thought right, but found to be otherwise. Most men think themselves in possession of all truth and that wherever others differ from them it is so far error. Few express it so naturally as a certain French lady who, in a dispute with her sister, said, 'I don't know how it happens, sister, but I meet with nobody but myself that is always in the right.'"

Campus Summary

The Year Of The Picket

By Michael Kindman

This has been a momentous year for universities in general, and for Michigan State in particular. This has been the Year of Berkeley, and it has been the Year of CSR. In a sense, these are the same, but there is a difference--and it is of that difference that I would like to write.

Early in this academic year, students at the University of California, always at the forefront of campus political activity, decided they had had enough of administrators' phrases and IBM education. They seized on the free speech issue which they saw behind an ill-advised ban on specific political activities. As a result, American education may never again be the same.

The Berkeley Free Speech Movement was a hasty, non-partisan fabrication designed to combat a specific policy of the university, one which was quickly amended. But the way in which the protestors were treated and the subsequent transformation of their complaint into a unified outcry against the overgrown and over-mechanized university system proved that their movement had something to say after all.

The term-long Berkeley protest acted as a liberating force for students around the country who were feeling the effects of this decade of alienation. The familiar ideas of the entrenched impersonality of the university and of the salving effects of civil rights involvement for lonely egos and of the compulsion of students in the '60s to become "committed" to anything idealistic are not to be discounted or discredited as motives for action.

All over the United States, students saw in Berkeley a way to translate their dissatisfaction and their feeling for the civil rights movement into terms they could identify with and understand.

At Michigan State, the factors of mass education and mass alienation which were present at Berkeley, plus the encouragement provided by the FSM and a desire just to "get organized," spurred a small group of students to form the Committee for Student Rights.

During fall term there had been a few students talking about organizing; during winter term they became a full-scale protest movement--small, immature, over-idealistic at times, and in some ways misdirected, but a student protest movement just the same.

To attribute the formation of CSR to infiltration by Berkeleyites or any other outside forces would be absurd, but to deny the impetus given it by the existence of similar movements on other campuses would be equally absurd. A few students, confident of the validity of their ideas, set out to involve students in discussion of issues that affect their lives at MSU.

They couldn't have done it without the lesson of Berkeley. The essential difference between the FSM and CSR was that the FSM grew out of students' experience with other reform movements, while CSR was something brand-new for both the University and for most of the people involved.

CSR burst upon the campus, not only because it was CSR, but also because it was a new type of student group. MSU just wasn't used to student organizations in the political sense; student organizations here had always been things with charters and club elections and a few specific functions, which did not include telling people how to run things.

Now, for better or worse, political action at Michigan State seems to be here to stay. CSR may not continue, the Committees for Peace in Viet Nam may fall by the board, and the library may cease to be of interest. But it is unlikely that students will forget the ways of thinking they have learned through their involvement this year.

It has taken two terms of concentrated activity--discussions, petitions, marches, outdoor rallies, teach-ins, sit-ins, arrests--to bring this about.

This year there has been an active political debate here, and many individuals have found it difficult not to think about political and quasi-political issues. This is likely to continue to be the case.

The debate which has been sparked--although sometimes less than mature and rational--has brought MSU closer to what should be a university: a place where ideas are freely discussed, and dissent, for its own sake or any other, is not avoided.

Many people's minds have benefited from this year of political and social concern on campus, even if some grade-points have suffered because of it. I am happy my mind has been among those involved.

Negro Space Candidate Disputes Current Job

CHINA LAKE, Calif. (UPI)—Capt. Edward Dwight Jr., America's first Negro astronaut candidate disputed an Air Force claim that he got his assignment because of special qualifications.

"I was assigned as a bomber test pilot with no bombing experience," Dwight told United Press International in a telephone interview Wednesday night.

He refused to comment specifically on a magazine article which claimed he "has been shelved" from the space program because he protested against racial discrimination.

Dwight said he had not read the article and would not comment on it until he did.

The 31-year-old pilot consented to a brief plane-side news conference earlier in the day because of controversy surrounding the article.

The flier was told that part of the article dealt with a conversation he assertedly had with an unidentified Air Force officer who supposedly asked him, "Why in the hell would a colored guy want to go into space anyway?"

Dwight denied that part of the quotation which assertedly had the officer saying, "If it was left to me, you guys wouldn't even get a chance to wear an Air Force uniform."

However, Dwight said he did have a conversation on the subject with an Air Force officer at the aerospace school at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., where he was one of 15 candidates in the fourth class of potential astronauts.

The Air Force noted that only two of Dwight's classmates were chosen as astronauts out of 26 originally nominated as candidates in 1963.

Asian Aid Project Urged By Rusk

Rusk

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Dean Rusk told Congress Thursday "we cannot await tranquility" to begin President Johnson's projected development aid for Southeast Asia.

He urged the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to add $69 million in "very special" extra economic aid funds for that embattled area to the Senate's $3.35 billion foreign aid authorization bill. The Senate is expected to begin work on the measure Friday or early next week.

Europe, Russia Watch Launch

LONDON—Britain and most of Europe including Iron Curtain countries got their first view of a live American space launching Thursday by Early Bird satellite. The broadcast was clear and in sharp focus.

The Soviet Union also broadcast pictures of preparations for the Gemini IV flight and announced its launching with praise. "The Soviet people sincerely congratulate the two cosmonauts and the American scientists on this achievement," said the announcer.

LBJ Asks To Drop Silver From Coins

WASHINGTON—President Johnson recommended Thursday the most drastic change in U.S. coinage since the first mint was established in 1792: the virtual elimination of silver in coins.

A combination of nickel and copper would be substituted for silver in dimes and quarters and the amount of silver in half dollars would be reduced from 90 per cent to 40 per cent. Pennies and nickels, which contain no silver, and the silver dollar, which has not been minted in 30 years, would remain unchanged.

Stewart

LONDON—Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart Thursday urged that South Viet Nam be neutralized and all foreign troops withdrawn in a final peace settlement.

In an accompanying white paper, the British government blamed the Soviet Union for stalling international action to underwrite the neutrality of Cambodia.

"No, not now," replied White.

"Where are you?"

"I'm out front now."

White then told McDivitt he was preparing to do something, but the transmission was garbled.

"Do it slowly," said the pilot, "and I'll take your picture."

At one point White maneuvered around in front of McDivitt's porthole.

"You're smearing my windshield, you dirty dog," McDivitt said with a laugh. "See how it's all smeared up there."

Finally Grissom, from down below, told the floating astronaut it was time to get back in the capsule. McDivitt relayed the message.

"Come on back in," he said, "we've got three and a half days to go, buddy."

Without a hitch, White returned, closed the hatch and nestled back into his couch for the arduous mission ahead.

The audit was begun three weeks ago when the University Business Office statement showed that AUSG was in debt some $3,000 more than its records indicated.

"It's difficult to say exactly how much the difference was," explained Hollander.

"We were operating under the assumption that we could use all of the $5,319 student tax collected at spring term registration. However, the business office had charges of $3,632 against this balance on the statement we received May 1."

"Part of this amount was original charges for the Student Educational Project (STEP) and Winter Carnival, which had been repaid to us between the time the statement was drawn up and the date we received it."

The University Business Office does not keep a running balance of accounts, but sends out statements once a month.

Complete records of long distance calls are not available from the telephone company at present, McQuitty said. ASMSU plans to investigate all long distance calls since April, 1964.

On the committee to further study the financial records are Floate, Webb Martin, Student Board vice chairman, and Jim Tanck, cabinet president.

Carnival Set At Stadium

Activities Carnival will move back to Spartan Stadium for a revised program next Oct. 21.

"We are urging honoraries, as well as clubs open to all students, to participate next year so that students will better understand their purposes and functions," said Howie Wilchins, carnival chairman and Paterson, N.J. junior.

Clubs will be receiving letters explaining how to reserve space. Vice chairman of the carnival in Chris Miller, Flint junior.

Deadline Today

Students who want to be in Block S next fall must sign up in 325 Students Services by today.

Any remaining seats will be filled during summer counseling clinics. Spartan Helots are also required to sign up for the block.

Lambda Chi Alpha Captures Two IM Crowns

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

Sigma Chi captured the IM All-University softball crown Wednesday with a 3-2 win over Sigma Alpha Epsilon in a hard-fought 10-inning game.

Sigma Chi's Mark Petrie broke a 2-2 tie in the top-half of the tenth when he singled home Al Philbrick from second base with the winning run.

Sigma Chi opened the scoring in the second inning when John Bodell, who played an outstanding game as catcher, walked and then advanced home on an error.

SAE came back with a tally in the fourth when George Harris singled in Mark McMans from second base.

Sigma Chi's Ron Ghan then blasted an eighth-inning home run, but Sigma Alpha Epsilon came right back in their half of the inning to tie the score when Tom Tamandi scored from third base on a sacrifice fly.

Pitcher Ron Clark was credited with the victory, while Gary Gwizdala took the loss.

Other members of the championship squad include Bob Combs, Doug Bergman, Dennis Helman, Calude Delaverd and Ron Clark.

The remainder of the SAE squad was composed of James Leahy, Ray Tucker, Doug Barker and Mike Marrs.

The IM spring season closed out this week, after fraternity, resident hall and individual champions were determined in eight different events.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon took first place in the fraternity track meet in a field of 19 teams, tallying for 29 meet points, while Delta Chi finished a close second with 27 points.

Akers Hall won the residence

The NEWS In SPORTS

hall track meet with 34.5 meet points and Emmons finished second with 32. Twelve squads participated in the contest.

In the individual track competition, Richard Kentro took the 440-yard dash with a 57.7 time.

Jess Phillips won the 100-yard dash at 10.7, while the 880-yard went to Ralph Stadelman, at 2:11.4.

Phillips then came back to win the 220-yard dash with a 23.9 clocking and Stadelman raced to a winning 4:55.6 mile. Harold Luster hustled through the 60-yard low hurdles with a 7.6 time, and then went about winning the long jump with a 20' 10" leap.

In tennis, Lambda Chi Alpha took first place, competing against 16 other teams, while Theta Chi placed second.

West Shaw won the residence hall net title, finishing ahead of Emmons. Fourteen teams took part in the matches. The Rejects I, managed by Phil Bird, took the independent team tennis title, and Easy X finished second.

Lambda Chi Alpha got into the swing of things at the golf meet, winning the fraternity championship with a 309-stroke total. Sigma Chi placed second in the event.

East Shaw, with 331 strokes, won the residence hall title, while Sigma Chi placed second. The Beach Boys won the independent golf championship with a 309 card, while the Evans Scholars were the runnersup.

Dick Campbell, of the Beach Boys, was a tournament medalist with his 70-stroke card.

ALL-STAR BASEBALLERS

Big Ten Picks 4 Spartans To Squad

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State, a third place finisher in the Big Ten at 9-6, was represented twice on the 1965 All-Conference baseball team.

John Biedenbach and Jerry Walker, both juniors, form half the all-star infield.

Walker, who was second in the conference batting race with a .429 mark, was picked as the team's second baseman and Biedenbach, a .344 hitter in the league, was named at third base.

Center fielder Bob Maniere, a senior who collected 110 hits in three varsity seasons, the second highest career total in Spartan baseball history, received a second team berth while right fielder Dick Billings, another senior, was a third team pick.

Maniere finished the season at .286 and Billings hit .283.

Champion Ohio State landed first baseman Arnie Chonko, a .260 hitter, and sophomore pitcher Steve Arlin who had a 6-0 record and earned run average of 1.41, on the all-star club.

The University of Michigan, the Big Ten's runner-up, placed three members on the elite squad--more than any other school.

Cmejrek won the batting title with a .455 performance and Schryer carved out a .365 average. Sizemore hit .250 in the league.

Wisconsin shortstop Joe Romary, hitting .400 his senior year, joins Biedenbach and Walker in the infield and Badger senior Lance Tolbert, whose record and earned run average were unspectacular marks of 3-2 and 3.43 respectively, was named to the two-man pitching staff.

Iowa's Mickey Moses, a junior from Gladstone, hit .410 and was named to the left field position.

Moses brought the total of Michigan athletes on the 10-man squad up to six. Others' from the state include Walker, Biedenbach, Schryer, Cmejrek and Sizemore.

Membership on the complete first, second and third team rosters have the University of Indiana leading with five although no Hoosier was named to the first unit. Michigan, MSU, Wisconsin and Ohio State each claimed four, Minnesota and Illinois had three, Iowa sent two and Purdue had only one.

Last place Northwestern was the only school without a representative on any of the all-conference teams.

'Jockular Joe' Now 'Gentleman Joe'?

By RICHARD SCHWARTZ
State News Sports Editor

While the practice of medicine is James Feurig's calling, a certain amount of applied psychology is a must in his role as MSU team physician.

"Strange though it may seem, a team physician is sometimes able to reach into the thinking of a player that minutes later translates itself in a game situation," says Feurig.

"The closeness that grows out of doctor-patient relationships can often prove more revealing

Centrals Next For Trackmen

Ten Spartan trackmen, all of whom contributed to State's Big Ten title win, will be out to repeat history tomorrow in the Central Collegiate Conference Championships at Milwaukee.

The six men pointed for the NCAA meet at Berkeley, June 17-19--Keith Coates, Jim Garrett, Gene Washington, Clint Jones, Das Campbell and Mike Bowers--will have one more tune-up after the meet, an open federation affair June 12, at home.

Coach Fran Dittich has State entries in 11 of the 15 scheduled events.

on a personality level than the same association between player and coach.

"The guy who was a fullback in high school and is made guard may just not like taking the same beatings that he had no qualms about giving. The end who's made a tackle because of size or speed may show great reluctance at his new position at first."

Unfortunately, there are many instances where no amount of psychological insight can help, according to Feurig.

"There are some boys whose mental attitude tells them they can't do the job the way you want--and with this frame of mind, they're probably right."

"Occasionally in this business you run into the gun-shy individual--the guy who's psychosomatic. In fundamental language, he hasn't got the guts to assert himself.

Anatomy Of A Team Physician

Last In A Series

"You may sit down with the boy and his coach and discuss the matter in the hope of finding just what it is that's prompted him to pursue competitive athletics this far."

"Too often," says Feurig, "you discover how the motivating influence is not a football, but rather a father."

Overshadowing the gun-shy individual, however, is the Hollywood brand of athlete whose infatuation over his own athletic prowess gives him a lofty air of self-importance.

While his number has diminished with greater emphasis on "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic", a few still filter through.

"We no longer appreciate the guy who can stand on a soapbox and flex his muscles," Feurig noted. "I think the Hollywood image has seen its day."

"You rarely find a player strutting the campus like 'I'm Saturday's Hero.' Sure, we still have a few who insist on thinking 'I'm King of the Hill.'"

"However, these same 'Kings' are finding out that if they want to make such an impression with anybody, they'll also have to speak the King's English."

"Contrary to any such stereotype, the typical athlete doesn't want his parking ticket fixed, nor does he count on a coach to put one of his professors in a vise and squeeze a 'D' out of an 'F'."

"The privileged era has long since departed. Most athletes have come to realize that the world is not going to give a big check to them just because they throw five touchdown passes or high jump six feet and that success on a football field isn't necessarily the key to success in the business field."

"They know that sports are a transient element. The smart ones learn how to reap its many benefits without letting it swell their heads."

IM Champs

3,315 MSU students took part in IM softball this spring. Sigma Chi led the way in the fraternity division, followed by Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Residence hall champs are Armstrong (Arpent, Arhouse, Argonaughts and Aristocrats) and Wilson (Wimbledon, Winchester, Wiquassett and Wilding). Runner-up was Bailey (Rinky Dinks, Nebishes, Bikings and Bawdiers). Evans Scholars are the independent champs.

Akers' Akbarama and Akua-Pahula ran off with the residence hall volleyball championship.

The independent bowling championship was copied by the Red Trojans.

Tony Simonie captured a first in the horseshoe singles competition, while Tony Richardson ran second. In doubles, Warren Malica and John Schuster took the title.

Out of a total of 238 participants, John Spain finished first in the baseball throw, hitting on 23 of 25 throws.

3 Minors Arrested With Liquor

Two MSU freshmen, Dennis P. Krithers, 19, Clarkston, and John L. O'Keefe, 19, Lexington, appeared in Lansing Township Justice Court Tuesday afternoon charged with being minors in possession of alcoholic beverages.

Both pleaded guilty to the charge and paid fines and costs of $39. Both were also placed on one year's probation. The youths were arrested at the corner of Michigan Avenue and University Drive.

Barry Ashley, 1607 Bailey St., Lansing, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. He paid fine and costs of $94.90 and was sentenced to two days in jail. In addition his driver's license was suspended for 90 days.

Seniors Cut-Up

Table Carving Traditional

Seniors are now relieving their tensions as they participate in the tradition of carving their initials in the senior class table. Located in Old College Hall, on the west side of the Union Grill, the table is waiting for graduating seniors to leave their "mark" on MSU.

The carving began at the beginning of Spring term. About 100 seniors have already carved their initials in the table. Seniors who wish to carve the table can obtain a knife from the candy counter with their ID. The tradition has continued for

Case Slates German Meal

Case Hall will have a foreign dinner with a German theme tonight. The dinner is sponsored by Summit House of North Case, and it will replace the regularly scheduled supper.

Michigan State will oppose Windsor, Ontario, in a rugby game Saturday afternoon. The contest will take place on the field opposite South Case and will begin at 2:30 p.m.

Wonders Hall will hold its last Sunday evening mixer this Sunday from 5:30 to 8 p.m. The dance is open to all MSU students.

New Arts, Medical Colleges To Challenge Bigness

By DAVE HANSON
State News Staff Writer

The bigness of the University is being challenged by the addition of two new colleges.

The Justin Morrill Liberal Arts College will open this fall as a semi-autonomous unit within the University.

The College of Human Medicine will probably open in 1966 as the product of MSU's increasing interest in science.

The liberal arts "experiment" will begin this fall when about 400 students will be admitted to the college and live in sections of the Phillips - Snyder dormitory complex.

Gordon D. Rohman, assistant dean for continuing education and associate professor of English, has been named dean of the new college.

The college will be an attempt to create a small college atmosphere within the large University.

If the "experiment" works, the idea could be expanded to other complexes as the campus becomes so big that an extra ten minutes are needed to get from one class to another.

Third Of Four Parts

This approach may work for students of liberal arts, but proposals for the medical college do not include separating students from the rest of the University.

Dr. Andrew D. Hunt Jr., dean of the College of Human Medicine, believes that medical students, because they must eventually deal with people, should not be segregated from the rest of the University.

"It is not enough," he says,

"just to learn what is wrong with a patient. A student must learn how the patient feels and why."

"Wherever possible, students in medicine should study jointly with students from other fields."

Dr. Hunt and Rohman are both involved in trying to educate the "well-rounded student."

Dr. Hunt says that the curriculum of his college will try to develop an understanding, in depth, of the human being and not just his physical problems.

"The College of Human Medicine is not just another medical school," said Dr. Hunt. "It is a new approach and one we are excited about."

Dr. Hunt objects to the label "two-year" medical school. Though it must be that when it opens, because the first class of 20 to 25 students will have completed their senior year in college, the future plans are to spread out technical courses over the six years it will take to complete the course.

A core program, to be developed as the Department of Human Development, will serve as a stem to the large block of courses to be taken in the last two years.

bringing their specific complaints with them.

"I urge them to give the commission a reasonable chance to act. Then if no action is taken on legitimate complaints, there will be time enough to demonstrate for a different solution."

"Even if the law permitted local ordinances, which it does not, a careful review of the situation would seem to me to compel those interested in civil rights to avoid a patch-work approach by avoiding city ordinances," Kelley concluded.

Open Occupancy

"Forty cases are now pending investigation. Seven have resulted in formal complaints by the commission and two formal hearings have already been set."

"The commission is ready, willing and able to receive complaints of discrimination in housing."

"I urge my friends who have been marching in these demonstrations in their cities to march to the Civil Rights Commission

THE SAFE WAY to stay alert
without harmful stimulants

NoDoz™ keeps you mentally alert with the same safe refresher found in coffee. Yet NoDoz is faster, handier, more reliable. Absolutely not habit-forming. Next time monotony makes you feel drowsy while studying, working or driving, do as millions do... perk up with safe, effective NoDoz Keep Alert Tablets. Another fine product of Grove Laboratories.
