

'BROAD ASSAULT'

Hannah Urges School Equality

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—MSU President John A. Hannah, chairman of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights today called on the nation's public universities to launch a "broad assault" on education inequality as the major weapon in the civil rights struggle.

Hannah said steps must be taken now in every area of the country "for we are already late."

"The brave, imaginative programs like Head Start and Upward Bound will have their effect in time, but the effect will be minimal because they represent a piecemeal attack, not the broad assault conditions demand," Hannah said.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, Hannah called for:

--An end to the "popular notion that a four-year college education is essential to a happy and productive life."

--Training of teachers for "the slum school, not the suburb."

--Offering higher education's resources to local boards of education "which may have all of the will in the world to improve the education of minority groups, but simply do not know how to go about it."

--Convincing the public that there is "true equity" in spending more tax money for the slum school."

"My concern is not for the Negro alone," Hannah said, "it extends to the white child in the slums as well as to his black brother; it extends to the youngster in the cutover farms of northern Michigan, the child of the unemployed miner in Appalachia, and to the offspring of the tenant farmer in the South as well as to those in the ghettos of the big cities..."

"But at the same time, our concern for the Negro must be more intense and possibly more immediate, for the simple reason that he labors under handicaps more severe," Hannah said.

UN Nears Red China Seat Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (P)—The U.N. General Assembly headed for a vote Tuesday on the controversial issue of seating Communist China. The United States remained confident it has enough support to keep the door closed to Peking.

To insure the outcome, the United States and nine other foes of Peking insisted that the assembly reaffirm its 1961 decision that the representation issue required a two-thirds majority.

In the closing hours of the debate that began nine days ago, pro-Peking U.N. members accused the United States of launching the procedural maneuver because it did not have enough votes to win by a simple majority.

But U.S. sources insisted that the anti-Peking forces could win by even a simple majority, and that the resolution proposing reaffirmation of the two-thirds rule had been introduced in order to speed a decision. Many diplomats thought the United States was being overly optimistic, but none disputed that the anti-Peking members would fail to win a two-thirds vote.

Holiday Break Plans Announced

The Thanksgiving holiday begins at 5 p.m. next Wednesday for all students except those with a Wednesday night class meeting once a week.

Classes meeting twice a week or more will be suspended after 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The holiday covers the period from Nov. 25-28 inclusive.

Demonstrators Create Split --Varg

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—America's universities face the threat of becoming "houses divided" as a result of the furor created by student demonstrators, the dean of MSU's College of Arts and Letters warned here Tuesday night.

Paul A. Varg said that today's restless students are apparently more interested in the "actual cleansing quality of demonstrating than in the cause espoused."

The same students, he added, want to reduce complex questions to simple formulas and convert the campus "into a boiling cauldron of political activity."

As a result, he said, our universities threaten to become divided.

"The purely intellectual commitment," he noted, "appears sterile to students and is always suspected of camouflaging apathy. The noisy demonstration, on the other hand, may appear to the senior members of the academic community as an attempt to feel self-important."

Dean Varg made his observations in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual convention of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Much of today's student unrest, he said, is rooted in an intellectual climate that "provides few bearings for young people seeking to find meaning and direction in their lives."

"Many students seek commitment to some cause greater than themselves," he said. "A university cannot readily satisfy this craving, for its highest purpose is to develop an open-mindedness, a spirit of searching inquiry and a dedication to reason."

"Confronting the human predicament of today," Dean Varg pointed out, "a university should be doubly anxious to maintain a free traffic in ideas."

He warned, however, that today's challenge cannot be met "simply by encouraging a free exchange of ideas." The mood of many students today, he said, can be described as "akin to the fervor of Luther."

"Luther in his agony threw ink wells at the devil," Dean Varg said, "while the students throw them at administrators. They would have us become institutional zealots for their chosen causes. Because we do not see that as our role, they view us as spineless men unwilling to make a commitment."

He attributed much of today's intellectual climate to the "dizzy speed of political, economic and social change," which has caused many in this nation to ignore the past. "The effect is a lack of appreciation of yesterday's contributions and prevalence of the notion that the human predicament began in 1945."

A consequence of this thinking, Dean Varg said, is that "we confront the paradoxes of our day, the problems to which there are no solutions, in a state of agitation... We seek too impatiently to quiet the gales that blow rather than learning how to live meaningful lives in a stormy sea."

BIG TEN UNANIMOUS ON MSU BOWL BID

A COUPLE of smiling faces indicate that someone is happy about the official announcement that MSU is going to the Rose Bowl. Actually, the cheerful pair are painted on the legs of Connie Timmons, Flint junior, and she says that she won't remove them until after the Rose Bowl.

1,181 More TV Seats For Game

An additional 1,181 television seats for the MSU-Notre Dame game will go on sale at 1 p.m. Wednesday on the third floor of the Student Services Building.

Fairchild Theatre will have 676 of the seats and a wide screen will be used there as in the Auditorium.

The extra seats came through three hours of contact with the closed-circuit TV session by Rich Hollander, vice president of finance and operations for ASMSU. Hollander, with the supervisors, juggled televisions and locations to increase the seating capacity.

Hollander said the additional seats weren't held back to fool the students in any way, but that the last minute additions were made to alleviate the flood of student requests for tickets.

Originally, ASMSU didn't even expect to use the Auditorium, Hollander said.

All of the 3,790 Auditorium seats were sold with 45 minutes of beginning sales Tuesday.

The additional tickets will be for the following places: Women's IM Building, 50; Wonders Hall, 100; Vet Clinic main auditorium, 200; Auditorium classroom 128, 30; and Fairchild, 676.

Because of a gymnastics meet previously scheduled in Jensen Field House, students will not be able to watch the game there.

All students holding seats in Jensen will be admitted to Wilson Auditorium only," ASMSU ticket chairman John Jacobs said. Tickets will be sold only to University students. ID's must be presented with all sales and the limit is four tickets per ID.

ASMSU also asked that those who bought more tickets than they will be using to return the extra tickets. Anyone caught scalping will be referred to the Student Board of ASMSU.

OFFICIALS RETURN

Trip Plans Due Thursday

By JANE KNAUER
State News Staff Writer

Information on the plans and the official tours, sponsored by ASMSU under the direction of the office of the Vice President of Student Affairs and the Division of Student Activities, should be available Thursday.

Louis F. Hekhuis, director of student activities, and Jack Kinney, director of alumni relations, have spent two days in California looking over the hotel accommodations and the proposals for the official student and alumni tours.

The tours will be handled by International Travel, Inc., with John Winkie-John serving as the travel service representative for MSU.

After official announcement of MSU's choice to represent the Big 10 in the Rose Bowl, and the acceptance, University officials were trying to reach Hekhuis, Kinney and Winkie-John to notify them of the decision Monday.

The official MSU committee for Rose Bowl preparations was also announced Tuesday with John A. Fuzak, vice president of student affairs, as chairman.

Other members of the committee are: Kinney; Jack Breslin, secretary of MSU; Philip J. May, vice president of business and finance and university treasurer; James H. Denison, assistant to the president and director of university relations; and Clarence L. Munn, director of intercollegiate athletics.

Students working on the plans for the trip for ASMSU include John McQuitty, chairman of the Student Board and East Lansing senior, and Jim Tanck, Waterford, Wis., senior and cabinet president of Associated Students of MSU.

Student committees will soon be established by ASMSU, Hekhuis said last week.

Official Decision Advanced

Duffy 'Grateful' For Early Nod

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State, by an unanimous vote, was named Tuesday to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1.

Following notification by Bill Reed, Big Ten commissioner, the Athletic Council unanimously voted to accept the bid. The Big Ten decision hadn't been expected until Saturday.

"We are very appreciative of the appointment to play in the Rose Bowl. We accept, and will do our best to represent the conference well," said John Fuzak, faculty representative to the Big Ten and chairman of the council.

The announcement, made Tuesday at noon, marked the first time that athletic directors have chosen the conference representative prior to the close of the season since the Big Ten began sending teams to the bowl in 1947.

"We're grateful to the other conference schools for giving us this early vote of confidence by moving up the date of selection," said head coach Duffy Daugherty, following the announcement.

"We deem it a great honor to represent the Big Ten in this

U.S. Wipes Out 1,300 Viets In 3-Day Showdown Battle

SAIGON (UPI) -- American troops Tuesday won their first battlefield showdown with regular North Vietnamese troops by wiping out an entire Hanoi regiment that had marched into South Viet Nam to help Viet Cong guerrillas.

The body count of Communist dead in the three-day battle of Chu Pong Mountain soared to 1,300, but officials estimated that as many as 1,300 or more had been killed.

But it was also the war's costliest fight in terms of American dead. The Americans were determined that as long as the Communists were willing to stand and fight, U.S. troops would stay in the area until the last of the North Vietnamese was dead.

The heavy fighting ended Tuesday morning after the Communists, in a last-ditch suicidal attack, threw wave after wave of troops into the path of American machine gun and rifle fire, trying desperately to overrun the troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry. They died trying.

The brunt of the communist attacks was taken by the 1st Cavalry's storied 1st Battalion, 7th Regiment—the unit that during the Indian wars was commanded by Gen. George Armstrong Custer.

Troops of the 1st Battalion were moved out Tuesday and fresh units took over for a mop-up operation.

Few, if any, Viet Cong troops were involved, and there were no reports of any action by South Vietnamese government forces in the Chu Pong Mountain battle.

It turned out to be a direct confrontation between Hanoi and the Pentagon.

The 66th Hanoi Regiment, intelligence sources said, got some support from remnants of the 101st North Vietnamese Regiment that was all but wiped out three weeks ago at the battle around the besieged U.S. Special Forces camp at Plei Me, about 11 miles west of Chu Pong.

After the battle, waged in the foothills and in a valley of 2,500 - foot jungled mountain, Brig. Gen. Knowles said: "I've never seen a better job—anywhere, any time."

The latest suicidal charges, by four Communist companies, came twice before dawn Tuesday and once around seven a.m.

UPI Correspondent Joseph Galloway said the last Communist charge was desperate, although ineffective against the massive firepower of the Americans.

With grenades and rifles they charged the machine guns and mortars of Alpha and Charlie Companies of the 1st Battalion. In cases where the Communists were able to penetrate American defense lines, there were moments of fierce hand to hand fighting with bayonets.

In one area, the Americans mowed down more than 200 Communists.

ON DETROIT

Africans To March

MSU African students canceled a march on the Lansing State Capitol in favor of a statewide march on the British Consulate in Detroit Thursday.

The decision to cancel the march was made at a meeting of the African Students Assn. Monday night. At that time, students decided it would be better to concentrate on the Detroit march, said Jeffrey Ahunanya, secretary of the association.

The march will begin at 10 a.m. after a rally in front of Mackenzie Hall at Wayne State University. Ahunanya said he hoped all 120 MSU students will participate. He estimates that there are about 300 African students in the state.

The students are protesting the British inaction after Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia declared his country's independence from Great Britain, Ahunanya said.

"The British government is responsible for this fascist regime's declaration," he said. "By not taking action, Britain is indirectly supporting it."

"If Britain had sent in troops in the first place, Ian Smith would not have declared independence," he said.

FOR STUDENT RESIDENCES

Ask New Apartment Zone

By MARGIE MARSH
State News Staff Writer

Student apartments are so different from ordinary apartments that separate zoning regulations are needed for each, said an East Lansing resident Monday night at the City Council meeting.

"To have just on zoning class, R-4, for all apartments is pitifully inadequate," said Franklin Kirchner, member of the East Lansing Traffic Commission.

"Parking codes are so inadequate for student apartment buildings that it makes everyone within four or five blocks of the building miserable," he said.

"With 80 students living in the proposed apartment building at 513 Hillcrest Ave., traffic problems would be huge on the narrow street and alley behind the building," said Charles Pross, a resident of the area.

"If we (the city of East Lansing) continue to build apartments in all R-4 areas, we will be faced with problems greater than the additional revenue from the apartments would be worth," he said.

Approximately 15-20 residents attended the meeting apparently to support a petition submitted by 85 residents protesting the present R-4 zoning allowing for a multiple unit dwelling at 513 Hillcrest Ave.

Apartment building will leapfrog into residential areas if present zoning for multiple unit dwellings is retained, said a resident, speaking for the group.

In the six-point petition, the residents claimed that multiple unit dwellings would detract from the appearance of the homes in the area and would cause significant traffic problems in the area where many small children walk to Central Avenue school.

The petition also claimed there is not enough property at 513 Hillcrest Ave. to provide adequate parking for students living in the proposed apartments.

Barry Right On Bombing Hanoi's Industrial Area

BOMB HANOI, Barry Goldwater, and many Americans shake their heads disgustedly at a political has-been. But for once we think the former GOP presidential candidate's advice is good.

If Goldwater had made an unqualified appeal for the bombing of North Viet Nam's capital, we would not support his plea. But he has called for raids on Hanoi's industrial complex, including its port city of Haiphong and the roads and bridges leading into the area.

A MEANINGFUL SOLUTION to the Viet Nam conflict is our primary goal and the sooner this comes about, the better. As long as the U.S. delays bombing North Viet Nam's industrial center, the war will endure and more human lives will be lost.

President Lyndon B. Johnson says he doesn't intend to alter the strategy which spares Hanoi and Haiphong from air raids. But he also said during the 1964 presidential campaign that U.S. planes would not raid North Viet Nam as his opponent Goldwater advocated. After Johnson was elected, he proceeded with the attacks.

THE JOHNSON ADMINISTRATION fears that bombing Hanoi might bring Peking into the conflict as it did when U.S. forces were on the verge of eliminating the North Korean government. But this was the same reason he said he held off air raids in North Viet Nam during the campaign. No major confrontation with Red China has resulted.

Johnson says U.S. attacks on Hanoi would also spark international criticism, but no matter what the U.S. does inside or out of Viet Nam, its action will agitate someone, somewhere.

WASHINGTON shouldn't hold off an inevitable military act because of the reasons it has given. Bombing civilians should be avoided at all costs, and those in the area should be notified that bombing will take place. But the longer the U.S. delays such action, the more civilian lives are lost by the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

SAYS YOUNG DEM HEAD

Loyalty To U.S. Is Crucial

To the Editor:

How much longer must we endure this sorry spectacle of frustrated University instructors using their once respected position to pass naive and uninformed judgment upon our country's most involved and complex policies?

How much longer must we endure this sorry sight of a small group of glory-seeking student radicals on the marginal fringes of the University casting a bad light upon the entire student body of Michigan State?

By every definition of the word, we are at war in Viet Nam. In such troubled times the loyalty of every citizen is needed if not required. It may be that patriotism is becoming passe, but loyalty to one's country must never be lost. Citizens who cannot support their country's policies cannot be forced to, nor should it be so. However, out of respect for their country they should not act consciously so as to damage their country's policies and her very image abroad.

Those who have so little respect and loyalty for their country that they cannot refrain from attacking it should not be accorded the respect which they demand for themselves and yet withhold from their government.

The students demonstrated their support for the country's policies during the Veterans' petition drive. However, this is not enough. We must continue to demonstrate our loyalty and respect with as much enthusiasm as the fringe elements use in rejecting them. Only in this manner may we remove the stigma which they have cast upon students everywhere.

LETTER POLICY

The State News welcomes letters to the editor from all readers, whether or not they are associated with Michigan State University. Letters must be no longer than 300 words and should be typed double space.

Prof Protests Uninformed Critics

To the Editor:

One of the more depressing aspects of the debate over American policy in Viet Nam has been the level of discussions—from the specious flapdoodle purveyed by administration officials to the yawns of those sanity drop-outs who profess to see the Viet Cong as a merry band of freedom fighters. That level has not been raised appreciably by the statement issued from the group calling itself "American Friends of Viet Nam" (published in the State News and the State Journal). Rightly deploring "name-calling, distortion, emotionalism and gross oversimplification," AFVN thereupon indulges itself in the luxuries it condemns.

A point made by the group is that many of the academicians who have participated in "teach-ins," or otherwise protested against administration policy, are not certified specialists in Asian affairs. Presumably, therefore, they are either uninformed or misinformed as to what has happened and what is happening in Viet Nam. Granting this is true, the question is why? Is it that they have failed to avail themselves of the body of scholarly objective literature written by the specialists (such as the members of AFVN)? Or is it that no such body of literature exists? The latter, unfortunately, is the case.

Over the years, the most reliable analyses of conditions in Viet Nam have come from journalists—such as Homer Bigart, David Halberstam and Charles Mohr—not from the government or the "specialists" who, in many cases, were helping to formulate policy instead of appraising it. I suggest that members of AFVN check over their own scholarly credentials, at least the uses of them, before throwing any more stones.

War Accepted As Fact Of Life Today

To the Editor:

Mr. Lombardi (in Friday's State News) wasn't saying much when he said, "this American war in Asia is wrong." All war is wrong. But sometimes it's necessary. Sometimes there are things we just have to do, like it or not.

I'd be the first to admit that I don't fully understand why we are in Viet Nam. But someone far wiser than I am in the ways of the world has signed the orders—and now thousands of American boys are there, including some friends of mine.

I signed the petition supporting our troops in Viet Nam, but not because I feel safe and secure on my college campus while letting them fight for me. As Mr. Lombardi said, they have their job, and we have ours. Theirs is by far the more difficult, and it isn't made any easier by the shouts and protests of those who say they are killing and being killed for nothing.

I'm not a brave person, and I don't need to dodge the draft. But if I were an 18-year-old American young man, or older, I wouldn't. I couldn't, not when friends of mine, including some I don't even know, are doing their share.

When there is something I can do—whether it is giving blood, or signing a petition, or anything within my capabilities—when that time comes, the least I can do is that little bit.

Not everyone can be on the varsity team; some of us can only support it. And although we support it, we can't run down on to the field ourselves and begin tackling the opposition or running with the ball. Like it or not,

DESPITE CRITICISM FROM ABOVE

Plans For Campus Radio, Bookstore Still Progress

By JIM SPANIOLO
State News Staff Writer

How far have plans progressed in establishing a campus radio station? Why is student government looking into the possibility of starting a bookstore, and why did President John A. Hannah express doubts about both?

These are typical of questions circulating around campus after statements made by several University officials last week concerning the feasibility of such plans.

For well over a year a student steering committee, composed of members from WKME (Shaw) and WERS (Brody), has formulated plans to set up a campus wide radio station. Jim Cherry, East Lansing graduate student, is chairman of the committee.

In its study, the student group has worked closely with an administrative committee appointed by President Hannah, which is headed by John Fuzak, Vice President for Student Affairs.

"We expect to have the final proposal by the end of this month, and we were quite shocked at President Hannah's statement concerning the use of student taxes to finance the station without a full report being submitted to him," Cherry said.

Recently ASMSU suggested financing the proposed station by bearing 50 per cent of the cost itself, while WIC and MHA would pay the remainder. According to Cherry, neither the administrative nor the student committees ever considered this approach in all their meetings.

"We are considering financing the station either through dorm dues (WIC and MHA), through a separate tax voted in a referendum, or through soliciting each dorm council to raise its dorm dues," he said.

Regarding criticism that a campus radio station would create a situation in which a small group could control a powerful propaganda agent, Cherry said his committee was aware of such fears and had attempted to avoid the possibility of such a situation with every step.

Under tentative proposals the dean of students, residence hall managers, and the television and radio department would have a strong voice in the operation of the station—to help prevent any such abuse.

"There has been basic agreement between the committees so far, and we must formulate a final financing proposal before submitting the total proposal in its final form, Cherry commented.

In addition to financing, the final proposal will contain a detailed explanation of programming, engineering and organization.

All other Big Ten schools have campus radio stations similar to the one proposed here, except for Northwestern.

Regarding plans for a student operated bookstore, few people on campus were aware that any plans existed before President Hannah expressed his disapproval last week.

According to ASMSU Cabinet President Jim Tanck, Waterford

Wis., senior, things are very much in the planning stages, but a committee is being established to work out the details.

He emphasized that the project would call for a bookstore, not a book exchange, which has been operated in previous years. The bookstore would be established with funds taken from the new increase in the student tax voted earlier this term.

Tentatively, if initiated, the bookstore would operate only in the last weeks of one term and the beginning of the next. It would deal exclusively in used

DAVE HANSON

Duff Fooled Us, But That's Okay

Nine weeks ago, they laughed when someone said MSU had a chance to go to Pasadena.

They said the Spartans were not good enough, too young, had too rough a schedule and maybe next year.

But Duff and the boys won a few games and people started looking our way with a curiosity that was more half-hearted than hopeful.

I said then that I didn't think old Duff could do it. I thought he was just fooling around and, like so many times in the last 10 years, we'd end up in front of the TV set on New Year's day talking about how much better State could do in the game.

I misjudged you, Duff, and I'm sorry. I should have known you knew. I should have known that Mona Lisa smile meant you had it in the bag. I should have guessed by the way you avoided talking about it that we had the inside track to the trip west. I suffered through nine weeks of not knowing because I was a pessimist. I still don't believe it, but it's real.

Real? Unbelievable! Nine in a row. No. 1 in the country. Gee, whiz, Duff, when you do it, you do it right.

So right, in fact, that my grade point and those of a couple thousand others who sit stunned from Saturday to Saturday will be a little lower this term. But that's OK.

It's worth it. And it's worth it if I won't be home for New Year's Eve because I have a previous engagement. So some of us won't have money for tuition, books, haircuts, cokes or anything else next January.

We only get the chance every 10 years and we have to make sacrifices.

So thank you, Duff. Thank you for fooling everyone. Thank you for making this the best season of your and my career at MSU.

Don't worry about Notre Dame. After the scare your boys had last Saturday, they will be too tough to trip. You showed them that MSU is invincible. We'll head for Pasadena in style.

And see how scared they are of us out there? Nobody wants to play us. They can't decide whether they should let us beat UCLA again or take on USC or Washington State.

Whoever it is, Duff, we know you and the boys will run all over them. Kenney's toe will be back in the warm sunshine. Juday will be able to throw passes that will disappear into the smog. Jones and Apisa will be able to run without having to see their breath steam in the frigid Michigan air. And your defensive line will be back home again.

And take along that little dog you had Saturday. He's the most elusive back we've had since Squirmin' Sherman Lewis.

Wilson Given Power In Rhodesia

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II signed seven orders Tuesday giving Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government wide powers to restore Britain's authority over the breakaway colony of Rhodesia. Wilson told the House of Commons again he opposes the use of military force to impose a settlement on Rhodesia. But he said Britain may in certain circumstances intervene militarily if law and order break down among Rhodesia's 225,000 whites and 3.8 million Africans.

Rough Reception For RFK

CONCEPCION, Chile (AP)—Angry leftist students spat on U.S. Senator Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.) and threw eggs, rocks and money at him when he visited the University of Chile Tuesday. He had been warned by student leaders to stay away.

Although the senator apparently was not hit by the eggs or stones, spittle fell on his forehead and clothes. About 100 university students, identified as pro-communist, were among thousands that attended the meeting.

Comedian Gregory On Hunger Strike

CHICAGO (AP)—Negro comedian Dick Gregory, jailed after he refused to pay a $400 fine on charges of disorderly conduct, passed up his second meal today in the House of Correction.

great classic and will be out to do our best both in the Rose Bowl and this coming weekend."

The Spartans, having garnered the Big Ten championship, put their 9-0 season mark on the line Saturday when they face Notre Dame at South Bend.

State picked up the conference title following its victory over Indiana Saturday, giving it a 7-0 Big Ten mark.

This will be the Spartans' third Rose Bowl appearance, as well as their first undisputed conference crown. They were co-champs with Illinois in 1953 and ranked second two years later. In 1955 Ohio State had been to Pasadena the year before and was ineligible to make the trip.

Both bowl games were Spartan victories. In 1954 MSU topped UCLA, 28-20, and beat the Bruins again in '56, 17-14.

The West Coast opponent in this year's game has not yet been decided. At the top of the list are UCLA and USC. The two teams play Saturday, and the outcome of that game will most probably determine the foe.

"Going to the Rose Bowl for the third time since entering the Big Ten is simply great," said Clarence L. "Biggie" Munn, State's athletic director. "We certainly appreciate the unanimous vote the athletic directors have given us. It should act as an added incentive against Notre Dame Saturday."

SENIOR SEMINAR-MED 499

First Medical Course Offered Winter Term

By DAVID HANSON
State News Staff Writer

Down at the bottom of page 73 in the winter term schedule book, almost unnoticed, was the first course offering from the new College of Human Medicine.

Seminar in Medicine and Society (Medicine 499) will be limited to about 20 seniors in pre-med or other health-related fields. Next fall the course will provide the core of study for an expected 20 students enrolling in the college at the senior level. These students will be the first to enter the two-year advanced program that will be the College of Human Medicine.

Dr. Thomas B. Hill, staff physician at Olin Health Center, is in charge of admissions for the college.

Hill has sent information to everyone requesting it and has sent applications to all who wish to enter the college next fall. The applications are already being processed.

John C. Howell, associate dean of the Department of Social Science and Human Medicine, said the course will be open to students in social work, biological sciences related to public health, and to nursing students. If more than 20 sign up for the course, he said, the college will set up some sort of guideline for who may take the course.

"We hope to draw on faculty from the physical, biological and social sciences as well as outside speakers," Howell said. The series of 12 seminars will be concerned with the history, problems, social aspects and future of medicine.

Howell said that the course will be offered as an elective this term and will be an elective if offered spring term. He said he anticipates that it will be offered spring term.

It will be a required course for human medicine students next fall and not open to other students.

"We would like to offer a general course someday because of the wide social concern for medicine," he said, "but we must serve our own students first and the course will give them a chance for face-to-face meetings with the faculty."

Med 499 will be the only college course offered until 1967, when the 20 students entering next fall begin their advanced study.

Howell said that the students will be taking courses next year that are similar to those taken in the first year at any four-year medical school. But these courses will come from existing departments and existing faculty.

"The beginning courses are designed to give the students a biological and behavioral approach to human medicine," he said. "They will not get into clinical work until years five and six."

The two-year medical school is designed as the last two years of a six-year program. Someday students will spend all six years at MSU, but now they come from other schools. Some may have bachelor's degrees and others may be seniors.

The faculty of the college will be limited to 10, said Charles Downs, publicity director for the Institute of Biology and Medicine, which coordinated the creation of the college's curriculum.

Dean of the college, Dr. Andrew D. Hunt Jr., is currently making additions to existing departments in other colleges to direct the faculty toward the teaching of human medicine.

Some appointments have been made, but the process will not be completed for several years.

MSU May Have 2 Floats In Parade; Theme To Be 'It's A Small World'

The theme of the 1966 Rose Bowl parade—the one MSU will participate in—will be "It's A Small World."

John A. Fuzak, vice president of student affairs and chairman of the official MSU Rose Bowl committee, announced the parade theme Tuesday.

Fuzak also said the Rose Bowl committee had received sketches of the official MSU float which will appear in the parade.

The float, which will depict MSU as the Big 10 representative to the Rose Bowl, is being designed and built by Valley Decorating Co. of Fresno, Calif.

The company was awarded a three-year contract by the Big 10 conference committee to handle the float design and construction for the Big 10 schools playing in the Rose Bowl.

The official Big 10 MSU float will be paid for out of receipts to the Big 10 from past Rose Bowl games.

Students at MSU have proposed contracting for a separate MSU float paid for by the students.

A provisional contract has been made with Valley Decorating Co., the Big 10 Conference official float maker, to build an $8,000 float, sponsored by MSU students.

The proposal was announced by Jim Sink, Chicago, Ill., Jun-

ANSWERS TO:

'Is There A Home For Me?'

The question "Is there a home for me?" can be answered two ways in the Lansing area, it was concluded during a recent civil rights panel discussion.

"Yes—if the 'Me' is a white person with enough money. 'No' if the 'Me' happens to be a Negro with any amount of money.

These were the replies at a meeting of the Ingham County Democratic Women's Group last week.

"Discrimination in housing does exist," panelist Benjamin Gibson said.

Gibson, a local attorney, said there also existed a few fallacies about Negroes.

"Realtors claim that Negroes want to live together and form their own district," Gibson said.

"They also claim that the Negro does not have the money to buy homes in most districts," he continued.

Both of these assertions have been proven to be false, he said.

Negroes live together because the only homes they can purchase are in neighborhoods containing colored families.

A specific problem in the Lansing area is the displacing of Negro families in the Main and St. Joseph district on the West Side.

A proposed extension of highway 1-496 will cut through this section forcing the residents to move.

A relocation office has been set up to help the people. "This is merely a place private real estate salesmen use in seeking out clients," he continued.

The residents of this district have until next spring to move out. They are provided with $200 for their moving expenses, if they can find a home.

Richard Letts, another panelist and chairman of the Lansing Human Relations Committee, said there was a new policy being formulated to help these people.

"The realtors are forming a corporation to purchase 100 homes to rent to the displaced families," he said.

This company is to acquire these houses in all areas of Lansing, he said.

"We want the Negro families to take advantage of this and regroup throughout the city," he said.

Gibson said that this was not happening as Negroes were regrouping on the west side.

"The people are doubling and tripling up because there are no homes available for them," Gibson said.

Gibson said that a public housing scheme should have been started years ago to relieve the situation.

"The mayor and the city council are at fault for not organizing such a scheme," he said. "It will be at least two years before a minimum contribution can be made by the current plans."

FROSH-VARSITY CONTEST FRIDAY

Sneak Peek Week For State Cagers

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

"We're Spartans, we play basketball and we're clean," quipped Coach John Benington.

Other than that, you won't find very many similarities to last year's cage squad in the '65-'66 basketball team. Even a few familiar faces have been "replaced."

The season goes into full swing Dec. 4, but fans get a sneak preview as to what's happening with the new regime Friday night at the frosh-varsity game.

The annual affair, sponsored by the Varsity Club, is still looking for a court. The site is entirely dependent on football practice. The gridders get the first shot at the Jensen gym if rain prevents them from using the secret practice field.

If cloudy conditions prevail and the field house crew can't get the mobile court and stands set up in time, action is set for the IM Arena.

"I'd like to see us play in Jensen," Benington remarked.

"Last year the game was played in the arena and a lot of people had to be turned away. We've got some new faces on both the frosh and varsity whom people will want to see."

He went on to point out that the frosh squad consists mostly of Michigan boys, and that there will be a number of fans in attendance who've seen them play before and heard a lot about them.

"There's always an unusual amount of interest when you've got a new coaching staff," he went on. "People are curious as to what things are going to be like and what kind of changes have and are taking place."

Along with the fans, some 200 coaches are expected in connection with the basketball clinic being held at State this weekend.

There have been some changes made. Two familiar Spartan faces will be missing from their regular guard and center spots. Stan Washington and Bill Curtis have been replaced—they're forwards now under the imported St. Louis staff.

"I think Washington is going to make a really fine forward," he said. "This gives him the chance to rebound a lot more, which is one of his strong points. I've never seen a boy jump as well as he does for his size."

As far as size goes, what Washington may lack the rest of the team makes up for in a big way. Along with the two returning seniors, are a pair of junior college transfers, Matt Aitch and Shannon Reading, who spent the past two years at Moberley (Mo.) Junior College, standing 6-7 and 6-11, respectively.

"Both fit into the squad in real good shape. They'll definitely be helping the team this year. Since they're fresh from junior college," Benington noted, "they're eligible under the Big Ten rules for two years of varsity play."

Aitch will be starting for the Spartans at center, while Reading takes over at guard. Vying with him for that spot is John Bailey, a sophomore from last year's freshman squad. Handling the other guard spot is soph Steve Rymal, standing 6-1.

"Naturally, we're trying to get as much help as we can from last year's frosh," Benington said. "Along with Bailey and Rymal, Art Baylorn, Heywood Edwards, Jack Wynn and Jim O'Brien are back."

"One boy, Gary Spade, was out of school last year due to illness," he added, "and he's been doing a real fine job."

From the varsity standpoint, only one Spartan is definitely out of the picture. Jerry Geisler, 6-8 center, is out with mononucleosis, and isn't expected back until January.

"This is sort of a dress rehearsal for the coming season,"

NCAA Tourney Game Here

The Michigan State soccer team will open NCAA play here Saturday, instead of on the East Coast as previously expected.

The Spartans will host the University of Baltimore, which received the tournament bid over the University of Maryland.

State Coach Gene Kenney originally expected that Maryland would receive the berth and the game would be played there. When Baltimore was selected, the game was switched to East Lansing because Baltimore didn't have adequate facilities.

Game time was set at noon Saturday for the two schools, so students might watch the soccer game and then also catch most of the MSU-Notre Dame football game.

Baltimore, better known as the lacrosse capitol of the country, has a 10-1 won-lost record this year. Last year Maryland received the NCAA bid over Baltimore and lost to State, 1-0, in the opening tournament game.

If the Spartans win Saturday, they will play next the following Saturday (probably here again) for the chance to make the national finals in St. Louis.

Under NCAA tournament rules, tickets will cost $1 for students and adults, and 50 cents for children.

Winter Around The Corner Hockey Season Here Now

By ED BRILL
State News Sports Writer

A broken refrigerator and a shortage of air conditioning are two of the problems facing Coach Amo Bessone as the Spartan hockey season gets underway this Friday and Saturday at Colorado College.

This is the earliest start ever for a State ice team. So, just 10 days after practice had begun, the ice machine at the Demonstration Hall suddenly refused to make any more ice. After losing two irreplaceable weeks of practice, the team was left with just two weeks to prepare for its opening game.

To make matters even worse, the high altitude and thin air of Colorado Springs adds an extra burden of conditioning on the team. "This wouldn't have been a problem," said Bessone, "if the squad was in the best of shape. Right now, it will make things a little rough."

In spite of all of the difficulties, Bessone is more optimistic about his 1965-66 team than he has been about any unit in a long time. Once the club rounds into shape, he will have a solid nucleus of 13 lettermen back from last year's successful 17-12 campaign. In addition, there is another crop of promising newcomers.

A major reason for his optimism is the return of Mike

SPORTS

Jacobson, Tom Mikkola and Sandy McAndrew, three juniors who accounted for 65 of State's 165 goals last season. This trio has played together since their high school days in Copper Cliff, Ont., and they will form the No. 1 offensive line.

Last season, "Jake" set a new mark in all-time goal production mark, when he bested opposition goalies 29 times. Early in the season, Jacobson netted three goals in a one minute span against Wisconsin. This year a shoulder injury has slowed him down in practice, but he is expected to see action against Colorado.

Center Mikkola was third in last year's scoring race with 17 goals and 24 assists in only 20 games. Left winger McAndrew was next, notching 17 goals along with 20 assists.

Doug Volmar, a Cleveland junior who contributed 27 goals last year, will head a second veteran line. Volmar is said by many to possess the hardest shot in collegiate hockey, and is especially dangerous on the power play. Senior Mike Coppo (10 goals) will center Volmar on the right, and Junior Willie Faunt on the left wing.

For the second straight year, Bessone will send out an all rookie line. Wayne Duffet will center this third line, with linemates Nino Cristofoli and Bob Fallat. Right winger Fallat is expected to be the top goal threat on this line, once he recovers from a bad ankle injury suffered three weeks ago in practice.

Veteran speedsters Matt Mulcahy and John Schuster will again combine to kill Spartan penalties.

Defense is still a question mark, and may remain so until junior Bob Brawley joins the team after his turn with the Spartan grid team. He'll add important

Rose Bowl Down; National Title To Go

Spartans Underdog

NEW YORK (UPI)—Top-ranked Michigan State was rated a one-point underdog Tuesday for Saturday's battle with Notre Dame which will help determine the 1965 national college football champion.

The Spartans have won the Big Ten conference title and have a Rose Bowl date in California on New Year's Day. But this is the big one for Michigan State. A victory over the fourth-ranked Irish would close out a perfect season for Coach Duffy Daugherty's crew.

Arkansas, the No. 2 team in the country, was 14 points better than No. 9 Texas Tech as the Razorbacks sought to clinch the Southwest Conference title and the accompanying Cotton Bowl invitation.

The No. 3 Nebraska Cornhuskers are idle, while fifth ranked Southern California was a five-point selection over seventh-ranked UCLA in a showdown for Pacific Coast representation in the Rose Bowl.

Missouri's Sugar Bowl Tigers, rated eighth in the nation, were figured 15 points better than Kansas.

Rose Bowl Fever Nips Romney Too

LANSING (UPI)—Gov. George Romney, who apparently escaped any tropical fevers on his trip to the Far East, displayed all the symptoms of a full-blown case of Rose Bowl Fever Tuesday.

"Anybody got any tickets?" Romney asked the capitol press corps. All he got was a hearty laugh.

Looking a little crest-fallen, Romney sighed, "Well, I understand all the flights are already booked. Maybe I'll have to walk out there and sneak in."

The chances are slight Michigan's governor would have to do that in order to watch the Michigan State Spartans play in Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day.

Romney, who missed seeing the University of Michigan Wolverines defeat Oregon State, 34-7, in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1 this year because of the inauguration for his second term, is determined to make the trip this year.

He said he was "delighted" to return from a three-week trip to the Far East to find MSU had swept to seven straight conference victories and the Big Ten title.

"I'm really looking forward to being able to go to the Rose Bowl this year," he said.

But he declined to say he was ready to make a high-level bet with a fellow governor on the outcome of the game.

"Let's just say," he said with a grin, "I might offer to do something kind, if the other team wins."

Last year, Romney had a "friendly wager" with Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield of a banquet of state products for the loser.

Preliminary gubernatorial negotiations were expected to take place today in Chicago where Romney, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California and Gov. Daniel Evans of Washington will gather for a committee meeting on state and local finances.

Irish Backfield 'Best In Country'

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

It's now official! The Spartans will go to the Rose Bowl. But even this will not detract from the excitement of State's final regular season game against arch-rival Notre Dame on Saturday.

A victory over the Irish would give State the mythical national championship and a perfect 10-victory record.

Fourth-ranked Notre Dame has only lost to Purdue this season and will be spoiling for an upset.

"Notre Dame has a great passing and rushing defense," said Head Coach Duffy Daugherty. "They've got a big, strong, well-balanced line and have a quarterback who can pass when necessary."

"Most of Notre Dame's passing comes off running," he continued. "They use a lot of power sweeps and belly runs, then the next thing you know someone is open 15 yards down field and they throw the long TD pass."

Tickets for the Irish-MSU game were sold out way back last June, long before their meeting had such significance.

The Spartans will have to make several adjustments to counteract Notre Dame's noisy cheering section.

"Notre Dame is real tough at home," said Daugherty, "and their noise doesn't help the opposition any. Because they are so noisy, it's awful hard to use audibles at the line when you get deep inside their territory."

"I don't anticipate any trouble from the students down there though," Duffy added.

Junior right halfback Nick Eddy is the top Irish rusher with 543 yards in 95 carries. Fullback Larry Conjar is second, with 473 yards in 117 attempts.

Bill Wolski, a Michigan boy, who missed the North Carolina game, has 409 yards to his credit in 117 carries. Wolski is the team's leading scorer with eight touchdowns and four two-point conversions for 52 points.

"They've got the strongest set of running backs in the country," Daugherty said.

Eddy has also grabbed the lead in the pass reception department as he has made nine receptions for 177 yards. Captain Phil Sheridan, an end, made eight receptions, but he has netted only 125 yards.

When asked about State's apparent letdown against Indiana last Saturday, Daugherty said the team was probably tighter than at any other time this season.

"Things were mounting up all of last week," he said. "The press and the student body were all talking Rose Bowl which put added pressure on the team."

"If ever a team was ripe for an upset, we were," Daugherty said, "and I should know. I've been through it a couple of times."

Daugherty said the Indiana game was a great lesson for State's defensive backs. "They thought they could cover anybody," he said. "Then Indiana came up with a couple of good receptions and beat us on the long one."

With this lesson in mind, the Spartans went through practice Tuesday afternoon for the game in South Bend, Ind.

"Notre Dame will have the incentive to knock off the No. 1 team," Daugherty said. "But whether we're No. 1 or No. 101, we'll be up and ready for the game."

depth to the blue line contingent headed by veterans Tom Purdo and Don Heaphy. Richard Bois and Doug French, both newcomers, will see a lot of action, with veteran Ron Roth as the fifth defenseman.

Goaltending will be a real strong point for the Spartans with junior Jerry Fisher returning from an outstanding season in 1964. "We'll be in better shape than we have ever been in goal," exclaimed Fessone. In back of Fisher are two highly regarded sophomores, Gary Cooley and Larry Roche.

For the first time in three years, State will be playing every team in the Western Collegiate Hockey Assn.

Benington said. "From my standpoint, I'll have to say that I'm satisfied with the team's progress so far; they've given us a lot of effort. We're hoping for a good crowd, for many of the kids are inexperienced and a packed house will be good for them."

As far as the frosh roster goes, there's plenty of power in that department. Heading the group are Rich Jordan from Fenville, a midget compared to the rest at 5-7, who averaged 40 points a game last year and Lee Lafayette, 6-6 All-Stater from Grand Rapids South.

FOSS PRESSURED

Early AFL Draft Called Off

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Football League Tuesday called off its controversial Nov. 20th draft of college players and rescheduled it for Nov. 27 to coincide with the National Football League date. The change was made following a consultation with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss made the announcement after several discussions with Jim Corbett of Louisiana State University, chairman of the NCAA pro relations committee.

"Corbett assured me Tuesday that he is strongly opposed to the idea and influence of the wholesale baby-sitting plan," Foss said. "Negation of the plan has been the primary reason that the AFL last week advanced its player draft to Nov. 20. We set the earlier date to combat this questionable practice, which has involved the hiding out of dozens of college players in order to prevent AFL teams from negotiating with them."

Baby-sitting is the term applied to the practice of pro teams of both the AFL and the NFL of keeping players away from each other until they sign contracts. Players, under the watchful eye of scouts, are spirited away where representatives of the other league cannot find them.

Foss said the AFL for a year has considered the practice of "unreasonable influences and pressure placed—wittingly or unwittingly—on players through the baby-sitting program amounted to the most detrimental new factors in college-pro relations."

Organized Crime In U.S. Nets Annual $24.5 Billion

Organized crime and illegal gambling cost the American public an estimated $24.5 billion annually, say two experts in police administration at MSU.

Gambling accounts for $17 billion and racketeering consumes $7.5 billion, according to Raymond T. Galvin, an assistant professor and John Ashby, an assistant instructor.

By comparison, white collar crimes (employee thefts) account for $1 billion, and conventional crime (burglaries, robberies) cost $600 million.

Galvin and Ashby report on some costs of crime in the November issue of the Michigan Economic Record, a publication of MSU's Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

The intake for illegal gambling, according to Galvin and Ashby, has been estimated at $48 billion across the nation, including $5 billion in Michigan.

"Regardless of how one makes an estimate," Galvin and Ashby note, "there can be no doubt that organized crime relieves the American public of sums running into billions each year. Besides the deprivation of individual citizens, there are extensive losses to various levels of government in unpaid taxes."

Organized crime, Galvin and Ashby say, has gradually shifted away from outright thievery and force to prostitution, narcotics and gambling. It has also infiltrated some labor unions and businesses for illegal purposes.

Racketeers, according to Galvin and Ashby, use the mantle of legitimate commerce to perpetrate tax frauds. They may also use questionable tactics to drive competitors from business.

The result, Galvin and Ashby report, is monopolistic practices and inferior products for the consumer.

Employee thefts range from embezzlement to taking home a box of company stationery, Galvin and Ashby note.

"In many businesses," Galvin and Ashby report, "the losses suffered due to employee thefts are made up by simply raising prices enough to cover them. It is estimated that for every dollar lost to shoplifters, $10 to $15 are lost to dishonest employees."

There are instances on record of well-organized rings which divert shipments of goods, Galvin and Ashby note.

"Needless to say," the two police specialists report, "extensive security measures must be taken against employee thefts. One security agency reported that of $60 million in business thefts it investigated in 1963, 60 percent was attributable to employee thefts."

The Pinkerton Detective agency, Galvin and Ashby said, estimates that 75-80 percent of all employee thefts are of non-cash items.

"The cost of crime to the American public is staggering," Galvin and Ashby say. "Even greater is the loss experienced by society in human misery and in the waste of human resources. These deprivations are not as remote to the individual citizen as he would like to think. Each one finds his life conditioned directly and indirectly by the greed and violence of the criminal element, whether white collar, traditional, or organized."

books and would operate strictly on a cash basis.

"In this way," said Tanck, "students could sell their books at the end of one term and then have some of the cash necessary to purchase books for the next term. We would hope to sell a better bargain than they can obtain anywhere else when they sell their books."

At first the supply of books would be largely limited to the basic courses at the lower level and especially those with large sections. Later, though, it would be hoped to supply books for even the senior level courses with small sections.

In planning a student-operated bookstore, ASMSU hopes to make book prices more competitive, while providing a service and a saving for students, who incur a large expense over a four-year period in purchasing books for class use.

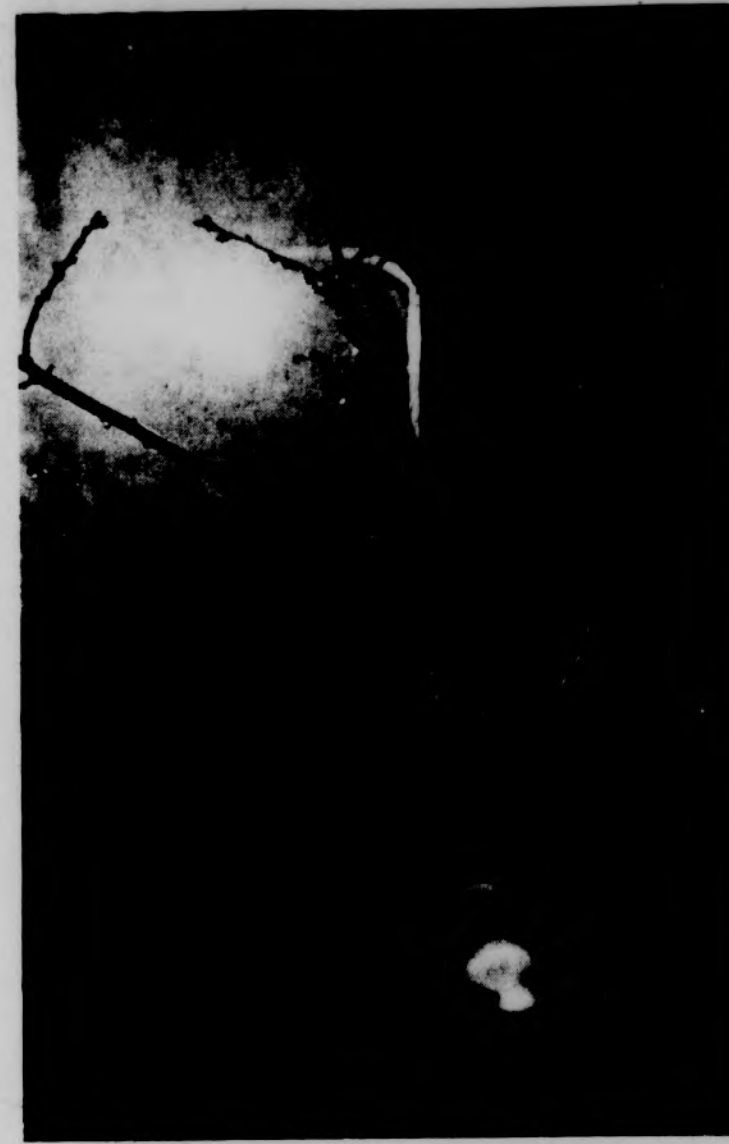

ASMSU also plans to take a student opinion poll to find out why students voted to increase the student tax and also find out what their opinion is regarding the establishment of a bookstore.

A Bike, A Branch, A Silent . . .

. . . rain, an overcast evening, soft street lights and the feel of a crisp November night all contributed to making the MSU campus behind Kellogg Center an ideal place to capture the signs of an on-coming winter.

New Dress Rules Asked For Women

Associated Women Students (AWS) will propose Wednesday night a new dress regulation allowing more sportswear in dorm and sorority dining areas.

A recommendation that any type of sportswear may be worn to breakfast seven days a week, lunch six days a week and Saturday dinner will be presented to the AWS assembly at its meeting at 7:30 in the Wonders Kiva.

Under present policy sportswear may be worn only during breakfast and Saturday lunch. Slacks are allowed in the dining room only in cold weather.

Sportswear includes bermudas, slacks and stretch pants under current regulations, but the proposed policy will extend that to include levis and cutoffs (bermuda-length levis).

Under both current and proposed policies sportswear may not be worn during Saturday lunch when there are home football games.

The proposed change will go into effect winter term if passed by the AWS assembly and the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, said Rilla Reinka, third vice president of AWS and Ottowa, Ill., senior.

AWS has been considering a change in sportswear regulations since last winter term, Miss Reinka said.

The AWS Judicial Council formulated the recommendation which is based on numerous requests from sororities and residence halls, she said.

Miss Reinka said she hopes the new policy will "allow women to develop their own responsibility for their dress."

Religious Novel Subject Of Talk

Robert Glenn Wright, instructor in American Thought and Language, will lead an American Studies Seminar tonight on the American religious novel from 1865 to 1900.

The seminar will also consider whether the church should be involved in social problems as well as spiritual matters. The seminar, followed by a discussion period, will begin at 8:30 in 32 Union.

Old Sellers Comedies Excel

By DAVE HANSON
State News Reviewer

There are only two things better than a good old Peter Sellers comedy: two old Peter Sellers comedies.

Seeing him and the assortment of characters that used to make British flicks before he went Hollywood makes you appreciate his talent all the more. His characters are so perfectly played that he seems to be an entirely different actor in each film.

In "I'm All Right Jack" he plays a deep pink union leader in a factory whose management is doing some under the table dealing for a missile contract. He is an overworked idealist who turns every situation to the benefit of his thinking.

Ian Carmichael plays the little rich boy who gets a job at the factory and causes a nation-wide strike by working too hard and then refuses to stop working because his uncle owns the factory and he thinks he should be loyal to the family.

Margaret Rutherford plays his aunt in a teaser of a part that was made for her. Terry Thomas is the liaison between management and labor and he fills the gap with classic comedy fashion.

This is Sellers at his best, in a role with significance as well as satire. He and the situation are so ridiculous that it could be real.

It is not typical of the best Sellers films because he doesn't dominate things. He is merely a central character in a tightly written riot.

Like all Sellers comedies, it's the little things that add up in "Jack" to make you laugh. Like the scene a half-hour after the strike is called when a guy comes back to retrieve four "workers" who missed the walkout because of a perpetual poker game.

I'M ALL RIGHT, JACK

And it is the little things in "Heavens Above" that makes it almost as funny. Sellers is a prison preacher who gets called by mistake to a conservative but rich parish and almost creates a riot with his idealistic preachings of giving.

Sellers takes over in this one to create a preacher who practices what he preaches. It is a straight role that depends on what's happening for the humor.

He is innocent, a trait that becomes symbolically Christ-like

Little Angels Show In Fairchild Tonight

Twenty-six Little Angels will perform in Fairchild Theatre at 8:15 tonight as part of the Asian-Latin American-African series.

Instead of harps, these angels, a Korean folk dancing group, play exotic oriental instruments thousands of years old to accompany their performances of traditional dances.

The dances range from the "Fan Dance," expressing joy and excitement, to the "Sword Dance," in which the "Angels" impersonate fierce warriors, and the "Mask Dance," which tells the legend of a nobleman's wife who disguises herself as a peasant girl.

Soon Shim Shin, the company's instructor and Korea's foremost ballerina, will perform an ancient ceremonial dance entitled "The Dance of the Twelve Drums."

The Angels are all young girls aged seven through 13. They were chosen in 1962 in a series of regional and national competitions, in which the finest and most promising youngsters were selected for the troupe.

The dancers are accompanied by five members of the Korean National Court Music Academy and each is trained to play many of the 50 ancient instruments used in a performance.

The costumes also follow the oriental traditions. They are the same type of robes worn by court dancers hundreds of years ago with emphasis on bright colors and intricate designs.

The Little Angels' first American tour is jointly sponsored by the Republic of Korea and the Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation in Washington, D.C.

Police Stop Booth Thieves

Campus police nabbed four students in the process of stealing a telephone booth from the area around the tennis courts Monday.

The four were caught about 9:30 p.m. and said that they were going to use the booth as a room decoration.

Students Send $225 To Viet Village

By ANDY MAREIN
State News Staff Writer

A small village in South Viet Nam will soon receive $225 from the MSU branch of the People-to-People Association.

Contributions to the village of Long Yen now total almost $1,000 from MSU, said Judith Rice, association chairman.

Tuesday's donations were given by the association's treasury, Farmhouse Fraternity and several individuals.

The money to be sent directly to inhabitants of the village, will be sent via the U.S. Agency for International Development (US-AID).

Earlier contributions were used to build a new marketplace. Tuesday's $225 will be used to help pay off that debt to the government of South Viet Nam. The rest of the money will finance the high school education of two students in the village.

The project originated last March when Vice President Hubert Humphrey spoke at an MSU benefit for the People-to-People Association. Long Yen received $740 from the benefit last July. Students of the MSU branch adopted the village because "they feel there is a genuine need for an organization in which students can play an active part in foreign affairs," said Miss Rice.

She said the association is a non-political, humanitarian group in which students can become involved in foreign affairs on a personal level.

Construction of a new medical clinic is the group's next goal for the village.

She said the group hopes to bring a nationally-known speaker, preferably from the entertainment world, to address students on campus.

Auto Hits Five-Year-Old

A five-year-old Spartan Village resident was injured Monday when he was struck by a car driven by Jean Kirmani, 1450L Spartan Village, Campus police reported.

Douglas Porter, 1416A Spartan Village, was taken to Sparrow Hospital where he was treated for a slight concussion and minor contusion to his forehead.

Spiegelman Talk Tonight

A scientist who recently announced the test-tube procreation of a basic life-process chemical will give a public lecture here tonight.

Sol Spiegelman, professor of microbiology at the University of Illinois, will deliver the annual Huddleson Lecture at 8 p.m. in the Kellogg Center Auditorium. His discussion will be on his research on the synthesis of RNA (ribonucleic acid), which is one of the basic chemicals involved in the hereditary process.

Spiegelman has isolated and purified an enzyme with which he is able to procreate a specific viral RNA. He had earlier theorized the existence of such an enzyme.

The Huddleson Lecture is sponsored by the MSU Department of Microbiology and Difco Laboratories in honor of the late Dr. I. Forest Huddleson, professor of microbiology at MSU. Huddleson won world-wide recognition for his research on undulant fever.

ANIMALS CAN TALK!

Cows are mooing, chickens cackling, horses whinnying, pigs are oinking--WHY? Well they're really got something to talk about. They're ringing out the news about the Pioneers' Barn Dance. The big day is November 19 from 8:00-12:00 in the Union Ballroom.

But the real excitement is because it is going to be strictly casual! How else are you going to dance to records spun by Bob Pearson from WILS or square dance to the call of the Promenaders' president, unless you put on your best farming clothes? I mean let's see you there in your cut-offs, knee-socks, sweatshirts, and jeans!

It's going to be great fun and very worth your while, as your fifty cents you spend for a ticket will go to help improve facilities for the blind in the library reading-room. Be the first one to get your ticket during the week of November 15-19 in the Union lobby.

Will Irish, State Band Lock Horns Again?

By KATHY THOMPSON
State News Staff Writer

Will the Fighting Irish fight again? The MSU Marching Band thinks not. A warmer welcome than last year's is anticipated by Band Director Leonard Falcone at the Notre Dame game.

As the Spartan Band left Notre Dame's stadium after the game last year, several Notre Dame students tried to grab hats and instruments.

Fighting broke out between band members in the rear ranks and the students during which one band member, Bob Bradsell, of River Edge, N.J., then a junior, was slightly injured and some hats were taken into Notre Dame dorms.

A few instruments were damaged, one clarinet was broken beyond repair.

Band members, quick to the defense, were unsure as to how many Notre Dame students took part in the attack.

"We are not apprehensive about going back after last year's incident," Falcone said. Amends have been made for the 1964 outburst by Notre Dame's president, dean of students and student government president. All damaged instruments were paid for by Notre Dame.

Falcone has received letters this season welcoming the band in the "true spirit of Notre Dame." Their administration has assured Falcone that those students involved last year were not representative of the university's student body. The student government will be providing escorts for the band this year.

"I feel the administration has made amends, but that animosity is still felt on the part of the students," Al Robertson, French horn player from Birmingham, said. "There's always tension down there."

"There's no place like Notre Dame," said Robert Bradsell. "I'm glad we're going back because I like excitement. There's never a dull moment there," Bradsell, a River Edge, N.J., senior, was knocked unconscious in last year's ruckus.

"Many schools have stopped going to Notre Dame," he said. "By going back we're showing we're not afraid."

ND Plans Pre-Game Reception

'Hate State' Feeling Gone

No "Hate State" campaign will erupt at the MSU-Notre Dame game this year.

Instead, Notre Dame's student government will hold a reception for MSU students, give them free parking, and provide refreshments before the game Saturday.

The reception will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the LaFortune Student Center on the campus. MSU students presenting their student IDs will be offered free parking next to the center.

The slogan "Dump Duffy" has replaced last year's "Hate State" campaign which erupted when a small group of Notre Dame students harassed the MSU band and damaged instruments.

Last week a group from Notre Dame met with three MSU students to discuss "how to have better relations between the two student bodies," said John McQuitty, chairman of the Student Board.

Attending the meeting with McQuitty were Charles C. Wells, State News editor, and Jim Tanck, cabinet president of ASMSU.

MSU Wins Another One

Another victory for Michigan State in inter-collegiate competition has been announced.

MSU's livestock judging team beat out entrants from 14 other colleges and universities to take its third victory in the last four years in the Eastern National Livestock Judging Contest in Baltimore.

MSU placed first in the beef competition and made a strong showing in swine competition to win the contest by a 26-point margin.

Graduate School Dean Interview

An assistant dean of students from the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business, Frank B. McBrearty Jr., will be holding interviews with students interested in graduate study in Chicago's Business school from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 1, at the MSU Placement Bureau in the Student Services Building.
