Tentative plans for a spacious new faculty club building were unveiled yesterday at the annual business meeting of the MSU Faculty Club Men's Division.

Construction will begin following an architect's study, final decisions of plans and a membership subscription drive. Hopefully the building will be in use by 1968, according to John Marston, asst. dean of the College of Communication Arts.

The already acquired site is on Forest Road between Harrison Road and Interstate 496, adjoining Forest Akers Golf Course.

Approximately half the land was a gift from a former MSU Trustee, Forest Akers. The remainder was acquired by the University.

The building, estimated at $900,000, will have a wide range of recreational facilities including several dining areas, a bar and a swimming pool; in addition to music rooms, a library, a billiards room and meeting rooms, said Marston. There will also be facilities for outdoor activities including sledding, skating, skiing, tennis and picnicking.

The building will accommodate a membership of approximately 600 and have a total area of about 25,000 square feet—slightly larger than the two lower floors of Kellogg Center. It will feature parking for approximately 350 cars.

The faculty club has been incorporated in order to handle the necessary arrangements for running the club. All essential licenses for operation have been obtained.

The club will operate on a non-profit basis under the direction of a full-time resident manager. Members will pay yearly dues of approximately $200, Marston said.

Financing for the initial construction will be covered by a gift of almost $550,000 from the late Dr. Floyd W. Owen of Detroit and a refundable cash deposit of $200 from each member.

Common Bible authorized by Pope Paul VI

VATICAN CITY (AP) - In a major Christian unity move, the Vatican announced Tuesday that Pope Paul VI has authorized the Roman Catholic Church to work with all other Christians for a common Bible.

An American priest from Boston, the Rev. Walter M. Abbott, was named to direct the project for the Church.

Father Abbott, 43, long a leader in the ecumenical - unity - movement, called the common Bible project basic to the effort to bring separated Christians together.

"Without a common Bible," he said in a comment on his appointment, "there will be no unity."

The secretariat already has informed the various Catholic bishops' conferences around the world of the papal authorization to undertake common Bible studies.

They have been asked to provide the Holy See with information on the possibilities and difficulties in each area on Bible translation and distribution.

Even prior to the Vatican announcement, some conferences had begun plans for cooperation with local Bible societies.

The Vatican said these plans "could provide useful models for future directives from the Holy See."

One of Father Abbott's first jobs will be to represent the Vatican at the Nov. 14-16 meeting of the American Bible Society's advisory council in New York City.

500,000 GIs still possible in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Defense Dept. said Tuesday that weekend remarks by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara do not rule out the possibility of a 500,000-man U.S. force in Viet Nam at the end of 1967.

The Pentagon chief, speaking Saturday at President Johnson's ranch in Texas, said American strength in Viet Nam will have increased by 200,000 at the close of this year to about 385,000.

McNamara added: "I think it's clear that barring unforeseen emergencies, the increases in U.S. forces in South Viet Nam in 1967 will be substantially less than this year."

McNamara did not spell out what he meant by "substantially less." But by simple arithmetic a 1967 increase of 115,000 men, while substantially lower than 200,000, would raise the American commitment to the half-million mark.

Romney, Griffin Win Easy State Victories

Governor George Romney scored a smashing victory over Democratic candidate Zolton Ferency and carried Robert Griffin back to the senate on his coat-tails.

Ferency conceded the gubernatorial race to Romney at 11:25 p.m. in Detroit. Former Governor G. Mennen Williams, Griffin's opponent, made his concession statement at 11:45 p.m.

Romney's victory margin was estimated at 58 per cent. Griffin's margin was estimated at 53 per cent.

Even before half the votes were counted Romney backers bearing signs saying "We need another George in the White House" rallied at the governor's jammed headquarters in downtown Detroit.

The election defeat was the first for Williams in a long and colorful public career. An it also was the first Republican senate victory in Michigan in 14 years.

Both Michigan's Attorney General and Secretary of State races were too close to declare a winner.

With only fragmentary returns reported, Attorney General Frank Kelley was leading his Republican opponent Lawrence Lindemer 170,577 to 167,161.

Republican candidate for Secretary of State George Washington was trailing the Democratic incumbent James Hare by 179,074 to 159,173.

In the sixth congressional district incumbent Republican Charles Chamberlain chalked up an overwhelming lead over his Democratic opposition Lee Wenke and was an apparent winner.

With scattered returns in an amendment to the state constitution which would have given 18 year olds the right to vote was on its way to an apparent defeat.

There were 142,283 no votes and 77,483 yes votes.

Two bond issues to fund community park development and a swimming pool were defeated by East Lansing voters by a substantial margin.

With all precincts reporting the vote was 3,160 to 1,466 against spending the $375,000 for a community swimming pool and 2,717 to 1,992 against a $500,000 appropriation for community park development. These totals do not include 600 absentee ballots which have yet to be calculated.

Merriman, Thompson lead MSU trustee race

Early returns in races for seats on the state's education board showed no clear cut trend.

With only 535 (110 in Wayne County) of the state's 5,335 districts reporting on the race for the MSU board of trustees, Republicans Kenneth W. Thompson and incumbent Frank Merriman were leading with 144,456 and 142,482 votes respectively.

In the race for the state board of education, returns were also inconclusive. Republicans James F. O'Neil (113,158) and Leroy G. Augenstein (113,264) were leading Donald M. D. Thurber (102,098) and Dr. Leon Fill (96,304).

Only 504 districts including 100 in Wayne County had reported.

With 528 districts reporting on the Wayne State race, Republicans Dr. Alfred H. Sokolowski and Norman P. Stockmeyer, were leading democratic incumbent Mrs. Jean McKee and Leslie R. Schmier.

Stockmeyer had received 122,707 votes and Sokolowski 118,516. McKee had polled 100,589 and Schmier 96,144.

Carlin blasts AAUP statement

Edward A. Carlin, dean of the University College, claimed in a statement issued Tuesday that the MSU council of the American Assn. of University Professors (AAUP) has "deliberately maligned the integrity and good faith of all who participated in the decision" not to rehire three non-tenured American Thought and Language instructors. He challenged the council to prove its charge or retract it publicly.

Calling the statement "the most irresponsible it has been my poor fortune to read," Carlin said the council has "managed to deal a body blow to orderly procedures in the department, to cast suspicion on the integrity of its advisory committee and to clothe itself with superior judgment in an area where it is patently incompetent."

The council's statement, he said, was "done in the name of academic freedom" but "flies in the face of the true purpose of academic freedom, namely to enable a member of the academic community to render an opinion or a judgment in the area of his competence without fear of reprisals."

Carlin said the AAUP action "unfortunately has far wider implications than the specific ATL situation."

"What advisory committee in ATL or any other department... is likely to function fearlessly and freely in the knowledge that their deliberations, their opinions, and their judgments may be the reasons for charges of bad faith or lack of integrity?"

"What happens to the quality of the faculty in a university where the democratically elected advisory committee is harassed when it makes a professional judgment about the competence of a non-tenured colleague?"

Clinton Snyder, one of the four members of the AAUP committee which initially investigated the ATL situation, charged Tuesday that the council "ignored due process" in deciding to comment now.

"I don't think it has in any way been given full consideration," he said. "Unless the council had access to information which we on the committee didn't have," said the associate professor of social science, "there has been a serious lack of due process."

He said that once the matter was referred to the AAUP committee on academic freedom, the council should have waited for their report before acting.

Erhard agrees to let party choose possible successor

BONN, Germany (AP) - Chancellor Ludwig Erhard agreed Tuesday night after a sharp parliamentary setback to let his Christian Democratic party choose a possible successor and said he would support any one of four men for his job.

The full membership of the party will meet Wednesday to select the candidate whom President Heinrich Lübke will nominate to Parliament to try to end the crisis precipitated by the breakdown of Erhard's ruling coalition last month.

Erhard, 69 and head of the West German government for the past three years, agreed to support any one of these four men as his successor:

- Rainer Barzel, 42, Christian Democratic leader in the Bundestag.

- Eugene Gerstenmaier, 60, president of the Bundestag.

- Kurt-Georg Kiesinger, 62, prime minister of the State of Baden-Wuerttemberg.

- Gerhard Schroeder, 56, West German foreign minister.

Schroeder is regarded as Erhard's personal choice as successor.

Erhard also agreed to head a three-member commission to negotiate with the other two major parties in the Bundestag to try to form a majority government.

Narcotics user has court date

An examination date for a student charged Monday with sale and possession of marijuana has been tentatively set for November 21.

Jan E. Deen, 20, Livonia Junior, demanded an examination when he was arraigned in East Lansing Municipal Court late Monday evening, the court clerk said.

Deen was arrested at 6 p.m. Monday after being identified by two MSU coeds. Michigan State University and East Lansing police departments worked cooperatively on the case.

Deen has not yet been able to meet the $5,000 bond and remains in the city jail.

Percy wins Illinois seat; Rockefeller re-elected

It was a GOP Christmas Tuesday as polls throughout the nation reported the voters gave the Republican Party important presents.

Charles H. Percy, the GOP senatorial candidate in Illinois rolled up an impressive lead over incumbent democratic senator Paul H. Douglas and appeared a certain winner in that race.

Percy, a progressive Republican, led Douglas in heavily Democratic Cook County.

In California, actor Ronald Reagan was likely to upset incumbent Democratic Governor Edmund "Pat" Brown for the governorship. Reagan was leading in early returns and the electronic vote analysis projected his winning margin at 54 per cent.

In Massachusetts GOP senatorial candidate Edmund W. Brooke was the apparent victor over former Democratic Governor Endicott Peabody. Brooke will be the first Negro in the U.S. senate since reconstruction days.

Two Rockefeller brothers, Nelson and Winthrop, won in New York and Arkansas respectively by narrow margins. Nelson won his third term over Democrat Frank D. O'Connor.

In Oregon Governor Mark O. Hatfield defeated his democratic opponent, Congressman Robert Duncan, in a close senate race. Hatfield was declared the winner by voter profile analysis with 53 per cent of the vote.

The medical view of the body politic

Elections seem to be a political aspirin and indications seem to be that the public should take them more often.

We don't know how we got along before the election was invented.

A month ago, the nation was suffering from a bad case of inflation and an Asian war epidemic seemed little affected by increased applications of fighting men. A prolonged exposure to a draft complicated the condition of the body politic.

Then the doctor ordered us to take one election and get out of military-economic sick bay.

Powerful medicine

An election is such powerful medicine that even before it was taken yesterday, unhealthy symptoms began to clear up.

Saturday, Defense Secretary McNamara announced that we would be able to cut the draft in half in 1967.

The very next day, President Johnson told the patient public that inflation was easing and said "there has been a very healthy movement back toward price stability."

An election is certainly an excellent tonic when it has such a beneficial effect on the two most serious ailments afflicting the nation today: inflation and the war.

We hope that after taking an election, the nation continues to enjoy such good health, and has not been merely a victim of political quackery.

Wilson's winning way is well worthwhile

Several years ago, a young man returned from a months-long trip around the world and made headlines all over the country because of it. He made the trip on several charge plans and said he would probably be paying for it for the rest of his life.

The new charge plan being tried at Wilson Hall's grill will probably not result in any such sensational doings, but it is making newspapers all over the MSU campus.

The plan, being watched by all dorms on campus, is presently a one-year experiment at the Wilson Hall grill.

Most attractive

Under the plan, students can put a certain amount of money in their own personal account and draw upon it throughout the term, getting back whatever they haven't used up.

About 120 students have "charge accounts" now, according to Wilson's manager, Dave Regan.

According to Regan, there is much competition among dorm managers as to who can make his dorm the most attractive to students and draw the most applications for residence in his hall.

With that end in view, we think that the Wilson Hall experiment shows initiative and imagination; it shows enterprise in trying to serve students -- the job of the residence hall.

Whether the new charge plan is financially successful and popular with students remains to be seen. Students may well show no interest in it or it may turn out to be unprofitable.

We assume that one of the hoped for by-products of the program will be increased revenue.

The encouraging thing though, is that in the so-called "bureaucracy," where increased paperwork often vetoes unborn innovations, such enterprise in attempting to serve students is given a chance.

Assembly is for communication

It could have been a rather impressive evening. The general assembly (GA) could have been a rather impressive body. But it wasn't.

It wasn't so much what the GA representatives did -- it was just that they didn't know what it was all about.

The general assembly is basically a very simple thing. The student forums required by the ASMSU bylaws were failures. The GA was established with appointed membership rather than on a "come-if-you-like" basis. And its purpose is purely, simply, communications.

The GA can endorse resolutions which can serve as recommendations to the ASMSU student board. This is no great legislative force; any residence hall council can do the same thing. The GA is unique, however, simply because the recommendations may be discussed by persons gathered from every phase of campus life. Period.

To reapportion the GA's membership on a population basis is a noble idea. It might be nice to have one truly representative governing body on this campus. But the GA is not a governing body.

In Spartan Stadium

To increase the representation of residence halls or of off campus student would require the use of Spartan Stadium for meetings. To decrease the representation of smaller living units would detract from the uniqueness of the GA. You would merely have another student board on a slightly larger scale.

The argument heard most often in favor of reapportionment is that against the Greek representation, Greek GA representatives of 40 to 50 persons have a voice equal to residence halls representatives of 200 to 600 students and of off-campus representatives of over 10,000 students. Some GA representatives seem to fear that the Greeks may rise to thwart any residence hall or off campus drive.

The whole thing is ridiculous. In the first place, there are 110 voting members in the GA. Fifty-five of these are Greeks, 50 non-Greeks. Clearly, there is no overwhelming majority.

Secondly, the topics discussed at the first session of the GA were general in substance: Olin Health Center, the dismissal of the three ATL professors, the 18-year-old vote campaign. All are topics of an all-University nature; nothing that the Greeks would try to undermine.

Milestone

"The general assembly could be a milestone," one representative said. "Whenever this many people can meet together to discuss issues that involve them, we have something that can be of great benefit."

"This organization can be the main way in which the Student Board can inform the student body and give the student body a chance to express its opinion," he said. "Only with the help of all phases of student life will this be an effective step towards better representation."

The GA representatives owe it to their constituents to respect the position of their fellow representatives, as they owe it to them to be informed on student government and the issues on this campus. It was clear at the first session that many were not.

This is the purpose of the general assembly. It is not designed to become the House of Representatives in a bicameral ASMSU. It is valuable for what is said there, not for its legislative power.

The State News welcomes all letters. Letters should be no longer than 300 words and typed triple spaced. Correspondents should include name, address and University standing, if applicable. No unsigned letters will be printed.

THE READERS' MINDS

Prof questions Berkeley myths

To the Editor:

I know it's hard to erase a clear picture from the mind's eye, but we must all be wary of the process by which history is turned into legend. Berkeley may well have dwindled away to nothing by now as a result of Mario Savio's FSM activities (I picture a blasted heath where the only teachers left have questionable and temporary credentials), but I was at Berkeley at the time of which Seth Warner McEvoy writes and I don't recall the overturned police car, the concession that Clark Kerr would resign, the agreement that faculty and students would determine curricula, or even that it had been the actual policy of the University to ban political activity on the campus.

One of the more certain results of the complex "trouble" at Berkeley was that the Board of Regents made its own official investigation and then split over whether the report should be released to the public. The younger regents -- not trusting anyone over 55 -- published the whole report without the permission of the others, and the document furnishes much corrective and useful information.

Lawless wet behind ears?

To the Editor:

This Ken Lawless sure tries to live up to his name. It seems to me that he is his own worst enemy. I think that he should be held accountable for his actions the same as I am held accountable for mine. He acts like a little kid who throws a tantrum and when he gets spanked says his parents aren't fair. I think he has an inflated opinion of his own worth, however, if he is as good as he seems to think he is he won't have a bit of trouble getting a job at an institution where he will be appreciated. In the meantime I think that he should grow up and wake up to the realities of life. Perhaps if he had to make his own way out in the outside world away from his Ivory Tower it might help to blot the dampness from the back of his ears.

What's a Graham?

To the Editor:

Having been a student at MSU for the past year, and now embarking upon the last three-fourths of my stay here, I find myself confronted with an all encompassing problem. I have read much recently in your newspaper about an omniscient force called Graham. Previously, I had thought of a Graham as a cracker, but I find my initial thoughts are false. For Graham is not a cracker, or even a grayish piece of pork, but in actuality, the great white father of ASMSU VWXYZ.

I have no major arguments against ASM etc., for I was told as a first term freshman that the students of Mich State had decided that this was what I wanted. Even when the government got its overwhelming support of a small percent for the campus radio, I did not mind (too much); for I knew my interest (and money) were being decided by people who knew what was best for me.

However, now I would like to comment on one of J.C. Graham's ideas, as evidenced by one of his statements: that he will spend $1000 for the 18-year-old vote whether the students favor it or not. I raise no voice pro or con about the 18-year-old vote, for that is not the purpose of my letter. I would just like to give congratulations to Graham for his superior intelligence and tremendous insight into the 38,000 minds at this center of learning; without even so much as a vote.

Thank God for Graham, who shows leadership in his ideas and statements. Men of such caliber make America great.

Incidentally Jim, who will win the first race at Hialeah tomorrow?

Election-day edit challenged

To the Editor:

Two major hand-slappings are in order regarding your editorial in Tuesday's paper.

First, most of those who voted against Tuesday's referendum did so not because they felt that their peers were self-centered children who should stay divorced from the realities of the outside world. In this referendum students confronted reality -- one thousand dollars worth of reality. Their actions did not exhibit child-ism, but rather a political maturity. They demonstrated that if they are to enter outside issues, it must be through the mandate of the governed, rather than by the mandate of a governing oligarchy.

My second complaint should be of far greater moment to the editors of the State News, for it involves journalistic responsibility. A newspaper abdicates its responsibility if it does not take a stand on issues vital to its subscribers. However, it abdicates its duty of impartiality and its conscience if it does not give contrary views a fair hearing. If the State News is to take a stand on an issue, it should take that stand far enough in advance of an election so that the opposition may air its views. Emotional election-day appeals to discredit a strong opponent have long been a tactic of shady politicians, but show gross bias and immaturity for a collegiate newspaper.

Gemini 12 launching put off until Thursday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) -- Launching of the Gemini 12 astronauts, scheduled for Wednesday, has been delayed 24 hours because of a problem in the autopilot system of the Titan 2 booster rocket.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) rescheduled the double launching for Thursday. The Atlas-Agena target vehicle is to lift off at 2:16 p.m. EST, with the astronauts to head skyward at 3:55 p.m.

The problem cropped up during a so-called midcount check of the Titan 2.

The Titan 2 is to boost Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. on the final flight in the Gemini series.

A NASA statement said: "Details of the problem and what they are doing to resolve it will be available as we find them out."

Later the space agency said there was a slim possibility it might have to reverse itself and keep the flight on its original schedule Wednesday.

A spokesman said a series of tests was under way on the launch pad to see if this could be done.

Carbine hits faculty report

Five student-government officials are reviewing sections of the faculty committee on student affairs' academic freedom report.

"We find the section on academic freedom unacceptable," Jim Carbine, vice chairman of the ASMSU Student Board, said.

The committee has met and will continue to meet every afternoon this week for three hours to discuss the report and decide upon recommendations to be made.

A report will be made at a special session of the Student Board Sunday.

Collegians in France receive more respect

College students in France and America are "out of a fait" (completely) different, according to Laurence (Laura) Louppe, a petite mademoiselle from Paris and a French instructor here this year.

French students are vibrant and child-like, but receive respect from the outside world; and American students, who she finds "so serious," are regarded as children, she added.

One thing which shocked her most at Michigan State was the fraternity-sorority system which has no parallel in France. She thinks MSU students have "a fine human quality" and don't need the "unjust type of segregation" the Greek system imposes.

NO TERROR Soviets' opinions affect Red policy

Public opinion plays a significant role in Soviet policy making, said Robert S. Sharlet, of the University of Missouri.

Sharlet was speaking at a political science seminar Monday on "Analyzing the Soviet Union as a Developing Country."

He mentioned a process of public discussion, in the Soviet Union, through the news media, in which the public is invited to comment on current policies. Some of the public's ideas are adopted.

Sharlet pointed out that there is no way to discuss the entire spectrum of Soviet history. As a result, Americans tend to think of the Stalinistic era of terror when they discuss the Soviet.

It is naive, said Sharlet, to say that terrorism is the main regulatory agent in the Soviet. Actually, terrorism is negligible in reinforcing political policy.

These are tendencies, he added, of the democratic bias involved in American thinking on this subject. Because Americans judge the Soviets according to their own standards, they see it as a place wherein freedom is completely stifled.

Americans' major problem, according to Sharlet, in the study of the Soviet is their lack of information. The Communist society is a closed one in which policy making is unobservable.

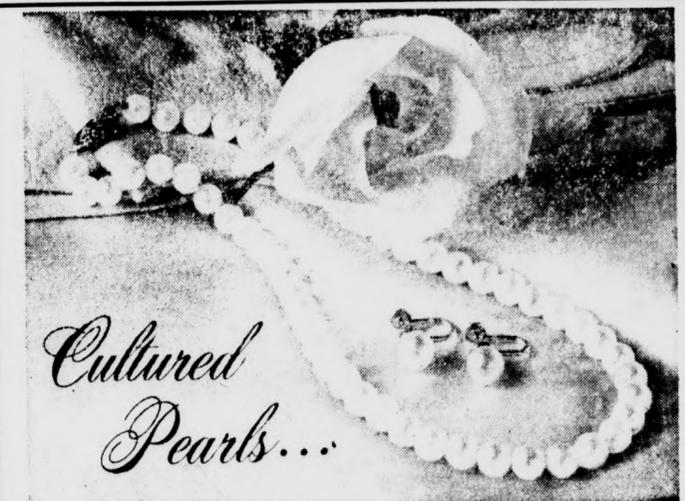

However, he said, more and more information is becoming available. Poland, for example, recently joined an international data organization.

Sharlet was optimistic about future research into the Soviet in light of this new data.

Monday was the 49th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Without a knowledge of current events she feels people lack a certain necessary balance. Many American students, she added, don't know what they want, but try for all purposes to appear as if they do.

Miss Louppe was amazed by the beauty of American universities. In France, she said, tuition is free, but the poor facilities, old buildings and lack of instructors make the schools "universities for beggars."

Negotiators meet this week on troop levels in Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The three negotiators named to determine the Western troop levels required in Europe to maintain an adequate deterrent, and who should pay for what forces, will meet here Wednesday and Thursday.

But final answers to the sensitive questions are not to be expected at this time, informants said Tuesday.

This will be the second meeting of the three: John J. McCloy of the United States; Britain's George Thomson, minister of European affairs; and West Germany's Karl Carstens, No. 2 man in the Bonn Foreign Ministry.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization will be represented by Arthur Hockaday, a special assistant to NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio.

The three allied negotiators were named by their governments last September when it became clear that West Germany would not cover the entire foreign exchange costs of keeping American and British forces in Germany.

McCloy, 71, veteran adviser to presidents, met with his two partners in Bonn on Oct. 20-21. They discussed questions of defense policy, the defense burden and the foreign exchange problems resulting from the stationing of troops in Germany, a communique said.

Three working groups were established. One was to study the Soviet military threat to Europe today; another the allied military and strategic position in NATO's "central front," meaning Germany; and the third, the financial aspect. The groups met in Bonn.

The meeting beginning Wednesday will review position papers from each group. The three men may give the groups some new instructions, likely narrowing down the problems.

An interim report was promised the British because Prime Minister Harold Wilson is committed to cut defense spending and is pressed to reach a decision before the end of this year.

The working groups are understood to have made good progress, and the U.S. position is reported to be approaching the stage of crystallization.

Some salient points can be reported already: 1. Despite the fact that the Soviets have been introducing new weapons and possess greater firepower aimed at the heart of Europe, there is nothing to indicate Soviet aggressive intentions.

2. Accordingly, a certain streamlining of Anglo-American forces in Europe, which hopefully would leave allied combat effectiveness intact, is a distinct possibility.

3. The view seems to be gaining ground that the question of Anglo-American force levels in Europe should not be decided by financial bookkeepers, but on the basis of how many troops are needed to defend Europe.

To the three points American specialists make the following observations: --Troop reductions: The British are reported to be thinking in terms of 10,000 to 18,000 men of the about 51,000 they now have in Germany. American withdrawals could be in the neighborhood of 40,000 men out of 220,000.

--The financing question boils down to German willingness, or ability, to offset the foreign currency cost of keeping British and American troops in Germany.

HUMAN RELATIONS Tung appointed by City Council

The East Lansing City Council named an MSU student to a three-year term filling a vacancy on the city's Human Relations Commission at the council's regular meeting Monday night.

Arthur Tung, Midland junior, and ASMSU junior member-at-large, was unanimously approved by the council to fill the student position on the Human Relations Commission, because he has held previous experience on the University's Human Relations Committee.

Tung replaces William Evans, an MSU June graduate, who resigned his position last spring. The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom was granted permission to conduct a silent vigil on Veteran's Day, Nov. 11, to make public their sympathy with soldiers and the people of Viet Nam, and their desire that bombings stop.

The vigil will be conducted in front of the Jacobson's store, between 11 a.m. and 12 noon. The council was notified the city has been awarded a $254,000 federal grant to pay approximately half of the costs of East Lansing's current water project.

"We have already constructed a million-gallon storage tank for the city," explained City Manager John Patriarche. "But we held off on the rest of the project--

In 1916 The Boeing Company's career was launched on the wings of a small seaplane. Its top speed was 75 mph.

Now, half a century later, we can help you launch your career in the dynamic environment of jet airplanes, spacecraft, missiles, rockets, helicopters, or even spacecraft.

Pick your spot in applied research, design, test, manufacturing, service or facilities engineering, or computer technology. You can become part of a Boeing program-in-being, at the leading edge of aerospace technology. Or you might want to get in on the ground floor of a pioneering new project.

You'll work in small groups where initiative and ability get maximum exposure. And if you desire an advanced degree and qualify, Boeing will help you financially with its Graduate Study Program at leading universities and colleges near company facilities.

Often it will be sheer hard work. But we think you'll want it that way when you're helping to create something unique -- while building a solid career. Visit your college placement office and schedule an interview with our representative. Boeing is an equal opportunity employer.

Clint Jones selected for UPI grid honors

Clinton Jones was a mighty unimpressive freshman candidate for the Michigan State football team when he arrived in the fall of 1963.

He didn't have as much as a solitary all-state or even an all-city certificate to hang in his dormitory room. All he had was a lot of talent and a hatred for sitting on benches.

Last Saturday the senior All-America halfback added a Big Ten rushing record and three touchdowns to his growing list of accomplishments in the Spartan uniform. His record-breaking performance also earned him the United Press International Midwest back of the week honors.

Jones, a swift, elusive 210-pounder, gained 268 yards as the Spartans clinched at least a tie for their second straight Big Ten title with a 56-7 win over Iowa. He wiped out (by 29 yards) the rushing mark set only last fall by Illinois' great fullback Jim Grabowski.

His first touchdown was on a nifty 79-yard run on a draw play. His second wasn't quite as impressive—a pitchout for 70 yards and a touchdown. For his third touchdown, he carried the ball eight times, including runs of 12, 22, and 18 yards, moving the ball to the two-yard line and then crashing over for the score.

And that was the same Clinton Jones who couldn't understand why the college coaches were trying to recruit him.

In high school he scored only five touchdowns. He started only one game as a junior at Cleveland's Cathedral High School and in his senior year a sprained ankle and a broken hand kept him riding the bench.

"I wasn't all-state and wasn't even all-city," Jones said. "I always asked the college coaches why they wanted me to come to their school. They said it was 'potential'."

"The other kids had all the honors. I didn't have any," he recalled.

He didn't even plan on attending Michigan State, but on a visit to a friend, noticed that most of the Spartan backs were seniors. He liked the school and it was close to his home in Ohio so he gave it a try, hoping to land in the MSU backfield.

Jones played in every Spartan game during his sophomore year.

Last year as a junior he led the team in rushing with 787 yards and topped the Big Ten in scoring (68 points) and touchdowns (11).

FRANK FIRST

Robinson boys top MVP vote

NEW YORK (UPI) - Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, who switched his party affiliation from the old line National League to the American League this season, Tuesday became the third player in junior circuit history to be elected most valuable player by unanimous vote.

The award, announced by Baseball Writers Association of America (BBWA) president Bob Addie, also stamped Robinson as the first man in baseball history to be chosen most valuable player in both leagues. Robinson was so honored by the N.L. in 1961 while he was playing with the Cincinnati Reds.

The 31-year-old Robinson, who won the American League's triple crown for batting average, home runs and runs batted in, was the first unanimous winner since 1956 when Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees was similarly honored, also after capturing the triple crown. Al Rosen of the 1953 Cleveland Indians was the only other unanimous winner since the award was established in 1931.

In scoring a landslide victory, Robby led a sweep of the first three places by the Orioles, who also swept the Los Angeles Dodgers in four games to win the World Series. Brooks Robinson, the 1964 winner, was second and first baseman Boog Powell was third in the balloting conducted among 20 members of the BBWA, two from each league city.

FRANK ROBINSON

F. Robinson received a maximum of 280 points while B. Robinson drew 153 points, including nine second-place votes, and Powell 122 points with four votes from second. Under the voting system in effect, 14 points were awarded for first with a 9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 breakdown for votes from second through 10th.

Robby called the award a "great honor" when told of his selection at his home in Los Angeles.

"The first one (MVP) is always a big thrill," he told an assembled group of writers at the Hotel New Yorker by telephone. "But this is even bigger than the first one because I'm the first player to do it in two leagues. It's something that's never been done before."

Robinson, who sparked the Orioles to their first A.L. Pennant and world championship with his lusty hitting, often spectacular fielding and an uncommon amount of desire, said, however, that he will probably have to undergo an operation on his right knee in the near future.

"The doctor told me to take six weeks to see if it would heal with rest," Robby noted. "Then he said I would have to make a decision. It's been almost six weeks since the series and it still bothers me some when I put pressure on it such as walking up stairs. The way I feel now I'll probably have the operation but I'm still a little skeptical."

READY FOR INDIANA?

Green over White, 28-8

By NORM SAARI
State News Sports Writer

"We hit against each other, now we have to do it as a unit."

This is how the freshman football team felt yesterday after their annual Green-White intrasquad scrimmage. The "unit" fits in this Saturday, as MSU plays the Indiana frosh before the varsity game at Bloomington.

The White team, led by halfback Don Highsmith and tackle Tody Smith, rolled over the Greens, 28-8.

Highsmith, a 190-pound halfback from East Orange, N.J., scored twice in the third quarter, once on a 17-yard run and later on a 13-yard pass from quarterback Jack Pitts.

Smith was as much a part of the Whites' backfield as their alternating halfbacks, leading his team in tackles. Smith set up Highsmith's final touchdown by tackling quarterback Steve Garvey who was attempting to pass, and recovering his fumble on the Greens' 13 yard line.

The Whites scored first, dropping a Green back in the endzone for a safety in the opening quarter. After that, neither team moved the ball offensively within the opponent's 20 until Highsmith's touchdown.

The Whites recovered a fumble on the Greens' 21 and after Kermit Smith gained four yards to the 17, Highsmith rounded end for his first touchdown.

He scored his next five minutes later after Tody Smith's fumble recovery.

Pitts kept the White offense moving in the fourth quarter, as he hit end Frank Foreman with a 40-yard touchdown pass.

The Greens finally managed an offensive attack as quarterback Garvey moved the team downfield on a series of pass plays to end Gordon Bowdell, along with the running of Mike Dodd and Lamar Thomas. Cliff Hardy scored the TD on a 27-yard run around end.

The Whites scored again, however, this time on a 28-yard blast by fullback Frank LaBruta.

"There was a lot of hitting and the tackling was good," said Freshman Coach Ed Rutherford. "The boys made some mistakes, but that was to be expected."

"We are going to have to work on the offensive blocking, along with both the pass offense and defense."

Injuries also hit the Green team, as starting guard Dave Schweinfurth severely sprained his right ankle in the second series of plays. He will be out of action for the remainder of the season.

Schweinfurth joins two other frosh players out for the season, Ken Little with a knee injury and Sam Sethman after an appendicitis attack.

Little is an end while Sethman was counted on this year at tackle.

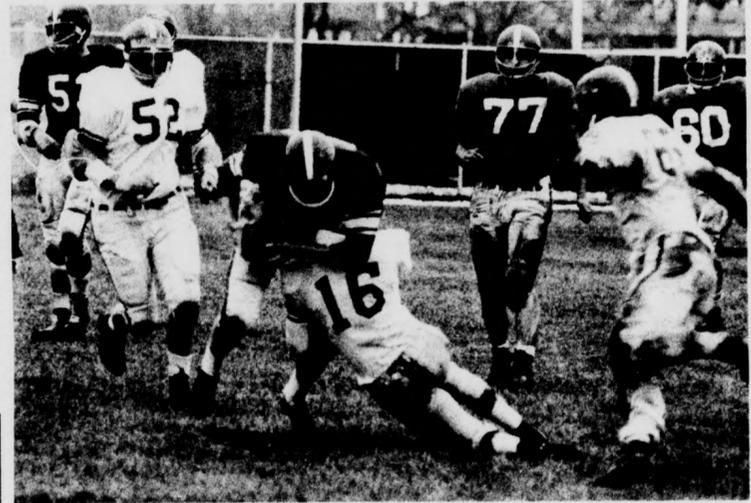

Another frosh, Bob Miltenberger, is recovering from a knee injury and may be ready for the Notre Dame game. MSU plays the Irish frosh Friday, November 18 here.

Normally, the Green-White contest is the big event of the year for the freshman, but because Big Ten policies allow each school to play two games this year, the Green-White game was changed to a scrimmage.

This year, the coaching staff was able to use all four quarterbacks, Pitts, Garvey, John Lindquest and Jon Makanani, along with other players fighting for positions, before the Indiana game.

Rutherford emphasized he had no starting line-up picked, because the purpose of freshman football is to let all players have equal chance to show their ability.

Go Big Green!

Gordon Bowdell, an end for the Green team struggles for extra yardage against the Whites in Monday's Green and White freshman scrimmage. Bowdell fought for a losing cause, however, and the Whites scored a 28-8 victory.

DETROIT (UPI) - The knee injury epidemic struck the Detroit Lions for the eighth time this season Tuesday when Rookie running back Bruce McLenna was ruled out for the remainder of the season.
McLenna, 23, from Hillsdale College, injured his right knee when he was tackled after gaining 10 yards during the third quarter in Sunday's game with the Chicago Bears. He gained 42 yards in 10 carries before leaving the game late in the fourth quarter.
The knee was placed in a cast Monday and the team doctors said they would decide sometime this week if surgery was necessary.
McLenna's knee injury was the eighth suffered this year by Lions' players. Two weeks ago, end Jim Gibbons was sidelined after the San Francisco game with a similar injury.
Also injured this season were quarterback Milt Plum, Tommy Watkins, Ralph Dunlap, Jim Edgerly, Jack O'Blivitch and Bill Cody, all with knee injuries.

Spartans Lead, Then Tie St. Louis

The Spartan soccer team's 1-1 tie with St. Louis last Saturday produced some dramatic moments. In the picture at left, Guy Busch, in white, scores the Spartans lone goal in the third period. He headed the ball past goalie Don Brennan. At right, the Billikens

Kenney may drop St. Louis

By DENNIS CHASE
Associate Sports Editor

The Michigan State soccer team will not play St. Louis next year unless the field conditions are improved and the referees are from out of state, Soccer Coach Gene Kenney said Tuesday.

Kenney, who has been fuming about the poor treatment he has received ever since the series started, said Athletic Director Biggie Munn will be in touch with Bob Guelker, St. Louis coach.

"When they come up here we play with any referee they want," Kenney said. "None of our refs have any connection with me or the University."

"But I'm not going down there and play on any field they want to put us on. And as for the referees, it's the principle of the thing."

Guelker said field conditions would be improved, but he could not promise anything on the question of referees from out of state.

"The men are doing a good job," he said. "We have to think about the cost involved of going to Chicago for officials. Last Saturday's game was our first big game."

"He (Kenney) can bring in officials that are not personally connected with Michigan State because he doesn't have to go as far to get them."

"It has been a practice for as long as I remember that referees from the closest association are used."

"These officials are men of integrity. All this talk is news to me."

Kenney said "it is the principle."

"Every year I go down there I get the same treatment."

Kenney also said he has sent letters to numerous schools inviting them to play Michigan State.

He has already signed Air Force Academy for a game here Oct. 7, 1967, and is talking to Maryland and Army about possible games in 1968.

St. Louis signs booter

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - The newly-organized St. Louis professional soccer team announced Tuesday signing of Pat McBride, former St. Louis University soccer team player and member of the 1964 Olympic soccer team.

McBride became the first player member of the National Professional Soccer League Club. Charles G. Houghton, Jr., vice president of the St. Louis entry, said he considered McBride one of the leading soccer players in the Midwest.

McBride is currently working on a Bachelor of Arts degree in history at St. Louis University. The 22-year-old McBride played varsity soccer for three years for St. Louis University when the team won the NCAA championship in 1963 and 1965.

Biggest weekend faces 'S' harriers

The biggest weekend of the year is in store for the MSU cross country team this weekend as it competes in the Big Ten championships Saturday at Madison, Wis., and the IC4A meet Monday in New York City.

The Spartans, who had their final dual meet of the season with Iowa canceled due to bad weather, thus finished the season with a 4-1 dual meet record.

MSU's only dual meet loss came at the hands of Minnesota, the team to beat in the Big Ten.

Despite the cancellation of the Iowa meet, Spartan Coach Fran Dittrich is not worried that it will have any effect on his team's showing.

"We were able to practice on Old College Field all the time, and so we didn't really lose anything by canceling the meet," Dittrich said.

The Spartan mentor also said that he thought his team was showing improvement in the area of depth, which will be the deciding factor in the Big Ten meet.

Dick Sharkey, his draft induction postponement until the end of the school year in hand, is undoubtedly the top prospect for individual honors at the meet.

The senior captain is able to get his stiffest competition from Minnesota's Tom Heinonen and Steve Hoag and Iowa's Larry Wiczorek.

Minnesota, who went through the dual meet season undefeated, is the favored team in the Big Ten, with MSU a close second.

Dittrich gave both Iowa and Wisconsin outside chances at the title "if they run their best."

MSU was second in the Big Ten last season and sixth in the IC4A. Spartan teams have captured the Big Ten title 11 times in the last 16 years and have finished second on the other five occasions.

Spartan teams have won the IC4A championship 12 times, with the most recent victory in 1961.

Designer appeals aid to Florence

FLORENCE, Italy — Emilio Pucci, internationally known designer and leader of the Florence fashion industry, appealed to the world today to help this flood-stricken city.

He said that unless massive financial aid comes, the city of arts, antiquities, leather work and high fashion might never recover. He expressed hope for long-term credits.

"We need everything," he said in an interview. "And we need people — technicians to repair equipment."

Pucci spoke as a fashion arbiter and member of Parliament. He is a Liberal party deputy. Standing near his wrecked workshop, he pointed to ruined heaps of garments and clothes being shoveled into trucks for disposal.

"My entire life's work is gone," he said. "Yet I know that I personally shall begin again. I'm sure of it. But what happens to the smaller artisans of Florence? More than 6,000 of the shops here have been destroyed."

"Unless we do something for them, they could be forced to abandon the city, perhaps forever."

Pucci's sewing rooms, boutique and stores, all located in the Pucci family Renaissance palace, were completely inundated. The water rose more than six feet.

He said Florence could never manage to raise the money needed to salvage its ruined economy "and I'm afraid the state's finances are too limited to help us substantially."

Pucci saw the coming winter as the critical period. He expressed belief the city would be unable to produce anything of its own at least until spring.

NEEDS RE-EVALUATION

New president wants 'action body' for MHA

Roger Williams, East Lansing sophomore and newly-elected president of Michigan's Hall Assn., has come quite a way for someone who initially wasn't sure he wanted to participate in student government.

"I certainly didn't intend to come this far when I started out," said Williams, successor to John Mongeon who resigned. "I still am awed by the confidence that MHA has invested in me, and I'm also awed by the shoes that I have to fill."

"I think that MHA needs to re-evaluate its position on campus. If we're an action body then we ought to get things done," he added.

Williams feels that MHA has a powerful role in the all-University student government, and he intends to represent it as such by taking an active part in the ASMSU General Assembly and on the Student Board.

Though he feels that taking over MHA in the middle of the term will hinder him initially in establishing himself and the body's existing policies, he has no qualms about the job.

"I think one of the first things that MHA has to do as a body is to clarify what MHA really is—what it really stands for. This has perhaps been a weakness in the past."

Williams does not foresee any difficulty in dealing with the office of residence hall programs. "We should not be antagonists but, rather, we should work closely together. This is essential. We also must have faith in each other. They must realize that we are competent students working for the betterment of the residence hall program. And we must have faith that they are not trying to manipulate us to their own advantage."

Williams finds it difficult to explain his involvement in student government, but suggests it is because he enjoys its self-benefit and self-learning and the opportunity to help people.

Although only a sophomore, Williams is active in many extracurricular activities. He is presently vice president of Enzian Honorary and is president of the Trinity Collegiate Fellowship. Before becoming president of MHA, Williams was president of McDonell Hall.

Despite all these activities, Williams maintains a 3.8 grade point average in the MSU Honors College, majoring in speech with a pre-law emphasis.

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Police filed espionage charges today against a Hungarian commercial attache and an Italian who allegedly exchanged information about military bases in Italy.

Police said they were caught "exchanging military information concerning Italy's north-eastern area."

Authorities did not say what information was involved. The Northeastern area includes an American base of the North Atlantic alliance in Verona.

POLICE AT RIOTS

Quick control vital

By DOROTHY LASKEY
State News Staff Writer

A 12-year veteran with the Hong Kong police department challenged today's police forces to break-up riots before they become dangerous.

Henry C. Wells, speaking to Alpha Phi Sigma national police honorary, said that immediate control, adequate manpower and effective equipment are vital in mob dispersal.

"If you can beat the press photographer to the scene, you've got it made," he said. Speed is the essence of control here, he explained. He said that a police force with a unit trained for quick mobilization, plus sufficient manpower to maintain the daily routine of the precinct seems like a dream in this day of recruit shortages.

He also said that a riot control unit must be trained to use batons, tear gas, and tear gas shotguns effectively without being brutal.

He said that psychologically the police force must present a solid front to the rioters, but cautioned that "force" may build hatred in the crowd and actually incite them further.

Commenting on personal experiences with mobs in China and India, Wells said that every mob must be handled differently because of the climate, local temperament, and situation. However he said that no matter what the cause of the riot the police are obligated to quell the disturbance.

He said that calling in the National Guard, like the U.S., has been doing during race riots, presents a basic problem. He pointed out that a police force is trained in non-lethal combat, while the military are trained in lethal combat.

While describing different riot locations Wells said that the "usual" riot occurring in a densely populated area has streets that can be blocked off. But, using the MSU campus as an example, he said that the open area presents a tremendous challenge to a mobilized unit.

"The unit would have a devil of a problem with a mob here," he said. He speculated that special tactics using small, mobile units that would sweep the diverging masses together, would be used.

However Wells differentiated between the "demonstration," the "unlawful assembly," and the riot. He used the term riot defined as a group of two or more people using force and terrorizing people.

Wells said that another problem associated with riot control is separating the "rioter" from the on-looker. He said that it is virtually impossible to do so because by the nature of the animal the on-looker can turn into a rioter instantaneously.

To insure against mob damages Wells said that every precinct, no matter how large or how small, should have a riot control unit. He said you never can tell where, when, or why a mob may gather. But, the problem here, he said, is that the necessary manpower and training would take much time and money.

He said that a riot can be as dangerous and devastating as a fire, and should be treated as such.

Wells served as superintendent of the Hong Kong police for four years. He is currently associated with a manufacturer of tear gas and tear gas grenades.

Ford grant enables soc course revision

BY TRINKA CLINE
State News Staff Writer

The University College's Social Science course underwent a major revision four years ago to incorporate readings of an international scope. Beginning spring term a second revision will be initiated by the social science department.

Two years ago, the social science department received a direct $150,000 grant from the Ford Foundation for continuing its curriculum development in the international field.

Spring term students in Social Science 231 will be the first to use the department's most current revision. Rather than the inclusion of statistics within the text, a data source book will accompany the series. This way, according to Douglas Dunham, chairman of the University College Social Science Dept., annual updating of facts, both local and international, will be possible.

Receipt of the Ford grant has permitted trips abroad by faculty members for statistical research. Dunham said researchers have been sent to Latin America, Europe, Japan, Southeast Asia and India to aid in the recent revision.

Committees formed in 1958-59 for developing MSU's international philosophy foresaw a need for international content in heavy traffic courses.

Prior to the four-year-old revision of the social science course, MSU offered numerous courses in comparative economic systems, comparative government, international law, international trade, area studies. But, as electives, they were not taken by a majority of students.

A portion of a Ford Foundation grant to MSU's International Programs was then directed to the Social Science Dept., resulting in the 11-volume series being used.

The present social science texts introduce students to the problems and machinery of economic, political and social evolution. Though international facts are included throughout the series, stress is placed on international dimensions during the third term. Third term topics include the Soviet system and problems of underdeveloped nations.

MSU's integrated social science course has been cited as a model to other universities for including appropriate international material in heavy traffic courses by Education and World Affairs, a non-profit education organization, in its book "The University Looks Abroad."

Since 1944, when social science became one of the original required basics, the books have concentrated solely on the American aspect of social science. The step to spread MSU's international outlook to the classroom was made in consideration of the University's numerous overseas projects and its ever increasing foreign student population.

AT CHAPEL HILL

Student essays cost grad his job

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (CPS)-- If University of North Carolina graduate instructors have their way, English teacher Michael Paul, removed from teaching duties for lacking "effective communication" with his students, will be given back his class.

Paul was relieved of his freshman English class last week by University Chancellor Carlyle Sitterson after the graduate instructor's assignment of a theme on seduction embarrassed some students and drew unfavorable publicity over a local television station, WRAL-TV.

The assignment, given in conjunction with class reading of English poet Andrew Marvell's "To a Coy Mistress," was completely misinterpreted by students, according to Paul; and to prove the point, he read several student papers aloud in class.

Following Paul's removal, part-time English instructors threatened a boycott of their classes unless their colleague were immediately reinstated.

Their boycott did not materialize, however, because a five-man English Dept. committee was appointed to re-examine the case. The committee, with two instructors as members, was asked to give recommendations to the full faculty "as soon as possible."

The appointment of the committee was hailed by the graduate instructors as a "moral victory." The English Dept. has "made it clear that they would reinstate Paul if they could," one instructor said. Paul added that he has full confidence that "the English Dept. will arrive at a fair and honest decision."

But the committee's report must go to Chancellor Sitterson for final approval, even if the full faculty approves the reassignment of Paul to his class. While prospects look good for his return to class, one instructor complained that the Chancellor "had not made it clear to the department that it has full power in the case; otherwise the department would have reinstated Paul during the investigation."

Bureau offers N.Y. flight for Christmas

ASMSU's travel bureau is offering students the opportunity to fly to New York over Christmas vacation, announced Brad Miller of the bureau.

Seats have been secured for MSU students interested in leaving Detroit Dec. 17 from Metropolitan Airport, he said, at a round-trip fare of $51 per person plus $5.05 tax and administrative costs.

Twenty-five students must sign up to maintain the special rates, Miller said.

A $25 deposit will be required at the time of registration and students will be served on a first-come, first-serve basis, he noted.

The return flight will be Jan. 3.

Series copes with 'trouble'

Over half a million youngsters may better understand how to cope with emergencies by watching a series of TV shows produced by WMSB-TV.

Approximately 17,000 10- to 12-year-olds have enrolled in the "TV Action Club," an emergency preparedness education series in Michigan. More are expected to enroll as the series is shown in outstate areas, said Bill Tedrick, 4-H program specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service at MSU.

The series has been adopted by the Federal Extension Service for national distribution, Tedrick said. The "Action Club" was created by the Michigan Rural Defense Office and the 4-H Dept. of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The TV series of 10 programs has Dick Arnold, Lansing area TV personality, as moderator and club adviser.

Club members take field trips to learn survival under emergency conditions. Home viewers who join the club receive a pro-

WORKERS BLAMED

Agriculture slow in organizing

Migrant worker programs and labor laws of the 1930's are responsible for the delay in organization of agricultural workers said Jack Steiber, director of labor and industrial relations here.

Steiber told the ag-econ and horticulture clubs that organization in agriculture is very difficult. He added that organization of individual farmers will be the last step toward unionization.

Migrant workers often act as strikebreakers when workers try to obtain higher wages through strike or boycott, he said.

Starting Jan. 1, about 400,000 of the two million farm workers will be partially covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1946, he said.

Steiber said that under present laws, agricultural employees are not covered by Social Security or by workmen's compensation.

He cited the efforts of Caesar Chavez as instrumental in creating an effective unionizing force. Chavez and the agricultural workers borrowed the methods of civil rights groups and marched from Delano to Sacramento protesting unfair labor laws in California, he said.

Unionization will improve the agricultural workers' situation, he said, but will bring a reduction of overall employment.

Blood spots rehased in Sheppard trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) -- A police chemist testified at the Samuel H. Sheppard murder retrial Tuesday how he traced blood spots down the stairway from the bedroom where Sheppard's first wife, Marilyn, was bludgeoned to death 12 years ago.

Henry Dombrowski, a veteran of 20 years with the Cleveland Police Department's scientific investigation unit, said he found 26 blood spots on the stairs to the second floor of the Sheppards' lakefront home in Bay Village.

He said a check was made of the red leather chair in the downstairs den where Sheppard was seated when Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer Houk arrived at his home shortly before 6 a.m. on July 4, 1954. The Houks, Sheppard had said, were the first outsiders he telephoned for help after the killing.

"We noticed on the front edge of the cushion and the area below there was a dull area different from the rest of the chair," Dombrowski said. "We received a positive reaction."

Dombrowski followed brief testimony by Lt. Jerome Poelking, a veteran of 18 years with the Cleveland police scientific investigation unit.

Poelking said he found a print of Sheppard's left thumb on the headboard of the bed where the murder victim was found and other smudges which matched up with where the fingers would have been.

Orbiter loses sighting on star guide to Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) -- A planned midcourse maneuver for Lunar Orbiter 2, on its way to photograph the moon, was postponed early today when the craft lost its lock on the guiding star

Canopus, a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said. The spokesman said the windmill-shaped, 850-pound spacecraft lost contact with Canopus about 7:20 a.m. He said scientists were attempting to re-establish Lunar Orbiter's contact with Canopus but didn't know what caused the difficulty.

However, the midcourse maneuver can be made at any time during the craft's next 120,000 miles to an orbit around the moon, the spokesman said.

Lunar Orbiter 2, launched Sunday from Cape Kennedy, is speeding 2,200 miles an hour toward the moon to photograph 13 potential astronaut landing sites.

The craft was scheduled to coast until Thursday, when rockets will be fired to send it into orbit around the moon. Before the craft starts taking pictures on Nov. 18, the orbit will be tightened so Orbiter passes within 28 miles of the moon at one point.

BUILD SCHOOLS

Cities aid Africa

Fifty Michigan communities will be participating in an educational and cultural exchange with the African country, Tanzania, within the next few months in a Peace Corps program known as the School-Partnership Program.

At a recent workshop on campus, the Michigan Peace Corps Council (MPCC) met with returning Peace Corps volunteers to encourage them to support and campaign informally for the success of the new project.

The School-Partnership program, also known as the School-to-School Program, couples a school in the United States with a village school in a country where Peace Corps volunteers have served. The U.S. community raises about $1,000 for the construction of a school abroad. This one room "old fashioned" schoolhouse is built by local crews.

The MPCC, which conducted an informal workshop here with approximately 35 Michigan residents who had served with the Peace Corps, and two representatives from Washington, D.C., was established by the Governor's office.

Robert D. Benedict, workshop director, said that beside the 35 participating returnees, 20 other Peace Corps returnees will be working for the program. They will speak in their local schools or nearby areas about the project. Other volunteers have extended their service in a foreign country in order to see the program initiated effectively.

The participating schools are encouraged to raise funds through fiestas and fairs using an international theme; benefit dinners with an ex-Peace Corps volunteer as speaker.

The idea of the School-to-School program was born out of a Schenectady, N. Y., PTA meeting. Sargent Shriver announced the Peace Corps official affiliation with the project in April 1964. At that time he described it as a "self-help" project with potential great results in furthering the purposes for which the Peace Corps was created.

We set out to ruin some ball bearings and failed successfully

The Bell System has many small, automatic telephone offices around the country. The equipment in them could operate unattended for ten years or so, but for a problem.

out to ruin some ball bearings by smearing them with an icky gunk called molybdenum disulfide (MoS2).

Swack! This solid lubricant, used a certain way, actually increased the life expectancy of the ball bearings by a factor of ten! Now the motors can run for at least a decade without lubrication.

We've learned from our "failures." Our aim: investigate everything.

The only experiment that can really be said to "fail" is the one that is never tried.

Tend bar for tuition?

NEW YORK (AP) -- If the bartender at the next party you go to looks awfully young, it may be because he learned to make that martini at Columbia University.

He probably has been giving up two hours every Thursday night or Saturday morning to set in a lecture hall and absorb all the tricks of drink mixing -- not for his own consumption, but to help pay his tuition.

The course in tending bar has been taught for several years as part of the university's student employment program. It's so popular that this year, with an enrollment of 100, the university had to set up two weekly sessions.

The would-be bartenders spend two hours listening to Joseph Reilly, long-time bar manager at the Barclay Hotel -- and a teetotaler -- explain the fine points of turning vodka and white creme de menthe into a white spider.

When they've learned how to mix scores of drinks, and the right glasses to pour them into, the students may join a student bartending agency and go on to parties -- at $2.50 an hour.

Columbia student bartenders made the drinks for Jane Fonda's birthday party and the publishers' parties for authors Leo Rosten, Arnold Schulman and others.

Many United Nations officials draw on the student agency for bartenders for their more informal gatherings.

One of the most experienced of the young drink-mixers is Alnis Grant of Cleveland, Ohio, who took the course as a freshman and is now a junior.

Young Grant says that, besides the money, he likes the chance to become a real connoisseur. After tending bar at a party for a Yugoslavian artist, headed silyovitz -- colorless plum brandy -- to his own collection.

But Grant had soothing words for the parents of the young bartenders.

"The temptation to drink on the job is slight," he says. "You're too busy mixing 'em at the time, too tired after to care."

Car theft solved

An 18-year-old Lansing girl was arrested early Sunday morning when Ingham County Sheriff's deputies found her in a car which had been stolen from the campus earlier that night.

University police said the 1958 Chevrolet convertible was stolen from Parking Lot M near Morrill Hall between 8:30 and 11:30 p.m. Saturday. The car was owned by Thomas Fleming, 114 Henderson Hall, Ferris Institute.

At 1 a.m. deputies stopped the car on Lansing's west side with five occupants. Four of the group fled from the scene.

Students in recitals

Two student musicians will perform in public recitals this weekend at the Music Auditorium.

Marjorie Lowder, Allen, Kansas graduate student, will perform in a piano recital at 8:15 p.m. Friday.

Her performance will include selections from Scarlatti,

Beethoven and Schumann.

Ramon Ricker, Littleton, Colo. graduate student, will perform at 4 p.m. Sunday with the accompaniment of pianist Carolyn Lipp and drummer Merritt Lutz.

His performance will include selections from Mozart, Brahms and Nielson.

HONORS COLLEGE

Enrollment has tripled over initial expectations

MSU's Honors College has almost tripled the enrollment its innovators anticipated ten years ago.

Robert C. Andringa, assistant director of the Honors College, said that it is growing by approximately 200 students a year.

He noted that 90 per cent of all the students invited to enroll do so. Last summer 330 students were accepted as new members of the Honors College.

"We have the largest enrollment during the summer because of the many freshmen that become eligible," explained Andringa.

"Last fall term," he continued, "we had ten first term students who were eligible for Honors College membership. These students achieved eligibility through advanced placement courses and waiver examinations.

The Honors College four man staff advises approximately 1300 regular members, and 400 freshmen and major scholarship winners.

Andringa said that upon acceptance a new student is assigned an additional Honors College adviser in the department of his major to work with and shape a program. The student becomes part of a small group that meets with the staff for informal orientation sessions.

Andringa said that a student is invited to enroll on the basis of his grade point average and class standing.

Students with sophomore standing and a 3.5 grade point average are sent Honors College information and an application form. After these are returned the student completes another form on which he answers some "open end" questions, discusses the merits of three books he has recently read, and outlines individual study he would like to pursue. The student also tells why he feels membership in the Honors College would benefit him.

Besides working with MSU students Honors College is an official liaison between the University and the Rhodes, Fulbright, and Marshall scholarship foundations.
