50 Picket ASMSU To Protest Salaries

By LEO ZAINEA
State News Staff Writer

More than 50 placard-carrying students picketed in front of the Student Services Building Thursday afternoon, protesting against an alleged inept student government.

John Tomczyk, Livonia senior and one of the coordinators for the demonstration, said the action was prompted in part by ASMSU's vote Tuesday night to utilize general fund money for salaries for the Student Board members and the cabinet president.

The yearly cost for the salaries will be $2,310.

Related Story On Page 3.

"Our purpose in this demonstration is to draw attention to this problem of a student government acting without the students' knowledge," Tomczyk said.

The students began parading in circles in front of the building at 12:30. There were no incidents reported.

Daniel R. Hueni, Lansing senior who assisted Tomczyk in massing the students together for the demonstration, said he felt ASMSU's moves within the past two weeks were based on overall student apathy.

Hueni also decried ASMSU's recent agreement to pay part of the cost of a portrait of the late James Stefanoff. The money raised from ASMSU's pop entertainment show featuring Jay and the Americans and the Womankind allegedly was to create a scholarship fund in Stefanoff's name.

Another demonstrator, Gary C. Salk, Rochester senior, said although it is not unusual for student governments to have salaries, it is unique that ASMSU board members voted one for themselves. Normally there are safeguards against actions such as these, he added.

Tomczyk, a former precinct president at West Shaw, assailed the student government action, saying:

"The members of ASMSU have deluded themselves into thinking they are a government which governs and enforces, whereas that power belongs to the administration."

"The value of student government should not rely on financial remuneration."

VOTE NOT BINDING

Holmes Wants Out Of MHA

Residents of East Holmes Hall Thursday voted in favor of withdrawal from Men's Halls Association (MHA).

Out of a total of 375 men voting, or about 54 per cent of those eligible, 210 voted for withdrawal, while 165 voted against.

However, the general council of the dorm had decided prior to the vote that results would be used merely as an opinion indicator and not as a mandate for dropping out of the organization.

"The main opposition doesn't know what MHA really is all about, and can't see the benefits of even belonging," said Jim Larson, Farmington sophomore and MHA representative for the dorm.

Posters with false information about MHA were used by the opposition, Larson said.

"They didn't really understand that even though a dorm may not be a member of MHA, its residents still must abide by university regulations. They were under the false impression that all dress regulations would go if we dropped out of MHA," Larson said.

Van Dyke said that he expected the men to vote to withdraw from MHA because of these false assumptions.

In order to improve communication problems, the council suggested the possibility of having two MHA representatives from each dorm, one elected at large and one from each dorm's hall council.

The basic opposition to MHA membership came from representatives of House House, who

Results Contested By Election Head

Dormitory residents voted in favor of an all-University radio station by a slim majority Thursday, but election results are being contested.

In favoring the radio charter, students also voted themselves a tax up to $1 per term to create and support the station.

Forty nine per cent, or 7986 students on campus, turned out to vote on the referendum, with 26 per cent voting yes and 23 per cent voting no.

The referendum must now go to the MSU Board of Trustees for final approval. The Board indicated last week that a sizeable majority of students must vote, and vote yes, for campus radio to be approved.

However results are being contested by both John Jacobs, ASMSU elections commissioner and Detroit sophomore, and radio committees from Fee and Akers Halls.

Under normal procedure, ballots were to be sorted by yes and no votes by dormitory and then counted by machine.

The ballots from East Wilson had apparently already been arranged by vote, and when it was discovered that East Wilson had a tie vote, Jacobs said the election would be contested.

Another vote on this subject may be taken in a couple weeks if the feeling for dropping out of MHA is still high.

Later Terry Cimino, Omaha, Neb., freshman, and chairman of the Akers Hall radio committee reported he learned that residents of Fee Hall did not have their ID cards punched, as required by elections rules.

Ballots were locked overnight in the Student Activities Division offices in the Student Services Building.

If the election is officially ruled as contested, ballots will either be re-counted or the contested ballots will be thrown out, said James R. Tanck, cabinet chairman and Waterford, Wis., senior.

Tanck said he did not expect another election would be held.

If the Board gives approval at its next meeting, students can expect to have an MSU operational radio station by the early part of fall term, said Robert Stinson, Birmingham senior and chairman of the campus radio steering committee.

"I knew the vote would be close, but not this close," Stinson said. "The student body supported us, and now it's up to the Board of Trustees."

Ferency To Resign Dem Post

Zolton A. Ferency, chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee, announced today that he has submitted his resignation as chairman of the committee effective Aug. 3, 1966.

Ferency also disclosed that beginning April 1, he will return to law in his Lansing office.

Ferency said: "Last Dec. 9 I stated that I would continue to evaluate my future role as party chairman as the tempo of the 1966 campaign activity increased."

"I also stated at that time, that it might be in the best interest of the Democratic Party to return to our traditional policy established by Neil Staebler of placing the chairmanship on an unpaid, part-time basis."

"Now that the 1966 election picture has been clarified somewhat, the way is clear for me to begin to assume my private obligations as head of the household. While I have thoroughly enjoyed politics on a full-time basis, I find that I can no longer delay my plans for the future financial security of my family."

"From all appearances, the Democratic Party is moving into an active primary campaign for elective offices, and creating a vacancy at the chairmanship level at this time would only complicate matters."

"Holding the title of chairman until the day after the primary election would seemingly head off intra-party contests which may be detrimental to the best interests of the party."

Ferency also said that he would have something to say about his availability for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination "a little later."

Students Suggest Pub Board Probe

By ANDREW MOLLISON
State News Staff Writer

The three student members of the Board of Student Publications apparently want the board to take a look at just what it's doing, and how and why it's doing it.

Duplicated copies of seven proposed resolutions concerning the board were available Thursday in the student offices on the third floor of the Student Services Building. Frank B. Senger, board chairman, said late Thursday afternoon that he had not yet received a copy of the proposed resolutions.

The resolutions contained the typed signatures of Beverly Hall, Dirk Terwilliger and Arthur Tung, student members of the board. Tung reportedly was distributing the resolutions to the three faculty and three administration members of the board Thursday afternoon. Terwilliger and Miss Hall could not be reached by phone.

The resolutions called for "immediate clarification of present policy and its inadequacies to necessary University officials, the State News and ASMSU."

Three of the resolutions called for study committees to be formed.

One would re-evaluate "existing policy concerning student publications, both written and tradition (sic)." It proposed that this committee be made up of Senger, one faculty member, one student and one administrator. Another could re-evaluate "the position of the appointed student members on the Board of Student Publications."

Proposed membership of this committee is William F. McIlrath, director of student publications, and three others.

The third would re-evaluate "the State News, its operation, both financial and editorial--only for clarification not control -- and its relationship to the board."

The committee would be made up of Louis J. Berman, general manager of the State News, and three others.

The other resolutions called for:

--Possible exemption of The Paper or reclassification to approved status. This would allow The Paper to sell copies on campus without advertising, the resolution said, or, if it incorporated, with advertising. Such sales would be at designated places.

--Board meetings conducted under parliamentary procedure.

--Clarifying the board's budget and account.

--Abandoning luncheon meetings if they were not paid by the board's account.

Arab Frosh Held On Baby Beating

A student is being held in the Ingham County Jail on charges of beating his two-month-old daughter, Campus Police said Thursday. The child suffered multiple injuries as a result of two beatings.

Fatollah Hooshmand, 22, Tehran, Iran, freshman, was arrested early Thursday afternoon and arraigned at 4 p.m. before Lansing Township Judge George Hutter. Hooshmand demanded an examination, which was set for 10:30 a.m. April 7.

Hooshmand, an engineering student, could not meet the $600 bond posted and was jailed until he can meet this cost.

The warrant, issued by Chief Assistant Prosecutor Raymond L. Scodeller, charged Hooshmand, a karate expert, with breaking both of Joannina's arms and legs, fracturing her skull and clavicle, breaking seven ribs and injuring both eyes.

The child is presently recovering in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker, 1840 S. Williamson Rd. Hooshmand married the former Kathy Baker, 18, last year.

The case came to the attention of the authorities when Mrs. Baker took the child to a Williamson doctor, who suspected upon examination that the child had been beaten.

The physician called Sheriff Kenneth L. Preadmore in Mason. The infant was taken to Sparrow Hospital for x-rays, and the case was turned over to MSU police.

Murray said he did not expect to take a position in Williams' formal campaign structure. But, he added, "I've been an adviser to Williams consistently for the last 13 to 15 years, and I'll continue to play that role in the future. Only at the end of a telephone, however."

Right now Williams is assistant secretary of state in charge of African affairs.

Ex-Aid Murray Sees 'Soapy' In 1966 Race

John Murray, long-time adviser and former executive assistant to ex-Gov. G. Mennen Williams, said Thursday that he expects Williams to declare his candidacy for the Senate within two weeks.

Williams' only other pre-primary obstacle, Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, D-Mich., announced Wednesday that he will resign from the Senate when his second term runs out this year.

Murray, now an assistant professor of journalism at MSU, said of Williams, "I can't give you a final, total, absolutely irrevocable yes, but it seems apparent to me that he's going to run."

No Quick, Easy Solutions In Viet Nam--HHH Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told Republican and Democratic members of Congress Thursday he was optimistic that U.S. objectives in Viet Nam could be achieved but there were no "quick and easy solutions."

The vice president's report on his 43,000-mile, nine-nation Asian and Pacific tour drew praise from members of both parties who attended the briefing at the White House.

House GOP leader Gerald R.

Ford said afterwards "I believe Republicans generally are impressed with the administration's firmness against Communist aggression in Viet Nam. On the other hand, they are disturbed that there is so much diversity of opinion among Democrats in the Senate, and perhaps in the House."

Ford said "The Democratic party is badly split and I believe the American people are somewhat aghast that the Democratic party is not unified in its position on our policy in Viet Nam."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a leading critic of U.S. policy, commented only that Humphrey's briefing was a full report. He said he did not raise any questions at the meeting.

Fulbright also had no comment on President Johnson's speech in New York Wednesday in which he said there will be no "mindless escalation" of the war. Fulbright said he had neither read nor heard the speech.

Another Johnson critic, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., told a reporter "In the President's speech there was not one word about calling on the non-combatant nations to arrange a ceasefire. The United States cannot settle the war through a unilateral policy or with bilateral negotiation."

Morse later told the Senate that Humphrey "has lost all his persuasive influence with people who think," and added: "I never expected my vice president to make this plea for war that he is making."

Morse used a parliamentary objection to block a move to limit debate on the $4.8 billion Viet Nam military bill. Chances of quick passage were dimmed.

Graduation TV Approved

Closed-circuit television coverage of winter commencement has been approved, Paul Smith, vice president of the senior class, said Thursday. This will enable non-ticket holding relatives of those graduating to watch the commencement ceremonies in Fairchild Theatre.

Only persons with tickets will be seated in the Auditorium. Commencement tickets will be distributed March 7, 8 and 9 from 8 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Students may pick up their two guaranteed tickets by presenting their ID's March 7 and 8.

The remaining tickets will be distributed March 9, one per person.

GUEST -- Alexander Schuster, former conductor of the University orchestra, rehearses for Sunday afternoon's performance in the Auditorium. Schuster studied at the Hochschule in Berlin, where he was awarded the Joseph Joachim Prize. He has toured Europe as soloist with major orchestras and chamber groups. His cousin, Joseph Schuster, a cellist, will be assisting artist.

Student Board Deserves Financial Compensation

IN VOTING FUTURE Student Board members financial compensation for their services, the ASMSU Student Board made a wise decision. And if there is any criticism of the act, it is that it should have been more and enacted long ago.

Few students realize the time involved in participating in student government. It seems little to expect that those top leaders in the structure, who devote much of their time to serving other students should at least receive some form of compensation.

UNDER THE PRESENT system, student government leaders receive no pay, no thanks, but substantial criticism. In addition, it takes considerable money for these students just to be elected.

Some student board members devote as much as 40 hours a week to student government. At the same time, student leaders at other universities receive salaries for their work.

BUT, TO MAKE a play on words, the members of ASMSU Student Board will receive a gratuity, rather than a salary. The difference in the meanings of the words is that a salary infers pay commensurate with the amount of time one works, and a gratuity is a small compensation one receives for time devoted to a task.

The chairman of the board will receive $100 a term. He spends between 200 and 400 hours a term working with student government. This amounts to 30 cents an hour, which, by today's standards, is no salary.

FURTHERMORE, MOST OF the members who voted for this financial compensation will no longer be serving on the board when this new action becomes effective. Thus, they will receive no benefits from the act.

THE COMPENSATION THAT Student Board members receive serves a second function--it increases their obligation to the students they serve. When one is paid for his services, he naturally feels more obligated to do his best. Though this is no ax over their heads, the compensation can increase their sense of duty.

The gratuities will come from the general fund. This fund is composed of student taxes and profits from pop entertainment programs and other ASMSU-sponsored functions.

CLEARLY, THE COMPENSATION that the student board members will receive will not put ASMSU on the road to riches. But it seems to us only fair that student government leaders should receive some gratuity for the time-consuming work that they do.

Despite any criticism the Student Board may receive, the members were completely justified in making this decision.

De Gaulle And NATO

FRENCH PRESIDENT CHARLES DE GAULLE'S recent announcement that all allied troops in France will have to leave French soil by 1969 or come under French control is one more step in De Gaulle's program to remove the U.S. from France.

His desire to guide France along more independent lines in her foreign relations is already loosening the bonds of the Atlantic Alliance. De Gaulle is weakening Europe's defenses, for France is vital to NATO's strength--both as a military member and a supply route to central Europe.

DE GAULLE APPARENTLY BELIEVES that his independent nuclear force will give France enough prestige and bargaining power to permit him to break with NATO. He must realize that France is not a first-rate power, and an independent nuclear force will not restore her to her former glory.

Furthermore, De Gaulle asserts that NATO has outlived its usefulness. Here he is also mistaken. NATO was organized to deter the aggression of the Soviet Union. It has accomplished this task--so far.

IF NATO WERE dissolved tomorrow and all U.S. support were withdrawn, it is highly probable that the Soviet Union would immediately embark on a military "liberation" of the people of Western Europe. Though we cannot be sure that the Soviets would do this, there is no sense in giving them the opportunity.

De Gaulle is gravely mistaken on another point. He feels that if the United States were to become involved in a general war, the NATO nations would be drawn into the conflict because all NATO nations are bound by a treaty of mutual aid. He thinks that through treaty obligations, France might be dragged into a war.

THE FACT IS, NATO nations must come to the aid of fellow member nations who are openly attacked by an aggressor. If the U.S. were openly attacked by some foreign power the attack would probably be in the form of an all-out war. Like it or not, all of Europe would be involved in the confrontation.

De Gaulle is not only loosening military bonds with the U.S., but he is also firmly opposing American action in Viet Nam. His sharp criticism of the U.S. further weakens the strength of the West.

As it appears today De Gaulle's policies are an aid to no one but France and the Communist bloc, and it is even doubtful that they will prove an aid to France.

ASMSU Fun

To the Editor:

How appropriate it was that ASMSU came out with the statement that they "voted themselves salaries" on the same page that read "Winter Carnival loses $7,600." In my opinion, the granting of even 50 cents to any member of ASMSU would be even a bigger loss. ASMSU is providing us with a tremendous entertainment series, it's entertaining to me whenever I see that they had only five people at the Human Relations Forum and thousands of dollars are sent off to the Bobby Vinton Fund. The folly of it all gives me a great big belly laugh.

This summer I worked in the Freshman Orientation Program. I talked of becoming active and becoming involved. Students asked me about student government. They asked me how, they asked me why. To the first, I responded, "It's easy if you can live with hypocrisy." To the second, I responded, "So you can put an end to that very hypocrisy." Now I must respond, "I don't know, why don't you just sit on the end of a log and have as many people as you can find on the other end of that log and find those answers out yourself. It isn't easy."

I do not want to be responsible for influencing even one person if I am not sure he will stand at some time and look around at what's happening and what he's doing. I can never be sure but I can hope they will, so I continue to talk about being active and so on.

I was sincerely disappointed with the State News when they advised continuing Winter Carnival because of tradition, that's not a good reason for doing anything. I was not disappointed with ASMSU, they lived up to their billing, providing entertainment. O'Neill talked of pipe-dreams, how do you find their hollowness so attractive, ASMSU? Now that I have to pay for my actors I want you to play on, ASMSU. You bring laughter into my life. We need you.

Critic Criticized

To the Editor:

It may be possible that more than a few of our 35,000 students are getting quite sick from reading State News reviews.

Why must every reviewer feel the supreme obligation to criticize at least something in every single performance?

Referring to the Van Cliburn review, staffer Bob Zeschin did not fail to uphold this great policy as he valiantly spent one third of his prime page 9 space informing the people of MSU that Mr. Cliburn was tired and that "he shouldn't have gone through the trouble and strain of all those additional numbers" (his five encores).

It also seems that "Cliburn was playing them just to get them over with." I suggest a few things to Mr. Zeschin: Maybe Van Cliburn was tired; but could it be told by his performance?

Maybe the audience didn't just endure the performance; maybe it's possible they enjoyed the whole thing.

Maybe Van Cliburn loves to play the piano.

Rules Review Giving Students Chance, But

THE NOW-IN-PROGRESS re-evaluation of rules governing students' academic freedom is meeting with such a deadening silence from the students that several people are questioning whether anybody actually cares if there is an evaluation.

"We don't exactly know how to interpret this silence," Frederick Williams, chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs which is handling the evaluation, has said.

John McQuitty, chairman of the ASMSU Student Board and head of the student committee that parallels Williams' committee, is "very disappointed" in the student reaction to the project.

"I HAVE RECEIVED only three letters recommending policy changes since the evaluation was announced," McQuitty said. One was from Zeitgeist, one from the Committee for Student Rights and a third from a professor.

The question, then, is this: Where are all those people who have so frequently found fault with regulations at Michigan State? Where are those who have condemned the administration for keeping an "intellectual straight-jacket" on the University?

One answer might be that students don't really care what rule changes are recommended. Or, students may think that their opinions will make little difference in what the committee actually recommends.

ANOTHER REASON FOR the lack of student reaction may lie in the very nature of the planned evaluation. "Academic freedom" is a very vague term. While we all strive for this freedom, attempts to pinpoint this term to rules that govern us is difficult. Perhaps Williams' committee has not been specific enough in the rules it will consider.

And, indeed, if this be the reason, it is only because Williams' committee will deal with all rules governing students.

Some of the regulations the student committees have given preliminary thought to concern students' records--what records and for how long should the university keep on each student, drinking on campus and in such off-campus living units as fraternities, distribution of literature and hours.

SOME PEOPLE HAVE contended that the campus protestors protest everything and anything that comes along "merely to have a cause to identify with."

The protestors, it follows, is not concerned primarily with his alleged cause, but, rather, uses the cause to gratify his social needs--to feel "in" with a group.

Now that the cause of academic freedom has a channel for communication, these malcontents have nothing to buck, nothing against which to demonstrate.

WHATEVER THE REASON for the lack of comment, students now have a chance to "improve their lot." The unnecessary restraints of a large university can be liberalized.

Clearly it is an opportunity to take advantage of. Not enough people are.

No One Speaks Like Our LBJ

A FEW MONTHS AGO the Christian Science Monitor described Johnson's public speaking as "a kind of sacerdotal singsong reminiscent of evangelical churches of his Texas childhood."

Considering this, the following could possibly be a speech prepared for delivery by the President and his speech writers, including notes for gestures, expression and emphasis.

THE SETTING: a middle-size city in one of the border states where both North and South have mingled; Democrats from all over the area, of all classes and backgrounds, fill the local stadium to hear the President commemorate Civil War heroes and explain his present and future plans for America.

The President, accompanied by Lady Bird, is introduced by a local Democratic leader who just met the President a few minutes before.

(Smile Proudly) First, I would like to thank the chairman for his kind and gracious introduction, as we have been friends for years, and he has done much for the Democratic Party and America. (Become Serious) But I come today to speak in this beautiful city for freedom, justice and the rectitude of the American way of life. This is also a time to commemorate two of the great Civil War heroes of your fair city and state--one a Confederate and one a Yankee.

(Tremble in voice) In that time, over a century ago, they fought for what each thought was right for the cause of liberty and freedom of their fellow-men. Their goals were different, but their ends the same. And in the end they helped preserve the great American tradition and helped unify the nation with understanding and hope for the future.

(Lower voice to a whisper and evoke humility) And that my fellow country men is our goal today, to preserve freedom, and to encourage understanding and hope. We coerce no man. We force ourselves on no nation. But rather we desire only the devotion of our friends and the prosperous existence of all men.

(Become stern, use left arm gesture, look left and right and pause slightly) But there are problems to be faced, things to guard against, plans to make for the present and future.

WE SEEK A SOCIETY where all men are free, where all men can enjoy the fruits of life, where no man or child will go without proper food or education or shelter. These are things everyone must do for himself or with the help of government if he cannot or will not do it for himself.

(Almost yelling with two fist poundings on the podium) We must stamp out the tyrannies of man: poverty, disease, the Republican Party, Communism, bigotry and the Ku Klux Klan. (Now clap hands and almost chant) And we will win because we LOVE people, not HATE them.

(Drop voice to a hush and smile at Lady Bird) And I know what it is to be poor and to have to struggle for a living, an education, and a way of life. For I was once but a poor school teacher in Texas and worked from day to day, just like many of you.

AS FOR COMMUNISM, no one hates it more or enjoys it less than I do. I fight it every day and will continue to fight it as long as I have the strength to walk a step or raise a finger. But extremism of any sort is vile as well as evil.

I have fought the Klan all of my life and my Daddy has fought them too. (Look prideful and determined) We must all unite together, in the great American tradition, to stamp out these evils which threaten men today. And once united in this common cause, there can be no greater good than the victories we win, the freedoms and rights we preserve, and the great traditions we embody. (Low voice, utmost sincerity, plead with the people) This, ladies and gentlemen, is my dream, my goal, and my hope, for America and the world. (Gulp, pause, and sigh--have voice break a little) I am asking you all to join me in seeking that glorious end, to help me in creating the greatest of all societies.

THIS IS WHAT I want for America. This is what I want for the world. This is what I want for you and I. And we can do it, if only we try.

Thank you. (Bow head; graciously accept the applause.)

29 Unions Will Boycott Ships Trading With N. Viet

By LYLE WILSON
UPI Interpretive Writer

Purists in the art of political science no doubt will deplore the effort of American maritime unions to establish a positive police against allies of the United States whose ships trade with the North Viet Nam Communists.

The purists will recall that the conduct of foreign relations is assigned by the U.S. Constitution to the president, with occasional reference to the U.S. Senate.

The Maritime Trades Department of the AFL-CIO has called on its 29 member unions to boycott all ships of any country whose vessels trade with North Viet Nam. Not all American citizens will deplore this direction action on the docks.

Least likely to deplore the boycott will be the parents, wives and children of American men now serving in Southeast Asia or who were killed, wounded or missing in action there. This aspect of the situation will not be missed by LBJ. The politically sensitive President is reputed to keep both ears to the ground at all times to detect changes in the vibrations of popular opinion.

Sufficient publicity of the extent of free world trade with North Viet Nam is likely to set up vibrations easily detected by the citizens through the soles of his feet. The citizens will be astonished to learn, no doubt, that British flag ships are the free world leaders in trade with North Viet Nam. A list of free world ships arriving in North Viet Nam last year appeared in the Congressional Record on last Feb. 7.

In January of 1965, 10 of 14 free world ships arriving in North Viet Nam were British. In February, 1965, 14 of 18 were British. The volume of free world trade with North Viet Nam steadily diminished during 1965 although our British friends maintained their lead. For example: of nine free world ships arriving in North Viet Nam in November, 1965, seven were British. Of five arrivals in December, 1965, three were of British registry.

Ships of Norway, Lebanon, Greece, Japan, The Netherlands, Cyprus, Malta also were cited in the Congressional Record although none was as involved as were ships of British registry.

There leaked in Washington in mid-February the fact that that Johnson administration had begun to blacklist free world ships which trade with North Viet Nam. The blacklist would bar such ships from carrying U.S.-sponsored cargoes from American ports. That is a blacklist of individual ships. The Maritime Trade Department goes far beyond that to blacklist all ships flying the flag of any ship engaging in trade with North Viet Nam.

Ford, Dirksen Hit Dem Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- House republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., declared Thursday that "inflation will be the major political campaign issue of 1966."

At the same time, Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., accused the Johnson administration of "promoting inflation as a step toward fuller employment."

However, Dirksen said, "What they have not told the American people is the extent and cruelty of the burden they have placed on the very poor through this policy of printing money at a rate twice that of our population growth."

U.S. Forces Repel Heavy Attack

SAIGON (UPI) -- U.S. and Australian troops drove off a heavy Communist attack 30 miles north of Saigon before dawn today. At least 89 Viet Cong were killed and 11 were wounded and captured.

The Communists attacked the headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division's 1st Brigade and two battalions of combat troops which were bivouacked nearby.

Heavy American mortar fire broke up the attack, and Australian patrols ambushed the Communists as they fell back.

Syrian Rebels In Firm Control

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) -- Syria's new rebel regime appeared in firm control Thursday, backed by army troops. There were no reports of violence.

The threat of civil war apparently collapsed when Radio Damascus announced the support of garrison commanders in Aleppo, the business capital of northern Syria.

The Aleppo military leaders at first denounced Wednesday's dawn coup that toppled the regime of Gen. Amin Hafez, Syrian chief of state. They threatened to fight.

Coup In Ghana Ousts Nkrumah

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) -- An army revolt Thursday toppled President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana while he was in Peking. Announcement of the coup brought thousands of celebrators into the streets of Accra in a carnival of drinking, dancing and merry-making.

A broadcast over Ghana radio by Col. E.K. Kotoka, identified as the revolt leader, announced that the 10,000-man army had taken over the government, dissolved Parliament, and dismissed the president.

"The myth surrounding Kwame Nkrumah has been broken," the colonel said.

Peking radio said Nkrumah was honored at a dinner in the Chinese capital, but reported no reaction to the coup.

The self-styled "Redeemer," who had himself designated president for life after Ghana won independence, left Accra three days ago for talks in Cairo, Rangoon, Peking and Hanoi. He was believed on a peace mission to North Viet Nam on his own initiative. An entourage of 71 is with him.

A frequent supporter of the Communist line in world affairs while accepting Western aid, he had assumed almost dictatorial powers.

Accra radio did not specify any reason for the revolt, the sixth military coup in Africa in the last three months, but said all persons jailed for dissenting with Nkrumah's regime would be freed.

Four hours after the announcement of the coup, fighting between troops and the presidential security guard was reported still eddying around Nkrumah's residence.

Small arms fire could be heard and smoke from burning vehicles and buildings could be seen from outside the walled compound that houses all Ghana government executive offices.

The radio broadcast a warning from an unidentified voice to the presidential security forces to "lay down their arms now and surrender."

However, jubilant crowds swarmed through the downtown streets of the steamy seacoast capital and gathered outside the prison on the waterfront where Nkrumah's regime had jailed hundreds.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said no Americans are believed in danger but advised them to stay indoors.

Wilson Unhappy On Moscow Talks

LONDON (AP) -- Prime Minister Harold Wilson returned Thursday night from a three-day visit to Moscow and acknowledged frankly he had gotten nowhere with Soviet leaders on moves to end the Viet Nam war.

The British leader told newsmen however, that Soviet readiness to resume talks with a Western country on major world problems, even despite the continuing Vietnamese crisis, represented "a welcome step forward."

But he added: "We did not make any progress on Viet Nam, however, and nothing seems to be immediately forthcoming in the Viet Nam setting."

His statement came after a communique issued in his own and Soviet Premier Alexei M. Kosygin's names had declared:

The British disarmament minister, Lord Chalfont, won a promise from North Viet Nam's chief diplomat in Moscow that Hanoi would clarify its approach to peace negotiations. This followed a 4 1/4-hour meeting Wednesday in Moscow between Chalfont and the charge d'affaires, Lee Chang.

ASMSU Tells Protestors Salaries Were No Surprise

Several high ranking ASMSU officials, who asked that their names be withheld, said they were pleased that students were taking an interest in how students' money was being used.

Officials were commenting on the demonstration held in front of the Student Services Building Tuesday.

All pointed out that dissent is the only way a democratic process can effectively function.

On the matter of compensation, one official pointed out there had been no student reaction to the motion for compensation until after the ASMSU Student Board acted on it.

He said students could have read of the motion for compensation four weeks ago when an editorial in the State News was written, and again two weeks ago, when a story in the State News mentioned a motion granting compensation to board members.

bers had been referred to a committee for study.

A third official said students could petition for a student referendum to recall the motion.

Ten per cent of the student body would have to petition for a referendum recalling the motion. Students could also petition to have the motion reconsidered by the board. This would save the expense of holding a referendum on the matter if enough students were opposed, he said.

Commenting on the Winter Carnival loss one official said: "How would you like to lose $7,000?"

Student Board will not act on Winter Carnival until a final report has been submitted by the winter Carnival Committee. The report is scheduled to be submitted at the board's meeting next week.

Indications are a large part of the Carnival will be dropped. According to one source, the Miss MSU contest will be tied in with some sort of popular entertainment event. He also said some of the winter sports, donkey basketball and snow sculptures might be preserved.

According to one source, ASMSU was committed to the portrait of James N. Stefanoff last June following his death, even though the attempts to set up a scholarship fund failed. The board voted to purchase the portrait at a board meeting at that time.

Michigan Invades State; Two Titles At Stake

Wolves Final Roadblock In Wrestlers' Title Path

By ED BRILL
State News Sports Writer

The bright and shiny vision of a Big Ten crown is beckoning the Spartan wrestlers, and only a bunch of hungry Wolves from Michigan stands in the way.

This Saturday the teams meet head on at the IM Sports Arena at 4 p.m., and the resulting explosion will be felt all the way to Champaign, Ill., site of the 1966 conference meet.

Michigan State is clinging to the league lead with a 6-0 record, just a half game ahead of Michigan (6-1). Although dual records do not count in the official Big Ten standings, the winner of Saturday's meet will have to be the favorite next week at Champaign.

The Wolves are defending a string of three straight league championships. In the 1965 conference meet they accumulated 88 points to second place Michigan State's 38.

The time might be over, though, for Michigan's domination of Big Ten wrestling. Minnesota snapped a Wolverine string of 34 straight dual wins with an 18-8 victory Jan. 21. The following night, the Spartans dumped the Gophers, 20-8.

The meet Saturday will be close right down the line, but one match now appears to be the key. In the heavyweight division, State's Big Ten champion Jeff Richardson will face sophomore Wolverine star Dave Porter.

Porter was a three-time state champ from Lansing Sexton and is undefeated this year. If anyone challenges Richardson for his league title, it will be Porter.

Richardson currently is 6-1-1 after missing the first half of the season because of football. He suffered only his third collegiate loss Jan. 29, when he was pinned by Luke Sharpe of Oklahoma.

Behm, the Spartans' undefeated 130-pound junior, will be carrying a 15-match win streak into the meet. Behm finished third in the nation last year and is shooting for the top in 1966. His average score this season has been 15-3, and he has two pins to his credit.

Dave Dozeman, Michigan's 130 pounder, was third in the nation the year before Behm. Last year he was out with a broken neck, but will be a strong challenger Saturday.

Michigan will put up its biggest star early in the meet. Bob Fehrs, second in the 1965 NCAA Meet and Big Ten champion, will be out to give the Wolves an early lead at 123. Fran Larson will be opposing Fehrs for the Spartans.

At 137 and 147, the Spartans and Wolves will meet strength against strength. A pair of sophomores, Dale Anderson and Dale Carr, will go for State against two Michigan veterans, Billy Johansson and Cal Jenkins.

Johansson is a Big Ten champion and team captain, and has lost just two matches this year

State's Big Ten Title Hopes Hinge On U-M Gym Clash

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

The Spartan gymnasts will be out to take Michigan in stride Saturday when the Wolves meet State at the IM Arena, 1 p.m. in the first of two giant steps towards the Big Ten title.

Both squads have undefeated

6-0 conference marks. Although this meet won't determine the champ, it will give the winner first crack at the crown.

If the Spartans emerge victorious they'll be favored in the conference clash. They'll be taking seven points into the meet, one for each dual win. The situation is the same if Michigan should win.

However, Illinois and Iowa, tied at 4-2 in the Big Ten, face each other at Champaign this weekend. In order for the winner of that meet to win the title, the team would have to win the Big Ten Meet as well.

That means picking up 23 points. If the Spartans finish second and either the Hawks or the Illini do pull off that feat, they'd end up in a tie for the championship.

"Iowa and Illinois still can't be counted out of the running," said Coach George Szygula. "They could be dark horses. This system calls for a true champion. You have to take all the marbles."

The Spartans are ready for Michigan, and Szygula is counting on some of the top performances that have been given all year to pull out the win.

"I expect a great performance from the team, and I know they'll give it," Szygula commented. "They've proven this against fine Iowa and Illinois teams already. The boys are all working well. They'll be ready."

"We've been preparing for this meet since last October," he added. "It's the first giant step to a championship. The next one is at Indiana."

This will be the final meet for senior Captain Jim Curzi. Also winding up their varsity careers are Ted Wilson, Bob Cordaro, Ray Strobel and John Rohs.

"We're going to see the climax to a fantastic, though injury-ridden, career of one of the finest performers to ever compete for Michigan State," Szygula said of Curzi.

Although pestered by injuries, Curzi has amassed high and parallel bars averages of 9.1 and

JIM CURZI

9.45, along with hitting 8.8 in two outings on the horse.

"Ted has been a fine, steady performer for three years," he continued. "Strobel, Cordaro and Rohs are three boys who all had a lapse in their athletic careers, but came back to have strong senior seasons."

The showdown will pit some of the finest performers at opposite ends of the arena in a display of top gymnastic talent.

Some of the most sparkling credentials are those of Dave Thor, who'll be entered all-around. He's averaged 9.25 in floor exercise, 9.15 on the horse and 9.175 in the vaults as his top events.

Larry Goldberg on rings, 9.4; Ed Gunny on high bar and rings, 9.2 and 9.03; and Ron Aure in the vault, 9.17 are among State's top men.

Rohs, Aure and Bill Diggins are slated for floor exercise, with Wilson, Dennis Smith and Gerry Moore entered in the horse.

Strobel, Cordaro and Keith Sterner comprise the Spartans' hopes in a hotly-contested trampoline battle, with Curzi, Wilson and Gunny working horizontal bar.

Parallel bars features Curzi, Wilson and Rohs, with Aure, Gunny and Wilson in the vault. Gunny will go with Dave Croft on rings.

MEET 'M' TWICE

Skaters Aim For 5th

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

No conference title is at stake, yet the Michigan State and Michigan hockey clubs will battle it out this weekend as if there were.

The two Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. teams face each other twice in crucial games, with the opener here at the Ice Arena at 7:30 tonight and the series finale Saturday night at Ann Arbor.

Tickets are still on sale for tonight's game. Reserved seats sell for $1.50 while general admission is $1 and student's price is 25 cents with an ID.

Though both are out of the running in the WCHA title race, either team could clinch a notch higher in the league standings with a series sweep.

State, sixth in the league with an 8-10 mark, needs two victories to move into the fifth spot now held down by the Wolverines.

Michigan, 8-8 in the conference, must take two from the Spartans plus hope for double losses by fourth-ranked Denver to grab a share of fourth place. The Wolverines need only a split in the series to retain their fifth-place standing.

"We've got to take two from them," said Spartan Coach Amo Bessone. "We want to be ahead of them in the league when we play them in the playoffs."

The old rivalry between the schools will be even more fierce this weekend than it was when the two met three weeks ago. State then swept a pair from the Wolverines, winning here 8-7 Friday and 4-2 the following night at Ann Arbor. The losses started the Wolverines on a five-game losing streak, which they broke only last week with an 8-3 triumph over Minnesota-Duluth.

Almost as soon as the two teams conclude the series, they will meet again next Thursday in the WCHA playoffs at Ann Arbor. The victor will meet the winner of the Michigan Tech-Duluth game Saturday night to determine the Western representative to the NCAA championships March 17-19.

Since the regular season closes with this series, both clubs will be displaying their heavy guns as potential threats in the playoffs. Michigan will show off Japanese-Canadian star Mel Wakabayashi and the Spartans will counter with high-scoring wing Doug Volmar. Both wear No. 9.

Wakabayashi is not a one-man team for the Wolverines, but he does provide the biggest part of their scoring. He leads all scorers on the team with 49 points on 17 goals and 32 assists. He is eighth in the WCHA with 12 goals and 14 assists for 26 points.

Volmar, a junior who mans the right wing post on the Spartans' all-American line centered by Willie Faunt, is still the top scorer in the WCHA. He picked up a goal and four assists at Michigan Tech last weekend to raise his point total to 37.

Overall, Volmar is far out in front of his teammates in scoring. The Cleveland Heights star has connected for goals 24 times this year and has assisted on 22 others for 46 points.

Volmar needs five more goals in the remaining three games to tie the school record for the most goals in one season. Teammate Mike Jacobson set the record last year, scoring 29 goals in 29 games.

Next to Volmar in scoring is senior Co-Captain Mike Coppo with 16 goals and 20 assists for 36 points. Coppo, playing the other wing with Volmar, collected three goals and two assists last weekend at Michigan Tech.

Following Coppo is Sandy McAndrew with 32 points, Tom Mikola, 32 and Bill Faunt, 25. The Spartans will go with their two goalie system again while Michigan will have sophomore Harold Herman in the nets.

WALKER DOUBTFUL STARTER

'Hurrying Hoosiers' Here Saturday

By BOB HORNING
State News Sports Writer

A slightly crippled Indiana team comes to Jenison Field House Saturday night in hopes of derailing the second-place Spartans' title drive.

Indiana, currently in last place in the Big 10 with a 3-7 mark, will probably be playing without leading scorer Max Walker.

Walker sprained his ankle last Saturday against Northwestern, and didn't play Monday night against Purdue. The 6-1 senior is averaging 16.2 points and 6.6 rebounds per game.

After Walker injured his ankle against Northwestern, Indiana fell from a five-point lead and lost, 83-82. The Hoosiers lost, 77-68, to Purdue without Walker Monday.

The 8 o'clock game will have extra pressure on the Spartans (7-3) if Michigan (8-2) blasts Purdue that afternoon like it did last Saturday against Purdue, 128-94.

Walker's running-mate at guard, sophomore Vern Payne, is second in scoring with a 13.6 average. The 5-10 crowd pleaser has turned into one of the top guards in the conference. He earned a team high of 31 points against Northwestern.

Bill Russell (no relation to "the" Bill Russell) will probably take Walker's place if he should miss the game. Up front, the Hoosiers have Butch Joyner (12.6), Gary Grieger (11.1) and Jack Johnson (8.6).

Joyner is leading the team in rebounds with an eight-per game average and Johnson is next with 6.9.

Indiana's 7-13 overall record is no surprise, as it lost its first seven men from last year's 19-5 team. Tom and Dick Van Arsdale and Jon McGlocklin, the three most noticeable losses, are now playing in the National Basketball Assn. The three averaged 54 points a game between them last year.

Youth extends to the coaching also, where Lou Watson is in his first year as head coach. He replaced Branch McCracken who retired after 24 years at Indiana.

Gus Ganakas Named Assistant Cage Coach

Gus Ganakas was named Thursday to succeed Sonny Means as assistant basketball coach at Michigan State.

Ganakas is presently coordinator of the Ralph H. Young Scholarship Fund which extends financial aid to State athletes.

Means, who was named head coach at Western Michigan University Wednesday, will finish the season as assistant to John Benington. Ganakas will then take over immediately.

"I'm thrilled to be part of the Michigan State basketball program under Benington," Ganakas said. "It's wonderful to get back to the game, although I enjoyed my work with the scholarship fund."

Benington said of Ganakas' appointment: "We are very fortunate to find a man of the same

Hoosiers have been playing much better lately, as have all the second division teams.

"I wish we had been able to play them in early January," State Coach John Benington said. "They're a small team, but fast and tough, especially when they get ahead. This was shown in their wins over Illinois and Iowa."

"Indiana has been running their opponents, and running has been bothering us," Benington said. "We will have to control their fast break."

In pre-conference games, Indiana was blasted by top-ranked nationally Kentucky, 91-56, and 91-68 by fourth-ranked Loyola of Chicago. However, the Hoosiers showed their scoring potential by beating Bradley, 104-87.

Indiana's other Big 10 win was over Ohio State, 81-61. It has been outscored by its opponents 81.3 to 77.0.

Last year, in a run-and-shoot game, Indiana was one of eight teams to run up over 100 points against State, bombing them, 112-94, at Bloomington.

Following the Indiana game, the Spartans go on the road—to Ohio State, Monday night, and to Indiana Saturday. State's final game of the season, Monday, March 7, is with Michigan here.

But as Benington said, "Indiana is the big team for us now, since we play them twice. We can't overlook them the way they've treated Iowa and Illinois."

Badgers Offer Spartans Greatest Track Challenge

By PHIL PIERSON
State News Sports Writer

It'll take top performances by all of the Spartan trackmen Saturday if they hope to defeat Wisconsin in a dual meet at Madison.

The Badgers, last year's Big Ten indoor champions, are once again sporting a track powerhouse and will offer State its greatest challenge of the season.

State Coach Fran Dittich said the meet could very well depend on the day's final event, the mile relay. If this is the case, then the Spartans could be in trouble, judging from the best clocking the two squads have recorded in earlier competition.

Wisconsin's time was 3:17.9, third best in the conference. The Spartans' top was 3:21.1, recorded Saturday in a dual meet against Indiana by Das Campbell, Keith Coates, Mike Martens and Bob Steele.

The list of times recorded in the Big Ten this year finds a Wisconsin name at or near the top in 11 other events besides the mile relay.

The Badgers' strongest event is the 880, where they have three men with the three best times in the conference.

Co-captain Barney Peterson heads the trio with a time of 1:53.1. He is followed by Rickey Poole and Ken Latigola who have been clocked in 1:53.3 and 1:53.5 respectively.

State's best is 1:55.8 recorded by Art Link against Indiana. However, this could be bettered tomorrow as Dittich will use Keith Coates in the 880 in an attempt to bolster one of the Spartans' weaker events.

The 440 and 600 are two other events where the Badgers are strong and have an edge on State.

Steve Whipple has the best time in the conference in the 440 with a clocking of 0:48.6 and co-captain Bill Heuer heads the Big Ten in the 600 with 1:11.5.

MSU's best times are by Das Campbell in the 440 (0:50.5) and Richard Dunn in the 600 (1:13.1).

If the Spartans lose points in these events, they should pick up the majority of markers in the 60 and 300-yard dashes and the hurdles.

Wisconsin has no one listed in the 300 while State's Jim Garrett and Jim Summers are both near the top with times of 0:31.5 and 0:31.7, respectively.

In the 60, Wisconsin has Tom Atkinson with a clocking of 0:06.3, but this has been equaled by Summers, Garrett and Jess Phillips have gone 0:06.4.

The 70-yard high hurdles should find State's Gene Washington and Clint Jones battling for first as they have both gone 0:08.5 this year, one tenth better than Wisconsin's Tom Dakin.

An important feature in this race should be the fight for third spot between Dakin and Steele. The latter's best time of the year is 0:08.7, but he has been improving rapidly in recent weeks and could nose out Dakin.

Wisconsin will also have a sleeper in this event in the person of Gerald Beatty. Though he has not recorded any leading times this winter, Beatty is last year's conference champion with a time of 0:08.5.

On paper the low hurdles looks like a 1-2-3 sweep for State. Washington and Jones have both gone 0:07.8 this year and Steele has run 0:07.9.

Dakin's best time is 0:08.1, but he could better this time Saturday against State's top competition.

One of the key battles of the day will be the long jump duel between Garrett and Atkinson. Garrett has the best jump in the conference this year, a 24' 1/2" leap in State's first meet of the season, against Ohio State and Kentucky at Columbus.

Atkinson recorded the second best jump of the season, 23' 10 1/2" against Illinois and Iowa State Feb. 5.

One thing the Badgers will definitely have going for them will be the advantage of the home crowd. Wisconsin fans take their track seriously and this meet has been a reported sell-out for the past six months. This means about 4,000 fans will be on hand to cheer them to victory.

Dodgers Offer Koufax, Drysdale Record Cash

LOS ANGELES (UPI)--The Los Angeles Dodgers offered pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale the highest salaries ever paid to two players on one club but the stars rejected the deal, general manager E.J. (Buzzie) Bavasi announced Thursday.

"They were not impressed with our figures, although I was," Bavasi said. "I am not embarrassed by our offer. It was more than any two players on one club have received in the history of baseball."

But the Dodgers' executive said the club refused to give the pitchers a three-year agreement, making them offers for only one year. And he said the Dodgers refused to bargain jointly with Koufax and Drysdale as a team, declaring it would set a precedent that would be injurious to the club and other teams.

Bavasi confirmed that Koufax and Drysdale had asked for identical $500,000 contracts over three years or approximately $166,000 each year.

Bavasi said, "I am not at liberty to reveal what the offer was but I can say that after I talked to Mr. Water O'Malley we agreed we should not start around $70,000 and haggle our way upward. We decided to give them a decent offer."

From his statements it was believed the general manager had offered somewhere between $100,000 and $125,000. He indicated the top figure by saying "99 per cent of the players in the game would like to make what we offered them."

With the Dodgers scheduled to leave Saturday morning aboard their private plane for spring training at Vero Beach, Fla., Bavasi said he had no further meetings planned with his pitchers prior to the departure.

Spanish Farce Plays Tonight

A contemporary one-act Spanish farce will be performed completely in Spanish by a group of MSU students at 4 and 7 tonight in the experimental theatre, Room 49, directly beneath Fairchild Theatre.

Olin Report

Admitted to Olin Health Center Wednesday were: Judith Curtis, Pinckney freshman; Mary A. Cooper, Southfield grad student; Rosanne Parks, East Lansing senior; Judith Valliere, Detroit freshman; Brenda Maxwell, Detroit sophomore.

The play, "Fabrilla del Secreto Bien Guardado" (Fable of a Well-Guarded Secret), is by the controversial Spanish playwright Alejandro Casona, who is presently living outside his native country because of the trouble that his plays have evoked from the Franco government.

The play concerns a man who finds a treasure on the way to his vineyard and doesn't want to tell his wife because he knows that she will tell the whole town.

The complications which arise after the hero begins fabricating stories to appease his gossipy wife make up the principal theme of the play.

Starring in the play are: Catherine Badding, Haslett graduate student; Richard Lindley, East Lansing junior; Carol Johnson, Saginaw junior; and Enrique Barbuza, Caracas, Venezuela, special program undergraduate student.

Symphony Concert Sunday To Feature Two Shusters

The MSU Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Romeo Tata, professor of music, will present a concert at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Auditorium.

Guest conductor Alexander Schuster will assist the orchestra in the "Concerto in B Minor for Cello and Orchestra," by Dvorak.

Joseph Schuster, former solo cellist with the Berlin Philharmonic and the New York Philharmonic, has performed extensively in the U.S., Central and South America, Europe and the Orient. He has been acclaimed by leading critics as one of the foremost cellists of our time. Alexander Schuster came from Berlin to the U.S. in 1929 to teach at Michigan State, where he conducted the University Orchestra. Also a noted cellist, he has performed throughout Europe as soloist with major orchestras and chamber groups.

The Schusters are cousins, but this is the first time the two have appeared together as conductor and soloist. Program selections also include the "Tragic Overture," by Brahms, and the "Hary Janos Suite," by Zoltan Kodaly.

The orchestra consists of about 80 students, and performs two major concerts a year. Concertmaster is Dinos Constantinides, Pittsford, N.Y., graduate student.

Final Days (Daze?) Of Month Produce Doldrums

With George's and Abe's birthdays out of the way, it doesn't look like there is much left to celebrate.

But where there's a will there's a way, and I'm sure students can rationalize some sort of event to commemorate.

Ground hog day has passed, so has Senior Night at the Gables. Valentines Day has also gone by without much to-do.

About the only thing left to celebrate is the end of the winter term -- and that's three weeks away.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS HONORED

3 Break Stereotypes To Reach Top

By LAUREL PRATT
State News Staff Writer

This week's seniors of the week include a top engineering student, the captain of the basketball team, and a graduate student in anthropology.

Tom Hewett, Lansing, was selected by the College of Engineering for his outstanding academic record. His major is mechanical engineering and he maintains a 3.7 average.

After graduation Hewett plans to attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology on a research assistantship, possibly with a fellowship. He said he hopes to work in the aerospace industry after receiving his doctorate, perhaps on heat transfer problems.

A member of Honors College, Hewett said the honors program has helped him greatly because "the engineering curriculum is quite restrictive." He said he has been able to adapt his curriculum for graduate school and broaden himself intellectually as well. He called honors college "a godsend" for those with confined curriculum. "It's a crime," he said, "that engineers are stereotyped as the conservative, restricted, solve-everything-with-a-slide-rule type." Some engineers fit the stereotype, he added, but they should not be labeled simply because they have a technical background.

Hewett is a member of Blue Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, Tau Beta Pi, Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Tau Sigma, Green Helmet and Phi Eta Sigma honoraries, as well as Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is also a member of the Engineering Council, composed of representatives from the engineering honoraries and professional societies.

He has served as committee chairman for Career Carnival, Frosh-Soph Council and Interfraternity Council. He received the L.G. Miller Outstanding Sophomore Award, a mechanical engineering honor.

Bill Curtis, Grand Rapids, is a biochemistry major and two-time letterman, last year's No. 2 scorer on the basketball team. Curtis said he has no definite plans for after graduation, although he has thought of teaching. He will be getting married this summer.

A member of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity and Sparta, senior men's athletic honorary, Curtis was named an Outstanding Junior last year. He maintains a 2.6 grade average.

ROTC To Give Scholarships

The U.S. Air Force will award 1,000 two-year scholarships to specially selected Air Force ROTC cadets throughout the nation in 1966, according to Lt. Col. Gerald T. Heyboer, professor of aerospace studies.

This is the same number of scholarships which was awarded last year when the program was initiated.

Colonel Heyboer said that nine Michigan State cadets received the scholarship in 1965 and about the same number will receive the scholarships this year.

Grasser Season Anticipated As Greeks Hold Sober TG

There is a way to combat the East Lansing-MSU drinking laws, and the members of two Greek houses may have found the solution.

Spring term and its inevitable grassers are still weeks away, but a TG is acceptable any time, even in the snow.

The men of Theta Chi fraternity and the women of Sigma Delta Tau sorority were supposed to have a social dessert Thursday night, but both social chairmen agreed that a dessert was too conventional and decided to change plans.

Because of the temperature, the cold weather was utilized and the dessert was changed to a snowball fight and marshmallow roast at the SDT house. Both men and women, however, had different plans for the evening...

The snowball fight was transferred to the IM field and the campus police notified as to the plans. As the men arrived to pick up the women, the attack began--with slightly frozen water balloons instead of snowballs.

The women were driven to the IM field and the snowball fight began.

"Unfortunately, the snow was not really good for packing," Chuck Whitner, Mt. Lebanon, Pa., sophomore, said, "so we tried something else--a snow football game. It just happened that one of the brothers had a football with him."

"We knew we would need some refreshments after the game," Bob Palmer, Detroit sophomore and Theta Chi social chairman, said, "and we thought of a remedy for that, too."

The solution was a keg filled with 10 gallons of Kool-Aid.

"We couldn't figure out what the boys were doing," Natalie Cohen, Pittsburgh, Pa., sophomore, and SDT social chairman said, "but then they tapped the keg and the liquid refreshment was non-alcoholic."

Students passing through the field on the way to the basketball game displayed puzzled glances as they saw and heard the group singing a round of "chug-a-lug," but the song continued.

Planners View Area Problems

By PAMELA MORRIS

MSU may be surrounded by urban ugliness in the year 2000 if the present "urban sprawl" is to continue at its present rate, said representatives from the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission (TCRPC) Wednesday evening at the Lansing City Hall.

The TCRPC is made up of representatives from Clinton, Eaton and Ingham counties who are seeking a long-range goal for planned growth in the Tri-County region.

"A shapeless urban sprawl creates a rubber-stamp, mass-produced appearance and this does not speak well for the heritage of a free and prosperous people," said William D. Rowden, assistant director of the commission.

Failure to create a better physical environment is difficult to understand when the creative strength and potentials of the free enterprise system are considered.

"But our higher incomes, improved mobility and increased leisure have not been used wisely enough to stem the powerful tide of decaying neighborhoods, traffic congestion, exploited resources and general urban ugliness," he said.

"These environmental problems can be solved if future growth is to have continuity and purpose," Rowden said. "Decisions of a broad policy nature must be arrived at by the general public."

How should the region grow? In what direction? For what purposes?

These are the questions the TCRPC hopes to answer by June 1, 1966. The commission has outlined three alternative plans for growth. One is to be adopted by the public as the long-term goal for the year 2000.

The three alternative plans are designed to solve the growth problems and provide for an enriched physical development.

"MSU's future expansion plans will not be directly affected by the three alternative plans proposed," said Herbert R. Meyer, spokesman for the commission, "but the proposed plans will provide MSU students with a more attractive community to live in which business and cultural centers will be better than ever."

The three alternative plans for growth are the Centralization Plan, the Satellite Communities Plan, and the Corridor Towns Plan.

The Centralization Plan envisions a planned concentration of urban growth. This pattern will contain higher density for houses, thereby making more efficient use of land and reducing public costs for water, sewer and other services.

Satellite Communities, the second growth plan, will feature development of the outlying cities and villages of the region.

A vast greenbelt, containing parks and open space, will separate the Lansing-East Lansing area from a ring of clustered satellite communities. Total public cost for this plan is $92 million.

The third alternative plan, the Corridor Town Plan, will channel future growth into extended fingers along regional transportation corridors.

While the Lansing-East Lansing area continues to expand under this plan, much of the new urban growth will be clustered around freeway interchanges where shopping centers and high rise buildings will serve as focal points.

National Voice Curator To Attend N.Y. Meeting

Robert G. Vincent, curator of the National Voice Library at MSU will attend a meeting of archivists, curators and collectors of sound recordings this weekend at Syracuse University. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a professional society.

Allen Leepa, associate professor of art, will participate in a panel discussion on contemporary art today at Western Michigan University.

The discussion, part of WMU's annual Fine Arts Festival, will be at 2 p.m. in the art department, and is open to the public. Leepa was recently awarded an honorable mention for his oil painting "Tempest Down the Ridge" in the Fourth Annual Michigan Regional Art Exhibition in South Bend, Ind.

William W. Heist, professor of English, is the author of "Vitae Sanctorum Hiberniae Ex Codice Olm Salmanticensis Nunc Bruxel-

Grant Concerns Hannah

Some of the advantages that MSU receives from its land grant might be taken away if "some bureaucrat in Washington" points to our missing land grant fund and decides that Michigan has broken its land grant contract, President John A. Hannah said Wednesday.

Its share of the annual federal government endowment to land grant schools, amounting this year to $14.5 million nationwide, is one of the advantages the school might lose, Hannah said.

MSU is still receiving its $74,000 a year representing the interest on the fund, stated Glenn Allen Jr., state budget director, even though the fund was spent in the 1870s.

Michigan received the $1 million land grant fund in the 1860s from the sale of land and it was to be held forever with the interest going to the state's land grant school.

Early Clergy Sowed Seeds Of Church-State Separation

New England clergymen unwittingly sowed the seeds for separation of church and state when they supported the American Revolution, John Forman, instructor in American Thought and Language, said Thursday night.

"They failed to appreciate the threat their teachings had for the established churches. The majority called for democracy in politics when democracy in politics meant resistance to Britain, not when it meant changes in the religious organization of Massachusetts or Connecticut," Forman said at an American Studies Seminar.

The clergy may not have been prepared for separation of church and state, but the revolutionists were prepared to criticize ecclesiastical and political misrule on the domestic level just as they had criticized English authority. Within 10 years after the revolution, most New England colonies had disestablished their churches," Forman added.

The church maintained a civil status in many states, however. In Massachusetts the taxpayer had to support the church through his tax money, but he could stipulate which sect his tax money was to support. If he made no such stipulation, the money went to the support of the Congregationalist Church, Forman said.

The Revolution gave Deism the chance to expand and many Americans came to regard it as the proper religion for a revolutionary nation, he said. The New England theocrats rightfully regarded deism as a threat to their churches.

"The church's aim was to ally itself with the conservative elements of government which would protect the interests of the establishment," Forman said. Deism became associated with the Jeffersonian Republican party and the church underwrote the future of the Federalist Party, he added.

Their support of John Adams as the defender of the faith was ironic because he shared approximately the same religious views as Jefferson, Forman said. However, the church attacked Jefferson because any man that could publicly stand up for differences of religion was, to them, a dangerous foe of society.

Blow a whole week's savings for a Sunday dinner date???

Go ahead if you want to. But it's really not necessary.

The Gas Buggy Room at Jack Tar Hotel is a pretty impressive place to take a date: good food, atmosphere, friendly service... just sort of all-around nice.

And when it comes to The Big Moment, you'll probably have some of your week's savings left. Full-course dinners start at only $2.75. And that's a bit of okay, right?

Dine at the Gas Buggy Room soon. It's a great way to begin an evening.

What does the Chicago Tribune want from Michigan State University?

YOU

if you're good enough.

Are you good enough to handle up to $500,000 in advertising billings next year?

As an advertising representative for the Chicago Tribune, you're actually an advertising advisor to top businessmen. You start out handling $100,000 in yearly billings. If you're really good, you may boost your volume as high as half a million dollars by the year's end.

Sure, that's a lot of money. But look at the product you're selling: the Chicago Tribune. Largest full-size daily paper in the nation, it carried a total of $85,000,000 worth of advertising last year.

It may look like a fraternity "bull session," but these Tribune salesmen are kicking around a new selling idea. Still in their 20's, already decision-makers.

To maintain its leadership, the Tribune needs young go-getters who are poised and self-confident, quick-thinking, imaginative, eager to learn, learn and win one promotion after another. There's always more work than you have time for, but you have a magnificent organization backing you up. There's the nation's largest staff of newspaper research and marketing experts... plus writers and artists to create ads for the space you sell.

At the Tribune, the pay, the generous fringe benefits and the management opportunities quickly bring out the best in you.

Does a career in advertising sound good to you? The Chicago Tribune offers the best.

Are you good enough to make the news staff of the nation's largest full-size daily paper?

Here's the "nerve-center" of the Chicago Tribune. Many famous writers and editors got their start in this newsroom. The best ones assume the editorial leadership for which the Tribune is noted.

When the Chicago Tribune taps you, you step right into big-time, big-city newspaper work as a member of a news staff of about 500.

To join the Tribune staff, you must be good and have the grades to prove it. You must be a good writer and be able to demonstrate it. You need a nose for news, quick reactions and the ability to work under pressure. Most of all, you should be dedicated to journalistic excellence and have some ideas of your own about how to achieve it.

Your very first assignment at the Chicago Tribune probably will be a writing job for one of the regular neighborhood news sections. You'll earn your way and learn by working with experienced editors and veteran reporters. You'll work hard, sometimes with irregular hours, to meet hourly deadlines.

Your rewards will reflect your performance. You can move on to copy-editing, makeup, feature writing. You may even make it into top management.

And the pay was never so good as it is today for bright young journalists.

If you have a good scholastic record with writing talent to match, try for the Chicago Tribune's famed news staff.

Are you good enough to win one of the Tribune's other specialized job openings for college graduates?

Big city newspapers are big business today. With the largest circulation of any standard-size newspaper in the U.S., the Tribune grows apace with Chicago and the Midwest.

As one of Chicago's largest businesses, the Tribune now employs more than 4,500 men and women with a multitude of skills. Constant promotions from within create new openings for such people as: research analysts and marketing experts, advertising artists and copywriters, public relations men, engineers and administrative specialists.

With such a wide variety of openings, your studies in any field—accounting, art, economics, English, even dramatics—may qualify you for a career with the Chicago Tribune.

These doors open wide each year for outstanding college graduates.

A Tribune representative will be on campus March 4, 1966. See your placement officer to arrange an interview.

Social Welfare Needs Church Watchdogs

By FAYE UNGER
State News Staff Writer

Two officials in Michigan's Department of Social Welfare are looking for a little more church "interference" in government.

"The tradition of separation of church and state creates confusion," Jacob Terpstra, consultant on children's agencies, said. "The churches feel they should stay out of government-related social welfare when they should be the watchdogs of all welfare projects."

Terpstra works under Lewis W. Knaggs, supervisor of technical services. Both officials agree church and government should cooperate in social welfare.

"The government can't do it all itself," Knaggs said. "The private organizations have something to offer. We want suggestions on ways of taking care of delinquent children other than training schools."

Cooperation between church and government in welfare has been growing in Michigan in the last three years, Knaggs said. The church works mainly in the areas of poverty and child care, however, the state mainly in aid to the disabled and unemployed.

The Department of Social Welfare underwrites the child day care programs of the Michigan Migrant Ministry and the Michigan Migrant Opportunities Organization, both sectarian organizations.

Churches, mainly Roman Catholic groups, run over 55 percent of the orphanages, foster home placement agencies and adoption agencies in Michigan. The department licenses the homes and agencies.

The state operates no summer camp programs and only two day care centers, one of which is experimental.

The Roman Catholic diocese of Detroit runs a program in cooperation with the federal poverty program. Employees in the project are not necessarily Catholic, however.

"In terms of child care, the only groups we take care of are those given us by the juvenile courts," Knaggs said.

The protective services legislation passed by the Michigan Legislature in 1965 provides for the state to purchase the services of licensed private agencies, including sectarian, in carrying out the social welfare programs suggested in the law.

An amendment to 1939 welfare legislation, the protective services legislation emphasizes providing programs to prevent delinquency and neglect of children. The law also expands services to the disabled, the unemployed and those needing medical care.

"One movement cutting across all social welfare work is the growing interest in volunteer services to supplement public services," Knaggs said. "Volunteer workers fight de-personalization in state programs. We have plenty of ways we can use people in supplementary services."

Social welfare services should come in as wide a variety of private-state mixtures as possible, Knaggs said.

"Private participation in government social welfare should stop when one organization takes over all of a welfare area," Terpstra remarked.

"But that includes the public programs," Knaggs added. "It's better if the state does not have a monopoly either."

Public money should not go to a sectarian organization serving only its own denomination, Terpstra said. The group should be serving the public.

Churches traditionally set up small programs of their own and did little for the masses of people, he remarked, but churches should be promoting social welfare for the benefit of all of society, if necessary by pressure on legislatures.

The churches should have social action committees on every level from congregation to national organization to study, and perhaps act on, major social issues, Terpstra said.

"It's healthier for private groups to assist the state, or perhaps the state assist private groups, in basic public programs rather than for a private group to insist on running the show themselves on public money," Terpstra said.

NEW SYMBOL FOR LENT

Prisoner Builds Ship Of Peace

A prisoner from the Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson designed and built the four-foot long, three-masted sailing ship which Martin Luther Chapel will use as its Lenten symbol.

The ship symbolizes the church as a place of peace, where the soul may find rest and a safe journey over the sea of life. Martin Luther Chapel is using the ship symbol rather than the usual crown and thorns symbol during Lent.

The prisoner who built the ship is the leading artisan in the prison hobby craft shop. The Rev. Theodore Bundenthal, Lutheran chaplain for the University from Martin Luther Chapel, said he decided to ask a prisoner to build the ship after visiting Jackson State Prison. The ship stands 38 inches high. The three masts symbolize God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit.

The Pinnacle Of Sex Involves Total Being

Sex is learned, and we learn to use sex correctly or perversely, to make us fuller persons or to dehumanize us, a clinical psychologist told students at St. John Student Parish Sunday.

"A disaster in the personal lives of a lot of people today is that they separate sex from the total human being," the Rev. Marvin Freihege, O.F.M., said. Fr. Freihege, a Franciscan friar who received his doctoral degree in clinical psychology at Catholic University, Washington, D.C., said sex should be defined as a quality of the whole person. He explained psychological reasons against artificial birth control, pre-marital intercourse and masturbation.

Fr. Freihege said there is a natural law of sexual behavior. He defined it as forms of behavior man finds it best to operate under. Man performs better if he conforms to the natural law on matters of sex, he said, however, man sometimes makes mistakes about how to define the natural law.

Sexual behavior is learned, Fr. Freihege said. Sex exists as a potential, but we must learn how, when and where to use it. For example, a man does not make sexual advances to his sister because he has learned not to. "We can learn correctly or perversely," Fr. Freihege said, "and if we act perversely over a long period of time, it will be that much harder to correct."

The criterion for right and wrong use of sex is what benefits the individual most as a total person, Fr. Freihege said. Fr. Freihege said that homosexuality is learned and can be unlearned.

"Sex should involve the total human being," Fr. Freihege said, "and when a man desires a girl in a pin-up he is not treating her as a total human being." Fr. Freihege said that a lot of men do not treat their wives as total human beings and for them sexual intercourse is not really an act of love.

"Sex is developmental," Fr. Freihege remarked, "and is capable of being developed with more and more meaning toward the other partner."

He said that physical relations before marriage are not necessary to convey love. If love has total meaning, it makes intercourse a gift rather than a "grabbing."

"Intercourse," he remarked, "should be the pinnacle of marriage so the whole being enters into it."

Love is a whole human commitment to a state of behavior. He said that if people look at love as giving, they will not be denied genuine love; but if they look at love as getting, they will only become frustrated.

"Masturbation is unreal," he said, "it is an escape to quick satisfaction."

Fr. Freihege said that a person who masturbates habitually over a long period of time will develop undesirable personality traits. Masturbation is an easy way to handle depression and other frustrations, he said.

Being used to taking the easy way out through masturbating, a person may not be capable of adhering to his long range goals in life, Fr. Freihege said.

He said that a person who masturbates, instead of embracing a whole human being, only imagines one aspect of a human.

People who are not able to control masturbation are not guilty of any wrong, however.

"I do not believe that couples should have children indefinitely and trust in God," Fr. Freihege said.

He went on to say that there are cases where couples have a moral obligation not to have more children for financial or emotional reasons.

Fr. Freihege said that the answer to this problem is restraint rather than artificial birth control devices.

He said that people cannot love completely by using contraceptives, that contraceptives put something inhuman in a relationship, that they inhibit and detract from the freeness of the love act.

'Orthodoxy' Services Set

Orthodox students and faculty will participate in "Orthodoxy Sunday" services at 6:30 p.m. Saturday and at 9:30 a.m. Sunday at St. Andrew Orthodox Church, 1216 Greencrest St.

Orthodox Christians celebrate "Orthodoxy Sunday" each year on the first Sunday in Lent to commemorate the triumph of the Orthodox faith over iconoclasm in the eighth century.

The congregational recitation of the ancient Nicene-Constantinopolitan Creed is one of the climatic points in Sunday's liturgy.

Students needing transportation should telephone Yvonne Evanoff, IV 5-6063.

A specially written and illustrated narrative Eucharist will be presented at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services at Martin Luther Chapel Sunday.

Philip Walther, VanWert, Ohio, freshman, will narrate the order of worship. The narrative service is written to aid worshippers in understanding the liturgy to know why they do what they do, when they do it.
