

CIA Defends Its Use Of MSU In Viet Project

By JOAN T. SOLOMON
State News Staff Writer

A former director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and MSU's acting dean of international programs strongly disagree on the use of a university--Michigan State in particular--as a front group for undercover work.

Lyman Kirkpatrick, a CIA head for 18 years, Sunday vigorously defended the use of MSU's technical aid project in South Viet Nam as a front group for intelligence operations.

The University's seven-year program, in operation from 1954-62, is currently under fire as a result of a critical article in this month's Ramparts Magazine.

Kirkpatrick said the CIA signed a contract with the University to support a police training project in South Viet Nam. He said the University had full knowledge of the agency's role in the assistance project.

The former director said he did not see where the intelligence operation was contrary to the interests of the academic institution.

"I don't see anything sinister in the use of the aid mission as a front," he said. "I don't see anything that is contrary to the academic interests of an American university."

It is on this point--whether involvement with the CIA is contrary to the interests of a university--that Kirkpatrick and Ralph H. Smuckler, acting dean of international programs and former campus coordinator of the Viet Nam project, disagree.

"It is definitely not in the interests of a university to have CIA people involved in its projects," Smuckler said Monday. "It is not right for a university to provide cover for intelligence work or to have people on its staff clearly involved in undercover work."

He said the CIA people working with the MSU project were involved in the police training program and were not doing undercover work.

University officials said last week that it dropped the CIA personnel from the project in 1959 when it discovered the intelligence operation during the Diem regime.

Kirkpatrick said he felt the South Viet Nam government was "probably quite aware" of the CIA's role in the overseas project.

Smuckler confirmed this, saying, "Of course the Viet government knew about the presence of the CIA people."

Smuckler said he was surprised the former CIA director had made any comment on the agency's role in the MSU project. Since the controversy came up last week, the CIA, a notoriously silent organization, has refused to comment.

Two attempts will be made soon to clear up some of the confusion surrounding MSU's involvement in Viet Nam.

A panel discussion sponsored by Delta Phi Epsilon foreign service honorary will be held at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Union.

Speakers include Adrian Jaffe, professor of English; Wesley Fishel, professor of political science and key figure in the Viet project; and Robert Scigliano, professor of political science and author of a book on the MSU project. Charles Adrian, professor of political science, will moderate.

President John A. Hannah will also attempt to clarify the University's role overseas in an appearance before a state legislative subcommittee sometime in May.

Some Michigan legislators have indicated that an investigation may be held on the connection between MSU and the CIA and the use of university funds for federal projects.

Rusk Says War Won't Stop Election

WASHINGTON (AP)--Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Monday South Viet Nam can work out fair and orderly elections, despite the rigors of war--and if the people eventually choose a neutralist regime that would create no problem for the United States.

"We're not out beating the drums for more allies," Rusk said. "What we must understand, though, is that Hanoi is not interested in a nonaligned South Viet Nam. They want South Viet Nam."

Rusk testified at a crowded, floodlit hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

There was no discussion of possible peace overtures at the hearing on the administration's $3.4-billion foreign-aid bill, but in the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the United States should try to arrange a Viet Nam peace conference in Japan or Burma. He said the participants should include the United States, North Viet Nam, China and opposing elements in South Viet Nam.

The Montana senator said President Johnson is following a wise, restrained course in the political discord besetting the South Vietnamese regime of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

"Recent events tell us that there is trouble in Viet Nam," Mansfield said. "We will do well, now, to face up to the fact and to the fact that we are deeply enmeshed in the trouble."

Mansfield said the time had come for "direct confrontation across the peace table between ourselves and Hanoi, Peking and such elements as may be essential to the making and keeping of a peaceful settlement in that region."

The Democratic leader did not discuss Hanoi's earlier reluctance to enter negotiations during Johnson's campaign for peace talks.

Rusk testified at a televised committee session which drew an overflow crowd of tourists and onlookers.

While foreign aid was his mission, much of the talk swirled around Viet Nam.

Rusk said South Viet Nam would hold elections in August to choose a constitution-drafting assembly. And he said the United States is glad the elections are coming.

ASMSU Structure Revised

ASMSU Student Board moved to revise the entire ASMSU cabinet structure at a special meeting of the board Sunday night.

"The new structure emerged out of a need to make the cabinet structure more logical," said Terry Hassold, cabinet president.

James Tanck, ex-cabinet president, recommended changes in the cabinet structure in his year-end report to the board. Cabinet structure finally adopted by the Student Board was drawn up by Hassold when he applied for cabinet president with a few minor changes.

Four cabinet vice presidencies are found under the new structure. These are, respectively, vice president for special projects, University Programs, Student Services, Financial Services and Operations. Applications for any of the cabinet vice presidencies may be obtained from the cabinet office, 334 Student Services. Applicants are appointed by the cabinet president with approval of a majority of the Student Board.

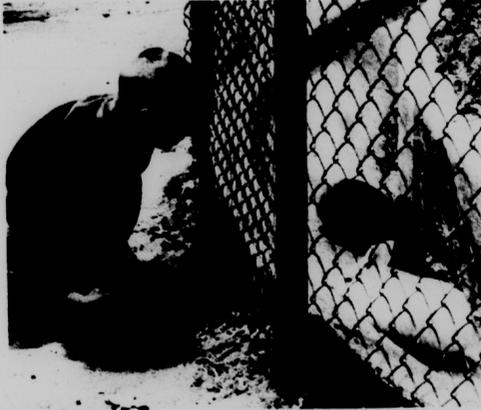

ASMSU offices of Student Affairs, University Affairs, Academic Affairs, and Finance and Operations were dropped with the adoption of the new structure.

According to Jim Carbine, Student Board vice chairman, some of these offices called for cabinet vice presidents with nothing to do, and others with too much to do.

Hassold said the new structure divides the cabinet structure in operational categories, rather than spheres of operation found under the old organization.

For example, tutoring service, formerly under Student Affairs, and Silk Screening, formerly under Finance and Operations, were both brought under Student Services.

ASMSU finance, formerly a cabinet position, was brought under direct control of the ASMSU Student Board in a motion passed by the board last term.

IN 5-4 RULING

Court Axes Loyalty Oaths

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The Supreme Court, continuing its rulings against state loyalty oaths, Monday struck down an Arizona law requiring public employees to swear to uphold the state and U.S. Constitutions.

In a 5-4 ruling, the court declared the law unconstitutional on grounds it "threatens the cherished freedom of association protected by the 1st Amendment."

The decision was the fourth of its kind since 1960. The court already has ruled against similar loyalty oaths in Arkansas, Florida and Washington.

Justice William O. Douglas said in the majority opinion that the Arizona law was based on the doctrine of "guilt by association." He said a person might belong to an organization considered subversive but not agree with its illegal aims.

"A law which applies to membership without the 'specific intent' to further the illegal aims of the organization infringes unnecessarily on protected freedoms," Douglas said.

In 1961, the Arizona legislature voted to make liable for perjury, prosecution and dismissal any public employee who took the oath and willfully became or remained a member of the Communist Party or other organizations advocating the overthrow of the state government.

Relay 'Kinks' Cause Third Power Failure

"Kinks" in the new power plant equipment caused another power failure Monday morning, according to plant officials.

The failure, similar to the one that occurred 13 days ago, was a result of relay malfunction.

The relay problem is in the "fine-eye" unit which monitors the flame in the boiler. It is a safety device which shuts off the coal feed to the fire.

The safety device is "ironing itself out," said the plant official. Power service was restored by simply lighting the flame. There was no other malfunction. However, the system had to be thoroughly checked.

Jenison Fieldhouse was without power service for the longest time--two hours. Other areas throughout the entire campus, from Olds Hall, to the Vet Medicine Building, to the Akers-Fee-Holmes complex, were dimmed for approximately a half-hour.

The power failure caused injuries to at least one student, Campus Police reported.

Marjorie Lowder, Allen, Kans., graduate student, was practicing the piano in the auditorium of the Music Building when the lights went off. She apparently then went to the side of the stage and fell in the orchestra pit.

Miss Lowder was taken to Olin Health Center and was reported in good condition late Monday afternoon.

This was the third failure resulting from the same malfunction to affect the campus.

NEW TREND

'In Loco' Loses To Due Process

By ANDREW MOLLISON
State News Staff Writer

Farewell, "In Loco Parents." Hello, "Due Process."

Both sets of guidelines issued by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs in the last month indicate that the death knell of "In Loco Parents" will soon be sounded at Michigan State.

Even if they are slightly reworded after comments from students, faculty and administrators are considered, the tenor of the guidelines is clear: an institution with 35,000 students is neither capable of, nor responsible for, acting "in place of their parents."

"Due Process," the concept which guides the relationship of a citizen to the civil community, will probably someday guide the relationship of a student to the academic community.

The guidelines issued last month by the committee actually redefine the purposes of a university. It is seen as a specialized "community" with the purposes of enlarging, disseminating and applying knowledge.

All "laws" of this community, including those which exist only because they are left over from some previous era, are said to be subject to review.

A citizen in the civil community can appeal the constitutionality of any law, claiming that the law denies him his rights or fails to serve the purpose of the community.

Under the proposed guidelines, a student could claim that a particular rule either contradicted or served the purposes of the University. The burden of proof is placed upon the rulemaker, not on the student.

A lot of people might want to know what dining hall dress regulations have to do with "the enlargement, dissemination and application of knowledge."

A lot of people might want to know if the rules for distribution of literature could possibly be justified in view of

Faculty Appraisal 2/3 Completed

The student's right to privacy, his right to see what other people are writing about him and his right to be evaluated only by competent and responsible individuals are the latest concern of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

The committee is two-thirds of the way through its six-month study of all rules, regulations and structures of the University.

Comments on the committee's "tentative guideline on student records" are invited from all interested students, according to Frederick D. Williams, committee chairman.

All 1,600 members of the Academic Senate will receive copies of this and other guidelines, so that they too can comment.

Woodrow Snyder, chairman of the subcommittee on student records, said Monday that two-man teams from his seven-member study group will interview more than three dozen record-keepers to see how their present policies measure up to the tentative guidelines. Suggestions for changes in the guidelines will also be considered.

The new guidelines were drafted by the subcommittee and approved by the faculty committee. They place the burden of justifying all existing files upon the people who keep records, instead of upon the people mentioned in them.

Records must be demonstrably related to the basic purposes of the University, according to the guidelines.

The committee recommends that no records shall be kept of a student's religious or political beliefs.

One of the proposed guidelines states that "evaluation of students shall be permitted or required only by persons who are qualified to make the evaluation involved."

Another guideline calls for destruction of all disciplinary records upon a student's graduation, so that undergraduate incidents will not haunt a person for the rest of his life.

"A student shall have the right to inspect the official transcript of his own academic record, (and) . . . reports and evaluations of his conduct," according to one guideline. The only exceptions would be letters of recommendation and similar evaluations "which are properly prepared on a confidential basis."

Access to records should be only on a "need to know" basis as far as anyone other than the student himself is concerned, suggests the committee.

All these recommendations and others will be reviewed once again by the committee before it submits its final report to the Academic Council in June.

Ship On Fire In Atlantic Still Missing

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI)-- A Guatemalan vessel carrying 22 persons and a highly flammable cargo radioed an SOS Monday that it was afire and a lightship off the Carolina coast reported smoke on the horizon.

An intensive Coast Guard search off the South Carolina coast switched to the north just before dusk when the frying pan lightship off Cape Fear, N.C., reported smoke to the southwest.

The cutter Cape Morgan was steaming full speed for the scene. The Coast Guard said it received only a brief, garbled distress call from the vessel Quetzaltenango, a 282-foot cargo ship with 118 drums of flammable cargo on its decks.

"An accurate position was not obtainable but it was believed the vessel was somewhere off South Carolina," the Coast Guard said. "No further communication has been heard from the vessel."

The Coast Guard has three cutters, a twin-engine Albatross plane and a helicopter searching an area 150 miles offshore between Cape Fear and Brunswick, Ga.

After five hours, no trace of the ship had been found.

COLOR HER 'MOTHER'

Streisand Expecting

LONDON (UPI)--Funny girl Barbra Streisand is expecting a baby in mid-December, it was announced Monday.

A spokesman said the sultry gamine and her actor-husband, Elliott Gould, were "thrilled and have been hoping for a baby since their marriage."

Miss Streisand, who will be 24 next Monday, opened in London last Wednesday with "Funny Girl" to rave reviews.

The spokesman said she would keep her contract to appear in the show here until July 16 but will have to cancel her American concert tour scheduled for the late fall, which would have brought her more than a million dollars.

Miss Streisand met Gould when she auditioned for a part in a show called "I Can Get It For You Wholesale," in which he was the leading man.

ASMSU Challenge: Continue, Improve, Innovate

ASMSU FACES a challenge--the challenge to continue where the last board left off and follow through with existing programs and enact those still in the making. Like all new governments, ASMSU has the obligation to initiate and establish new programs, besides the old ones it sets into motion.

Now in existence for a year, the new form of student government, ASMSU, seems to be a success. At least when compared with its predecessor it certainly is. ASMSU has had its ups and downs but has consistently provided or attempted to provide more services and assistance for students than ever before.

But as one of the new board members pointed out, ASMSU spent much time on problems faced only by a group when it begins to function. It had to set precedents and lay the groundwork for future boards.

There were mistakes: like the manner in which the board handled The Paper affair and the super-quick procedure it followed in passing financial compensation for future board members. But there were also accomplishments, such as the expansion of legal aid and the culmination of the campus radio study, which was ultimately passed in a student referendum.

HOPEFULLY, THE NEW board will take advantage of the experience gained in the first year and the problems encountered. The board, after it reorganizes in the next few weeks, should begin action on existing programs.

The All-Campus Radio Network must be properly implemented, now that it received the approval of the Board of Trustees. Establishing a student-operated bookstore or book exchange has been in the planning stages for two terms, and it's time for the student board to take some concrete action. A real, money-saving service could be provided if it proved successful. ASMSU must find the right combination to make such a project work and then gather the student support to back it.

THOUGH ONLY ONE of the candidates we endorsed in the ASMSU elections won last week, we are optimistic that the new board will be active, effective and represent the best interests of its constituents. And if and when it doesn't, we will be among the first to say so.

Mao Spurns Interaction, World Peace Suffers

IN A WORLD where civilization can be obliterated in half an hour, communication is essential. But communication means more than radio or telephone contact. It means understanding others, talking with the adversary and thus exchanging ideas with him.

To Americans, Red China is an enigma. This is because we have almost no contact with the Communist Chinese.

IN ONE OF the best foreign policy moves of his administration, President Johnson recently announced a program designed to open the gates of the bamboo curtain for increased communication between U.S. and Chinese scholars.

His invitation to the Red Chinese to send their scholars and scientists to visit American universities is a possible start towards a genuine exchange of ideas between two very different civilizations. Our government has also eased travel restrictions to China for American scientists and scholars, all in the hope of increasing understanding. Whether genuine communication develops is now up to the Red Chinese.

BUT COMMUNIST CHINESE leaders violently oppose any measures that would increase interaction between the two societies. To quote the official Chinese statement on our government's proposals: "It is obvious that the U.S. aim is to deceive the American people and world opinion and exploit the American people's friendly sentiments for China in the interest of its policy of hostility towards China."

This official statement says nothing. It is clearly a rationalization. The Red Chinese have real reasons for opposing our government's proposals, and they do not care to advertise these reasons to the outside world.

BACK in 1957, Mao felt pretty self-confident. He eased the restrictions on self-expression, and encouraged intellectuals and scholars to articulate publicly their views on the regime.

As a result, the intellectuals castigated everything from Mao to thought control. It was too much for Mao. A minor purge followed, and criticism was quelled.

MAO NEVER FORGOT this free speech movement that backfired, for it brought to the surface the ever-present criticism of the Communist regime.

As long as the lid remains on China, Mao has little to worry about in the field of criticism. But if he allowed the intellectuals to visit America and see that we are not really heartless devils, he might be opening his regime to a broadside of criticism that might cause considerable turmoil.

BUT EVEN IF he was able to quell any criticism, the Red Chinese who visited America might decide that Americans are not so bad after all; that Americans may not be China's sworn enemy.

And Mao realizes that this alone could take the fire out of the Red Chinese dragon. If the Communist regime is to prosper, the masses must be stimulated to work. Also any misfortunes must be blamed on a scapegoat.

THE U.S. CONVENIENTLY serves both purposes. The violent anti-U.S. feeling bred in China puts steam in the people's boilers. Misfortunes are blamed on America, so the pressure is taken off the regime, and anti-American sentiment is increased.

Mao does not want the people of his nation to alter their image of the U.S. He does not want to forfeit the propaganda function the U.S. plays, even if world peace and understanding suffer as a result.

Procrastination

SIGNS PRINTED "Procrastinators protest the war of 1812! and 'President Madison this is your War!' were paraded by members of the Philadelphia chapter of the Procrastinators Club as they marched in protest against the War of 1812 -- last month.

While other groups may protest the war in Viet Nam, or nuclear bombs, on the rising price of grognooks, the members of the Procrastinators Club are just getting around to protesting the War of 1812.

IN DEFENSE OF procrastinators, one club member commented that many things are better put off for later--such as war.

It's too bad that all men can't be procrastinators when it comes to starting wars.

Space Race Contributing To Age's Disillusionment

To the Editor:

What could be a more timely subject to talk and think about? The United States now is spending billions of dollars a year for the exploration of space and Russia is doing the same. Both countries are striving for the ultimate goal of landing men on the moon which, when it happens, will probably be just one of the many anticlimaxes that are to come until we finally conquer all of space or kill ourselves trying.

Space has been the cause for much disillusionment in many areas. It is an accepted fact that our ignorance far outweighs our knowledge about space, and yet people are becoming the victims of many would-be philosophers and scientists who, in an attempt to answer some as yet unanswered questions, have done some heinously wild and unwarranted speculation about many subjects. Don't misunderstand me, I am not condemning them for speculating, but I am condemning them for expounding their doctrines as truth. These speculations should always be made absolutely clear as such.

College students seem to be ultra-susceptible to all of this intellectual speculative gobbledygook that goes on. In our own

Michigan State News, April 13, we have a summary of Mr. Jastrow's lecture, rather speculation, on how "Cosmic Processes Led to Life", presented as THE GOSPEL TRUTH. Nowhere in the article is any hint given that the lecture is sheer speculation.

"God is Dead," is becoming more and more true in more peoples lives every day simply because they are being "sucked in" by the speculations of people in whose lives God is dead already, and who are seeking some other structure for their philosophies. These philosophies often end up answering more questions than older ideas, often very immature, about God, but are so far-fetched as to seem almost laughable if not pathetic.

As a result, people today believe and accept as utter unadulterated truth anything that is labeled with some professor's name. This type of gullibility has given rise to the belief in flying saucers, Marsmen, and almost anything that has anything to do with the feared and unknown.

In the words of Arthur C. Clarke, "Unfortunately, common sense has always been rather rare. But we are moving now into a complex and perilous age, where credulity and superstition are luxuries that can no longer be afforded."

Yetta Is Just A Big Fake

YETTA BRONSTEIN is a fake. The 48-year-old Jewish housewife-turned-politician from the Bronx doesn't exist, and the disclosure of this fact last week struck a deadly blow to the hopes of those who would wish to see a woman in the White House.

For two years a 28-year-old New York woman has fooled the American public into believing in a Yetta Bronstein who was running for President of the United States in 1964 and 1968 on a platform of better government, stronger government, national bing, fluoridation and sex education.

SHE HAD "YOUTH for Yetta" chapters organized on major university campuses across the country.

She had a slogan--"Vote for Yetta and watch things get better."

She had a campaign song, to the tune of "When the Saints Go Marching In":

Vote Bronstein In
Vote Bronstein In
Get Bronstein in to
The White House
She wants to run
For number one
In the Capitol Washington

There'll be a change
There'll be a change
There'll be a change
In government
When Yetta gets
To be First Lady
And also President."

AS A CANDIDATE of The Best Party, Mrs. Bronstein based her campaigns on her mother image.

"If a mother was in the White House, who would open a big mouth to her?" she asked.

In an open letter to college students, she urged them to vote for her and help put a mother in the big white house on Pennsylvania Avenue.

"I promise," she wrote, "to run this great country the same way I run my home."

America needs a mother as President, according to Mrs. B., because your mother is the only person in life you can trust and the one who handles the money and makes all the important decisions in the family.

"Think of all the things your mother did for you: the feeding, changing, washing, ironing, telling bedtime stories, lying for you, crying for you...everything to make you big and strong.

"Now you can pay her back by putting me in office. I will represent all your mothers and act in their behalf for you."

MRS. B. promised there would be no stealing, cheating or arguing among her government officials in Washington.

She had plans to raise postal revenues by putting Jayne Mansfield on a postage stamp.

She rallied 200 women supporters and offered to drive New York City subway trains in order to solve the recent transit strike.

She spoke out on civil rights--"If people are civil, they're right," she believed.

She challenged Barry Goldwater to a debate "anytime, anywhere on any subject."

She planned to run for governor of Alabama against Mrs. George Wallace.

She--but what does it matter? Yetta Bronstein is a fake.

ON A PLATFORM of clean teeth, clean sex and clean fun, wouldn't you kind of expect it?

Expressed Soviet Threat Unsupported

To the Editor:

Your recent editorial concerning the Soviet economy failed to give any grounds for concluding that a revamped Russian economy would be a "chilling threat." Perhaps you are sure that an evolving economic policy can in no way lead to an evolution of foreign policy. Or perhaps you maintain that any prosperous nation is a threat to the rest of the world by its very position on the top of the heap (which says something about United States). Or perhaps our precious ideas might have to be examined. If you intend to tell us your conclusions, then please give us your reasons, so that they can be examined on their own merits.

CHESTER, England (UPI)--Two young lovers step into the new bullet-proof dock of the courthouse here Tuesday in the "bodies on the moon" case. They are accused of murders so bizarre the chief law officer of the crown will conduct the prosecution. Rusk Urges Viet Factions To Maintain Anti-Red Front

WASHINGTON (UPI)--Secretary of State Dean Rusk urged South Viet Nam's political factions Monday to maintain a solid front against Communist aggression while they struggle to create a new government.

Rusk said the United States

would not object if South Viet Nam elected a "non-aligned" government. But he said this would not be acceptable to Hanoi, whose leaders "want South Viet Nam."

Under pressure from Buddhists, the military regime of Premier Nguyen Cao Kay has agreed to mid-August elections for a constitution-drafting national assembly.

Nothing that recent political turmoil has accelerated the timetable for elections, Rusk said. "It is important that these political processes proceed on the basis of solidarity on the eventual aims with respect to South Viet Nam."

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that all the quarreling factions apparently are agreed "that they reject the Viet Cong and the efforts of Hanoi to impose a political solution upon the South by force."

Berlo Gets GOP County Post, Will Head E. Lansing Groups

An MSU professor, David K. Berlo, has been appointed to the position of assistant chairman of the Ingham County Republican Committee. The appointment was announced by John P. McGoff of Williamston who is county chairman.

Berlo, Chairman of the Department of Communications, will be responsible for all Republican party organization in the first ward of Lansing, the City of East Lansing and Meridian Township. He is also chairman of the East Lansing Human Rights Commission, and was active in Leroy Augenstein's try for the party's senate nomination.

Berlo has also written several books and is a member of the American Psychological Association, American Sociological Association, American Association for Public Opinion Research and the Speech Association of America.

"The committee is fortunate to have a man of Dr. Berlo's experience and abilities directing the party's activities in these key areas of the county during this crucial election year; he will work closely with the city, ward and precinct chairman in developing programs and campaign strategy," McGoff said.

Little Albion College, located some 50 miles southwest of here, will give the Spartan baseball team its final pre-conference competition today before the Big Ten season opens Friday.

rollment numbering close to two thousand, is scheduled to take its first turn at bat here at 3:30 on Old College Field.

With a doubleheader sweep behind them and a 10-8-1 record for the first part of the season, the Spartans are intent on extending their winning string to four games.

They have won seven of their last nine ball games, including two of three from Ball State a week ago.

"We should take this one," said Coach Danny Litwhiler Monday morning in his office. "But they'll be out for us—just like Detroit was. It's always a feather in their cap to beat a big school like Michigan State."

Last year Albion was beaten 20-1 by the Spartans in a game that was rescheduled due to inclement weather earlier in the season.

In total games between the two clubs the Spartans hold a 40-20-1 edge over Albion. The last time an Albion team beat MSU was in 1907 with a 4-2 victory.

Jim Goodrich will be on the mound for the Spartans when the game opens, but will give way to Dick Kenney after a couple of innings.

"I want to get them ready for the Big Ten," said Litwhiler. "They'll work Tuesday and then they can go again this weekend."

State opens the conference Friday with a game at home against Ohio State, last year's Big Ten champion. Saturday MSU meets Indiana twice at Old College Field.

In pitching Goodrich and Kenney against Albion, Litwhiler is hopeful that the two can work out some problems they had against Detroit.

Goodrich was tagged for five runs and eight hits in six innings of work. He was not the same pitcher that held Ball State to two hits and no runs a week ago.

"Jim may be the pitcher that needs a lot of work," said Litwhiler. "I'm going to pitch him more."

"Actually I think he was too strong against Detroit. His ball was moving fast but it was taking off on him."

As for Kenney, the Hawaiian-born star has two victories to his credit, but a wild first inning against Detroit, in which he walked three straight men and a fourth for the Titans' lone run, has Litwhiler worried.

"If you told me that Kenney walked three men in a row and I hadn't seen it, I'd say you're crazy," said Litwhiler. "He's just not that kind of pitcher. Maybe he was just too warmed up."

Russell First Negro To Coach In NBA

BOSTON P.—Bill Russell, former All-America whose defensive wizardry built the Boston Celtics into a perennial power, was named coach of the National Basketball Assn. club Monday, becoming the first Negro to head a major league sports team.

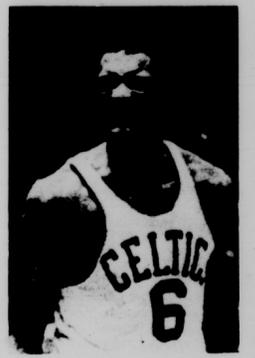

"I'm pleased, proud and happy," Russell told a news conference. "Once again the Celtics are making National Basketball Assn. history—not only on the court but on the bench."

The 32-year-old Russell, who is completing the first season of a three-year contract paying him $100,000 annually will move into the role of player-coach after the Celtics wind up their championship series with Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers hold a 1-0 advantage in the best-of-seven series. Russell's appointment was announced by Red Auerbach, who is retiring from the coaching ranks to devote full time to duties as the Celtics' general manager.

"He's got all the responsibility," Auerbach said. "He is going to be the boss. He is going to run the ball club."

Russell, who has said repeatedly in the past he was not interested in coaching because of age and frustration that goes with the job, said he changed his mind after much deliberation. "I consider this one of the most personal challenges I've had in the past 10 years," the 6-foot-10 Russell said. "When Red first asked me, I thought he was putting me on. Then he assured me he sincerely wanted me to take the job."

"My first consideration was the team. Then I figured that I could do the job and also could stand the aggravation that goes with coaching. I finally decided it might be a lot of fun."

Benson, Mackey Lead 'S' Golfers

By DAN DROSKI
State News Sports Writer

Although the Spartan golfers opened their Big Ten season with a rather lackluster team performance, seniors Ken Benson and Fred Mackey turned in creditable scores.

Both were near the top of the individual listings, but the next MSU player was far down the line.

Benson and Mackey are returning lettermen, and they should provide leadership for some of the younger players.

Benson is the team captain and a two-time letter-winner. He graduated from Crete-Monee High School and won the Chicago District Golf Assn. tournament in 1963.

He is a pre-med major and has a younger brother, Steve, a sophomore also on the golf squad.

The Spartan captain averaged 77.5 as a sophomore and 76.2 as a junior last year. He is long off the tee and has been improving his putting and chipping.

Benson finished 17th in the conference tournament last year and is expected to place much higher this year, with a good chance of winning the Big Ten individual crown.

Benson played steady golf in the Spartans first match, shooting rounds of 72 and 76.

"Ken is a very consistent player, and should card some of our team's lowest scores as the season progresses," said Coach Bruce Fossum. "Ken played down at Columbus with a slight touch of the flu, but it didn't affect his game that much."

A 36-hole tournament may turn into something of an endurance test, but it is still important that you keep your mind from wandering. "You have to mentally condition yourself to play this game well," said Fossum.

Mackey, the Spartans' other top player, is completing his third year as a member of the varsity team. He ranked second on the squad last year, averaging 77.2 strokes per match. Mackey is a senior from Baldwin, N.Y., and is being counted on to help lift MSU into the first division of the Big Ten.

In the conference opener last Saturday, Mackey played very steady golf, firing a 73 and a 74. He was the leading Spartan scorer and finished fourth in the individual race.

"I was very happy with Fred's performance," said Fossum. "If he continues to play as well as I know he can, we should have a pretty solid team when we go into the Big Ten championships later in May."

The Spartans, as a team, were third at the end of Saturday's first round, 10 shots back of Purdue and five strokes behind Ohio State.

"In the final round our scores were a little higher, and this, combined with Indiana's improved play, dropped us into fourth place," said Fossum.

If Fossum can find two or three players who can card scores similar to those of Benson and Mackey, the Spartans should be much stronger in future meets. MSU will face Iowa, Indiana and Notre Dame this Saturday at the Iowa City course.

WINGS LEAD SERIES, 3-2

Hawks Near Elimination

DETROIT P.—The Chicago Black Hawks are on the brink of elimination from the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs. But Billy Reay, the Hawks' coach, and Bobby Hull, their scoring ace, think the team can bounce back to beat Detroit in the best-of-seven semifinals. The Red Wings took a 3-2 lead by defeating the Hawks 5-3 in Chicago Stadium Sunday. The sixth game will be played here tonight and the seventh, if needed, on the Black Hawks' ice Thursday night. "We were down to the Wings in the first round last year and came back to make the finals," Hull pointed out.

"We can do it again. We just have to keep fighting."

Hull, whose 54 goals set a regular season record, admitted his left knee, injured in the semifinal opener, is giving him trouble. "But," he said, "I'll be glad to put these knees to work for six or seven more games."

Hull has scored only two goals in the playoffs. However, Reay is not blaming his leading scorer for the Hawks' standing.

"There are two or three other players who aren't contributing to the cause," Reay said. "In fact, that's pretty well been the story of the series so far. Their big guys are outplaying ours."

The Red Wings' stars have been Andy Bathgate, who has scored four goals; Gordie Howe, with three, and Norm Ullman and Paul Henderson, with two each.

Bill Gadsby, 38 years old and playing his 29th season, has been a standout on defense for Detroit. "All he's doing is everything," said Hull.

"I think the week's rest I had just before the playoffs did me a lot of good," said Gadsby, who had been out with an ankle bruise. "We have them good now. If we can just get rid of them Tuesday we'll have four days rest."

Whether the series goes six or seven games, the winner will play the Montreal Canadiens in the first game of the championship final in Montreal Sunday afternoon.

Clay Sees Challenge In Cooper

CHICAGO P.—Cassius Clay, who has agreed to defend his heavyweight boxing title in London May 21 against Britain's Henry Cooper, said Sunday it's the biggest challenge offered. "Cooper's a bigger challenge than Sonny Liston or Floyd Patterson," Clay said when he signed his end of the agreement Saturday night.

Cooper, rated fourth among heavyweights by Ring Magazine, is the only fighter who has knocked Clay down. He fought Clay in 1963.

Clay's attorney, Edward W. Jacke, who was to turn the contract over to Cooper's attorneys in New York Sunday, said it gave Clay 50 per cent of the gate and has a guarantee of more than $25,000. There is no return bout clause.

The fight is set and only a draft board in Kentucky can now prevent Britain's first world heavyweight championship bout.

Clay's appeal against his reclassification to 1-A will be heard by a state board of appeals Thursday.

If he falls the draft board could refuse him permission to leave the country—and the big fight would be off.

MSU Pongers Win Tourney

Seventy players from all parts of the world participated in the second annual International Club Table Tennis Tournament last weekend at the IM.

Gary Compton, Detroit freshman, and Ralph Stadelman, Lafayette sophomore, teamed up to win the doubles championship in the American-dominated men's division. Compton also took first and Stadelman second in singles.

In the women's division, Isaid Ed-Darwish, U.A.R. graduate student, first place honors over Janet Potter, Oceanside, N.Y., sophomore.

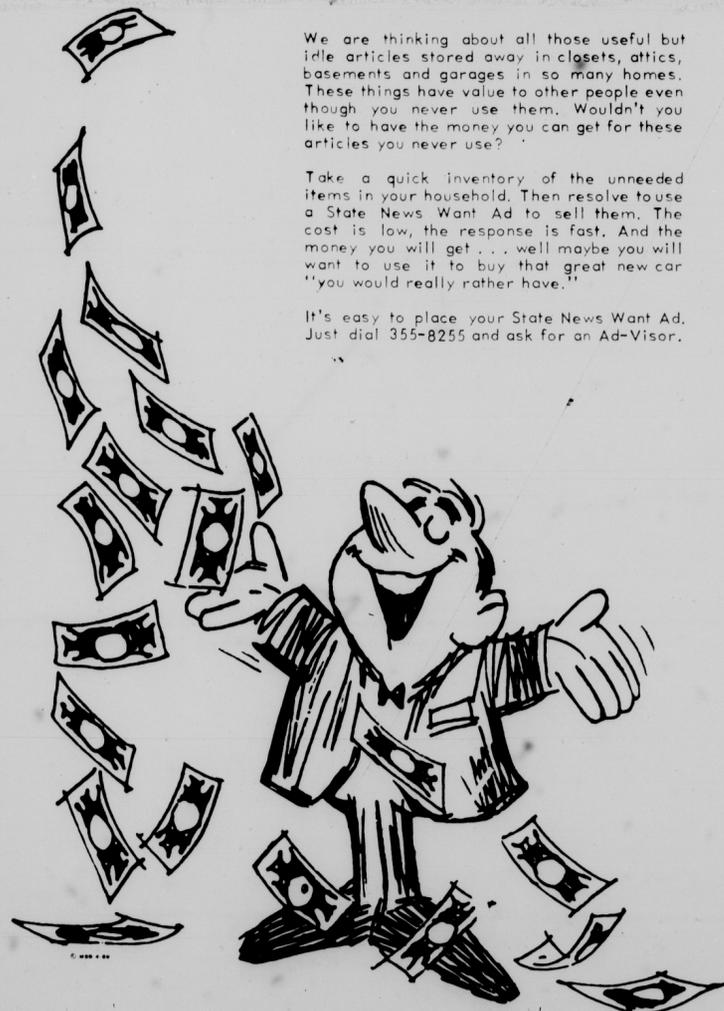

Hagan Nana, Ghana graduate student, and Vicki Marcarian, New Jersey graduate student, won the mixed doubles title.

Wouldn't you really rather have the money?

We are thinking about all those useful but idle articles stored away in closets, attics, basements and garages in so many homes. These things have value to other people even though you never use them. Wouldn't you like to have the money you can get for these articles you never use?

Take a quick inventory of the unneeded items in your household. Then resolve to use a State News Want Ad to sell them. The cost is low, the response is fast. And the money you will get... well maybe you will want to use it to buy that great new car "you would really rather have."

Faculty Guideline Protects Privacy Of Student Files

Achieving educational goals, providing direction to students and extending service to society demand that the University keep records. All policies and practices concerning records shall be based on respect for the privacy of the individual student. Because of the professional and legal responsibilities involved, record keeping must be delegated only to responsible persons.

In order to protect the privacy of the student and to facilitate the definition of responsible policies and practices relative to student records, the following guidelines are established:

1. No record shall be kept unless there is a demonstrable need for it which is reasonably related to the basic purposes and necessities of the University and the academic community.
2. No record shall be kept of a student's religious or political beliefs. Records of affiliations with or preferences for political or religious organizations shall be kept only for those students who voluntarily assent.
3. No record shall be kept without proper authorization, and each record shall identify the authority.
4. Each authorization for keeping a record shall specify for what purpose the information may be used and who may have access to it. The need to know must be demonstrated before access may be had to a confidential record.
5. A student shall have the right to inspect the official transcript of his own academic record. He shall also have the right to inspect reports and evaluations of his conduct, except letters of recommendation and similar evaluations which are properly prepared on a confidential basis.

6. All policies and practices dealing with the acquisition of information for records shall be formulated with due regard for the student's right of privacy.

7. Every record containing information about a student's character shall state when the information was acquired and the name and position of the person who gave it.

8. Evaluation of students shall be permitted or required only by persons who are qualified to make the evaluation involved.

9. All persons who handle confidential records shall be instructed in the confidential nature of such information and in their responsibilities regarding it.

10. No record of a student's offenses against University regulations shall be preserved beyond the student's graduation.

11. Duplication of records shall be kept at a minimum.

12. All policies relating to the keeping of records shall be brief, clear and specific.

13. All policies governing the maintenance and release of records shall be made public in an appropriate manner.

$1,000 In Textbooks Stolen From Students

Textbooks valued at $1,000 have been stolen from MSU students since the first of January, according to Capt. A. John Zutauf, uniform commander of the Dept. of Public Safety. This is reportedly a considerable increase over last year.

Local bookstores and Campus Police will be working together closely to curb rising book theft rates.

All East Lansing area bookstores now require that a person selling a book write his name and student number inside the book at the time of the sale, said Zutauf. Persons selling books will also be required to show identification.

Campus Police officers will periodically check at local stores for missing or stolen books. Those stores subscribing to the new policy are: Campus Book Stores, Gibson's Bookstore, Inc., Michigan State University Book Store, Spartan Book Store and the Student Book Store.

Book owners should always have their name, address and student number in their books, said Zutauf. If a book is stolen, it should be reported immediately to the police.

"Even if a name is erased or blacked out, it is sometimes possible to detect the true owner through the use of scientific devices," said Zutauf.

In a few cases, books are stolen from the students' rooms, said Zutauf.

'In Loco Parentis'

another proposed guideline: "Every regulation shall be as brief, clear and specific as possible."

This is a long way from the "Poppa knows best" attitude which holds that rules, like Mr. Everest, are just there, and the student's duty is to surmount them.

The guidelines on student records, which were released yesterday, also reflect a concern with due process.

They represent quite a large stride away from the folksy, "Just a minute, I'll look it up" attitude, which could well have been taken by an administrator in the past when some curious outsider wanted to see if John Doe ever got caught with booze in his room, or if Jane Doe stayed out late at night.

Biggest criticism of the committee so far, is that it has offered no panacea. It is not codifying existing rules, revising existing rules, or setting up a system of "price list justice" with exact, printed penalties.

Instead, it appears to be suggesting guidelines which place restrictions upon the rule-makers, as well as the ruled.

It may take a while to implement such a revolutionary concept, committee members admit. But in general, Michigan State has a record of paying attention to special faculty reports. The 1959 report of the Committee on the Future of the University (COFU) has been for the most part implemented.

'Strategem' Opens Tonight

George Farquhar's "The Beaux' Stratagem", first on the Performing Arts Company's spring schedule, opens at 8 tonight in Fairchild Theater.

This Restoration comedy is filled with the intrigue, the countless disguises, the plots, the deceptions and the romance that make for a fascinating play. Two financially down-and-out noblemen are looking for wives of great fortune.

One of them, Aimwell, plans to marry the wealthy Dorinda for her money and ends up marrying her for love as well. The other gentleman, Archer, falls in love with Mrs. Sullen, a wealthy lady much abused by her husband.

Bernie Tatro, who recently completed the extended tour with the Performing Arts Company's production of "Hamlet", plays Lord Aimwell. Other members of the cast are Bill Stock, East Lansing graduate student, as Archer; Ann Matesich, East Lansing graduate student, as Mrs. Sullen; Linda Miller, Detroit senior, as Dorinda; and Vicki Jean Sanchez, Sullivan, Mo., junior, as Cherry.

Authentic Costumes Used In 'Stratagem' Production

The more authentic the costume, the more realistic the play, even if the costume doesn't look "quite right" according to modern standards, said Hertha Schultz, the costume designer for this week's Performing Arts Company production of "The Beaux' Stratagem."

The costumes are made from authentic "period patterns," said Miss Schultz, and they may look strange to a modern audience, but that is the way they really were.

Many of the period patterns are obtained from England, where there are extensive costume collections, Miss Schultz said. The clothes are made from patterns that were worn when the plays takes place, she said.

The costumes in "The Beaux' Stratagem" range from 1690-1707. It is one of the last of the Restoration plays, she said, and the play shows some of the newer fashions that were coming out at that time.

The women wear bustles, corsets and other "underlying things" to help them achieve what they felt was the ideal figure of the time, Miss Schultz said.

Many times the color scheme of the costume is decided either by the director, with his interpretation of the play, or by the seasons, said Miss Schultz.

Spring production tends to produce costumes that are appropriate for the spring, and fall productions create costumes with colors found during the fall, she said.

Costumes are playing a more important part in productions than they ever had in the past, said Miss Schultz. Before, scenery was the predominant factor in plays. Now that costumes aren't just trim and decoration, they add real meaning to the play, she said.

The trend was to make all the costumes contemporary, but now they are becoming authentic, even if they may be unattractive, she said.

Miss Schultz, who has four costume assistants under her, said that the costumes for "Stratagem" took approximately six weeks to make, counting the "thinking time" required. Half of the costumes were made by students in a beginning costume design class. She buys the cloth from many different places and makes the dresses all together, never separately.

After the costumes have been used they are stored in the costume department, Miss Schultz said. Sometimes they are taken apart and used in other costumes, because one costume should never be used in another play, she said.

If a costume is just right for one play, it will be that much less right in another play, she said.

Much of the costume's beauty lies in the character that the actor creates, Miss Schultz said, and the way the actor carries himself can make all the difference between a beautiful costume and a "feeling" costume.

Somebody is always backstage during performances in case of emergencies, Miss Schultz said.

The "moment of truth" comes when dress rehearsal starts. This is the moment when the designer finds out if her ideas worked, she said.

As the designer watches her costumes on the stage, she feels either "glow or heartbreak."

MSU Phases Out Brazilian Project

By CRAIG BOIKE
 State News Staff Writer

Towering over a boulevard in Sao Paulo, Brazil, today is a modern 12-story structure symbolic of 12 years of progress by MSU's College of Business in aiding Brazil in the formation of university-level business administration programs.

The project will be phased out because its objectives have been accomplished, Anderson said. Schools of business are functioning and granting degrees in business administration in Brazil today.

A testimonial to the success of the project came recently at
