

Penn, NYC Merge; 5 Others Vetoed

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The Interstate Commerce Commission, in a major reshaping of railroads east of the Mississippi, Wednesday approved a merger between the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central.

But in a generally unexpected decision, it rejected a merger proposal by five western railroads--including the big Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy--on grounds the public interest would not be served by a loss of competition.

The new merged railroad, to be called the Penn-Central, will be the largest line in the country in terms of assets, and will stretch over nearly 20,000 miles of track from St. Louis, Mo. and Chicago to New York and Montreal.

As a condition for the biggest business merger in American history, the ICC required that the new line must take over the passenger services of the bankrupt New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, which carries 25,000 commuters a day into New York City and Boston.

The ICC also set another condition--that the Penn-Central protect all railroad employees from loss of their jobs.

Until details are worked out for inclusion of the New Haven in the new Penn-Central, the ICC ordered the New Haven to continue all commuter services and half its long haul passenger service until Dec. 31. The New Haven had asked for permission to drop all commuter and passenger services.

The commission vote on the Penn-Central merger was 9 to 1, with the dissent by Howard G. Freas. An 11th member, William H. Tucker, filed a concurring opinion with the majority.

After the decision was announced, ICC Chairman John W. Bush said that the "New Haven will now have excellent management and financial resources."

Merger Will Benefit Michigan

By DENICE ANDERSON
State News Staff Writer

The merger between the Pennsylvania and the New York Central Railroads has started the great possibility of integration in the carrier service, John Hazard, professor of marketing and transportation, said Wednesday.

"The merger will help economize the process of transporting goods to markets," he said.

It is a welcome merger in Michigan, said Hazard, because Michigan ships approximately one-third of its good out of state by rail.

There is some uneasiness over the merger because it means that there will be limited competition, he said. The Interstate Commerce Commission will have to work out an arrangement to provide any difficulties that might arise.

"The result of the merger on other railroads will mean that they will have harder competition, and they will be forced to economize their services," he said.

"It might even mean that other railroads will form mergers to protect their regional rights," he said. "In spite of the few difficulties that might arise, the merger is a good thing."

Merit Scholars Favor MSU 4th Year In Row

Greek Week Continues

Ballots for the ugliest Greek can be cast from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Union Concourse. Anyone is eligible to vote upon paying the poll tax of one cent per vote. The proceeds will be donated to the Campus Community Commission.

Other Greek Week activities taking place today include the track meet finals at the MSU track sponsored jointly by Interfraternity Council and the Intramural Sports Dept.

This meet is important in determining the winner of the IFC all-sports trophy.

Also, work continues on the project to convert an empty building on Howell State Hospital grounds into a day center for the mentally retarded.

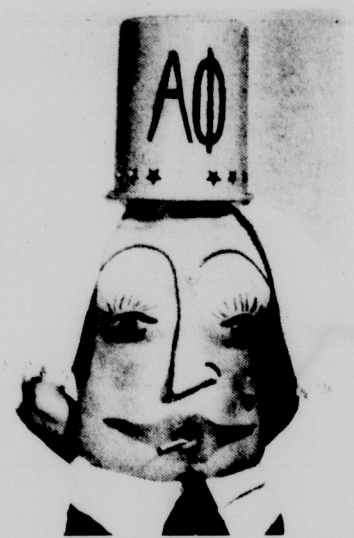

Sixty-six Greeks worked on the project Tuesday, and 90 had signed up to work Wednesday. Altogether, approximately 340 had voiced an intention to participate in the project.

Saturday from 9-12 a.m. is Children's Day. Underprivileged kids will be shown around the houses and given a hot lunch.

Other activities on Saturday include the SAM Tricycle race, Greek Feast and the Sigma Chi Street Dance featuring the Woolies. Greek Sing will be on Sunday.

200 Test Winners Plan Study Here

By STEVE GATES
State News Staff Writer

For the fourth consecutive year, MSU has accepted more Merit Scholarship winners than any other school, according to the National Merit Corp. (NMC).

This year 200 of the 2,200 total Merit Scholars are coming to MSU. Of these, 142 have scholarships sponsored by the University, and 58 are sponsored by the corporation and other groups.

MSU, with 200 winners, leads all other colleges and universities in total scholarships awarded. Harvard, Stanford, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and McCallister follow in number of scholarships winners accepted.

The Merit Scholars who will attend MSU come from 43 states, with 38 from Michigan. About one third will major in one of the natural sciences, and one fourth are no-preference. Seventeen will enter Justin Morrill College.

Of the 142 winning MSU-sponsored scholarships, 101 are either valedictorians or salutatorians of their high school classes or in the top 1 per cent of a very large class.

Second to MSU in the Big Ten schools was the University of Michigan with 36 recipients. The total for the Big Ten exclusive of MSU was 111.

This is the 11th year that the NMC has offered the awards. However, colleges and universities did not begin sponsoring the scholarships until 1963, when MSU and 10 other schools began this part of the program. This year, over 100 colleges and universities sponsored scholarships.

During the first 10 years MSU sponsored more scholarships in the NMC program than any other group or individual except Sears Roebuck and Co., which sponsored 572. MSU is second with 425, and IBM follows with 382.

Winners of the scholarships will receive between $100 and $1,500 for academic fees each year, depending on their individual need. The awards are based on scores the students attained on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQST), the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and an evaluation of their personal qualities by their high schools.

Last fall MSU had 560 Merit Scholars enrolled on the campus. The University has averaged approximately 200 Merit Scholars for each of the past three years. MSU had 214 scholarship winners enrolled as freshmen last year.

Dorm Room Available In Triples

It is still possible for returning students to sign up for rooms in residence halls, although they may be placed in a triple occupancy.

Norman R. Potter, assistant director of residence halls, said that even juniors and seniors might have to be tripled if they have not yet obtained rooms for fall term.

He said all incoming freshmen can anticipate three to a room, as it was this year, although this depends on the draft, admissions and transfers.

Signup for returning students this year has been tremendous, according to Potter, especially by students requesting rooms in their present dorms.

Among those halls already closed to further admissions are Case, Wilson, Wonders, McDonell, Holmes and Mason-Abbott.

Hubbard Hall is closed for men, and space was rapidly going Thursday for women. Snyder-Phillips, home of Justin Morrill College, is also closed.

Potter said that enough space to operate academic programs must be saved for incoming freshmen.

There is still room for women in the Circle Complex, and there is room for both men and women in Fee, Akers and the Brody Group. Figures for Shaw Hall were not yet available.

McDonell leads in women signing up, followed by Case and Holmes. Wonders leads in men's signups, followed by Case, although Potter added, "Traditionally, Shaw is the most popular for men."

Complete figures on percentage of students returning to each hall will be made available next week. The signup period ends Friday.

Pending Bills May Boost Loan Funds

By ANDREW MOLLISON
State News Staff Writer

Laws are pending in both the state and federal legislatures which would make more money available for student loans.

In the federal House, two bills to extend the National Defense Education Act (NDEA) loan program are in committee.

Both call for a one-year extension of the present NDEA system, a series of college-administered loans of federal money. Last year $179 million was appropriated for this purpose. MSU loaned out $1.1 million of this.

The administration bill, sponsored by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., would cut the national total to $150 million. It would also force colleges to turn back to the federal government all money repaid by students who received loans from the University in the past.

The chairman of the education subcommittee, which must report through Powell's committee, is Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore. Her bill, which is backed by most institutions of higher learning, would raise the national total to $190 million. It would also allow the colleges to re-loan immediately money paid back to them by former borrowers.

MSU would be able to give out approximately $1.3 million if the Green bill is enacted into law, and slightly less than one million dollars if the Powell bill is adopted. Odds on which bill will be adopted seem to be even.

The only immediate effect of the present uncertain situation is that MSU may not be able to notify loan applicants by the end of July if their loans have to be rejected due to limited funds. Applications will be accepted until June 1.

The state Legislature is considering a bill which would bring the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority (MHEAA) loan program into line with a federal law passed Nov. 8, 1965.

Under the MHEAA program, the state's universities formed a fund to serve as collateral for loans from local banks. The main criticism of the program have

MIT Drops Contracts To Do CIA Research

Research contracts with the Central Intelligence Agency are being dropped by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology because the contracts are "subject to misinterpretation."

The director of the MIT Center of International Studies, Max Millikan, said Tuesday night that the contracts would be dropped "reluctantly" in June.

He said "because the contracts were subjected to misinterpretation, particularly abroad, though also in this country, we decided it was best to terminate them."

The contracts called for research on international developments, particularly communism and Red China, said Millikan.

"There never was a secret about it," Millikan said. "Our research always resulted in publication by the researchers."

MIT's project was established in 1951 with the help of a $300,000 grant from the CIA.

The amount of cash represented by the current CIA contracts is classified, a spokesman for the center said.

ASMSU REFERENDUM

Vote May 19 On Board Pay

A referendum on compensation for ASMSU officials will be held May 19.

The proposal, presented by John McQuitty, past chairman of the student board, was referred back to the agenda committee Tuesday for minor changes.

The proposal states that 9 per cent of the tax revenue collected from September to June will be used for compensation. The amount will be determined according to the position.

McQuitty, speaking for the bill, stated that compensation would "provide a lever under which we can determine how much work a person should and does accomplish." He added that it would also provide a reason for dismissal for non-production.

The past board had voted for

'Phony' Romance

TORONTO (UPI)--A long-distance romance resulted in a three-month jail sentence for a talkative 21-year-old Toronto woman.

Edythe Clausner was convicted on charges that she gave a false name to the phone company and amassed a bill of $1,204, mostly in long distance calls to a boy-friend in Montreal.

The amount of cash represented by the current CIA contracts is classified, a spokesman for the center said.

First Tee-Off Set For New 9-Hole Links

MSU's new nine-hole golf course is scheduled for completion by next spring term, but it will be ready for some play late this summer.

The course, which has not been named, has been under construction since last June on the southeast corner of Mt. Hope Avenue and Harrison Road, directly across from the Forrest Akers course.

Tees and greens were weeded early this spring and will be ready for play by the end of this summer, Harold Lautner, director of campus planning and maintenance, said. However, it takes about two years to get a course ready for play, Lautner said.

The new course, which was designed by the Campus Planning and Maintenance Dept., will consist of nine holes with an additional nine holes to be added at a later date. The course will have a large putting green and practice area.

The new links are expected to relieve much of the traffic on the Forrest Akers course.

John Brozman, Forest Akers Golf Course manager, said that last year about 30,000 golfers toured the 18 holes and that on weekends he had to turn away two people for every one that played.

the board supported AWS and the reading period. Several members objected, however, saying they weren't sure if they did support the reading period.

The next proposal said the board supported AWS's investigation, not necessarily their findings. Decision was postponed.

Lake Erie Flood Rages In Monroe

MONROE, MICH. (UPI)--A wild windstorm pushed Lake Erie over a 100-mile stretch of Michigan and Ohio lowlands Wednesday, submerging entire towns. Thousands fled their homes.

Waves up to 12 feet battered houses, docks and boats. Floodwaters ran up to five feet deep through the streets of Luna Pier and Estril Beach, Mich. At least four dikes were smashed.

Civil Defense officials asked for National Guard troops to prevent looting. The floodwaters lapped near Interstate 75, the main Detroit to Toledo expressway, and officials said they feared it might be flooded.

Robert Gildersleeve, Monroe Civil Defense director, said about 5,000 persons were evacuated in Michigan alone, many of them by boat. Hundreds more were forced from their homes in Ohio and along the Canadian shoreline across the lake.

No injuries were reported. Flood refugees huddled in high schools which were converted into emergency shelters.

The winds peaked at 40 miles per hour, forging Lake Erie's shallow waters into a huge, ponderous ram which shoved down homes, piers and trees and shattered small boats.

The windstorm diminished Wednesday afternoon but the Weather Bureau said the worst might be yet to come. Gale warnings were posted on Lake Erie and an all-night storm was forecast.

The flood front fanned south to Sandusky, Ohio, and north to the southern tip of the Detroit metropolitan area.

May Ease Divorce Law

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)--The New York Senate Wednesday passed an expanded divorce law to include five grounds besides adultery--the first major change in the state's divorce law in 179 years.

New York was the last state in the union which recognized marital infidelity as the sole grounds for divorce.

The State Assembly was expected to pass the bill shortly, sending it on to Gov. Nelson A.

Segregation Study Step In Right Direction

FOR ALL THOSE high minded northern citizens who think segregation is a problem found only below the Mason-Dixon line, they're wrong. The Michigan Civil Rights Commission says there is segregation in Michigan schools and plans to begin steps to eliminate it.

IN A STATEMENT issued along with the Michigan Board of Education, the commission announced it would begin a survey in May to find out the extent of segregation in state schools.

The fact that the state board of education would make a statement to the effect that segregation exists in Michigan schools is an accomplishment in itself. But the statement made it quite clear that the segregation was no fault of the schools.

HOPEFULLY THIS is a valid statement. But widespread de facto segregation just didn't happen by chance. While schools can't be directly blamed for segregation in Michigan, local housing patterns can.

And segregated housing patterns, especially in urban areas, NEVER happen by chance. They are planned. Usually an unwritten rule prevails, whether subtle or overt, which makes it crystal clear where certain people live and where certain people don't live.

All this emphasizes the increasing need for stronger fair housing laws or better enforcement of existing laws, or both in Michigan (East Lansing is part of Michigan). Segregated housing patterns are not only injustices in themselves but also lead to segregated schools.

Segregated schools in the North have proved to be knotty problems. It isn't as easy as passing a new law banning segregation because it's already banned by law in the North, including Michigan; but nevertheless still exists. If you live in a neighborhood which is entirely composed of Negroes, there will in all probability be one school and in most cases it will be sub-standard in almost all respects.

IN THE CITIES, attempts have been made at bussing children from one area to another to facilitate integration and better education. But at best it has been a stop-gap measure and has met with only limited success.

John Feikens, co-chairman of the commission, said everything possible will be done to eliminate existing segregation and added "if this means reorganizing school boundaries, then the answer is yes; if it means building new school sites, the answer is yes."

We agree. The commission's study should prove to be most worthwhile. But after it's completed, let's stop talking and start doing.

Tighter Anti-Trust Laws Needed

AN INCREASE IN monopolistic tendencies in many industries is propelling prices upward. Though the decline in price competition is not the only cause for the present inflation, it is a primary factor.

Monopolies can raise their prices without the fear of losing their markets. And this is precisely what is happening today.

THOUGH NO ONE COMPANY has a corner on the publishing market, a definite case of price leadership exists. A librarian who recently complained about the high prices of books was told by a publisher that a basic price agreement existed throughout the industry. Though the government probably cannot touch the publishers legally, the effects of the "gentlemen's agreement" is the same as if an illegal monopoly existed.

These unofficial monopolies exist in many industries. It's no secret that the aluminum industry and steel industry each charge uniform prices. But they operate under the guise of price leadership—the largest company raises its prices and the others follow suit.

THESE INDUSTRIES GET by with as much price control as a monopoly would. The only way to stop them so far has been through the moral suasion of the President.

But presidential persuasion cannot be counted on forever and an increase in the President's power to prevent price hikes would result in too much power for one man.

TIGHTER ANTI-TRUST LAWS are the only solution to the dilemma. New laws that would prevent the mechanism of price leadership from being used as a substitute for overt monopoly might make our economy more competitive and help reduce the upward spiral of prices.

Slaughter Alley? No, Farm Lane Crossing

SHE SCREAMED. The sickening thud registered one more traffic injury. A scream—a screech—a near miss this time. Another scream; another screech; another near miss. "Slaughter Alley?" No, just the pedestrian crossing south of the Farm Lane Bridge.

This dangerous, overcrowded crossing is one of the most highly traveled pedestrian arteries on campus. It is the focal point for north-south and east-west pedestrian and bicycle traffic.

The thousands of students who use the pedestrian crossing must dodge cars, buses and motorcycles. The situation is particularly acute during class changes.

This deadly situation must not continue. If it does, more students will be injured and some possibly killed.

A TRAFFIC POLICEMAN at the crossing is a simple yet effective solution to the dilemma. The two accidents that I have seen would not have happened if a policeman had been present regulating traffic.

Why then, hasn't a policeman been assigned to the intersection? The Campus Police claim that they are understaffed and can't afford to release a man to regulate traffic between classes.

Maybe so, but the administration professes an interest in the welfare of the students. Well, here's a chance for it to display its interest by safeguarding the lives of the students, professors and anyone else who uses that bloody crossing. Hiring someone to regulate traffic would not bankrupt the University. But it might save someone's life.

If traffic is not regulated in the area south of the bridge, the situation can only get worse. Increases in enrollment will mean more pedestrians, more cars, more buses. And more visitors will probably be coming to the campus.

Why wait until someone is killed before taking action? Students have already been injured. Can students be expected to risk their lives when they cross a street on a college campus? The answer is simple: Put a policeman at "Slaughter Alley."

NORM SPERLING

POINT OF VIEW

More Than Just C+

The C+ grade has been advocated to end the injustices caused by the wide range of quality covered by the C.

But the C is not the only grade that covers a wide range. And 4 is not the only side that C has. So if we are going to use a C+ that counts for 2.5, there also ought to be a C-, and pluses and minuses for each grade. The problem is that when these decimal grade points are multiplied by integer credits, the student comes out with an uneven number of MSU points.

This problem could be solved by making the present system more flexible and allowing professors to be more specific in their grading. For one-credit courses the current system would not change. There would still be a range from zero to four points.

But in a three-credit course students could receive anywhere from three to 12 points. Presently they can only receive zero, three, six, nine or 12 points. In a five-credit course, where the work load is heavy, a range from zero to 20 would be possible.

Each point value corresponds to one of the five letters currently used, though the range within each letter might be broad. In four-credit courses, a 10 would be the lowest B, for example; a 16 would be the highest grade and correspond to A.

The University College already recognizes the value of grading precisely at all parts of the scale with its 15-point system. The new system would make all courses as precise as their difficulty allows, and for most courses this would come to 12 or 16 points, about the same as the University College uses.

A system with all MSU points available will automatically allow professors to differentiate student achievement according to the difficulty of the course (its credit value). Degrees of achievement can be noted at any part of the scale, instead of just between C and B. Students would not be stuck with fractional point totals. And the incentive would be there to get another point or two out of the course, whether or not it translates as C- or C+.

If a professor decides he does not want to differentiate that much in a student's achievement, he could still use the letter grades we have now. Each letter will still have the same value it has now if the professor doesn't want to give it another.

The Academic Council and Academic Senate should reconsider the C+ grade, not to discard it, but to improve upon it. If they were to allow all possible MSU points to be used, the system would evaluate student work much better than it does today.

OUR READERS SPEAK

ASMSU Planned Failures

To the Editor:

Reading the recent article enumerating the losses encountered in the ASMSU popular entertainment series makes me wonder if there wasn't the intention that the last concert be a failure, and perhaps both of this term's offerings.

The John Gary-Highwaymen concert was scheduled for a night during the week; the only thing to be said for this scheduling is that that weekend would have been even worse due to the large number of students going home for that particular weekend. In view of this, and the relatively low level of fame of the artists in this concert, the Popular Entertainment committee very effectively torpedoed the Al Hirt-Back Porch Majority concert.

The fact that this was held at the same time as the Winds of Change Seminar and many fraternity closed rush parties was already sufficient disadvantage. There was no need for the committee to sabotage sales of tickets by refusing to allow the purchase of tickets for this concert (unless one wished to pay double price; i.e., purchase a John Gary ticket for each Al Hirt ticket desired) any more than eight days in advance.

In line with this policy, apparently, no advertising appearing in your publication mentioned the upcoming Al Hirt appearance as a major event in itself until the day of the John Gary concert, and in fact, from the beginning of spring term until that date no visible mention was made.

Thus, it seems that somebody almost wanted the Al Hirt concert to lose money. Incidentally, all four members of my party disagree with your reviewer's estimation of the relative merits of the two groups appearing.

R.A.'s And Morals

To the Editor:

A friend of mine lost out on an R.A. position last week because, he was told, his moral character was not good. As far as I am informed, this charge is false, but it was leveled at him by his own R.A.

Since when have the R.A. personnel on this campus been qualified to pass judgment on our morals? Most of these kids (I use the word advisedly) are still wet behind the ears, and I want no help from the type of judgment that was passed in this case.

The personal ethics by which a student conducts his dealings with others are his business. Let us not have fellow students making condemnations just because they don't happen to approve of what someone else does.

A Limited State News?

To the Editor:

Why does the State News limit itself to 10 or 12 ad-plastered pages? It seems willing to concede in brief, timely written articles that MSU is growing up.

Why doesn't it recognize that it is also growing out? Man and society, and the newspapers which speak for him, are measured not only in content but in volume.

Besides, the State News has never experienced any growing pains like the rest of us.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Advertising is also news and pays for about 70 per cent of our costs. We have grown—in two years the average number of pages has grown from eight to Court's Action Benefits U.S.

POLICE AUTHORITIES in some of our larger cities are raising a great hue and cry about how much harder a U. S. Supreme Court decision is making their jobs.

Causing much of their unhappiness was the 1964 decision in Escobedo vs. U.S. The Court found that the civil rights of Dennis Escobedo had definitely been infringed upon by the Chicago Police Department.

For one thing, Escobedo was not allowed to see anyone except police interrogators for 14-1/2 hours after his arrest. He was allowed to contact a lawyer only after he had been questioned from 2:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Chicago Police did not advise him of his right to remain silent when being questioned, and police failed to tell him that anything he said might be used against him by the prosecution.

The decision already is having an effect on America's 350,000 police serving in more than 40,000 jurisdictions. Police are apprehensive about using the old tried and true interrogation methods. And they don't know just how far they have to go in advising a suspect of his legal rights.

SOME SPOKESMEN for police associations have speculated on the effect of the decision, however. Several maintain it will result in a wholesale breakdown of law and order because evidence will be harder to gather. Others have said they will have to staff full-time lawyers in every precinct house to advise suspects of their legal rights.

It is doubtful if the decision in Escobedo vs. U.S. will go to the lengths its critics maintain. But just how far reaching it goes, is not really known either. We will probably have to wait for another Supreme Court decision in this area to see exactly the responsibility our police have in upholding civil liberties.

But several things are clear. For one thing, a suspect will have to be advised before questioning that he need not answer the interrogator and that anything he says could be used against him.

THIS PROCEDURE of informing the accused of his legal rights has been used in military law for years. It has not resulted in the breakdown of legal authority, but has saved the innocent from being coerced into pleading guilty.

What too often has happened in our legal system is that ambitious prosecuting attorneys have preyed upon the legally ignorant to extort confessions and thereby win easy convictions. A high conviction rate shows that the prosecuting attorney is doing an effective job and thus has earned the citizen's vote. The Supreme Court's decision, hopefully, will eliminate much of this.

The decision is expected to also have great impact on this nation's minority group members. These have been the very ones who could not afford legal advice when they probably needed it most—before they were questioned by police. In the past, if a person could not afford representation in court, the court would appoint an attorney. But this was after the suspect had been questioned and sometimes had made a confession. The legally ignorant may not get a lawyer before being questioned now, but at least police will be forced to explain their legal rights to them.

ANOTHER FACTOR in a minority group member's encounter with the law is the assumption that the "legal" deck is stacked against him. In other words, by being picked up, the suspect thought that the arrest made him guilty. So, often when offered a reduced charge, the suspect would plead guilty even though he was innocent in the first place. The Supreme Court's decision may place the whole idea of offering reduced charges in question.

Perhaps, the Supreme Court decision will even help enhance policemen in the eyes of minority groups. Police have sometimes been considered instruments of oppression in minority areas like Harlem, Chicago's South Side, or Watts in Los Angeles. Unjust convictions have not helped the police image or their job of enforcing the law in these areas. The decisions will not change the dislike of police overnight, but it probably will have a helpful effect on minority attitudes toward police.

It is evident the U.S. Supreme Court made a sound decision in Escobedo vs. U.S., even though it may make the job of police and prosecuting attorneys more difficult. But that job has to be difficult.

Under our system it is better to let a criminal go free than to have an unjust conviction.

B52s Hit Trail Starting Point

SAIGON (UPI)--Giant U.S. B52 bombers from Guam hit North Viet Nam for the second time Wednesday, raining hundreds of tons of bombs on the key Mu Gia pass that an estimated 150,000 Communist laborers had been struggling to reopen after an earlier B52 raid blocked it with landslides.

The new attack on the pass--starting point for the Ho Chi Minh trail funneling supplies to the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam--coincided with disclosure that the U.S. 1st Infantry division had gone into action against the Viet Cong northwest of Saigon with the war's largest air lift.

At the United Nations, the African bloc decided to call for a Security Council meeting on Rhodesia not later than May 10 to enforce mandatory sanctions and use force if necessary against the white minority regime in Salisbury.

Senate Approves Rent Subsidy

WASHINGTON (UPI)--President Johnson won a major congressional victory Wednesday when the Senate, by a one vote margin, overrode its appropriations committee and approved $12 million to start up the controversial rent subsidy program.

The victory was due in part to sudden administration interest in Alaskan Eskimos.

Mine Workers Reach Agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The United Mine Workers (UMW) and soft coal operators reached agreement Wednesday on a new contract providing a retroactive $1-a-day wage increase for about 40,000 soft coal miners.

Union leaders and officials of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association (BCOA) hoped the agreement would lure back to work about 31,000 of the miners still out on strike.

A contract providing identical benefits also was signed Wednesday by the UMW and the Southern Coal Producers Association, which employs about 20,000 miners.

Rockefeller. The governor will sign it into law, according to his aides.

To the original grounds of adultery the bill added cruel and inhuman treatment, imprisonment of a spouse for three or more consecutive years after marriage, abandonment for two years or more, living apart for a period of two years after obtaining a separation decree, and voluntarily living apart for at least two years after signing a separation agreement drawn up by a lawyer.

The single grounds legislation was framed by Alexander Hamilton and passed in 1787. It had never been changed.

Passage of the divorce reform bill was expected to reduce the flow of divorce-seeking New Yorkers to Mexico and states with more liberal laws, with resulting controversies over legality which has plagued many with out-of-state divorces. There were some 8,000 migratory New York divorces in 1964.

Rockefeller himself was divorced by his first wife, Mrs. Mary Clark Rockefeller, in Nevada. His present wife, Mrs. Margaretta Murphy Rockefeller, got her divorce in Idaho.

One of the main arguments of reform proponents was that the single grounds law discriminated against the poor who could not afford to travel to Reno or Juarez to obtain divorces.

The legislation received only token opposition from the Catholic Welfare Committee, spokesman for the Roman Catholic Church in legislative matters. A compromise version worked out last week bore the names of the Assembly speaker, Senate majority leader and Senate Judiciary Committee chairman, all Catholics.

Mexican Students On Strike

MEXICO CITY (UPI)--Rebellious law school students who seized the National University and threatened a "fight to the death" against any attempt to dislodge them formed a "strike board" Wednesday to plot future strategy.

The students stormed the university administration building Tuesday and, behind barricades of stolen buses and bicycle-chain wielding students, forced the rector, Dr. Ignacio Chavez, to resign under threat of death. Thirty of his aides also resigned.

Wednesday, students milled angrily about the campus while the official governing board of the university was reported discussing a successor to Chavez. He had been rector of the university, the largest in Latin America, since 1959.

Amid the chaos of class suspension and renewed vandalism on the campus, strike leaders sought to decide their next step in view of Chavez' resignation. There were rumors that the strike movement might spread to universities in other parts of the country.

One strike group was proposing a "march on Puebla" where a similar university crisis has been in existence for the past two months.

Red paint was splattered over a statue of ex-president Miguel Aleman and some of the walls were painted with anti-Chavez slogans.

Despite the extent of the strike, however, it did not appear to be getting unanimous support of the student body. Some groups voiced support of the original band of law school strikers while others said they were opposed to it.

Supporters of the strikers arrived at the university in commandeered buses Wednesday and were permitted to pass unmolested through riot and traffic police lines formed outside the campus.

It appeared clear the government did not plan to interfere with the traditional autonomy of the university and would "sit out" the strike.

Heading the student strike board were leaders of the law school revolt. They planned to draw up a list of "demands" on the government, including a "general revision" of university organization.

got careless. So we're going to start being tough."

Five persons have been slain in near downtown bars within the past two months. The murders have not been solved.

LANSING (P) - Discouraged by a chilly reception, both by the weather and legislators, pickets protesting the shooting of does and fawns closed their temporary camp in front of the State Capitol.

The group originally said they would camp overnight on the Capitol lawn and continue the picketing indefinitely.

LANSING (P) - Eleven hospitals, the first to be approved in Michigan, have been certified for participation in the federal Medicare program for the aged, the State Health Dept. said Wednesday.

First hospitals eligible are: St. Mary Hospital, Livonia; Zeeland Community Hospital; Mercy Hospital, Muskegon; F. A. Bell Memorial Hospital, Ishpeming; Community Hospital, Douglas; Pontiac General Hospital; Rogers City Hospital; Three Rivers Hospital, and Crichton, Metropolitan and Park Community hospitals, Detroit.

DETROIT (P) - A group of Detroit bar owners who have devised a "buddy system" for protection said Wednesday they will seek a meeting with police officials to discuss their concern over recent multiple bar slayings.

"We are going to fight to live," said Buddy Adams Farr, owner of a near downtown bar. "You know bar owners are easy-going people. They're like show people. We got so easygoing we

Congressional OK Assured On Information Access Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)--A "freedom of information" bill, which would open nearly all government records to public scrutiny, was approved unanimously Wednesday by the House Government Operations Committee.

Final congressional approval of the measure, passed by the Senate in October after a 10-year fight, was considered assured, probably by early summer.

The bill would establish the legal principle that every American has the right to examine his government's records, a view contested by the Justice Dept. Specifically exempted would be records involving national security, personnel files, trade secrets and investigative dossiers of law enforcement agencies.

In the event of a dispute over whether certain records were exempt, a citizen could appeal in court, with the burden of proof resting on the government.

The administration does not support the bill, and there have been indications that President Johnson might veto it. But Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., one of its chief sponsors, said he did not believe Johnson would block the measure.

Moss said opposition was more a reflection of the views of Justice Dept. lawyers than of the White House.

The department has said the bill would be an unconstitutional violation of the traditional separation of powers, that the subject was too complicated to be resolved by legislative regulation, and that improper disclosure of information might jeopardize the public interest.

In addition, the Justice Dept. sought unsuccessfully to have the bill specifically affirm the President's right to exercise "executive privilege" in withholding information.

No such provision was included, mainly because Congress never has accepted the legality of this doctrine and is sensitive about it.

Nevertheless, it was understood that the committee's final report, to be issued later, would contain language stating that the measure did not affect the principle of "executive privilege."

Viet Catholic Charges Buddhist-Red Ties

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (UPI)--A Catholic leader charged Wednesday that the Buddhists want to make peace in Viet Nam "by shaking hands with the Communists."

Father Hoang Ho vowed to send a Catholic army of a half million persons into Saigon "to protect the government" of Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky if the Buddhists attempt to take over through renewed street violence.

"We will keep order if the government is not capable of keeping order," Father Ho told a rally of some 1,000 Catholics in an anti-Buddhist demonstration on the outskirts of Da Nang.

It was the first time in the current political crisis that the Catholics have openly attacked the Buddhists or one of their leaders, Thich Thien Minh.

Father Ho, head of the Catholic Citizens Force in the five northern provinces, called Minh a "liar" because of the Buddhist leader's statement that once the promised civilian national assembly is elected, the nation will continue to press the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

Board Adopts Assemblies

A resolution to hold general assemblies twice a term for students to express their opinions to student government was passed Tuesday by the Student Board. The assemblies, which will begin in the fall, will be held on a rotating basis at places to be determined by the student board.

Added to the original proposal was a motion to include five delegates from off campus to the assemblies.

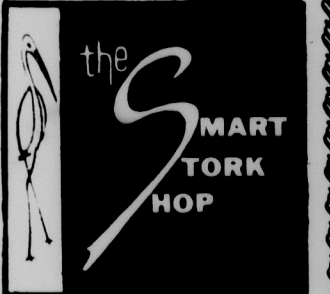

The board expressed hope that the assemblies would serve as forums where students could voice their opinions.

At similar functions in the past, often more board members than students participated. The board feels that obligation to attend through specific appointments should increase the turnout.

SWEEP MATCH, 9-0

Netters Crush Wayne State

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

Everybody played and everybody won for the MSU tennis team Wednesday and the Spartans romped to a 9-0 victory over Wayne State here.

The match was forced into the IM building by bad weather, but it certainly didn't cramp the netters' style. It took the Spartans just two hours to shut out the Tartars without losing one set.

Rich Monan broke into the regular season win column at No. 1 singles in grand style, defeating Greg Bielawski, 6-0, 6-0. The win was Monan's first in three regular season matches.

Mickey Szilagyi had little trouble scoring a 6-1, 6-4 victory over Ted Nowak at No. 2 singles. The win sets Szilagyi's record at 2-1 for the season.

Laird Warner, who was senior-of-the-week last week, upped his record to 2-1 with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Larry Platt at No. 3 singles.

Mike Youngs found the switch

The NEWS In

to No. 4 singles to his liking and disposed of Joe Bulat, 6-2, 6-2. The win was the senior captain's second in three matches.

notched his first victory in his first starting assignment by defeating Fred Trapnel, 6-4, 6-2, at fifth singles.

Doug Volmar proved himself a two-sport star by defeating Gil Hudson, 6-2, 6-3, at No. 6 singles. The win was the All-American hockey player's first try in a tennis uniform.

Once started, the Spartans kept right on rolling, and swept all three doubles matches also.

Jim Phillips and Vic Dhooge, who didn't get in on the singles fun, handed Bielawski and Nowak a 6-2, 7-5 defeat in first doubles to set their doubles record at 2-1 for the season.

Warner and Youngs kept their perfect doubles mark for the season alive with an easy 6-1, 6-0 victory over Platt and Hudson. The win makes them 3-0 for the season.

Volmar and Jakubiec put the finishing touches on MSU's perfect day with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Bulat and Trapnel.

The netters are now 2-1 in regular season play and are 1-1 in league play.

State will resume league action Friday and Saturday when they host Northwestern and Wisconsin.

Four Spartan Booters
In Olympic Tryouts

Michigan State soccer All-American Guy Busch and three other Spartans will participate in the Midwest U.S. Olympic tryouts for collegians this Saturday at Columbus, Ohio.

Busch and fellow Spartans Pete Hens, Gary McBrady and Kevin O'Connell will be among approximately 75 college players who'll work out on the Ohio State campus.

Busch, Hens and McBrady were regulars on a Michigan State team that went all the way to the NCAA finals last fall before losing 1-0 to St. Louis in the championship game.

Natch! Pistons
Flip Away Cazzie

DETROIT (P)--The New York Knickerbockers today won the flip of a coin and assured themselves of first choice in the National Basketball Assn. draft May 11.

The coin flip was between New York and the Detroit Pistons, last place teams in the Eastern and Western divisions who, under NBA rules, must flip to see who gets the first draft choice.

The victory assured the Knicks of a chance to draft Michigan's All-American Cazzie Russell.

The Pistons, last in won-lost records and a consistent last in attendance in the NBA, have admitted they need Russell.

Although the Knicks could pick someone other than the former

Michigan star, Coach Dick McGuire said "we haven't decided on our first choice, but we're very high on Russell."

Wednesday's meeting was called early to give Detroit a chance to make a trade with New York in case the Pistons lost.

NBA draft choices may not be traded, but conceivably the Pistons could give New York a player in return for the Knicks' promise to draft someone else.

Both Pistons Coach Dave DeBusschere and McGuire said such a trade was doubtful.

"No player on the Pistons would interest me except DeBusschere himself," McGuire said.

Bailey's Forte': Golf,
Basketball, Pressure

By DAN DROSKI
State News Sports Writer

John Bailey has been playing golf since he was nine, and the years of perseverance are finally starting to pay off. Bailey learned the game from his father, and by the time he was a freshman in high school, he knew enough about golf to make the Streater, Ill., school's varsity squad.

Bailey won four letters as a golfer, but when he wasn't on the golf course, he was on the basketball court. He earned all-state honors as a senior and, after graduation, decided to enroll at MSU.

"I chose Michigan State because I am interested in business, and I feel MSU has one of the best business schools in the country," said Bailey.

Now a sophomore and a regular on the varsity golf squad, Bailey rates the team as one of the top four in the conference.

"We are as good as any team in the Big Ten, talent-wise," said Bailey. "If we can play a little more consistently as a team we can beat any squad in the conference."

The Spartans have led many of the tournaments for the first round, only to falter in the afternoon session.

Bailey, who played on last year's freshman team, feels that winning the Oak Park Club Championship is the highlight of his golfing career.

Bailey, also a starter on the basketball team, is equally adept at golf and basketball. "I'm seasonal," said Bailey. "When it's basketball time, I concentrate completely on basketball, and when the golf season starts, all I think about is golf."

Playing on two varsity teams at MSU has subjected Bailey to a great deal of pressure, but it appears as though he thrives on pressure. John Benington, the Spartans' head basketball coach, thinks that pressure brings out the best in Bailey.

"John prepared himself mentally for every game, and the pressure didn't seem to bother him at all," said Benington. "As the season progressed, John showed many times that he could play under pressure."

"I could always count on him to make the shots that were really important," he said.

MSU's Head Golf Coach Bruce Fossum also feels that Bailey plays best under pressure. "John is a naturally good competitor and doesn't let the pressure affect his game," Fossum said.

NBA FINAL TONIGHT

Laker-Celtic 'Showdown'

BOSTON (P)--The National Basketball Assn. championship will be on the line Thursday night, with the rejuvenated Los Angeles Lakers determined to end the Boston Celtics' seven-year reign and spoil retiring Red Auerbach's final game as coach.

"To a man, we know we can win it," Los Angeles Coach Fred Schaus said after the Lakers earned a 123-115 victory Tuesday, squaring the series at 3-3 and forcing a seventh game showdown.

"We'll get it," Auerbach declared.

"We've always been able to come up with the big one, and percentages and the home court advantage are with us."

While the Celtics gun for an unprecedented eighth straight championship and ninth in 10 years, the Lakers also will be shooting for an NBA mark in attempting to avenge four previous defeats in the finals against Boston.

No team in NBA history ever has fallen behind 3-1 and come back to win the championship playoff. Los Angeles, however, has shocked the Celtics by winning 121-117 in Boston last Sunday and then making it two in a row Tuesday.

"We're one team that doesn't suffer from Celtic-itis," Schaus said. "Anything can happen in Boston. We've won three of our last four and know we can do it. I'm sure Boston feels the same as we do. The game should be a honey."

"Both teams looked a little tired in the sixth game--and they had a right to be. But the adrenalin will be flowing for the big one."

Auerbach, who is retiring after the game to devote full time to duties as general manager, didn't offer any excuses after the Lakers outduelled the Celtics in the fourth period to win the sixth game.

"We simply were outplayed," Auerbach said. "They got a hot streak and we couldn't catch them. Gail Goodrich was great for them. So was Rudy LaRusso. But it will be a different story at the Garden. I promise you that."

"We have tremendous pride and that, more than the money, will win the seventh game for us," Sam Jones said.

Hot Wings Lead, 2-0, In Playoffs

'Montreal Still In It'--Blake

DETROIT (P)—The Detroit Red Wings, who moved into the Stanley Cup finals mainly by stopping one-man Chicago's Bobby Hull, aren't leaving themselves open for any such defensive maneuvers by Montreal.

Detroit, which holds a 2-0 lead over the Canadians in the best-of-seven, has displayed a well-balanced scoring attack through the playoffs.

Only three Red Wings who have appeared in every playoff game have failed to score at least one goal. Two are defensemen, Gary Bergman and Lee Boivin.

Alex Delvecchio is the other one, but he has done more than his share by assisting on nine goals.

Seven players have accounted for Detroit's eight goals against the Canadians. Floyd Smith is the only man with two goals.

The Red Wings, who flew back home after Tuesday night's 5-2 victory, went immediately to their hotel in Toledo, Ohio.

Manager-Coach Sid Abel said his players came through Tuesday night's game with the usual bumps and bruises and expected everyone to be ready for tonight's third game.

"We played very well Tuesday, and I just hope we can skate as well now that we are back on our home ice," Abel said.

"I don't plan any line-up changes. And we're taking the games one at a time."

Montreal Coach Toe Blake said he didn't feel his team was out of the running yet.

Asked again about a possible change in goalies, Blake said: "I hate to make a change now. Gump Worsley's got me puzzled, though. He has made a lot of hard saves but looks bad on the easy ones. I don't think it would matter much who we had in the nets the way the Red Wings have skated against us."

"Charley Hodge might have made the saves on the soft shots but missed the hard ones, and the scores would have been the same anyway."

"I just can't understand where some of our defensemen were on a couple of the Detroit goals Tuesday night," Blake added.

The Canadians took an overnight train to Detroit and skated for about an hour after arriving before retiring to their hotel in suburban Dearborn.

Yankees Lose To Senators

NEW YORK (P)—Mike McCormick's five-hit pitching and Ken McMullen's two-run double in the third inning gave the Washington Senators a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees Wednesday.

This spoiled Yankee hopes of launching a winning streak after they had downed Boston Tuesday to end a seven-game losing streak. Wednesday's defeat was the 11th for the Yankees against only two victories.

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

Coach Danny Litwhiler will make no changes in his starting line-up this weekend against Big Ten foes Northwestern and Wisconsin even though the Spartans are winless in two games in the conference.

"Right now I have to go with defense and just hope our hitting comes around," he said Wednesday after the day's practice session was cancelled due to rain and cold weather.

Either John Krasnan or Dick Holmes will complete the Spartan baseball team's trio of starting pitchers to go against Wisconsin and Northwestern in the Spartans' opening road trip of the season.

Coach Danny Litwhiler named the two as likely starters in the second game of a doubleheader against Northwestern Saturday at Evanston.

Depending on which is used for relief purposes in the first two games of the road trip, Litwhiler said the other will start in the second Wildcat game.

"Krasnan will be my first choice if I don't use him in relief Friday or Saturday though," Litwhiler said Wednesday.

day after the day's practice session was cancelled due to rain and cold weather.

Jim Goodrich is scheduled to pitch Friday's single game against Wisconsin at Madison while Dick Kenney will start the opener of the Northwestern doubleheader.

Krasnan, plagued with a sore arm all spring, is the only regular returning from last year's staff that has not started a game this year. He has come on in several relief roles since returning with the team from the Florida trip and has looked impressive during recent intra-squad games.

A left-hander, Krasnan's 3.38 earned-run average is the second lowest on the staff next to Kenney's 3.15 ERA. Pitching 13 1/3 innings, Krasnan has given up five runs and five hits while walking five and striking out five.

Holmes, a tall, husky right-hander, has seen limited action this spring, pitching in only 18 2/3 innings. He has started three games without one complete game, but has come on in relief three times.

He has a 2-2 record, but his ERA of 5.81 is the second-highest on the staff.

Last year Holmes was one of Litwhiler's bright spots, finishing the season with a 0.47 ERA, the lowest on the pitching staff.

With Goodrich and Kenney starting the first two games of the Spartans' road trip, Litwhiler is expecting one to come up with State's first conference victory.

The Spartans will have Tom Binkowski at first, Dennis Maedo at second, Steve Polisar at shortstop and John Biedenbach at third base rounding out the infield.

In the outfield will be Bob Speer in left, John Frye in center and Steve Juday in right.

Bill Steckley will handle the catching chores.

Swimmer Williams Top Performer

Pete Williams, Pittsburgh, Pa., sophomore swimmer, has been named the Spartans' outstanding varsity performer for 1966. For the honor he received the Gluski Memorial Award.

The former Peabody High School performer was one of five Spartans receiving special citations for performances the past season. He competed in backstroke and individual medley swims this year with his highest achievement a fourth-place finish in the NCAA 400-yard individual medley.

Other State swimmers honored were Duane Green, Doug Todd, Robert Ahlgren and Lee Driver. Green, from Battle Creek, and Todd, from Wilmette, Ill., were co-winners of the outstanding freshman swimmer award.

Driver, a Birmingham senior, won the Matt Kaplan Award as State's "most improved" performer, with his top effort a third-place finish in the NCAA 200-yard breaststroke.

Ahlgren, a sophomore from East Aurora, N.Y., was given the Robert Lanzillotti Varsity Scholarship Award for outstanding scholastic achievement. He also was the top freshman scholar a year ago.

Cabinet Wife Coming Here

Mrs. Robert McNamara, wife of the Secretary of Defense, will be the keynote speaker at the second annual meeting of Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc., at 9 a.m. today in Kellogg Center.

Mrs. William Milliken is scheduled to make five awards to individuals and organizations that have been outstanding in litter prevention and beautification work during the past year.

John Carow, chairman of the Horticulture Dept., will head a workshop panel, featuring Ralph MacMullan, director of the Michigan Dept. of Conservation; Harry Hall, president of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce; John Bodette, executive secretary of florists' Telegraph and Delivery; and C. Allen Harlan of Harlan Electric Co. in Southfield.

Lyndon, who has been honored with the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star and other awards, noted that the Navy is mainly under the direction of the youth today.

Over 60 per cent of Navy men are under 25 years of age.

One of the most important projects now under way is "mixed man warfare," he said. This should be the goal for United Nations' ships: navy ships with crews made up of persons of varied nationalities.

Johnson, speaking of university action in foreign countries, said that people feel that the way to get by in society is not to do anything.

No one will get criticized this way but the world problems will also remain unsolved, he said.

Non-military aid can do so much, noted Johnson in the fields of food and agriculture, soil studies, fisheries, sanitation and water purification.

OPERA STAR--Anna Moffo, opera singer with the Metropolitan Opera Co., of New York, gave a concert here Tuesday night as part of the Lecture-Concert Series.

Anna Moffo Concert Exciting

By BOB ZESCHIN
State News Reviewer

Pennsylvania-born diva Anna Moffo is a refreshing exception to Sir Thomas Beecham's observation that "sopranos who eat like horses sing like birds, and vice versa."

Easily the most beautiful woman on the concert and opera circuit, Miss Moffo lacks neither vocal resources nor technique. She has an ingratiating stage presence, plus uncommonly good diction in four languages.

Futuristic Society Depicted In Film

The French film "Alphaville" will be shown at 7 and 9 tonight and Friday in Fairchild Theater, as part of the International Film Series.

Directed by Jean-Luc Godard, the film depicts a futuristic society where people are run by a giant computer, and emotion is treason.

"A," a short subject about the fantastic adventures of a man who battles against the letter "A," will also be shown.

ANNA MOFFO

Her voice is unique. It doesn't stun the listener with volume or agility, although Miss Moffo possesses both. It tends to fall pleasantly on the ear, with a warmth and sweetness all its own.

Miss Moffo is essentially a lyric soprano, and she is a bit too full-voiced for extended vocal gymnastics. But this is good, as it enables her to give body to Donizetti and Rossini arias that many note-perfect coloraturas seem to miss.

But most of all, it is her manner and presentation that made her concert a success. She delivers the real meaning of a song, making the language barrier no problem. She is capable of expressing any emotion in song.

This was pointed out especially in her first two songs. Only a singer of consummate skill and dramatic ability can put across the feelings of love and anger behind the baroque intricacies of Scarlatti.

And it is rare for a singer of primarily Italian opera to show such a gift for German lieder. Indeed, her Brahms and Strauss songs were the most satisfying part of the program. She had relaxed visibly after her first group of songs, and her phrasing and pianissimo were impeccable.

It might have been better if she had sung the "Alleluia" from Mozart's "Exsultate, Jubilate" a little less cheerfully. For its ornamentation, it is still a religious piece and not a sourette aria.

The second half of the program featured French and English songs. While the former were exciting both vocally and dramatically, the three English songs (all by Richard Hundley) were at best undistinguished, made palatable only by Miss Moffo's redeeming talents.

And it was her bewitchingly dramatic presentation of Marie's famous aria from "The Daughter of the Regiment" that made it more than just a succession of trills and roulades. There were no high notes sung just for the sake of high notes.

Miss Moffo dipped into her operatic repertoire for encores, selecting "Un Bel Di" and "O Mio Babbino Caro." The choices were good. The former aria brought the house down, while the brief number from "Gianni Schicchi" was a perfect closing signature to an evening of outstanding vocal talent.

'Judith' Opens May 3 In Auditorium Arena

MSU's Performing Arts Company will present Jean Giraudoux's "Judith" at 8 p.m. May 3-7 in the Auditorium Arena Theater.

The play is highly symbolic, dealing with the theme of innocence sacrificed for the lives of many.

Judith, presented by Giraudoux as a total romantic, is sacrificed by the defeated Israelites to the conqueror Holofernes. She kills him after their one night of love, choosing not to face the reality that everything after this peak experience will have to be mediocre and shabby.

However personal her reasons for killing Holofernes are, in the last act she allows her people to believe that she killed him from religious and patriotic fervor. Perhaps she even convinces herself of this motive.

In the title role of Judith is Earlene Bates, Sault Ste. Marie senior theater major. Miss Bates was seen most recently as Magdalena in the Arena production of "The House of Bernarda Alba."

The formidable prince Holofernes is portrayed by Eberle Thomas, East Lansing graduate student in theater. Joachim, high priest of the Jews, will be Terry Williams, Lansing graduate student in theater.

"Judith" is directed by Vance Paul, East Lansing graduate student.

After finishing its run in the Arena Theater, the show will move to the residence hall complexes. It will play in the Wonders Kiva May 9 and 10, and in the McDonel Kiva May 11 and 12.

Tickets may be purchased at the University Theater Box Office 12:30-5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Season coupon holders are encouraged to exchange their coupons as soon as possible, because of the limited seating capacity in the Arena Theater.

Loan Funds

been (1) not enough banks are willing to cooperate, and (2) the limit on money that can be borrowed in any one year is unrealistically low.

A bill before a lower house committee would take advantage of federal assistance in order to meet these objections.

First, it would allow other types of lending institutions, such as savings and loan associations and credit unions, to make loans under the program.

Second, it would raise the annual amounts. Presently, freshmen can borrow $500, sophomores, $650, juniors, $800, seniors, $950 and graduate students, $1,100 a year, the total not to exceed $4,000.

Under the proposed legislation, there would be a flat $1,000 per year limit for undergraduates, and a $1,500 per year limit for graduate students. Total loans could run as high as $7,500 per person.

These loans are made at 6 per cent simple interest. The federal law signed by the President Nov. 8 stated that if a student's family has an adjusted income of less than $15,000, the federal government will pay the interest on the loan while the student is attending school full-time.

The student has to begin paying back principal as well as interest nine months after he ceases to be a full-time student. At this point, the student from the low-income family will have to pay half the interest (3 per cent) and the U.S. government will pay the other half.

In any case, both programs are much better for the student than a straightforward bank loan, especially since the Federal Reserve Loan raised the red discount rate for banks recently. This naturally caused interest rates on loans to go up.

In addition, many banks have expressed reluctance to loan money to students in the first place, since their money is tied up for four or five years before the borrower begins paying it back.

The division of financial aids, 257 Student Services, exists to counsel students on what program of loans, scholarships and work would best suit his financial condition. A tremendous variety of programs exist.

ACCION, an organization working in rural Brazil and Venezuela, is recruiting volunteers on campus at the Placement Bureau.

Accion International Notes Fifth Year Of Social Action

By JOAN HOWARD
State News Staff Writer

Five years ago, Accion International began a program to help the people of urban slums of Venezuela to improve their physical and social conditions.

Since that time, Accion has undertaken over 5,000 projects which have affected the daily lives of 200,000 Venezuelans.

Bill Cloherty, a representative of the organization, is here this week to recruit volunteers. He is showing slides in the Student Services Building of the work done by Accion volunteers, following them through the first informal stages of getting to know the people, beginning small projects and advancing to larger ones, and finally succeeding in a well-developed and mature settlement.

Its projects in 1964 included 3,000 hours of adult classes; 46 health and welfare programs; 675 recreational activities; 28 community centers, schools and other buildings; and 2,733 general assemblies and informal committee meetings.

In addition to these tangible results is the work done in Accion's primary goal of developing a sense of community involvement among those who live in the settlements and the ability to govern themselves and perpetuate the programs begun by the Accion workers, Cloherty said.

Tau Delta Phi New Actives

Tau Delta Phi recently received permission to become an active fraternity chapter at Michigan State, contingent on housing requirements.

Permission was granted last week by a unanimous vote of the Interfraternity Council and recommendation of the Fraternity Advisors' Cabinet.

In order to receive permission for activation, a fraternity must exist for at least one term as an independent group, two terms as a recognized group within IFC, and then two terms as a colony. Certain requirements for membership and grade standing must be met at each stage. Tau Delta Phi, founded in late 1964, has met these requirements.

Newly elected officers for the fraternity are: Richard Herrold, Middletown, Pa., sophomore, president; Allan Dewey, Glencoe, Ill., freshman, vice president; Wayne Sullivan, Ann Arbor junior, treasurer; and Don LaBelle, Birmingham freshman, secretary.

In keeping with Accion's plans of expansion, the organization will be taking 50 recruits this year.

Anyone interested in becoming a worker should contact Cloherty at Kellogg Center until Saturday or Mrs. Woods at the Placement Bureau.

Requirements set by Accion are: A minimum age of 20, the ability to solve practical problems and a capacity for leadership and imagination. The ability to speak Spanish is not required.

Further information about Accion can be obtained by writing: Box 27, Cambridge 38, Mass.

Hawkins Hits 'Expert Cult'

By KATHY MURRAY
State News Staff Writer

Carroll J. Hawkins, associate professor of political science, said Tuesday that an expert "hopping around" on a job for the government cannot possibly have time to fulfill the obligations every professor owes to his students.

Hawkins, speaking at a meeting of the International Relations Club, denounced the current cult of the expert and the practice of university professors becoming involved in governmental operations.

He quoted a New York Times article dated Dec. 10, 1965, in which Wesley R. Fishel, professor of political science, stated, "Opponents of U.S. policy on the campuses are largely teachers in fields unrelated to political science, international relations and Southeast Asian affairs."

"The further one gets from the subject--Viet Nam and U.S. foreign policy--the more opponents among campus teachers there seem to be. The reverse is equally true. Most of the teachers of government, foreign policy and international affairs support U.S. policy or accept it as necessary."

Fishel, adviser to the International Relations Club, had been challenged by Hawkins to a debate on "Expertise and Viet Nam" in notices in "The Paper," the State News, and on several posters around campus. Fishel was not present at the meeting Tuesday night. He spoke at Wonders Hall on the Viet Nam situation.

Hawkins took exception to Fishel's New York Times statement that the non-expert is incapable of understanding foreign policy. He said that any intelligent, informed person may have a valid opinion of foreign policy. He asserted the value of a broad viewpoint and noted that the expert may lose perspective within the narrow confines of his speciality.

Hawkins then discussed the dangers of academicians serving as foreign policy experts, frequently using Fishel as an example.

Serving the government as a foreign policy expert runs counter to a teacher-professor type of mind, Hawkins stated.

He also said that an expert working for the government hasn't enough time to meet the obligations Hawkins requires of a professor: to know his students as individuals, to research continuously, and to keep a fresh mind by listening to intelligent persons in all fields.

He said that an expert deeply involved in his work may find himself tempted to make policy as well as to implement it. Hawkins asserted that such diversions detract from a professor's primary obligations to gain knowledge and perspective.

Hawkins also stated that the goal of an ambitious expert--to help people to better themselves--is often coupled with the secondary advantage of personal benefit.

Fishel's rise from the position of assistant professor to that of professor within three years was cited by Hawkins as an example of this type of benefit. Hawkins said that such a rise in position may lead to an "intoxication with power" which could result in a loss of objectivity.

Hawkins also questioned whether the ultimate effect of a professor working under government endowment might not be government control.

Hawkins concluded by suggesting that any professor who wishes to work for the government ought to get a leave of absence from his university and join the State Dept.

Debaters Set MSU Record

For the first time in MSU history, a debate team reached the final elimination rounds in the National Debate Tournament last weekend. This is only the second time that MSU has gone to the final tourney. The first time was in 1953.

The two MSU students who competed with 38 other teams at the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y., were James R. Hudek, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, senior; and Richard G. Brautigam, Albion sophomore.

They reached the octa-finals, which placed them among the top 16 debate teams in the nation. In the octa-finals, the MSU debaters were defeated by the University of Alabama in a 3-2 decision.

Northwestern University won the tournament Saturday by defeating Wayne State University. Both of these schools, as well as Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., and Western Reserve University, Cleveland, which also reached the finals, are in MSU's debate district.

The debate topic for the tournament was: "Resolved: Law enforcement agencies in the United States should be given greater freedom in the investigation and prosecution of crime." Each team had to participate in four rounds on the positive and four rounds on the negative side of this statement.

Brautigam and Hudek, teammates for 88 debates this year, were accompanied by their five coaches to West Point.

'S' Prof Addresses NEA Dept. Meeting

John Barson, director of the Instructional Systems Development Project here, addressed a general session of the annual convention of the National Education Association's Dept. of Audiovisual Instruction Wednesday in San Diego, Calif. Barson discussed the project, which is being carried out in cooperation with the University of Colorado, San Francisco State College and Syracuse University.

Also attending the convention from MSU are Charles Schuller, director of MSU's Instructional Media Center; John Dietrich, director of the Educational Development Program; and Horace Hartzell, associate director of the Instructional Media Center.

Following the San Diego meeting, Barson will serve as a consultant to the first East-West Media Conference Friday through Monday in Honolulu.

Nine faculty members and students from the physics and astronomy department will present papers at the spring meeting of the American Physical Society, being held this week in Washington, D.C. The nine are: William H. Kelly and Paul M. Parker, associate professors; Edward H. Carlson and Jack H. Hetherington, assistant professors; Krishna Kumar, research associate; and graduate assistants Roger L. Dilling, George J. Berzins, Louis M. Beyer and R.C. Ethernott.

Elwood E. Miller, director of the Film-Clip Project here, is the author of "Don't Be Afraid

Olaf Mickelsen, professor of foods and nutrition, will address the fourth annual International Cereal and Bread Congress in Vienna, Austria, May 24.

Mickelsen is scheduled to speak on "The Value of Wheat as Food for Man." Experts from all over the world will attend the conference.

Carroll Hawkins, associate professor of political science, will leave Sunday for a week of lectures at Areibo, Puerto Rico. He will address a group of Peace Corps volunteers being trained for work in rural Colombia. He will discuss Colombian culture and politics with emphasis on the rural areas.

To Address AWS

The assistant dean of students, Laurine Fitzgerald, will speak on "Roles for You at MSU" at a meeting of the Associated Women Students (AWS) at 7:30 tonight in the Wilson Auditorium.

Also to be discussed at the first joint meeting between the old and new AWS assembly representatives will be the matter of the two-day reading period before finals, and judiciary changes within the AWS structure.

The meeting is open to the general public.

Campus Radio Jobs Open

Applications for 10 All-Campus Radio Station department heads are now available at 334 Student Services Building. Completed forms must be returned by 5 p.m. Friday, May 13th.

Open positions include central station manager, program director, chief engineer, news director, production director, business manager, music director, traffic and continuity director, promotion director and chief staff announcer.

Any student in good standing with the university may apply for a position. Applicants will be notified when to appear for personal interviews after the petitioning deadline, John Stankrauff, All-Campus Radio network manager, said.

According to the campus network charter, the central station manager administers all operations of the central radio station. The program director supervises the traffic and continuity department, production department and the talent department.

In addition to advising station engineers, the chief engineer supervises all engineering functions of the network and the central station.

The news director is responsible for all news material broadcast. The production manager assists station production crews and schedule production studios.

The business manager, according to Stankrauff, is in charge of all financial procedures of the network. The music director must keep accurate files and inventories of all records on hand.

The traffic and continuity director writes and schedules spots, programs and writes the daily log, while the promotion director performs the function of a public relations man.

The chief staff announcer oversees the staff announcers' schedules, making sure all air time is filled.

"Announcement of the new department heads will be made the week of May 16," said Stankrauff, "after final approval by the network board."

U.S. Reliant On Space Effort

Extending man's investigations into space seems to be the future of this country's space effort, the director of NASA's Lewis Research Center said Monday.

Abe Silverstein spoke on "Space in Our Future" in the last of four talks in the Evening College's "Mankind and Space" series.

He emphasized that much of the progress so far has been in accommodating to the new environment of outer space. Since the space effort is actually a large-scale research project to look at the world from a new viewpoint, the resulting development of items useful on earth is not surprising.

Silverstein emphasized the vast implications the space effort has had so far, in many fields including medicine, chemistry, physics, astronomy, philosophy, sociology, physiology, psychology and meteorology.

In a world growing exponentially, Silverstein pointed out, old concepts just don't work. Economists, sociologists and administrators should take their cues from the new ways of doing things the space effort has found and adopt a similar attitude. This is the generation of educated innovators, and that is just what is needed.

"What makes us able to reach the moon might also help us live better on earth," Silverstein emphasized.

The principles involved in the space effort also have far-reaching importance. One of the most significant is the concept of zero tolerance and 100 per cent reliability, a necessary feature in manned flights and a desirable one in any multi-million dollar project.

Extremely fine measurement is another principle now popular in science and technology, introduced by the space effort.

In the future space program, Silverstein saw either an aiming at Mars, a manned lunar base or orbiting laboratories as good prospects. Since the Voyager program to Mars is the only one that has official status yet, Mars seems to have an edge.

More immediate are more satellites in weather and communications. The value of the former to the countries of the world, any of which may tap the system with a $30,000 ground station, is unquestioned.

The latter (communication satellites), Silverstein said, will become a utility of indefinite use.

like the telephone. Easy worldwide tele-communications will become commonplace and increase understanding.

Meanwhile, the Gemini-Titan and Apollo-Saturn manned programs will continue to amaze the world and unmanned projects will continue their research and service, he said.

Merger

ger will cause a stronger, healthier railroad."

Hazard said that the merger will create improved services at lower rates.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, which offers no passenger service, has 535 miles of track in Michigan.

Its operations include service to such cities as Grand Rapids, Traverse City, Mackinaw

City, Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Muskegon.

The New York Central has more than 1,000 miles of track in Michigan. It offers passenger service only on the Detroit-Chicago mainline.

Lansing, Bay City, Saginaw, Jackson, Grand Rapids, Detroit and Mackinaw City are the major Michigan cities served by the railroad.

Swainson To Give Law Day Talk Here

John Swainson will give the Annual Law Day Address at 4 p.m. Friday in Fairchild Theater. His topic will be "Law and Order."

Swainson, a member of the Circuit Court of Wayne County and ex-governor of Michigan, will speak in connection with a nationwide Law Day USA observance.

The student body, faculty and general public are invited to attend the lecture.

The Law Day USA observance started in May, 1958.

Edward Bartoli, assistant professor of business law, and Edward Soronen, instructor in business law, are in charge of MSU's Law Day USA program.
