HHH To Address June Graduates

Vice president Hubert H. Humphrey will be the speaker for Michigan State University's annual spring commencement exercises at 4 p.m. Sunday, June 12, in Spartan Stadium.

It will mark the vice president's second visit to MSU in a year. He spoke on the campus last June to help launch a student-sponsored project that resulted in the "adoption" of the South Vietnamese hamlet of Long Yen.

A native of South Dakota and a one-time pharmacist, college teacher and public administrator, Humphrey was elected U.S. Senator from Minnesota in 1948 and re-elected in 1954 and 1960.

Johnson To Attend Funeral

WASHINGTON (UPI)--President Johnson will fly to Detroit Wednesday to attend the funeral of Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., the White House announced Tuesday.

The president is scheduled to leave at 10:55 A.M. (EDT). Deputy press secretary Robert Fleming said Johnson will return in the afternoon in time for a diplomatic reception at the White House at 7:30 p.m. (EDT).

The White House said Mrs. Johnson and a delegation of 20 legislators would go with the president.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield will lead the congressional delegation to the funeral. Sen. Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich., will serve as chairman of the delegation.

Representatives Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., and Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich., ranking Democrat and Republican in the Michigan House delegation, also were named. Other Michigan Democrats in the house plan to attend.

McNamara died at 8:40 p.m. Saturday, after suffering a stroke that afternoon. He had been under treatment in Bethesda Naval Hospital since March 11.

Strike Slows Construction Of Projects

No immediate end is in sight for a strike by bricklayers and carpenters that has slowed work on MSU construction projects, according to statements by both union and company representatives.

No bricklayers or carpenters were at work on any MSU project, according to V.L. Vandenberg, superintendent of new construction on campus. However, other craft unions reported to work as usual.

Vandenberg also said that he knew of no picket lines anywhere on the campus.

Settlement of the state-wide strike was being negotiated by the union and companies in Lansing, Jackson and Saginaw, but no definite progress was reported. They key issue halting settlement of the strike, according to the unions, is the determination of the proper wage scale.

Alabama Negroes Vote, But Mrs. Wallace Still Wins

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. (UPI)--Former dimstore clerk Lurleen Wallace won the Alabama Democratic primary in a runaway Tuesday in her bid to retain the governorship for her husband George.

Mrs. Wallace appeared certain to win the nomination without a runoff over a field of nine other candidates.

If elected, she would be the nation's third woman governor, but she promised simply to "Let George do it." George promised to do what he has done for the past four years--fight integration and the federal government.

Early returns had Mrs. Wallace, 39, running as much as 15-1 over her nearest competitor, Liberal Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, and picking up much more than the 50 per cent of the vote necessary to avoid a runoff.

With 331 of the state's 3,564 boxes in, Mrs. Wallace had 24,087 votes to 7,122 for Flowers, who courted and won most of the state's 257,832 Negro votes.

Former Congressman Carl Elliott had 3,312 votes, State Sen. Bob Gilchrist 2,328 and former Gov. John Patterson 1,902.

Former Gov. James (Big Jim) Folsom had 833.

Running last in the 10 candidate field was retired clerk Eunice Goer, who said he was running on God's orders. He had 85 votes.

The Wallaces voted in the Governor's hometown of Clayton, and some of the Negroes waiting to cast their ballots--many for the first time--shunned them.

Wallace tried to pat one Negro on the shoulder but the man turned away.

Long lines formed hours before the polls opened in some Black (soil) belt counties, where much of the nation's most bitter civil rights struggle has taken place during Wallace's tenure.

Sunny skies and mild temperatures led officials to predict a record turnout of 700,000 voters. Bob Conner, a 60-year-old Negro, voted for the first time

Tuesday in Birmingham and announced that "it felt good."

"I'll vote again if I'm alive," he said. He voted for Flowers. The NAACP wired the Justice Department in Washington with complaints of voter discrimination in Jefferson (Birmingham), Greene, and Choctaw counties. However, federal voting officials dispatched to six Alabama counties had not reported any violations.

Alabama has a three-minute time limit for voters to complete their ballots and in Montgomery it was reported that polling officials were asking Negroes to leave after their time expired. Most of the Negro candidates were listed at the bottom of the ballot.

As a result of the new federal voting rights law, more

Pearson Wins Confidence Vote

OTTAWA (UPI)--A Conservative Party attempt to topple the Liberal administration of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson as an aftermath of the "little profumo" sex-and-security scandal was defeated Tuesday night by a vote of 133 to 106.

The conservatives charged that Pearson used the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) to obtain scandalous information about Conservative Party leaders, particularly the alleged illicit sex relationship between a cabinet minister and Gerder Munsinger, a prostitute and suspected Russian spy.

If the no-confidence motion had been carried, it almost certainly would have toppled the Pearson government. The vote came after Pearson defended his position in a 45-minute address to the House of Commons.

The charge was brought Monday by Conservative backbencher Gordon Fairweather, who submitted the no-confidence motion.

McClellan told the panel investigating the Munsinger affair at Pearson's own order that Pearson asked him in 1964 for

MSU HEARING SET MAY 16

House Sets CIA Probe

By LEO ZAINEA
State News Staff Writer

A spokesman for the house subcommittee probing MSU's connection with the CIA in Viet Nam said Tuesday the group would convene May 16 with President Hannah and University officials.

Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, chairman of the Higher Education Subcommittee investigating the charges made by Ramparts magazine last month, said he is also considering asking Stanley K. Sheinbaum and Warren Hinkle III, the co-authors of the article, to appear also.

However, the two would have to make the trip from California at their own expense.

"We're hoping to look at this situation as objectively as possible," said Faxon. "We don't have any axe to grind."

Faxon said his five-member committee would hold the informal session at 10 a.m. in the Court of Appeals in Lansing. The meeting will be open to the public and news media.

"This is not an official legislative investigation," emphasized Faxon. "It is merely a committee meeting with officials concerned to try and clear the air of rumors and misunderstandings."

In addition to his own committee Faxon has also invited interested members of the house ways and means committee.

The committee is expected to meet for one day, but Faxon indictated it may take as much time as needed to clarify the issue.

Testimony from Sheinbaum and Hinkle, whose article charged MSU with requisitioning arms for Premier Ngo Dinh Diem as well as being a front for the CIA, will be heard and their facts considered, said Faxon, as long as they can document their assertions.

Charles O. Conrad, D-Jackson, a member of the ways and means committee, said although he had not committed himself definitely, he did want to take part in the investigation.

"The idea of playing games with foreign policy has always bothered me," Conrad said.

"A university that gets drawn into foreign policy naively, as MSU has apparently done, suddenly finds out it's a complicated game," he added.

Charles O. Conrad, D-Jackson, a member of the ways and means committee, said although he had not committed himself definitely, he did want to take part in the investigation.

Peter Sorum, Rochester, Minn., sophomore and chairman of the board, said it would be "avoiding the issue" to grant a waiver to any one station. He abstained from voting on grounds of personal bias in the specific situation.

A motion was passed stating that hall stations which would like to become affiliated with the network shall be allowed to have representatives on the board as non-voting members, subject to the board's approval.

An amendment to the All-Campus Radio Board charter was also passed which will add a representative of residence hall management to the membership of the board. This amendment must be passed, however, by two-thirds majorities of ASMSU Student Board, Women's Inter-Residence Hall Council and Men's Halls Assn. before it becomes effective.

The board decided to take the call letters WMSN for the network and central station.

Radio Board Rejects WEAK Affiliation Bid

All-Campus Radio Board rejected a request Monday night from Wonders Hall radio station WEAK for full affiliation with the new all-campus network.

The board also seated two new members, chose the official call letters of the station, approved equipment purchases and altered a proposed station floor plan.

The North Wonders station was, however, given a seat as a non-voting member of the All-Campus Radio Board.

David Morris, Midland junior and chief engineer for WEAK, asked that the equipment requirement of a tape machine and the three-term steady programming requirement be waived in the case of WEAK.

Morris said the station operated on a "wildcat" basis last spring, unapproved by the rejected to discuss the nature of the report the committee made to Hannah.

"Any comment on my part would be completely premature," Bernitt said. "We're an advisory body, and in the end this is a matter for the Board of Trustees."

The report was discussed Monday morning at a "breakfast club" meeting of top University administrators. It is probable that the committee's recommendations were then referred to Leland Carr, University attorney, so that the legality of the proposed

18 Million Americans Quit Smoking Habits

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)--The man most responsible for the government report linking cigarettes to cancer said Tuesday that 18 million Americans had quit smoking since the report was issued, but 4,500 youths were taking up the habit each day.

Dr. Luther L. Terry, former U.S. surgeon general, called for new steps to steer young persons away from the "curable disease" of smoking.

A spokesman for the government's national clearinghouse on smoking and health said Terry's figure of 18 million persons who had stopped smoking cigarettes was based on a Public Health Service survey completed in the fall of 1964, six months after the surgeon general's report. Some of the 18 million had switched to pipes, cigars and other forms of tobacco.

Bromo Pancakes For Brandy Men

First prize will be a free glass of Bromo Seltzer as the intrepid men of Bryan Hall's Brandy House compete with each other to see who can eat the most pancakes Thursday.

The contest will be held at 5 p.m. at Uncle John's Pancake House. Various weight divisions will be established to make the competition fairer.

Ban On Private Parking Spaces?

By ANDREW MOLLISON
State News Staff Writer

The All-University Traffic Committee has apparently recommended that faculty and staff employees not be allowed to rent private parking spaces campus next year.

Since student parking was banned in 1964, faculty and staff members have been able to park on campus by buying an annual permit for $18 or by renting a reserved space for $48.

The space rental plan has been seriously discussed by the committee several times since the plan went into effect fall term, 1964. Faculty members who do not rent parking spaces are often irritated by the fact that private spaces are often empty when general faculty parking facilities are full.

A faculty member who parks in an empty private space takes the chance that his car will be towed away if the person who rented the space wants to use it.

Winter term, faculty members who rent parking spaces were asked to share them with other faculty members. Response to this request, all observers agree, was minimal.

Apparently the Traffic Committee, a student-faculty body directly under President Hannah, recommended about a month ago that the space rental plan be abolished. The report apparently also recommended that departments be allowed to rent spaces on the basis of need and the approval of the Traffic Committee.

The present $18 annual permit plan would be retained. No other details are available at this time. The committee's chairman, Charles F. Reed, assistant dean of veterinary medicine, is out of town. Richard O. Bernitt, director of the Dept. of Public Safety,

Americans Shoot Into Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)--The United States Tuesday officially acknowledged for the first time that U.S. forces had fired across the border into Cambodian territory.

A spokesman said American artillery fired shells into Cambodia to silence "very heavy automatic weapons fire" being directed last Saturday against G.I.'s fighting the Viet Cong on the South Vietnamese side of the border.

The U.S. spokesman said the Americans fired in "self-defense" across the 250-yard wide Cai Bac River that forms the border 75 miles northwest of Saigon. Troops in the field have reported enemy activity in the past, but U.S. forces reportedly had withdrawn completely.

Outnumbered U.S. Marines stormed through machinegun fire Tuesday night and fought Communist troops hand-to-hand and trench-by-trench for a village 350 miles north of Saigon. Just west of Saigon a U.S. army squad suffered "heavy" casualties in another fierce battle with the Viet Cong.

In the air war, it was disclosed that American warplanes had struck anew at the Communist supply lines in North and South Viet Nam, and swept out over the South China Sea to destroy 41 more Communist supply vessels and damage 40 others.

Blood Sought For Surgery

Ten pints of B positive and 14 pints of A positive blood are needed by the blood drive between 2-3 p.m. today for open heart surgery in Grand Rapids and Ann Arbor.

As of 5 p.m. Tuesday 486 pints of blood had been donated in this term's drive, said Jeff Coy, Owosso senior and blood drive chairman.

The drive will continue 2-8 p.m. today from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Thursday, and 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Friday. Taxi service to Demonstration Hall may be obtained by calling 353-6359.

East Show donated the highest percentage in men's dormitories, recording 4.4 per cent. Among women's halls, East Yakeley was most active with 4.3 per cent. Alpha Sigma Phi donated 65 per cent, more than any other fraternity, and Delta Zeta donated 30 per cent, leading among sororities.

Of independent housing, Bower House led with 30 per cent.

University Center Essential To Expanding MSU Campus

MSU NEEDS a university center. The campus is so large that the students living in Brody are a community almost completely apart from the students living in the East Campus Complex.

Many sorority and fraternity members consider the campus as a place to go for classes, but their social activities are separate from the campus.

COMMUTERS TO MSU from Lansing or farther feel even less at home on campus, for they usually have no place on campus even to leave their books.

CLEARLY, NO COHESIVE factor holds the student population together. Originally the Union was a focal point for campus life, but the campus outgrew it long ago.

A special committee of ASMSU has drawn up a proposal for a university center that would combine under one roof many functions that either do not exist on campus or that are diffused widely over the area.

THE MAIN FEATURES of the center

envisioned by the committee include banquet facilities larger than Kellogg Center's, a large ballroom, a "first class" restaurant, a grill with a dancing area and sunken fireplace, study rooms for off-campus students, lockers for off-campus students, lounges, one small auditorium and one large auditorium, and air conditioning. This is a brief listing of a few of the major features.

The committee's proposal for a large auditorium in the university center is the only objectionable suggestion. Funds simply do not exist for a large auditorium. It is far better to concentrate all efforts on a center itself.

As the campus continues to grow, the Union and Kellogg will become less and less able to serve the demands placed upon them, and the need for a university center will continue to grow. The administration should immediately take up where ASMSU has left off in seeking funds and trustee approval of this needed proposal.

MSU To Fingerprint Students For Test--So What

THE PEOPLE RESPONSIBLE for writing and organizing the draft test, soon to be taken by eligible college students across the nation, didn't take any chances. To make sure there would be no trickery or substitution in taking the test, all students who take the exam will be fingerprinted.

Fingerprinting is not usually considered a typical university activity, but today universities are involved in all sorts of diversified activities. So far, there have been few objections raised to fingerprinting students.

But recently, we received a letter from the director of student affairs at the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology who was most upset about having to fingerprint students. He said that it was not proper for the federal government to ask colleges to undertake this type of function and appealed to us to support his cause.

WE SEE NOTHING inherently wrong with fingerprinting students who are taking a government test. Colleges and universities are merely cooperating with the federal government in administering the test. It's understandable that the government wants to be sure that each student who takes the test does in fact do his own work. And it is understandable that there must be some standard and reliable form of identification. Here at MSU, ID cards are reliable, but all schools don't have any such identifying devices. The result was turning to fingerprinting.

True, in some cases those giving the test might be inconvenienced in having to fingerprint students. And there might be a problem with some of the proctors not knowing how to correctly take a student's fingerprints. But there seems to be no sacred principle involved and no awesome burden for any college or university to endure.

AT MSU, the testing service is administering the test to MSU students and other eligible students from the surrounding area. Some 5,728 students will be tested and fingerprinted May 14 and May 21. So far, there haven't been any complaints concerning the fingerprinting, and there probably won't be.

War Is Moral Issue

To the Editor:

An important aspect of Friday's editorial on casualty rates in Viet Nam is its failure to consider the Viet Nam war in terms of any moral considerations. Instead of moral sensitivity it presents moral corruption and smugness.

One is to decide, the editorial implies, upon going to fight in Viet Nam upon the basis of the fact that many more American soldiers come back alive than not from Viet Nam.

Once one entrenches oneself in egotistical considerations, perhaps one never is able to get around to the truly crucial, moral question: "Is this war proper to fight in when in this war the American government is in the process of imposing genocide upon the Vietnamese people?"

The brutalizations and atrocities committed by both American soldiers and by impersonal American soldiers and by impersonal American bombings in Viet Nam can be explained only by the underlying, never-spoken, racist attitude that one can countenance as a means to an end the slaughter of illiterate, poor, yellow people. In other words, genocide is all right against white people. If Viet Nam were France, would we bomb villages full of people named Stephen Duval and Marie Castel?

Sen. Wayne Morse, in response to Robert McNamara's expression of elation over the great destruction we are engaged upon with relative impunity to ourselves, said to the Senate: "I have been saying for two and a half years that we are shooting fish in a barrel. But they happen to be human beings, and they happen to be God's human beings, and as much the children of God as any American."

The moral question before America's young men is not whether they are likely to come out alive from Viet Nam--for we all know most of them will--but rather, should they shoot human beings in a barrel.

SN Writer 'Un-Paper?'

To the Editor:

I inferred from Ron Karle's article (State News, Wednesday, April 27) that he felt The Paper was "un-MSU" because it printed the Ramparts advertisement of April, 1966. Apparently, Mr. Karle felt that because the Ramparts article was critical of Michigan State it would be better if no paper written and read by MSU students advertised or drew attention to the magazine. It developed that no paper concerned with Michigan State (indeed, many that were not) could ignore the Ramparts story, however insidious it may have been. It seems to me that any student or newspaper concerned with Michigan State should have been sincerely interested in reading and investigating the Ramparts article, whether or not it eventually drew national attention.

Finally, I think one of the more disturbing aspects of the Ramparts-MSU debacle was the University's confusion and obvious secrecy concerning the CIA in the Viet Nam project. The Paper demonstrated this undeniable confusion forthrightly and with striking effectiveness.

Dance Group Disappointing

To the Editor:

State News Reviewer Bob Zeschin did a good job Friday in his commentary entitled "African Dance Troupe More Than Entertaining". It is a fair and informed opinion he expressed when he said: "African dance is more than just a lot of drumming, footstomping and jumping around". Olatunji and his group embarrassed many Africans present by their brand of African music and dance. To say the least, it is "un-African." Even some of my non-African friends who had been to Africa before were almost completely entranced by this brand of African show.

There is much truth in Zeichin's observation about Olatunji's brand of "musical safari through Africa". He commented: "but this cliché is limited, too audience-oriented". . . . This raises a number of questions which Olatunji alone can answer. Was he really playing to the gallery? Did he think he succeeded in pleasing all his audience? I am not sure a man is morally justified to misinform his audience even when the audience is most entertained and aggrandized with "misrepresentation".

It would serve no useful purpose criticizing Olatunji and his group. The group has presented its best fashion of African cultural show thus far. Why can't we evaluate it in the manner Bob had done? But if it is true that Olatunji made his show audience-oriented, he owes all those who were present some explanation for misrepresentation. Many came to see African music and dance NOT "a play to the gallery". The Wednesday night show is better described as "African Musical Farce." Or was the show a pure artistic charlatanism?

*The Thing Speaks For Itself

Through associations at the Michigan Law School, I have become aware of the humor enjoyed by these young legal minds; humor that draws on Latin phrases picked up in the classroom and case books.

Two of these phrases seem rather appropriate in light of recent hurried events to set up a law school at Michigan State: "Lex non curat de minimis" (the law cares not about trifles) and "Lex non cogit ad impossibilia" (the law does not compel the doing of the impossible).

Apparently the honorable lawmakers down the street are looking for a quick and convenient place to pick up a little knowledge of the law and thus may favor the University with $250,000 to get the academic ball rolling.

A law degree would give them something to fall back on if they were ever voted out of office.

The University's official reaction was, unfortunately, just that; official; officially receptive and officially unthinking, perhaps because the officials were unofficially surprised at the unprovoked appropriation.

To consider the implications of the hasty move proposed by the lawmakers, imagine what must have gone on at the inevitable closed committee meeting of University officials to discuss Michigan State's unexpected good fortune.

"Gentlemen, as you know, a college of human law at Michigan State is under consideration by the Legislature," begins the chairman. "I say human law because I think we should differentiate between the college of veterinary law that surely will follow since we are an agriculture school."

Nods of agreement around the conference table.

"Since we'll undoubtedly be competing with the University of Michigan, and since the lawmakers will be anxious to begin learning law, the keyword for us is action."

"Well then," offered a committee member, "we'd better get Burt Ferris on the phone and have him get some ivy going--for the sake of prestige you know."

"You're quite right," agreed the chairman, "Michigan's Law Quad has quite a start on us there."

"But the most pressing problem is where to locate the law complex. The only thing I can see is to build out between the railroad tracks and Mt. Hope Rd."

"Build?" asked one of the younger members of the committee. "Build what with $250,000? Besides that land is a meadow. No prestige in that."

Worrisome nods of agreement around the table.

"Wait, I've got it," spoke up another committee member. "Why not set up the law school in the old administration building and we could also take over the five red buildings across the way on East Circle Drive."

The committee looked encouraged.

"Sure, then we could call it the Law Crescent and it would be older than Michigan's Law Quad, and with all that new ivy. . . ."

"Now we're getting somewhere," boomed the chairman.

A serious looking member from the library stood up. "Gentlemen, as you know, I'm concerned with library facilities for the law school. Let me read you this from the U-M law school bulletin:

"On July 1, 1963, the library contained 321,415 volumes, in addition to large numbers of pamphlets, reprints, and documents, which are not included in the statistics of accessions. The collection includes all of the published reports of the American federal and state courts and, in addition, the court reports of Great Britain, her dominions and colonies, and of the principal European and South American countries, the constitutions, codes, and statutes of most foreign countries, as well as of the American States, are kept up to date in the collection. A large section of the library is devoted to treatises on all phases of law and legal science, and there are extensive special collections in the fields of Roman law, international law, criminology, trial briefs and transcripts, biography and legal bibliography."

"We'll also have to whip up a prestigious law journal--at least comparable to the poultry journal," added another committee member.

"And then there's the problem of assembling a distinguished faculty. Do you suppose we could arrange to obtain the teaching services of lawmakers holding law degrees free of charge?"

"It would never work," said another. "Imagine a Republican teaching a class with a majority of Democrats. We'd have to offer two classes for every course to avoid party conflicts."

"Another problem here," said the chairman, "would be the moot court--it would probably be divided along party lines."

The committee looked glum.

"Well," concluded the chairman, "res ipsa loquitur."

FOR SOUTHERN NEGROES

Vote Registering Risks Job

To better understand what the residents of Strike City are confronting, it is perhaps necessary to sketch the position of the plantation Negro in general.

It is no secret that white "communities" in the South have a large amount of control over the Negro (my reference here is to the plantation Negro in particular, not the city dweller). The extent of this control is little known to most persons in the North. (In fact, many persons in the North do not even realize that the plantation system is still in effect throughout the South), but it is of such that the Negro is boxed in politically, economically and psychologically.

Much publicity has been given to the amount of benefits, in the form of economic aid, legislation, and moral support, that the Southern Negro has been receiving. This is true, but it has been my observation that the farm laborer of southern plantations has received very little. His condition has changed little in proportion to the total economic growth of this country since the Civil War.

Politically, the plantation Negro of the Greenville, Miss. area has no power. On the contrary, the political power which exists is directed against him; against his becoming an "emerging" threat to the white supremacy which exists. Federal aid to Negroes and to the poor in general is controlled largely by state and local agencies, which can and do use this source of power as a means of control--and it must be remembered that the Negro farm laborer is almost always living on a subsistence level.

Also, the names of Negroes who register to vote are published and the result is often the loss of a job. Approximately 150 Negroes, who have lost their jobs for registering to vote and because of mechanization (a non-political but equally serious problem for the farm laborer) are presently living in Mount Bajou, north of Greenville.

The more obvious control is economic. If the plantation Negro were making an adequate wage, he is less likely to be illiterate and subservient, but it is to the advantage of the plantation owners to have the Negro not only underpaid, but in debt to him. The men in Strike City described to us how they were almost always in debt to the plantation owner because of doctor bills and because they had to borrow money to live on during the slack periods in the winter. This is the primary reason that the women and children had to work in the fields during the summer, hoeing weeds for $3 a day.

Wallace Green and Garther Lee Martin took us on a backroads tour of the area. We saw shacks housing large families that reminded us of farm houses in the North that have been abandoned for many years.

They were made of bare plank and resting on cement blocks. They had spaces in the walls that could be seen through, and patches of rusty tin were nailed over large areas of some plank roofs. The men remarked that the floors were full of holes and that when it snowed, they often had to scoop snow out of the windows. The tents in Strike City, they said, were about as good as the shacks.

Several hundred yards down the road, we drove by the home of a plantation owner, Green and Martin fell silent. It was a very expensive and beautiful home, with a large manicured lawn and adjoining two-car garage. It was interesting to see that the car was provided with a cement floor and that a nearby doghouse had shingles on its roof.

Anti-Karle Attitude

To the Editor:

Is Ron Karle saying, in his article of Wednesday, April 27, that The Paper should approve of something, anything, every now and then?

In other words, as long as The Paper comes out for the university on some issue occasionally, that publication's quality would be immensely enhanced. Karle went on to state that he had not read The Paper's article on Viet Nam and the MSU project until later. But he felt that the 11 previous issues of The Paper included that The Paper's viewpoint would necessarily be derogatory toward MSU. He termed this The Paper's "usually anti-everything" attitude, and that this attitude would possibly bring about the downfall of The Paper.

It is interesting to note that Karle's article, with its use of inference, implication and parajournalistic style, read very much like the Ramparts article on MSU.

STRASBOURG, France (UPI)--U.N. Secretary General Thant warned Tuesday the Viet Nam war is a "formidable obstacle" in the way of improving East-West relations.

The war is casting "its shadow on all aspects of international cooperation," Thant told the 16-nation Council of Europe Consultative Assembly here. The U.N. chief also warned the assembly that unless rich nations help their poorer neighbors they risk being swept away.

Viet Reds Reject Red Cross Plea

GENEVA (UPI)--Secret talks between the American Red Cross and the Communist Vietnamese in Prague failed on the issue of U.S. prisoners of war held in North Viet Nam, it was learned Tuesday night. Highly authoritative sources said the secret meeting was held recently in the Czech capital between American Red Cross officials and representatives of the Communist Viet Cong. The meeting failed to produce any results whatsoever, the sources said.

Communist Summit Planned

MOSCOW (UPI)--Informed diplomatic sources Tuesday said a summit meeting of East European Communist party and government leaders will be held in Bucharest, Romania, in early July to coordinate policy on aid to Viet Nam and the Sino-Soviet feud.

Also high on the agenda will be a Soviet-sponsored scheme to guarantee Europe's security and lessen U.S. influence on the continent, the sources said.

Polish Catholics Mark Millenium

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (UPI)--Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski Tuesday celebrated the millenium of Roman Catholicism in Poland and blessed a throng of up to 300,000 faithful in the name of Pope Paul VI to whom "the gate of Poland was closed." Earlier, Archbishop Bolislaw Kominek of Wroclaw proclaimed that Catholics in Poland "do not want a political church" and asked the country's Communist rulers for "freedom and tolerance."

China Calls Soviet Official 'Liar'

TOKYO (UPI)--Communist China Tuesday called Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky a "liar" for saying the Peking regime hampered the transit of Soviet aid shipments to North Viet Nam.

A Chinese spokesman said, "All military aid materials which Viet Nam asked for and which the Soviet Union delivered to China have been transported to Viet Nam by China with priority, at high speed and free of charge."

KENNEDY, McGOVERN

Seek China Policy Revamp

WASHINGTON (UPI)--Democratic Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, Mass., and George S. McGovern, S.D., proposed Tuesday that President Johnson name a blue-ribbon commission to overhaul U.S. policy toward Communist China.

In separate but similar speeches prepared for the Senate, the two stepped squarely into the middle of the reappraisal of U.S. relations with Peking recently launched by Sen. J. William Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee.

Fulbright endorsed the idea after Kennedy and McGovern had spoken. The Arkansas Democrat said that a committee drawing from some of the nation's "best minds" would be even more free than his committee from "the inhibitions that affect public of-rice." Now that the question if China has been opened up, he added, "it is important that we keep the subject alive."

Kennedy said his proposed panel would have the objective of freeing U.S. relations with Communist China from its "present emotional straitjacket."

As members he suggested the names of retired Army Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and Alfred M. Gruenther, both former NATO commanders, or Dr. Milton Eisenhower, retiring president of the Johns Hopkins University and brother of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

McGovern's choices were former President Eisenhower, Ridgway, or retired Gen. James M. Gavin.

McGovern proposed that the United States end its opposition to Red China's admission to the United Nations; invite China to disarmament and nuclear treaty talks at Geneva; and agree to a United Nations solution of the Formosa problem, while encouraging self-determination for the people there.

Kennedy did not go quite this far. He suggested that these were matters which the blue-ribbon panel could study and on which it could make recommendations.

"The commission I suggest would have the truly historic task of seeing if more normal relations with China could be established, consistent with the goals and principles of our foreign policy," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

The State Department showed no particular enthusiasm for the proposed panel. Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said the two speeches had been received "and, of course, will be studied carefully."

Party Battle Lines Drawn
As State Primaries Begin

The primary season opened Tuesday in six states, from Alabama's black belt to the industrial cities of Ohio, as voters drew the battle lines for Democrats and Republicans in the Nov. 8 elections.

Polling booths were jammed in Alabama, scene of the first major test of the southern Negro's newly won voting power. No incidents were reported as FBI agents and federal observers guarded against intimidation or violence.

Despite fair weather, crowds were light in Florida, Indiana, Ohio and New Mexico, where primaries generally centered around local issues and personalities. A free-for-all in Oklahoma rounded out the balloting.

Republicans looked for early clues to the success of their comeback campaign in some of Tuesday's contests, but a firmer picture will not emerge until later in the year in other states.

The primaries will settle party lineups for the November election of 35 governors, 35 senators and all 435 members of the House of Representatives.

National attention focused on Alabama, where Gov. George C. Wallace hopes to continue his power grip on the state by having his wife, Lurleen, succeed him.

The field of nine Democratic challengers was led by Atty. Gen. Richmond M. Flowers, who has the support of Negro political organizations.

Voters lined up for several blocks at the polls opened in Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile. The federal government, seeking compliance with the 1965 Voting Rights Act, had observers stationed in seven counties with histories of racial turmoil.

Packaging Foundation
Extends Fund Support

The Packaging Foundation, which previously raised funds for the sole support of the School of Packaging at MSU, has changed its charter to allow it to extend support for packaging education.

Now that the original commitment to MSU has been fulfilled and the new buildings for the School of Packaging completed, the foundation's board of trustees has decided to give support to other deserving institutions, said Ira Gottsch, chairman of the board.

Financing the new School of Packaging is assumed entirely by the Packaging Foundation, said Phillip May, MSU vice president for business and finance. Of the $465,000 which the facilities cost, the foundation has only $135,000 left to pay, he said.

The changing of the charter will hopefully attract funds of industries from all parts of the country, May said. Some organizations felt that they could not contribute to a foundation which supported only one institution. The new change may produce an increase in funds for MSU, he added.

Support for the MSU School of Packaging will continue but donors may now earmark their gifts for any purpose that will advance packaging knowledge, Gottsch said. Gifts, which are tax-free, may also be unrestricted.

the foundation's board, he said. More than 200 individuals are now contributing to the foundation. The board consists of 70 executives from leading packaging companies who donate their time for this activity.

The packaging phase of manufacturing represents a national expenditure of approximately $25 billion a year.

Don't Monkey
Carnival Cable

Students have been requested not to handle the electric cable set up for Water Carnival on either side of the Red Cedar River, according to Ken Miller, Detroit senior and Water Carnival production chairman.

The cable extends from the bridge at Farm Lane to the area behind Kresge Art Center. "Last year several students cut into the cable, but fortunately the current was not on," Miller said. Students are warned not to "monkey around" with it this year since the power will be on consistently.

Religious Talks Bog Down

DALLAS (UPI)--The question of how ministers are called or assigned to local churches emerged Tuesday as a major sticking point in efforts to unite eight denominations in the world's largest Protestant church.

"This is going to be a real tough one to settle," said the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, Presbyterian leader who first proposed the merger.

Dean Walter G. Mulder of Boston University's Theology School, said the unresolved issue of ministerial appointment is a "prime concern" of Methodist delegates to the Consultation on Church Union (COCU), the body in which the merger talks are being conducted.

Participants in COCU are the Methodist Church, the Episcopal Church, the United Presbyterian Church, the Southern Presbyterian Church, the Disciples of Christ, the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the Evangelical United Brethren and the United Church of Christ.

Together they have 24 million members. The consultation is holding its fifth annual meeting in Dallas this week.

Delegates met Tuesday in small workshop groups, closed to the press and the public, for a candid airing of views.

SN Predicts: Spartans '66 Big Ten Champs

By LARRY WERNER
State News Sports Writer

MSU's football squad boasts the return of seven of 11 offensive regulars and spring drills have developed a top-notch defense to replace that lost from the '65 team.

On the strength of returning starters and promising talent, the Spartans should repeat as Big Ten champs in '66. But who will the gridgers have to contend with for the crown?

OHIO STATE

The Buckeyes only loss in the Big Ten was to the Spartans, last fall. OSU's conference mark was 6-1, and it was 7-2 overall. Coach Woody Hayes referred to his '65 crop of seniors as "the finest senior class in 15 years," but, as seniors do, the Buckeyes' veterans have departed. Seven members of the Ohio State offense and four defensive regulars are gone.

Halfback Bo Rein and end Billy Anders return and should shine, and defensive end Jimm Bass should pace a solid defense. Just four offensive linemen and one back return as regulars.

OSU may have to put its hopes on defense, in '66.

PURDUE

Purdue gave the Spartans a scare last fall. The Boilermakers racked up a 5-2 conference record and were 7-2-1 overall. They tied for third in the Big Ten with Minnesota.

All-American Bob Griese's passing was the major reason for Purdue's success against the high-flying MSU team. However, end Bob Hadrick and Fullback Randy Minniear also presented the Spartans with a few problems.

Only Griese, of this trio, is back. Griese may be just as strong this fall, especially if split end Jim Beirne blossoms as expected.

Beirne caught 29 passes for 384 yards and four touchdowns in '65. Another offensive strong point is the return of starting halfback Jim Finley, who was also a top receiver.

Eight of the regulars are back on defense, led by tackle Lance Olssen, a soph standout in '65.

MINNESOTA

The Gophers' 5-2 league mark was attained largely through the utilization of fine senior talent. As a result of graduation, only two of the starting offensive team are back, and only six on defense.

Biggest losses will be those of quarterback John Hankinson and his favorite receivers, Aaron Brown and Kent Kramer. These three rewrote Minnesota passing records.

"This will be the most difficult rebuilding job since I came to Minnesota," said Coach Murray Warmath at the outset of spring drills. It will take much freshman help to keep Minnesota in the first division.

ILLINOIS

All-American fullback Jim Grabowski wasn't the only loss suffered by Illinois last season.

The NEWS In

SPORTS

Five of 11 members are gone on offense and seven have stepped out of the defensive picture.

It is not too often that a mediocre team suffers big losses and improves the following year. This is a possibility facing Illinois.

NORTHWESTERN

Northwestern lost a line through graduation of '65 starters, but the backfield has suffered very little. The Wildcats were 4-6 overall and 3-4 in the Big Ten last fall.

Sophomore Denny Boothe took over the starting quarterback job last season and will be back along with his ends, Casimer Banaszek and Mike Donaldson. Also returning are regular fullback

Bob McKelvey and starting halfback Woody Campbell.

Northwestern could definitely move up in '66.

MICHIGAN

The Wolverines should improve on their dismal 2-5 record of '65, but if a line isn't developed to complement a formidable backfield, the improvement may be slight.

WISCONSIN

Wisconsin is a team near the bottom of the Big Ten standings faced with rebuilding problems. The line is the major sore point.

NO FOOTBALL THIS SPRING

Washington On Right Track

By DAN DROSKI
State News Sports Writer

Gene Washington has decided to devote the entire spring to the track team, and the full time practice seems to have paid off.

Washington and his teammates set a national record in the shuttle hurdle relays last Saturday at the Drake Relays as they covered the distance in a time of :57.4 seconds.

Washington, who has been running track since his high school days, feels the Spartans have one of the strongest squads in the Big Ten.

"Everyone has been working very hard in practice, and I believe we have an excellent chance to win the outdoor title," said Washington.

Head Coach Fran Dittrich rates Washington as one of the top athletes in the conference. "Gene is a very hard working boy and he is always trying to better himself," said Dittrich.

Dittrich feels that Washington is at his best after he has left the starting blocks. "Gene has been having a little trouble with his starts, but he has been clearing the hurdles well and his finishes have been very strong," said Dittrich.

Washington agrees that the latter stages of the race are his strong points. "I usually start out pretty slow because of my size," said the 215-pound junior. "I have been finishing strong, and I have cleared the hurdles very well as of late."

Dittrich believes that playing football has helped Washington to gain confidence and to stay in better shape.

"I think that football and track complement each other," said Dittrich. "A good football player is usually a good trackman, and a good trackman may become a good football player."

Washington feels he has been fortunate to be coached by some of the best men in the country. "When I was in high school I wanted to attend a Big Ten school and play football," said Washington. "I felt MSU was my best choice because it has the best athletic program and the best coaching staff in the conference."

Crew Takes First At Kansas State

The MSU crew team placed first in junior varsity competition and second in the varsity race at the Heart of America Invitational Rowing Regatta held by Kansas State University last Saturday.

The Spartans rowed against Kansas State and Notre Dame at the meet.

Winning the junior varsity gave the crew team its second victory in two weeks.

Batsmen Take Two From Chips

MT. PLEASANT-- Michigan State's baseball team swept a double-header from Central Michigan University here Tuesday afternoon for its 14th and 15th victories of the year.

The Spartans beat the Chips, 10-4, in the first game on three home runs and got a four-hit, 11 strike-out pitching performance from sophomore Jim Blight for a 4-0 victory in the nightcap.

In the opener, Central exploded for three unearned runs in the first and another in second to take a 4-0 lead over the Spartans. State's fielding settled down, however, after a shaky first inning and gave good support to Jim Goodrich and John Krasnan the rest of the game.

The Spartans didn't get onto the scoreboard until the fourth inning, when Bob Speer belted a home run over the 385-foot sign in center field.

MSU tied the game in the fourth with three runs on three hits. With one out, Steve Juday walked, went to second on a hit by Dennis Maedo, and then scored along with Maedo when Steve Polisar ripped a double to right field. Polisar then tallied on a double to right by Biedenbach.

Bill Steckley hit his second home run of the year in the sixth--a towering blast to right--that scored Tom Binkowski.

In the seventh, Polisar got into the "homer act" with a solo blast over the right center field fence.

In the second game a double by Maedo drove in the first two Spartan runs in the second inning.

State added two more insurance runs in the fifth on two walks, a hit and an error.

Canadiens Beat Wings 5-1, Ahead In Playoff's, 3-2

MONTREAL-- The Montreal Canadiens defeated the Detroit Red Wings 5-1 Tuesday night in the fifth game of the playoffs for hockey's Stanley Cup.

Montreal now leads the best-of-seven series, three games to two.

The victory by the Canadiens was the first win by either team on its home ice, Detroit having won the first two games of the series. The Canadiens took the third and fourth games in Detroit.

Montreal scored two goals in each of the first two periods and one in the final period of last night's game, while Detroit managed only a single tally in the second period.

Norm Ullman scored the Detroit goal on a power play, with assists by Andy Bathgate and Paul Henderson.

Montreal had 33 shots on goal while the Red Wings could manage but 21 shots on Canadian goalie Gump Worsley.

The Wings were called for fouls during the game and the Canadiens were penalized four times.

The sixth game of the series will be played Thursday night at Detroit Olympia. A Montreal victory would clinch the Stanley Cup for the Canadiens.

'S' Ruggers Win Once In Midwest Tourney

MSU's rugby club was victorious once in three games at the Midwestern Rugby Football Tournament last weekend in Chicago.

The Spartans split a pair with St. Louis, losing the first 6-3, and winning the second, 8-3, in two overtimes. MSU then lost to Palmer College, 12-0.

Roger Parfitt, MSU fullback, scampered 80 yards in the overtime period for MSU's winning margin against St. Louis.

The rugby team will travel to Cleveland for a game with the Cleveland rugby club this weekend. MSU's two home meets will be with John Carroll May 14 and the University of Chicago May 21.

CEMENT JUNGLES GROW

Will Your Children See Woodlands?

By CRAIG BOIKE
State News Staff Writer

Cities grow and industry spreads. The woodlands become shopping centers and the meadows, subdivisions. Nature moves out and man moves in.

Preserving nature areas is one of the important problems facing man today, according to Len Stutman, speaker at the MSU Men's Club Tuesday.

Stutman, featured weekly on WJIM-TV in "The Many Worlds of Len Stutman," spoke on the program of the Lansing Nature Way Assn. in meeting the problem of nature preservation.

"Unless something is done today," said Stutman, "future Lansing generations may have to travel miles to witness nature life."

With slides and graphs Stutman showed his audience how Lansing would spread over Clinton, Ingham and Eaton counties in the future.

Nature Way Assn., growing out of informal discussions four years ago, is doing something about this, Stutman said.

He cited the group's enlistment of the National Audubon Society to study the present and future needs of the tri-county area.

Under the association's direction a course in nature study was begun last summer at the Rose Lake Wildlife Area, Stutman said.

This program consisted of in-the-field observation with follow-up classroom sessions. Students under the project went on hikes to identify leaves, animals, birds, etc.

Leaders stressed relationships between the different animal and plant communities, with students both participating in and conducting various experiments measuring these relationships.

The nature association is currently working on a project to develop a site for nature study southeast of Lansing.

door Laboratory, the project will make use of the Anderson farm, a 280-acre site to be given to the group by Mrs. Gladys Olds Anderson on May 19.

The farm, composed of woodlands, meadows and swamps bordering on the Grand River, will be developed to give children and adults a maximum in nature experience, Stutman said.

Plans for the project call for development of the various buildings on the farm to serve nature education purposes.

Construction unions of the Lansing area have volunteered their services for this task.

East Lansing Post Office
Seeks Approval To Expand

The East Lansing Post Office may move out of the central business district if it cannot acquire the parking lot adjacent to the present structure, Mayor Gordon L. Thomas said at the City Council meeting Monday night.

E.P. Gailmard, director of engineering for the Post Office Dept., wrote the council requesting approval of post office expansion and modernization plans, which would include the acquisition of Parking Lot No. 4.

Post office representatives feel this is the only possible plan, said City Manager John M. Patriarche. They are very anxious to get started on expansion.

The request was referred to the Planning Commission, who will study possible alternatives.

At the same meeting, a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity said the house would probably move the location of their street dance upon suggestion of the council.

The student spoke at the council meeting during the time for "persons to be heard from the floor."

The council received a letter from his fraternity requesting that Evergreen Avenue be closed from Valley Court to Oak Hill May 22 for a street dance.

Councilman Bill E. Hanel suggested that the fraternity use a nearby tennis court, due to the difficulty of re-routing traffic on Evergreen Avenue.

Patriarche said he would meet with fraternity representatives this week and report to the council next Monday.

Another letter was read from Kenneth Wright, 1624 Parkvale Ave., asking the council not to approve amendments to Ordinance No. 130.

The amendments, which were proposed in lieu of an open occupancy ordinance, were recently given to the city attorney to be drawn up in legal form. They propose a series of steps, including a decision from Circuit Court, to protect against alleged racial discrimination.

"Each property owner should make his own decision to whom he will sell or rent property," wrote Wright.

Mayor Thomas said that the council can do nothing until the city attorney presents the amendments to the council in legal form.

Campus Larcenies
Head Complaint Rise

Campus Police reported 4,417 complaints last year, a 50 per cent increase in only eight years, Capt. Adam J. Zuta said Tuesday.

The recorded complaints represent only a fraction of the total calls that police receive and investigate yearly. "The increase in the number of complaints," Zuta said, "can be traced to the tremendous growth of the campus population."

Larceny was the dominant complaint listed in police files. Over 2,000 complaints were received on the theft of items with a value in excess of $50. Clothing, money and jewelry were the most common items listed as missing in complaints. Zuta noted that larcenies have shown a proportionate increase in both men's and women's dormitories.

Student drinking problems have decreased during the last few years, according to Zuta. "Most persons stopped for drinking," Zuta said, "are visitors, not students." However, drinking was still considered a prime factor in many campus traffic accidents. Effective patrol and enforcement, Zuta felt, were the reasons for the over-all decrease in the problem.

"About 95 per cent of the campus population," Zuta said, "is extremely cooperative, and that's a figure which most cities don't have."

Brody Grill To Be Moved? Causes Noise, Confusion

By JO ANN BAER
State News Staff Writer

The Brody Grill may be moved because of the excessive noise and confusion during class hours.

The grill is located on the first floor of Brody Hall across from the multi-purpose rooms. These rooms are being used as classrooms recently and professors have voiced several complaints, said Lyle A. Thorburn, manager of the residence halls.

Aside from the noise created by students milling in the grill, professors have complained that many students arrive to class late, said Thorburn. Another grievance was the juke box which has recently been restricted to playing only after 5 p.m., he said. Moving the grill, which would probably be replaced by a library, will be no simple project and there are no definite plans as yet, said Thorburn. A location will first have to be secured for the new grill and then the money will have to be obtained, he said.

Several different locations are being considered at the time, Thorburn said. A portion of the dining room could be converted into a grill. The 1956 Room, used for exchange dinners, was also considered, he said. These two locations seem to be inconvenient as well as inaccessible because they are on the second floor of the hall, he added.

The other possibilities being considered at the present time are the addition of a wing to the Southwest corner of the building or elevation of a second floor on the same corner.

If money were no object, plans would be progressing more rapidly, said Thorburn. Funds will have to be borrowed as they would if a new residence hall were being constructed, he said.

Thorburn emphasized the fact that plans for a new grill are only being considered and are not definite.

Frosh To Tell Of First Year

Principals, counselors and teachers from 300 Michigan high schools will interview nearly 300 freshmen on campus Thursday.

Students will exchange viewpoints, both curricular and co-curricular, in interviews with representatives from their high schools beginning at 8:30 a.m. in the Auditorium.

The representatives will conclude their activities with a luncheon in Kellogg Center at noon. D. Gordon Rohman, dean of Justin Morrill College, will be the guest speaker.

The annual event is sponsored by the Office of Admissions and Scholarships.

Foreign Scientists Set For Cyclotron Check

A group of 33 foreign scientists including five from Russia, will visit MSU next Tuesday to inspect the new Cyclotron Laboratory.

The stop at MSU is part of a nation-wide tour by the scientists, who this week are attending the International Conference on Isochronous Cyclotrons at Gatlinburg, Tenn.

Among participants at the Monday-Thursday conference are four MSU scientists:

Morton M. Gordon, professor of physics and astronomy; Merritt L. Mallory, assistant instructor in physics and astronomy; and Richard E. Berg, graduate research assistant in physics and astronomy.

The conference is co-sponsored by the International Union of Pure and Applied Physics and the Atomic Energy Commission.

The post-conference tour will arrive Tuesday morning from Ann Arbor. The group will spend the day getting a close look at MSU's 55-million electron volt cyclotron. They will leave May 11 for San Francisco.

In addition to the U.S. and U.S.S.R., nations represented in the group include Sweden, Germany, France, Italy, England, the Netherlands, Japan, Korea and Poland.

Help Wanted: Clinic Biped To Supervise Quadrupeds

There are accommodations for 488 quadrupeds and 11 bipeds in the new Veterinary Clinic. Most of the latter are interns in the Small Animal Clinic.

Juniors and seniors in veterinary medicine who are interested in living in the clinic may apply for a job as a night intern. The quarters upstairs and laundry service are part of the job.

The major part of the work consists of giving night medications and answering the telephone, but interns may also treat emergency cases and accident victims under the close supervision of a clinician.

Most of the animals treated are cats and dogs or large animals on whom a clinician makes a call, such as horses, sheep and cattle. However, among their patients have been a monkey who needed a tuberculin test, a parakeet with a broken leg and a bear who came to be declawed.

The interns can make their own examinations and diagnoses, but final approval must be given by a clinician before treatment is given.

One small-animal clinician, one large-animal clinician and one clinician for the ambulance are on call each night to supervise the interns and perform emergency operations.

The interns' quarters resemble rooms in a residence hall except for the fully-equipped, modern kitchen of which the men are quite proud. They also share a dining room and lounge.

Most of the interns share double rooms, but three of the eight rooms are occupied by non-interns. Bhola N. Gupta, DVM, lives in one room. Kenneth Gertzen, DVM, and George Ruth, DVM, both large-animal clinicians, occupy the other two. The men buy and cook their own meals, but the rest of the rules are the same as those in residence halls.

John Brewster, Washington, N.J., and Benjamin Dominguez, Guayama, Puerto Rico, have lived above the Small Animal Clinic since September. They will leave when they graduate this June as doctors of veterinary medicine. Six juniors--Julian Chestnut, Southfield; Jerry George, Coldwater; Jerry Wonnacott, Detroit; Fred Woolman, Grand Blanc; Steve Morrone, Westerly, R.I.; and Jack Fox, Cleveland, Ohio, will spend a full calendar year in the interns' quarters, leaving only when they graduate next March.

One team of two interns works from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. One team also works from 5 p.m. Friday to 8 a.m. Monday. They work year-around with little time off, since there must be at least half of the intern staff in residence at one time.

In addition, like all other juniors and seniors in veterinary medicine, they have classes seven days a week, with morning classes on Saturday and Sunday. All classes begin at 8 a.m., but for the interns, classes are just down the hall. One intern joked that he hadn't been out of the building in quite a while.

In addition to serving the clinic and the animals, the interns gain valuable experience in both routine and emergency cases. The experience is so valuable that Fayne Oberst, DVM, director of veterinary clinics, said, "It's an opportunity I think every veterinary student should have."

Two Coeds Given AWS Positions

Marcia Coffman, Chicago junior, and Elaine Simons, Berkeley freshman, were unanimously approved as project chairman of Associated Women's Students, (AWS) "Who's Who and What's What" and "Women's Week," respectively, at the last AWS assembly.

Their chairmanship automatically qualifies them for seats on the AWS programs council which coordinates the organization's activities and programs.

Previously appointed to the 1966-1967 council were: Kathy Dutton, chairman of Lantern Night; Myrna Demarest, chairman of Spinsters' Spin, and Mary Blauw, who will head the Junior Packet project.

MSU Gets Federal Education Fellowships

MSU was among five Michigan schools given fellowships for prospective elementary and secondary school teachers for the 1966-67 academic year, the U.S. Office of Education announced recently.

The recipients of the fellowships will be selected by the participating institutions.

Sixteen fellowships for the fields of elementary education and secondary level social science will be dispersed by MSU.

Recipients will receive $2,000 for their first academic year and $2,200 for the second year, plus an allowance for each eligible dependent of $400.

Completion of two years of full-time graduate study leading to the master or specialists degrees is a condition of the fellowships.

The fellowships are authorized by the Higher Education Act of 1965 for the purpose of strengthening teacher preparation programs at the graduate level.

The institution which the fellow attends receives $2,500 a year to help pay the cost of his education.

Romney Undecided, GOP Wants Griffin

LANSING (P)—Gov. George Romney said Tuesday he expects to fill Michigan's vacant Senate seat by early next week.

He said that Monday he talked to U.S. Rep. Robert Griffin, the man expected to get the job, but declared, "I have not made a conclusive decision."

The seat was vacated Saturday by the death of Democrat Patrick V. McNamara.

Griffin had already been designated by the party as the preferred Republican candidate for the seat which McNamara planned to vacate at the end of this term.

DETROIT (P)—Northern High School pupils and administrators continued work toward settlement of student grievances Tuesday amid reports that dissidents had set a deadline for implementation of promised school reforms.

Student leaders Charles Colding, Michael Batchelor and Judy Walker were reported to have said they would ask 2,300 youngsters to walk out of classes for a second time if demands were not met in two weeks.

MOUNT PLEASANT (P)—A labor force of Indians will be surveyed this week in hopes of bringing an electronics manufacturing industry into the Mount Pleasant area.

Mississippi

The more subtle and effective means of control of the plantation Negro is a psychological one. These people, including those of Strike City, are humble and afraid; they have, for generations, been conditioned to think of themselves as inferior to and powerless against the white community. Their ignorance is the result of inculcated illiteracy, social immobility, and fear.

The plantation Negro cannot achieve a decent life for himself alone. The effort must be a combination of internal organization on the part of the Negro, external pressure and aid by the federal government and contributions and participation from individuals and groups in northern communities.

The families of Wallace Green, Garther Lee Martin and John Henry Sylvester and others have done something very brave. Their risks are far greater than we realize, and they and Strike City, for what it means, must be supported, or it will fail.

Michigan Roundup

Officials from the Bureau of Indian Affairs said it is hoped the dexterity of Indians could be utilized in keeping electronics firms' expansions within the country.

Robert Bennett, commissioner of Indian affairs, says consultations with such firms indicate many are expanding and have a need for persons with a high degree of hand skills. Much of the work now is done overseas.

Confidence Vote

"any information of anything of scandalous nature involving any member of any party over the last 10 years."

The RCMP chief said he gave Pearson the Munsinger file. This linked former Conservative Deputy Defense Minister Pierre Seigny to Mrs. Munsinger, a former German beauty queen who is alleged to have spied for Russia before she came to Canada in 1957. She has since returned to Germany and has denied espionage activities in Canada.

McClellan's disclosure aroused Tory ire and led to the no-confidence motion which "explores and condemns" Pearson's actions as a threat to "the independence of all members" which would "undermine the institution of Parliament."

In the heated debate which followed, former Tory Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, during whose regime the Munsinger affair occurred, charged that the RCMP had conducted a "private peek-eye" for the Pearson government.

Pearson was home with the flu Monday and could not make an immediate defense. Observers believe the life of his government hangs on the success of his speech with members of Parliament representing smaller opposition parties.

Parking

changes in parking regulations could be investigated.

University parking regulations are adopted by the Board of Trustees, in much the same way that a city's parking regulations are adopted by its city council. The regulations have the force of law.

The last sweeping changes in parking regulations were adopted by the Board of Trustees in July, 1963, with an effective date of September, 1964. They were not announced until eight months after they had been adopted.

Changes made at that time included a ban on student parking during daylight hours, the inauguration of the permit-rental plan for faculty and staff employees, and the authorization of gated parking lots and metered spaces for visitors.

South Campus Weekend Brings Concert, Games

The Concert Under the Stars, a favorite among students over the years, will begin at 8:30 p.m. Saturday in the Case Courtyard.

Students can dance to the music of MSU's Activities Band and listen to the sounds of Hap and Joel, Jim and Jean, Al Finney and Karen and Tom Sharrard. Also on the evening's program are The Social Pros, The John Turner Quartet and the popular Bud Spangler Quartet.

Persons are reminded to bring along blankets to watch the fireworks beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Presentations of trophies for Games Day and Wilson Wipeout will also be made.

In case of rain the concert will be held in Wilson Hall Cafeteria. There is no admission charge.

Action again moves outdoors Sunday afternoon for a picnic at the Case Courtyard which will feature a speech by President Hannah, who will attend the picnic with Mrs. Hannah. Serving will begin at noon and in case of rain will be served at Case, Wilson and Wonders Hall cafeterias. President Hannah will then speak at Wonders Hall cafeteria.

There will be an open house throughout the south complex beginning at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The weekend winds up with a final outdoor mixer at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Case Hall loading dock. The dance will feature the rock-sound of The Caneburs and is free of charge.

Welfare State Boon To Lazy?

By TOM WALKER
State News Staff Writer

There is a revolution taking place today at MSU as well as on other college campuses across the country. There are no pickets, no sit-ins, no headlines, but the outcome could well shape the economic future of the United States.

The question concerns the government's role in the economy: should it take any part, and if so, how great a part?

The question is very often tied up with the student's projected vocation. A 21-year-old business administration major said, "I favor free enterprise, because I feel that there's more of a chance for you yourself to prove you can progress. Also, there's more of a challenge under a free enterprise system."

Some occupations, however, depend on the existence of an extensive welfare state. A great majority of social workers, for example, are employed by government agencies. For most people in these areas, the idea of free enterprise is wholly unacceptable.

Most of those who favor the welfare state justify their stand on humanitarian grounds. Comments such as "We should take care of our fellow man," and "I think we should provide for the indigent—the aged, the unemployed and so on," are representative of this viewpoint.

Often—much more often than a generation or two ago—one finds that students hold very different views on this subject than their fathers did. One sees sons who, breaking with tradition, become Democrats in a family which has for generations been conservatively Republican.

A 20-year-old minister's son, who favors the welfare state, labeled his father, who favors the free enterprise system, a "reactionary."

This phenomenon works in both directions. An 18-year-old economics major, whose father is a teacher in the Manpower Development Training Act, said:

"I advocate laissez-faire capitalism because it is the one system which does not allow the government to expropriate the wealth of those who have earned it for the benefit of those who have not. The parasitism encouraged by the welfare state is neither morally nor rationally justifiable."

John D. Shingleton, director of the Placement Bureau, said that this phenomenon of sons not following in their fathers' footsteps is a fairly recent one, and is certainly more prevalent now than it was 40 or 50 years ago. He attributed this to three basic causes: 1) a greater diversity of jobs; 2) increasing mobility; and 3) the greater independence of today's students.

N. Viet Password 'Total Victory'

SAIGON—Ant-like crowds work at night under rigid discipline, shops are empty, food is rationed and "total victory" is the password.

This image of life in Communist North Viet Nam is provided by western, neutral and Communist sources.

The appraisals vary, but all agree that the 17 million North Vietnamese are in a grip of an ironclad Communist apparatus.

Those who protest are shot. Virtually every man and woman is enrolled in a vast, painstaking war effort against American-backed South Viet Nam.

An estimated 200,000 laborers work every night to repair damage of American bombing raids.

Their relentless effort has kept men and supplies flowing to the jungle war in the South, where entire regiments of North Vietnamese regulars back the Viet Cong.

The civilian population of the North reportedly has suffered comparatively little from American raids, directed mainly against selected strategic targets.

Nevertheless, the capital of Hanoi lives in a state of permanent alert against a possible air attack.

"They have turned day into night and night into day," one report from the French mission in Hanoi said.

American intelligence sources are most specific—they say all life in Hanoi stops between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., when the regime estimates the chances for a raid are the greatest.

French reports say most children have been evacuated from the Hanoi metropolitan area. In the countryside, most classes in schools are held at night.

A fantastic program of austerity has been launched to survive and continue the war. Most reports speak of the determination of the Ho Chi Minh regime to score "total victory."

Americans tend to minimize the strength of the Communist doctrine among the primitive peasants but agree the regime is effective.

The French and British feel the doctrine has forged North Viet Nam into a unified nation—against an often divided South Viet Nam.
