

Romney's 'S' Budget Rapped

Trustee Charges Collusion Exists

MSU Trustee Clair A. White (D-Bay City) hinted today that the Michigan Legislature's budget appropriation to MSU may become a campaign issue.

In a letter to Gov. George Romney, White charged that "collusion exists between your office and the majority of the Senate Appropriations Committee."

This collusion, he alleged, "disadvantages the children of Michigan, both at the higher education level and, I fear, at the K-12 level, too, if the same political bargain can hold."

He told Romney that MSU "could never recover from the damage which your office did through your recommended appropriation funds and must therefore raise tuition."

If the governor and the Senate Appropriations Committee do not appropriate sufficient funds, he said, he will "have no other recourse but to bring this matter into the public arena for discussion."

White asserted that this collusion existed even though most of the members of the Senate Appropriations Committee are Democrats and Romney is Republican.

He said of the presence of the Democratic majority that he was "painfully aware of this, but wish to point out to you and the people of Michigan that this is no time for exploitation of plays and sly techniques between your office and a Senate clique, because the welfare of thousands of children of Michigan are at stake."

Further, he said, it was not his intention to "let either the governor's office or the State Legislature bankrupt Michigan State University with parsimonious appropriations; nor is it my intention when I think this great University has been wronged to keep silent about such an important matter."

White also claimed that if the Legislature does not appropriate the necessary funds, MSU trustees "will be forced to levy the necessary fees for funds to maintain MSU to guarantee service to the people of Michigan and to prepare for the ever-increasing demands which we anticipate."

White has recently proposed, along with Trustee Don Stevens, D-Okemos, that the University adopt a graduated fee structure if the Legislature does not approve enough funds.

Under his proposal, students could be charged fees ranging from nothing for students with family incomes under $5,000 per year, to $1,020 for out-of-state students and those from families with incomes over $20,000 per year.

600 SUPPORTERS KILLED

Bugandan King Escapes Troops

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)--Sir Edward (King Freddie) Mutesa of Buganda escaped from government troops two days ago during the shelling of his hilltop palace near Kampala, it was announced in Parliament Thursday.

Defense Minister Felix Onama told the legislators they would have to "ask the Bugandan ministers" where the 41-year-old, Oxford-educated kabaka (king) had fled.

An uneasy calm settled over Kampala Thursday after the fighting between troops loyal to President Milton Obote and tribal supporters of the Bugandan king which claimed an estimated 600 lives.

Unconfirmed reports said King Freddie escaped into neighboring Kenya or Burundi from his palace in the Buganda capital of Mengo.

Onama told parliament the crisis was sparked by King Freddie's edict that government troops would have to leave his kingdom, one of four in Uganda.

Electioning Reflects Split

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)--The campaign for next Wednesday's election is exposing small but eloquent signs that the political cleavage which split this city into warring camps during the 1965 revolution still exists.

Despite long, costly and occasionally successful reunification efforts which followed that revolt, Santo Domingo remains a politically divided city.

The central part of the city, an area of less than a square mile, was in the hands of the constitutionalist forces during the rebellion. The greater part of Santo Domingo and the country were controlled by the civilian military junta. Units of the inter-American peace force stood between the two sides. Barbed wire and barricades marked a crudely shaped boundary separating the belligerent zones. The barricades were removed last October.

Juan Bosch, presidential candidate of the Dominican Revolutionary party and the inspiration behind the April revolution, is the acknowledged favorite in what was the constitutionalist area of the capital. The preponderance of pro-Bosch signs painted on walls attests to this.

The theories and reasoning behind time are presented at the new Abrams Planetarium show. P. 10.

Iranian Student Jumps Bail

An MSU student is being sought for jumping bond and failing to appear in court Tuesday on charges of child cruelty.

Fatollah Hooshmand, Tehran, Iran freshman was scheduled to appear in the Ingham County Prosecutor's Office for examination for allegedly hitting his seven-week-old daughter with a karate blow last February.

Hooshmand, a 22-year-old agriculture student, faced two charges of cruelty and unlawfully punishing his infant daughter. JoAnne, said Raymond L. Scodellor, chief assistant to the prosecuting attorney.

JoAnne was three weeks old January 8, the date of the first alleged beating. On February 6, Hooshmand allegedly struck his daughter the karate blow.

Lansing Township Justice Court set bond at $300 on each charge which it cancelled Thursday when a bench warrant was issued.

Hooshmand's attorney, Stuart Dunning, said he was unable to contact the defendant Wednesday night. Hooshmand reportedly abandoned his Spartan Village apartment more than two weeks ago and made a phone call from California to a distant relative living here.

The child is reported still under medical observation. Hooshmand and his wife, the former Kathy Barker of Williamston, are reportedly separated and have started divorce proceedings.

University police will ask that a fugitive warrant be issued if Hooshmand fails to appear within a week. Capt. A. John Zutaut, Uniform Commander of MSU's Dept. of Public Safety, said, FBI assistance could then be asked in locating and returning Hooshmand.

Loan Forms Here

National Defense Educational Act student loan forms are again available in 257 Student Services. The forms have been unavailable for the last two weeks and students who were unable to obtain the forms during that time may now pick them up.

'What Time Is It?'

Med School Plan Is Unique

By STEPHEN GATES
State News Staff Writer

Amid a growing need for doctors in the U.S., MSU's Medical School will accept its first students next year in an attempt to provide a new approach to medical education.

The approximately 25 students admitted to the College of Human Medicine's program next year will be the first to test the college's theory that medical education should begin earlier, go slower and incorporate people and ideas from the other colleges in the University.

Most medical schools admit students in year five, the year after the bachelor's degree. At MSU, however, students will enter the medical school in the fourth year. MSU plans to have a unique program for years five and six ready for students who are entering year four this fall.

Students in years five and six, instead of following the usual classroom courses taught in most medical schools, will have a special curriculum called human biology with a special seminar and laboratory approach.

For example, students in year five will probably spend a whole term studying prenatal development of the child. Instead of giving separate lectures on each part of the human anatomy and psychology, a number of lecturers will discuss with the students all of the biological, physiological, biochemical and behavioral aspects of prenatal development. The students will then be expected to investigate a number of these aspects, both physical and behavioral, in the medical school laboratories.

Year four courses will offer the student much of the work in human anatomy, physiology and biochemistry that is usually covered in year five, plus a seminar (medicine and society) on the social aspects of medicine.

One of the special features of the three-year program being offered is that students will have one third of their time free to do with as they wish.

This free time is figured on the basis of the 36 contact hours per week that most medical schools require of their students. MSU will require approximately 24 hours of contact per week.

Students will be allowed to do whatever they wish with the free time, including research, pursuit of a bachelor's degree or nothing at all, if they so desire.

Another special feature of the MSU medical program is that it will incorporate instructors and facilities from a number of other MSU colleges and departments.

The College of Human Medicine hopes to draw on other MSU facilities in the fields of the biological sciences, humanities, physical sciences, social sciences, computer science, veterinary medicine and education.

The College of Human Medicine hopes to admit 25 more students in both 1967 and 1968. If the Life Sciences Building is finished in 1969, officials hope to admit as many as 64 students for that year.

TOP SENIORS NAMED

JOHN MCQUITT

NANCY AYLESWORTH

ANDREW KRAMER

Grades, Activities Recognized

Seven outstanding seniors were honored for scholastic and activities achievements Thursday night at a banquet at Kellogg Center.

John McQuitty was named the senior class's most outstanding student.

The '66 Club named Andrew Kramer the most outstanding male student. The most outstanding female student award went to Nancy Aylesworth, who also won honors for the highest grade point average among women.

McQuitty was the sophomore class president, chairman of the Committee on Student Rights and Responsibilities, served on AUSG and was the chairman of ASMSU. He also is a member of Excalibur, Blue Key, Sparta and Omicron Delta Kappa and was Career Carnival general chairman. He will attend the University of Michigan medical school in the fall.

Miss Aylesworth is a member of the Delta Gamma sorority, president of Pan Hellenic Council and a member of Mortar Board and has served on the Student Board.

Kramer was president of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity, vice president then president of Inter-Fraternity Council, a member of Student Board and the Committee on Student Rights and Responsibilities.

Also honored for scholastic achievement were George F. Isham, Dudley R. Marcum and Lenore Street.

Highest grade point Trustee Award for men went to Isham. Second place Trustee Awards went to Miss Street and Marcum.

Isham, a humanities major from Lansing, will graduate with a 3.98 GPA. He graduated from Lansing Eastern High School. Miss Aylesworth, a history major, had a 3.9230 GPA. Her home is in Alexandria, Va., where she graduated from F.C. Hammond High School.

Miss Street, a Lansing arthistory major, was only four thousandths of a point below Miss Aylesworth with a 3.9226. She also graduated from Lansing Eastern.

Marcum achieved a 3.92 GPA. He is an arts and letters major from Oklahoma City, Okla., where he attended Northwest Classen High School.

With the highest GPA award goes $200. Second place winners get $100.

Vietnamese Students Sack U.S. Library In Rebel Hue

HUE, South Viet Nam (UPI)--A mob of Vietnamese students, incensed by President Johnson's refusal to back the Buddhist-led revolt against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, Thursday sacked and burned the U.S. Information Service (USIS) Library while police and firemen watched.

A battalion of Vietnamese troops moved in later at the request of U.S. officials to protect American lives and property in the ancient imperial capital.

The troops took up posts around the gutted library, the U.S. Military Assistance Compound, the U.S. Consulate and the consul's residence.

Officials of the U.S. Military Assistance Command (MACV) quickly set up a compound for American who arrived from outlying villas to spend the night.

Foreign Minister Tran Van Do Thursday night cabled Secretary of State Dean Rusk to express his consternation and regret over the anti-American riot. He blamed the incident on "uncontrolled elements."

No one was injured in the sacking of the library but U.S. officials said it marked the end of the U.S. cultural aid program in Hue.

A crowd of 1,000 spectators cheered as the students built bonfires with looted books and furniture and then set the two-story modernistic building ablaze.

Earlier, an estimated 30,000 Buddhists marched past the U.S. Consulate to protest U.S. refusal to intervene in the rebel struggle to topple the military government of Premier Ky.

In Saigon, a small army of riot police fired tear gas bombs to break up an anti-government demonstration by a dozen monks who attempted to march on the U.S. Embassy.

4 Senior Activities To Be Re-evaluated

Senior Night at the Gables may be dropped as a sponsored function of the Senior Class, according to Chuck Stoddard, East Lansing Junior, newly elected president of the Senior Council of the Class of '67.

The council is considering dropping the traditional event because some council members are not certain that this is a proper function of the Senior Class, Stoddard said.

The event is one of four traditionally sponsored by the Senior Class which will be re-evaluated this summer by the Senior Council.

The other three are: whether to have a Senior Swingout or a '67 Club Banquet, whether to have commencement before or after finals and whether or not to have commencement speakers.

The decisions in these four areas will be made this summer, pending the recommendations of the Senior Council.

The council will also prepare a comprehensive program of what the council hopes to accomplish next year. This report is to be ready about the beginning of fall term.

Juniors (seniors next year) who have comments or questions regarding next year's activities of the Class of '67 may contact any of the members of Senior Council.

Other members of the Council are: Bill Rastetter, Fort Wayne, Ind., vice president; Jeremy Thomas, Pittsburgh, Pa., secretary; Lenore Wile, Yonkers, N.Y., and Chuck Atkin, East Lansing, Senior of the Week; Bob Beglund, Holland, development fund; Marsha Johns, Holland, reception; Debbie Grant, Larchmont, N.Y., Swingout; Nancy Anger, Southfield, and Jerry Neuman, Bethlehem, Pa., '67 Club; Mary Stealy, Marshall, commencement; and Phyllis Helper, University Heights, Ohio, and Diane Swartz, Farmington, publicity.

U.S. Casualties Highest Since Ia Drang Battle

SAIGON (UPI)--U.S. military spokesmen announced Thursday 146 Americans were killed in action and 820 wounded last week, the highest Viet Nam casualty toll since the bloody Ia Drang Valley campaign six months ago.

South Vietnamese and other allied casualty figures were not announced for the same period, the week ending May 21. A U.S. spokesman said 1,235 Communist troops were killed during the week, a kill ratio of 3.4 to 1.

In the Ia Drang fighting last November, 248 Americans were killed, 527 wounded and 14 listed as missing. The Viet Cong death toll was 1,530.

The figure pushed the U.S. combat death toll in Viet Nam since Jan. 1, 1961 to more than 3,500. As of May 14, the U.S. reported 3,466 men killed in action, 19,000 wounded and 202 missing. Another 786 Americans died from non-hostile causes.

The U.S. spokesmen pointed out that American forces launched three large-scale operations last week involving thousands of U.S. troops.

Committee Posts Filled

John F.A. Taylor and John L. Hazard were elected Wednesday to fill vacancies in the Academic Steering Committee of the Academic Council and the Academic Senate.

Taylor, a professor of philosophy, will be serving his second term on the committee while Hazard, professor of marketing and transportation, was elected to his first term.

Hazard replaces Carl Gross, chairman of secondary education curriculum, who had served as chairman of the committee.

Still serving on the committee are Dena C. Cederquist, chairman of the Foods and Nutrition dept.; Milton Rokeach, professor of psychology; and Richard Schlegel, professor of physics and astronomy.

The committee has yet to select the chairman for next year.

New Anti-Bias Measure, But Will It Work?

THE EAST LANSING City Council appears on the brink of taking an unprecedented move in creeping towards an open housing policy. But even if it is passed by the council at the earliest possible date, June 6, it still remains to be seen how big a step it will be.

Despite the cry of reverse discrimination and abolition of property rights by several citizens at Monday's council meeting, the proposed measure is not a drastic one. Far from it.

THE PROPOSED ORDINANCE clearly puts the city council on the side of fighting discrimination, but its effectiveness will be limited by two factors. First, anyone who feels he has been discriminated against must follow a long, drawn out procedure in seeking to right a grievance. Second, no punitive measures are included in the proposal, to deter anyone found guilty of discriminating on the grounds of race, color or creed.

If a person feels he has been discriminated against, he must first take his complaint to the Human Relations Commission. Then if the commission concludes that a violation did occur, it will attempt to conciliate the matter.

If conciliation fails then the commission can refer the case to the city attorney who can seek an injunction in court. And finally, if the court decides that discrimination did in fact take place, it can issue a "cease and desist" order.

THE BIGGEST DEFICIENCY of the grievance procedure is its length and complexity. Too much room is left for stalling tactics and long delays. When a person wants to buy a home or rent a room, he isn't prepared to wait many months in seeking conciliation or right the grievance.

And making it a non-penalty offense to discriminate isn't much of an inducement for citizens to obey the ordinance either. In past civil rights and open housing legislation, voluntary compliance has been prevalent. One of the major reasons for this voluntary compliance was that persons were reluctant to break the law because of the sanctions an illegal act might bring.

AN OPEN HOUSING ordinance with sanctions and a short, yet conciliatory grievance procedure seems like a better solution. It would encourage voluntary compliance and would appear to be a more effective tool in eliminating discrimination.

But the city council, human relations commission, and much of the East Lansing community don't see it this way. Hopefully, the city council will pass the proposed ordinance, as a first step.

THOUGH IT HAS several drawbacks, it remains for the community and the human relations commission to make it functional. If this measure proves to be inadequate or painfully slow, then there will be no excuse for not passing an open housing ordinance.

ASMSU In Action . . . Or . . . The $23.75 Farce

Title: "The ASMSU student board spent your tax dollars on dinner at the Gables."

or: "How to get a free dinner Sunday night."

Characters: The ASMSU board

Scene: The Coral Gables Restaurant.

Plot:

LAST WEEK the student board appropriated $25 for an informal dinner meeting scheduled for last Sunday night. Only James Carbine, vice chairman of the board, and James Sink, senior representative, voted against the $25 appropriation.

Then, on Sunday night, the board paid for a $23.75 dinner at the Gables with student tax money. The purpose of the meeting was to "discuss policy." But the board could just as easily have "discussed policy" without the dinner.

ASMSU ATTEMPTED to justify this irresponsible spending of tax money by claiming that the dinner qualified as "hospitality." Every term, $100 is budgeted to a hospitality fund. And since there are no exact definitions of hospitality, the board felt it could legally get away with the free meal.

But hospitality is a fund for entertaining visitors and guests of MSU. That is, it was until last Sunday when it became a source of free meals for members of the board.

WE DIDN'T PAY our student taxes to provide free meals for the board. Thus, the fund should be eliminated if the board continues to abuse it.

One of the clichés used to get politicians to spend tax money judiciously has been, "Spend it like your own." But that's been the problem at ASMSU, they have spent it like their own. Probably better advice is: "Spend it like it was OUR tax dollars."

A Letter In Time Could Halt Fee Hike

ONLY IF THE state legislature appropriates an additional $1.7 million to MSU will a fee hike be averted. But the Legislature is reluctant to appropriate the additional funds.

That is why MSU students should encourage their parents to write to their legislators asking that the $1.7 million be appropriated.

THE STUDENT BOARD has endorsed a proposal by WIC and MHA that students urge their parents to write to their legislators asking for the $1.7 million. But parents will want to know these the facts before writing:

The University has made commitments to accept about 3,230 additional students next year. And over 300 additional faculty members have been hired. Also MSU has signed labor and construction agreements for next year.

THE BUDGET HAS been shaved as much as possible. But MSU must meet these commitments. If the Legislature fails to give us the additional $1.7, the money will have to come out of students' pockets. But the Legislature has the moral obligation of providing state-supported schools with adequate operating funds. The legislators have no right to foist the state's responsibility onto the students.

ANOTHER INTERESTING FACT: A wide gap exists between legislative appropriations per student to MSU and to other state-supported schools. Between 1961 and 1966 per student appropriations to the University of Michigan and Wayne State have increased $232 and $200, respectively. During the same period, per student appropriations to MSU have increased only $14.

To equalize these appropriations discrepancy, the Legislature would have to give MSU $5 million more a year. But MSU is asking for only $1.7 million more, the additional amount needed to operate the school next year.

IF THE LEGISLATURE receives enough letters from MSU parents and students, it just may live up to its obligation.

Logic Lacking In Library

To the Editor:

The way in which journals are shelved in the Library has long been a source of frustration. Usually, though, I manage to calm myself by thinking that there really is some logic involved, and if I just knew the system all would be made clear.

Today I found the most blatant discrepancy from common sense yet: I determined this time to track it down and find out why. I spent 10 minutes waiting at the information desk and was referred to the reference desk. I spent five minutes at the reference desk and was referred to cataloging. I spent 30 minutes waiting in cataloging, but I finally got to talk to the (I think) serial cataloger (whatever that is). The thrust of her discourse can be neatly summed up in 10 words: "Do you really think it's worth the trouble of changing?"

It was undoubtedly this rash of me to suggest that the answer to this question might be found up with one's notions about the function of a Library in serving its patrons. It was even more rash of me to ask why journals weren't just shelved alphabetically, so people could find them. The lady's answer to this question was logical enough: it's nice to have all the journals on the same subject shelved somewhat close together. I mentioned that one always has to go into another area, or another room, or even to another floor to find the catalog number of the journal which is wanted. The response: "You'll just have to get used to that."

Now, I claim to be no expert on libraries. But I do believe that when honest questions pertaining to standard procedures in ANY organization are answered only by "Is it really worth the trouble of changing?" and "You'll just have to get used to that," there is something seriously wrong with that organization.

It's not so much the procedures themselves that need looking at (though that might certainly be an issue). But a policy so rigid that it can't be examined with an eye to improvement -- that policy needs improving!

Sports Editor Caught Off Base

To the Editor:

According to Paul Krasner, Editor of the satirical REALIST, good satire merely follows actual events to their logical conclusions--a reductio ad absurdum of an absurd world. But he defined a limit to satire, a point where satire becomes bad taste.

When you satire involuntary events--make fun of things that unavoidably happen to people--you are guilty of extremely bad taste. This is the boundary Rick Pianin passed in satirizing the injuries in the Junior 500. There were injuries in the "500", but in an athletic event with 420 participants some injuries are unavoidable.

Going from bad taste to bad reporting, Pianin stated that five Greeks spent "two days there (at Olin) recovering from injuries." If he had attempted to verify this "fact" with Olin, he would have found that no injury case from the "500" stayed beyond 6 p.m. the day of the race.

What was satire in the Krasner tradition was the logical extension of the Junior 500 to a bunch of dumb slobbs killing themselves to get a cart back to the point they started. Perhaps even more logically absurd would be the spectacle of 80 Lambda Chis, working to 3 a.m. Saturday, and then getting up again at 8 a.m. to set up "the stands, the loudspeakers--the whole bit." Viewed logically, the Junior 500 is an absurd amount of work.

But I think there is a more realistic, if less logical, explanation of the Junior 500. The reason the "500" has continued and grown for 19 years is that people enjoy it--The competitors enjoy the competition, the spectators enjoy the excitement, and the Lambda Chis enjoy the pride they take in sponsoring a popular and traditional event.

State News' Heads Seen Missing At C

To the Editor:

Well, here we go again: "Arctic Air Slips Southerly" (State News, May 11, headline) - dramatic, but poor English. After having read "Arctic" and "Antarctic" often in your paper (and others) I come to believe that a lot of people may think that the name for the former region is due to the presence, that of the latter due to the absence of artifacts. Whereas I classified "abominable snowman" as one of your funnier misprints an inch-high headline a year ago: "Rights Bill Effects Primary Voting" was really unforgivable, and all we can do about that is to have our children learn Latin instead of Pidgin English.

Catwalk For Us Cats

To the Editor:

This may be a trivial matter, but I wonder if something can be done about the number of students crossing Grand River Avenue --- each time facing the dangers of a speeding vehicle. I'm sure every student on the Michigan State University campus crosses Grand River at least once a week. Some students don't cross in safety. They may be tied up between lanes of fast moving cars who disregard the students' safety.

Could it be brought to someone's attention that a sidewalk overpass or catwalk could be installed by the City of East Lansing to eliminate the dangers that students have to face each time they step in front of a car? Let's be realistic about the situation. Some students have been less fortunate crossing this race track. The consequence of this is death as many recall from last year's incident. I would like to raise this question before those who are concerned for the prevention of accidents and promotion of safety.

Politics And Idealism Mix

IF YOU PLAN to go into politics or public service, you had better leave your idealism in the cloakroom along with your hat and coat. In essence, this is the message that John S. Knight, president and editor of Knight Newspapers Inc., gave his readers in his weekly column two Sundays ago.

He said it is the fashion nowadays to discourage young people from going into business as "money-grubbing" and at the same time commencement speakers preach the virtues of public service. Knight noted that John F. Kennedy in his short term of office inspired millions of youths to take an active interest in politics and public affairs. But when the idealistic youths meet with political reality, there will be some bitter surprises.

Certainly, much of what Knight says is true. Politics can be corrupt, dirty and frustrating. One is subject to constant criticism and his job is as secure as the amount of confidence he can instill in his constituents. Politics has destroyed men, it has corrupted others and substituted expediency for principle in still others.

BUT THE POINT is, it doesn't have to. In a democratic system factually thereof, politics and public service are as corrupt as the general public allow them to be. If people take the attitude that politics is beneath them and that politicians are all unprincipled power seekers then that's what they will have.

Admittedly, politics and public service present the opportunities for corruption, power seeking and personal destruction. But throughout the American history, there have been great statesmen, great contributors to their country and the world, as there are today. And they accomplished these achievements, not in spite of politics, but because of it.

And that's another irksome notion. People today often think of politics and politicians as something less than desirable. Each label carries a nasty connotation. But politicians are no different than lawyers, doctors or businessmen or even college professors. There are both good and bad in each profession.

But today more than ever before, we need more dedicated, idealistic and capable people, both young and old, in the realm of politics and public service. For in our own society today, as in others around the world, the predominant force is that of government. And who mans government but the politicians and public servants?

IN THE U.S., especially at the federal level, the government is making more decisions, affecting more people, than at any other time in the history of man. And we need the best possible people to man these important positions, and not just at the federal level, but at all levels of government.

And public service isn't just for those we call politicians. Today, scientists, economists, educators, journalists and intellectuals are needed just as much in government as are lawyers and the "born politicians."

And that brings us back to the American youth again, tomorrow's leaders as it were. Any with an interest and a desire to serve should be encouraged to take an active part in public affairs and let their abilities and motivation determine how far they climb the political ladder.

FOR THOSE INSPIRED by the idealistic pragmatism of John F. Kennedy, may they carry forth the candle he lit, "and the glow from that fire can truly light the world."

And as he said more than five years ago, "With a good conscience our only sure reward, with history the final judge of our deeds, let us go forth to lead the land we love, asking His blessing and His help, but knowing that here on earth, God's work must truly be our own."

In the future, politics and public service need not stifle idealism, but rather channel it into practical uses. And in the process, the nature of politics could well change -- for the good.

Emergency Powers To British Government

LONDON (UPI)--Parliament Thursday night gave the government emergency powers characterized by the Conservatives as the stiffest in 40 years to protect Britain's economy against strangulation by the snowballing merchant marine strike.

Both houses, moving after the Labor government set up a special court of inquiry into the strike, unanimously approved the 35 measures invoked by the government under royal proclamation Monday which enable it to take any action necessary against the crippling effects of a long stoppage.

U.S. Protest Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The Cambodian government has rejected a United States protest against use of Cambodian territory by Communist Viet Cong units.

The State Department said the rejection was relayed to

The United States had filed the protest after U.S. troops in South Viet Nam were fired on April 29-30 by Viet Cong forces across the border in Cambodia.

U.S. Mission Seeks
New Aims For NATO

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The United States is planning a major effort to regain the political initiative in Europe from French President Charles de Gaulle, whose defection has left the NATO alliance homeless and confused.

It was learned Thursday that Secretary of State Dean Rusk is expected to undertake a double-barreled approach to the problem at the forthcoming Brussels meeting of the NATO council. This will be an effort to give what's left of the military alliance new impetus and imbue it with positive political aims.

Rusk plans to propose that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization adopt a long-term program aimed at easing tensions between Western Europe and the Soviet Bloc.

He also will urge the 14 members remaining after French withdrawal from NATO's military structure to intensify work on strengthening and streamlining the organization.

President Johnson is understood to have organized the idea of trying to cast NATO's image

Dean Acheson, former Secretary of State and now special adviser to Johnson on NATO problems, has called for a more "imaginative and conciliatory" approach to international situations on the part of the alliance.

One reason for this is to counter criticism that the United States, in the nuclear age, is wedded to an "outmoded" concept of static defense in Europe which fails to take account of changes during the 17 years since NATO was founded to counter Soviet threats.

Another is to try to take some of the initiative away from De Gaulle when he goes to Moscow June 20 with the announced intention of discussing problems of European security with the Russians, without his European allies.

WASHINGTON (UPI)--Sen. Thomas Dodd, asking for an early trial, Thursday dropped 10 of the 14 charges contained in his $5 million conspiracy and libel suit against columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

A revised complaint filed in U.S. District Court here by the Connecticut Democrat's lawyer eliminated counts dealing with the columnists' charges about Dodd's use of a car loaned from Dunbar Associates, Inc., and also that he accepted gifts and favors and pocketed campaign contributions for his own use.

The new action restricted the case to one of conspiracy in connection with the alleged theft of documents from Dodd's Senate office, and three claims of libel.

These deal with Dodd's alleged relations with Julius Klein, a registered lobbyist for West German business interests, and Michael Struelens, who formerly was U.S. representative for Moise Tshombe's Katanga government during the Congo troubles.

Pearson and Anderson issued a statement saying "it seems to us that the dropping of 10 significant counts is an indirect admission that Dodd did accept compensation from companies for which he did favors and that he did pocket the proceeds from campaign dinners."

"We intend to prosecute the defense of the suit vigorously," they said.

Dodd's attorney, John F. Sonnett, asked the U.S. District Court "to take measures which would insure a trial at the earliest possible date."

The revised complaint asked that the case be assigned to a single judge in a Federal District Court "so as to expedite pre-trial proceedings" and allow the case to go to trial by July "or as soon thereafter as possible."

A statement from Dodd's office announcing the action cited

Pearson's recent statement in his column that the trial would not begin for two years.

In an affidavit accompanying the revised complaint, Attorney Sonnett said "protracted pre-trial proceedings in the suit would subject to Sen. Dodd to continued assault in Pearson's column."

U.S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff had dismissed an earlier attempt by Sonnett at a pre-trial hearing to have Pearson and Anderson cited for contempt if they continued to mention Dodd in their column. Holtzoff said recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions indicated this was not contempt of court.

Dodd's attorneys planned to take the first of a series of depositions in the suit. Holtzoff ruled that taking deposition will be secret, but turned down a request by Dodd that they be sealed. This means they will be made public when they are filed in court.

TAX AID FOR POLITICIANS

Election Reforms Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)--President Johnson proposed Thursday a $100 tax deduction for political contributions, repeal of limits on campaign spending and tough new rules for financial disclosures by candidates and members of Congress.

In submitting his long-awaited proposed Election Reform Act to Congress, Johnson said one of its major aims would be to "insure that able men of modest means can undertake elective service unencumbered by debts of loyalty to wealthy supporters."

It also would encourage wider citizen participation in political campaigns and close loopholes in existing law that "invite evasion and circumvention," Johnson said.

A high administration source said there was a good chance the measure, promised by Johnson last January in his State of the Union message, would win congressional approval this year. The bill was welcomed by the House Republican Policy Chairman Rep. John J. Rhodes, Ariz., and endorsed in principle by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who was speech-making here.

In his message to the House and Senate, the President recommended a special new tax deduction of not more than $100 a year for contributions to any candidate or supporting organization in any campaign or primary--federal, state or local.

The tax relief, designed primarily to encourage small individual contributions, would be in addition to the standard 10 per cent deduction allowed taxpayers who do not itemize their deductions. There would be a separate line on income tax forms for the new deduction.

Such a tax incentive, first suggested by a presidential com-

Indy 500 Shown World-Wide

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (P)—The Indianapolis Motor Speedway said Thursday it expects more than 275,000 at Monday's running of the Memorial Day classic.

That's as close as it has ever come to disclosing the attendance at the 500-mile race except to the Internal Revenue Service.

The speedway also forecast a possible record total of television viewers and radio listeners for a sports event. Not even the IRS will have an accurate count on that.

An oddity of the television coverage is that the race will be seen on the sets in Communist Yugoslavia, West Germany, Italy, Spain and France but only on closed circuit shows in the United States and Canada.

MCA-TV of Universal City, Calif., will show the golden anniversary race on screens up to 40 feet wide in 200 places like the Los Angeles Arena, theaters and coliseums. A spokesman said this part of the telecast has a potential of 500,000 spectators.

From Andover, Me., the race will be relayed via Early Bird satellite to Goochilly Downs on the West side of England, thence to halls in London, Leeds, Glasgow, Cardiff and eight other racing centers in the British Isles. The show also will be fed to 3,000 British customers on pay TV.

From London, the telecast will be relayed to Brussels and thence to five countries of the Eurovision network which are paying a flat, undisclosed license fee.

Muir Named All-Midwest

Spartan lacrosse player Bill Muir has been named to the 1966 All-Midwest Lacrosse Assn. first team.

Muir, a junior from Troy, was selected by the coaches in the 15-team league to the midfield position. He was one of six first-team players who are repeaters from last season.

Ohio State, Midwest Lacrosse Assn. champion, landed four first-team berths while runner-up Denison had three players selected.

Ohio Wesleyan had two players named to the honored team.

Kauai King Tries For Triple Crown

NEW YORK (P)—Kauai King, front running winner of the Kentucky Derby and come-from-behind victor in the Preakness, is the short-priced favorite to win the 98th running of the $125,000-added Belmont Stakes Saturday and become the ninth horse to wrap up the elusive Triple Crown.

Not since Citation in 1948 has a horse won all three turf classics for 3-year-old thoroughbreds. Before Citation, the only horses to win the Triple were Assault, 1946; Count Fleet, 1943; Whirlaway, 1941; War Admiral, 1937; Omaha, 1935; Gallant Fox, 1930 and Sir Barton, 1919.

Four others have gone into the 1 1/2 miles of the Belmont, called by many experts the toughest of the three, with a chance to join the exclusive club after winning the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. But all failed. They are Pensive, 1944; Tim Tam, 1948; Carry Back, 1961 and Northern Dancer, 1964.

Not more than five or six are expected to take on the son of Native Dancer-Sweep In.

Gymnast Thor Third In L.A. Invitational

Spartan gymnast Dave Thor continued to add to his string of post-season successes with fine performances in the Los Angeles State College Invitational, held last weekend.

Thor was third in the all-around competition with a six-event total of 54.5. Winning the event was Rusty Mitchell with Katsutoshi Kanzaki, the Japanese national champion, in second place.

"After having a bad time at the NCAA's and trouble with my compulsories at the AAU and USGF meets, these optionals were better," Thor said. "In both parallel bars and floor exercise, I did new routines. I thought this would be a good opportunity to try them out. They had some flaws, but they won't be there next time."

Thor was in second place, leading Kanzaki by .70, before the rings competition. The Japanese champ scored 9.2 in the event, while Thor's score was 8.2.

In his other events, Thor scored 9.35 for fourth in floor exercise, with Frank Schmitz, the NCAA champ from Southern Illinois, first, followed by Mitchell and Richard Pasquale. Pasquale was the '64 AAU title-holder.

Thor was third in side horse at 9.4. The winner was former NCAA champ Jim Fairchild while Gary Hoskins, the present national collegiate title-owner, was second.

In the vault, Thor was third again at 9.45. Schmitz won it with a sizzling 9.8 while Mitchell, for whom the meet was his last before embarking on a collegiate coaching career, was third.

The survey also showed that 42 of the 71 Senators who responded favored some kind of financial disclosure law for federal officials, including members and top employees of Congress.

In proposing "honest, straightforward disclosure" in the bill, Johnson said the public must be assured that "wealthy interests are not permitted to affect—or even appear to affect—the conduct of government through their largesse."

He proposed that each candidate and supporting committee be required to report every contribution and expense item over $100, with committee reports due four times a year. Candidates for President and vice president would be included for the first time, as well as primary campaigns and convention nomination contests.

Trackmen Aim For Federation Meet Win

Frosh Aid Batsmen In Filling Gap

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

Though 13 players are leaving this year's Spartan baseball team, MSU's coaches are far from thinking of throwing in the towel next year.

State isn't giving any "Wait until next year," cries either. But, in light of the situation, the Spartans would prefer staying on the conservative side of things.

"Let's just say we'll be strong in some positions and weak in others," Assistant Coach Frank Pellerin said Thursday while hopeful members of next year's team participated in a scrimmage game.

"I'm not one to be pessimistic," Pellerin continued, "so I want to think we'll have a good ball club next year. There will be a lot of kids battling for jobs and any one of them could help us towards a good season."

From now until the start of next season, Pellerin and Head Coach Danny Litwhiler will be looking hard for players to fill the gap left by graduating seniors.

The Spartans couldn't win the Big Ten Conference championship this season with a senior-dominated ball club but are hoping that a younger one can win it next season.

MEL BEHNEY

DAN BIELSKI

HARRY KENDRICK

State finished fourth in the conference with a 8-5 record. Overall, it was 24-13-1.

The 24 wins were the second highest in Spartan history for one season.

Major problems that need solving are the left side of the infield, two of the three outfield positions, and the lack of a couple of

One source Litwhiler and Pellerin hope to turn to is the few returning letter-winners. More so, however, is this year's freshman squad.

As of now, the two coaches think they can count on Mel Behney and John Davis to fill the left-handed pitching need.

Behney was named the most valuable freshman player at the end of this season.

Right-hander Dan Bielski

was also mentioned by Pellerin as one of the top freshman pitchers.

"They both look strong," Pellerin said, "and I think either one of them could work into starting rotation next year."

Though the Spartans have Bill Steckley returning at the catching spot, frosh catchers Harry Kendrick and Bill Linne have caused State's coaches to think about moving Steckley to third base or the outfield.

Kendrick was named captain of this year's freshman team.

With the graduation of John Biedenbach at third base, the Spartans will have three players battling for the position next year—junior Bill Wooley, sophomore Gordon Behn and freshman Dennis Lazar.

At shortstop, sophomore Tom Ellis is expected to take over the job from Steve Polisar, who will graduate.

The Spartans seem set at second base with Steve Rymal returning. He alternated with graduating seniors Dennis Maedo and Jerry Walker this year.

Tom Binkowski returns at the first base position for the Spartans. He will be a junior and will have Jim Plotts to back him up.

The right and center field positions will need new replacements next year as Bob Speer and John Frye will be missing from the lineup.

MSU's coaches are hoping returning letterwinners Dick Harlow and Mike Kowalski can fill the spots.

John Walters, who started in right late in the season, will be back and he is expected to hold down the left field post.

MSU's track squad travels to Kalamazoo Saturday to participate in the state's annual Federation Meet.

The meet is expected to attract participants from most Michigan colleges with many independent teams scheduled to take part. The Federation Meet is the largest open competition of the spring, and MSU Head Coach Fran Dittrich hopes his Spartans will perform as well as they have in the past.

Dittrich will take most of this year's squad to Kalamazoo, with the notable exception of hurdler Gene Washington, who is staying on campus to catch up with his studying.

Mike Bowers and Fred McKay are among the top Spartan entries in the high jump while Tom Herbert is expected to place high in both the shot put and the discus throw.

Jim Garrett, one of the squad's most versatile performers, will be the Spartan's lone entry in the long jump and the triple jump while Co-Captain Das Campbell will join Garrett to run the 220-yard dash.

MSU will have plenty of depth in the pole vault, with Roland Carter, Jim Stewart and John Wilcox all given a chance to finish first. Senior Dick Sharkey is scheduled to enter the six-mile run, an event not run during the regular Big Ten season.

The 120-yard high hurdles, usually a Spartan strong point, will have Fred McKay as MSU's only entry. Bob Steele has elected to concentrate on the 440-yard intermediate hurdles. Steele will be the only Spartan participating in the 440-yard hurdles.

Sophomore John Spain is expected to pace the field in the 880-yard run as he has recorded the fastest half mile ever run by a Michigan athlete.

MSU should have plenty of depth in the 440-yard run with Rick Dunn, Rich Tompkins and Das Campbell all having a chance to finish first.

The line-up has been shuffled for MSU's entry in the mile relay with Bob Steele replacing Mike Martens. The new relay unit will now consist of Campbell, Spain, Dunn and Steele.

Streaking Sox Beat Twins

BOSTON 4--Earl Wilson blanked the Minnesota Twins for eight innings and survived a ninth-inning uprising Thursday as the Boston Red Sox won 7-2 for their seventh victory in the last eight games.

Wilson, who has won five of his last six decisions, allowed only one runner to reach third until the ninth. He struck out nine and walked only one. Jimmie Hall's homer in the ninth, followed by singles by Bob Allison, Bernie Allen and pinch hitter Don Mincher gave the Twins their runs.

Rico Petrocelli gave Wilson all the cushion he needed when he led off the first with his eighth homer. The Red Sox shelled Minnesota ace Mudcat Grant with a four-run second and Wilson was in command the rest of the way.

Zoilo Versalles started the game with a double, but Wilson retired the next 14 batters in order before Allen beat out an infield hit with two gone in the fifth.

Dalton Jones started the Boston second with a single and Joe Foy followed with a triple to left center. Mike Ryan and Wilson singled. Petrocelli hit into a fielder's choice and Jim Gosger walked. Carl Yastrzemski then slammed a two-run double, his 13th double of the season.

Boston added its sixth run on a walk, a sacrifice, a throwing error and Wilson's sacrifice fly in the sixth. Foy's single, a walk and Petrocelli's double produced another score in the eighth.

AT PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY

Layman Wins Top Position

From Our Wire Services

BOSTON--The 178th Presbyterian General Assembly concluded a history-making session Wednesday with the election of William P. Thompson as stated clerk.

Thompson, a scholarly lawyer from Wichita, Kan., became the first layman elected to the top administrative post in the United Presbyterian Church in the USA in this century.

He succeeded Eugene Carson Blake of New Canaan, Conn., who stepped down from the post after 15 years to become general secretary of the World Council of Churches.

Thompson's election was seen as an effort by delegates to bridge the growing gap between clergymen and laity.

The assembly took a historic step earlier in the week by reforming its confessional standard and adopting an all-encompassing book of confessions as the broadened basis for Presbyterian belief.

After eight years of work, the assembly overwhelmingly approved the Confession of 1967 as a modern restatement of the Westminster Confession.

While the confession covers the classic Christian doctrines, it does so in a new idiom, avoiding words such as "damnation," "Hell" and "Heaven," but expressing the concepts in terms considered more meaningful.

It also removes a former approach to the Bible as verbally infallible, saying it was written by men, and reflects cultural outlooks of their period, even though "given under guidance of the Holy Spirit."

Two-thirds of the 188 local presbyteries have to ratify the vote before the confession can be formally adopted and incorporated at the 179th general assembly in Portland, Ore., next May.

As one of its last acts Wednesday, the assembly approved a proposal urging Congress to revise the laws governing conscientious objectors.

The assembly urged that individuals be granted the right to serve the government in some other essential area if they choose not to bear arms in war because of moral conviction.

The assembly also voted to: --Elect Rev. Ganse Little of Pasadena, Calif., moderator.

--Free the Cuban Church to govern itself.

--Urge lowering of the voting age to draft age in all states.

--Support half-way houses to rehabilitate drug addicts.

--Enter a school desegregation suit in Alabama.

--Subsidize integrated middle class housing.

--Boycott businesses which discriminate against minority races.

--Restore relations with the Protestant Church in China.

Doctors, Clergy Combining To Give Patient Total Care

By RICHARD M. PHILLIPS

State News Staff Writer

Two of the oldest professions in history, medicine and religion, are developing a mutual spirit of ecumenism in order to give "total" treatment and care to the sick.

The American Medical Assn. (AMA) in conjunction with prominent clergymen throughout the nation and all of the independent state medical societies are making definite attempts to establish a new concept of man as a patient.

Man is no longer merely physical to the practicing physician. The evident feeling of meaninglessness in today's world all too often manifests itself in physical illness, says the AMA.

A physician is equipped to treat the symptoms, but not always the root of the problem. A capable minister is trained in aiding the patient in this "root" area. The two professions must combine their efforts, says the AMA.

For this purpose, the AMA set up its Dept. of Medicine and Religion in 1961 under the direction of Rev. Paul B. McCleave, a Montana minister before his appointment.

"Our goal is the total care of the patient," said McCleave. "Man is physical, spiritual, mental and social in his total health."

"Man in his most uncomfortable hour," said Dr. W. Clarke Wescoe, chairman of the AMA's Committee on Medical Education, "calls from the depth of his despair upon the two most compassionate individuals of his society, his clergyman and his physician."

In a speech to a Utah state medical convention in 1964, Wescoe said that physicians and clergies must work together to restore confidence in the patient's mind.

New problems created by technology must also be solved by this combination, he said. The Oath of Hippocrates is not entirely sufficient.

What about maintaining the life of a deformed infant, he asked, doomed to a life of a pathetic vegetable?

The use of experimental drugs is also a problem, he said, when a possibility exists the side effects may be worse than the original illness.

Birth control and mercy killings were also mentioned by Wescoe as new moral and ethical thorns in the side of society.

"Might not each of us have the right to die in peace and dignity," he said, "without the senseless intervention that prolongs, but does not heal?"

"The cleric and the physician stand truly side by side," Wescoe said, "sharing the responsibility for discussing the means at arriving at these judgments."

Bugandan King

Obote government disclose official casualty figures.

Obote appeared to have the loyalty of the army and police but there were reports that army leaders in Jinja, 50 miles from the capital, refused to fight the Bugandans.

The crisis climaxed a long rivalry between the southern Ugandans, mainly comprising the more sophisticated Bugandans, loyal to King Freddie, and the backward northerners led by Obote.

The Bugandans are by tradition peaceful farmers and observers in Kampala felt they would now accept Obote's authority whatever the fate of King Freddie.

Catholic Use Of Bible OK'd

BOSTON (UPI)--The Roman Catholic Church Wednesday gave final approval for Catholics to use the same Bible as Protestants.

The approval means Catholics are free to use the approved edition in nonliturgical matters such as Bible readings and Bible study groups. However, it can not be used in official Roman Catholic liturgical worship.

Richard Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston, gave his official approval, or imprimatur, to the Oxford Annotated Bible with the apocrypha, first published by the Oxford University Press in 1962.

A "Common Bible," long sought by many Protestants and Catholics, was proposed at the final session of the Vatican Council last fall.

HOLY SPIRIT IS

The Presence Of God

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International

In reply to the perennial cry that "God is dead," Christianity has maintained for 2,000 years that direct, empirical proof of God's existence is available to any person who honestly seeks it.

The proof, Christians say, is the living presence of the Holy Spirit, which can be experienced by each individual for himself.

This Sunday, Christians of all nations and denominations will join in celebrating the feast day of the Holy Spirit, known as Pentecost or Whitsunday.

Those who are baffled by Trinitarian terminology may find it easier to think of the Holy Spirit simply as God's active presence in the world, and particularly within the hearts and minds of human beings.

Men who were "filled with the Spirit" in the New Testament found themselves able to transcend limitations that had always beset them. An inarticulate fisherman like Peter became an eloquent preacher. A self-centered zealot like Paul acquired a warm and compassionate love for mankind.

Paul said that those who surrender their wills to the Holy Spirit are "mightily strengthened in the inner man." No matter how timid or selfish or downright nasty they might be on their own, with the help of the Spirit they could become Christ-like in character.

Another realm of the Spirit's activity emphasized in the New Testament is the intellect. Working through the natural processes of human thought, but at a level even deeper than intuition or the unconscious, the Spirit guides men in the search for truth.

And this help is not restricted to those who consciously profess religious faith. Wherever men sincerely seek the truth, the Spirit is at work.

A scientist who thinks of himself as an agnostic, but who is deeply dedicated to the pursuit of truth, may be much more open to the guidance of the Spirit than a religious fanatic with a closed mind.

But the Bible also teaches that the Spirit's guidance, if accepted, will ultimately lead to "knowledge of God"--a direct apprehension of the reality of God which goes far beyond mere belief in his probable existence.

Church Ineffective In Crime Prevention

A Texas religious leader has pointed to the growing impotence of the church in the prevention of crime.

Paul O. Cardwell, president of the Texas Council of Churches, said that the two factors contributing most to this seeming impotence are the rise of religious pluralism and the secularization of our American culture.

Cardwell, who also serves as executive secretary for the Board of Education, North Texas Conference of the Methodist Church, Dallas, spoke at the 12th annual National Institute on Police and Community Relations at MSU.

"Because of the very nature of ethical religion, the church should be the most concerned of all segments of community life in the prevention of crime," Cardwell said.

"However, the city that pays the greatest lip service to religion may be a city with unimaginable crime problems."

He said this is sometimes true because organized religion is "too much wrapped up in the perpetuation and aggrandizement of its own institutionalism.

"This may also be true," he noted, "because we are more interested in maintaining a stance of respectability than in shouldering our cross in the midst of the sweat, blood and tears of human suffering and need."

There are four basic signs of hope that religion can still be influential in the behavior of persons, especially in the prevention of crime, he said.

First, Cardwell said there is an emphasis on turning from the selfish devotion to self-perpetuation to the giving of one's self to making this world a better place to live in.

Second, he said the church is no longer considered a refuge from the defilement of a dirty world, but a place where we go for worship, teaching and fellowship to enable us to go back into the world and change it.

Third, he noted there is an increase in lay participation. And fourth, he said we are joining hands in our common tasks across denominational boundaries.

THE ART OF READING

Folk Poet Displays Swiftian Verve

Frederick Eckman, the final poet to appear in Zeitgeist magazine's series of "profile of a poet" readings, presented a breezy, easy lesson in how to enjoy poetry Wednesday night. His 75 or so pupils formed by far the most heterogeneous audience to come to the Spiro's Cafeteria back room for readings this year.

Some of them were, as Eckman said in one of his poems,

"rich little girls who write their themes in Sanskrit with invisible ink."

Also present were such rarities as a white radical who's just been hired to help shake the Urban League out of its middle-class Negro rut, an ex-student of Eckman's from Texas, a physics major attending his second poetry reading and an editor of a literary magazine.

Eckman was faced with the temptation to entertain rather than to edify, as he himself admitted. He succumbed to the temptation and a good time was apparently had by all.

Many of Eckman's poems were Swiftian portrayals of life, ex-friends, poets who can't write poems at the moment and other depressing topics.

His satire is to that of Ogden Nash as a broadsword is to a rapier, which is not to denigrate his ability to compose light verse. Eckman can play syllabic tricks and twist off epigrammatical couplets with awe-inspiring sureness.

His "serious" poetry is much more free-flowing and thematically complex than his light verse. As he said of his Muse in "The Art of Poetry," "Madame, your petticoat is showing/Sloppy as hell."

What it lacks in profundity and polish, his poetry makes up for in verve and readability. He is an accomplished folk singer with no distracting vocal idiosyncrasies.

He fielded well the inevitable question from the audience, "Should young poets use traditional forms?"

His answer: "Generally, yes. You should write at least enough to know why you don't like traditional forms. Of course, some poets seem to get along well without them. On the other hand, I guess nobody's ever been hurt by trying them."

Eckman, who has performed on radio and TV as well as in night clubs and coffee houses, has a marvelously rich voice, a great grey beard streaked with brown, a firm grasp of the art of reading and the best platform presence of any of the five poets who appeared in Zeitgeist's "profile" series.

Zeitgeist suffered its smallest loss yet, $20, on the reading. By next year--when Robert Creeley, Gary Snyder, Denise Levertov, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Allen Ginsberg and Gregory Corso show up--the series of weekly readings should inch over into the black, financially.

Artwise, the books are already balanced.

Africa Night Set Saturday

The third annual Africa Night will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Union Ballroom.

The show will highlight art, native dances, dramas and other activities designed to enlighten the Americans about the African culture, said Geoffrey Ahumanya, publicity secretary.

There is no admission charge and the program is open to all interested students and faculty, he said. Refreshments will be served.

An ambassador from Africa will speak.

Kaufman To Deliver Last Memorial Lecture

Walter A. Kaufman of Princeton University, renowned philosopher and writer on philosophy, will deliver the fourth and final lecture in the Arnold Isenberg Memorial Lectures series for spring term at 8 tonight in Conrad Auditorium.

Kaufman will speak on the topic "The Riddle of Oedipus."

Kaufman, who was born in 1921 in Freiburg, Germany, was granted a bachelor's degree by Williams College, and received his masters and doctorate from Harvard.

He became an instructor in philosophy at Princeton in 1947, an assistant professor in 1950 and an associate professor in 1954. He became a full professor in 1962.

Kaufman has written extensively in many areas of philosophy, especially the philosophy of religion and the philosophy of literature. Books he has written include "Nietzsche," "Critique of Religion and Philosophy" and "From Shakespeare to Existentialism."

Kaufman has won many honors in the field of philosophy, including several Fulbright grants, a Rockefeller grant, a Ford Foundation grant and the International Leo Baeck Prize.

He has been a visiting professor at the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, the University of Michigan, Cornell University and many other colleges and universities, both in America and abroad.

Watts Inquest Nears Climax Amid Tension

LOS ANGELES (UPI)--A coroner's inquest into the fatal shooting of a Negro motorist by a white policeman neared its climax Thursday with the officer's partner corroborating his story that the slaying was accidental.

An autopsy surgeon also testified that the victim was "very drunk" and had 15 pinpoint scars on his inner left arm veins that "could be caused by small objects such as a needle."

Traffic policeman Peter M. Despard verified officer Jerold M. Bova's testimony Wednesday that he was swept off his feet when he reached inside the lurching automobile driven by victim Leonard Deadwyler, 25, and his revolver discharged accidentally.

Despard also told a jury of nine persons--including one woman and a Negro man--that after Deadwyler was shot, he leaned across his wife and said, "She's having a baby."

The witness said Deadwyler made the statement in an "excited manner" and added that he did not know whether Bova, 23, heard him.

Deadwyler's widow, Barbara, 25, who expects her fifth child next month, claimed her husband was driving her to County General Hospital with false labor pains when he was shot last May 7 in south central Los Angeles.

The shooting occurred near the predominantly Negro Watts district, scene of last August's week-long rioting, in which 34 persons were killed and damage mounted to more than $40 million.

Since the Deadwyler shooting, sporadic violence has broken out in the area as well as in Bakersfield, 100 miles to the north. Tension has mounted steadily here since the televised hearing began last Thursday and some policemen feared a new outbreak of violence might occur during the long Memorial Day weekend, coinciding with the windup of the inquest.

FACULTY FACTS

Gardner Jones, professor of accounting, will be a visiting faculty member in the business school at the University of Colorado's summer session.

Colorado's summer session, which is one of the 10 largest in the United States, expects more than 8,000 students for the 1966 session, which will run from June 17-Aug. 27.

Bradley S. Greenberg, assistant professor of communications, has been elected to the Bowling Green University Alumni Assn. Board of Directors. Greenberg is a 1956 graduate of Bowling Green.

Lansky, Coppo, Garrett Are Seniors Of The Week

Two of this week's seniors are noted for their outstanding achievements in athletics. The other, Donald M. Lansky, has participated in many university activities.

Lansky, Huntington Woods senior, has majored in social science and plans on attending Wayne State University Law School.

He is a member of Excalibur and the '66 Club. As a member of Blue Key, Don was chosen as corresponding secretary for the organization.

Don was also the past vice president of Alpha Epsilon Pi social fraternity. In 1965 he was the production chairman of the Water Carnival and this year the general chairman.

Lansky plans to be married in July, before entering law school.

Michael J. Coppo of Hancock was voted co-most valuable player of the hockey team this year. He is majoring in health, physical education and recreation and minoring in social science. Mike plans to teach and coach.

Coppo was the third leading scorer in the league and second on the Spartan hockey team. He was voted to the all-tournament team and to the NCAA team this past hockey season.

Coppo, co-captain of the hockey team and also a member of the Varsity Club, is considering trying out for the Toledo hockey team.

James T. Garrett of Columbia, S.C., was graduated from C.H. Johnson High School in 1962. Jim came to Michigan State in the fall of '62 to excel in track and field. He was also a member of the Varsity football team.

Jim participated in the long jump and 60- and 300-yard dashes in indoor track. In outdoor track, his events are the long jump, hop-step-and-jump and 100 and 220-yard dashes. He also was on the 440 and 880-yard relay teams.

Garrett holds the varsity MSU record for the hop-step-and-jump of 48 feet, 9 inches.

He is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi social fraternity and has held various positions as social chairman, activities chairman and vice president.

Jim is majoring in education and health, physical education and recreation. Upon graduation in the winter, he would like to teach special education.

Blow a whole week's savings for a Sunday dinner date???

Go ahead if you want to. But it's really not necessary.

The Gas Buggy Room at Jack Tar Hotel is a pretty impressive place to take a date: good food, atmosphere, friendly service... just sort of all-around nice.

And when it comes to The Big Moment, you'll probably have some of your week's savings left. Full-course dinners start at only $2.75. And that's a bit of okay, right?

Dine at the Gas Buggy Room soon. It's a great way to begin an evening.

Please don't zlupf Sprite. It makes plenty of noise all by itself.

Sprite, you recall, is the soft drink that's so tart and tingling, we just couldn't keep it quiet.

Flip its lid and it really flips. Bubbling, fizzing, gurgling, hissing and carrying on all over the place.

An almost excessively lively drink. Hence, to zlupf is to err.

What is zlupping?

Zlupping is to drinking what smacking one's lips is to eating.

It's the staccato buzz you make when draining the last few deliciously tangy drops of Sprite from the bottle with a straw.

Zzzzzllupf! It's completely uncalled for. Frowned upon in polite society. And not appreciated on campus either.

But, if zlupping Sprite is absolutely essential to your enjoyment, if a good healthy zlupf is your idea of heaven, well...all right.

But have a heart. With a drink as noisy as Sprite, a little zlupf goes a long, long way.

Abrams Has Timely Show

Problems of timekeeping, ranging from sundials to atomic clocks, are a part of the new program at Abrams Planetarium entitled "What Time Is It?" The program begins today and will run through July 3.

The differences between sun time and star time will be explained along with demonstration of the sun's elliptical patterns and the seasonal shifts.

The units of time--seconds, minutes, weeks, decades and centuries--are man-made into natural time units for man's convenience.

The reasoning behind this will be explained along with a detailed explanation of the solar day.

Also included in the program will be the various theories concerning the 24-hour day and our system of 60 minutes to the hour.

The program also includes a detailed explanation of the development of the four Standard Time Zones in the United States, which were in 1918 established by Congress. Prior to the passing of this law every different place in an east-west direction had its own true solar time. Major changes in the time system, such as Daylight Saving Time, are explained in relation to the stars, rather than to the sun.

A major feature of the program is how time can be told by the stars. Measuring the length of a day by the stars is called sidereal, and is three minutes and 56 seconds shorter than the solar, or 24-hour day. The sidereal day, measured by the stars, is the true period of the earth's rotation.

The history of man's efforts to invent timekeeping devices is explained and includes such things as rope clocks, candle clocks, sundials, hour glasses and water clocks.

The development of clocks is carried to the present and most modern and accurate clocks, the quartz clock and the atomic clock. These are explained in terms of their scientific accuracy.

The entire program is based on the idea that the earth itself is a clock.

The program can be seen at 8 p.m. Fridays and 2:30 p.m. and at 8 p.m. Saturdays and at 2:30 and 4 p.m. Sundays.

Library Suggestion Box Does Make A Difference

A student recently suggested that the Library "eliminate suggestion boxes--unless someone reads the notes." Someone does read the notes placed in the suggestion box on the circulation desk in the Main Library.

Recognizing the value of the suggestion box as a link between the Library and students, Richard Chapin, director of libraries, says, "We are administrators of the Library, not users, and users can very often bring things to our attention of which we are unaware. There is no sense in having dissatisfied students."

Suggestions are often acted upon immediately. The table outside the check-out line is the result of a request for a place to straighten up books outside the Library. The new furniture in the smoking areas is a result of a suggestion. This month someone left a brief note reading "Get periodical 'Nursing Times,' which, after a brief check, has been ordered by the Library.

Two very frequent suggestions, appearing in equal numbers, concern the temperature in the Library: 1) It should be warmer; 2) It should be cooler. If any Library user has a temperature problem, he should call the Physical Plant which controls the heat in all campus buildings.

Study-weary students often request that there be refreshment machines in the Library. This request has been rejected on the basis of the experience of other Big Ten libraries.

Michigan, Ohio State and Minnesota are the only schools that have food machines in their libraries, and, according to Chapin, "they wish they didn't." Damage to books and the inconvenience of litter and spilled drinks are cited as the major reasons for the decision against vending machines.

Many suggestions will be taken care of with the new Library building, Chapin said. More typing rooms are planned, some with rental typewriters at a proposed cost of 10 cents per half hour.

Rental lockers will also be available at a charge of 25 cents per day, and the quarter will be refunded if the locker is not left full overnight.

Assigned carrels for undergraduates had been suggested, but are impossible for a university of this size. However, the new library will have many desks enclosed on three sides for undergraduates' use.

Memorial Parade In Lansing Monday

The Greater Lansing Community will pay tribute to the fallen heroes of all United States wars with its traditional Memorial Day parade at 10 a.m. in downtown Lansing. "Keep Faith With the Dead" will be the local theme as military, patriotic and civic organizations participate in the day's activities.

Eleven junior and senior high school bands will provide music for the parade which will proceed south on Washington Avenue to Kalamazoo Street, west on Kalamazoo to Townsend Street, north to Washtenaw Street and west to the Civic Center where it will disband.

Other events of the day will include a flag-raising ceremony and breakfast at the Forty and Eight Chateau at 6:30 a.m. for all members and their guests.

At 8 a.m. the Navy Mothers will conduct a ceremony on the East Michigan Avenue bridge, tossing a wreath into the Grand River in memory of the men who died at sea.

This will be followed by the placing of a wreath at the Hiker Monument on the State Capitol grounds at 8:30 a.m. as a memorial to the Spanish American War Veterans.

Lansing Barracks No. 235, World War I Veterans, will conduct the annual ceremony at the World War I plaque at the Lansing Civic Center at 9 a.m.

Climaxing the day will be the service at the Little Arlington plot in Evergreen Cemetery at 11 a.m.

A Protest Against The Viet Nam War By Students Of The Honors College

We believe:

1. That the present war is waged without just cause, and has resulted thus far only in the destruction of villages, the murder of the innocent, and extensive casualties on both sides (including 21,000 Americans).
2. That recent protest demonstrations held throughout South Viet Nam indicate that the United States has utterly failed to meet its long-standing commitments to democratic government. These protests prove the statements that we are in South Viet Nam "to secure the freedom of the people, at their request" to be plain lies.
3. That continued escalation of the military conflict will only bring greater suffering, wider displacement of the economic structure, and further alienation of the indigenous population.

We ask therefore:

1. For an immediate and permanent cessation of the strategic bombing of North and South Viet Nam.
2. For all possible unilateral initiatives on the part of U.S. forces indicating a willingness for a cease-fire.
3. For a statement now from U.S. authorities that, given a cease fire, the U.S. will (a.) request that a general election be held through South Viet Nam, supervised by neutral and diversified U.N. representatives; (b.) accept without prejudgment the results of such an election, whatever they may be.
4. For a statement now from U.S. authorities that, given such an election, the U.S. will withdraw all troops, and that order be maintained by a U.N. peacekeeping operation.
5. For open and direct negotiations with the National Liberation Front, and acceptance of the fact that no South Vietnamese government can stand without recognizing them.
