Kalamazoo-Butler intersection was the scene of mass Negro demonstrations during the past few nights. Many white youths who entered the "combat zone" were stopped and questioned by police. Here, two such persons are placed under arrest for carrying three lead filled riot sticks under the seat of their car.

Young Negroes Claim Whites Triggered Riots

Charges of police partiality towards whites, unsatisfactory housing and lack of recreational facilities were aired Tuesday evening by two dozen Negro teenagers, believed to be leaders in Lansing's riot-torn West Side. They said the riots which began Sunday night were triggered by armed white troublemakers who "invaded" the Negro district.

Following a 5 p.m. confrontation with city officials on the tenth floor of the Lansing City Hall, both Negro and city spokesmen expressed hope that rioting would cease.

"Substantial progress has been made at this meeting," announced Mayor pro tempore Harold A. Moore after the closed-door session.

He headed the city delegation in the absence of Mayor Max Murnighan, who Tuesday returned to the vacation which he had interrupted Sunday night.

"The mayor should have been here today to speak with us," said one of several youths who criticized Murnighan. "He should be more concerned about Lansing's problems than his own leisure." Several others made similar critical statements.

Moore said that the mayor had not slept in 48 hours, and would be within an hour and a half's driving time of the city.

When Negroes were asked if they thought Tuesday's meeting would prove more successful than Monday night's, which failed to head off a night of shooting and rock-, bottle- and molotov cocktail-throwing disturbances, several spoke at once to say that this was possible.

"There won't be any trouble tonight if they keep the whites out," cried one. The others agreed.

Police would attempt to keep outsiders out of the area around the Kalamazoo-Butler intersection, Moore said. Negro residents, who asked for a chance to control their area themselves, agreed to set up a special headquarters in a cleaner's shop. A direct phone line with the police communications center in the City Hall would enable them to call for police aid, if they failed.

"We've been given nothing concrete to work on," said Ernest Costa of 400 Butler St. "There are a group of whites who came by in a pickup truck today. They think they're going to burn our houses tonight."

Ingham County Prosecutor Donald L. Reisig agreed to immediately investigate charges of police brutality which were made at the meeting both by the teenagers and by the ministers who advised them.

Moore promised that a temporary solution--perhaps renting a vacant building or extending the Lincoln Center's program from five to seven days a week--to Negro complaints of inadequate social and recreational facilities would be sought.

Another meeting will be held in one week to discuss long-range solutions.

"In another week we may have another Watts," said Costa angrily. "At five deaths a day, that makes 35 dead people."

Saturday night white youths threw bricks through the window of Kewpie's Restaurant in Lansing, where Negro teenagers were eating.

Sunday night Negroes gathered around the Incline Dance Hall, which has a reservations policy which in effect segregates its dances. About 200 whites and 25 Negroes clashed.

Word spread to the West Side, and Negro teenagers poured into the area. Rock- and bottle-tossing melees flared-up throughout the night, and two business establishments were looted in the Negro section of town.

The Blacks:
Look preacher, go home. We're going to kill the white MF's. Tell 'em to bring the hunkies over here. We burn 'em, BURN 'em, BURN 'EM TO HELL. Understand?
Man if you burn Whitey, what you got left?
Dunno, dunno. But we going to do it. We going humbugging. I personally reverend would be most obliged to disjoint his head from the top of his body.
Now cool it man. Cool it. Now LISTEN! Do you not hear what I am saying? Do you NOT? If he comes over to the West Side it will all be OVER for Whitey. It will all be over.
You are losing your. . .
Hear me. He comes over, we kill him. He don't, we move out and we track him down and

Angry Romney Threatens Action

Gov. George Romney lashed out at "black power" advocates Tuesday and threatened state action against the bands of crime happy youths who have rocked his capital city with two nights of racial violence.

In an appeal that put his personal and professional prestige on the line, Romney pleaded with "all citizens" to end the disturbances. In outbreaks on Sunday and Monday nights, 31 persons were arrested and 11 injured during sieges of hit-and-run attacks by bands of white and Negro youngsters.

"I am gravely concerned over the events of the last two nights," Romney said. "I believe that part of the reason for what has happened is a general confusion by many, particularly young people, over the question of power."

"The only power is that of democracy," he said. "There can be no private power based on force--not black power nor white power nor shared power."

As Romney issued his statement, squads of riot-ready police stood poised to enter the Negro neighborhood that begins not more than a stone's throw from Romney's capitol office.

Romney warned the trouble makers he stood ready "to use the power of force to prevent or halt violence or disobedience."

Farmer Talk Here Monday

James Farmer, former head of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE), will speak on campus Monday.

Farmer will deliver a paper, "The Monolithic Stereotype of the Negro--Fact or Fiction," to the Detroit School Administrators Workshop, said Herbert C. Rudman, director of the workshop.

Farmer is one of the nation's ten specialists meeting here to discuss the issue of educating children from disadvantaged economic and social backgrounds with Detroit educators.

Air Losses Lower Than Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI)--President Johnson said Tuesday that U.S. air losses over Viet Nam were lower than expected and did not signify the war suddenly was going badly.

"I wouldn't say the losses are unexpected," he told newsmen inquiring about the loss of 10 American planes over north Viet Nam Sunday and Monday.

Johnson told a news conference in his White House office that he had discussed the situation with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk Monday night.

Both plane and helicopter losses are under official estimates, he reported. "Whether, good luck on their part, had luck on our part--there are a lot of factors that enter into those things," he said.

"I don't see any change for the worse at all," he added.

The President denied existence of any Defense Dept. report, as described in dispatches from Saigon, which said the Viet Nam War was expected to last eight years at present troop levels and as long as five years even if 750,000 Americans were thrown into the fight.

At his request, he said, McNamara checked but could not find such a report and "He did not agree with the conclusions."

Johnson said he had never seen the report or heard of it until he read about it Monday in newspaper accounts.

Johnson said he had nothing new to add about prospects for peace talks.

He declined to comment on whether the United States would be willing to agree to the presence of the Viet Cong at the negotiating table.

The administration still is prepared as before to "sit down at any time, any place and discuss anything that had a reasonable chance of producing a settlement," he said.

Red Viets' Power Up

SAIGON (UPI)--Communist military manpower is growing in South Viet Nam faster than U.S. and allied forces can kill or capture the enemy troops, reliable sources said Tuesday.

The sources said the Communist armies in the jungles and rice paddies below the 17th Parallel have increased from 230,000 men to 283,000.

There is at least one Communist soldier for every American GI, the sources said.

They also noted that 40 per cent of the U.S. forces in Viet Nam are clerks, truck drivers, mechanics and other non-combat troops.

The Communists have taken in stride the loss of 35,000 men killed, wounded, captured or surrendered, the sources said.

They said a conservative estimate is that an average of 7,700 soldiers have infiltrated into South Viet Nam from the north every month of 1966.

The report of Communist strength put a damper on the feeling in Saigon that the tide had been definitely turned.

House Passes Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The House approved President Johnson's 1966 Civil Rights Bill Tuesday night with a partial ban on housing discrimination and new federal curbs on white and Negro racial violence.

The measure, considerably modified to insure House acceptance, now goes to the Senate, where prospects for passage are dim.

The heart of the bill--and the section controversial in both north and south--is the proposed ban on racial, religious and ethnic discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

The House whacked down the President's request for a total ban into one that would affect only about 40 per cent of the nation's housing--an estimated 23 million large apartment buildings and homes in new developments. At the same time, it would outlaw "block busting" real estate tactics in all-white neighborhoods.

MSU Union Joins Employees Protest

By DON SOCKOL
State News Staff Writer

Some 50 members of MSU's newly-recognized Local 1585 joined an estimated 2,000 state employees in a week-long labor protest march in downtown Lansing Tuesday.

State employees representing locals from all over Michigan ended their march at a mass meeting in Ferris Park, several blocks south of the Capitol.

They were attempting to bring attention to what they termed inadequate pay and unsatisfactory working conditions.

Union officials called the demonstration just a prelude to a larger gathering in Detroit's Cobo Hall in October.

The MSU union contract, just two months old, was cited as an example of good state employee-management relations by Gordon Chapman, executive secretary emeritus of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME).

One MSU employee, however, carried a sign reading: "MEET MY BOSS--MSU." The sign pictured a rat with blood dripping from its teeth.

One MSU union member complained of contract infractions in the lower echelons of authority, while another in a different department expressed satisfaction in this area.

Both commended the higher-up leadership of the school for their good faith with the union.

Many placards derided Gov. George Romney who refused state employees their requested half-day off to take part in the march. Demonstrators honked their horns at Romney, who passed through the line of automobiles taking part in the march as the procession passed City Hall.

Union officials urged the workers to support the Democratic Party in the November elections.

"If you will help us put in a full-time governor in the person of Zolton Ferency and Williams for senator we'll be four-square behind you," pledged Bill Marshall, executive vice president of the AFL-CIO.

Malaysia, Indonesia To Sign For Peace

JAKARTA (UPI)--Malaysian Deputy Premier Tun Abdul Razak will come here Thursday to sign a peace accord with Indonesia, Foreign Minister Adam Malik announced Tuesday.

The signing would formally put an end to "confrontation"--Indonesia's three year campaign against Malaysia--a campaign of terrorism, unrelentingly hostile speeches and bitter guerrilla fighting in the steamy jungles of North Borneo where the two countries share an 800-mile border.

Confrontation was a keystone of President Sukarno's policy. Malaysia was branded as a "neo-colonialist" enemy to be "crushed" because it maintained close ties with Britain and welcomed Commonwealth troops on its soil--a definite threat to Indonesian security, said Sukarno.

If nothing else, confrontation effectively diverted the nation's attention from political and economic near-chaos at home.

Mihajlov Supporters Defy Police

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Supporters of jailed writer Mihajlo Mihajlov defied police warnings Tuesday and elected officers for a meeting to found an opposition magazine.

Police have not flatly forbidden the meeting, but have said they cannot be responsible for the safety of those who take part.

Mihajlov, a former university lecturer who got into trouble a year ago for an article critical of the Soviet Union, had called the meeting to found the magazine Wednesday at Zadar, on the Adriatic coast.

U.S. And Soviets To Agree On Treaty

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union will reach an agreement soon on a treaty pledging peaceful use of outer space, U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg predicts.

Goldberg, who has been negotiating the treaty in Geneva, told a news conference Monday about 80 per cent of the treaty has been settled and he hopes a complete text will be worked out in time for approval by the U.N. General Assembly at its session beginning Sept. 20.

SIDES SEE NO HOPE

Air Strike Talks Go On, But

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Negotiators, meeting in an atmosphere of futility, went back to the bargaining table Tuesday for still another effort to end the 33-day-old airline strike.

Neither side held any hope for success and an industry spokesman said the walkout against five major carriers could be ended only by congressional action.

Representatives of the airlines and the International Assn. of Machinists (IAM) renewed talks for the second consecutive day at the urging of the House Commerce Committee.

The new request was similar to Monday's appeal by the committee, which is considering Senate-passed legislation that would force the machinists to return to work for at least 180 days.

An eight-hour negotiating session Monday got absolutely nowhere.

President Johnson told his news conference Tuesday that he hoped a settlement could be negotiated after Congress completed action on the pending back-to-work legislation.

The President said the legislation was initiated in Congress and was not recommended by the administration. The measure is politically distasteful in an election year.

The chief airline negotiator,

William J. Curtin, said that the new talks were a waste of time. He told the House Commerce Committee that the only way to end the strike was through the pending legislation.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, however, telegraphed the committee his request to testify against the Senate-approved bill, which he said "would break a perfectly legal strike."

"The entire future of free collective bargaining in a free economy is at stake," Meany said. In urging a resumption of negotiations, Rep. Samuel Friedel, D-Md., acting chairman of the commerce committee, made a plea for "give and take" from both sides.

But Curtin said there was nothing to give or take after the 35,400 machinists voted July 31 to reject a settlement worked out between the negotiators and the White House. He said there was no "real basis" for new discussions.

During Monday's session, Curtin said, the union indicated it would settle for nothing less than a $112 million package in wage increases and health and welfare benefits.

"We aren't prepared to settle on that basis and I don't think the union negotiators even expect us to," he said.

IAM President P. L. (Roy) Stiemiller told the committee the two sides were still $26 million to $36 million apart, and that the carriers were standing on a $74 million offer rejected by union members.

He said he was sure that the airlines would not increase their offer as long as there was a chance of Congress passing the back-to-work legislation.

Artificial Pump Working Satisfactorily In Heart

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 37-year-old Mexican woman continued to "progress satisfactorily" Tuesday with a mechanical pump performing part of the function of her heart.

The patient, Mrs. Esperanza Del Valle Vasquez, was well enough for her family to visit her briefly, a spokesman for Methodist Hospital said.

Mrs. Vasquez underwent four hours of surgery Monday to become the third person in recent months to receive one of the heart pump devices of famed surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey.

The others died within days of the operations. All were performed at the Houston hospital.

Ted Bowen, administrator of the hospital, said the artificial heart device—technically a "left ventricular bypass"—was functioning well and Mrs. Vasquez' heart response itself was satisfactory.

DeBakey's device allows a tired human heart to rest and heal itself while the pump takes over some of its work.

Hospital officials tried to keep the operation secret after criticism from medical circles about previous publicity. They refused to identify the patient but doctors disclosed her name. But her address in Mexico was not disclosed.

Bowen said Mrs. Vasquez had been ill for many years, suffering from progressive heart failure resulting from rheumatic fever.

She is the first private patient to undergo the surgery at the hospital. Both the first patient, Marcel E. De Rudder, 65, of Westville, Ill., and the second, Walter L. McCans, 61, of Woodville, Wash., underwent the surgery under government grants. The National Institute of Health gave $4.5 million for the project.

De Rudder was operated on April 21 and lived 111 hours. His death was caused by a rupture of the left lung.

Less than a month later, May 17, DeBakey tried again with McCans, who survived only 67 hours. His death was attributed to massive bleeding around the lungs.

Gambling Probe May OK Immunity

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Immunity might be granted gamblers in order to get at facts in charges that casino owners were skimming money off the top, the chairman of the Nevada Gaming Commission said Tuesday as a secret hearing opened.

Two six-foot steel cabinets blocked the door to the hearing room. Commission members, the Gaming Control Board and witnesses used rear entrances which were guarded by state officers.

Chairman Milton Keefer said the immunity question would be dealt with "When it comes up. But I can see where it could be to the benefit of the state to grant immunity in some cases."

He said the primary purpose of the investigation was "delving into finances of the casinos. We will look into earnings and revenue and determine if there is any diversion of these funds."

He said that if any facts were turned up the case then would be referred to the three-man control board which has the power to issue complaints and which could result in almost immediate revocation of gambling licenses.

Some 12 to 15 persons were believed asked to appear at the hearing which was expected to last two or three days here.

Opening testimony primarily was taken from members of the gaming board, the investigative body of the commission, as well as state investigators. Testimony was to deal primarily with financial and bookkeeping procedures of casinos.

Sandy Smith, crime writer for the Chicago Sun-Times who wrote a series of stories naming hotels, owners, times and places where skimming occurred in Nevada casinos, was on hand.

When the commission asked Smith if he wanted to testify he said he would. Smith had identified Gordon as one of eight "bagmen" who reportedly acted as couriers of "black money."

The hearing was ordered by Gov. Grant Sawyer last month following testimony in Denver by federal agents who admitted that executive suites of Nevada gamblers had been bugged.

Telpak Plans Requested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Tuesday asked the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. (AT&T) whether it planned to allow news media to use Telpak, a wholesale communications package.

Under the Telpak plan, customers can get a reduced rate if they purchase a minimum of 12 AT&T voice circuits. The present AT&T tariff only allows government agencies and regulated public utilities to share a Telpak service.

King Braces For Showdown In Anti-Negro Stronghold

CHICAGO (UPI)—Cook County Sheriff Richard Ogilvie announced Tuesday he will attempt to block aides of Martin Luther King from making an "open housing" march into suburban Cicero, Ill., scene of a 1951 anti-Negro riot.

Ogilvie told a news conference he will try to persuade King's Chicago civil rights organization to cancel plans for the Cicero march. If persuasion fails, Ogilvie said he would seek a court injunction to block the demonstration.

There are not enough police available to protect the marchers in the event of violence, Ogilvie said.

Ogilvie estimated that a minimum of 500 police would be needed. Cicero has a 100-member police force and a 200-member police reserve unit. Only about half of the police have received riot training.

Ogilvie said he could only spare 70 men from his 175-man Cook County sheriff's police force to protect the marchers.

Chicago police have been assigning up to 1,500 men to protect King's marchers in their protest in the Gage Park section of the southwest side and the Belmont-Cragin area of the northwest side.

When only 400 Chicago police were on hand in Gage Park July 31, demonstrators' cars were wrecked and burned. More than 1,000 police were unable to keep King from being hit by a stone last Friday in Gage Park.

"Cicero would make Gage Park look like a tea party," Ogilvie predicted.

"It's going to be rough," Rev. Jesse Jackson, a top King aide, admitted. Jackson indicated in a speech that the Cicero march would be staged this weekend but other sources said the timetable had not been fixed.

"They can buy tanks and they can arm every child, but they can't stop us from going into Cicero," the Rev. James Bevel, another King aide, said.

Jackson said, "I've counted the costs. We must make the choice between one man dying from a bullet today as against generation after generation dying from spiritual emasculation."

March leaders' strategy, one source indicated, would be a small group into Cicero. If the group encounters violence, protection from the Illinois National Guard will be sought. If National Guard protection is not forthcoming, federal troops may be requested.

The last time a Negro attempted to break down housing barriers in Cicero was in July, 1951, when bus driver Harvey E. Clark Jr. attempted to move his family into an apartment in a three-story, 20-apartment building.

A howling mob of 6,000 whites hurled rocks, bricks and bottles through windows, ripped casements from walls and radiators from floors, smashed refrigerators and stoves, leaving the structure a shambles. Clark's furniture was burned.

Order was restored when then-Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson sent in the National Guard.

The only Negroes in Cicero since then were those who came to work in the suburb's factories and left at the end of each work day.

Cicero, predominantly populated by first and second generation residents from the Balkans, central Europe and Italy, achieved worldwide notoriety for lawlessness in the prohibition era, when the Capone gang made it its suburban headquarters.

The President said the administration realizes "that in some cases it is difficult for certain union groups to feel that they are equitable. We realize that certain industry groups, such as the steel group, feel that certain obligations to them require them to make adjustments."

He said, the government had tried "to get labor to stay where they would not raise prices because of increased labor costs, and to get industry not to raise prices, period."

However, Johnson said, this policy had failed in the recent steel price increase and had been a failure in the current airline strike.

On the steel price rise, Johnson said manufacturers felt they needed $50 million in additional annual revenue. "We would hope that they could avoid it," he said, "but they didn't agree . . . we urged them to reconsider that decision but we have not been effective."

As for the airline strike, Johnson said "we hoped that they would keep their increases as low as possible, but they could not be kept within 3.2. We recommended . . . to the unions, 4.3, and the union rejected that."

Even with the failures, the President said, the consumer price index has risen much slower in the United States than it has in other free nations.

"Relatively speaking," he said, "some countries' cost of living has increased 500 per cent more than ours."

'UNTIL SOMETHING BETTER'

Wage-Price Rules To Stay

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson denied Tuesday the administration planned to throw out its 3.2 per cent wage-price guideposts. But he said they might be dumped if a better method could be found to harness the economy.

The President told his news conference that "The government's position is that we are going to constantly reassess and re-evaluate and try to find an effective formula. But until we do, we are going to urge upon labor and management to be as restrained as they possibly can be in this situation."

Johnson said that statements Monday by Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler and Commerce Secretary John T. Connor that the administration was seeking to improve its economic stabilization program did not mean that the guideposts were on the way out.

The guideposts, he conceded, are "not perfect." He said they had been "exceeded in some instances (and) we are constantly searching for anything that seems to be fair and just. We have nothing better to suggest at the moment."

The President said the administration realizes "that in some cases it is difficult for certain union groups to feel that they are equitable. We realize that certain industry groups, such as the steel group, feel that cer-

3 TURKS SOUGHT ESCAPE

Soviet Pilot Foils Airliner Hijackers

MOSCOW (UPI)—Three armed men tried to hijack a Soviet airliner in flight in an apparent attempt to escape to Turkey, it was reported Tuesday.

The attempt ended with a gunfight as the pilot, who also was armed, fired at one of the gunmen. One passenger was hurt.

The hijackers were captured and the plane landed safely at its destination of Batumi—20 miles north of the Turkish border.

The story in the government newspaper Izvestia was the first official indication that some Soviet airline pilots are armed. It was believed such precautions are taken only in border areas to stop persons from hijacking planes to flee abroad.

A similar incident took place last summer, when a passenger aboard an airliner flying near Leningrad pulled a gun and shot the flight engineer. He was disarmed and captured. Izvestia did not say why the three men tried to take over the plane near Batumi. But the location and the charge that one of them, Nikolai Shvachka, was fleeing from a murder charge implied they planned to go to Turkey.

The paper said Shvachka was wanted for the murder of a watchman in his home town of Slaviansk. He recruited his two young cohorts, Vasili Svistun and Boris Maximkin, it said, and the three of them boarded the plane at Poti, another Black Sea town north of Batumi.

As the small, 14-passenger plane neared Batumi, Shvachka pulled two guns and ordered the other passengers to raise their hands.

One passenger managed to slip into the cabin to tell the pilot and co-pilot about the attempt. Pilot Vladimir Shlenov put the plane in a deep dive to throw Shvachka off balance.

Then he turned over the controls to co-pilot Valeri Tomashvili and rushed from the cabin, gun blazing.

At that moment, another passenger, A. Kutateladze, stepped forward and was hit in the leg by a bullet from the captain's gun.

A third passenger, Revaz Salukvadze, grabbed the startled Shvachka and disarmed him. The other two youths made no move to help and they were quickly captured.

The plane landed safely, Izvestia said. It added that police are investigating the affair.

Negro Youths Air Complaints

Murphy, 17, said he and his friends jumped over the west wall of the drive-in and damaged five or six cars, said an Eaton County sheriff's deputy. A 17-year-old Negro male was arrested on charges of malicious destruction of property.

Next came another report of a white youth being assaulted near Butler and Kalamazoo. Police said the Negro assailant yelled "black power," before hitting his victim.

Some 350 helmeted police officers armed with shotguns, gas masks and ax handles, moved in to break up crowds which at times swelled to 150 persons. Lansing's force was assisted by

Michigan State Police, East Lansing, Ingham County, Mason City, and MSU police.

A mob throwing Molotov cocktails and bottles assembled near Don and Bill's grocery store, which had been extensively damaged Sunday night. Police seemed to be prime targets for the mob and several patrol cars were damaged by bullets.

Lansing Police officers Bob Tucker and James Bennett were treated at St. Lawrence Hospital for injuries they received during the flare-up. Tucker was hit by splinters of flying glass and Bennett suffered ear injuries when hit by a piece of flying cement.

Four Negroes were treated at St. Lawrence for gunshot wounds. Police deny firing any shots.

A Catholic priest said he saw police set tear gas bombs in a street. Persons in the area said they saw a crowd set the gas off three times. Police cordoned off an area and arrested 15 persons, including a woman.

Arrested on charges of carrying concealed weapons were three whites and one Negro. Five Negroes, ranging in age from 16-31, were arrested on various charges for using profanity.

Arrested on intoxication charges were two whites and two Negroes, ranging in age from 18 to 56. Two Negroes were also arrested on charges of being unable to account for their presence.

The riot was "under control" by 2:30 a.m., although at least one attempt was made to assault a police officer after that time.

Foreign Aid Study Shows Low Esteem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A study prepared for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Tuesday that U.S. foreign aid programs were held in low esteem because they had too many goals and activities.

The 80-page study was made by the legislative reference service of the Library of Congress at the request of Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, top GOP member of the committee.

The report said that the public "sees only a blurred picture" of foreign aid programs and "what it hears about for the most part is a series of unsupported assertions."

"Because too much is claimed for foreign aid, frustrations and disappointments are inevitable," the study added.

In making public the document, Hickenlooper said "there is little doubt that foreign aid is one of the most unpopular annual programs considered by the Congress."

He said he hoped that the study would help Congress and the public "in understanding some of the strengths and weaknesses of the aid program."

The library's experts told the Senate group that "much needs to be done in the way of developing country-by-country aid strategy to replace uncoordinated aid projects."

They said, "the United States must be prepared to cut off aid to countries that are not going their part to help themselves" after agreeing to meet standards of self-help.

"One of the reasons for lack of firmness in the past has been fear of the consequences of firmness, especially the fear of Communist penetration," the report said.

"Unless there is clear agreement as to standards, of course, there can be little in the way of effective enforcement" on aid programs.

So far, the study said, "there has been a super-abundance of talk, of promise and of agreements as to generalities in our aid programs." However, it added, "with few exceptions, there has been little in the way of clear agreement as to standards of performance."

The report also emphasized that any future aid programs must consider the inevitable connection between population growth, economic development and natural resources.

Nugents Get Official Welcome And Privacy

NASSAU (UPI)—Bahamian authorities Tuesday issued an official welcome to the colony's number one honeymooners and promised them the "absolute privacy" the White House requested.

So far, after two days near Nassau, Pat and Luci Nugent have succeeded—with the aid of a very determined squad of U.S. Secret Service agents—in maintaining that privacy.

They have not been seen since they attended an evening mass Sunday, a few hours after their arrival by commercial plane from New York.

Tuesday morning, Gov. Sir Ralph Grey and Minister for Finance and Tourism Sir Stafford Sands issued the following statement.

"We are extremely pleased that the daughter and son-in-law of the President of the United States have chosen Nassau for their honeymoon.

"At the same time we wish to adhere to a friendly request from the White House to extend our traditional Bahamian courtesy while giving this couple absolute privacy."

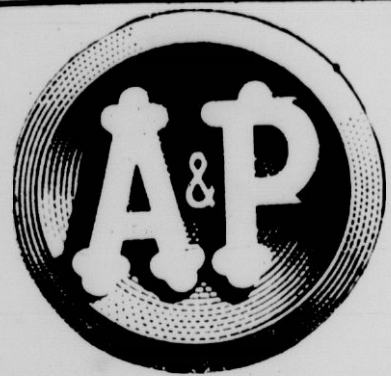

Determined, but so far very frustrated newsmen camped outside the couple's 10-room honeymoon villa, Capricorn, or stalked through Nassau to see if Luci was there disguised in one of her habitual wigs.

The only newsman to get within touching distance of the villa was a Nassau photographer who rode into the grounds on the back of a delivery truck. But he got to see only the kitchen help before being summarily evicted by the ubiquitous young men—presumably Secret Service agents—who surround the villa.

The privacy was so well maintained, that there was no certainty, that the celebrated couple were in the palm-shaded luxury villa—the property of New York millionaire Rebekah West Harkness.

Monday, for instance, there was talk—never confirmed—that Pat and Luci had gone on a boat excursion.

And nobody has seen anyone but tight-lipped young men in or around the villa.

Ex-Cager Wants To Coach After 29 Years In Business

By LARRY WERNER
State News Sports Writer

Most people will agree that a man must do for a living what he wants to do—that he will be happiest doing.

Ed Rolan likewise agrees. He has left one way of life and come to MSU to pursue a new one. This is not so unusual in itself, but Rolan, a 1937 Michigan State graduate, has left a very successful profession in industry where he has made his living for 29 years.

Rolan is 50, and he has returned to MSU as a student so that he can fulfill a lifelong dream—that of coaching basketball.

Rolan attended MSU (1933-37), majoring in business administration and winning three varsity basketball awards. Following graduation he worked for Lockheed Aircraft in California, then returned to Michigan and worked for Whirlpool Corp.

Rolan, from Berrien Springs, has just left Whirlpool, for whom he was sales manager for government contracts.

Why does a man decide to start a new life for himself at the age when most men begin contemplating retirement?

"I've always wanted to be a basketball coach," the youthful 50-year-old said. "I didn't decide all of a sudden. But now that our family is raised, I just realized that I shouldn't keep working to make more dollars for a new car or something. "I wanted to settle down and do something I'd enjoy." Rolan's job with Whirlpool involved dealing with the astronauts in the Gemini and Apollo programs. Whirlpool was in charge of developing feeding devices for the astronauts.

Rolan was unhappy in this job. So he sold his home, bought a house trailer and became a student again. "I didn't become a coach originally, because my high school coach talked me out of it," Rolan said. "I got into industry after college—and regretted it."

It may take Rolan a year-and-a-half to acquire enough credits for his teaching certificate. "It may take two years," Rolan said. "If it does, it does."

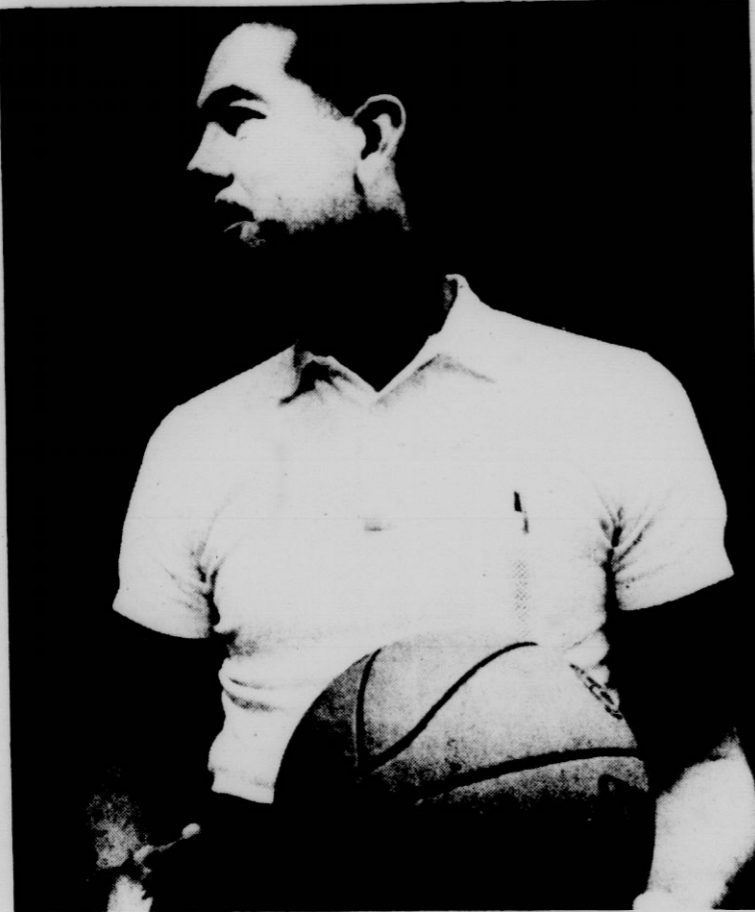

Rolan is in no hurry. He's just happy that he will finally be doing what he has wanted to do.

Rolan loves the game of basketball, and he loves to work with youngsters. "I like to help kids,"

Rolan said. "I worked with my son when he played basketball, and I frequently take the kids in Berrien Springs to the gym to play basketball."

Rolan wants to be more than a coach who just produces winning teams.

"I feel that coaching is not just a physical-building job," Rolan said. "In any athletic competition, athletes should develop character, which they can possess for the rest of their lives. I think I can do some good for kids."

Never Too Late

HITCHCOCK HIRED

7th-Place Braves Fire Bragan

ATLANTA (UPI)—The floundering Atlanta Braves changed pace Tuesday by firing flamboyant manager Bobby Bragan and replacing him with soft-spoken Billy Hitchcock.

The move, rumored for more than a month, came with the Braves anchored in seventh place in the National League—12 1/2 games off the pace.

It caught Bragan by surprise. Manager of the Braves since the 1963 season, Bragan said he would not have been surprised if he had been dropped earlier but figured that this late (eight weeks and 51 games to go) the Braves would wait until the end of the season.

It was also a surprise for the 50-year-old Hitchcock, one-time manager of the Baltimore Orioles, who had been serving as Bragan's first base coach.

Hitchcock was careful not to criticize his old boss directly, but indicated his displeasure with Bragan's managerial methods by stating that his first change would be to stabilize the Braves' infield.

Under Bragan, the Braves infield changed almost from game to game with veteran Eddie Mathews alternating with Dennis Menke at third base; Menke and Woody Woodward alternating at shortstop; and Woodward and three other Braves getting a crack at second.

Braves President and General Manager John McHale, in announcing the Hitchcock-for-Bragan switch at a noon news conference, pointed out that this does not end Bragan's association with the Braves. He said the Braves still have to pay Bragan the remainder of his 1966 contract. "Then we'll go from there."

Bragan insisted he has no hard feelings about losing his job as Braves manager.

"Even though the experience was a stormy one both in Milwaukee and Atlanta, I've got nothing but good things to say about McHale and the owners," Bragan said.

"We'll talk with Bragan at the end of the season about what he would like to do," McHale said. "If we have something his talents would fit, we'll be happy to deal with him."

Clay Vs. London 'Financial Flop'

LONDON (UPI)—The Cassius Clay-Brian London world heavyweight title fight, already labeled "the mismatch of the century," was a resounding financial fiasco as well, it was revealed Tuesday.

Co-promoters Jack Solomons and Lawrie Lewis estimated they lost approximately $140,000 on the fight.

Clay knocked out his unranked British challenger in the third round Saturday night before some 9,000 fans in the 15,000-capacity Earl's Court.

Clay and London seem to be the only people involved who did not lose money.

Clay returned home with $250,000 deposited beforehand in a New York bank and with the takings from all United States television rights to come.

The fight was televised live in the United States via the Early Bird Satellite.

London collected a guaranteed purse of $98,000 for the seven minutes and 40 seconds he appeared in the ring without throwing one hard punch.

"We will be down between $120,000 and $140,000," said Solomons.

World Wide Sports, a subsidiary to Britain's Independent Television also faces a loss—or at least no profit—from its closed circuit movies. Thousands of the 40,000 seats in 20 theaters in Britain were empty.

Managing Director Lew Grade said: "The return from the theaters is in the region of $140,000 to $195,000—and overall we did not make any profit."

Independent television, which had exclusive rights to the post-fight films in Britain did not have any success either when the film was screened 24 hours after the fight.

BIG 10 PREVIEW

Quarterback, Line Problems Plague Wolverine Gridders

Who's afraid of the big bad Wolves?

Hardly anyone was last fall. Graduation losses and injuries transformed Bump Elliott's title team of '64 into a 1965 Big Ten doormat. Michigan fell from first to seventh place. Where will they end up this fall?

Michigan's big problem last year was finding a capable signal-caller to replace All-American Bob Timberlake. It was thought that soph Dick Vidmer could handle the job, but senior Wally Gabler had to come to Vidmer's aid.

Vidmer is now a junior, and Gabler is gone. The question, again, is, can Vidmer do the job? There are doubts, and defensive halfback Rick Volk is prepared at quarterback, just in case.

Aside from the quarterback spot, the Wolverine backfield is solid, if healthy. Halfbacks Jim Detwiler and Carl Ward both have suffered injuries. Detwiler missed most of last season. Dave Fisher should do well at fullback.

Backs need holes to run through, however, and it takes an offensive line to make holes. Tom Mack and Charley Kines, the offensive tackles, will not be making any more holes for Michigan. Neither will end Steve Smith or guard Bill Keating. They're all gone.

End Jack Clancy rewrote Michigan's record books in the pass-catching category, and he is returning to the offensive line.

The defensive line is on the shaky side also. All-American tackle Bill Yearby's departure is the major loss. But linebacker Tom Cecchini, end Jeff Hoyne and guard Dennis Flanagan will also be direly missed.

Frank Nunley should be one of the Big Ten's top linebackers this fall, and Paul Johnson, a junior, could be tough as the only returning tackle on offensive or defense.

Volk and Rick Sygar head a top-notch secondary, one of the team's bright spots.

If Elliott can muster up someone to hit Clancy with passes and linemen to protect that passer and block for the runner, and also defensive linemen to stop the enemy, the Wolves may again be "big and bad" in '66.

There are an awful lot of "ifs." Next: Northwestern.

KATZENBACH SPEECH

'Law Corps' Proposed

MONTREAL (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach called Tuesday for creation of a "Law Corps" of young attorneys who would work in all phases of criminal justice ranging from the police station to the prison.

He decried the "shocking lack of progress the United States has made in the field of criminal justice in the 20th century and suggested the "Law Corps" as one way to stem the tide.

The idea behind the plan, Katzenbach said, in a speech prepared for the American Bar Assn. meeting, was to put legal knowledge to work not only in the criminal court room but along the entire line of criminal justice from arrest and prison to a rehabilitation and probation.

"The lawyer has always been and remains today not only an interpreter of change, but also an inventive artisan of social progress," the attorney general said.

However in the past, Katzenbach said, lawyers have not always been as effective as they might be in the fight against crime.

Katzenbach said he was not trying to suggest that lawyers "dilute their professional standards by trying to be all things at once." What he had in mind, Katzenbach said, was the establishment of a program for law students "which would provide openings in local police forces, correctional institutions, prosecutors, bail programs, law or criminal courts, and agencies involved in the sentencing process."

The Justice Dept. chief urged the bar association to support a proposal for "a national establishment for research into crime." Katzenbach said the agency might be similar to those already in existence in "other fields of national concern."

Katzenbach was to have delivered his speech in person but remained in Washington as the House neared a vote on the 1966 Civil Rights Bill. His speech was read to the convention by James Vorenberg, executive director of President Johnson's 19-member crime commission, of which Katzenbach is head.

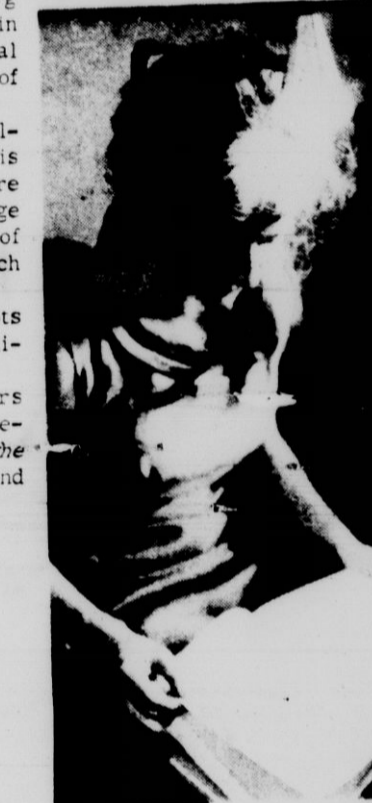

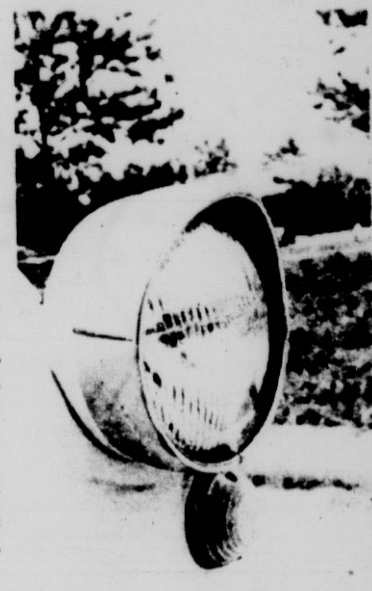

Much of Katzenbach's address was devoted to progress made by the crime commission since its inception in 1955.

He said a study of more than 20 U.S. communities has uncovered "shocking findings about the appalling and self-defeating treatment of the misdemeanor in courts and jails, and the financial and educational delinquency of police forces."

"But the finding which is already inevitable—and which is most shocking—is that we are profoundly ignorant about large segments in the full sphere of criminal justice," Katzenbach said.

One of the few bright spots in the overall picture is California, he said.

"No large state in recent years had made more progress in relating and overhauling... all the major instruments of justice and law enforcement," he said.

Ever wonder how many different types of headlights there are on campus? May be not, but here are just a few shapes and sizes. The bottom one, especially, is unique—she's Mary Ferrante, wife of an MSU student.

Club Plans Arabian Picnic

The MSU Arab Club will sponsor a picnic Saturday Aug. 20, at Kent Lake, Michigan.

The picnic dinner will be all Arabian foods. There will be team sports as well as swimming and sunbathing.

Students who need rides will meet at 10:30 in front of the Union Building.

Tickets may be purchased for $2 at the UN Lounge in the Union, the Foreign Students Office in the Center for International Programs, or by calling 355-5785.

Stocks Upswing Dies, Finish Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI)—A promising upswing turned into a mixed closing on the New York stock exchange Tuesday. Trading was moderately active.

Selling pressure helped limit the size of the advance during the session and gradually chipped away the majority gains held over from last week.

The United Press International stock market indicator showed a gain of 0.10 per cent for the 1,372 issues traded. There were 561 gainers and 556 losers. Twenty-three issues rose to new 1966 highs while 95 touched new lows. Using April 1, 1966 prices

DIFFERENT VERSIONS

Police Resort To Tear Gas

GRENADA, Miss. (UPI)—Authorities and Negroes gave contradictory versions Tuesday of what touched off a police tear gas attack against 600 racial demonstrators in this north Mississippi town Monday night.

Officers said they resorted to the gas only after the demonstrators began hurling rocks and bottles at them. But Hosea Williams, one of Martin Luther King's top aides, claimed "no rocks of anything else were thrown" before police let fly with the gas canisters.

There were no arrests or serious injuries.

Williams said he would lead another march later Tuesday night.

King, who is in Jackson attending the national convention of his Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), threatened to send his entire SCLC staff here "in an effort to secure justice for the Negro community."

Police said they twice ordered the demonstrators Monday night to stop blocking the street and sidewalk in front of the "Chat and Chew" cafe, which houses the office of the federal voter registrar.

Williams said he and his followers had decided to walk to the registrar's office following a rally in a local Negro church.

He said the registrar's office remained open to accommodate Negroes who are not able to leave their jobs to register during the day. Williams said he was atop the automobile addressing the crowd when two officers came up and said they would have to quit blocking the sidewalks.

"I told everybody to stop blocking the sidewalk and they did," he said. He claimed the officers later returned and unleashed the tear gas.

The SCLC launched a drive here nearly a month ago to desegregate the community, contending that city leaders had gone back on promises to Negro leaders.

The sessions are being held in the Education Kiva.

Also Daniel H. Kruger, associate director of MSU's School of Labor and Industrial Relations, a specialist in labor mediation and decision-making; Maurice F. Seay, assistant dean of the College of Education and former educational director of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation; A. Arnold Rose, professor of sociology at the University of Minnesota and research associate of Gunnar Myrdal, author of the "American Dilemma"; William W. Farquhar, MSU professor of education, who has worked with minority groups; and Rudman, a professor in education, is one of the authors of the Stanford Achievement Test (SAT). He will speak on "Measuring the Outcomes of Education."

Beatles Map Out U.S. Battle Plan

LONDON (UPI)—Airport officials held a "battle plan" conference Tuesday to map out a smooth strategic withdrawal for the Beatles from their British fans when they fly off to a feared row in the United States over a remark about Jesus.

The singing group leaves Thursday for Chicago, by way of Boston, on a four-week, 14-city tour. It will get special customs clearance and be allowed to drive to its plane to keep a safe distance from idolatrous fans.

"We really are extremely grateful to the authorities for this special courtesy," said a Beatles spokesman. "It enables the boys to leave without being mobbed. We can't estimate how many fans will be there, but it is a school holiday and the departure has been well publicized in the press."

The furor continued about a statement attributed to Beatle John Lennon that the singing group was more popular than Jesus. It has brought no reaction here.

In South Africa, the pro-government newspaper Die Transvaler said the remark "made thousands of Christians highly indignant. This indignation is indeed a bright light in the darkness of degeneration."

But the independent South African Rand Daily Mail said: "We cannot help feeling that those churchmen who pointed out that banning the Beatles is not going to make Christianity any more popular are a lot closer to an understanding of this essential problem of the church than those people who are busy over-reacting to an insignificant gibe."

The South African Broadcasting Corp. has banned Beatles records.

The Rhodesia Herald said: "If the people hearing of Mr. Lennon's remarks were themselves firm in their scale of values—if the society that condones the Mersey howl recognized it as an aberration by young people, as always, to attract attention—then it and Mr. Lennon would have been shrugged off. Does their stridency show that they have been forced to recognize behind the remark their own hidden scale of values?"

Irish radio and television officials said they had no plans for a Beatles ban. "The whole thing is utterly fantastic," a spokesman said. "We judge the group on their merits, not on their religious beliefs."

Steel Price Rise Only A Symptom

An assistant professor of economics said Monday that the recently-announced increases in steel prices are more a symptom of inflationary pressures than a potential cause.

Bruce T. Allen said that he thought the increases were the kind which would have occurred in a competitive market.

Inland Steel was the first to raise prices by $3 per ton, or about 2 per cent, on sheet steel. Within a few days all major companies had announced the increase.

Allen said that he didn't think the government would do anything at this time. It has done about all it is prepared to do in "shaking a finger" at the steel industry. There are not extensive stockpiles in steel as there were in aluminum.

While Congress could enact price controls, there is little other than this that the government could do except make an all out assault on the market position of steel makers.

When asked about the effect of the increase on the war in Viet Nam, Allen said that the increase would affect the war to the extent that it raised the prices of the equipment used there, but he felt that the war had more effect on the price hike than vice versa. That is, the spending for war purposes has contributed to the total demand for goods and thus to inflationary pressures.

Reasons given for this were: the transitory nature of previous work in the neighborhood, and the difference in backgrounds between middle-class white students and citizens of an underprivileged area composed largely of minority peoples.

Ever wonder how many different types of headlights there are on campus? May be not, but here are just a few shapes and sizes. The bottom one, especially, is unique—she's Mary Ferrante, wife of an MSU student.

Club Plans Arabian Picnic

The MSU Arab Club will sponsor a picnic Saturday Aug. 20, at Kent Lake, Michigan.

The picnic dinner will be all Arabian foods. There will be team sports as well as swimming and sunbathing.

Students who need rides will meet at 10:30 in front of the Union Building.

Tickets may be purchased for $2 at the UN Lounge in the Union, the Foreign Students Office in the Center for International Programs, or by calling 355-5785.

Friends of SNCC Plan Votes Drive

MSU's chapter of Friends of SNCC met Monday to discuss plans for a voter registration drive in Urbandale, a Lansing Township slum of about 900 people.

The community, made up of Negroes, Mexican-Americans and some whites, has been the object of a small SNCC survey aimed at discovering neighborhood grievances.

The group plans to continue their survey and will try to remedy Urbandale's problems by convincing the people there to organize into an effective voting bloc.

The area's problems are based on poverty, not discrimination, according to Sandra Jenkins, president of MSU's chapter.

"If we could get about 300 people to vote, the kind of power we need to get these people what they want would be realized," Miss Jenkins said.

One of the problems raised at the meeting was Urbandale's apathy towards student groups.

Reasons given for this were: the transitory nature of previous work in the neighborhood, and the difference in backgrounds between middle-class white students and citizens of an under-

55 Animals For Zoos Quarantined For Study

NEW YORK (UPI)—An elephant, an ostrich and two score other African visitors were warmly welcomed here Tuesday, but for 55 other immigrants the welcome was far from enthusiastic.

The 55 are cloven-hoofed, ruminant cud-chewing animals, a type subject to foot-and-mouth disease, and they, therefore, represent a potential danger to the American cattle industry.

While the elephant, ostrich and other zoo-bound animals were being permitted to leave the Dutch freighter Maasloyd which brought them from Mombasa, Kenya, the ruminants were kept on board Tuesday, waiting for the official red tape to unwind.

Plans were to take the suspect beasts to Ft. Slocum, an abandoned Army post on an island in Long Island Sound, off New Rochelle, N.Y., for a 60-day special quarantine.

The ruminants became unwelcome here because, after they were cleared in Africa, the ship stopped enroute at two ports where there had been cases of foot-and-mouth disease.

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture decided they couldn't be brought in here. The freighter's captain then said the animals would be dumped overboard if he couldn't land.

The wheels began spinning and a plan was worked out last Friday at a conference of U.S. officials, zoo personnel, shippers, members of Congress and various others.

The plan was to quarantine the animals at Ft. Slocum.

Orientation Hoot

rather keep the upperclassmen away until fall. In that sense you might say we are protecting them."
Upperclassmen also may try to get into mixers and hootenannies.
"We have a responsibility to the freshmen," Spartan Aide Michael Cahn, Wantagh, N.Y. Junior, said. "Most of the people who come in prove to be disruptive to the program; they have no stake in what goes on here."
"If they're trying to keep upperclassmen away from us, they're doing a very good job," one freshman observed. "We weren't even aware of it."
Most of the freshmen didn't seem to mind, however. "We have time enough for that in the fall," one girl said. "Right now I just want to get my classes set up."
Other upperclassmen are likely to mutter that the freshmen are getting a rosy, unrealistic picture of the University.
"I think a lot of people associated with the program honestly think this is a pretty good place," Forsyth said. "What is it like here? We try to tell them they won't find perfection. We think it's here, but they're going to have to get it out of the University." Cooperation, competition, corruption.

Understanding, home away from home, a factory.
This is what MSU was to a group of freshmen attending a summer orientation program.
"Orientation? It's great!" one boy said. "I hate to leave; I'm ready to start school right now."
"Oh, I was panicked and confused when I came," he added, "but everything was so well organized that it all fell into place."
"You prepare yourself pessimistically," a girl from Maryland said. "I expected more control—room check, that sort of thing. It was better than I expected—less confusion, less paperwork and tests, good academic advising."
"First you're worried about your roommate," one girl said, "then it was the tests, then planning your classes. There's quite a strain to being in a new place."

"What did I expect? Just what we're getting," one boy said. "My main concern was getting my classes planned."
"You meet a variety of people. You realize you have to adjust," another girl said.
"Closing hours at 10:30 didn't bother us; we were usually beat by 7:30," someone said.
"The friendliness of State really strikes you," another girl commented, "not just here in the program, but the people you meet on campus."
"Sure MSU is big," a boy said, "but a big place is for big thoughts; a place to get things done."
Terrence Carey, director of admissions and scholarships, tells freshmen and their parents when they first arrive that, "the student who waits for education to come to him won't be here long. The University won't deliver; you collect an education."

U.S. Warplanes Smash 153 Cong Targets In Viet Nam

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. warplanes struck North Viet Nam with a record 139 bombing missions in one day, smashing at 153 separate targets up and down the country, U.S. spokesmen announced Tuesday.
Three of the planes were shot down but the pilot of one was rescued and another pilot lost earlier was saved in a dramatic rescue near the Chinese Communist border.
The three Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs brought down in Monday's record raids brought to 10 the number of American warplanes lost over the Communist north in three days, and raised the total downed since August, 1964, to 329.
In South Viet Nam, Communist ground fire hit seven Ma-ing one crewman and wounding seven. In addition two Army helicopters crashed and burned near Pleiku, killing seven Americans and injuring one.

In the ground war, U.S. Marines killed at least 44 North Vietnamese soldiers in a fierce battle fought within bullet range of the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Viet Nam. The Marine force was commanded by an officer who led the fighting for 12 hours while refusing to be evacuated although suffering from three separate wounds.
One of the three pilots of the downed planes was rescued. The two others were listed as missing.
In addition an American pilot whose plane had been shot down 26 hours earlier in North Viet Nam was picked up only 25 miles south of the Communist Chinese border.

Striking in the big raid near Thanh Hoa, Vinh, Haiphong, the Mu Gia Pass, Dong Hoi and Hanoi American pilots reported they:
--Destroyed four anti-aircraft sites, four bridges, 16 warehouses; 38 barges and 12 trucks.
--Damaged 23 bridges, an anti-aircraft site, 71 barges, 19 warehouses, 18 trucks and a junk.
--Cut roads in 21 places, cratered two main highways and blew up 200 feet of railroad tracks.
--Set off eight secondary explosions and 15 fires.
Just south of the demilitarized zone border strip, a U.S. Marine force finally drove off an estimated North Vietnamese company after a 12-hour battle near the southern boundary of the zone.
The terrain was so rugged and enemy fire so thick that helicopter crews had to drop lines to the jungle floor and hoist the Marine wounded up to their hovering aircraft.
Farther south, in the central highlands, thousands of U.S. 1st Air Cavalrymen and 25th Infantry Division troops hunted Communist troops after a big ambush in which a North Vietnamese battalion pounced on an Air Cavalry battalion southwest of Pleiku.

The North Vietnamese finally broke off contact when four additional companies of troops were poured into the area by helicopter.
A sweep of the battle area Tuesday uncovered about 80 North Vietnamese bodies. Another 20 were estimated killed from blood trails which led away from the battleground.
But the American company's casualties reached 60 per cent in two hours of bloody fighting that saw their defense perimeter shrink to 10 yards before the reinforcements arrived.

Flint Rumors Flying Visit By President

FLINT (AP)—The Flint Journal reported Tuesday President Johnson plans a Labor Day flying tour of Michigan, including stops in Detroit and Flint.
The newspaper said it had learned from a reliable source U.S. Rep. John C. Mackie, a Flint Democrat, has had a hand in arranging the tour.
Mackie declined to confirm or deny the report, saying any comment would have to come from the White House.
There was no immediate comment from Washington.
The annual United Auto Workers Union family picnic, which regularly attracts political figures, is to be held Labor Day near Davison in Genesee County.
Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Democratic senatorial candidate, and Zolton Ferency, Democratic candidate for governor, are expected to attend the picnic.
