

Would Rather Lose Tongue Than Tattle

WASHINGTON (UPI)--A young Stanford University student told the House Committee on Un-American Activities Thursday he would rather have his tongue torn out than testify about associates in an organization collecting blood and money for the Viet Cong.

Stuart McRae, 22, a native of Albuquerque, N.M., said he "proudly" helped organize the Stanford Medical Aid Committee. He said about $300 was raised and 40 quarts of blood pledged for the "victims of American aggression."

The slim blonde youth testified after two of the congressional committee's key witnesses failed to respond to their names--as they said they would when their lawyers walked out in protest Wednesday--and two others were excused because they had not hired new legal help.

McRae was quietly defiant throughout his brief testimony. He gave a Nazi-type salute when asked to raise his hand to take the oath, and read a statement castigating the committee for its current inquiry into groups organized to send aid to North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong and impede U.S. troop and military supply movements.

The committee is considering legislation to make such activities a federal crime punishable by up to 20 years in prison and up to $20,000 fine.

Meanwhile, Arthur Kinoy, an attorney for one of the "unfriendly" witnesses, went on trial in general sessions court for disorderly conduct.

The witnesses who failed to show up were Dr. Allen Krebs and Walter Dorwin Teague III, both of New York City. They said Wednesday they would not respond to their subpoenas because of the Kinoy incident. Two other New Yorkers had testified earlier in the week.

Steven Nadel of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Anatol Ben Anton, Berkeley, Calif., were dismissed as uncooperative but their subpoenas were extended to Nov. 15.

The committee finally turned to other questions which McRae readily answered. He said he knew the May 2nd movement, which has been characterized by the committee as a front for the Communist Progressive Labor Party, was involved in the medical aid group at Stanford, but that the knowledge would not "make me run and hide."

Anton addressed committee counsel Alfred M. Nittle as "Mr. Lackey" and laughingly called the members by their first names--"Joe" Pool and "Richie" Ichord.

Orbiter Scientists Puzzled By Featureless Moon Shots

Evening Of Skating

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)--America's Lunar Orbiter spacecraft slashed its first pictures of the moon through space Thursday to an anxious nationwide television audience, but their quality was so bad it left scientists puzzled.

"We're rather puzzled that the pictures are so dull and featureless," said one spokesman. "We don't know yet whether we're looking at a dull, featureless part of the moon or whether something is wrong with the camera system."

Scientists reported that the quality of the photographs made it impossible for them to even tell from which direction the sun was shining on the moon.

However, engineers said the quality was good enough that objects 14 feet or more in diameter could be identified in the pictures.

The engineers believed the lackluster appearance of the pictures might have been caused by the flat terrain--the mare or sea area--of the moon.

One of the first pictures showed a lunar area 1,300 feet by 4,250 feet.

The first picture of the bright side of the moon only was received at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here at 2:51 p.m. (EST) and simultaneously was shown on television.

For the first few seconds, the television screen appeared blank. Lights in JPL's Von Karman auditorium were turned down so scientists could see the image better.

The initial discernible image appeared at 1:53. It seemed to be of craters. Another image showed what seemed to be the edge of Lunar Orbiter's film. Still another shot showed focusing guides, a series of diagonal lines on the screen.

Only 1/20th of the total picture received was relayed to television, limiting the quality of the image seen by home viewers.

Lunar Orbiter oiled both the bright and dark sides of the moon with its television camera, snapping 32 pictures as it circled the lunar body early Thursday.

America's first pictures of the dark side of the moon were not expected to be viewed until later.

The 850-pound flying photographic laboratory snapped about four degrees on the backside of the moon. It was the first time an American picture of the back side was taken, the Russians having accomplished the feat earlier although the quality of their pictures left much to be desired.

The area photographed shortly after dawn during a five-minute session was an area on the moon's east rim called "Site zero."

The photographs were taken from a distance of about 129 miles above the moon's surface.

RECREATION FACILITIES IMPROVED

Negro Youths Get Response

The scrape of roller skates, the murmur of voices and the words over the rink's loud speaker system "Surely we can control ourselves and remain quiet a few moments. I'll explain the rules a little. . . Please stop scuffling around a minute so you can hear. . . We've never had to use a microphone before."

Lounging on the rink floor, a Negro girl remarked, "They've never had Negroes here before either."

The 10 or 12 Negro girls and one white girl within hearing distance responded to her statement and her laughter with brief glances and silence.

Regular Wednesday evening skating parties at the Edru Rink in Holt and Saturday night record dances at West Junior High School, sponsored by Lansing Dept. of Parks and Recreation, are part of the expanded recreation program for West Lansing youths.

The expansion is in response to Negro suggestions following last week's two nights of bottle and rock throwing. Negro leaders have been conferring with city and religious leaders about Negro youth grievances.

Father Faiver of Cristo Rey Parish, who has been working with a number of the West Lansing youth since last week, said, "The skating parties, dances and such are a real start. These youngsters have real grievances and needs; conditions are overcrowded. I think there's going to be a real follow-through, involving the people of the neighborhood, not just officials."

"It's half a step anyway," said Yvonne Adams, one of the Negro teens who have been working with Father Faiver.

"It's not complete because not everyone goes along with it. Many Negroes won't participate at first because it's something new to them.

"The one criticism is that we wanted to see whites and Negroes together. Maybe the white youths are afraid to come to dances and things. I don't know why, but I know they don't."

Yvonne wasn't the only one to stress that the expansion of recreation facilities mainly involves for music and dance classes, movies on Sunday afternoons in West Junior High, afternoon basketball and other educational affairs may possibly be programmed over a period of time, according to Hayden.

West Junior High has been chosen for weekly Saturday night dances.

After school opens, West Junior's swimming facilities may be utilized for the program.

Arrangements are being considered for both boys and girls to use West Junior High's basketball equipment during the afternoons.

For 20 years Lincoln Center

Negro youth, not just youth as a group.

"Yes, the skating, dances, basketball and swimming plans offered are what we need," said Gary Dabny, one of the Negro youth leaders, "but we would still like to see the whites and Negroes mix more."

No wall of prejudice, tension or hatred seemed to exist between the more than 250 Negro youths and the comparatively small number of whites skating at Edru Wednesday.

But, there was an air of passive coexistence, total unconcern. Individual, personal contact between races hardly existed.

The Parks and Recreation Dept., directed by Charles Hayden, has been working with city officials and a number of the West Lansing teens to set up athletic events.

The teens mentioned hopes at a meeting Wednesday in city hall for a Saturday afternoon dance party, locally televised and open to all.

COMMITTEE GIVEN NAMES

'M' Aids HUAC, Irks Students

By DON SOCKOL

State News Staff Writer

ANN ARBOR--About 40 persons staged a sit-in Thursday inside the office of the University of Michigan's Vice President for Academic Affairs.

The 40 demanded a reply from University officials as to why 65 names were released to the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC), now probing activities of the nation's anti-war groups.

The demonstrators, most of them U-M students, began the sit-in about 10 a.m. with a list of seven questions to be asked officials concerning the disclosure.

The University said Tuesday that it had been issued a subpoena demanding membership lists of eight organizations.

MSU's dean of students office reported Thursday that it had received no subpoena from HUAC.

After about five hours the demonstrators were invited into the office by Richard L. Cutler, vice president for student affairs, to discuss the situation.

In the meeting, which lasted until nearly 7 p.m., Cutler told the group the University made a mistake.

"We did what we did under lack of time and it was a mistake in position," he said. "Considering the situation, we made the proper response to the subpoena, but we should have notified the persons whose names were given first."

Cutler explained that the subpoena was received on Tuesday, Aug. 9.

"We talked about it for two days and consulted with our lawyers," he said.

"The lawyers said we should obey the subpoena. If we had not responded to the subpoena, we would have lost a lot of our public and legislative support," Cutler said.

By the time the subpoena was sent off on Thursday, the office was closing, Cutler said. U-M wrote letters all day Friday notifying the persons whose names were given.

"We didn't make the news public until the persons had received their letters," Cutler added.

Records of student organizations at the U-M include the name of the organization, a membership list of at least 20 names, officers' names, and the faculty advisers' names.

Records at Michigan State, however, exclude the membership list, but include the other information.

Cutler promised the group at their four hour meeting that he would propose dropping the membership lists from the student files.

"From now on we (U-M) will notify students before we release information on them," he said.

The HUAC subpoena was sent to the director of student organizations--Duncun Selis--but was given instead to Cutler.

Of the eight organizations requested in the subpoena, only three are located on the U-M campus.

The three are VOICE Political Party, the W.E. DuBois Club, and the Committee to Aid the Vietnamese and/or People.

Peter Steinberger, president of the U-M VOICE chapter, said no action was planned against the University until students return for fall term. (Michigan is now between tri-mesters).

"The University didn't give a damn about what could happen to the 65 persons whose names it gave," Steinberger said.

"They chose a course of action that would meet with the least resistance from the legislature and the general public," he said.

Steinberger said a decision had not been made as to whether to continue the sit-in all night.

Formal Proposals Needed For Law, Med School Action

Swift action on MSU's law school and full medical school requests depends largely on the University's speed in submitting formal proposals on each to the State Board of Education.

The Board of Trustees submitted last March a letter to the Education Board asking that a study be made for consideration of a MSU law school.

Porter associate superintendent of the Education Board said Thursday that is the only communication received from University officials concerning the subject.

Two members of the board staff are collecting data on statewide need for a law school, Porter said and await MSU's formal proposal so study can begin on a proposed site on the East Lansing campus.

The two men will consider student demand for an MSU law school, capacity of the University to handle such an undertaking, geographic distribution of college students in the state desiring a law school education and 16 other indices before making a decision on the law school site, Porter said.

Afterwards an independent committee of scholars would review both the University's formal proposal and plans and the Education Board's study of statewide law school need before rendering a final decision.

Nevertheless, formal approval cannot be given until the University submits its formal proposal.

However, Porter indicated that study on MSU's full medical school request is moving along rapidly and expects action on it early this fall. The medical school request was submitted to the Board of Education June 17.

Senate Approves Big Defense Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Senate approved Thursday a gigantic $58.2 billion defense money bill with a warning that $10 billion more might be needed in January if the Viet Nam war build up continues.

Tacked onto the bill was an unrequested amendment giving President Johnson authority to summon up for active duty individual reservists who have served no active duty other than their required training.

The measure--second highest appropriations bill in congressional history--was passed 86 to 0 after the Senate rejected last ditch amendments to whittle it down.

The legislation containing funds for the fiscal year ending next June 30 now goes to a House-Senate conference.

About $10 billion dollars of the funds were included for items identified with the Viet Nam fighting. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., floor manager for the bill, said before passage that more Viet Nam funds--$10 billion and perhaps more--will have to be requested early next year if the war continues to grow.

The Senate bill included a number of controversial items not requested by the administration. Among these were funds for a start toward deployment of the Nike X anti-missile missile system, a new nuclear-powered missile-armed frigate, and advanced purchases for a second such nuclear escort vessel.

Senate approval came after four amendments--one of them a proposed $522.5 million cut in procurement and research funds--were rejected.

As it emerged from the Senate the bill was $525.5 million more than recommended by President Johnson and the Defense Dept. It was about $426.5 million less than voted by the House.

Young Will Help Alter Draft Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI)--President Johnson said Thursday that young Americans would be asked to recommend changes in the "crazy-quilt" draft law.

In a speech to 14,000 students serving as summer interns in the federal government, Johnson said he had instructed his commission on selective service "to consider the recommendations of those most concerned with these questions: students and younger citizens."

Johnson said that the 1948 draft law "in many ways . . . has become a crazy-quilt, applying to some but not to others. We have inherited that system--but we are not wedded to it."

For that reason, the President said, "... I have called for some fresh, hard questions about the draft."

"--Does the present system have flaws or inequities which should be corrected?"

"--Can we make the draft fairer and more effective?"

"--Can we--without harming national security--establish a practical system of non-military alternatives to the draft?"

Johnson's audience consisted of students studying government at first hand in summer jobs on Capitol Hill and throughout the executive branch. They will return to their campuses in about three weeks.

The President emphasized the need for qualified persons to serve in government posts and said next year he planned "to recommend to Congress a program to assist those who are training for public service."

Machinists' Contract Vote To Be Close

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The Machinists Union votes Friday on whether to ratify a proposed new contract and end its strike against five major airlines. Union sources said Thursday it was tough and go whether the new agreement would be approved.

The sources were cautiously optimistic that the new contract would be accepted by the union rank and file, but they conceded that the vote would be close. They noted that the largest locals still are uncommitted.

Results of the ratification vote by the 35,400 striking members of the International Assn. of Machinists (IAM) will be announced at 7 tonight at the union headquarters in Washington.

Shhh . . . Here Comes The Law School

SOFTLY, QUIETLY, MSU has moved step by deliberate step towards acquiring a law school.

For five years the board of trustees has maneuvered cautiously keeping a law school request out of the political arena, above inter-school rivalries, and out of the public eye.

Last spring MSU finally took the important step of submitting a request for a law school to the State Board of Trustees. Hopefully in September the board will act on the proposal.

THE IDEA OF another law school is no bolt from the blue. Numerous studies have shown a need for another state law school.

And MSU is the natural location for the school: a short distance away is the state capital.

Here, law students would be close to the center of things--the State Supreme Court, the Capitol, and the legislature, plus numerous state legal offices. What other location in the state can boast these assets?

The study of law requires no elaborate physical facilities. But it does require a large legal library. It takes years to build up such a library. But if the school was built in the Lansing area, law students would have access to the 80,000-volume Law Library in the Capitol.

LAST YEAR MSU began to get support for a law school from the legislature. In fact, the senate recommended that $350,000 be set aside from the MSU 1966-67 budget for a law school. But this recommendation was dropped by a joint house-senate committee in June.

If the Board of Education approves the proposal, MSU will still have to convince many members of both houses of the legislature that MSU should have a law school.

So MSU, tiptoe on . . . move quietly, meticulously with deliberate and positive steps. . .

Claims Speck Article Was Grossly Misinterpreted

To the Editor:

There has been a gross misinterpretation by Mr. Ditzhazy and Mr. Stoddard of the article of Aug. 5, 1966 entitled "No Justification for Speck's Crime."

The main implications of that article were:

1. The question of the professional integrity of a lawyer who will openly state to the press that he will get his man (accused mass murderer) "off free."

2. The question of the integrity of the courts who will allow a mentally deranged mass murderer (if convicted) to eventually be reinstated in society.

3. The question of temporary or permanent insanity as an acceptable excuse for any type of heinous crime.

However, Messrs. Ditzhazy and Stoddard felt that I said "The implications are clear--Speck is guilty and therefore forfeits his right as a citizen and Mr. Getty, Speck's lawyer has no right to defend his client." These were not the implications.

It is my personal opinion that Speck is guilty, however, he does not forfeit "his right as a citizen" because of my theory. Furthermore, I did not say Mr. Getty "has no right to defend his client." I was questioning the ethics of making public such definite statements concerning his plans or intentions.

He is undoubtedly planning on attempting to get his client off, but at this point should be so self-confident and conclusive with the public?

I do not "hold the concept" that a man is guilty until proven innocent, however, in this case even the circumstantial evidence is rather conclusive. Since when do higher courts disallow numerous fingerprints as strong evidence?

The remaining witness is undeniably distraught, but during the actual crime she had the sense of mind to escape.

On Aug. 3, 1966, Gov. Connolly of Texas stated on a coast to coast news report that he felt the lightest consideration for any type of convicted mass murderer (insane or rational) should be life internment.

Nine years ago a woman in Michigan killed three of her children. She was convicted, but given a light sentence on grounds of insanity. After a period of time she was released, again entered normal life and had three more children. About three months ago she killed these children.

Each individual must ask himself how this second set of senseless murders could have been prevented. Would you want Richard Speck living in your neighborhood after being "rehabilitated?"

It must again be noted that the implications as cited by Messrs. Ditzhazy and Stoddard are incorrect, and the implications as I have correctly stated do not work to "subvert our legal system."

City Parks, Recreation Plan Costing $1 Million Studied

By BEV HALL
State News Staff Writer

East Lansing may soon be able to boast a $1,000,000 parks and recreation program, if a plan discussed by the City Planning Commission Wednesday night is taken to the city's voters and approved.

G. Michael Conlisk, planning director, reported on a school-park study, which offered several recommendations to the people of East Lansing, pertaining to areas for consideration as recreational lands.

The estimated budget for the recreational areas and facilities is $750,000, with an additional $250,000 to be used for installation of an outdoor swimming pool on a half-acre plot south of the City Park on Alton Road.

The study, recently published by the planning commission, recommended developing a complex in the northeastern part of the city, which would include an elementary school, a junior high school, and a neighborhood park facility.

All of the present elementary schools would be developed into school-park complexes, each having a neighborhood park facility, and additional neighborhood parks would be developed throughout the community.

A recommendation was made that a park should be developed on both sides of the Red Cedar River where land has not yet been purchased, but a problem lies there in connecting the sites on each side of the river.

"Right now, it seems that a system of footbridges would be the most advisable to connect these areas," Conlisk said.

Finally, to complete what the Commission considers a minimum plan for parks and recreation, the study suggested the open land bounded by Lake Lansing Road and undeveloped acreage should be considered for an 18-hole golf course facility.

"The acquisition of these lands," the report said, "while a long and sometimes difficult task, should begin immediately. Failure to do so, particularly in those areas which are presently undeveloped, could result in their loss to the community forever."

The City Council is presently planning to place the issue of the city swimming pool before the voters on the November ballot. If passed, the city would institute a bonding program to meet the financial requirements of the proposal.

The Planning Commission report suggested that while the issue of community-wide recreation facilities is before the voters, it would seem desirable to include the purchase of undeveloped open space for recreational purposes, while it is still available at raw land prices.

Conlisk reported to the commission on a housing survey which was taken to determine the wants and needs of University personnel.

"We are extremely surprised--and pleased--at the excellent return we have had with this survey," Conlisk said.

"At least 65 per cent of the questionnaires were returned, and many took time to add comments, compliments or complaints. The results of the survey are still being compiled, but will be available to the commission soon, for use in future planning," he said.

2 Large, Powerful Groups Demand Sukarno's Ouster

JAKARTA (UPI)--Indonesia's largest political party and a powerful student association said Thursday they no longer had confidence in Sukarno and demanded his ouster as president.

The demands by the Moslems scholars party (NU) and the Kemi student action group struck another staggering blow at the tottering revolutionary hero who already has relinquished most of his power to military strongman Gen. Suharto.

The statements were in reply to Sukarno's Aug. 17 Independence Day speech in which he stubbornly refused to back down from his policies which led Indonesia into political and economic chaos and close alignment with Communist China.

"We no longer trust and recognize Sukarno as president," the NU said in a formal statement. "We demand congress revoke all of his functions."

"We cannot accept Sukarno's Aug. 17 speech... (because) it did not reflect the voice of the people. . . the statement contains seeds for the breakup of unity of the Indonesian people and nation."

Sukarno's two-hour speech renewed his pleas for establishment of a conference of newly emerging nations to staunchly oppose the United Nations and for a continuation of his "guided democracy" Socialist programs.

It was this policy which allowed the Indonesian Communist party (PKI) to grow into the third largest Communist organization in the world and gain enough political confidence to attempt an open coup last October.

The NU statement also accused Sukarno of covering up for the plotters.

"President Sukarno still refuses to give account of or take responsibility for the October Communist coup which almost destroyed our national republic," the statement said.

Kami also said it had "no confidence" in Sukarno's ability to lead the nation as president and declared his speech "constituted sabotage against the designs and provisions of the people's provisional consultative Congress and the program of the people's cabinet headed by Gen. Suharto."

The statement said Kami was prepared to "hear all consequences."

Do Politics Block School Equality?

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The administration was accused Thursday of ignoring results of a federal investigation of inequality in city school systems because of "political implications."

Secretary John W. Gardner of the Health, Education and Welfare Dept. (HEW) denied the charge by Chairman Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., of the Senate subcommittee on executive reorganization.

But Gardner conceded in testimony before the panel that half of an estimated $5 to $6 billion in welfare payments each year ended up in the hands of "slumlords."

"We're trying to do something about it," he said.

The subcommittee is investigating the impact of $13 billion in federal urban aid this year and the underlying causes of violence in big city ghettos.

Attacking the quality of education in slums, Ribicoff called the controversial federal study a "grave indictment of our educational system."

Ordered by the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the study was made for HEW by sociologist James Coleman of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

After a survey of 600,000 school children and 60,000 teachers, the report concluded that pupils from poor families left school "with greater deficiencies" than when they entered.

Pinned as the reason was life in a family that was trapped in a ghetto. The report urged an overhaul of school systems to permit children of different backgrounds to mix in the classroom, exposing the poor to the motivations of the middle class.

Speck's Attorney Asks
Panel Of Psychiatrists

CHICAGO (UPI)--A defense attorney Thursday asked that an impartial panel of psychiatrists representing both sides be named to examine accused mass slayer Richard Speck "to avoid a spectacle of psychiatrists battling psychiatrists."

The request from Public Defender Gerald Getty was among six motions he filed before Circuit Court Judge Herbert C. Paschen. It was Speck's first appearance since his arrest July 17 on charges of slaying eight nurses July 14.

Speck, who was hospitalized last month for a heart inflammation, sat glumly on a chair in front of the judge throughout the 12-minute hearing. The tall, 24-year-old seaman looked wan and too thin for his neat blue suit.

First Asst. State's Atty. John Stamos, protesting that the prosecution was given only 1 1/2 hours to study Getty's motions, asked that rulings be delayed. Paschen continued the hearing until Sept. 1.

In asking appointment of a panel of psychiatrists, three to be named by the defense and three by the prosecution, Getty said:

"My only objective is to find the truth wherever it may be. I don't want psychiatrists to answer hypothetical questions where it would be pitting psychiatrists against each other."

"I want to get away from the spectacle of psychiatrists battling psychiatrists. We want to seek the objective truth here."

Getty entered a plea of innocent for Speck during the Dallas drifter's first court appearance

Aug. 1. But he is expected to attempt to establish that Speck was insane at the time of the killings in a south side apartment building being used as a nurses' dormitory.

Getty also asked:

--A complete list of state's witnesses;

--Description in detail of the role of each state witness;

--Photos of all fingerprints;

--Prints of all photos taken at the scene;

--Names of all experts employed by the prosecution and copies of their reports, "whether or not they will be used against you."

Getty moved for a panel of six psychiatrists, with three to be named by the state and three by the defense. "I would want them to determine the mental capacity of Richard Franklin Speck at the time and date of the alleged crime and at the time of examination."

GENEVA (UPI)--Neutral states at the disarmament conference Thursday demanded an immediate halt to all nuclear testing, both in the atmosphere and underground.

At the same time, the eight neutrals said in a memorandum the nuclear powers should get down to negotiating a ban on underground tests.

The eight neutrals at the 17-nation talks are Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic.

Nations conducting atmospheric tests (France and Red China) are creating health hazards while nations conducting underground tests (the United States and Russia) are creating dangers by developing ever more sophisticated weapons, the neutrals said.

The neutrals did not name these countries but referred only to nations still conducting nuclear tests.

The memorandum appeared to cold shoulder the proposal made by both the United States and Soviet Union for a treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons. It said instead that a ban on all nuclear tests would be the most effective way to stop nuclear proliferation.

To break the East-West deadlock over the American argument that a comprehensive test ban must be safeguarded by on-site inspections, the neutrals suggested "exploration" of its proposals.

These included banning underground tests above a certain size while suspending the others, an international exchange of scientific data on detecting and identifying underground tests from afar, verification by challenge with a suspected nuclear power providing evidence that an earth tremor was not an explosion, and asking a group of scientists from neutral countries to say whether or not on-site inspections are really necessary.

Attorney Faces Trial
For Hearing Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI)--House members debated Thursday about the handling of a lawyer who was forcefully removed from a session of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Reps. William F. Ryan and James Scheuer, New York Democrats, deplored the treatment of attorney Arthur Kinoy when he was carried out of the Wednesday session.

Ryan said Kinoy was "almost strangled," Scheuer said Kinoy's "eyes were bulging and face turning purple." Both based their comments on news pictures.

Rep. Elford Cederberg, R-Mich., the only one of the debaters who was present in the room during the incident, retorted that Kinoy was "tenderly carried out" and that he had brought the ejection on himself by refusing Chairman Joe Pool's orders to stop arguing and take his seat.

Other members attacked Kinoy. Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, said the lawyer's name "will be found on any Communist organized thing." Rep. Thomas Abernethy, D-Miss., said Kinoy was a leader of the attempt to unseat himself and other Mississippi Democrats.

Ryan and Reps. Don Edwards, D-Calif., and Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y., used the occasion to demand either abolition of the committee or a full inquiry into its methods.

Scheuer said Speaker John W. McCormack should set up a panel of senior members to inquire into the Kinoy incident and see what could be done to avoid future episodes that could embarrass the Congress.

motorcycle collided into a parked car on the block of Cedar Street early Thursday morning, East Lansing Police said.

A witness said William C. Floate, of 252 River St., Apt. 304, was going south on Cedar around 2:30 a.m. when his motorcycle struck the unoccupied car's fender, police said. The vehicle is owned by Frederic E. Baxter, 422 1/2 Lapeer, Lansing.

Floate, who was taken to Olin Health Center with numerous cuts and abrasions, was listed in good condition late Thursday afternoon.

Competition Extra Hot As AAU Swim Opens

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—Extra-ordinarily keen competition highlighted the opening round of the four-day National AAU Men's and Women's Swimming and Diving Championships Thursday.

Nearly 800 athletes were on hand for what AAU officials described as one of the greatest national competitions ever held in this country.

Included were 19 defending champions, 10 world record holders and six 1964 Olympians. Preliminaries were held in two diving and eight swimming events. Finals were scheduled for Thursday night.

Bernie Wrightson of the Dick Smith Swim Gym of Phoenix, Ariz., took a slim lead over Ken Sitzberger of the Indianapolis, Ind., Aquatic Club in the men's one-meter diving.

Wrightson, the defending champion, scored 214.90, compared to 214.80 for Sitzberger. Chuck Knorr of the Coca Cola Swim Club of Cincinnati, Ohio, was third at 196.90 and Kieth Russell of the Dick Smith Club was in fourth at 195.75.

Grid Practice Fatal For Boy

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A 16-year-old boy who collapsed on his second day of football practice died Wednesday.

The youth was Robert Mogabgab and a junior at the Benjamin Franklin High School for gifted students.

The Orleans Parish (county) Coroner's Office said an autopsy did not pinpoint the cause of death.

A spokesman said the youth suffered from hemorrhage and congestion of the lungs, hemorrhage of the heart and colon, kidney bruises and swelling of the brain.

He was trying out for football for the first time.

Mogabgab became ill after a two-hour session of wind sprints, calisthenics and fundamental instruction.

His father said the youth was given a complete physical examination before trying out for the Ben Franklin team and was pronounced in good health.

BIG TEN PREVIEW

Star-Studded Spartans Squad Set To Shake Cynical Statisticians

By LARRY WERNER
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State's football team will win the Big Ten football championship in 1966.

Not so, argue the statisticians.

Over the past 15 years, Big Ten participants in the Rose Bowl have averaged fifth place in the conference the following year, they said.

The "experts" also say that a team naturally suffers a let-down without the incentive of a California trip at the season's end.

Humbly!
Big Ten football teams don't win championships with incentive. They win with players—big ones, fast ones, good—passing ones, good-catching ones.

Incentive is certainly an asset. But without good players, all the incentive in the world won't win a team the championship.

Coach-Sportsmaster Bud Wilkinson called the '65 Spartans the "greatest team in the history of intercollegiate football."

And this reference wasn't to the team's incentive.

Wilkinson was referring to players like Clint Jones, Gene Washington, Bob Apisa, George Webster and many more Spartan standouts.

Many will argue that incentive indeed does play an important part in football. This may be true, but is it only "Rose Bowl incentive" that is necessary?

When Bubba Smith takes a shoulder block in his mid-section, he is going to have enough "incentive" to hit a little harder the next time without worrying about the Rose Bowl. In essence, each individual game of football furnishes its own incentive. As Spartan tackle Jerry West puts it, "You don't think about the Rose Bowl when you are out there playing."

If you insist upon bowl-game incentive, linebacker Charlie Thornhill has the answer. He feels that the players will work hard to be invited to other post-season games, as individuals.

Now why, you ask, have teams faltered after playing in the Rose Bowl.

The answer is simple: players.

When a team wins a championship, or boasts an outstanding team, there is usually an abundance of seasoned players.

But this is where the Spartans differ from the norm.

Only Harold Lucas from last fall's team was regarded highly in the pro draft. There were some fine seniors, of course, but Coach Duffy Daugherty has a wealth of his top stars back.

Offensively, there is no team stronger in the Big Ten. Washington returns at split end, and there is little left to say about the greatest receiver in MSU history, Al Brenner, a sure-handed sophomore may start at tight end.

Both tackles, Joe Pryzbicki and Jerry West, return, but the guard situation is a bit shaky, with the departure of John Karpinski and Norm Jenkins. Jenkins made his exit via academic ineligibility.

However, Dave Techlin has replaced Karpinski. Techlin was an All Big Ten honorable mention tackle when he alternated with Pryzbicki. Tony Conti, a hard-nosed former linebacker, should be able to replace Jenkins. If not, Mitch Pruett, a converted fullback, is available.

Ron Ranieri looked tough at center last spring.

With Jones, Apisa and Dwight Lee returning to the backfield and Jimmy Raye, who proved in spring drills that he can throw, this aspect of the Spartan lineup appears rosy.

When speaking of weak points, the defense is usually mentioned. However, it is not that weak.

Only one player, Don Japina, is lost from the secondary. Webster, who returns at roverback, and Smith, at defensive end, are both All-Americans.

Charlie Thornhill is nearly everything a coach could ask for in a linebacker, and Bob Brawley also shows much promise. Daugherty has assembled, from a group of '65 backup men and '66 freshmen, better-than-adequate fillers at the other posts.

Jeff Richardson, 250 pounds and quick, and first-year man Charlie Bailey are prime examples of the Spartans' depth.

that MSU lost the Rose Bowl and with it the national championship in certain polls.

In other words, the Spartans failed to prove, conclusively, that they are "No. 1."

Hopes for attainment of this goal should furnish the Spartans with enough incentive.

Broncos Have Cookie For Sale

DENVER (UPI)—For Sale: Cookie Gilchrist. Used Fullback. Top-flight condition. Originally $42,000. Will sacrifice, trade for linemen.

The Denver Broncos have not placed an advertisement like that, but they may have to in order to get some team to take him.

The Broncos' 250-pounder, who was second in American Football League rushing last season, is on the trading block and supposedly Oakland and Kansas City have expressed an interest. Bronco Executive Vice President Jim Burris also says: "More than one other team has shown an interest in him, but I can't tell you what other team at this time."

Last year, Cookie rushed for 954 yards in 252 carries to establish a Denver record for yardage and frequency of work. However, this year he breezed into camp 10 days late and then announced: "If I am not permitted to play superior football, then I prefer not to play at all."

He said Denver rejected "capable and exciting young players . . . without (giving them) the opportunity to demonstrate their skills or abilities."

The Broncos retaliated by placing Gilchrist on the reserve list, which is similar to suspension. Later, they filed a $20,000 suit against him.

Both Coach Mac Speedie and Burris said they would not take Gilchrist back and practically called for bids on the big fellow.

Other AFL teams apparently are: 1) reluctant to cope with Gilchrist's personality; 2) hesitate to pay his whopping $40,000-plus salary; 3) set for the 1966 season, or 4) simply not interested.

Both Oakland and Kansas City could use Gilchrist, if only for one season. Both are stronger and more affluent than Denver and can undoubtedly afford the Broncos' swapping terms. The Raiders could pair Cookie with Clem Daniels and the Chiefs could use a backup man for Curtis McClinton.

First Little UN Assemblies, Acts

By ANTOINETTE POLLO
State News Staff Writer

Two resolutions were passed and one defeated at Case Hall's first Little United Nations Assembly (LUNA) Wednesday night. Thirty-seven nations were represented by the residents of Case and by some of the foreign students here for an orientation program. Flags of 43 nations were displayed.

Resolutions on racial problems and international cooperation were passed, while a third resolution on the cold war was defeated.

Tentative plans are being made for a second LUNA project winter term.

The first resolution brought before the LUNA was the "Resolution on Racial Problems."

The delegate from Tanzania presented the resolution by saying, "It is an incontrovertible fact that the racial problem is one of the major sources of conflict in our contemporary world."

"Since we are all agreed that the United Nations has been set up to prevent conflict in the world, we are of the view that this August assembly should do all in its power to fight against this pernicious threat to world peace."

He said that it was not enough that the UN does all in its power to ensure abolition of all forms of discrimination based on race, but by "logical clear thinking" it should define the organization's role in abolishing racial discrimination and assign specific tasks to it.

He said we must fight against this malicious threat to world peace.

The delegate from Nigeria then proposed an amendment to the resolution to make it "water-tight." He said immediate steps should be taken to see to it that the threat to international peace and security in the United States, South Africa and the United Kingdom, is arrested without delay.

The delegate from Ghana seconded the amendment by saying it is a call for immediate, pragmatic and effective action.

The delegate from Italy claimed it was emotional and would create more problems.

Roll call was taken for acceptance of the amendment and it was passed with 22 favoring it, 11 opposing and two abstaining.

The delegate from South Africa gave a speech in opposition to the resolution in general. He said the partitioning of races is most beneficial to the parties involved. He proposed that all races be allowed to develop as autonomies whenever possible.

A vote was then taken for acceptance of the "Resolution on Racial Problems," with the amendment included at the end. It was passed with 22 in favor of it, six opposed and seven abstaining.

The delegate from the U.S.S.R. then proceeded to object to the presence of the U.S. flag, but was interrupted by the president as being out of order and was told he would be removed if he persisted.

The second resolution of the evening, "Cold War," was proposed by the delegate from South Viet Nam. He said, "Cold War could be basically defined as propaganda which leads to undue rivalry, political tension or emotional responses of the people of a country generated from outside."

"We, therefore, resolve that for elimination of the cold war, no interference in sovereignty of any nation no matter the size or population, nor alignment signing of defense pacts, development of military bases, etc. should be sponsored by outside powers."

An opposition speech was then given by the delegate from the United States. When queried by the delegate from Albania if the United States would pull out of Viet Nam if the resolution was passed, the delegate from the United States responded, "No."

Another opposition speech was given by the delegate from the U.S.S.R. He said if the pact was passed it would eliminate the United Nations.

He also said the limiting and abolishing of defense pacts would cause little countries to go under the foot of aggressors. He cited the possibility of an act of aggression by imperialistic West Germany upon East Germany.

He was then asked by the delegate from Tanzania why they didn't then provide more assistance to North Viet Nam. He replied that the U.S.S.R. does not "force" aid on them, but would provide troops and equipment immediately on request.

A vote on acceptance of the resolution on "Cold War" was then taken.

Before the final tally, the delegate from France said he made an error and wanted to change his "yes" vote to a "no" vote.

The resolution was thus defeated by a vote of 18 opposing, 16 favoring and three abstaining.

The last resolution of the evening was on "International Cooperation." The president read the resolution which proposed an increase in international cooperation on four basic levels:

cultural exchange, scientific exchange, broadening of educational opportunities, and economic cooperation.

Supporting speeches were given by the delegates from Nepal, India, the Camerons, Pakistan, Mexico, Israel and Canada.

However, when the delegate from Israel obtained the floor, the delegates from the U.A.R. walked out in protest. They did return when the delegate from Israel was seated again.

The delegate from Albania moved to strike the speech of the delegate from Israel from the record because it was irrelevant to the resolution. The U.S.S.R. seconded it and the motion was carried.

The resolution was passed with 27 favoring it, five opposed to it and five abstaining.

The delegate from France then made a motion to thank all those associated with the project LUNA. It was seconded and passed.

Protesters Even Here

It has come to be expected that every political meeting will have its demonstrators, and LUNA was no exception. These young men, who preferred to remain anonymous, sat throughout the meeting holding "Ban The Bomb" signs. Photo by Russ Steffey

Cry 'Black Power,' Fight Policemen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Negro anti-war pickets, shouting the "black power" slogan of a militant civil rights faction, tried to storm an Army induction center Thursday and fought policemen in a brief, furious struggle.

One policeman was knocked to the pavement. A police captain was struck in the face and several officers exhibited torn clothing after the fracas in front of 12th Army Corps headquarters.

"We are tired of the spilling of black men's blood in white men's wars," proclaimed leaflets handed out earlier by the group of about 20 pickets. Involved were members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, a small militant group that has vocalized the "black power" cry in the civil rights struggle. SNCC opposes U.S. involvement in Viet Nam as aggression.

Twelve demonstrators were arrested. Among them was a SNCC field worker charged with assault.

In a similar incident Wednesday, about 20 pickets pushed inside the induction center but were ejected by military personnel.

Several soldiers braced against the inside of the building's glass double doors to prevent the pickets from pushing through.

Nigeria's delegate made a second speech at the LUNA in Case Hall, concerning the resolution on racial problems. The resolution considered two important points in racial discrimination—that it weakens universal rights and that a resolution wording must be in keeping with the idea of equal fundamental human rights. ## Unique Safety Study Starts

Michigan State will cooperate with engineers from government, industry and two other universities in a unique program designed ultimately to allow highway traffic flow to be safer and less congested.

The research effort, directed by the new American Academy of Transportation in Ann Arbor, involves a controlled section of Detroit's John C. Lodge Freeway where experts will analyze and measure interacting relationships of automobiles, drivers and the highway.

Also cooperating in the program are personnel from the University of Michigan, Wayne State University, the Dept. of State Highways and Ford Motor Co.

MSU's systems engineering group, directed by Herman Koenig, professor of electrical engineering, will design a mathematical model of the Lodge Freeway section now controlled by the Freeway Surveillance Project.

Based on measurements made by the Michigan Dept. of State Highways, the MSU-designed model will include such highway characteristics as signing, lighting, marking and geometrics.

Terrorism Shakes Saigon In Pre-Election Campaign

SAIGON (UPI)—Window-rattling explosions rocked Saigon Thursday night as South Vietnamese and U.S. forces struck back at Viet Cong units attempting to bring a pre-election campaign of terrorism into the capital.

At the same time, officials disclosed guerrilla units stormed two villages for Catholic refugees from the North and burned 120 homes as the frightened villagers stood helplessly by.

Government spokesmen said the number of Communist incidents during the past week soared to 426 with most directed against civilian hamlets. They saw the action as a major campaign to disrupt the Sept. 11 national elections to select a constitutional assembly.

In the air war, U.S. fighters returned to North Viet Nam Thursday following four consecutive days of maximum effort raids against the Communist nation. Hanoi radio reports said they struck again in the Hanoi area.

U.S. officials gave no details of the Thursday raids but said American pilots flew 109 strikes Wednesday, hitting an anti-aircraft missile site only five miles outside the major port of Haiphong.

They also hit two oil depots, ack-ack batteries and radar sites ringing Hanoi and tangled twice with Soviet-built MIG 17 jets. Both the U.S. and Communist planes emerged from the dog-fight undamaged.

Two more U.S. planes were downed by conventional anti-aircraft fire. An F105 Thunderchief went down Wednesday 85 miles west of Hanoi and its two-man crew was missing. A Navy F8 Crusader was damaged near Vinh Thursday but the pilot managed to nurse the crippled plane out to sea and was picked up safely after halting out.

Meantime, U.S. 1st Air Cavalrymen sweeping central Viet Nam in Operation Paul Revere Thursday found the bodies of 175 enemy soldiers abandoned by their comrades during heavy fighting Sunday and Monday.

The discovery brought the enemy toll to 757 since Paul Revere began Aug. 1.

In Saigon, U.S. officials disclosed intelligence reports which indicated that almost half of the Communist force fighting in the South were North Vietnamese regulars. The officials said there are approximately 282,000 troops—or 177 battalions—operating in the South and about 81 battalions are North Vietnamese.

At the same time, they said current U.S. strength in Viet Nam stands at 296,000.

The spokesman said 101 Americans were killed and 592 wounded in action last week, boosting the war toll of American dead to 4,711.

But the Communists suffered more, with 1,436 killed and 284 captured, South Vietnamese losses were 128 killed and 28 missing in action.

President To Speak, Meet Pearson On Weekend Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House announced Thursday that President Johnson will make at least eight speeches, in addition to meeting Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, during his weekend swing through the northeast.

In disclosing Johnson's itinerary, the White House said the President would leave Washington at noon today and return at 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

The trip will include an overnight cruise on the Navy's floating command off the Maine coast. The vessel would be available for the President's use in case of war or other national emergency.

The President's weekend trip is part of his plans to travel to various parts of the nation prior to the November elections to generate support for administration policies.

After leaving Washington, Johnson will speak this afternoon at Buffalo, Syracuse and Ellenville, N.Y., and inspect anti-pollution facilities on Lake Erie from the Coast Guard Cutter Ojibwa. He will spend the night at the Nevele Hotel outside Ellenville.

On Saturday, Johnson will fly to the Quonset Point, R.I., Naval Air station, then motor to Kingston for a mid-morning speech at the University of Rhode Island.

At noon Saturday, he will address a chapter of the Navy League at Manchester, N.H., then fly to Burlington, Vt., to inspect the Bridport rural water system and to speak in Battery Park in Burlington.

From Burlington, Johnson will fly to the New Brunswick, Maine, Naval Air station and motor to the city park in Lewiston, Maine, for a late afternoon speech.

He will then fly to Portland, Maine, to board the USS Northampton, the national seaborne command post, for an overnight cruise to Campobello Island, New Brunswick, where he will meet Pearson.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Pearson and his wife will attend church services at St. Annes Anglican Church on the island where President Franklin D. Roosevelt once had his summer home.

Cambodia Bars U.S. Newsmen

PHNOMH PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—Cambodia Thursday rejected U.S. apologies for air raids on its territory and in retaliation barred all American newsmen from covering French President Charles de Gaulle's visit next month.

Even non-Americans working for U.S. news media were forbidden entry to the country and the ban was extended to any representatives of American news organizations accredited to De Gaulle's presidential office in Paris. Visas already issued were cancelled.

De Gaulle will visit Cambodia, a technically neutral nation adjacent to Viet Nam, Sept. 1 and 2 during a tour of Africa and the Pacific.

Officials of Prince Norodon Sihanouk's government made it clear the ban on newsmen was the result of recent U.S. Air Force bombings of Cambodian territory along the Vietnamese border.

The U.S. Dept. of State apologized for the bombings as accidental. American officials at first said the raids were on Vietnamese territory according to maps of the border region.

Last week, Sihanouk cancelled the proposed visit of trouble-shooting Ambassador W. Averell Harriman to ease strained Cambodia-U.S. relations.

Cambodia said apologies for the raid were insufficient.

The State Department's explanation "showed complete disdain for Cambodia's territorial integrity," the government said. Referring to Harriman's cancelled visit, it said:

"Taking into account the extremely serious situation created by the United States and its south Asian satellites the royal Cambodian government considers the projected visit of Mr. Harriman as inopportune and useless and that this will be the case until the moment when the American government will recognize the Cambodian frontiers and its sovereignty over the coastal islands."

The newspaper Le Nationaliste, which reflects government thinking, said Cambodian frontier troops had been ordered to repel any incursions, however small.

They were instructed to "firmly oppose with force any foreign troops trying to infiltrate our territory."

De Gaulle, stopping over in Cambodia en route to French Polynesia to witness a French nuclear test explosion, was expected to make a major address in Cambodia.

Sniper Wounds Policeman In Florida Racial Violence

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A sniper shot a policeman in the arm, two other officers were fired upon, and rocks and bottles were hurled at cars and store windows during a night of racial violence here and in nearby Pompano Beach.

Sgt. Harry Mawhinney, investigating a report of a burglary which turned out to be a false alarm, was hit by a .38-caliber slug crashing through the window of his patrol car in a Fort Lauderdale Negro section.

Fifteen miles to the north in Pompano Beach, another sniper fired five wild shots at two patrolmen sitting in a cruiser.

The first violence broke out here Wednesday night when a rowdy crowd of 250 Negro teenagers, with time on their hands after the closing of a city park, began throwing rocks and bottles at passing cars from a drive-in restaurant lot.

Eight shop windows were smashed and Negroes looted one display window of $300 worth of merchandise, but dropped it as they fled from police.

Trash piles behind two stores were set afire but the flames were put out before they could spread to the buildings.

One patrolman was cut by flying glass when his car was struck by thrown missiles but he did not require hospital treatment.

It was early Thursday, two hours after the drive-in incident, when Mawhinney was shot eight blocks away. He did not catch sight of the assailant.

The patrolmen at Pompano Beach were guarding a supermarket, where Negroes smashed windows during two nights of violence in June, when the shots were fired at them.

Detroiters Claim Police Violated Their Rights

DETROIT (AP)—Two Detroiters, charged with inciting to riot in connection with last week's disturbances on the city's East Side, filed suit in U.S. District Court Wednesday, claiming their constitutional rights had been violated.

Alvin Harrison, 26, and Thomas Abston, 29, both Negroes, contend they were denied the right of immediate arraignment following their arrest Saturday. They were among a number of persons, both Negro and white, arrested following rock and bottle-throwing incidents.

The suit names the Detroit Police Dept., the Wayne County prosecutor's office and Recorder's Judge John P. Scallen.

Federal Judge Ralph M. Freeman set an Aug. 26 hearing date and ordered Scallen and representatives of the prosecutor's office and police department to appear before him.

Milton R. Henry, attorney for the pair, charged their arrest was delayed deliberately until Saturday afternoon when, he said, there was no judge on duty in Recorder's Court. Henry said this was done so police could hold his clients without bail until a Monday arraignment.

Both were arraigned Sunday before recorder's Judge John A. Ricca and were released on $2,200 bond each.

Henry said police requests for warrants against Harrison and Abston were filed three days earlier but were not presented to Scallen for signature until Saturday morning.

He said it is standard operating practice of Recorder's Court to have a judge on duty only until noon on Saturday.

What It Is

House OK's Bill To Fight Pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Public Works Committee unanimously approved a bill Thursday to authorize a five-year $2.3 billion program to rid the nation's lakes, streams and entire river basins of pollution.

Though far more than President Johnson's original $50 million request for one year, the sum was in line with a revised administration proposal. The Senate has approved a $5.9 billion program.

Rep. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., author of the House bill, said the House measure proposed a slower start on the program. The Senate measure projects spending at the $1.5 billion level by 1971 while the House would reach that point two years later.

While the bulk of the money is for municipal waste treatment plants, the bill also provides funds for research into new ways of handling the waste that now flows into waterways as well as aid to agencies for developing water quality control standards and programs.

Under previous authorization, the government is spending $150 million this year for aid in curbing water pollution. The House measure would gradually increase this to $950 million by 1971.

The President asked Congress early this year for $50 million for one year to plan a federal aid program for cleaning up entire river basins. After the Senate passed its huge program, the administration submitted a revised long-range plan.

special projects, Gordon A. Sabine.

They applied and began training for the position last March. They discussed duties and responsibilities of being an RA, became familiar with structure of the program and saw all the programs at weekly meetings.

They continue to meet each week with the heads of the programs, Janet King and Thomas Kissiah, head resident advisors, John Forsyth, program coordinator, and Sabine. They discuss the evaluations filled out by each freshman. Because of these evaluations, some changes have been made in the program, ranging from conduction of meetings to the mixer.

Although a minimum 2.0 grade-point average is required of the Spartan Aides, most of them are above the average student.

"They're a sharp group," Forsyth said.

Hearing Set At Jackson

DETROIT—Jackson has been separated from the support of a housing opportunity, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission has announced.

The hearing will be held Sept. 21 and 22 in the Jackson City Hall.

The first public investigatory hearing was held in Saginaw in mid-June.

"Although Negro home ownership in Jackson is the highest in the state, we have had complaints that they are unable to buy houses in the locations they desire," said commission co-chairman John Feikens.

Congressmen Split Over Kinoy's Exit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorney Arthur Kinoy went on trial Thursday on disorderly conduct charges stemming from his ejection from a hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Kinoy, a New York attorney associated with the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), was dragged by U.S. marshals from a hearing Wednesday on aid given by American citizens to the Viet Cong. His arrest led to a walkout of seven other attorneys from the hearing.

The trial was held before Judge Harold G. Green in General Sessions Court for the District of Columbia. Kinoy sat at the defense counsel's table, surrounded by a group of attorneys.

The first two witnesses were deputy U.S. marshals Charles E. Hockman and David Bird, who testified how they had given Kinoy "the bum's rush" at the turbulent committee hearing.

Their testimony took an hour and 45 minutes because of lengthy cross examination by Kinoy's chief attorney, William M. Kunstler of New York.

Under direct examination by Clark King, Bird described how he and Hockman had removed Kinoy from the hearing room on orders by Chairman Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., after Kinoy "in most active conversation with Mr. Pool" refused to be seated.

Bird said that several lawyers were at the front of the hearing room, engaging in argument over the testimony when Pool issued the removal order.

He first testified that he took Kinoy "by the left arm and the seat of the pants," but later changed the testimony to "left arm and back of the belt." All the time, he said, Kinoy was talking "loudly and violently."

"Would you say you were giving what we call colloquially the bum's rush?" inquired Kunstler.

"I would say so," Bird said, smiling.

Kunstler brought out that Kinoy is a small man, short and probably weighing under 130 pounds. Both Bird and Hockman are much larger men.

Hockman testified that Kinoy was "hollering, flailing and kicking all the way to the police van" and that he continued to shout when he got into the van.

Kunstler showed Hockman a picture showing the deputy marshal's arm around Kinoy's neck. Hockman, somewhat indignantly, denied that Kinoy was being choked.

"I can restrain a man without choking him," he stated.

Hockman testified that he applied a "hammerlock and a chest-shoulder bar" to Kinoy because a short person resisting arrest can very easily slip under the arm of a larger person and escape his hold.

has been nearly the only recreation set-up for West Lansing. During summer the grade school has to be closed for four or five weeks for cleaning up and repairs.

This, according to Hayden, has been one of the things the Negro youths disliked.

Lincoln will still have to be closed some, he added, but opening other school buildings will help fill the gap and give more youths access to gym activities.

Hayden feels the West Lansing youth are enthusiastic about the plans. "It's a matter of confidence," he said. "They don't feel as forgotten. I think the personal contact with city officials has much to do with the favorable response."

A more varied and larger program, according to Dabny, is what the West Lansing people needed. Few participated in the original program, he said, be-

Beatle Critics Poorly Read

By LOUIS CASSELLS
United Press International

Irate Christians who are burning Beatles' records might do well to pause between bonfires and read the New Testament.

They would discover that vengeful acts of retaliation are a supremely inappropriate way of honoring Jesus Christ.

During his career as an itinerant preacher and teacher, Jesus was subjected to far worse insults than having his popularity compared unfavorably to a group of rock-'n-roll singers.

He was spat upon, hooted at, stoned, beaten and run out of town. He was accused of being a liar, a fake, a traitor and an ally of the devil. And finally, of course, he was put to death.

His response to these persecutions baffled many of his disciples in 1st Century Palestine. And recent news reports about the Beatles' incident seem to indicate that some of his followers in 20th Century America still haven't got his message.

The message was spelled out quite clearly in his Sermon on the Mount.

"I say to you, love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who abuse you."

"And as you wish that men would do to you, do so to them."

"If you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners love those who love them."

"Judge not, that you be not judged," he said. "Why do you see the speck that is in your brother's eye, but do not notice the log that is in your own eye?"

... You hypocrite, first take the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your brother's eye."

Above all, he warned men against a self-righteous and unforgiving spirit:

"If you forgive others and wrongs they have done, your heavenly father will also forgive you; but if you do not forgive others, then the wrongs you have done will not be forgiven."

The amazing thing about him was that he practiced what he preached.

When a band of soldiers came to arrest him, on the night before his execution, the impetuous Simon Peter drew a sword and cut off the ear of one of the men trying to seize Jesus.

"But Jesus said, 'No more of this!' and he touched the man's ear and healed him."

As Jesus hung on the cross, in pain, "the passers-by hurled abuse at him... even the bandits who were crucified with him taunted him."

But in the last extremity of suffering, he did not hate back. "Father, forgive them," he prayed. "They do not know what they are doing."

It is hard to believe that he would have been any less charitable toward a young rock-'n-roll singer who put his foot in his mouth.

ST. JOHN'S TESTS NEW IDEA

By FAYE UNGER
State News Staff Writer

The guitarists move closer to the microphone at the front of the sanctuary and strum a few notes. Then the cantors and congregation join in with folk-based song, clapping their hands to the syncopated beat.

The scene is St. John Catholic Student Center.

St. John's has been experimenting with folk-music-based masses during this last year.

Ray Barreras, a graduate student in chemistry who sings in the St. John's choir, has been a leader in trying out the "new music."

He calls music his avocation. He took violin for nine years and played in the University of New Mexico orchestra as an undergraduate.

Barreras says he hopes to see St. John's use the folk-based music for at least four out of the church's 20-some weekly masses this coming year.

This music, both regular service, hymns and psalms, that St. John's uses most often sprang from two church workers' efforts to communicate more effectively with the people they work with.

One of the composers, Fr. Clarence Joseph Rivers, started writing his own hymns four years ago to reach his Cincinnati slum area parishioners better.

Rivers, who emphasizes spon-

Bluebells, Cockleshells . . .

To reach "little folk" like these, ministers and lay workers first began composing the folk-based hymns that are now being adopted into Roman Catholic hymnals. This picture was taken on the west side of Lansing, an area plagued by a lack of adequate recreational facilities. Photo by Russ Steffey taneous harmony, puts a strong Negro flavor into his hymns and psalms. Two of his hymns, written in 1963 and 1964, are now being published in Catholic hymnals. He visited St. John's in February.

The other composer, Ray Repp, started writing his own hymns when he discovered traditional music and phraseology were not getting the Gospel message across clearly to the Utah Indians with whom he worked. His music is in the "popular folk" vein.

"Their hymns get what they are trying to teach across without belaboring the point," Barreras said. "They can plant a seed of an idea in your mind with a good, catchy tune."

There should be efforts at introducing modern religious music that stems from the people's way of singing into the church, Fr. Thomas McDevitt, a chaplain at St. John's said.

"There is no music from a past age that expresses for once and for all a people's experience of God," he said. To McDevitt, however, everything that's new isn't necessarily good. Some "new music" can be short-lived, shoddy and sentimental rather than prayerful, he remarked.

"We're rediscovering the benefits of singing," he said, "but what we can't do is put our emphasis just on the popular sentimental things."

Folk based music is not the only type of music being tried out, although it seems to be the most frequently used. Jazz musicians have presented religious music inside and outside churches.

Twentieth century composers, including Igor Stravinsky, Ralph Vaughn-Williams, Virgil Thomson and Benjamin Britten, have composed masses.

"We once tried to sing a 12-tone setting but it is next to impossible with most congregational choirs. We couldn't catch the cues," Barreras said.

"There's some good 12-tone religious music, but I'm not too sure a regular congregation could pray to 12-tone accompaniment."

Twelve-tone uses all 12 notes in an octave without regard for major and minor keys.

Not all musicians are concentrating on the folk-based and jazz either. Many are trying to fit English words to the simpler traditional Gregorian and plainsong chants for congregational use.

"It's safer to stick to the older forms for a while," Barreras said. "Even the old-style music has to be revised several times to fit English congregational singing. For many people a lot of the new music just doesn't seem to fit in church."

To grow, the church must discard the bad music, old and new, and keep adding good music, he said.

"For me the recently-written hymns often mean more," Barreras said, "but I like a lot of the old hymns. I wouldn't want to sing just new hymns Sunday after Sunday."

Many traditional hymns are so basic to a particular church, like "Holy God" to Catholics and "A Mighty Fortress" to Lutherans, that to drop them would be ridiculous, he continued. The good hymns will always be sung.

While the Catholic church is including recently-written hymns in its new hymnals, completely new settings for the service itself are still mostly occasional experiments.

Any drastic changes in the liturgy would have to be approved by the bishops only after careful consideration, McDevitt said.

The music that the higher churches now use has come out of some of the most creative, most expressive periods in history, McDevitt continued.

The modern expression must be used too, however, he said. Much traditional church music is based on the folk tunes of its era. Hymns from "A Mighty Fortress" to "Silent Night" came from the popular tunes, and even barroom songs, of the day. The Gregorian chants also grew from folk song.

St. John's Expansion Planning To Resume

St. John Catholic Student Center, feeling the press of growing enrollment, will again take up planning for expansion this fall.

The center began a fund drive last year with a goal of $400,000. To date $133,608 out of $398,478 pledged by students and their parents has been turned in.

The present chapel holds 700 people. Ten masses are held each Sunday. About 6,000 Roman Catholics were enrolled on campus this past year. By 1970 there should be 9,000 Catholics enrolled.

Discussion of the need to expand was being carried on at the end of the 1964-65 academic year before Fr. Robert Kavanaugh, head chaplain, was given a sick leave. With the appointment of a new head chaplain, Fr. Francis Zippel, the discussion will continue.

The center owns two lots on Harrison Road and about three on Hagadorn.

Ivy Leaguer Plans Gospel Network

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—A former Marine, who shelved an Ivy League law degree to enter the ministry, hopes to expand a small television station into a million-dollar facility to spread the gospel.

"We hope to start work this fall on a full color television studio with video tape and a new radio-television center," says Pat Robertson, "The cost is estimated at more than a million dollars."

"Though our principal ministry right now is to the million or so people in Tidewater Virginia," Robertson envisions a religious network serving the eastern seaboard.

Robertson, 36, and 6 feet 2, is a son of Sen. A. Willis Robertson of Virginia. He received a bachelor of arts degree at Washington and Lee University in 1950 and was mustered out of the Marines in 1952 after serving in Korea.

Three years later, Robertson was graduated from Yale Law School, tried big business briefly, then entered New York Theological Seminary. There he received a bachelor of sacred theology degree in 1959. He is an ordained Baptist minister.

"I asked the Lord what He wanted me to do next," Robertson recalls. "The answer came that fall."

He learned that a small television station in Portsmouth could be bought for $37,000. He loaded his wife and three children—he has four now—into the family car and drove to Portsmouth with $70 in his pocket.

"The first thing I did," he said, "was to have printed 10,000 cards asking people to pray. In January 1960, I formed the Christian Broadcasting Network, Inc., to operate the station. I opened a bank account with a deposit of $3, the first contribution received. It was from a young man in South Carolina."

"The first year was difficult, to say the least," Robertson recalls. "We did not solicit funds. We relied on prayer to sustain the station. There were no commercials."

"Nevertheless, our income has virtually doubled every year since 1961, when it was $7,000. I estimate the 1966 income will be approximately $200,000."

"We still have no commercials on the television station, but we do on our FM radio station, WXRI, which we put on the air in 1962 to augment the work of WYAH-TV."

The television and radio staffs now include 16 full-time and nine part-time employees. Robertson says operating costs run $12,000 to $15,000 per month.

The stations receive many telephone requests for spiritual counsel and prayers. Counsel is given immediately by telephone. Prayer requests are referred to Robertson for response on a television program.

The stations are operated on an interdenominational basis.

Taking Of LSD Shows Instability

The growing use of the mind-expanding drug LSD may indicate that many people today lack wholesome psychic stability, the University Methodist minister said in a recent sermon.

The Rev. Alden Burns of University Methodist in his sermon set the Christian concept of salvation as a state of harmonious integration of a person with his environment and his God over against the mystical experience of LSD.

Religious professionals who took the drug in the experiments reported mystical experiences "like Moses' experience with the burning bush."

But Burns said he was concerned not with the fact that people take the drug but why they take it. He spoke of the confusion and lack of balance in the lives of many such drug-takers. "To many people life is one great maze of confusion. There is no central gravitational point in their life," he said.

"But when you have a frame of reference from which to operate, the power to control much of what happens within your life is possible. When our lives are rooted in God there isn't much from outside that can lick any of us."

To these the Christian concept of salvation has something to offer, he said.

"If the church can show men that the gospel she proclaims provides the resource for the abundant life—the real life—there would be no need for escape into the land of ecstasy and distorted vision."

"First of all, salvation means a man has been given a frame of reference in which he can function. One of the characteristics of mental illness is it lacks a foundation upon which a man can stand," he said.

"To the Christian salvation means that the life, death, teachings and power revealed in Christ is the frame of reference that is most meaningful to him. This has ultimate claim on his total being. "Secondly salvation equips a person with the power of control. The mentally ill cannot control the forces of life that swirl around them. Every whim and fantasy manipulates them."

"But when you have a frame of reference from which to operate, the power to control much of what happens within your life is possible. When our lives are rooted in God there isn't much from outside that can lick any of us."
