

Pub board reconsiders rejection of Daily editor

By MIKE BROGAN
State News Staff Writer

ANN ARBOR -- University of Michigan's Board of Control of Student Publications met Thursday night in a special session to consider again recommendations for editorial positions on the student newspaper, The Michigan Daily.

Monday night the 12-member board voted 7-4 against the proposed slate of new senior editors.

Mark R. Killingsworth, East Lansing senior and editor of The Daily, said Thursday that any future action on the editor's part is "contingent on the board's action tonight."

Killingsworth said that if the board again rejects the proposed editors The Daily could react by stopping publication. Such a halt could mean either a strike or mass resignations by the staff. A second alternative would be production of "a different kind of paper," he said.

A different kind of paper could mean either "a one-sheet job" or an insurgent kind of paper published outside the auspices of the board of publications, according to Killingsworth.

The central figure in the dispute between the board and The Daily is Roger Rapoport, Schenectady, N.Y., junior, who has been recommended by the present senior editors to be the next editor. Rapoport, a journalism major, is a former summertime reporter for the Wall Street Journal, and has written articles for The Nation, the New Republic and McCall's.

The Daily reported Thursday that a "high university source" said U-M President Harlan Hatcher told Luke K. Cooper, chairman of the publications board, that he considers Rapoport "irresponsible" and an "unacceptable candidate" for editor.

The Daily reported Hatcher as telling the university regents after his discussion with Cooper that he was not his usual self while talking and said he considered Rapoport unacceptable because he would continue The Daily's present policies.

Lukens new MHA head

On the third ballot, Bill Lukens, president of West Fee Hall, was elected president of Men's Hall Association (MHA).

Also nominated for president were incumbent (MHA) president Roger Williams and Pete Cannon, president of Bailey Hall. Cannon withdrew after the second ballot.

MHA also voted 11-3-2 in favor of ASMSU's vote to affiliate with NSA.

Bob House, president of Abbot Hall, was elected Vice President on the first ballot.

JFK ASSASSINATION

Informant's death inhibits probe

NEW ORLEANS (P) -- David W. Ferrie's death created fear Thursday among some people who claimed to have information relating to Ferrie or Lee Harvey Oswald in connection with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Ferrie, labeled by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison as a prime informant in his investigation of the assassination, was found dead in bed Wednesday. A preliminary autopsy report attributed death to a brain hemorrhage. A coroner's report Thursday ruled out murder, leaving suicide, natural causes or accidental death as possibilities.

A woman who was about to give the Associated Press details she said related to Oswald's activities in New Orleans was frightened into silence. She warily greeted a reporter at her home.

"You see that," she said, directing attention to a snubnosed .38 caliber revolver placed on a nearby chair. "I don't say anything might happen to me. But I just won't talk to you. I have nothing to say."

Another person on the periphery of the case, David Lewis, a bus station baggage clerk, dropped out of sight Wednesday night. Neighbors said the Lewis family had suddenly left town. Lewis had told newsmen he feared for the safety of his wife and four children because of his knowledge of a possible conspiracy to kill Kennedy.

However, Lewis appeared at the district attorney's office Thursday. Before going into Garrison's office he said: "I'm not worried about myself, but I am about my family. Maybe there has been too much said about me already, but they know my name and know what I look like and they know where I work, so that's it."

A former private investigator, Lewis claims to have known Oswald, the man named by the Warren Commission as Kennedy's assassin.

Coroner Nicholas Chetta ruled out murder as a possible cause of Ferrie's death.

"There is no evidence of any violence," he said. "There is no evidence of murder."

The Orleans Parish county coroner said the specific cause of death was a small sacular aneurysm of a cerebral artery. He said such aneurysms frequently rupture, spilling blood into the brain. He likened this to the failure of an inner tube with a weak spot.

A large quantity of pills for vascular disease was found in Ferrie's apartment. But the coroner said even an overdose of these could not cause an aneurysm.

Garrison termed the death an apparent suicide. Chetta said there was nothing to indicate a suicide except a note saying death was a "sweet prospect."

The woman who was frightened into silence had earlier told an Associated Press reporter that she was working for a New Orleans firm in the summer of 1963 when a person using a name sounding like "Hidell" purchased some tires. Hidell is a name Oswald used when he purchased a mail order Mannlicher-Carcano rifle identified by the Warren Commission as the weapon used to slay President Kennedy.

NSA reaffiliation postponed, Graham to ask for new vote

By ELLEN ZURKEY
State News Staff Writer

Associated Students of MSU (ASMSU) will reconsider its affiliation with the National Student Association (NSA).

Formal reaffiliation and dues payment to the National Students Association (NSA) has been postponed by Jim Graham, ASMSU chairman, until Tuesday when the student board will reconsider the issue.

Graham will ask student board to reconsider its 10-2 reaffiliation vote Tuesday in deference to the opinion expressed by the General Assembly Wednesday. The General Assembly has no formal powers. It can only make recommendations to the board.

The General Assembly is composed of representatives from all living units and was established by ASMSU last year as a means of communications between the board members and the students.

Wednesday it voted 34-8 in favor of having the board reconsider its motion to reaffiliate with NSA. By a vote of 20-18 it also requested that ASMSU hold an All-University referendum on the issue. A referendum would cost about $200. NSA dues are $285.

Graham decided late Thursday to withhold payment of NSA dues and formal affiliation with the organization until the student board could again hear and re-examine student opinion, particularly from MHA. Graham stated, however, that he had not changed his views on reaffiliation. "I would encourage the other nine members of the board who voted for reaffiliation to actively seek student opinion on the question so the expense of a referendum can be avoided," Graham said.

"It is becoming apparent through a number of channels that there is student demand for further consideration," he said.

Opposition to NSA reaffiliation comes from Jim Sink, member at large, and Roger Williams, Men's Halls Association (MHA).

Controversy centers on whether it is wise to reaffiliate with NSA now because of its recently revealed connection with the CIA, if the cost of membership is worth the benefits of national affiliation, and if this session or the next session of student government should vote on affiliation.

"Boosting NSA's morale is not enough reason for joining now," Sink said.

Graham contends that this year's board has the hindsight to know that national affiliation is profitable for student government.

"When schools like Harvard and UCLA feel national affiliation is necessary, I don't know how MSU feels it can afford to stay out," Graham said.

White House endorses CIA's private financing

WASHINGTON (P) -- A White House study panel endorses the Central Intelligence Agency's much-criticized subsidizing of various private organizations, and President Johnson agrees with the group's findings.

At Johnson's direction, the White House made public Thursday a preliminary report on a review of this controversial facet of CIA operations. Press Secretary George Christian emphasized that Johnson agrees with the interim conclusions.

The report, submitted in letter form and dated Wednesday, came from Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, who is conducting the review along with CIA Director Richard Helms, and John W. Gardner, secretary of health, education and welfare.

The CIA's role was defended on two grounds:

"It did not act on its own initiative, but in accordance with national policies established by the National Security Council in 1952 through 1954."

"The support provided by the Central Intelligence Agency enabled many far-sighted and courageous Americans to serve their country in times of challenge and danger to the United States and the free world."

Katzenbach told Johnson he expects a final report, including recommendations, to be ready early next month.

His letter indicates that the study which he is heading, at Johnson's direction, is somewhat broader than had previously been announced. He spoke of "our inquiry into the relations of government agencies and private organizations operating abroad."

Katzenbach last week said simply that the panel was looking into the relations between the CIA and the educational organizations.

In his letter to Johnson, Katzenbach said the CIA "has been, and continues to be, indispensable to the security of this nation."

Indian party loses in 4 states

NEW DELHI (P) -- A ballot box revolution was toppling the ruling Congress party's hierarchy and key Cabinet ministers Thursday and sending the party crashing to defeat in four states.

As returns from week-long elections poured in, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi found she had lost five ministers.

With 96 of the 520 seats for Parliament decided, the Congress party had 60, the Hindu Jan Sangh party 17, the Communists 9, the rightist Swatantra party 4 and independents 6. The Congress party held 361 of the 494 seats in the last Parliament.

In addition, voters elected 3,560 assemblymen in the 17 states and the Congress party had a little more than 50 per cent of these at the last count.

Voters appeared to have jumped the Congress party for a number of reasons, including the food shortage, the issue of a national ban of slaughter of cows, and the ever-vexing language question.

The Congress party had been expected to lose 40 or 50 seats but now speculation is whether the party could fall to win a majority.

Donation accelerates US coffee house plans

By JO ANN BAER
State News Staff Writer

An East Lansing merchant has pledged $1,000 toward the coffee house being incorporated by United Students and the Ecumenical Student Movement. David MacComber, Birmingham sophomore and chairman of the US Coffee house committee, announced Thursday.

MacComber would not reveal the name of the merchant.

March 1 is the goal for the opening day if the lease is signed for the basement of College Drug Store on Grand River in East Lansing, MacComber said.

While students were conducting the Orange Horse vigil last November someone got the idea that it might be nice to have permanent tables at Bessey where students could meet informally to talk. "It was too idealistic," MacComber said.

Then at the first United Students meeting a motion was made that US start a coffee house. The project was to have been run and financed by US and would in no way be commercial, MacComber said.

"But it would have become a US clubhouse with no wide university participation," he explained.

Then US decided to organize a real coffee house but it took more money than US had on hand. (Money is collected at US meetings by passing a hat.)

coffee house from East Lansing churches, ASMSU Student Board members and Roger Jonas, secretary of the East Lansing Chamber of Commerce.

In a leaflet entitled "Proposal: A Coffee House at MSU" the five-point statement of purpose is given:

--to provide an atmosphere that is casual, warm and close which will aid the development of relationships among students and between students and faculty and other members of the community.

--to provide a context for creative dialogue between persons of various cultural, religious and political convictions.

--to provide an opportunity for creative expression by students and faculty through the various art forms.

--to provide an open forum for the presentation and discussion of significant issues of problems.

--to provide a place for small special functions such as visiting lecturers or poets.

US and ESM are hoping that faculty will support the coffee house, said MacComber.

The coffee house will be managed mainly by a student board of directors and an adult advisory board, MacComber said.

The board of directors will be composed of five members, three elected by US, one by ESM and one by the advisory board, he said.

The advisory board will be composed of one MSU faculty member, one East Lansing clergyman, one East Lansing businessman and the chairman of the board of directors, MacComber said.

Ginsberg at Aud Monday

Allen Ginsberg, the poet who has been called the rallying point of today's youth by the New York Times, will give a poetry reading in the Auditorium at 4 p.m. Monday.

The long-haired, bearded, bespectacled Ginsberg has been hailed as a cultural hero and prophet in countries from Cuba to Czechoslovakia.

"I have no formal ideology. The ideas I present make people think about themselves," Ginsberg has said.

His poetry ranges from conventional rhyming verse to the freest of free forms. Its subject matter ranges from politics to sex.

The reading by the 40-year-old poet will be co-sponsored by ASMSU and Zeitgeist literary magazine. Tickets will be $1.

Proceeds from the reading will go to Zeitgeist.

Powell gets seat fine and censure

WASHINGTON (P) -- A select House committee recommended Thursday that Rep. Adam Clayton Powell be seated, censured and required to pay $40,000.

The committee found that Powell meets constitutional qualifications of age, citizenship, and inhabitancy in New York and therefore is entitled to the seat from which he has been barred since Jan. 10, pending the investigation of misused government travel funds.

In a report signed by all nine members, the committee also proposed that the New York Democrat be shorn of his entire 22 years of House seniority's and required to re-pay funds he has "wrongfully and willfully appropriated" over the past three years.

Finding more space for students

Every year more and more MSU students bring cars to school. And every year there seems to be less and less space to park them.

The parking shortage is due, of course, to the tremendous construction program at the University combined with ever-increasing enrollment. Now another addition to the physical plant of the University, Wells Hall, is nearing completion.

Its proposed opening next fall presents the All University Traffic Committee with another problem.

As a solution they have decided to shift cars belonging to students out of the ramp across from Shaw and into a lot to be built next to Lot X south of the railroad tracks.

We recognize a problem in finding 500 parking places for faculty members; and the problem inherent in increasing student parking. But though we recognize the problem, we can't understand the solution.

Forcing residents of the Red Cedar Complex, (Snyder, Phillips, Shaw, Mason, and Abbot Halls), to walk over a mile-and-a-half each way every time they want to use their cars is a gross injustice.

Throwing a bone to the dog the committee promises bus service out to the proposed lot. It wasn't mentioned whether the buses would be free.

The committee presented three justifications for its decision.

The first is that since students pay less than faculty for parking then faculty has the right to parking in an expensive ramp. The Committee would do well to remember that students have the right to a fair break on parking.

Certainly the faculty, who normally commute anyway, could park in a lot beyond the railroad tracks and avail themselves of the proposed bus service.

The second defense is the Traffic Committee's claim that student parking in the ramp across from Shaw was intended only as a stop-gap measure. It is peculiar that this fact has come to light only now.

The final argument is that alternative spaces can't be found. But the lot north of the Men's L.M. Building provides just such an alternative. It has a capacity of over 500 cars and is actually closer to Wells Hall than the ramp south of Shaw.

As it stands now the Traffic Committee's decision is grossly unfair. It is based on specious economic arguments and complete disregard for the interests of the students.

The committee sent up a trial balloon--let's hope it has been sufficiently punctured.

State News tone out of tune with ideal

To the Editor:

"Tone" is a word that is used to describe a certain pattern we perceive in a book, a play, a movie, or in a newspaper. The perception of tone is for the most part subliminal, but occasionally a combination occurs that is so very well aligned with the pattern, so indicative of the tone, that we consciously note how well it fits; we find ourselves using this combination as an example whenever we try to explain the tone of a particular work.

For the State News, such an exemplary combination occurred last Thursday: given two pictures from Hubbard Hall, one of President Hannah dining with several students in Hubbard, the other of some clown riding a hall vacuum cleaner, the State News chose to run the latter on the front page, while relegating the photograph of President Hannah, incorrectly captioned, to the back.

liberal biases. This scheme was patently successful here because it can be said today that "MSU has more Merit Scholars currently enrolled than any other school in the nation; half again as many as Harvard, twice as many as MIT, and three times as many as either Stanford or Yale." Significantly, "Over two-thirds of these are MSU-sponsored Scholars."

"A university which wants good students that badly must have some appreciation of intellectual things." Oh? Then why are so many people still laughing?

Deciphering tests

To the Editor:

Last Monday an Iranian student wrote a letter to the State News criticizing University College finals. Mr. Saleh failed a SS 231 final which even some of the teachers of the course received "C" grades on when they took it. He said that complaints about the unfairness of such finals from students and teachers are ignored. He complained that refusing to recognize such criticism is undemocratic. In the following Wednesday's SN, Chitra Smith misinterprets him by saying "he complains bitterly that it was undemocratic to deny him a passing grade," and suggests that he is asking for "a double standard." This is obviously untrue.

Mr. Saleh's experience shows that there can be a great discrepancy between the instructor's grade and the final exam grade in a University College course. This is because questions on such finals are deliberately made as obscure and confusing as possible by concentrating on material which is not explicitly covered in the text, by creating highly ambiguous sentences, and by phrasing the questions so that they make the least possible sense. (I'm surprised they aren't written in Sanskrit to make it even harder.) In effect, such an exam tests one's ability to decipher the questions rather than one's knowledge of course material. As both these things are approximate functions of intelligence, there usually seems to be correlation between the two grades. But since a foreign student has not spent his entire life interpreting English, he is at a disadvantage in deciphering the questions on the final, and thus his final exam grade differs greatly from the instructor's grade even if he has a good command of English.

Reducing the weight of the final to 25 per cent of the total grade may alleviate this problem somewhat, but an overhaul in the entire procedure for creating final exam questions would be better.

Merit scholars

To the Editor:

I write regarding the letter of Feb. 20 by Mary W. Davis.

I am not defending John Ladd's article. It was, as charged, misleading. I would, however, like to offer an antidote to the University's concern with National Merit Finalists.

Mary Davis allows that "perhaps MSU is still a cow college to some; a center of mediocre mass education." With qualifications, I believe this is true.

Now "centers of mediocre mass education" typically feel inadequate and insecure. People laugh at them no matter how good their football teams are. Their self-esteem suffers. Even huge new buildings don't allay the pain. Life's no fun at all.

Then someone, usually very new at the University, makes a suggestion. He says, "Why not improve the quality of the education we're offering? Then many gifted students will want to come here and people will stop laughing at us." Everyone at the University shouts, "Yeah, yeah, yeah!"

But the people in charge of effecting the task realize that improving the quality of the education requires a good deal of effort and imagination. Moreover, many traditional institutions and values will undoubtedly have to go. This is not acceptable and so a dilemma arises--how to preserve the existing establishment ("a center of mediocre mass education") and still attract outstanding students whose presence will obscure its persisting deficiencies.

The solution isn't real difficult; offer

POINT OF VIEW

ASMSU needs NSA affiliation

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jim Graham wrote the following as an open letter to the student body.

By JIM GRAHAM
Chairman ASMSU

At the Tuesday night meeting of the ASMSU Student Board, affiliation with the National Student Association (NSA) was passed by a vote of 10-2. It was passed with the sincere feeling of these voting in the affirmative that Michigan State University student government needs the National Student Association affiliation in order to continue and to improve upon the services, programs, and discussions for the future in student government.

In these past several days there has been a great deal of talk and there has been a great deal of controversy over the National Student Association. Much of it has been over NSA's affiliation with the Central Intelligence Agency. There has been a good deal of talk that because of the discovery of this connection that the National Student Association will disband. Let it be understood clearly that there is no serious attempt at any one of the major NSA's schools that are members to disaffiliate or to begin a new Association of Student Governments.

As it is clearly stated in the ASMSU motion we will not become connected or in any way participants in National or International politics or resolutions. We join NSA on account of the concrete program that NSA can offer ASMSU and because of the discussions over campus issues which ensue at an NSA Congress. It has also been suggested that an alternative affiliation should be sought by ASMSU if it is interested in having external affiliations. But let it again be clearly understood that there is no good alternative to the National Student Association in America today.

In fact there is only one other alternative organization and it is known as the Associated Student Governments of the United States of America. This organization was formed as a result of NSA's position in civil rights sit-ins in 1961. It is made up of small southern schools who certainly do not have a great deal in common with the larger northern universities such as our own. It confines itself entirely to projects to the degree that it will not discuss academic freedom or civil rights or student rights or prices or anything else that we would consider to be of real important campus issues.

The second stipulation of our motion clearly states that not only will NSA be reevaluated in one year but also that we oppose CIA connections with NSA. However, we accept NSA when it says that it has severed all connections with the Central Intelligence Agency. Yet it states in the motion that if we find that in the future there are connections with the CIA then our disaffiliation will result.

Now the question is raised what can ASMSU as a student government gain directly and concretely from the $285 it pays in dues to the National Student Association. Let me sight a few of the better programs which are conducted by NSA. First, let us consider the International I.D. Card which allows students to travel through Europe on reduced rates. Second, let us consider their excellent health insurance (which we already have) and their life insurance program which we could use. Third, let us consider the excellent travel program the NSA offers that we could use very much. Fourth, NSA offers the best compilation of student government information in the country today, and it offers advice on all ranges of subjects from academic freedom, course evaluation, bookstore and student rights.

NSA holds conferences each year for member schools on subjects such as psychedelics, student stress, and academic freedom. NSA has a staff of over 40 people who work in the attempt to improve student governments. Therefore I think there can be no question whatsoever in any of our minds that NSA affiliation will result in direct benefit to the students of this University.

Therefore there is a need for us to join NSA regardless of its connections and regardless of its stands on national and international politics. To join now is at this time to indicate very clearly to all concerned that we are not interested in this segment of NSA affiliations. That, in fact, we completely will ignore international and national resolutions. We join now to indicate to the National Student Association and to the country as a whole that we are interested in the concrete programs and projects which will benefit our student body directly. That is the reason we join now.

The student board of ASMSU acted on a

Romney finds favorable outlook

MESA, Ariz. (AP) -- Gov. George W. Romney of Michigan concluded his seven-day political tour of the West Thursday with favorable indications for the Republican presidential nomination.

He held what he called a wrap-up news conference and spent most of his time giving a glowing account of his trip which took him all the way to Alaska.

"Everywhere," he said, "the outlook for Republicans was favorable."

When someone asked him if his own outlook was favorable enough for him to reach a decision for shooting for the White House Romney grinned broadly and said, "Well, favorable enough to keep up the hot courtship."

Romney said he had talked to audiences totaling 18,500, raised $200,000 in funds for the GOP and had traveled almost 9,000 miles. "The trip has been well worth while," he said. "The whole effort has been very rewarding."

Yesterday's stop had one incident that marred the general optimistic tone. Romney had been invited to speak at a birthday party honoring Joseph A. Farnsworth, the founder of Dreamland Villa, a housing development for the retired. While Romney was holding his news conference, Farnsworth, who is 71, fainted.

Romney immediately canceled the rest of his conference and doctors were called to attend Farnsworth who has had a history of heart trouble.

In view of what happened, Romney departed from most of the speech he had prepared to deliver, but his aide said it would stand just as if he had delivered it.

In his prepared speech, Romney said this nation could be headed for what he called an inflationary runaway followed by a recession. "We may well be on the verge of the most disastrous wage-price spiral in history," he noted.

Romney arrived in Phoenix on Thursday morning, coming to the only state outside the South that Sen. Barry Goldwater carried as the GOP candidate in 1964.

Romney never endorsed Goldwater, who has said that this still rankles. But there was no confrontation scene—Goldwater was off on a speaking tour, too.

At the airport, Romney ran into his biggest display of unfriendly banners. One read, "Rambler Needs Romney, America Doesn't," and another, "Romney Would Rather Switch Than Fight," and a placard said, "Reagan for President in '68."

McNamara criticism grows as Soviets deploy ABM's

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Concerned over Soviet deployment of an anti-missile system, the Joint Chiefs of Staff are pressing anew for a U.S. defense against intercontinental ballistic missiles.

A Pentagon statement Wednesday night reflected a key difference between the military leaders and Sec. of Defense Robert S. McNamara over the extent and purpose of a second defensive system being erected in northeastern Russia. Both sides agree that missile batteries now being constructed around Moscow are designed to knock down American warheads.

But Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs, finds it "difficult to accept" the McNamara-held view that the second so-called Tallinn system is primarily for protection against bombers, the Pentagon said.

McNamara was said to be basing U.S. countermeasures on the assumption that "the Soviets have already started to deploy a nationwide ABM (antiballistic missile) system or will do so in the future."

But at this point McNamara is opposed to undertaking costly deployment of a U.S. antimissile system.

As in previous years, the Joint Chiefs maintain that the United States should proceed with its own ABM deployment to protect the nation against ICBM attack. The Joint Chiefs have studied intelligence information with a view that the Soviet Union's ABM, when completed in about five years, might take a great deal of the edge off current U.S. superiority in offensive missiles --thereby seriously altering the international balance of power.

The Administration is holding off construction of an American missile defense, hoping that talks with the Soviets will curb a multi-billion-dollar weapons race. McNamara places a price tag of up to $40 billion on a full U.S. missile defense with fallout shelters.

Soviets convict Jew of spying for Israel

MOSCOW (AP) -- A Soviet Jew has been convicted on charges of spying for Israel and fabricating anti-Soviet propaganda, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said Thursday.

Izvestia did not report the sentence but said the man, retired civil engineer Solomon Dolnik, "got what he deserved." The maximum Soviet penalty for spying is death.

Izvestia gave this account: Dolnik was lured into espionage by Israeli diplomats who met him at the Moscow synagogue. He gave military secrets about train features to a member of the Israeli Embassy staff.

Last May Dolnik handed over to David Gavish, a former second secretary at the Israeli Embassy, information which "had interest for other foreign intelligence organizations."

The paper said Gavish had been Dolnik's chief. Gavish was expelled from the Soviet Union last Aug. 13 after being accused of spying.

Asked about the Dolnik case, an Israeli Embassy spokesman said no one at the embassy knows Dolnik and "none of the members of the Israeli Embassy has been engaged in the activities alleged against them in this article."

Treaty to bypass DeGaulle

GENEVA (AP) -- The United States and Britain Thursday found a way to prevent Charles de Gaulle from delaying the projected treaty with the Soviet Union to halt the spread of nuclear arms, if he decides to try.

Lord Chalfont, Britain's disarmament minister, said in a news conference, "A French veto over the arrangements we have in mind simply would not apply."

He would not say what the arrangements are.

De Gaulle has made it clear that he dislikes plans for a treaty and does not intend to sign it.

The problem in Geneva is how to police the treaty. The nuclear powers -- the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain -- want it enforced by the International Atomic Energy Agency -- IAEA -- a 95-nation body, to which the Russians belong.

The West Germans want it enforced through Euratom, the nuclear branch of the West European Common Market.

France and West Germany belong to Euratom. The Euratom treaty looks with suspicion on a member submitting to any other supervision than Euratom's own.

A West German veto would bring charges that the West Germans are trying to avoid inspection and make an atom bomb.

France could use its veto, or threaten to use it, in an attempt to help West Germany with concessions.

Foreign Minister Willy Brandt told the Bundestag in Bonn Thursday West Germany would not allow itself to be put under a disadvantage in the treaty. West Germans say they fear a Soviet inspector would use his position for industrial spying, and interfere with peaceful experiments by making unfounded charges that they were working on weapons.

Lord Chalfont told reporters, "The thing to remember is that if we can't get an arrangement the Soviets will accept, there won't be any nonproliferation treaty at all."

Peking claims army supports 'call to farms'

TOKYO (AP) -- Radio Peking asserted Thursday that army units all over China "acclaimed" Mao Tse-tung's call to them to help in the spring planting. But reports of clashes in western China and other areas indicated it may be a dismal spring for farm production.

The broadcast, quoting the official People's Daily, also asserted that peasants and rural party cadres in all parts of the country had declared a determination "to win a double victory in revolution and production."

Showing concern about production, Mao's leadership has been issuing appeals for several weeks to peasants to begin plowing. These appeals were culminated Wednesday with disclosure that even the army had been asked to help in the spring sowing.

Provincial broadcasts have accused Mao's foes in the power struggle, presumably supporters of President Liu Shao-chi, of sabotaging work in the rural communes. Anti-Maos were said to be distributing food grain owned by the state, encouraging commune members to storm warehouses, and getting farm workers to quit their jobs.

Indicative of possibly chaotic conditions was a report by Yugoslavia's Tanjug news agency that the struggle in Sinkiang Province had spread to all areas of the northwest region after pro-Mao forces seized Urumchi, the capital, on Jan. 25.

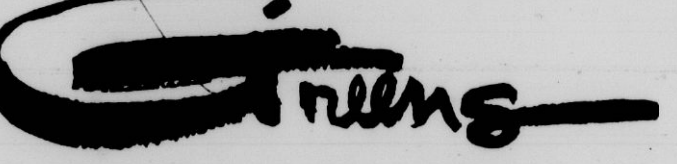

Tanjung, in a Peking dispatch quoted a copy of the Sinkiang Jin Pao, published in Urumchi, as saying "tens of dead" have been counted in fighting that included the use of tanks.

Gen. Wang En-mao, military commander of Sinkiang, was said to be fighting pro-Mao troops from the mountains using several thousand ex-soldiers sent into the province to help out in farm work.

Badgers level off Big Ten

By DENNIS CHASE
Associate Sports Editor

They laughed at MSU Basketball Coach John Benington when he said, at the beginning of the year, that a 9-5 record might win the Big Ten title.

But it took the Wisconsin Badgers to stifle the laughter.

In their last two games the Badgers have upset two of the top contenders for the title with a lineup that is one of the youngest in the conference. Coach John Erickson's team has assumed the "spoiler" role as it meets the Spartans, who are 6-3, in Madison at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Iowa was the first upset victim, last Saturday. The Hawkeyes were beaten in three overtimes on their home court, 96-95. Northwestern was next. The Wildcats came to Wisconsin with a 5-3 record and a chance for second place in the Big Ten. The Badgers cancelled Northwestern's ticket with a 110-94 victory.

The Spartans, who sneaked past Wisconsin, 68-61, in Jenison on that snowy weekend, will be facing a more experienced team Saturday.

The Badgers boast three top scoring threats in Chuck Nagle, Joe Franklin and Jim McCallum. These three didn't give the Spartans much trouble the first time, but MSU may not be so lucky the second time around.

If the Spartans are to stay in the race, they must forget the 80-64 loss at Ohio State last Monday. "We can't afford another defeat," said Benington. "If we could tie for the title, then we

Fencers face IU, U of D

MSU Fencing Coach Charles Schmitter has a strange problem with his fencing team. Instead of getting them "psyched up" for their meets this Saturday with the University of Detroit and Indiana University, at Bloomington, he has to relax them.

"They pushed themselves too hard last week and tightened up once they started fencing," Schmitter said. The MSU bladesmen lost 20-7 to Ohio State and 21-6 to Notre Dame last weekend.

Fencing for MSU will be Roger Loutzenhiser, Terry Givens, Serge Montalvo and Don Satchell in foil; Charlie Baer, Dean Daggett, Pete Kahle and Warren Lucas in sabre and Frank Schuber, Bill Kerner, Ken Sommer-game played against Illinois on Dec. 19. A story in the Chicago Sun Times reports that Erickson feels that, owing to the suspension of two of the Illini's star players, who played against the Badgers, Illinois should forfeit that 87-74 victory to Wisconsin.

The Spartans should go with their usual five of Matthew Aitch, Lee Lafayette, John Holms, Steve Kymal and John Bailey, although Benington said that this will depend on whom Wisconsin starts.

In other games, Illinois is at Purdue; Iowa is at Indiana in a televised game; Michigan is at Minnesota, and Northwestern is at Ohio State.

Runners, Wisconsin stage duel before showdown

By NORM SAARI
State News Sports Writer

A duel before the showdown will be staged between the MSU and University of Wisconsin indoor track teams Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in Jenison Fieldhouse.

The showdown will come a week later in Madison and the Big Ten Championships.

Both teams are undefeated this year, as the Badgers are 4-0 in dual meets and the Spartans have won their only dual of the season and also have taken top unofficial honors at the three relay meets they have entered.

"It looks like it will be a knock-down, drag-out-type meet," MSU

Coach Fran Dittreich said. "On paper, it looks like the mile relay should decide the meet."

The Badgers will be bringing a top line of entries here. One of their top men will be Ray Arrington in the mile (4:12.9), 1000 (2:11.1) and 880 (1:53.0). Aquine Jackson, the top Badger sprinter, has times of 0:06.2 in the 60-yard dash and 0:31.0 in the 300-yard dash so far this year. The mile relay team of Tom Erickson, Rickey Poole, Ray Arrington and Steve Whipple has clocked 3:16.5 this season.

MSU will also be entering a top line of contestants, though. Dick Sharkey, with an 8:51.2 time in the two-mile and 4:12.3 in the mile, leads the Spartans in the distance races.

Dean Rosenberg, Art Link and Dale Stanley will also enter the mile while Eric Zemper and George Balthrop are to run the two-mile.

John Spain, who has run a 1:50.8 half mile in a relay, will enter the 880, along with Roger Merchant and Rosenberg for the Spartans.

One of the top races should come in the 440-yard dash, as Das Campbell, Don Crawford, Bob Steele and Richard Dunn of MSU will be running against Whipple, who has been timed in 0:48.5 for the distance.

Field events entries for MSU are Crawford in the long jump; Dennis Aulrey and Joe Lamb in the shot put; Alan Maibach and Mike Flowers in the high jump and Roland Carter, John Wilcox and Jim Stewart in the pole vault.

The MSU mile relay team, which defeated the Badgers in their dual last year to win the meet, has not yet been selected by Dittreich.

Students will be admitted with I.D. cards.

Eleven mat All-Americans highlight U-M - MSU meet

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

In what could be termed the Super Bowl of Big Ten wrestling, MSU's matmen take on Michigan Saturday at 4 p.m. at Michigan's Yost Fieldhouse.

Both teams are undefeated this season with MSU ranked No. 1 and Michigan No. 6 in the national college ratings.

As proof of the power of the teams, they placed 11 players collectively on the 1967 mid-season All-American rankings compiled by the Amateur Wrestling News. MSU placed eight members on the squad, Michigan three.

MSU's Dale Anderson (137) and George Radman (167) were named to the first team while Don Behm (130) was a second team selection. Receiving honorable mention were Gary Bissell (named at 115 although a 123-pounder all season), Dale Carr (145), Mike Bradley (177), Jack Zindel (191) and Jeff Richardson (heavyweight).

Michigan's heavyweight Dave Porter was named to the first team, 123-pounder Bob Fehrs to the second team, and Jim Kamman honorable mention at 152.

"We're very pleased and very humble," Spartan Coach Grady Peninger said of the ratings. "This should be a shot in the arm for the team for the Michigan meet."

Anderson and Radman are undefeated for MSU this season while Behm has only one loss. Anderson is 16-0 at 137, Radman 15-0 at 167, and Behm 17-1 at 130.

Bissell is 11-5 at 123 and will be called on to face Michigan's Fehrs Saturday. Fehrs is twice NCAA runner-up and defending Big Ten champion at 123.

Carr, the defending Big Ten Champion at 137, is 12-5-1 at 145 this season and will face Michigan's Burt Merical in what Peninger called the meet's "crucial" bout.

Bradley, 10-2-1 at 177 this season, is the defending Big Ten champion at that weight.

Richardson, 6-0-1 at heavyweight, will face his biggest test of the season when he wrestles the Wolverines' Porter. Porter is the defending Big Ten and NCAA champion.

Rounding out the probably MSU line-up will be Dave Campbell at 152, and Don Cox, 160.

Michigan's tentative line-up is Fehrs at 123, Geoffrey Henson at 130, Gordon Weeks at 137, Merical is 145, Fred Stelman at 152, Kamman at 160, Pete Cornell at 177 and Porter at heavyweight.

Peninger rated the teams practically even for the match, with four weight classes favored for each team and the 145 bout a toss-up. But Wolverine Coach Cliff Keen disagreed.

"I'd say MSU has to be favored," Keen said. "They are the No. 1 team in the nation and have a wealth of talent. I will predict that there will be some upsets however, and every bout will be crucial."

Spartan Mat All-Americans

These eight Spartan wrestlers were named by the Amateur Wrestling News to its mid season All-American team today. Named to the first team were Dale Anderson and George Radman (top row 1st and second front left), while Don Behm (top

BATTLE IOWA, U-M

Freshmen g-men perform

The Spartan freshman gymnasts will compete against frosh from Michigan and Iowa tonight at 7:30 in the I.M. Arena in the first Big Ten freshman gym competition to be held at MSU.

The meet is an off-spring of the conference's rule permitting freshman competition. The frosh usually got their only opportunity to compete at the Flint Open, where they also faced varsity performers, competing unattached from team affiliation.

Coach George Szypula, looking forward to see how his frosh will fare against the excellent competition, calls the meet a "tremendous experiment and a worthwhile experience for the boys."

Leading the Spartans is Joe Fedorchik from Belle Vernon, Pa., Pennsylvania state all-around champion, whom Szypula calls one of the finest all-around men in the country.

Fedorchik placed sixth in the Midwest Open held last December. His best events are floor exercise, vault, high bar and parallel bars.

He'll be pressed by Sid Jensen from Michigan and Rick Scorza from Iowa. Scorza's top events are low and parallel bars.

Craig Slutz is the Spartans' key performer on side horse. Trampoline has Randy Campbell, runner-up in the state, from Ionia, and Rich Murahata from Boulder, Col.

Murahata, another all-around performer, will be limited to tramp and parallel bars because of a turned ankle that put him on crutches for several weeks. Szypula expects him to be working all six Olympic events next year. Roy Zboyan from Traverse City will work parallels and rings. Zboyan got his high school experience in suburban Chicago.

Also working parallels is Mike VanWermer from Hillsdale. Szypula said that although he's had little experience in the event he came with much capability and has had extremely rapid development.

Steve Maroldo from south-central New Jersey, has made good progress in rings, despite a lack of experience.

Frosh tankers meet 4 foes

In times past, freshmen swimmers in the Big Ten have known each other by reputation. They never got a chance to face each other in meets.

This year, thanks to a Big Ten rule change, the Spartan freshman swimmers will get a chance to gauge, and be gauged by, the competition that they will face for the next three years.

At 2 p.m. Saturday, the MSU Frosh swimmers will meet their counterparts from University of Michigan, Indiana and Ohio State in a quadrangular meet at the Matt Mann pool in Ann Arbor.

Freshman Coach Dick Fetter's said, "This year's freshman are about as good as those of three years ago." Those seniors left from that team were honored in a ceremony before last weekend's Minnesota meet.

They included much of the MSU strength -- Gary Dilley, co-captains Ed Glick and Ken Walsh, Jack Marsh and Bob Wolf.

The present freshman have already proved that they will present a threat for three years to other Big Ten teams. Early in the month they defeated the U-M Frosh in a closely-contested 66-57 dual meet.

High school All-Americans Bob Burke, Bob Chatfield, Richard Crittenden, Kim Cummings, Mark Holdridge and Bruce Richards all produced first place finishes in individual or relay events, as did Jim Henderson in the one-meter diving.

Fetter's noted that all four teams have strong swimmers.

Fred Southward, Ron Jacks and Steve Ware give Indiana some good men, he said, but a high proportion of scholastic ineligibility among their freshmen last semester could make it difficult for them to put enough men into each event.

Freshman cagers win

MSU's freshman basketball team closed out its three-game season with an 81-63 victory over the Notre Dame Frosh.

Lloyd Ward led the Spartans in scoring with 22, followed by teammate Jim Gibbons, who had 18. Gibbons led both teams in rebounding, 13.

John Gallagher had 22 points to pace the losers.

Southern clergyman claims 'God is against Lent'

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — The Rev. Albert Huntington Hatch leaned back in his chair, opened his jacket to expose a bright red sweater over his clerical shirt, thre his feet up on the desk and explained his conclusion that "God is against Lent."

"I delivered a sermon on it several weeks ago," mused the rector of St. Timothy's Episcopal church in the township of Signal Mountain, near Chattanooga.

"I asked, 'Is God in favor of Lent?' I concluded He was not, because the inactive people just stay that way and the active ones, who have been saved many times before, are the ones who come out for all of these extra kinds of services."

Bert Hatch, 35, who lives with his wife and four children at the adjacent rectory, designated the "Hatchery," said his regular services are not as well-attended as they might be.

"So why should I create more services for our people to feel guilty about," he asked. "I'm just not in the business of creating new sins for people."

His approach to Lent was to bring five popular films, considered controversial even in the nation's theatres, to his sanctuary during Lent for discussions of their religious implications.

The lineup: "The Fountainhead," a story of a young architect who blows up his own creation, a building, because he feels it has been ruined by second-handers.

"The Night of the Iguana," the story of the relationships among a defrocked priest, an earthy widow and a delicate spinster.

"Blue Denim," the story of two teen-agers whose passions have led to an unwanted child but whose consciences direct that their parents not be told.

"A Place in the Sun," a tale of a triangle love affair involving three young people, confused, glamorous, and wealthy respectively.

"The Parable," described as "the" controversial film of the 1965 New York World's Fair. "This is good stuff with a lot of religion in it," Hatch said. "These are stories of the forces men and women are up against and how they meet them. Something doesn't have to be in King James English to make it religious." Hatch was graduated from the University of the South School of Theology in 1956 and four years later, at age 29, was elected to a three-year term on the university's board of trustees.

Baha'i, Hillel set talks for Sunday

Richard Thomas, Detroit freshman, will discuss "The Baha'i Community as a Social Force" with a panel of Baha'is from the University of Michigan at 2 p.m. Sunday in 32 Union.

The panel will discuss the Baha'i role in the present racial crises and international aspects of the Baha'i community.

The meeting is sponsored by the MSU Baha'i Club. Coffee will be served.

The "New Morality" in relation to college youth will be the subject of a discussion headed by Rabbi Frederick Eisenberg at a supper forum at Hillel House at 6 p.m. Sunday.

During the discussion a kosher buffet supper will be served and a social will follow. Everyone is welcome. Students may call 332-1916 for rides.

Meat Fridays can't kill fish market

NEW YORK — Fish sales are increasing rapidly after the drop period two months ago when the Roman Catholic Church ended meatless Fridays.

"Sales went down quite a bit, but they're just about normal now," said Denny Yoshimura, partner in Seattle's Mutual Fish Co.

An Associated Press survey found fishermen reported more people are eating fish on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, thus spreading sales through the week. The industry adds that the novelty of eating meat on Friday is wearing off for many Catholics.

"The Church ruling was followed by a mild slowdown," said Sam Goldstein of Philadelphia, an executive with Liberty Fish, Inc., frozen fish distributor. "Big buyers expected the fish industry to be permanently hurt, but sales soon returned to normal."

IN MODERN THEOLOGY

Bible used metaphorically

By DAYLE SCHWARZLER
State News Staff Writer

The literal God of popular religion is indeed dead. Theologians have thought so for some time—but many people haven't realized it yet, according to both a professor and a minister.

"Most contemporary theology is inclined to think in quite different terms from the traditional view of God," says Robert T. Anderson, associate professor of religion.

Biblical descriptions are taken as metaphorical, not literal, he said in a recent interview. Therefore it is not necessary for a religion to have a God in the ordinary sense.

Rev. Carl Staser of Peoples Church agreed that the traditional kind of God is passe, but he cautioned that "this would be confusing to people in general."

The controversial Bishop Pike, for example, "is actually trying to cut through all the accumulation of belief and practice," Staser said.

"We're kind of latter-day witch doctors and most of us understand this," he said.

"Using our understanding of religion, you can have a religion which seems not to have either an object or center around which the religion is oriented," Rev. Staser explained.

"But I don't think you can have a religion without a God at all," he added. "If the traditional sense means this stereotyped kind of kindergarten level understanding of God, then no, I don't think we need this."

Anderson said that to understand religion we have to be poets in a sense. Something which is transcendent -- above and beyond ordinary experience -- does exist.

"I think that in any field when we have exhausted the empirical and methodological modes of thinking, we stand at the edge of an abyss," he said. "We have not answered everything."

To enter this abyss it is necessary to use metaphors for the transcendent, like "dynamics," "infinite," "pure." In the same way, the scientist needs metaphorical concepts like light waves and light particles," he said.

"The transcendent is the heart of theology," Anderson said. "We see evidence of its existence in the actions of men as they write poetry, produce scripture and worship."

Scripture comes into being because some symbols of the transcendent are more powerful than others. These are incorporated into writings which become the scripture of a religion.

Thus there is no inevitable way to the transcendent, Anderson said. "All our paths are finite paths" and Christ is "symbol of the interaction between the finite and the infinite, between the this-worldly and the other-worldly," Anderson said.

For Rev. Staser God is more personal. He believes God is involved with each person's life.

"In the Christian existentialist view, God wants the very best that it is possible for every person to have in every moment, given what has already happened," Rev. Staser said.

Most ministers believe that God is involved personally with the individual, he said. God does not manipulate people, but rather nudges them to choose wisely.

Christian Movement to meet in Ypsilanti

The University Christian Movement will sponsor a statewide conference March 3-5 at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. The conference is the first of its kind to be held in Michigan. Students, faculty and other college and university persons will discuss questions ranging from the draft and Vietnam to public morality.

George A. Borgstrom, professor of food science, will speak on resource development in relation to the population explosion and starvation.

Among the other speakers will be the Rev. Woody White, of the Inner City Ministry of Detroit, who will discuss "The New Stance for Negroes," and Steve Weissman, leader of a Students for a Democratic Society racial education project in Ann Arbor.

The SDS project is aimed at discovering what education really means and what kinds of educational methods are most effective. The keynote speaker will be Eghal Ahmad, a professor at Cornell University. A native of Pakistan, he is an authority on peasants and guerrilla warfare.

Applications for the conference are available at the United Campus Christian Fellowship office. They must be filled out by Monday. All University people may attend. Transportation is available.

'Word of God' has double meaning

An intelligent 20th-century Christian should realize that the primary meaning of the concept "Word of God" is the Christ event—that is, Christ Himself, according to the Rev. Robert Gardner.

In his talk Wednesday night at the University Episcopal Center, Gardner explained that the secondary meaning of the Word of God is the "Kerigma," or "proclamation of God."

Scripture can only be regarded as the actual Word of God in a tertiary and derivative sense, according to Gardner.

Therefore, contemporary Christians should regard the Bible in an objective, historical manner, he said.

Christ left no written document of his teachings, Gardner said.

PRIEST SAYS

Faiths must get together

By SALLY BOLTON

"Had there been as much interest in the Far East as there is today 50 years ago, the wars with Japan and Vietnam would not have taken place," a Catholic priest said Tuesday night at St. John's Student Center.

The Rev. John Mardon, one of America's leading ecumenists and author of "The Hungry Generation," said a new encounter has developed between the Christianity of the West and the many religions of the East.

Political issues have made interest and knowledge of the East necessary for the West, he said. People fail to realize that nationalism is a unifying element. Also, the communication systems have brought the peoples of the world closer together.

In order to fully understand these people, the West must be familiar with the non-Christian religions of the East, Mardon said.

The most culturally significant religion of the East is Buddhism, whose one billion believers seek a deliverance from suffering through control of their individual desires, Mardon said.

The followers of Hinduism believe all the various western pursuits to be false because God is the only pursuit, he added.

The religion of China differs from western Christianity in its belief that man must be brought up in virtuous surroundings which will not pervert his intrinsically good nature.

The Islam religion places belief in one God above all else, Mardon said. This belief explains why Moslem nations have not enjoyed the prosperity of America: they seek no satisfaction outside God.

Mardon said that East and West once met in a most devastating war and will meet again. They will destroy each other unless they are willing to share what they've both received from God.

'No Exit' at Kiva

These three students rehearse for tonight's and Saturday's performances of Sartre's "No Exit," in which Inez (Joyce Kuzma, left), Estelle (Robin Backinger) and Garcin (Ves Spindler) find themselves together in Hell. The play is being presented in McDonel Kiva as part of the Akers Fine Arts Weekend.

Too much talk, or too little?

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the second of a two-part series describing the various aspects, functions and benefits of the ASMSU Cabinet.

By TRINKA CLINE
State News Staff Writer

One question that has remained unanswered during the two-year existence of ASMSU has been the amount of communication necessary between the cabinet and student board.

Recently, a few board members advocated enforcing the rule that each week one cabinet vice president give a report of his department. These members felt the board should be informed of the progress of cabinet affairs in more detail than the cabinet president's weekly report offers.

However, Terry Hassold, ASMSU Cabinet president, and Jim Graham, ASMSU chairman, state the two organizations communicated too much last year. Graham said the board was too aware of cabinet functions and that this awareness resulted in interference by the board.

Graham contends that it is very healthy to have no more communication between the two than now exists. He said the cabinet president's report is sufficient because the board shouldn't be "bogged down" by mechanics of cabinet projects. "As long as they perform—leave them alone," Graham added.

He feels it is a major strength of the ASMSU structure that the two groups can function separately. "When our (board) image is down and our activity nearly paralyzed over an issue such as the 18-year old vote," Graham continued, "the cabinet continues with its projects unhindered."

He could recall only two significant incidents where the board intervened in cabinet affairs: once over admission charge to the Timothy Leary speech and again concerning the guest list to the Supremes performance.

"After two years under the ASMSU structure," Graham said, "we've finally decided what each man is supposed to do. The cabinet president is an administrator, not a senator."

While agreeing that there can be too much communication, Hassold said that board members need more "background and general knowledge." This lack of basic information, he said, results in lack of consideration in some board actions.

Hassold cited student referendums as an example. He said the board sometimes fails to consider the minimum of time necessary to prepare ballots and set up booths when setting the voting date.

In contrast to Graham's view of the president as an administrator, not a senator, Hassold feels the president should have a vote on the board. According to the present ASMSU Constitution, the cabinet president is a non-voting member chosen by the board.

The normal rationale, Hassold said, is that the president is not representative. But he argued, "he should have at least a vote on cabinet affairs, because he is the only one continually in contact with cabinet doings."

Board members appear to have conflicting views on the president's vote and communications. One board member said there was enough communication but that the cabinet president should have a vote. A few members feel definite steps should be taken to assure more direct communication, but the majority senses no major breakdown.

Take a dance, just any dance

By VALERIE ALBERTS

This weekend is a good time to head homeward if you don't like to dance and don't care for talent shows. There are all types of dances to choose from, everything from a semi-formal affair to a costume dance.

Coeds in university housing will be granted their last 2 a.m. late permission of the term Saturday night.

The biggest event of the weekend is Spinster's Spin, to be held Saturday from 9 to midnight in the Big Ten Room at Kellogg Center.

Coeds attending will pay for the tickets and arrange transportation while their dates go along "for a free ride" to this semi-formal affair.

The highlight of the evening will be the announcement of Mr. MSU and his court.

The All-Campus Talent Show will be held in the Union Ballroom at 8 tonight winding up Union Board Week. Talent includes the performance of folk and jazz groups, dramatic readings and piano concertos.

Venezuelan guitarist Alirio Diaz will play at 8:15 tonight in Erickson Kiva as part of the Asian-Latin American-African Series.

"Charade," starring Audrey Hepburn and Cary Grant, will be shown at 7 and 9:30 tonight in Wilson Auditorium and again at 7 and 9:30 Saturday night in Conrad Auditorium, sponsored by Men's Hall Association and Women's Inter-Residence Council.

Wilson Hall's coffee house complete with folk group entertainment will be held in the terrace lounge from 8:30 to midnight.

Emmons Hall's mixer at Brody begins at 8:30 tonight, complete with go-go girls and the Toniks. The Spontaneous Generation and their go-go girl will be the attraction at the Shaw Hall mixer beginning at 9 tonight.

Holmes Hall will open its coffee house "the Mad Yak" at 9 tonight.

Akers Hall will sponsor the play "No Exit" by Jean Paul Sartre at 7:30 tonight in the McDonel Kiva and again at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

At 11:30 a.m. Saturday on WMSB-TV, Channel 10, "Gamut" will present a televised meeting of the Jazz Society of West Circle Drive.

An all-university costume dance, the Forestry Dept.'s "Shindig," will be held at Demonstration Hall from 8-12 Saturday night.

Fee Hall is sponsoring a Battle of the Bands from 8-12:30 on Saturday night. Featured are: The Cigar Band, Collectors, Francis X, and the Bushmen, The Plain Brown Wrappers and the Road Runners.

Everybody's doing it.

The sitar has captured the fancy of the Western world. You can hear it in pop. In rock. In folk and in jazz. Everyone's experimenting with its fascinating string sound. But Ravi Shankar is its master.

In The Sounds of India, you'll hear the world's foremost sitar virtuoso performing the lyric music of India. And explaining its intricacies. You'll also sample the intriguing sounds of the exotic tabla and tambura, two more authentic Indian instruments. Welcome to the world of India.

Dallas...home of LTV Aerospace

As one of the nation's social, cultural and educational capitals, Dallas offers its residents a clean, modern city, temperate climate, abundant housing and living costs substantially lower than most cities of comparable size. Dallas is also the home of LTV Aerospace Corporation, one of the city's largest industrial citizens and a major participant in the United States' defense efforts.

Current programs include the Navy and Air Force A-7 Corsair II, the new low-level, close support light attack aircraft; SCOUT launch vehicle for NASA, DOD and AEC. XC-142A, the world's most successful V-STOL, ADAM II, a future generation V-STOL and many others.

LTV Aerospace programs challenge the imagination of engineers and create diversified career positions. Ask your Placement Office, then see our representative when he visits your campus. Or write College Relations Office, P.O. Box 5907, Dallas, Texas 75222. An equal opportunity employer.

Daily editor

Rapoport said Thursday that the administration "is not very happy with our brand of journalism of getting things into a story when they happen."

According to Killingsworth, the opposition to Rapoport stems not only from his "hard-hitting brand of journalism, but also from opposition to The Daily's concept of editorial freedom which Rapoport exemplifies."

He said The Daily and Rapoport have been not only hard-hitting but also accurate.

"This is a very disturbing combination to many people," the Killingsworth said. "These people probably wouldn't be so dissatisfied if The Daily were inaccurate."

He said Rapoport's stories published in The Daily had dealt with Berkeley chancellor Roger Heyns, former vice president for academic affairs at U-M, who said he would be happy to return to the university as president upon Hatcher's retirement. Another story dealt with a Defense Dept. report stating that the university is known as one "basically for rich white students."

Both articles drew adverse reaction from the administration. Killingsworth and Rapoport said.

Wednesday 36 Michigan legislators sent a telegram to Hatcher protesting the denial of the editorship to Rapoport.

"We are all friends of the university who have defended and fought for the principle of academic freedom and freedom of speech," the telegram said. "We wish to avoid seeing the university suffer from adverse publicity, marring a great tradition in a great university."

Spaceship replicas in planetarium exhibit

Replicas of the Mercury and Gemini space capsules are now on display in MSU's Abrams Planetarium through Friday from 9 a.m. - noon and from 1 - 4:30 p.m. in the planetarium's Exhibit Hall.

The exhibit, on loan from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, is complete with dozens of photographs tracing U.S. space exploration efforts.

Both space capsule models are one-third their actual size. The Mercury capsule, in which America's first manned orbital flight was made, is complete with its escape tower.

The larger Gemini capsule is lighted from the inside, showing two astronaut models seated at the simulated control panels. Full-color photographs show various phases of the Gemini flights, including the famed space walks, pictures of earth taken from outer space and docking maneuvers with the Agena spacecraft. Also included are life-size figures of astronauts dressed in complete space suits.

In addition to the NASA exhibit, the planetarium is displaying new permanent exhibits that include close-up pictures of the moon and Mars.

The lunar display features photos from the Surveyor landing of last year, and the Mars exhibit is illustrated with pictures from the Mariner IV probe of 1965.

Both the planetarium's Exhibit Hall and Black Light Gallery are open to the public. Regular weekend programs are scheduled to resume in April.

Philco is looking for people who don't know all the answers

As a major subsidiary of Ford Motor Company, Philco is involved in virtually everything that matters to people today. We are fast approaching $1 billion in annual sales to consumer, industrial and government markets. We design sophisticated communications systems... research the unexplored uses of miniaturization... create space age instrumentation... develop television technology... and direct major operations in foreign countries. But we don't pretend to know everything. If you want to help us find the answers to questions still unasked, then we have a place for you. We will be visiting your campus on February 27. Contact your Placement Office. Stop by and talk to us about your future or write to College Relations, Philco Corporation, C and Tioga Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. 19134.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER M/F

All-campus talent competes tonight

Union Board rounds out its week of 50th-anniversary celebration with the All-Campus Talent Show in the Union Ballroom at 8 tonight.

A variety of talents, from jazz dancing to folk singing and dramatic readings, will be demonstrated by the contestants, who are winners of the preliminary dorm complex shows.

Performances will be divided into two categories: individual and group. First and second place winners in each category will appear on the local television show "Gambit" March 25.

Judging criteria will be originality and creativity, quality, poise, enthusiasm and overall feeling of the act. Performances are limited to 10 minutes.

Contestants from West Circle Complex will be Sue Wheatley, Birmingham sophomore; Diana Skentzos, Saginaw junior; and Claudia Cooper, Toledo, Ohio, freshman.

From South Complex will be Diana Butler, Farmington freshman; the Glenn Newton Jazz Group; and Karen Woodson, Detroit senior.

Representing Shaw will be Gary Kelley, Chillicothe, Ohio, sophomore; and Rob Winchester, Jackson junior; Eulalia Briones, Port Huron senior; and the Gary Lewis Jazz Group.

Brody representatives are Jim

Weiss, Highland Park freshman; Chuck Bayer, Birmingham freshman, and the Moscow Mama Four.

Contestants from Northeast Complex will be Denise Locke, Huntington Woods junior; Cheryl Swiderd and Diane Dubiel, both Warren sophomores; and Ray Carbone, Hazel Park sophomore.

Judges for the show will be Mrs. John A. Hannah, Leonard Falcone, director of bands, William Sweetland, professor of education, William Campbell of Campbell's Suburban Shop and Mrs. R.B. Toivonen of Knapp's.

Tickets may be purchased at the Union ticket office and at Campbell's for 50 cents.

Band concert

The University Concert Band, under the direction of Leonard Falcone, will present a concert at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Auditorium.

The composition was commissioned by Leonard Falcone and the Michigan State Band.

What can you
as a marketing man, expect to find
at Mead?

We have a program at The Mead Corporation which we think describes the kind of place we are and could be for you. It's called "Mead on the Move."

In essence, it means we're not content with the leadership we've gained in every area of the paper, pulp and packaging industry (though it's more than sizable). We don't believe, either, even with more than 60 manufacturing operations, over 21,000 employees and a soaring sales chart, that we've begun to hit our stride.

We're after more.

We're after the kind of growth that means unequalled opportunities for everyone who is part of us... particularly graduates of Liberal Arts Colleges, Business and Commerce schools, and especially marketing people.

If you want a spot to grow in, or are interested in non-technical industrial sales, check your placement office for the date our interviewer will visit your campus.
