Policeman killed in Texas Southern U. riot

HOUSTON, Tex. (P) - A rookie policeman died of a gunshot wound Wednesday in a battle between officers and student snipers at Texas Southern University, the state's largest Negro school. Three other persons suffered wounds.

Police said more than 3,000 rounds of ammunition were fired.

While police questioned 488 students arrested during the four-hour dormitory siege, city and school officials sought to discover what led to an outbreak Mayor Louie Welch said amounted to anarchy.

Patrolman Lewis R. Kuba was shot as he crouched on the terrace of the Student Union Building during an assault with some 100 fellow policemen on the dormitory from which students were firing guns and hurling crude fire bombs.

Kuba, 25, died about 7 and 1/2 hours later without recovering consciousness.

While Houston police questioned the Texas Southern students, jamming every available city and county cell, trying to pinpoint the gunmen, Houston Mayor Welch met with the Police Chief Herman Short, the district attorney and the school administration.

Later, Welch said he found a total breakdown of communication between students and administration at the 7,000-student school.

"When that happens, you have anarchy, and that's what we had last night," Welch said, promising a full report to Texas Gov. John Connally. TSU is a state-supported school.

The Rev. Marvin Griffin of Waco, Tex., chairman of TSU's board, said he would confer with the governor.

"Once we find the students who precipitated the violence, we will get rid of them," he said.

TSU's acting president, Dr. Joseph A. Pierce, professed bewilderment. "I drove past the campus about 9:30 to 10 last night and all was peaceful," he said. "I went to bed."

Tuesday had been an unusually heavy day of protest actions in Houston. A total of 64 arrests were made in separate demonstrations at a city dump Negroes want closed and at a suburban junior high school where 14 white and Negro students were expelled for fighting.

Ten persons blockading the entrance to the dump, which Negroes call a health hazard, were taken by police to a conversation with Welch, who urged a halt to the protest.

HOUSE COMMITTEE DECIDES

Student draft deferments may be insured by law

WASHINGTON (P) - The House Armed Services Committee voted Wednesday to insure continued draft deferments for college students by writing them into the law.

The committee, working toward final action on a bill extending the Selective Service System for four more years, also decided to recommend giving Congress veto power over any presidential decision to institute a lottery style draft.

The Senate has passed a four-year extension of Selective Service, but its bill would leave the final decisions on college deferments and a lottery system to President Johnson.

'Gentle Parental Weekend': ASMSU proclaims a love-in

By LAUREL PRATT
State News Staff Writer

In the wee-est hours of Wednesday morning the ASMSU Student Board voted unanimously to "declare the weekend of May 19 - 20 Gentle Parental Weekend, and call upon the students of MSU to greet the older generation - whose burdens are heavy - with gentleness and love." Therefore, this weekend is Gentle Thursday all over again, only for two days and with a special direction.

Viewpoint

This time students are specifically urged to be gentle and loving to parents and friends arriving on campus for Parent's Weekend.

The kind of celebrations that went on Gentle Thursday will go on this weekend, naturally. But there will be others, too - special ways of showing this unbelievably beautiful campus to people and teaching them (and perhaps learning) that "in time of daffodils (who know the goal of living is to grow) forgetting why, remember how in time of lilacs who proclaim the aim of waking is to dream, remember so (forgetting seem) in time of roses (who amaze our now and here with paradise) forgetting if, remember yes in time of all sweet things beyond whatever mind may comprehend remember seek (forgetting find)..."

e. e. cummings

For the world is a beautiful place to be born into, in spite of all the things that are wrong with it, and our parents are responsible for bringing us into it. But our parents, who undoubtedly have known this, are often too busy working in the world to enjoy it - as are many of us.

This weekend is a nearly-if-not-quite last chance this term to stop and look and wonder and point out what you see to someone who hasn't had time to see it.

GREEN URGES RESIGNATION

Mrs. Romney hit on club ties

Associate professor Robert L. Green, former Education Director of Martin Luther King's Southern Leadership Conference, has sent a letter to the wife of Gov. George Romney asking her to resign from a Detroit Club because of its racial discrimination policy.

In a letter to Mrs. Lenore Romney dated May 17, Green said he was distressed to read in a New York Times article of May 14 that Mrs. Romney is a member of a Women's City Club of Detroit "which has a rigid racial discrimination policy regarding Negro women."

"The article stated that Negro women are not only barred from admission to the club but they are also barred from the second floor lounge and from eating in the club dining room," the letter said.

Green said Tuesday that copies of the letter are being sent to Gov. Romney; King; Whitney Young, head of the National Urban League; Floyd McKissick, head of the Congress on Racial Equality; Roy Wilkins, director of the NAACP and Harold Brown, the new leader of the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee.

Referring to the question raised over Gov. Romney's membership in the Mormon Church, which has restrictive policies regarding Negroes, the letter asked Mrs. Romney if the Negro community must be reminded that the Romneys belong to institutions with admission policies based on race.

"I call upon you to provide active leadership in demonstrating that your behavior is consistent with past statements made by you and Gov. Romney regarding equality of opportunity, by immediately resigning from the Women's City Club of Detroit," the letter said.

"Gov. Romney is a key political figure who has national aspirations," Green said. "It is time Lenore Romney exhibited leadership and resigned from the club."

He said if Mrs. Romney doesn't resign, he is sure it will damage her husband's political image.

Senate doves warn Hanoi U.S. won't quit unilaterally

WASHINGTON (P) - Sixteen Senate critics of U.S. Vietnam policy told Hanoi Wednesday they oppose unilateral American withdrawal and advised the White House that their dissent will continue.

At the same time, the dissenters, 14 Democrats and two Republicans, said they represent a minority view in the United States.

Their message in essence: Internal criticism of U.S. war policies does not mean that the nation will one day quit the conflict without an honorable settlement.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, has charged that criticism and demonstrations in the United States are leading the Communists to believe that American determination will weaken, and thus are prolonging the war.

"I do not believe the argument that the continuing debate in this country is 'prolonging the war in Vietnam,'" said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, author of the joint statement.

But he said the statement should insure that the Communists will not misinterpret American debate over war policies.

"There are no doubt many citizens of the United States who share our expressed misgivings about the growing American involvement in Vietnam," the statement said.

"But there are many more who either give their full endorsement to our government's policy in Vietnam, or who press for even greater military action there."

"We hope this assessment will be received in the spirit in which it is written - as a good faith effort to provide factual information," the statement said.

"We believe it essential to a realistic quest for peace that the nature of the dissent in this country, prevailing among those who have criticized our government's policy in Vietnam, be accurately understood and assessed by the government of North Vietnam."

Church said the 16 senators are not sending their message to Hanoi, but assume that it will be read by the Communists in public print.

"It's the prerogative of the President to communicate directly with Hanoi, not the prerogative of senators of the United States," he said.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk saw the statement in advance, but Church said the document was not prepared in collaboration with the administration.

Church said he took it to Rusk to determine whether the message might interfere with any undisclosed U.S. peace effort.

"He assured me that it would not," Church said.

"The debate will continue," Church said. "With the stakes mortally high, we must not permit the stifling of dissent in the United States."

"We must not fall silent out of timidity or despair, whatever the political retribution," he said. He would not elaborate on that point.

In their joint statement, Church and his associates said the war is at an acute phase and "It would be tragic indeed if there were any misconception in Hanoi about the realities of the political situation in the United States."

"The signers of this declaration, both Democrats and Republicans, share the conviction that the tragic war in Vietnam should be ended by negotiation of a mutually acceptable agreement. However, in the absence of such a settlement, we remain steadfastly opposed to any unilateral withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam."

"We hold to this position, regardless of our partisan differences, because we believe it to be right. We are certain that the American people, in overwhelming number, uphold the same position."

The statement was signed by Republican Sens. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon; and by Democrats Church, George McGovern of South Dakota, J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Frank E. Moss of Utah, E. L. Bartlett of Alaska, Lee Metcalf of Montana, Vance Hartke of Indiana, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Quentin Burdick of North Dakota, Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Stephen M. Young of Ohio, and Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

Church said other senators - he would not say how many - had declined to sign the statement. He estimated there are between 20 and 25 senators who have criticized the conduct of the war, and said he had offered every one of them an opportunity to sign.

US rights bill proposed for Freedom Report

The ASMSU Student Board recommended Tuesday night that five amendments be added to the Academic Freedom Report. The amendments, included in the United Student bill of rights, are:

--the University not discriminate in its regulations on the basis of sex;

--no one be allowed to enter a student's room except with a search warrant, by invitation, or in the case of an emergency;

--no student be tried twice for the same offense either by the University, the state, or both;

--an accused student have the right to confront his accuser;

--a student be considered innocent of an offense until proven guilty.

The amendment on sex discrimination has implications for University policies such as coeds' hours and guest policies. Both these regulations apply solely on the basis of sex.

Brad Lang, member-at-large who introduced the amendments, said, "We're not trying to be sneaky. We're bringing up a constitutional question."

Lang said that rights which students have under the United States constitution are being denied students while in attendance at MSU.

If accepted, this amendment would not automatically be retroactive but would have to be tested, he said.

The second amendment, on the entry of students' living quarters, is based on the belief that privacy is a basic human right, the amendment reads.

The last three proposed amendments to the Academic Freedom Report all involve the judicial process.

"The most important of these is that a student is innocent until proven guilty," Lang said.

He pointed out that there are many University regulations now in existence which require a student to prove his innocence.

To further emphasize student board's position Jim Friel, president of Off Campus Council, introduced a motion saying that the Academic Freedom Report states students maintain their full rights as citizens and that MSU regulations presently exist which are in violation of these rights.

ASMSU sets a marijuana referendum

By ELLEN TURKEY
State News Staff Writer

Whether or not you're hot on pot will be surveyed in an ASMSU referendum June 1.

Jim Sink, chairman of the ASMSU fact finding committee on marijuana, suggested to student board Tuesday that the referendum be held to gain student opinion on the legalizing of the intoxicant.

Marijuana was legal and used as an additive to cigarettes before the 1936 Federal Drug Act.

The ASMSU committee was established to study the research which recently has been done on marijuana and to report its findings back to student board.

The committee's findings after interviewing doctors and reading reports from federal agencies show, almost unanimously, that marijuana is now misclassified as an addictive drug.

The referendum will seek to establish how students feel about the intoxicant's re-legalization.

The ballot will read, "I support the reclassification of marijuana as an intoxicant and its subsequent re-legalization with appropriate controls and restrictions on its use."

Results of the referendum may be used as guidelines by the student board in deciding to support a bill coming before the Michigan legislature which calls for Pass-fail system?

By ANDREW MOLLISON
State News Executive Reporter

Some more questions about the grading system today.

If you can't make it to the open hearing on grades in McDonell Kiva at 7:30 tonight, why not call me today between noon and 2 p.m. to express your opinion?

I'll relay your message to the faculty committee.

Are you in favor of a pass-fail grading system?

--for University College courses?

--for 100 and 200 courses?

--for 300 and 400 courses?

--for all courses outside your major?

--on an experimental basis in certain courses in certain colleges?

If different departments use different grading systems, will it confuse people reading your transcript?

Would you prefer a grading system using plus and minus or percentage grades?

Why have a grading system?

Why not?

In order to get into upper college, should you need:

--a 2.00 grade point average?

--a 1.80 grade point average?

--permission of the college?

I scream, you scream . . .

We all scream for ice cream--but after the dairy store closes July 1 we'll be screaming in vain. Prudy Connin, Lansing freshman (center) and Genny Antonson, South Haven freshman, will be among the students who miss that midday cone.

Cast your fate to IBM

After a year of discussion and research into grading, a subcommittee of the Educational Policies Committee (EPC) has developed a tentative list of recommendations for revisions in MSU's present system.

While the entire study will be open for discussion at tonight's open hearing for students at 7:30 in the McDonel Kiva, it is the first, and most controversial proposal, that should cause the most comment.

The EPC subcommittee recommends that instead of University-wide revision of the grading system, there be free experimentation with marking at the departmental level.

At first, this might appear to be no solution at all, adding nothing to the situation but confusion. The committee, however, has based this unusual proposal on a sound premise.

Marks, to be at all meaningful, should be flexible at the lowest level possible. Varying curricula across so many different departments make it difficult to find one system capable of satisfying everyone.

While a plus-minus, or 15 point scale might appeal to some professors, others might prefer a less discriminating, pass-fail, or C-plus system. The prime consideration should be motivation for and communication with, the student, on a lower level.

The problems in any such system are of course many. Grad schools and employers require the all-University grade point to differentiate among the thousands of applicants from MSU and other universities. And converting 10 or 15 varying systems into one figure would require a confusing, if not incomprehensible, computerized formula.

Leaving grading up to the departments also makes the not-so-automatic assumption that everyone will take his own long hard look at the entire process and meaning of evaluation.

This is what distinguishes the EPC report from being a mere passing of the academic buck--it would encourage the variety of experimentation and innovation that so characterize any progressive institution. By students tonight, and by faculty in the weeks ahead, it should be given careful consideration.

OUR READERS' MINDS

Outside 'original ideals'?

To the Editor:

Jeanne Schulze's letter of May 12 is disturbing for a number of reasons but perhaps most of all because it seems to prove that U Thant's assertion that Americans are psychologically preparing themselves for a third world war is true.

First of all Miss Schulze implies that Martin Luther King's "completely uninhibited" denunciation of the United States government's handling of the Vietnam war is somehow un-American and outside the tradition of the "original ideals of our land" -- as if the bombing of North Vietnam is within that tradition.

Rather, it seems if there are any "original ideals" in America to begin with, one of them is the right to dissent. For after all, who were the first people to settle America? Unless I misread American history, weren't they draft dodgers, religious and political dissenters (atheists and anarchists, you know), thieves and debtors. In short, people who had dropped out of the mainstream of European life because it was suffocating and stratified and were being turned on by the promise of a new kind of life in America.

I don't think it's necessary to point out that this tradition extends from Peter Zenger and the revolutionary satirists through Thoreau up to Martin Luther King.

For this reason alone it seems inappropriate to dump in the same bag, Martin Luther King, whose Vietnam policy

Weather decried

To the Editor:

OPEN LETTER TO PARTICIPANTS AND OFFICIALS IN LM, SOFTBALL, SOCCER, TRACK AND TENNIS.

The weather this spring has consistently been the most miserable weather for outdoor participation in my memory. The first six weeks in which the various tournaments and leagues were conducted have averaged 42 degrees. Only six nights of the six weeks have been above 50.

The Intramural staff would like to express their appreciation to the participants and officials (both men and women) for their patience and cooperation while having to participate in weather really unsuitable for these activities.

Grading: student vanguard

"Student participation in academics is just beginning, and with a show of student support it could go very far."

The relationship is very good, for all concerned.

According to Skip, the faculty, when he was first appointed were eager for his opinions as many of them were admittedly unaware of the student perspective.

It's odd how all this came about.

I was sitting one day during Winter term having lunch in the Kellogg Center, when I was approached by an individual who introduced himself as Jack Kinsinger, chairman of the Educational Policy Committee of the Academic Council, and indicated to me that he wanted an appointment to the subcommittee on grading.

I was sort of stunned for a moment, not being used to breakthroughs happening quite as easily.

ASMSU labored for six weeks for a seat on the Committee on Undergraduate Education, and got nothing. Yet, without any arguments or discussions, at all, the students had secured a seat in this very significant committee.

Such are the ways things sometimes happen.

It indicates basically two things.

First, it shows what can be done in the academic area in the future. When I addressed the Academic Council in January (I'm told I was the first student to do so) we had nothing structurally within the academic system, short of an honoraries committee in the University College. Today, we have grading study influence, advisory committees in some departments and colleges, an advisory committee to the Provost, the faculty Committee on Committees is looking into where students could participate, and we see a real beginning in student course and teacher appraisal and evaluation.

Which, as a second point, indicates one of the several unheralded accomplishments of last year's student board which was buried on page five, while some matter over $50 crowded the front page.

Student participation in academics is just beginning, and with a show of student support it could go very far.

During an appointment with Howard Neville, MSU's chief academic officer, I was arguing the virtues of a student seat on the Committee on Undergraduate Education. He turned to me, and asked whether I really thought my constituency had any real interest in it that they would be willing to show openly and actively.

I was forced to say "no" at the time.

Whether we have a pass-fail, percentage, or minus-plus system of grading is probably not the most burning issue in the world, but it's something that merits serious student consideration.

Students like Skip Rudolf have been in the vanguard, now it's up to the rest of us to show real support.

The open hearings for student and faculty opinion are tonight, at 7:30, in McDonel Kiva. Now we have the opportunity to really have an influence on this academic question.

The faculty will be interested in seeing how much actual interest there is. It's up to you and me to show them.

TED MILBY

Volunteer military state?

drafted, or pressured by the draft into enlisting.

If the army were set up on a completely voluntary basis the men in it would probably enlist for long hitches. This would encourage identity with and loyalty to the army. Furthermore they would consider an attack on the army or on a general (the Truman-McArthur controversy for instance) as an attack on them personally.

Mercenaries

These men would be professional soldiers (mercenaries if you will) and their stake in society would be the army.

Currently a military coup in this country is virtually impossible, even if the generals decided to try one, the rank and file soldier would not support them. After ten years of a mercenary army, this question would not be so certain. Our fighting men would be soldiers first and Americans second, not Americans first and soldiers second.

There has been much concern in this country, from President Eisenhower to C. Wright Mills, about the industrial military complex. If the generals had a hard core professional force to support them, this complex, from the added voting strength alone, would be much more powerful.

A second dangerous side effect would be to force the government into a greatly upgraded propaganda campaign to multiply the pressures to stifle dissent.

Currently the government could not get all the men it needs for military action regardless of pay if it were not for the draft. In order to meet current needs it would be necessary to whip up the enthusiasm of the masses and encourage a spirit of jingoism in order to induce sufficient numbers to volunteer to be cannon fodder.

To do this would require a propaganda machine of immense power, one whose use was in the hands of the executive and out of control of Congress. The existence of such a machine is incongruous in a free society. Furthermore, since dissidents would greatly interfere with the functioning of the propaganda mill, there would be increased, if not unbearable, pressure to stifle them.

In addition to the undesirable effects this propaganda machine would have at home it would make our foreign policy increasingly inflexible.

Back to Grandma

The volunteer army is a throwback to a former age when armies were small and wars were glorious. It is entirely out of place in an age of foxholes, bush wars, huge armies and prolonged crises.

Even with a maximum propaganda effort it would probably be impossible to maintain the size of army we need for our present commitments.

This would decrease the country's defenses appreciably, for in case of a sudden need for troops there would be no trained men available.

While there is much to be said for decreasing U.S. military commitments and activities this would not be done by shackling our leaders by cutting their disposable resources.

Furthermore, if, in a sufficiently severe crisis, the government did whip up the public enthusiasm needed to increase the volunteer rates, it would be forced by the public sentiment its own propaganda had drummed up to continue the war even though the situation might have changed and continuation was no longer advisable.

In this situation the use of troops could be just as serious and just as total as using the bomb. Indeed, using troops could force the government to use bombs.

Discrimination

A third undesirable effect on the volunteer army would be the social discrimination involved. The people who could be influenced by the propaganda appeals, who could be lured by the salaries in the army, who would be forced into uniform by unemployment would be almost entirely from the lower classes and disproportionately Negro.

Senator Edward Kennedy's recent statement that an all volunteer army would be an all Negro army was probably an overstatement, but he had the right idea. This is one additional kind of discrimination we can do without.

The notion of a volunteer army gains its greatest attraction because it promises the youth of our country exemption from draft, and this is probably the major reason for its support on campus.

Even so, I would personally rather take my chances with the draft (especially under a lottery system) than with having the military as a domestic force, with increased discrimination in the armed forces, with a huge propaganda machine, and a shackled foreign policy which might, if enough steam were generated by propaganda, be so inflexible that it could easily lead to nuclear war.

Regardless of the pressures for a volunteer army and attraction in abolishing the draft, we must recognize the dangers inherent in the proposal and not succumb to the temptations to adopt it.

International News

- Two Americans charged with sabotage in Yemen arrived in Ethiopia Wednesday, free on $1,000 bond. U.S. officials say the Yemen government's decision to let the Americans leave Yemen is a strong indication the court case against the two U.S. citizens will be dropped. The two were charged with trying to destroy an ammunition dump in Yemen with bazooka rockets and had been held since April 25. The incident led the U.S. to withdraw its Foreign Aid Mission and suspend foreign aid to the country. On May 15 however, the U.S. deposited bail on the two and they were released. The two were identified as Stephen Liapis, 33, of Grand Forks, N.D., and Harold Hartman, 36, of Baltimore, Md. Liapis and Hartman were working for the bureau of public roads under an Agency for International Development contract. See page 6.
- Communist terrorists trained in North Vietnam are intensifying their infiltration of Thailand, Deputy Prime Minister Praphas Charusathien of Thailand said Wednesday. Thai government estimates put the number of terrorists at 1,000 armed men and 8,000 supporters. See page 6.
- U.N. Secretary-General U Thant canceled a European trip Wednesday because of what he described as the "potentially very grave" situation in the Middle East. See page 7.
- Egyptian troops poured out of Cairo Wednesday toward the Israeli border. Both Syria and the United Arab Republic, professing to see a military threat from Israel, put their armed forces on full alert.
- "No to full powers" was the chant of thousands of Frenchmen Wednesday against the government's request for emergency economic powers as a 24-hour general strike slowed the country to a walk. Both strike and the Paris demonstration were aimed at the government's request to the National Assembly to rule by decree on economic and social matters until Nov. 1. It was not clear why the government is seeking emergency powers.
- Cosmos 159 was launched by the Soviet Union Wednesday into a cigar-shaped orbit with an unusually high maximum distance from the earth.
- A joint committee of some Hong Kong Chinese has been set up under the auspices of Chinese trade unions in the British crown colony of Hong Kong to oppose British "imperialist sanguinary suppression," a Peking broadcast said Wednesday.
- Laws governing South Vietnam's presidential elections this September have been completed by the South Vietnamese Provisional Legislative Assembly.

Michigan News

- Michigan Republicans and Democrats agreed Wednesday to compare their caucus results on the question of Governor Romney's tax package.
- Michigan's State Board of Canvassers said Wednesday "it is the statutory duty of the board to listen to arguments" as an explanation of its failure to act May 10 on controversial petitions on Daylight Saving Time. The statement added that the board hopes to dispose of the issues involved in the petitions: sufficiency and validity of petition signatures, validity of the form of the petitions, and timeliness of the filing of the petitions, by its next meeting on May 24.
- The U.S. exhibit at Montreal's Expo '67 was "pretty good on the outside, but full of trivia on the inside," Gov. George Romney said Wednesday after returning from the fair. See page 5.
- Another "little black book," similar to other address books seized in a Detroit raid on the Greek Gardens restaurant last year, has been reported by the Detroit News. The existence of the address book has been a closely guarded secret, the News said. The book allegedly contains names of public officials and policemen who consorted or accepted gifts from Gostas Gus Colacides, owner of the Greek Gardens restaurant. This fourth book has been examined by a six-member board headed by Police Commissioner Ray Girardin. But it was not possible to find anything of an incriminating nature against the officers whose names were in the book, the News said. The other three books were ruled inadmissible as evidence in the Detroit Recorder's Court examination last June of Colacides and his night manager on police bribery charges.

Soviet navy threat in Mediterranean

ROME (AP) — The commander of the U.S. 6th Fleet reported a growing Soviet naval challenge in the Mediterranean Sea Wednesday.

And in Moscow, the commander in chief of the Soviet navy accused the United States of causing last week's two ship-bumping incidents during American maneuvers in the Sea of Japan.

U.S. 6th Fleet shadowed

Vice Adm. William L. Martin said Soviet vessels sailed into his 6th Fleet formations in the Mediterranean and followed U.S. ships for days. He called the Soviet build-up over the past several years a significant threat to the 6th Fleet—for 20 years the strongest naval force in the Mediterranean.

In Moscow, Adm. Sergei G. Gorshkov said U.S. ships had come within 80 miles of the Soviet coast in the Pacific.

He questioned what Americans would think if "Soviet rocket carriers and submarines started training near San Francisco or New Orleans." He said the U.S. destroyer Walker caused the collisions by breaking rules of the sea.

In Sasebo, Japan, Cmdr. Stephen W. McClaren of Santa Barbara, Calif., captain of the Walker, said he believed the Soviet destroyers that brushed his ship in the Sea of Japan were trying to force it out of position. He blamed the incidents on "miscalculations in judgment" by the Russians and said he doubted that the collisions were intentional.

Martin told the American Club of Rome, a group of U.S. businessmen and diplomats, there have been no such incidents in the Mediterranean. But he said the surveillance of his fleet by Soviet ships has created "a dangerous situation for us and for them."

Martin said the Russian ships include trawlers with electronic gear, surface vessels able to launch surface-to-surface missiles, missile-carrying patrol boats and submarines, some with missile capability.

The U.S. fleet includes aircraft carriers, missile-firing cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

In an interview in the Soviet government paper Izvestia, Adm. Gorshkov said, "American officers and admirals imagine themselves to be masters of the world's oceans. They believe they can commit arbitrary actions in any region of the world."

Gorshkov said the first of several "impudent actions" occurred May 9 when a U.S. destroyer maneuvered dangerously close to a Soviet destroyer and crossed its bow several times.

The next day, he said, Soviet ships were seven or eight miles away when the Walker sought them out.

He said the Walker had its fenders down to protect the hull close to the waterline and this was a sign it was looking for trouble.

"Anybody who understands a little bit about the sea must realize that the commander of a ship that within 20 hours had two collisions must have acted with evil intentions," Gorshkov said.

Benefit for rich nations seen in tariff agreement

An AP News Analysis
By CARL HARTMAN

GENEVA (AP) — Rich countries stand to grow richer by new business from the successful "Kennedy Round" of trade talks, but the poorer nations emerged Tuesday as half-forgotten after five years of effort.

Only half-forgotten, though. The big powers are becoming more interested in doing something practical to keep communism from becoming more attractive in countries where people are increasing faster than the means of feeding them.

Even though the Kennedy Round did not fulfill all their wishes, the representatives of the poorer countries hope that there will still be something in it for them. "It was good in that it made people see that it has to better," said Carlos Valenzuela, Chile's representative in the Kennedy Round and a leader in the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development.

The poorer nations — "less-developed countries" in the jargon of diplomacy — still may get some advantages. A U.S. effort failed last week to get them a fat one all at once: the immediate benefit of tariff cuts spaced out for the wealthier countries over four or five years. This would have given them a favored position in world trade for half that time, anyhow.

By then, something more may be worked out.

For example, if the fledgling shoe industries in India and Argentina could get a big tariff cut all at once in the United States, it could do them a lot of good before the huge Italian shoe-manufacturing companies could cash in.

In the statement at the end of the talks Monday it was noted how valuable this benefit would be. So the participating countries agreed that they must try "to secure the best advance implementation of such concessions."

Representatives of the poor countries looked askance at that phrase.

"The best." They thought the statement would have been stronger without it.

But they were pleased that the urging was there. They let it be known that their whole view of the Kennedy Round would be colored by how much compliance appeared.

They complained that the richer countries were ready enough to let in raw materials such as copper ingots from Chile and animal skins from Argentina under low tariffs.

"There's no special merit in that," said Valenzuela. "Their industries need such things anyhow."

It was a different story, he went on, when it came to cutting the rates on products that the poorer countries could make with their relatively cheap labor and hold down unemployment — copper wire, for example, or leather shoes.

The representatives of the poorer countries appreciate the international food-aid plan created by the Kennedy Round. But they are worried that American negotiators see it just as much as a way of getting hard cash for their wheat from other advanced countries, as a way of helping their neighbors.

Agency cites Navy waste

WASHINGTON (AP) — Waste and inefficiency by the Navy and a huge contractor combine pushed up construction costs unnecessarily during the rapid build-up of U.S. forces in Vietnam, the General Accounting Office (GAO) charged Wednesday.

The congressional watchdog agency cited such things as "property being pilfered, stolen and misappropriated," use of higher quality than usual material, shipping by air instead of ship such things as darts and dartboards.

"Our survey," GAO said, "indicated that neither the Navy nor the contractor was adequately equipped to handle the massive expansion of the construction program in late 1965 and the first half of 1966."

But GAO acknowledged that the pressures of war were partly to blame and management problems were a direct result of the speed required.

And it said the contractor's over-all performance "is considered by the Navy to have been excellent under the conditions prevailing in Vietnam." Although the work crews in almost every location were exposed to enemy fire, they met and exceeded military goals for completing airfields, harbors and other projects, the agency added.

Golfer Brewer Colonial favorite

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Masters Champion Gay Brewer, who likes "to move the ball around," isn't a bit abashed by the fact he's been tabbed the favorite for the $115,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament opening Thursday.

"It's the type of course I should be able to play," said Brewer of the exacting 7,132-yard par 35-35-70 Colonial Country Club layout which usually plays like a bearded National Open test where pars are tough and birdies tougher to come by.

Even par 280 won last year for Australian Bruce Devlin and three other former champions, but on seven different occasions the winner has been able to pick up the big check with totals ranging from 261 to 285.

"It has particularly the type of driving holes I like," Brewer said. "You have to fade some of them, you have to hook some of them. You know, I like to work the ball around."

writers, but there are plenty of other men in the field who prefer to play the sterner courses since they command the full range of the player's talents.

Despite the extra length of the Colonial layout, which winds along the steep Trinity River banks, it isn't necessarily a power hitter's paradise.

Jack Nicklaus, for example, has shot 283, 284 and 292 in his three visits here as a pro.

Palmer, aside from his 281 winning year in 1962, has scored from 286 to 312.

And, Billy Casper, who won here in 1964 with a 279, has ranged between 283 and 297.

In fact, Doug Sanders — the 1961 champion with his 281 — just may be the top challenger of the group.

Over the past five years he's competed, Sanders has the lowest scoring average of any of the name stars. He's played those 20 rounds at an average of 71.25 strokes.

Frank Beard, the hottest piece of merchandise on the tour at the present time, has visited Colonial's angry acres but three times and never fared very well.

Beard shot 288 the past two times out to finish 20th and 22nd and was 27th with a 293 in 1964.

But, golfing being the erratic game it is, there really is no foretelling.

Gene Washington and Das Campbell

Top foursome picked for Walker Cup golf

SANDWICH, England (UPI) — The American and British captains announced Wednesday they have decided on their foursomes pairings for Friday's start of the Walker Cup Golf Match, but neither would reveal them.

However, it was freely forecast that the Americans would put Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael, Calif., with Bob Murphy of Gainesville, Fla.; Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., with Jack Lewis of Wake Forest College and Ed Tutwiler of Indianapolis with Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla.

Captain Jesse Sweetser has still not decided on which two he will field from the remaining four but it was expected he would line up Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla., with Jim Grant of Hartford, Conn.

The draw for the first days play — involving four foursomes in morning and eight singles in afternoon play — will be made Thursday.

Big news in British camp was Captain Joe Carr's announcement that he would "play somewhere," Carr originally intended to captain from the sidelines, but a few weeks back hit a hot streak and pressure was on him to play.

"I'll go in somewhere, I'm playing so well and like the course so much I feel I should play," Carr refused to say just where he would put himself but it was expected it would be in the first day.

His pairing is expected to be Mike Bonallack and Michael Attenborough, Carr and Tom Craddock, Ronnie Shade and Peter Oosterhuis, and Sandy Saddler with Rodney Foster.

Track co-captains looking for third outdoor team title

By NORM SAARI
State News Sports Writer

When a track team has won three Big Ten titles and was runner-up twice in the past five championships, it's safe to assume top-notch leadership.

And for the past two years, the MSU trackmen have received that leadership from Co-Captains Gene Washington and Das Campbell.

This weekend, the Spartans travel to Iowa City for the 67th Annual Big Ten Outdoor Track Championships and co-captains Campbell and Washington hope to make it three outdoor team titles in a row for MSU.

"They have been the best co-captains the Michigan State track team has had in years," Coach Fran Dittrich said. "They work efficiently with the boys and me to keep the team together and have good leadership qualities. We are very fortunate to have them here in more ways than one."

Along with their leadership qualities, both Washington and Campbell have turned in outstanding performances on the MSU track.

Washington has won five Big Ten hurdle championships and one NCAA crown in track to go along with his All-American honors in football. He sacrificed playing in the Hula Bowl to run track this year and has not yet negotiated with the Minnesota Vikings, the professional football team that drafted him.

"I really hate to say this is the last time," Washington said. "There are a great bunch of guys on the team, dedicated and hard working. Track has given me a lot of great memories, I hope I can go out a winner."

"I've always admired the coaches and athletic director Biggie Munn," Washington said. "They have given me and all the teams I have been on great inspiration."

Washington will compete in the 120-yard high hurdles, 220-yard dash and run anchor leg of the quarter-mile relay this weekend.

Campbell could easily be the busiest man in the Big Ten meet. He will enter the 440-yard dash, 220, and run legs of both quarter mile and mile relay. If he makes it into the finals of all events, he will have to run in nine races.

But Campbell doesn't mind the busy schedule. As a junior, he broke his foot during the early season indoors and could not compete.

Outdoors he had a pulled hamstring muscle but still managed a fourth in the 220. During his sophomore year, he finished third in the 220 and second in the quarter mile outdoors.

Injuries kept Campbell out of competition for most of the past indoor season, but he returned for the championship and took second in the 300 and ran on the second place mile relay team.

His legs are both sound now, though.

"This is going to be the last one," Campbell said. "I've been running in meets now for 12 years. You like to leave on a good note."

"We beat ourselves indoors, but it won't happen again," Campbell said. "All the guys seem to be up and we don't have anyone hurt, so if we lose this meet, it won't be from any outside factors."

Freshman golfers give Fossum 'Big Time' hopes

By HAROLD DEAN
State News Sports Writer

Maybe it's just a wild dream, a way out dream of winning the Big Ten and the NCAA Championship that keeps Golf Coach Bruce Fossum awake at night.

But more likely it's the performances of a couple freshman players and the expectation of what next year could be like.

Fossum has been recruiting the best golfers he can find in and around Michigan. His aim is to make Spartan golf — "big time."

Freshman golfers Lee Edmundson and Lynn Janson think big and are considered by Fossum as the "two best players in the state."

Edmundson, from Ludington, was the high school medalist two years in a row and would like to eventually compete on the pro circuit.

The medium-sized Edmundson in 1965 finished 16th in the United States Golf Assn. National Tournament and the following year finished first in both the Michigan Amateur and Michigan Open.

Edmundson started playing golf when he was seven-years-old. His father, a former Lincoln Hill Country Club champion, introduced him to the game and Lee has played ever since.

"I'm a self-made golfer. I didn't style myself after any particular golfer," Edmundson said. "A number of people just helped me to put different parts of my game together."

Janson, on the other hand, didn't start playing golf until his freshman year in high school. Janson was a fifth team all-state guard in high school and dreamed of playing basketball at a small college.

However, Janson decided to see if he was good enough as a golfer to play at a big school. He hasn't regretted his decision nor has Fossum.

Janson, a 6'-2 1/2" and 175 pounder from East Lansing, won the Lansing City Public Championship two years in a row. Janson also played in the state tournament. He won the Warwick Hills Country Club tournament and the Lansing City tournament.

Both Janson and Edmundson are roommates and serious about the game of golf and their dedication is paying off.

"Both have great potential," Fossum said. "Both are excellent players right now and both can give you consistent low rounds."

"If they continue to improve they could be the best MSU has ever had. Right now they could play for the varsity but they still have to tee-up under varsity competition. That's when we'll find out."

In the MSU varsity golf tournament of 1966, Janson hit a 292 and was medalist for the tournament but this was not official because of his class standing. Edmundson finished with 311 good for a tie for 7th place.

Competing in the frosh tournament at Columbus, Ohio, Edmundson shot the lowest score of the season by an MSU golfer with a 70.

Janson and teammate Toby Burt both shot a 77 finish in a tie behind Edmundson for MSU. The freshman team defeated second-place Ohio State by 13 strokes.

Fossum said that this year's freshman team is his best ever. But not until next spring will Fossum be able to watch his dream become a reality.

Hawks sign Caldwell

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Jumpin' Joe Caldwell, the durable forward-guard of the St. Louis Hawks, has signed his 1967-68 contract, it was announced today.

Caldwell was the only Hawk last season to play in all 81 regular season games and nine playoff games although he usually came in as a substitute.

Caldwell is expected to move into a starting guard spot next year. The Hawks have lost guards Rod Thorn and Tommy Kron in the expansion draft, and guard Richie Guerin, who will continue to coach the team, has retired as a player.

Caldwell, six feet five and 210 pounds, came to the Hawks during the 1965-66 season. The former Arizona State player had been the Detroit Pistons' top draft choice in 1964.

BILL STECKLEY

Baseball's one-handed leader

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

The well-known baseball cliché "two hands for beginners," doesn't apply to Spartan third baseman Bill Steckley this season for two reasons: he's one of the few veterans on the Spartan team, and he's played all season with only one good hand.

A native of Detroit, where he received All-City recognition in high school, Steckley has been a regular for three years on the Spartan squad, two as a catcher. He made the switch to third this year and has missed only one game, despite being plagued by a cracked bone in his left wrist.

Steckley injured the wrist over Christmas vacation, and it bothered him in the early practice last winter. An X-ray at that time showed nothing, however. Upon returning from the team's spring trip to Florida, the injury was even more painful, and another X-ray was taken. This time the crack was discovered. Steckley has been playing all season with the wrist heavily taped, and will have surgery performed on it after the season ends.

"There were a few close plays at third down South, and the doctors figure I cracked it then," Steckley said. "There wasn't much chance of my injuring the wrist any further as long as it was taped, so I decided to play out the year."

The injured wrist hasn't affected Steckley's hitting much. He currently leads the team with a .331 average, has the most hits on the team (48), the most triples

(5), and is second in runs scored (32), and stolen bases (14). Part of the reason for Steckley's success offensively may be because, as he says, "the wrist bothers me the most when I swing and miss."

A .226 hitter in his sophomore year, Steckley hit .314 last year.

A catcher since he was nine years old, Steckley has turned in a creditable job at third for the Spartans this season, and Coach Danny Litwhiler feels he is a definite All-American candidate at the position.

Litwhiler, who coached major league infielders Dick Howser and Woody Woodward, rates Steckley equally with them at the same stage of development.

"He can hit, runs well, fields and throws well," Litwhiler said. "He has all the makings, and I know he'll work hard to improve. I think he has the potential to be a major league third baseman."

That would be fine with Steckley, and he thinks the switch to third base was to his advantage toward making the pros.

"Major league scouts like bigger guys for catchers," the 5-10 170 pounder said. "I think I'm quick enough to play third, though."

"Besides, they already know what I can do as a catcher, and they look for guys who can play more than one position."

"My biggest problem has been to learn to field a ball hit slowly to my left and to throw off balance," he said. "But other than that it wasn't too hard to make the switch."

Steckley has made 11 errors in 106 chances this season for an .895 fielding percentage. John Biedenbach, MSU's All-American third baseman last year, was only slightly more proficient, committing eight errors in 97 chances for a .918 percentage, and he hit only .270.

"The wrist hasn't bothered my fielding very much," Steckley said. "Sometimes on a line drive, or when a runner slides in, it gets bent back and hurts, though."

Steckley calls this year, the highlight of his career, and sums up the Spartan baseball fortunes as characterized by inconsistency.

"We've just never been able to get our pitching, hitting and fielding together," Steckley said. "We've got a good club, and we can give anybody a good game."

The Spartans then went out to prove that by beating Western Michigan, the nation's fourth ranked team, 7-1.

Taylor likely to sign soon but not with the Packers

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Fullback Jim Taylor expects to decide within a week where he will play football next season, but right now it looks like it won't be with the Green Bay Packers, it was reported Wednesday.

"I've been trying to evaluate everything and weigh all the facts. I should make a decision within a week. Things are coming to a head," Taylor said by telephone from his Baton Rouge, La., home to Chuck Johnson of the Milwaukee Journal.

The nine-year veteran played last season without a contract and became a free agent this month. This means he can sign with any team, but must give Packer Head Coach and General Manager Vince Lombardi fair compensation. It's been rumored that Lombardi's high asking price has scared other teams from talking with Taylor.

"I think the other clubs feel like they can get a fair shake," Taylor said. "What Vince has had to say makes good point, but I don't think it will be true in the end. The commissioner will have to rule."

Taylor was asked if he meant he definitely did not expect to play in Green Bay next fall. "That's the way it looks right now," he said.

Taylor reportedly feels he deserves a big raise, in view of the near $1 million in bonuses paid a year ago to rookie backs Jim Grabowski and Donny Anderson.

"It's basically terms—money," Taylor said. He added he had negotiated so far with three other National Football League

Teams, Atlanta, New Orleans and Washington.

It is believed Taylor would like to finish his career in New Orleans, in his home state. He played college football at

Louisiana State, and Paul Horn-

ung, his longtime running mate at Green Bay, was chosen by New Orleans in the NFL draft to stock

the new franchise.

BIG 10 MEET

Netters one point behind Michigan

By DENNIS CHASE
Associate Sports Editor

This year's tennis season could be called "The Great Preliminary," because, when the dust had cleared, MSU was just one match point behind Michigan going into the 58th Annual Big Ten Championships today at Ann Arbor.

Play will start at 9 a.m. today, and continue through Saturday, with the finals scheduled for 1:30.

Michigan goes into the tournament with a 71-70 advantage over MSU, based on the number of matches won and lost throughout the season.

This is in contrast to last year, when the Spartans went into the championships at a ten point disadvantage, 72-62, most of it due to an 8-1 drubbing by the Wolverines early in the season.

Michigan then built up a 66-51 margin in the tournament to whip the Spartans, 138-113.

The tournament is run in this manner: Each preliminary match is worth one point, and each match thereafter is worth three points. It is impossible for an individual to score a maximum of 10 points in four matches.

There are also consolation matches for the losers. These are worth one-half point in the preliminaries, one point in the second round, and two in the finals. A maximum of 3 1/2 points can be earned in this event.

"Because of the records of our boys," MSU Coach Stan Drobac said, "I wouldn't be surprised if all of our team is seeded."

Each of the coaches got together Wednesday night and drew up the seeds.

"I'm fairly certain that Vic (Dhooge) and Jim (Phillips) will be seeded, seeing as they have perfect 9-0 records at No. 5 and 6 singles," Drobac said.

At No. 1 singles, the players to watch should be Dick Dell of Michigan and Chuck Brainard of MSU. Dell did not lose a set this year. Brainard's only Big Ten loss was to Dell, 6-4, 6-3. Brainard was a much-respected tennis player throughout the season.

Said Dan Spies of Ohio State: "He's different than any player I've ever played. He hits the ball early, almost too early, and all of his shots are chops or slices. He's very unorthodox."

Brainard beat Spies, 6-1, 6-2. Said Dave Brown of Indiana: "Brainard is aggressive, loose and confident. And he's sound on his ground strokes."

Floyd Little first No. 1 draft choice signed by Denver

DENVER (UPI)—Floyd Little, a bandy-legged, three-time All-America halfback from Syracuse University, signed a contract Wednesday and became the first No. 1 draft choice ever to agree to play with the Denver Broncos.

Details of the contract for the man who broke most of Jimmy Brown's records at Syracuse were not disclosed.

But Lou Saban, coach and general manager of the American Football League Broncos was overjoyed.

"Little will be a great professional football player," Saban said. "He has excellent speed, fine moves and has added 10 pounds since completing his college career."

Andrew Marchiano, advisory for the 5-10, 205-pound Little, said his client was happy with the contract.

"We are very pleased with Floyd's contract," Marchiano said. "The boy is happy, which is the thing that counts as far as I'm concerned. Floyd is dedicated to doing a great job for Denver, and I know he'll do just that."

Little was the top draft choice of the Broncos in the common draft between the AFL and the National Football League, and is the first No. 1 selection signed by Denver in seven years.

Little, the 24-year-old halfback who shattered most of Brown's and the late Ernie Davis' rushing records at Syracuse, said he was pleased that negotiations have ended.

"I visited Denver a few weeks ago," he said, "and I was very impressed with both the city and the people. I look forward to playing for Lou Saban, and I can assure the fans in Denver that I'll do my level best to help the Broncos."

Saban indicated Little will bid for a running back post with Denver this season.

Romney pans U.S. exhibit

LANSING — Gov. George Romney said today he was "bitterly disappointed" by the United States exhibit at Montreal's Expo '67.

"It was pretty on the outside," he said, "but full of trivia on the inside."

Romney toured the exposition Monday.

"It was full of such things as American Indian headdresses, branding irons and old campaign posters," he said. "When you go through it on the mini-train, all you see is blowup pictures of Hollywood actors and actresses. I was bitterly disappointed."

"It was something like our 'Great Society,'" Romney said in a dig at the Johnson Administration. "It is like a beautiful movie set, but when you walk behind it, there is nothing there."

About the only thing in the U.S. display with any interest and meaning, he said, was the space ship display.

The theme of the event, Romney said, was "Man and his World."

"This was our opportunity to tell what America means in terms of 'man and his world,'" he said.

"It is particularly disappointing when you think we had the opportunity to tell the world what a great country we are and with the highest concepts in the world."

The Russians, Romney said, fill their pavilion with exhibitions of their industrial and scientific achievements.

"But it didn't tell anything about their people," he said.

"Some of the smaller nations did better by showing what they stood for and had contributed through the years."

"The overall fair is excellent," he added. "It is well worth going to see."

Officer honored

Capt. Albert M. Bernal, U.S. Air Force, Tuesday received the Distinguished Flying Cross for extraordinary achievement and bravery.

In February, 1966, Capt. Bernal successfully completed an air mission to destroy North Vietnam missile and gun emplacements, while under heavy fire from the ground. This was accomplished through repeated attacks to destroy the emplacements.

Bernal, of San Diego, Calif., is still on active duty and completing his masters degree in business here.

Carmichael linked to Chinese Reds

WASHINGTON — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told a congressional committee that Stokely Carmichael has frequently contacted the leader of "a Chinese Communist-oriented organization."

Hoover's appraisal of Carmichael, a leader of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) was given last February at a closed-door session of a House Appropriations subcommittee. The committee made it public this week.

Hoover said Carmichael, "in espousing his philosophy of 'black power' has been in frequent contact with Max Stanford, field chairman of the Revolutionary Action Movement, a highly-secret, all-Negro, Marxist-Leninist, Chinese Communist-oriented organization which advocates guerrilla warfare to attain its goal."

For years, Hoover said, "it has been Communist policy to charge police brutality in a calculated campaign to discredit law enforcement and to accentuate racial issues. The riots and disorders of the past three years clearly highlight the success of this Communist smear campaign in popularizing the cry of police brutality to the point where it has been accepted by many individuals having no affiliation with or sympathy for the Communist movement."

Thai terrorists step up campaign

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Communist terrorists have stepped up their campaign of infiltration, subversion and assassination in this country recently, Deputy Prime Minister Praphas Charusathien said Wednesday.

Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn has reported that infiltrators, previously confined chiefly to the northeast provinces, are spreading to the northern provinces of Nan and Chiangrai and Communists were recruiting primitive Meo tribesmen as guerrillas.

Praphas said Communist support for terrorists in Thailand had been intensified and the terrorists were getting more weapons and men.

He claimed that some of the 40,000 Vietnamese refugees living in northeast Thailand had joined the terrorists.

"This is a sign of danger," he told reporters.

According to government figures, 200 terrorists have been killed by government forces in the past two years.

But the strength of the terrorists is still growing. There are estimated to be about 1,000 armed men with about 8,000 sympathizers. Bands of about 50 exist in the north, 30 in the west and possibly 500 Chinese Communists in the south have been detected.

About 1,000 suspected terrorists are now under interrogation by government security forces.

According to Thai officials, the terrorists are trained at a school in North Vietnam and sent into Thailand through northern Laos.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Symposium to focus on 20th century women

Questions concerning women in twentieth century America will be discussed Saturday in a day-long symposium here.

A panel of speakers from education and the arts will lead the discussions in the Con Con Room of the International Center.

William R. Taylor will open the symposium at 9:30 a.m. with a consideration of domesticity and analysis of the motives in early feminism. A professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, Taylor is the author of "Cavaller and Yankee: The Old South and American National Character."

At 10:30 a.m. U.S. Congresswoman Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., will describe "The Statuary Rights of Women." She aided in the adoption of clauses protecting women's rights in both the Equal Pay Act of 1963 and the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

At 1:30 p.m. Lawrence Lader, author of the controversial book "Abortion," will consider "Biological Servitude and the Quest for Feminine Equality."

At 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Paule Marshall, author of "Brown Girl, Brownstones," will discuss the American Negro woman. In recognition of her literary achievements, Mrs. Marshall has won awards from the American Academy of Arts and Letters and was made a Guggenheim fellow.

Mrs. Mary Ellman, former professor of English at Yale University, speaking on "Ignorance: A Feminine Mode in Recent Fiction," will conclude the symposium.

Mrs. Ellman also taught at Wellesley College and Roosevelt University; her articles appear in some of the nation's most respected periodicals. Her book on fictional stereotypes is scheduled for publication next year.

The symposium is sponsored by the College of Home Economics, Honors College, Justin Morrill College and University College, in cooperation with the departments of American Thought and Language, history, humanities, physics and social science.

STEP gets $13,000; still $6,000 off goal

The Student Education Project (STEP) has accumulated $13,000 for its summer program at Rust College in Mississippi.

In response to a letter sent to 2,500 faculty members, 67 have contributed a total of $999 in the last two weeks. Although this figure is $250 less than the amount contributed by faculty last year, there were 15 more responses than in 1966.

Residence hall units have contributed $1,253.20 so far, $500 above 1966. In contrast, ASMSU support is $1,000 this year, compared with $2,800 contributed last year.

The colleges and their contributions are: $20-$50, Engineering, Communication Arts, Justin Morrill College, Vet Medicine; $50-$100, Business and Business Administration, Education, Social Science, University College, Home Economics; $100-$200, Agriculture, Arts and Letters and Natural Science.

Larry Klein, student coordinator for STEP, said, "We are encouraged by the support shown on campus for STEP this year, a year when civil rights is not exactly the cause of causes, even on college campuses."

He added, "It is good to find that people realize that inequalities for Negroes in the South exist 365 days a year and not just when a civil rights killing is fresh in the headlines."

At this point, STEP, can count on $13,000 of their total goal of $19,000.

Cheerleaders selected for next year

Six men and six women were chosen last week for the 1967-68 Spartan cheerleading squad after three weeks of extensive practice and tryouts.

The 1966-67 cheerleading squad taught cheers to more than 80 students, working three nights a week for two-hour periods.

Marjorie Smith, Pauline Hess and Donna Wiest, of the Dept. of HPR, selected the new cheerleaders.

Lost bikes to be sold

All bicycles not claimed by June 5 will be auctioned, the Dept. of Public Safety recently announced.

There are presently 182 bicycles which are unclaimed, lost or abandoned around campus.

The auction is in compliance with the abandoned property section of the MSU Ordinances enacted by the Board of Trustees.

STUDENT-FACULTY COMBO

Board asks joint councils

BEVERLEY TWITCHELL
Executive Reporter

Six ASMSU Student Board members presented the Committee on Committees with a proposal for student participation on faculty standing committees at a special meeting Tuesday.

A second special session will be called May 23 to discuss the students' proposal, Richard L. Featherstone, chairman of the Committee on Committees, said.

The proposed student participation varies with each committee, depending on the function of the committee. The six members of the ASMSU committee met with each of the chairmen of the eight faculty standing committees before drawing up their proposals. The proposals are as follows:

--One ex-officio student member to the International Projects Committee, chosen by petitioning to the ASMSU Student Board;

--One student board member as an ex-officio member of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, selected by the student board;

--Combination of the student and faculty library committees, the students to be selected by petitioning to the student board;

--A six to eight-man student advisory committee to the Educational Policies Committee (EPC), selected by the student board and the EPC;

--Equal student-faculty representation on the University Curriculum Committee, with one student representative from each college, selected from college advisory committees;

--Three non-voting student members of the Faculty Affairs Committee, to attend meetings concerned only with areas affecting students; chosen by petition to the student board for stacked three year terms;

--Three non-voting student members of the Faculty Tenure

Gaza crisis cuts Than's Europe trip

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant canceled a trip to London and Brussels because of what he described Wednesday as "the potentially very grave" situation in the Middle East.

He pressed also for an urgent clarification from the United Arab Republic on its position on the status of the 3,400-man U.N. Emergency Force--UNEF--in the area.

Reports from Cairo said the United Arab Republic had requested that UNEF withdraw immediately from the Egyptian-Israeli armistice lines to avoid danger of becoming involved in military action.

A U.A.R. source said the request was to withdraw from "our eastern border," but he would not elaborate. The force is stationed along the 145-mile Israeli-Egyptian armistice line, in the Gaza Strip, and at Sharm el Sheikh at the Gulf of Aqaba. There was speculation that a withdrawal from the line into the Gaza Strip was what the U.A.R. had in mind.

Committee under the same conditions as the Faculty Affairs Committee.

Featherstone said a recommendation is expected to be sent to the provost by next week. This would give the provost time to refer the recommendation to the Academic Council if necessary. The council meets in June.

The Committee on Committees has been discussing the question of student participation on the standing faculty committees since February. Student board members Greg Hopkins, W.C. Blanton, Bill Lukens, Hal Lashlee, Dick Herrold, and Joan Aitken have met with the committee several times since early April.

The Committee on Committees also talked to the faculty committee chairmen, but their statements are being withheld, pending the committee's recommendation.

The Committee on Committees is the only faculty committee composed of members of the Academic Council. Its function is to advise the president on the structure and composition of the standing committees.

Director Falcone to be honored

Leonard Falcone will be honored Sunday at a testimonial dinner at the Lansing Civic Center.

Falcone, the dean of Big Ten band directors and director of bands at MSU, will conduct his last concert with the MSU Concert Band at 4 p.m. Sunday on the terrace of Kresge Art Center.

Among the honors to be accorded Falcone at the banquet will be the formal announcement of the Leonard Falcone Scholarship Award, which presently contains $5,000 contributed by alumni of the marching band.

Under Falcone's 40 years of leadership, the MSU Marching Band has grown from 65 to 175 bandmen who execute "Patterns of Motion," now the trademark of the Spartan band.

Even though he will be leaving his post in July as director of bands, Falcone's career in music will not end. He will remain at MSU as a consultant for one year.

Succeeding Falcone in July will be Harry Begian, currently conductor of bands and associate professor of music at Wayne State University.

VISTA film next week

Wednesday's State News mistakenly reported the showing date of the VISTA film, "A Year Toward Tomorrow."

The movie will be shown continuously between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. next Monday through Wednesday.

Mock wedding

AT MEMORIAL CHAPEL

Mock weddings utilize flowers

A $10,000 mock multiple wedding ceremony will be presented Thursday and Friday at the Alumni Memorial Chapel by floriculture students.

The four separate wedding ceremonies will begin at 7:30 p.m. and feature flowers and fashions to be used at weddings and receptions.

An all-flower bridal gown with a train made from a new paper plant wrap called "Imagination" and bridal gown of a metallic material will be featured. The groom will wear a gold jacket and white trousers also of paper. Green garlands and vines suspended from the open-beam ceiling and a wooden cross at the altar will add a rustic atmosphere to the chapel.

The mock ceremonies are sponsored by the Department of Horticulture and staged by students in the two-year commercial floriculture program. The purpose is to give students experience in planning, pricing, and producing a variety of wedding ceremonies from the simple to the elaborate.

Bill Hixon, director of the Hixon School of Floral Design, Lakewood, Ohio, and owner of floral art shops in Ohio, New York and New England, will be the commentator.

Library fines for profs being studied again

A new proposal for faculty fines outlined April 7 in a letter to the State News is being considered by the Faculty Library Committee.

Norman Rich, professor of history, proposed: "Instead of a blanket fine on all books checked out to faculty members, a fine should be imposed on faculty members only when they fail to return books which have been recalled..."

Richard E. Chapin, director of the library, said the new proposal based on Rich's recommendation, if passed, would say in effect that faculty members will be fined on all books regardless of whether they are from the graduate or undergraduate libraries if they are called back and not returned. Chapin said that in this way if a faculty member has a book out that no one needs, he may keep it out as long as he wants.

If someone else needs the book, however, it will be recalled immediately if it is over the two-week period.

If the book is requested during the first two weeks, the faculty member will be notified that it must be returned at the end of the two weeks. For every day after the two weeks that the book is not returned he must pay the same rate as students pay now.

If the bill is passed by a vote of the committee, it will then go to Provost Howard R. Neville.

State lawmakers caucus in tax compromise effort

LANSING (AP) -- Senate Republicans and Democrats conferred separately Wednesday, trying to find a meeting of minds on a tax package, then agreed to huddle to compare results.

Gov. George Romney, meanwhile, said he is willing to compromise to reach a decision in the long dispute on tax reform and the form it will take.

"I can't tell you anything yet until we first report to the Democrats," said Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, Senate majority leader, to newsmen.

He termed the Republican caucus "very worthwhile and very productive."

One senator reported that at least 14 Republicans were ready to go along with the new tax package put together by the Senate Taxation Committee.

It makes many concessions to Democrats and needs six Democratic votes to pass the Senate with the magic number of 20.

The top leadership of the two parties was scheduled to meet later to compare the reactions from their respective huddles.

At the same time Romney said today he was willing to go along with the package, declaring "It comes within my definition of a tax reform program."

"I would go along with it," he said. "I'm hopeful that they can get something that will be acceptable."

The new package, obviously designed to attract Democrats whose lack of support has spelled death for two tax plans earlier this year, is known to include these features:

--Income taxes of 5 1/2 per cent on corporations and 2 1/2 per cent on individuals, with a $600 exemption on the personal tax.

--Property tax relief totaling $90 million a year and computed on a sliding scale that benefits small property owners more than larger ones.

Marijuana vote

the reclassification of marijuana. John Sebeson, member of the ASMSU marijuana study committee, said, "There is almost unanimous opinion by people who should know that marijuana should be reclassified."

and Sen. Thomas Dodd's report on juvenile delinquency as his primary authorities. Cindy Mattson, member-at-large, said, "This is one of the few things you will get true student opinion on in a referendum."

Sebeson cited a President Kennedy commission study on drugs

Other members of student board supported holding a referendum because of the timeliness of the question, the amount of information currently available to students, and to indicate student opinion on the subject. Sink said the study committee will attempt to get as much information on marijuana out to students before the referendum as possible.

A Federal Narcotics agent from Detroit is coming to MSU to talk to Sink about the marijuana study today.

The committee will interview four marijuana users on WMSN campus radio station at 9 p.m. tonight. Monday there will be an open hearing in which a doctor, a federal narcotics agent, a lawyer, and a clergyman will speak and answer questions.

A sample poll will be taken Wednesday of students and faculty members to determine how many have used marijuana, under what circumstances they would try it, how they feel about legalization and how much they know about the intoxicant.

Gentle Parental Weekend

Surprise your parents - take them out to dinner, even if it's only the dorm grill or McDonald's; buy your mother a corsage you can't afford; don't ask them for a cent.

Show them the gardens and the classroom buildings, the Union and the science complex. Take them to Water Carnival if you want. Or if they've seen it all, just sit and talk - somewhere they can enjoy the campus.

But however you do it, love them. Show them they're more to you than $119.50 or $341.50 a term plus room, board and books. Parents sometimes feel as if their kids don't really care. A few of them may be right - but I think most parents mean a lot more to their kids than the kids are willing to show. Go ahead. Be corny. Say "I love you." Give them the one thing they want in return for the years they've given you: your love and respect, whether you all agree on politics or not. Thoughts for a gentle weekend: "It is a great pity that men and women forget that they have been children. Parents are apt to be foreigners to their sons and daughters..." (George William Curtis) the grandeur of God... There lives the dearest freshness deep down things." (Gerard Manley Hopkins)

"If this Gentle Thursday is successful, maybe we'll have another Gentle Thursday, and then a whole month of Gentle Thursdays, and then a whole year of Gentle Thursdays. AND THAT'S THE REVOLUTION." (The Rag)

I wish my parents could be here.

Texas student riot

Late Tuesday afternoon, the protest was renewed and 32 persons, mostly TSU students, were arrested at the dump on loitering charges.

A student seeking reinforcements for the dump protest drew a crowd of some 125 on campus Tuesday night and during his speech, the car of four policemen was pelted with a watermelon.

When the officers got out, the crowd evaporated, except for 21-year-old Wayne Waller, who police said carried a pistol. He was arrested and the patrol continued along then-empty Wheeler Avenue, the major thoroughfare through the campus.

Blair Justice, a newspaperman-scientist and adviser to Welch on racial affairs, joined with Police Chief Short in attempting to set up talks through F. D. Kirkpatrick, a campus SNCC organizer with whom a tentative alliance had been established by the city administration this spring.

That effort failed. During the time the police were ringing the campus and sealing all traffic in and out, four crude bombs - bottles full of gasoline - were hurled, one striking a women's dormitory and burning harmlessly.

At 1:50 a.m., students from the men's dormitory set up a barricade on Wheeler Avenue with sheets of corrugated tubing from a construction job. They set fire to barrels of tar.

A large contingent of police remained on campus Wednesday morning. The windows in the north wall of the dormitory building gaped with bullet holes from the police barrage. Classes went on, but attendance was low. It is final exam week for 248 seniors and a nonmandatory review week for undergraduates.

Kirkpatrick, who at times has been critical of police, said they "did the right thing" Wednesday morning.

"There was not police brutality in rounding up the students," he said. "Considering the circumstances, the police were reasonable."

Students at Platteville State University in Platteville, Wisconsin, also rioted Wednesday. The students were protesting a city policy allowing persons under 21 to drink beer. Police fired tear gas canisters into the crowd as it surged through the town, but the canisters failed to go off.

Freedom Report

The resolution states that student board considers the constitution of the United States to be a higher authority than any regulation or policy at MSU. Hal Lashlee, president of Inter Co-operative Council, said that he believes this will be a challenge to the University to live up to the Academic Freedom Report.

The six motions were passed by consent.

Another article from the Bill of Rights, which asks that instructor assignments be made known before registration begins, will be forwarded to each department with student board's endorsement.

Student board is studying the United Students document and will continue endorsing sections with which it agrees throughout the term.

China film to be shown, discussed

Maud Russell, editor of the Far East Reporter, will show the Felix Greene film "China!" at 8 tonight at the Wesley Foundation on South Harrison Rd. Miss Russell, who lived in China for over 20 years, has known many Nationalist and Communist leaders. She has lectured extensively in the U.S. on China and its revolution. Her appearance tonight sponsored by the University Christian Movement, will include a discussion after the film.
