

Negotiators trade demands that each de-escalate war

PARIS (AP) -- In its turn, each side in the Vietnam war demanded Monday that the other side scale down the conflict as a step toward peace.

But the special emissaries of Presidents Johnson and Ho Chi Minh--Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Minister of State Xuan Thuy--were careful to muffle their charges and countercharges in relatively mild terms. It was as if they were signaling a readiness to talk and on, despite their public postures, to end war both said they detest.

It was a predictable sendoff for the long awaited encounter, held amid the Gobelins tapestries and glittering chandeliers of the storied former Majestic Hotel within sight of the Arch of Triumph.

Harriman and Thuy, seasoned in the graces of diplomacy, each courteously promised to study the presentation of the other and to meet again Wednesday.

The central demand of Thuy's declaration, delivered first at Harriman's invitation, was as simple as it was stark: "Since the U.S. government has unleashed the war of destruction against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, the U.S. has to definitively and unconditionally cease its bombing raids and other acts of war on the whole territory of DRV."

To the relief of some on the American side, Thuy did not go on then to warn he will leave the conference if he does not get his way. He spoke instead of the "serious attitude and good will" with which his side intends seeking an end of American military action in order to be able to proceed "to other points of interest."

This was a plain reference to the problem of a wider peace settlement--the problem which Harriman made the theme of his 2,000-word address.

America's millionaire trouble-shooting diplomat outlined a seven-point program for peace in all Indochina, beginning with a swift agreement to restore the once demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam as a genuine buffer.

Harriman charged the Northern Reds are totally violating the demilitarized zone--sending troops through it, fire over it and all the rest.

"We believe the demilitarized zone should function as a genuine buffer," he said. "Let us begin by pulling apart the contending forces as a step toward broader measures of de-escalation."

He saw such a move as "a reasonable test of good faith" which, if fulfilled, could lead on to other elements of a settlement.

Six other measures proposed by Harriman:

1. American forces would be withdrawn from South Vietnam "as the other side withdraws its forces to the North, stops the infiltration and the level of violence subsides."

2. A concert of Asian nations--which presumably could include Red China--should devise a new system of supervising any agreement that might emerge. It would take over from the existing but powerless

International Control Commission made up of India, Canada and Poland.

3. All South Vietnamese people, including clearly the Viet Cong, must be allowed to determine their own future "without outside interference" on the basis of "one-man, one-vote."

4. The neutrality of Laos must be respected and reinforced.

5. America is ready to join North Vietnam in an international program to promote the economic development of all South-east Asia.

6. Once South Vietnam is pacified and troops are withdrawn, America will seek neither bases nor alliances--meaning the United States will not pull out one day in order to return another.

"We desire no bases in South Vietnam," Harriman said. "We are prepared to leave the facilities we have built there to the people to use as they wish."

Promptly at 10:30 a.m. the two sides assembled in the grand salon of the International Conference for benefit of newsmen and photographers.

Humphrey in Lansing; supporters plan rally

Vice President Hubert Horatio Humphrey, the "Happiness Candidate" for President, will campaign for about three hours in Lansing today.

He will deliver a "non-political" address before a joint session of the Michigan Legislature at 10:30 this morning, pose separately for photographs with the 54 Democratic legislators, and then speak to a rally of MSU students on the front steps of the Capitol at 11:30 a.m.

From there he will return by motorcade to Capital City Airport to meet privately with prospective delegates to the Democratic National Convention from Ingham County and student supporters. Leon Weaver, acting chairman of the newly formed Faculty for Humphrey, said the address before legislators would be given in the Vice President's official capacity and not as a political candidate. The other events were added to his original agenda.

Humphrey, whose strength in delegates pledged or leaning to him has grown to about 1,200, according to the latest CBS News poll, will fly out of Lansing about 12:40 p.m. for rallies in Detroit. He will address a Methodist Church Club meeting there and then meet informally at 5 p.m. with members of the Century Club, Democrats who have donated $100 or more to the party, before returning to Washington.

John Powers, chairman of the Students for Humphrey formed two days after he entered the race, said Monday that because the Vice President's time is restricted by the original agenda he would be unable to visit the campus today but is scheduled to speak at rallies here sometime next month. Details are still incomplete.

Humphrey's chief challenger for the Democratic nomination, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., will address supporters in John F. Kennedy Square in Detroit Wednesday. He is expected to spend only three hours in the city.

Rides will be provided for students who

Faculty group OKs student revenue policy

By LINDA GORTMAKER
State News Staff Writer

An ASMSU policy defining regulations for student revenue-producing projects was given final approval, with some minor changes, by the Faculty Committee on Students Affairs Monday afternoon.

"We just made a number of little changes that strengthen the document for both students and the University," said Dr. Clinton Cobb, committee chairman.

Cobb said the committee has formulated a policy under which the University and administration can operate and that will help students.

"Before, students felt discriminated against because there was lack of literature on what exactly were the regulations pertaining to these projects," Cobb said. "Now they're defined."

This student "discrimination" erupted when seven student organizations announced last week that they would sell non-student literature despite Secretary Jack Breslin's refusal to issue them fundraising permits.

The two proposals now approved by the faculty committee need the Board of Trustees' and ASMSU's approval to become policy.

Milton B. Dickerson, vice president for student affairs indicated approval of the proposals Monday and will forward them to the Board for its June meeting, since the agenda is completed for Wednesday's meeting.

W. C. Blanton, former chairman of ASMSU's Organizations Policy Committee that wrote the proposals, said the ASMSU board will consider the changes made from their original proposal tonight and he anticipates approval.

Blanton said that Breslin had indicated at Monday's meeting that he would use the proposals as "guidelines" until the board took final action.

If they were used as guidelines, fund raising permits would probably be issued to those seven student groups protesting last week.

BSA meeting

The Black Students' Alliance (BSA) will sponsor a meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Union to enlist the support of all campus organizations for the Poor People's March in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Peggy Benson, chairman of the Welfare Mothers League of Lansing, will address any concerned students at the meeting which is in preparation for MSU's Poor People's Day May 24.

On Poor People's Day, BSA will sponsor a massive march into two Negro-populated areas of Lansing.

Marchers will go into the West Side areas and Ballard Street near the Cristo Rey Community Center.

One speaker has already consented to participate, Mrs. Dorothy Cotton, educational director for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

A spokesman for BSA said efforts are also being made to have Rev. Andrew Young, executive director of SCLC, speak.

Marchers plan to present a list of local concerns to the mayor of Lansing.

Summer siege expected as Poor People set camp

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Poor People's Campaign raised its wooden camp on a lawn by the Lincoln Memorial Monday to begin what its leaders say will be a summer-long siege of Congress.

Rev. Ralph David Abernathy promised protesters, "We're going to plague the pharaohs of this nation, with plague after plague, until they agree to give us meaningful jobs and a guaranteed annual income."

About 400 demonstrators chanted "Freedom!" with each blow of the hammer as Abernathy drove the first nail for the tent-shaped plywood dwellings that will house the throng of marchers converging on the nation's capital.

Although the Pentagon placed an unannounced number of troops in what it termed "a state of readiness," there were no incidents of any type reported.

Abernathy, leader of the campaign planned by the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said, "We're going to stay here until the Congress acts or the Congress adjourns, and then we will go on wherever Congress goes."

The civil rights leader wore blue denim work trousers, a carpenter's apron and a denim jacket in contrast to his usual dark suit. The top three buttons of the jacket were open to bare his chest. But he rode to and from the site in a Chrysler Imperial.

The first marchers arrived by bus from Mississippi and Tennessee Sunday. Other regiments wound their way toward the capital Monday through Michigan, South Carolina and New Jersey. March leaders predict 3,000 demonstrators will be housed at the campsite by the weekend.

Southern congressmen repeatedly have predicted violence, but Abernathy told the demonstrators, "Let me make this crystal clear: this is a nonviolent movement. We are not going to destroy any person or property."

But beyond that, Abernathy said, he could give no guarantees because the protesters intend to plague the nation until their demands are met.

"We are tired of living with rats and roaches while a few people live in mansions with wall-to-wall carpeting," he said.

The first triangular-shaped shelter was erected for Mrs. Minnie Lee Hill of Marks, Miss., a mother of eight. She said her husband receives $107 every two weeks from an antipoverty training program, but she has no other income. She explained, "I'd like to get welfare or get me some kind of job."

'U' Horticulture Gardens: fantasy of flowers, plants

During the spring, a young man's fancy turns to love--and at MSU, the Horticulture Gardens turn into a fantasy of flowers and plants.

The spring divergence of color draws students, professors, MSU employees and local residents to the gardens to enjoy mother nature's style show.

According to Roy A. Mecklenburg, asst. professor of horticulture, the Horticulture Gardens, located behind Student Services

Bldg. were originally much larger, including the land now occupied by the Natural Science Bldg. and the Student Services Bldg. Research was carried out in these areas and the gardens were used for teaching demonstrations about many varieties of flora. Research is now carried on at the Horticulture Research Center.

Mecklenburg said the present garden plan was laid out in the early 1920s when the pool was constructed and the flowering-crabs were planted.

In addition to the tulip beds near the greenhouses, there are six major areas in the Horticulture Gardens: the annual and perennial garden, two rose gardens, the perennial garden, the annual garden and the bulb garden.

The annual and perennial garden contains a variety of plants typical of many home gardens, Mecklenburg said. It is designed to have blooming plants throughout the spring, summer and fall.

The other five gardens are specialized and house plant collections which have been developed by the University for many years. Mecklenburg said the Horticulture Gardens, as well as the entire MSU campus, comprised one of the outstanding arboreums in the country because of its extensive plant collection which is constantly being augmented.

The gardens are taken care of by Carl Keyes, head gardener, a few student employees and students taking Horticulture 325 (Ornamental Plant Management), a course for non-horticulture majors taught by Mecklenburg. The students learn to seed and transplant annuals as well as to care for a garden. During their weekly lab, they work in the gardens.

The grounds maintenance crew cares for the turf and woody plants.

Mecklenburg said tulip time is the spring highlight in the gardens. During the week and on weekends, the gardens are crowded with flower lovers--and "other" lovers--who like to tiptoe through the tulips.

Paris protest 'success' but work stop fails

PARIS (AP) -- Hundreds of thousands of protesters against the De Gaulle regime surged through the heart of Paris, Monday, in the climax of a day of general strike and demonstrations across France.

The protests seemed a success, but strike effects were so spotty it was often difficult to tell one was on.

Workers, students, people of all ages and classes marched for three miles amid chants for President Charles de Gaulle to resign and cries of "De Gaulle assassin! De Gaulle assassin!"

It was the largest people's parade through Paris in memory and the strongest such demonstration against De Gaulle's 10-year-old Fifth Republic. He leaves Tuesday for Romania on a state visit.

De Gaulle talked with premier Georges Pompidou, Monday night--for the second time during the day--about the strike and demonstrations.

The work stoppage itself, called by the country's four major labor unions to support student protests against police action during the past week of savage rioting in the Latin Quarter, was a near failure.

Organizers had hoped for a nationwide paralysis. But despite appeals by the unions and student groups for a total walk-out of French workers, there were only relatively minor disruptions in transport and electric power.

De Gaulle's government took steps to see to it that the Paris demonstration was kept as peaceful as possible. Premier

Kennedy voices pessimism about Nebraska primary

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) -- It was Sen. Robert F. Kennedy against the Democrats field and Richard M. Nixon topping the GOP list as candidates wound up their campaigning for Tuesday's Nebraska presidential primary.

Kennedy played the traditional game of hedging against a possibly unsatisfactory outcome. He insisted that he couldn't get the 50 per cent of the Democratic vote that would notify prospective convention delegates in other states that his campaign for the nomination was surging in high gear.

'Poor People' camp out

The participants of the "Poor People's Campaign" will need a place to camp out during their stay in Washington D.C., so Rev. Ralph Abernathy (center) went to work. Holding nails in his mouth and a hammer in his hand, he helps erect the first shack on "Resurrection City," due to house about 3,000 marchers.

Giving all-U relevance to ROTC-Thomas case

The significance of Thomas vs. ROTC is spreading.

Beyond the scope of rightness or wrongness of action and reaction of one Military Science professor and one student, the Student-Faculty Judiciary has formulated recommendations of University-wide relevance.

--investigate potential conflict between policies of the Dept. of the Air Force and Dept. of the Army and "traditional concepts of academic freedom" for students and faculty.

--examine and clarify the status of class "visitor" and "auditor."

--enlarge on statements of professional rights and responsibilities of faculty, especially in the classroom, and procedures for handling a possible violation of those rights and duties.

--check-up on implementation within each college of channels for receipt and consideration of student complaints and appeals about instruction.

The latter three recommendations involve further thought and clarifications to avoid embarrassment, confusion, frustration and disagreement in the future and are only logical "additions" to the Academic Freedom Report after several months of its existence.

There has been some question of ROTC's role in the University, especially during the Thomas case. It is significant that the Student-Faculty Judiciary has taken note of this possible discrepancy of ideals and means. An impartial committee should now be established to make a thorough and constructive evaluation of the relation of the Military Science Dept. to MSU.

The Student-Faculty Judiciary has shown its awareness and potential for giving University-wide guidance in academic freedom and in preserving the rights and dignity of both students and faculty.

The Academic Freedom Report is in itself a vague document and not without loopholes. Especially during its first year, it is highly important that it be evaluated and clarified as the Judiciary is now doing, in order to be fully workable and equitable.

New teaching awards: blow to an old maxim

Good teaching is often the unrecognized skill of faculty members in a large university. "Publish or perish" has often become the guiding maxim for the faculty. Hopefully, MSU will soon give a crucial blow to the maxim with the implementation of the special awards for outstanding teachers.

The Educational Policies Committee (EPC) has approved in principal an award system based on expansion of the Distinguished Faculty Awards (to recognize full-time faculty and graduate teaching assistants for excellence in teaching). The award system is based on a recommendation of the Committee on Undergraduate Education (CUE) as reflected in its report with the recognition of outstanding teachers.

CUE recommended awarding professors and graduate assistants, and the EPC has extended the awards to special recognition of beginning faculty for outstanding teaching.

The award will not be a mere plaque or citation, but a substantial contribution to the recipient's personal career. As the proposal states "The essential purpose of the awards, beyond bringing recognition to the best teachers, is to assist them in completing studies significant to their careers by providing a summer free of classroom obligations."

Unlike the CUE recommendation, the proposed awards will not be given separate status from the Distinguished Faculty Award. It is felt that teaching should be an integral part of a faculty member's career. The awards add a new emphasis to teaching, not supplanting recognition for other achievement.

In a highly specialized world, research and publishing have too often preempted much of a professor's time, making teaching only a peripheral task. Yet the primary purpose of the University remains the teaching of students.

The new awards will provide an impetus for MSU's teachers to teach. With such an emphasis, the University cannot help but profit.

JIM SCHAEFER

The human impact for change

EDITOR'S NOTE: State News staff writer Jim Schaefer traveled to Montgomery, Ala., last week to cover the U.S. Civil Rights Commission hearings. Following is the second in a four part series of his impressions of the hearings.

Bare statistics do not provide a very full or complete profile of what is going on in any area. The several reports I received on that Monday from the Commission staff provided a fairly good economic profile of the Negroes in the 16 counties under study in south central Alabama, but it was not until the witnesses testified that the human impact was evident.

Hosea Guice, a black subsistence farmer of 115 acres in Macon county, was one of the more colorful witnesses. Though some 66 years old, Guice had raised three children on the farm he had worked to pay for since 1942. He was dressed in neat and clean, though not particularly new, clothes, and his gnarled, weathered face never lost its proud, yet humorous expression.

Though he was not the worst off in the 16 county area, yet he did fit into the picture of a mostly poor, mostly rural, mostly Negro population. Guice farmed his land with a one-eyed mule to grow crops of cotton, corn, cucumbers, vegetables. He repaired his house and made various other improvements only by taking out a loan from the Farmer's Home Administration (FHA). He had only a small profit last year, if any.

There was a certain strength about Guice that made him a favorite of both the Commissioners and the audience listening to him. For despite all the hardships, he did not regret what he had done. He had worked and saved and made the loan payments to make the "possibility" of a "better economic situation" for his children, though two of them had already despaired of those hardships and gone North. (The third was studying at Tuskegee Institute). But, in his own way, Guice also felt that it might have been made less difficult, less arduous. This he tried to express in what he called his advice for a younger farmer.

"I've done it the hard way," Guice said, "with a mule and lots of sweat. A younger man could make it easier with more pasture and more land and more livestock . . . and if he'd think first." Guice repeated that advice several times for the Commission.

Guice, who had testified before the Commission in its first investigation in Montgomery nine and a half years ago, was also different from some of the Negroes in the 16 county area. He was fairly economically independent. He owned his own land, and thus could not be evicted from it for participating in the various civil rights efforts.

He became a registered voter in 1962, and he knew that this franchise meant a "big change in the voting," and a "lot of power."

As a recent CRC news release from Washington D.C. pointed out, there is power in this voting franchise, and the whites in the Southern political structure are only too aware of it. Some of them try to suppress it by evicting the Negro tenant farmers from their land. There were witnesses Monday that testified to that.

But the Southern structure--inexorably, though too slowly perhaps--is changing. The voting franchise means change in the political area. People like Guice are registered voters now--something that was not possible just a decade ago.

Of course, as Guice pointed out, things are not better for the Negro "in all angles." For the color line to be broken completely and irrevocably, the very institutions of the South must admit the presence of the Negro, with his strengths and deficiencies. The federal programs being administered by segregationists, the white landowners who evict on the premise of "out of sight, out of mind," the political leaders who are elected on the basis of their intent to preserve the status quo--and all the others, must be brought into line with the true intent of the law.

Because of the social upheaval in the area of race relations today in this nation, one of the biggest Gordian knots is the speed with which these institutions can reflect the need for change.

Perhaps the variable is what Nelson Rockefeller suggested in his candidacy speech. Perhaps the change of institutions depends not on the institution, but upon the judgment of the people in it. Perhaps if the humans guiding that judgment attempt to look at the racial problem in terms other than stereotype and generalization, then progress might be made. If individual human beings strive to relate to, specifically, other individual human beings and at their hopes, aspirations and problems, then something might be done.

An example of such a change of attitude came Tuesday night, when representatives of the Southern Leadership Conference (SLC), which is currently leading the Poor People's March, came to the witness table.

As they sat down after being sworn in by Chairman Hannah, a few more bright lights flicked on for the television and movie cameras. The news media were especially interested in these witnesses, because the SLC was just that night putting the last touches on the Poor People's Campaign.

Most of the testimony they gave was to be expected--a plea about the urgency of breaking the cycle for the black man of illegitimacy, crime, poverty, unemployment.

What was startling was the effect of the urgent tones they used. It created a dramatic mood that could not be shaken off, and it affected the Commissioners, the press and the audience.

One of the SLC leaders, Hosea Williams, repeated, in essence, the demands of the black people that would be brought to Washington, D.C.:

"We need meaningful jobs, with enough income, for every American. Every woman ought to be able to raise her children at home."

"The black neighborhoods, run down from being exploited, ought to have residents with enough resources for decent living."

"Black children ought to have decent clothing, so they don't drop out of school and begin a life of crime."

"We must be allowed to be creative. This land is our land."

"We must accept the fact that black is beautiful, and it is beautiful to be black."

"The Poor People's Campaign," Williams said, "is to interpret and educate. It is a non-violent program."

"It might be," he added, "a last chance."

The effect of Williams' simple, direct eloquence was not lost on the Commission.

Commissioner Eugene Patterson, editor of a large Georgia newspaper, was the first to speak. What he said was evidence that attitudes can change, even in the deep South over such a hotly contested issue as civil rights.

"The American South," Patterson said, "would make a grave mistake if it doesn't understand what Hosea Williams said here tonight."

"The sit-ins and demonstrations have disordered my life, but I am now sorry that I ever wrote editorials against them."

"I want to say for the record that I am sorry I ever waited in one waiting room, while some of my fellow men had to wait in another."

"All I can say is that things do change. We do move. Men do learn."

"We should be profoundly thankful," Patterson said, "for such men as Mr. Williams and Mr. Turner."

So change is not impossible. It will come, though perhaps not as quickly as some would want it, and perhaps not without a display of power.

OUR READERS' MINDS

Rights and duties in Thailand

To the Editor:

As an American student on this campus, I feel obligated to respond to the article "Thailand 'no dictatorship'" by Sumit Pitiphat in the May 10 State News. The author's main point is that criticism of his country by SDS is motivated by "Western ethnocentrism" accentuated by ignorance of his country's history and culture. The United States is now spending millions of dollars and risking involvement in another Vietnam-type war in Thailand. We have not only the right but the duty to ask whether the government we are supporting there is worth such a sacrifice by our nation. Pitiphat's article leads me to think that our support is a mistake. Of his country he says, "The Thai culture can adapt itself to most situations and political ideologies without guilt." The relative unimportance of SE Asia to our country makes our tragic overinvolvement there unjustifiable. This involvement is undermining our relations with really important areas like Japan and Europe and making improved relations with the USSR and China impossible. I say that if Thai people are so adaptable, we should pull out and let them adapt to an unrestrained Chinese influence. This shouldn't bother Sumit Pitiphat since, as he points out, the Thais have adapted to foreign influences "for 700 years" and after so much adapting, one foreign influence must seem about the same as another.

What bothered me most about this article was that the author responded to criticism of Thailand by pointing out faults in the United States. (I found this an amusingly inappropriate attack on SDS. I'm sure they could think of faults in the United States that Pitiphat wouldn't think of or understand in two lifetimes.) Apparently showing that we're not perfect justifies any shortcomings in his country. He says of SDS, "What they have done is petty impose their own judgment on a situation concerning two cultures whose basic assumptions of life are quite different. Any criticism of one culture by the other based on these assumptions is hardly valid." But later he tells us, "It might be interesting to point out that the problem-solving ability of Thai culture has been infinitely more successful than that of the United States." In other words, he is free to criticize us based on irrelevant assumptions, but SDS does not have the same freedom.

Given this "infinitely" greater success in problem-solving, we can, of course, never hope to catch up to the Thais in political and social development. But perhaps we can gain some consolation from the knowledge that some fifty Thai students didn't think our culture was a total loss. They apparently found some relevant need supplied here, otherwise I assume they wouldn't be studying at MSU.

A modest reply

To the Editor:

While Michael Lopez's recent article, "A Modest Proposal," presents some interesting arguments concerning proposed changes in the University grading system, his examples of grading practices convey erroneous impressions. Mr. Lopez speaks of "blanket A's" or "Mickey Mouse grading" in certain honors courses. It is sometimes true that all students in a given honors course will receive A's, but this does not necessarily mean that these marks have been routinely assigned. Rather, because honors courses are confined to Honors College members, there is every likelihood that these students can, and often will, meet the highest expectations of the professor teaching the class. And to suggest that all students who receive A's in courses like the College of Natural Science 390H have done so for mere attendance of lectures and a brief paper is likewise misleading.

This college honors seminar, and others similar to it, are designed for majors outside the college offering the course in order to give students a chance to gain greater breadth in their studies. Only outstanding professors are invited to give the lectures, and students are asked to write papers in some area of particular interest. Most of these essays are far more than "3 to 5 page papers," and it is worth noting that several manuscripts from these seminars were seriously considered, and one was ultimately chosen, for publication in the forthcoming annual collection of Honors College Essays.

A strong case could be made for certain courses being placed upon a Pass-No Credit basis, as Mr. Lopez suggests, but it is inaccurate to discredit the present grading system to such an extent to support these arguments.

For continuing dialogue

To the Editor:

Last Sunday, in conjunction with our demonstration against the awarding of a Doctor of Laws degree to Prime Minister Kittichorn of Thailand, we submitted an article to James Spaniolio, Editor State News, explaining our opposition to this award, and the present U.S. and University's involvement with Kittichorn's government. Mr. Spaniolio declined to print this article on the grounds that he did not have sufficient space. To our amazement, a rebuttal to this unpublished article then appeared on the editorial page of Friday's State News.

While we certainly welcome an exchange of views on this issue, it would appear to be both reasonable and logical that the original article be printed in a publication before its rebuttal. While we appreciate the limitations imposed on the space you have by the demands of the local merchants for advertisement, the publication of our original article at this late date is warranted and desirable. Perhaps then, in the interest of a continuing dialogue, we can respond to the inadequacies of the Friday rebuttal.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The State News welcomes point of view columns up to 500-600 words regardless of their ideological bent. An SDS official was told that due to the length of the article it could not be printed in full, but excerpts would be acceptable. The offer still stands.

Allied troops lifted; Saigon battle ends

SAIGON (AP)—With 5,000 North Vietnamese pressing in for the kill, U.S. cargo planes have airlifted nearly 1,700 allied troops and civilians from mountain-ringed Kham Duc Special Forces camp near Da Nang, the U.S. Command reported Monday. At the same time, allied commanders declared the Viet Cong offensive in Saigon crushed.

The North Vietnamese at Kham Duc shot down a four-engine U.S. C130 Hercules transport loaded with government troops as it lifted off the tiny airstrip Sunday.

The plane crashed and exploded, killing its six U.S. crewmen and an "unknown number" of South Vietnamese soldiers and civilian irregulars, the command said. A C130 can carry up to 100 passengers.

Driving hard to block the evacuation, the North Vietnamese killed 19 U.S. soldiers and Marines and wounded another 125 in the desperate rear-guard action. No figures were available on casualties among the civilian irregulars who formed the camp's main defense force, but 29 Vietnamese army soldiers were known to have been wounded.

The U.S. Command said 300 enemy soldiers were killed in the fighting that erupted Friday and ended when the final cargo plane lumbered off the airstrip near dusk Sunday. Added air strikes later killed more.

Kham Duc was abandoned, the command said, "to avoid encirclement and to enable tactical aircraft and B52s to strike the sizable enemy force uninhibited by friendly elements in the area."

It added that the camp, established to observe enemy infiltration toward the populated coastal lowlands to the east, would be relocated at a new site.

The dramatic airlift began forming Friday when enemy troops launched attacks on outposts around the camp in the central highlands some 30 miles southwest of Da Nang and 350 miles northeast of Saigon.

The enemy had massed elements of two regiments around Kham Duc and by Friday afternoon the situation was so critical the U.S. Command rushed in a battalion of about 600 soldiers from the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade. Their job was to hold the camp while the civilian irregulars and their American Green Beret advisers battled their way in from the surrounding observation posts.

A few troops were flown out that day but the airlift went into full swing Saturday while U.S. planes, including eight-engine B52 bombers, flew direct support strikes against encircling North Vietnamese.

The C130s and two-engine C123s, shuttling in and out through a hail of enemy ground fire, hauled out 1,000 American troops Sunday to complete the lift, a U.S. spokesman said.

As the last cargo plane climbed into the air, fighter bombers began pummeling the abandoned camp.

The command announcement on the evacuation was delayed until it had been completed. It was the most violent action over the weekend.

In Saigon, fighting that had raged around the outskirts for eight days dwindled overnight to an occasional sniper round. Allied commanders said that the Viet Cong's offensive geared to the peace talks that opened in Paris, had been crushed.

Lt. Gen. Fred C. Weyand, commander of the 2nd Field Force, said Monday that "large numbers of the enemy have been attempting to withdraw from the battlefield for the past 48 hours, many being intercepted in the process."

He said the Viet Cong has lost 5,200 soldiers in fighting throughout the 11 provinces surrounding Saigon, and about half of the casualties were inflicted in the vicinity of the capital.

Weyand added, however, that "isolated small attacks, terrorism and harassment by fire, including rockets, are still possible" on Saigon.

U.S. headquarters said the enemy offensive had almost no effect on the South Vietnamese government's pacification program designed to win peasants' loyalty. It said only the area around Saigon and two Mekong Delta provinces on the Cambodian border were seriously affected. But it added 39 of the 44 provinces were virtually untouched and the psychological impact on the population as a whole was infinitely smaller than during the previous offensive that began with the lunar new year Jan. 31.

Radio Hanoi, however, regarded the offensive that began May 5 as victorious and declared the South Vietnamese government was making its last stand against the Viet Cong in Saigon. It described the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu as a "fish in a dry pond that will surely be destroyed."

The fact that the United States has to use tanks and armored vehicles in the fight in Saigon is a sign of the gravity of the situation," said a Vietnamese-language broadcast.

Most of the 30-minute broadcast was devoted to criticism of the Saigon regime.

It said there was "a clash of policy and ideas within the enemy ranks." This may have been a reference to reports that South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Van Loc might be replaced, or the continuing reports of differences between President Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, both former military leaders.

20,000 STRONG

Reserves report for duty

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Armed services reserves and National Guardsmen, some 20,000 strong, left their homes and reported for active duty at military centers across the country Monday.

They may be kept in uniform up to two years, and 10,000 already are earmarked for Vietnam.

The men were notified of their call-up in mid-April and given 30 days to arrange their affairs. In general, they seemed in good spirits and some were anxious to be sent overseas quickly.

"If I'm going to be on active duty I'd rather be in Vietnam than anywhere else," said 22-year-old Robert Anspach, who reported with a Navy Seabee battalion at Oklahoma City. Another of the group was Chief Petty Officer Luther Hall, 48, a veteran of World War II and Korea, whose son recently returned from Vietnam duty.

In Indianapolis, members of 190-man Company D of the 151st Indiana National Guard Infantry expressed hope that they would be sent into action as a unit rather than used as replacements.

Adj. Gen. John S. Anderson of the Indiana National Guard wrote the Defense Dept. asking it to "grant this group of dedicated soldiers the consideration they seek."

Ellsworth seeks ASG withdrawal

State News Staff Writer

The ASMSU delegation to the Associated Student Government (ASG) conference last weekend walked out of the conference because they felt the organization is not relevant to the problems of the American student.

Pete Ellsworth and Ray Doss, chairman and vice chairman of ASMSU, returned from the weekend conference in Cincinnati, with a recommendation that MSU withdraw from ASG.

ASMSU has been a member of ASG for three years but had never attended a conference, Doss said.

Doss said that he and Ellsworth walked out after submitting a statement which called for a positive stand on the national problems of students.

ASG, unlike the National Student Assn. (NSA), of which MSU is also a member, takes no political stands.

The statement which was also signed by the student body president of Purdue University read: "Michigan State University and Purdue University feel that ASG is not relevant to the problems of American students. We suggest that unless ASG takes a more positive stand on these problems, we as the respective student body presidents of MSU and Purdue shall recommend to our student government associations to withdraw from this organization.

In addition, the statement said that MSU withdraws in favor of NSA.

Doss said that he was surprised at how far most universities are behind MSU in the area of academic freedom. "The discussion on academic freedom ended up with me answering questions about our Academic Freedom Report," Doss said.

Doss said that he was also disappointed with ASG because it does not offer any of the services which NSA offers.

"I didn't get one idea from the conference," Doss said. "I think ASG is going nowhere. It seems to have no direction."

Doss said that most of the schools at the conference were not affiliated with NSA and that he would be sending them information on that organization.

REBELS WON'T TALK

Columbia hearings open

NEW YORK (AP)—A blue ribbon panel headed by former U.S. Solicitor General Archibald Cox opened hearings Monday into the "why" of the turmoil at Columbia University.

but rebel students refused to testify.

Cox said the fact-finders plan a "broad and far-reaching inquiry" into the Columbia demonstrations. He also announced the appointment of John S. Martin Jr., his former special assistant, as counsel to the commission, to "help shape" the hearings.

The hearing opened with the refusal of two student groups to testify. Spokesmen for a group called Black Students from Hamilton Hall said the absence of representatives of the Negro community indicated the "unimpartiality" of the commission. The Student Strike Coordinating Committee claimed the panel has "little relation to the broader body of university faculty and no relation to the students of the university."

The student strikers said in a statement that the panel's function was "to divert attention from the issues and to channel energy into safe areas." They said "the administration would rather obscure the issues than confront them here."

The five-man panel was named May 5 by the executive committee of the Columbia faculty. The committee asked the panel to establish the chronology of events that led to the disturbances and to look into the underlying causes of the problems.

Cox said he would take testimony from all those involved—administration officials and students, including leaders of the Students for a Democratic Society, which started the protest.

Rocky supporters vie against Nixon

HONOLULU (AP)—Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon said Monday that Nelson Rockefeller's race for the Republican presidential nomination is "beginning to sour" and the New York governor "may get it on the third ballot."

McCall made the assertion at a news conference at the western governors conference, the scene of energetic behind-the-scenes efforts by Rockefeller backers to prevent Richard M. Nixon from sewing up the nomination.

"Rockefeller has an excellent chance," said McCall, who is supporting the New Yorker, as he sounded the theme of Rockefeller backers, Republicans shouldn't commit themselves too far before the GOP National Convention in Miami Beach this August.

Nixon, the former vice president, is generally regarded as the front runner.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Leonard Hall, a key adviser to Rockefeller, met for 30 minutes behind closed doors Sunday. Both Hall and a Reagan spokesman said Monday they made no deals but agreed that Nixon doesn't have the Republican nomination sewed up.

Hall, former Republican national chairman, came to Reagan's hotel room. Also present was F. Clifton White, the former Barry Goldwater strategist who is advising Reagan's California favorite son delegation to the national convention.

Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's communications director, described the meeting as social—and said that Hall did not suggest the ticket. Hall agreed with Nofziger's account and said both he and Reagan concluded that Nixon isn't assured of the nomination.

"I don't think anyone has it tied up at this time and it will be some time until it develops," Hall told newsmen.

The meeting with Reagan was one of several Hall had with GOP governors here for the annual meeting of chief executives of the 13 western states and the territories of American Samoa and Guam.

Batsmen looking to tie win record

State News Sports Writer

The MSU baseball team will be out to tie the record for most wins in a season when it takes on Central Michigan in a doubleheader today at Mt. Pleasant, but it appears to be a difficult undertaking.

The Spartans, winners in their last 11 games, are now set at 26-7 for the season, two games away from the record 28 wins of the 1965 team. A sweep from Central would tie the record.

Central is a potentially dangerous foe, despite a recent losing streak. The Chippewas were ranked sion ratings of the Collegiate Baseball News two weeks ago, but have lost seven of their last nine games in gaining a 20-10 season record.

Pitching has been the better part of the Central Michigan game recently and MSU will face two of the Chippewas' better pitchers, both right-handers.

Senior Jim Bourbeau, who leads the nation's college division hurlers in strikeouts per nine inning game will start the first game, and sophomore Dale Dunham will pitch the second game.

Bourbeau has amassed a 5-2 season record and has gained 71 strikeouts in 39 innings of work. Dunham has a 3-3 for the season with all three losses coming on one run decisions.

Opposing Bourbeau in the first game will be Zana Easton for MSU. Easton, bothered by a pulled muscle in his arm, has not pitched in more than a week, but the junior right-hander has a 5-2 won-lost record and 1.37 earned run average for the season.

"Zana said he was ready to go against Wisconsin, but we couldn't afford to take a chance," MSU Coach Danny Litwhiler said. "He needs the work and we've got to get him ready for the weekend."

Sophomore Phil Fulton or sophomore Larry Hooper will start for MSU in the second game.

Fulton has won three games without a loss and has a 1.49 earned run average, while Hooper has pitched three innings this season, all in relief.

After a weekend hitting spree, six of MSU's regular players are now batting over .300 for the season.

Catcher Harry Kendrick leads the team regulars with a .385 batting average followed by Rich Harlow at .340, Steve Garvey at .339, Tom Hummel at .317, Tom Binkowski at .310, and Steve Rymal at .302.

MSU's team earned run average dropped from 1.52 to 1.48 after giving up only five earned runs in the last five games.

I.M. News

The finals of the fraternity track meet will be held at the East Lansing High School track at 8 p.m. Thursday, and not at 7:30 p.m. as was reported in Monday's Greek Week edition.

10 OF 11 RETURN

Winners head Big 10 meet

State News Sports Writer

This weekend's Big Ten track meet at Minnesota has all the elements necessary to make this 68th annual get-together one of the conference's finest.

These elements may be referred to as the three "r's."

First is revenge, a common malady afflicting the nine teams that did not win the indoor title. The indoor champ was Wisconsin, so it may be reasonable to assume that nine rivals will be gunning for the Badgers since they are also the outdoor favorites.

Second is retirement. Don Canham, head track coach at Michigan for 20 years, will become Wolverine athletic director July 1.

His team missed winning the indoor crown, which would have been Canham's eighth indoors and 12th overall, by two and one-half points. The Wolves have been impressive outdoors and would like nothing better than to honor Canham with a league title.

ees. Fifty athletes who placed in 16 of the non-relay events will try to retain their places against a talented sophomore group.

Ten winners in 11 events will return to defend their crowns. Ralph Marinello of Ohio State, champ in the long and triple jumps in 1967, is the only double winner.

Top returnees include Iowa's Mike Mondane, a winner of five conference titles in three years, and teammate Larry Wiczorek, the league's premier distance man, twice cross country and track titlist.

The Hawks also bring back steeplechase winner and record-holder Rollie Kitt.

From MSU last year's second place team, Roland Carter, Big Ten record-holder in the pole vault at 16-3, returns.

John Spain, MSU half-miler who holds conference records in both the 660 and 880 yard runs, is out after a back operation and will not run. But Pat Wilson of looms as a top choice with the fastest conference clocking of the year—1:18.3.

Wisconsin returns with two winners: Aquine Jackson, 100 yard dash titlist and Ray Arrington, mile champ and half-mile runner-up.

junior, will defend his 880 championship, while Michigan's Bob Thomas will try to keep his discus title.

Michigan also returns with three Big Ten champion high jumpers: Gary Knickerbocker (1968); Clarence Martin (1967); and Rick Hunt (1966).

Hall is best in Cup play

MONTREAL (UPI)

Glenn Hall, hard-working goalie for the St. Louis Blues whose defensive skills enabled his team to make a surprisingly strong showing in the National Hockey League Championships, Monday was named Most Valuable Player in the 1968 Stanley Cup Playoffs.

Hall, who played in all 18 St. Louis playoff games, will receive the Conn Smythe Trophy as the Most Valuable Player and a $1,500 bonus.

The award is based on votes by the NHL Board of Governors.

Hall, playing his 12th year in the NHL for the freshman St. Louis team, played 1,092 playoff minutes and yielded only 45 goals, an average of 2.47 goals-against per game.

Hurricanes wreck MSU netters, 9-0

The MSU tennis team Monday suffered its second setback in as many days, as the University of Miami swept all singles and doubles contests enroute to a perfect 9-0 mark.

Spartan Coach Stan Droba felt that the score was not a true indication of the Spartan's performance against the Florida-based Hurricanes, but he said that Miami ace Jaime Philol, who defeated MSU's No. 1 Chuck Brainard, was the finest individual player the Spartans have faced all year.

The loss dropped the Spartan season mark to 9-3.

Golfer Murphy 'at his best' in MSU's big tournaments

By GARY WALKOWICZ
State News Sports Writer

"When the going gets tough, the tough get going."

This age-old expression could be utilized today as an accurate portrayal of MSU golfer Larry Murphy.

Murphy has always played his best golf for the Spartans in the major tournaments.

Murphy's coach, Bruce Fossum, refers to the Wheeling, W. Va. junior as the "tiger" of the team.

"Larry is a terrific competitor under tournament conditions," Fossum says. "He's real tough in the clutch."

Murphy's best performance so far this year came in the prestigious Northern Intercollegiate Tournament where he led the Spartan team with his 296 total for eighth place in individual scoring.

In last year's Big Ten Tournament it was Murphy again who had MSU's best score. He fired rounds of 75-80-80 and 75 for a 310 score, which placed him sixth.

He helped MSU to finish sixth in the NCAA meet last season by shooting 75-74 for the second-best score on the team.

"I concentrate more in the big tournaments," said Murphy.

"I realize how important the tourney is and know what I have to do so I try and go out and do it."

Last season Murphy had an overall average of 78.2, which was the second best on the Spartan team. He broke 80 in 18 of his 25 rounds of competition.

"Overall I think my game is improved over last year," Murphy said. "I have more poise and concentration on the course."

This season's Big Ten Tournament will be starting on Friday and Murphy feels that he and his teammates are ready for it.

"We've been coming along pretty well and have our personnel pretty well set," Murphy said.

"Indiana should be favored because they will have the advantage of playing on their home course, but we can beat them if we all play well."

Murphy played five different sports in high school but says that golf was always his favorite. He was West Virginia state champion after his senior year in high school and finished fifth in the Holiday National Tournament that same summer.

"I grew up around golf and I knew it was a game that I could play after college," Murphy said. "I may become a club pro someday and might even try the pro tour depending on how things turn out."

'Ole Miss' summer project to tutor local school youths

By JAN GUGLIOTTI
State News Staff Writer

Student Education Project (STEP) volunteers were skeptical when Eddie Smith, business manager of Rust College in Holly Springs, Miss., predicted early in the term that Mississippi will be the first state to find racial peace.

Recently the volunteers learned of one of the first halting moves toward local Negro-white cooperation.

Thom Peterson, a STEP volunteer from Haslett currently attending the University of Mississippi in Oxford, (Ole Miss), wrote to the MSU group about an education-entertainment project Ole Miss faculty, students and clergy are organizing for local high school students this summer.

The volunteers, numbering about 30, black and white, in a sort-of Free University set up, tutor students who need it and begin a student-run paper.

Three high schools are involved in the summer project: Oxford, predominantly white, and Central and Lafayette, both predominantly black.

Peterson said the idea for the Oxford project grew out of a clash which occurred the day after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was shot when about 15 black Ole Miss students sat-in on the "white" side of a cafeteria. Most of the whites then filed out, and later, outside, someone threw a stink bomb.

Police arrived when Peterson estimated, about 1,000 students had gathered. The administration then closed the university until after Easter break.

"After this clash we got to wondering what would happen in the summer," Peterson said.

Three clergymen in the United Campus Ministry spoke to Peterson about his experiences with STEP at Rust College, tutoring Negro high school students to prepare them for college. They then decided to expand a plan for providing weekend entertainment into a full-time project.

They have recruited volunteers from the campus to conduct classes in African history, Mississippi history, art, music and physical education, and to back a high school paper called the Descamp, Peterson said.

The project is centered around The Eart, a coffee house run by the United Campus Ministry.

At present the Oxford project has raised $5,000 of an estimated $10,000 it will need to pay volunteers a minimum of $3 a day, plus room and board.

Peterson said the project will probably use 10 full-time education volunteers to instruct 50 high school students. An additional 20 volunteers will run a part time project for over 250 other participants.

Reaction from the Ole Miss administration and the white high school has been favorable so far, if not enthusiastic.

"They're glad to see we aren't doing anything radical," Peterson added.

E. Lansing spring cleanup, Greek community project

By PAT ANSTETT
State News Staff Writer

It's bad enough washing piles of dishes in apartment sinks and cleaning dormitory rooms, but just imagine cleaning up East Lansing.

That is exactly what the fraternities and sororities intend to do as they began their community project of cleaning up the city, Sunday.

This year, instead of the traditional clean-up-fix-up transformation of Lansing homes, the Greeks are painting and repairing East Lansing. Dave McGraw, Greek Week general co-chairman, said that since the city often is an "integral part" of Greek activities, they decided to have the project in the city.

Cherisee Adams, Birmingham junior, and community projects co-chairman, estimated that 800 workers will help in five designated areas of attention this week. Besides painting playhouses and wooden animals in East Lansing City Park, workers will clean up alleys and rake up the Grand River Avenue median.

The city is supplying all needed paints and materials.

"Besides being a good service project, we also will not use any money this year, and can make up last year's supply deficit," Miss Adams said.

You can't afford not to check out BEECHWOOD APTS.

Rentals from $55.00 per month per person is why. For that low price you get an exceptionally large apartment with large closets, and it's only a five minute walk to campus. (Now you can live off-campus without a car!) All apartments have new furniture in addition to air conditioning and carpeting. You'll really like BEECHWOOD. Contact State Management to put your apartment on reserve.

Taj Mahal

University Terrace

Of course, Taj Mahal wins. But we still think University Terrace is nice:

It's right across from campus and has 3 and 4 man apartments available for fall. The walls are paneled and the apartments are air conditioned. (By the way, the Taj Mahal can make neither claim.) The Taj has it all over U.T. when it comes to oriental carpeting and balconies, though. If you would like to make University Terrace your palace, call the people at

Information center adds 8 counselors

By MARILYN PATTERSON

State News Staff Writer

With the addition of eight new counselors, the recently opened Draft Information Center is now able to serve more men individually or in groups, according to Mrs. Ted Guinn, staff coordinator of the center.

The center, established in March, now has 18 counselors, including clergymen, attorneys, professors and students who are qualified to advise men on legal alternatives to the draft.

The new counselors include William Krumske, Lansing senior; Charles Larrowe, professor of economics; Allan Bogutz, East Lansing senior, who has made a study of the physical requirements of the armed services; and Wilfred Dupuis, Lansing attorney.

Also new to the counseling staff are Andy Hewitt, a conscientious objector who is presently doing alternate service to the draft; Mrs. Geraldine Hart, counselor at University College; William Rushby, Port Henry, N.Y., graduate student and conscientious objector; and George Landon, assistant professor of American Thought and Language.

The counselors have attended a training session conducted in Ann Arbor by Joseph Tuchinsky, official counselor at Chicago's Roosevelt University, Mrs. Guinn said.

They consult with one another weekly and have access to reference materials and confer with master counselors in Chicago and Philadelphia.

Among the reference materials used are directives from the state Selective Service System and the 1968 National Lawyers' Guide Manual on Draft Counseling, Mrs. Guinn said.

In the first two months of its service, the Draft Information Center has counseled nearly 400 MSU men on the draft and draft deferments.

"This is a very small percentage of an enrollment of men of approximately 23,000," Mrs. Guinn said. "If this is due to all those men having all the information they need, that's great; the people at the center will stop worrying about being overwhelmed with students at the end of the academic year."

Approximately 2200 men will be graduated in June, Mrs. Guinn said, and all except those continuing study in medicine, dentistry and the ministry will lose their student deferment. These men will be placed in the prime age group for induction.

Each man is required by law to notify his draft board within 10 days of any change which will affect his classification, in this case, graduation, Mrs. Guinn said. After a 1-A classification comes, he has 30 days to request a personal appearance before his local draft board if he does not agree with the classification.

The Draft Information Center is open from 1-5 p.m. Monday through Friday, from 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. For further information, call 351-5283.

Young Democrats favor Kerner Report

The indifference of the Johnson-Humphrey Administration to recommendations made by the Kerner Commission Report was condemned by the Young Democrats of Michigan at their annual convention, held last weekend in Warren.

The Young Democrats went on record as favoring the recommendations of the Kerner Report. The report, issued about two months ago, made suggestions on the prevention of riots and disorder in American cities.

At the convention, Gerrit E. DeYoung, Lansing graduate student, was elected vice-president for the Michigan central district and Perry D. Jamieson, Farmington junior, was elected recording secretary of the Michigan Young Democrats.

Also passed at the convention was a resolution favoring the nationwide primary system suggested by James Harrison, a Democratic candidate for the Congressional sixth district.

Midwest 'Poor March' gets warm Detroit greeting

DETROIT (UPI) — The Midwest contingent of the Poor People's March arrived here from Toledo, Ohio, Monday and was joined by about 100 or more local citizens for a march through the center of the city.

About 650 persons arrived by bus, and gathered at the Blessed Sacrament Cathedral where they were greeted by Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

Cavanagh arrived by limousine, shook hands with some of the marchers and went into the Cathedral school gymnasium to chat with other marchers while they were having lunch.

"The citizens of this community endorse the objectives of your drive and will demonstrate that support, not only while you are here in our city, but also when you leave by adding 200 people to your number," the mayor said. "No one can doubt the importance of what you are doing, just as no one can any longer deny the poverty which you represent."

Abraham L. Rice of the West Side Organization of Chicago who was in charge of security for the duration of the march, said he was "shocked" that Cavanagh showed up to greet the marchers.

"In every town we've been in so far, the attitude has been, 'Yes, we'll help you, but stay on your own side,'" Rice said.

Rice said the reception given the marchers in other cities in Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio was neither cordial nor hostile. The only exception was Indianapolis, he said, where the cooperation of local officials was "beautiful."

The march through Detroit began not far from where the city's 1967 riot broke out. The route extended through the heart of the business district to Cobo Hall on the riverfront.

Near the start of the march, the marchers passed stores still shuttered and smudged from last summer's outburst of looting and arson.

LETTER HURTS SALES

'Fruits' in trouble

By LINDA GORTMAKER

State News Staff Writer

Participants in the "Fruits for Finals" enterprise believe that a letter to parents two weeks ago by Lyle A. Thorburn, manager of residence halls, has harmed their business.

Response decreased considerably last week to "Fruits for Finals" offering parents a chance to buy 14 pieces of fruit for their child to help him "survive" during finals week, according to Tom Latshaw, Baltimore, Md., senior and president.

"We had been receiving a minimum of 17 letters a day since we sent out our letter," Latshaw said.

Latshaw said that last week "Fruits for Finals" received six letters Monday, three Tuesday, two Wednesday, one Thursday and two Friday.

"Their derogatory letter definitely ruined a good part of our business," Latshaw said.

The letter sent by Thorburn was derogatory, Latshaw believes, because Thorburn referred to certain "fly-by-night operators" who sent letters offering "food packages or 'panic kits' to be sent to students during finals week."

The letter was sent, Thorburn said, because he had received complaints from parents about Latshaw's offer and "we had to do something."

Thorburn's letter also used a direct quotation from Latshaw's letter when it stated that "The general tone of these appeals is that residence halls 'clean out their refrigerators during exam week.'"

"In a recent unbiased poll of 200 students, we asked students this question: 'Which would you prefer to have during final exam week? Fourteen pieces of fresh fruit or a freshly baked cake?'" Latshaw said.

Out of all the 200 students he asked, whom he claims he never knew before, 187 "strongly" favored the fruit, while the other 13 favored the cake."

Latshaw said his group plans no action on the alleged "damage" to his business, but are "leaving matters as they are, with no legal suit."

You'll be amazed at the...

MOTHER ACCUSED

Murder trial opens

NEW YORK (AP)—Red-haired Alice Crimmins' trial in the 1965 strangling of her four-year-old daughter began Monday, with the state for the first time suggesting a motive in the baffling slaying—her determination not to surrender her children in a custody fight.

Mrs. Crimmins' husband testified for the state, and at one point was asked in cross examination by the defense: "Did you kill your children?"

"No sir, and neither did my wife," replied the husband, who was challenging for custody of the children at the time they were slain.

The prosecution objected and State Supreme Court Justice Peter Farrell ordered the answer stricken. There has been no contention by the state that the husband knew anything about the death of his daughter or son.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony Lombardino, in his opening statement, told an all-male Queens County jury: "There will be statements from the stand that she would never produce these children in court."

Lombardino said that two days before tiny, blonde Alice "Missy" Crimmins, and her blue-eyed brother, Edmund, 5, disappeared from their cribs: "The defendant found out that a maid privy to all of Alice's conduct was going to testify on behalf of her husband."

Since the slayings, Mrs. Crimmins, 28, has been named correspondent in a divorce case involving a construction executive and his wife.

Defense Atty. Martin Baron replied: "The custody fight did not change the love and affection she had for her children."

Testimony began after four days of jury selection. The small, chestnut-paneled Queens County courtroom was filled. The death of the Crimmins' children, the "Case of the Empty Cribs," has been one of the most intriguing mysteries in the files of the New York Police Department for nearly three years.

The children vanished from their Kew Gardens apartment July 14, 1965. Their bodies were found five days apart, one mile in either direction from their home.

Coed injured in accident

Linda Ann Boaks, 1421E Spartan Village, is listed in satisfactory condition at Olin Health Center after being injured Friday in an accident on Harrison Road.

She suffered multiple contusions of the arms, chest and legs when her car was struck by a car driven by Richard J. Slatling, Pontiac graduate student. Slatling was cited for being drunk and disorderly.

FACULTY FACTS

Gephart named group president

Mary L. Gephart, professor of textiles, clothing and related arts, was named president of the Michigan Home Economics Association at the organization's annual meeting in Traverse City.

The association includes 950 members representing teachers and home economists.

A member of the faculty since 1945, she was named to her present position at MSU in 1960.

Before joining the faculty, she taught in high schools in Burdett, Andover, and Chanute, Kan.; and Des Moines, Iowa.

Walter F. Johnson, professor of education, has been named to a committee on guidance and counseling to advise U.S. Commissioner of Education Harold Howe.

The committee will advise Commissioner Howe on the administration of major guidance and counseling activities in the U.S. Office of Education.

A member of the College of Education faculty since 1948, Johnson has served as chairman of the Guidance and Personnel Services Curriculum Group, director of Faculty Development and director of Graduate Student Affairs for the College of Education.

Louis J. Berman, general manager of the State News, is the new secretary-treasurer of the Central Michigan Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, Professional Journalism Society.

The faculty adviser for the State News since 1962, Berman was owner and publisher of the "White Hall Forum" for 30 years and is a past president of the Michigan Press Association.

The Sigma Delta Chi elections took place at a chapter meeting April 25.

A MSU chemistry professor is one of 75 young scientists chosen to receive a $17,000 research fellowship.

Peter J. Wagner, as assistant professor, will study with the help of funds from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. The two-year fellowship, which was set up in 1937, carries no restrictions and provides the researchers with the $17,000 to aid them in their work.

Wagner received his bachelor of science degree from Loyola University, Chicago, and his masters and doctoral degrees from Columbia University, New York.

He has been a member of the MSU faculty since 1965 and is engaged in the study of mechanistic photochemistry.

Thomas A. Staudt, marketing and transportation department chairman, was the chief speaker at the 12th annual convention of Phi Sigma Epsilon, professional sales and marketing fraternity, in Atlanta, Ga.

Julian W. Smith, professor of administration and higher education, was speaker at the national convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Smith spoke on "Implications of Outdoor Education for Modern Living" in St. Louis, Mo.

Students plan library assn.

A meeting was held Sunday night to explore the possibilities of forming a student library workers' association. Four students attended.

Brad Lang, East Lansing sophomore, attributed the lack of attendance to poor publicity. Another meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Sunday in 35 Union.

Group to discuss political systems, party conventions

A meeting designed to give students a better understanding of the political convention system will be held at 8:30 to night in 35 Union. It is sponsored by the Students for McCarthy and the Young Democrats.

Candidate for U.S. Congress, James Harrison, and James Starr, former state representative from Lansing, are discussion leaders.

The topic of discussion is "Anatomy of a Convention: How and When To Operate."

Peace talks

Promptly at 10:30 a.m. the two sides assembled in the grand salons for benefit of newsmen and photographers.

Thuy's team arrived first, behind a motorcycle escort. With a few seconds Harriman's group hustled in.

On the sunlit boulevards of Paris the mood was calm, almost indifferent, despite a country-wide general strike called by the big labor unions in sympathy with students who have been rioting for university reform.

Police were out in force, posted discreetly at strategic points through the city.

Late in the day, tens of thousands of students and workers marched through the heart of the city in a massive demonstration protesting methods used by the police in quelling last week's riots.

The duel between Thuy and Harriman now seems to center on one immediate issue:

Are the talks to dwell only on arrangements for ending U.S. military actions against the North as Thuy insists—or are they to range far and wide over the main elements of a political settlement as Harriman wants?

Faculty OK

When questioned later, however, Breslin said he would make no statement until he saw the two proposals in their revised form after being hashed over in two committee meetings.

He did say that "it was a good meeting and lots of progress was made."

One of the proposals would change Ordinance 30.00, which now forbids all groups from selling goods or services on campus.

The revised version would add to the ordinance that the rule does not apply to registered student organizations, living unit organizations, major governing groups, or the Associated Students of Michigan State University.

The other proposal stipulates exactly what regulations revenue producing projects of students should follow.

Major points of these regulations include:

--revenue-producing projects must be registered with ASMSU and the Student Activities Office.

--only registered groups can raise money. The original ASMSU proposal had stipulated that individual students and/or unregistered student groups, with written permission from ASMSU, could use University facilities for non-income-producing projects.

--selling the following items needs no approval at all: literature, publications, political materials, student produced goods, student-provided services, and admission to public events or activities and soliciting voluntary contributions.

For any questions or appeals about any revenue-producing projects other than those defined, a committee would be set up to consider these appeals and questions. The committee would consist of two students appointed by ASMSU and two persons appointed by Dickerson.

Powers, Charlotte senior, said he hopes for at least 100 students for the rally was but "aware of the apathy here, especially when it comes to Humphrey."

The Students for Humphrey here are sponsored by the United Democrats for Humphrey headed by Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., and Rep. Fred Harris, D-Okla., who are coordinating support groups nationwide.

Members of the Faculty for Humphrey organizing committee are Wesley Fishel, Herbert Garfinkel, Gary Frost, Louis
Zerby, Robert Harris and Orion Ullrey.

Strikes

Georges Pompidou bowed to student demands and granted a number of concessions, including freeing the last 28 students held by police in the aftermath of recent student rioting.

The Sorbonne—the University of Paris—was reopened in the morning. And company-sized concentrations of police in control of the Latin Quarter since Saturday morning were pulled out of sight.

Students took a major hand in keeping the parade peaceful.
They patrolled the line of march on motorbikes, acted as traffic police at intersections along side streets.

HEART 'SATISFACTORY'

Priest survives transplant

PARIS (AP) — The world's newest heart transplant patient, a 45-year-old Roman Catholic priest who is reported to have suffered 30 coronary attacks, regained consciousness Monday and was in "very satisfactory" condition some 24 hours after his operation, doctors said.

Rev. Charles Boulogne, a member of the Dominican order at Marseilles, became the 14th man to undergo a heart graft when he was transplanted Sunday of a 39-year-old man who died of a cerebral hemorrhage Friday. The organ had been kept "alive" with an artificial blood supply.

Known as Father Doehn, the priest had been unable to work or write for the past year and had pleaded for a transplant, clerical sources said.

A medical bulletin read to newsmen at Broussais Hospital here said: "The evolution is very satisfactory. The function of his brain, heart and kidneys are in all respects normal."

Four other men are alive with transplanted hearts. Frederick West, 45, operated on in London 10 days ago, was reported "making good progress." At St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital in Houston, Tex., John W.
Stuckwisch, 62, was reported his graft last Tuesday. Everett Thomas, 47, who received a new heart May 3, is walking in his private room in the same hospital.

Philip Blaiberg, 58, is back at his home in Cape Town, South Africa, 4 1/2 months after his operation.

Charles Dubost, head of the surgical team that performed the Paris operation, declined to see reporters. Criticism by the French Order of Physicians of the publicity surrounding France's first heart transplant seemed to have resulted in a veil of secrecy for such operations.

The first two heart transplant patients in France, Clovis Roblain, 66, and Elie Joseph Reynes, 65, survived a little more than two days and never recovered consciousness.

Father Boulogne was reported to have been under intensive medical care for almost a year and had been unable to sit up in bed recently.

One problem, however, was that the priest was of an extremely rare tissue group. By chance, a patient arrived at the hospital last Wednesday after the rupture of an artery in the brain. Analysis showed that he was of the same tissue group as Father Boulogne.

Nebraska primary

Former Postmaster General
Lawrence F. O'Brien, a Kennedy strategist, said he thinks that if the New York Senator gets 35 per cent of the vote in the Democratic column he will have racked up a substantial victory.
He noted that in Nebraska the late John F. Kennedy hit his lowest mark of 37.9 per cent in the 1960 presidential race with Nixon.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Kennedy's chief rival on the ballot, expressed confidence he will do better at the polls Tuesday than he did when he ran third in last week's Indiana primary. Kennedy got 42 per cent of the vote in that test. McCarthy placed behind Gov. Roger D. Branigin, a favorite son candidate, with 27 per cent.

The Minnesota senator declined to deal in percentages, saying that "a horse doesn't have to predict who's going to win a race." He said many voters remained undecided on election eve.

O'Brien expressed public concern that a campaign for a Democratic write-in for Nixon might cut into Kennedy's strength.

Crossovers are barred among the state's 329,015 registered Republicans and 281,752 registered Democrats. But write-ins are easily scribbled in on either party's ballot.

Nebraska Democrats for Nixon, headed by Karl E. Dickinson of Lincoln, have mailed an appeal to every Democrat to write-in Nixon's name on their party's ballot. Dickinson's effort to rally disgruntled Democrats is based on the theme that McCarthy, Kennedy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey offer "nothing but more of the same" of rioting in the cities and excessive spending.

An underfinanced and publicly disavowed write-in drive for Humphrey was not generally expected to provide him with any significant portion of the Democratic vote.
