Search for talking points stalled by Hanoi demand

PARIS (AP) — The United States, citing possible areas of agreement, urged North Vietnam Wednesday to accept a three-point proposal "vital to peace" in Vietnam.

Hanoi responded by insisting the Americans immediately halt all bombing and acts of war before other matters "of common interest" could be discussed.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator, and Xuan Thuy, chief envoy for North Vietnam, held a 210-minute discussion at the French Foreign Ministry's Conference Hall and adjourned their preliminary Vietnam peace talks until Saturday.

Each side had its three-point proposal. Despite the differing proposals, the American side said it declined to be wholly pessimistic.

The U.S. proposal involved restoration on the delimitarized status of the six-mile-wide buffer zone between North and South Vietnam and international action to insure the neutrality and territorial integrity of Laos and Cambodia, Vietnam's Indochinese neighbors.

North Vietnam's proposal spelled out three points, demanding the immediate cessation of all acts of war against the North by the United States, including propaganda and psychological warfare, "without putting any condition" for this before Hanoi.

Xuan Thuy's spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le, was asked by reporters whether North Vietnam had placed any time limit on its demand for a total bombing halt. His reply, referring to past official Hanoi statements, indicated that for the time being, at any rate, there was no time limit.

The talks up to now are strictly limited to issues directly involving the United States and North Vietnam while allies of both wait in the wings to see if the conference can be widened.

The demand of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm, for a coalition government thus is not currently on the agenda, but Harriman was asked about published reports that the United States would not oppose inclusion of Communists in a future Saigon regime.

"We have never been for a coalition government," Harriman replied. This, however, was regarded by some as not quite so sweeping as it sounded, since it did not specifically rule out a "role" for individual Communists.

Harriman spoke for 55 minutes and his adversary for an hour and a half, each delving deeply into his own side's view of the history of the Vietnam war, each accusing the other of being the aggressor, each charging the other with terror and barbarities.

But Harriman said: "Let us now look to the future and seek a basis for peace. I am struck by some similarities in our respective positions. Let me identify for you some of the areas in which it seems reasonable to hope to find agreement. I hope there may be others, but I wish to speak of these now."

He went on to list five such areas.

"First—We both speak of an independent, democratic, peaceful and prosperous South Vietnam. You also speak of a neutral South Vietnam. We have no problem with this if that is South Vietnam's wish.

"Second—We both speak of peace on the basis of respect of the Geneva accords of 1954, to which we add the 1962 agreements on Laos.

"Third—We both speak of letting the international affairs of South Vietnam be settled by the South Vietnamese themselves, which we would clarify by adding 'without outside interference or coercion.'

"Fourth—We both speak of the reunification of Vietnam by peaceful means. In our view this must not only be peaceful but also through the free choice of the people of South Vietnam and of North Vietnam.

"Fifth—We both speak of the need for strict respect of the military provisions of the 1964 Geneva accords."

A wave before talks

U.S. Ambassador-at-large Averell Harriman, left, and Xuan Thuy, right, North Vietnamese delegation chief, wave to crowds as they arrive at the conference hall for resumption of peace talks. No early diplomatic breakthrough was in sight that might lead to agreement on scaling down the war enough to get full dress peace conference underway.

LIBERALIZED VERSION

State senate OKs open housing

By UPI

In a dramatic finish to months of emotional upheaval, the Michigan House Wednesday passed Gov. Romney's sweeping Open Housing bill. The vote was 76-31.

The bill, which passed the Senate by a vote of 22-14, a month ago, must now go back there for concurrence or non-concurrence in 22 House amendments that liberalized the measure far beyond the Senate's version.

The bill passed after an astounding change of heart by House members on an amendment that would have exempted single family homes, from its provisions if the owner did not use a real estate broker or agent.

That language—identical with a section in the new federal Open Housing law—was adopted earlier in the day, 55-49. However, backers of the bill said it "gutted" the principle of Open Housing and the amended bill should be defeated.

After a Republican caucus in which GOP members were freed to vote their conscience, the amendment was stripped from the bill on a 41-61 vote.

Within minutes after passage, Romney praised house members for "passing a good fair housing bill with substantial bi-partisan vote."

"The bill as adopted by the house is stronger in many ways than the federal statute. It is my hope the Senate will concur with it," he said.

First to speak on the bill just before its passage was Rep. Robert Mahoney, D-Detroit, a blind white representative who voted against a nearly identical bill that failed in the house last December. He said he had changed his mind because "there are not many times in life when the issues are so clear, that you have a chance to do the right thing."

Immediately, Rep. James Del Rio, D-Detroit, a negro who has led the floor fight for a liberal law, summed up the feelings of its supporters.

"I think a blind representative has shown the rest of us the way," he said. "If a blind man can see this issue so clearly, then the rest of us too should be able to see the American dream."

The bill was designed to ban discrimination on the basis of race, creed, color or national origin in virtually all real estate transactions. The only exemptions would be for certain "tight living" such as rooming houses and duplexes where the owner lives on the property.

Real estate brokers and agents would be punished by stiff fines of $1,000 for a first offense, and $2,000 for subsequent offenses. Individuals who are found guilty of discrimination could be ordered by a court to pay $500 in damages to the person against whom they discriminated.

The chief enforcing agency would be the State Civil Rights Commission, although someone complaining of discrimination would have the option of going directly to circuit court or to his local human relations commission. Someone who is accused, however, could take the case into circuit court if it were not initiated there.

Those who opposed the bill contended it was not necessary and that attitudes could not be legislated. They also complained the bill infringed on property rights by forcing an owner to sell without giving him a choice of to whom he may sell.

Most of those voting against the bill were suburban white Democrats and rural white Republicans.

VIOLENCE AS LAST RESORT

Abernathy outlines broad goals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sympathetic congressmen shaped a task force Wednesday to push Poor People's programs after an unprecedented meeting with march leaders on Capitol Hill.

About 70 senators and House members met in a 1 1/2-hour session with Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who said the mass demonstrations he plans will turn to civil disobedience only as "a very last resort."

Busloads of protesters rolled toward the capital from Cleveland, Charlotte and Philadelphia to join 500 poverty-hit Negroes already camping in tent-shaped wooden shanties near the Lincoln Memorial.

Abernathy mentioned no price tag in sketching for congressmen the broad goals of more jobs, better housing and an end to poverty in America. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said private speculation on the cost ranged as high as $30 million.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., the Senate's lone Negro, drew up the framework of a special House-Senate committee to meet with the protest leaders and mold specific programs.

Top leaders of both parties in the House and Senate were noticeably absent from the session and one congressman conceded many colleagues have taken a chary attitude toward the march.

"A majority of the congressmen today would be opposed to the march if the vote could be taken on that point," said

Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., a Negro.

Abernathy said he was greatly encouraged by the initial meeting, but at the same time he warned Congress not to fiddle as Nero did while Rome burned. Abernathy said, "We certainly hope it will not be necessary to progress to civil disobedience."

Brill named 1968-69 SN editor-in-chief

Edward A. Brill, Merrick, N.Y., senior, has been named editor-in-chief of the State News for the 1968-69 school year.

Brill was named late Wednesday afternoon by the Advisory Board for the State News and Wolverine. He is currently editorial editor for the paper.

"I hope to broaden the horizons of the State News in the coming year," Brill said. "I think that the paper can be made more relevant to all the students of this University."

"I would like to see a much greater variety of students become involved in the actual production of the newspaper," he added. We can do much more in utilizing the great resources that are available to the State News, as a college newspaper."

The advisory board named Tuesday Stan Eichelbaum, Southfield graduate student, as State News advertising manager and Phil Stoffan, North Ridgeville, Ohio, junior, as Wolverine editor.

In addition to his current post, Brill was director of the paper's Welcome Week 1967 edition. He has also served as an editorial writer and sports writer:

Brill, a history major, is a member of the first class of Justin Morrill College. Holding a 3.84 grade point average, he is a member of Honors College.

Brill is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's leadership honorary; Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary; Blue Key, national men's honorary, and Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary.

Assistant editors will be appointed later this term.

RFK, Nixon set to face stiff contest in Oregon

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Richard M. Nixon, the winners of the Nebraska primary, appear to be heading into much stiffer competition in Oregon's May 28 presidential balloting.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., his nomination hopes reeling from the impact of Kennedy's capture of a majority of the Democratic vote in this prairie state, already has mounted what his supporters call a much more effective campaign in Oregon.

Kennedy's share of the Democratic vote was about 51.5 percent as late counts filtered in on Tuesday's Nebraska balloting.

Since McCarthy held steadily to 31 percent, the reduction in the New York Senator's previously higher majority was attributed largely to write-ins.

Nixon got one per cent of the Democratic total on a write-in. Other names written in accounted for an additional one per cent and former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, who qualified a third party ticket here, collected one per cent on Democratic write-ins.

President Johnson, a non-candidate, got 6 per cent on the ballot and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, publicly designated by Kennedy as his chief rival at the Chicago nominating convention, got 8 per cent on a write-in.

Kennedy seemed likely to carry off the lion's share of delegates elected separately to cast the state's 30 votes at the Chicago convention. Candidates favoring him led in 16 races. McCarthy supporters were ahead in three and nine uncommitted delegates were outdistancing rivals.

Reagan's feat in rolling up 22 per cent of the Nebraska Republican total without personal campaigning in the state seemed likely to threaten Nixon's uninterrupted parade through the primaries with 70 per cent or more of his party's vote.

Supporters of the California Governor, who said in Hawaii he couldn't foresee himself "soliciting the job" of presidential nominee, have been saturating Oregon for television and campaign material in the hope of making a strong showing against Nixon there.

Kennedy hits HHH 'happy' political attitude

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy unleashed his strongest attack yet on Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey Wednesday as Kennedy departed briefly from his triumphal primary trail to seek vital delegate support in Michigan.

"If you want to be filled with Pabulum and tranquilizers, then you should vote for some other candidate," the New York Democrat told at least 10,000 cheering listeners in Detroit's downtown John F. Kennedy Square.

"There are some who say everything is peaceful," he shouted, in reference to Humphrey's call for a "politics of happiness." "They say we should practice the politics of happiness, the politics of joy. Well, I don't think you can go to the American people and tell them everything is satisfactory in the United States."

UAW defies union edict, schism within AFL-CIO

DETROIT (AP) — Defying an AFL-CIO edict to remit dues it is withholding or find itself outside the so-called "House of Labor," the United Auto Workers (UAW) Union said Tuesday it had no intention of paying up.

The AFL-CIO set a midnight Wednesday deadline. Emil Mazey, its secretary-treasurer, said the UAW would not meet it.

The AFL-CIO pictures the situation as "a withdrawal" by the UAW, but a UAW spokesman said "we're being kicked out."

Either way, it is labor's biggest schism since the AFL-CIO expelled the Teamsters Union 11 years ago on charges of corruption. The Teamsters claim 1.8 million members; the UAW 1.6 million.

The AFL-CIO is made up of 130 unions claiming 14 million members. The UAW is the largest affiliate.

The current split stems from a squabble between two men who brought together once rival organizations into the AFL-CIO: George Meany, chief of the old American Federation of Labor, and Walter P. Reuther, leader of the old Congress of Industrial Organizations. Dues are a secondary issue.

The 60-year-old Reuther charges the labor movement is "stagnating" under leadership of the 74-year-old Meany and demands, among other things, an organizing crusade. The 29-member AFL-CIO Executive Council repeatedly has sided with Meany in disputes with Reuther.

In declaring no payment would be made before the midnight deadline Wednesday, Mazey said: "I will abide by the decision of our convention."

The UAW convention to which he referred was held last week in Atlantic City and some 3,000 delegates overwhelmingly directed that an estimated $1 million annually paid to the AFL-CIO in per capita dues be put in escrow until the federation met UAW conditions for continued membership.

The AFL-CIO constitution provides an affiliate three months in arrears may be suspended. Meany, after a Monday executive council meeting, said suspension would be automatic for the auto workers unless they paid by midnight May 15.

In ordering dues which normally would go to the federation put in escrow, the UAW convention proved the money would be paid the AFL-CIO if before next Dec. 15 it "schedules unconditionally a special convention" before which Reuther and Meany would debate their philosophies.

Otherwise, UAW delegates directed the funds go into the UAW treasury "to mobilize, assist and work with other organizations, alone or in combination, toward the objectives of meeting the urgent problems which confront our society and the labor movement."

Meany previously offered Reuther a special convention if the UAW chief would agree to abide by its decision and continue AFL-CIO membership. Reuther rejected this, contending it amounted to signing a loyalty oath.

The UAW currently is something like $295,000 in arrears in dues. In ordering them held up beyond three months, delegates virtually challenged the federation to kick out the UAW.

Previously, however, Reuther had said he preferred to postpone a showdown beyond next November's presidential election.

DeGaulle urges Romania to cooperate with France

BUCHAREST (AP) — Romania's Communist legislators rose in applause for President Charles de Gaulle of France Wednesday as he pleaded for the right of each nation to speak in its own voice. He denounced "big-power domination" in Europe, presumably that of the United States and the Soviet Union.

De Gaulle told the Romanians exactly what they wanted to hear. They have wrenched themselves out of the Soviet Union's economic harness and into independent foreign and trade policies, although maintaining tight regimentation at home.

But De Gaulle, assertedly a friend of the Soviet Union, took the precaution in his speech before the Grand National Assembly to reassure the Kremlin that Romanian cooperation with France "will not weaken Romania's close relations with the Soviet Union."

The French president is on a second day of a state visit here. He attended a Romanian government reception Wednesday night and planned a two-day tour of industrial areas north of the capital Thursday with Romanian party chief Nicolae Ceausescu.

De Gaulle talked with Ceausescu and Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer before addressing the assembly. Their conversation was thought to have covered a survey of East-West relations, European security and the U.S.-Soviet nuclear nonproliferation treaty which neither France nor Romania support.

De Gaulle's speech stirred the 432 assembly deputies when he asserted the "right of each people to speak in their own voice."

"If European countries renounced their sovereignty in a shameful manner," he said, the split that divides the Continent into two "sterile blocs" will be perpetuated.

These blocs, De Gaulle charged, threaten "a new catastrophe in a conflict between the two big powers facing each other along lines which lie well outside their own territories."

De Gaulle said: "Romania knows that France is observing the same principles" of independence "which does not mean that France has abandoned her friends while freeing herself of the burdens of Atlantic domination."

"If we want to put an end to the division of Europe we must naturally respect the fact that political and economic conditions in our countries are different. The desires of our two peoples are identical, however, and deeply rooted in age-old sympathies. But the roads we take should be roads of our choosing, for we believe that the spring of life lies in peoples who have their own bodies and souls."

If France and Romania begin marching side by side, the general said, they could "give the Continent an example of European nationalism for the benefit of Europe and all mankind."

Thousands waved at the cavalcade of black limousines that carried De Gaulle and his party through the city. Blue-capped security troops with submachine guns were posted along the route and secret police drew a cordon around the presidential palace.

De Gaulle also said that he intends to meet with Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy in Paris next week.

The French leader disclosed this to Hoang Tu, North Vietnamese ambassador to Romania. He spoke briefly with Hoang Tu during a diplomatic reception.

Army holds interviews

Orientation and interviews for Officers Candidate School (OCS) will be held from 1-4 p.m. every Wednesday for the remainder of the term in Demonstration Hall.

The program, open to graduate students, and seniors who will graduate in June, offers candidates 42 weeks of training prior to commissioning in the U.S. Army.

Upon completion of basic training, officer candidates will attend one of three OCS schools: Ft. Sill, Okla., Ft. Benning, Ga. or Ft. Belvoir, Va.

All candidates are assigned to one of 17 branches of the Army, according to their educational or professional backgrounds, interests and military requirements.

Interviewing for the program does not obligate candidates or affect their draft status.

Wilson convinces Labor to back wage guidelines

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson shrugged off a nationwide strike by three million engineering workers Wednesday and won support from his Labor party legislators for the government's tough wage restraint policies.

Wilson was reported to have delivered a fighting speech behind closed doors to swing the Laborite members of Parliament 205-42 in favor of the measures, which run counter to basic principles of the left-wing party.

But, while Wilson drew support in London, engineering workers in motor plants, shipyards and aviation plants around Britain walked off the job for 24 hours to protest the government's tough line on pay hikes.

Wilson and his ministers are caught in a corner. They hold that, in order for Britain to make an economic recovery, wages as well as prices have to be held down.

Laborites lost heavily in local elections last week and things were not helped any when the financial boat was rocked with a disturbing flurry on the London gold market.

The metal hit an all-time high of $40.10 as speculators who had laid low for months finally cashed in.

Douglas Houghton, chairman of the Labor party, said after the meeting of Labor MPs: "The prime minister was fighting back with confidence and great effect."

Wilson told the Laborites a breakdown in the government's incomes policy would have disastrous consequences.

Referring to publication Tuesday of the government's bill to halt increases in wages, prices and dividends for at least 18 months, Wilson declared:

"The government did not think up this bill just for the hell of it, because of some political death wish. We presented this bill to Parliament for one reason only, because in our judgment and in our responsibility we judged it was necessary."

The bill, which will get a second reading in the House of Commons next week, sets no ceiling

IN WEST VIRGINIA

Margin narrow in primary

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Democratic State Chairman James M. Sprouse apparently will be Republican Arch A. Moore Jr.'s November opponent for governor of West Virginia. Sprouse's primary election lead was still too narrow Wednesday night, however, for it to be a sure thing.

In a mild upset, Sprouse led state Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson 110,045 to 107,051 for the Democratic nomination. Results of the Tuesday voting were tabulated from 2,278-90 per cent-of the state's 2,512 precincts.

Moore, six-term congressman, from the 1st District, stopped Cecil H. Underwood's bid to become the first West Virginia governor ever returned for a second four-year term.

Returns from 2,272 precincts gave the 45-year-old Moore the GOP nomination by a margin of 94,837 to 69,442 over Underwood, the governor from 1957 to 1961.

The most spectacular primary development was the huge margin by which state legislator John D. "Jay" Rockefeller IV of Charleston—nephew of the Republican governors of New York and Arkansas—won the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

With all but 10 per cent of the vote in the 30-year-old Rockefeller had overwhelmed the closer of two rivals, former State Treasurer Orel J. Skeen, 192,549 to 41,039. The smashing victory boosted the 6-foot-6 Rockefeller's status as an expected 1972 candidate for governor.

John S. Calles of Huntington, who teaches social studies at Marshall University, will be Rockefeller's Republican opponent in November. Calles, 35, was unopposed in the primary.

Rockefeller was a Peace Corps official in 1962-63, then spent a year in the State Dept. Bureau of Far Eastern Affairs.

He resigned in 1964 and came to West Virginia as an anti-poverty field worker in a run-down coal-mining community near Charleston. He left that post in 1965 and, the next year, entered politics as a successful Democratic candidate for a two-year legislative term in the House of Delegates.

In the legislature he was identified mainly with bills to strengthen water and air-pollution control laws and with tax legislation which he helped steer on the House floor for the Finance Committee.

Last year Rockefeller was married to the former Sharon Percy, daughter of Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

In the gubernatorial primary, outgoing Democratic Gov. Hulett C. Smith—ineligible to succeed himself—did not announce a personal choice among the five Democratic candidates. But Robertson, finishing his second term as attorney general, enjoyed the backing of some key Smith administration department heads.

Lower draft calls expected for summer and fall of 1968

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon's draft calls, which began shooting up in January and peaked at 48,000 in April, continued to slide down Wednesday with a request for 15,000 Army recruits in July.

At the same time, the Defense Dept. said the Army finds it needs 9,500 fewer men in June than expected, so the draft call for that month is being reduced from 29,500 to 20,000. It was explained that the Army overestimated the number of men who will be discharged during the month.

The 15,000 July request is the lowest since the 11,400 of April last year. Draft calls rose sharply at the start of this year because so many men called in the Vietnam buildup two years ago were completing their compulsory service.

But now that that cycle is complete, the Pentagon said lower draft calls can be expected during the second half of 1967.

The changing draft picture comes at a time when 39,000 Reserves and National Guardsmen are being called up.

Air Reservists, air Guardsmen and naval air Reservists totaling 14,787 were mobilized Jan. 26 shortly after the North Koreans seized the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew.

Then a month ago about 24,500 Reservists and National Guardsmen were ordered to report in 30 days. About 20,000 of those joined the active force this week, forming some 87 units from 34 states. Another 3,600 individuals needed to fill out units are to show up June 15.

The Army has been the only service to rely regularly on the draft. The Marines draw on it occasionally. The Navy and Air Force have managed with voluntary enlistments.

The callups this year have run this way: January, 34,000; February, 23,300; March, 41,000; April, 48,000; May, 45,900; June, 20,000; July, 15,000. The 48,000 April total was near the highest Vietnam callup of 49,200 in October 1966.

In explaining there is some margin of error in long-range calculations of draft calls, such as the June figure, the Pentagon said there are many factors.

The Pentagon, in explaining the up-and-down cycle of the draft, put it this way:

"The average time for training a new draftee or recruit is approximately five months. In order to maintain its trained strength at a stable level, the Army must, therefore, procure new personnel about one half year in advance of anticipated losses of trained personnel due to completion of tours of duty or other factors."

'King and I' opens for 4 performances

The Performing Arts Company's production of "The King and I" will begin at 8 tonight in the Auditorium. The play will be presented on Friday and Saturday night also.

Featured in the cast are Dolores Viola and Charles Greenwell.

Miss Viola, Detroit graduate student in speech and theater, has played the role of Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet" and Lady Macbeth in "Macbeth." She also has appeared in "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Greenwell, East Lansing graduate student in music, has appeared in "Faust" and "The Abduction from Seraglio."

Tickets are on sale for all performances from 12:30 to 5 p.m. today and Friday.

Reasons for hope in Paris talks

Though President Johnson has adopted a prematurely pessimistic mood on which to start the negotiations in Paris between the North Vietnamese and the United States, there are now appearing indications that positions are not entirely rigid. The meeting of two belligerents cannot help but be couched in some degree of propaganda, but there are some reasons for hope.

The meetings last week were involved with the mundane chores of organization—where who sits and in what language to speak—but the atmosphere was said by both sides to be "good." Hopefully, this is a harbinger of the way things will be for the rest of the talks, but nothing is sure.

On Monday, the first meeting of the primary negotiators of "The first few steps in the first step toward peace are now taken, but all is still preliminary."

both sides, W. Averell Harriman for the U.S. and Xuan Thuy for the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV), was also apparently cordial. North Vietnam gave its normal, implacable demands, including the complete cessation of all hostilities against the DRV by the United States.

The United States, however, showed a new flexibility. Harriman presented a seven-point plan for peace in all Southeast Asia, which did not exclude participation of mainland China in a group of Asian nations which would oversee the agreement reached at the conference.

In addition, the Viet Cong were not specifically excluded from taking part in the government of South Vietnam, which would be constituted on the basis of "one-man-one-vote" without "outside interference."

Both of these possibilities go much against the past contentions of the U.S. administration. Earlier, Red China was not to be mentioned in official Washington. And the National Liberation Front was anathema.

The main issue at the moment is the scope of the discussion. Hanoi has confined its demands to those directly related to the hostility on their territory, and deferred discussion on the broader peace. The U.S. plan, however, includes the peace in Laos, Cambodia and the rest of Southeast Asia.

This is where the compromises must first be made. The talks are a long way from ended. There is time for much yet to happen, but they have apparently been launched on a good note.

Wednesday's meeting was much like Monday's, with each side presenting three-point plans for further discussion. A third major meeting was scheduled for Saturday.

The issues from which to start the real discussions are now drawn. Hopefully, both sides are flexible enough to continue the talks through success.

The first few steps in the first step toward peace are now taken, but all is still preliminary. It is not yet time to predict the outcome, but we do have, at least, a basis for a reasoned hope.

Move toward equality

Ah springtime. When a young man's fancy turns to...

Ah, Thursday. When a young people's mind turns gentle.

Ah, gentle. Gentle Thursday. Once again, we find the second annual Gentle Thursday descending on us from that great Charmin factory in the sky. Leave it to the young to know what's gentle.

Memories of last year pleasantly creep into consciousness. Pretty girls handing out flowers and writing love on the sidewalks with chalk. Pretty boys handing out candy with flowers in their hair. Flower children, every one. Yes, it will be difficult to top that one. But we shall overcome this year.

Today is the day to do all you should have done during the year. Be human, and love. Go barefoot. Tell a prof you like him. Let someone in the dinner line ahead of you. Blow bubbles. Say hi to everyone on the street. Tell a grad assistant he knows what he is talking about. GROOVE.

Maybe, just maybe, you'll like what you are doing. Maybe you'll like yourself a little more. Maybe you'll notice things you never saw before, and keep noticing them. That's the goal. Make Gentle Thursday a part of you. Don't keep it inside, but make it a part of you. Then Gentle Thursday may become Gentle Friday, then Gentle Week, then Gentle year, and then Gentle World.

Be Gentle.

OUR READERS' MINDS

Press gives negative view of VN

To the Editor:

Since returning from Vietnam in March I have grown tired of reading articles and editorials attacking our policies in the Republic of Vietnam.

In Thursday's edition Mr. Hough takes to task Maj. Howard V. Lee for his criticism of the press coverage of the war. It appears from the article that Mr. Hough did not hear the Major's speech.

I firmly agree with the Major that the press distorts the news and gives the people at home a negative outlook on the war. To criticize the war seems the "in" thing to write about.

How much newspaper space has been given to stories concerning the murder of over 60,000 South Vietnamese by the VC? These murders were primarily provincial, district and local government officials in addition to women and children. Anyone who will stand up to the Reds or a person that can lead the people in danger of assassination. Do you think that you would like to be a hamlet chief when the last seven had been assassinated?

How much ink has been devoted to the economic and social or humanitarian programs sponsored by the United States and 42 other foreign nations? What has been told of the construction of schools, hospitals, bridges and roads? What about the widespread medical assistance such as aid to the provincial hospitals, malaria and plague control, training or medical personnel, assistance by the AMA, infant immunizations, care of orphans and widows, agricultural progress and other beneficial programs of USAID?

During the Tet offensive a reporter stayed in our billets and wrote an eight day serial about the war while sitting at the bar and he never left the building to go with the fighting units. He had reported an ARVN Ranger unit to be fighting in Saigon when it was actually in Hue! His information was gained by rumors, telephone calls and imagination yet this was published in a major U.S. newspaper and many of you may have read it for the gospel truth. What would Ernie Pyle of Jim Lucas think of this type of reporting? Many of the reporters in Saigon dress and play the role of the hippie. I don't mind the fuzzy faces but I don't care for their fuzzy thinking. Some of these reporters make no bones about their dove feelings when they arrive in Vietnam and their articles reflect their closedminded attitudes.

I think the press has failed to present an accurate background to the Vietnamese war. Few people understand about the Viet Minh, why we nor the Vietnamese signed the Geneva agreements, the flight of over one million northerners to the south, the executions of the landowners by Ho Chi Minh after coming to power and other brutal methods used by the Communists to subdue the people. If you too do not have a good understanding of the war don't feel too badly because neither do Senators Fulbright, Kennedy or McCarthy.

I am a firm believer that we must stand by our commitment in South Vietnam and not let this nation of 17 million people fall into Communist hands. I made many friends with both the South Vietnamese and the northern refugees during this past year. They know that if the Communists come to power there will be wholesale slaughter of anyone who has been connected with the government or the Americans.

To the Editor:

In reference to Mr. Mitch's editorial and Mr. Smith's praise of it, it is a pity that they haven't digested or if they digested, regurgitated the meaning and nature of prejudice. Both provide excellent examples of the wolf in sheep clothing, insidious prejudice clothed in phrases such as the inequality of granting Negroes privileges or the radicalism of the press.

After four hundred years I do feel that it is only through the U.S. aid that their country can become strong enough to protect themselves. It is possible to win freedom for these people and we have a moral obligation to protect them and all of Southeast Asia from this diabolic tyranny.

Yes, Mr. Hough, the press has an obligation and a responsibility to report the truth but let's have the entire truth. While nearly all of the U.S. civilians and military in Vietnam support involvement the press has managed to confuse almost the entire nation.

Dr. Stephen J. Maloney

College of Veterinary Medicine

Nature of prejudice

it is time someone became aware of the existing social problems. If any privileges have been granted, Negroes as a people deserve them and more beside since many are qualified. I wonder how many Negroes Mr. Mitch has interviewed to see if they want to play college baseball. I thought researching was of prime importance in journalism!

May I suggest to use a slang expression "that they put their houses in order" and then worry about the radicalism of the press or the inequalities of Negro privileges. Excuse me for being presumptuous, but do read Allport's "Nature of Prejudice." It is not too complicated for childlike, pristine intelligence. Don't stop there. Do let some of the conclusions sink into your narrow minds!

nation growing into a maturity, and as a result, we must patiently seek intelligent answers to the complex issues before us.

But we must realize that we must make these solutions a part of reality. Until that happens, all the words—both written and spoken—have no meaning except as a pacifier to our guilty consciences.

One of the tragic discoveries I made in Alabama as I listened to the Commission's proceedings was that it has only a passive political function. It can only report facts, not create policies to alter the situations it was reporting.

It's intent in Alabama was to investigate a 16-county area in the south central region of the state. This it did, and did very well. The staff reports alone provide a sturdy framework of factual evidence on the tragedy of the poor black man living in the rural, non-metropolitan areas there. These reports examined the welfare program, housing conditions, employment practices, population statistics, federal aid programs.

But this is not enough. Somewhere along the way, the facts turned up by the Commission must be placed before the white power structure, and force the shift of attitude necessary for change in handling the public and private institutions and folkways of this country. Somehow, the problems created for centuries by a system of inequality on practically every level of life must be overturned.

Somehow the citizens of this country, from the youngest to the oldest, must abandon the old clichés used for protection against reality and begin to actively help each other in solving these problems. For it won't be until this race problem—and the others—gets down to a one-to-one basis that any real change will come about. Each person who harbors even the most secret bias that someone is inferior by basis of color alone must set that criterion of performance aside.

The black people must also take part in this interaction. They must develop programs and organizations that will make the white people respect and understand them better. Black is beautiful, and has been since white was beautiful. The black man has always had a long and rich cultural past; black children should know about it.

They should know that, despite their slave role in American society, the black people have given much to America in the way of music, customs, art, science, history, sports, education. The resources of the black community should be used to develop the potential of the black people without accepting handouts per se.

These self-help programs can be done, and are most successful. This was shown to me by a self-help housing project in Alabama—the only one in the entire state. Located in Greene County, the program obtains land and builds prefabricated houses for those evicted from other property. The land, because of Southern discrimination, is bought from other blacks; and the houses are erected by blacks. It is helped by various government funds, but in the form of loans given for that specific purpose. The results are families with some dignity because they are living on their land, in their own house.

The predictions for race relations in the immediate future are rather gloomy. Many in the white community, uncertain and afraid, are building up gun and ammunition caches in their homes. Most programs, from the federal level on down, will slow down until after the election in November (the Commission, for example, probably will pause from further investigations in the South to avoid any anti-federal feelings in the South). This will create an unfortunate void when action is needed most.

So whatever hope for avoiding bloodshed and unthinkable destruction and violence rests on the sense of responsibility developed by each person.

That sense of responsibility need not be limited to just the people in the South.

We in the North have just as many racial problems as those in the South. In fact, the South has two advantages: the poor black man living in the rural South is not as destitute as the black man living in the bare jungle of concrete, plastic, wood and linoleum of the slums in Detroit and Chicago; and the segregated facilities maintained by the South to enforce its system of inequality will work for the black people. The black people are grouped together. This gives them the close sense of community lacking in the anonymity of large cities.

Because of the growing importance of American universities in social discussion, students at this University can and should aid the campus groups trying to solve the racial dilemma. Maybe then the problems of illusion and prejudice will not restrict the movement toward human equality. Maybe then the threat of a vicious violence tearing through all social, economic, cultural religious and political distinctions will not be so real. Maybe. Hopefully.

Local blood center pays MSU donors

Many MSU students are finding it profitable to visit the Michigan Community Blood Center at 507 E. Grand River Ave. Students visit the blood center to give blood and earn money. If they meet the requirements to give blood, they may receive up to $12 for a pint of blood.

Mrs. Elaine Rau, head resident nurse at the blood center, said that as many as 75 students give blood during a normal week. Approximately 75-85 per cent of blood donors are MSU students, she said.

Besides earning money, the students are also helping Michigan. Mrs. Rau said. The blood is sent to Grand Rapids where it is rechecked and then distributed to various communities in the Michigan area.

The blood center is inspected by the Michigan Health Dept. and is accredited by the American Assn. of Blood Banks. A doctor at Sparrow Hospital is on call at all times.

Students able to give blood will find that they are paid according to their blood type. Those with O negative blood receive $12; A negative, B negative and AB negative, $10 and all positive blood types, $7.50.

March progress discussed

By BILL CUMMINGS
State News Staff Writer

Progress in the Poor People's Campaign in Washington D.C. was discussed by community leaders of various organizations in the Greater Lansing area Tuesday night in the Union Ballroom.

Ron Bailey, coordinator for the Lansing area campaign, presented plans for the upcoming Poor People's Day in Lansing and the march to Washington D.C.

Bailey explained that the main purpose for the meeting was "an attempt for broader coordination of people to be involved in the Poor People's Campaign."

One of the group's primary concerns is securing funds for the Washington march. Bailey announced that the cheapest way to travel to Washington would be by organizing a mass car pool.

The cost of sending a car to Washington is about $50, Bailey said, and each car will contain five or six passengers.

Fund raising is to be carried out by canvassing the Greater Lansing area business establishments, campus organizations, living units, faculty members and the administration.

An additional fund raising event will be a jazz festival to be held May 26 near the Auditorium.

The Lansing drive began with Poor People's Day May 10 when a rally was held near Beaumont Tower. The last phase of the drive will be the march to Washington D.C. on May 30.

Robert L. Green, professor of education, spoke briefly about the experiences of several local women who were in Washington on Mother's Day. Green said, "Very apparent poverty was found in Washington. Many people were without adequate clothing and some were in need of immediate medical attention."

Green suggested a clothing campaign be conducted on campus in an effort to obtain needed clothing for the marchers.

Peggy Benson, chairman of the Lansing Welfare Rights Organization, was one of the local women in Washington last Sunday. She described the Washington march as "quite an awesome thing."

Mrs. Benson explained the needs of the Lansing Welfare Rights Commission in terms of financial and child care problems. She also said many mothers from the Lansing area are willing to go to Washington indefinitely if they can be assured that their families will be cared for.

Ruben Alfaro, chairman of the Michigan Migrant Workers Assn., explained the problems of the Mexican-American and other Spanish speaking minority groups. He said that like the Negro, "we have been neglected and oppressed for so long."

BOB ROBINSON

Airero said, "It is about time we joined forces and worked together."

John Dakari from the Office of Economic Opportunity said, "This is the first time I have seen both black and white people get together to fight a common problem."

Dakari noted the remarkable change in MSU East Lansing and Lansing over the past year as black people are trying to get together and do something about their problems.

"We are all out to help not only the poor black but the poor white as well," he said.

Lynn Jondahl, chairman of the Greater Lansing Community Organization, offered his organization's support in raising funds and obtaining baby sitters for the Poor People's Campaign.

Those interested in the work should go to 316 Student Services Building or call 353-6633.

Circle Honorary tapping tonight

Circle Honorary, women's service organization, will tap 56 women tonight for their outstanding leadership in residence halls.

The organization was started on campus winter term of 1960 under the sponsorship of the Women's Inter-residence Council. The group was organized with the hope that it would stimulate more interest among the women's residence halls.

Since its beginning, Circle Honorary has served the University in many ways. Recently its members have read to the blind, held dinners for foreign students and aided in registration at new residence halls.

Parking ramp offsets space lost by building expansion

By LARRY LEE
State News Staff Writer

With the addition of parking ramp number two, MSU parking facilities are rated as excellent by the directors of public safety and campus planning.

Richard O. Bernitt, director of the Dept. of Public Safety, said the 512-car ramp does not actually add any spaces. "It was built to take care of what was lost by the Administration Bldg. and what the ramp itself took," he said.

There was an extensive, although unimproved, lot that was destroyed when construction began on the library addition and the new Administration Bldg., Bernitt said.

"As I understand it, some departments and personnel that are presently scattered will be relocated in the new building," he said. "Thus, the new ramp will relieve shortages in other areas of the campus."

Harold W. Lautner, director of Campus Planning and Maintenance, said, "Our facilities are now very good. If we can just get the cars in the ramp..." He said that Tuesday morning, there weren't more than 50 cars in the ramp.

"It does take a while for people to get used to the ramp and realize it is open," he said. "But once the police start enforcing the no parking areas, it'll be used more."

In planning for future needs of the University, Lautner said the next probable facility would be between the International Center and Engineering Bldg. Also, if the buildings north of Agriculture Hall are replaced, he said a ramp may be put between there and the Horticulture Bldg.

"But at $2250 per space, ramps aren't very easy to come by," Lautner said.

Although he said it is not imminent, a Physics Building is planned east of the Cyclotron, and this, plus other growing pains of the University are bound to make student parking in parking ramp number one almost impossible.

Also, Lautner said, the faculty parking fees are beginning to help offset the cost of building a ramp, while the fees assessed to students cannot do this.

Congress passes cost of credit bill

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Senate-House conferees agreed Wednesday on a landmark bill requiring that borrowers be told the true cost of credit on consumer transactions totalling about $100 billion a year.

The agreement on the measure, called the Truth-in-Lending bill, climaxed a fight that began eight years ago when the first legislation was introduced.

Conferees on both sides said they are confident the final product will clear both houses, probably next week, and be sent to President Johnson. He has urged passage of the measure.

Under its terms, stores which extend consumer credit and financial institutions which make loans for consumer purchases would have to disclose two things:

--The annual interest rate figured on the declining balance of the obligation.

--The total cost of the credit in dollars and cents over its full life.

SOCIALIST CAMPAIGN

Success without victory

By LINDA BEDNAR
State News Staff Writer

The Socialist Workers Party's 1968 presidential campaign has been a success even though the party does not expect to win. Paul Boutelle, vice-presidential candidate, said Tuesday.

"We will not get elected," Boutelle told a full audience in South Kedzie Hall. "We set out to build a movement, and encourage other movements seeking to change this system."

Boutelle said lack of money, unequal publicity and the fact that the party is on only about 30 state ballots would preclude victory. But even if all other factors were equal, he said, "we have no illusions" of being permitted by the capitalist system to take office.

But in reaching students, black people and workers, he said, "we have been having very great success throughout the country."

Boutelle charged American capitalism with racism and exploitation of the working class. The U.S. government is "the enemy of all people fighting for freedom throughout the world."

He said students alone can not change the system, "but students and workers together can do it."

"There can be no revolution in America without the workers," Boutelle said. "The workers are the only class in America capable of bringing about change." Workers can hinder government operations through strikes, he said.

"Now most black Americans are workers, and the most oppressed segment of the working class," Boutelle said. "We live in a racist system. It is supported by the capitalist economic system."

The Socialist Workers Party does not advocate revolutionary violence, he said. "But we are not nonviolent." He said the capitalist system must be changed "by any means necessary."

'Untouchables' head 'S' bat success

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

Considering the way MSU's pitching staff has "prohibited" runs this season, it's surprising the hurlers haven't been nicknamed "The Untouchables."

MSU's top five pitchers, Mel Behney, Dan Bielski, Zana Easton, Phil Fulton and Mickey Knight have all kept their earned run averages below 2.0, and Dave Williams, Chuck Viane and Larry Hooper have earned run averages no higher than 2.25 in limited appearances.

Collectively, the Spartan earned run average is a phenomenal 1.47, making them one of the stingiest staffs MSU has ever fielded.

The 1965 team had two pitchers with the best ERA's of all time, (Dick Holmes 0.47, Jim Goodrich 0.76) but was at 2.30 as a staff. The 1968 squad, which had Dick Radatz and Ron Perranoski was at 2.58.

"The success of the ball club this season has to be due to the pitching," MSU's Coach Danny Litwhiler said. "We've had great pitching all season, and the only time our pitching hasn't been tops was when we lost to Michigan, a team that's tough to beat anyway. You can't expect our pitchers to be at their best all of the time though."

The making of the staff was done largely in 1965 when Behney and Easton were given tenders and Knight and Bielski "walked on" to the freshman squad. Fulton was recruited the following year.

Behney, a junior from Verona, N.J., came from the same school as the other three. Brother Woody was principal. Litwhiler offered Behney a tender on the advice of his brother and other scouts without seeing him pitch.

Behney was 4-3 last year with a 2.59 earned run average, but his 8-3 won lost rec-

Pitchers' records

PITCHER	W-L	IP	ER	BB	SO	ERA
Mel Behney	8-2	68.2	9	28	88	1.18
Dan Bielski	6-0	39.2	6	20	26	1.35
Zana Easton	5-2	58.1	9	19	55	1.37
Phil Fulton	3-0	36.1	6	12	29	1.48
Mickey Knight	4-2	42	9	15	50	1.92
Dave Williams	0-0	8.2	2	5	5	2.07
Chuck Viane	0-1	4	1	1	4	2.25
Larry Hooper	0-0	4	1	2	3	2.25
MSU	26-7	261.2	43	102	280	1.47
OPPONENT	7-26	252	157	143	212	5.64

ord this year is two wins shy of the Spartan single season win record. Maintaining his present ERA of 1.18 would set him third in the record books. He is tied for third in strikeouts for a season with 88, one away from second place and 18 from the mark Radatz set in 1959.

Easton and Fulton, unlike Behney, were observed by Litwhiler before they were recruited. Easton pitched for nearby Grand Ledge and Fulton for Alma.

Bielski and Knight both made good on the freshmen squad. Knight was MSU's top pitcher last season, while Bielski saw only 5 1/3 on the mound last season.

Knight's 1.92 ERA last season was MSU's best. His 1.92 this season ranks fifth. Bielski, with a 6-0 won-lost record, is one victory away from the record for consecutive wins in a season.

All the Spartans use basically three pitches—a curve, fastball and charge-up. Knight occasionally throws a knuckler.

For the righthanders the fastball "tails" inside to a righthand batter, while Behney's fastball jumps inside to a lefthanded batter.

Behney is probably the fastest on the staff, according to Litwhiler, while Bielski's fastball probably moves the most.

Knight is the only Spartan with a wide breaking curve.

POINT OF VIEW

Indy 500: turbines and Hoosier carnival

By TOM BROWN
State News Sports Writer

Every year the Indianapolis 500 has a new toy for the rail-birds to talk about.

In past years, discussion has gone from front-wheel drive to the Novi to Bill Vukovich. It has covered side-winders, rear-engined racers, foreign drivers and Parnelli Jones. Fifteen-inch wheels, Mickey Thompson and Lotus Ford were once suitable talk on the agenda.

That has all changed. All anyone wants to talk about these days are turbines and Andy Granatelli.

Granatelli is a familiar figure around the two-and-a-half mile oval.

The fat man in the red STP coveralls was known as Indy's biggest joke long before the United States Auto Club (USAC) and a $20 bearing turned Granatelli into sport's biggest martyr until Roberto DeVincenzo.

The whisper-jet turbine has had a shorter, but no less spectacular career.

Indy may need the turbine and Granatelli but motor racing needs either.

As American as Mom and apple pie, so we're told, Indy is as exciting to watch as an old Indian motorcycle climbing "the wall of death" at a county fair. In a like fashion, Indy needs a carnival to give the paying customer his money's worth.

The Hoosier hucksters sell speed, and plenty of it, but like any carnival, Indy has its side show.

The Memorial Day bash is a sensual spectacle, complete with sweating humanity, noise and garishly tattooed cars. Proving Barnum's boast, the customers line up to gawk at the "death-defying drivers," rubbing wheels for death or a million silver ducats.

And Granatelli is the king in this freak house. Granatelli poured a million dollars into that old favorite, the Novi, and the crowd loved him for it.

But Granatelli laughed all the way to the bank as countless thousands of pimple-faced teenyboppers cruised the drive-in circuit in STP sticker-equipped GTO's, proving Granatelli's business acumen.

The Novis were old and sick, so Granatelli gave the crowd a new freak—the turbine.

Straightaway speeds had improved little in the ten years before the whisper jet came along. Blessed with close to a thousand ponies, the turbine appeared to be able to lap at close to the speed of sound.

The speed that Indy thrives on are entirely too high for the ancient brickyard, but if lap speeds were to fall off, the paying customer would accuse the drivers of sandbagging.

"Pull the turbine's teeth," said USAC.

"Sue, sue," cried Granatelli.

"Smaller engines," muttered the enthusiast.

"Blood, blood," chanted the crowd.

Supporters of the turbine shout in the name of Progress, but a helicopter engine shoehorned into a racing chassis is not a great advance of the art.

Besides, progress is a moot point at monkey see, monkey do. The gem-like Miller and Duesenberg "9ls" ruled Indy in the twenties, but they lacked the blistering speed and the thrills and chills that the crowd wanted.

Silently, the whisper jets will swoosh one driver after another into the concrete retainer wall till the crowd gets the biggest thrill of its life—a one lap 500.

And the losers will be the drivers and the crowds at New Bremen and Langhorens, wherever enthusiasts follow the big cars.

They don't need Indy, Granatelli or the turbine.

Dancer's Image may still run in Preakness

LOUISVILLE (UPI) — The lengthy hearing into the drug-ing of Dancer's Image resumed at 9 a.m. (EDT) this morning amid reports that the Churchill Downs stewards may allow the gray colt and trainer Lou Cavalieri to participate in Saturday's Preakness while continuing the investigation.

After a 17-hour session Tuesday that did not break up until 2:05 a.m., Lewis Finley, the state's representative among the three stewards, said, "I don't see how we can announce anything before the end of the day."

To run in the $150,000-added Preakness, the second jewel of the triple crown, Dancer's Image must be entered by 10:30 a.m. EDT Thursday.

With less than 24 hours to go before the entry box for the Preakness closes at Pimlico Race Track in Baltimore, it appeared that the investigation would not be ended in time to allow Dancer's Image to run Saturday.

Conference golf field 'best ever'

By GARY WALKOWICZ
State News Sports Writer

With six teams having a shot at this year's Big Ten golf championship, experts feel this week's tourney shapes up as one of the most exciting ever.

The 72-hole tournament will be played this Friday and Saturday over the University of Indiana course.

"This is the best and most balanced field that we've ever had," said Indiana Coach Robert Fitch. "I think Michigan should be favored because of its win in the Northern Intercollegiate tournament, but the five teams that finished behind the Wolverines (Indiana, MSU, Minnesota, Ohio State, and Iowa) all have a chance to win."

MSU Coach Bruce Fossum lists these same six teams as possible winners, but says that "Indiana should definitely be considered the favorite."

"The Hoosiers lost to Michigan by only two strokes in the Northern tourney and will have the advantage of playing on their own course," Fossum added.

Indiana led the Northern Tournament after each of the first three rounds, but saw Michigan roar from behind on the final 18 holes to nip the Hoosiers.

MSU trailed the victorious Wolverines by 15 strokes. Minnesota was 20 back, Ohio State trailed by 27 and Iowa lost by 34.

Indiana's Fitch said he will only make one change from the lineup he used in the Northern tourney, replacing Jim Baske with Bill Stinnett.

Indiana's biggest asset is its great balance. Its five top golfers in the Northern tourney all had scores ranging between 293 and 301. Jim Cheney had the 293 score, which was good for fourth place in the individual totals.

Ron Essenpreis had 295, Dan May had 298, and Steve Cisco and Wayne McDonald each had 301 for Indiana.

Michigan can expect good showings from three of its golfers but the Wolverines' chances rest upon how well its other three players perform, said Wolverine Coach Bert Katzenmeyer.

John Schroeder, Rod Sumpter, and Frank Groves have played consistently well all year but sophomores Rocky Pozza and Randy Erskine and junior Mark Christenson have been inconsistent, according to Katzenmeyer.

Schroeder, Sumpter, and Groves had 291, 291, and 294, respectively, to lead U-M in the Northern Tournament.

Ohio State has experienced similar problems this season. The Buckeyes have been getting strong performances from Mike Good, John Whittle, Ralph Colla, and Denny Gallagher, but have had trouble with their fifth and sixth men.

The scramble for individual medalist honors should be as wide open as the team battle. Fossum said that Good and Willie Brask of Minnesota, who finished one-two at the Northern tourney, will be the players to beat.

'Surf's up' for 'S' flankerback Wedemeyer

By TOM BROWN,
State News Sports Writer

The college years have yet to be the golden years for Spartan footballer Charlie Wedemeyer.

The 5-7 native of Kailua, Hawaii left a brilliant prep grid career behind him when he came to MSU, but recent workouts at flankerback indicate that history may be in-atching up with the chunky Wedemeyer.

Kid brother of the St. Mary's All-America of the late 1940's, Herman (Hula Hips) Wedemeyer, the little back prepped at Punahou, a highly regarded football stronghold in Hawaii.

Despite a back injury, Wedemeyer performed well enough at quarterback during his senior year to earn the title, "Back of the Islands" in 1964.

Following in the footsteps of Hawaii's crack back on 1963, Bob Apisa, Wedemeyer arrived at MSU in the fall of 1965, a golden year for Spartan football, but the beginnings of Wedemeyer's troubles.

"I missed quite a bit of freshmen practice because of a pinched nerve," Wedemeyer said.

The following year, 1966, was another great year for the Spartans, but less than satisfying for Wedemeyer.

Barely lettering, Wedemeyer's largest game role was holding for Hawaiian placekicker, Dick Kenney.

It was in this role that people saw the future Charley Wedemeyer, when he became a receiver on a two-point pass play.

Wedemeyer failed to letter in his senior year, but he did "an over" as the Spartans coasted to a 3-7 record.

"I didn't get disappointed so much as I was concerned for the team," Wedemeyer said.

"I wanted to know if I was good enough for Big Ten and there was only one way to find out," Wedemeyer said.

"But after I had been here too short to play quarterback.

At the beginning of spring practice, however, Head Coach Duffy Daugherty said that the coaching staff had not misplanned Wedemeyer.

"Charley will have a good shot at quarterback for two or three weeks," Daugherty said, "but he is too good an athlete to sit around. He'll find his level."

Wedemeyer's big change came when flankerback Frank Waters injured his ankle a couple of weeks ago.

"It came as a surprise to me. I don't know why the coaches put me at flanker, but they say I've done all right," Wedemeyer said.

Daugherty is quick to point to Wedemeyer's speed and good hand, adding that the little flanker has the starting nod for Saturday's final scrimmage.

One of nine children, Wedemeyer misses his island home, having been home twice since coming to MSU.

"I miss surfing the most," Wedemeyer said.

"It is quite a contrast watching pro football on television Sunday afternoon instead of surfing."

Wedemeyer admitted that he has never become acclimated to Michigan weather.

CHARLIE WEDEMEYER

"They told me that I would get used to it," Wedemeyer said, "but I never have."

Following graduation Wedemeyer would like to either teach or try the restaurant business in Hawaii.

And maybe do a little surfing.

Pro grid 'kicks' rule on PATs

ATLANTA (UPI)—The "automatic" extra-point kick by the pros took its first step toward oblivion Wednesday when the National and American Football Leagues voted to outlaw it "on a trial basis" in interleague exhibition games this summer.

The combined NFL-AFL spring meeting, in its third day here, proposed that teams will have to run or pass from the two yard line for their points after touchdown in 23 pre-season games.

The new rule will have no effect on intraleague games. NFL teams will still be able to kick, pass or run for one point and the AFL teams will be able to kick for one or use the run-pass option for two.

Mark Duncan Supervisor of Officials for the NFL, said owners wanted to "wait and see" how the trial rule works out before deciding whether to make it a permanent change for all games.

The pro football meeting is now expected to continue through Thursday with closed-door discussions aimed primarily at solving the current player-management crisis.

NFL players have hinted at a possible strike this summer unless their demands are met for $15,000 minimum salaries, $500-per-game pay for pre-season exhibitions and an increase in their pension fund from $1.8 million to $5 million.

the others tend to break quickly and very close to the plate.

The development of the pitchers is largely the responsibility of assistant Coach Frank Pellerin, who supervises indoor drills before the team's spring trip.

"We figure 15 pitches per inning is about right. We start them off throwing one inning a day and work them gradually until the season starts," Pellerin said.

MSU's top five have all averaged around the 15 pitch per inning mark this season. Behney has averaged 15.1, Bielski 15.2, Easton 14.8, Fulton 13.7 and Knight 15.7.

NO DOZ ANNOUNCES THE EXAM PILL

(If you flunk, at least you'll be awake.)

Sure you've used NoDoz to help you stay awake the night before an exam.

But have you ever thought of taking NoDoz to make yourself a little sharper during the exam itself?

Well, maybe you should.

Let's say you're one of those guys who doesn't have to cram like mad the night before. (Even so, you're probably not getting your usual amount of sleep.)

And let's say the morning of the big exam, you find yourself heading for class, kind of drowsy and unwound and wondering if The Great Brain has deserted you in the night.

What do you do?

You panic, that's what you do.

Or, if you happened to read this ad, you walk coolly over to the water cooler and wash down a couple of NoDoz, the Exam Pill. And before long you're feeling more alert and with it again.

You see, NoDoz helps bring you up to your usual level of alertness, so you don't just sit there in a fog; it's got what it takes to help restore your perception, your recall, and even your ability to solve problems.

In fact, NoDoz contains the strongest stimulant for your mind that you can take without a prescription. Yet it's not habit forming.

Okay, but what about the guy who goes off all term and has to jam everything in the night before.

Are we saying NoDoz will keep him from flaming out?

Nope.

We're just saying he'll be alert and awake.

As he flunks.

'Devil's Brigade' fails to live up to reality

By STUART ROSENTHAL

Entertainment writer

Despite the fair sized mob outside of the Michigan Theatre in Detroit, the world premiere of "The Devil's Brigade" last Tuesday night seemed to fall short of the carnival atmosphere of the premiere image.

United Artists tried hard enough, of course, providing the parade with girls, bands, veterans from the original brigade, stars and dignitaries in formal wear. A couple of weeks flashed across the walls of adjacent buildings as Detroit radio personality J.P. McCarthy offered some state jokes while introducing the invited guests, asking each in turn whether he was excited.

The film has its basis in fact. The "Devil's Brigade," as the Germans called the unit, was the first special service force, the forerunner of today's Green Berets. Under the command of then Lt. Robert T. Frederick, they managed to scale the sheer east wall of Mt. la Difensa, from which the Germans had believed no attack possible.

By STUART ROSENTHAL
Entertainment Writer

Frederick's men came from two sources: half were American misfits, rebellious enlisted men taken from stockades across the country while the rest were the best of the crack Canadian regulars. Frederick played the two groups against each other in putting together the most well trained outfit in the war.

Obviously, the most likely route for the filmmaker to take with this premise would be a rehash of "The Dirty Dozen." But throughout the picture there appears to be a conflict between an attempt at copying "Dozen" and an effort to play the story as an historical epic. The problem was never resolved because "Devil's Brigade" vacillates disturbingly between these alternatives, never doing justice to either one.

The opening and closing of the movie have William Holden as Frederick musing over the cost and value of war in the narrative style which was so typical of the war films of the 50s. I cannot imagine the real Frederick, with whom I spoke briefly at a luncheon preceding the premiere, contemplating the action in these terms.

Frederick now a general (ret.), is an impressive man with strong features and a proud erect posture. He has a prominent scar over his left eye, a remnant from one of the six times he was wounded in combat. Though, at the time of the interview, he had not seen the completed picture, he seemed pleased with the authenticity in so far as he could judge from the rushes he had screened.

Among the script changes that he had suggested was a toning down of his side of a confrontation with Lord Mountbatten.

"I made it a bit more polite," he told me. "They had a little too impertinent."

This, I suspect, is the sort of dramatic license that the scriptwriters took with the entire tale. Every aspect of "The Devil's Brigade" gives an impression of being either trumped-up or at least exaggerated beyond the point of credibility, especially as pertains to dialogue and characterization.

This manifestation is seen at its worst in the "tough-guy" talk sprinkled throughout. The password this time around seems to be "ass."

and everybody refers to everybody else as a "smart ass" and every action is "a silly ass thing to do." These expressions are objectionable simply because everybody seems to be going out of their way to use them; if they were written in to advance the realism, the overkill dosage most certainly has defeated its purpose.

With this in mind, it's ludicrous that when the Yanks and Canadian start a fracas in a local pub, Claude Akins growls that he is ready to "kill the whole 'mother-lovin' bunch of Canucks."

Thinking back to such war films as "Dozen" and "The Great Escape" most of the characters return to mind as distinct individuals for whom the audience felt a surge of elation upon their respective successes and a tinge of disappointment with the death of each.

We never become this well acquainted with the brigade members and therefore watch passively as they are picked off during the final assault on the mountain. Except, perhaps, for Jack Watson, Richard Jaeckel (who played the MP in "The Dirty Dozen") and Jeremy Slate, none of the unit ever really emerges from the mass of combatants.

This brings us to the matter of acting. The only passable performance in the flick comes from Cliff Robertson as the Major commanding the Canadians.

As for Vince Edwards who plays Robertson's arrogant counterpart, let's just say that he is absolutely the worst actor in the universe. Eric von Stroheim would have been infinitely more believably cast as Eisenhower than Edwards is in his part.

The battle sequences, it must be said, are good. Andrew McLaglen, a novice director has a fine eye for open spaces and as Richard Dawson, the "Hogan's Heroes" star who has a brief part in the movie noted, the stunt work is magnificent.

Deriver us from evil

William Holden (right), Cliff Robertson (center) and Vince Edwards wade in a river during a mission in "The Devil's Brigade" which had its world premiere in Detroit last Tuesday.

Ugliest Greek candidates stump for prestigious role

By PAT ANSTETT
State News Staff Writer

The campaign atmosphere permeates campus this week with the politicking and vote-gathering of Ugliest Greek candidates.

Although many usual campaign practices such as door to door canvassing may not be used, supporters are finding other ways to gather necessary votes for their favorite sons.

One group of M.A.C. Avenue ladies, with the rousing popularity of Dick (Goose) Stauffer, Hastings senior, as "the candidate most likely to be ugly" have started a "Students for Goose" campaign.

Stauffer credits his "farmy" look to his visits as a freshman to the MSU barns and his dates with Mason High School coeds. His line of "beauty" titles was climaxed by his coronation as "Mr. Hay-Wagon 1964."

On a recent "blitz" campaign tour of M.A.C. Avenue, Harrison Road, and Grand River in one afternoon, Stauffer promised that, if elected, he would bring Lady Bird here to help beautify the campus.

Favorite son candidate Ed Fouch, Saginaw freshman, comes into the field with a past history of ugliness that dates back to his great grandmother, Ima Wart.

Fouch was first labeled by local judges as a promising ugly candidate when he won the Boy Scout award in 1963 for putting out the most forest fires-with his face.

This 5-foot-9 red-haired candidate, who claims his hobby is "being ugly," lists Olin as his strongest area.

The late entrance of the People's Party candidate, Dan Marks, Southfield junior, has caused some threat to other nominees. Marks' "up and coming" popularity was evidenced by his recent victories in the Beaumont Tower and East Complex primaries.

Threatened by the reported write-in campaign of Stuart Rosenthal for the Greek's ugliest representative, Marks has been touring campus to promote local and national ugliness.

"New York's garbage strike was the best thing that happened in the last 70 years in this country," he said. Marks also favors the Vietnam situation because "being an ugly and dirty war, it can't be all that bad."

Long-haired representative Jim Beckley, St. Ignace senior, comes from a family with similar campaign history. Beckley closely resembles his sister, Polly Pan-Hel, in appearance as well as policy.

The youth support which characterizes Beckley's campaign accounts for his "sudden surge of ugliness." Only recently was this "dark horse" candidate drafted by interested followers.

Would you rather live at the Taj or University Terrace?

There are advantages to both. University Terrace is a lot closer to campus (like right across the street). But the Taj Mahal tends to be a little plusher. The wall-to-wall carpeting, wood paneled walls, and air conditioning make U. T. very nice but the Taj has oriental carpeting. The rents at U. T. are much lower than at the Taj. University Terrace doesn't have a lot of pigeons, and it isn't sinking into the Ganges. If you are looking for an apartment, why not consider University Terrace. It isn't the Taj Mahal but...

If you decide on University Terrace we have fall leases available:

A student and his wife were critically injured Monday night when the motorcycle on which they were riding was struck by a car on Saginaw Road.

Bruce O. Parsons, Ludington junior, received a skull fracture and his wife, Sarah, has a possible fractured neck and multiple broken bones. Both are in Sparrow Hospital.

The motorcycle was west-bound in the center lane when it was struck from the rear by a car driven by Vladimir Poltoratzky, Pittsburgh, Pa., graduate student.

Police said the passenger on the rear of the cycle was thrown up in the air and into the car windshield and finally fell to the ground.

The driver was carried with the cycle before falling to the ground.

Sgt. Tom Hendricks, who investigated the accident, said, "If they had not been wearing helmets, I'm sure both would have been dead on the scene."

Police are investigating the accident.
