Cabinet post created to aid black affairs

A vice presidency for black affairs was created on the ASMSU Cabinet Tuesday night by the ASMSU Board.

Don Banghart, Cabinet president, presented the post before the board Tuesday for approval. It was passed unanimously.

At the same time the board approved the appointment of Stan McClinton, Savannah, Ga., junior, to fill the new position. McClinton is a member of the Black Students' Alliance (BSA) steering committee.

The vice presidency was created completely unstructured so that McClinton can use ASMSU facilities and channels to set up his own programs, Banghart said.

"Rather than set up a program under a present vice president, we created a new division," Banghart said. "It would be difficult for any present Cabinet members to set up priorities in the area of black affairs since we have no comprehension of what has to be done first."

McClinton said that he saw his role as developing programs to effect change in the University and to bring about a meaningful black-white relationship.

"I will be addressing myself primarily to the demands of black students and minority groups because these groups have consistently been overlooked in educational institutions," he said.

"I don't see this position as a forum to solicit symbolic rewards or gifts from the board or the University. I will not act to contain black students in this position. My primary goal is meaningful change," he continued.

The black vice presidency was first mentioned during spring term, 1968, when student government leaders became aware of the lack of black involvement in student government and the lack of concern by student government in black affairs, Banghart said.

Since then, BSA has unified black students at MSU. In December, Banghart said, ASMSU representatives began talks with BSA members on how student government can help black students in social, legal, cultural and educational matters.

The BSA steering committee conferred on the position suggested by ASMSU. McClinton explained that the position (please turn to page 11)

MAMIE WEEPS

Eisenhower laid to rest near joys of boyhood life

ABILENE, KAN. (AP)—The body of Dwight David Eisenhower was interred Wednesday in a graceful, spired chapel in Abilene, the hometown he cherished to the end of his days.

"Unto God's gracious mercy we commend you, old friend."

With these words, intoned in the chapel by Maj. Gen. Luther Miller, a retired Army chaplain, the funeral rites for the 34th President, which began last Saturday, came to an end.

Mrs. Eisenhower was weeping when she left the chapel. Unutterable grief contorted her features.

In her left hand she clutched the flag which had been draped over the casket. Tightly folded now, in the Army funeral tradition, it was presented to her as the last act of the rites.

Her step faltered although she was holding the arm of her son, John.

President Nixon and former President Johnson attended the ceremonies in the memorial complex known as Eisenhower Center.

It was a clear, sunny morning but a cold wind swept down from the north. Flags snapped. A sudden gust of wind caught the flag on the casket during the rites and carried most of it to the floor of the portico.

John Eisenhower reached forward quickly and caught a corner of the flag. Thereafter, two military pallbearers stood holding it.

Mrs. Eisenhower, dressed entirely in black, watched the soldiers carry the coffin from the funeral train to the hearse. She looked tired but composed.

Nixon placed his hand over his heart as the coffin was moved.

A crowd of about 5,000 had been waiting several hours for the train's arrival. The people stood, silent and unmoving.

Thousands lined both sides of the route from the depot to the Eisenhower Center. They, too, were silent.

Meanwhile, at the funeral site, representatives of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other dignitaries had taken their places with 300 invited guests in chairs facing the catafalque.

Gold-braided uniforms and highly polished instruments of military bands glittered in the bright sunshine.

Red, white and blue chrysanthemums were banked on both sides of the catafalque. Wreaths lined the walls on both sides of the steps of the portico.

In the distance, the low rumble of drums signaled the approach of the funeral procession. Again, the band played "Hail to the Chief."

Everyone stood as the coffin was carried slowly up the steps of the portico and gently placed on the catafalque.

They remained standing while the funeral party walked toward the steps.

Mrs. Eisenhower and her son were followed by Nixon and his wife and their blonde daughter, Tricia; Johnson, Julie and David Eisenhower, and the other members of the Eisenhower family.

Mrs. Eisenhower and John sat in the front row. Nixon and Johnson were directly behind them.

John Eisenhower glanced at his mother from time to time, a tender gesture of solicitude. She appeared quite composed.

The Rev. Robert MacAskill of the Park Presbyterian Church in Gettysburg, Pa., and the Rev. Dean Miller of the Palm Desert, Calif., Presbyterian Church conducted the religious services.

"He always thought of Abilene as home," the Rev. Mr. MacAskill said, "and he loved this town. It is fitting that Dwight David Eisenhower be laid to rest near his family home."

'U' apathy plagues candidates

By ROSANNE BAIME

Meet the ASMSU candidates.

Watch them smile and shake hands and campaign.

The annual ASMSU "Meet the Candidates" drive is in swing, with all candidates for ASMSU Board member-at-large positions traveling among the residence halls through Sunday.

And everywhere the campaign train stops the candidates talk about themselves, the offices they are running for and the issues they deem important.

This year's campaign has brought new issues into the arena. Candidates want students to have a voice in the academic process, with students on faculty committees in voting capacities. They see a need to investigate the high East Lansing prices on rent and food that students have to pay. They want complete social autonomy for the student body.

After they have presented their positions the candidates answer questions from the audience.

If there is any audience, that is. Pete Ellsworth, ASMSU Board chairman, sees the absence of audiences at this year's meetings as dangerous.

"Students are interested in candidates and issues, not in the election itself," he said.

The only way students can find out about the candidates, Ellsworth said, is through the State News, campus radio and personal appearances.

"When these channels don't work effectively the election becomes little more than a race to see how much literature the candidates can distribute," he added.

Harv Dzodin, board vice chairman, attributes the students' lack of interest in the election and the candidates to poor publicity, and a general satisfaction with the way ASMSU is presently functioning.

"If ASMSU were rotten to the core, or if the University were as unresponsive to student opinion as Columbia or Berkeley, then students would involve themselves more," Dzodin said.

The apathy that students are showing towards the election just reflects their satisfaction with results student government has produced for them, he continued.

Dzodin thinks the candidates' meetings have not been fully publicized. In addition to more extensive State News coverage he would like to see residence halls make more announcements as to when the candidates are coming.

With more people in the dormitory meetings Dzodin sees a greater chance for discussing controversial issues.

"There's no sense being controversial when there are only three out of 500 hall residents present," Dzodin said. "It's up to the audience to bring out controversies."

The schedule for the remainder of the "Meet the Candidates" session is:

Thursday—7 p.m., 105-106 Holmes Hall
Thursday—9 p.m., McDonel Kiva
Friday—7 p.m., 30s Room, Mayo Hall
Friday—9 p.m., Wonders Kiva
Saturday—7 p.m., Brody Auditorium
Sunday—7 p.m., 137 Akers Hall
Sunday—9 p.m., Snyder Hall cafeteria

MSU bids farewell to Ike with simple memorial rites

MSU bid farewell to one of America's best liked statesmen Wednesday in simple, yet eloquent ceremonies lasting barely 20 minutes inside the dirt arena of Jenison Fieldhouse.

Speaking at the memorial services for Dwight D. Eisenhower, Walter Adams, acting president of MSU, extolled the five-star general as being "above all, a man of peace."

Invocation

The services opened with an invocation by Chaplin George Myers, professor of education, and then Adams spoke.

"He ended the Korean War, would not commit U.S. troops to Vietnam, warned of the rising 'military-industrial complex' and asked to be buried in Abilene, not Arlington," Adams told the 300 persons gathered to pay their respects.

Most of MSU's deans and vice presidents were either in attendance or sent representatives, as were trustees Don Stevens, Frank Merriman and Kenneth Thompson.

Soldier of peace

"Truly, it can be said, he was a great general, but he was also a soldier of peace," Adams said.

He recalled the only time he saw Eisenhower was during World War II when the general reviewed his regiment to congratulate them on being the first division to reach the Rhine. "He immediately became identified with those he led," Adams said.

GREAT ISSUES

Kerr views education, discontents in 'U' talk

Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California (U-C) and first chancellor of the Berkeley campus, will appear this afternoon in the term's first ASMSU Great Issues lecture.

His topic will be "Higher Education and its Discontents."

Kerr

Kerr became president of U-C in 1958 after serving six years as first chancellor of Berkeley campus. His term in that office was marked by much campus growth.

As president, Kerr saw U-C grow from a complex of seven campuses, two of them four year campuses, and 45,000 students—to nine campuses, eight of them offering four-year programs, and 87,000 students.

During Kerr's nine years as president he emphasized the social sciences at U-C. At the same time Berkeley, his home campus, became a center for student unrest.

He was dismissed as president in January of 1967 by the University of California Board of Regents. The action came after he opposed Gov. Ronald Reagan's fee tuition proposal.

Also, Kerr had been accused by some as being "soft" on the radical elements of the California campuses.

Since leaving the post of president, Kerr has served as a professor of labor and industrial relations for U-C at Berkeley. He has been invited to deliver several lecture series, including the Pollack Lectures at Harvard and the Marshall Lectures at Cambridge University.

He is also the head of "Negotiations Now!" the national committee for a political settlement in Vietnam.

Kerr, a leading labor economist, has served as vice-president of the War Labor Board, 1943-45, a member of the National Wage Stabilization Board, 1950-51 and a Undergraduate students will play an active role in the selection of the new president of MSU.

The ASMSU Board passed unanimously a proposal to establish a Presidential Selection Board (PSB) of undergraduate students Tuesday night.

Hannah sworn in as director of AID

As Walter Adams experienced his second day as the University's acting president, former MSU head John A. Hannah was sworn in Wednesday as administrator of the Agency for International Development (AID) in Washington, D.C.

Clement E. Conger, deputy chief of protocol, administered the oath. Sec. of State William P. Rogers, said he felt Hannah could greatly benefit the nation by handling this extremely sensitive and difficult post. He pointed out that President Nixon had personally selected Hannah for the job.

Top statesmen and educators were also present at the ceremonies, along with Hannah's daughter, Mrs. Myron P. Curran, whose husband is a Washington attorney.

Membership on the PSB will consist of the undergraduate and black student representative to the All-University Committee on Search and Selection (AUCSS) and their alternates and of at least one representative chosen by the following groups:

the ASMSU Board;
the Student Academic Council; the Black Students' Alliance; and the Honors College.

The undergraduate member to AUCSS will be chosen Sunday night by the ASMSU Board, from among students who have petitioned for the position, and will serve as chairman of the Steering Committee.

The black student representative to AUCSS will be chosen by the Black Students' Alliance.

The board recommended that the Steering Committee consist of no more than 12 (please turn to page 11)

Afternoon classes canceled Friday to honor Dr. King

Black students, faculty and residents of the Lansing community are being asked to devote Friday to activities in memory of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. by the Black Students' Alliance (BSA).

King was slain one year ago in Memphis.

There will be discussions for black students at 9 a.m. Friday in the Union Ball room sponsored by BSA.

Acting president Walter Adams announced that students and faculty will be excused from Friday classes from 12:20 until 5 p.m. so that they can participate in the memorial services for King.

An all-University memorial service will be held in the auditorium at 1:15 p.m. Robert L. Green, asst. professor of personnel counseling, and Adams will participate. A recording of a speech by King will be played.

Open discussion groups will meet at 2:15 p.m. in Bessey Hall. According to a spokesman for the Alliance, "The discussions were added because it was suggested that they could possibly be educational. They are opened mainly because black people have very few things they have not said before and even fewer things they want to say again."

"The consensus among black people on this campus, and there is strong and justified dissent, is that everyone should be kept informed of what the real deal is," he continued.

Black candidate, Yorty face runoff election

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Black councilman Thomas Bradley's discussion of controversial issues during coffee hours with housewives in conservative white neighborhoods was an important factor in his outpolling Mayor Sam Yorty and forcing him into a runoff election.

The same suburban areas that helped the liberal Bradley, a Democrat, like Yorty, also gave a political start to a 30-year-old stockbroker from a family hallowed in conservative Republican circles, Barry Goldwater Jr.

As the final votes were counted Wednesday, Bradley and Yorty launched the race to the May 27 mayoralty runoff with vitriolic exchanges. Bradley, said Yorty, had made "a great racist appeal" for votes and had "violated the spirit" of the city charter by waging a partisan campaign to unseat him. The mayor is elected on a nonpartisan ballot.

Yorty, said Bradley, was making statements that were "full of lies" and preparing for a "dirty" campaign. Goldwater, son of the 1964 presidential nominee, outpolling his opposition in a special congressional primary election in the San Fernando Valley area and is now the favorite to defeat Democrat John Van De Kamp in a district that usually sends Republicans to Congress and the state legislature.

Unofficial returns gave Goldwater 38,202 votes and Van De Kamp 16,900.

While candidates ran with party designations in the congressional primary, voters could cross party lines. Goldwater and Van De Kamp ran 1-2.

With all but 14 of the 2,888 precincts reporting, the results in the mayor election stood:

Bradley: 293,753

Yorty: 183,334

Baxter Ward, a former television newscaster: 116,555.

Rep. Alphonzo Vell, R-Calif. 99,172

Bradley's strong showing came just five years after the Watts riots broke out in Los Angeles. The councilman said his election showed "race is not a relevant factor" in a city election.

But Yorty said the former police lieutenant had forged an alliance of the radical Democrats and the bloc black vote and added, "His strength is mostly in black areas. He'll get his maximum vote now. I'll do much better in the runoff."

Bradley and his strategists disagreed, pointing out that, although the areas of his voting strength aren't yet clear, his percentage far exceeded the Los Angeles black vote of roughly 15 per cent. It showed, they said, that his plan to blitz the white suburbs had paid off.

Bit of coed charm can stop assault

By ANN HODGE
State News Staff Writer

A coed can best defend herself against an assailant by using her feminine power to be sweet and convincing, Frederic Storaska said Tuesday.

Speaking to three coed audiences in the Union, Conrad and Wilson Halls, Storaska advised that a woman play up to an assailant until she sees a safe chance to act.

His appearance on campus was sponsored by Women's Inter-residence Council (WIC) at no charge to students.

Tear gas pens and other such weapons are ineffective because they are not readily available at the moment of attack according to Storaska.

Although Storaska holds degrees in judo and karate, he said they are un dependable methods of defense.

"My methods will not work half the time or 99 per cent of the time; they will work 100 per cent of the time," he said.

He said women would receive more bodily harm by struggling against an assailant if rape is inevitable.

"Rape is not the worst thing that can happen to a girl," Storaska said. "Others are blind, badly mutilated by car accidents or even killed."

"However," he added wryly, "I am not on a rape campaign."

Storaska said a woman able to make a witty remark when faced with a minor annoyance can ward off an assailant. He recalled an incident when a 62-year-old woman stopped the advance of a man who was sitting next to her on a bus and began fondling her thigh.

The woman turned calmly to the man and said, "If you don't remove your hand you're going to unbuckle the strap on my wooden leg."

Storaska admitted that few women are able to employ this clever tactic in the face of an assailant but strongly urged women to at least remain calm.

If assaulted in a car by another driver, Storaska suggested that women draw attention to themselves as quickly as possible.

"Drive on the sidewalk, around houses or bump into store windows," he said. "Do anything to attract attention."

Storaska advised women to choose an apartment with a strong wooden door, good lighting in the parking area, a peep hole rather than a chain latch and no dense bushes around the door.

He also warned against using a woman's name on the mailbox and instead suggested initials.

"I once received a picture of a woman's mailbox labeled C.R. 'OX' Jones," he laughed. "Now no one is going to tangle with a girl called 'OX'."

Evidently bowing to a Soviet ultimatum, Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders announced a far-reaching clampdown Wednesday on the press and others who oppose Moscow-dictated policy.

About 200 North Vietnamese charged from a bamboo thicket Wednesday and tried to overrun a U.S. company dug in northeast of Saigon, but lost one-fourth of their number in a two-hour battle. There were no American casualties, a U.S. spokesman said.

The Vietnam peace talks go into their 11th full-scale session Thursday amid reports of progress, but U.S. sources caution against expectations that a significant break is near.

National News

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey offered Wednesday to intercede personally in behalf of any young man wrongfully reclassified by a draft board because of legal protest. Under Hershey's own order of last October, draft boards were told to reclassify those with student deferments who took part in protest demonstrations.

Disappointed House leaders have given up hope of passing a $5-billion school aid bill before Easter because Rep. William M. Colmer, Democratic chairman of the Rules Committee, would not leave his Mississippi home to call a committee meeting.

A Black Panther plot to bomb five Manhattan department stores on Thursday during the Easter shopping rush has been broken up by indictment of 21 members of the militant black group, New York Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Wednesday.

Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., Wednesday called for the defeat of herself and the other 24 members of the House Tax-writing Committee unless it does something about high income people escaping taxes.

In Boston, a federal judge says the 1967 draft law violates the constitutional rights of agnostics and atheists by allowing conscientious-objector status for religious reasons only. "It is difficult to imagine any grounds for this statutory discrimination except religious discrimination," said U.S. District Court Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., and that, he said, is counter to the First Amendment.

Thousands of high school and college students turned their Easter vacation at Palm Springs, Calif., into an unruly disturbance Wednesday, and police called for help from other cities. "They're running around in Tahquitz Canyon naked!" said a police switchboard operator handling complaints for officers she said were too busy to answer the phone.

The Michigan Senate Wednesday passed and sent to the House a bill to facilitate human organ transplants in the state. The vote was 30-0. The legislation designates who may donate organs and provides protection for doctors performing transplant operation.

Legislation to allow the people instead of the politicians to select national convention delegates in Michigan at an "All-Star" presidential primary drew opposition from party leaders Wednesday.

More than 2,000 policemen from throughout the nation joined the funeral procession Wednesday in Detroit for a rookie patrolman killed when he stopped to question riflemen leaving a Black Nationalist meeting.

Dems see victory as loss for Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats hailed Wednesday their capture of the House seat formerly held by Sec. of Defense Melvin R. Laird as signaling a national trend against the Nixon administration.

Democrat David Obey, a 30-year-old real estate broker, defeated Wisconsin state Sen. Walter J. Chilsen in a special election Chilsen called "a referendum on the Nixon administration."

Republicans unofficially excused the loss on the grounds of a taxpayers' revolt against new state levies proposed by GOP Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, the Democratic national chairman, said the victory demonstrated: "The Democratic party is very much alive in Wisconsin and nationally and is looking confidently to the 1970 elections."

Laird's all-out effort to win the Wisconsin seat paid off in a 2,540-vote victory margin for Obey. President Nixon carried the district by 14,000 votes over Democrat Hubert

H. Humphrey in November.

Laird had held the seat for 16 years. Democratic House Speaker John W. McCormack, who called Obey's victory significant, noted Laird earned 64.4 per cent of the vote in November and never polled less than 59.1 per cent as a congressional candidate.

Republicans were virtually assured, however, of retaining their House seat in Southern California's San Fernando Valley.

Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Republican senator from Arizona, rolled up a 22,000-vote margin over his nearest Democratic competitor, John Van DeKamp, a former department attorney.

But Goldwater's total did not amount to a majority among the 14 candidates, so a runoff will be held April 29.

Another runoff will be held May 27 in the Los Angeles mayoral election where Thomas Bradley, a black city councilman who ran with local and national party support, rolled up a healthy 42 per cent of the vote among 12 candidates.

He will face incumbent Samuel J. Yorty in the runoff. Yorty, also a Democrat, polled nearly 27 per cent. He had angered Democratic regulars by refusing to back Democratic Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown against Ronald Reagan.

Democrats hope what appears to be inevitable setback in California will be the only defeat among four special House elections in states that went for Nixon in November.

In addition to Obey's victory, Democrats have already won a seat in the normally Democratic 8th district of Tennessee, where Ed Jones turned back a challenge from a supporter of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, defeated presidential third-party candidate.

CCNY heads in protest of budget cuts

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 75 per cent of the department chairmen at the City College of the City University of New York resigned Wednesday after the school president quit to protest state and city budget cuts.

A college spokesman said 23 of 30 department chairmen submitted a statement saying, "We the undersigned chairmen of academic departments of the City College hereby tender our resignations as chairman unless a budget adequate to the functioning and development of the City University is provided."

Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, college president, resigned Tuesday, condemning state and city politicians, who cut funds, as "unconscionable... unbelievably stupid."

'WINDS OF CHANGE'

Race, culture seminar set

Hopefully "winds of change" will bring warm weather to woolen-clad MSU.

The annual Winds of Change seminar is not concerned with climatic conditions, however.

The seminar, which will be conducted on the MSU campus April 10-12, traditionally invites prominent speakers to discuss topics of national concern. The topics focus on major problems of the emerging nations of the world.

This year's topic is "Race, Culture: The Threat of National Unity."

Merritt W. Sargent, Paris, France senior, and chairman of the seminar, said that the "goal of this year's seminar is to illuminate the challenge to national goals posed by problems of race and culture and to offer suggestions for the future."

A conscious effort is made to avoid discussion of the tensions in the United States, Hooper said. "Since American students are reminded daily of their own country's problems, we hope this seminar will offer a new and valuable perspective to these conflicts," he said.

The seminar, which is open to the public without charge, also includes a series of workshops led by faculty members of MSU.

"The workshops offer an opportunity to examine the seminar's topic in relation to areas of the world or a particular ideology in the informal discussion groups," Hooper said.

The Winds of Change seminar, initiated in 1962 and maintained annually by the students of MSU, has covered such topics in the past years as: "The World Population Explosion," "Mass Communication and a World in Revolution," and "The Rich Nations and the Poor: The Challenge of Development."

Keynote addresses have been delivered by the former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, United Nations Under Secretary General C. V. Natsimhan, Lady Rama Rao and Howard K. Smith. Participants in panel sessions have included scholars, government officials and journalists of international repute.

This year's keynote speaker is not known yet, but Sargent said that he is waiting for an answer to an invitation to Lord Cardon, British consulate general and permanent representative to the United Nations.

CIA role reported in 'Guevara affair'

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—President Rene Barrientos has confirmed that the American Central Intelligence Agency was involved in the 1967 anti-guerrilla drive that led to the death of Ernesto Che Guevara, a Bolivian newspaper reported.

The daily Presencia, in a series "The CIA in Bolivia," said Barrientos claimed he had no knowledge of the CIA activity at the time. It said he declined comment on an army general's allegation that copies of Guevara's guerrilla diary may have been spirited to Washington before a Bolivian Cabinet minister sparked a scandal by leaking it to Communist Cuba.

No presidential comment on the Presencia articles was available.

There have been widespread reports that CIA agents were among North American advisers who helped the Bolivian army defeat Guevara's guerrilla band in the Bolivian interior in October 1967. The Argentine-born Castroite leader was shot to death.

Much of the Presencia series stemmed from testimony at violation of trust proceedings against ex-Interior Minister Antonio Arguedas. Arguedas has claimed he worked with the CIA but became fed up with its alleged interference in Bolivian affairs, and sent the diary to Cuba.

The case against Arguedas lost strength earlier in the week when a top army officer, Gen. Joaquin Zenteno, testified that two CIA agents with presidential credentials were allowed to make photocopies of the Guevara diary to send to Washington even before the diary was in Bolivian government hands.

Of the credentials given the alleged agents, Barrientos was quoted as saying: "I have never known these gentlemen as CIA members but as officials who came to train our men."

Presencia quoted Barrientos as saying the CIA involvement came as a surprise to him, but, "the president spends a large part of his time in other types of activities and cannot always be informed of all details."

On Tuesday, the armed forces commander in chief, Gen. Alfredo Ovando, said: "If CIA agents were among the North American advisers in the anti-guerrilla fight, the army was unaware of it."

The voters' choice in East Lansing

East Lansing voters take to the polls Monday to elect two new representatives to city council and decide on a $480,000 bond issue to beautify public parks and parkways.

Less than 13,000 voters are registered in East Lansing, 4,000 of which are MSU students.

East Lansing is not Detroit or Chicago, or any other major metropolis with the urban problems that ordinarily go along in an urban situation. East Lansing is primarily a service community, existing mainly because of the University, and hence is posed with different problems.

The park and recreation bond, matched with $283,040 in federal money, will enable the city to purchase and develop new park land, to develop existing park land, and to provide for tree planting along city streets.

We believe that East Lansing is as much our city as it is the permanent residents', and we too wish to see it beautified, making it a more pleasant place to work and live. East Lansing needs the park expansion if it is to keep pace with other cities of comparable size and function.

Four candidates are seeking the two open city council seats. Robert Wilcox, Robert Phillips, Donald Ehle, and Mary Sharp (who is presently a city council member) seek the positions.

Mary Sharp has proved herself during her last four-year term to be a conscientious, dedicated member of the council. She has been deeply interested in improving the relationship between the city and the University. She supported open housing and volunteered for the ASMSU-East Lansing liaison committee which unfortunately has achieved very little since established. She believes that "the student who wishes to become involved in city government should be able to do so if he, or she, will accept the responsibilities and the obligations to serve the total community which go with the office of councilman."

Robert Wilcox, manager of Jacobson's, could possibly be involved in a conflict of interest because of his economic business enterprises in the city. Of MSU students, he states, "we all know that the vast majority of the 40,000 students are fine young people eager to understand and participate in the community around them."

Donald Ehle, a sales representative for International Salt Co., said that improving MSU-East Lansing relations "is not so much a collective undertaking as it is a matter for each person to do his part, by his own conduct, to live according to the Golden Rule, and 'to do unto others as you would have them do unto you'."

Robert Phillips, vice president and general manager of Paul Automotive, Inc., said, "I believe the councilman should be the eyes, ears and voice of those he represents. He should know what the voters feel rather than what a few people tell him they feel." He also believes, "the University shouldn't run the city, and the city shouldn't run the University."

All of the candidates support the park and recreation bond, and all except Phillips believe a city income tax should be implemented if property tax could be decreased. A city income tax would affect students very little, however, because of low student incomes, and exemptions for which students normally qualify. Phillips seems unsatisfactory for the council for several reasons. Wilcox and Ehle, despite certain limitations, should both be strong contenders for one seat. Certainly Mary Sharp is clearly the best choice for the other council seat. The council is in need of such dedication and nonpartisan service as Mrs. Sharp has contributed in the past.

OUR READERS' MIND

Is it necessarily false?

To the Editor:

Is the "truth gap" the result of the Nixon Administration's evil intentions or your own refusal to believe any statement contrary to your preconceived ideas? How can you be so sure that any statement of fact made by the government is false?

Is it necessarily false that the Russians are putting 20 megaton warheads on their SS-9 missiles, simply because this argument supports the ABM system? Does the fact that this statement frightens many people invalidate every logical argument based on it?

Is it necessarily false that the Russians, with half the missiles we have, could inflict the same damage we could in a thermonuclear war? How do you know that this is false? Is it intuitively obvious? Did some liberal authority say so? Did you analyze information gained from extensive espionage (as the Pentagon did) or official documents of the Russian Army? And is it true that if all of our missiles were destroyed by an enemy first strike we could still inflict unacceptable losses on the attacker?

Is it true that such a strike could only be initiated by accident or the command of an insane person? You should realize that an intricate, all-pervasive system of safeguards makes it impossible for the United States to launch a general nuclear attack by accident. Doubtless the Soviet Union has a similar system, as will Communist China when it gains an ICBM system. You should also realize that psychiatrists found Adolf Eichmann and other Nazi executioners to be perfectly sane, normal people. Nearly every atrocity in history was committed by people who were sane.

And is it true that the people of a nation are not responsible for the actions of their government? Was it true for Nazi Germany? Is it true for the United States? Is it false for both of these but true for the Soviet Union and Communist China? To believe so is completely hypocritical. Remember that Lenin and Mao Tse-tung came to power through popular movements.

And to say that fear of punishment is no deterrent is only stupid. What else forced Khrushchev to withdraw his missiles from Cuba? Why else does SDS rely on demonstration and violence to force concessions from the Establishment?

It would seem that the "truth gap" lies more in your own refusal to believe anything unpleasant than in government duplicity. It is far more pleasant to believe in a wicked Establishment than to believe in an external danger since the Establishment is far more vulnerable and far less dangerous to fight.

To the Editor:
Edwin Newmann, Washington correspondent for the National Broadcasting Company, cogently summed it up when he stated on the Today show of March 31st: "He affected the lives of the majority of us for so long and to such a great extent that it is difficult to imagine life without him. . . . It is hard to think of any man in American history who was so widely loved, who was so widely trusted . . . and who wanted so much to do what was right."

President Nixon said of him: "He was truly the First Citizen of the World."

It is, indeed, a shame that authorities at MSU did not know who this man was.

POINT OF VIEW

Improving our unrest standing

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following "point of view" was written by Leon H. Weaver professor of police administration, "with apologies—but no credit—to Art Buchwald."

My friend Hobhouse, who teaches at Minneconsin State University, has been explaining to me about the wave of campus unrest that is sweeping the country. It seems that most of the unrest is on the campuses of elite universities and liberal arts colleges with high academic standards and affluent, intelligent students. There has been very little such unrest at teachers' colleges, denominational colleges, training schools, technical institutes, agricultural colleges, and the like. Whereas the symbols of status among higher education administrators were once winning football teams or Nobel prize winners, now it is whether their campuses have unrest. Administrators of schools with lots of unrest or, even better, violence bask in the general consensus that the commotion is an index of their having "made it" academically. Those who administer institutions where the rule is peace and quiet, on the other hand, are in the position of still striving for status.

Hobhouse has reported to me a conversation he overheard the other day as he was passing the MSU president's conference room where a staff meeting was in progress. The president was chewing out the dean of students:

"Now look here, Smedley, if this University is going to break out of the cow college circuit and establish itself in the big league we're going to have to improve our standing in campus unrest. With the lousy showing your students and the provost's faculty have made the past several years, how do you expect me to hold my head up among all those Ivy Leaguers whom I have to mingle with when I go to conventions? Unless we can come up with at least a newsworthy strike or demonstration how am I ever going to compete with the U-M in getting a decent appropriation out of the legislature, let alone convince the Office of Education and the Ford Foundation that they should make us a center-of-excellence grant?"

"Well, actually, president, we didn't have too bad a year last year. A few malcontents picketed the Dow Chemical Company representatives, slashed the tires of the Marine Corps recruiters, and took over the Administration Bldg. for several hours, but the newspapers gave it hardly any publicity."

"You call that big league? Why can't our students occupy the Ad Bldg. for several days, like at Columbia, or Cal, or San Francisco State? It takes something newsworthy to establish a national rating these days. The U-M manages to get up there about every year in the Top Ten, along with Columbia, and Cal, but where are we??? Down in the pack, with the teachers' colleges and the denominational schools. At that rate, what chance have we got of ever getting into the Rhubarb Bowl?"

Smedley laughed, but feebly. "You know the old saying, president. Some years you come up with a winner, and some years you just build character. We're just not getting the material."

"Then get the material, man!! I tell you the alumni are getting restive, and tired of hearing these excuses. And so am I."

The dean of students went straight from that meeting to the director of Admissions and Scholarships.

"Charlie, the Prez says we've got exactly one more season to come up with a winner. Let's go over those scouting reports on the high school talent on the way up."

"Okay—here's the report on Doakes, at Coolidge High. His press clippings are pretty good—organized a student strike over the firing of a teacher, and is pretty good on haranguing a crowd; but he's got some weakness in the fundamentals. His four-letter vocabulary is very limited and he hasn't mastered going to his left."

"Then he'd never make it in this league."

"There's Flinchbough in our branch college—got some pretty good newspaper ink by stripping off naked in a classroom as a mark of protest, but he's only got one more year of eligibility left."

"Then cross him off the list. What about Billogg who you went down to look over at Montessori Tech?"

"He shows a lot of promise. Organized a demonstration that took over the principal's office and refused to disperse when the cops arrived. Several were arrested, including Billogg."

"Well, then, make him a tender. A complete free ride."

"There's just one thing wrong."

"What?"

"He signed with Princeton yesterday."

To the Editor:

I read with great interest your editorial extolling the virtues of Robert Green in suggesting him as head of the Center for Urban Affairs and asst. provost for Equal Opportunities. Though Dr. Green is no doubt an excellent candidate for the position, it concerns me that he is your only choice. In my seven years at MSU, Dr. Green has usually been the first choice when an "official Negro" has been necessary for some committee or similar function. When you drew up the list of Dr. Green's off-campus achievements in serving the public, you could have drawn an equally long list of on-campus activities.

That you would recommend Dr. Green reminds me of the number of people who jumped on the Ted Kennedy bandwagon. There is a certain bankruptcy

A popularity contest?

To the Editor:

It is my conviction that this generation has an important function—changing what it perceives as corrupt, inefficient, and a threat to the survival of our society.

One facet of American society that is in desperate need of reform is the popularity polls that occur every two to four years—the election. Unfortunately, this reform is lacking. Popularity overrides the key issues—what can a newly elected official do to help society?

Take, for instance, the propaganda all over campus on the ASMSU elections. Fosters show pictures of the candidates, yet display few words. The words they do carry are virtually meaningless since they all claim essentially the same things.

I urge everyone to refrain from voting

Golden Gate City harbors underground views

By JERRY PARKHURST
Editorial Editor

San Francisco—In the city where everyone left his heart (Yes, I even heard a resident singing it while I was in a drugstore buying some film), diversity abounds.

From the sidewalk barkers for the "topless" shows on Broadway to the towering majesty of Grace Cathedral, from the bustling streets of Chinatown to the affluent pedestrian walkways of Telegraph Hill, from the plush red carpeting of the Fairmont Hotel to the now dangerous streets of the Haight-Ashbury, life is exciting, if not always fast-paced.

The cable-cars still go up and down the hills with the blessing of the city. And what city has made such a famous business of a smelly wharf?

Walking down Broadway or upper Grant, don't be surprised if greeted by a stranger with the words "How about some acid?"

And don't be grossed out by nudes in Golden Gate Park. Then there is the austere and efficient looking Hall of Justice.

And the city hall that looks more like it belongs at Versailles.

The Bay Area is one of the centers of the underground press, with the Berkeley Barb

Reflections of San Francisco

Last in a series

and the San Francisco Express Times the most foremost.

Sporting four nudes on its front cover and a liberal sprinkling inside, the Barb was censored by the police for its March 21-27 issue, and its editor and another staffer arrested.

The editor of the Express Times, Marvin Garson, was recently listed by Esquire as one of the major "full-time radicals who help make the Movement work."

Out of Berkeley comes The Ally which its flag proclaims is "A newspaper for service-men." The Ally concentrates on the abuses seen in the military, both to its members and to the world it influences.

All contributions by servicemen, such as letters, are signed with no more than initials, rank and base. It is free on request to servicemen ("The Ally is your mail. No one can take it from you!") but there is a subscription fee for civilians.

The underground press forms one of the main communication links among radical students in the area, and their national circulation keeps others in touch.

Several radical students interviewed asked questions about East Lansing's The Paper.

Many felt that the underground press served an informational and a recruiting medium for

The Movement. But others felt that "the job" of increasing activism was not only a communication problem.

"It's not merely a communication problem," stated Reese Erlich, one of the Oakland Seven. "It's a political problem of development." Situations differ from place to place, which makes it very difficult for mass activist activities to take place across the nation, he believes.

Erlich feels that the recent surge of the Army into the news of the protest movement is because "Vietnam heightens all the contradictions." There have been internal protests before, but now "all the things that make up the modern 'action Army' are becoming apparent to all the guys that are in it."

This Saturday protesters plan an extensive March for Peace at several locations around the nation including San Francisco. With the Presidio courts martial still going on, and the recent trial of the Oakland Seven ended in acquittal, activists plan large tournaments.

The news in the Golden Gate City, however, is currently dominated by "THE EARTHQUAKE."

Will California really fall into the ocean?

Profs probe violence

By KATHY OAKLEY
State News Staff Writer

The effects of violence on today's society, from black protests and urban unrest to television drama, were discussed at Tuesday's luncheon of the Faculty Club.

Bryan T. Downes, asst. professor of political science, and Brandley S. Greenberg, associate professor of communications, told approximately 120 faculty that society has undergone various stages in attaining its present level of awareness of violence. Their speeches were based on their reports to the President's Commission on Violence.

"Black protests began with slave revolts and white intimidations," Downes said.

"Today's riots are not truly racial," Downes said. "They are the blacks striking out against symbols of white society. The primary target of today's violence is property."

"Repeated failures of black protests and white resistance have caused the blacks to shift their attempts of integration to concerns of community action... namely, black power," Downes said.

Greenberg leveled his criticism at the increasing amounts of dramatic television programs that resolve problems through violence.

Greenberg maintains that viewers, especially youth, look to television for solutions on how to cope with life.

4 nonpartisans vie for seats on local council

Four non partisan candidates are vying for two East Lansing City Council seats in the city election Monday.

The four candidates are Donald E. Ehle, Robert L. Phillips, Mary P. Sharp, and Robert J. Wilcox.

Ehle, 613 Orchard St., is an industrial sales representative for International Salt Co., covering 14 counties in mid-Michigan.

An East Lansing resident since 1957, Ehle, 51, was Ypsilanti Township clerk from 1951 through 1957. In addition he was chairman of the Ypsilanti Township Committee on Streets and Roads, working with the county road commission on the maintenance and construction of the highway system.

Ehle is past president of the Ypsilanti Junior Chamber of Commerce and served on several committees for school bonding programs in the Ypsilanti area.

He is a member of the East Lansing Kiwanis Club, and is an adviser to the senior high school youth program at Peoples Church.

DONALD E. EHLE

Ehle was elected treasurer and then president of the Country Club View Water Supply Assn., a subdivision water system association.

Ehle and his wife, Ruth, have four children.

"I am interested in all the operations of the city," Ehle said, "with a special interest in water and sewers, recreation (with the hope that all the good programs in this area may be continued and enlarged as needed), growth within the city, and the relationship between the city and the University."

Vice president Phillips
Robert L. Phillips, 405 Oxford Road, is vice president and general manager of Paul Automotive, Inc., Lansing, and is past president and board member of the Michigan Automotive Wholesalers' Assn.

An East Lansing resident since 1928, Phillips, 44, is a charter member and past president of the East Lansing Lion's Club, is on the board of directors of the Downtown Coaches Club, and is a member of the Commanders Club of Michigan.

Phillips is a member of the educational advisory committees at Ferris State College and Northwood Institute.

He helped form the Marble Community Council and has served on the Meridian Township Zoning Board.

He and his wife, Elizabeth, have four children.

acted upon, and they must be financed."

Seeks new term
Mrs. Sharp, 950 Audubon Road, was elected to city council in April 1965, and is seeking her second term in office.

A resident of East Lansing since 1947, Mrs. Sharp was elected mayor pro-tem by the council in April, 1967.

She is a member of the board of directors of the Greater Lansing Urban League, part-time instructor of business law at Lansing Community College, and a hearing referee for the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

Mrs. Sharp is a former member of the board of directors of the Michigan Welfare League, the Community Services Council, and the Lansing Junior League.

In addition she is past member of the Michigan Fair Employment Practices Commission, United Community Chest of Lansing, Michigan Children's Aid Society of Lansing, and the Vestry of All Saints Episcopal Church.

She and her husband, Dr. Mahlon S. Sharp, have four children.

"Today we are mutually entices at once—but we are beginning to zero in on the problems."

Commerce president
Robert J. Wilcox, 1861 E. Ridgewood Drive, is president of the Greater East Lansing Chamber of Commerce and manager of Jacobsons'.

An East Lansing resident since 1964, Wilcox, 47, is member and past president of the East Lansing Rotary Club and a member of Peoples' Church.

Wilcox was treasurer of the Better East Lansing Committee and 1967 Ingham County chairman of Michigan Week.

He and his wife, Catherine, have three children.

Q: What do you consider the key issue of the campaign?

Donald E. Ehle—"The concern that I have had expressed most often is the question of taxes and the possibility of holding the line or reducing the amount collected on the property tax. It deals with the question of just how much service is needed and desirable and at what level the community is willing to pay for its requests."

"As I see it, the council will have a continuing challenge to provide parking, traffic control, planning, water supply, waste water disposal, solid waste disposal and all the services for the continuing growth of the city. Add to this the question of parks, recreation program and land acquisition, and the work of the council is well defined."

Robert L. Phillips—"I believe the key issue of this campaign is that the voters have a chance to decide what direction our area and the city will go and how. Projected growth of the area shows almost a doubling of the population from the 1960 to 1970 census. Growth after that will be more accelerated. Practical financial plans must be made to handle this growth."

Mary P. Sharp—"The major issue of the campaign is the continuation of existing plans and programs for orderly and controlled expansion of the downtown business area, and of services to the community with a concomitant dedication that we make East Lansing a more beautiful city."

Robert J. Wilcox—"There are many issues—no one key issue. However, the parks and beautification bonding proposal has engendered more discussion because it calls for a popular vote on the April 7 ballot."

Q: What should be and is the relationship between the MSU student and the East Lansing citizen? How can this relationship be improved?

Ehle—"Ideally the relationship should be one of mutual respect and honest accommodation of each other. Fortunately, there is a considerable amount of this, but sadly, there is also too much indifference and some abuse by parties on both sides. Improvement is not so much a collective undertaking as it is a matter for each person to do his part by his own conduct—to live according to the golden rule. Should you think that this is an oversimplified answer, I would only reply that its application is not simple, but that its results are most rewarding."

Phillips—"I believe more appreciation and respect of the rights must be shown by both the MSU students and the citizens of East Lansing. We recognize that without the University, East Lansing would not be the city it is. On the other hand, without the cooperation of the city and its citizens, the growth of the University could have been thwarted. The basic difference between the two groups stems from the fact that the citizens have a permanent investment in the city and most students are here only on a temporary basis."

Sharp—"The relationship should be one of mutual respect based on consideration of each other's interests. I think MSU students were a vital force in promoting passage of East Lansing's human relations ordinance. To improve our relations, let's continue the dialogue we are currently having in regard to off-campus housing."

Wilcox—"Relationships between East Lansing and MSU students have fluctuated both favorably and unfavorably in recent years. We need better communication between groups so that the exhibitionist tactics of 50 to 100 dissidents on campus does not reflect and overpower the efforts and publicity of the large mass of fine, young people eager to understand and participate in the community around them."

Voter registration figures drop for upcoming election

Some 1,500 fewer voters have registered for Monday's election in East Lansing than the number for last November's national election.

John Patriarche, East Lansing city manager, said 12,748 people registered by the April deadline for next week's election—down from 14,226 who registered for the November election.

Patriarche estimated that 4,000 of those registered are MSU students.

"We don't encourage student registrations," he said, "because Michigan law specifically states that a person neither gains nor loses his residence while in school."

Patriarche said the law states that a student is a citizen of his hometown while attending school and up to six months after he has left school.

If all the students voted—especially if the 18-year-old vote passed—they could outvote the permanent citizens," Patriarche said. "It would be possible to have city council made up of students."

Student's civic role outlined

Q: Does the student have a place in the city government of East Lansing, for example on city council?

Ehle - "I do not think that a student would be likely to become a member of the City Council in his hometown, if he had not attended MSU, and therefore I question the possibility of a student representative being elected to the East Lansing council. I would hope that any reasonable request to the council would be given as much as and as fair consideration as though a student were a member of it. I would try to make this a reality."

Phillips - "The mere fact that the majority of students have little or no investment here and are actually passing through would color their thinking on the solution to many of the problems that would arise."

Problems that would take 10, 20 or 30 years to resolve would not be as important to the student as the immediate obvious problems that all cities have. Certainly the views of the student should be considered on any short-range, immediate problems."

Sharp - "The student who wishes to become involved in city government should be able to do so if he, or she will accept the responsibilities and the obligations to serve the total community which go with the office of councilman. I do not think a student position should be created."

Wilcox - "An MSU student does have a contribution to make in our city government. As a reporter, observer or ex-officio member of any of our several boards and commissions, the student could inform, react, suggest and communicate back and forth between campus and city."

Q: Do you believe a city income tax is necessary? Would such a tax include the earnings of students working at MSU?

Ehle - "It depends on how much service and facility the city needs, wants and how it wants to pay for them. The council and all public bodies with taxing power and budget control are faced with the need to establish the line between the necessary and unnecessary expenses. This is not an easy task. Should an income tax be adopted it would apply to the students' earnings, but would not be likely to affect many because of the exemptions and allowances."

Phillips - "At this point I don't believe a city income tax is necessary. If more revenue is needed, I would favor an income tax rather than an increase in property taxes. If an income tax were passed, basic exemptions would be set up similar to those used by the state and federal government. Most students would therefore be automatically exempt."

Sharp - "I think a city income tax would be good tax reform if it can be accompanied by a lowering of the property tax. I don't know if a city income tax would include student earnings at MSU."

Wilcox - "If we are to control increases in property taxes, and if larger amounts of revenue are needed to carry forth our six-year capital improvements plan, then the best method of acquiring necessary revenues is through the city income tax. All people in the limited income brackets would, of course, have little or no tax to pay."

Q: How do prices of East Lansing stores compare with those of other cities in Michigan? Do you see any validity in the complaints of students that the prices are out of proportion?

Ehle - "To my knowledge there is not an excessive difference. I am sure that there may be a difference, but I believe it to be an understandable one when all factors governing price are considered. I would doubt that prices are as unfair as the students would like to believe."

Phillips - "As far as I have been able to determine, prices for like goods are no higher in East Lansing than they are in any other like city. Most students don't realize the cost of doing business in any city, let alone East Lansing. The mere fact that real estate values are so high in East Lansing is in itself a deterrent to low margin high volume operation."

Sharp - "I think East Lansing prices are not out of line with those in Ann Arbor, Birmingham or Kalamazoo if one considers whether you choose to shop in "quality" stores and if you accept East Lansing as part of a metropolitan community where there are a wide range of choices."

Wilcox - "Prices in East Lansing stores generally are in line and competitive with surrounding areas. In recent months, when students have brought price complaints to our attention, the Chamber of Commerce has acted on these. The chamber is establishing a competitor relations committee to handle such matters as prices, service, etc."

E. Lansing judge seeks reelection

East Lansing Municipal Judge William K. Harmon is seeking reelection to the four-year post in Monday's East Lansing city election.

Harmon, associated with the law firm Andrews, Stapleton, Harmon and Huber in Okemos, is running unopposed. He has practiced law in the East Lansing area since January 1967.

Harmon received his B.S. degree at MSU and his bachelor of law degree from the University of Detroit School of Law. After graduation from law school, he taught business law at MSU.

He is a member of the Michigan Bar Assn., the Michigan State Bar Assn., Ingham County Bar Assn., the American Trial Lawyers Assn., and of the National and Michigan Assn. of Municipal Judges.

WILLIAM K. HARMON

Harmon and his wife, Janet, have three children.

Park project

Whitehills Park, now a quiet playground, is slated for a $70,000 overhauling if the proposed park bond issue is passed by East Lansing voters Monday.

State News Photo by David Harrison

$480,000 BOND PROPOSAL

Park issue faces voters

In addition to choosing two city councilmen, East Lansing voters will decide a $480,000 park and recreation bond issue in Monday's election.

John Patriarche, East Lansing city manager, explained the money will be used with a $283,040 grant from the federal government to purchase and develop new park land, to develop existing park land, and to provide for additional tree planting along city streets.

"The federal grant has to be matched by the city dollar per dollar if we expect to use it," Patriarche said.

The money would be used to expand or develop twelve park areas: Abbott Road Park, Henry Fine Park, Tamarisk Park, Whitehills Park, Glencairn Park, Alton Road Park, Shaw Park, Glenhaven Park, Valley Court Park, Burcham Road Park, Ehinger Park and Bailey Park.

Of the twelve, the largest purchase would be land for Abbott Road Park, Patriarche said.

Approximately $415,000 would be used to purchase the land in the northern part of East Lansing along Abbott Road, Patriarche said. He explained that the land would be developed into a city golf course some time in the future.

The largest development project would be that of Whitehills Park, along Lake Lansing Road.

"We expect to pay $75 or $80 thousand for Whitehills which includes a 40-acre purchase and development of 63 acres," Patriarche said.

Other park projects include relatively small purchases and general improvements of landscaping and equipment.

Patriarche said $25,000 of the bond would go toward the planting of trees along city streets.

The year-old implementation program prepared by the East Lansing Planning Commission titled "Parks, Recreation and Beautification" said that by national standards a city should have 10 acres of public recreation land for every 1,000 persons on a city-wide basis.

The report stated that East Lansing presently has 7.7 acres of public recreation land for every 1,000 persons (based on the 1965 population of 23,000 permanent residents).

Patriarche said the bond would cost the East Lansing tax payer an additional 50 cents per $1,000 on his taxes for 15 years.

Patriarche emphasized that only property owners are eligible to vote on the bond issue

Homecoming plans 'boom' for compact, weekend fun

Homecoming '69 is on the move.

The newly appointed members of the 1969 Homecoming Executive Board met for the first time March 27 in an "informal get-together" that rapidly turned into a brainstorming session after adjournment.

John Phillips, homecoming general chairman, plans for an active spring term for the executive board. Within the next two weeks he hopes to have a band picked for the Homecoming dance and a theme chosen for the weekend.

Homecoming weekend is Oct. 30 to Nov. 1. The homecoming game, Nov. 1, will be played against Indiana.

A major trend forming on the executive board is an attempt to change homecoming weekend from an unpopular, uncool mass of tradition to a newer, more compact weekend of events that will appeal to all four classes.

What now are ideas will become plans by the end of the term, as Phillips and the executive board meet weekly. Phillips hopes to have enough planning completed by May 1 to submit a final budget to the ASMSU Board for approval.

Also, Tom Schildhammer, Evergreen, Colo., junior, tickets chairman; Doug Tripp, Ypsilanti freshman, asst. tickets chairman; Nancy Raisen, East Detroit junior, art and design chairman; Chris Graybiel, Adrian sophomore, asst. art and design chairman; Rosanne Baime, Milwaukee, Wis., sophomore, publicity chairman; Denny Drake, Orchard Lake freshman, asst. publicity chairman; Claire Whitney, Arlington, Va., junior, public relations chairman; and Carol Westfall, Manchester sophomore, asst. public relations chairman.

Local constable, judge seats open to write-in ballots

Two positions in East Lansing government are yours for the asking in Monday's election.

No one has filed for the positions of associate municipal judge or constable. The winners of those contests, if any, will be decided by write-in votes.

In 1963 Walter Adams, MSU's acting president, was elected constable in a landslide victory when 16 friends wrote in his name.

Adams did not serve, however, because he did not pay the necessary bond.

East Lansing City Manager John Patriarche explained that if no names are written in, the posts are left vacant.

Often when names are written in, the winners do not accept the post because the required bond is not worth the expense, Patriarche said.

Duffy seeks walk-ons for spring grid practice

By MIKE MANLEY
State News Sports Writer

After MSU's football season ended last fall, Coach Duffy Daugherty spoke before a meeting of all the dormitory presidents on campus about a possible dormitory tackle football league. He had hopes of getting the program off the ground this spring.

With spring practice scheduled to start on April 15, Daugherty has yet to hear from the various presidents concerning the student interest in the program.

"Last December I met with the presidents of all the dorms and explained the program to them. My understanding was they would get back to me, but they haven't done this," Daugherty said. "This program has got to come from the dorms. They have to want it."

Daugherty said however, anyone who is a full-time student is welcome to come out for varsity football this spring. All a prospective candidate must do is stop by the football office in Jenison Fieldhouse and fill out a name and address card so he can be cleared for competition by the Big Ten office.

Each candidate must be able to predict a 1.7 grade average which is determined by the conference. He must also have a physical examination from Olin Health Center.

But for openers, Daugherty added, all he must do is leave his name at the football office.

"We wouldn't throw them in as cannon fodder for the varsity squad right away," Daugherty said. "Most likely they would start out on a 'B' squad."

"I doubt that any of them would be able to compete on equal terms with the varsity. But if we could get 40 or 50 boys who aren't on scholarship out for the squad, we might find some who show enough ability to get invited back for fall practice," Daugherty said.

"The ones who do not get invited back in the fall could go back to the dorms and get something organized. This would be an excellent nucleus for a dorm program," he said. "We will welcome anyone who comes out for the team. I cannot emphasize that enough," Daugherty said.

Slipping Tigers fall again; Cards wallop Wilson, 11-3

ST. PETERBURG, Fla. (UPI) --The St. Louis Cardinals, behind Bob Gibson, beat their World Series conquerors, the Detroit Tigers, Wednesday for the third time in four meetings in the exhibition season, 11-3.

Gibson yielded a two-run homer to Norm Cash in the first inning before settling down and allowing just one run and three hits in his other six innings.

The Cardinals, whose spring record climbed to 14-8, jumped on Earl Wilson for three runs in the first inning and five more in the fourth. In his 16 innings, Wilson has been nailed for 25 runs and 35 hits.

Mike Shannon paced the Cardinals with three RBI's on a double and a single. Julian Javier batted in two runs with a bases-loaded double.

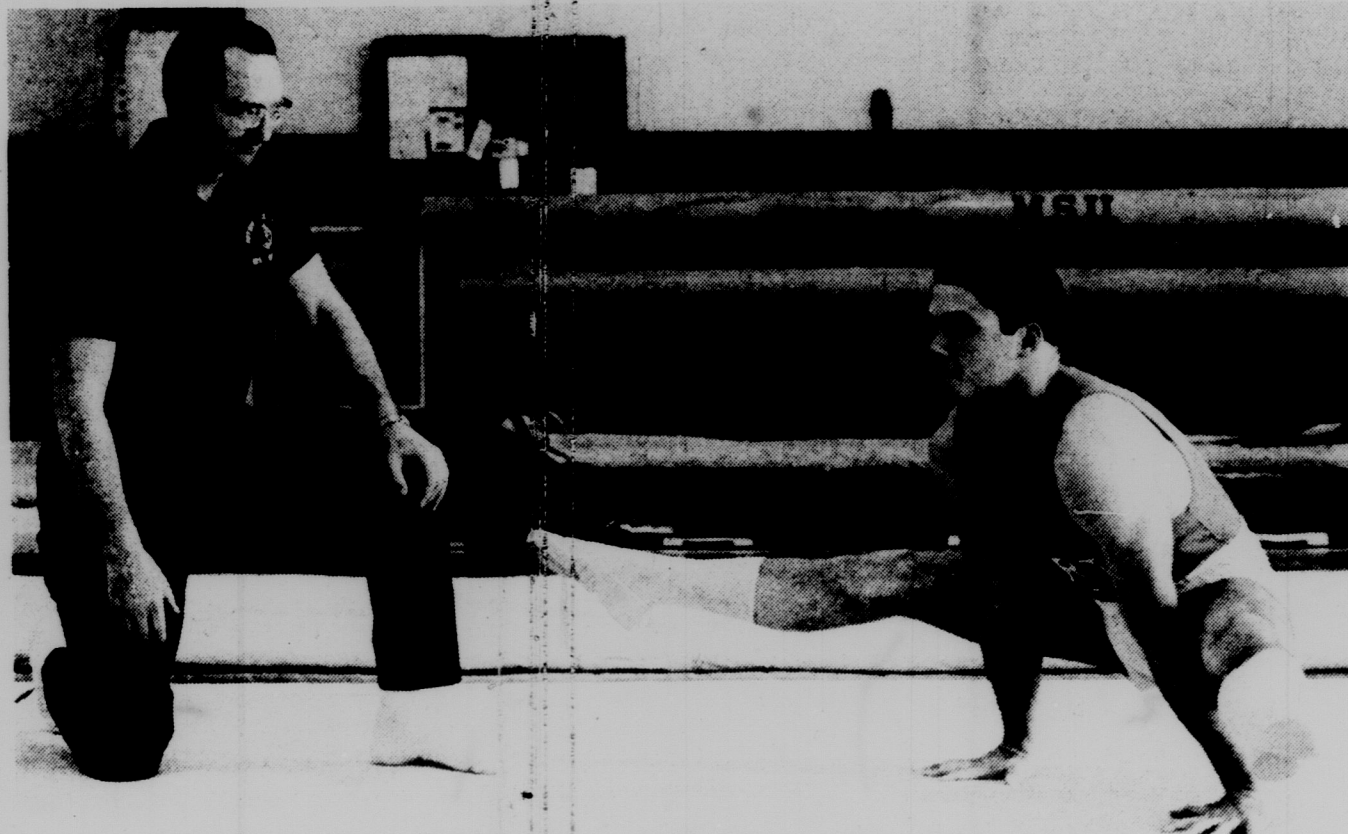

Gibson, tuning up for the season opener next Tuesday, walked two and struck out five.

Handstandout

As Coach George Szypula watches, MSU gymnastics star Toby Towson practices a routine in preparation for the NCAA meet which opens today.

G-men enter 3 in NCAA

By LINDA MILLER

Defending NCAA floor exercise champion Toby Towson will head a three-man MSU contingent competing in this weekend's NCAA gymnastics championship at Seattle, Wash.

Besides Towson, horizontal bar performer Norm Haynie and side horse star Craig Kinsey will compete for MSU in the meet which begins today.

Towson is favored to repeat as floor exercise champion. He averaged 9.5 per performance in winning the title last year. Towson, who also has two NAAU and two Big Ten titles to his credit, averaged 9.46 during this season.

"Toby's chances are great," Coach George Szypula said. "This has been his greatest season ever. His main competition figures to come from two Big Ten foes--Dave Jacobs of Michigan (1967 NCAA champion) and Barry Sloten of Iowa."

Haynie, who averaged 9.26

during the year and went on to win the Big Ten high bar crown, will get his toughest competition from defending NCAA high bar champ, Richard Grigsby of San Fernando Valley State. Haynie and Grigsby competed against each other in high school.

"Norm has a good chance," Szypula said. "He has been looking real good all season."

Side horse performer Kinsey will be up against Iowa's Keith McCannless, a long-time rival. Kinsey placed third in Big Ten competition this year and has a 9.07 season average.

"Craig is a steady performer and capable of placing in the top six nationally," Szypula said.

The NCAA meet will close out the collegiate careers for the three gymnasts.

"I think the boys will do a good job of upholding the Spartan tradition of great performers in the nationals," Szypula said.

Alcindor ready to sign for 1 million 'Bucks'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) -- Superstar Lew Alcindor, UCLA's three-time All-America, Wednesday afternoon was expected to announce what everyone knew already--that he has signed a five-year, $1 million contract with Milwaukee of the National Basketball Assoc.

The 7-1 1/2 Alcindor, adviser Sam Gilbert said, "decided to fulfill his moral obligation given in New York to the Milwaukee club."

Alcindor's decision to join the Bucks came after the rival American Basketball Assoc. offered him a $3.24 million package to play for the New York Mets. Alcindor declined the lucrative offer.

"Lew said he was going to play with Milwaukee and that's good enough for me," Bucks General Manager John Erickson said. "He's a high principled young man."

Both leagues had been informed by Alcindor that only one bid -- their first bid--would be considered.

No ABA job for Pete's dad

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) --Louisiana State University Basketball Coach Press Maravich has turned down an offer to coach in the American Basketball Assn., the Baton Rouge Morning Advocate said Wednesday.

The newly-transplanted Carolina Cougars reportedly offered Maravich the coaching job, hoping to land both Maravich and his son--junior All-America Pete Maravich.

The newspaper said Maravich reached on a recruiting trip in Indianapolis, Ind., called the Cougars' offer attractive but that he wanted to stay in college ball.

"I enjoy working with athletes on the college level," the paper quoted Maravich as saying. "I must admit the Cougars' offer was impressive."

Volleyball club meets 'M' today

The MSU Men's Volleyball Club will meet Michigan at 6 p.m. today in Gym I of the Men's I.M. Bldg.

The club will also play host to an intercollegiate tournament at 1 p.m. Saturday in the I.M. Sports Arena.

Admission to both events is free.

JOHN MEYER OF NORWICH

JOHN MEYER SPEAKS YOUR LANGUAGE

Converse with the crew (even on a rowboat)--in our trig, cohe-leg pants of cotton garrison twill. John Meyer has a way with a pair of pants. In a choice of colors, $14. Pair with a pin-stripe shell in cotton knit. Lots of colors, $6.

Tell him she's yare (even if it's a rowboat)--but communicate!

Your MSU Employees Credit Union will be closed from noon until 3 p.m. Good Friday

Voluntary dorm dues sought

By PAUL HANSON
State News Staff Writer

A movement to make the payment of residence hall dues voluntary has been started by a coed in Hubbard Hall to the displeasure of the hall president.

Kathy Ohlert, Detroit junior, is conducting a petition drive to put the issue before the Hubbard residents in the form of a referendum calling for a constitutional amendment to repeal the present policy.

At present if a Hubbard resident fails to pay the $7 annual dues, he can be faced with a hold card at registration resulting from a clause in the University housing contract.

Miss Ohlert's proposal is aimed at correcting what she claims to be unfairness in the present system. She says each resident is forced to support services that they may not use.

A similar issue arose in Hubbard last year and the dues were reduced from $9 to $7.

Bruce Fitzgerald, Hubbard
president, said the hall's legislature would actively oppose the voluntary dues issue if it were brought before the students.

He said payment of the mandatory dues is part of living in a residence hall and that if the proposal were adopted the legislature could not continue to provide services to the residents as it has done in the past.

Unless the legislature were certain of its income, it could not plan ahead, he said.

Fitzgerald's view was shared by another dormitory president, Andrew Welper of Akers, also in East Complex.

"Most people are in favor of reducing a direct tax," he said. "But the students wouldn't think of the benefits. The problem is that to provide these materials the dorms have to have money to purchase them."

To replace the funds lost
as a result of voluntary dues, Miss Ohlert has proposed a "pay as you go" plan whereby the students who use the services presently supported by all the residents would pay a small fee each time they play pool or read a magazine.

This idea has come under attack from the two presidents.
They have said that without a definite amount the government will be unable to adequately plan ahead.

Miss Ohlert is presently attempting to get 240 signatures on her petition to bring the proposal up before the residents.

She is confident of her victory but Fitzgerald is sure Hubbard residents will defeat the proposed amendment.

Selection board

members, but did not officially set a limit on membership.

Tom Samet, junior member-at-large on the ASMSU Board explained that each group represented on the PSB may have more than one qualified and interested student who wishes to serve on the PSB and should be encouraged to participate.

The board will approve the seating of qualified representatives beyond the stated minimum of one if necessary.

All members of the Steering Committee and of the PSB must be available for committee activities throughout the summer.

The central duty of the PSB will be the creation of a report on the direction of the University and a description of the kind of man essential to meet the needs of students.

The report will be based on the opinion of the student body at large and nominations for the presidency from the students.

"Since this is an academic community, it is the right of students to participate in the selection of a new president and in academic policies," Samet said.

The PSB will maintain constant communication with the student body regarding nominations for the presidency and his qualifications.

Students will be informed of progress made by PSB through campus mail, publication of nomination forms in the State News and other student publication, tape recorded forums, student opinion research polls and personal dialogue with the PSB.

Letters of information will be sent periodically to the deans of all colleges, the student chairmen of college advisory boards, department heads and chief executive officers of major governing groups.

The ASMSU Board also recommended that a member-at-large of the newly elected board work with the PSB. He will serve as a non-voting member on the PSB.

The PSB will be required to submit a written report to each meeting of the board until the new president is selected.

Black VP

was acceptable to them because it is an autonomous one.

"All of my energies will be devoted to formulating programs and advising the board on existing programs," he said.

Selection of McClintock as the candidate for vice president was made by BSA "because we have little basis for judgment on who is best able to set up worthwhile programs," Banghart said.

McClintock said he would be available to black students at all times. His office will be in the ASMSU offices on the third floor of Student Services Bldg.

Union to organize clerical workers

The Michigan State Employees Union (MSEU) will meet at 5:30 p.m. today in the MSU Physical Plant coffee room to organize clerical workers.

The MSEU, council No. 7 of the Assn. of Federal, State, County and Municipal Employees, intends to organize secretarial, clerical, stenographic and other office employees into a specific bargaining unit as part of a statewide program.

Power changes hands in Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)--Lt.
Gen. Joseph A. Ankrah, who ousted Kwame Nkrumah from Ghana's presidency in 1966, resigned Wednesday as chairman of the ruling National Liberation Council, the nation's highest post.

Brig. Akwasi Afrifa, youngest member of the council, was unanimously elected by the council to succeed him.

2 grants awarded for study projects

Two MSU departments were awarded separate grants last week, by the National Institute of General Medical Sciences, to begin five-year study programs.

Howard S. Bartley, professor of psychology, is director of the $40,912 grant to the Psychology Dept. for the first year of a project to study the vision process and its underlying bodily processes.

Bartley said the program is a combination of physiology and the study of vision in trying to analyze what body mechanisms affect human vision.

He said he hopes to gain an understanding of what the bodily processes of vision are through the vision research.

J.W. Thomas, professor of dairy, will direct a program of nutrition training for graduate students.

The $50,550 allotted for the first year will enable MSU to begin training students to become nutritional scientists. The program was launched because of a lack of new individuals entering into advanced training in nutritional research.

McGovern cites defects of ABM

By MARYANNE GEORGE
State News Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The deployment of the ABM system must be prevented to avoid the further escalation of the arms race between the United States and the Soviet Union, Sen. George McGovern's assistant, John Hollum said, in an interview Friday.

Although President Nixon says the program is necessary for national security opponents of the system, notably Sen. McGovern, D-S. Dakota, do not agree.

"The deployment of the ABM would actually decrease our security because it could easily be penetrated by the Soviets, lead to a further escalation of the arms race, and threaten our national security by depriving us of funds needed to cope with the needs of our own society," McGovern said in a Congressional Record statement.

McGovern said that the effectiveness of the ABM is doubtful. The system relies on its radar to function. A nuclear explosion creates a cloud of ionized gas that would incapacitate the radar and make the system ineffective, he said.

The danger of deploying even Nixon's proposed "thin" system is that political and economic pressures will mount until we have spent $50 billion strengthening the system from a defense against China to a defense against the Soviet Union, McGovern emphasized.

Nixon's plans to use the

"It would be impossible for a nuclear force, such as the Chinese have, to destroy our second-strike force and thus prevent retaliation. They would strike not at our missile bases, but where they could do the most damage, the cities," Hollum said.

He cited the Pentagon as one group that presses for an increased "overkill" capability.

"While the debate is raging over the ABM, the Pentagon is quietly deploying a MIRV (multiple independently targeted reentry vehicle), a missile that carries a five-fold payload," Hollum said.

"A MIRV system in combination with an ABM system would give the U.S. first-strike capability, a chance to win a nuclear war," he said.
