Senate rejects recommitment on Carswell nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave President Nixon a surprisingly easy — but possibly temporary — victory Monday, refusing to send the Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell back to the Judiciary Committee.

The vote was 52 to 44 to reject a recommitment motion that would have spelled all but certain death for Nixon's second straight high court nomination.

But appointment of the 50-year-old appeals court judge, accused by his critics of racism and mediocrity, still faces its ultimate test Wednesday when confirmation comes to a straight up-or-down vote.

Although the eight-vote margin of victory was seen as an indication Carswell will be confirmed, some switches both ways were expected and his opponents refused to abandon the fight.

"There may be some small or moderate slippage," Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told newsmen. But he said he is confident of confirmation.

"It looks to me like it's leaning toward Carswell," said Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana who voted for recommitment. "I imagine the vote on recommitment will be a precursor as to what will happen Wednesday."

With the probable outcome increasingly apparent before the recommitment roll call began, the only moment of drama came minutes after it ended. Mansfield rose to suggest the Senate abandon an earlier agreement and vote the nomination up or down at 3 p.m. and "get on with the business of the Senate."

Mansfield argued that the recommitment motion had been defeated by a rather substantial margin and that the two-day delay on confirmation would not change the outcome.

However, Mansfield withdrew his motion after objections from a leading supporter of the nomination and from an opponent.

Thirty-three Republicans joined with 19 Democrats to defeat the recommitment. But eight Republicans went against their President in the effort to scuttle the nomination.

They were Sens. Winston L. Prouty of Vermont; Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, the only Negro senator; Clifford P. Case of New Jersey; Charles E. Goodell and Jacob K. Javits of New York; Mark O. Hatfield, Oregon; Charles McC. Mathias, Maryland and Richard S. Schweiker, Pennsylvania.

Of the nine senators listed in the latest Associated Press poll as undecided on recommitment, five voted against the motion and four for it.

Despite the administration triumph Monday, there remained some doubt about Wednesday's vote because some who opposed recommitment may oppose confirmation also. And some supporting recommitment may vote for confirmation.

Three senators who voted against recommitment have announced they will oppose confirmation. They are Republicans Robert Packwood of Oregon, Hiram Fong of Hawaii and Thomas J. Dodd, Connecticut Democrat.

However, one of the only two Southerners to support the recommitment motion — Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas — is expected to support confirmation. But the other Southerners to vote for recommitment — Sen. William Spong of Virginia — announced after the Monday vote that he will oppose confirmation.

While this all represents an apparent net gain for the opponents, the answer on Wednesday remains in the hands of about a dozen senators, mainly Republicans, who have not disclosed their plans.

Judge defines jury role in Kopechne probe

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Judge Wilfred J. Paquet laid down stern rules and tight restrictions Monday as the Dukes County grand jury opened a special session to investigate the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

She drowned last July 18 when a car driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy went off the side of a narrow bridge into a tidal pool on Chappaquiddick Island.

Judge Paquet stressed to the grand jurors that the investigation proceedings were to be kept secret, "not just for today but forever." He told the 20 members that their function is to be "both a sword and a shield."

He said that as a sword the grand jury can indict for a crime, but that as a shield its duty also was to protect from persecution. He told the grand jury that it has a duty "not to indict because of public clamor."

Judge Paquet also issued a public warning that he would deal summarily with any violators of rules barring recording devices of any description in the courtroom, in the grand jury room or corridors near them. And he told the jurors he would also deal strictly with anybody who tried to influence them.

In advance of the session, the jury foreman — Leslie H. Leland — said some members of the grand jury wanted to inspect the records of the secret inquest held last January in the Kennedy accident.

Those records, the transcript of testimony and the inquest report of District Court Judge James A. Boyle, are impounded in Suffolk Superior Court in Boston where Judge Paquet normally sits.

In Boston last week, Paquet said he would not give the papers to the grand jury unless last fall's Supreme Judicial Court ruling is amended. That ruling ordered the papers impounded and restricted inspection of them to the attorney general, the district attorney and lawyers for persons who were witnesses at the inquest.

Judge Paquet researched the powers and duties of grand juries before delivering his long dissertation to this session. He apparently shut the door on any possible appeal by the grand jury from rulings which he might make during this sitting.

A grand jury, he said, "is an appendage of the court," and "control of the grand jury by the judge is complete."

The grand jury is limited, he stated, to hearing evidence on matters presented to it by the court or the prosecutor; to matters brought to its attention in the course of hearing evidence in some other case; to considering indictments for crimes which might develop from hearing testimony, such as perjury before the grand jury and to matters brought to the attention of the jurors by one of their associates who may have personal knowledge of a crime.

The grand jury went into session with 10 men and 10 women present out of the full membership of 23. One of the others was reported out of the country and two were excused. The grand jury quorum is 12, and that number of votes is required to return an indictment.

U.S. camp near Laos still besieged

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops, entrenched as close as 30 yards, kept a U.S. - commanded Special Forces camp near the Laotian border under siege for a sixth day Monday and shot down another American supply plane. New fighting broke out in the central highlands and coastal plains.

It was the third such plane shot down since the North Vietnamese surrounded the camp at Dak Seang last Wednesday. Nine crewmen were killed in all. The others were downed Thursday and Saturday. Three U.S. helicopters also have been brought down by enemy guns.

The camp's defenders clashed three times with the enemy outside the perimeter Sunday and Monday. They claimed they killed 78 enemy soldiers. The defenders reported losing seven men killed and 35 wounded.

They also said South Vietnamese rangers and mobile strike force units have moved into the region in the past few days as reinforcements.

One source said the allies were bracing for a possible enemy attempt to overrun the camp.

With the enemy guns concentrated on Dak Seang's airstrip, air drops are the only way of resupplying the base.

But the drop zone is small, and fighter-bombers were destroying all supplies landing outside the camp's small perimeter to keep them from the enemy hands.

Other fighting ranged from near the Cambodian border 42 miles west-northwest of Saigon, where government forces reported killing 62 enemy, to within four miles of the demilitarized zone.

In the central highlands, enemy soldiers penetrated Camp Radcliff, a U.S. base near An Khe in Binh Binh Province and blew up several helicopters.

More than 260 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were reported killed throughout the country since Sunday, raising to nearly 1,300 the number of enemy claimed slain since the enemy upsurge began.

More than 100 Americans have been killed and South Vietnamese deaths numbered over 400.

Guatemala continues hunt for ambassador's killers

GUATEMALA (AP) — Guatemala continued its search Monday for the slayers of the West German Ambassador Karl von Spreti, whose murder had provoked expressions of anger and shock in many parts of the world.

Living under a state of siege which demands many of Guatemala's constitutional guarantees, army patrols searched through the capital making house-to-house searches for the killers.

Spreti, 63, was found shot in the head Sunday night after the government had demanded the Rebel Armed Forces for release of 22 jailed FAR leaders and $700,000 in ransom money. The government had demanded that Guatemala meet the ransom. Bonn had even offered to put the $700,000 to win freedom for the envoy.

The West German government said it was bringing home all its diplomatic personnel from Guatemala.

Guatemala remained in the state of siege Thursday after the government said it would not meet the FAR's demands.

Some of the indignation came from Latin-American diplomats who had been saying privately that the only way to end the abduction of diplomats in Latin America was for governments involved to stand fast against the kidnappers' demands.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt noted that his government had offered to pay the ransom for von Spreti, "but unfortunately all this was to no avail."

"The Guatemalan government has shown itself unable to give the accredited diplomatic representatives the necessary security. Thereby a problem has been created which concerns the civilized world," said Brandt who is in El Paso, Tex., to visit German troops in training at Ft. Bliss.

Representatives of the International Red Cross, the papal nuncio in Guatemala, several members of the diplomatic corps and a special envoy from the West German government had tried to convince the Guatemalan government to deal with the kidnappers.

But Guatemalan President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro had said it would be unconstitutional to release the prisoners sought by the FAR, because they had already been tried and sentenced.

Mendez Montenegro gave orders that von Spreti be accorded state honors and his casket be put on view in the National Palace. He ordered three days of national mourning.

A coroner's report said the diplomat apparently died instantly from a bullet behind the right ear. Von Spreti was holding his eye glasses in one hand, indicating to the coroner that he was taken unaware by the fatal shot.

Von Spreti's body will be flown home (please turn to back page)

Council deals with rights, participation

The Academic Council will meet at 3:15 p.m. today in the Con Con Room of the International Center to continue its study of the McKee Report on Student Participation in Academic Government.

During four sessions of the council last month, the body approved most of the McKee Report, but tabled nine of the 33 recommendations included in the report after dispute among council members arose.

Of primary interest to students is the report from the Ad Hoc Committee on Minority Students' Participation in the Academic Council.

The council is scheduled to receive the committee's report at today's meeting.

The ad hoc committee, headed by Hideya Kumata, professor of communications, was established by the council March 10 to investigate the problems of minority seating on the council.

Although the McKee Report deals with student participation in academic government, student interest has dwindled from nearly 300 students at the March 3 meeting to a mere handful at the March 12 council meeting.

Student representatives to the council urge students to take a greater interest in the council's work by attending the council's session today.

Legislature to debate school tax proposal

By SHARON TEMPLETON
State News Staff Writer

Revision of school tax measures will be a priority item on the agenda of the Michigan Legislature which reconvenes at 2 p.m.

The House of Representatives will be concentrating its efforts upon the Spencer substitute to Senate Bill 1084 which was passed by the House during the last session.

Senate Bill 1084, now back in the Senate Education and Veterans' Affairs Committee, is called for a repeal of the 1967 property tax credit provided in the 1967 Michigan Income Tax Bill which allows deductions from income tax based upon ownership of property.

Spencer substitute, sponsored by Roy L. Spencer, R-Attica, proposes complete repeal of the property tax in raising the personal income tax rate from 2.6 per cent to 4 per cent to finance Michigan Educational Reform bills now before the legislature.

Spencer substitute also earmarks 1 1/2 per cent of the tax hike to be used for the education tax account.

Milliken originally requested that the income tax be raised to 3.5 per cent. The Senate approved his request last session. However, the House defeated it and substituted the Spencer proposals.

Included in the Spencer substitute is the proposal that local school districts be allowed to levy an income tax of 1/4 per cent up to 2 per cent. This would be in addition to the national, state and city taxes now paid by Michigan residents.

Rep. William A. Ryan, D-Detroit and Speaker of the House, said Monday that response from state education officials indicates support for the Spencer substitute, but that local officials are not well-informed enough to form an opinion.

"For the next two weeks we will be meeting with school people on the local level to give them an explanation of the bill and, hopefully, gain their support for the Spencer legislation," Ryan said.

He added that it will probably be another two weeks before the measure is actually debated on the floor of the House.

Also on the House agenda will be consideration of the School Reorganization Bill, several educational reform bills and House Bill 3055 which places strict

Labor Committee approves rails bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee members said they approved unanimously today a bill proposed by President Nixon to avert a nationwide railroad strike now threatened for Saturday.

The measure would impose on the four shopcraft unions involved in the dispute and the industry a settlement reached by negotiators last December.

The agreement was accepted by members of three of the unions but rejected by members of the fourth and smallest — the Sheet Metal Workers.

Committee members said they were voting for an imposed solution reluctantly but with the feeling they had no alternative.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., the committee chairman, said the measure would be handled on the floor by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., senior Republican on the panel, who introduced it for the administration.

Javits said he hopes the Senate can take it up and pass it Wednesday.

He said he understands the Senate will act first and the House then will consider the legislation before the strike deadline.

The December agreement provides for retroactive and prospective pay increases of 68 cents an hour for the 47,000 railroad shopcraft employees represented by the four unions.

It also makes controversial changes in work rules insisted upon by the carriers.

Yarborough emphasized that his committee, in approving the bill, was not taking any stand on a proper division of work between the employees.

He also pointed out that the agreement expires Dec. 31, 1970.

The unions can ask for a reopening this September.

The original strike deadline was March 5. Congress at that time passed a bill imposing a 37-day freeze on any walkout.

Kirk faces court on school action

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge has ordered Gov. Claude Kirk to appear in court to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for personally taking command of Manatee County's public school system and forbidding teachers and pupils to comply with desegregation orders.

U.S. District Judge Ben Krentzman, said Monday that Kirk and "other persons in active concert with him" have failed or refused to resume full operation of the Manatee school system in conformity with that order.

Kirk was ordered to appear in Krentzman's court in Tampa Tuesday at 3 p.m. — three hours after Kirk was to address the opening session of the Florida Legislature.

Kirk said he would remain in charge of the Manatee schools "until I get my day in court."

In Washington, the White House said the federal government will cooperate carrying out the integration order by sending U.S. marshals or starting a cause legal proceeding.

Meanwhile, Kirk said he was acting in behalf of the 17 public school children in Manatee County, a Gulf County on the lower Florida peninsula. Classes were reported 90 per cent filled, classrooms orderly.

"The only man... in defiance of the system of justice is Ben Krentzman," Kirk said. "Judge Krentzman, I remember we are trying to educate children and not try to prove our power. The court has summarily overlooked the needs of the children."

The governor said he stepped in because it made no sense to integrate 45 days before the start of school and because the order involved "a horrible act of forced bussing."

The order was upheld by a full U.S. Supreme Court without comment last Friday. It called for the bussing of an additional 2,600 pupils and transfer of teachers, effective Monday, to achieve a racial ratio of 80 per cent white and 20 per cent black.

"We have exercised every opportunity possible with the Manatee School Board," Kirk said. "Now we will exercise our rights as governor."

BESIEGED FOR SIX HOURS

Patrolmen killer takes own life

SAUGUS, Calif. (AP) — One of two men accused of killing four highway patrolmen in a gun battle committed suicide today, authorities reported. His body was found by a force of officers in gas masks and wearing flack jackets who stormed a house where he had been besieged for six hours.

Authorities first had said he was captured alive.

For five hours he had held a householder hostage before releasing him unharmed. The other gunman, wounded by officers, was captured earlier in a canyon.

The four highway patrolmen were killed after they stopped a car whose occupants were reported to have brandished guns at motorists on a freeway. After the shootout, the two fled separately on foot.

Jack Wright Twining, 35, took refuge in the isolated house atop a hill in brushy country 35 miles north of Los Angeles about 4:15 a.m. and sporadically exchanged shots with a force of several score officers until his capture about 10:15 a.m.

One witness, among four young persons in a car towing a boat, said he was "standing in the parking lot and saw a California Highway Patrol car approach a car with two men in it."

"The two officers got out and one approached," the witness said. "The fellow on the passenger side got out and immediately shot one cop, picked up the cop's shotgun and went around to the front of the car and shot the other cop."

"Another highway patrol car pulled up behind. Then the patrol car's driver got out and shot. He was gunned down. The remaining cop held off these two guys for about five minutes by himself.

"Finally one fellow went around to the front of the highway patrol car and shot this young cop in the face."

Police gave the identification of the arrested fugitive as Russell Lowell Talbert, 28. However it was learned from police in Winston - Salem, N.C. that the identification papers may have been stolen.

He was apprehended without resistance later in a canyon nearby.

House speaker predicts stronger dynamite laws

(UPI) — House Speaker William Ryan said Monday the Michigan house will be taking "some action soon" on legislation to tighten up on the sale of dynamite and other explosives in Michigan.

The Detroit Democrat said the lower chamber will consider

"some stronger laws on the purchase of dynamite" when the legislature reconvenes, today after a week and a half Easter recess.

"Simple, basic legislation is needed to make it more difficult to purchase these dangerous explosives," Ryan said.

Under current Michigan law, any person, regardless of age, may buy as much dynamite as he wants without giving his name, telling why he wants it, or paying for it.

Gov. Milliken, who vetoed explosives registration bill last year, has called the unregulated sale of dynamite "appalling" and said he favors passage of a proposal sponsored by Rep. James Tierney, D-Garden City, with some modification.

A clash between police and thousands of demonstrators in New Delhi, including opposition leaders of Parliament, nearly led to the fall of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government Monday.

But the ruling Congress party, mustering all the votes could, survived its closest and most critical test of length since Mrs. Gandhi took office four years ago.

The move to oust Mrs. Gandhi came in the form of a motion to censure the government's role in stopping the march on Parliament.

Egyptian commandos thrust 37 miles into Sinai, backed an Israeli military concentration with rockets and returned safely, the Egyptian military command announced Monday.

This was the first announcement of an Egyptian commando offensive since mid-March.

In its regular Monday action of handing down decisions, the Supreme Court authorized the states to limit the amount of welfare assistance that one family may receive.

But the Court said it can do nothing if the limits are not moral or humane.

Dr. Sam Shepard, former Cleveland osteopath who was convicted of killing his first wife and later acquitted, died at his home in Columbus, Ohio, Monday.

His third wife said she had no idea as to the cause of death. "He had the flu for several days and it was apparently more than the flu but we didn't know cause he wouldn't let us call a doctor," she said.

Life charged that Marcello controls many state officials through favors promised him.

A suit charging the National Archives in Washington with suppressing documents concerning an alleged plot to assassinate President John F. Kennedy was filed Monday in U.S. District Court in Chicago.

This is the first legal challenge to the Archives' 75-year protection of the Warren Commission's records.

The suit says that the conspiracy, which allegedly killed Kennedy in Dallas, had originally planned to kill him in Chicago, and demands the Warren Report be made void.

The school and junior high school athletic programs are under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Education, but are administered by the MHSAA.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said Monday his department has brought in "hundreds of thousands of dollars" over the years by selling motor vehicle registration lists.

He said bills recently introduced in the legislature at stopping these sales "has created the erroneous impression that the department has been guilty of an illegal practice in selling these lists."

As far as I am concerned, if the legislature wishes to stop such sale, I have no feeling either way," Hare said.

TOWARD S. VIET BORDER

Cambodia moves on V.C.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian army dispatched a large force of airborne troops, artillery and armored cars toward the South Vietnamese border Monday to head off Viet Cong who crossed into Cambodia at a point 35 miles west of Saigon, military informants reported.

The size of the Viet Cong force was not known. It was said to have entered Cambodia at Vavet, 90 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian troops were seen moving out of Svay Roeng eastward along Highway 1 toward Vavet, 25 miles away. Svay Rieng is 65 miles southeast of the Cambodian capital.

The dispatch of the Cambodian force followed a Viet Cong attack this past weekend on a military outpost near Chiphou, midway between Vavet and Svay Rieng, on Highway 1.

Highway 1. Military sources said two Cambodian soldiers and six civilians were killed.

The informants said the Cambodians will try to push the Viet Cong back into South Vietnam from Cambodian territory called the "Parrot's Beak" because it juts into South Vietnam.

In another development two Japanese television newsmen and two Cambodians with them in a car were kidnapped by the Viet Cong while on a government-sponsored press trip to Chiphou Monday. The kidnappings took place 3 1/2 miles from Chiphou. The car was found burned later.

In Phnom Penh, Deputy Premier Sirik Matak put into effect new orders to tighten discipline in the government and in effect declared it a "shirt sleeve government."

Matak ordered civil servants to be polite to their seniors and demanded an immediate end to bribe-taking.

At the same time, he declared suits and ties are no longer required by civil servants, and instead recommended that they wear short-sleeved plain shirts or khaki dress.

Students marched through Phnom Penh's streets in preparation for a "march for liberty" on Saturday, a day on which some believe the government will proclaim Cambodia a republic. It has been a monarchy for about 1,500 years.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the deposed chief of state, is believed to have a strong hold on Cambodian peasants who make up 80 per cent of the 6.5 million population.

OUR READERS' MIND

ROTC editorial lacks rationale

To the Editor:

How, as editors of one of the most outstanding collegiate newspapers, could you endorse the editorial of April 1 as being anywhere indicative of your supposed "literary journalistic" talents. You state in the early part of the editorial that ROTC does not fit into the university as being "an apolitical body for free thought and discussion," but yet at the end of the article you state that the basis of a "free and democratic society" would make it improper to expel ROTC entirely. It appears to me that you yourselves don't have any similar definitions for freedom; you just misconstrue your wording and try to make things appear to others in the way that you visualize them.

It is a definite pity that as the heads of the State News you haven't found it relevant to observe for yourselves what is actually taught and practiced within ROTC programs. Maybe if you actually had the courage to search out the facts you might begin to realize how well the ROTC programs fit into the university scheme. How many of your professors stress creativity and original ideas to such a degree that the major part of your grade is based on your own personal output? Within the past two years the ROTC programs have undergone such a revamping here at MSU that I dare say couldn't be matched by the progress made in most other departments in the last five years.

I would certainly hope that in the future you as editors and other students would see fit to actually observe or participate in the ROTC programs before you begin condemning them and demanding credit withdrawal because they are infringing on your "freedom." It has been quite a few years since any form of military training has been required here at MSU so no one is forcing anyone to participate. Why shouldn't those of us who are interested be allowed the freedom to have these courses available along with our other professional fields of study such as journalism.

Repression only result of campus destruction

"There's something happening here; what it is ain't exactly clear."

Stephen Stills.
Olds Hall has been hit twice within two weeks. Ditto Erickson Hall. Check the Ad Building some day; a couple of windows are not the same. Bus drivers go down Hagadorn instead of going in front of Hubbard. The reason — someone was shooting at a bus from East Akers one day with an air rifle. In addition Jacobson's lost their windows Feb. 19. What in the hell is coming off?

We have no idea. Maybe just a bunch of high school types are getting their cheap thrills. But most high school kids do not write "Viva la raza" and "Smash racist U," four letter words are more like their bag. It is possible that the great and glorious revolution against the ubiquitous establishment has opened up on a new front, trashing.

Of course the same old arguments can be repeated. Vandalism serves no purpose; it imposes on the rights of others; et al ad nauseum.

But actually vandalism will accomplish something. It will bring repression from the authorities and will in general discredit the student leftist movement as a whole. People can get mighty upset about a few broken windows; in fact they can get more upset about a few windows than about pollution, racism or war. If vandalism continues on campus, things will happen. The heat will be turned on.

The leftist movement will be discredited because of the slogans that are always spray painted at the scene of the crime. These slogans will give people cause to think that such actions are representative of all leftist students. Many people would like to think that anyway; vandalism only supports their arguments.

Chances are that all of the events of the past term are unconnected. Chances are that these actions are simply a result of a few warped minds out for kicks. The actions of a few are, however, giving the whole place a bad name.

All we can say is that we hope we have seen the last of vandalism on campus. We realize that some vandalism will occur in isolated instances, but we have had a bit much lately. We do not know why vandalism has become so "popular"; we only know that everybody on campus will be a lot better off if it would cease.

'When we last left off, Judge J.J. Hoffman...'

In what the United States Attorney's Office of Chicago described as the normal "random selection" of assignments, Judge Julius J. Hoffman has been given the opportunity to preside over the upcoming trial of 12 members of the Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

The Weathermen are charged with the same offense that brought national attention to the trial of the Chicago Seven or Eight — crossing state lines with an intent to riot and conspiring to do so. The charge against the accused stems from demonstrations and acts of violence perpetrated by Weathermen in the streets of Chicago in October, 1969.

If the trial does begin — many of the Weathermen are either in hiding or, as of yet, unfound — the initial focal point may center around the actions of Judge Hoffman rather than the defendants. This should not only be true of opponents and supporters of the Judge's political views but those, in and out of the legal profession, who desire a speedy and fair trial without the prejudices of presiding officials.

While many believe it is highly unfortunate that Judge Hoffman has been "randomly" assigned the Weathermen case, this is perhaps a hasty pre-judgment. Clearly, Judge Hoffman is too prejudiced — against revolutionaries and/or "hippies" and/or political dissidents et al. — to even give the false appearance of a fair trial. Logically then, we would expect Judge Hoffman to declare himself incapable of presiding over this case due to his apparent, if not self-proclaimed, biases.

However, we are not dealing with a judge who emulates the "logical thinker" and hence the American public must passively accept Judge Hoffman's inevitable decision to remain on the case.

This is indeed an unfortunate occurrence for those who desire a test on the constitutionality of the anti-riot law by the Supreme Court; the Supreme Court would be more inclined to throw out an anti-riot law case tried in Hoffman's court (due to Judge Hoffman's unusual and prejudicial court conduct) than to rule on the constitutional status of any provision.

Yet, due to the Judge's obstinacy in this regard, we may once again be the witnesses of many of the aspects of injustice so formidably portrayed by Julius Hoffman in the trial of the Chicago Eight. Although the Supreme Court has backed Judge Hoffman in his own decision to gag and shackle a defendant — Bobby Seale — the "high court" did not rule on the ludicrous and highly untenable behavior by the judge which caused the defendant to speak out and be punished.

The mere fact that a man such as Julius Hoffman can be given a case almost duplicating the one he just recently totally abused attests to the inequity of American justice when concerned with political trials; we await the trial of the Weathermen — and perhaps a substantial segment of U.S. justice — with considerable anticipation and apprehension.

POINT OF VIEW

SN ROTC editorial misinformed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following "Point of View" was written by Chuck Humphreys, Marshall, Missouri senior and senior AFROTC cadet. The article concerns a recent SN editorial on ROTC.

The writer of the editorial entitled "Proper place of ROTC needs to be re-defined" (printed on April Fools' Day) reveals a skill in using platitudes and hyperbole that is admirable. His respect for fact and rational, critical thinking is conspicuous by its absence.

First, the writer fails to make a distinction between ROTC programs. Perhaps "military science" courses do contain propaganda. Perhaps not. However, my experience of four years in Aerospace Studies (Air Force ROTC) enables me to make the observation that only one credit (in the freshman year) out of twenty-four contained any real propaganda, and that was not effectively presented. Last year (as a junior) we questioned U.S. military policies and strategies in debates and seminars and often found them seriously deficient. Yet our instructor made little effort to defend them beyond explanation of their existence. This year we have repeatedly questioned Air Force procedures and regulations, largely because our instructor attempts to create change agents and not marionettes.

Second, in the writer's most crucial statement, the ambiguous and non-rigorous nature of his analysis is particularly striking. He states:

"Beginning with the time-honored definition of the university as an apolitical body for free thought and discussion and ending with the current precepts of academic freedom it is clearly evident that such a program as ROTC does not fit in any way fit into the university scheme."

It seems immediately a bit inconsistent that someone who claims that "reform and modernization is and should be a continual process on any university campus" should place so much importance on a "time-honored" definition. I agree with the writer's initial advice and contend that it must be revised. In a society which is dependent on experts, skilled technicians, research and other products of an academic community, the university cannot be an "apolitical body," even if it wanted to. Merely emphasizing one theory of economics, politics or social science rather than another (which is usually the case with professors or even departments) will create a person with a certain kind of political views. In this sense, Air Force ROTC is no different than any other department espousing a certain body of knowledge.

The writer's argumentation is undermined by his use of a nonsequitur. Appeals to "the current precepts of academic freedom," besides being ambiguous, certainly do not lead directly to his conclusion. Indeed, they could lead to the opposite conclusion. Academic freedom is the right to study and explore and even teach any subject matter. To remove credit from Air Force ROTC is to say that this body of knowledge is less desirable than some others. Yet, such a statement involves the issue of content, which places the discussion on different grounds. AFROTC does not teach students how to fight or kill persons any more than chemical engineering teaches students how to burn Vietnamese or business teaches students how to be warmongering profiteers. AFROTC does teach skills and information, like all departments. And like all knowledge, what it teaches can be used for evil purposes. But this indictment is not unique to AFROTC. It is applicable to higher learning in general. In other words, the essence of the writer's argument is that he does not like ROTC and therefore it should not have a place on campus. Perhaps I do not like the behavioralist emphasis in the social sciences. If I argued as the editorialist does, I would call for the removal of the social sciences from the campus. But to do so would be to ignore academic freedom as well as common sense. And certainly no one is forced to take Air Force ROTC; enrollment is completely a matter of free will.

The writer argues inconsistently. He tells us that "the basis of a free and democratic society is not necessarily the will of the majority." Yet earlier he pleads that ROTC should be stripped of its academic and credit granting powers because of the "will of the people." Despite his failure to demonstrate the existence of this will, he himself destroys any reason for heeding it.

Third, the writer makes blatant and unsupported assertions. He tells us that "it seems evident that most students at most universities resent its [ROTC's] presence and desire some sort of change in the present system." But he does not tell us why it seems evident. Perhaps he should note that a number of schools are waiting to institute an ROTC program. Perhaps he should conduct a poll of MSU students and not rely on his intuitive estimates, which do not appear particularly shrewd. He tells us that "much course material that is presented is clearly of an inferior order to that given by other departments at comparable levels." Clearly, it is not unfair to ask for specific examples of courses and departments. Undoubtedly his statement may be valid when the proper comparisons are made. But this kind of charge could be leveled against any department or course.

In my experience with AFROTC (which seems a bit more extensive than the editorialist's) I have found AFROTC instructors as competent as many university professors, certainly more stimulating in many cases and often more openminded. And I have taken courses in the university academically inferior to those in Aerospace Studies. Should the departments offering these courses lose their "academic and credit granting power"? If we believe the editorial, they should.

Thus, I conclude that the conclusion of the editors of the State News that "this program [ROTC] is in clear violation of the precepts of free education and academic freedom" is unrelated to precise definitions, rational derivation, or observed fact. Perhaps a case can be made for denying a body of knowledge the right of academic review in a university. And perhaps that case can be applied to Air Force ROTC. Perhaps. But we may never find out by reading State News editorials.

More languages needed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a statement released Monday by the Black Liberation Front International (BLFI) and the Pan-African Student Organization in the Americas (PASOA) concerning the teaching of "Third World" languages by the university.

Third World languages should be taught and strongly supported by institutions of higher learning. Students of the Third World should always have academic freedom to pursue their interest in the Third World languages. The usual racist criticism that Third World languages, especially Pan-African languages, are more costly than Pan-European languages is no valid excuse to withdraw and/or diminish support of these particular languages.

The present attitude of predominantly white racist educational institutions, or better, European controlled institutions, is indicative of the European "racist superiority syndrome" that permeates American society.

Traditionally, the Third World has been either academically exploited and/or oppressed for imperialistic purposes. And now the task of correcting these institutionalized injustices rest with the victims of those injustices. This fact alone makes it imperative that students of the Third World, who assumed the responsibility of developing the "new Third World school of thought," have the opportunity to explore the types of languages in tune with the needs of the development.

The high emphasis and support given to European languages suggests that something is extremely wrong with the operation of institutions of higher education. The main contradiction is that over ninety per cent of the world is non-white, but this is seemingly ignored. That is, the contributions of the peoples of the Third World, particularly the peoples of the Pan-African World, to the world civilizations receive such little attention of sometimes none at all in academia as contrast to that of Europeans. But as more and more liberation battles are fought and won, the western educational system will have to pay its due homage to the dynamics of the progressive Third World. The world has changed. The Third World is a force to be recognized and respected. In fact, only fools and idiots refuse to accept that the world belongs to the majority — the people of the Third World.

'Adventurers' lacks quality

By ROBERT KIPPER
State News Reviewer

"The Adventurers" has enough characters, settings, bloodshed and sexplay for three films. Unfortunately, it doesn't manage three minutes of genuine quality of plausibility during its two hour running length.

It is, at best, a cheaply commercial film; at worst, an elaborate wallow in tastelessness, episodic in structure, clumsy in execution and pointless in intent.

Based on the Harold Robbins best-seller, "The Adventurers" is the story of a South American playboy, the son of a revolutionary hero, who leaves his homeland for the glittering life of Rome and New York society and eventually returns to become involved in a bloody counter-revolution.

To trace its central character's transition from uncommitted and uncaring playboy to dedicated and loving revolutionary, the film repeatedly switches from the impoverished, war-torn South American setting to the fast moving free-living New York and Rome setting. In so doing, the filmmakers explore all the possibilities of violence of the first setting and all the possibilities for sex from the second.

"The Adventurers" tries to be both an explosive adventure film and a spirited sex romp but it fails on both counts. Adventure fans will deplore the superficiality and contrivance of its action scene; voyeurs will yawn at the sexplay.

And those few who are attracted by the actors involved — Candice Bergen, Ernest Borgnine, Rossano Brazzi, Olivia de Havilland and Leigh Taylor-Young — will marvel at the brevity of their roles, the incompetence of their acting or both.

Be ready for ludicrous sex scenes, pointless violence, melodramatic plotting and wooden acting. The producers have assumed their sloppy mixture of sex and brutality would guarantee entertainment. They're wrong.

Shingleton sees scarcity of jobs

The picture for summer employment for students is grim, according to John Shingleton, director of Placement Bureau.

Shingleton estimated, "More than 90 percent of the students at MSU will seek summer employment and will need this work to continue their education. Some will not be able to find jobs, however, because the jobs do not exist."

The problem is mainly the result of the current general business climate.

"When employers are laying off regular employees, they are obviously not going to be hiring summer help and this is the climate students face today," Shingleton said.

"Employers are simply not hiring in the numbers they have in the last six years and at graduation time there will be seniors without jobs," Shingleton said.

"It is definitely an employers' market. And those students who are too selective may select themselves right out of a job."

Many students have sensed the difficulty in getting jobs and as a result there has been a marked increase in the number of interviews scheduled through the placement office. This school year there will be 30,000 compared to slightly more than 20,000 two years ago.

Adventuresome love

FDA finds mercury toxin in Lake St. Clair perch

Detroit (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said Monday it had found accumulations of deadly mercury poison in fish taken from Lake St. Clair.

Arthur J. Beebe, acting director of the FDA's Detroit district, said eight perch contained 1.4 parts per million of mercury, compared with an interim tolerance level of 0.5 parts per million.

A walleye and a shad fished from the lake had less than 0.5

parts per million, Beebe said.

Diane Place, an FDA spokesman, said that although the interim guideline was 0.5 parts per million, the official level was zero.

"We say the amount of mercury permitted in food is zero," she said. "The World Health Organization has no allowable amount for fish either."

She said no action to impound any fish would be taken until further tests are completed.

"If this fish had been shipped in interstate commerce, it would be actionable," Miss Place said. "We will be sampling any shipment in interstate commerce and we also sample imports."

She said she did not know the source of the fish in which the mercury was found, but said the samples may have come from state fish and wildlife agency.

Lake St. Clair perch and walleye catches were impounded by Canadian officials last month when it was feared the fish were contaminated with mercury.

Authorities have traced the Lake St. Clair mercury pollution to a Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd. plant on the St. Clair River. The Wyandotte Chemicals Corp. plant on the lower Detroit River also has been releasing mercury.

Dow said it had installed a temporary control device to halt the pollution and would put a permanent abatement system into operation in a few weeks. Wyandotte said it would take steps to curb its pollution.

The Canadian Fisheries Dept. last week seized and then released a shipment of Lake Erie perch which had been packaged for sale in food stores. The fish were found to meet the Canadian tolerance level of 0.5 parts per million.

Growers hit housing rule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of Michigan fruit and vegetable growers, fearful that stringent enforcement of regulations for housing of migrant workers may jeopardize the future of the state's agricultural industry, met here with labor department officials Monday.

Led by Alton C. Wendzel, a fruit and vegetable grower from Watervliet and chairman of the "Committee for the Survival of the Michigan Fruit and Vegetable Industry," the group planned to discuss the problems of providing housing for migrant farm laborers and the future use of seasonal workers.

A petition drive has been under way in western Michigan to gain support for the growers' view that an immediate study is needed to find a solution to the housing problem and to gain licensing for all agricultural labor camps that were licensed in 1969 as long as they have been maintained to protect the health and safety of the occupant.

The problem affects more than just the southwest corner of Michigan. Wendzel contends, since growers won't be able to actively recruit summer workers unless their housing is approved by the federal government.

"This year there will not be a real serious problem, but it will get bad in the coming years," Wendzel said. "I honestly feel that the regulations are a smokescreen to cover up the government's intention to eliminate the use of migrant labor."

Wendzel feels that migrant housing should be considered the responsibility of the general public and the farming industry be relieved of the financial burden.

"The industry as a whole has been in financial trouble for several years," he said. "If the housing must be better as the government says, who can afford it or who is going to pay for it?"

The question, I think, is it really the grower's responsibility?" he asked.

The government, Wendzel said, provides loans for low-cost housing in urban areas, but takes a completely different attitude on providing housing for migrant workers.

At the present time, the government has issued 65 clearance orders, meaning the housing provided for the migrant workers has been approved and the growers can recruit the workers before the harvesting season opens. At this time last year, 405 clearance orders had been issued.

Unless the clearance orders are given, the growers cannot recruit the workers and won't know if they'll have enough labor to harvest the strawberry, cherry, apple, peach, asparagus, cucumber and other crops.

The "survival committee" noted that growers in Michigan spent approximately $1 million a year on migrant housing and market prices for crops do not make it possible to maintain this pace. It contends the government's unannounced plans to phase out the use of migrant labor is being accomplished through "absurd housing regulations."

Some of the regulations include requiring built-in cabinets and cupboards, window space equalling 10 per cent of the floor space and showers within 200 feet of every cabin. "The fruit and vegetable farming industry is the only business where the operator is required to provide housing for its employees," the committee said.

MEETING TONIGHT

ASMSU considers tax

Student government tax proposals will be discussed tonight at the weekly meeting of the ASMSU Student Board.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the board room, third floor, Student Services Bldg.

Senior member - at - large Rodney Watts has proposed standardizing hall dues at $8. Of this amount, $4 per student would be returned to the residence halls, 25 cents would go to Mens Hall Assn (MHA) or Women's Inter-residence Council (WIC), and $3.75 to ASMSU. Off-campus students would pay $4, with 25 cents going to Off-Campus Council (OCC) and $3.75 to ASMSU.

The proposal has drawn heavy criticism from several hall councils, and will probably be modified before the board approves it.

A straight tax hike seems to be the most likely modification.

Board members feel that ASMSU needs additional funds to support major new projects, such as a student - owned cooperative which would sell food and department store merchandise at reduced prices.

CAMPAIGN VOLUNTEERS

Ferency staff meet tonight

By DENISE McCOURT
State News Staff Writer

Zolton Ferency, candidate for Governor of Michigan, will meet with campaign workers at 7:30 p.m. in 35 Union.

Ferency was the Democratic candidate for governor in 1966.

He was also chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, but he resigned in 1968 because he refused to support former President Lyndon Johnson's war policy.

Ferency estimated that he will need $300,000 for mass media advertising from now until the November election. He has rented space over an East Lansing book store for his state headquarters and he intends to rely on volunteer help from college students, faculty wives and friends in East Lansing.

State Sen. Sander M. Levin (D-Berkley) is the likely candidate to oppose Ferency for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"I expect my name on the ballot will be enough to defeat Sander Levin," Ferency said.

Ferency contends too much of the Michigan taxpayers' money is going to support the nation's war efforts, expand the anti-ballistic missile system and accelerate space exploration. He said because of these efforts, the state lacks the resources to meet educational needs, the housing shortage, the burden of caring for the mentally ill, curbing water pollution, and helping the cities.

"I'm going to tell the people of Michigan that unless you change these (national) commitments, you can't solve

Democrats abound in gubernatorial race

DETROIT (UPI) — The race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination became more heated today with the planned announcement of candidacy by Macomb County prosecutor George N. Parris and the expected announcement by John C. Miller, a wealthy Birmingham banker.

Parris, who has been talking with party officials for the past months about entering the race, scheduled a 10 a.m. news conference to announce his candidacy.

He joins State Sen. Sander M. Levin of Berkley, former Democratic chairman Zolton Ferency and State Sen. George Montgomery of Detroit in running for the nod to oppose Gov. George Romney.

"I've been making stops all week," Miller said Saturday of his decision - making process. "There are lots of bases to touch before I make a decision."

Parris, 48, was elected Macomb County prosecutor in 1960 and was re-elected for three consecutive terms. In 1968, Republicans did not offer a candidate and he ran unopposed.

Litwhiler optimistic about 'S' bat chances

By GARY WALKOWICZ
Executive Sports Editor

Baseball managers and coaches are an optimistic breed by nature, so it's not surprising that MSU Baseball Coach Danny Litwhiler was filled with enthusiasm after his team returned from an excellent spring trip.

The Spartans posted one of their best showings ever on this annual southern excursion, winning 10 and tying two of the 14 games they played.

"Overall it was a very fine trip for us," Litwhiler said. "We found we had a lot of guys who wanted to play and who can return from an excellent spring trip."

"Our pitching and hitting looked good. Only our fielding was sub-par, but that was somewhat expected, since we were getting outside for the first time. Most of our errors came in our first week down there."

Last year's Spartan team went 8-5 on their spring tour on their way to a 24-17 season mark. Litwhiler thinks his team's southern performance may be a forecast of an improved season in the Northern climate.

"Unless we start making mistakes and beating ourselves, it's going to take a good team to beat us," Litwhiler said. "If the rest of the Big Ten teams hadn't improved any over last year, then we'd be the team to beat, but it looks like most of the conference teams have gotten better so it's going to be a tough race all the way."

"The team that gets the most help from its freshmen should win it. It looks like we have a pretty good freshmen group."

The strong play of the Spartan sophomores and freshmen and the ability to hit the long ball were the trip's most pleasing developments, Litwhiler noted.

"Our juniors and seniors played well, too, but you don't expect rookies to play as well right off the bat as ours did."

The Spartan squad this year is dominated by underclassmen. A tentative starting lineup at the moment would find three or four sophomores and three or four juniors on the field. A pair of freshmen look capable of cracking the starting nine, at least occasionally. Only one senior, shortstop George Petroff, figures to start on a regular basis, while versatile utilityman Dick Vary, the only other senior among the non-pitchers, should see service in the infield and outfield.

MSU belted out 13 home runs and 40 extra base hits in their first 14 games compared to 20 and 85 totals for all of last season.

"I think we're going to have a team that the fans will enjoy watching this season," Litwhiler said. "It looks like we have quite a bit of power and it's not concentrated in just a few players. Eight different players hit home runs on our trip, and we have three or four other hitters who we know are capable of hitting the long ball." MSU will open the Northern portion of their season with doubleheader at Ball State on April 11. They follow that with a twin bill at Albion on April 12 before meeting Eastern Michigan for a pair of games on April 13 which will open the home season at Kobs Field.

Bruins, Hawks both win, but Chicago gets 1st place

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins missed a first place finish for the 29th successive season Sunday night when they defeated Toronto, 3-1, in their last game but trailed Chicago in the final East Division standings by a margin of five victories.

The Bruins missed the top spot despite scoring the same number of points, 99, as Chicago. First place went to the Hawks who had 45 victories to 40 for the Bruins.

The Hawks defeated Montreal 10-2 to take the honors.

Boston opens its Stanley Cup playoff series at the Garden Wednesday night by hosting the fourth place New York Rangers.

Finishing second cost the Bruins $1,250 per player so they were understandably disgusted when the Black Hawks took first place. First place means $2,500 to each player.

By the time the game ended in Chicago, writers and photographers outnumbered the disgruntled Bruins' players left huddled round two radios in the Boston dressing room.

"Forget the money, it was the prestige we wanted," Ken Hodge said in summarizing the feelings of the dejected Bruins.

Most of the Boston players headed home on Pit Martin's third period goal which gave the Hawks a 4-2 lead and brought a stream of epithets from the Bruin players.

Former Royal cager dies of heart attack

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Former Cincinnati Royals basketball star Maurice Stokes, bedridden the past 12 years with post-traumatic encephalitis, died Monday. He was 36.

Stokes died at Good Samaritan Hospital here, where he had suffered a heart attack March 30. A hospital spokesman said the cause of death was attributed directly to the heart attack.

Stokes first was stricken with encephalitis in March, 1958.

Former Royals' superstar Jack Twyman, his teammate at the time, has been his legal guardian and has organized numerous benefit games to help pay Stokes' medical bills.

Stokes played only one season with the Royals after they moved here from Rochester, N.Y. He joined the New York club in 1955 after graduating from St. Francis College in Loretto, Pa.

He averaged 12 points per game during his last year with the Royals.

the Spartans, will field a young team, one which he hopes can improve upon last year's 5-6 dual meet record.

"I think we have possibilities for becoming a pretty good club," Drobac said. "Right now we could start a junior, three sophomores and two freshmen. I liked what they did on the trip."

MSU opens its regular season Friday at Ohio State and the travel to Indiana to face a tough Hoosier squad Saturday.

Drobac's singles lineup practically set for the two meet but the Spartan coach is unsure of the doubles combinations that he will use.

In singles Ralph "Dusty" Rhoads, a sophomore transfer from UCLA appears to have the No. 1 spot while junior Tom Gray, last year's runnerup in the Big 10 will be No. 2 man. Both players have great potential and either can be effective in the top slot. DeArmond Briggs and Vetter, both freshmen will be the third and fourth men. Mike Madura will work at the No. 5 position and Jim Symington will be the sixth man.

Tigers, Lolich throttle Nats, 5-0

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon made a belated, rooting appearance at the ballpark Monday but still couldn't prevent the Washington Senators from going down to defeat, 5-0, to the Detroit Tigers for their eighth opening day loss in a row.

Nixon waited at the White House until assured that his supreme court nominee, G. Harrold Carswell, had won a vital test vote in the senate, then headed for Robert F. Kennedy Stadium to watch the last half of the 1970 American League opener. But it wasn't much of a spectacle.

He joined his son-in-law, David Eisenhower; his daughter, Julie Eisenhower, and his wife, Pat, and 45,015 other fans in the fifth inning with the Senators trailing, 2-0. He saw the Tigers build their lead and prevail behind the seven-hit pitching of Mickey Lolich, who subbed for suspended ace Denny McLain. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn met with McLain before the game to discuss the suspension.

After David Eisenhower had substituted for his father-in-law in throwing out three ceremonial pitches, the Tigers wasted no time in taking the lead with a pair of first inning runs.

With one out, Cesar Gutierrez walked, Al Kaline singled and Norm Cash walked to fill the bases. Willie Horton then ripped a double down the left field line off starter Dick Bosman for the two runs.

Meanwhile, Lolich — Detroit's No. 1 pitcher during the suspension of McLain — held the Senators hitless through the first three innings. Ed Brinkman and Frank Howard solved him for singles to open the fourth but Lolich struck out Ken McMullen and Mike Epstein, then retired Hank Allen on a foul pop to protect the lead.

Nixon arrived at the ballpark just in time to see Bosman snuff out another Detroit threat. He joined his family in the Tiger fifth with the bases loaded and only one out and cheered as Lolich fanned and Dick McAuliffe fled to center.

The Tigers gave Lolich another run to work with in the sixth. Leadoff singles by Gutierrez and Kaline sent Bosman to the showers and Cash dropped a single into center against reliever Jan Dukes to score Gutierrez. The rally ended when Del Unser took Jim Northrup's fly in center and doubled up Cash going into third for the third out before Kaline crossed the plate. The Tigers disputed that call, claiming Kaline scored.

Two Detroit runs in the seventh settled the issue. Don Wert reached first on Brinkman's error, Bill Freehan singled and McAuliffe was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Gutierrez singled to center to make it 5-0.

Lolich limited the Senators to seven singles, walked five and struck out 10. The Tigers collected nine hits, three of them by Gutierrez and benefited from 12 walks and three wild pitches but left 17 runners stranded.

In Cincinnati southpaw Jim Merritt pitched six innings of hitless ball before settling for a three-hitter and the Cincinnati Reds, powered by fourth inning homers by Lee May, Bernie Carbo and Bobby Tolan, defeated the Montreal Expos, 5-1, in the National League opener at Crosley Field.

Ruggers start right, bomb Windsor, 9-3

MSU's Rugby Club opened its spring season in Windsor Sunday with a 9-3 victory over the Windsor City Rugby Club.

Steve Hummel led a strong forward game and inside center Paul Thomas converted three penalty kicks to account for all the Spartan scoring. Thomas' first kick, after Windsor had scored a try but missed the conversion attempt, gave MSU a 3-3 tie at intermission.

The club is currently preparing for this weekend's Big Ten Tournament at the University of Illinois. All prospective candidates are invited to join daily practice sessions held at 4 p.m. behind Jenison Fieldhouse.

Simpson unanimous choice for Big Ten All-Academic

Add one more honor to Ralph Simpson's seemingly endless list.

MSU's record-setting sophomore basketball star was a unanimous choice for the seventh annual Big Ten All-Academic cage team announced by Commissioner Bill Reed.

A social science — physical education major with a 3.0 for the 1968-69 academic year, Simpson was the only sophomore named to the first team. He and the nine other players named to the first two teams are eligible for Academic All-America consideration.

On the first team along with

Simpson are Jim Clemons of Ohio State (education), Clarence Sherrod of Wisconsin (sociology), George Faerber of Purdue (industrial management) and Rich Howat of Illinois (business administration).

Each player qualified for selection to the team by posting a B or better classroom average for the entire 1968-69 academic year. The players were then selected by a panel of 33 Midwest sports editors and basketball reporters.

Big Ten basketball attendance for 1970 reached its second highest level in history with MSU averaging the fourth highest crowds for the 14 league games, 10,184. In home attendance, the Spartans drew an average of 9,410 people for 10 games, fifth best in the Big Ten.

Thigh and inside

It's hard to tell who's more surprised — Frank Howard, the receiver of an embrace and kiss or Bill Freehan, the observer. Morgana Roberts, Atlanta, Ga., entertainer shows she's good at her job with this unscheduled home plate appearance in the first inning of Monday's game in Washington.

MEET SATURDAY

Trackmen thinking spring

By DON KOPRIVA
State News Sports Writer

The much-delayed exit of winter has caused considerable trouble for the MSU track team, scheduled to open Saturday against Purdue and Bradley at Lafayette, Ind.

Spartan Coach Fran Dittich pointed out that the Spartans had the chance last week to do any serious workouts, with snow covering the outdoor oval and the indoor track being readied for the Spartan-State Journal High School Relays.

But Dittich figures his team can come up with a respectable effort Saturday and knows with the likely first placers in the meet residing mainly in the Spartan camp, MSU should accumulate enough points to win.

The Spartans' outdoor hopes should be pretty much based on the same two runners who carried MSU to a third place Big Ten finish inside, Herb Washington and Bill Wehrwein.

The outlook by events:
HURDLES: The Spartans have likely lost Charley Pollard for a year with broken foot bones, the same injury that sidelined the big senior last year, but frosh John Morrison and juniors Wayne Hartwick and Howard Doughty should compensate in the high hurdles. Intermediate hurdles are unsure but Hartwick and freshman Rich Jacques rate as possibilities.

SPRINTS: MSU is strong here, with Washington and LaRue expected to provide a good 1-2 punch in the 100 while Washington, Butcher, Wehrwein and freshman Mike Holt all rate top notch possibilities in the 220.

MIDDLE DISTANCES: Always an MSU strong point, this year it'll be no exception, as the Spartans boast strong entries from the 440 through the 880. Wehrwein was third in the NCAA 440 1969 with an MSU record 45.7. Also running in that event could be Al Henderson, third in the indoor quarter, and freshmen Mike Murphy and Holt.

The 660, run only in the Big Ten, could have John Mock, Paul Cooke, Murphy and Bob May as possibilities, but it seems likely that Mock, third in the indoor NCAA half-mile, will go in the 880 and give MSU a strong contender for any meet title there.

DISTANCES: Ken Popejoy heads the milers with a 4:04.4 indoor best and hopes to move closer to the magic four minute barrier outdoors. Soph Dave Dieters is expected to be the number two miler. The Spartans could be tough in the three mile if the top twosome of Ken Leonowicz and Chuck Starkey come through, with four freshmen, Randy Kilpatrick, Warren Krueger, Pete Reiff and Ralph Zoppa, rating as possible scorers. Zoppa, Kilpatrick and Leonowicz appear as likely steeplechase entries.

FIELD EVENTS: MSU is weak here, with only long jumpers rating any real chance at success, with Big Ten fourth placer Lloyd Bridges expected to help. Indoor triple jump champ Eric Allen has been lost to spring football, and the Spartans can't boast any real strength in any other field events.

RELAYS: Both the 440 and mile relays should be among MSU's strongest ever, with Washington the key to the 440 quartet's success and Wehrwein holding the chances of the mile team. Likely short relay runners include Butcher, Holt, Wehrwein, Morrison and Henderson. Possible members of the mile combination which Dittich thinks could go as fast as 3:07 include Holt, Henderson, Murphy, Mock, May and Paul Cooke.

THE BIG TEN: Spartans were third inside behind Wisconsin and Indiana, and despite a noticeable lack of strength in the field events, look to be about the same outside. But Dittich feels that with some breaks and some top performances, his squad can overtake the Hoosiers for second and give the defending champion Badgers a run for their money.

plane after full honors from the Guatemalan government and a Roman Catholic Mass offered by the papal nuncio who had worked to obtain the diplomat's freedom.

Msgr. Gerolamo Prigione, the papal nuncio, told the Associated Press he had received a telephone call from the kidnappers early Sunday afternoon. He reported the following conversation: "Do you have anything for us?"

"No but I feel personally the government might be willing to negotiate further."

"Tell the government they have 20 minutes."

"That is not enough time. Please give us more time."

"The government has 20 minutes to agree to our demand or we will proceed with the execution."

The papal nuncio said he reported the conversation to Foreign Minister Alberto Fuentes Mohr.

A few moments later, he said, the voice called back and said it had been decided to give the government "few more hours."

Von Sprei, the coroner's report said, was shot between 4 and 5 p.m. local time, "probably closer to 5 p.m."

DESPITE MEASLES EXPOSURE

Apollo 13 plans continue

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A five - man medical team Monday declared the Apollo 13 astronauts physically fit to fly to the moon but expressed concern because of their exposure to German measles.

Extensive lab tests began immediately to determine their immunity to the disease. The results could postpone Saturday's scheduled launching of man's third lunar landing expedition.

The disclosure came hours after the launch crew cleared up a pressure problem in Apollo 13's moon landing ship and the countdown proceeded smoothly.

All three crewmen, James A. Lovell Jr., Thomas K. Mattingly II and Fred W. Haise Jr., were exposed to German measles, known medically as rubella.

In addition, Lovell was exposed to red measles, known as rubeola, which has been contracted by his 4 - year - old son Jeffrey.

Berry said all three astronauts had had red measles in the past, but none has had German measles.

The medical director said laboratory tests were under way to determine the anti - body levels of the trio. He said results would be known on Wednesday.

Berry said a person normally does not come down with German measles until two to three weeks after exposure.

That means Lovell, Haise and Mattingly could go to the moon and return to earth before any of them could develop the disease. The flight is to last 10 days.

However, because of the remote possibility of their picking up an unknown germ on the moon, all three are to be quarantined for 21 days after Lovell and Haise leave the lunar surface.

If they contacted a moon germ, it could react with German measles.

Saturday is the only favorable day in April for launching Apollo 13 to its desired landing spot in the moon's Fra Mauro highlands. If the mission is called off, May 9 is the next launch opportunity.

As the lab tests began, the astronauts went about their business as usual.

Specialists resolved a problem in a helium pressurization system in the descent engine of the lunar module.
