ON COURT ACTION

Kirk promises to allow desegregation project

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Claiming Justice Department help was on the way, Florida Gov. Claude Kirk Sunday night vowed to a federal judge and promised to allow Manatee County officials to implement a court-ordered school desegregation plan immediately.

Kirk, in a televised statement, said the Justice Department "will intervene in this cause now on appeal, and they will support our efforts to obtain a modification" of U.S. District Judge Ben Krentzman's integration plan.

agreed to speed its handling of the Manatee plan, a desegregation program that was ordered by Krentzman after five years of litigation.

"Basically, Florida and the Department of Justice are in agreement," said the governor. "We believe we must obey and carry out our constitutional mandates — we agree the solutions to our problems must lie in the duly constituted courts."

In giving up his control over the Manatee schools, Kirk presumably will not have to pay the $10,000 a day for blocking classroom integration. Kirk, who suspended county school officials, contended only the U.S. Supreme Court had jurisdiction over him as the chief executive of the state.

The judge could not be reached for comment Sunday night.

"To disobey the District Court's injunction and to pay a fine of $10,000 per day would not solve the problem. If I thought that course, or going to jail would do so, I would be in that jail," the governor said in a statement released by his office.

Kirk said "this significant assistance" by the Justice Department will "result in our avoidance of the disaster which presently faces the educational systems of Manatee County and the state."

Milliken bans sport fishing in lake, river

By SHARON TEMPLETON
State News Staff Writer

Governor Milliken announced Friday night a ban on all fishing in Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River because of mercury contamination.

The ban will not officially take effect until Milliken signs the formal order on Monday or Tuesday.

He also said he was ordering testing of fish in all Michigan waters for contamination other than mercury.

"It is imperative that all involved in this situation — including government and industry — act in the public interest and maintain public confidence," the governor said.

Following up on his intent to investigate Michigan waters, the governor said Saturday that he would meet with Vice President Spiro Agnew in Washington this week to seek a federal investigation into mercury contamination of fish in Michigan and other states.

Detroit area fishermen Saturday reacted angrily to the ban, blaming Dow Chemical of Canada and the Wyandotte Chemical Co. for the mercury contamination.

Milliken said he had received an encouraging report from Wyandotte Chemical Co. informing him that it had arranged to reduce its mercury discharge by 90 per cent as of last Friday.

The Ontario government announced a similar ban on fishing in the Canadian side of the lake last Monday. Fishermen criticized the State of Michigan for not discovering the contamination earlier and for delaying action for five days after the Canadian ban.

Students call for right to participate

By LARRY LEE
State News Staff Writer

Nearly 300 young people filled the chambers of the House of Representatives Friday to urge the legislature to give them their rights.

Few dissenting voices were heard in the three and a half hour session in which 51 high school and college students from all over Michigan testified on a series of 12 bills that would give 18-year-olds much greater opportunities for political participation.

"Students should have the right to help determine policies," ASMSU Chairman Bill Rustem said in supporting a constitutional amendment that would allow students to sit on university governing boards.

"Students deserve (that) right." A Central Michigan University student, speaking on the same issue, said,

"Governing boards are not responsive to student needs."

"It is ironic that the sole authority to govern universities are political appointees that meet once a month on the campus."

He called for popularly elected members at all colleges, as is now the case at the "Big Three" (MSU, U-M and Wayne State).

Ed Cussy of U-M said the proposals don't go far enough, adding that they deal with a "high school type of discipline."

He suggested abolishing the Board of Regents and establishing a kind of municipal organization to govern universities.

A student from Western Michigan University said students should have one third of the seats on governing boards because students pay approximately one third of the cost of their education through tuition.

Rick Symington of Albion College cast one of the dissenting voices, calling some of the proposed bills "a bit idealistic at this time."

He supported the legislation lowering the voting age, minimum age for office-holding, allowing 18-year-olds to serve as jurors and political party delegates and students to vote at their college residence.

But he said matters that the other bills pertained to, such as student grievance boards and governing board membership, would be best handled at each institution.

Robert McCollough of Lansing Sexton High School was another dissenter, indicating opposition to the 18-year-old vote, per se.

"The voting age should be dropped to 18 only after we have eliminated apathy among older persons," he said. "We should make sure all the people vote."

Gary Fleming of Roseville High School, speaking in support of the lower voting age, said, "We are demanding that the legislature give us a response to the demands and responsibilities already placed upon us."

Neil Murphy of Macomb Community College said, "When our system will open up and allow the voice of non-violent students, it will be the first step in eliminating violence."

Several legislators remained at the capitol to hear the students voice their concerns, and statements were read from Gov. Milliken and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley while House Speaker William Ray and Majority Floor Leader George F. Montgomery, both Detroit Democrats, addressed the students personally.

The governor said he looked "forward to working to help young people attain their rights."

Apollo reaches halfway point

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 13 astronauts sped past the halfway point Sunday of their long voyage toward a dangerous moon landing, but officials on earth scrubbed a photography experiment because John L. Swigert Jr. lacked the training for it.

Astronauts James L. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and Swigert spent a quiet day heading toward the moon. But as they did, substitute crewman Swigert found he had two new problems: in the last minute rush to prepare for the voyage he left behind part of his flight plan and he did not file his 1969 income tax returns.

Neither matter was serious, however. Officials on earth revealed that the substitution of Swigert for Thomas Mattingly II forced cancellation of the gegenschein photography experiment, a complicated investigation of space light.

Swigert, who joined the crew after Mattingly was exposed to the measles, said he had forgotten a card listing activities he is to omit from those originally planned for the command ship's lunar orbits.

Space officials in Houston did not specify immediately what those omitted activities were or why they were omitted.

Swigert told mission control he probably left the list in the "suiting room," a part of the crew quarters astronauts use to dress for space.

A ground controller said the data would be read up to Swigert and the list's absence would cause no problem.

Apollo 13 flashed by the halfway point of its 246,000 mile journey to the moon at 5:33 p.m. EST. The spacecraft's speed is declining and will continue to slow until Tuesday morning when the moon's gravity gains control. Then Apollo 13 will accelerate.

Officials said Swigert's lack of familiarity caused abandonment of the photo experiment.

"Swigert really wasn't up to snuff on it," said an official. "It was low priority experiment anyway."

Capsule communicator Joseph Kerwin read some news to the astronauts and noted that many Americans were working on their income tax returns.

"Have you guys filed your income tax," Kerwin asked.

"Hey, listen," said Swigert, "that's not funny. Things kinda happened real fast down there and I do need an extension."

Laughter drifted down from space.

"I didn't get mine filed," went on Swigert. "I'm really serious."

"We'll see what we can do, Jack," said Kerwin still joking. "We'll see if we can get an agent out there in Pacific when you come back."

Panels of specialists to discuss nuclear war

By SHARMAN STEWART
State News Staff Writer

"The Future of a Warring World" will be the topic of MSU's annual Winds of Change Seminar Thursday through Saturday.

The seminar will give students an opportunity to come in close contact with experts in various fields of international relations, according to the seminar's sponsors, the Office of the Provost, ASMSU, Justin Morrill, Lyman Briggs, the Honors College and Delta Phi Epsilon, a foreign service fraternity.

Panels of specialists will discuss the possibilities of avoiding a nuclear war and problems of proliferation and br shfire wars in a nuclear age.

Freeman J. Dyson of Princeton University and Donald G. Brennan of Hudson Institute will deliver the keynote address, "Avoiding Nuclear War — Two Perspectives," at 8 p.m. Thursday in Erickson Kiva.

Dyson is a consultant to the U.S. government, weapons laboratories, NASA and the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. He was chairman of the Federation of American Scientists in 1962.

Brennan, a consultant to the State Dept. and Defense Dept., is also a mathematician and student of national security problems. He is editor of Arms Control and Disarmament Annual Review.

"Problems of Proliferation" will be discussed at 8 p.m. Friday by Richard Brody, Stanford University; Paul Smoker, Northwestern University; and George Quester, Harvard University.

Brody is co-author of "Simulation in International Relations" and has written articles for magazines such as the Journal of Conflict Resolution.

Smoker holds a Fellowship in Conflict Research, University of Lancaster, Lancaster, England, and contributes to the Journal of Peace Research.

Workshops will be conducted by MSU faculty at 1:30 p.m. April 18 in Erickson. "The Nuclear Arms Race," "The Literature of War," and "Biochemical Warfare in the Context of the Balance of Nature" will be among the topics discussed.

"Brushfire Wars in a Nuclear Age" will be discussed at 8 p.m. April 18 by Bernard Brodie of UCLA; Charles McClelland, University of Southern California, and Lincoln Bloomfield, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and consultant to the State Dept.

Montgomery said he was "pleased to support your efforts to restore first class citizenship to all student and young adults."

Kelley expressed his regret that present laws do not allow student participation on governing boards but predicted that young people are "going to have representation in running those institutions which affect their own lives."

He also attributed some of the violence on college campuses to a "feeling in the young that they have little or no voice in deciding how their lives will be channeled."

Rep. Jackie Vaughn, D-Detroit, chairman of the special committee holding hearings on the bills, praised the student for their participation.

Two more hearings are scheduled on the bills April 25 and May 9, both in Detroit.

Education process hindered: Mayhew

By JEFF SHELER
State News Staff Writer

Higher education in American is based on a "number of myths" that hinder educational processes, a Stanford professor said here Thursday.

Lewis B. Mayhew, professor of higher education at Stanford University, spoke on national trends in higher education at a University College open symposium.

One myth described by Mayhew is the belief that faculty involvement in independent research "is essential for institutional vitality and greatness."

"Here is not meant the scholarship which is properly the daily preparation for teaching," Mayhew said. "Rather the presumed quest for new knowledge as an essential role of the university."

"All that will happen will be reduction of teaching loads, with, of course, the attendant increase in cost and the conduct of some not particularly significant studies," he said.

Another myth, he said, is the "central activity" of universities in graduate education.

"The American Ph.D. is highly regarded — but this regard quite possibly is in spite of the quite casual way doctoral instruction is offered, rather than because of it," Mayhew said.

Curricula that "appeal to the logic of a professor" but that are "conducted without thought for appeal to the psychology of students" compose another myth, Mayhew said.

"The belief that the university is the only institution that can generate new knowledge is a myth that emphasizes the research function," he said.

Mayhew said in times of crisis these "myths must and will be exploded if perpetuating them jeopardizes institutional life."

He called for a reordering of priorities that would place more emphasis on the classroom, the curriculum and the "teaching function" of the university.

"Consider if you will what educational thinking and practice would be if all of these myths were shown to be just that — this would be the pattern of education toward which we are moving," he said.

Students stage Snyder sit in

There was no place to sit, so they sat on the floor. This was the beginning of a protest in Snyder Hall cafeteria Friday night. Nearly 40 students participated in the sit down protest, that began shortly after 5 p.m. Others dumped their trays of food in the center of the cafeteria floor in support of the protestors.

The students clapped, sang, chanted, and joked with one another during the hour long demonstration. No attempt was made by authorities to remove the students.

Henry Ranke, East Lansing senior, and production manager of the Snyder - Phillips cafeteria said that the students were protesting for more influence in residence hall policies.

"They just want a bigger say in what's being done," he said. "What they want is a chance to run the residence hall activities."

Ranke said that the damage done to the cafeteria was not extensive.

"The carpet is a mess, but most of the work to be done is in the dishroom," he said. Ranke estimated that at most, a dozen glasses had been broken. When students dumped their trays.

Dennis Secor, Cedar Springs senior and the food service supervisor for the cafeteria said that much of the damage could be repaired with little cost to the residence hall.

"The real trouble is with the salad oil stains in the carpeting, but that can be fixed with a little spot remover," he said. Student leaders of the protest would not comment.

'CHANNEL ONE'

Service aids buyer problems

Students with problems concerning businesses in the greater Lansing area may refer them to "Channel One", a consumer service handled by ASMSU Consumer Relations Bureau, and directed by Dale Clack, Oxford sophomore.

"Channel One" may be reached by calling 355-8302 between 3 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The service takes care of business-related items ranging from complaints with merchants to questions about where to find a commodity or service.

"Channel One" investigates and mediates student complaints, but does not give final decisions.

"We just try to get the students and merchants together," Clack said.

The service's sources for information and problem solving include the Attorney General's Protection Bureau and the East Lansing Chamber of Commerce.

Clack asked for volunteers to answer telephones, fill out forms and research and investigate grievances. Additional volunteers could extend "Channel One's" operations to 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday.

As Viet Cong attacks expand, anti - Vietnamese emotions run high among Cambodians.

As part of the anti - Vietnamese movement, the new Cambodian government sponsored an anti - Vietnamese rally Saturday that was broadcast nation - wide on radio and television.

North Vietnamese troops opened heavy attack Sunday on a second U.S. Special Forces camp used as a forward base for clandestine intelligence patrols inside Cambodia and Laos.

The assault occurred at the Dak Pek camp, five miles from the Laotian border and 17 miles north of the besieged Dak Seang Special Forces Camp. Dak Pek is the first camp to come under attack since the Communists launched their countrywide offensive April 1.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt returned from Washington Sunday pleased with President Nixon's endorsement of his eastern policy and armed with a pledge that NATO will remain strong.

Sunday was National Cosmonaut Day in the Soviet Union, but Russians found little to celebrate as Apollo streaked toward America's third moon landing.

"We are lagging far behind in the space race and we know it," one Muscovite said.

But official Soviet reports did not even acknowledge Apollo 13 as they hailed the ninth anniversary of Maj. Yuri Gagarin's flight.

According to U.S. State Dept., Cuba is circulating a revolutionist's handbook which lists kidnapping and other violent deeds as models for terrorists in cities.

The 41-page "Minimanual of the Urban Guerrilla" has been sent to Latin America and elsewhere. Its publishers claim it will "become one of the principal books ever read by every man, who as a consequence of the inevitable struggle against the bourgeoisie and imperialism, takes the path of armed rebellion."

National News

Teachers, students and parents in Los Angeles braced Sunday for the possibility today of the first teachers' strike in the second largest school system in the nation.

With no negotiating session planned and no money to meet the teachers' demands, everyone involved said there appeared no way to head off the strike.

A four - alarm fire Sunday damaged a building housing New York offices of lawyers who are defending 13 Black Panthers on a bomb - conspiracy charge.

Twenty - nine firemen were slightly injured in the fire which started in a bar and grill on the ground floor of the five - story building on Union Square, police reported.

The lawyers said all the defense material they had stored was stored in their offices, and that they had received threats.

"That's what aggressive advocacy gets you if you fight the side of the oppressed people in this country," one of the lawyers said.

DEPENDS ON PENTAGON

Budget surplus slender

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The anti - inflationary budget surplus which President Nixon called essential for this year and next are both fading.

The $1.5 billion surplus for this fiscal year, ending June 30, has dwindled to a bare balance. The administration now claims a $300 million margin.

That surplus could be wiped out if the Pentagon overshoots its budget by less than one half of 1 per cent. It could be doubled if income tax payments, now pouring in, are just that fraction higher than expected.

In perhaps even greater peril -- though the administration does not acknowledge it yet -- is the skinny $1.3 billion surplus for fiscal 1971, starting July 1.

The price of a postage stamp, in the latter case, can make the difference between Nixon's pay - as - you - go plan and a return to deficit financing.

Nixon has asked a 4 cent increase in the cost of the 6 cent first - class stamp. That would raise about $2.6 billion a year.

He asked also a speedup in estate and gift tax collections; from this a one - time windfall of $1.7 billion could be gleaned, if Congress agrees.

The "if" is crucial. There's general agreement on Capitol Hill that Congress won't approve a 10 cent stamp -- especially in an election year.

If Congress votes a 2 cent increase instead, the surplus vanishes. If it votes only 1 cent, red ink lies ahead.

Administration officials insist that Nixon's proposals are realistic. Privately many acknowledge strong doubts.

Some concede also that it may be inflation which finally bails out the budget and preserves a skimpy surplus -- the very inflation which the surplus was supposed to quash. Big wage settlements and price increases mean bigger tax revenues.

Cave menu satisfies its customers

The first restaurant in downtown East Lansing to obtain a liquor license reports its business has improved.

Cave of the Candles, 110 Abbott Road, received its license last Monday and started serving liquor on Tuesday.

"The license has helped business considerably," Robert Adler, manager, said. "Our menu is tuned to serving wine and liquor."

Adler said wine was popular with many customers. Cave of the Candles specializes in seafood.

The restaurant has a small cocktail area where liquor can be ordered without a dinner. Cave of the Candles offers a complete wine list, imported beer and liquor.

"You don't have to order a dinner to be served a cocktail," Adler said. "Anyone of age is welcomed."

Most of the restaurant's customers are adults who enjoy ordering wine or cocktails with their meals, Adler said.

Cave of the Candles applied for the license 14 months ago. The restaurant had to satisfy building code requirements, be approved by the City Council and meet other state qualifications, Adler said.

Cave of the Candles is opened from 11 a.m. to midnight every day except Monday.

Trucking firms lockout drivers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago area trucking industry continued its lockout of 35,000 drivers Sunday, on the eve of a threatened all - out strike by local Teamsters demanding a wage settlement higher than that in a proposed national contract.

The Teamsters had staged selective strikes, leading to the lockout Friday. But spokesmen for both of the city's trucking unions said they would strike Monday any company that does not agree to a wage boost of $1.65 an hour over three years. The national settlement calls for a $1.10 - an - hour increase.

The Chicago dispute could jeopardize the national pact since Teamsters elsewhere in the country who still must vote on the pact were showing reluctance to settle for anything less than the Chicago drivers.

Teamsters Local 200 at Milwaukee unanimously rejected the national pact Sunday.

Louis Fleck, executive secretary of the Chicago Teamsters Local 705, said Sunday more than 850 independent carriers have agreed to the $1.65 pay boost.

Contracts have been signed with major food chains, insuring normal deliveries to Chicago area supermarkets.

Student fee increases: tuition's double jeopardy

One of the requirements of the Higher Education Appropriations Act necessitates Michigan universities to certify their resident fees and tuition no later than April 15. It is this provision which is causing excessive confusion in regard to possible tuition increases beginning fall quarter.

A provision in section two of the appropriations bill stipulates that any total amount of "tuition or student fee rate increases applicable to Michigan resident students" which exceeds the total approximated by the legislature for "resident student fees" will be deducted from the "general fund subsidy appropriated for the support of that branch or institution of higher learning."

This stipulation may be applicable when MSU reports its resident tuition rates for the next academic year to the legislature. If, for instance, the University decides to raise in-state tuition by $1.50 per credit (from $13 to $14.50), then the total amount of these added revenues will be deducted from the appropriations to be authorized to MSU.

As the latter example makes apparent, the University is being faced with a paradoxical situation. If the Administration seeks to gain revenue — and it needs it badly — by increasing resident tuition, the Legislature will merely take the projected increased funds and reduce the general appropriations to MSU by that amount. The net gain: zero.

For a second alternative the Administration can suggest no increase of resident tuition and hence the Legislature will allow the present appropriations to remain. Unfortunately, the net gain in this instance for MSU is also zero.

Unless the Administration has some trick hidden up its sleeve, it seems possible that out-of-state tuition may be the useful vehicle — scapegoat — by which the University can gain needed finances. In addition, it seems probable that those who established the paradoxical provision had this very aim in mind — namely, to force the University into frequently raising out-of-state tuition while keeping resident tuition low to make MSU less desirable, at least financially, to out-of-state students.

Whether these are the only courses open to the University is moot. The fact remains that MSU must comply with an absurd legislative provision by April 15 which severely limits the financial options open to MSU.

The "damned if we do; damned if we don't" philosophy is abundantly appropriate in this situation; the inane responsibility for creation of this untenable contradiction rests fully on the shoulders of the Michigan Legislature.

More than lake crud in chemical confusion

The recent dumping of mercury in to Lake St. Clair and the discovery of cyanide in Lake Michigan has had more than ecological implications. In the confusion that followed the discovery of these two deadly chemicals in state waters, it was also found that Michigan is seriously lacking in ability to deal with environmental crises.

It took a full week for Gov. Milliken to follow Canada's lead in declaring a ban on fishing in Lake St. Clair. In the panic following the initial disclosure of mercury in Lake St. Clair fish, misinformation caused seafood sales in the Detroit area to drop to practically nil.

Actually the state never tested a single fish in Lake St. Clair. Apparently Michigan has no system of communicating with either federal or foreign officials.

As usual, the mercury and cyanide found their way into waterways via pure industrial negligence. The mercury content in Lake St. Clair took a dramatic leap because Dow Chemical Co. (remember them?) had a temporary waste treatment plant that managed to spring a leak. Ludington released into Lake Michigan cyanide which was previously released by the Straits Steel and Wire Co. (their tank also leaks) within a quarter mile of that city's water intake. Cyanide had been finding its way into Lake Michigan at fairly regular intervals, it was disclosed later.

Just as muddled are the state's procedures for dealing with the matter. To perform a good laboratory analysis with the equipment the state now possesses would take "40 hours", according to C. Colton Carr, chief of the Agriculture Dept.'s lab division. The reason is fairly obvious. Last year the Water Resources Commission asked the legislature for $15,000; they received $5,000.

It has been a long established fact that government gets involved in environmental problems only in times of crisis. As disheartening as this fact may be, it is truly sad when the state is unprepared to deal adequately with these crises.

We feel that two things can be done to ameliorate the present condition. We are again forced to urge the immediate passage of HB 3055. This bill would give an individual citizen the right to take industry to task for pollution in the name of the state, with the burden of proof lying upon the polluting agents.

Secondly, we urge that the state legislature look more sympathetically at environmental proposals. In order to act in times of crisis, the various state agencies whose business is pollution need the best equipment available.

To do less would subject Michigan to charges that for all the talk about environmental control, our state officials can see the imminent danger before us only when a crisis arises.

Confusion in electionland

If there is anyone around who really understands the preliminaries to the ASMSU elections, he is keeping himself well hidden. Not even those who know most of the facts (or perhaps especially those who know most of the facts) are sure of what is happening.

But draw your own conclusions. Here are the facts. If there is order present, it is purely accidental.

The chaos begins with a curious mixture of foresight and neglect by the Student Board. When the newly revised constitution provided for six off-campus representatives to be elected at large, the possibility of candidates forming slates and campaigning as a group became very real. So when Student Board approved this year's election procedures, it provided for slate campaigning.

There was, however, no mention of putting slate designations on the ballots. When in the course of confusion five off-campus students formed a slate, they registered the slate with cabinet president/elections commissioner Bob Grossfeld. They asked if they could be designated as a slate on the ballot.

Grossfeld was receptive to the idea, and told them they could be so designated if they would write an amendment to the election procedures which would permit it. Then he waited for them to write it.

He went on waiting. Nothing.

On March 10, with election time coming

When (cabinet president Bob) Grossfeld went to court Thursday, he had consequences on his mind. Maybe this explains why he walked up to a secretary, waved the letter in her face, and confessed, "I want to turn myself in."

closer and closer, Grossfeld ruled that slate designation would not be allowed on the ballots, because the situation was not mentioned in the election procedures. The slate members appealed the decision to the elections commission.

The elections commission met April Fool's Day and referred the matter to All-University Student Judiciary (AUSJ). All commission members would have been open to conflict of interest charges if they had ruled on the matter: Grossfeld would have been voting on his own previous decision; ASMSU chairman Bill Rustem is a political figure, conceivably (though not probably) interested in influencing the next board's composition; and AUSJ chief justice Fred Ballinsky would be involved in any appeal of the commission's decision.

Because of this conflict of interest, the elections commission has been eliminated. Appeals now go directly to AUSJ.

AUSJ upheld Grossfeld's decision April 7. The vote was close: four favored no slate designation on ballots, three supported slate designation, and one abstained.

But decisions have a way of not being final. The slate members are appealing to Student Faculty Judiciary.

"An appeal was filed before 3 p.m. last Friday. If we're lucky, we'll get a decision the night campaigning closes (April 14)," slate member Rick Kibbey said Sunday.

"We don't know what's coming off," he admitted.

Nobody else is sure either.

Despite the complications, elections will probably be held on schedule April 15. This time is required by the constitution, and will not be affected by appeal proceedings unless an injunction is issued, Grossfeld said Sunday.

In any event, an injunction would halt only the off-campus election.

Slates are only causing the major complication, however. Minor mix-ups are also abundant.

Take, for example, Grossfeld's confrontation with East Lansing's courts. The middle of last week, Grossfeld's sister forwarded a letter which said a warrant had been issued for his arrest on parking violations. He had two days to show up in court and pay his fines before, as Grossfeld lamented, "a big, burly cop drags me off to the dungeon."

(Grossfeld had not received previous warnings because his mother had not forwarded his mail.)

Grossfeld thought he was facing a heavy traffic fine or time in jail. With a sagging bank balance — and unable to use funds from the Legal Aid Dept. because as cabinet president he must approve all legal loans — Grossfeld would have had no choice but to spend time in jail.

If he had been jailed, election time would have had to wait for him. The elections commissioner is required to supervise and certify the elections; Grossfeld could not do this from a jail cell. Nor could a new elections commissioner be appointed; appointment is the cabinet president's duty.

So when Grossfeld went to court Thursday, he had consequences on his mind. Maybe this explains why he walked up to a secretary, waved the letter in her face, and confessed, "I want to turn myself in."

She was a little confused. "You want to turn yourself in?"

"Yeah, sure. Read the letter. I'm under arrest." He held out his wrists for handcuffing.

Fifteen minutes later, he made out a check for $13.70 and was set free. His first stop was the bank, just to be sure the check wouldn't bounce.

That's not all, either. Expecting the Student Board to approve a new tax referendum, Grossfeld placed the issue on the printing proofs for the election ballots. The ballots have to be printed far in advance, you see, and there was no time to wait for the board to act.

Luckily, the ballots were not printed. Luckily, because Student Board voted April 7 not to place any tax proposals on the ballot. It was a relatively simple matter to delete the issue from the printed proofs, much simpler than marking it off several thousand printed ballots.

The list of troubles could go on: motion to include on the ballot a constitutional referendum to restore voting privileges to major governing groups referred to committee April 7; if it passed, Grossfeld says he would have gone crazy with the printing problems.

Only one thing is really certain: much are elections plans.

And mimsy were the boggroves.

ASMSU candidates

Ted McClendon

Ted McClendon, Mt. Clemens junior, is a candidate for the Snyder - Phillips district ASMSU representative.

One of his major interests is the development of an ASMSU co-op which could, among other things, formulate a non-profit student bookstore. He said he also believes a complex committee to run a book exchange system might be feasible.

He said the exchange system has been tried successfully in other universities and students could save as much as $16 per term on scholastic supplies.

McClendon is an avid proponent of dormitory autonomy.

He said that with greater dorm autonomy, the student's needs could be more easily met.

McClendon said a well-structured student government must emphasize the local decentralized level, while attempting to view the larger picture of the megaversity.

He noted that the centralized student government is necessary to meet the needs of a megaversity, while some local autonomy is also required to serve the needs of the individual student.

He said he feels there is a point at which both areas of government converge and elected he will work toward a successful merger of the two.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In accordance with ASMSU Spring Election Rule III, E the State News has published all pictures and platforms of candidates it has received. More appear on page 5.

Randolph Bodwin

Randolph Bodwin, East Lansing sophomore, is a candidate for the off-campus representative to ASMSU.

Bodwin said that ASMSU has been irrelevant during the past and hopes to change this through a greater involvement in social problems.

He said that rather than endorsing the anti-war activities, ASMSU should sponsor them, while at the same time working with other anti-war groups.

ASMSU should make use of political pressure to abolish the draft, sponsor resistance rallies and better inform students about alternatives to the draft.

Bodwin also said the ASMSU should take steps immediately to end the problem of pollution on campus by attempting to clean up the Red Cedar River. He said they should insist on anti-pollution devices being placed on all University vehicles as soon as possible.

Bodwin said married students have been ignored and that more attention should be given to their problems.

Students living off-campus in apartment complexes are another largely ignored group. He feels that tenant unions, similar to the one formed at U-M should be started to deal with soaring rents.

Another matter that directly concerns Bodwin is the All-Events Bldg. While he feels it might be desirable to have such a building, he said that there are other priorities which deserve first attention. Rather than spending money for the All-Events structure, he proposes that the funds be spent on the black studies program, the volunteer bureau and Old Health Center.

Bodwin also advocates the establishment of a birth control and abortion agency to serve as an information and action agency.

Donald Moore

Donald Moore, Detroit sophomore, is a candidate for the ASMSU office in the Akers - Fee district.

Moore said as a district representative, he would be directly accountable to his constituents and make himself available to them at every opportunity.

He said the major issue facing ASMSU at the moment is the tax revision proposal. He favors elimination of the mandatory dorm dues which are paid at residence halls at the time of checking in, and would prefer the student to pay an $8 all-University fee at the time of registration.

He noted that if the proposal were passed, the increase in fees to 50 cents, individual student would be only 50 cents, but since the distribution would be handled differently, ASMSU would receive a substantial increase in funds.

As a result of the increase in funds, he said, ASMSU would then be able to establish a co-op to buy and sell books.

The co-ops, he continued, would sell the books at 85 per cent of the retail price and allow students to sell back used books at 60 per cent of the retail price, allowing a substantial increase in savings.

OUR READERS' MIND

Comp fees should stay

To the Editor:
I am writing this letter in rebuttal to those who feel the fees charged for comprehensive exams should be lowered. The argument that they are being penalized for being smart by being forced to pay the per credit fee when a course is comped is amazingly naive. Even the thought that it would be more fair to charge a fee of $1-$5 is the type of self-seeking view becoming more common in middle and upper class American society.

Gays tired of discrimination

To the Editor:
Like most gay men and women, I do NOT like, prefer, or desire a love or sex partner of the opposite sex. Beyond that qualification, I am bisexual. This is one of several points not made clear by the SN articles on homosexuality. There are gay individuals in every walk of university life, in large numbers. Most of our good friends are acquainted with the unpublicized aspect of our lives, and do not care; we do not talk about sex all of the time. We are generally well adjusted, as confirmed by our clinical psychologists; most of us have had some counseling during our lifetime to help us to understand and adjust to ourselves and society. It is generally our belief that a competent psychologist or psychiatrist will understand and homosexuality, seek to help his clients to adjust to themselves, and not attempt to convert these clients to a heterosexual life which is uncomfortable, foreign, uncreative, unfulfilling, and existentially impossible for them. There is a group of gay professionals on this campus and around the nation who are currently involved in a comprehensive study of sexuality. We seek to provide at last a set of unbiased, accurate, factual statistics and information on all types of sexuality. A preliminary investigation shows that "normality" is the exception in our culture, far less common than the public will admit.

Various other points: There is a great difference between gay men and gay women. Gay persons are not interested in becoming sexually involved with heterosexuals. And gay women are, like straight women, tired of being molested or used as sex objects by every hung-up male who thinks he's "got something for you." And all of us are tired of being discriminated against, by the State News, by the residence halls staffs, by dormitory residents, other individuals, and "the literature" which publishes rumor and myth rather than statistic and fact.

No place for censorship

To the Editor:
The Executive Board of the Lansing Branch of the American Civil Liberties Union of Michigan fully endorses and supports the constructive proposals made by the MSU Chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) with respect to the showing of the film "Africa Addio." Unquestionably, censorship has no place in a society that aspires to freedom — and least of all in an academic institution devoted to the unfettered exploration of ideas. We believe, as the AAUP does, that an agreement should be achieved among all interested groups to have the film shown and to guarantee ample opportunity for discussion of its content.

In the hope that such a cooperative solution of the problem could be achieved, we wrote to the President of the University one month ago, offering any assistance that might be helpful in resolving the issues raised by this and similar incidents. Our offer stands.

District candidates seek to revamp ASMSU

Off campus

Slate

Five students are running for Off-Campus ASMSU representatives as a slate, believing they can effectively work together.

Nancy Hack, Mount Kisco, N.Y., junior; Marvin Vinson, Detroit sophomore; Rick East, Lansing junior; Lon Resnick, Oklahoma City, Okla., junior; and Mark Austin, an Army veteran, said they would not have petitioned for ASMSU representative on an individual basis.

According to the group, they intend not to be bureaucrats, but a working body of different interests. As a slate, the group claims they have guaranteed broad representation. As a unit, they hope to benefit from each others' experience in a variety of fields.

Gary Klinsky

Gary Klinsky, Southfield junior, an ASMSU general member at large, is a candidate for off-campus ASMSU representative.

Klinsky considers that off-campus ASMSU priorities include a co-op, owned and staffed by students, representation of married students on ASMSU, and investigation of the "exorbitant" deposits students are charged for utilities.

A lease evaluation service should be added to the cabinet to insure off-campus residents they are signing a legal and fair contract, Klinsky said. ASMSU should serve as a lobby for students concerns in off campus issues such as city income tax. A student representative to the Academic Council, Klinsky feels the final McKee Report must include minority student representation on all faculty committees. ASMSU must insure the student's rights concerning the teaching regulations as guaranteed in the Faculty Code on Teaching Responsibility.

Klinsky said he is presently working on a proposal for an MSU shuttle bus which would run along Grand River and charge 10 cents a ride.

He supports the Legal Aid Fund, which grants bail and legal counsel to students and doesn't feel ASMSU should request a tax increase until they have established student priorities about where the money should be used.

Klinsky is also in favor of investigating the feasibility of creating a student parking ramp.

David McCrae

Dave McCrae, Bayamon, Puerto Rico sophomore, is running for ASMSU off-campus representative. McCrae believes that ASMSU has no administrative power within the University, stating that its power comes basically through its money.

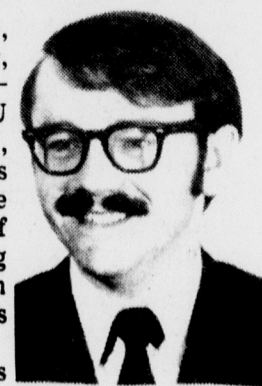

McCrae said that presently the most effective and beneficial uses for ASMSU's money would be to 1) guarantee small student loans ($15) throughout the whole term, 2) establish a bail fund and guarantee up to $500 for the bonding of any student arrested on any charge and 3) publish a blacklist of unsatisfactory landlords.

McCrae supports the tax proposal of Rodney Watts. If ASMSU gets more money, McCrae would like to see a student co-op for books, clothes, food, etc. He realizes, however, that this is a two or three year project involving a lot of money.

McCrae would like to see ASMSU get some administrative power. He feels that students should be able to vote with the department on the hiring and firing of professors. This, he said, stems from the fact that a professor teaches students and they are the best judges of his efficiency.

Roger Morey

Roger L. Morey, Lansing junior, candidate for Off-Campus ASMSU representative, includes in his platform the problem of unauthorized towing of parked cars from such places as apartment lots. Morey contends that the proposed ASMSU tax is too high. He stated that the tax should be voted on by general election, and if approved the students should determine how it is spent.

Off-campus liquor consumption and storage rules are too strict, according to Morey. He suggests having liquor in fraternities and co-ops.

Morey also proposes that all rules determining who may or may not live off-campus be abolished.

John Schalter

John J. Schalter, Roseville freshman, is running for the off-campus ASMSU membership. Though Schalter is a freshman, he said he does not feel that he leaves him unaware of the current student injustices inherent in University policy. Schalter said he believes that through the support of the recent McKee Report and ASMSU, the students and their representatives can change and update the policies.

He said changes in current dormitory policies for freshmen and sophomores are necessary.

Schalter noted that the University College requirement system is one of the areas in which change is needed.

Another prime objective of ASMSU should be pop entertainment and free speakers, he said.

Schalter is presently a member of the Evans Scholarship Fraternity and is on scholarship from the Western Golf Assn.

He was also a member of MSU's freshman football team.

Wonders-Case

David Balthuis

David L. Balthuis, Orchard Lake freshman, is a candidate for the district of Wonders-Case of the ASMSU board. Balthuis said that there are several key issues with which the student government needs to concern itself, such as the current price of books.

Since this affects a large number of students, Balthuis said he believes that the MSU Bookstore should lower its prices to a level so that all students can afford to buy the necessary textbooks.

He said if it is economically feasible he would like to see a co-op bookstore established at MSU to offer books at the lowest possible price.

He said he believes that before students are taxed for more money for ASMSU operations, a list of student priorities should be drawn up and shown to the students showing how their tax money is spent.

Balthuis said that the student government should concern itself with helping minority groups within the University to make the campus a better place to attend school and live.

He said that in the past, students have been dissatisfied with the representation in ASMSU and have felt that their ideas were not adequately presented. If elected, he said that he would make himself available to his constituents to represent their ideas and views more effectively.

Paul Korda

Paul Korda, Detroit junior and a candidate for Case-Wonders ASMSU representative, said he has an interesting platform. Korda is concerned with improving our environment and bringing about constructive change.

"An end to nonsensical segregation by sex." "A house of people not of men," is Korda's position on coed floors.

Korda believes in relinquishing the R.A.'s of any responsibility for the enforcement of liquor and drug laws. He said "remove the fear, distrust, and tension that a policeman on the floor creates."

Korda emphasizes the need for student participation in determining budget priorities for dorm improvements. Korda contends that students are the best judges of what services and facilities students need, promising no more tokenism by questionnaires but a real voice in where the money goes.

Decentralization of ASMSU services is another element implicit in Korda's platform. He advocates moving the offices of the representatives and of student defenders out of the Student Services Bldg. and into the districts which they represent.

Barney Young

Barney Young, a Detroit sophomore, is running for the office of ASMSU representative for the Case-Wonders district.

If elected, Young plans to make the student government more relevant and accountable to the individual student.

He said if he were elected one of his first moves would be to inaugurate an advisory council and set up an office located in his district to elicit the views and ideas of his constituents.

The current University College requirements will be one of his prime objectives he said. Young wants to eliminate them, but if this is not possible, he would like to have the requirements restructured for individual student interests.

Another area which needs to be examined, he said, is the bookstore policies. Young said the student must be involved in student book exchanges.

He said the exchanges which have been in operation are successful to date. If they were conducted on a campus wide structure with ASMSU as a major proponent the exchanges would be a valuable tool for use in the bookstore price issue.

He also said regular meetings would be held with the people in his district.

McDonel-Shaw

Bruce Caswell

One Shaw-McDonel district candidate for the ASMSU board divides his platform into six parts.

First, Bruce E. Caswell, North Adams junior, states that anyone participating in and later convicted of destruction of property should be expelled from the university.

Second, he would work to have elections held winter term to allow short-course students a chance to vote. If this is not done, he suggests absentee ballots be provided for these students' use.

Next Caswell wants polluters of the Red Cedar served with injunctions forcing them to stop.

No concessions should be made by the university to any group while that group threatens disruptive tactics to achieve their goals, Caswell suggests.

Caswell also suggests that all draft deferments be ended, except mental, conscientious objector and physical deferments, to insure that all young men are treated equally under the draft system.

Last, Caswell states that when a student waives a class and scores high enough on the waiver exam, he is entitled to take the final exam and get credit for the course without paying the usual $13 or $31 credit charge. This fee system, he says, should be ended and replaced with a minimal service charge.

Hubbard-Holmes

John Farley

Candidate for the Hubbard-Holmes ASMSU district representative, John Farley, Waterloo, Iowa junior, states that much of student government's activities have been directed toward the goal of having non-academic regulations on student life made by students. He insists student government must expand its role and become more active in many other areas of student concern. These are his proposals:

— Creation of a student-owned co-op store to provide students maximum savings. A referendum on a tax to finance this should be held. The store would first sell books and later records, groceries, clothes and other items. In connection with this the student government should be made into a legal non-profit corporation.

— Decentralization and publication of ASMSU services, such as student loans, legal aid and draft counseling to make them more available to students.

— A legislative action program should be created to represent student concerns to the state legislature. The possibility of cooperation with other state universities in this venture should be examined and pursued.

— A statewide student speaker bureau should be created to help give students the opportunity to express their concerns to interested groups and organizations throughout the state.

— Improved campus bus service through the sale of advertising which would permit better bus service and/or lower bus pass prices.

— Student representatives should be present at all Board of Trustees meetings even if state law prevents students' formal participation.

— ASMSU should work closely with groups which are working to attain co-ed floors in residence halls.

— Cooperation with the Center for Urban Affairs to help meet the needs and concerns of minority students.

Fred Jay Friedman

Fred Jay Friedman, Queens Village, N.Y. sophomore, is running for Hubbard-Holmes ASMSU representative on a statement of policy.

Friedman explained that he refuses to run on a platform since platforms imply inflexibility when elected, without concern for possible sentiment and situation changes.

Friedman's policy statement explained that governments should unite the governed into a potent political force, and thereby institute change.

Friedman further suggested that ASMSU expand its draft counseling facilities and publicize its availability, and also organize a collegiate union to work together on points of national interest.

Concerning University regulations, Friedman favored adoption and expansion of coed dormitories and the elimination of University limitations on off-campus living.

Friedman also proposed the incorporation of a student-owned cooperative business, with profits either returning to the students or to the business for improvement.

He suggested that studies should be made on the possibility of improving bus service by lessening the crowds through the addition of buses or the rescheduling of trips during rush hours.

He objected to the present ASMSU proposal to limit dormitory dues to $8 and the MSU Bookstore's "finals week only" buy-back policy.

West Circle

Helene Waldrop

Personalized student government is the key platform point of West Circle candidate Helene Waldrop, Detroit junior.

Miss Waldrop explained that student government is an effective channel of communication and must become relevant to the student body. She added that in the past West Circle Complex has been misrepresented and often not represented at all. "Convent Corner" is a myth," Miss Waldrop's platform said. "ASMSU is changing its structure to survive and function."

She added that the biggest problem facing the Circle is an antiquated dormitory judicial system.

"The full benefit of the open house policy and the proposed WIC guest policy now in the Student Advisory Council are being intimidated by a few who violate social policies and are fully aware of the fact that their dorm judiciary can do little, if anything, to prevent and or punish their violations," her platform explained.

Penny Zielinski

Penny Zielinski, Detroit sophomore, is running for West Circle ASMSU representative, is majoring in Social Science and Elementary Education.

Miss Zielinski says that West Circle is in need of a complex based unit of government which could alleviate the communication break-down between the residents and the representative, i.e. Judiciary System, Human Relations Committee, Residents-Manager Liaison Committee.

Miss Zielinski wants the establishment of a complex dialog series that would bring speakers to discuss current issues.

She would like to see a more flexible program initiated for undergraduates. She is currently working on this problem in the Educational Policies Committee and General Education Sub-Committee.

Miss Zielinski was actively involved as a speaker for the McKee report. She sees a need for minority group representation on the University level.

Miss Zielinski serves on the Educational Committee, the General Education Sub-committee, Admissions Sub-Committee, and the Olin Health Center Advisory Board as a undergraduate representative.

She is currently Yakeley's House President.

Brody

Don Behringer

Dan Behringer, Wheeler junior, is a candidate from the Brody district for the ASMSU elections.

Behringer said that the social policies are important in University functioning. He said he believes that the liquor policy should be made consistent with Michigan laws.

He also advocates abolishment of the regulation stating that a student must live on campus during a portion of his enrollment at MSU.

Behringer said that the services provided by ASMSU should be expanded to meet the growing student needs, with additional services added as the need arises.

He noted that within the Brody complex, the necessity exists for a larger library and grill as suggested by the CUE report.

He also noted that after an explanation to the student body, the tax should be increased to $1 per term.

Behringer is a three-year resident of the Brody Complex. He has served on the Armstrong Hall Scholastic-Cultural Committee and the Armstrong Senate.

He has served on several committees, including the All-University Book Exchange Committee, MHA Social Awareness Committee on Racism and the ASMSU Course Evaluation Committee. He is currently the Chairman of the Brody Complex Council.

Rodney Gillum

Rodney D. Gillum, Detroit sophomore, is a candidate for Brody Complex ASMSU representative.

Gillum is currently president of the Black Armstrong Caucus and parliamentarian for Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. Gillum has also served on the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Planning Committee. He is a pre-law major.

Gillum's platform is based on student activism, centering around a greater effort for communication.

Gillum says he believes the Advisory Committee should be reorganized. He said he feels the Advisory Committee should be comprised of representatives from each dorm in every complex. He also said the committee should rotate their meetings throughout every complex.

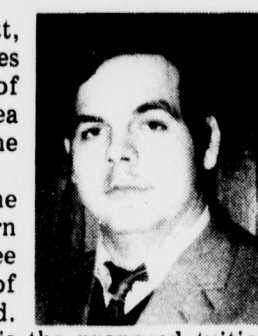

Gillum said the student referendum is important and believes that students' opinions should be taken into consideration by their representatives.

Students should be involved actively in ASMSU committees such as the Pop Entertainment or Great Issues committees, Gillum said.

Akers-Fee

Wolfgang Puett

Wolfgang H. Puett, St. Clair Shores sophomore, is one of the Akers-Fee area candidates for the ASMSU board.

Puett said that he plans to concern himself with three major areas of interest if elected. One of the areas is the proposed tuition increase.

Puett believes that the present rate of $31 per credit hour for out-of-state students is unfair. However, he does not feel that the extra burden should be placed on the in-state student attending MSU either. Rather, Puett said he believes that the rates should be lowered and the University should obtain additional funds from other sources.

Another area of interest to his district is the proposed East Complex Intramural Bldg. Due to the large number of students living in the East Complex Puett said he believes that not only would the building be more convenient for the students, but much of the current congestion around the Men's Intramural Building would be relieved.

Puett said that parking facilities should be increased to accommodate the increased number of students with cars.

Puett has been active in student government since his enrollment. He is currently the treasurer of Akers Hall and is an auditor for the Radio Board, which oversees the operations of the all-campus radio station.

Holden-Wilson

Robert Rosenthal

Robert Rosenthal, Miami, Fla. freshman who is running for district representative from Holden-Wilson, believes students, not professors, should decide what the content of their courses should be.

This is what the McKee Report had provided a solution to, Rosenthal said. He feels that very few people have ever heard of this report.

The McKee Report was designed to deal with student participation in Academic Government and is for the student, however, it has not reached the student.

Rosenthal states that he went to the Student Services Bldg. to obtain a copy of the McKee Report and was told by one of the secretaries there that it was obsolete.

Rosenthal said that MSU has a good base for student participation in its student organizations such as MHA, WIC and ASMSU. He says that these organizations need revamping in order to function effectively in getting information to the students.

Rosenthal said he feels that the students should be placed on the faculty committees that make the decisions on course content along with the faculty members.

He said that he does not pretend to have the entire answers to getting student involvement rolling, but promises it will start where it belongs, with each individual.

David Whipple

David Whipple, Grosse Pointe freshman, candidate for ASMSU from Holden-Wilson said he has a well-rounded platform. Whipple said he believes ASMSU should publish in the State News every term a report which tells exactly where the money is being spent and who has been given space in the Student Services Bldg. Whipple feels that ASMSU should continue to involve itself in the social issues of the day.

Whipple thinks that the Board meeting should be moved from dorm to dorm instead of remaining in the Student Services Bldg. Whipple reasons that through this action more students will become interested in ASMSU.

Whipple states that if he is elected he will try to be responsive to every students' needs and desires.

"I plan to give feedback on what I'm doing in the form of two or more ditto reports a term. If elected, Whipple said he plans to have gripe sessions every two weeks so that if a student wants something done he can try and help him with it.

EDITOR'S NOTE: ASMSU Spring Election Rule III E states, "Candidates are expected to submit a platform and picture to the Michigan State News for publication . . . on or before April 7, 1970." The State News has published all pictures and platforms it received. More appear on page 4.

Spartan batsmen sweep Ball State, 9-1, 7-5

By GARY WALKOWICZ
Executive Sports Editor

MSU continued its strong hitting as it swept a doubleheader from Ball State Saturday at Muncie, Ind. Home runs by John Dace, Rich Vary and Phil Rashead and the three-hit pitching of Phil Fulton gave the Spartans a 9-1 win in the opener, while a three-run eighth inning rally powered MSU to a 7-5 victory in the nightcap.

The two victories were the first since MSU returned from its Florida trip and upped the Spartans' record to 12-2-2.

Coach Danny Litwhiler's crew got Fulton all the runs he needed in the opening inning. Lead-off singles by Gary Boyce and Dace, three stolen bases, an error and Vary's sacrifice fly gave MSU two runs. Fulton held Ball State hitless until the seventh and final inning. A lead-off double by Dennis Barry spoiled Fulton's no-hit bid and a subsequent single by Rick Klemczewski ruined Fulton's shutout. The Spartan right-hander gave up another base hit before retiring the side. Fulton finished the game with two walks and eight strikeouts. MSU added to their lead in the third when Ron Pruitt singled, stole second and rode home on Vary's single.

Vary, who finished the game with three hits and four RBI's, figured in the Spartan's final two scoring strikes. He singled with one out in the seventh and came home on Rashead's home run, a blast over the rightfield fence that came on a partially checked swing.

In the seventh Boyce singled and scored in front of Dace as the Spartan sophomore ripped a shot over the rightfield fence. One out later, Pruitt singled and Vary capped a perfect game at the plate with a two-run homer.

In the second game, MSU and Ball State were tied at 4-4 after seven innings, the regulation length for a doubleheader game, before the Spartans erupted for three runs after two outs to take a 7-4 lead.

Ball State rallied for a run in the last of the eighth and had the bases loaded before Bob Clancy got a Ball State hitter on strikes to end the game.

Vary started the two-out Spartan rally by taking four straight balls from Ball State starter Mike Hoffman and then stealing second base. Rashead beat out a grounder to third and George Petroff slapped a single to right, driving in Vary and taking second on the throw.

Whitey Rettenmund then singled to center, pushing home the winning runs.

Spartan starter Rich Kreuger gave up back-to-back singles in the last of the eighth before getting shortstop Steve Lane on a foul pop up. But leftfielder

John Cote singled to center, driving home a run. Right-center Kirk Mass replaced Kreuger and got Klemczewski to pop to second. Clancy then took over the pitching chores. He walked Jim Novar to load the bases but fanned Bill Campbell on a 2-2 pitch to end the contest.

LACK CONDITIONING

Trackmen 2nd at Purdue

By DON KOPRIVA
State News Sports Writer

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Lack of conditioning doomed MSU's track team to a second place finish behind Purdue here Saturday in the Spartans' outdoor opener with the Boilermakers and Bradley.

The Spartans, who do not make a spring trip and were unable to work out on the track most of the last two weeks because of snow, still took Purdue to the mile relay before falling in that event. Purdue totaled 86, MSU 84, and Bradley 21.

Top performers in the meet were MSU's Herb Washington and Ken Leonowicz. Washington, running into a 10 mph headwind, won the 100 easily in 9.7 and grabbed 220 honors in 21.6. Leonowicz dominated the distances, winning the steeplechase in 9:22.7 and the three mile in 14:23.8.

"I think we gave as good a performance as we were ready for right now," MSU Coach Fran Dittrich said.

Though MSU lost the mile relay, the 440-yard relay posted one of the fastest opening-meet times ever for an MSU quartet, 41.5. Running for MSU were LaRue Butcher, who also placed second in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes, along with Al Henderson and Mike Holt.

Other first places included John Morrison (high hurdles), Lloyd Bridges (long jump), Bill Wehrwein (triple jump) and Bob Karr (pole vault). Ralph Zoppa (3 mile), Paul Cooke (660), Henderson (440), John Mock (880) and Sig Lillevik (pole vault) accounted for MSU second places.

Men's IM news

All IM softball teams must phone the IM office for their first week's schedule. Term schedules will be ready for pick up after 4 p.m. Thursday.

All residence hall volleyball teams (house or floor) will play a double elimination tournament within their hall. Play begins today and Wednesday.

Tigers 7-2 win hands

Baltimore first loss

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Joe Niekro allowed six hits in 8 2/3 innings and hit a two-run triple during a five-run fourth inning outburst Sunday to score his second straight American League victory as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 7-2.

It was the Orioles' first loss of the season after five straight wins.

Niekro, who was obtained in a December trade with the San Diego Padres, was backed by a 13 hit attack and retired 12 straight Orioles after giving up a first-inning bunt single to Mark Belanger.

Niekro highlighted a five-run Tiger fourth inning with a two-run triple off reliever Dave Leonhard. Detroit chased starter (continued on page 7)

'S' netters split OSU, IU meets

MSU's young tennis team launched its Big Ten campaign on an up note Friday with an impressive win over Ohio State, but they could not get as high as Indiana was on Saturday, and fell to the Hoosiers by a 6-3 count.

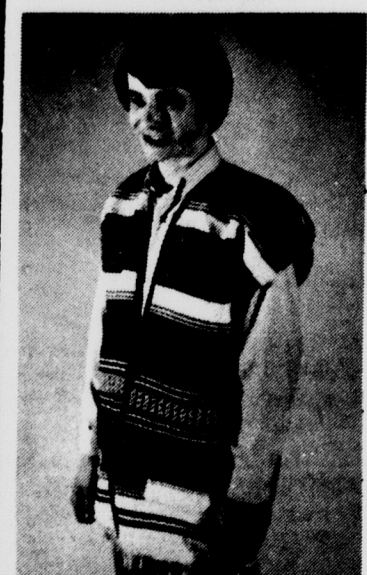

A 9-0 victory over the Buckeyes and the loss to Indiana left the Spartans with a 1-1 record to show for their first weekend of conference play. They also gained 12 important match points which count towards the final standings.

Indiana used four singles and two doubles victories for their win over MSU. Spartan victories were by Tom Gray at the top doubles slot.

"Indiana appeared to be quite high for the meet," Spartan Coach Stan Drobac said. "They had been beaten by Michigan Friday, and they definitely did not want to lose two in a row."

Drobac was impressed especially with Gray and Madura, the only Spartans to win twice. Gray had little trouble with the Buckeye's Brent Chapman, winning 6-3, 6-2. The Hoosier's Jeff Hodsdon also fell to Gray 7-5, 6-8, 6-1. Madura, playing at the no. 5 spot, defeated Ohio State's Jim Friedman 6-2, 6-3 and Indiana's Tom Dunker 6-4, 9-7. MSU's combination of Gray and Rhoads at the doubles was the only twosome to win twice.

Coming Up! 2000 A.D.

An Engineer who starts with RCA in 1970 will be part of an amazing future.

If you measure achievement in technological discovery, no industry can surpass either the past record or future potential of electronics.

And, if you're part of a company that is as diverse in all areas of technology as RCA, you are in for an exhilarating ride to the top of your profession.

We develop new technologies using the total systems concept.

For instance: large time-sharing computers; satellite systems such as TIROS; solar power; printing production; superconductivity; new materials; new sources of energy; broad band communications systems; liquid crystals. But these are just a few of the areas that concern our engineers and scientists today. Tomorrow is coming up awfully fast.

The problems we will be faced with during the next 30 years, and how well we solve them, will determine the future well-being of all mankind.

You can start your engineering career in one of our Rotational Programs to give you a wide over-view of our activities, or, if you prefer, direct assignment to one of our numerous technical areas.

Whatever course you choose, you will find yourself working with a unique group of human beings, who are deeply involved with the future.

Electronic and mechanical engineers, we would like to talk to you. Take the first step—get in touch with your College Placement Director, or write directly to RCA College Relations, Dept. F, Cherry Hill, Camden, New Jersey 08101...

We not only believe in equal opportunity employment—we practice it.

4TH STRAIGHT 4-2 GAME

Hawks sweep Cup series over Wings

DETROIT (UPI) — Slick Stan Mikita scored once and assisted on two other goals Sunday to enable the Chicago Black Hawks to sweep their Stanley Cup quarter final series from the Detroit Red Wings in the minimum four games — all by identical 4-2 scores.

Mikita, whose power play goal snapped a 2-2 tie and enabled the favored Hawks to wrap up the second game, scored his third of the four game set at 12:14 of the opening period to give Chicago a 2-1 lead it never relinquished.

Bobby Hull had picked off a bad deflection by starting Detroit goalie Roger Crozier and whipped it over to his linemate in front of the net for the score.

The high-scoring Black Hawks' center set up the game clincher by Chico Maki at 11:26 of the final period. Mikita rang a shot off the right post four seconds after a penalty to the Red Wings' Ron Harris had expired and Maki was there to tap in his second marker of the four games.

Tony Esposito was his usual unflappable self in the Chicago nets, turning back 31 shots as once again Detroit outshot Chicago, this time by a 31-30 margin.

Nick Libett had brought Detroit within a goal, 3-2, at 14:16 of the middle session with his second goal of the playoffs. The power play marker came after Esposito had thwarted shots by Wayne Connelly and a rebound attempt by Garry Unger. Libett was at the side of the crease for the easy goal.

Sid Abel, General Manager and acting coach of the Red Wings, chose this moment to jerk Crozier and replace him with Roy Edwards, who had been brilliant for the first three games, even in defeat.

Chicago now awaits the outcome of the quarter final playoff between the Boston Bruins and New York Rangers for its semifinal opponent.

Jim Pappin got Chicago in front at 4:32 of the game when he deflected a shot in from the side with Crozier flat on the ice. It was his second goal of the series. Mikita drew an assist on the play.

Venerable Gordie Howe equalized the game for Detroit at 4:59 later with a power play marker, his second of the series and 67th in the playoff competition. Howe was standing about 15 feet in front of Esposito and swatted in an airborne rebound of the Connelly shot.

Dennis Hull had given the Black Hawks a 3-1 advantage at the 4:43 mark of the second period by converting a goalmouth pass from Maki.

It was the first time in 37 tries that Chicago had ever swept an opponent in Stanley Cup competition while Detroit was eliminated without a win for only the second time in 50 playoff appearances. The last was in 1958 when Montreal eliminated Detroit.

Tigers

Mike Cuellar, who allowed four runs and eight hits in three innings.

The Tigers grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning after two were out. Al Kaline singled, Willie Horton doubled Kaline across and Jim Northrup's single scored Horton. Horton paced Detroit's attack with two singles and a double.

In the Tiger's fourth, after Bill Freehan's leadoff double and a base on balls, Leonhard replaced Cuellar. Freehan scored on Cesar Gutierrez's double and Niekro triple scored Elliot Maddox and Butierrez.

Two walks, a wild pitch and throwing error added a run and Horton greeted Jim Hardin with a run scoring single to complete the explosive frame.

The Orioles broke the spell in the eighth inning on singles by Dave Johnson, Elrod Hendrick and Don Buford with Buford's blow scoring Johnson. Brooks Robinson homered in the ninth for the Orioles' other run.

Poor putting, slow green drop golfers to 9th at OSU

Putting troubles on the slower northern greens plagued the MSU golf team over the weekend as the Spartans finished ninth in the 54-hole Robert Kepler Invitational on the Ohio State University Scarlet Course. Spartans drove well and played their irons to the greens in fine fashion, but poor putting soared their six-man total to 1,199 strokes. It was a far shot from the Indiana linksters' first place position of 1,152 among the 16 teams entered.

Ohio State finished second with 1,161. Miami of Ohio nipped Purdue for third place, and Kent State found itself all alone in fifth with 1,182 strokes. Closely bunched were Minnesota (1,191), Illinois (1,193), and Ohio University (1,194) for sixth through eighth place. Michigan finished behind the Spartans in 10th place with 1,202 strokes.

Wayne McDonald of Indiana fired a 223 total for medalist honors. Hoosiers held a four-stroke lead over the Buckeyes after Friday's opening 27 holes and held on to win.

Lee Edmundson paced the Spartans with 236. Lynn Jansen followed with 237. Others scoring for MSU were Rick Woulfe, registering a 240, and John VanderMeiden and Denny Vass, each carding 54-hole totals of 243.

Casper, Littler tie, playoff in Masters

UGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Georgia neighbors Billy Casper and Gene Littler posted matching 9-under-par 279's today to force the 34th Masters Golf Tournament into a 36-hole Monday playoff.

Casper, two-time U.S. Open champion, had a possible birdie on the 72nd and final hole that would have tied him to beat Littler, who holds a U.S. Open title, but a 10-footer lipped the cup and out.

Casper, the third-round leader here for the second year in a row and seeking his first victory in 14 tries, shot Sunday while Littler, who won here yet in 17 years, a 70 for his fourth straight par round.

They finished one stroke ahead of South Africa's Gary Player, only foreigner ever to win the Masters (1961), when he also missed a 10-footer settled for a 70-280.

Casper started the round on the east Augusta National with a stroke lead over Littler and it through the first seven holes but a double bogey on the yard par-five eighth hole and with a birdie by Littler at same spot dropped him two strokes off the pace.

That didn't last long as Casper a birdie and Littler a bogey the very next hole and the were tied with Bert Yancey under midway through the second final round.

At 9-under held a one-stroke lead over Casper, Player and Yancey after 14 holes and seemed to have the 1970 Masters green coat all but on his back when he went 10 under with a birdie at No. 15.

Littler then lost a stroke with a bogey 4 at the 190-yard, across-the-lake 16th and backed into a tie with Casper and Player again.

That's where matters stood coming into Sunday's dramatic final hole.

Littler pushed his drive into the crowd but recovered nicely and got down for his par to finish at 9-under as Casper and Player waited out on the fairway.

Player put his second shot into a trap but Casper placed his second 10 feet from the pin and the huge gallery waited breathlessly for his try at what could be the winning putt.

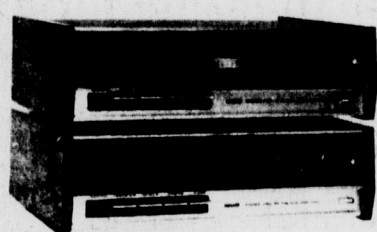

Player went past the pin on his trap shot and there went his slim birdie chance.

Casper was in - and - out with his birdie putt and a look of pure anguish crossed his face before he tapped in the "gimme" to throw the Masters into an extra day of play.

Player then had a chance to join the playoff by sinking his 10-footer but he missed by an inch to the right.

Fishing banned

was insufficient to justify a halt in sport fishing in the Michigan side of the river," Milliken explained.

There is no commercial fishing on the Michigan side of the St. Clair River.

Milliken was quick to minimize possible health damage from eating fish caught in the river.

"I want to emphasize there is no enormous danger or tremendous hazard to health," he said. "But when reasonable doubt exists, we must take this precaution."

"There is no reason to believe that fish currently on the commercial market are not safe to eat," he added. "I for one intend to continue eating Great Lakes fish."

He refused to say the state would prosecute the alleged mercury contaminants, but promised a "get tough" attitude. "I'm more concerned about stopping future pollution than prosecuting those who may have caused the current crisis," the governor said.

Milliken explained that he was asking for a federal investigation because "it's not sufficient for Michigan to move unilaterally."

"I feel a sense of urgency about extending the analysis of fish samples to substances other than mercury," he said. Other probable contaminants listed are cadmium, chrome and cyanide.

Rep. proposes bill to limit sale of explosives

By SHARON TEMPLETON
State News Staff Writer

State Rep. James T. Tierney, D-Garden City, is out to curb terrorism in Michigan.

The method he plans to use to achieve this goal is passage of House Bill No. 4459, a bill to regulate the sale and purchase of explosives in Michigan.

"The tactics of terrorism are being used by people who want to disrupt or tear down society," Tierney said. "The widespread use of explosives for this means is shocking — and it must be stopped."

The Tierney Bill is designed to restrict the sale of explosives to those who are 18 years or older. To purchase any form of explosives the person would have to be licensed and the amount of purchase and intended use would have to be recorded by the State Police.

State Police officials define explosives as "anything over the size of a cap," but are vague as to specifics. Tierney classified dynamite, gunpowder and black powder as explosives. The use of firecrackers was previously outlawed in Michigan.

Tierney said it was beyond his comprehension why people would go as far as the use of explosives to disrupt this society. "People enjoy greater latitudes of freedom in the United States than in any other country — I just can't understand it."

He cited recent explosions in Michigan motels and the car of two black civil rights workers in Maryland as evidence that explosives are being used as a terrorist tactic.

"Michigan laws regarding the sale and use of explosives are antiquated," he said. "It's ridiculous to say that 18-year-olds can't legally buy a pack of cigarettes, but they can just walk into a store and buy a case of dynamite."

"You need a prescription to buy medicine which could be misused, but this is not nearly so hazardous as explosives," he added.

"I see no reason why 18-year-olds shouldn't be able to purchase explosives if they are employed by a construction firm and have that specific use in mind," Tierney explained.

Some Senators, however, feel that a 21-year-old age limit is needed.

The Senate Bill, reported out of committee last Thursday, is also aimed at taking measures "to restrict the sale and distribution of those instruments of destruction and violence that have recently become favorite methods of certain radical groups," Sen. Robert J. Huber, R-Troy and Chairman of the State Affairs Committee, said.

Under the Tierney Bill, the only legal uses of explosives are for tree stump removal, demolition of buildings by construction firms, mining and oil well excavation.

Tierney said that the bill will not be 100 per cent effective. He said that if the so-called radical groups were determined to buy explosives, they would drive to another state to obtain them.

"No bill on earth could stop people from killing," Tierney said, "but I believe this bill will definitely make it more difficult for terrorists to buy explosives for the intended use of injury to other people."

He was also quick to point out that the purchase of explosives will not be denied "for capricious reasons" and that they may appeal a denial to the State Dept. of Police or even the Attorney General.

Potential buyers of explosives can only be turned down on the basis of their criminal records (conviction of a felony) or "substantial evidence of erratic behavior," Tierney explained.

The Tierney Bill has received widespread support from the Michigan Dept. of State Police and local police departments. Governor Milliken has endorsed the bill, although he previously said he felt it to be an infringement upon individual rights.

"Circumstances are more severe now than when the governor first expressed concern about the bill," Tierney said.

Major resentment against the bill is now coming from the National Rifle Association. They, as an organization, were forced to obtain a license to use black powder for use in shooting.

Violation of the bill carries a $500 fine or one year imprisonment.

Peace Corps to recruit here through Friday

Peace Corps recruiters will be interviewing today through Friday at the Placement Bureau office, Student Services Bldg. No appointment is necessary.

Recruiters are looking for volunteers in any major, but have an immediate need for students in business, economics, mathematics, science and agriculture.

Guy Gattis, area representative for Michigan, emphasized, however, that any student is eligible for the corps, regardless of degree.

"We don't want to give the impression that we're looking for a particular type," he said Friday. "Liberal arts people actually form the backbone of the corps."

Students accepted for training will have a choice of 59 areas around the world in which they may serve. Individual countries may also be indicated in an order of preference.

Recruiters will be at the bureau from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Cigaret starts McDonel fire

A minor fire was reported in a room in West McDonel Hall Thursday afternoon but the blaze was extinguished before firemen arrived.

Samuel C. Gingrich, fire safety officer, said the fire probably was started by cigarette ashes emptied into a wastebasket. The fire spread to a box of magazines and a phonograph.

Damage was estimated at $33, Gingrich said.
