Plants and humans

Plants can affect people

By PAT NARDI

A survey taken on one wing of a residence hall floor revealed that students had an average of 3.4 plants per room. The psychological reasons why people grow plants are evident: "They look pretty," "I feel as if I'm accomplishing something" and "I feel like a mother" were frequent comments from plant owners.

Besides these psychological rewards, however, MSU instructor in horticulture David Sanford said plants provide numerous environmental services, such as absorbing pollution, reducing noise and acting as both insulators and air conditioners.

In addition, plants can also be used for therapy in institutions, and they seem to reduce litter and crime, Sanford said.

"Plants do so much for us, yet we really take them for granted," he said.

According to Sanford, MSU is one of only two or three universities in the nation that offers plant therapy as a major. MSU therapists work in cooperation with the state hospital in Pontiac. Therapists are also used at Jackson prison and various homes for the aged.

"It makes the people feel as if they are accomplishing something if they can see a plant they grew turn from a seed to a flower," Sanford said. "It gives them something to live for. Therapists often tell how a smile comes to their faces and they get really excited about working with plants."

Interior landscaping is a fairly new art using plants, Sandord said. Offices are using large plants instead of room partitions. Though the study needs more work, he said, it seems people in an office with plants "respond better, are calmer and not as easily upset" as those in offices without plants.

"Some people release tension by gardening. I know, I do." Sanford said.

An example of how plants can affect people's attitudes was given by John Carew, chairman of the Horticulture Dept. He saw a student couple who bickered as they walked, until they reached the botanical gardens. Then they left the gardens holding hands. "We act a little differently in beautiful surroundings," Carew said. "The gardens have a subduing impact on us, almost like a church."

Sanford remarked, "We have very little litter problems in the gardens. The trash barrels are usually full out here."

Plants seem to reduce crime, too, Sandord said. He told of the flower competition where people in Harlem grow flowers on vacant lots.

"Everything mushroomed," Sanford said.
"Vandalism went down and people started painting their houses. We like to credit it to the plants."

Besides obviously cutting down wind and erosion, plants also reduce noise pollution, Sandord said. Studies have shown that trees along the banks of highways significantly cut down on traffic noise.

Certain plants also absorb air pollution and send the dirt back into the ground. Sanford said more research should be done to find which plants do this best.

An air conditioning effect is often produced by plants in the summer. Sanford pointed out that it is often degrees cooler under a shade tree.

Grass also cools the air when dew evaporates off of it. The failure to do this is a major problem with Tartan Turf. Football players often complain of the heat emerging from the artificial turf, so the turf is often hosed with water before a game.

Plants also insulate homes in the winter, Sanford explained. They create dead air space between them and the house, and this can reduce heating costs.

"We are coming to understand that plants are essential for something more than just food and wood. People need plants around them. I think people are becoming aware of the need for plants to get away from the sterile atmosphere of the city. We need more parks where people can just sit down. People just naturally congregate around trees," Sanford said.

Talk to this lonely philodendron, a favorite of plant lovers because it grows fast and can stand a lot of abuse. Some believe talking to their plants can help them. Try it!

By PAT NARDI

Do you talk to your plants or play Beethoven's Ninth to help them grow? If you do, you're not alone. Some people believe plants are so sensitive to human beings that they can actually read minds. An MSU professor, however, has little faith in his belief.

John Carew, chairman of the Horticulture Dept., said, "We just don't credit plants with having a brain. We do not believe that plants are able to respond to thoughts — actions, yes. We know that plants are very responsive to changes in their environment.

"We observed that people who talk and sing to plants and carry on conversations are usually the same people who make sure that they are well watered, in the sunlight and well cared for," he said.

"Plants respond well to tender loving care but we have not seen evidence that they respond to tender loving thoughts," Carew added.

In one chapter of the book "The Secret Life of Plants" by Tompkins and Bird, the story of Cleve Backster is related. Backster is the lie detector expert of a Times Square police school who attached his lie detector to his potted plant and discovered that it was "reacting" to his thoughts, even when he was far away.

Unfortunately, no scientist could duplicate Backster's results. Backster explained that the scientists did not believe and were hostile, causing the plant to "faint."

Carew rejects this "it won't work unless you have faith" argument because it is not scientific.

"The question is, are these observations valid if you can not reproduce them? We tend to look for an alternate explanation," Carew said.

One woman told Carew that she scientifically tested the power of prayer over two boxes of plants, and the box she prayed over sported beautiful blooms, in comparison with the droopy ones in the other box. Further questioning revealed that the woman kept her prayed-over plants on the windowsill in the sunlight while the other plants rested on top of the piano. The plants were kept far apart "so the prayers wouldn't spill over into the other box" the woman explained.

Some people credit sound waves with the ability to make a plant thrive and subsequently grow plants on top of a radio.

Carew admits "there are things we do not know about the influence of sound waves," but he added that the plants sitting on top of the radio were probably doing well because of the heat generated from it.

Even though few people offer reproduceable evidence to back up their plant stories, Carew said he keeps an open mind about their claims.

"If talking or praying to your plants helps them grow, then I advise you to keep on doing it!" he said.

White House denies gift misuse

The White House said Tuesday there is nothing improper about First Lady Patricia Nixon wearing $52,400 in jewelry given to her by Saudi Arabian King Faisal as a gift to the American people.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said a copyrighted story by columnist Maxine Cheshire Tuesday "manufactured this situation in a sensational way" and "by inference cast the First Family in a bad light."

The story said the gift was worn by Mrs. Nixon for nearly two years before being turned over to the "gift unit," an office set up to handle gifts received by the First Family that they cannot keep after the President leaves office.

Firm makes fusion breakthrough

An Ann Arbor firm announced Monday that its scientists, using powerful laser beams, have taken a major step toward harnessing the hydrogen bomb fusion reaction to generate electricity.

The announcement came from KMS Industries Inc., which said the development had been achieved by scientists of its principal subsidiary, KMS Fusion Inc.

The firm quoted Henry J. Gomberg, president of KMS Fusion, as saying that the new research development also leads toward the direct generation of additional hydrogen from the same process. This could further lead to the production hydrocarbon fuels such as methane, the announcement said.

Kennedy shootings discussed

Questions regarding the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy were raised in two separate hearings this week.

In Los Angeles, evidence showing that Sirhan Sirhan may not have acted alone in the 1968 murder of Sen. Kennedy was presented by a New York criminologist.

Herbert MacDonell testified Monday that photographs of grooves in bullets removed from Kennedy and a wounded newsman show more than one gun may have been fired at the time.

In Washington, the Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a lower court ruling keeping spectrographic analyses of bullets removed from President Kennedy in 1963 secret.

Writer Harold Weisberg sought to open the test in an attempt to disprove that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in the murder. Weisberg maintained that the Freedom of Information Act barred the FBI from keeping the test file secret.

Candidate hints of general strike

The opposition coalition confronting President Joacquin Balaguer in Thursday's presidential election in the Dominican Republic hinted Monday night that there could be a general strike if the government does not revoke new voting regulations.

Emilio L. Fernandez, an official of the Revolutionary party, objected to new rules that will allow voters to cast ballots at any polling place.

He said the party has information that the Balaguer government possesses 400,000 false election identification cards that it will use to commit a "massive fraud" in Thursday's election.

China's premier avoids meetings

Pleading old age and poor health, Premier Chou En-lai has avoided various state functions in Peking at which he would have routinely appeared.

His absences at various meetings are viewed by American analysts as part of a carefully planned effort to prepare the Chinese people and the world for the 76year - old leader's withdrawal from active direction of the Chinese government.

Chou is the only premier China has had since the Communists, led by Mao Tse - Tung, took power in

Milk co-op president denies deal

The president of the American Milk Producers Inc. has denied under oath that Herbert W. Kalmbach told him an antitrust suit against the dairy cooperative would be dropped if the co-op contributed $300,000 to President Nixon's re - election campaign.

But co-op President John Butterbrodt did concede Tuesday that two cooperative representatives met with Kalmbach, President Nixon's personal secretary at that time, and discussed campaign contributions.

Investigators have been looking into allegations that political contributions from large milk cooperatives influenced President Nixon's decision to raise milk prices in March 1971.

Court ruling may free over 600

Federal prosecutors throughout the country reacted with dismay and anger to Monday's Supreme Court decision that could result in the dismissal of hundreds of cases based on illegal wiretaps.

The court ruled that 60 cases, involving 626 individuals, were based on wiretaps that were not properly authorized.

The ruling will probably have its greatest impact on Detroit, where organized crime leader Lawrence Less said it might affect 20 indictments covering 234 individuals.

Need for guarded lots viewed

By PAT NARDI State News Staff Writer

Should the University supply guards in student parking lots? So far this term, 35 cases of automobile vandalism were reported on campus, and 15 of these resulted in arrests.

Captain Ferman Badgley of the Dept. of Public Safety said malicious destructions have been up this year.

When vandalism strikes many students have found, to their dismay, that their stolen tape decks and busted windshields are not covered by their insurance company. A few of these students have suggested the University supply guards in the lots.

Robert Alexander, 612 E. Holden Hall, senior, would like to see the University put up fencing around the lot and hire guards to cut back on vandalism.

"I think the University has a certain responsibility to protect student cars. Right now we only pay $6 a year to park in Flot. I'd be willing to pay $15 to $20 a year if they would get a guard and put up some fencing."

Alexander's car suffered $30 damage in a vandalizing spree on April 24 that wrecked radio antennas, wiper blades and mirrors on

Alexander said he didn't bother to call his insurance company because he has a $50 deductible policy.

Unlocked cars "I know the cops are doing the best they can but they are probably understaffed and can't cover all the lots. I'm sure everyone with a car has to think twice about whether they want to park their car out there. My mind would rest a lot easier when I go to sleep at night knowing nothing would happen to my car," he said.

"I would never dare to park a new car in those lots and I would never keep a tape deck in my car."

Alexander said he knows some people who keep their car doors unlocked in F lot because they would rather have the car's contents stolen than have their windows bashed in an attempt by someone to get in the car.

Major Adam Zutaut of the Dept. of Public Safety said it would not be financially feasible to hire guards for every parking lot on

It would cost over $10,000 a year at minimum wages to guard one lot 24 hours a day, Zutaut said.

Besides paying the guards, fencing around the lots would have to be paid for and heated huts with toilets would have to be built for the attendants. Prices for student parking stickers would then shoot up to well over $20 yearly, Zutaut said.

"Even with an attendant in the lot and a fence around the place you would have vandalism. The attendant could fall asleep or be distracted by someone talking to him," he said.

Zutaut said he would prefer having closed circuit cameras in each lot, but a study done about a year ago indicated that operation would be much too costly.

"The initial investment alone would be $100,000," he said. The cameras would be more effective than guards, Zutaut said, because they could zoom in on someone who looked suspicious while an attendant would have to walk all the way up to him to see what he was doing. The person who monitors the camera could dispatch a police car to the scene very quickly if he saw Another student who would like to see the University protect student cars is Bradley Nicholas, 610 E. Holden Hall, junior. Gasoline was siphoned from Nicholas' tank in F lot winter term.

"It seems like something should be done," Nicholas said. He said he would be willing to pay up to $12 a year if the University would hire guards.

After the siphoning incident, Nicholas said he installed a tapering spring in his gas tank which allows service station attendants to put gas in his tank, but won't accommodate a siphoning hose.

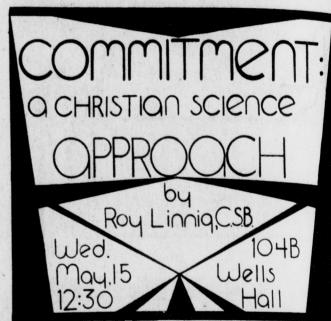

Campus insurance

Derryle Boatner, 627 N. Wonders Hall, sophomore, whose windshield was bashed in last fall in F lot, thinks the University should offer insurance for students who park on campus.

" I think that if you have to pay money to keep your car on campus, then they ought to have some type of insurance to reimburse students whose cars get vandalized.

Boatner said he doesn't want a guard because that would cause the price of a parking sticker to go way up.

Boatner said that students with cars on campus have no choice but to park in the designated University lots and therefore the University should pay for any damage to student cars which occur while they are parked in those lots.

Chicago Dems talk of Daley replacement

By F. RICHARD CICCONE Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO - For the first time in 20 years, Democrats are talking about a successor to Mayor Richard J. Daley.

The disclosure Monday that Daley's current hospital stay resulted from a mild stroke and that the mayor will undergo surgery in the near future to prevent a recurrence has sent shivers of ambition through several Democrats. But mone is openly saying so.

Since Daley took command of the Democratic party in Chicago more than 20 years ago, there have been no challenges to his reign as mayor and few to his leadership. No one breathed aloud the thought of a successor, not even when Daley went to the hospital May 6 and his condition was first described as a minor illness

Now, with the prospect of Daley, who will be 72 Wednesday, being absent from City Hall for several weeks and a mayoral election next year, Democrats are thinking seriously about a successor to the man who has controlled and kept together a political machine long after those in other cities collapsed.

the mayor' long - time voice "We've got to start more actively grooming a successor for whenever one is needed."

strong political base on Chicago's Northwest Side, is among those once considered as heir to Daley.

Others who could gain support include Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan, whom Daley handpicked for the office; Thomas Tully, who recently won nomination to the powerful assessor's post with Daley's blessing; Roman C. Pucinski, who followed Daley's wishes and gave up a comfortable U.S. House seat to Rep. Daniel Rostenkowski, unsuccessfully challenge Sen. Charles H. Percy, R - Ill., in among Illinois Democratic 1972 and George Dunne, congressmen, said Tuesday, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, who was once considered the prime Rostenkowski, who has a Hall which has existed for 40 years.

> If Daley should decide against seeking a sixth term, Alderman William Singer could have a leg up on other potential successors. An independent who has opposed Daley in the past, Singer declared his candidacy for the Democratic mayoral nomination in September and has been campaigning since.

Another factor that could ruffle Democrats would be the candidacy of a black in the February mayoral primary. One who may run is state Sen. Richard Newhouse, who said, "I don't want, to vulturize over Daley's problems. I want to face the strongest there is if I

Another black leader, E. Duke McNeil, assessed an election without Daley. "If Daley 's out of the picture and we have a race between men like Hartigan, Singer and a black . . . that's a new ball game. They'd all be lacking the dominance of a Daley."

Equally important as the mayor's post is the chairmanship of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee, the job Daley seized in 1953, paving his way to national political prominence.

If Daley's health forced him to give up both jobs, party leaders might divide the power and create a split in Democrat leadership which Daley held inviolate. If Daley retained the chairman's post, however, he gets out of the hospital."

might support as a mayoral candidate Richard M. Daley, a state senator and his eldest son.

But most of the party elders who have followed Daley to political victory for two decades are thinking along the lines expressed by Alderman Vito Marzullo, who said, "If I know Dick Daley, he'll be back in harness again as soon as he

Get Your Pictures Taken for the 1975 Yearbook

Rm 36A Union

If you are a faculty member at MSU, you will be taking a salary cut unless your raise this summer is 10% or better. Climbing fuel and food prices pushed to a 12-month record ending in February - a 10% hike in the cost of living, the biggest jump since 1948. During the same 12-month period, workers lost 4.5% in spending power, the largest such drop since the goernment started keeping statistics on worker spending power in 1964. The Administration concedes an inflation rate of at least 7% this year and the Department of Agriculture predicts another 12 percent jump in food prices. Virtually all of Michigan's public utilities are now standing in line for approval of additional big rate increases. In addition, many giant corporations are making headlines with record - breaking profits (major oil companies reported a climb in first - quarter profits this year of as much as 123%) as the typical professor at MSU gets squeezed further in the crunch of food, clothing, transportation, and utility bills. While large numbers of business and industrial executives here in Michigan are taking their usual high rewards (often in the hundreds of thousands of dollars per executive), the losses - in inflation and unemployment or under - employment - are forced upon many thousands of workers, including college and university teachers and researchers.

No one at this time can say what the raises for faculty at MSU will be for fiscal year 1974-75. But one can be sure they will not approach 10% (except in rare cases of certain anomalies). Most not getting promotions (and even some who do) will consider themselves lucky or meritorious if they get 6%. That man does not live by bread alone must be the principle guiding the MSU faculty will on salaries. Otherwise, it is difficult to understand the acquiescence of this large and influencial segment of the University community to a situation where they have no voice in their salary determination. As well intentioned and as active in the faculty interest as FAFCC is, one must remember that they can take no meaningful action on salaries until after the slice of the pie that the faculty gets has been set before them. With collective bargaining, even now skillful negotiators would be "at ramparts" working for raises reflecting increases in the cost of living, as well as real increases in salaries. No doubt FAFCC makes, and has made, requests for improved remuneration. The only difference between MSU/FA and FAFCC is that Faculty Associates would not be a committee but truly what its name signifies - a faculty body of some 2,000 united to secure within the limits and protection of the law the social equity they deserve.

EDITORIALS Limit on contributions needed for reform bill

If members of the Michigan House of Representatives approve a bill aimed at reforming election campaign funding procedures in its present form, Michigan citizens won't have even the side effect of political reform to help them stomach the endless and agonizing Watergate mess. The measure, which must be passed this week for it to apply to November's elections, has been justly labeled as "a sham and a farce" by Gov. Milliken.

The proposed bill is the legislature's first response to the public outcry for an end to the cozy relationship between elected office holders and the moneybags who own them. To be effective, ceilings on campaign contributions must be incorporated into the House debate, as well as the initial defeat of the bill last month, has centered on a Democratic amendment that allows the names of contributors of less than $25 to be withheld from public record.

Republicans argue that the $25 floor would enable candidates to divide up large contributions and spread them anonymously among several campaign committees. Democratic leaders, however, say the floor is necessary to avoid discouraging small contributors from the political process.

This is a hard question, and perhaps a lower floor would be justified. But the problem is not with the floor, and Democratic and Republican leaders, including Gov. Milliken, are off base in sensationalizing what is merely a side issue.

The real problem with campaign financing is the ability of financial kingpins to buy politicians and subsequently win favors that are not in the public interest. The way to end this political marketing is not to inform the public which wealthy corporation head bought which eager politician.

The true way, as Rep. Lynn Jondahl put it after voting against the bill on April 26, is to "guarantee that political office cannot be purchased" by instituting maximum limits on the amount a donor can contribute to a candidate.

Less than a dozen of the state's 108 serving legislators have seriously fought for such ceilings, and the likelihood of them becoming law consequently is not

'Simon says' not magic

William E. Simon was sworn in last week as President Nixon's fourth treasury secretary and immediately called for a new political will to fight the nation's no. 1 problem – inflation.

In light of Nixon's earlier announced intention to "play an increasingly expanded role in the coordination of economic policy," the task before Simon is certainly more imposing than his previous job as chief of the Federal Energy Office.

The current turmoil in Washington, however, indicates that he will not be successful.

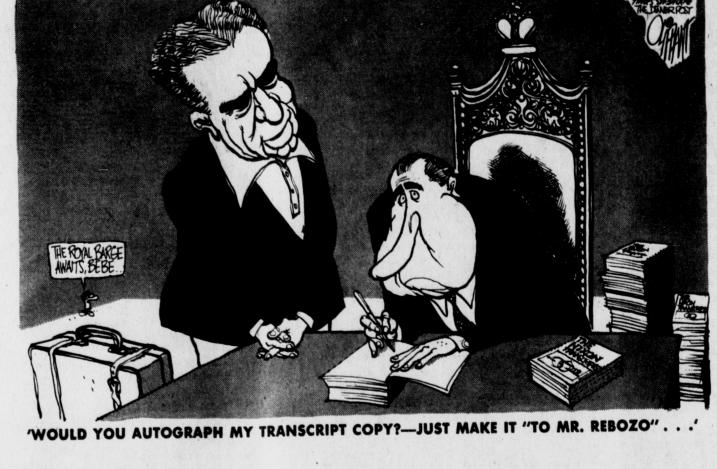

Simon, who holds a bachelor's degree from Lafayette College, takes over at the height of a miserable period for the nation's most esteemed economists. Their earlier predictions have failed even beyond the most cynical criticisms, and disagreements about future actions abound.

Simon opposes any return to fixed exchange rates or to wage and price controls to solve the runaway inflation problem. The solution, he says, "will require determination, a new political will and close cooperation between the executive and legislative branches of government."

Unfortunately, idealistic platitudes will not help the rising number of unemployed or the worker whose spending power is rapidly decreasing. Economic improvement seems unlikely in the present atmosphere surrounding Washington and Richard Milhous Nixon. Rumors of resignation and the growing possibility of impeachment, each of which would result in a rapid turnover of leadership and policies, overshadow any enlightened economic plans.

No matter how determined and competent Simon and other economic advisers may be, a solution to the nation's inflation problems is not in sight. Now the dollar is only as sound as President Nixon – a crisis which calls for a quick Nixon exit as the first step on the path to economic stability.

POINT OF VIEW 'Referral hospital' bad for MSU

By HARRY PERLSTADT

A decision involving the number of hospitals and hospital beds in the metropolitan Lansing area and the supply of physicians in the State of Michigan is about to be made by the Capitol Area Comprehensive Health Planning Assn.

The planning association is a government agency which will recommend where and when funds will be granted to build or improve hospitals in the Lansing area. The current decision involves St. Lawrence Hospital, on the one hand, and MSU on the other.

St. Lawrence Hospital has applied for a 200 - bed addition which would modernize the hospital which serves the west side of Lansing and many of the Catholics in the community. MSU has applied for a 200 - bed hospital to be located on the MSU campus which would serve as a teaching hospital for the two medical colleges.

At first this appears to be a simple problem of deciding whether or not Lansing needs 200 or 400 more beds and whether or not these beds should be located on the east or west sides of the community. Most of those involved, however, seem to agree that 400 new beds would be excessive for the Lansing area in the near future.

The University has taken the position that its 200 beds would not be for the same type of patients as the 200 beds proposed for St. Lawrence. Robert D. Schuetz of the MSU health programs stated that the University hospital "would be a referral hospital operating on a statewide basis. The emphasis would be on tertiary patients, who require far more specialized care than available in a normal general hospital."

In essence, MSU is saying that the 200 beds for St. Lawrence Hospital would be

Each hospital would serve a different group of patients and therefore 200 general beds and 200 referral beds would not be excessive.

But this is not the only factor to take into account. The building of a referral hospital at MSU will mean that students educated at MSU will become specialists rather than family practitioners. Let me

Medical students spend a good deal of time learning medicine in hospital settings. The students observe physicians working with and treating patients in the hospital. Now, if the hospital is a general community hospital filled with patients who are hospitalized for the types of medical problems you and I are likely to suffer, then these medical students are learning learning how to treat our medical needs. But if the hospital is a referral hospital filled with odd - ball medical problems that you and I are highly unlikely to be hospitalized for, then the medical students are learning to treat rare and unusual medical problems and not treat problems we are likely to bring to

At present, MSU medical students spend a good deal of time in community hospitals in Lansing, Grand Rapids and Flint. They observe local physicians treating patients with run - of - the - mill problems. They must come out of these experiences with a feeling about medical practice in a local community. Their medical education under present conditions suffers in only one respect: They do not get to see physicians treat

It never ceases to amaze me that whenever an article about Judaism is printed we are always bombarded with letters to the editor from Harry Hoppe and Fauzi Najjar. I am always enlightened when I read that Hoppe is not an anti -Semite. That is wonderful to know 'considering that both Jews and Arabs are Semitic. As for a 'just peace' (according to Najjar), I believe that that will come about just as soon as the Arab countries stop attacking Israel.

When is a country considered a country? It seems that both Hoppe and Najjar are not against Jews but just against the state of Israel (Zionism). America gained its independence from Britain, who really stole it from the Indians. Israel has been the Promised Land for the Jews for over 5,000 years. In 1948 it gained its independence from the British, and the world recognized its right of existence (everyone but the Arab countries, that is). So, because of the jealousies of the Arab world about Israel and because the majority of the American people recognize the injustices done to Israel by hostile Arab nations, we have two anti - Zionist and possibly anti - Jewish professors constantly condemning a young country struggling for survival against impossible odds while all the time reiterating that they are not anti - Semitic.

In closing, I would like to reassure Hoppe that though the sentiments of the American people still lie with Israel, his letter of "divided loyalties" takes on an air of a crusader somewhat like those of the Red Scare of Sen. Joseph McCarthy. Just think, professor, we could call it the Jewish Scare, and we could round up all those Jews and send them back to Israel where they belong.

My problem stems from my belief that actions speak louder than words. Both me (I am 20) and my younger sister agree that women should ask men for dates. My sister has dated several of her male classmates, while I cannot get up enough courage to ask a man for a date. Though she preys on quiet, shy types of men, she has never been turned down.

I know you are not a sociologist, but do you think college men today would be receptive to being asked out by a woman? Also, do you think I should even attempt to ask a man out or should I write myself off as a psychological casualty of the prewomen's liberation area?

Women have always asked men for dates though the language and form of the request can be quite subtle. If a woman were to use an approach that she felt comfortable with, which might not be a direct copy of the prototypical man's style of operating, guys that she knew probably would be quite receptive. The comment that your sister preys on certain types of men strikes me as having limited potential and would appear to be a distortion of what I am interpreting as your professed goals: namely, the communication between men and women should be more open, requests should be less disguised and communication should take place with a sense of equality.

Recently, after sexual stimulation short of actual intercourse. I have suffered great discomfort in my lower abdomen and testicles. After several hours of rest. the pain disappears completely. There is no pain in the penis itself, just the surrounding area. This problem has only arisen recently.

What is the cause of the pain, and possible consequences, and what action would you suggest I take?

With sexual excitement there is increased production of various secretions which make up semen and increased blood flow to the entire genital area. The testicles have a firm and tough connective tissue layer which surrounds them but which does not stretch very much. Prolonged sexual stimulation that does not go on to orgasm eventually becomes painful because the swollen testes are trapped within the protective sac. The common, nontechnical name for the phenomenon is "blue balls." Pain from the genital area often radiates to the lower abdomen.

While no exactly comparable situation exists in the woman, prolonged stimulation short of orgasm does result in vascular engorgement of the genital area which can take several hours to resolve and can also be quite uncomfortable.

I am unaware of any harmful lasting consequences from this painful occurrence. The discomfort can be prevented by ejaculating before the pain begins or before it becomes severe. Eiaculation after the pain has been present for awhile is much less effective in relieving the discomfort.

The recent onset of the problem leads

My girlfriend claims that there are drugs that would grow hair on my chest. I don't believe this is possible. I have a lot of hair but it is like peach fuzz. Would hormone injections stimulate the hair follicles to grow and darken?

I've been meaning to get this question off my chest for sometime now.

There are no drugs that can safely be used to grow hair on one's chest or anywhere else. The administration of male hormones for such a purpose would be highly dangerous and probably not effective.

The major determinant of body hair distribution and appearance is genetic. Of the changes which begin at puberty, the appearance of hair on the chest and body is the slowest and latest to develop. Body hair often continues to increase in amount and distribution into the 20s.

Intramural chief says expansion necessary soon

By DAVE ADLER State News Staff Writer

Harris Beeman, director of intramural nails delivities, told COGS Sunday night that the increased use of present intramural delities has escalated to a point where and possibly another intramural building are a necessity.

"The University has arrived at a point ere there is a greater need for wilities," Beeman told the graduate didents. "The increase in use primarily scalated due to the increase in women pricipating in activities the last three or buryears," Beeman said.

Beeman said that present intramural wilities, which were built in 1959 for an wollment of 20,000, were sufficient until 964, but after that time became indequate.

"The facilities, at that time, held up in that if somebody wanted a handball court whatever, they could get it sometime ht day," Beeman said.

But 10 years later, with the doubled mollment of the University and the madily mounting use of the present milities, the IM cannot meet the demands the students, not even with additional ours, Beeman said.

However, ninety-two of the state's 160 and commissions have no women

If and when expansion or a new building is begun, payment for the new facility would probably come through a rise in tuition, according to Beeman.

"The University of Michigan, Central Michigan and other schools around the state that have increased facilities, have gone to students for financial support," Beeman said. "But at the moment, all plans are up in the air."

In other action, COGS approved the budget for 1974 - 75, presented by Peter Burke, treasurer, and allocated $49.95 to the Gypsy Scholar, a graduate student literary

The council also showed approval of the Dutton Report by a straw vote of 12 - 6. If approved by the University the report would change MSU's present quarter system to the semester plan.

COGS President George Sperich announced the appointment of John Hitchcock to fill one of the three openings on the Academic Council. Hitchcock will serve for the remainder of spring term.

The next meeting of COGS will be June 3 at 6:30 p.m. in the Con - Con room of the International Center.

Church's view loses in Italy divorce vote

FROM WIRE SERVICES

ROME - The overwhelming defeat of the Vatican's campaign for repeal of the Italian divorce law spurred a drive today to end the privileged status of the Roman Catholic Church in Italy.

Despite a vigorous, two - month campaign by Italy's bishops, most of its 190,000 priests and nuns, and the Vatican's political allies in the Christian Democratic party, Italians voted 3 - 2 in a referendum Sunday and Monday to retain the divorce law that has been onthe books only since 1970.

As soon as the results were known, anticlerical groups announced a nationwide drive to collect signatures on a petition calling for a referendum on all laws giving the Church a special position.

One such law stipulates that "the Roman Catholic, Apostolic religion is the only religion of the state." Others give tax exemptions and other privileges to agencies of the Church and Vatican

The Italian Bishops' Conference Tuesday said they deplored the victory of the prodivorce forces in the nationwide referendum, but said the church would show "due respect" for the will of the majority.

The bishops called on all church members to begin a broad "educative action" to stress the importance of family life for society and urged national leaders Italian families.

The outcome of the referendum was also a stinging rebuff to the Christian Democrats, Italy's dominant party since World War II, and its secretary - general, former Premier Amintore Fanfani, who led the party fight against the divorce law.

The campaign divided Premier Mariano Rumor's center - left coalition government and promised new stresses and strains for it in the future. The three smaller parties in the coalition - the Socialists, Democratic Socialists and Republicans were for divorce, along with the Communists. The Christian Democrats and the Vatican were supported only by the neo - Fascists of the Italian Social Movement, whose backing is usually considered an embarrassment.

The swing to the left that has emerged from the referendum is expected to increase pressure for quick and thorough social reforms. Organized labor is expected to play a decisive part in this stage.

Top leaders of the labor unions are scheduled to meet with Premier Mariano Rumor to discuss the fight against inflation and the need for social reforms. The trade unions and the left - wing parties that back them are expected to inaugurate a new tough line, and this may spell trouble for the two - month - old Rumor cabinet.

The government, Rumor's fifth, has been all but paralyzed by the campaign for the divorce referendum ever since it was formed on March 14. It must now tackle the spiraling inflation - at least 20 per to solve the grave problems besetting cent annually at the present rate - and many other problems that have piled up.

headline reads "No ha vinto," translated to mean, "'No' won" Trustees to discuss hike in room, board charges

An increase in 1974 - 75 room and board rates for MSU residence halls will be discussed at Friday's board of trustees

Administration officials refused to comment on what the estimated increases will be, but said they should be under the approximately $100 that the University of Michigan increased its 1974 - 75 room and board rates.

Residence hall rates went up last year from $381 a term to the present rate of $407.50. The total yearly increase of $79.50 is less than next year's estimated

Residence hall officials said in April that they would ask for an increase due to rising costs from inflation.

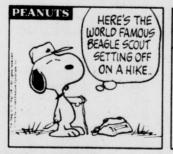

Also up for discussion at the meeting, to be held at 10:30 a.m. in the fourth floor Board Room in the Administration Building, will be the revised Kalamazoo Street bridge project. The project had been set for discussion earlier but was tabled until the trustees could receive and study more public input on the plan.

The original bridge plan called for heightening the bridge by 10 feet and rechanneling the Red Cedar River. The revised plan does not call for rechanneling and seeks heightening the bridge by 60

The plan must be approved by both the trustees and the East Lansing City Council before Ingham County will do an impact report on the project. City council gave tentative approval of the plan in February.

The board will also consider the last step necessary for the University to join the federal Guaranteed Loan Program to make direct financial aid loans to students. Students would thus be able to borrow money for college expenses from MSU instead of from banks or other lending institutions.

Other items up for discussion will be the possible location of an Amtrak railroad station at a University building on Harrison Road, contract awards for improvements of Fee Hall, Agriculture Hall and the Computer Center, along with the usual personnel changes and gifts and grants to the University.

Television news approached its potential as meeting place for the global village when network programing ceased and the news departments devoted their time, resources and reporters to covering the assasination and burial of John F. # Duet recital to feature musicians who challenge traditional styles

By W. KIM HERON

If there is music today that offers an alternative - music of challenge and adventure coming from anywhere in America - Richard Abrams and Roscoe Mitchell are part of it. These two musicians will perform a duet recital at 8:30 p.m. in Abrams Planetarium Wednesday, and for the $3 admission, they offer an evening of total experience and great jazz.

Abrams, pianist and clarinetist, formed a now - legendary experimental band in Chicago in 1961. The Assn. for the Advancement of Creative Musicians grew from this band in 1965 when Abrams and the other co - founders saw a need for a uphold and cultivate the creative black music of Chicago.

The association set in motion bands and musicians whose full importance is still to be appreciated: the Art Ensemble of Chicago, Maurice McIntyre, Anthony Braxton, Leo Smith and Leroy Jenkins.

These musicians are often lumped together under the heading of "new music." But Mitchell said six years ago, "It's a new period. But there's no such thing as new music, just good music. This is a period when musicians are getting into exhibition along with the music, as well as incorporating everything that has come to pass - classical European, Indian, African

- everything." The association's bands maximize freedom, yet the music is never empty or random. It's full - life music, bristling with the energy of the musicians and the channeled forces of the audience.

On the saxophone, Mitchell is prone to terse, angular statements and mellow reprieves. Mitchell has been with the Chicago group since the early days and was later a member of the Art Ensemble of Chicago when the ensemble formed within the larger band.

With the ensemble or as a soloist Mitchell has toured most of the United States, as well as France and Canada. He is a veteran of the Baden - Baden Festival, the Ann Arbor Jazz and Blues Festival and the New Port Festival in New York. Abrams has said that the association is related to black power "in the sense that we intend to take over our own destiny, to be our own agents and to play our own

An active musician since 1948, Abrams has played with John Gilmore, Gene Ammons, Eddie "Lockjaw" Davis, Eddie Harris and Johnny Griffin. He can be heard on the recent Eddie Harris album "Instant Death." In 1966, at age 37, he recorded his first solo album "Levels and Degrees of Light.'

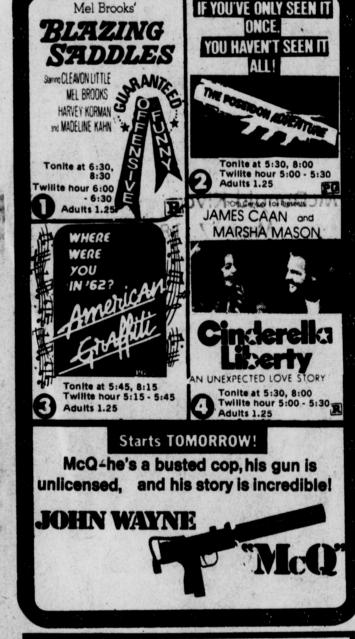

Abrams stayed four years at Chicago Music College and then went through a period of self - training.

Detroit - based poet and journalist Geoffrey Jacques summed him up saying: "Richard Abrams is one of the two most important post - Cecil Taylor piano players. The most important since Cecil Taylor - unless you include Sun Ra."

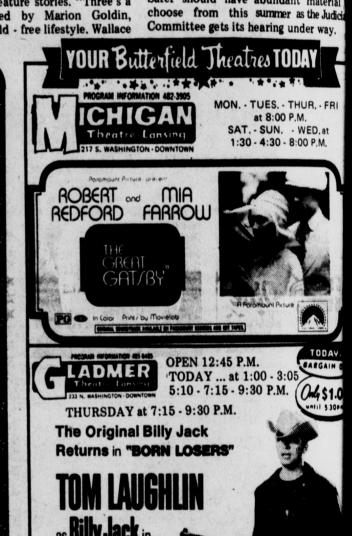

Mezo - soprano Mary Salsinger will ppear in a joint recital with flutist Deborah Bartlett at 3 p.m. Saturday in the Hart Recital Hall of the Music Building. The vocalist was incorrectly identified as Helen Hansens in Monday's paper.

Student parking such as this near Park Lane in East Lansing often forces landlords to gravel portions of their lawns to meet requirements in the city zoning and housing

Parking woes pinch landlords

By MARY ANNE FLOOD State News Staff Writer

Jungle is being replaced with asphalt in some yards around the city as landlords try to meet city parking requirements.

Several landlords have graveled or stoned portions of their yard space in order to meet the parking requirements in both the East Lansing zoning and housing codes.

Some landlords have taken their parking problems to the zoning and housing boards of appeals to try to get variances from the parking requirements. Both boards have jurisdiction over a portion of the city's parking problems.

In a current East Lansing Zoning Board of Appeals case, the apellants, Richard and Karen Arens, are asking permission to keep the stone they have spread over portions of the front yard to serve as required parking space. The Arens need to appeal because the zoning code does not permit front yard parking, even when it has been stoned over.

"We just didn't want to get a parking ticket so we stoned adequate portions of the front yard to serve as two required parking spaces," said Arens.

Most observers of the parking situation seem to agree that there is a problem. The residential streets are often over crowded, cars are often parked illegally across sidewalks or in front yards. Generally there does not seem to be enough parking provided for residents, especially in the student ghetto areas.

Parking variance requests have been among the most often heard cases for the housing board of appeals. In its meeting scheduled for Thursday, over half of the 20 appeals to be heard deal with parking problems in some capacity.

The housing board of appeals has come under fire from City Manager Jack Patriarche for granting so many variances that they may be endangering the validity of the housing ordinance. The housing board of appeals has granted nearly all parking variance requests and Patriarche mentioned the parking clauses of the code as being one possible endangered area.

The housing board of appeals is currently forming a list of suggested changes in the housing code that it plans to present to city council in the near future. A change in the parking section was suggested unanimously.

The housing code currently states that there must be one parking space for every two unrelated adults and each space must have separate ingress and egress — that is the car must be able to move to the street without having to move any other car.

Similarly, the zoning code requires one space for each one - or two - family dwelling plus one space for each two unrelated adults in the dwelling. For multiple dwellings, the zoning code requires that there be one space for 70 per cent of the occupants.

When one car parks behind another, it is called tandem parking. Tandem parking is not included when figuring number of spaces. But the housing board of appeals has been granting variances to allow tandem parking to meet the requirements. It will also suggest to the city council that tandem parking be allowed in the code.

"Forcing people to pave their backyard is criminal," said housing board of appeals member Dolores Bender. "Tandem parking may be unappealing because of the noise involved moving cars around, but I don't see anyone closing Dooley's for that."

Another housing board of appeals member, Kathy Fix, said, "It is cars versus people. By not allowing tandem parking we would either restrict occupancy because of car space or pave over everybody's lawns."

The Bailey Community Assn. has also become concerned over the yard graveling. Sharon B. tsch, of the Bailey group said that the group plans to request a three - month moratorium on front yard graveling from the zoning board of appeals. The Bailey groups and the planning commission would study possible alternative solutions to the parking problems in that three

"There has got to be a better way than paving the city," Bertsch said. "Esthetics aside, I'd think there would be other problems such as drainage." Coordinator of the East Lansing landlord, group, Steve Blethen, said, "Well over 75 per cent of the rental housing in this town have single drives and the only way we can get separate ingress and egress for everybody is to pave the backyards. I'd think the ecologists would go mad."

The first of nine questions will reveal travel patterns of city bus riders by asking where they came from, where they are going, and how they arrived at the bus.

The next section attempts to characterize the background of passengers and determine what benefits citizens gain from having mass transit available.

One question in the area of benefits asks, "If bus service was no longer available, would

The regional commission's senior planner, Sam Burns, said this question could show quantitatively how important economically the Capitol Area Monday, Tuesday and Transportation Authority (CATA) is.

Inflation major issue of election in Canada

Reddick, a Canadian, is a graduate student in journalism. He has worked as both a reporter and an editor on two Canadian daily newspapers.

By DAVID REDDICK

Last week's vote of no confidence in the minority Liberal government of Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau deserves watching by Americans.

Trudeau, who has been in power since 1968, was defeated by the combined Progressive Conservative and New Democratic party opposition who were highly critical of the prime minister's proposed $23.95 billion budget.

What has happened in Canada is really symptomatic of what has been happening in other world capitals in recent months. Governments have either fallen or been replaced because they could not stop spiraling economic inflation.

In those countries that have had elections, the results have been revealing. In Great Britain, where economic conditions have literally paralyzed the country, the government the past 18

Committee today approved a measure extending the life of the state's Energy Office by one year over the objections of Democratic members.

12 PETITIONS CIRCULATE IN STATE

Drives to put issues on ballot losing steam legislators initiate petition the petition drives being

State News Staff Writer

They need your John Hancock.

"They" are the hundreds of individuals and groups currently circulating petitions in Michigan to place a proposal on the November ballot.

With proposals ranging from gun control to legalization of capital punishment being circulated, voters may face a bevy of proposals in November or they may find only one or depending on the success of the petition drives.

"Nine of the 12 petitions we approved for the November ballot propose constitutional amendments," Bernard Apol, director of the state elections division said.

"There could be countless other petitions floating around that we don't know about that are perfectly acceptable if they meet the required formula set by the state and the signatures two issues on the ballot, are validated by the division." Two other petitions approved by the elections division propose the initiation of legislation that would prevent the employment of replacements for employes engaged in a strike or lockout and that would prohibit deceptive advertising practices, > Apol said. Five proposals appeared on the November 1972 ballot. Only Daylight Saving Time was approved by Michigan voters, while legalized abortion, graduated state income tax, property tax relief and additional benefits for Michigan Vietnam veterans were voted down.

With the deadline for constitutional amendment petitions 120 days before the election (July 8), most petition drives are just beginning to gain momentum. Others are floundering or being abandoned.

"We have about 15,000 of the 265,000 signatures required by the state on our petitions to ban the use of handguns,'' said a spokeswoman from Citizens United to Save Lives, the chief citizens' group behind the gun control drive.

A MSU student and statewide coordinator for the Michigan Marijuana Initiative, Robert Mendenhall, said that, about 10,000 signatures have been collected by the movement to decriminalize marijuana usage.

"We began this drive to bring the law in line with marijuana use," Mendenhall said. "We felt this issue should become a community drive. There are a lot of representatives in the state legislature who would back this issue, but not enough to pass it in the House."

"We're starting to really move in the Detroit area and we've obtained well over 4,000 signatures here in East Lansing."

The petition drive to allow governing boards of their own university appears to be losing momentum, according Matthew Wirgau, chairman of the Michigan Higher Education Student Assn., a student lobbying group.

"We felt we couldn't get this issue through the legislature by November because it's still in committee," Wirgau said. Though the petition route is difficult, it still proves that we the Michigan Citizens' Lobby, said the "largest coalition ever assembled around a petition drive in history" is supporting the move to eliminate the sales tax on food and drugs. "We have more than 100,000 signatures now and they are coming in at a rate of 25,000 per week," Ross said.

Nine petitions that propose state constitutional amendments have been registered with the State Elections Division. They propose to:

- Decriminalize the use of marijuana. • - Allow students to serve on the governing boards of the
- university they attend. - Ban handguns, except for use by specified agencies. - Legalize capital punishment for first - degree murder.
- Eliminate the sales tax on food and drugs.
- Impose a ceiling on state taxation (limiting it to a per cent of personal income in the state).

  — Place Michigan on Central Standard Time.

  — Limit state legislators' salaries.

have support from the people. "We've got 100,000 signatures so far, but it looks like we're losing the momentum we once had," he continued. "The outlook is questionable, and we're starting to pin our hopes on the law suit scheduled to come before the Detroit District Court this month that would overturn Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's ruling that prohibits students from serving on their own governing boards."

"We expect to hit our goal by early to mid - June."

"Neither the legislature nor the governor seemed able or willing to provide the tax break that was warranted," Ross said, "so we decided to bring the issue to the people."

"Some petition drives don't expect success," Ross continued. "They basically aim at educating the public and making the legislators and people aware of an issue and usually they cannot get enough Douglas Ross, director of petitions out. Our movement, though, is definitely rolling."

Rep. Thomas Sharpe, R-Howell, sponsor of a petition drive to impose a ceiling on state taxation, said it is too early to predict the number of signatures their drive will gather.

The drive, launched May 3, would limit state spending for all departments to 8.3 per cent of the total income of the people in Michigan.

With so many petitions being circulated, an innovative MSU student, Mark Grubner, is considering constructing a small, portable booth that would be called "Petition City."

Grubner, a Democratic candidate for Ingham County Commissioner in the eighth district, said the various petitions might be collected and located at various places on campus this summer.

State legislators suggested everything from political ambition of legislators to public mistrust in state government as reasons for going the petition route. "Politicians can always mess up things," Rep. Lynn Jondahl, D-East Lansing, said. "By petitioning, people feel they can protect the law from crass political maneuvers."

Jondahl, a member of the House Committee on Constitutional Revision and Women's Rights, said some

Can save $300

On orders of the Civil Aeronautics Board, discount rates by which young people have saved as much as $300 or more on a round trip to Europe since 1971, were abolished in this country effective Jan. 1. The board held that the fares were unfairly discriminatory to travelers of other ages.

However, international youth fares were not abolished in Canada, and young people discovered weeks ago that they could save money by taking a bus or train to Montreal or another Canadian city to board a Europe - bound jet.

Plan defended As for the KLM questionnaire, spokesmen for the Dutch Tourist Office here and KLM defend it by saying that it represents nothing more than an effort to learn more about the young people who have flocked to Amsterdam in recent summers. Privately, however, one official of the airline acknowledged that one factor had been an effort to keep some youthful passengers form taking flights from Canada. Newsweek magazine was described by the tourist office as a co - sponsor of the survey.

The tourist agency said that passengers between 15 and 24 on other airlines serving Amsterdam would also be paid $50 for completing the questionnaire if the other airlines, such as Pan Am, agreed to the payment. So far, no others have accepted the offer. The standard 22 - to - 45 day excursion fare between New York and Amsterdam this summer will be $427. A $50 rebate would bring the total to

Do you ever wonder what happens to your records when you play them? You should.

Chances are, your record collection is now worth several hundreds or even thousands of dollars. And will continue to grow in

That's reason enough, apart from your love of music, to give special thought to what may be going on between your records and your turntable so that you will continue to enjoy the music.

Diamond vs. Vinyl.

A record is made of soft vinyl, and the impressionable grooves have to contend with the unyielding hardness of a diamond - tipped

As the record rotates in play, the rapidly changing contours of both groove walls force the stylus to move up, down and sideways at great speeds. To produce the bass drum, the stylus must vibrate about thirty times a second; the piccolo, about fifteen thousand times a second.

If the stylus can't respond easily and accurately to the groove contours, there's trouble, especially with the sharp and tragile curves which produce the high frequencies. Instead of going around these peaks, the stylus will simply lop them off. And with those little bits of vinyl go the high notes, the record and your investment.

When this happens, it's fatal. Those lovely high notes become

It's all up to the tonearm.

The freedom of the stylus to respond to all the demands on it depends in part on the settings your cartridge requires: balance, stylus pressure, anti - skating,

The accuracy and effectiveness of these tonearm settings, however, depend upon how the tonearm is engineered and produced. For example: the amount of friction in the tonearm pivot determines how easily the tonearm can follow the stylus as it traces the record groove from beginning to end.

Still more to consider.

Critical as tonearm performance is, there is still more to consider. For example, the record must rotate at precisely the right speed, or pitch will be off. The motor must be quiet and free of vibration, or rumble will be added to the music.

And in addition to what goes on between the stylus and groove during play, there is also the matter of how conveniently, smoothly and gently the stylus gets to and from the groove.

With today's ultra - sensitive cartridges tracking at or near one gram, tonearm bearing friction should be as close to the vanishing point as technology can achieve.

And all this will be doubly important when you go to four -

Now that you have given some thought to what happens to records inplay, you may be interested in knowing how the design and engineering of Dual turntables protect your records play after

The Graduate system is Hi - Fi Buy's answer to the very important question, "What should I spend on a music system?" When a customer asks this straight forward question we prefer not to launch him into a time consuming game trying to milk every possible penny out of his savings account. Rather, we come back with a risky, but straight forward "$618." This is the price tag on our carefully selected Graduate system. Each component represents a plateau in the hi - fi spectrum. In other words, should you spend just a little less money, the loss of sound quality is bewildering. On the other hand, you have to spend a whole lot more money in order to hear as significant an improvement in the overall sound. Our

Our Graduate system reproduces the entire frequency range of all music, without annoying coloration of distortion, at levels which will comfortably fill your listening room with sound. (Wagnerlans and hard rock freaks not excluded.) It sounds convincing not only on the best recordings but on the great majority of recordings and broadcasts of all kinds. It has enough controls and features to satisfy your needs, without making you pay for unnecessary frills, and there's ample flexibility for adding such niceties as a tape deck or additional speakers.

The Advent Utility Loudspeakers have over and over again proved true the claim originally made for them: they provide the kind of performance associated with speakers then and now costing far more.

The new NIKKO 7070 AM/FM stereo receiver was chosen by our COMPONENT EVALUATION PROGRAM as the "best performing receiver of all time." It delivers 35 watts/channel RMS, with less than 0.5% distortion across the entire audio range. Sensitive FM performance is enhanced by the newly developed DSD circuitry in the MPX stage for improved stereo separation. The new DUAL 1214 automatic turntable does its job smoothly and reliably; its heavy platter turns records at a constant speed, quietly. There is a gentle changing mechanism and a convenient cueing control. The new SHURE M93E cartridge transmits all the sound that is on the record, and at a record - saving 1% gram tracing force. Its excellent high frequency capabilities compliment the Advent speakers and Kenwood receiver.

Off-year primaries conducted

Kenneth A. Gibson, the first black mayor of Newark, N.J., sought re - election Tuesday against a field of challengers led by State Sen. Anthony Imperiale, while residents of Nebraska and West Virginia balloted in primaries to choose congressional and state nominees.

The early voter turnout in Newark was sparse. Gibson and Imperiale, a white community leader who rose to prominence during Newark's 1967 race riots, were the key candidates in a five - man field that also included Lewis Perkins, who is black; Raymond Stabile and James Rotonda. A runoff will be held June 11 if no candidate gets a majority.

In West Virginia, there were contests for nominations in two of the state's four congressional districts, as well as for a variety of state offices. Nebraska voters chose nominees for governor and lieutenant governor, and for Congress and state offices.

Nebraska Secretary of State Allen Beermann predicted a record off - year turnout of 410,000 voters.

J. James Exon, a Democrat, was expected to win renomination for a second term as governor over Mayor Richard Schmitz of Lyman. The key question was whether Exon had the political power to pull his preferred running mate, Gerald Whelan, past three other candidates seeking the lieutenant governor's nomination.

Whelan faced a tough challange from state Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff. Two other state senators, Jules Burbach and Frank Lewis, were given little chance of winning the nomination.

Long - time party organizer Anne Batchelder and former state Sen. William Wylie sought the lieutenant governor's nomination on the Republican side.

In congressional races, eight candidates sought the GOP nomination in the 3rd District, where U.S. Rep. David Martin, a Republican, is retiring.

The only other contested congressional race was in the 2nd District where Omaha City Councilman Dan Lynch and County Commissioner John Hlavacek vied for the Democratic MSU's veteran trackman Bob Cassleman will close out his Big Ten collegiate track career this weekend at the conference outdoor track championships at Ann Arbor. Cassleman has previously won 12 Big Ten championship events and will be in pursuit of three more. Having achieved notoriety during his collegiate career, Cassleman is striving for a national championship and also a berth in the 1976

Judge lets football player leave Bengals for WFL

CINCINNATI (UPI) - U.S. District Court Judge David S. Porter Tuesday denied a request by the Cincinnati Bengals for a preliminary injunction to stop the World Football League (WFL) from signing Bengals players to future contracts and said such signings are not "unfair

Two weeks ago the WFL lost a similar case when a Texas judge ruled in favor of the Dallas Cowboys.

In his 46 - page decision Tuesday, Porter rejected the Bengals' claim that middle linebacker Bill Bergey's planned jump to the WFL would damage the Bengals.

"The court finds it unlikely that Bergey's action in signing with the WFL will have a detrimental effect on he peformance or player morale of the Bengals as a whole," Porter said. "The WFL's motive for signing established NFL players is not to cause any harm to the NFL team in general, or to the Cincinnati Bengals in prticular, but to further the competitive interest of the WFL."

The WFL plans to begin its first season of play in less than two months. WFL attorney George Moscarino, who had aggressively cross - examined many of the Benglas' 21 witnesses, said the decision was confirmation that the WFL had a right to bargain for players "in an open marketplace." "The action here was being watched by many players throughout the league," he said. "The decision corroborates the belief that players have a right to negotiate for future services."

Porter explained he did not grant the injunction because it would "harm the public interest in fostering free competition in the marketplace for the sports dollar."

Cassleman after NCAA win, 3 title in Big 10 to cap MSU track career

By CHARLES JOHNSON State News Sports Writer

Greatness is sometimes said to be inherent. But, in considering the track career of MSU's great middle distance runner Bob Cassleman, one would have a hard time substantiating that claim.

This weekend's Big Ten outdoor championships in Ann Arbor will have Cassleman going after an unprecedented Spartan record of 15 conference titles. He already has 12.

However, titles and awards weren't always a Cassleman trademark. They have resulted from hard work, dedication and a little bit of being in the right place at the right time.

"In high school I was what you would call a mediocre sprinter by college standards," Cassleman related. "It wasn't until halfway through my senior year that I showed any semblance of track talent."

It was then that the Grand Rapids Catholic Central product tried his hand at the 440 - yard dash.

"The first time I ran the quarter (440) I did it in 48.6." he said. "Still, no one gave me any attention because they thought it was a fluke. But after I ran a 48.6 the second time, everyone took me seriously, even myself.'

That brief exhibition of talent earned Cassleman a scholarship to MSU, a decision that asst. and track coach Jim Gibbard will never regret.

"Bob has done everything and much more than we could ever have asked of him," Gibbard said. "His value to the team

It didn't take Cassleman long to prove himself at MSU.

As a freshman, he began his string of Big Ten honors by placing first in the 600 indoors and running a leg on the winning mile relay squad. The outdoor season was just as successful, as Cassleman upset the hands - down favorite in the 660 - yard run to take top honors and also ran a leg on MSU's winning mile relay team.

"The win in the 660 would have to be considered one of my biggest thrills," Cassleman said. "Mark Winzenreid from Wisconsin, who was the American record holder in the event and the Big Ten champ three years going, was expected to run away with the race again. I wasn't given much of a chance. But I won." Cassleman's sophomore season saw him duplicate his win in the 600 indoors and again earn a share of the mile relay squad's victory. But the 1972 outdoor season was when he found his best race - the 440 yard intermediate hurdles. "During my freshman year, I still wasn't sure what my best event was," Cassleman said. "I didn't feel completely confident anywhere, but the intermediate hurdles gave me that satisfaction.' Castleman placed first in the

Batsmen dominate play, capture two from EMU

By JACK WALKDEN State News Sports Writer

The MSU baseball team saved its best

The Spartans played possibly their best baseball of the season Tuesday as they closed out the home portion of their schedule by winning a doubleheader from Eastern Michigan, taking the opener, 9-2, and copping the nightcap, 3-2, in eight innings.

The double win improved the MSU season record to 21-16-1. Eastern fell to 27-17-1.

The Spartans dominated the play in the twin bill and forced EMU into numerous mistakes with daring base running. MSU stole six bases in the doubleheader, while Eastern assited with seven errors. There were plenty of heroes in the inspired by the play of a pair of underclassmen - sophomore Mike Fricke and junior Joe Palamara. Fricke collected four hits in eight trips to the plate, while Palamara reached base in four of five plate appearances, including a single, two walks and an error. Howard Schryer was the hero in the second game as MSU took the sweep.

Schryer's one - out double over the centerfielder's head followed singles by Dale Frietch and Bill Simpson to give the Spartans the win.

The hit gave sophomore righthander George Mahan a long overdue win to move his record to 2-3.

Freshman Bill St. Clair had started the game and was relieved by Todd Hubert in the fourth inning. Hubert slammed the door on EMU until the eighth inning when he ran into a major jam.

Jeff Washington walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Glenn Gulliver then laid down a perfect bunt to third base and beat it out for a hit, sending Washington to third.

After Gulliver stole second, Mahan came into pitch. Mahan struck out John Germain and then walked Jim Luckhardt to load the bases with one out.

Mike Lauerman tried a squeeze bunt; but popped the ball up right to Mahan for the second out. Mahan struck out Windle LeFever to get out of the jam. The Spartans rocked Eastern with a six run first inning to put away the fir contest. The nine runs MSU scored in the contest was the most runs to cross the plate against EMU in a game this season.

The Spartans utilized four extra · ba hits in the initial inning, including a trip by Terry Hop, doubles by Amos Hewi and Rick Seid, and a two - run homer ! Schryer. Schryer's homer was the first nine games for the Spartans. MSU added the finishing touches on t

Tennis team beats Western, 7-2; netters optimistic about tourney round go into consolation round. The By MIKE DRESCH winner of the tournament is the team with

State News Sports Writer

A long and rather disappointing regular season campaign ended on a high note for the men's tennis team Monday afternoon as it beat Western Michigan in a nonconference dual meet, 7 - 2. However, the big test of the year for the Spartan netters comes up this weekend when they travel to Madison, Wis., for the Big Ten championship meet.

"As I see it," Stan Drobac, tennis coach, said, "Michigan is the team to beat. After that, the meet is up for grabs. All the teams have a good chance of beating any of the others.'

Team captain Dave Williams, No. 3

singles, agrees. "We could end up anywhere from second to eighth," he said." It has been a rat race all season. After Michigan, everybody has about the same number of points, give or take a few. It will be a good meet, and with the luck of the draw, we could come out looking real good."

The Big Ten meet is conducted as a round - robin tournament with the best players in each division being seeded, or given the top positions. There are six singles and three doubles divisions. The rest of the players in a given division draw for position. Then, each division is played until a winner is determined.

The players not making it past the first the most points at the end of the finals and consolations. Points are also awarded during each round of division play.

Each team goes into the Big Ten championships with points already accumulated during the season. These points are awarded during match play with Big Ten opponents. The maximum amount of points possible for a season is 81, that is, nine points for each meet, with nine Big Ten meets.

This year's Big Ten meet is being played on the Wisconsin indoor courts.

"We like the indoor matches," Williams said. "We're used to playing indoors and usually do pretty good.'

Drobac agrees with Williams about indoor play but adds that "the other teams like playing indoors, too." "There's no wind, sun or other weather conditions playing indoors, Drobac said. 'You just get good tennis.' And most observers agree the Spartans will have to play good tennis to do anything at the Big Ten meet. Their Big Ten record this year was 3 - 6, with

"It's been a rough season," Larry Stark, No. 1 singles, said. "The difference between a good season and the one we had was the close matches. We dropped four one - point matches. They could have gone victories over Northwestern, Purdue and

Tom Gudelsky, No. 6 singles, agrees that the one - point meets are heartbreakers and adds that "you learn something from each meet, win or lose, and the thing to do is to take advantage of that knowledge the next time you play them."

As for individual chances at the Big Ten championships, Stark says he is going to think positively and play the best tennis he can. "I've got to put the pressure out of my mind and just concentrate," he said. Gudelsky is a freshman and this will be his first Big Ten meet.

"I'm really looking forward to it," he said. "I think I've improved and just hope I can do well at the meet."

Williams said its been a frustrating year for him. "I lost the rhythm of my serve about halfway through the season and I just wasn't consistent enough," he said. "The thing I've got to do is go back to basic tennis. I have to keep the ball in play and work on getting the first serve in.'

on new buyers of smaller cars FROM WIRE SERVICES DETROIT - The auto who are switching to smaller In the past year, prices on domestic compacts and subcompacts have gone up between 15 and 23 per cent, more than double the hikes on the big gas guzzlers.

makers are putting the financial squeeze on consumers

On Monday, General Motors completed the third round of major price increases since last September by scheduling an average $105 price boost on cars and trucks, effective Wednesday.

The increase rounds out to an average 1.9 per cent. GM said, and the firm won plaudits from John T. Dunlop, the Cost of Living Council director, for 'showing restraint." Year - ago prices Most of GM's restraint affects its slow - selling, large - car market. The latest price boosts on GM's big cars averaged little more than 1 per cent. The price of GM's subcompact Vega, however, went up $125, or 5.3 per cent. A year ago the lowest priced 1973 Vega sold for $2,087. Today it lists for $2,505, a $418, or 20 per cent, increase.

By contrast, the cheapest priced full - size Chevrolet has of 1974 as auto sales gone up only $145, or 4 per cent, since May 1973.

The Ford Motor Co., which raised car and truck prices an average $163 last week, the cheapest subcompact Pinto costs $2,482, a 23 per cent hike from a year ago when it sold for $2,021. The compact Maverick has gone up 22 per cent, from $2,248 to $2,742

Ford's cheapest priced full size model, however, has gone up only 8.4 per cent in price since May 1973, from $3,606 to $3,911. American Motors, with 90 per cent of its sales in the small car market, hiked its sticker during the same period.

price on average $75 last March, and applied the entire increase to its smallest cars, raising the price of its compact Horn et and subcompact Gremlin an average $100 each. The Gremlin now costs $2,409, up $311 or 15 per cent from May 1973. Small sells

The auto makers have applied the sharpest price increases to small cars, which are selling better than any other segment of the market, in hopes of improving their profitability, which dropped drastically in the first quarter the Ford Maverick and plummeted in the face of the energy crisis.

Auto makers putting final pinch

Domestic auto sales are down 26 per cent from last year. But small car sales are down only 1.5 per cent, while intermediates are off 25 per cent and full - size models have declined 43 per cent.

The increasing number of small car models is part of Detroit's attempts to change its image in the face of small car competition from foreign automakers and the dramatic shift in the American car buyer's preference for anything that isn't big.

New models coming General Motors, caught with too few small cars in its line up when service station lines began lengthening last fall, is adding three new small models based on its subcompact Chevrolet Vega. Two are sporty versions of the Vega originally designed with the Wankel rotary engine in mind and the Canadian version of the Vega sold by Pontiac dealers. Ford, alone of the Big Three with a wide range of compact and subcompact models, adds two more compacts that were originally intended to replace

American Motors, with 75 per cent of its productionalready in small cars, will introduce its Pacer in Janaury. A sporty model ith a luxury interior, it was originally designed for the rotary engine: but will be offered with a six cylinder engine until AMC decides to either buy one or build its own. The Chrysler Corp. is still two years away from a subcompact model.

Pacer will probably be the cheapest of the new breed of small cars for 1975. Built from the same basic frame AMC uses for its small Gremlin and Hornet models,

Pacer has a sharply sloping problems in developing the Wankel rotary engine will leave the car powered by the conventional four - cylinder or a small V-8 engine. Still without a name, the sporty' subcompact will be given to the Oldsmobile and Buick Divisions to sell since they have been hit hardest by not having any small cars in the lineup. Minicars predicted

In addition, GM and Ford will introduce minicars in the United States before the end of the decade if the market for cars smaller than the current Vegas and Pintos continues to GM is shooting for as early as 1976 with a minicar to challenge the soon - to - be introduced mini - Volkswagen in the low - cost - high - mileage market. Ford is engineering a new car in Europe that would need few adjustments to either bring it into this country or build it here. Ford Co. Chairman Henry Ford II said last week that if the Pinto isn't small enough to meet market demand "we'll have to do something to satisfy the customers." That could be a new minicar being designed for production in a new Spanish plant. It's going to be about 141 inches long, just above the Honda, with power plants in the 55 horsepower range.

Area legal aides not worried by

State News Staff Writer The director of the Lansing Legal Aid Bureau said Tuesday he doesn't think creation of a federal legal services corporation would severely limit his office's operation.

The legal aid office annually provides legal help to over 3,000 U.S. Senate and House conferees agreed May 8 on a compromise bill to take administration of legal aid away from the Office of Economic Opportunity and establish an independent federal corporation. The bill also has proposals to limit the work of the 2,500 aid lawyers nationwide that some feel would severely restrict

But John Schoonmaker, head of the Lansing bureau of seven full - time attorneys, said he thought his office would still be able to adequately represent the needs of the people. Legal services for the poor are currently funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity and operate under an advisory council of representatives from national lawyer organizations. The new corporation would consist of 11 directors appointed by the President and state advisory councils appointed by Limitations attached to the bill would sharply curb lobbying and ban aid lawyer participation in such matters as abortion, draft and school desegregation cases. Another provision would ban nonpartisan political activity. Partisan activity is already Schoonmaker said he hasn't read the exact language of the bill, but that limitations outlined in news reports would not affect the Lansing bureau because it does not participate in these types of

He said the bureau handles many civil cases that mostly break down into matters of consumer, adminstrative, welfare and "We haven't lobbied as a group because as a tax exempt organization we are already prohibited from doing so,"

"And as far as I know, our bureau has never been involved in an abortion, school integration or draft case," he added. Schoonmaker said if proposals to ban aid lawyers from participating in nonpartisan political activity is included, it could change operations since the bureau does participate in reviews of civil law before county and municipal bodies. "But I think we'll still be able to work against unjust laws as we do now," he said. Schoonmaker also said he didn't think the changes would affect recruitment of new lawyers for legal aid service, at least not

He said he has 45 applications now, mostly from spring law school graduates, but that the limitations might hurt this winter

Blue Cross agrees to reduction of rates

Blue Cross agreed Monday to reduce its rates by 8.2 per cent after its earlier request to keep rates at present levels was reduced by state insurance commissioner Daniel Demlow.

Demlow on April 29 disallowed Blue Cross' rate request as well as the 16.9 per cent rate request by Blue Shield. Demlow said he would accept an 8.2 per cent reduction in Blue Cross rates and a 15.1 per cent increase in those of Blue Shield if the companies filed formal applications along these lines. Though Blue Shield has taken Demlow's ruling to the Ingham County circuit court, Blue Cross agreed to comply with the commissioner's stipulations.

Blue Shield has indicated it will implement a 15.1 per cent rate increase July 1 without the formal approval of Demlow and resist his efforts to regulate how much the company spends on advertising and in payments to doctors.
