Nigerian chief of state assassinated

Nigeria drew attention from Angola this weekend when it quashed a brief but bloody coup in which Nigerian Chief of State General Muhammad was assassinated.

Lt. Gen. Olusegun Obasanjo, army chief of staff and former No. 2 man in Muhammad's government will replace Muhammad. The 21-member Supreme Military Council said in a statement broadcast by Radio Lagos that the uprising was led by Lt. Col. Musa Dimka, head of a group of dissident army officers.

The dissidents were arrested. Lt. Col. Dimka and the rebels seized control of the state radio and claimed in a Friday morning broadcast that they had taken over because of unexplained "difficulties" with Muhammad's regime.

Dimka, known only as the former head of the army's physical training program, said the government had been dissolved, travel was forbidden and a curfew would be enforced from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Reports were received of sporadic gunfire at the Dodan Barracks and witnesses said several bodies were lying on the streets outside. The barracks and the Defense Ministry were sealed off, and guards were reported at other key buildings.

The abortive coup attempt began at dawn when a column of tanks stormed the Dodan Barracks and a raging battle erupted. Muhammad was ambushed and gunned down as he was driving to the barracks.

Unofficial sources have put the death toll in Friday's uprising at 32.

The coup apparently failed to gain support from other parts of the oil-rich West African state.

The coup attempt followed a major anti-corruption drive by Muhammad and a sharp move to the left in foreign policy.

It was the fourth coup attempt since Nigeria gained its independence from Britain 16 years ago.

In Angola—which lies about 1,500 miles south of Nigeria—the Popular Front continued its mop-up of opposition forces.

And Zaire—which borders Angola—faces economic crisis as a result of MPLA victories across the border. Angola has been a trade corridor through which Zaire moves much of its exports and imports, particularly copper, to the Atlantic Ocean. But Zaire's support of the now-failing Western-backed forces has closed that corridor.

Those Western-backed forces lost the strategic Angolan city of Luso on Sunday after a lengthy siege, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported.

Capture of the city consolidates the hold of the MPLA on the Benguela railway line running from the Zaire border to the Atlantic at Lobito, Tanjug said.

The news agency added, in a dispatch from the Angolan capital of Luanda, that the MPLA expects to restore service on the railroad soon.

MPLA forces, spearheaded by thousands of Cubans, captured the rail route last week in their southward drive against collapsing forces of the Western-supplied National Union (UNITA) and National Front (FNLA).

The agency said the siege of Luso, in the east-central part of Angola, had been protracted because MPLA troops had refrained from bombing rival forces in the city in order not to destroy it.

Congo President Marion Ngonabi arrived in Kinshasa, Zaire, on Sunday, reportedly serving as an intermediary for possible negotiations between Zaire President Mobutu Sese Deko and MPLA chief Agostino Neto.

Zaire is a long-time supporter and supplier of the two pro-Western factions in the neighboring country, but President Mobutu recently indicated he was willing to consider an accommodation with the MPLA. The Congo is an MPLA supporter.

Mobutu wants assurances that the MPLA will not try to take the key Zaire port of Matadi or otherwise threaten the security of the Zaire government. Zaire would also like to resume the security of its copper exports along the Benguela railroad to the Atlantic. The shipments have been interrupted since October.

NEWSMAN LET OUT SECRET REPORT

Schorr may face charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling for action to protect the nation's secrets, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., says he will move to cite CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr for contempt of Congress for releasing a secret House intelligence committee report.

Stratton, a former broadcast news commentator, said that he will act Tuesday after Congress returns from a holiday recess.

"This is not a case of freedom of the press. It is one thing for Mr. Schorr to comment on the committee report on his own news program. That action is apparently protected by the latest Supreme Court decisions," Stratton said.

"It is quite another thing for him to pass along the complete text of that report to someone else for publication in clear defiance of the mandate of the House of Representatives."

Schorr confirmed his role in the publication of the secret report in the Village Voice and said that it was his duty as a newsman to arrange the publication.

He said he acted when he learned he might be the only person outside the government with a copy of the report.

"I do not understand the constitutional basis for Congressman Stratton's action. I have tried to fulfill what I consider my constitutional obligation. I hope he will fulfill his," Schorr said.

If cited for contempt and convicted in court the maximum penalty could be a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

A spokesman for CBS, meanwhile, said the network will take Schorr off coverage of the controversy because he has become involved in it. Schorr has reported on material in the report over the network.

Beyond that, however, CBS said it would "have no comment on any federal action until it is resolved or becomes clearer. At the same time... we will fully support Mr. Schorr against any action to force him to reveal his sources."

Stratton, a member of the House Armed Services Committee and its intelligence subcommittee, said that Schorr "knew as well as anyone" that the House had voted to block release of the report until secret material could be removed.

"Yet he deliberately gave a copy to the Village Voice for publication as he has admitted," said Stratton.

Schorr has said he obtained a copy of the report — he declines to reveal his source — when its release by the committee was expected in a few days.

"I felt myself confronted with an inescapable decision of journalistic conscience. It was whether, as possibly the sole possessor of the document outside the government, to cooperate in what might be the total suppression of a report originally meant for public distribution," he said.

Schorr said he arranged the publication through a reporter's legal defense organization in Washington. He said he would earmark any proceeds from the publication for the organization, the Reporters' Committee for Freedom of the Press.

SWU, MSU officials differ on student election details

By IRA ELLIOTT
State News Staff Writer

University officials and members of the Student Workers Union (SWU) met Friday to discuss the time, place and method for the upcoming student election, in anticipation of a formal conference between the two and the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC).

The formal pre-election conference, which was scheduled for this Wednesday afternoon, has been postponed and no new date has been set. The three parties will probably not be able to meet before next week.

SWU organizer Heidi Renn said Friday's meeting was marked by haggling, with no agreements reached.

"Nothing was accomplished," Renn said. "Groty (MSU asst. vice president for labor and industrial relations Keith Groty) just decided to argue out every point."

Groty and Jim Anderson, asst. director of MSU's placement services, were the University representatives at the meeting, but neither could be reached Sunday for comment. Other University officials declined comment for lack of information.

Late in January MERC handed down a long awaited decision authorizing a vote of some 7,000 student employees to determine whether they wish SWU to become their official bargaining agent with MSU.

Friday's conference was held so that MERC, which will be governing the election, could be presented concrete proposals for the election format at the official conference.

According to SWU members present at the session, the University proposed an election table be set up at spring term registration and that the vote take place then.

However, this suggestion met with SWU opposition, with union personnel arguing that, because of the energy students put into registration and the fact that two other

'U' administration still tight-lipped on football program investigation

By CAROL KLOSE
State News Staff Writer

The MSU administration and board of trustees are maintaining their usual tight-lipped stance on their closed meeting Friday with the Select Committee for Athletic Investigations.

The trustees and top administration officials met with the Select Committee

Friday night at Kellogg Center for what was described as a "briefing" on the athletic situation. The committee, which was appointed by President Wharton last April, has been investigating alleged violations by the football program.

Robert Perrin, vice president for University and federal relations, said the meeting was "for information only" and that no decisions of any kind were made. He declined to comment on what specific issues were discussed.

One trustee told the State News possible illegal fund-raising for the Athletic Dept. was discussed, though whether the fund-raising was actually illegal was not determined. There has been much speculation recently that the Big Ten is investigating MSU fund-raising events held in the Detroit area last year.

Wharton declined to comment on whether illegal fund-raising was discussed at the meeting. Several of the trustees also refused to comment on the fund-raising issue and stressed that the meeting was held simply to bring the board up to date before its regular board meeting this Friday.

The board is expected to make a decision Friday on the fate of the assistant football coaches. At the January 20 board meeting the trustees voted to extend indefinitely the coaches' contracts, which expired that week. Last Sunday, Wharton said he would recommend that all of the assistant coaches be retained with the exceptions of Howard Weyers and Charlie Butler. A decision on their contracts would be pending further investigation, he said. It has been speculated, however, that a decision on Weyers and Butler will also be made at the meeting this week.

Previously, several of the trustees had maintained that the board would wait until the Big Ten investigation was complete before taking action on the contracts. One trustee said the board would probably support Wharton's recommendation, however. The reason the board would not wait for the Big Ten investigation, the trustee said, is because the deadline for recruits to sign with MSU is drawing near and it is necessary to restore some "confidence" in the program before that date.

Ah, the age of modern electronics. Not only has it replaced hiring the Hunchback of Notre Dame to play the church bells in the belfry but it has also replaced the church organist.

That, at least, is the case with the People's Church bells, located high atop the church at 200 W. Grand River Ave. and more popularly known as the "other bells"—the "originals" being those on top of Beaumont Tower.

The music piped out over East Lansing at noon and 5 p.m. each weekday is not real, but computerized miniature bells piped up to four speakers located in the bell tower.

The 25 miniature bells are located in a small electrical unit on the church's second-floor sound room, where there is a 24-hour timer within the machine in which pins are set to activate the playing of the bells.

A roll of music is put into the machine — much like a player piano roll — and at designated times the roll moves through the machine triggering the bells and piping the sounds out to the bell tower. At noon and 5 p.m. two songs are played.

William Koehner, the building superintendent, is responsible for changing the roll each week. Each roll has six or seven selections on it.

"We first used the machine on New Year's Eve 1972 and we've had relatively few problems with it," Koehner said.

Koehner recalls the bells were set for nine in the morning when the church first got the machine. This was soon switched to noon, however, when "some man up on the hill who worked the midnight shift kept calling and saying he couldn't get any sleep," Koehner said.

The electronic carillon, as it is called, cost $7,500 and was donated as a gift to the 2,500 member interdenominational church by media baron Harold Grös, who is also a member of the church.

It is different from the Beaumont Tower carillon in that it is totally electronic, whereas Beaumont Tower songs are partly automatic and partly hand-played.

Attached to the church organ is a 25-key keyboard which can also be heard outside when piped through the miniature bells.

This is usually only done on Sunday when the church organist and MSU music professor Corliss Arnold plays.

"I select the music on the rolls from a catalogue the company sends us," said Arnold. "And while we stick to the more traditional church hymns, we could have nearly any songs made for us as long as they keep within the 25-note range."

The church has a roll of Easter selections, four rolls of regular hymns, a Lent roll and three Christmas rolls — one of which has songs like "Santa Claus is Coming to Town" and "White Christmas" on it. The cost of each roll depends on how many songs are on it, each song costing $7.00.

And while many may feel that it is sort of "cheating" on the traditional use of church bells, Koehner takes it in stride and says "it's really like an electric guitar."

Level of river expected to rise

The level of the Red Cedar River was at 5.24 feet as of Sunday night. The level of the river is expected to rise to seven feet or bankfull by Feb. 18. Should there be a significant amount of rain within the next few days, the possibility of flooding is probable, according to the East Lansing area weatherman.

Today's forecast calls for cloudy skies and possible rainfall this afternoon. The high is expected to reach the low to mid 40s. Tonight again will be cloudy with the possibility of showers. The low will hit the mid 30s. The probability of rain is 30 per cent today and 40 per cent tonight.

Busing foes march in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Antibusing demonstrators attacked police with clubs and stones Sunday near South Boston High School, and police responded with tear gas and motorcycle and horseback charges through the crowd of about 400 persons, authorities said.

At least eight persons, including two policemen, were hospitalized, and four persons were arrested.

The fracas began when the demonstrators, taking part in a "fathers' march," tried to walk past the high school, a focal point of resistance to federal court-ordered integration of the city's public schools. Police said that street was not on their authorized parade route and turned the crowd back.

At the height of the melee, club-swinging crowds of demonstrators roamed through the streets near the school, heaving bricks and rocks at police.

Police quell inmate uprising

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — About 80 inmates who took over the two largest buildings and set a series of fires Sunday at Concord State Prison gave themselves up after police threatened to storm the maximum security prison, authorities said.

The inmates filed quietly out of a prison dormitory they had seized after Prison Supt. Nicholas Genakis, speaking through a bullhorn, said they would not be hurt if they walked out peacefully.

Officials said they did not know what set off the four-hour disturbance. No injuries were reported.

Callers admit to bomb threat

LONDON (AP) — Callers identifying themselves as members of the "Irish Volunteer Force" telephoned two newspapers here Saturday to claim responsibility for planting a bomb in a busy London subway station and warned of a new bombing campaign in England against public places.

London police called in reinforcements and went on full bomb-watch alert after a 20-pound package of bolts and explosives was defused Friday within minutes of a timed rush-hour explosion at the Oxford Street station.

The callers said they were a breakaway group from the extremist Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army and were protesting the death of Frank Stagg, a hunger-striker who died Thursday in Wakefield prison.

Saigon church site of fracas

TOKYO (AP) — Hanoi radio said Saturday that Roman Catholic rebels led by a priest staged an uprising for 15 hours in a Saigon church and killed a member of South Vietnam's security forces before being captured.

Quoting a statement by Saigon's Revolutionary Committee, the broadcast said an unspecified number of rebels including the curate of Vinh Son church were overpowered Friday morning.

Left behind by the rebels were counterrevolutionary leaflets, weapons and printing equipment to make counterfeit money and bank notes of the Vietnamese bank, the broadcast said.

The counterfeiting operation, it said, proves the armed rebellion was opposed to the revolutionary administration of South Vietnam and their political motive was "connected with the Central Intelligence Agency."

Algerians recapture outpost

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Algerian regular forces Saturday recaptured the Algerian-bordered desert outpost of Amghala from Moroccan troops in the northern Spanish Sahara, the Moroccan government said Sunday.

Morocco's King Hassan II sent a telegram to Algeria's President Houari Boumedienne following Algeria's recapture of Amghala, warning him of the possible consequences of further Algerian military action in the Moroccan-claimed Sahara territory.

Under an agreement signed with Spain on Nov. 14, Morocco and neighboring Mauritania will take over the Spanish Sahara following the withdrawal of all Spanish troops.

Explosions kill 2 in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Fire and explosions in the northern town of Miranda killed two persons, including a 12-year-old boy, and injured seven others, police reported Saturday. Townspeople, blaming Communists, tried to attack party militants.

Hospital spokesmen said the two, a 12-year-old boy and a 40-year-old man, died of injuries caused by flying debris when a series of four explosions ripped a burning building Friday in the town 279 miles north of Lisbon. Four of the seven injured were seriously hurt.

Police believed two strong blasts were caused by explosives detonating in the building and two weaker ones by bursting gas cylinders.

Payoff scandal plagues Japan

By Wire Services

The Lockheed payoff scandal, already the cause of political turmoil in Japan, threatened Saturday to disrupt the country's defense build-up program.

Government officials said they would re-examine a decision to buy Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s P3C Orion anti-submarine patrol aircraft for Japan's Maritime Self-Defense Force.

Ichitaro Ide, a spokesman for Prime Minister Takeo Miki, told a news conference the government would have to restudy its decision to import the P3C.

"The existence of the contract between Lockheed and Kodama is one of the factors requiring the restudy of the decision," he said. The government had tentatively decided to purchase 100 P3C Orions, worth about $1.38 billion, under a defense build-up program beginning in April 1977.

Strengthening of Japan's anti-submarine warfare capabilities has a high priority in joint U.S.-Japanese arrangements for the defense of Japan.

Meanwhile, Tenneco Inc., a major multinational conglomerate, acknowledged Saturday to making payments that were illegal in some cases to political candidates, state utility board chairmen and local government officials in the United States from 1970 to 1975.

Tenneco also said it paid about $12 million over the five-year period to overseas attorneys, advisers, consultants and agents in connection with certain foreign operations in some 24 countries.

The company said payments in the United States were made by Tenneco or its subsidiaries to public officials or candidates in Louisiana, Florida, Pennsylvania, Texas, Indiana, California, Illinois, Kentucky, Wisconsin and Rhode Island.

It characterized some of the payments as campaign contributions but did not describe the nature of the others.

In a report filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the corporation said information on the payments is being turned over to the Internal Revenue Service.

In Venezuela, a well-informed source said Saturday an official investigation had concluded that eight persons from the government of former President Rafael Caldera were apparently bribed by Occidental Petroleum Corp.

The presidential palace announced that President Carlos Andres Perez had turned over the results of an investigation to the public prosecutor, but it did not reveal the findings.

Perez ordered the investigation in October after the New York Times quoted John F. Ryan, the former head of Occidental Venezuela, as saying that Occidental's president, Armando Hammer, had paid more than $3 million in bribes and contributed to governmental officials and legislators in Venezuela.

FORD, REAGAN AMONG STUMPERS

Campaigns hit Florida

By Wire Services

President Ford and Ronald Reagan stumped Florida for Republican votes and a number of Democrats also worked the Sunshine State Saturday in the heaviest weekend of presidential campaigning to date.

Ford, claiming he was gaining ground on Reagan's earlier strong effort in Florida, campaigned in Fort Lauderdale, St. Petersburg, Fort Myers and Miami.

Reagan made appearances in Eustis, DeBary and at Walt Disney World.

In Boston, Democratic candidate Morris Udall stood at the end of a Logan Airport runway and denounced a decision allowing the Concorde supersonic transport to land in the United States.

"Logan is the next logical move after the 16-month test at New York and Washington," Udall told several residents of a rundown neighborhood next to the world's fifth-largest airport.

Three other Democratic presidential candidates — Alabama Gov. George Wallace, Henry Jackson and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter — hustled voters in Florida. Wallace planned a rally at Vero Beach Saturday night and Jackson and Carter appeared in Miami Beach.

Reagan has been conceded a lead among the state's GOP voters but Ford said as he got off Air Force One for an appearance before thousands at St. Petersburg, "I think we have the initiative."

Police said 15,000 persons turned out on the bright sunny day in St. Petersburg, many of them elderly. Pinellas County, considered a Ford stronghold, has 168,000 Republican votes, more than all of New Hampshire. President Ford called for use of the death penalty in many federal cases involving national security and violence.

"I favor the use of the death penalty in the federal criminal system in accordance with proper constitutional standards. The death penalty, in appropriate instances, should be imposed upon conviction of sabotage, murder, espionage and treason," said Ford.

Lebanon reform urged

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine on Sunday rejected a Syrian-sponsored political reform plan for Lebanon and urged a "popular war" to reassert a Palestinian guerrilla presence in this Arab country.

Other leaders of Lebanon's left-wing organizations withheld immediate comment, but rightist leaders and Christian militia chiefs hailed the plan, which they said "returned peace to Lebanon" after 10 months of civil war.

The reform plan, announced Saturday night by Lebanese President Suleiman Franjeh, was pegged on the 1969 agreement of 1969 that defines limitations for the armed presence of Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon. Among other things, the plan ends the Christians' 6-5 parliamentary majority and replaces it with a 50-50 balance, and abolishes religious requirements for civil service jobs.

The jubilant firing of rifles greeted announcement of the reform plan, but underscored the fact that Christians and Moslems were still armed.

Three persons were killed on a highway at Zahle, 30 miles east of Beirut, when gunmen opened machine gun fire on their car. Seven bodies were found on sidewalks in three Beirut suburbs.

"The plan was designed to belittle and stifle the Palestinian revolutionary movement and the Lebanese nationalist forces," said the Marxist-oriented group Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP).

"The plan also was meant to suppress the eventuality of nationalist opposition to Syria's links with steps to achieve a partial settlement in the Golan Heights."

The Cairo agreement gives the Palestinians the right to govern and arm their 15 refugee camps in Lebanon, but bars them from carrying arms outside the camps.

Right-wing Christian leaders accused the Palestinians of precipitating the 10-month civil war in Lebanon by siding with the leftist Moslem groups.

The civil war was punctuated by more than 20 abortive cease-fire accords, until units of the Palestine Liberation Army crossed the border from Syria into Lebanon and tipped the military scales in favor of the guerrillas and their Lebanese Moslem allies.

Subsequently, the Syrians staged mediation efforts that culminated in the political and economic reform declaration announced by Franjeh.

"The Syrians have succeeded in hushing up Palestinian voices opposing the trend toward a Golan settlement," said the PFLP. "The bargain entailed a Syrian concession that enables the rightist Christian isolationists to achieve by political means the victories that they failed to attain militarily."

Posters in Peking, Shanghai attack Chinese vice premier

HONG KONG (AP) — A wall poster campaign attacking Chinese First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping has spread to a second university in Peking and a similar move may be building up in Shanghai, according to reports Saturday from China.

Teng, 71, was regarded earlier this month as his apparent to the late Premier Chou En-lai and his moderate policies. The Chinese hierarchy, however, passed him over last week and named security chief Hua Kuo-feng as their acting premier.

Teng was not attacked by name in the posters, but he was the obvious target.

The posters denounced "capitalist roaders" — a label which leftist radicals tacked on Teng during the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution — and also revived his famous quotation: "Never mind whether the cat is black or white — the important thing is whether he catches the mouse."

Teng's observation was that Chinese problems have to be solved with realism, not through blind faith in the teachings of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung. The radicals, led by Mao's wife Chiang Ching, say it is more important to uphold Maoism than achieve concrete results.

Peking residents said they had been informed that posters also appeared in Shanghai.

In any major showdown, the military is expected to have a role and, as of now, Teng is considered to have its support.

Time limit extended for council petitions

By FRANCES BROWN
State News Staff Writer
Because of an overwhelming lack of response from minority students the Student Council is extending the deadline for applications for at-large representatives.

Six student seats must be filled for the 1976-77 academic year but at least five of these must be non white, according to the Bylaws for Academic Governance.

These bylaws have been criticized as creating a reverse discrimination situation because this year only one seat may be filled by a white male.

Last year a white male could not fill any of the six seats. But even though the six seats guarantee non white students at least five voting seats on the Student Council, and thus the Academic Council, not enough non white students have expressed an interest in the positions.

"We have received only two petitions for the non white seats," said Beatrice Lin, undergraduate representative on the Academic Council Steering Committee. "The slate of at-large representatives has to name at least two candidates for each position to be filled."

Lin said that the bylaws may be illegal because they possibly violate Title IX and Title VI of the Education Amendment of 1972 which prohibits discrimination in educational programs or activities receiving federal funding.

"I feel that the restrictive nature of the at-large seats precludes, perhaps illegally, others from participating," she said. "The 1971 rationale (when the bylaws were written) that the (non white) positions were necessary to insure a full diversity of views may no longer be true in 1976 in light of the fact that the highest absentee rate in the council has been in the non white area."

Despite the possible discrimination, the Student Council decided it would be too late to try to amend the bylaws before the election which is to take place during spring term registration.

"I am not sure whether or not we would get more applicants if we opened these seats to the total student constituency," Lin added. "After all, I understand that the number of ASMSU presidential petitioners is quite small."

Students wishing to apply for the Student Council at-large representative positions may pick up applications in 10 Linton Hall and must return them by Friday.

Even the simple police chore of issuing parking tickets is getting to be a risky business for the public police officer these days. Just ask the female campus police officer who nearly got run over by the owner of the vehicle she was attempting to ticket last week.

The officer was in the process of writing up a ticket for a 1971 GMC van parked in Lot G across from the Kresge Art Center when the owner of the vehicle, a nonstudent, appeared. Without saying a word to the officer the man jumped in his van, started it up, backed it out of the parking space and started moving forward toward the officer.

Unable to move out of the way in time, the officer began to slowly go under the van as it inched forward. Fortunately the driver decided at that time to halt his tactic form of protest and was subsequently placed under arrest for resisting, obstructing and assaulting a police officer.

The man was arraigned in East Lansing District Court the following day and was released after posting the $500 bond.

A Bailey Hall student was deprived of a long weekend of skiing early Friday morning when he found his newly-purchased "K-2" skis stolen from his car ski rack. The skis, valued at $180, were locked and secured in a ski rack mounted atop the victim's 1970 Dodge Charger. The thieves apparently pried the locks off and snatched the pair of skis leaving two older sets of skis in the rack.

A brown, vinyl-covered couch, 75 inches in length, was reported missing from the lobby of Anthony Hall by employees there on Feb. 13. Apparently employees were not too sure when they had last seen the couch, telling police that it must have been stolen sometime prior to last week.

A male student, evidently in an inebriated condition, missed the panic bar of a West Akers lobby door early Saturday morning and fell forward into the plate glass. The man sustained a large laceration on the left side of his stomach and was taken to Sparrow Hospital where it required 30 stitches to close the wound.

A career in law—without law school.

What can you do with only a bachelor's degree? Now there is a way to bridge the gap between an undergraduate education and a challenging, responsible career. The Lawyer's Assistant is able to do work traditionally done by lawyers.

Three months of intensive training can give you the skills—the courses are taught by lawyers. You choose one of the seven courses offered—choose the city in which you want to work.

Since 1970, The Institute for Paralegal Training has placed more than 1200 graduates in law firms, banks, and corporations in over 75 cities.

If you are a senior of high academic standing and are interested in a career as a Lawyer's Assistant, we'd like to meet you.

Manufacturing government secret papers

Art Buchwald

Probably the biggest business in Washington is the manufacturing of secrets. In the past 20 years, the demand for secrets has increased tenfold and, because the government cannot keep up with it, all federal agencies are now subcontracting their orders for secrets to private industry. I visited one of these secret manufacturing factories the other day. It is called Hush Ltd., and is located in a suburb outside Washington, D.C.

disclosures about the FBI and the Watergate scandal would have hurt your business."

"Au contraire," said Zankel. "As soon as a secret is revealed to the public, the agency involved orders a new one to replace it. The demand for full disclosure of what the government is up to has made every government department search for more sophisticated secrets that can't be discovered."

Zankel took me into a large room which was completely automated. There were machines typing up documents and other machines stamping them "Confidential."

"This is our bread and butter business," he explained. "We supply 80 per cent of all the confidential papers used by the federal government."

"How do they order them?"

"By the ton. We might get a call from HEW or HUD and they'll say we need three tons of confidential papers for the week."

"Don't they specify what kind they want?"

"No, confidential papers do not have a high rating in the government, but it does make the department look good to have them in their files. So nobody really cares what's on them. We just program our electric typewriters to type up anything that looks official, then we stamp them 'Confidential,' bale them in hundred-pound packages, send them over by truck and throw them on the steps of the agency every morning."

We came to some swinging doors. "This is something that might interest you," Zankel said. The large airy room had three long tables at which were seated men and women in white smocks. They were working on binding volumes of mimeographed papers.

"What are they doing?"

"They're binding secrets to be subpoenaed. These are secrets that can be given to congressional committees."

I looked perplexed.

Zankel explained, "Congress is demanding more and more secrets from the executive branch of the government. So we are manufacturing secrets especially tailored to satisfy congressional subpoenas."

"For example, these chips have been ordered by the Federal Reserve Board and have to do with the private affairs of banks. When Congress demands to see the secret papers in the Fed's files, the Federal Reserve Bank will send these over. Obviously, they're so complicated that no one can understand them. But since they have a lot of bulk to them, the committees are usually satisfied. The people over there are working on energy secrets, and down there they are dealing with agricultural exports. Our job is to see that no one can make head or tail out of them."

Before we went into the next room Zankel made me put on rubber boots. We entered a hall with three inches of water on the floor.

"This is probably our most difficult work. We have to make secrets here that can be leaked."

"You have government orders for secrets that leak?" I asked in surprise.

"It's one of our biggest items. High government officials are constantly leaking secrets to the press, and pretending surprise that the secret got out. We've developed a container which can hold a secret in a solid state until the word goes out it should be leaked. Then by just twisting this tab, the secret becomes soluble and leaks all over town."

"Fantastic," I said.

"It's our biggest item. Between Henry Kissinger, Pat Moynihan and the congressional committee investigating the CIA, we can't keep them in stock."

VIEWPOINT: BLACK POWER

For a peaceful, common sense revolution

By NORA KIM GREEN

Although this does not cover all the things raised by Michael Watz's recent letter "Black power," it does convey my immediate reaction. I do not believe that much will be accomplished with the attitude presented in that letter.

I know of no women who live today who can compare in present U.S. governmental strength with Gerald Ford, George Meany or Henry Kissinger, to name a few. There is, however, potential strength for all of us.

Also, this does not lead me to believe that women are powerless and doomed to be powerless... just as it does not lead me to believe that the "black" man (ridiculous labels that humans insist on giving themselves and others) or any "minority" is doomed to be powerless. I know of no woman that has even been President of MSU, and yet President Wharton is President Wharton, isn't he.

The human will cannot die in humans, be they black, yellow, white, brown, female or male. Look to Faulkner and history for that. Ah, but death and therefore history has no power and followers of the past are nothing according to our pen pal. This includes Christ, Abraham Lincoln, Robert Kennedy, to name a few. To say that what man has said, done, written and has had happen to him is to have no effect on others is not being very observant or knowing of one's self or others.

I think that King's death emphasized his work, his sayings and brought the world about face in their thinking although his death was a very terrible tragedy. People suddenly knew who King was, and this gave King power; power to get his message across from what he had said before and how he had lived before. This is lasting power; power beyond death.

Perhaps the real question is, what kind of power does Mr. Watz want? He has alluded to governmental power. There is doubt as to how much power those in politics actually have in the U.S. Ford and others must utilize their "power" without enraging the public which entails that they follow what we want.

That is how this country is supposed to be run, and to some extent it is. Mr. Watz seems to want personal, individual power for himself. Once he dies, it will not matter what happens to the world as far as he is concerned, or so his letter leads me to believe. A revolt, repression and revenge on others because you have been taught that you are not as well off as others and because you have also been TAUGHT that you can make yourself heard and receive comforts by screaming REVOLUTION, A

BLOODY REVOLUTION.

Is this what we want? I cry for revolution, but it is a peaceful, intelligent and common sense revolution that I want by strong steady people, a majority of the people. Because I want the revolution to last and continue forever until all are one (ah yes, the idealist at hand).

I think we need to re-examine ourselves and find a worthwhile cause in which we all agree and find a reward in, and one that lasts beyond our own death.

Morality: the answer

Dear Mr. Leonid Brezhnev, Chairman of the Soviet Council of Ministers, Mr. Ronald Reagan, Mr. Ralph Nader, and professors of MSU, etc. Wake up!

Your semicomatose sleep should have by now come to an end. The world isn't a dream or illusion. Human life isn't expendable at your request. Suffering and oppression are not universal aspirations — nor can today's problems be solved with beards and stators or by a world-wide totalitarian regime.

Dora Russell in "The Right to Be Happy" once said, "the problem of building a human society is always the difficulty of establishing a relation between individual and communal happiness." Or to put it another way, can man the individual achieve happiness if he has to go against reason and convictions, because the majority has established and institutionalized whimsical coercive rules and regulations?

Can the individual achieve happiness if he is cheated and coerced against, and/or abused, oppressed and forced into Communism or Socialism?

I think not.

I believe the answer to coercion and oppression is first, to realize that such a problem exists; second, to determine whether or not the problem is caused by individual freedom or political force; thirdly, to identify the particular problem, and fourthly, to abolish it if it is anti-life and anti-man.

Only by doing this, by taking the intellectual and moral courage it requires to stand against any form of political oppression (i.e. communism, socialism, totalitarianism, dictatorships, military conscription, etc.) from total political systems to particular laws and regulations, will man eventually discover the world fit for man.

Heavy metal virtuoso Ted Nugent should astound rock fans at MSU

By DAVE DiMARTINO
State News Reviewer
ed Nugent, certainly one of the most colorful musi-figures, will appear at MSU

a week in what might consistently be the loudest Pop entertainment production in the area.

Nugent, who will be playing at the MSU Auditorium, will be performed along with Styx (of the "Rocky Mountain High") and England's ly talented and Engaged in the Pursuit of the Tamed Pretty Things. One of the elements that makes Nugent such a fascinating figure is his admittedly unusual taste for living, which he occasionally from interview to interview. Explaining how he and his band prepared for the recording of "Nugent," his first LP for Vanguard, Nugent revealed, "I grew up on my farm and hunt a lot of food with bows and arrows. Then we take whatever we catch, like wild boar for venison, and we cook it and eat it. That makes us good and healthy when we enter the stu-

Nugent not only uses a bow on the violin, but occasionally is playing the guitar. When he does, strange things usually happen. Says Nugent, "When I play soft, it's almost inaudible; when we play loud, it can be painful; when we play slow, it's very bluesy and when we play fast, it's scary."

Nugent does not mention what happens when he plays fast and loud, but more often than not, that's what is most important.

Nugent's press bio, for sheer brevity, says it best: "When Ted Nugent joined Epic records, it was with the understanding that the world would have to accept him on his own terms."

Of course, Nugent is very close to the hearts of many East Lansing locals, due to his Detroit origins. With the Amboy Dukes, he recorded four albums (give or take a Greatest Hits package, of which there have

After leaving the obscurity of Mainstream records, Nugent and a continuously - changing lineup of Amboy Dukes recorded two LP's for Polydor and two for DiscReet. However, as Epic records press bio typically states, "It was not until Nugent made his first album for Epic in mid - 1975 that his guitar histrionics were properly captured, produced and engineered."

That album has, in truth, done very well for Nugent, and is probably his most consistent seller in ages. Including such Nugentian gems as "Motor City Mad House," "Stormtroopin'," "Just What the Doctor Ordered" and "Stranglehold," it features the guitarist in the fiercest throes of integrity to date. As usual, Nugent employs no distracting devices such as wah - wah, fuzzboxes or phase shifters, preferring instead to simply utilize his eight speaker cabinets and huge amplifier as tastefully as possible.

The liner notes for Nugent's new album state, "Ted Nugent is probably the only legit metal guitar showman America has spawned in the face of the British onslaught; and Ted has been ripping apart concert halls as long as any of them."

Whether Nugent will rip apart the MSU Auditorium will be determined on the night of the performance. Scheduled for Friday, Feb. 27 at 7:30 p.m., the concert should be a highly memorable affair. Tickets are available at the MSU Union for $5 and $6.

The 120 In The Shade Galleries, 120 W. Ottawa St., near the capitol in downtown Lansing, has opened two new exhibitions. The shows will run until the end of February and will be open during normal business hours.

Works of Soja vonPeis Cornell are featured in the galleries' east wing. Cornell is a master in fine arts graduate of MSU and teaches painting in the Evening College. She works in oils in a flowing style.

'Jeff and Marty' sparkle in icers' split

Steve Colp assumes an unnatural position in order to center the puck to a teammate during this weekend's action against North Dakota, in which the Spartans split the two-game series.

By EDWARD L. RONDERS
State News Sports Writer

The "Jeff and Marty" show performed an encore at Munn Arena Saturday night, drawing a standing ovation from the audience and bitter glances from the opposition.

The two star attractions, Jeff Addley and Marty McLaughlin, headed a cast of 20, which more than erased derogatory reviews for its shoddy show the previous night.

Spearheading a stalwart defensive effort by the Spartans hockey team, Addley and McLaughlin led MSU to a 7-1 victory over North Dakota Saturday night. The win salvaged a split in the weekend series with the fighting Sioux as North Dakota skated to a 6-2 opening night triumph.

The 6,493 spectators on hand Saturday night got a preview of the night's action when McLaughlin and Addley teamed up early in the game to stifle three consecutive North Dakota power plays.

"Marty's an aggressive player. He's the one who's made us think about scoring while we're a man short," Addley blurted following Saturday night's win. McLaughlin echoes Addley, saying, "We try to play with one man up in the offensive zone and one back. This helps us mess up the other team's rushes down the ice. We like to run at them."

Scoring came about in the second stanza after MSU had built a 3-0 advantage on two goals by Steve Colp and one by Tom Ross.

With Daryl Rice residing in the penalty box, McLaughlin stole the puck behind the Sioux net. The 5-foot-7 sophomore surprised goalie Pete Waselovich with a quick pass to Addley who immediately popped home MSU's first short-handed goal of the season.

The second scoring act by the dynamic duo occurred in the third period with Doug Counter resting in the penalty box.

Again, McLaughlin stole the puck behind the net. This time, however, Addley was about 15 feet in front when he took McLaughlin's precision pass and zipped a shot past the frustrated Waselovich.

Colp registered a hat trick Saturday night when he blasted home his third score at 6:47 of the final period. Pat Betterly rounded out MSU's scoring parade when he popped in his sixth goal of the season at 15:28 of the third stanza.

Goalie Dave Versical lost his bid for a shutout as Tom Goddard scored for North Dakota when MSU had both Counter and Cahill in the penalty box.

The victory was especially satisfying for coach Arno Bessone. "The big difference tonight was forechecking," Bessone said. "When we killed off those three penalties in the first period it sort of gave us a lift."

Friday night Addley posted a goal at 3:18 of the opening period only to see North Dakota roar back with two unanswered tallies in the same stanza.

Perhaps dwelling on their sweep of Minnesota the previous weekend, the Spartans fared no better in the second and third periods with Campbell notching the only other MSU score while the Sioux banged home four tallies.

Friday's frustrations were forgotten in the locker room Saturday night. Daryl Rice glanced across the room to Addley and McLaughlin, nodded his head and blurted, "Those guys played their hearts out tonight. That gave the whole team a lift. And, after Friday night we need that."

Addley nearly scored his first hat trick when Bessone placed him on the power play with 1:20 remaining.

"It was like a dream the crowd started chanting me to get the hat trick," Addley glowed. "I've never be-

U-M pummels cagers, 81-64

By EDWARD L. RONDERS
State News Sports Writer

MSU's one-man army failed to stave off U-M's bench battalion Saturday as the Wolverines pounded down the Spartans, 81-64, before a sellout at Jensen.

The 14th ranked Michigan squad parlayed speed, bench strength and a zone defense in thwarting the Spartans for the second time this year.

MSU's only retaliation came in the form of Terry Furlow's marksmanship but even the Flint senior's heroics weren't enough to sidetrack the blitzing Wolverines.

The Spartans, winners of five of their six previous contests, forged to a 31-26 advantage before Michigan's heavy artillery let loose. Johnny Orr dictated a cease fire timeout and directed his squad to run and play defense.

Combining a zone press defense with a lightning running game, the Wolverines outscored MSU 13-2 in one three-minute stretch and roared to a 41-37 halftime time.

Orr explained, "our zone press turned the game around for us. We knew we had to speed up the game in the second half."

Instrumental in the Spartans' vanquish were several members of the Michigan bench. Forward Wayman Britt collected three personal fouls in the first half alone, forcing Orr to call on freshman Alan Hardy. Guard Steve Grote also garnered a trio of infractions and was likewise sidelined by Orr. Taking his place was Dave Baxter.

Despite the substitutions, Michigan lost no battle efficiency as they continued their dazzling speed and an adhesive zone to stifle Furlow and company.

At one point in the final 20 minutes, Furlow had registered 13 of the Spartans' 17 points. Bombing from outside, Furlow hit six of MSU's seven baskets scored during a 13 minute period of the half. By that time, Michigan was well on its way to their tenth Big Ten conquest.

Furlow finished the battle with 38 points, but still blamed impatience and lack of sacrifice as reasons for the Spartans' sixth Big Ten defeat. "As a team we didn't have patience against Michigan's zone. We knew what show their wares.

Orr noted, "Hardy did a superb job today. He has the size, the quickness and the moves to become a super star."

Meanwhile, the Spartans front line was engulfed in the Wolverines' victory march. Forward Edgar Wilson joined Furlow as the only MSU cager in double figures, hitting for ten.

Ganakas summed up the debacle stating, "their guys coming off the bench did very well. Hardy and Hubbard had good games. They just wore us down. We had to muster every bit of energy just to stay with them."

Four Michigan players double figures with light quick guard Rickey Greening the Wolves with 24 points while Hubbard had 16, Britt 15 and Britt 13.

The Spartans' next game scheduled for Saturday at Illinois comes to Jensen at 7:35 p.m. tipoff.

Tankers close home season with two big weekend wins

By ANN WILLIAMSON
State News Sports Writer

There's nothing like a pair of wins to close out a home season.

And that's exactly what the MSU men's swim team did last weekend when they grabbed a win over Illinois, 73-50 Friday and Kent State, 89-34 Saturday to boost their season record to 7-2.

Coach Dick Fetter's was expecting Friday's meet against the Illini to be a lot closer than the final score indicated, and for a while he was worried about whether the Spartans would be able to win at all.

"Before Friday's meet started I thought it was going to be five points one way or the other," Fetter said. "When Illinois beat us on the first event, the medley relay, I was a little concerned. But then when Marc Stiner won the one-meter diving and Shawn Elkins took the 1,000 freestyle race and beat one of Illinois' best swimmers, that took the starch out of their sails."

Besides Stiner and Elkins' wins, the Spartans picked up first place finishes from Dave Dale in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 21.75 seconds, Dave Burgering on the three-meter diving and John Apsley in the 200-yard butterfly with a time of 1:57.1.

Mark Outwater's time of 2:01.2 won him the 200-yard backstroke event; Greg Forman took the 500-yard freestyle at 4:45.0 and Ken Holmes won the 200-yard breaststroke at 2:15.7.

Saturday's meet against Kent State produced even more first place finishes for the Spartans, as MSU won every event of the evening except the breaststroke.

Jim Daw took the 1,000 freestyle race at 9:52.4 and the 200-yard backstroke at 2:04.8; Steve Ploussard won the 200 freestyle with a time of 1:46.0; Barry VanAmberg grabbed the one-meter diving with 300 points; Bruce Wright took the 50-yard freestyle race at 21.7 seconds, and Mike Rado's time of 2:00.6 was good for first place in the 200-yard individual medley event.

Dave Seibold won the 200-yard butterfly at 1:58.0; Don Lindsay took the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 48.7 seconds; Bergering grabbed the three-meter diving competition with 327 points; Apsley took the 500-yard freestyle at 4:53.5, and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Wright, Elkins, Rado and Bob Terri won with a time of 3:13.9.

Wisconsin rally stuns matmen

By GREG SCHREINER
State News Sports Writer

"I'm disappointed," sighed a dejected Grady Peninger. "I'm bitterly disappointed. We had it won. We really had it won."

But his MSU grapplers didn't win it in the end, "it" being Saturday night's wrestling meet against the University of Wisconsin. The Spartans ran up a 17-6 lead over the fifth-ranked Badgers, but dropped the last four matches to lose 19-17.

Wisconsin came into the meet minus Pat Christianson, their most successful man this season, who was injured in a meet with U-M on Friday.

Randy Miller gave the Spartans an early lead in the opening match at 118 pounds as he came from behind in the third period to score a 4-3 decision and give MSU a 3-0 lead.

Dave Bartlett, wrestling in his second match for the Spartans, was pinned for the second time by Badger Jack Reinwand at 5:38, putting Wisconsin on top 6-3.

MSU took the next four matches on decision. At 134 pounds, Pat Milkovich won 12-4. Dave Rodriguez (142 pounds) scored a takedown with 20 seconds left to secure his 8-4 victory; brother Steve Rodriguez nailed a takedown with 10 seconds remaining to enlarge his margin to 12-4 for a major decision in the 150-pound tilt; and Doug Siegert took control early in the third to win the 158-pound match, 7-5.

With just four matches remaining, speculation was that a win in any one would secure the victory for the Spartans. The win was not to be as the Badgers swept.

All-American Lee Kemp scored a 6-2 decision over Waad Nadhir in the 167-pound tilt; Jeff Hersha dropped an 8-0 major decision in the 177-pound match; at 190 pounds, Shawn Whitcomb fell 3-1, and Dan Evans lost 5-0 in the heavy-weight match to provide Wisconsin with their final margin over the now 7-6 Spartans.

"They're young kids and they make young mistakes," Peninger said, looking back. "But we know we had every opportunity to beat them, and we still might when the Big Ten Tournament rolls around. We lost the battle tonight, but still perhaps not the war."

"And we're not gonna get a chance to rest up and gather ourselves either, with Oklahoma (rated sixth nationally) coming in next Saturday," he said. "After that we'll have wrestled the top six teams in the country. Nobody can say we've been dodgin' them."

Weekend Action

The women's basketball team stomped Western Illinois 89-52, but couldn't get by a tough University of Missouri team, as the Spartans lost 80-75 in weekend action at Macomb, Illinois.

MSU showed strength in the Illinois game. Mary Ann Thompson tossed in 21 points for the Spartans, followed by Lori Hyman with 14 and Jill Prudden with 11.

Thursday MSU traveled to Western Michigan, only to be beaten by the Broncos 89-65. The team's record now stands at 4-13.

In the JV game last Thursday, MSU won 90-59, raising their record to 8-1 for the season.

MSU swordsmen split a double dual meet this weekend as they first defeated the University of Wisconsin-Parkside 18-9, then lost to the University of Wisconsin Madison by the same score. Against Parkside, besides foil, sabre was 7-2, while epee was 9-0. Epee was 2-7 against Madison while sabre was 4-5. Individually, Mike Bradley was 6-0 on the day at sabre, while Jon Moss and Bill Peterman were 4-1 at epee.

Coach Charles Schmitter's fencers are now 13-3 on the season.

MSU trackster Herb Harkins showed his Olympic potential last Saturday at the Maple Leaf Games in Toronto, 17,000 spectators.

Lindsay finished second in the three-mile race with a time of 13:21.4 behind Ketya Neno, who won the race 13:19.2.

Weekend results

Director Davis to speak tonight

By CAROLE LEIGH HUTTON

State News Staff Writer

Homosexuality, suicide and alcoholism are just a few of the topics that film maker Peter Davis has encompassed in his television and screen documentaries.

Davis, best known for the direction of "Hearts and Minds," a controversial documentary of the Viet Nam war, will speak at MSU tonight for an ASMSU Great Issues presentation.

"Predominantly I'll be talking about what is extremely impressive to me — power," Davis said, "how to curb it and channel it into a constructive area in society."

Davis will also speak and answer questions about "Hearts and Minds" and his most celebrated television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

This CBS television presentation dealt with military propaganda at the highest levels. "We found many government agencies spending wastefully," Davis said of the investigation of government public relations and salesmanship.

"But only the Pentagon was selling itself so efficiently in terms of trying to distort the issues and change the image."

Besides the Pentagon expose Davis has dealt with many other controversial topics through the television documentary media.

Ten years ago he worked on a program that posed the question of sickness in relation to homosexuality. "It received shock by some and approval by others," Davis said, "but it was pretty old fashioned, even for its day."

"We tended to put on psychiatrists who judged very harshly. We concluded that homosexuals were more likely to be sad than happy and therefore 'more sick than well.'"

Another documentary Davis worked on about ten years ago was about the first student rebellion at the University of California at Berkeley in 1964.

"It was about the causes and effects of rebellion itself, the students caught up in it and how they reacted to the pressures," Davis said.

Davis is now beginning work on what he hopes will become a series of television documentaries dealing with "various issues — both unite and divide America."

But it is hard to talk about something you're doing in journalism," he said. "It is now in the investigation stages."

After several years of working on television documentaries, Davis achieved his greatest recognition through the controversial film "Hearts and Minds."

"The major thing that I wish I had been able to do with that," he said, "was to get more of the principal men who insisted upon the war, like Robert MacNamara, Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger."

"I felt that I need very much to make it, and was and remain very glad that I did it."

Davis, who will be speaking in 108B Wells Hall this evening, said that he enjoys speaking to college students more than any other audience.

"I find that they are quite interested in controversy and exploring issues. Students are at a point in life where they are wondering and questioning things. That makes it more rewarding for someone like me."

If you occasionally battle the midnight munchies by trekking off into the gloom for McDonald's, don't be surprised at anything you may find at your journey's end.

And if you happened to be at the McDonald's on West Grand River Avenue last Thursday between 10:30 p.m. and 12 p.m., perhaps you were surprised to see eight people, plus a waiter formally attired and drinking Seven-Up out of champagne glasses.

McDonald's was their kind of place for an "early Valentine's Day midnight supper," where dresses and tuxedos were required apparel. As for the waiter, he was there to put the tables on the tables, set the places and serve the hamburgers — of course.

Michael Bogar, the waiter, 359 Williams Hall, had a rather constructive reason for participating. "I did this to upgrade McDonald's clientele and to improve their image," he said.

Organizer Bill Love, 327 Williams Hall, summed up the group's actions by saying that it really was a high motive for doing what they did.

"We did it for culture," he said. "The American people really need a touch of class and we each do our humble part."

No agreement reached for SWU election

"No one likes to do anything at registration. It's wall to wall people with too many hassles," Renn said.

Instead, SWU asked that six tables be set up on campus in heavily traveled areas such as Brody Hall, Wilson Hall, Bessey Hall, the Union, Eppley Center and the Women's IM Building. The University voiced opposition to this suggestion. Renn said, fearing students would vote more than once by going from one table to another. And, she said, the effort involved in making up eligibility lists for six locations was deemed an unnecessary effort by the University.

With both parties in disagreement over the method of election and the newly hatched problem over a mutually convenient time to meet MERC, a date for the election impossible to determine.

But Renn said SWU hoping for the second spring term.

"We want to keep election) out of finals week the first week of classes people are busy studying," she said.
