So far, McCarthy has qualified for the November ballot in Ohio, Kentucky and New Jersey. Poddar said there is a strong possibility that McCarthy's name will be one the Pennsylvania ballot also.

STIGMA will march on Capitol; protests to focus on faulty buses

By KAT BROWN

State News Staff Writer
The Students for Total Integration through Greater Mobility and Accessibility (STIGMA) has been joining forces with other handicapped organizations in preparation for its demonstration and march to the Michigan Capitol on Wednesday, beginning

Leonard Sawisch, chairperson STIGMA, said he and representatives from MSU's Special Programs office will speak at the Capitol as will Rep. Lynn Jondahl, D-East Lansing, Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, and a representative from the Dept. of Transportation. STIGMA is hoping that Gov. Milliken will also speak.

Sawisch said the members of his group are expecting about 500 people for the march and at least that many to join them at the Capitol. For those people who cannot march, STIGMA is requesting that they boycott all local busing systems and find alternative transportation that day to support the cause.

Terry Davis, transport programs manager of the Office of Programs for Handicapped Students (OPHS), said he has been working closely with STIGMA and outlined some of the problems he has had in providing accessible transportation for handicappers. Davis said he has one-and-a-half vehicles available and only one of those is completely accessible. He said he had to deny the $75 per term bus service to several temporary handicappers because the service is already fall, Davis said, handicapped students will be denied the right to go to school here. In addition to complaints about MSU's accessible buses, STIGMA has another complaint with the Capital Area Transportation Authority (CATA). Duane Kooyers, administrative assistant of CATA, said the authority bought eight accessible buses at the same time that 30 inaccessible buses were purchased. Handicappers are protesting the latter purchase. Kooyers previously said the problem with the buses is that manufacturers are not making them functional. Davis said even though there are eight accessible buses, only three of them are in working condition and there are normally only two used for the Spec-tran unit which serves the handicappers. The unit operates on a dial-a-ride basis that must be ordered 36 hours in advance of the time the service

STIGMA is looking for volunteers push wheelchairs during the march. Members will also be silkscreening T-shirts free of charge with "Support Accessible Transportation" on one side and "Boycott Buses May 5" on the other. Those interested may bring their T-shirts to 169 N. Case Hall all day today or to Beaumont Tower Wednesday before the march to be printed shortly after the House passed it by a vote of 291 to 81.

Weicker said that public financing of campaigns for federal office had been mistakenly called Watergate reform and told the Senate he intended to speak "into the evening and for the next several days.

Length of delay undertain How long this may delay final congressional action on the legislation is uncertain. It takes a three-fifths majority of the Senate membership, or 60 votes, to break a fillibuster.

Senate leaders of both parties had urged a quick vote, once the House acted, so that the bill could go to President Ford and the uncertainty surrounding the financing of presidential campaigns could be cleared up. However, even if Ford signs the measure later this week, it will be too late to help been forced to suspend campaigning because federal matching funds have been frozen for more than a month. House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said a letter from the White House indicates Ford "has not made up his mind whether he will veto this bill or not. Ford advised to sign compromise

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who has advised Ford to sign the compromise measure, said it would be "difficult to sustain a veto." Scott described the compromise as "better than no bill at all."

The President must nominate six election commissioners and the Senate must confirm them first. Because of other steps that must be taken before FEC's authority to disburse funds is restored, the measure was unlikely to be much help to candidates in many of this month's heavy schedule of primaries. Meanwhile, while campaigning in Indian-apolis Monday, President Ford pressed an attack on his Republican and Democratic rivals, accusing Democrat Jimmy Carter of doing a "flip-flop" on ethnic purity and Republican Ronald Reagan of committing "blooper" on trimming the federal budget. Asked at an Indianapolis news conference about Carter's claim that Ford is being forced to take more conservative positions by Reagan's attacks on Administration policy, the President said it is Carter who "has really been pushed around."

Humphrey emerges as 'favorite son

"I think his flexibility in this campaign is pretty well recognized," Ford said of Carter. "Whenever his critics hit on him, he changes his position."

In Minneapolis, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey emerged as a well-supported favorite son from three Minnesota district conventions over the weekend, picking up the support of 13 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Humphrey, who said last Thursday that he is not officially a candidate but would accept a draft, now has a total of 39 delegates from Minnesota. He had received the endorsement of 26 delegates the previous weekend.

Sixteen additional Democratic delegates will be chosen at the state convention in June, making a total of 65 for the Minnesota delegation.

President Ford leads the Republican delegate count thus far with 12, compared to Ronald Reagan's one and two uncommit-

Indiana, Alabama and Georgia have primaries today with a total of 139 delegates at stake.

Meanwhile, at the close of a three-day conference of the Caucus of Black Demo-crats in Charlotte, N.C., four Democratic candidates vying for an estimated eight million black votes, agreed that the country is ready for a black vice president.

The four candidates - former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., Sen. Frank Church of Idaho and Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona refused to say they would push for a black running mate.

The four candidates said they would push for more blacks in government, especially in the State Dept. and courts, and a restructuring of the tax structure to lighten the burden on the poer.

Small food price gain expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers may see retail food prices go up only 3 to 4 per cent this year despite prospects that the Soviet Union may buy more grain from current U.S. reserves, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Monday.

That would be the smallest one-year gain since 1972 and less than half of the 8.5 per cent increase last year. Food costs have soared 14.5 per cent in each of the last two years, after a rise of about 4.5 per cent in 1972.

Butz said his 1976 food price prediction depended on farmers getting "average weather" and turning out expected bumper crops of corn and wheat this season.

Department experts say total U.S. grain supply probably will increase over the next 18 months despite the current Russian grain purchases and deliveries.

Simon to visit Chile during tour

NEW YORK (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said Monday he will visit Chile this week on a Latin-American tour and is optimistic his visit will result in the release of "quite a few" political prisoners.

The United States has been involved in economic discussions with Chile for the past four to six weeks, Simon said.

Chile's military government has been criticized for suspending personal freedoms since the overthrow of Communist President Salvador Allende in September 1973. Last month, three House members returned from a trip to Chile and said they would attempt to end U.S. aid to Chile because with it "there is no deterrent to the military junta's repressive human rights policies."

Direct U.S. military aid to Chile has been suspended since December 1974, but economic aid has continued.

Vice premier blamed for riot

TOKYO (AP) — A "new wave" of criticism against former Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping has begun, and Chinese broadcasts have referred to the April 5 riot in Tien An Men square as a "criminal incident" that has been blamed on Teng. A massive public scolding of three Chinese for "counterrevolutionary" conduct during the riot was also reported.

Teng, a protege of Chou En-lai and expected at one time to be named his successor as premier, was ousted from his government and Communist party posts last month under mounting criticism that he was trying to restore capitalism in Another broadcast described criticism of Teng "at political evening schools, in the fields, on work sites and in 10,000 wall posters and blackboard critiques" in a rural county of

General endorsed for president

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The conservative Social Democratic Center (CDS) became the second major political party to endorse Army Chief of Staff Gen. Antonio Ramalho Eanes for president. It appeared the general would be the choice of all four major parties.

The presidential election has been tentatively set for late June or early July. Under the new constitution the president holds a large portion of political power.

The centrist Popular Democratic party, the country's second strongest political organization, came out in favor of Eanes early last week. The Socialists, Portugal's largest party, and Communists were expected to endorse the BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Soldiers shot and killed four leftist guerilla suspects fleeing from an army roadblock Monday, the army announced.

The army's 5th Corps at Bahia Blanca, 425 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, said the incident occurred when an auto tried to elude an army highway control operation.

Health Center flaws slight MSU students

With the many problems student life poses, one thing students don't need is a hard time when they're sick.

Unfortunately, the worst part of being sick for any MSU student is visiting the University Health

If accuracy is to be served, one must say that the health center's actual care is not all bad, though improvements - especially for women - need desperately be made.

It is rather the physical plant itself, the number of doctors, the accessibility of the center's services and its policies that impede progress back to good health for

One of the largest problems is simply trying to see a doctor. Even with an appointment, there is usually a 20 to 30 minute wait to see a doctor.

But it is nearly impossible certainly frustrating, if nothing else - for a student to make an appointment by phone. If a busy signal is not the answer, a repeating recording which asks the caller to "be patient" responds.

The problem: only two clerks ments for 14 doctors.

Thus it seems the first and easiest step to streamlining the process is to hire a third clerk, and put each in charge of arranging appointments for four or five doctors.

Actually, however, it must be recognized that the problem of securing an appointment is indicative of a larger problem with the present health system. The building itself is simply too small to serve the needs of a community the size of MSU.

Physically, the health center needs to move the immunization area out of the already crowded emergency room. And it needs to expand the walk-in office, waiting space for students and storage facilities. Obviously, more offices for more doctors are needed as well.

There are other major flaws with the policies of the center. Two years ago, the center instituted a new billing system by which a charge under $5 is automatically increased to $5 if not paid within 48

The center's billing office estimates that approximately 60 per have charges less than $5 end up paying $5. The practice was initiated to save costs of following up and billing students, but it is unquestionably hurting - bilking, rather - too many students.

Policies and physical restrictions such as these work against students, the community and ultimately - the ideal of quality health care. A new center is absolutely needed, and that fact cannot be reasonably questioned. The board of trustees authorized planning for a new center three years ago. Yet little has been done. But there is also the human error side to this story - misguided policies and intolerable attitudes fester in the health center which are painfully documented by each visit. Change must come. Students. since they are the most affected by the shabby shape of the MSU health center, must spearhead the movement which the change will require. This is one issue on which we simply can afford no equivoca-

Spartan Acres

There were several statements in an article you published recently, which were not true, and I would like to correct them, before they do any more damage to my business than they already have.

First of all, Spartan Acres Gardens is still in business and very much alive, on Hulett and Bennet Roads.

I suppose the most damaging thing Mr. Rice said was the statement that the soil was worn out. Soil does not wear out, if properly fertilized. How could this land produce beautiful gardens last year and be worn out this year's

This is good fertile garden loam, much more so than the organic or "muck" at Mr. Rice's new location which takes so much more water than good garden loam.

Next the gardens were rented, pre-viously, at $12, not $16, a plot. Spartan Acres are $14.50 with the option of planting a bit more at no extra cost.

Finally, it was reported that Spartan Acres has all grown up to weeds. Nonsense! Weeds do grow between planting seasons, anywhere, but much less on previously cultivated land. And with roto-tillers available, this will be no problem whatsoever.

Gardeners are able to pick out their own plots and are encouraged to plant flowers to keep the gardens beautiful, as well as func-In another article last fall, submitted by

The junk is gone, left me by the previous manager, which only took several college students three days to pick up.

Pumps will be put back in and waste disposal is another improvement. For gardeners who want "organic" soil, we have that, too. Land that hasn't seen a plow for years, but isn't "muck."

With these improvements in mind and a new manager who cares, and will be there, we hope many gardeners will come back to Spartan Acres this year. Happy gardening to all of you!

Preferential

This is in reference to the Frances Brown article on reverse discrimination in the April 23 State News. I feel that it's about time the American public realizes that the minorities in this country have been receiving what can only be eatled preferential treatment in the last few years.

The federally forced practice of hiring a "certain" number of minorities no matter what their qualifications is wrong.

In Chicago, the police department was forced to simplify their written entrance test because not enough blacks were passing it. The test was "discriminatory toward blacks" because they were unable to

My opinion is that if they are of equal qualifications and the minority applicant is fairly determined to be the best for the job, then let him have the job. But employes should not be chosen simply because they are black, female or Spanish.

Higher ed

Your editorial of April 27 on our state's higher education program informs members of the academic community what we in the American Assn. of University Professors have known for some time.

Furthermore, we professors have been told by legislators that the "golden days" of massive expenditures for higher education in Michigan have passed. The reasons for these developments and attitudes are varied: e.g. the increased demand for funds from other state agencies, the general disenchantment over unfulfilled promises from higher education, the de meaning conduct of some schools in their scramble for funds and the dissimulation of certain administrators in their presentations before the appropriation committees. In particular, we have been informed that additional testimony and information from faculty and students, and less from administrators, would enhance the case of higher education in the legislature.

More comments and debate are necessary from our administrators and faculty in your newspaper on why Michigan has decided not to support higher education and what we might do to reinstate the former levels of higher education in our state.

On language

On April 23 the State News printed a news release stating that the Justice Dept. has ruled that the Voting Rights Act now requires elections to be held in more than one language in 513 cities and counties in 30 states, including Michigan. If I understand this correctly it means that our country, which is, after all, a one-language country, English, is not only condoning but obviously encouraging people of foreign origin to ignore the English

One must be a resident of the United States for three years at least before being able to apply for citizenship. There are countless places where one can learn the correct use of the English language. Places in many small and large cities. Classes such as "English for the foreign-born" offered in many local schools. Are we unable, in three years, to teach these people the English language? Or are they unable to learn? What an indictment of society - what an indictment of the intelligence of immi-

Just for the record — I also came from a foreign, non-English-speaking country. I became a citizen and consider it a right and privilege to vote at the polls - but I took he time and trouble to learn to speak the language of my new country. This enables me to be an informed and participating

If I lived in China, to name one country whose language will now be used at some American polls, I am certain that country would not print instructions for me in any other language than Chinese. They would as any other country would also, expect new citizens to learn their language if they want to participate.

Why do we expect so little of our people?

The item in question was a wire-service article, not a news release. - Ed.

Registration

Your recent revelation of Mark Grebner's "goof," while disturbing, is not surprising. The fact that those students recently registered by ASMSU's door-to-door campaign may find their forms invalidated if they suffered the misfortune of Grebner's signature, is only a prelude to a potentially more serious problem this fall.

se students whose registrations and invalidated this spring will be disqualified from voting in this district for the May presidential primary. Should the responsibility of registering students next September again befall Mark Grebner and his Counterforce cronies who control ASMSU, the resulting ineptness could be a decisive factor in the re-election or defeat of such candidates as Bob Carr, whose 1974 election win over Cliff Taylor was decided by an extremely narrow margin.

To insure a more thorough and effective registration next fall we recommend that MSU's Dorm Councils give serious consideration to taking over this important task. Their greater accessibility and nonpolitical nature should be sufficient to insure a more comprehensive and reliable registration of voters.

Bandwagon

Once again the State News has jumped on a bandwagon, this time to dismantle the CIA. And once again, only after the position appeared to be waxing strong.

The staff strains (with more rhetoric than facts) to depict the CIA as an unchained monster destined to destroy U.S. foreign policy and dignity. Maybe a better would have helped.

As to regaining U.S. dignity, the CIA has been around a long time—even in the old days when the United States had dignity. Maybe the State News could research the real problem and leave the popular CIA scapegoat alone. Or the State News could be truly innovative and try to dismantle the CIA in a trade-off for the elimination of the Soviet Union's KGB. ("Dialectic" was a nice

But this would not fit with the "bend with the wind" policy the State News has always followed. Again, reality eludes you.

And try Duluth

After reading Iren Raisler's letter which appeared in the April 28 State News, I can't help but feel sorry for all the "religious" nen around the country who think they are satisfied with the sexual aspects of their marriages. Perhaps, as Ms. Raisler seems to suggest, the women in question should try becoming nonreligious so they can rid themselves of their delusions of satisfac tion. Or is it that "religious" women have a lower threshold of happines nonreligious women? Oh well, at leave the poor deluded women in blissful state of ignorance?

Transit agency discriminatory

For the last 12 years the Urban Mass Transit Authority (UMTA) has been illegally supporting discriminatory transit systems in the United States in direct violation of the 1964 Act which created UMTA and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Chap. 21, Sec. 1612), which states "All federal funding of Mass Transit Systems must be used for accessible transporta-

Though for 12 years we have repeatedly shown UMTA these violations, no action has been taken. In fact, meetings in Washington, D.C., are being held on May 5 to 'justify' this past practice of illegal discrimination and to continue this practice STIGMA (Students For Total Integration Through Greater Mobility And Accessibility) and the HAF (Handicapper Advocate Foundation) are spearheading a peaceful demonstration, beginning at Beaumont Tower on the MSU campus at 10:30 a.m. May 5, to march to the state Capitol by 2 p.m. Our goal is to convince both houses of the state legislature to pass resolution denouncing the discriminatory practice of UMTA, and send them on to the Dept. of Transportation in Washington, D.C.

These regulations could have significant impact on the ending of UMTA's discriminatory policies. We have notified handicapper and elderly citizen groups in the state of the importance of this march. In addition we need great support from this community to end this type of oppression.

We are asking, if you can't march with us, refuse to use segregated and discriminatory bus systems on May 5. Specifically we are requesting that you show your support for equal rights and an end to irresponsible bureaucratic flaunting of the law by finding an alternative to bus transportation that day.

In the Lansing-East Lansing area alone, there are two systems which have repeat-edly resisted attempts to force compliance with the law: CATA and the MSU bus systems.

CATA, in the last 6 months alone, has purchased 30 new but inaccessible buses in spite of the tri-county planning study and the Activities Center Corridor Project, both of which told the directors the advisability of compliance with federal law.

MSU's and CATA's transportation directors have been continually warned by citizens' groups that the need, legality and feasibility of an accessible transportation system exists. They have ignored us. Don't let this flagrant abuse of democracy continue. Stop the bureacrats slowly sap-ping our human rights! If this goes on, we'll have none left. March May 5! Don't ride CATA buses!

Don't ride MSU buses!

MSU: separate bus systems

There exists on this campus two separate and segregated transportation systems.
The MSU bus service provides transport for student TABs (temporary able body). This system costs the student $18 a term and can be utilized for academic, social, recreational and employment purposes. The other system is used by student handicappers, and consists of one and a half vehicles. This service costs the handicapper $75 a term and can be used only for academic By comparing these two separate sys tems it becomes very obvious that a lot of discrimination has been and is taking place. Though the University has adopted an affirmative action plan for the handicapped, guaranteeing equality, we still haven't even seen a proposed plan as to how equal transportation services can be achieved

But this does not mean the

wing into the bloodstream, the spirochetes multiply and ckly spread throughout the entire body. Secondary syphilis

The signs of secondary syphilis include a rash over any part of the body, bald spots, fever, severe headaches and a sore throat.

Syphilis may attack any tissue or organ in the body but concentrates on the brain, heart, liver and bones. The best way to detect its presence is by a blood test or through a special microscopic examination known as a darkfield.

But it is impossible for a blood test to be reactive until the symptoms develop. A person could be well one day and ill the next. With the darkfield exam, scrapings must be taken from an open sore, so a chancre must be present.

Secondary syphilis also requires treatment but, here again, the symptoms disappear whether treated or not. The infected person may believe the disease has been cured when actually it persists. The germs withdraw temporarily to regroup, organize and multiply and, all along, are destroying vital organs in the body.

The person may develop the third or tertiary stage of syphilis immediately or may go as long as 25 years before anything appears. But one fact is certain: the third stage will appear

In the third stage, the spirochetes quietly work on the infected person's vital organs, causing the walls of major blood vessels to weaken so they blow out like old inner tubes.

They can attack the spinal cord and affect the ability of the person to walk straight and, in some cases, to walk at all. They may cause insanity as they work on the brain. Treatment is still possible in this stage but the damage is usually severe, incapacitating and often

People who die of syphilis die from effects of the third stage. During the "asymptomatic" (no symptom) stage, the disease can still be transmitted.

If a woman becomes pregnant during this time, the unborn child may become infected by contact with the mother's bloodstream through the placenta. This is one of the few instances where the disease can be transmitted without sexual contact.

The mother may lose the baby by an early or late miscarriage. If the baby is born, the child may be deaf, blind or have pegged or notched teeth. Any of a score of other diseases, involving any organ of the body, may also develop.

Though the symptoms of syphilis are varied, the disease may develop with or without any outward signs and can be spread through the entire body within 24 hours of exposure.

Anyone exposed to syphilis should consult a doctor or public health clinic immediately. They will perform the necessary tests and probably recommend treatment even if the tests are negative, as the person can still be a carrier. Syphilis can be cured promptly and rather easily with penicillin However, the earlier it is treated the better the chance of a complete cure without complications or permanent damage.

About 25 per cent of untreated cases will develop severe late symptoms. One in 200 will go blind, one in 44 will become insane, one in 25 will become incapacitated or crippled and one in 13 will Gonorrhea is about 40 times as common as syphilis. About 360 per 100,000 persons in Michigan have gonorrhe

Using 40,000 students as a base figure for MSU, there would be 144 students with gonorrhea on campus if MSU compared with national figures. And since the majority of cases of VI) occur in the 15 to 29 age group, the actual figure could be even higher.

Actual on campus figures on the instance rate of gonorrhea are not available due to restrictions regarding confidentiality. Venereal disease figures from the University Health Center are included in Ingham County totals. A dangerous, very contagious and sometimes extremely painful inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the inside of the sex organs, gonorrhea is often called by other names like clap, dose and

During sexual contact, a germ known as the gonococcus is passed from the infected person to another. It then takes from one to eight days for gonorrhea to develop. A man has a 20 to 50 per cent chance of catching the disease once exposed, while a woman has a 50 per cent chance or better.

In both sexes, the chief symptoms are persistent discharge from the sex organ or painful urination. The discharge is an early sign and the infection soon spreads to the rest of the body.

Gonorrhea is diagnosed by microscopic examination of the discharge from the sex organs. It is relatively easy to treat and the cure is almost 100 per cent effective.

Unfortunately, there is increasing evidence that gonorrhea, especially in women, is becoming more and more resistant to the effects of penicillin.

The complications of untreated gonorrhea in the male include sterility, arthritis and strictures — scars that obstruct urine flow.

In women, an acute infection of the abdominal cavity, known as peritonitis, may set in. If the female survives this, scarring of the fallopian tubes may develop, causing infertility as well as scarring of the ovaries and the abdominal cavity lining.

Eighty per cent of the women who contract gonorrhea do not have symptoms of any kind. It is almost impossible to know the disease is present without tests being made

As with syphilis, babies may be infected as they pass through the birth canal and this may cause blindness. The mother may also infect the baby in ordinary handling if she has not treated the norrhea. This is another instance where nonsexual transmission of VD may occur.

Secondary signs of gonorrhea in the male include infection and swelling of the prostate gland and severe pain and backache. In the female, infection of the fallopian tubes and ovaries may result along with fever, pain and, eventually, peritonitis

People do die from gonorrhea. If untreated, it may cause death from massive bloodstream infection or from perito

Physicians must report cases of venereal disease because an average of four persons or "contacts" are usually involved in each case. These people must be contacted and treated to prevent further spread of the disease.

No immunity or vaccination exists against VD. A person can contract VD as often as he is exposed to it.

If treated early, there is a 95 per cent chance of curing gonorrhea and syphilis with one shot of penicillin. A second shot within 48 hours usually cures the remainder of cases, an indication of the importance of early medical treatment.

NO CHANGE IN LOCAL FILMS EXPECTED

Impact of 'Deep Throat' doubted to mail evacuation plan

Recently, a federal jury in Memphis, Tenn., convicted 12 persons and four corporations of conspiracy in the production and distribution of the motion picture "Deep Throat."

While some people feel that the verdict, if upheld, could have severe repercussions in the pornographic movie business, local motion picture purveyors doubt the decision will have any immediate impact on

"From what I have seen and heard, this case could be appealed. It seems exhibitors and distributors will eventually gain freedom of speech and this kind of conspiracy charge will be reduced.

Among those convicted of was Herbert conspiracy Streicher, male lead in "Deep Throat" whose stage name is Harry Reems. Linda Lovelace, the female star in the film, was not charged because the prosecution granted her immunity in return for her testimony.

'I don't see the conviction as having any affect on us." the assistant manager of Cinema X, 1000 W. Jolly Rd., Lansing, said. "I don't think our sales or films will change."

An employe at The New Art Theater, 513 E. Michigan, Lansing, thought the whole conviction was a waste of time.

"I think it's a bunch of bullshit. We have had no effects or problems," he said.

The Public Service Commision (PSC) held hearings all day Monday to consider a petition filed by PIRGIM asking that all Michigan utilities mail emergency evacuation plans to residents living within a 20-mile radius of nuclear power plants.

The PIRGIM petition, formally filed last August, called for the utilities to send the plans annually with the regular electric bills.

In adherence to federal laws, all utilities with nuclear power plants already have on file emergency evacuation plans.
"What the petition is trying to do," said Richard Conklin, PIRGIM project director, "is to make sure that the people know about these plans.

The hearings, held in the Michigan Law Building in Lansing, were presided over by PSC Hearing Examiner Robert Shankland. Throughout the day he heard testimony from a host of witnesses, ranging from advocates of the system to representatives of the utilities who, according to Conklin, are oposed to the measure. Under PSC procedure, Shankland will make a recommendation to the entire PSC on the petition. The Detroit Lions head coach Rich Forzano discusses the team's chances of going to the Super Bowl during the coming season with a group of local East Lansing Kiwanians at the Union Monday.

Super Bowl berth in Lions '76 plans?

The Super Bowl. Archie Griffin. The trading of Altie Taylor. Yes, the showcase of professional football was in the vocabulary of Detroit Lions head coach Rick Forzano as he addressed a luncheon of 125 members of the East Lansing Kiwanis and guests Monday at the MSU Union.

"We're shooting for the Super Bowl next year. That's where it's at," the dapper mentor proclaimed. "I've always believed in enthusiasm. I don't care if you do someting wrong, just do it with enthu-

"We imparted that enthusiasm to the team last year and with the injured players coming back and the draft we had we'll be a better team," Forzano

Forzano, who is entering his third NFL season, gathered a round of laughter from the crowd when he displayed his wit. "You remember Alex Karras. Former All-Big Ten player. He was the captain of the Iowa freshman team for three years," Forzano cracked.

Big Ten, and former OSU All-American Archie Griffin, received some serious attention from Forzano. "Sure, I think Archie will make it with Cincinnati. He's with the right team for his ability." He also noted that he would try to comply with running back Altie Taylor's request to be traded. "He made some kind of public that of public statement saying he wants to leave or play less and get more money, or something like that. I'll have to sit Altie down and have a talk with

Finally, Forzano noted that the Detroit club was "actively seeking three or four free agents within the league. I can't say who they are at this time though."

However, earlier in his speech, he alluded to fullback John Riggins of the New York Jets, who is a free agent. "I would sure love to have him on our team," Forzano mused

Cash rides on TV deal

State News Sports Writer More than $90,000 is riding on the next Big Ten Athletic Directors' meeting. And from what sources in the conference say, the Big Ten may see the money go by.
Television Sports (TVS) and the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) are tentatively lanning to expand coverage of NCAA basketball that would include regional telecasts on Saturday afternoons and nationwide broadcasts on Sunday Eddie Einhorn, president of TVS, said that NBC has authorized him to visit the various athletic conferences across the country to get a general feeling about the willingness to play basketball on Sunday for the national telecasts. "There's nothing really final yet," Einhorn said. "I have a meeting with NBC on Wednesday to see if the Sunday time

With loop members Indiana and Michigan having competed for the NCAA championship in March, national interest in the Big Ten is at an unprecedented peak. Accordingly, the conference would possibly be in line for as many as four Sunday appearances on national television, according to Einhorn

According to Big Ten Information Director Jeff Elliot, the Sunday broadcasts would mean over $45,000 in additional revenues to each school involved.

"There is an established rate a nationally televised game," Einhorn commented. "I realize that playing on Sunday would mean paying some overtime, but I'm sure that we could put out a few bucks to cover schedules and the overtime,' Elliot said, "but the extra funds we receive from the Sunday games would make it all worth-The bottleneck in the affair comes from the Big Ten's reluctance to comply with TVS. Einhorn had originally presented his offer to the conference of athletic directors at the mid-April meeting. The proposition was discussed but no decision was made.

John Dewey, asst. commis-sioner of the Big Ten, said that the 1976-77 basketball schedule had been approved on Friday and that it was currently being sent to all of the schools

Dewey said Big Ten games were scheduled for Thursdays, Saturdays and some Mondays, with no Sunday games on the list. He also said the subject of Sunday games was not on the agenda for the May 10 athletic directors' meeting. "But anything may be brought up at any

MSU asst. basketball coach Vernon Payne was not opposed to the idea of Sunday basket ball. "I don't know if the Big Ten wants to go up against that kind of market on Sundays," he said. "I'm not against it, though."

Einhorn does not see the topic of a tough market as being a focal point on the decision. "We killed the NBA on our three Sunday games last year,' he said. "There's more competi-tion with Wide World of Sports on Saturday afternoon there is with the NBA."

Joe Kearney, MSU athletic director, said that he feels that if there are enough advantages in adopting a few Sunday games he would be for it. "But as far as it has gone so far," Kearney said, "the subject is still up for study."

TVS would have the final say as to what games would be chosen for national TV. That would, in Einhorn's words, mean about two to four Big Ten

The problem, then, is if the subject of amending the Big Ten schedule to include the few Sunday games will come up at the next meeting, or if the conference will watch almost a quarter of a million dollars go

In other action by the directors, the schedule of bas ketball for the 1976-77 season has been changed to a Thursday Saturday system instead of traditional Saturday Monday format. "I don't think that this new format will be too big of a thing," Kearney said. "There are advantages and disadvantages to both formats.

Burt Smith name to top WCHA slo

For the first time in nearly a year, Burt Smith received some good news.
The former MSU athletic director was selected as the first commissioner of the Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. (WCHA) at the league's yearly meeting last weekend in Madison, Wis.

Smith, who served in the top athletic post at MSU since 1972 until his reassignment last October, will officially begin his new duties June 1 and will serve for one year.

Among his new respon sibilities, Smith will be called upon to render quick and definitive decisions about every-day league matters. "In the past when a question came up about any of a number of things. coaches didn't really have anyone to call to receive guidance from," § noted. "But, now noted. But, now decisions can be made.
