Staff group to protest provost appointment

By FRANCES BROWN
State News Staff Writer

Top faculty members will go to the protest President Wharton's appointment of Lawrence B. Bogen as acting provost as his enactment of other major administrative changes without consulting the faculty. This same group filed a formal grievance against Wharton last October.

Frederick, associate professor of justice and president of the MSU American Assn. of University Professors (AAUP), and six other faculty members hope to appear before the MSU Trustees tonight at the board's meeting. The group, including Blat, Patricia D'Itri, Frederick, Roy T. Matthews, Daniel Saks and Silverman, will present a 12-page memorandum with 11 appendices to the trustees because the faculty says they "have been unable to hearing on their grievance within the University channels."

A faculty group filed a grievance against Miller, the faculty grievance last October but Miller consulted Wharton and denied a grievance on the grounds that faculty cannot initiate a grievance against the president.

The current Interim Faculty Grievance Committee states that any faculty member who initiates a grievance against the president is in violation of the University's policy. A proposed revised grievance procedure which would have specified that the University president exempt grievance was soundly defeated last year. But a new faculty grievance procedure has yet to be drafted.

bylaws were violated. The bylaws state under a section of faculty rights and responsibilities that "the board of trustees, the administration and the faculty carry out their respective responsibilities not as isolated entities, but as major and primary constituents of a total University organization..."

In a direct appeal to the board tonight, the seven faculty members will ask the trustees whether the faculty may expect to be consulted in important administrative decisions and if the board intends to provide methods for handling grievances against the University president other than appeals to the board of trustees.

Students to vote on two proposals

By MICKIMAYNARD
State News Staff Writer

MSU students will have the opportunity to vote today in a special election on two proposals designed to set up the ASMSU Programming Board.

Proposals A and B, if passed, will consolidate programming groups on campus, such as theater, music and audio-visual projects under one governing board.

Proposal A calls for the establishment of the new board while proposal B defines the functions and limitations of the Student Media Appropriations Board under the new system.

The two main purposes of the programming board are to eliminate competition between the various programming groups on campus and to consolidate those groups under one authority.

At MSU, programming is generally divided among three groups: the ASMSU Board, Student Media Appropriations Board (SMAB) and Union Activities Board (UAB).

Included in the ASMSU programming board proposal is a provision which would assess a $2 per term tax on MSU students, which could be refunded at the beginning of each term.

The $2 tax will be divided three ways. 45 per cent ($92,000) would go to the programming board, 35 per cent ($72,000) would go to the student board and 20 per cent ($40,000) to SMAB.

The programming board proposal would change the makeup of the ASMSU Board. Three cabinets that are currently under student board authority—Great Issues, Travel and Pop Entertainment—would be transferred to the programming board.

All video, entertainment and theater groups now under SMAB authority would be moved to programming board jurisdiction. The proposal would change SMAB's function to that of funding printed media, such as various newspapers and publications.

A yes vote on both proposals will put the full programming board into existence. A no vote on both will leave the present board, UAB and SMAB as they are.

ASMSU President Brian Raymond, who has worked on the proposal since he took office in April 1975, said he felt the programming board would bring about a great improvement in student programming.

"The main reason for the board is to eliminate politics in student programming," Raymond said. "For example, we had a situation last year where Ron Ziegler and Angela Davis were scheduled to appear on campus but the student board turned them down because they were too extreme."

Another point Raymond stressed is that the programming board setup will allow programs that are not money-makers, such as Pop Entertainment's Mariah concerts, to continue.

Pop Entertainment cabinet director Bill Blackwell, whose cabinet would be directly affected by the programming board, is a supporter of the idea.

"Right now, we have to make money with concerts or we can't put them on," Blackwell said. "For example, Ebony Productions has to choose black artists that will appeal to white students as well because there are not that many minorities on campus."

The programming board proposal has the support of SMAB, UAB, the Residence Halls Assn., as well as Great Issues, Pop Entertainment and ASMSU Travel cabinets.

An opponent to the programming board proposal is Michael Lenz. Lenz, whose election as ASMSU president was recently invalidated pending appeal, cited the reasons for his opposition to the idea.

"First of all is the way it's written," Lenz said. He explained that the setup of the programming board will make it a self-sustaining body with the ability to pick its own members. Lenz said this would not allow enough student input.

Lenz is also against a provision he said would make all students pay for services, such as sustaining nonmoneymaking programs, that only a few will use.

There will be 11 polling places open on campus today for balloting. The polls will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Copies of the full programming board proposal will be available at each location. Students must present a validated ID to vote.

Carter's margin narrow

By STEVE ORR
State News Staff Writer

While the search for the winner of the Michigan Democratic primary is nearing completion, the search for the meaning of Jimmy Carter's narrow victory—or Morris Udall's narrow defeat—and the home state triumph of President Ford may be only beginning.

Final, unofficial and slightly questionable

analysis

results available Wednesday afternoon showed Carter edging contender Morris Udall by a scant 2,300 votes, or an even more scant 1,800 votes, depending on who one chooses to believe.

The larger margin is supplied by the News Election Service (NES), a private firm hired by various media organizations—not including the State News—to count the votes.

The smaller margin comes from the state elections commission. Those figures show Carter with 305,977 votes, or 43.48 per cent, to 304,177 votes for Udall, or 43.23 per cent. In all, the NES found 5,511 more votes—somewhere—than did the state, which firmly claims to have counted all of the votes, including write-ins and absentee ballots.

In both final totals, Alabama Gov. George Wallace ended with seven per cent, uncommitted had two per cent and four other candidates split five per cent. Ford had 65 per cent and Reagan had 34 per cent.

A Udall press aide, Dick Stout, said from Washington Wednesday afternoon that there is a "very substantial chance" a recount will be requested. He said the decision will be announced today.

Regardless of the total, Udall is still claiming a Michigan primary victory. And if damage to Carter is what now constitutes a Udall victory, then the lanky Arizonan was indeed a winner.

Udall has little chance to win his party's nomination. But his close showing in this state, when coupled with Carter's loss Tuesday to California Gov. Jerry Brown in the Maryland primary—by 12 percentage points, 49 per cent to 37 per cent—plus Carter's defeat a week ago in the Nebraska primary to newcomer Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, throws a monkey wrench into the Carter machinery that just weeks ago looked unstoppable.

Udall, Brown, Church and others hope to slow Carter enough to force an "open" convention in which the nominee will be decided after first balloting when most delegates lose their commitments to particular candidates and can switch allegiance to someone else.

Carter complains that, while he is entered and running seriously in nearly all of the nation's primaries and delegate selection caucuses, his opponents now have adopted the tactic of running in just one state at a time and going all-out to beat Carter in those places.

Carter may be right, and he may have good reason to be concerned. Udall is planning to concentrate on important primaries in Ohio and New Jersey in three weeks, as well as several in the near South; Brown is a strong favorite-son candidate in his home state's primary three weeks hence; and Church is zeroing in on primaries in Oregon, Montana and his home state in the next two weeks.

Carter seems destined to face a barrage of solo attacks that could cripple his predicted first-ballot nomination at the national convention this summer.

President Ford proclaimed restored confidence in his own destiny Tuesday night and Wednesday, coming off crucial victories over outsider Ronald Reagan in Maryland and Michigan.

"Tonight is one of the nicest nights Betty and I have ever had," Ford told Lansing supporters by telephone late Tuesday evening.

If Ford had, by chance, lost or even managed only to narrowly win in Michigan, Tuesday evening could have marked the beginning of the end of his political career.

The embarrassment of losing in his own backyard would have been too much.

Instead Ford was bubbling over with optimistic enthusiasm.

"This is really going to put us on the road to victory in Kansas City and to a very great victory in November," Ford said Tuesday night in Maryland campaign headquarters.

In general, Ford campaign leaders attributed the President's returned support—support that he held for the first months of the primary season only to lose it to Reagan in five of the previous six primaries—to his extensive and honest campaigning here, especially his whistle-stop tour; to new campaign strategy that ignores response to the lampooning of Reagan and concentrates on Ford's accomplishments as chief executive; and the failure of the feared crossover-to-Reagan vote to materialize.

Ford had worried that the 52 per cent of the Michigan electorate that had voted for Wallace in the 1972 primary, many of them Democrats, would cross party lines and vote for Ronald Reagan. This was the foundation of Reagan upset victories in Texas and Indiana earlier in May.

Many Democrats, and independents, did vote Republican—but enough voted for Ford to cancel out the Reagan crossover threat.

The big loser in crossover voting was Carter, who Tuesday evening estimated that, in some areas, 15 per cent of the Democratic voters went Republican. Those who did cross over were the more moderate Democrats who otherwise might have voted for Carter.

The former Georgia governor didn't lose his smile, though. The only people who should feel down about Michigan and Maryland results, Carter said, were his opponents "if they think they can stop me, because they can't." Carter still projected a first-ballot nomination Tuesday night as he headed west for campaigning Nevada and Oregon.

Carter was claiming 900 delegates, with 1,505 needed for the first-ballot nomination. Official totals show just over 700 delegates committed to Carter, but he claimed the other 200 were won-over delegates formally committed to candidates who had dropped out of the race or who were officially committed to no one.

A discovers letters recorded on microfilm

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON AP — The CIA has microfilm files possibly a million letters it intercepted between 1972 and 1973, a congresswoman said today.

Person Bella S. Abzug of the House subcommittee said the additional letters as a result of George Bush's promise to try to print out names of people whose letters were intercepted.

New York Democrat said the letters through the New York Post Office and photographed and put on microfilm as the CIA's past program of monitoring mail to and from the Soviet Union and Communist countries.

The CIA found the additional Abzug said, the government moved to reopen a court ruling in San Francisco based on former CIA Director Colby's testimony that the CIA had names of all victims of the mail interception.

Abzug said the new finding means that thousands of citizens who asked the CIA if they were in its files might have been mistakenly told they were not.

"This discovery may force the CIA to re-examine, and in many cases invalidate, its replies to over 5,000 persons who have written the agency requesting copies of any records the CIA had on them," she said in a statement.

Members of the subcommittee staff said it appears from CIA information that about a million letters are on the microfilm cassettes but the figure is not precise.

They said the CIA estimates 2.7 million letters were involved in the 20-year mail surveillance program but some letters were not opened and the CIA previously believed only 1.4 million names were still in its files as a result.

Abzug said the government moved to reverse a ruling in San Francisco that Stephanie Kipperman, 31, was not in the CIA files, Tuesday night after finding the additional letters.

Giscard visits Virginia

YORKTOWN, Va. (AP) — French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing paid a Bicentennial visit today to this historic town where French and American troops forced the surrender of British Lord Cornwallis in 1781.

The battle at Yorktown, Giscard said, was "one of the most glorious exploits of the War for American Independence... a cornerstone in the history of the American nation, and... a testimony to the unique sense of brotherhood between our two countries."

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, who flew down with Giscard from Washington, called the French president's visit to this country "the high point" of the Bicentennial celebration.

On Tuesday in Washington, the French president continued to lament that despite the best diplomatic relations, the people of the United States and France don't know enough about each other.

Supreme Court decision stands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Wednesday refused to reconsider its decision that states may constitutionally prohibit consenting adults from having homosexual relations in private.

The justices left undisturbed their March 29 decisions upholding the Virginia sodomy law and refusing to hear a challenge to a similar law in North Carolina.

Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and John Paul Stevens voted originally to hear arguments on the Virginia law.

The Virginia law was challenged on privacy grounds by two anonymous Richmond homosexuals.

The North Carolina case was appealed by Eugene Enslin, proprietor of a Jacksonville massage parlor.

The American Civil Liberties Union Foundation, representing the homosexuals, asked the court to reconsider and hear arguments in both cases. The foundation was supported by the Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund, a homosexual rights organization.

Thirty-six states and the District of Columbia outlaw homosexual acts even when the participants are willing adults engaging in the acts in private.

NBC reaches tentative contract

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. (NBC) and striking technicians and news employees have reached tentative agreement on a new contract that would bring most of the network's engineers $500 a week in the final year of a four-year pact.

The agreement, providing a total increase in pay of 30 percent over four years, will be voted on by members of the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (NABET), Thursday night.

NABET went on strike against the network April 1.

NBC accused NABET of sabotaging equipment at the start of the strike and refused to take the employees back without a contract.

As part of Tuesday's agreement, both sides said they would drop lawsuits — NBC's for damages from the alleged sabotage and NABET's for libel.

NBC management employees have carried out the strikers' duties at affected network stations in New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Washington, San Francisco and Los Angeles, occasionally with obvious technical difficulties.

Iranian police raid hideouts

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — In a crackdown on anti-government activity, Iranian police raided three hideouts northwest of Tehran and killed 10 persons connected with foreign terrorist groups, officials announced Wednesday.

Four passers-by were shot and killed by the alleged guerrillas when they tried to help police prevent escapes during the shootouts Tuesday in the communities of Rasht, Ghazvin and Karaj, the officials added.

The government has reported seven gunbattles during the past week between police and what it says are terrorists.

The government statement said the seven men and three women who shot it out with police Tuesday had connections "with foreign countries and foreign terrorist groups" but did not identify countries or groups.

It said police found documents in the hideouts which proved the foreign connections, plus submachine guns, ammunition and grenades from Eastern bloc countries.

The Iranian government has never made clear the nature of the guerrillas or terrorists it is trying to defeat except to depict them as extreme leftists.

Lockheed deal with Canada off

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp., shaken by a series of international payoff scandals, has suffered another sharp jolt with Canada backing away from a $1 billion purchase of patrol planes.

Negotiations for the sale of 18 Orion aircraft collapsed Tuesday night because of a lack of cash to begin the project. The deal, years in the making, fell apart when the government reversed itself and decided it would not provide the cash Lockheed had been unable to borrow from Canadian chartered banks.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau told reporters Canada would buy the planes only if Lockheed could raise $300 million needed for the early stages of the program.

Pravda replies to Rockefeller

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda accused Vice President Nelson Rockefeller Wednesday of favoring a "harsh course" in Soviet-American relations.

Answering Rockefeller's charge that the Soviet Union is attempting to establish a new empire, Pravda accused the vice president's family of having "their fingers" in Latin America, the Middle East and other areas.

The Pravda commentary came in response to speeches made by Rockefeller in West Berlin and Frankfurt during a recent European tour.

Pravda said Rockefeller's statements show "a wish to play up bellicose forces who call for the strengthening of U.S. might and for a harsh course in Soviet-American relations."

Complete FEC still lacking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because President Ford will not let five federal election commissioners take office until a sixth is confirmed by the Senate, presidential candidates will have to wait a few more days for federal campaign money.

The Senate confirmed Ford's five reappointments to the commission Tuesday and the five prepared to immediately release $2.17 million in federal matching funds to 11 presidential candidates.

But then Ford sent word that he wouldn't swear in the five until his sixth appointee, William Springer, had also been confirmed.

Unlike the other five, Springer would be new to the commission, so the Senate planned to take a bit more time processing his appointment. Confirmation is expected next week.

Disputes in Congress, followed by indecision on Ford's part about whether to sign or to veto new election legislation, have already resulted in a nearly two-month shutoff of the matching funds spigot.

Candidates have felt the financial pinch in varying degrees—Sen. Henry M. Jackson and Fred Harris claim it was a major factor in their decisions to quit primary campaigning.

Had Ford sworn in the five commissioners Tuesday, checks could have gone to campaigns in time for last-minute media advertising before Tuesday's six primary elections.

A White House spokesperson denied that Ford was trying to hold up money for campaign ads.

"He feels like it's a bipartisan commission and that the whole law is set up in that manner; we sent them up there as a package and we'd like to swear them in a package," the spokesperson said.

The reappointed commissioners confirmed Tuesday were Democrats Neal Staebler, Robert O. Tiernan and Thomas E. Harris. Reappointed Republicans were Vernon Thompson and Joan D. Aikens.

Springer is a Republican succeeding Thomas B. Curtis, the FEC chairperson who asked not to be reappointed because he thinks Congress stripped too much power from the FEC.

New legislation was ruled Jan. 30 that the sioners were unanimously appointed. Previous each were appointed by both houses of Congress.

Now, all are appointees subject to confirmation.

When the matching begins to flow again, he is the biggest immediate recipient. He has already certified for $365,674 $21.7 million.

Beirut fighting persists

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fighting in the Lebanese civil war diminished today but no truce appeared near in the tangle of internal politics and Arab diplomatic rivalries.

The terror shelling of residential districts on both sides of the Moslem-Christian front lines died away to an occasional round, but police said 45 persons were killed in Beirut street fighting and clashes around a Christian enclave north of the capital.

Still a major stumbling block was the awaited resignation of

Elias Sarkis, a moderate Christian, has been elected by the House of Deputies to succeed Franjeh, but Franjeh refused again Tuesday to step down unless the leftist Moslem forces and their Palestinian allies stop attacking the Christian enclave.

Kamal Jumblatt, leader of the Lebanese left, wants a decisive military victory to force Franjeh out and end Christian opposition to his reform plans. He is demanding that the Moslems, with 60 percent of the population, gain more political and economic power from the dominant Christian minority.

Jumblatt's hard line is opposed by some moderate Moslems, including Premier Rashid Karami, who told reporters that Jumblatt is mentally unstable and "adding to the catastrophe."

Syria, which has sent troops to Lebanese border areas and Syrian-controlled Palestinian units into several Lebanese cities, also opposes Jumblatt's drive for victory.

Palestinian guerrillas, fearing Syria's growing grip on Lebanon, have joined Jumblatt in his demand for a complete Syrian withdrawal.

The Moslem-Palestinian alliance apparently gained support when Libyan Prime Minister Abdul Salam Jalloud told Beirut reporters after a one-day visit that Libya stood firmly behind them in whatever steps they took "for war or peace."

Later, however, after Jalloud flew to Damascus, Syria, Damascus radio quoted Jalloud as denouncing Jumblatt and supporting the Syrian mediation efforts.

In the Beirut street fighting, barrages of bullets sent residents of three Moslem residential areas scurrying for cover.

Fighting continued for control of ski resorts located on mountains above the heart of the Christian enclave and schools were closed in the area.

The right-wing Phalange party, which fields the largest Christian militia, said the schools of Kesrouan province were closed because "we are in a state of war."

Supreme Court rules against refusal to testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that potential criminal defendants have no constitutional right to refuse to testify before a grand jury.

Four justices went further and said potential defendants summoned by a grand jury have no absolute right to an attorney.

The court ruled 8 to 0 that the Constitution does not require prosecutors to advise grand jury witnesses of the full range of rights outlined in the landmark Miranda decision in 1966.

The Miranda decision required police to advise criminal suspects of their right to remain silent, their right to an attorney and their right to have an attorney appointed for them if they cannot afford to hire one.

Writing for the court, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "To extend these concepts to questioning before a grand jury inquiring into criminal activity under the guidance of a judge is an extravagant expansion never remotely contemplated by this court in Miranda."

Burger said grand jury witnesses may exercise their Fifth Amendment right to refuse to answer questions which would incriminate them but that they have no right to refuse to respond to other questions.

He also said that a grand jury witness, even though he is the target of the investigation and may later be charged with a crime, has no absolute right to have assistance from a lawyer either in or out of the grand jury room.

Justices Byron R. White, Lewis F. Powell Jr., William H. Rehnquist joined in Burger's opinion.

Justices William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall agreed that prosecutors are not required to give Miranda warnings to grand jury witnesses. But they suggested that a more narrow set of warnings should be required and strongly argued that grand jury witnesses are entitled to legal representation.

In other action, the court:

- Declined to review a plea bargaining agreement by which the government dropped fraud charges against former milk industry lobbyist Jake Jacobsen, who became a government witness in the bribery trial of former Treasury Secretary John Connally.

- Struck down a municipal ordinance requiring people who go door-to-door seeking information for any "federal, state, county or municipal political campaign or cause" to identify themselves in writing to the police.

Arabs, Jews clash in university melee

JERUSALEM (AP) — Hundreds of Arab and Jewish students clashed with rocks and clubs Wednesday at Jerusalem's University and scattered anti-Israeli protests erupted in occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Hospital officials said six students were injured in the melee.

Reinforced patrols of Israeli police and troops were ordered to maintain control but avoid bloodshed if possible in riot-ravaged West Bank and East Jerusalem, where thousands were slain by Israeli gunfire this week.

Witnesses said the Hebrew University fight began when 150 Arab students demonstrated against Israeli handling of West Bank rioting. About 200 religious Jewish students, Rabbi Meir Kahane, head of the militant Jewish Defense (JDL) set up a counterprotest a few yards away.

Witnesses said the groups began pelting one another with stones and then clashed with clubs and sticks before police broke up.

A Hadassah Hospital spokesperson said four Jews and Arabs were wounded in the clashes. One Jewish youth was hurt in the head, the spokesperson said, and would undergo an operation.

Insurance plan due today

By DONNA BAKUN

State News Staff Writer

Today marks the deadline for all regular University employees covered under the present University life insurance program to file for coverage under a new plan — one which many faculty members have called unilateral and secretive.

Faculty members were notified of the program in a May 11 letter which requested that they submit the enclosed forms by today if they desired coverage under the plan, which becomes effective July 1.

Bob Repas, professor of labor and industrial relations, said the only prior notice of the plan given the faculty was a May 10 article in the MSU News Bulletin.

Repas deemed the new insurance program discriminatory to women, older faculty members and single persons. He said the decrease in premiums for persons over 45 was unfair to those faculty members who had subsidized the insurance plan when they were younger.

"Wives of male faculty members would be hurt most (by the plan), since they are the beneficiaries when the man dies and single faculty members are partially subsidizing those who have children," Repas said.

Gary Posner, University employment compensation and benefits director, could not be reached Wednesday for comment regarding the University's position on the new insurance plan.

Robert Summitt, chairperson of the Metallurgy, Mechanics and Materials Science Dept., said that any faculty recourse would first involve dialog with the University. He cited that possible later action could come through the Faculty Grievance Committee.

"Our best avenue is to keep the present insurance package and change it as new people are brought into the University," he said.

Summitt said he felt that discrimination under the new plan was an "actuarial issue." The real issue, he said, was the fact that the University did not elicit faculty consideration during early stages of the plan.

Repas, however, said he felt the plan was discriminatory. "I think it (the plan) is the most blatant example of a unilateral change in working conditions without consulting faculty that I've ever run into since I've been here," he said.

Repas added that any resultant action regarding the matter would be the result of the combined effort of University employees.

The plan was proposed by the University Office of Compensation in conjunction with the University staff benefits office, the Assn. of Professional Administrators (APA) and a subcommittee of the University and Faculty Affairs Committee.

Under the new plan, life insurance premiums for persons over 45 would decrease by five-year increments. Paid life insurance provisions, which under the old plan were divided into $1,500 and $2,500 allocations, would be set at a flat rate of $2,000 for all subscribers to the new plan.

The plan was presented earlier this year by the Office of Compensation to the MSU Employers Assn. (MSUEA) and the Dept. of Public Safety (DPS) for consideration. The MSUEA made one modification aimed at reducing insurance rates for single employees under the new plan.

Referendum will give aid to SMAB, media groups

By SEAN HICKEY

State News Staff Writer

Currently, over 35 student media organizations are funded through appropriations made by the Student Media Appropriations Board (SMAB). But if the proposals for a programming board passes in today's student referendum, SMAB's responsibilities will be reduced to providing funds for printing media only.

"The programming board proposals will be dividing up the responsibilities that SMAB has right now," Dave Juckett of SMAB said. "Currently we take care of every type of media under the board but the proposal would limit us to print media only."

For 1976 SMAB allocated $63,348 worth of student funds which come from 50 per cent of an ASMSU tax of $1 a term. SMAB gives money to media organizations of every type including RHA, Mariah, Showcase Jazz, the Star Trek Club and others.

Under this year's budget, SMAB gave printed media about $30,000, which is a little less than half of the total funds. Printed media included in this year's budget include the Spectacle, which received $8,000, the Lansing Star, also receiving $8,000, and the Oracle, funded at $5,467.

Under the programming board proposals SMAB would receive 20 per cent of the proposed student tax of $2 a term. Juckett estimated that under this arrangement (SMAB) would receive approximately $40,000.

"If the proposal goes through, it will benefit everybody. As a result we will be able to give more funds to student media than we have given in the past. Right now we are extremely overworked here because we have too many types of media to contend with," Juckett said.

This year SMAB was confronted with a flood of requests for funds from various media projects around the campus. Juckett said the requests for funds exceeded his budget (of $68,345) by three to four times.

"We here at SMAB are not experts in all the fields of media we are confronted with. Printed media would gain by the programming proposal in the sense that they would receive more concentration from us. If we only had to deal with printed media we could be more efficient with our use of funds," Juckett said.

Juckett faces a difficult situation when it comes to choosing which media groups will receive funds and which groups will not. Proposals from organizations that are politically oriented or have outside incomes are usually cut first. Media groups are encouraged to obtain advertising revenues, funds for salaries are always rejected.

SMAB's biggest allocation for 1976, $10,000, went to Mariah and Showcase Jazz. This purchased a sound system which is under SMAB's jurisdiction and thus owned by the students. The sound system will be stored in the Instructional Media Center and can be used by any student organization for a small fee which covers the service of two operators who run the system.

BOARD MAY APPROVE PROPOSALS

Housing rate hike likely

On campus housing rates and an MSU smoking ban are likely to be approved by the MSU Board of Trustees' meeting Friday morning.

The administration will recommend a $60 increase in residence hall rates for the school year, said Roger Wilkinson, president for business and finance. That, a $5 monthly increase in housing rent will be proposed, and a one-bedroom unit from $127 per month to $132 per month. The $60 increase for residence hall rates would bring the cost of one academic year at MSU to $1,402.50 from its present $1,342.50.

The smoking ban that is likely to meet with board approval, according to Elliott Ballard, secretary to the board, was proposed to the trustees by ASMSU President Brian Raymond at the April meeting. Raymond presented the results of a spring term referendum calling for the ban in all indoor areas where organized academic activity occurs. Students voted 7,411 to 1,980 in favor of such a ban.

"There is very little possibility that the board will not pass the ban," Ballard said.

The board will also award contracts for two fire safety improvement projects for the Auditorium and for rewiring in Yakely Gilchrist residence halls.

Work on both would begin immediately, Wilkinson said.

The trustees will meet informally at 7:30 tonight in 104A and 105H Kellogg Center. The regular meeting will be held at 9 a.m. Friday in the Board Room on the fourth floor of the Administration Building.

Appeal fails to put end to jet landings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court Wednesday upheld the government's decision allowing the supersonic Concorde passenger jet to land regularly at two U.S. airports.

The ruling by the three-judge court apparently cleared the way for Air France and British Airways to start Concorde service to Dulles International Airport outside Washington on Monday as scheduled.

However, the ruling has no effect on the Concorde ban imposed by the Port Authority of New York-New Jersey, which operates New York's Kennedy International Airport.

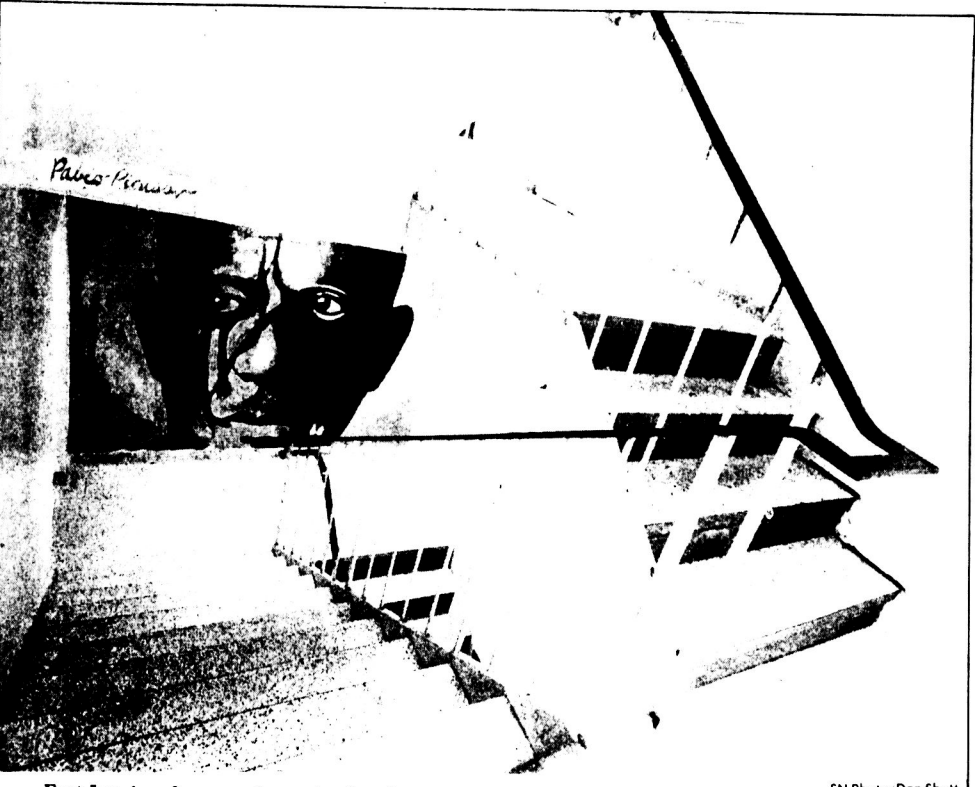

That six-month ban at Kennedy currently is being challenged by the two airlines in a New York District Court.

Fairfax County, Va., one of the two counties where Dulles is located, has passed a local ordinance that would bar the Concorde from landing at the federally owned airport. The court decision did not mention that ban and it was unclear what effect that ordinance would have on the start of service.

The court's ruling came in a suit brought by eight environmental groups and 27 congressmen. That suit was joined by Fairfax and Loudoun counties, Va., and by Nassau County, N.Y., the state of the New York and the Aviation Consumer Action project, a Ralph Nader group.

At a hearing Wednesday, the opponents claimed the Feb. 4 decision by Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. allowing Air France and British Airways to operate the Concorde on two flights daily into Kennedy and one flight daily into Dulles should be overturned because Coleman did not consider all pertinent information.

The court noted Coleman's order only authorized flights for up to 16 months so that the government could gain information about the Concorde's impact on the environment.

HEW notes rise in welfare rolls; more families receive federal aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of persons on state and local welfare rolls climbed over the one million mark last January for the first time in more than four and one-half years, the government reported Wednesday.

During the same month, a cumulative increase of 10,316 unemployed fathers and their families joined the federal-state aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program, the report said.

The Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare said that more than 11.4 million persons received AFDC benefits in January, an increase of 57,456 persons or one-half of one per cent from the previous month.

The increase included 41,946 members of families headed by jobless fathers, up 5.4 per cent from the previous month, to a new total of 821,700 recipients. Last July, there were 495,972 persons on AFDC in that category in 28 states.

HEW said the states with the largest increases in unemployed father families over the seven-month period from July to January were California, up 20,442 to 172,920; Ohio, up 6,872 to 81,885; Michigan, up 32,791 to 81,140; New York, up 11,458 to 32,236; Pennsylvania, up 5,568 to 27,904; Massachusetts, up 3,765 to 20,317; and Washington, up 6,948 to 20,822.

State and local general assistance rolls, which involve no federal funds, totaled 1,002,629 recipients in 44 states which reported figures for January, marking the first time since May 1971 that the rolls topped one million, the report said.

General assistance covers the working poor, home relief for the unemployed and underemployed, and disabled persons who have not qualified or have not yet been approved for federal Supplemental Security Income.

HEW said the seven states with the largest number of general assistance recipients were New York, 245,794; Pennsylvania, 149,258; Illinois, 91,996; Michigan, 77,343; Ohio, 65,770; New Jersey, 57,304; and California, 55,118.

The nation's family welfare spending last year rose 21.4 per cent from 1974 to a record high $24.8 billion for AFDC, Medicaid and general assistance.

'No' on Programing Board

Today students will be voting on an issue fundamental to MSU cultural, social and artistic activities outside of the classroom.

These activities are various programs sponsored by student groups such as Great Issues, Showcase Jazz and the like.

What students will be voting on is the amendment to the ASMSU constitution which would set up a programing board to coordinate these cultural programs and unify them under one board.

Presently, the various programs are fragmented, inconsistent and financially insecure. The idea of a unified board is one the State News has supported and recommended for a long time.

The proposal students will vote on today has considerable merit, but it falls unacceptably short of achieving the goals of complete independence of financing and control of artistic, cultural and social programing. It should be rejected by students.

In the past, programing has been enmeshed in the politics that permeates student government. It has had to compete with other groups in order to obtain the money it needs.

The result of this has been a qualitatively and quantitatively pathetic status when compared to programs at other universities. We have said that programing at MSU must be removed entirely from the political arena and have a source of financing distinct from ASMSU in every way.

What the proposal gives us, however, is an expansion of the ASMSU bureaucracy to include the programing board. Rather than severing ties with student politics completely, programing would rather be incorporated with ASMSU.

Tied in with this is a telling point: The present ASMSU and SMAB taxes of 50 cents will be replaced by a single $2 tax (45 per cent to the programing board, 35 per cent to ASMSU and 20 per cent to SMAB). Though students voted it down winter term, ASMSU would be receiving a tax increase from the proposal.

Once the programing board has its share of the tax—45 per cent—it will be plugged into the ASMSU business office, rather than having total independence of financing.

Our position, as a newspaper sensitive to the least hint of control from anywhere, is that all such doors should be shut, locked and bolted. We advise the programing organizations who have supported the proposal to reconsider, for the ASMSU business office could—and has—become the interruption or suspension of free expression.

We do not say the current set-up is better. We say the present needs radical change, but change which is sensible, intelligent change which removes programing from ASMSU from student politics altogether and change which does not use money as a lure for prospective supporters.

LETTERS To the Editor

Porn flicks

I wish to respond to Mr. Hamilton's letter on the showing of pornographic films on campus.

Last night I went to a Beal Group pornographic film. In my opinion, it was in poor taste and not worth the $2.50 I paid to see it. This does not mean that I think that their showing should be stopped.

Hamilton may feel that they "appeal to the lowest taste and to the most perverse and basest of passions," but this gives him no right to inflict his morals on anyone else.

In a country founded on the ethic of freedom for all, the laws should be made to protect the people from others, not to inflict moral standards upon them.

Reasoning such as Hamilton's is the basis for many of our laws against victimless crimes such as prostitution, drug use (not abuse), homosexuality and pornography. These laws have no place in our society.

Also, the purpose of a university is not to brainwash its students to accept the morals of those in power.

In my opinion, it is to expose the students to all possible alternatives and to let them decide which is best.

Referendum

As chairman of the Student Media Appropriations Board (SMAB), I would like to give my support to Proposals A and B that are coming before the students of ASMSU.

In the fall of 1974 SMAB was empowered by ASMSU and COGS to distribute funds to alternative media produced by and related to students of MSU. The students voted a 50 cent tax per term to fund these groups through SMAB.

Since that time SMAB has allocated almost $150,000 to over 50 different student groups. Over one third of this has gone to fund five major student newspapers. The remaining has gone to other printed media, to video projects, audio projects and multimedia productions, to special forums, to concerts and to the purchase of equipment, most notably the SMAB sound system, which is available to all student groups.

With this wide scope of media on campus, the board finds it very difficult to appropriate the limited funds to the many diverse groups which ask for it. The board regularly must deal with applications for funds which total three and four times the amount available. It also must make some decision as to which forms of media are most appropriate to fund and which have the greatest impact on the students. This has been a tremendous problem and I would like to thank those board members who have served with me for the patience and concern with which they have dealt with it.

If Proposals A and B are passed SMAB would only concern itself with printed media and this would greatly simplify the work of the board. Much more effort could be placed on dealing with this one area of media and therefore the students would benefit. If one of these media forms was not meeting students' needs and interests, then the board would be more likely to be aware of it and more likely to do something about it.

The other forms of media would be funded through the Programing Board which would have representatives from each of the many diverse media groups involved. This allows for much more knowledge of the areas by the board members and many more resource people to deal with the many projects involved.

Many students have received the benefits from the media which SMAB has funded, without having realized it. The concept of a SMAB is a good thing and is rare among college campuses. The students of ASMSU can make one more step to improve this concept by approving the decentralization of decision making in this wide field of media.

Dave Juckett, Chairperson
Student Media Appropriation Board

European illness

After reading the article "Indians' free tuition bill raises ruckus in Senate," on page one of the May 14 edition of the State News, I feel that a comment is in order.

I feel that the "tired Indian jokes and joviality" are symptomatic of a European sickness that has plagued the native American Indian people since the European first graced our shores.

Though I realize that even legislators have a right to bring a ray of sunshine and joy into their jobs through humor, I can't help but think about the constant degradation and ridicule the Indian people are forced to endure.

Even in joking, the legislator who said "Indians who take advantage of the measure be made to swear off firewater when attending college" and "Many people who are not serious about college have been known to drink and carouse" reflects the Euro-American mentality in past and present dealings with the Indian people.

The lack of seriousness and understanding with which the government deals with the Indian people is a continuous pain for us as we try to improve the quality of our lives in this country.

To ask a government which has never been fair to the Indian to change overnight is not realistic, but what is happening in the Michigan Senate at this time still makes me sick.

Jeff Sprague

People power

The national pollsters have indicated that confidence in the federal government is at an all-time low with only 14 per cent of the people indicating such confidence. At the time, all of the major presidential candidates are calling for less federal government and control and more individual participation in the decision-making process.

Why not then have a constitutional amendment to give the power to the people to initiate and ratify constitutional amendments — as we can do in Michigan? (I specifically propose that if petitions are signed by 5 per cent of the people who voted in the last presidential election, the amendment would go on the ballot. If a majority of the voters approved it in two-thirds of the states, it would be ratified.)

This could restore the people's confidence in our government by restoring the government of the people and for the people to the people.

Losing it altogether in the (splat) MSU computer center

Whizzzz... whrrrrrrrr... beeeeeeep... splat.

"This is a recording... the computer program that you have submitted has not run successfully. It has not even begun to walk yet."

For people with minds that lean toward creativity, the MSU Computer Center is a den of horrors. Key-punch machines galore and cards that can't be folded, spindled, mutilated or even doodled upon in moments of uncontrolled fantasy are all an integral part of this blinking, whirring, clackety-clack world.

Recently I walked through that building: heads were bent low over long sheets filled with depressingly accurate rows of systematic dots, dashes, numbers, nothings and letters.

I wondered to myself: "How long would I do this before committing suicide?" I figured that I would probably last a grand total of two seconds.

What fascinated (revolted?) me even more was the realization that people are actually MAJORING in this thing: they take (suffer through?) terms upon terms of this torture, and some even like it.

Why else would they be in there, doing that to themselves?

Now, some of my best friends are CPS majors, and I see first-hand what happens to them.

The initial course that they are required to take usually does not strain their brains too much, it only permanently crosses their eyes and forces their tongue to lick their lips in anguish.

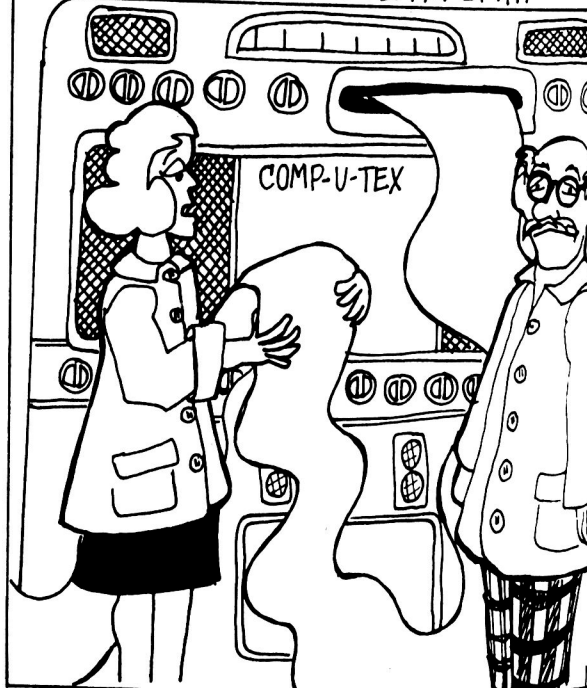

As time progresses, however, they seem to develop nervous twitch upon nervous twitch; their hands continually shake, they lose weight and sleep only during humanities classes.

They yell a lot, become irritable, and are required to buy the entire stock of Ex-Lax from every drug store in the city.

Downhillville.

The only moment of happiness that they know if the minute after their program (perhaps only two days late, this one) finally does run. Two minutes after they successfully complete one, they begin feverishly to work on the next one. And the next. And the next, ad nauseum. The funniest part (ha, ha) of knowing CPS people is that they continually try to explain their programs' intricacies to who don't have the foggiest idea of what they are talking about.

I THINK IT'S A LIST OF DEMANDS... LONGER COFFEE BREAKS, A RAISE IN OIL, AND ONLY HIGH GRADE PAPER...

"See, you take this doohickey here, display it out so you know what you're wrong. Then take this character here, look at your dollar balance. Then, bars."

Ours is not to question why, ours is to go insane in the Computer Center. Surely there is a finer way to endless hours, star-filled nights and afternoons than in that cooped-up, sweating and groaning, tearing hair, ing, creating words of profanity generally going nuts.

Hopefully, at least. But, I suppose that everyone has own right to do what they please. ahead and struggle over impossible, prehensible programs. Some of us are gluttons for punishment.

Others of us choose to stay alive longer and spend our last cherished of a normal home, not an insane asylum.

Spartan softball team finishes year with World Series win

By CATHY CHOWN
State News Sports Writer

The NCAA rained penalties all over the MSU athletic department and dark clouds have hung over Spartan land ever since.

And then came the women's softball team.

A bright spot shone through those dark clouds when the women's softball team won the women's Softball World Series last weekend, one of the better accomplishments of any MSU team in recent years.

Some observers say that the team has one of the strongest infields in the nation. But coach Diane Ulibarri is more sure of her contingent.

"I'm willing to say that we have the strongest defense in the nation," the happy mentor exclaimed after her team's World Series victory.

Conferees favor anti-blackout law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate House conferees agreed in principle Wednesday to make permanent the sports anti blackout television law.

The anti-blackout law prohibits sports leagues from preventing local telecasting of any professional sports event sold out 72 hours in advance.

Though the conferees agreed in principle to make the anti-blackout law permanent, they decided to take no formal vote until after the Federal Communications Commission submits its annual report on the statute June 10.

The Spartans amassed a 23-4 season record this spring on their way to becoming the No. 1 softball team in the nation. MSU picked up 11 shutouts on the way, evidence of a strong defense as well as good pitching.

Senior Gloria Becksford proved her hurling abilities as she won 17 games against one loss this season, five of those wins coming in the World Series.

However, Becksford gives a lot of credit for her impressive record to her teammates.

Becksford commented that the team played heads-up ball during the Series and that the "defense was phenomenal."

"The defense made some spectacular plays — it wasn't all me in those victories," she said.

Becksford was a beneficial addition to the Spartans when she transferred here in her junior year from Northwestern College in Iowa. Last year she helped the softball team to a third-place finish in the World Series.

Coach Ulibarri named Becksford along with senior Sue Lawson as leaders who got the spirit going and rallied the team.

Lawson said that, when she joined the team four years ago, winning the World Series was a dream. This year it became a reality. In Lawson's sophomore year, she played on the MSU team that placed 11th in the Series. The following year, MSU was third.

Lawson said she thought no team member felt pressure singly, and that "we just pulled together to win it."

The Spartans began their season a little slower than they finished it, losing their second and fifth games of the year. Then on April 17, MSU suffered two defeats to Purdue. Both games were close, as the Spartans lost 8-7 and 2-1.

"I feel those Purdue losses were the turning point of our season. That got us going," Ulibarri said.

After the Purdue games, MSU racked up six straight shutout victories, and continued to win the rest of its games.

Winning the Ohio fast-pitch tournament earlier this month was a convincingly strong victory as Ulibarri said that she had never seen any Ohio teams before that tourney. MSU beat four straight Ohio teams to win it.

Ulibarri felt that Western Michigan and Grand Valley were the toughest Michigan teams that MSU faced this season, with the World Series tournament schools having the best overall talent.

"The teams we faced in the Series were used to fast pitching and hit Becksford all over. We wouldn't have been much without our defense," Ulibarri said.

Though MSU is losing two top players in Becksford and Lawson, next year's squad will have the bulk of this year's championship unit returning for another season.

Regional play next for women netters

Coach Elaine Hatton will take four members of the women's tennis team to Columbus, Ohio, this weekend to represent MSU in the tennis sectional regionals.

No 1 singles player Debbie Mascarin and No. 2 player Diane Selke, both freshmen, will be participating for MSU in the singles category.

Freshmen Mark Hicks and Mike Kruger will be entered in the doubles competition. Both singles and doubles play will be single elimination and will have consolation play through the quarter finals.

Hatton said the meet will have the "cream of the crop" because each school will be sending its best two singles players and best doubles team.

This first regional meet will have at least 32 schools participating.

According to Hatton, MSU has a good chance of scoring well in the meet, depending on the draw and the competition it will face.

"There will be a lot of small schools in the tournament and if we can win this, we will know that we have really done something," she said.

'76 leader contingent announced

Cheerleaders for the 1976-77 academic year have been announced. Cocaptains for the year will be Laura Riendl and David Nicely.

Other team members are Kathy Craine, Jody Eberly, Cathy Lilly, Lynn Shook, DeDe Shryjck, Tom Bustillos, John Close, Paul Keglovitz, Pat LeBlanc and Keith McElroy.

Alternates will be Ann Stinson, Jill Graham, Pat Vachon and Mike Stenback.

Flanker Radelet makes transition

By GREG SCHREINER
State News Sports Writer

Put a hunter on the delivering end of his own gun and he'll get a feeling pretty much the same as Spartan flanker Dave Radelet got when he made the transition from quarterback to his present position.

"It gave me a whole new perspective," Radelet said. "It looked so easy to catch the ball when I was throwing it. Now I see it's not as easy as it seemed."

Radelet, who will be a junior during the fall football season, received all-city, all-state and All-American honors as a prep quarterback at East Lansing High School. Upon joining the MSU squad, though, he found that a change of position was in order.

"When I joined the team in the spring of my freshman year," Radelet said, "Charlie Baggett still had a year with the team, and there were six others wanting his job. I also noticed that Mike Jones had graduated and that Dane Fortney only had a year left at flanker, so I saw my best bet to play there."

Some have called Radelet a walk-on, though he is currently on a full-ride scholarship.

"I got a lot of offers from a lot of different schools when I was a senior in high school," he said. "The thing was, though, that I just wasn't into trying to play football and keep up my grades. So I decided to turn down the scholarships for football."

With only academics on his mind, Radelet chose MSU. "It was the cheapest place to go," he laughed. "I lived in East Lansing, so all there was was tuition to pay."

Radelet notched a 3.88 average his first term and a 4.00 his second and then decided to go out for the football team in the spring. 1975 was his first season in a green-and-white uniform and Radelet found himself on the receiving end of only three passes. Those, however, were good for a total of 41 yards for an average of 13.7 yards per reception. His longest catch was for 21 yards.

Radelet also got a taste of the suicide squads in his first season, as he returned two kickoffs — not gaining a yard on either of them — and was in on three tackles on the kickoff team. He amassed a total of 15 minutes played during the year.

The fall may hold more promise for Radelet. He says that currently he and Kirk Gibson are No. 1 flanker.

"It's spring, though," Radelet commented, "and I'm not really sure that our positions right now will mean anything in the fall. Moreover, flankers and all receivers may see added action this year with the advent of head coach Darryl Rogers' new passing oriented attack."

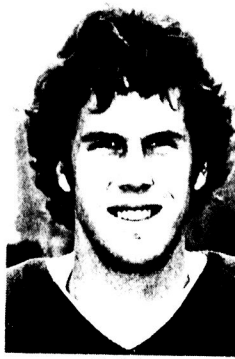

"The difference between this year and last year is going to be like day and night," Radelet said. "When you go out to beat a zone defense, you just look for an open spot. But when we're against a man-to-man, like we will be in this year, you just have to beat your man. It all depends on your individual talent then. Under coach Rogers, there is going to be a lot more individuality."

As far as the fall's Big Ten season goes, Radelet is enthusiastic about MSU's chances.

"We are not going to be slouches in this league in any way," he said. "We had a darn good team last year and we should be twice as good this fall."

Future of ERA repeal attempts appears bleak in state legislature

By RALPH FRAMMOLINO
State News Staff Writer

Two state legislative resolutions aimed at rescinding Michigan's 1972 ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment are quietly slipping into oblivion.

The measures — House Joint Resolution (HJR) TT, sponsored by Rep. Josephine Hunsinger, D-Detroit, and Senate Joint Resolution (SJR) V, sponsored by Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo — seem to be doomed by hostile sentiment, some legislators are saying.

But Elaine Donnelly, chairperson of Michigan Stop the ERA, who has been lobbying intensely to get the state's ratification rescinded, sees a beam of hope via some rare legislative maneuvering.

She said that while HJR TT is being squashed in a House Committee on Women's Rights and Constitutional Revision, SJR V, resting in the Senate Judiciary Committee, has a good chance of passing. From there, Donnelly would like to see the entire House approve SJR V instead of sending it to the unfriendly House committee.

Rep. Barbara-Rose Collins, D-Detroit and chairperson of the House Committee on Women's Rights and Constitutional Revision, does not hide her contempt for the repeal movement. She cites the tremendous work load of her committee, however, as the main reason HJR TT is not moving along.

"I wrote Mrs. Hunsinger a letter and told her about the work load," Collins said. "If I took up Josephine Hunsinger's resolution now, it wouldn't be fair to the others." She added that the committee is still working on measures proposed in January 1975.

Collins also said that she has received 400 letters about rescinding the Michigan ERA ratification, which she said have been running 10 to 1 against repeal.

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park and chairperson of the Senate Judiciary Committee, does not share Donnelly's optimism about SJR V's chances in his committee.

"I don't think there's enough support for it to warrant any full-scale hearing," Brown said, adding that the next three weeks would be prime time for the measure's consideration. He expects it to wither from neglect.

Donnelly maintains, however, that she has promises from a majority of Brown's committee to give SJR V a hearing. From there, she expects the measure to eventually pass the Senate and be sent to the House.

It is in the House, and particularly in Collins' committee, that Donnelly fears failure. She would like to see a "discharge petition" invoked by the House. Such an action would allow the entire House to prevent SJR V from going to Collins' committee by a majority vote. It could then be accepted on the floor.

Prospects for a successful discharge petition are "poor," in the words of House Clerk Thomas Thatcher.

"A regular discharge is hard," Rep. James Smith, R-Grand Bland, agreed. "I've never seen one prevail in the 10 years I've been here."

The movement to repeal the ERA ratification started in December 1975 when Donnelly's group released a compilation of opinions which argued Michigan could indeed change its vote on the federal constitutional amendment. The opinions were from 11 law schools all over the country and contradicted a ruling by Attorney General Frank Kelley which said repeal was impossible. Hunsinger and Welborn introduced their resolutions in early March.

So far, Tennessee and Nebraska have rescinded their ERA ratification, 34 of the 38 states needed to approve the amendment have given their OK.

While anti-ERA forces are struggling to get a repeal of Michigan's ratification, pro-ERA forces are trying to get ratification in Illinois. Ratification has passed the Illinois House and is six votes short of passage in the Senate. A rally to demonstrate ratification support was held in Illinois over the weekend, with pro-ERA people from over 30 states attending.

East Lansing may comply with FCC cable standards

By MICHAEL ROUSE
State News Staff Writer

East Lansing's cable television system may finally comply with Federal Communications Commission (FCC) order to insure it remains on the air.

The East Lansing Cable Commission (ELCC) which regulates the city's cable system will recommend that the City Council lower the National Cable Co.'s franchising fee at the council's June 1 meeting. The National Cable Co. holds the East Lansing franchise and is required to pay a 5 per cent fee of the total subscriber rates collected.

The FCC ruled in July 1975, that the 5 per cent fee was too much for the city to levy and that other aspects of both the city's general cable ordinance and the specific franchise agreement with National were excessively strict.

Randy Van Dolsen, public access coordinator and representative of National in ELCC meetings, said some of the criteria required by the city that were voided by the FCC were:

- Establishing the position of public access coordinator.
- Requiring specific studio facilities for public access use.
- Reserving channels for educational use.
- Requiring a community affairs channel (Channel 14 was established for that purpose, but ceased broadcasting in February because of a lack of community and advertising support).

The FCC has threatened to issue a cease-and-desist order to National which would prohibit it from broadcasting. The ELCC has only to lower the franchise fee from 5 per cent to 3 per cent and National will have its license renewed, Van Dolsen said.

Van Dolsen said the FCC criticized the city's use of the high franchise fee.

"A big chunk of the fee has been used to promote public access," he said. "The FCC allows only a 3 per cent fee for regulatory use."

Van Dolsen said he did not know if the sections voided in the FCC's Memorandum, Opinion and Order of July 1975 will be reinstated.

"Actually, it's a moot point because the services voided are still being provided, with the exception of Channel 14," Van Dolsen said.

"The community and advertisers were not really interested in Channel 14 anyway," he said. "There was no big push for it in the community and it was losing too much money." He said all the color television equipment previously used by Channel 14 has been handed over for public access use.

"The company (National) has the capacity of more channels than we have already, and all the equipment," Van Dolsen said.

City Hall Administrative Asst. Mary Padilla stated in a memorandum to City Manager John Patriarche that the ELCC had introduced an ordinance to the city council last December in an attempt to modify the Cable Code in compliance with the FCC regulations.

The ELCC finally decided to amend the cable ordinance to require the 3 per cent franchise fee as the best way to gain recertification.

The National Cable Co. began providing cable television service to MSU married housing apartments in 1969 and spread cable television to the rest of East Lansing in 1974.

Sources differ on results

picked up only two. The state Republican party hands out 84 delegates, and Ford won 57 of them. Reagan won 27. Reagan still leads Ford, in total delegates, 514 to 383, with 1,130 needed for nomination.

Reagan's drive for the nomination was not seriously set back by his losses in Maryland and Michigan. He expected both losses, he said Tuesday night.

It's good that he did, for final vote totals indicated the former California governor won, out of Michigan's counties, just one — Gogebic, in the far western reaches of the Upper Peninsula. Ford had a majority in all others.

Udall's strength apparently was concentrated in two areas — suburban Detroit and areas with liberal college voters, such as the counties of Kalamazoo (Western Michigan University), Ingham (MSU), Washtenaw (U-M and Eastern Michigan) and Isabella (Central Michigan, Alma). He ran away from Carter in huge Oakland County — north of Detroit — where Ford campaigned heavily last week, did very well Tuesday and quite possibly drew off potential Carter voters. Udall did just slightly less well in suburban Macomb County.

Udall's overall success in the state may have been accounted for by his heavy campaigning and Carter's absence from the area much of the two weeks prior to the election. Udall's appeal to the traditional liberal voter in left-leaning neighborhoods helped.

Carter gathered much of his support from union rank-and-file voters, who apparently followed the example of President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers and other union officials who endorsed Carter two weeks or more ago. He did well among black voters, helped by the support of Detroit's black Mayor Coleman Young, but blacks were said not to have turned out too well. Suburban voters, according to Detroit-area county officials, voted in rather large numbers.

The near-tie is more important to Udall. But it is important to him, in the long run, mainly as a means of loosening a link in the Carter chain.

police briefs

Campus police report they are still receiving complaints from owners of vehicles that were apparently vandalized in last weekend's parking lot attacks.

The attacks occurred on Thursday and Saturday nights and involved more than 50 cars in X and F lots and ramp 1, resulting in estimated damage of $2,500.

Major Adam Zutaut of the Dept. of Public Safety (DPS) said that the cars were more than likely targets of the earlier spree, as they were vandalized during the same time spans and the same locations as the others.

The additional complaints, which came in Tuesday and Wednesday, were evidently missed by police during their first search of the areas, he said.

One of the cars, from ramp 1, had a broken antenna and the other, from X lot, had scratches and other damages for an approximate loss of $65.

A semi-nude man was arrested by campus police after being stopped for going the wrong way on a one-way street at about 2 a.m. Wednesday.

Police said that the 20-year-old nonstudent, who had been seen driving back and forth in his van in front of a group of women near Landon

Hall, was nude from the waist down. Police would not release any statements that "condition." He was charged with indecent exposure.

Two students from Bailey Hall were in jeopardy Tuesday evening when DPS officers took not only their clock, but also their plants. The clock was one that had been stolen from Wells Hall.

Officers were at the students' room to see them for stealing the clock and while they spotted four small potted plants and some seeds confiscated them.

Major Zutaut of the DPS said that one officer sees the plants directly in his presence does not have much choice but to confiscate them. Zutaut said, however, that it is not usual procedure for the DPS to go around the students' marijuana plants.

"If we wanted to get every plant on campus would take us a week," he said. Marijuana aficionados, eat your hearts out, the major said that the plants are being held in evidence at the DPS offices and are probably wilting away.

Chicago cabdrivers angered city order requires uniforms

CHICAGO (AP) — Many of Chicago's 4,400 cabbies are seeing bright red over a city order that they wear dark green uniforms.

City Consumer Sales Commissioner Jane M. Byrne, saying some drivers' garb was "frightening" riders, had ordered the uniforms worn by June 1. She has since backed down on the color but not given up on the uniform. The cabbies, not a notably silent group, don't want any uniform and aren't up either. "That Jane Byrne likes uniforms, let her wear one," driver Joe Santoro, Yellow Cab delicately mented.

GROUP WANTS STUDENT UNITY

Card block to resurface

By PATRICIA LACROIX
State News Staff Writer

They called it school spirit back then: the days when leaders led the entire student body in rousing choruses of the fight song, when Homecoming was THE event of the year, when students were proud to be an MSU product and when you hardly walk from the women's dormitories (West Circle) to a malt without being drowned in green and white. McIntyre of Student Foundations Organization is trying to bring back the ball rolling to revive those days by organizing an MSU card block to perform at the 1976 football games. The card block, as recently as 1968, would consist of people flashing different cards to create pictures such as Sparty's face. Student Foundations Organization, using the card block as a vehicle to revive the old college spirit and promote pride in the school, was first formed during winter term. In January we first started tossing the idea of such an organization around," Lori Smith, publicity chairperson for the organization, said.

organizing the card block, we can unite students in dorms, fraternities, sororities and off campus as to what the Student Foundations Organization is doing," McIntyre said. "From there, we will continue with our plans to help promote school spirit." Since then the group has been planning various ways to actively involve students in University activities. The card block itself will consist of 36 rows of 36 people each in the end zone and 10 of the stadium. Realizing that this is a prime area for seats (30 yard line), McIntyre said that this was the main reason for choosing those particular sections. "The seats and their desirability will be motivation for freshmen and sophomores to participate in the card block," he said. In normal seating arrangements planned by the University, the two sections in question are reserved for upperclassmen. McIntyre said that in 1968, when the card section was located in the end zone, few students were inspired to participate in the effort, and it failed for that reason. The sections 9 and 10 location also has good visibility for those attending the game, McIntyre said, since spectators sitting on the entire west side and both end zones will be able to see the show presented in the stadium. Two row captains will be assigned to each of the 36 rows with the responsibility of recruiting 18 members each and six alternatives and making sure that all the seats are filled for every game. The different designs themselves will be planned by a Design Committee. Since the 18-by-18-inch cards that were used in 1968 are still in usable condition, McIntyre said there would not be that much cost in implementing the card section. To cover office costs and incidentals, the Student Foundations Organization is asking for minor funding by an MSU fundraising group. Each student will be responsible for handling five cards during the shows, and therefore 10 colors will be available for different designs. A meeting will be held Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Old College Hall in the Union Grill for people interested in working on the card block.

Higher industrial payrolls spur faster rise in personal income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher payrolls in distribution and services helped quicken the growth in American's personal income during April, the government reported today. Commerce Dept. said personal income increased at an annual rate of 10.9 per cent in April to an annual rate of $1,347.6 billion. That represented faster growth than the 9.6 per cent jump in March. The latest growth means personal income so far this year is now 10.5 per cent ahead of the first four months of last year. Personal income increased at 7.9 per cent during all of 1975. Combined with a reduced inflation rate during the early part of the year, the steady growth in personal income means more money available for spending by consumers as well as more fuel for the economic recovery. Consumer prices in the January-March period rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.9 per cent, lowest in any year since the three-month period ending in June 1972. Personal income represents all wages, salaries and other benefits received by individuals before deduction of income and taxes. It represents much of the foundation of the economy. Personal income has now increased for nine consecutive months. Growth in April of $11.6 billion at an annual rate was the largest since February's $12.4 billion. Commerce said the primary influence behind the faster growth in April was a $5.4 billion jump in private wages and salaries, which had risen $4.4 billion in March. The distributive industry sector, which includes freight haulers and other movers of products, provided most of that increase with a $1.9 billion jump, which was more than twice March's $800 million increase, the department said. Payrolls in commodity producing and service industries increased at about the same rate as in March. Government wages and salaries also increased at a steady pace, but farm income ended six months of no growth with a $1.2 billion jump in April to an annual rate of $38.1 billion.

Teaching code passes Senate

MICHAEL SAVEL
News Staff Writer

The Academic Senate met Wednesday without a quorum, but the only item on the agenda, the Revised Code of Responsibility, passed by default.

The Academic Senate is composed of more than 3,300 members of the faculty. A 10 percent increase in the number of proposals and only about 200 faculty members attended.

The teaching code had a few revisions made by the Academic Council and was expected to pass the senate easily if there had been a quorum. The code outlines the responsibilities of each instructor to students concerning classroom procedure.

President Wharton

addressed the group at the Senate meeting and described the University budget situation as "uncertain" and "in a state of decline in level of support in the legislature."

"Right now we are in the highest degree of uncertainty we have ever been," he said. "I really don't know when the appropriation is coming, and how much it will be."

"I am speculating that it may come in June, but I am not holding my breath."

Wharton submitted a request for an increase of $20 million over last year's allocation. Gov. Milliken's budget calls for an increase of $15 million to the education fund for the entire state.

"We need at least $12 million to keep up with the rate of inflation," Wharton said. "I submitted my request for $20 million because I believe this is absolutely essential for us to operate."

He said that there is an overall decline of support for higher education in the state.

"Ten years ago we were seventh highest in our education funds in the country," he said. "Now we are below the national average."

"I am not totally pessimistic of the situation, but we certainly have a difficult year ahead," he said.

Lawrence Boger, acting provost, said the University is preparing for budget cuts in such a way as to blunt their effect on the quality of education.

"We must plan for cutbacks. We have no choice but to be prepared if the governor's program is implemented," he said.

"We must be prepared beforehand to accommodate the re-trenchment level."

"Right now we are planning a five per cent flexibility guideline which department by department adjusts its budget downward by five per cent to determine the impact if we had to implement such a program," Boger said. "A five per cent cutback would certainly hurt quality."

He praised the faculty members for the way they have been functioning under the current budget stress.

"It is amazing the productivity we have within, and handled the increase of workloads with minimum complaint," he said.

"We have managed to maintain a maximum on the qualitative side."

CANDIDATE CURRENTLY UNOPPOSED County sheriff seeks re-election

MICHAEL RICHTER
News Staff Writer

L. Preadmore, Michigan County Sheriff, has announced he will seek re-election in the Republican ballot in the 3 election. He is currently running unopposed.

Preadmore has served for 16 years as Sheriff of Ingham County. He is 53 years old, single, in good health, and has a total of 29 years of law enforcement experience.

Preadmore said he would continue his work in developing a program which provides emergency and paramedic treatment throughout the county.

"We already have one paramedic unit going, but we want to add more to it so that we will be able to offer emergency first aid assistance to our citizens," he said.

Preadmore said he also wants to employ MSU students in more capacities. "We are already using the students in the area of police work, but now we want to get students in the School of Medicine at MSU to help us in developing the paramedic program."

"The students will be helping us, and we will be helping them with their future careers," he said.

Preadmore began his career as a driver's license examiner and progressed to investigator, chief deputy and then sheriff.

He is currently a member of the Executive Committee of the Crime Commission of the State of Michigan, chairperson of the Law Enforcement Training Council and chairperson of the Law Enforcement Policy Committee of the State of Michigan. In addition, Preadmore is a past president of the Michigan Sheriff's Assn.

During his service career, he has received various awards such as the VFW-J. Edgar Hoover Award for Policeman of the Year and the Junior Chamber of Commerce Bill Butler Award for jails showing progress in the area of correction.
