HHH draft committee formed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring that it is time when the office must seek a candidate, supporters of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey Thursday formed a committee to draft him for the Democratic nomination.

Paul Simon, D-Ill., chairperson of the committee, said it was being formed to draft Humphrey's approval or consent. The announcement of the committee was made by Simon and Joseph F. Crangle, County, N.Y., Democratic chairperson, at a news conference as Humphrey was in the Senate as floor manager of a bill.

Humphrey has declared repeatedly that he would not enter any Democratic presidential primaries. He has said he would not run for the Democratic nomination.

Humphrey also has emphasized he would not run if the Democratic convention called for him to do so. Humphrey said if he did, he would not run.

Humphrey has any reaction? He was asked.

"I guess he smiled," said Crangle. Simon said he and Crangle had been urged by recent setbacks in Jimmy Carter's drive for the Democratic nomination.

Carter was defeated in the Nebraska and Kansas primaries and scored narrow losses in Michigan and Connecticut in the past two weeks.

Simon said he expected to happen when the Democratic National Convention begins in July. Simon said, "Obviously, Carter will be leading on the first day. We anticipate Sen. Humphrey will have approximately 300 delegates."

Simon predicted that on the second and third days there would be wholesale shifts to Humphrey, who would emerge with the nomination.

Simon said his committee would be made up of the Federal Election Commission and would disclose the names of all donors. He said the committee has yet to raise any funds but acknowledged that thousands of dollars collected weeks ago by a labor leader to finance a Humphrey letter to delegates probably would be available.

Simon said the letter was never sent when Humphrey was in the Senate. Simon described the committee as a "low profile operation that would be concerned primarily with contacting delegates to determine whom they were supporting and to urge them to back Humphrey.

In other political developments President Ford may have gained more while staying home Thursday than the half-dozen other candidates did running around in search of votes for next Tuesday's presidential primary elections in six states.

New York's huge uncommitted Republican delegation appeared to be swinging to Ford, and an Associated Press poll Thursday showed the President holding a 7-1 lead over Ronald Reagan among Pennsylvania GOP delegates—all uncommitted—on the first ballot vote at the party's national convention.

The President's New York gain would come Monday, when the state's uncommitted delegates will hold a meeting that could give Ford some 100 more votes at the national convention and push him above Ronald Reagan in GOP delegates.

After Tuesday's primaries, Ford had 435 delegates and Reagan had 522. Uncommitted delegates totaled 372. Ford was off the campaign trail Thursday, while Reagan was on the hustings in Arkansas.

In the Pennsylvania telephone survey of 81 delegates, 44 said they now plan to vote for Ford on the first ballot. Six said they will vote for Reagan, 30 would not commit themselves and one said he'd vote for a favorite son but would not identify his candidate.

Even without Humphrey, frontrunner Jimmy Carter faced what seemed like a travel agent's nightmare: trying to keep up with four candidates vying for votes in six primaries next Tuesday.

COUNCIL VOTES UNANIMOUSLY

Drain amendment OKd

By NANCY ROBERTS
State News Staff Writer

The simmering issue of development in the Remy-Chandler drainage district has been placed on a back burner by the East Lansing City Council, but will probably ignite come July when the Capital Construction Company submits its report.

The amendment for stricter regulations was unanimously passed at Wednesday night's meeting in council chambers packed with concerned citizens from the Remy-Chandler district who came to hear the outcome of the issue.

The amendment stipulates:
• That all water that would increase runoff into the Remy-Chandler drain must be retained on site in retention ponds. The ponds must conform to definite specifications, such as being located at least 20 feet from any building.

• Before any property may be sold, a deed must be provided that shows where the retention area will be located.

• A building permit may not be issued within the district unless the building official states in writing that no detrimental impact will occur to the area.

Several instances, such as remodeling existing buildings and single- or two-family dwellings, will be considered to have no detrimental impact. Building sites with prior approval from the East Lansing Planning Commission will also be considered to have no detrimental impact.

• The ponds must be designed to hold a 10-year storm, which is a storm that will probably occur once every 10 years.

• The retention area shall not endanger the health or welfare of the public," said Councilmember Larry Owen during his introduction of the amendment. "The area shall also be inspected."

Owen also emphasized no automatic exemptions from the ordinance would be possible.

"You can store on land you own only," he said, "not on land owned by others."

The amendment was introduced as an emergency ordinance, which permitted the council to introduce and pass it in the same meeting. It will take immediate effect.

"This is a livable, reasonable decision," developer Albert White said. "It is a solution to the Remy-Chandler problem."

Mayor George Griffiths was not as pleased with the amendment.

"This ordinance did not go as far as I would like," he said. "Ponding is not a good solution to the problem."

Griffiths said he was concerned about the area extended for ponding and if the system would work.

"Hopefully, this is temporary," he said, "and the drain can be made to work."

The Remy-Chandler drain issue has been brewing for several months. In April the City Council began to take action by discussing the possibilities of a building moratorium, which would stop all issuance of building permits in the district. The moratorium was never officially implemented, however.

Meanwhile, the Building and Zoning Dept. issued 21 building permits in the Beechtree subdivision, which lies in the Remy-Chandler drainage district.

At the May 4 council meeting, the building permits granted since April 1 were rescinded and a 30-day building halt was implemented. The East Lansing city attorney planned to look into the possibility of imposing a building injunction in the entire area served by the basin.

But such action is no longer needed now that the amendment has been passed.

After several minutes of confusion Wednesday night on the wording of the proposal, the council voted to discontinue plans on the moratorium.

"You mean I get to vote on this again?" Councilmember Mary Sharp said. "Oh, good."

Council action on Remy-Chandler did not end with the passage of the amendment. Councilmember Larry Owen introduced two resolutions, both of which were passed.

"The first action addresses the inadequacy of drainage in the district," Owen said. "Hopefully, we can have a well-constructed report on soils."

Owen's second resolution will hold independent developers and corporations responsible for the drainage in the area and require all to take account of the drainage basin.

Councilmember John Czarnecki continued action by asking for a study of soil conditions in the district. He also called for recommendations to the council on the types of construction to be allowed and the conditions under which it should be allowed.

Czarnecki asked for a consulting engineer and the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission to assist in the study.

The Remy-Chandler drainage basin lies north of East Lansing in a 27-square-mile area. East Lansing owns 2.5 square miles of the basin and wishes to develop it because the area lies in the only direction the city can expand. The shifting soils and high water table create a high rate of water runoff and add to the flooding problems.

In other council action, it was decided that the Citgo gas station will be demolished and the area used temporarily to display sculpture.

John Patriarche, East Lansing city manager, reported that the station and the surrounding concrete pavement could be removed for $2,800 or the station alone could be removed for $1,490.

Government may argue in court against busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said Wednesday that Attorney General Edward H. Levi will decide this week whether the federal government will argue in the Supreme Court on the side of anti-busing forces in the Boston school case.

He also said he is considering three alternatives to court-ordered busing for school desegregation.

"They appear to be constructive and I hope will be effective," Ford said. He declined to say what the three alternatives involve.

The President denied any political motivation in his efforts to find an alternative to court-ordered busing, saying he did not initiate reports in the news media about his plans involving busing.

"If I wanted it for political purposes, I could have gotten the attorney general before the Massachusetts primary to intervene, or he might have decided to intervene prior to the Michigan primary," Ford said.

"Several months ago the attorney general told me that he and his solicitor, Mr. Robert Bork, were looking for a case where the federal government might intervene in order to try and get the court to take a slightly different viewpoint, or a viewpoint that is different from the court's decision to intervene."

The President said the alternatives he is considering were submitted by Levi and David Mathews, secretary of health, education and welfare. Sources said both cabinet members submitted more than one alternative.

"Court-ordered, forced busing is not the answer," Ford said.

He said the attorney general has not told him yet whether he will intervene in any desegregation case.

But Levi's decision will have no immediate impact on court orders imposing busing in Boston and other cities. It is doubtful that the course Levi is considering could actually lead to any changes in local school districts until next year — after the 1976 elections.

White House and Justice Dept. officials insisted Wednesday that Levi alone will decide whether to use the Boston school case as a vehicle for the federal government to seek new Supreme Court guidelines limiting the use of busing to integrate schools. His decision is expected this week.

The national controversy may push the issue toward the forefront of the political campaign. It's already a major issue in Kentucky, where President Ford faces a primary election on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, in Wilmington, Del., a three-judge federal court panel on Wednesday ordered the integration of the mostly black Wilmington city schools and predominantly white suburban schools next year.

The three-judge panel said an interim committee must be set up immediately to plan for the racial shift in school attendance, but the judges said actual desegregation did not have to begin until September 1977.

The judges did not require a specific ratio of white to black students for the racial balance in the schools, but indicated it would consider a range of 10 per cent to 35 per cent black as evidence of desegregation.

Morris Udall supporters decide against seeking primary recount

By United Press International
DETROIT — Morris Udall supporters Thursday decided against seeking a recount of Tuesday's Michigan primary results, but predicted an official state canvass of the vote would transform Udall into a winner.

Unofficial returns showed that Jimmy Carter edged Udall by 1,820 votes in the Democratic contest.

However, Detroit election officials acknowledged Thursday that about 650 absentee ballots mailed in on time were never counted. Udall aides said they have turned up other vote-counting discrepancies elsewhere.

"We're pretty sure that when they have the canvass, we're going to be declared a winner by a few hundred votes," said Ilene Lengyel, Udall's Michigan campaign coordinator. "The official canvass always changes the total."

State election officials in Lansing said the canvass would be completed by May 28.

In Detroit, deputy City Clerk Michael Kerwin announced at a news conference that 650 absentee ballots were never counted because of late delivery to polling places or Postal Service delays. He said he did not know if the votes could be legally counted now.

Though Carter would still be the winner even if all 650 of those votes had been for Udall, Lengyel said, "600 votes is 600 votes. We're only 1,800 votes down."

Earlier, Udall campaign aides had claimed that vote-counting errors and other irregularities in Detroit and elsewhere may have cost their candidate as many as 5,000 votes.

"Some precincts didn't turn in any absentee ballots at all," said Bob Bidard, Udall coordinator for the metropolitan Detroit area.

"The campaign appreciates that Michigan has always had the cleanest elections going," Bidard said. "But in an election this close, an honest mistake could result in the wrong candidate winning the election."

Final unofficial election results showed that Carter defeated Udall by less than 1 per cent of the vote — 305,997 to 304,177.

Bidard said that in some polling places in Detroit's 17th Congressional District, an area where Udall clobbered Carter, the Udall levers on the election machines did not function properly.

"We had calls all afternoon from people who were trying to vote for Udall but were having trouble with the machines and needed help," he said.

Bidard added that results from some Flint area precincts, where punch-card voting was used, "didn't make any sense at all when viewed in the perspective of the statewide figures."

State Elections Specialist James Chapman said in Lansing that his office had received no official complaints about the election.

He added that it is not yet known whether a recount, which would cost the financially beleaguered Udall campaign at least $30,000, can even be held for a presidential primary under state law.

"At this point, we do not even have an official count," Chapman said. "So we don't know what everybody's getting so steamed up about..."

Economic rights stance urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson said Thursday that Democrats risk losing the 1976 presidential election unless they can draw disenchanted black voters to the polls with specific promises that concentrate on economic rights.

Jackson told the Democratic Platform Committee that "a lot of people" are predicting the nation's 7.5 million black voters will stay home on election day. He noted that phenomenon could provide Democrats with a margin for defeat.

Jackson said the platform should promise more jobs for black Americans and the capital to own businesses. He also called on the party to allow more participation by blacks and suggested that the platform might also include a proposal for the decriminalization of narcotics.

Curare deaths lead to arrest

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI) — A South American surgeon who experimented with the muscle-relaxing drug curare was arrested Wednesday on charges he murdered five patients 10 years ago at a Bergen County hospital.

Dr. Mario Jascovitch, 48, was charged with "willfully, feloniously and of malice aforethought" causing the deaths of the patients in 1965 and 1966, including a 4-year-old girl. The indictment did not specify how the patients were killed but the grand jury had been investigating allegations they died of injections of curare.

Jascovitch insisted he was using the drug for experiments on animals.

Jascovitch pleaded innocent to the charges.

Curare is used by South American Indians to poison tip their arrows and is frequently used during operations to facilitate surgery by relaxing a patient's muscles. But it can be fatal in large doses.

Food prices, spending jump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail food prices probably will rise 3 to 4 per cent this year and will push total consumer food spending past the $200 billion mark, an Agriculture Dept. report indicates.

Department economists said in the report Wednesday that the food price gain, which will be the smallest in at least four years, could be as little as 2 per cent if 1976 crops are better than now expected, or could be as high as 5 per cent if crop prospects here and abroad are dimmed by summer weather conditions.

This relatively small increase, attributed to increasing supplies of many foods, compares with jumps of 8.5 per cent last year and 14.5 per cent in each of the two preceding years.

State Dept. to sell power plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Dept. has decided to support General Electric's request to sell two atomic power plants and 1.4 million pounds of enriched uranium fuel to South Africa, it was learned Thursday.

The controversial $2 billion sale is the first involving nuclear reactors for South Africa, which has not signed the nuclear nonproliferation treaty designed to prevent the spread of atomic weapons.

This decision is likely to touch off a fight on both technological and political grounds. State Dept. officials said they saw no inconsistency with administration efforts to further majority rule in Southern Africa.

The two nuclear power plants, which would be built about 20 miles from Cape Town, would produce about 1,000 pounds of plutonium a year as a byproduct.

Concorde jets to taxi into U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Two supersonic Concorde passenger jets — one British and one French — will make their first flights to Washington together Monday, then taxi side-by-side to the Dulles Airport terminal, British Airways said Thursday.

The two planes are scheduled to fly 12 miles apart at speeds up to 1,350 miles per hour to within 50 miles of the U.S. coast, when they will slow to subsonic speeds. The British Airways Concorde is to touch down at Dulles two minutes ahead of the French plane, then wait on the runway so the two can come in side by side.

A federal appeals court decision made Wednesday cleared the way for the controversial supersonic Concorde jet to start scheduled flights from London and Paris to Washington.

The three-judge panel Wednesday refused to overturn the Feb. 4 decision by Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. that allowed Air France and British Airways to operate limited Concorde flights into two U.S. airports for up to 16 months.

Kissinger denotes U.S. stance

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Thursday the United States will not permit the Soviet Union to impose its ideology on the West, according to a U.S. official.

Kissinger also told the closed meeting of the North Atlantic Council the essential outlines of U.S. policy will remain the same no matter who wins the U.S. presidential election, the American official said.

Foreign Minister Knut Frydenlund told the Storting, the Norwegian parliament, that his government does not share Kissinger's position on Communists joining the Italian government.

Kissinger has said that the entry of Communists into the Italian government after next month's parliamentary elections would hurt the Western alliance. He has pointed out that the confidence that exists between the allies and non-Communist Italian governments would be damaged.

Senate OKs watchdog group

By WIRE SERVICES

WASHINGTON — After 15 months of revelations of CIA assassination schemes and other abuses, the Senate overwhelmingly approved a 15-member watchdog committee to monitor the nation's intelligence operations.

A majority of the new committee will be members of existing panels whose failures to curb spy agency abuses provided a principal argument for creation of the new committee.

Under terms of a resolution establishing the new panel, at least eight of its 15 members must come from the four Senate panels that traditionally have monitored the CIA, FBI and other spy agencies. The resolution won overwhelming Senate approval Wednesday.

Majority leader Mike Mansfield will pick eight Democrats to serve on the panel and minority leader Hugh Scott will tap seven Republicans.

Mansfield said today the new committee should be in operation early next month.

The resolution originally called for a 17-member panel, but the number was cut to 15 under an amendment by Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., contended reducing the number would put the eight members of existing panels "in the driver's seat" and would represent "a vote of confidence" in their past performances.

"I do not see how the track record is deserving of any vote of confidence by this body in the existing committees," Weicker said. "They have been in the driver's seat and the track record is an unmitigated disaster."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairperson of the current intelligence committee now winding up a 15-month probe of the spy agencies, said the new panel would become the focal point for action on many of the nearly 200 recommendations made by his committee's final report.

The 72-22 vote was a triumph for liberal and moderate reformers, who beat back conservative efforts to exempt the code-cracking National Security Agency, Defense Intelligence Agency and other Pentagon units from the budgetary scrutiny of the new Select Committee on Intelligence.

"It's a very important step, not only toward preventing future abuses, but in shoring up freedom. If the committee does its work well, this country is going to be a better place," Church said.

One of the first tasks facing the new panel will be to decide whether to reopen the investigation into the murder of President John F. Kennedy. The old committee voted recently to turn over to the new panel what Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., called "some very hot leads" that might answer why

Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy.

The resolution gives the new committee exclusive budgetary and legislative authority over the CIA and shared responsibility with other panels over the National Security Agency, Defense Intelligence Agency, FBI and State Dept.

The resolution is not legally binding, but asks the White House to give the panel advance notice of major new intelligence operations. The panel could not veto proposed spy activities but could vote to reveal operations of which it disapproved. The President could appeal the disclosure to the full Senate, which could approve or disapprove for a final decision.

The resolution also gives the executive branch for the first time an intelligence budget for approval. Spy agencies now are divided among of different budgets. Other reform proposals growing out of the resolution are expected to include rewriting of the CIA formulation of an official policy for the National Agency and penalizing unauthorized disclosure of national security secrets.

HIGH WINDS, RAIN HIT GUAM, PHILIPPINES

2 typhoons sweep Pacific island

By WIRE SERVICES

Twin typhoons roared across the Pacific Ocean Thursday, swamping heavily populated Manila with more than 16 inches of rain, and sending 150-mile-per-hour winds at the American island of Guam.

Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos declared a "calamity." He ordered around-the-clock relief shipments and called out police to guard against hoarders and profiteers in the flooded Manila area and neighboring provinces.

Typhoon Olga's floodwaters, which rose to rooftop level in low lying areas, killed at least five persons. A family of seven whose home was swept away and 12 persons aboard two small airplanes caught in the storm were reported missing.

Marcos ordered all but essential businesses closed in Manila and Quezon City and flew over the area after conferring with officials.

The government-owned Manila Transportation Co. offered commuters free bus rides, and the armed forces put heavy trucks into service, but many streets were impassable. A 100-yard underpass in front of Manila City Hall looked like a canal.

Weather bureau chief Roman L. Kintanar said 16.1 inches of rain fell on Quezon City in 24 hours, topping a Manila City record of 15.9 inches set in July 1972 when the country was hit by a major flood.

Typhoon Pamela, upgraded to a super-typhoon with wind gusts up to 190 m.p.h., bore down today on Guam, 1,500 miles to the east.

Pamela sent more than 2,100 residents fleeing from their homes for shelter in schools and other public buildings. National Weather forecasters warned that the capital, could expect wind gusts exceeding m.p.h. today.

Prison crowding challenged

By RALPH FRAMMOLINO

State News Staff Writer

ST professor Zoltan Ferency told the Michigan Dept. of Corrections Thursday to challenge the overcrowding situation in the state's prisons or face the prospect of a lawsuit.

Ferency is asking the department to let some inmates and refuse to admit any more prisoners in order to lessen the crowding problem in the state's facilities. He said this stuff at the school — "prisoners' rights," Ferency said.

Ferency delivered a letter on behalf of the Human Rights Party (HRP) to the Michigan Dept. of Corrections, citing the "cruel and unusual punishment." The letter serves as a request for a "declaratory ruling" by the department to alleviate the crowding. If the request is unanswered or denied, Ferency and the HRP can take the issue to court under Michigan law.

"The real key here is whether the courts think it (overcrowding) is cruel and unusual punishment," Ferency said, expecting a suit. "I'm going to court to seek relief in front of the judges that sentence these people to prisons."

Ferency said he does not want to see the state build more facilities but rather release people incarcerated for drug-related crimes. This would cause a more "selective" system of imprisonment and allow drug-related crimes to be treated as a disease instead of a crime, Ferency said. He estimated that 30 to 40 per cent of the state's prisoners were arrested for drug-related crimes.

Gail Light, spokesperson for the corrections department, said that Ferency's move came as no surprise.

"We were kind of concerned that such a situation would occur eventually," Light said about Ferency's challenge. "Most of the things Mr. Ferency said were things the director (of the department) has said to the legislature."

Light said that the department first became concerned about the overcrowding in the prisons in October, 1974. She said the department's director, Perry Johnson, started alerting the legislature in February, 1975. Bonding proposals for new facilities are still awaiting action in the legislature, she said.

"We certainly need the new prisons," Light said. She gave a flat "no comment" when asked if Ferency's challenge was welcomed by the department.

Ferency said he will take the matter to court in two weeks if there is no response or a negative response from the department to his request. He added that he used the same system — asking for the declaratory ruling and then going to court — to win a decision earlier this year that the state police intelligence files on subversive activities were unconstitutional.

Residence halls manager explains proposed hike for dormitory rates

By PATRICIA LACROIX

State News Staff Writer

Underwood, all-residence halls manager, explained to the Residence Hall Association (RHA) the why and wherefore of proposed $60 increase in room and board rates for the 1976-77 school year at a meeting Wednesday night.

Underwood explained that his job is keeping room-and-board rates as "low as possible and getting as much out of each dollar spent as possible," and that the proposed increase will be presented to the MSU Board of Trustees for approval.

The students are our only source of revenue, Underwood said. "The dormitory situation is decreasing, but the mortgage is increasing."

Underwood said five-sixths of this increase — or about $50 from each student — goes to paying the increased costs for labor.

The remainder of the additional money will be allocated in the form of higher salaries for University employees.

Underwood said the room-and-board rate increase amounts to four and one-half per cent over last year. He added that this rate was "not bad," considering "the inflationary times that we live in."

Students were not so lucky in the tuition department, since increases there amounted to 17 per cent, he said.

Underwood explained the decrease in the number of students returning to the dormitories for next year is apparently attributable to the fact that students are going out and working for one or two years themselves.

"Usually, we would expect about 17,500 to be signing up for the dormitories this year. We're just not getting them this year, though," he said.

With the $60 increase, MSU will still have the lowest room-and-board rates in Michigan.

One hidden advantage of students not returning to the dorms is that the possibility of tripling also decreases.

"Tripling won't be nearly as severe as it was last year," Underwood said, "and more than likely will not extend into winter term at all."

Underwood did say that students from off campus are being offered rooms in dorms beginning this week and that they hope to get 200 applicants through this method.

Other business at the meeting included a motion by Emmons Hall representative Chuck Thompson that a letter be sent to the director of the Red Cedar Log, the MSU yearbook, expressing strong dissatisfaction with the RHA ad that appeared in the book, since the RHA body was not contacted before radical revisions were made.

The original sketch submitted by the body allegedly included more pictures that defined what RHA did throughout the year, that, according to Thompson and supporting representatives, were not in the final printed version.

The motion passed by consent of the body.

The next RHA meeting will be held Wednesday night in the Brody Complex.

Option to work available in lieu of cash payments

By SUZIE ROLLINS

State News Staff Writer

Two options are available in East Lansing regarding payments of fines by persons convicted of drunk or impaired driving, possessing many outstanding parking tickets or taking part in small larcenies. The hitch is that only one option is made known to the guilty parties — to pay the fine in cash, which can cost between $50 to $100.

The other option, which is only available by request to the judge, is to do manual labor for various nonprofit city or state institutions, at a $3 per hour rate until the fine is paid off.

East Lansing is unique in offering this alternative. Manual labor may be done in the clerical or shelving departments of the State of Michigan Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, the East Lansing Sanitation Dept. or the water treatment plant.

One of the reasons the work option is not made known to the convicted persons is due to an assumption that "most people can afford to pay the fines," Frank Russell, East Lansing 54-B District Court administrator, said.

The criterion that the work option is based on is indigence. The court claims that the guilty party must prove that he or she cannot afford to pay the fine. However, Bridget McCarthy, chief deputy clerk, claims there is no investigation into the cases regarding the party's financial status.

"If the person says they can't afford the fine we take their word for it," McCarthy said. "They are on their honor."

Other reasons for silencing the work alternative revolve around the number of hours a person can work at a time, because about 50 per cent of the people working off fines are students who work around their schedules.

Russell said he believes this inconvenience the institution's work patterns. Russell also contends that if the labor choice is publicized, many people will ask for it and they "should not be rewarded when going to court."

Joe Gersh, 21, is working off his $125 fine by shelving and cataloging tapes of readings at the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. No one ever told Gersh about the work option, but he thought there must be an alternative to paying cash.

"The thought just came to me, so I approached the judge," Gersh said. "He definitely wasn't expecting the question."

Gersh was referred to the court administrator who contacted Doug Cameron, supervisor of the Library, to see if work was available.

Cameron welcomes people who work through the courts, because the library is in desperate need of people to do time-consuming jobs, since a huge amount of tapes arrive and depart daily.

"We need all the help we can get," he said. Cameron added that many people apply for jobs after they have served time for the court. He does not feel, however, that the need for students work around their academic schedules hinders productions.

Peter flies to the bedside of the Darling children before taking them away to Never-Never Land in the MSU Performing Arts Company's production of "Peter Pan." The play will be performed Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 8:15 p.m. in Fairchild Theatre. Special matinee performances, starting at 2:15 p.m., are slated for Saturday, Sunday and May 29.

The off-key sounds of little voices singing fills the room and another group of pre-schoolers prepares for a walk outside, giggling.

The kids at the Married Students Activities Unit (MSAU) Day Care Center in Spartan Village are excited about a carnival that will be held Saturday—a carnival to have fun, but also to help the day care center bail itself out of financial trouble.

Begun by married students on campus in 1970, the MSAU Day Care Center is subsidized by $10,000 yearly from the MSU General Fund to help pay back the building loan. But beginning this summer the day care center will have to raise its tuition costs to make ends meet.

Currently serving 150 different families, with a capacity of 110 children in the center at any one time, tuition is now $6.50 per child for a full day and $3.50 for a half day. But in summer term the tuition will go up to $7 per full day and $4 per half day.

Suzanne Sullivan, program director of the day care center, said she regrets the tuition increase because the center serves a select low-income group of families. Each child enrolled in the day care center must have a parent enrolled as an MSU student.

The staff of the center is paid with gifts from the Dept. of Family and Child Sciences, the Psychology Dept. and the College of Human Medicine.

"Without them, we'd never survive," Sullivan said.

The MSAU Day Care Center was conceived as a service facility as well as a training and research facility for MSU students.

"We need that money not only for the kids, but also to train the MSU students," Sullivan said.

Sullivan said money is needed for several things. A third sink in the kitchen is needed to comply with the Dept. of Social Services licensing regulations or the center may close the next time it is inspected in two years. A commercial dish washer which will cost $1,200, a new tornado shelter, record players and muscle equipment such as climbers and tumbling mats are also needed.

"Toys, records and books are needed, too," Sullivan said, "but unfortunately they become the lowest priorities because we're always patching everything else around here."

In order to raise money for the center, Sullivan said, they have sold the children's artwork, sometimes raising $35 to $50 at an "art sale."

The latest fund-raising project, the carnival, will be held Saturday (Sunday if it rains) at the MSAU Day Care Center from noon till 5 p.m. Tickets will be sold for a dime each for various games with prizes, a cake walk, puppet shows, a make-up booth, a magician and concessions. Circles the Clown and his gang will be there from noon till 2 p.m. There will be fire engines in Crescent Road which will be blocked off for the event. A rummage sale, plant sale and flea market will also take place.

Culture exhibit opening festival

African Liberation Week will be kicked off Sunday with Black Cultural Day, consisting of dance, drama, music, poetry, art and audience participation.

Neal McAlpin, executive producer of Black Notes Television Workshop, said the program will be held in front of Demonstration Hall from noon to 6 p.m.

McAlpin said the program will begin with a rhythm workshop. The public is invited to bring instruments along. A Ghanaian musician will be participating under the sponsorship of John M. Hunter, director of the African Studies Center.

Six musical groups will provide the sounds of Africa, gospel, jazz and rhythm and blues. Africans and black Americans will perform traditional and contemporary dances and theater groups will present revolutionary commercials.

Parking gate undergoes 'disappearing act'

Not only the mailman who refuses to let anything stop him. The man who takes the State News from Greenville to the Student Services Building each day not about to let a parking gate stop him from delivering his bundles of the SN. The papers were late Wednesday morning because of primary coverage, so the driver made it to the Student Services Building parking lot, the gate was back. Smash. Splinter. — The gate was gone. The papers made it to the loading dock of the Student Services Building.

Less than an hour later, MSU maintenance men were seen grumbling and putting the gate bar back together. Only now it's six inches shorter.

Candidate Udall gets Bonnie's two bits

With this week's presidential primary, endorsements for various candidates were flying all over the state, and MSU was no exception. At the RHA for All indoor-outdoor concert last Saturday, fiery blues singer Bonnie Raitt gave her two bits by endorsing Morris Udall. The crowd, as well as MSU voters, agreed, for Udall took the area by a wide margin Tuesday.

Persevering professor pulls in four prizes

One of MSU's own brought more prestige to the school and himself by raking in four awards for his service as a U.S. Dept. of Agriculture researcher.

Ordon H. Levin, professor in the Agricultural Engineering Dept., was honored in 1976 Engineer of the Year award, the 1976 Distinguished Service to Agriculture award, the 1976 Award for Meritorious Service from the Michigan Farmers and Freezers Assn. and a Certificate of Commendation from the Michigan State of Agriculture.

It was a good year for Levin.

Faculty to participate in southpaw study

Study being conducted by Lauren Harris, professor of psychology, will examine the incidence of left-handedness among a population which has been highly educated — MSU faculty members.

With the cooperation of about 800 instructors who receive questionnaires next week from about 40 undergraduate assistants, Harris hopes to see if proportion of southpaws changes in groups with advanced education. Left-handedness occurs in between 5 and 10 per cent of the general population. Profits will be asked which hand they use for various commonplace tasks and whether parents or children are lefties or not.

Lefty himself, Harris said the relative incidence of left-handedness in a population does not imply any intelligence differential because intelligence is a multifaceted thing.

Follow-up on the survey will be conducted when the results will be discussed with the participating instructors.

Steve Gitterman, a graduate student who will be assisting Harris, said this is the first time such a study has been conducted and will hopefully add credence to theories proposed at the University of Pennsylvania.

West watches votes

WESTON (AP) — Western governments, their eyes fixed on the presidential race, are watching the effects of such a victory by such a candidate as Jimmy Carter or Ronald Reagan on the world stage.

Government spokespersons in key capitals refused comment on official assessments of the primaries to date, largely on grounds that this would be interfering in U.S. domestic affairs. But they made clear the kind of reports they are getting back from their embassies in Washington.

One European source, who refused to be identified by nationality, said his government had been surprised by the surge of Carter, seeming to wipe out the chances of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

Perhaps more significantly, informal soundings in Britain and France showed that many politicians expect the Democrats to win the presidency this year, partly on the grounds that "the Republican cycle is coming to an end," as one put it.

Concert to feature debut of composition

police briefs

MSU worker, who was hit by a car Wednesday evening, was being treated for multiple bruises and a small laceration of the head.

Police said the man was running west along a sidewalk on Stadium Road and crossed Stadium Road where he was hit by a car.

The driver of the car, an MSU student, was cited for failing to yield to a pedestrian crossing. According to the victim, he did not see the car as he crossed the road.

A woman student reported being assaulted shortly after midnight Wednesday in what campus police believe to have been a motivated attack.

The woman said that she was walking home from the Library and was grabbed from behind by an unidentified man near G lot.

Police said the man wrestled with her and then fled when a bicyclist approached the area and the woman started screaming. The man was described as a white male with dark hair about 18 years old, 5-feet-8-inches tall and 150 pounds. He was said to be wearing a yellow waist-length jacket and dark trousers.

A receptionist at Hubbard Hall discovered a miniature version of Niagara Falls running down the stairwell from the 10th floor about 2:30 a.m. Thursday.

Campus police said that someone had taken a fire hose from the 10th floor, put it in the stairwell, turned it on and left.

It is not known how long the hose had been there or how much water had run down the stairs. Police also said they do not know if the incident caused any damage, but the receptionist turned off the hose and the soggy stairwell is now drying out.

Prof. to receive MIT award

An associate professor of human development in the College of Human Medicine has been named by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to receive an Alfred P. Sloan Fellowship.

Thomas A. Helmrath, a pediatrician who has been at MSU since 1969, will begin a 12-month course in June which will lead to a Master of Science degree in management.

Helmrath is one of six in the medical field to receive the fellowship this year.

A graduate of St. Louis University School of Medicine, Helmrath is the director of the newborn medicine service at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. Helmrath has previously been a fellow in the division of neonatal biology at the University of Washington.

The Sloan Fellows program, which began in 1931, selects men and women each year from medicine, industry, government and universities. This year 57 received awards.

Another Sloan Fellow from the MSU College of Human Medicine, Dr. W. Donald Weston, associate dean and professor of psychiatry, completed work in April for a Master of Science degree in management at MIT.

Gypsy Scholar book sale today

You just do not find books as cheap as this today: 25¢, 50¢ for hardbacks, paperbacks, anthologies, fiction, non-fiction, textbooks, even some first editions.

"We're practically giving these books away," said Peter Mott, editor of the Gypsy Scholar, magazine of literary criticism put out by graduate students in the English Dept. The editors of the magazine are holding a book sale from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. today on the second floor of Morrill Hall to raise money to help publish their three issues yearly.

"This is a good chance to pick up some good books cheap," said Mike Holaday, promotional editor of the Gypsy Scholar. "We ransack the faculty and grad students for some of their books."

Gypsy Scholar magazine is funded by three sources: by the book sale, by subscriptions from libraries and college departments who subscribe to the magazine and by an annual $3,600 allocation from the Student Media Appropriations Board.

The professional journal, according to Holaday, is one of the few of its kind in the country, and is considered one of the best.

"We are the leading one (literary criticism magazine put out completely by English graduate students), but the others have nowhere near our reputation," Mott said.

The publication is independent of the English Dept., though the editors do use offices in the department. The staff consists of about 25 people.

Book sales from previous years have pulled in between $100 and $200, Holaday said.

Bob Carr to chair panel on south African issues

Congressman Bob Carr, D-East Lansing, will be the moderator for a seminar discussion of problems and recent events in southern Africa in the MSU Union Saturday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Participants in the discussion will seek to inform the community of the important events now occurring in Southern Africa, and the implication of those events for the United States.

The speakers will include Leslie Yates, staff member of the U.S. House subcommittee on International Resources, Food and Energy; Ruth Hamilton, MSU associate professor of Urban Affairs and African Studies; Eddison Zvobgo, associate law professor at Lewis University and general secretary of the Zimbabwe African National Union; Timothy Smith, director of the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility for the National Council of Churches; Leroy Johnson, MSU instructor in Racial and Ethnic Studies; Paula Whitley, producer-director of TV 23 "Perspectives in Black;" and Carol Thompson, MSU graduate assistant in political science and member of the South African Liberation Committee.

Representatives from the business, labor and academic communities, as well as the public are invited.

U, city pool services, research

by PAULA M. MOHR
Staff Writer
The city of East Lansing and the University of Michigan have established a clearinghouse committee that will coordinate academic expertise in community services and research projects.

The city and University will serve on the committee that will match proposals for specific East Lansing problems or requirements with individuals at MSU who have academic skills in the particular area.

The committee will also assemble academic units that wish to serve the local community as a base for research projects.

"The city may have service needs to be met that faculty members, graduates and students have the expertise to assist in," Maxie C. Jackson, director of the Center for Urban Affairs said. "The clearinghouse brings them together to work."

Areas desiring or needing assistance direct their problem to the clearinghouse committee. The committee then proceeds to the University and finds faculty members, graduates or students who can respond to the community need, he said.

Jackson said the clearinghouse committee was an offshoot of the Urban Observatory Program developed by the National League of Cities.

Roughly five years ago, the league was funded by Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to create a program that would establish constructive relations between cities with populations over 250,000 and local universities. The utilization of university services by the National League of Cities was very successful, Jackson said, and HUD decided to fund the Urban Observatory Program again. This time the program was extended to cities with population between 50,000 and 250,000.

East Lansing fit into this population bracket so the city, along with the College of Urban Development, compiled and submitted a proposal.

"We made it to the last review process, but we didn't pass," Jackson said. The idea was good and interest was high, so efforts were continued to pursue the program, he said.

The only difference between the Urban Observatory Program and the East Lansing-MSU service is money, Jackson pointed out. The individuals recruited by the clearinghouse committee are volunteers, while the National League people are paid.

The committee consists of four East Lansing members and four MSU members.

Mayor George Griffiths, City Manager John Patriarche, Dr. Robert Docking (acting superintendent of schools) and James Meulendyke, chairperson of the City Planning Commission, serve on the city side.

Serving for MSU are Associate Provost Clarence L. Winder; Prof. Wilbur Brookover; Duane L. Gibson, Director of the Institute for Community Development, and Maxie C. Jackson, director of the Center for Urban Affairs.

Machines increase food supply; chips from pig and cow bones

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be some finely ground chips from pig and cow bones in your hot dogs if the Agriculture Dept. carries through with its plan to let food processors use machines to gnaw meat closer to the bone.

But those bone chips should not be noticeable and, besides, they are a good source of calcium, the department says.

The plan is to allow deboning machines to scrape the bones of processed livestock carcasses.

Deboning machines are used now by the industry but not in the final bone-scraping manner being urged by the Agriculture Dept. for processed meat products.

The department's plan would allow processors to include up to one pound of bone chips in every 100 pounds of meat to make such things as pork sausage, canned beef stew and frozen pizzas.

Officials say the technique could add nearly one billion pounds of meat a year to the U.S. food supply, about five pounds per American.

The department, explaining the new approach, said, "Under traditional hand deboning methods, loss of meat typically occurs when packing house employees attempt to cut the meat from neck bones, ribs and backbones. Mechanical deboning machines can strip such bones clean of all meat that otherwise would not be gotten by hand deboning."

CANDIDATES HAVE STRONG CONVICTIONS

Religious aspect of campaign rises

NEW YORK (AP) — In a time of widespread disenchantment at lapses of ethics in government, rising attention is being centered on the religious stances of candidates for the U.S. presidential nomination.

The religious note is an escalating element in the presidential contest, stirring discussion among pundits, politicians, church leaders and people.

Not since the late John F. Kennedy in 1960 became the first Roman Catholic to gain the presidency has religion surfaced so strongly in the vying for that office. But this time, the issue is not so much denominational ties as individually voiced commitment.

It's a "new situation," says the Rev. James M. Wall, editor of the influential ecumenical weekly, Christian Century. Generally in the past, he says, it has been "assumed that religious references by public officials were not to be taken seriously. But now, our leading candidates are clearly not joking. They mean it."

The reference specifically was to Democratic candidate Carter, a Southern Baptist of explicitly devout belief, and to President Gerald Ford, an Episcopalian.

Here, briefly, are religious connections of leading candidates:

Republican Ronald Reagan, a member of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), once a Sunday school teacher now attends Bellaire Presbyterian Church in Los Angeles, an evangelically oriented congregation.

President Ford, a life-long Episcopalian, usually attends St. John's Episcopal Church, across the park from the executive mansion. His is a quiet faith, a "personal thing," he says, which "I rely on for guidance from my God."

Carter, a Baptist deacon in his home church in Plains, Ga., says he has been a Christian since he was eight, but had a "born-again" experience of recommitment in 1967.

Among other Democrats, Alabama's George Wallace is a Methodist who speaks often of the "grace and goodness of God" and says "Jesus Christ saves." Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Presbyterian and one-time Sunday school teacher, terms himself a "deeply religious man."

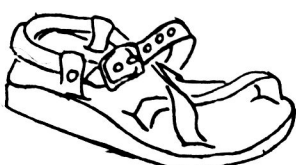

Sen. Morris K. Udall, reared a Mormon but who left the church because it bars blacks from the priesthood says "I consider myself a religious person" but without organizational ties.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. is a Roman Catholic and former Jesuit seminarian who quotes freely from church scholars. Sen. Frank Church, a Presbyterian who calls renewed dedication of his principles of integrity, Hubert Humphrey, a Unitarian, says "I am a Jew-Christian" and built the nation and have headed its social gains.

Sen. Morris K. Udall, reared a Mormon but who left the church because it bars blacks from the priesthood says "I consider myself a religious person" but without organizational ties.

OVER 100 APPLICATIONS RECEIVED response to council good

During the next academic year and have a strong role in academic policy making.

"With all of the applicants we will have a choice group of high quality people," he said. "These indications of interest should produce a very active council."

Because of the flood of applicants the appointment process has been reformed.

Each applicant will be interviewed by Student Council members and then rated. Two applicants will be selected for each position, one as an alternate. If the appointee should for any reason be dismissed from a committee, the alternate will then be approached for the position.

The appointments will be made Monday at the Student Council meeting, 4:30 p.m. in 331 Union.

Novak attributed the increase in applications to a change in student attitudes and the State News.

"Students are feeling more responsibility," he said. "People realize that they can play an active role in University policy making."

"I also cannot deny the good coverage the State News has given us. They have opened the channel of communication so our message can reach the students."

Gordon Thomas, secretary for Academic Governance said the governance committees should be a more cohesive unit

Service workers settle strike

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
A group of New York City landlords has approved a contract proposal to end a walkout by apartment building service workers. Talks between striking United Rubber Workers and four major tiremakers dragged on with no progress reported.

In other labor disputes, striking National Assn. of Broadcast Employees and Technicians members were voting on a tentative contract agreement with NBC, beer bottlers at Anheuser-Busch Inc. plants in nine cities remained off the job and bloodworm and sandworm diggers in Maine continued their walkout.

The Realty Advisory Board, representing New York City landlords, Wednesday approved a three-year contract to end the 17-day walkout. The workers' union quickly announced it had ratified the pact. However, a dissident group of building owners said the contract appeared too costly and called a membership meeting to vote on the proposal.

John J. Sweeney, local union president, said workers at 95 per cent of the struck buildings would return to work immediately. He said the union would continue to picket buildings owned by landlords "who definitely said they would not sign the contract."

The strike, which began May 3, idled 22,000 workers and forced thousands of apartment dwellers to run their own elevators, haul their own garbage and form tenant security forces.

In the URW strike, fringe benefits were discussed in negotiations again Wednesday in the fifth week of the strike against the rubber industry. Talks have been stalled on the main economic issues.

The strike against Firestone, B.F. Goodrich, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and Uniroyal has idled an estimated 70,000 workers in 47 plants across the country.

Bus service returned to normal on Continental Trailways' runs in nine Southern states after transit workers Tuesday night accepted a three-year contract and ended an 18-day strike.

The main issues in the strike against Anheuser-Busch by beer bottlers have been settled, but workers are staying out pending a company decision on whether to punish strikers accused of violence.

Meanwhile, a Teamsters union organizer was killed and three men wounded in a bloody battle Wednesday between Teamsters and rival ironworkers outside a struck metals plant in New York City.

Police said members of the two unions fought each other with baseball bats and chains. The ironworkers have been on strike since July 1975.

Devereaux "Dave" McGuire, 46, of Huntington, N.Y., was found dead about a block from the plant. Fernando Anon, an ironworkers member, was shot in the spine and right ear and was listed in critical condition. The other wounded man was identified only as a Teamster.

'U' rowing crew rescues victims of boating accident

The MSU rowing crew rescued three people from a boating accident on the Grand River Thursday afternoon while they were practicing. One of the people in the capsized boat drowned.

At about 4:30, the rowing crew was just finishing practice when they heard a yell about a half-mile upstream.

"We thought it was the women's rowing crew so we started doing another half-mile sprint downstream until a car pulled up alongside us on the road and told us that a boat had capsized," Terry Linn of the rowing crew said.

The rowing crew then turned around and sprinted about a half-mile upstream where the boat had capsized. When they got to the boat, the rowing crew pulled two men out of the sinking boat. Another man was floating down the river on a stack of life preservers.

"Earlier in the afternoon we had seen the four men fishing in the same boat. We let them hang on to our rowing shell until help came and I asked one of them where the fourth guy was but he just said, 'He's gone,'" Linn said.

The accident took place within 30 feet of the shore. A power boat rescued the man on the stack of life preservers.

Within minutes, Lansing and state police officers were at the scene of the accident with divers to search for the drowned victim. The nine-man rowing crew then aided the police in looking for the lost body.

WARD RONDERS

Furlow invited;
Houk to leave?

Things which need to be said:
Spartan cager Terry Furlow has finally received his due in the form of a chance.
The Flint senior was invited Wednesday to the U.S. Olympic baseball tryout camp to be held later this month at Raleigh, N.C. Furlow has the opportunity to fulfill a long-burning dream of representing his country in the Olympics this summer. Furlow's invitation bordered on being a snub by the U.S. Olympic Committee.
Most of the nation's cage elite received their invitations earlier, but Furlow's name was not on the guest list.
Among those extended greetings were Rickey Green, Kent Hensley, Scott May, Quinn Buckner and Bruce Parkinson, all from Michigan.
Furlow seems sacrilegious that the two-time conference scoring champion wasn't even asked if he'd like to show his cage mettle. Furlow played within the concept arranged by former Spartan coach Gus Ganakas. And he did an admirable job. During the season, critics scrutinized Furlow, eagerly awaiting a slip-up and a chance to condemn him.
But that chance never came as Furlow kept his cool.
Furlow, the all-time MSU career scorer, peers forward to the end of a lifetime.
Furlow blurted, "This is the highlight of my career. It's really something to look forward to."

THE WEEKEND

The weatherman cooperates, MSU sports enthusiasts will have enough things to choose from this weekend to make them forget the studies, or whatever else ails the mind.
The MSU Varsity Club kicks off the weekend with the first of the Broom Hockey game at Munn Ice Arena. Brooms will be sticks; volleyballs will replace the pucks and shoes will be skates.
Sturges and Daryl Rice will captain the two squads while Besone and Burt Smith will act as referees.
The game, or, face it, is scheduled for 8 p.m. and all you need is a bucket to get in and watch the fun.
Saturday and Sunday will see Dr. Joe Kearney act as Honorary Referee for the second annual Okemos-Haslett Jaycees raft race.
The raft race begins at 9 a.m. at the state park at Grand River and ends at Ferguson Park in Okemos.
Saturday, Dr. Joe will be on hand for the conclusion of the canoe race which begins at 11 a.m. from the same starting point.
The finish line, however, will be the Short Street Bridge by Hills Golf Club. Dr. Joe will be joined Sunday by several members of the Varsity Club and Amo Besone and Alex Terpay. Prizes will be raffled, as will hockey players John Sturges, Daryl Rice and Tom Ross and former griddle Dane Terpay.
Amo and Alex will judge the Pet Rock race at Monty's Bar. The proceeds go to Muscular Dystrophy.
Then there's the IM's all-nighter tonight with fun and games for all. And the Varsity Club has rescheduled for Saturday a wash, which was rained out last weekend. Members will be at Duke's Shell at 720 E. Michigan Ave. and Campus at South Harrison and Trowbridge Roads from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The above sounds like a plug for different groups and clubs, your hearing is very good. What people may not realize is that MSU jocks are getting out into the community. In these times, the money raised goes to muscular dystrophy. And it's got to be refreshing after this past winter.
If you've only got 50 cents there's the broom hockey game. If you've got a buck burning your pocket, try the car wash. And for a few more you can get in on the canoe race and pet rock race.

THE TIGERS

You missed it Wednesday night but Ralph Houk inserted himself into the contest against the Red Sox with the Bengals, and an 8-2 deficit.
Houk has been rocked lately when sent in during close games. He's been the top relief pitcher one must wonder: why put him in a game which is already lost?
Did it possibly be that Houk is worried about his star status? Has Houk lost his stuff?
Whatever the reason, the Tigers fell below .500 with their three straight losses against Boston. And don't look now but Detroit is close to the basement in the American League East. They don't save some time and fire Ralph Houk now? His contract is the end of the season and thankfully so.
Houk's come to the Motor City, Houk, with the aid of General Manager Jim Campbell, has given the loyal fans of Detroit nothing but promises. Last year it was "Wait until the bell rings."
This year the outlook by Ralph read, "We've turned the corner." But it's more like you said earlier Ralph, "you can't tell what's going to be like until it starts playing everyday."
That's happened during the past week and the toothless Houk are once again finding their basement niche.

Coach's heart surgery reported a success

ANN ARBOR UPI — Coach Bo Schembechler of U-M underwent one-half hour of successful open heart surgery Thursday at Joseph Mercy Hospital.
The 47-year-old coach was reported by a hospital spokesperson to be in good condition, as is customary, to the surgical intensive care unit following four coronary bypass operations. The surgery was performed at 8 a.m. EST, and finished at 2:30 p.m.
Schembechler, who is doing as well as possible, the spokesperson said.
The initial post-operative stages are successful. I talked about the physicians and they said about six hours is normal for a coronary bypass.
Further statements regarding Schembechler's condition were held until Friday.
A convalescent period of about six weeks is expected, which will give Schembechler enough time to recuperate before giving his coaching duties this fall. Michigan is again picked to challenge for the Big Ten football title.
Schembechler suffered a mild heart attack on the eve of the 1970 Bowl game but resumed coaching that fall after sitting out the practice.
Following a two-hour paddlball workout in the gym, Schembechler was discovered that the source of his chest pains this time were some occluded arteries leading to the heart.
Schembechler elected to undergo the bypass surgery.

Spartans, Wolves to tangle, conference crown at stake

By JOE KIRBY
State News Sports Writer

This is it folks, step right this way and watch the drama unfold as the Big Ten baseball season draws to a close with the Spartans making a last mad dash for the treasured title.
MSU will face its favorite rival from Ann Arbor this weekend as the Spartans and Wolverines tangle in a two-game tilt with the Big Ten title still at stake.
Meanwhile, up in the friendly frozen confines of Minneapolis, the University of Minnesota will square off against the Iowa Hawkeyes in a twinbill as the Gophers seek to grab a piece of the coveted conference crown.
It's currently a three-horse race with the wily Wolverines one step in front, followed by the groping Gophers, with the spontaneous Spartans sneaking up from the shadows.

MSU will meet the Wolverines in a single 1 p.m. home game at John Kobs Field Saturday and then on Sunday the two teams will move down to Ann Arbor for another 1 p.m. game.
To clinch the title, the Spartans cannot afford to lose a game and must hope that Minnesota drops its doubleheader against the dangerous Hawkeyes.
MSU will send Sherm Johnson to the mound Saturday while the Wolverines will probably counter with righthander Mark Weber.
Johnson, a left-hander, has a 4-4 season record with a 5.60 ERA while the Wolverine's Weber has a 3-4 season mark with a 2.30 ERA.
But, according to MSU asst. coach Frank Pellerin, the Spartans won't hesitate to bring in some big guns from the bullpen to bail out the starters should trouble strike.

"In these types of games you wouldn't want to go too long with your starters," Pellerin said. "We'll go to the bullpen if they get in trouble."
Both teams will save their premier pitchers for Sunday's game when MSU will send right-hander Chuck Baker into the breach against the Wolverines rugged right-hander Larry Sorensen.

Baker has a 4-2 record with a 3.74 ERA and he has also hurled a one-hitter during the season. Sorensen has been the bright spot on the U-M staff as he has rolled up an 8-1 record with an equally impressive 2.05 ERA.

"I'd say the pressure is on U-M," Pellerin said. "They're in first place and they can't afford to lose a game."
But the Spartans can't afford to falter either if they hope to make a run for the roses and the Big Ten title, which is why MSU has its relievers ready.

MSU's pitchers will have to face some potent Wolverine hitters, including third baseman Dave Chapman, who is hitting .330, second baseman Dick Walterhouse, who is hitting .324 and catcher Ted Mahan, who has a .324 average.
The Spartans aren't exactly slouches at the plate either, as always-able Al Weston has been beating the cover off the ball this season and is currently carrying a .341 average. Pat Simpson has also been a hot hitter lately and has boosted his batting average to .306.

The Spartans haven't played since May 11 when they dropped a nonconference doubleheader to Western Michigan. MSU had doubleheaders with Northwestern and Wisconsin rained out last Saturday and Sunday but Pellerin doesn't think the lengthy layoff will hinder them.
"We were out there hitting the cover off the ball at practice yesterday," Pellerin said.

U-M has odds on Big Ten win

By GREG SCHREINER
State News Sports Writer

The proverbial compost hits the electric ventilation unit this weekend as the Big Ten baseball season careers to a climax.
And for those who would gamble on anything that moves, the odds on a probable winner, based on possible combinations of this weekend's results, makes U-M the favorite at 3-2 odds. Minnesota has the next best chance for taking the title at 3-1, while odds on MSU grabbing the crown are a dismal 36-1 shot.

In fact, the Spartans must win both ends of the two-game series with U-M to even stand a ghost of a chance. Then, the results will be decided by how Minnesota fares against Iowa in a Saturday doubleheader.
In reality, what is needed is an Iowa sweep on Saturday. That, coupled with an MSU win over U-M on the same day, will put the attention of the entire conference on Sunday's game in Ann Arbor.

Meanwhile, if U-M wins even one game this weekend, it not only eliminates MSU, but could assure U-M of a title if Minnesota should lose one of their games.

Rain could also play a crucial part in the standings, once again depending on the number of games won in relation to those played. That, however, is so confusing, that it should be best left alone until after the results are in.

For the winner of the Big Ten scramble is a berth in the District 4 preliminary to the NCAA College World Series. If U-M or MSU should come out the victors, that team would lose the tournament. But, should Minnesota emerge the champion, the tourney would be held in Ypsilanti, the home of Eastern Michigan University.

Eastern will meet the conference champion in the first round of the double-elimination tournament that will also include Illinois State University and Southern Illinois University.

For Eastern, a Huron source says the EMU team would have little preference about who they would play, though it has fared better against the Spartans, having scored 33 runs to MSU's 15. Against the Wolverines, the Hurons have scored 26 in their four games, letting in 11 runs. EMU has won four games against both MSU and U-M.

Only Illinois State has played a Big Ten game among the remaining two squads in the district tourney, that being a sweep of a doubleheader against Illinois, a team MSU also swept this year in a twinbill.

Now, aren't you glad that everything is all straightened out and easy to understand?

Bengal ace John Hiller falters, failure hard to accept, he says

By RICHARD L. SHOOK
UPI Sports Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — John Hiller has rejoined humanity after three relatively flawless seasons and is finding it difficult to live with his new teammate — failure.
"I can't cope with this," Hiller said one night earlier this week, still fully clothed in his Detroit uniform after every other Tiger player had dressed and gone. "If I had bad stuff this wouldn't be so hard to take. But this is getting to me."

What is getting to Hiller is just about everything. Nub hits, bad throws, nights when his only mistake winds up colliding with a weather satellite, you get the idea. The 33-year-old left-hander is not getting bad — he's just getting beat.
Hiller had a 1-3 record, but more importantly, a 3.47 earned run average through his first 13 unlucky appearances of the season. Relief pitchers with high earned run averages are scarce — except in the minor leagues.

"If my stuff wasn't good, I'd be 'worried' worried," Hiller said. "But my stuff is good. My fastball is as good as it's been the last two or three years."
"The last three years," the Scarborough, Ont., native said, "everything has gone right for me. Maybe it's just catching up with me. Now when I make a mistake, it seems like I have to pay my dues."

"He'll be right back where he was," Detroit Manager Ralph Houk said. "Mark my words, at the end of the season he'll be there."
"Everybody seems to think Hiller is pitching bad," the manager said. "He isn't. It's the bloop hits that are hurting him. There's nothing wrong with John Hiller."

Celtics shoot for NBA crown, start series Sunday with Suns

BOSTON (UPI) — Interspersed with those summer reruns will be the National Basketball Assn.'s championship playoffs.

The Boston Celtics and Phoenix Suns, finalists in the NBA's two-month post-season tournament, open their championship series Sunday CBS-TV 3:30 p.m. EDT at Boston Garden.

If the series goes seven games, the final could be played as late as June 9, 7 1/2 months after the season opened. The reason for the length of the final series is obvious: CBS may be able to telecast three Sunday games instead of only one or two.

The time lapse between games will benefit the older Celtics, especially 36-year-old John Havlicek and overworked Dave Cowens. Havlicek, bothered by torn tissue between the arch and heel of his left foot throughout the playoffs, should be ready for the opener.

Cowens, near exhaustion at the end of the fifth game against Cleveland, should be rejuvenated by four days of rest after battling the Cavs' Nate Thurmond.

The Suns have been idle since stopping the Golden State Warriors' quest for a second straight title.

The Celtics know from recent, bitter experience how the Suns feel and the knowledge should make them play harder.
The Celtics were defending champions last spring when the Washington Bullets knocked them out in a six-game Eastern Conference title series.

The Suns, with a starting team comprised of two rookies and three veterans acquired from other teams, are the NBA's story of the year. They beat Seattle in a quarter-final series, then whipped the defending champion Golden State Warriors in a seven-game Western Conference championship series.

They have played team basketball under Coach John MacLeod, whose talent has been to get the Suns to maximize their abilities.

"MacLeod has looked at the team and let it play the type of ball that best suited its ability," said Phoenix guard Paul Westphal, traded from Boston last summer along with two draft choices for Charlie Scott.

I.M. Notes

The MSU intramural department is sponsoring an "All-Nighter" from 9 tonight through Saturday at 9 a.m., that will offer something for everyone.

Included in a variety of activities will be sports tournaments, special and informal activities, demonstrations by MSU sports clubs, movies, music by radio station WILS and swimming.

All MSU students, faculty, staff, spouses and families are welcome, in addition to one guest each, at the event to be held in the Men's IM Building.

Tournaments for men's and women's leagues will be held in three on three basketball, volleyball, softball, badminton, co-rec innertube water polo, paddleball (men and co-rec), racquetball (women) and squash.

The all night single elimination softball tourney will begin at 5 p.m. today with all other tournaments beginning at 9:30 p.m. except co-rec innertube water polo, which will begin at midnight.

At this point, nine MSU club sports have planned exhibitions to continue throughout the "All-Nighter." At 9 p.m. the water polo club will play an exhibition match in the indoor pool.

The karate club will put on a demonstration at 10 p.m. in the turf arena and at 10:30 the synchronized swim club will hold a demonstration in the indoor pool.

Other demonstrations will be made by the cycling club, at 11 p.m. in the turf arena; the Tai Chi Club at 1 a.m. in the turf arena; the Society for Creative Anachronism at 2 a.m. and the Hatha Yoga club at 3 a.m. in the turf arena.

The outdoor pool will be open all night and WILS will be broadcasting from poolside. Also, one gym will be kept open all night for drop-in volleyball and basketball games. Some paddleball courts will also be available.

A faculty, staff and student 18-hole golf tournament will be held Sunday at the Forest Akers Golf Course.

Former athlete lauded by state

Thursday night a man who was a legend at MSU was inducted into the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame.

Lyman Frimodig, or just "Frim" as he was known to his friends, was the only person ever to win 10 varsity letters at MSU, or Michigan Agricultural College, as it was known at that time.

Frimodig earned four letters each in baseball and basketball in the years 1914-17, and lettered in football during the 1915 and 1916 seasons. "Frim" was captain of the 1915 Aggies basketball team and for 35 years held the MAC scoring record after scoring 30 points against Hope College when the usual basketball score then was about 18-20.

After Frimodig graduated he became a staff member for 41 years and coached basketball and assisted in other sports before becoming business manager of athletics.

Frimodig's college career, his 41-year professional career and his community service — he served four terms as mayor of East Lansing — show what a remarkable man he was. His total contribution to MSU was outstanding.

In 1960, two years before his death, Frimodig was named professor emeritus at MSU. On May 6, 1972, Frimodig died at the age of 80.

Frimodig was nominated along with seven other inductees into the Hall of Fame at a dinner in Detroit's Cobo Hall.

Along with Frimodig, former Lions coach Buddy Parker and Olympic weightlifting champion Norbert Schemansky were inducted.

The entire 44-man Hudson High School football squad; Frank Navin, Detroit Tigers; G.A. Richards, Detroit Lions; James Norris, Detroit Red Wings; and Fred Zeilner, Detroit Pistons, were also nominated to the Hall of Fame.

Club Sports

The Frisbee club will meet Kalamazoo College at 6 tonight on the field next to Demonstration Hall, in the first of two weekend games for the club.

On Sunday, the club will play Calvin College at 10 a.m. on the area across from the East Complex IM fields.

The Frisbee club will also be playing an exhibition game Friday night at 9 during the IM "All-Nighter." The club will be trying to break the record for the longest Frisbee game, which is currently 8 hours. The game will hopefully be played 12 hours.

All Club members and initiates are urged to attend. A Burger bash will follow the initiation.

The MSU Varsity Club will hold its annual initiation Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. in the Varsity Club room in Spartan Stadium.

EMU baseball coach cited for MAC honors

COLUMBUS (UPI) — Mid-American Conference baseball coaches have named Ron Oestrike of Eastern Michigan University the MAC coach of the year for guiding his Hurons to their second consecutive MAC championship this year.

This year's Eastern Michigan team had a 36-13 record through May 16 and won the conference title with a 12-3 record.

Nonconference victories included wins over perennial national powers Arizona State and Southern Cal as well as a 6-0 mark against Big Ten conference competition.

His selection was announced Wednesday.

MSU symposium presents consequences of Seafarer

By ED LION
State News Staff Writer

The veil of ignorance and hysteria that has been shrouding the Navy's proposed project Seafarer was pierced Wednesday as ASMSU Great Issues presented a symposium in an effort to separate truth from myth about the underground communications grid which may be built in the Upper Peninsula.

The symposium of five panels explored the scientific, ecological and political ramifications of the project, which has created a furor of controversy throughout the state.

Giving a general overview of Seafarer, Gerald Park, professor of electrical engineering, explained the scientific principles behind how the system would work. He said that Seafarer would basically consist of a grid of cable set up in a criss-cross pattern beneath a 2,500 square-mile area in the U.P.

"The basic rationale behind the system is to enable communication with submerged submarines," he said.

Presently submarines cannot receive impulses when submerged. By running an electrical current through a huge antenna, he said, a special frequency of radio wave will be produced that is capable of penetrating seawater.

William Cooper, head of the Michigan Environmental Review Board, which will have considerable sway in determining Seafarer's fate, explained the ecological consequences of constructing the system.

"The direct environmental effects (of the project) are of no major concern," he said, "but there are secondary military implications — such as the consequences of an enemy attack on the area to sabotage the system."

Cooper mentioned that in the four counties currently being considered for Seafarer — Baraga, Iron, Marquette and Dickinson — there is already extensive environmental disruption caused by mining and forest management. Cooper also said that the electro-magnetic field produced by the grid would not produce anymore harmful effects than the fields produced by conventional power lines.

"For three generations we have lived under electro-magnetic fields produced by power lines far greater than those that would be produced by Seafarer," he said.

Kevin Gottlieb, professor of social science, said that there are many political considerations that will determine Seafarer's fate.

He added that he believed Gov. Milliken, who had been given ultimate authority over the project, would vote down the project unless the Dept. of Defense will provide a "trade-off" bargaining chip such as reopening air force bases to provide more jobs.

William Taylor, professor of civil and sanitary engineering, said that the Dept. of Defense had given Milliken a written statement that it will not recommend Michigan as a site if he does not want it there.

Virginia Prentice, representing the Sierra Club, said the system would be a blemish to the UP's "natural beauty."

In other Seafarer developments, four UP counties held advisory referendums on Seafarer, with 16,987 people voting against building the project there and 4,871 for. Milliken has indicated that he will use a public opinion poll conducted by a private researching firm to gauge public opinion instead of advisory elections.
