Chilean regime rees prisoners nder pressure

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile's military regime said it would release 150 political prisoners Thursday, leaving behind bars, according to its announcements, less than 1,000 more than 40,000 persons detained since the armed forces took power in 1973.

The government, under increasing pressure because of accusations of torture and violations of human rights, freed 133 persons Wednesday who had been held without being charged.

It said only 20 persons who had not been charged would remain in custody after Thursday's releases, that 18 of them would be released when foreign countries agreed to accept them as exiles, and that it was willing to exchange the other 10 for political prisoners in the Soviet Union and Cuba.

The government reported at the end of September that 280 persons were on trial for political offenses and 608 were serving sentences. It said 374 of (continued on page 14)

Chilean political prisoners embraced before they were released from the Tres Alamos detention center in Santiago, Chile, Wednesday. The Chilean government released 133 political prisoners Wednesday and said it would release another 150 Thursday.

Illegal actions exist, ex-pledges maintain

By THE STATE NEWS
Ex-Theta Chi pledges have said that hazing exists in that fraternity, but members of the Greek community maintain that the illegal action is not practiced at MSU.

Hazing was stopped in the '50s when it was banned by the IFC (Interfraternity Council), Mark Gunderson president of Theta Chi, said.

Gunderson refused to comment on the allegations of the ex-pledges and said that he would talk to the State News next week about the charges.

Two former Theta Chi pledges, who dropped out of that fraternity last spring, said they went through activities during "hell week" that were either psychologically humiliating or physically abusive.

Both sources wish to remain anonymous.

"I was forced to do things I wouldn't normally do. I couldn't see putting someone else through that," one ex-pledge said.

The two said that they were required to work on the house improvements which they felt were of a constructive nature, but too physically demanding.

"It was all constructive work, but it was too much to be done," one ex-pledge said.

The ex-pledges also had to go through line-ups where all the pledges stood in line while active members fired questions at them. One such session lasted for two hours.

"If you missed a question they would bitch and swear at you. They would lower you as a person," one said.

According to one of the ex-pledges, they were not allowed to eat or drink anything unless they had the permission of an active member. They were also forbidden to take a shower or change their clothes during the five-day span, they said.

"Our dinner one night was six hamburgers split between the twelve of us. I stayed there one night and we didn't go to bed until 4:30 in the morning and we had to get up at 6:30 to do exercises," one ex-pledge said.

While the pledges were working on the house, activities would give conflicting orders to them, the ex-pledges said.

"One would tell us one thing to do and another would tell you something else. It was playing with our minds," they said.

One of the ex-pledges said the experience was a complete shock to him because he never had to go through this treatment at the house before hell week.

"A lot of the actives at the house didn't participate in the hazing and many of them we are still friends with," he said.

"It was to the point where I felt uncomfortable talking to any of them. One reason I quit is because I was afraid it would continue while I lived in the house," he said.

Other houses said they have not included hazing as a part of their pledge program either now or in the recent past.

John Woomer, president of Delta Chi, said that hell week was termed "help week" at Delta Chi.

"Basically, pledges come in and work on the house or put on parties and skits for the brothers," he said. "Hazing has not been going on here, ever since I can remember."

Mike Nementz, president of Psi Upsilon, and Gunderson, president of Theta Chi, said that hazing was not practiced at these fraternities.

Sigma Chi and Delta Sigma Phi refused to comment on the subject.

Mark LaChey, Sigma Alpha Mu, said this was the first term his fraternity has not engaged in hazing practices.

"The old style of hazing has been gradually reduced and we have now replaced it with the idea that the pledge is equal to the active," LaChey said.

LaChey said one previous practice was making the pledges go on hamburger runs to McDonald's. They would have to act as waiters to the active members and run back and forth taking orders.

"There are no more games. It is more a trade-off between the actives and the pledges getting to know each other," LaChey said.

Brian Poultrey, Lambda Chi Alpha president, said that hazing was stopped at his house in 1968.

"At our house we have what we call a help week. Our pledges do nothing but improve the house physically, which is a lot more constructive for the house."

Affirmative action plan under fire

By CHARLENE G. GRAY
State News Staff Writer

The affirmative action plan at MSU is being taken away from the opportunities gained during the '60s... there is a erosion of opportunities for black students and faculty at MSU."

These were the words of Joseph McMillan, former director of the Human Relations Dept. and, currently, vice president of academic affairs at the University of Louisville.

McMillan, who resigned his position Sept. 1, said his resignation as director of the Human Relations Dept., a nonacademic unit of the University, was primarily because of his steady frustration with officials regarding their lack of active implementation of the affirmative action plan of MSU.

McMillan said that his desire to pursue the academic area of a university, as previously reported in a State News article Wednesday, was a much less significant reason for his resignation than his frustration with officials.

"Affirmative action was on everybody's lips but as far as doing something about it, nothing happened," McMillan said.

McMillan pointed out that since all of President Wharton's cabinet appointees (vice-presidents) have been white, there has been virtually no black input. He also said that the cabinet's view has been a conservative one rather than a liberal one that would be more active in the implementation of affirmative action.

Wharton was unavailable for comment.

"MSU is moving towards cutting back rather than moving forward on affirmative action," McMillan said.

McMillan said that even though the University of Louisville has a student population of nearly 16,500, it has nearly as many black students as MSU, which has a student population of nearly 44,000.

McMillan said, however, that even though he tried working with different administrators to make affirmative action work, little was accomplished.

McMillan said the trigger event for his leaving in September was the transfer of Equal Opportunity Fellowships (EOP) money from the Human Relations Dept., where he said it had been for nearly seven years, to the graduate department.

The fellowships are given to qualified minority graduate students to assist them in obtaining skills in various academic fields.

"President Wharton gave the feeble excuse that the money better belonged in the graduate department," McMillan said. "The only real affirmative action thing was the fellowship money for minority students."

McMillan said that since the money was transferred prior to his resignation, more stringent requirements have been placed on it where it is much more difficult for minority students to obtain the fellowships.

"That particular act was too much," McMillan said. "I was in a job concerning affirmative action but when trying to push it, nothing was done. There has been no sensitivity concerning it."

C. Patric "Lash" Larowe, faculty grievance official, said that affirmative action is much needed and long overdue but that there has been more talk than action given it.

Larowe attributes most of the stagnation of the affirmative action plan to the lack of pressure put on the individual departments of the University by the MSU Board of Trustees and the Administration.

"In the 20 years I have been here, I have only once heard a chairperson say that we were under pressure to hire a minority," Larowe said.

Larowe said that the board of trustees has been grossly derelict in the way affirmative action has been dealt with.

And WIRE SERVICES

Lansing Oldsmobile workers were prepared to go out on strike at 12:01 a.m. today, as General Motors (GM) and United Auto Workers (UAW) negotiators were bargaining at the time of the State News deadline.

The strike would affect 16 GM plants nationwide, including about 13,000 workers at Lansing's Oldsmobile assembly plant.

"All production and maintenance workers of local 652 (the UAW Oldsmobile local), except those people necessary to shut down the plant, will walk out at 12:01," a spokesperson for the local said, unless they receive word from union officials that an agreement with GM has been reached.

The union late Thursday afternoon changed its earlier bargaining strategy and said it would not call a complete nationwide strike by the 390,000 GM workers. But the effect of strikes at the 16 key plants could force the giant auto firm to begin closing other operations within days.

It is believed the union planned to renew its "ministrke" strategy last used in 1972 and 1973 to force the company to settle local issues.

In this way, the UAW could effectively shut down GM without forcing all its members onto picket lines and place a huge burden on its strike fund, labor observers have noted.

The bargaining teams, which have been meeting at the subcommittee level for most of the 11 days since the national strike deadline was set, met into the late evening Thursday in the negotiating suite on the fifth floor of GM's world headquarters.

Seven of the 16 plants that would go on strike are located in Michigan.

Bail posted for Hearst judge says release likely

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst's father posted $500,000 bail Thursday and a state judge said he assumed that a federal jurist in San Francisco would release the young heiress from custody.

Superior Court Judge William Ritz, said he would notify the Metropolitan Correctional Center at San Diego that Hearst can be released if the federal judge agrees.

Ritz refused a request from Hearst's attorney, Al Johnson, to reduce her bail to $250,000 but said he would reconsider it after he hears the ruling of U.S. District Court Judge William Orrick.

"If she is released by the San Francisco court and if bail is substantial in that case, I certainly would consider reduction of bond," Ritz said.

He said, however, that Johnson's rush to post bail here had indicated to him that Johnson has information about Orrick's impending action.

"From what you say, I can only assume that the San Francisco court is going to release her on bail," said the judge.

The judge agreed to seal the bail documents at Johnson's request. The attorney cited "the personal nature" of the items which were pledged. It was believed that Hearst family property and other holdings were offered as collateral for the bond.

U' policy to inform veterans about jobs

By JUDY PUTNAM
State News Staff Writer

Pledging itself to another affirmative action policy, the University has adopted a program aimed at equal opportunity and nondiscrimination for employment of disabled veterans and of the Vietnam era.

The policy is in accordance with the federal Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Act of 1974 and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 which requires affirmative action for handicappers. Disabled Vietnam veterans would come under both of these laws.

Like affirmative action programs for minorities and women, the policy on veteran jobs does not have specified quotas and timetables.

Robert Perrin, vice president of federal and University relations, said that the "main part" of the policy is to inform veterans of job openings. He said his office did not have the number of veterans currently employed at MSU.

This is not a discriminatory situation," Perrin said and compared it to other affirmative action policies. "The target of our affirmative action policies for minorities and women is we're trying to correct past discrimination."

When asked how this program will affect other affirmative action policies, Perrin said it "does create some problems."

This question was raised last week by Trustee Aubrey Radcliffe, R-East Lansing, when he introduced the new policy at the board of trustees meeting. Radcliffe questioned the implementation of an affirmative action policy which would apply to white males.

Radcliffe said Thursday that he was not against affirmative action for veterans but was asking for guidelines "which would coordinate all of these programs."

Perrin said that the program will probably not require any special expenditures. Most of the action will be done by sending job information to existing veteran agencies. Actual action will depend on each unit in the University.

The policy requires:

That only those specific job qualifications required for the position for which the program is applying for will be considered.

That compensation for jobs will not be affected by disability income.

That personnel units of the University will review their recruiting procedures to be sure that the qualified veterans are aware of employment opportunities.

The director of the Human Relations Dept., a position which is currently empty, will be responsible for the coordination of the policy.

Enrollment increases, fund cuts cause problems for college dean

As part of a State News series looking at the effects of the budget crunch on the individual colleges.

By ANNE STUART
State News Staff Writer

In the last eight years, the College of Communication Arts and Sciences has risen from 10th place among MSU's 17 colleges in enrollment. One thousand students have been added since then, but the number of full-time faculty members has actually decreased.

For that reason, when Dean Erwin P.

Bettinghaus complied with the administrative order to cut back expenses by one per cent this fall, he chose to eliminate an administrative rather than an academic position within the college.

"I did a fairly intensive analysis when I became the new dean this fall," Bettinghaus said.

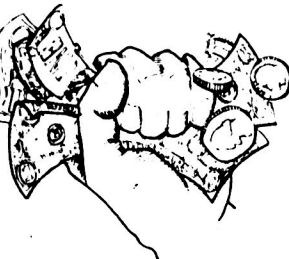

"I simply couldn't cut anyone from any department without affecting the quality of that department, so when one of our assistant deans accepted a position in the provost's office, she was not replaced."

Obviously, the amount of services that the college offers students was decreased somewhat with the discontinuation of the position, Bettinghaus said.

No courses have yet been cut from departmental programs due to lack of funding, but it has been necessary to eliminate some sections of certain courses, causing overenrollments in others.

As an example, Bettinghaus cited the basic 200-level required reporting course in telecommunications, normally taken by

300 Thai students face trial

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Prime Minister Tanin Kraivixien said Thursday more than 300 students will be tried for various subversive activities and indicated that opposition elements would have no place in his martial law government.

"You have to be wary of the middle ground (in the political spectrum) because that's where the Communists creep in," he told foreign reporters. "Never compromise with Communists or you will have no freedom at all."

Tanin told a news conference that 323 students were being detained and that they faced imprisonment if found guilty. He did not say when they would be tried.

Diplomat quits after argument

WASHINGTON (AP) — Laurence Silberman has resigned as U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia, where his outspoken defense of an imprisoned American angered President Tito and some officials of the U.S. State Dept.

Silberman, a former assistant attorney general, took over the post in Belgrade in May 1975.

Silberman angered Yugoslav officials and the State Dept.'s East European desk by making public his feelings about the imprisonment of a Yugoslav-American, Laszlo Toth, on charges of economic espionage.

Tito accused Silberman of starting an anti-Yugoslav campaign and of meddling in Yugoslav affairs. Silberman said the East European desk not only failed to back his efforts but tried to have him reprimanded for "undiplomatic conduct."

More contestants leave pageant

LONDON (AP) — Three more contestants in the Miss World contest were pulled out by their governments Thursday to protest the racist image projected by the presence of two South African entrants, one black and one white.

Ten of the original 69 women in the beauty pageant have now been withdrawn. Organizers said they were afraid a "sensational, last-minute" walkout would be staged by others before the night televised contest.

TWA planes miss collision

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Two Trans World Airlines jetliners came within a mile of colliding over Ohio on Wednesday when a pilot misunderstood an air traffic controller's directions for descent, the Federal Aviation Administration said.

Three crew members on TWA Flight 516 from Indianapolis to Pittsburgh were injured, none seriously, when the pilot abruptly changed course to avert the collision.

There were no injuries reported on TWA Flight 373 from Washington, D.C., to Dayton, Ohio. That plane landed safely a short time after the incident.

Gilmore taken back to prison

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Condemned killer Gary Gilmore, pale but defiant, returned to state prison and was cheered by fellow inmates Thursday after two days at a hospital following his suicide attempt.

His girlfriend, Nicole Barrett, regained consciousness for the first time since they took sleeping pills Tuesday in an apparent suicide pact. Her condition was upgraded from critical to serious. She walked with assistance and was visited by relatives.

Barrett, 20, was described as disoriented and confused. Dr. Richard A. Call, medical director at the Utah Valley Hospital in Provo, said there was no evidence of brain damage "but in her state you can't do a thorough, complete exam."

Philly hotel victim of disease

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The elegant Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, host to princes, presidents and the socially elite for 72 years, closed at midnight Thursday.

The hotel was the site of the disastrous Pennsylvania American Legion convention in July, and in the end itself became a victim of Legionnaires' Disease.

Disease.

By September, the occupancy rate in its guest rooms had fallen from the usual 60 per cent to 13 per cent. The city, as well as the hotel's employees, made a last-ditch effort for a restraining order to save it Thursday, but to no avail.

U-M profs say outlook is dim

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Tax cut or no tax cut, the nation's 1977 economic outlook is disappointing, two University of Michigan economists said Thursday.

In their annual economic forecast, U-M Profs. Saul H. Hymans and Harold T. Shapiro predicted President-elect Jimmy Carter would win Congressional passage of a $13 billion tax cut within months after his inaugural.

But even with such direct stimulation, they said, the economic growth rate will be sluggish and other innovative changes in fiscal and monetary policies will be required.

Governor's aide suspended

DETROIT (UPI) — Charles R. Brown, a Detroit aide to Gov. Milliken, Wednesday was suspended without pay for a month and removed from Milliken's staff for selling information about welfare clients to bill collectors.

Milliken's office found that Brown, who received $22,000 a year as the governor's ombudsman in Detroit, apparently had violated state law and civil service rules.

At the end of his suspension, Brown will be transferred to the Dept. of Social Services, where he worked before joining Milliken's office in 1969.

Convict may pay room and board

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — The state of Michigan has taken a convict to court to make him pay cash for his room and board.

The attorney general's office is suing Charles Vance Frum, jailed for receiving stolen property, under the rarely used Prison Reimbursement Act of 1935.

Under the act, passed to lighten the taxpayers' burden, a convicted felon who can afford it must pay $12.14 a day for room and board in the nation's largest walled prison.

New figures show GNP down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Revised government estimates released Thursday showed that the nation's troubled economy entered the fourth quarter in worse condition than originally thought.

But Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said conditions do not appear bad enough at this time to warrant a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

Advisers to President-elect Jimmy Carter have suggested tax cuts ranging from $8 billion to $15 billion.

The Commerce Dept. said Gross National Product (GNP), or the total output of goods and services in the economy, grew at an annual rate of 3.8 per cent during the July-September quarter. That was a downward revision from the preliminary estimate last month of a 4 per cent growth rate, the rate generally considered sufficient to keep up with normal population growth. But the rate is believed insufficient to reduce unemployment.

The figures were revised primarily because some figures in the preliminary report had to be estimated for the final month of the quarter. The foreign trade surplus on goods and services, for example, was revised downward by $2.5 billion to an annual rate of $3.4 billion.

A Commerce Dept. economist, Maynard S. Comiez, said the revision was not large statistically and didn't significantly change what economists knew about the third quarter.

The inflation rate estimate in the GNP was revised downward from an annual rate of 4.2 per cent.

Christians forces claim Moslem village capture

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians claimed the capture Thursday of a strategic Moslem village near the Israeli border, and pro-Syrian Palestinians battled in a refugee camp in southern Beirut with guerrillas who support Yasir Arafat. The Christian Phalange party said its forces captured Kfar Kial in house-to-house fighting during the night. But the leftist Lebanese Arab Army claimed the attackers were thrown back to the fringes of the village, a few hundred yards from the Israeli border.

A leftist communique said the Christians were aided by Israeli commandos and backed by an artillery barrage from Israeli border positions. Authoritative military sources in Tel Aviv denied Israeli involvement, but there was no way to determine the validity of either report.

Kfar Kial is on the edge of the Arkoub, the region in southeast Lebanon used by the Palestinian guerrillas as a staging area for raids into Israel until they got involved in the Lebanese war. The Arab League peace plan for Lebanon calls for the guerrillas to return to the Arkoub, but both the Christians and Israel have said they would not allow this.

The leftists appealed to President Elias Sarkis and the Arab peacekeeping force of Syrian troops, which has stayed well away from the southern border, apparently to avoid provoking an Israeli attack.

Sarkis and Col. Ahmed el-Haj, the Lebanese commander of the peacekeepers, were reported more concerned with the fighting in the Chatilla refugee camp between the Syrian-controlled Saiga guerrillas and men of the Popular Democratic Front (PDF), one of the factions in Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

UN delegates approve condemnation of Israel

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Delegates at a UN conference voted Thursday to condemn Israel's policies in occupied Arab territories despite protests from the United States and other Western countries.

A commission of the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) approved the Arab and African-backed resolution 73-6 with 30 abstentions, making adoption by the full conference certain.

The vote appeared certain to have unfavorable financial repercussions for UNESCO in the U.S. Congress.

The resolution calls Israeli cultural and educational policies in occupied areas "contrary to human rights and fundamental freedoms."

Adviser criticizes press, India says

NEW DELHI (AP) — One of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's special advisers criticized Western news reporting about India on Wednesday, according to India's national news agency.

Mohammed Yunus said many foreign correspondents send only negative news from developing countries. He singled out American, British and West German reporters in his attack. Speaking in the southern city of Madras, Yunus said some American "journalists" had "nothing good to say about Indian leaders and had not even spared" independence leader Mohandas Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru, the first prime minister.

"The American public is fed up with what has been written in their newspaper, especially in the past three or four years," Yunus said.

Israel, the United States and other Western countries objected to the resolution's approval before any investigation was made.

"Why has it been thought necessary to criticize Israel before a single member of the fact-finding mission has stepped inside a single school?" U.S. delegation chairperson Robert B. Kamm asked.

Thursday's action came just one week after a UN Security Council vote branding as illegal and "an obstacle to peace" Israeli settlement in the occupied territories and any action "which tends to change the status of Jerusalem."

Cabinet to hear Math 108 grievances

By SUZIE ROLLINS
State News Staff Writer

Organized student participation is essential for solutions to be drawn up regarding the problem of Math 108, according to an ASMSU Legal Services member.

Legal Services has invited all students to have grievances to air about Math 108 at a special organizational meeting to discuss individual problems that they have experienced either this term or previous.

The meeting will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. in Student Services Bldg.

"We want as many people there as we can," Bob Stark, Legal Services staff member, said.

Stark continually stressed the importance of student attendance at the Sunday meeting.

"If no one shows up I have to assume that it (problems of Math 108) is not that big of an issue," he added.

Students who have complaints regarding the instructors or TAs of Math 108, the help room, the text book, the uniform final, or feel that they are forced to take the course as a screening device for their own major are urged to attend.

Stark said that Legal Services needs facts, like the class, the professors' names, dates and actual individual problems before any action can be taken against the University.

An attorney from ASMSU will be present. He will aid in the decision of where the case would be taken.

"This is an opportunity for anyone who has any opinion on the quality of education that they are receiving to voice it," Stark said. "I'd especially like to see all the people who wrote letters to the editor about Math 108 there."

Greg Hoyle, director of Legal Services, said action taken against the course will be more expedient if the students are organized.

In Connecticut, there is a case pending in court involving a student who sued the University of Bridgeport on the grounds that a course she had taken did not live up to the expectations outlined in the catalog.

There are also similar cases pending in courts involving George Washington University in Washington, D.C., and Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y. Legal suits concerning the quality of education have been occurring since the late 1800s.

Members of all student organizations have been notified of the meeting. "Everyone who can be at the meeting should be there," Stark said.

RHA reps urge negative vote on SN subscription price bill

By MICHAEL SAVEL
State News Staff Writer

The Residence Halls Assn. (RHA) passed a motion at its weekly meeting Wednesday night urging a "no" vote on the State News referendum.

The referendum, which will be voted on by students during winter term registration, read, "Shall the University continue to collect the $1 per term State News subscription price, providing a student may obtain a refund within 10 class days from beginning of the term?"

The RHA motion did not detail how the association will publicize its stand, but it authorizes dormitory representatives to go back to their dormitories and communicate their stands to the students. It allows Terry Borg, RHA president, to vote against it at next week's ASMSU meeting.

"We really have no big plan of attack, but the reps will be going back to the dormitories advocating our position," Wilma Davenport, vice president of RHA, said.

Most of the meeting was devoted to discussion of the referendum. Michael Orr, president of the State News Board of Directors, along with student representatives from the editorial and advertising departments, answered questions from the assembly.

RHA representatives said they passed the motion because the State News had refused to open its financial statements to them and they feel the paper and the board of directors are not responsible to student needs.

Gerald Coy, general manager of the State News, said the paper is responsible to the students and that the financial statements will be opened to "Qualified and interested persons."

"On no less than six occasions I have stated that people can come up and see the financial statements," Coy said. "I have personally invited Terry Borg to do just that."

He said the State News is aware of student needs and fulfills its responsibilities to the students.

"The board gives its time freely to meet the needs of the students, but that does not mean simply acquiescing to their desires," he said. "The State News is a good paper, one of the best in the world. Other schools tell us this, it is surprising that our own students don't."

He also said the State News will publish its annual audit report in the paper before the end of fall term.

The student subscription fee makes up 12 per cent of the State News budget, with 87 per cent coming from advertising and an additional 1 per cent from mail subscriptions.

"If the referendum is defeated, space will be decreased and we have some contingency plans," Orr said to the assembly. "The trustees will do nothing if it is defeated," he said.

Orr said if the referendum is defeated it would be a sign that the State News was ineffective in its advertising campaign for the referendum and the opposition was more effective in its campaign. The assembly was also concerned that, since the State News is an independent corporation, it should not have office space in Student Services Building.

Orr said the State News is a student organization and the MSU Board of Trustees granted the State News an indefinite lease for office space in the building.

He said the primary reason for the books not being opened for the RHA assembly is because it "would serve no purpose."

In other action, the assembly passed a motion to form an ad hoc committee to look into whether RHA or Pop Entertainment is better suited to produce the spring concert.

At last week's meeting the assembly passed a motion to continue to produce the concert, but there was a large amount of dissent. Pop Entertainment at that meeting made a presentation describing how they were able to produce a better concert.

The assembly will take no further action on the concert until winter term.

Charter drafters continue battle

By GEORGIA HANSHEW
State News Staff Writer

After a firm rejection of the proposed city charter by voters in the election, charter drafters say they have no intention of giving up.

Charter commission members passed a resolution at their Tuesday meeting to submit the same basic charter to the voters next year, with a few revisions.

The charter, listed on the Lansing ballot as "Proposal G," was defeated Nov. 2, 54 to 46 per cent.

"The people are entitled to vote on it again," Claud Erickson, commission member, said after the meeting.

Left undecided was the question of whether to hold a special election for the charter or to combine it with another election, such as the Lansing Community College (LCC) governing board election in mid-June.

Another possibility would be to submit the charter proposal during the municipal primary election in August.

When the proposal was soundly defeated, 18,989 to 22,375, after nine months of work, stunned commission members were faced with several alternatives, Thomas Walsh, chairperson of the commission, said.

Commission members could leave the present city charter the way it is, with administrative power divided between a relatively weak mayor, the city council and citizen boards which administer the 22 city departments.

They could resubmit the proposed charter to the voters as it is or with a few revisions. Or, they could give up on the proposed charter and write up a new one.

The proposed charter would give more administrative power to the mayor, restrict the city council to policy-making and budget approval, and reduce most citizen boards to an advisory status.

The intent is to make city administration more centralized, efficient and accountable.

But the resolution passed Tuesday night narrowed the scope of the commission's efforts to deciding what revisions should be made in the document, and when it should be submitted for a vote.

Some members said they feel a special election should be held in April, leaving (continued on page 8)

Dormitory food gives tackle new frame

Larry Bethea, enter thin man.

MSU dormitory students are not the only ones who daily complain about its cuisine.

Tackle Larry Bethea said that he has only eaten one meal a day since he came to MSU and it's caused him to lose weight that he's never gained back.

"I can't eat this food here," the 6-foot-four 235-pound tackle said. "I miss my mother's cooking!"

Democrat's office conveniently located

Bar has often been suspected of having a dominating influence on any decisions, affairs and policies of the Democratic party. Nonsense, say many Democrats and other assorted skeptics.

Lansing County appears to be no exception and may have a better idea. Several times during the past week, the State News has attempted to contact Lansing County Democratic officials — to no avail.

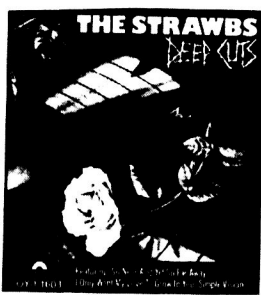

Finally after a series of phone calls, it was discovered that County Democratic Chairperson Joe Finkbeiner could be easily reached during normal business hours — in his office at UAW Local 1618.

U.S. delivered slap

By vetoing Vietnam's application for United Nations membership, the United States has delivered another slap in the face to the Vietnamese and our people. Denying the country's entrance and thus denying its right to a voice in world affairs can only be seen as a revengeful move by the United States in return for the wounds inflicted upon our government by the catastrophic losses in the Vietnam War.

U.S. Ambassador William W.

Scranton said Vietnam was not qualified for UN membership because its failure to account for some 800 Americans still missing in action from the Vietnamese war showed it lacked a "humanitarian" attitude.

The United States is at best mistaken in offering this argument. Vietnam cannot be expected to negotiate on this matter until the United States gives it reason for doing so by giving the country international status.

But Scranton's argument is only the latest in a line of excuses the United States proffered the five times it has vetoed Vietnam's membership. Earlier excuses were linked to the Security Council's refusal to consider a simultaneous application from South Korea. Why did this excuse suddenly disappear? Is the United States no longer concerned about South Korea?

Whatever the scheme, there is entirely too much politicking involved in these decisions — a matter which the United States usually accuses other governments of — and the country should stop spouting off such backhanded excuses.

As one of the five permanent members holding veto power in the 14-member council, the United States cast the only negative vote. It seems the country is taking after President Ford in its fondness for vetoes.

VIEWPOINT: RAPE

Outgrowth of sexism

By DARIA HYDE

In the viewpoint on rape Tuesday by John Davenport, he addresses a subject that is backed by little if any of the current evidence and studies on rape that are available. His thesis does nothing more than uphold many of the age-old myths that are ingrained in our culture. It is obvious that he is expounding on a subject that he knows little about.

Davenport raises two main questions in his article: 1) "Why does the actor persist in an activity when he sees that his victim is unwilling and knows that willingness is an essential element of a pleasurable act?" and 2) "Why is the victim unwilling?" He goes on to answer these questions by stating that the man is in a rage and that he directs his anger toward the victim. He further says that this rage is caused by the contradiction in beliefs about sexual pleasure; it is both "dirty, evil," and "enjoyable." This contradiction accounts for the rage of the man and prevents the victim from finding the act pleasurable. He goes on to say that "... if the perpetration of this act does not actually result in pleasure to the victim, in spite of the opportunity for it — that causes the victim, in spite, to report the act to the social authorities as "rape."

Davenport concludes by saying that the simple and obvious solution to the problem of rape is to rid society of its sexual hypocrisies. He says that rape is the result of sexual repression in our society. And so Davenport has tied his package of untruths into a neat little bundle.

Let me begin to tear this superficial package apart by clarifying the assumption that Davenport puts forth in his article that rape is sexually inspired. Rape is not motivated by sexual lust or desire, it is rather a crime of violence directed against women in order to dominate, control and dehumanize them. It is an assault of power and the rapist's penis is merely the weapon he uses with which to conquer and dehumanize his victim.

In 1971, Menachem Amir, an Israeli sociologist, published an in-depth study of rape in his book, "Patterns in Forcible Rape." In agreement with Amir on the nature of the rapist is Paul Gebhard at the Indiana Institute for Sex Research. Both assert that the average rapist has "a normal sexual personality" and had access to a sexual partner within hours of the assault. Rapists that were interviewed generally said that their motives for assaulting their victims were not sexually inspired but were directed toward the goal of feeling powerful and dominating another person. So all the sexual liberation that happens in this society will have little effect on rape simply because rape is not sexually motivated.

Davenport goes on to question the victim's unwillingness and states that the act of rape carries with it the opportunity for sexual pleasure of the victim. This above all is the most offensive and obnoxious statement in the article. Amir's study revealed the fact that over 80 per cent of all rapes involve some degree of beating. The LEAA (Law Enforcement Assistance Assn.) reports that over 60 per cent of all rapes result in gynecological trauma and over 50 per cent result in long term physical trauma. Given this information, Davenport, unless you are talking about masochistic people, how can you say that any sort of pleasure can be derived from the act of rape?

We are speaking of a coercive act that carries with it the threat of murder. We are speaking of an assault in which the victim is asked whether she enjoyed it and made to feel guilty and responsible for the rape. Rape is a crime which severely limits the freedom of women to move about in the world the same as men do. As Medea and Thompson define rape in their book, "Against Rape," "rape is all the hatred, contempt and oppression of women in this society concentrated in one act."

Davenport, if you were beaten and raped, I'm sure you would not concentrate on trying to gain pleasure from the assault but would be praying for your life and physical well-being. If you could not walk the streets alone, day or night, without the haunting fear of someone assaulting you, I'm sure you would feel differently.

Yet as a man you will never understand the threat of rape that women must face. Instead, understand the reality of rape as it is and realize that it is an outgrowth of our sexist culture which defines men as aggressive and controlling and women as passive and giving. Then rape isn't so hard to understand.

An end to rape thus will only come about when men stop viewing women as objects to control, and when they stop acting out of their traditional male roles. Yet history has shown that men will not voluntarily give up their advantageous power positions. It is only when women unite and give men the message that the rape and violation of their personhood will not be tolerated any longer — that they will assert their rights in the form of active defense against the rape of their bodies, minds and subjugation of their identities — that we can begin to rid society of the crime of rape which is only the more obvious symbol for the crime of sexism.

Another Woodstock this January

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The word has just been passed that Jimmy Carter is inviting 300,000 to 400,000 campaign workers and friends to his inauguration in Washington, D.C. Naturally, those of us who live in the capital are thrilled to hear that so many people will be coming here on Jan. 20. There won't be anything like it since Woodstock.

I believe Carter's decision to send out so many invitations proves he doesn't know Washington at all. We really don't have that many hotels in the area. We can handle an American Bankers Convention, and we just manage to accommodate the Daughters of the American Revolution when they come to town every spring.

Even if he uses the indoor swimming pool and the Oval Office for sleeping quarters, I can't see him able to put up more than 10,000 people at the White House. Since the weather forecasters are predicting a very cold winter, not too many supporters will want to camp on the Mall or the Capitol steps.

Of course, Carter could open up the federal buildings and invite people to sleep there, but that would mean displacing thousands of federal employees who are sleeping in them already.

There may be an effort on the part of the Carter Inaugural Committee to ask Washington residents to take people into their homes. I'm not sure how what kind of reaction they would get.

I called up Sen. Bob Dole and asked him if he would be willing to take in any guests coming to the Carter inauguration, and he hung up on me. Henry Kissinger said that, unfortunately, Nancy was redecorating their house in Georgetown, and they wouldn't have any room. The Fords said they would be packing at the time and couldn't take anyone in, and Teddy Kennedy told me he would be happy to put someone up, but, unfortunately, he has only one bedroom.

Even if we could find rooms for everybody, the question is how could we feed them? There are only 15 Kentucky Fried Chicken stands in all of Washington, 18

McDonald's hamburger outlets, 17 Burger Chefs and 12 Hot Shoppes.

The only experience Washington has had with handling so many people at one time was when the Veterans of World War I came to town during the Hoover Administration to protest their lack of bonuses, and Gen. MacArthur was ordered to drive them out of town.

In recent years we've dealt with mobs — during the Nixon Administration thousands but we question his judgment in not thinking through what it will do to the town. We have about four places that can handle inaugural balls, so the majority of people will have to dance in the streets, possibly in the snow.

I'm not predicting trouble, but I believe Carter's first act as president may have to be to call out the National Guard on Jan. 20 and declare Washington a disaster area.

"... the question is how can we feed them? There are only 15 Kentucky Fried Chicken stands in all of Washington, 18 McDonald's hamburger outlets, 17 Burger Chefs and 12 Hot Shoppes."

of students came to Washington to protest the Vietnamese war. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell handled the problem by rounding everyone up, arresting them and locking them up in the RFK Stadium, which can't handle more than 61,000 people at one time.

Whether Carter would want to go to this extreme to handle his guests is something I don't know.

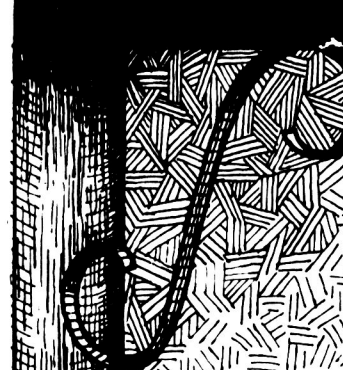

We admire the President-elect for wanting so many people to come to his inaugural,

Every president has a right to have the inauguration of his choice, but Carter may have bitten off more than he can chew if everyone he invites to his swearing-in agrees to come.

If the President-elect decides to go ahead with it, I think he should pardon John Mitchell and make him chairperson of his Inaugural Committee. Mitchell may not have cleared the streets of Washington legally, but at least he got the job done.

LETTERS To the Editor

Great issue

In the Nov. 12 editorial "Great Issues program still failing MSU," it is clear that the State News is presenting only one side of the story. Any program will acquire faults, but it will also acquire assets, which seem to have been purposely deleted from this article. As a secretary to ASMSU, I am in daily contact with the Great Issues office. They aim to gear their program toward groups interested in particular speakers or topics. Perhaps the energy expended by the State News in the form of criticism might be better directed toward requesting public input to the Great Issues program. Surely, ideas would be welcomed.

Coach Rogers

Well, you've done it, Ed Ronders. Your column has finally gotten as distasteful as your picture. That means a 0.0 on a four point scale. I am referring to your Nov. 15 sports column.

It's one thing to humiliate the deserving opposition, as in OSU's case. In trying to embarrass coach Rogers and staff, you're embarrassing MSU as a whole and losing your legitimacy very fast. I am sure everyone agrees that the MSU football squad is in need of improvement. Your opinions were unnecessary and uncalled for.

I wonder where your authority to critique coach Rogers, staff and players comes from? You've never told us that.

From your expert advice to coach Rogers would at least expect to hear that you All-State on your high school football and held a most respectable position in game afterwards. Or, maybe you are savior that every university football program has been looking for all along. In trying to put your column in its proper context, I was torn between Ann Lane section and Jeanne Dixon's.

I'll be interested to hear your read U-M wins Saturday. Maybe you'll be one choking.

Oh, Ed, one more thing, that's coach Mr. Rogers, not Darryl.

Gary L. Wee

Basketball

Edward L. Ronders in his "not enough" story on Jud Heathcote and basketball, states, "If Heathcote is part about negative reporting, that's exactly what he'll probably get."

Because of poor sports stories, such as this one on MSU basketball — which duplicate the rest of his stories covering the world with Woody Hayes — see why Jud Heathcote or anyone would want to censor press relations.

Our basketball squad and coach hard despite the lack of top notch play. I say they deserve a better shake from press than they've received for the past years. A student-funded paper should support our team and not demand especially before Jud Heathcote even first showing.

'U' seeks funds for agricultural station

DAVID MISIALOWSKI has applied for $600,000
federal emergency public works funds to finance construction at an Upper Peninsular agricultural experimentation station near Chatham.

The grant from the Economic Development Administration (EDA) will be used to renovate or replace a number of obsolete dairy, beef and research facilities at the station and to construct several new facilities at a location further to the south.

The goal of the project is to create a "farm-type village,"
according to Norman Schleif, University architect.

Funds will be allocated for the construction of several new buildings, including two dairy housing units, a feed storage building and a storage building for hay and bedding, all to be connected by covered walkways. In addition, plans call for a house for 50 milking cows,
a unit for calves and a cold, drying unit for heifers and calves.

Adjacent to the major buildings would be two small hous-ings to augment existing facilities, a combined laboratory and machinery storage building for crops research, a new manure storage and handling facility and a unit with space for offices, conferences and demonstration activities.

"The buildings at the existing station have in many cases outlived their usefulness," Schleif explained. "Some of them are just barns." Schleif stressed that a "minimal" amount of the funds would be used for renovation, with the bulk of the grant being used for the new construction project.

Schleif said that a pollution problem in Snap Neck Creek, which runs past the existing station, makes it advantageous to relocate several major facilities to the new site, about 1 mile south.

Harold Hafs, chairperson of the MSU Dept. of Dairy Science and administrator for the UP station, expressed enthusiasm for the project.

"The overall thrust of the project is to create quality feeds for cattle in the Upper Peninsula," Hafs said. "Right now much of this feed must be imported. Our first goal is to make the UP farmers self-sufficient."

Hafs said that new types of herbicides, fertilizers and grain would be adapted to UP climatic conditions, and the grain would be fed to the cows to determine its usefulness. Positive results would be demonstrated to UP farmers.

Hafs said that this type of experimentation and demonstration would be impossible at the existing station.

Institutions and units of government all over the state are competing for portions of the EDA grant, which totals $157 million. The funds are designed to stimulate economically depressed areas by providing construction jobs. Besides the agricultural station, MSU is seeking funds for five other construction projects, all on campus. MSU's total request amounts to $14.3 million. The agricultural station is the least expensive of the six projects.

Final disposition of the request will be determined by the EDA around the first week of January.

Schleif said he was "hopeful" that the funds would be approved, but stressed that there is a "great deal of competition" for the money. Schleif indicated that if the request is denied, MSU would seek financing from the state government to complete the project.

Construction at the site would be completed in about a year. Hafs is hopeful that the money will be forthcoming.

"It is so logical, such a marvelous use of funds," he said. "I fail to see the wisdom of denying the request."

DANIEL HERMAN

Sometimes, with all the politics that go on in symphony orchestras, I wonder how musicians ever get around to their primary purpose — making music.

In most symphony orchestras, everything except programming (and sometimes an orchestra will perform a work written by "so-and-so")

Politics sully a symphony's purpose

son or grandson) is politically motivated. In one case, when an orchestra manager was being selected, one woman was picked because she caught the fancy of the president of the selection committee.

Many conductors will privately admit that the symphony orchestra concert is more often a social than a musical occasion.

One thing is clear about symphony politics. They are a closed matter to the public, even though many symphonies receive federal and state subsidies.

An interesting example of symphony politics, and a case in point, culminated with the October 1975 resignation of Aldo Ceccato and the Nov. 10 announcement of Antel Dorati's appointment as music director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

I spoke with Ceccato about his resignation before he recently left for Europe.

"I had intended to take the orchestra to a different kind of exposure, through European tours and recording sessions," he said.

Ceccato said this type of exposure was necessary to stimulate the orchestra. "I wasn't allowed to promote anything like this," he told me. Interestingly enough, when Ceccato became the orchestra's primary music director, he had never conducted the symphony before. This is curious, because conductors are usually selected on the basis of how they have performed on guest visits with an orchestra (reputation is also important).

A source close to DSO politics said symphony officials gradually discovered Ceccato was not qualified for his job in the first place.

"He (Ceccato) did not have the repertoire, and his appointment was politically motivated," the source said.

"While Ceccato was conductor, he did not get along well with many of the musicians," he added.

Another individual close to the board of directors felt that lines of communication had become crossed and personality was definitely a factor in Ceccato's resignation.

It is also interesting to note that the recording contract and the tour arrangements Ceccato wanted are already in the works for Dorati. In addition, Dorati reportedly will be paid a six-figure salary, almost double Ceccato's salary.

When asked about these two points, Robert B. Semple, president of the DSO Board of Directors, said, "We are starting anew with Mr. Dorati and I don't want to discuss things in the past."

I feel Dorati is a much better conductor than Ceccato because of his firmly established repertoire. He is music director of the national symphony in Washington, D.C., and chief conductor of the Royal Philharmonic in London. He is at times exciting, but for the most part, he is, in the big league, a middle-of-the-road conductor.

Exit Ceccato; enter Dorati.

Kresge set for display of 61 Michigan paintings

An exhibition of 61 Michigan paintings executed before 1914 will begin Sunday in the MSU Kresge Art Center Gallery, following an opening reception from 2 to 4 p.m. The exhibit continues through Jan. 2.

Gallery director Joe Ishakawa, art history professor Sadayoshi Omoto and Charles Sawyer, director emeritus of the University of Michigan's Museum of Art, have selected the paintings after a 2½-year nationwide inventory of 1,000 paintings.

The paintings, classic American monuments taken from the basements and off the walls of private homes, as well as small museums and libraries, represent the work of 31 Michigan artists.

The collection will travel throughout the state to such cities as Grand Rapids, Escanaba, Muskegon, Port Huron and Kalamazoo. Michigan is the only state to have an exhibition of its early paintings.

Omoto worked from tip-offs of people who sent him shakily handwritten letters filled with recollections and pride of painters they once knew.

Much of the art Omoto has uncovered is anonymous and privately owned, never exhibited publicly before this exhibition.

The Michigan painter in earlier times tended to look around and paint what he saw — logjams, pine forests and Great Lakes.

"There is a good range of primitives and work done by painters that is self-taught, but sensitive," Omoto, a specialist in both Oriental and American art, said. "What they have all contributed, however, is a body of art that may not compare with that of New York or Paris, but is still helping Michigan people understand themselves."

World premiere performance to be given by MSU pianist

Pianist and MSU Music Dept. member Ralph Votapek will give the world premiere performance of a work especially written for him in the MSU Music Building Auditorium at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The work, a sonata for piano, was written by John Pozdro. Pozdro is the composer-in-residence at the University of Kansas. The work was commissioned by the Washington Performing Arts Society, and Votapek will perform it Nov. 27 in the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Admission is free.

WHERE VARIETY IS KING!

There are cafeterias and then there are cafeterias, and if you've ever eaten at Schensul's, it's quite a nice cafeteria.

For lunch or dinner, if you cared to count, you'd find a variety of about 120 items to choose from. You can always be assured of finding a poultry, veal, beef, fish or pork entree. For example, Schensul's has 11 different entrees for every meal with some of their best sellers being fried chicken, breaded veal, baked liver and onions and beef kabob, complete with interesting vegetables and potatoes to complement them. A new addition to their menu is a steamship round. From now on you'll be able to enjoy hand carved roast beef. Schensul's is now offering a salad bar, 65¢ for a small one and $1.25 for a large one. Your salad, built to suit you, can include cherry tomatoes, eggs, shredded cabbage, croutons, carrots, bacon bits, sliced onion, shredded cheese, and a choice of six dressings. A wide assortment of soups and sandwiches are always offered, changing every meal of every day. Their choice of desserts was much too tempting and I found them too difficult to resist. (I had the cherry crunch cake . . . mmmmm).

All Schensul's food is prepared fresh every day in their kitchen. A dinner at Schensul's includes an entree, choice of potatoes vegetable, salad or dessert, roll and butter for $1.99 to $2.75. I had no idea a cafeteria could be so good and so inexpensive. And while I'm on the subject of great prices, Schensul's has some terrific lunch and dinner specials which vary each day.

There are two week night specials so popular they've made them a consistent part of their menu planning.

Wednesday night is their chicken special night, a complete meal for $1.99 and Friday night fish is available on special for also $1.99.

Every day is family day at Schensul's. Children's menu available at reduced prices. The kids will be happy for the chance to eat out and you'll know they're getting a balanced meal. No smoking areas are also available.

Schensul's has banquet facilities available for up to 300 people. A great spot for club meetings.

Don't wait for the next time you're at Meridian Mall to eat there, their food is worth the drive.

'Car Wash' waxes eloquent in superficiality

... 'terrifically shrewd,'
... stereotypes characters

By BYRON BAKER
State News Reviewer

The New York Times' Vincent Canby has written that "Car Wash" is a "terrifically shrewd" piece of entertainment. He is right. The picture is not fresh or original or particularly well made, but it is a shrewdly and calculatedly commercial vehicle. "Car Wash" is another relatively plotless "slice of life" film, really in the fashion of such notable free-flowing narratives as "American Graffiti" and "Nashville." But "American Graffiti" and "Nashville" are director's films, with talented, inspired casts. Though the two pictures are filled with intentionally archetypal characters, they are given life and a sense of personal history by actors portraying them.

Cardboard and incohesive

"Car Wash" is a studio product — in this case, Universal — an attempt to package this sort of film in a formula. But there is little freshness, and the characters, as written and performed, are only cardboard stereotypes, with as little potential to resemble the drawn characters of the Universal cartoon preceding the feature on the bill.

This is a working day in the life of the employees of the Dee-Luxe Car Wash of downtown Los Angeles. The Dee-Luxe is primarily a manual operation — the sign proudly affirms, "the best hand job in town." Accompanied by the monotonous disco beat of a prototypically obnoxious contemporary radio station, the numerous employees and hangers-on interact, play pranks upon each other, and occasionally wash cars.

Assorted notables

The wash receives many customers: the Rev. Rich (Richard Pryor), a patently fraudulent evangelist who has struck it rich, with his limousine (California license plate number "TITHE") and neo-gospel choir (the Pointer Sisters); a bemused cabbie (George Carlin) searching for a runaway fare; a lonely hooker (Lauren Jones); a hypertense housewife (Lorraine Gary); a possible mad bomber (Prof. Irwin Corey); and assorted others.

Mind now, some of this is funny, but much more of it is mannered and deliberately postured behavior on the part of the cast in a seeming effort to appear hip. Neither Pryor nor Carlin are particularly effective in their small bits, and the women in the supporting roles are not given very much to do, save being complaining and compliant to the men in the supporting roles.

Ivan Dixon (long ago of "Hogan's Heroes") has a few moments of conviction, Garrett Morris (of "Saturday Night") is all right in the little screen time he is allotted and Clarence Muse as an aged bootblack (now 83, Muse has been in 218 pictures) is fine. There was something promising in the concept (there usually is), but scenarist Joel Schumacher and director Michael Schultz (who did last year's "Cooley High") have missed it, and mostly go for the easy laugh of occasional slapstick or the pratfall, because the two of them are not skilled enough to build something more complex.

Inexperienced direction

Worse, the picture sometimes changes direction and becomes heavily sober — as though someone's slight social conscience had to be assuaged. There is little preparation for this, and the scenario is too frail and superficial to withstand the weight of the true emotion.

Schultz, who will go on from here to direct Richard Pryor in "Which Way Is Up?" (an American remake of Lina Wertmüller's "The Seduction Of Mimi"), is too facile and inexperienced to give the film a real umbrella of structure, or sense of consistency. Additionally, he is not adept with the comedy.

Birth of a genre

Incidentally, Universal, which financed and released "Car Wash," is now preparing, with producer Jay Weston, "Hamburger" (concerning 24 hours at a burger stand) and "Underground Aces" (regarding the careers of two underground parking attendants). A new genre is born.

"Car Wash" is now playing at the Michigan Theatre.

"LINE TUNNEL" ELIMINATES THE "BOX BASS" SOUND IN LOUDSPEAKERS...

The "LINE TUNNEL" which FRIED has developed and refined over thousands of hours of research and field use, is a device which permits high quality drivers to perform much more accurately than in an "air suspension" enclosure. Simply described, the "LINE TUNNEL" is a duct into the enclosure, into which is inserted a critical foam damping. The quality of bass from a properly adjusted "LINE TUNNEL" system is far from the "mushy" "boomy" characteristic of most speaker designs.

PLASTIC LATEX SPEAKER CONES OUTPERFORM THE USUAL "PIECE OF PAPER IN A BOX"...

The cone, or diaphragm of the MODEL Q, is impregnated and coated with a newly developed plastic latex compound, which effectively transforms the cone into a plastic laminate cone. Advantages are: 1) The cone is acoustically opaque so that unwanted sounds from inside the enclosure cannot come through and muddy the reproduction. 2) eliminates the "paper" or "wooly" sound of paper cones. 3) the process stiffens the cone to allow better piston action.

ALONG WITH ITS TECHNICAL ADVANTAGES, THE MODEL Q EXHIBITS AN EXCITINGLY "REAL" SOUND.

THE RESULT: A bookshelf loudspeaker with the ability to recreate the breathtaking life of the actual live performance. The imaging and placement of each musical instrument is exactly as it was in the original performance. AND every cymbal shimmer, guitar chord, piano overtone, and breath of horns, are just as "Real" sounding as if the live concert existed in your living room. It is much more difficult to make a good small loudspeaker than a good large loudspeaker — those immutable laws of physics about which designers have written so many times. It took FRIED over two years from inception of Model Q until its presentation; and they had to develop a new technology of cone materials, in order to solve a vexing problem with all high performance loudspeakers. Quite simply, the I.M. FRIED MODEL Q just might be the most accurate $140.00 you may ever spend!

more time before the petitioning deadline for the office of mayor at the end of June.

"When you're electing people in the primary for mayor," Walsh said, "you ought to know what kind of mayor it is."

The cost of a special election would be about $18,000, Walsh said, for personnel and machines at the polls.

"I don't think we should spend $18,000 for a special election when we could combine it with another election," Dick Holmes, commission member, said.

"I prefer not to have a special election," Knight McKesson, another commission member, said, "because the public tends to think you're trying to put something over on them."

Patrick Babcock, aide to Gov. Milliken and a member of a coalition of neighborhood, minority and liberal political groups which offered suggestions to the commission while the charter was being drawn up, also opposed a special election.

He said the charter would have a better chance of passing, since the middle- and upper-income voters who usually turn out for a special election are the same voters who approved the charter by slim margins in this fall's election.

But this low turnout would result in a less representative cross-section of voters, he said, and added, "I have a problem with passing anything with a low turnout."

If a special election is not held in the spring, Babcock said, the commission should wait until 1978, after the municipal election is over, to put the charter to another vote.

If the charter election is held along with the municipal election, he said, the voters will tend to identify and confuse the charter with the stands taken on it by the candidates.

Walsh said he favors making a few changes in the charter to accommodate the opposition.

They might change the present provision for the election of city council members from four ward representatives and five elected at large, he said, to five from the wards and four elected at large.

"We hope to meet with the city council members in a few weeks and find out what they find offensive (in the proposed charter)," Walsh said.

Four city council members — Louis Adado, James Blair, William Brenke and Jack Gunther — suggested at the Nov. 9 charter commission meeting that the new charter be discarded and that only "specific, limited" amendments to the present charter be made.

These amendments would increase the mayor's authority, (a major objective of the commission), yet would provide a proposal "that the people could understand," Gunther said.

The charter commission will review all objections to the charter made by various individuals and groups, McKesson said, but they aren't likely to accept them all.

Some sections of the charter that will probably be reviewed, he said, are the residency requirement and the merit system, similar to that of Civil Service, which may have alienated labor.

The intent of some of the charter's provisions may have been misinterpreted by voters and council members, McKesson said. "If so, we'll have to improve the language," he said.

'All-Star Coffeehouse' set to showcase talent

A portion of all the diverse talent that MSU residence hall dwellers possess will be showcased this Saturday night in the first "All-Star Coffeehouse," sponsored by the Residence Hall Assn. (RHA). It will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the University Auditorium. Doors will open at 7 p.m. Tickets to the event are 50 cents and may be purchased at the door.

Director Pat Vachon said that the auditioning committee, which judged about 58 contestants, strove to provide diversity in the final show. The show will include performances by poetry readers, jugglers, comedians, magicians, piano and guitar players and vocalists.

Talk of sponsoring the show began in RHA last spring term. "We're not trying to make money on this thing," Vachon said, "only trying to break even. That's why the tickets are so cheap."

"People have this thing that good shows are only expensive," he added. "That's not necessarily true. There's a lot of talent on this campus and this show proves it."

MSU packaging student constructs authentic tipi

Like most of us, Daniel Pritchard complains about East Lansing's high rents. Like most of us, he has taken direct action to solve the problem. This fall, the 21-year-old MSU packaging major completed construction and assembly of an authentic Sioux Indian tipi.

The tipi — a Sioux word meaning "for living in" — consists of two skins and a frame made of 15 smooth, straight wooden poles arranged in an inverted cone pattern. One skin, called a "lining" or "dew cloth," is stretched around the inside of the frame and extends from the ground to a height of about 4 feet. The exterior skin extends from about 4 inches above the ground to the top of the tipi, where the poles are lashed together with rope. Two loose sections of canvas, called "smoke flaps," are attached to this skin and can be adjusted to regulate the flow of air carrying smoke out the top of the tipi. The ends of the exterior skin are fastened together above the entrance with 9 bamboo pegs.

Pritchard first entertained the idea of building his own tipi while he was living — "many moons ago" — in Jackson Hole, Wyo. "There were a lot of people living in tipis out there, and I was able to get some ideas and a book describing how they are built," he explained.

To make the exterior skin, Pritchard purchased canvas strips from a local supplier and sewed them together with a borrowed industrial sewing machine. The dew cloth was made similarly, with muslin. Finding and fashioning the poles was not so easy, but he was able to get most of them from a friend. Tipi poles must be straight, free from knots and bark and at least 25 feet in length. The best poles come from young trees and light, strong wood like Lodge-Pole Pine, Red and White Cedar, Ash or Maple.

To those who view the tipi as nothing more than a glorified pup tent, Pritchard replies that "appearances can be deceiving." The tipi's primitive structure and simple design mask ingenious engineering features that allow it to be comfortably occupied in all types of weather. For example, the space between the ground and the bottom of the exterior skin allows air to flow between the two skins and carry smoke out the "smoke hole" — while leaving enough warm air to keep the tipi at room temperature. In addition, rain entering the top of the tipi flows down the inner edges of the poles between the two skins and out through the space below the exterior skin.

Pritchard has not yet inhabited his newly-built home. But the tipi can be "winterized" to allow him to occupy it comfortably through the most bitter of Michigan winters. And with those rising rents, that might not be such a bad idea.

Photographs and text
by
Ed Youmans

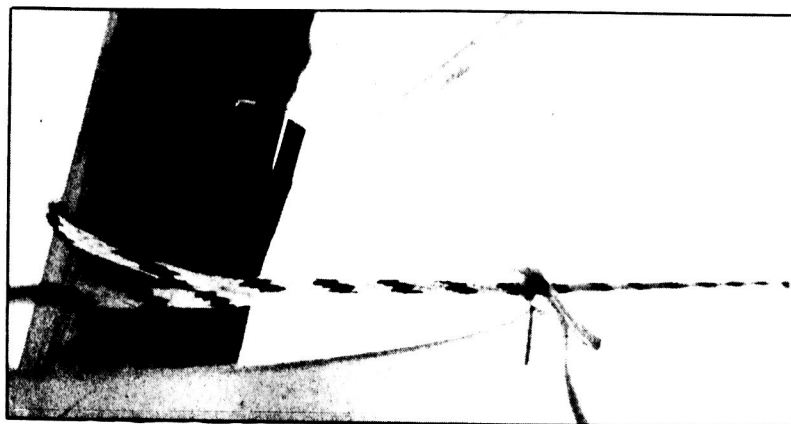

Sioux tipi can maintain room temperature in below zero weather.

Pritchard adjusts the smoke flaps on his Sioux-style tepee. The flaps are designed to regulate the currents of air carrying smoke out through the chimney of the tipi.

The exterior skin does not cover the entire tipi but leaves a gap of about 4 inches at the bottom. This allows air to flow in through the tipi and create drafts that eventually draw the smoke out the chimney while leaving the warm air in. The painted symbols are from patterns used by the Sioux.

The top of the interior skin, or "lining," is attached to a rope that is secured, with a single loop, to each pole in the frame. The two twigs wedged between the pole and the loop create a space that allows water to flow down the inner sides of the poles and out of the tipi.

old chickens

LOS ANGELES (AP) —
In the next 30 days, Great Chicken Chase will begin on the Hollywood Free-object: catch a band of 30 wild chickens that have been living in the bushes along the freeway.

The Los Angeles Animal Commission decided to catch the chickens because Blumfield, the 93-year-old woman who's been feeding watering them, said she's old to care for them.

Blumfield has kept and eye on the chickens since they were found from an overturned city truck seven years ago.
She was worried about the fate of the chickens after she died, but a San Fernando farmer has agreed to take them home.

Through past efforts to catch chickens have flopped, Robert Blumfield, manager of the city Dept. of Animal Regulation, said he was confident that "we have means to remove them."

Rising needs, budget cuts cause headaches for college of communications dean

 in their sophomore year. This term 119 people signed for the course. We can only accommodate 48 because of the amount of equipment," Bettinghaus explained. "So we had to line 66 sophomores in order to make 63 juniors who have not been able to get into the course the last several terms."
 "We can't handle 63 people, we'll have to get extra equipment somewhere," he added.
 Another result of the increased enrollment has been restriction of certain areas to majors only, Bettinghaus added.
 "We should be able to allow students other than journalism majors in news writing courses, because a lot of students need that type of knowledge for their careers," Bettinghaus said.

 "But because of the enrollment crunch, we have to strictly limit it."

Bettinghaus said that another problem of the college is that the departments are scattered all over the campus, with offices located everywhere from the Audiology and Speech Sciences Building on Wilson Road to the Auditorium.

A new communication arts building has been requested for several years, but funding to build it was never appropriated. Recently, $50,000 was granted to the University to begin planning the structure, but Bettinghaus said that it would probably be three to four years before the building is completed.

Pay for faculty members in comparison with other Big Ten schools ranges from "below average" for full professors to "competitive" for assistant and associate professors. Graduate student pay was "out in front" at one time, but has fallen behind in recent years, the dean said.

In spite of overenrollment and understaffing problems, Bettinghaus is optimistic about the direction of the college.

"But we have a unique college here — the first of its type in the United States. We have the only accredited school of journalism in the state. Our Telecommunication Dept. may have one of the largest numbers of majors with the lowest number of full-time professors in the University — 600 majors and seven full-time faculty members," he said.

An accreditation team will be visiting the campus and the College of Communication Arts and Sciences next week for a routine examination of the School of Journalism.

Committee for Rent Control to sponsor fund-raising event

The Committee for Rent Control is holding a fund-raiser tonight at 8 in the Unitarian Church, 855 Grove St.

The committee, hoping to raise $300 to pay off rent control campaign debts, will serve wine, cheese and bread and provide entertainment. In addition, Rep. Lynn Jondahl and some of the Ingham county commissioners will be present to informally discuss area housing.

Charles Ipcar, coordinator for the committee, said the fund-raiser will be a "social-political kind of gathering," giving people a chance to discuss the future of housing in East Lansing.

The cost will be $5 per person.

Bandit kills self after robbery

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A man shot himself to death Thursday after being holed up in a house with a reporter for several hours following a jewelry store robbery and gun duel with police in which one bandit was killed and two officers wounded.

The reporter, Michael Shore of the Rochester Times-Union, walked out of the house unharmed before the man turned the weapon on himself.

The gunman had also held a woman, Julia J. DeMatteis, hostage for two hours before she emerged unharmed from her home. Several hours later the 31-year-old Shore, tears in his eyes, came out of the house and told police, "He's going to shoot himself! Get in there and stop him!"

A shot rang out, and police rushed into the home and found the man on the floor with a bullet wound of the head. He was identified as John Matarazzo, 35, of New York City.

The identity of the other bandit was not immediately known, police said.

Matarazzo, according to Shore, said he and his partner flew to Rochester this morning and cruised around in a taxicab looking for a place to rob. They decided on the Bronke-Smith Jewelers in the northeast part of the city.

"I'm convinced now the guy wanted to kill himself as soon as he got inside the house," Shore said later.

Matarazzo refused all offers of help, said Shore.

"As soon as you get up I'm going to kill myself," the gunman told Shore.

"I believe in the sanctity of life," Shore told him. "I don't believe you should commit suicide."

The two wounded officers were identified as Sgt. John Taylor, listed in serious condition, and Patrolman Gino J. Gammiero, 47, from the adjoining town of Irondequoit, who was in serious condition at Genesee Hospital with a leg wound.

Assistant coach slated to speak at ceremony

Asst. basketball coach Vernon Payne will be the guest speaker for the Black United Front (BUF) Basketball Awards Bust Friday at 9 p.m. in the Holden Hall cafeteria.

The bust will follow the Friday afternoon playoffs of the BUF League. At 6 p.m. in the main gym in the Men's IM Building, off-campus teams will face each other in the Martin Luther King Jr. match followed by the Cliff Wharton playoffs at 7 p.m. for dormitory teams.

After the awards are presented, there will be a reception dance in Holden Hall classrooms.

Music will be provided by WMSN Radio live and a donation of 50 cents is asked for the dance.

New multimedia group to meet, plan publication

A meeting of painters, poets and art enthusiasts of a new organization, "Group Creation," will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. in A-506 Wells Hall.

An emphasis will be placed on mixed media through the publication of a mixed media review.

The group is responding to its belief that the community needs a forum for the exchange of aesthetic ideas and a vehicle to enable young artists to share their expressions with the public.

"Group Creation" is supported by several teaching assistants within the MSU Romance and Classical Languages Dept.

MSU to face 1st-place team

By JIM DUFRESNE
State News Sports Writer

Last few weeks have been an uphill battle for coach Amo and the Spartan hockey team. They hardly had time to recover from their series with Michigan State University, rated ninth in the country, when the following week they had to travel to Minnesota, No. 4 in the polls.

Now this weekend they face an even tougher test of their ability. Wisconsin, the top hockey team in the country, has scheduled at MSU for a pair of games with Bessone's skaters, beginning at 7:30 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday.

"We seem to have all the hard ones in a bunch," Bessone said. "It will be a test of how we stand in the league."

The Badgers, a squad which sat on the bottom of the Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. all last winter, turned things around this fall and now lead the Midwest conference. Though coach Bob Johnson's team managed only a 12-24-2 record last year, the squad tops the standings this week with its 5-1 mark.

"Our goal for this winter was to have a winning season," said Johnson, who took last year off to coach the U.S. Olympic hockey team. "As for our number one rating, I'm reserving my judgement for that until later in the season."

"We figure if we finish with a winning record, we'll make the WCHA playoffs," he continued. "But it's tough to have a winning season in this league."

The series is crucial for both schools. This is one of the first road tests for the Wisconsin squad, while MSU will be trying to break out of a costly three-game losing streak.

Bessone's squad has not won a game in two weeks and a win — or even better, a sweep — over Wisconsin would give his players a badly needed emotional boost.

"It would do a world of good for our team if we swept the series," Bessone said, "and at home we've got to go for both wins. You don't play even-even at home."

But a double victory over the Badgers is a tall order for the Spartan icers. Wisconsin arrives at MSU with what Bessone called "their best team in years."

The Badgers returned this season with strength off over the ice. Their offensive attack is spearheaded by junior center Mike Eaves, who has collected 18 points already this fall, and Olympian Steve Alley. Their defense is solid with all-American Craig Norwich and Olympian John Taft. If that wasn't enough, coach Johnson will have Mike Dibble in the goal, a strong contender for all-American honors this winter.

"MSU offers us a real challenge this weekend, as three of our four series have been at home," Johnson said. "This will really judge what kind of team we have when we play on the road."

Spartan Slapshots — The MSU-Wisconsin series is not quite sold out. The athletic ticket office said at 3 p.m. Thursday that there were still single seat tickets on sale which may be purchased today at Jenison Field House. Standing room only tickets will also go on sale an hour before each game.

WIN MEANS A .500 YEAR

Careers end with Iowa

By TOM SHANAHAN

State News Sports Writer

For four years, 21 seniors and careers that saw them end under Denny Stolz, the program destroyed by NCAA investigation and again under Darryl.

The seniors will have to end their careers against Iowa in a mere 45,000 at Spartan Stadium Saturday. And once they will have to play in shadow of the OSU-U-M series the senior Spartans never able to crack.

Back Levi Jackson, who ended one of the most memorable plays ever in Spartan Stadium when he ran 88 yards to knock off No. 1 OSU in sophomore season, has ended his career.

"I had an all right time but I think about the way we could have done, like the Rose Bowl," Jackson said. "That's one of the reasons I went to a Big Ten school, but it was a good time," he added.

Run against OSU has got to be the most exciting thing that ever happened to me. It'll stick with me."

The seniors, has been here five years after being red-shirted last year because of a knee injury. Smith has seen two coaching changeovers as he first came as a freshman under Duffy Daugherty.

"I was hoping for a Rose Bowl my freshman year, but now I'm aware that it takes a few years to build a program," Smith said. "I wish I could have contributed more to MSU football and I'm going to do everything possible to win Saturday's game," the 1974 All-Big Ten selection said.

"The probation hurt us when we lost the players at the beginning of the year," guard Tom Cole said. "But we still played 11 games and whether we played on TV or not doesn't matter. The probation didn't get me down, but the average season did."

All-Big Ten safety Tom Hannon also said the probation has not bothered him during the playing season.

"The probation was a bad thing, but I put it out of my mind," Hannon said. "I have no bad feelings at MSU and I enjoyed my four years. I hope things will get better."

Tailback Rich Baes, who has 818 yards rushing for the year, also expects MSU to improve.

"I've had fun the last four years," Baes said. "We went through too much stuff, but performed well under it. I think we could have done better than .500, though, because the team's played better. I'm sure Darryl (Rogers) will do all right here."

Defensive back Ken Jones

The MSU Varsity Club will conduct its regular meeting Sunday at 5:30 p.m. Members are advised that help is needed with the Green and White basketball game to be held Monday at 7:30 at Jenison Fieldhouse.

High Riser will oppose either Red Fly Ball or Blow Fly in the independent bracket of the Black United Front basketball tournament at 6 p.m. in the main gym at the Men's IM Building.

expects a win over Iowa, which would give MSU an even 5-5-1 record.

"The NCAA problems are in the past, this is the final game and I'd like to go out a winner," Jones said. "We've beat Iowa every year since I've been here so I don't see why we can't win again."

The Hawkeyes come into the game with a 4-6 record overall and a 2-5 Big Ten mark. Their season features an upset over Pennsylvania State University, 7-6, and a 55-0 blasting by the University of Southern California.

Iowa has had a terrible problem with turnovers and an even worse problem with injuries. Iowa has 15 fumbles and 14 interceptions for the year, while 10 starters are missing from the beginning of the season for the MSU game.

Kick-off time is 1 p.m. and TV coverage of OSU-U-M begins at 12:30 p.m.

Volleyball players in regional tourney

The women's volleyball team is in Chicago today, with hopes of qualifying for the Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) tournament in December.

Today and Saturday, the Mid-West AIAW meet is being held at Illinois Chicago Circle, last year's regional champ.

MSU will begin pool play today against Cleveland State University, University of Wisconsin at LaCrosse and Ball State University. The 16 teams in the large division, of which the Spartans are a part, are divided into four pools of four teams each. The top two teams from each pool will advance into quarterfinal play on Saturday.

MSU coach Annelies Knoppers looks for Illinois State University, Chicago Circle and University of Wisconsin at Madison to be tough teams in the competition.

The top two teams to place in the Mid-West meet will go on to the AIAW national meet from Dec. 9-11. The Spartans came in ninth at the nationals last year.

IM grid champs wind up season

By JIM DUFRESNE
State News Sports Writer

A player from the Golden Bears, a team that just captured the intramural independent football championship, held his trophy in the air and exclaimed to the crowd, "We're a Cinderella team from nowhere."

That could just be the understatement of the intramural football season as the Golden Bears came from nowhere Wednesday night and defeated defending champions Red Abcensity and quarterback Mike Marshall 40-33 in one of the best games of the fall.

"That was a good ball game, a real good ball game," former Cy Young Award winner Marshall said. "There is no post-mortem about this game."

Both teams exploded in the first half and raced up and down the field for seven touchdowns. But Bear quarterback Tom Grace, passing to Mark Buttzie, put their team ahead at half, 27-20.

Grace also broke up a scoreless third quarter with another scoring pass to Buttzie and connected with Ed Brodski in the corner of the end zone for the winning touchdown with 14 seconds left in the game.

Defending residence hall champions, Jai Hai of Emmons Hall, retained their title Tuesday night with a convincing 27-12 victory over Terrace West of Shaw Hall.

Quarterback Kurt Yockey tossed a touchdown pass to Scott Crumbaugh in the opening drive of the game to give the victors their never-ending lead. Three plays later Dave Torrento intercepted a Terrace West pass and Jai Hai went up 14-0 with another Yockey to Crumbaugh score.

Kent Umor caught two TD passes at the end of first half and in the closing minutes of the game to account for Terrace West's scoring.

Other scores in the men's intramural league are Sigma Chi over Delta Tau Delta 14-12 for the fraternity green championship and Kappa Sigma defeating Phi Kappa Psi 27-13 for the white title.

In the women's intramural football league, Kan Do defeated Kappa Delta 2-0 for the sorority title, Cardinals beat IM Women 31-0 for the independent championship and Four Sures of Case Hall won the residence hall title with their 13-7 victory over Community Chest of Wilson Hall.

Kelley files beef against hypnotist

Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley filed a complaint Thursday in Ingham County Circuit Court against the director of the Clinical Hypnosis Center, 301 MAC Ave., for practicing medicine without a license.

Kelley said James Papesch, the director, had treated a state investigator through hypnosis for a stomach ulcer, spastic colon and a foot wart. Practicing medicine without a license in Michigan is illegal.

But there are no state regulations controlling hypnosis.

Papesch, an MSU psychology graduate, refused to comment on the case until he talked to his lawyer. But he said prior to the case he had publicly spoken out against the lack of state regulations in the hypnosis field and that they were needed to "protect the consumer."

Kelley said the complaint that an investigator from the Michigan Dept. of Licensing and Regulation had gone to Papesch seeking help to cure a smoking habit through hypnosis. Papesch also treated the investigator during two sessions for a wart on his foot, a stomach ulcer and a spastic colon from which he allegedly suffered, Kelley said.

Kelley said Papesch "attempted to place the investigator in a hypnotic state" to treat the alleged ailments. Papesch charged $25 each for the two sessions, Kelley said.

The complaint asks the court to issue a temporary restraining order — and after a trial — a permanent injunction to stop Papesch from practicing medicine.

"Treating people for medical problems is a very serious and complicated matter," Kelley said. "It does not matter if you are using drugs, surgery, hypnosis or something else; you must have a license to practice medicine if you are attempting to treat the ailments of human beings.

"The citizens of the state must be able to feel confident that those who offer medical treatment are properly qualified and licensed to do so."

Papesch said he runs the Hypnosis Center alone. He said he treats people for habits — like smoking or excessive eating — and tries to help people relax. Sessions are by appointment only, he said, and they range from $15 to $25, depending upon the case.

Chile regime

the 608 were being processed for possible exile.

Reporters were allowed Wednesday to talk with prisoners before they were released from the Tres Alamos detention center on the edge of Santiago. Some of the 114 men and 19 women declined to say whether they were mistreated, and others said they had signed statements saying they had not been abused.

A doctor assigned by the government to examine the prisoners said he found no evidence of mistreatment.

Some prisoners said they all signed statements for authorities saying they had not been mistreated.

In the official declaration Tuesday announcing the releases, the government showed its concern over accusations from abroad of human rights violations in Chile. A series of prisoner releases begun at the end of 1974 "certainly must be duly appreciated by the free consciences of the world," the declaration said.

ATTENTION M.S.U. WOMEN

I have a pre-Thanksgiving feast for all of you. MISTY BEETHOVEN, M.S.U.'s first sex film has the variety with good taste that will appeal to a lady's palate. MISTY is the first pornographic movie on campus that women have turned out in numbers to see. Why? It must be they have heard how fine this movie really is — would be something about a sex movie that would gross them out but now M.S.U. women are realizing that there is more that would be sensuous and fun about seeing one. I know that other women can get into seeing these films if they do like I do when I see something on the screen I'm not sure I like — I just relax and maybe close my eyes for a minute. Most women are unaccustomed to seeing so later on (even a kinky thing or two).

You should believe me, this movie is the one to try. Tuesday night there were more women than men seeing MISTY BEETHOVEN. There are only 10 days left to catch it. So get it together soon to see the movie that's putting smiles on people's faces in the dark.

Jenny Austin

 ★ ADMISSION: 50¢ (BRING A PILLOW!!) ★

Star of stage, screen and TV, CYRIL RITCHARD stars in a concert version of Victor Herbert's beloved operetta. The score contains many classic melodies including "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "I'm Falling in Love with Someone," "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" and "Neath a Southern Moon." A lighthearted romantic intrigue set in 18th Century New Orleans, "Naughty Marietta" was a smash hit on Broadway and on tour in 1910 and became a favorite Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy film in 1936.

Take your resume to one of those cheap photocopy joints, and that's exactly what you'll get.

A cheap photocopy. Black ink, white paper. The kind of resume those employers you're after take one look at and throw away. At the Abney Press, we won't photocopy your resume. We'll reprint it. Four in a solid layout. From it up on top-notch paper and color that'll grab those employers by the eyeballs. Best of all, our line and color reprints will give you a deal that won't break your wallet.

And that's not the half of it. What we can do for resumes, we can do for Christmas cards, wedding invitations, posters, advertising in fact, at the Abney Press, we can print just about anything.

Richard H. Schwendeman, professor of chemistry at MSU, has been appointed to the Petroleum Research Advisory of the American Chemical Society.

Schwendeman, along with about 30 other members of the advisory committee, will examine research and education proposals and make funding recommendations for grants from the Petroleum Research Fund.

Members of the advisory screen proposals and decide, under certain guidelines, which to fund, Schwendeman said.

Two factors are involved in determining which proposals are granted these funds, Schwendeman explained.

First, he said, the research must be basic, with no specific application involved.

Secondly, the proposed research must pertain to the petroleum industry in some aspect, Schwendeman said.

The proposals screened consist of a "very wide range — mostly in chemistry and physics," he said.

Schwendeman recently received a $48,000 research grant from the National Science Foundation for his work in microwave studies of molecular structure and processes.

"Forty-eight thousand doesn't go very far for research in this day and age," Schwendeman commented.

"About three-quarters goes for salary and University overhead," he explained.

Schwendeman's studies involve exposing samples of gases such as hydrogen to infrared or other radiation. The specimen is then checked for resonances — the frequency by which the radiation is absorbed by the sample.

"A laser light is our infrared light source," Schwendeman said. The time in which the radiation affects the sample is also studied.

The collisional properties of molecules, interaction of free atoms and the interaction of atoms within molecules are included in Schwendeman's research.

THE PASSION AND POWER OF GATO BARBIERI.

Scorching. Sensual. The music of Gato Barbieri on his new A&M album will take your body and move parts of it you didn't know you could move.

Famous for his "Last Tango In Paris" soundtrack, Gato on "Caliente!" connects your body to some of the most exciting music ever put on record. "Caliente!" is a world of dancing to hot rhythms until the cold light of dawn. "Caliente!" is a new expression of Third World consciousness.

But above all it is one of the most creative and exciting musicians in the world helping us to feel the celebration of life.
