The new agency would probably be centered on a Michigan university campus and incorporate the activities of the state Departments of Public Health, Natural Resources and Agriculture, said Kathy Stariha, special assistant to the governor.

"It must be a unit which will maintain active liaison with researchers and government enforcement agencies and which will promptly bring problems to the attention of my office and the legislature and recommend appropriate action to deal with those problems," Milliken said in a United Press International article.

The governor will seek legislative funding for the agency along with House and Senate approval for its instigation. Stariha said the proposal for the agency would be introduced early in this winter's session.

Harold Humphrey, environmental epidemologist for the Department of Public Health, said he attended the meeting where the theory of the new agency was discussed and believes that if it is set up in a functional way, it will be beneficial.

There was a feeling of a need for an umbrella agency," he said, "to coordinate the whole problem."

Humphrey said that a unit which would cross the traditional agency lines and bring expertise, factual presentations and broad scopes of knowledge could provide the necessary medium to effectively deal with emergencies. This presently is not readily

MSU students voted to continue paying the $1 per term State News subscription fee more than a 4-1 majority, Louis F. Hekhuis, director of student governance, announced Wednesday.

The total count was 26,965 "yes" votes to 5,782 "no" votes.

The University will continue to collect the $1 providing a student can obtain a refund within 10 class days from the beginning of the term.

Former ASMSU President Brian Raymond initiated the referendum last spring and the present Student Board voted to pursue the challenge of the $1 because of opposition to the composition and structure of the board of directors.

Gerald H. Coy, State News general manager, said he viewed the result as a vote of confidence in the structure, operation and product of the State News Corp. and that the students believe the editorial and advertising departments are giving them a good product for their money.

ASMSU and the Residence Hall Association (RHA) were vocally opposed to the passage of the referendum.

"The State News (student staff) and the students did not win this, the first round of the battle," said Bruce Ray Walker, editor-in-chief of Rhapport, the RHA weekly newspaper. "As we suspected,

Walker said ASMSU and the State News neglected to publicize the truth - that the State News is not a student newspaper and it is run for the benefit of the board of

"That would be like saying the Taco Bell is run by students," he said. "Sure, they (students) make and sell the tacos and burritos, but they don't decide how and when they're sold, or who works there."

Since the referendum passed, Coy said, there is little likelihood of change in the structure and management of the State News Board of Directors, but that dir were considering two small changes.

It is possible, he added, that the editor-in-chief and the advertising manager, both students, may be seated as ex-officio (nonvoting) members of the board and that formal invitations may be extended to major campus groups to submit candidates for board positions.

The board will make a decision on these matters after it considers a structural committee report, he said. Terry Borg, RHA president, said he

Cutback limits osteopathic college

By ANNE STUART State News Staff Writer

Dean Myron S. Magen did not mince words when he considered the effects of the administrative five per cent budgetary cutback on MSU's College of Osteopathic

"The quality of our education hasn't been receive another cutback," he said.

"For instance, we have had to reduce the number of graduate students working for us, which places a severe limitation on the ability to develop top scientists. The nation will feel the impact of this limitation in the next ten years," he predicted.

As with most other colleges in the University, the cut was taken largely in supplies, services and equipment.

"We are not filling vacancies in our support staff, which includes secretarial positions and education specialists," the dean said.

"In addition, the equipment budget was markedly reduced, especially in research."

The new clinical sciences facility is an additional expense, posing a problem Magen described as a "vicious cycle."

"We can't keep increasing the number of patients admitted to the Clinical Center unless we can take care of them in a rational

"Yet we need to keep increasing the number to fit the teaching load." Class size within the college has not greatly increased in spite of the rapid expansion, he said. "It's all right to increase a lecture, but you just can't do that in clinical instruction.

Right now the student-instructor ratio is 4 to 1 around the patient's bed, and ideally that should only be 2 to 1." MSU's College of Osteopathic Medicine became part of the University in 1971 and is the only such college in the state. Only 10 other schools are currently in operation in the nation, five of them coming into existence since the formation of the one at MSU. Two more are on the "drawing board," Magen said.

Elders' fail to name party leader choice

President Gerald R. Ford hosted a luncheon which included Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and former Treasury Secretary John Connally.

But unlike a similar meeting last month, this one broke up without any formal announcement or briefing from the participants. Only Reagan made a few remarks to reporters who caught him at a White House

Reagan said the four decided to leave the selection of a new party chairperson up to the Republican National Committee and did not try to come up with a consensus

"We made no attempt to," said Reagan when asked if the four GOP senior statesmen had made any decision on a future party leader.

Meanwhile, the liberal Republican Ripor Society sent Ford a letter suggesting that the "elders" step aside and make way for younger Republicans to rebuild the party.
"With the exception of Connally, it appears unlikely that any member of your group will again seek high elected office," the Ripon letter said. "But your years of government service and public visibility make it inevitable that the press will turn to you and your associates to represent the views of the Republican party in the near

"As long as the four of you are seen as the primary spokespersons for the GOP and its views on national and world affairs, the emergence of other Republican leaders as spokespersons for the party will be stifled,

The society said it intended no criticism of the four leaders but "it is simply a recognition of political reality. . .'

"As long as the four of you seem representative of the major viewpoints in the Republican party, it is unlikely that the press will search diligently to publicize the views of other GOP leaders," Ripon said. "Yet, it is precisely these leaders on whom the hopes for the future electoral success of the party depend."

There was no word from the participants on whether the four would meet again or seek to continue as a high council for the

In a meeting Dec. 9 the four had agreed to support creation of a broader council of GOP leaders to rebuild the party similar to the one which was created to rebuild from the disastrous 1964 election losses.

Presumably this recommendation, which would be up to the national committee to implement, still stands. The committee meets here Jan. 14 and 15 and at that time also will pick a successor to party chairperson Mary Louise Smith, who is resigning.

There are a number of candidates for the chairmanship, but none have been openly endorsed by the four who met at the White House Wednesday.

"Anybody who wants to speak up, can," Reagan said. "We believe it is a function of the national committee (to pick the chairperson)."

White House aides have said that Ford probably will not push his own candidate for the chairmanship though he would want veto power over the selection.

Privately, some White House aides have said their preference for the chairmanship is James Baker, the Houston lawyer who managed the post-convention stage of Ford's unsuccessful election campaign

But another leading candidate is Richard Richards, the Utah state GOP chairperson who is a staunch Reagan man and has the support of many Reagan backers.

Others who have been mentioned for the job or have been actively campaigning for it include Arthur Fletcher, a deputy assistant to Ford in the field of urban affairs; former

Sen. Bill Brock of Tennessee; Robert Career, now deputy party chairperson; Buehl Berentson, former executive director of the Republican Governors Association; and three other state GOP chairpersons -William McLaughlin of Michigan, Thomas Milligan of Indiana and Ken McGough of

The shock centered near Tangshan, an industrial city with some one million residents about 100 miles southeast of Peking. It was the world's most powerful earthquake since the 1964 Alaska quake.

Soweto grade-schoolers return to class

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) -Groups of grade-school pupils returned to classes as schools reopened in South Africa's two most volatile black communities. Soweto and the black townships surrounding Cape Town.

Officials in Soweto, the black township south of Johannesburg, said most pupils in higher grades appeared to be continuing the six-month school boycott begun after antigovernment rioting in the township last June.

As in Soweto, most of those returning were arade-schoolers.

The Cape Town pupils were to begin a crash course to enable them to take their year-end exams, disrupted by periodic rioting in the townships. Parents and pupils meeting in Guguletu Tuesday night decided on the return to classes.

USSR harvests record grain crop

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union harvested a record grain crop of 223.8 million metric tons in 1976, Agriculture Minister Valentin K. Mesyats announced Wednesday.

Mesyats, confirming previous hints at a bumper crop, told a news conference the Soviet Union plans to boost the average annual harvest of grain to 235 million

Despite the good performance, the minister said, the Soviets will fulfill their commitments to buy grain abroad. Those commitments include a minimum six-million-ton annual purchase from the United States, a minimum that U.S. officials say has already been surpassed.

The 1976 record figure compares with the previous record of 222.5 million tons in 1973 and with the disastrous 1975 figure of 140 million, a 10-year low.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa's worst drought in the 104 years since weather records first were kept has farmers hauling water to feed livestock and worrying that there will be small corn, soybean and hay crops if the rains don't come soon.

"You're at the mercy of the weather and praise the Lord. That's all you can do," said David Loutzenhiser, who farms 500 acres near the southwestern lowa town of Blockton. "Last year, we got sufficient subsoil moisture built up in the spring. We haven't had any fall moisture at all this year."

New Jersey township closes schools

HOWELL TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) -While a researcher warned that asbestos spray coatings for building insulation pose a "potentially hazardous problem" nationwide, the school board here has voted to keep six schools closed while asbestos is removed from their ceilings.

Howell school officials said Tuesday night they would spend $30,000 to remove the asbestos within about five days. Two schools that did not have the coating were to reopen Wednesday.

All eight elementary schools with 4,327 pupils were shut down Monday after a pediatrician said asbestos might be responsible for one boy's respiratory

Domestic auto sales climb

DETROIT (UPI) — Domestic auto sales climbed nearly 22 per cent in 1976 to the highest level since the pre-Arab oil embargo days of 1973 while foreign automakers watched their sales slip a notch from a strong showing a year earlier, according to figures released

General Motors Chairperson Thomas A. Murphy said sales in 1977 would be even better with domestic and foreign automakers selling 111/4 million cars. That would be more than a million cars above the 10.1 million automobiles Americans bought in 1976 and a 30 per cent gain over 1975.

Unemployment down, figures show

DETROIT (UPI) — Michigan had its second straight year of double-digit unemployment in 1976, but the auto industry rebound sparked a significant downward trend that state officials hope will continue this year.

Preliminary figures obtained Wednesday from the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) put the statewide jobless average for the year at 10.1 per cent; down from 12.5 per cent in 1975 at the height of the nation's recession.

That makes 1976 the first year unemployment has actually dropped since 1973 when just 5.9 per cent of the work force was idle and the auto industry was booming.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service is vowing to fight through the courts and, if necessary, seek legislation to overturn a court decision that declared the method used to set expected to ask the Postal Rate Commission early this year to approve a rate increase from the current 13 to about 16 cents per first-class letter. The increases would take effect either late this year or early next

The postal board contended in a statement that the court's decision, if allowed to stand, could lead by a roundabout route to higher first-class rates.

According to the statement, if first-class rates were lowered and other rates increased, then many business mailers would find other methods of delivery. This would "leave letter mail with most of the burden of carrying postal costs - with sharply increased rates for first class mail inevitably resulting," the board said.

The law says the rate for each class of mail should be at a level to repay the Postal Service for its cost in handling that Postal Service apportions these costs to the various classes of mail in the way it says will most promote use of the mails, and therefore revenue, to the Postal Service. The Postal Service says the volume of first-class mail, which is the only class protected by a government monopoly, will not drop as much as other classes when rates are increased. For this reason, it assigns a higher percentage of the overhead costs to first-class mail users than to users of second, third or fourth class mail.

Area police are searching for any information leading to the whereabouts of 19-year-old Martha Sue Young, an MSU student who has been missing from her East Lansing home since early New Year's Day.

Young was reported missing at 7:35 a.m. 1978 N. Harrison Road, police said. Anyone with leads are asked to contact the detective division of the East Lansing Police Depart-

Action on power plant uncertain as controversy still smoulders

The controversy at MSU Power Plant 65 continues to smolder. After a Wednesday hearing before the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) both MSU officials and the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission (MAPCC) officials were uncertain about further actions the EPA might take against the University.

"The EPA did not indicate whether they were going to proceed further or continue to monitor the efforts of the state commission, Dennis Drake, district engineer for the MAPCC, said.

According to Drake, the EPA could issue a compliance order which would force MSU to clean up Power Plant 65 or face penalties under the Clean Air Act. Drake said the EPA did not indicate whether or not it would take this course of action.

Robert Perrin, vice president for University and Federal relations, said the meeting was set at the request of MSU after the EPA issued a formal notice of violation to the University on Dec. 1.

At that time MSU had the option of installing the equipment to meet federal or state standards or request a conference with the

"The hearing was an informal discussion that was instructive for all parties with a clear understanding of MSU's long concern and efforts to correct the problem," Perrin said.

Perrin also said the EPA did not give a specific course of action that it would take toward the University.

Drake said Asst. Atty. Gen. for Pollution Control George Taiter requested that the EPA remain as an enforcing agent until the MAPCC was able to complete their work.

Taiter also said that he expected another hearing before the EDA within the next three months with the EPA issuing a compliance order to MSU or allowing the state commission to issue an order without the consent of the University.

Michigan students gain increase in financial aid

Watch out little fella, that first step for food is a biggie.

By PATRICIA LACROIX

State News Staff Writer Michigan students now have an extra $12 million from which to draw in their search for financial aid, thanks to a first-time-ever program recently instituted by the Michigan Higher Education Student Loan Authority. However, MSU students will not be as affected by the late Christmas gift as other struggling scholars. A bid to purchase the $12 million tax-exempt bonds was accepted last week by the State Department of Education from the Michigan underwriting firms of First of Michigan Corporation and Blyth, Eastman, Dillon and Cop, Inc.

According to the plan, money will be provided through the Michigan Direct Student Loan Program for approximately 8,000 students who are unable to secure funds from a private source or neighborhood bank.

Director of the MSU Office of Financial Aids Henry Dykema, however, said students from other institutions of higher education would benefit more from the new program than MSU students, at least in the immediate future. He explained that MSU serves as a guaranteed supplier of loans to students, and it was "not necessary as of yet" to utilize the

"We (MSU) already serve as a guaranteed commercial lender to students," Dykema said, adding that this is much like the program available at University of Michigan. Though MSU has signed up as a potential participant in the future in the event that it s necessary to use the program to meet students' needs, Dykema said this would be a "long time in the future. For other students in Michigan, Ron Jursa, director of Student Financial Assistance Services, said the program "simply adds $12 million to the pool of financial aid available." The "brand new program," as Jursa called it, will involve the state acting as a guaranteed lender to students. It will supplement a loan program which was begun by the Students will be subject to the same eligibility requirements under the state program as if they were obtaining the aid from a private source. These include being a Michigan resident and attending an approved post-secondary school, Jursa said. Students must also be enrolled at least as a half-time student.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the students' need rather than scholastic aptitude. Also considered will be whether the applicant has other potential but yet untapped sources of financial aid.

Under the set legal limits, full-time undergraduate students may receive up to $2,500 per year and graduate and professional students may receive up to $5,000. Jursa said applicants for the new state program would receive amounts up to the legal limits depending on their "individual circumstances" and the requests they make Financial aid applicants from MSU are advised to still apply to the financial aids office on campus for aid. Students from other universities are expected to initiate their applications to the state program through their own financial aids offices.

at the City Council public hearing Tuesday

The public hearing was part of the regular council meeting and was intended to give the council citizen input before it decides on Feb. 1 what projects to include in the application to be sent to the federal Department of Housing and Urban

Scott Radway, director of the planning department, said co-ops were privately owned, but that other criteria such as income levels may be used by HUD to determine eligibility. The planning commission altered the city staff proposals slightly by deleting the alley reconstruction, tree planting, water main repair and neighborhood improvements projects, and substituting funding for a purchase option on land for elderly housing, a legal assistant, park play equipment, neighborhood and redevelopment consul-

•Is it fair to accept new students with the understanding that they are qualified, only to tell them later that they will have to take remedial courses to catch up?

This is without question a complex matter but that is little excuse for such a lengthy delay.

It is a serious matter that phenomenally high numbers of incoming students are well below par on the basic skills needed to cut academic life. There is no reason for the Academic Council and the CAP to have danced around as long as they have with this question. Whether it is decided that granting the credit will cheapen a degree or that students should be helped into the mainstream without further discouragement, - or perhaps some point in between, the questions must be answered and a decision

City manager housed as VIP

East Lansing and MSU have made a cooperative effort to house Jerry Coffman, the city's new manager. While this act in itself must be lauded, the reason is questionable.

When Coffman officially settles in the city on Jan. 15, he will be temporarily living in an Akers Hall VIP apartment, which is reserved for visiting professors.

Rumor still circulates that high housing prices in East Lansing have kept Coffman from purchasing a home. But his worries are over for the duration of the term since the city will foot the $187 monthly bill for occupancy of the apartment.

According to Robert C. Underwood, residence hall manager, this is the first time any of the five MSU VIP apartments have been used to house persons not connected with the University. Underwood considers the action a service to the city and an opportunity to extend goodwill.

Students have never been considered for possible residency of the VIP dwellings and Underwood said they were not set up for that "particular purpose."

They are designed for short-term occupancy and often remain vacant as long as eleven months of the City Councilmember Mary Sharp, who arranged for Coffman's stay in Akers Hall, said the on-campus arrangement proved cheaper than apartments off campus.

An extension of the University's services by aiding the city in solving its problems is all well and good, but community ties and goodwill between MSU and East Lansing have long been established. Also, the renting of these apartments during their longwinded vacancies to students could only help the sad University budget.

While MSU is using its apartments that are reserved for the "particular purpose" of housing visiting professors to house city officials, the question arises of what to do with professors that may arrive and find all the apartments in use?

Underwood says there is no problem because if the five VIP units are in use they can always house the professors somewhere else. What?

Educating the educational bureaucracy

Guess what? Johnny doesn't learn to read better, write better, or add, subtract, multiply and divide better, if you pack the schoolroom with all the innovative devices dagogy has come up with since John Dewey discovered that learning could be painless. That answer cost the taxpayers $1.8 million. and involved a study of the work of 60,000 elementary school pupils in nine states, conducted over a period of three years.

Art Buchwald

At that, the cost is worth it. If it cost $1.8 million to establish that what the little, privately sponsored Council on Basic Education has been telling us for 25 years is true, it would be worth it. But the problem is less to discover, and advertise, the obvious. The problem is how to reach the educational bureaucracy.

But this isn't the commissioner of education of Byelorussia, en-deavoring to practice his English. This is the man who tells the people of Maryland how to educate all those wretched children!

The $1.8 million report reaches me in the same mail with a note from a distinguished critic, together with an enclosure. That enclosure is a mimeographed solicitation from a Miss Pinson, who is working for her octorate in Maryland, and writing now under the auspices of the Maryland State Department of Education. After reading the letter and the enclosure - a questionnaire, with its own covering letter from, no less, the Commissioner of the Board of Education, a Dr. Knorr - the professor scratched out a note, put it in the envelope, and returned it to the Department Education. He wrote, "This is obscene."

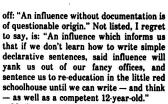

The covering letter from the commis sioner explains that Pinson's questionnaire can be useful to higher education institutions in the conduct of self-studies when any numbered choices we are supposed to reorder, to signify the importance we attach to each one in applying to the governing question. Here is the first

"When a college or university considers changes required by new educational priorities, that institution's administrative adership will tend to be positively influenced if the source of that priority is:..

Now that is baffling enough. But among the numbered responses are: "1. Representative of served constituency; needs assessment conducted by 'appropriate' agency or individuals;" and Societal, community needs."

The very next question is: "Administra-tive leadership will tend to be negatively influenced if the source of proposed change is:." And you are permitted to check

Mark my words, the educational bureau cracy in the United States is the genuine Fifth Column of self-government. If one of those spooks ever becomes president, and Brezhnev hands us an ultimatum, how would he understand if, over the hot line. the answer came back from President Knorr: "Please document whether your influence is representative of served constituency." But then maybe we ought to welcome the bombs, if that day comes; and start all over again, after all the records, reports, doctoral dissertations, treatises and research studies on how to miseducate a generation are finally destroyed:

Tripling

As a freshman I am very impressed with almost every aspect of this campus. The grounds are kept quite neat and clean and plenty of activities are available for spare time. However, when I was warned in introductory letters that costs had gone up. I assumed this was the only alternative. I'm not sure of the situation, but it seems for the prices paid, students shouldn't have to boycott math exams and so on. I am fortunate here, for I have no complaints about my classes. But I am in a triple, and in these letters I was led to believe it was a temporary and uncomplicated situation. There were no promises made, but certainly nearly all triples would be eliminated by the end of fall term and the rest broken down soon afterwards.

All three of us agree that socially there are no problems, but academically it is pitifully useless for three people to try to harmonize in such a small area, especially when two of us need to share a desk. One of my roommates went to our housing manager today and she said there are still 30 triples in our dormitory. If this situation isn't dismal enough, more freshmen arrived winter term. Soon they will be pitching tents on the lawns. I think they should better prepare the future freshmen in these deceiving "introductory letters."

Hart's radical vision

One thing you can never expect to see in he was a politician at all, he was of the media is a decent eulogy. For some bungle them up.

For newspapers, most eulogies are obligations. They have to say something, after all. But what generally results reads like plugs for paperback books in the back of other paperback books. Phil Hart's death left me with a distinct sense of insecurity. I have to admit from the onset that I never followed Phil Hart that closely. I never saw him in person, never even listened to one of his speeches, if he made one. But I read about him, heard about the man, knew what he stood for and was really very pleased.

I knew Phil Hart hunted witches as a U.S. attorney in the 1950s, and he's said he regretted that period of his career. I'm not impressed that he "regretted" it, since it should not have been done in the first place.

But this is not what Phil Hart is known for, nor for his somewhat askance attitude toward foreign policy (he saw no way away from the Vietnam debacle until

In all of the powerfully worded eulogies, these facts were ignored. Also ignored, and more unforgivably so, was the essence of Phil Hart - what drove him and what aspirations he had for a diseased society.

The state's major newspapers instead went overboard telling everybody how kind and gentle Phil Hart was. We heard no end that Phil Hart was decent, low-key, soft-spoken, easy-going and honest. Every story had, at least once, the statement that Phil Hart was the conscience of the Senate. All true. A bit overblown, underappreciated, perhaps, but true.

In my mind, as I said, I always had some sense of security - perhaps false knowing Phil Hart was in the Senate. I knew that he was somebody sane who didn't have an angle to bend. I knew that if different sort. He was not calculating a manipulative. He was no rhetoritician. He was civilized and I suppose he was at peace with himself.

This is important. I believe there is connection between the ideals an individu holds and the way in which that individual relates to others. In Phil Hart was none the neurosis of indecision, or any discerable anxiety of hypocrisy.

But pseudo-psychological observation don't speak to this ideal-behavior relation ship as well as simply saying Phil Hat. calm, civilized man that everyone agrees he was, had the same sort of calm, civilized man that everyone agrees he was, the same sort of calm, civilized the civilized the civilized the same sort of calm, civilized the c goals for his country. Economic concentration: ask Walter Adams if Phil Hart isn't correct in this

Just as Hart was correct about racism in the 1960s, so was he also correct about the distribution of wealth in the United States.

We are a nation built upon freedom which is unfree. We have principles that most can never utilize. We propagate truths which are lies and goals which are unattainable. And for a man who was said to have spirit and a soul, Phil Hart knew nonetheless that what will ultimately be the demise of the United States is material — real money and who wields it; power and its cost; justice—and its affinity for the monied; opportunity—and the need for capital to get off the ground.

Federal law prohibits the public disclosure of FEC investigations without the consent of those being investigated.

Violation of the secrecy provisions is a civil matter, punishable by fines up to $3,000 or up to $5,000, if the violation was willful.

Reports of the investigation received wide attention in Tennessee in the closing days of the heated race between Sasser

"I categorically deny wrongdoing in the matter and am confident that the final resolution of the investigation will so demonstrate," Thomson said in a statement issued at the same time the report was released. Laird was not available for

In regard to persons not connected with the FEC, it said there is a question whether they could be fined for violating the secrecy law.

The 43-page staff report was sent to Atty. Gen. Edward Levi by a unanimous commission vote. The FEC, in a letter to Levi, said the commission decided not to take further action on the matter because of its "great delicacy and difficulty."

The report said the question of perjury or obstruction of justice is a difficult one.

There is some evidence on this record that perjury may have been committed and obstruction of justice attempted in the course of this investigation However. . .I am not at the time prepared to recommend to the commission that it refer any aspect of this case to the Department of Justice for investigation of these potential charges," wrote Murphy.

The report noted at least five differences between testimony

Laird to the FEC staff, even as in depositions to FEC lawyers.

Thomson denied he said anything specific to Laird in their Oct. 19, 1976, conversation at the Washington club, especially that he had mentioned anything about the FEC "investigating campaign records." But Laird said Thomson did mention investigating records and that Thomson's comments were in reaction to Laird's listing of possible campaign violations in Tennessee and other states.

The other major differences between Laird and Thomson dealt with conversations they had between the Oct. 19 meet ing and Dec. 20, when Thomson gave his second deposition to FEC lawyers. The report said there were discrepancies in Thomson's depositions that "bore on the chairperson's credibility." Several discrepancies dealt with Thomson's failure to

WHEY KEY ELEMENT IN RESEARCH

Ice cream may improve

By MICHAEL MACKSOOD

State News Staff Writer
Following in the footsteps of chocolate cheese, which was developed here at MSU, researchers are now working to develop a

Ice cream cones of the future could contain fewer calories and Ramesh C. Chandan, associate professor in the Food Science and Human Nutrition Department, is studying the possibility of transforming whey, a cheese byproduct, into a food sweetener which can be used in ice cream.

"When making cheese you start with milk and add enzymes and bacterial cultures which are responsible for the flavor and texture of different types of cheeses," Chandan said. "When the cheese is made you end up with 10 parts cheese and 90 parts whey."

Chandan said that whey is a greenish, yellow watery fluid and is a very good food.
"Whey is an excellent protein source. It is 11 per cent milk protein and it is a good supplement to vegetable proteins," Chandan said.

In the past, whey has been thought of as just a byproduct in the production of cheese. Discarded but current economic and environmental considerations have prompted researchers to look for uses for whev.

Chandan said in the last few years the Environmental Protection Agency has been more strict about the dumping of whey. But some people have estimated that up to 30 per cent of the whey produced in the country is still dumped into sewage systems.

Czarnecki supports office hours concept Hall. The sale research costs.

John Czarnecki, the only East Lansing city councilmember to hold office hours, still has faith in the idea in spite of a somewhat unenthusiastic citizen response.

One or two visitors in several hours is average.

But it was during such a visit to a former city councilmember that Czarnecki first became interested in entering city politics.

Czarnecki said he would rather talk to people in person than over the phone. He called his office hours "an effort to get to know them (East Lansing residents) better and have them get to know

He said he felt not enough people know about his office hours, and that accounts for the low response he has gotten.

Czarnecki's office hours are on the fourth Wednesday of every month, from 8 to 10 p.m., on the second floor of city hall, next to the city manager's office.

Several other councilmembers doubted the usefulness of holding office hours "I'm always available by phone," Councilmember Mary Sharp said, "and I don't like to go over (to city hall) in the evening." "I've got 24-hour contact with people who want to see me," Councilmember John Polomsky said.

People can leave messages for him at home, at city hall and at MSU, he said, where he is an assistant professor of engineering. Setting aside time for office hours is "as phony as a three-dollar bill," Polomsky said.

In the last few years people have been finding ways to use whey. "If you look at cookie labels now you see that they contain whey," Chandan said. "It is dried and used in powder form."

But this does not give a very high return to the processor or Chandan said the g of his research is to find novel ways to use whey. A major use for . s whey could be as a sweetening agent.

"Whey is 73 per ce: " sugar, which is 16 per cent as sweet as cane sugar," Chand the sweetening pow by the enzyme Beta-galactosidase." cane sugar," Chand

Chandan said this enzyme splits milk sugar (lactose) into glucose and galactose. Glucose is 70 to 80 per cent as sweet as cane sugar so this proceedure would increase the sweetening power of whey.

Chandan is also working on a new type of ice cream that could save children a lot of scolding from parents and save parents a lot of washing.

Chandan said that ice cream cones melt in between 10 and 20 minutes at room temperature.

"Children sometimes cannot eat a cone that fast so it drips on their clothes and causes some problems," he said.

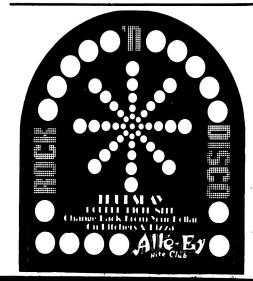

The new ice cream Chandan is working on melts in 20 to 40 minutes at room temperature.

"This gives children a chance to finish the ice cream cone with a clean shirt," Chandan said.

Chandan is also planning to do a consumer survey to find out why people buy certain cheeses and not others. These results will be important to the cheese industry.

Chandan also oversees the MSU Dairy Plant operation. The plant makes 600 pounds of cheese a day and 200 gallons of ice

These products are sold in the MSU Dairy Store in Anthony Hall. The sale of the cheese and ice cream partly offsets the

The MSU men's swimming team will open its 28th Big Ten season Saturday in Evanston, Ill., against the Northwestern Wildcats. Dick Fetters, starting his eighth season as MSU head coach, said that Northwestern had an outstanding recruiting year, which netted an exceptional distance swimmer and a fine sprinter.

The last two meetings between the schools have resulted in lopsided victories but Fetters sees them being a lot closer together this season.

However, we should win the meet," he said.

Fetters said that Northwestern, along with Iowa and Purdue, could be among the most improved teams in the Big Ten, with Indiana still the one to beat.

The Spartans are primarily a young team this season, as there are only five seniors on the squad - three swimmers and two divers. Fetters said that the team is made up mostly of Michigan talent.

Fetters also noted that diving will be the strongest part of the Spartans' game. The diving team returns two All-Americans in seniors Dave Burgering and Mark Steiner. In the pool, Fetters said that the butterfly is one of MSU's best events, paced by John Apsley and Shawn Elkins, who are both effective distance freestylers as well.

The Spartans opened their season last month with victories over Eastern Michigan and Oakland University. The team continued training during the holiday break, spending 11/2 weeks in Santo Domingo.

The next home meet will be Jan. 15 against Central

Among the popular pictures which are part of the recent resurgence of the horror-shockterror film genre, such as "The the Italian-made "Beyond The Door" and this past summer's "The Omen," the most genuinely frightening and compelling entry is a new film entitled "Carrie.

"Carrie" — and its impact on an audience — is inextricably related to the pain caused by apathy, by cold, deliberate torture and by dashed hopes. The film is about the remem-bered and stored-up pain of being unattractive and unlikable - of being an outcast in high school. "Carrie" depicts the one introverted pubescent girl hate of her classmates and teachers, filmed in a vivid, immediate - if somewhat stylized — manner by the oicture's brilliant director,

Panel set to examine opera 'Don Giovanni

A free panel discussion focusing on various aspects of Mozart's opera, "Don Giovanni," will be held today at 8 p.m. in the Kresge Art Gallery.

The panel, which precedes the Opera Guild of Greater Lansing and MSU Music Department Jan. 14 and Jan. 16 presentations of the opera, will be moderated by Herbert Josephs, professor of French.

Also on the panel answering questions from the audience will be Kenneth Beachler, director of the MSU Lecture-Concert Series; Gilbert Hanzon, Beachler's co-host on the WKAR-FM "Arts Billboard;" and David Di Chieria, general director of the Michigan Opera Theatre. Di Chieria recently premiered Pasitieri's new American opera, "Washington Square" in Detroit.

Performances of "Don Giovanni" will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 14 and 7 p.m. Jan. 16 in the University Auditorium. Tickets for all seats are reserved, and are $7, $6 and $4.50, half-price for students and children. Tickets may be purchased at the Union Ticket Office and Marshall Music.

The staff of the Computer Labora. tory will conduct tours of the MSU COMPUTING FACILITY on January 11, 12 and 13. Each tour will begin in Room 215 Computer Center and will last about 45 minutes. Starting times are as follows:

> January 11 9:10 a.m. January 12 7:00 p.m. January 13 3:00 p.m.

A mind encompassing experience in science fiction designed for the Sky Theatre. Abstract, timely, and thought provoking, the show deals with the travels of a starship forced to leave its dying planet in search of a new world.

Due to the abstract material, multi-media sounds and visions, and periods of total darkness, parents are advised to accompany young children.

Curtiz directed films Mihaly Kertesz in Budapest in 1888, Curtiz directed films fungary and Germany before emigrating to America in 1928, ter he joined Warner Brothers. His tenure with Warners, empassing 18 years and over 80 feature films, remains one of compassing the configure director-studio associations in T. W. mpassing of management of the management of the sils.

A skilled, perceptive and incredibly prolific craftsman, Curtiz killed, perceptive and directing spectacles ("Noah's Ark"), extremely versatile, directing spectacles ("Noah's Ark"), in adventures ("The Charge Of The Light Brigade," "The on adventures of Robin Hood"), comedies ("Light Brigade," "The wentures of Robin Hood"), comedies ("Light Brigade," "The Mystery Of The Wax hospheric horror films ("Doctor X," "The Mystery Of The Wax hospheric "Santa Fe Trail" "Doctor City") hospheric norror initial ("Santa Fe Trail," "Dodge City"), social seum"), Westerns ("Santa Fe Trail," "Dodge City"), social mas ("Kid Galahad," "Angels With Dirty Faces") and myriad panache.

Curtiz once said, "I don't see black and white words in a script when I read it. I see action." Indeed, the rapid pacing and succinct, pointed performances of the principal and secondary players of his pictures surely bear out his comment.

Curtiz won the 1943 Academy Award for best direction for what is arguably his greatest film, and Warners' best-remembered film, "Casablanca." He died in Hollywood in 1962.

Friday, Jan. 7: "20,000 Years in Sing Sing" (1933) Starring Spencer Tracy, Bette Davis, Louis Calhern.

Inspired by the best selling memoirs of Warden Lewis Lawes, this is a fairly representative Warners' social drama of the early thirties. Here Tracy (as always) shines and Bette Davis is interesting in an early costarring role.

Wednesday, Jan. 19: "Captain Blood" (1935)

Starring Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Basil Rathbone. A swashbuckling adventure film which made Flynn a star and

Douglas Fairbanks had made successful in the twenties. Friday, Jan. 28: "Angels With Dirty Faces" (1938)

Starring James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Humphrey Bogart, the Dead End Kids.

The classic story of two tough slum kids who grow up to be a leading small-time racketeer (Cagney as "Rocky") and a Priest (O'Brien as "Father Jerry"). This is one of the stronger Warner social commentaries — polemic fingers point everywhere, at the slum environment, crooked city bosses, lionized mobsters as the catalysts for delinquency. Cagney received the New York Film Critics award and an Academy Award nomination Wednesday, Feb. 2: "Yankee Doodle Dandy" (1942)

Starring James Cagney, Joan Leslie, Walter Huston, Jeanne

This musical inspired by the life and music of George M. Cohan is a genuine tour-de-force for a singing, hoofing James Cagney.

Brilliantly mounted and paced by Curtiz, with superb photography by James Wong Howe, the picture entertains — and exhilarates — on many levels. There is a sweep of infectious excitement throughout this unabashedly patriotic film. Cagney won his Oscar for this, his personal favorite of his films.

Friday, Feb. 4: "Mildred Pierce" (1945) Starring Joan Crawford, Zachary Scott, Ann Blyth.

Joan Crawford won her Oscar for this melodrama based on James M. Cain's popular novel. This is the story of Mildred, the mother who desperately loved her insufferably selfish daughter and went to tragic lengths to indulge her.

Series tickets ($5.00 for five admissions) are on sale now at the Union Ticket Office. Individual admissions ($1.50) will be available at the door. Shows are at 7 and 9:30 p.m. in Fairchild Theatre.

tate News Staff Writer The Office of Volunteer Programs placed a record number of 970 students into 42 different programs fall term. Converted into a dollar figure, over $100,000 of community service ising the minimum wage of $2.30 an hour was contributed by the office.

'We had a record number of over 1,300 apply for positions and we placed more students this term than we ever have before," said Jane Smith, director of the office. "For next term we have new programs never offered before and we hope the big response will continue."

Among the new programs on tap for winter term is a legislative aide program which provides the volunteer a chance to work in the Capitol and possibly receive credit or get an internship.

"This has been a pilot program for the last year and a half, but now it is a full-scale program that gives students a unique work experience and a chance to meet a lot of people.' said Mary Eden, director of the legislative aide program. "The commitment requires more than usual and there is an extensive screening process.'

The program consists of working directly under a legislator in four different areas. There is a special area for press and public relations and one for constituent relations, which includes preparing newsletters legislator's constituents. The volunteer may also be required to sit in on committee meetings and research general problems and specific complaints from program. This program assists children under the jurisdiction of the court who have academic difficulties. No transportation will be provided and a court training session is required. •Lincoln Center day treatment program. Volunteers are required to work six hours per week with children and adolescents with severe mental disturbances. •Programs at the Ingham

Center. These programs have been expanded to include work in the emergency room, laboratories and outpa tient clinic. There are also

St. Lawrence Community Mental Health Center which include working with alcoholics and on the psychiatric staff.

Orientation program dates will be listed daily in the It's What's Happening column. For additional information contact the Office of Volunteer Programs in the basement of the Student Services Bldg.

- a rule that was relaxed as an accomodation to Mack. Faust said he has discussed the change with Mack, and that the Ironwood Democrat was willing at least to talk the matter over.

But Sen. Kerry K. Kammer, D-Pontiac, a proponent of environmental legislation who has clashed with Mack on several occasions, said the matter would be addressed directly when Democrats caucus on Wednesday with a movement to force the issue immediately on Mack's dual legislative role.

Mack has been severely criticized by environmentalists and conservation groups for stalling major pieces of environmental legislation. According to a Conservation Committee aide, the full committee has not met since June 10, though several bills have been reported out without formal meetings.

Looking ahead, Magen said he hoped the state legislature would soon recognize the importance of research in fields other than agriculture.

"I think that the state should begin funding projects with environmental impact, such as the PBB research," he added. "Also, the state legislature is examining formula funding and we also have looked into it for the medical schools," he said. "It is a flexible idea based on logic, and though there are problems connected with it, I
