MSU President Clifton R. Wharton Jr. is one of two persons still being considered for the position of chancellor of the State University of New York (SUNY), the largest centralized education system in the

The State News was able to confirm Tuesday that Wharton has traveled to the Albany-based central offices of that system for personal interviews, once in late summer and again about three weeks ago.

Wharton and other administrators refused to confirm or deny that Wharton was actively seeking the position, which would place him in charge of approximately 365,000 students.

SUNY, begun in 1948, is composed of four major four-year universities and a grouping of smaller four-year colleges, along with a number of community colleges in the state. As chancellor of the system, Wharton would serve in a capacity similar to president and would earn $57,800 a year. He is currently earning more than $60,000

According to a story released Tuesday by the Capital News Service in Albany, N.Y., Wharton is one of three finalists chosen by the SUNY Select Committee and Board of Willard Boyd, president of the University of Iowa and one of the three finalists, withdrew his name from consideration for the position Monday.

The university student newspaper, The Daily Iowan, Tuesday quoted Boyd as saying "I am no longer a candidate for that position. I have indicated that to them (SUNY trustees)."

Boyd also told the student newspaper that he visited SUNY before he made the decision to withdraw. He said he was notified Monday that he was one of three finalists up for the position.

The third finalist chosen by the board is Acting SUNY Chancellor James Kelly. According to the news service article, Kelly, who was the favored candidate, has since suffered from a heart attack and is now recuperating at home.

Wharton released a formal statement Monday through Vice President of University Relations Robert Perrin, saying he would not add to the speculation by commenting on the possibility of his

"From time to time during the past seven years, my name has been mentioned in speculation for various academic positions, with or without my previous knowledge," the statement said. "In keeping with my past practices, I prefer not to add to such speculation by making any comment."

Wharton refused to answer further questions about whether or not he was being considered.

Perrin said he "didn't know that he (Wharton) had gone to any interviews in New York," and added that was something he had been kept "pretty much in the dark

During the past eight years as MSU president, Wharton has been sought for administrative positions from the University of California at Berkley to Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass.

Last March, Wharton was a finalist for the presidency of the University of Wisconsin system at Madison. At that time, MSU administrators insisted that Wharton did not interview with the governing body, but was considered because of his qualifica-Wharton's name has also appeared on lists as a possible future administrator for the University of Chicago and the University of California. He was considered for two positions in the Carter administration, both of which Wharton rejected because he said his "current responsibilities as president of MSU and other activities offer(ed) a greater challenge and opportunity for

'U' trustees' reaction

By PATRICIA LaCROIX

State News Staff Writer
"Well, I'll be darned" was the reaction of MSU Trustee Blanche Martin, D East Lansing, Tuesday when he heard that MSU President Clifton R. Wharton Jr. had interviewed at least once for the position of chancellor of the State University of New

"I didn't know anything about it," he added. "I sure would hate to see him go." Martin was not the only trustee surprised about Wharton's interviews, however.

since all the trustees contacted said they did not know the sessions had taken place. Trustee Donald Stevens, D. Bloomfield Hills, was the only trustee who said he had known previously that Wharton was being considered for the position which would put him in charge of 365,000 students throughout the state.

Stevens said he had heard about the possibility of Wharton leaving through a friend of Even so, Stevens said he had "not bothered" to discuss the possibility of Wharton accepting the position, if offered, since "he (Wharton) is constantly being named as a possibility to fill various positions.

There have been no developments that would indicate that he is considering (changing to the position at SUNY)," he said. "My bottom line on it is that I certainly hope that he stays at MSU.

University Trustees John Bruff, D-Fraser; Aubrey Radcliffe, R-East Lansing; and Michael Smydra, D-Lansing, also expressed surprise at the idea.

"It's news to me," said Smydra, the board member who has perhaps had the most controversial interaction with Wharton. Smydra said that if Wharton interviewed for the position, it would appear that he was actively seeking it.

"If he was out in New York, it comes as a big surprise," he said, "particularly in light of his repeated statements that he intends to stay at MSU." Several of the trustees expressed concern that projects Wharton had initiated and pursued during his eight-year presidency at MSU would not be completed if he were to leave the area.

"He's done a good job and gotten some good programs going that I'm afraid would die if he left the University," Martin said.

"Naturally, the board of trustees would be very concerned if Dr. Wharton chose to accept a position elsewhere," Bruff said. "There are many things going on that he is involved in . . . that need to be completed."

Trustees Patricia Carrigan, D Farmington Hills; Raymond Krowlikowski, D Birmingham; and Jack Stack, R-Alma, could not be reached for comment.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - A new strategic arms limitation agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union is in sight, President Jimmy Carter told the United Nations Tuesday.

He also said the United States will be willing to cut its nuclear arsenal in half in some future treaty.

"Peace will not be assured until the weapons of war are put away," the president said.

After his speech, the president turned his attention to the Middle East and received what he described as a "positive" message from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The president refused to divulge the message from Sadat, which was delivered to Carter by Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy. However, Egypt is known to be concerned about an expanded Soviet role in the quest for a Middle East settlement and the absence so far of explicit U.S. support for a Palestinian state.

Carter told Fahmy that "if we can just keep the Arabs and Israelis moving in the right direction, we can see peace come.

Gandhi freed, continues her campaign

NEW DELHI, India (AP) -A judge freed Indira Gandhi Tuesday after 16 hours in police custody and she promptly resumed her political comeback campaign. But the government appealed to a higher court and said it would press for her trial on corruption charges.

Demonstrations erupted in more than a dozen cities as supporters of the 59-year-old former prime minister protested her arrest.

Tear gas fumes penetrated the packed courtroom in Delhi as police battled pro-and-anti Gandhi demonstrators outside. Gandhi dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief and leaned toward the judge to hear his ruling above the noise of the demonstrators. Police reported 111 arrests and more than 15 injuries at the Parliament Street courthouse and another violent protest outside the home of Prime Minister Morarji Desai.

Scattered violence and hundred of arrests were reported

One of the largest demonstrations was in Calcutta, where a leader of Gandhi's Congress party urged 3,000 supporters to launch a campaign of civil disobedience. He later was detained by police.

At Madras, authorities halted a demonstration by taking 1,500 Congress party workers into protective custody.

In an interview after her release, Mrs. Gandhi charged that "hundreds and thousands of people have and are being arrested and are being tortured

She did not elaborate. Many thousands were reported jailed during a period of emergency in her own 11-year rule. Asked if she was worried by the sequence of events, she replied: "Fear and Indira Gandhi do not go together.

Magistrate R. Dayal declared that on the basis of evidence presented there "are no grounds for believing that the accusation against Gandhi is well-founded." He ordered her relased with no restrictions on her movements.

A government source said the ruling political leadership had pressed for Gandhi's arrest despite warnings from India's Central Bureau of Investigation that charges and evidence were not ready.

In a speech to the United Nations General Assembly in New York, Indian Foreign Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee defended the Desai's govern-ment and said its election victory last March "lifted the pall of fear that hung menacingly over our people.

A few hours after leaving court, Gandhi flew to Bombay en route to Gujarat, Desai's home state, for three days of speechmaking in her continuing offensive against the Janata government. Her sudden arrest and brief detention seemed likely to aid her cause.

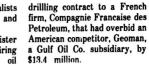

"They haven't dropped the charges but they have no evidence . . . maybe they will manufacture it," Gandhi told an interviewer during brief stop at her home in New Delhi after the court session.

Gandhi, the daughter of India's first prime minister, the late Jawaharlal Nehru, began her bid for a political comeback this summer. In speeches around the country, she criticized the Desai government and defended her 21-month emergency rule as a stabilizing

Soviets have attack capability develop anti-satellite device

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Soviet Union has developed a satellite-killing weapon that could attack some U.S. satellites in outer space, Defense Secretary Harold Brown said Tuesday. He said the United States lacks a similar capabil-

Brown's disclosure at a news conference came as a surprise because U.S. intelligence analysts have rated most Soviet antisatellite tests as unsuccessful since the Russians resumed work on their system last year.

However, it was learned that in a significant test on June 17 a Soviet hunter-killer satellite in an elliptical orbit intercepted a Russian target satellite for the first time. Experts said this indicates a high degree of technical sophistication Saving the Soviet ability to attack some satellites is "somewhat troubling," Brown told reporters, "I hope we can keep space from becoming an area of active hostilities."

The new development suggests that the Russians have ignored President Jimmy Carter's plea on March 9 that both sides "forgo the opportunity to arm satellite bodies and. . .

forgo the opportunity to destroy observation satellites."

The United States has accelerated research on a possible satellite-killer system since the Russians resumed their experiments last year after a fiveyear lapse.

"We don't have that capabi lity Brown said of the antisatellite system. Pentagon scientists have indicated the United States may be in position to put up a satellite-killer of its own by the mid-1980's, possibly a few

Diplomats agree on arms race dangers

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A three-month international conference on peace and security opened Tuesday with key speakers agreeing that an escalating arms race threatens peace in Europe.

The conference, a follow-up to the 1975 Helsinki summit of 35 nations, will also review progress in the area of human rights. However, diplomats from both the United States and the Soviet Union have indicated they will try to avoid roiling in public over human rights issues.

Still some attention was directed to human rights at the outset of the conference by statements which Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev made in Moscow to the Soviet parliament. He attacked the West for enjoying such rights as "joblessness and racism...and for sick people to be without medical Echoing Brezhnev's tone at the conference, Romanian delegate V. Lipatti branded human rights efforts by Western nations as "enticements to emigration or attempts to corner specialists," an allusion to the brain drain from Eastern countries of intellectuals wishing to emigrate abroad.

Pollster says health care support rising

CHICAGO(AP)-A pollster who advises President Carter says there is only one program for which the American public is willing to have it taxes raised — national health care.

Speaking before a symposium on National Health Care sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Caddell said,

"Health care is the exception to the rule that the public's perception is that the government is not working well, that it is spending inefficiently."

Caddell, Carter's official pollster dur-

Court's ruling another travesty

Recently the only supremacy having anything remotely to do with the Supreme Court is its supreme insensitivity.

Justice may rightly and necessarily be blind, but the nation's highest court must not voluntarily place blinders over its eyes like a scared horse, disembody its head. and ignore the rushing of its own heart.

The court's most recent affront! to the canons of justice came Monday with its refusal to hear the appeal of James Gaylord, a high school teacher who was fired in 1972 when his homosexuality was discovered.

Quite honestly, we do not know what to say anymore. We have repeatedly defended the rights of homosexuals, basing our arguments not on complicated legal lingo or obscure Biblical passages, but on plain and simple common decency.

It seems to us now, as it has seemed all along, a gross and obvious intrusion into the rights of citizens to go clawing through closets to see who and what may be there.

Sexual preference has not a thing to do with morality or immorality. The only way morality enters the picture is in the immorality of those who choose to condemn others based on sexual preference.

Nor has sexual preference a thing to do with the ability to teach and run a classroom. It is not contagious.

Most forms of discrimination based on race, religion, age, color, and nationality have been ruled unconstitutional and illegal. But sexual preference has been given no special protection. Indeed, it is appalling tht persons in this country need protection to choose with whom they shall sleep.

Justices Marshall and Brennan, the only justices who voted to hear Gaylord's case, are not to be lauded for taking the only respect. able action possible. But we do congratulate them for standing up to an otherwise bigoted and closed-minded court.

As for the other justices, let them drink orange juice with pits.

Deregulation a setback to public

President Carter's energy proposals have faced numerous obstacles since their introduction to the Senate. The Senate, whose foci of power lie with conservativeminded senators on various finance committees, has whittled the program to a shell of its former self.

The latest setback to befall the Carter plan came Monday, when Senators opposing deregulation of natural gas ended a 13-day filibuster, the purpose of which had been to keep the issue from coming to a vote.

Unless some compromise is worked out, natural gas prices will be deregulated, costing consumers under the assumption that they untold billions in the years ahead.

Carter had proposed to maintain regulation of natural gas prices, but with the ceiling lifted from $1.46 per thousand cubic feet to $1.75. The new ceiling would have provided sufficient initiatives for natural gas companies to seek new supplies without penalizing consumers excessively.

Deregulation will allow gas prices to skyrocket, without any guarantee of a substantial increase in gas supplies.

The Carter administration cut the feet out from under the leaders of the filibuster, who had operated enjoyed unqualified White House support. Obviously the President feels that to continue the filibuster would jeopardize the remainder of his program.

It is indeed unfortunate that the Senate has adopted such an obviously short-sighted stance on this issue. The main stress of any viable energy program should be on conservation. The discovery and production of new energy sources obviously is important, but it should be done within a controlled framework. Otherwise the public will, as usual, be forced to bear an unfair economic burden

VIEWPOINT: SPIRIT BLOCK

Student foundation defended

By JIM THOMAS

In response to Susan Dwight's editorial on the Spartan Spirit Block, we feel we owe an explanation to those students who were unable to get in the card block for the circumstances surrounding the sign up last week. We are sorry that so many students who had built up their hopes and worked to organize their teams to be let down by not getting in.

The Student Foundation is less than two years old and is still going through a lot of growing pains. In the first year of the Spartan Spirit Block we had difficulty in completely filling it. When it came time to organize the 1977 block, we could not even begin to anticipate the overwhelming desire of students to join based upon our experience last year. If we are guilty of anything, it is getting too many people fired up for the football season and the card block.

By opening up the Spartan Spirit Block to the entire student body rather than having some sort of priority system as Susan suggested, we hoped to find the most enthusiastic students on campus. Those who were the most fired up were the ones who spend all of Wednesday night lining up their teams, collecting the ticket money, and "camping out" outside the Student Foundation Office all night.

Susan claims that the Student Foundation should "have its stuff together." On the surface it is possible that getting our stuff together means simply signing some students up to flip cards. However, we must be responsible for more than 1,200 student season football tickets valued at over $14,000, organizing and recruiting 300

We know these are aggressive objectives and it requires a special kind of student who is willing to dedicated a great deal of time and personal effort to accomplish these goals. Riled

I'm riled. I mean I am really riled. Upon viewing the video tape of last Saturday's game against Notre Dame, I'm shocked to know that the MSU alumni have allowed the beatings given the team by the referees. Wasn't last season's poor referee performances enough? I realize that Coach Darryl Rogers will not agree with what I write here, but what can the man say? He can not ostracize the very people who guard his players against injuries.

Let's back our team. They are a great football team because they've overcome worse odds and greater obstacles than any other team in the nation. Plagued by injuries, they still come back to exert tremendous effort Saturday after Saturday. Let's get some spirit and excitement into Spartan Stadium this weekend

Natural gas prices to be influenced by industry

WASHINGTON - It looks as if the White House may base the future price of natural gas on a study that was strongly influenced by the friendly folks who sell natural gas. The new Energy Department, which will take jurisdiction over the energy muddle next month, will have the power to set interstate gas rates. The Energy Research and Development Administration, meanwhile, came up with a study that would undercut the White House's pricing policies. The report has been forwarded to the

Now a confidential Senate investigation has found the study was tainted. An alarmed Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D. Ohio, has written to energy czar James Schlesinger about the findings.

"Disturbing information regarding influence exerted by the natural gas industry upon the development and conclusions of the natural gas supply study ...," he wrote, "has been brought to my attention."

He informed Schlesinger that the ERDA task force had relied heavily on an earlier study by the Stanford Research Institute. Declared Metzenbaum: "Natural gas industry representatives had the final say on the cost-of-production estimates which were incorporated into the Stanford Research Institute study.

The Stanford group, he said, had engaged in some mysterious sleight of hand. At the beginning of the study in 1975, the group estimated the available gas supplies were 25 percent higher than the figure it is now

This strange shrinkage in the supply estimates caused an equivalent rise in the cost-of-production estimates. Now the natural gas industry can cite the higher cost estimates to justify higher prices. Metzenbaum referred to this juggling as a "manipulation of cost figures" affecting "about one-fifth of the total gas supply projected.

Apparently, the industry influence went even beyond the Stanford study. The ERDA task force's Christian Knudsen was compelled to discard his own gas supply curve, he told Metzenbaum, because "conflicted with the industry's supply estimates." As a result, Knudsen was removed from the task force. The director of the ERDA team, Philip White, admitted that Knudsen's findings were ignored in favor of the industry's estimates. Or to put it in the words of White's aide, Hugh Guthrie, Knudsen's curve was "inconsistent with current industry experience.

Significantly, both White and Guthrie came to the government from the oil and gas industry. White was on the payroll of Standard Oil of Indiana for 37 years and still draws a $43,000 annual pension from a company trust. And Guthrie collects $15,000 a year from Shell Oil after 33 years with the company.

Footnote: White admitted the ERDA report drew information and suggestions from the industry. But he insisted: deal in technical not political decisions.' Knudsen's curve, he said, was "somewhat naive." Guthrie agreed with White and stressed that their personal integrity should not be questioned

The reason for the excitement is simple; Robert Coover has produced one of the most explosive works of fiction by a contemporary author. The Man From Lisbon by Thomas Gifford McGraw-Hill $9.95 Reviewed by DAVE ovelist Thomas Gifford's third effort, and, unlike his earlier The Wind Chill Factor and The Cavanaugh Quest, "it really happened.

So it is stated, at least, in the preface to the book. Once again, Gifford's overriding theme appears to be "I am not I/He is not he/They are not they." It is there, however, that the similarities with Gifford's earlier work abruptly end.

The Man From Lisbon is, more than anything else, a biographical sketch of Artur Virgilio Alves Reis, a fictional character, certainly, despite Gifford's prefaced note of authenticity, and an extremely unusual one. Reis is the ulti mate con man, a Portuguese who almost manages to legally devise a system in which he can literally "print up" his money whenever he needs it.

Gifford's newest differs from both of his earlier efforts in two specific ways.

First, it allows the reader to at once perceive the depth and levels of deception happening throughout the narrative. Much of what made The Cavanaugh Quest and The Wind Chill Factor so fascinating was Gifford's preference for keeping the reader essentially in the dark, at the same level of unawareness as the protagonists. Because each of the previous novels contained more than a normal share of plot turnabouts and twists the reader could much more easily be drawn into the storyline. The Man From Lisbon, certainly not lacking in its own twists here and there, nevertheless down plays the element of surprise in preference of a more binding. emotional involvement, one that each of Gifford's earlier

Secondly, and this is very much tied in with the first point, Gifford has shifted his emphasis as a storyteller: events in the storvline aren't quite as relevant in The Man From Lisbon as the characters' reactions to them. What probably makes the book most rewarding is Gifford's tendency to understate these feelings; Gifford, for example, mentions only once, very indirectly, that Reis' wife Maria has had an affair with his close friend and business partner Jose. Yet much of the narrative is clearly about similar situations-Reis in this instance, is himself deeply involved with his own affair. What could have been a turning point in another author's novel is worth only a casual mention, thereby leaving fect of the affair on the three characters' further relation-

The fact that Gifford displays this gift, this ability to create a living plot almost independent of reader or author, is significant these days. Not a hack write-up or a transparently obvious dressed-up movie script, The Man From Lisbon is an engaging night's reading and a book that is remembered long after it is put down.

In Berger's book we're given a genuine allegiance to his search, and we seem to have a need to discover the solution. However, as we read on we discover that the book's a sham, that we have been sucked into the riddle but will receive nothing in return. It's like a long joke with no punchline.

I started out caring, but discovered that Berger didn't really give a damn whether I cared or not, so I quit. After that, the book wasn't half bad. Sections of University Housing may be able to benefit from about $1.8 million in community development funds soon to be received by the City of East Lansing, due to a bill currently in the United States Congress.

Cherry Lane, University and Spartan Village apartments lie in the "target areas" determined by the East Lansing Planning Department for the money to be spent. The money will also benefit two other areas of the city.

Public input sessions in those areas will be held the coming weeks at three locations.

John Roetman, University Apartments manager, said residents of University housing will be responsible for giving input on how the money should be spent. The University, he added, will serve only in advisory capacity to the residents and will have the final approval of any plan the city might formulate.

That is, he added, when and if it is determined that federal funds could be expended for community development on state-owned land.

Kent Cartwright, administrative assistant to U.S. Rep. Bob Carr, D-East Lansing, said that the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which administers the money, has not determined that such an expenditure would

For lunch and/or dinner, you will be able to choose from a large selection of entrees, salads, vegetables, potatoes, desserts, rolls and beverages.

HOW DOES THE PLAN WORK?

It gives you the option to buy any Union Cafeteria menu items at a la carte prices, to a limit of $3 per meal. Any credit not used for a meal may not be transferred to the next meal. If your purchases are more than $3 at any one meal (for those of you with hearty appetites) you will pay the additional amount. If you join, you must belong to the plan before November 10, 1977.

WHEN IS THE PLAN VALID?

The plan may be used Mondays through Fridays, from Sept. 29 through Dec. 9, excluding Thanksgiving holidays, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 24 and 25.

The meal plan is sold at the Union Building business office, on the second floor (east entrance) of the Union, Mondays through Fridays, 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

> Lunch: Monday through Friday, 11:15 a.m. - 1:15 p.m. Dinner: Monday through Friday, 5 p.m. - 7 p.m.

Brammer keys for Michigan

By MICHAEL KLOCKE

State News Sports Writer
The great intra-state football rivalry between MSU and Michigan will continue this Saturday but Mark Brammer and his teammates won't just start getting up for the game this week — they we been keying for it all season.

We've been laying for Michigan since the beginning of the season," said the 6-3, 222 pound tight end from Traverse City. "Everybody knows the importance of this game. During practice all season long we've taken a couple of minutes each day to think of the Michigan game. We would start thinking as a team about Michigan." Brammer said the game will be important to everyone on the Spartan team, but especially important to the seniors. "Everyone has their own individual feelings about Michigan." said the blond sophomore. "But the game is especially important to the seniors who have never won over them. And entering the Michigan game, Brammer is coming off perhaps his finest performance as a Spartan.

In last Saturday's loss at Notre Dame, Brammer had eight receptions for 129 yards and was named Spartan offensive player of the week by head coach Darryl Rogers.

Kickers looking for win No. 3

By JOE CENTERS

State News Sports Writer Following consecutive wins over Calvin and the University of Michigan, Dearborn, the MSU soccer team will try to make it three in a row when it meets Albion College here today at 3:30 p.m.

Coach Joe Baum is optimistic but also cautious about today's game.

"We should be ready," Baum said. "The team realizes their potential, I just hope that we don't look past Albion to our game Saturday with Akron. Albion is really fit and they play with intensity. Teams like Albion come here with super enthusiasm, they see it as a challenge to play MSU."

The Spartans have played better than in their two opening losses and have given up only one goal (a penalty shot by U of M, Dearborn) since the first two games.

"Defense is our ace in the hole," Baum commented, "You will always be in the game if you don't give up too many Baum, though, is still looking for that offensive punch that has eluded the Spartans all year. Freshman Scott Campbell is the only Spartan with more than two total points (goals + assists). Campbell has six (two goals and four assists) of the teams total 13 points and "plays poise in front of the net," according to Baum. Other Spartan scorers this year have been Soleman Younes, two goals, Mike Price, one goal and one assist, and Nick Bowen, Paul Kennedy and Tom Coleman each with one goal. Following the Albion game the Spartans will get ready to entertain nationally ranked Akron Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. All games are on the Spartan Soccer Field just south of Spartan stadium.

Another soccer game of interest will be played tonight at the Pontiac Silverdome. The New York Cosmos, champions of the North American Soccer League, will meet the Santos of

Stickers coast in opener

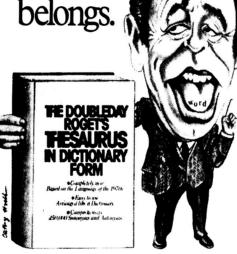

A five-goal burst in the first half Tuesday helped the MSU field hockey team open its season on the right foot with a 10-0 romp past Grand Valley State at Old College Field.

The first half fireworks were matched by five more goals in the final 35 minutes, including four by center Nancy Lyons. She led the Spartans' explosion with six goals. Kathy Eritano added two and Jennie Klepinger and Patti Lawson had one each.
First-year MSU head coach Sam Kajornsin was totally pleased

"Offensively, our stickwork was good. Defensively, we still need to work on positioning and teamwork," he said.

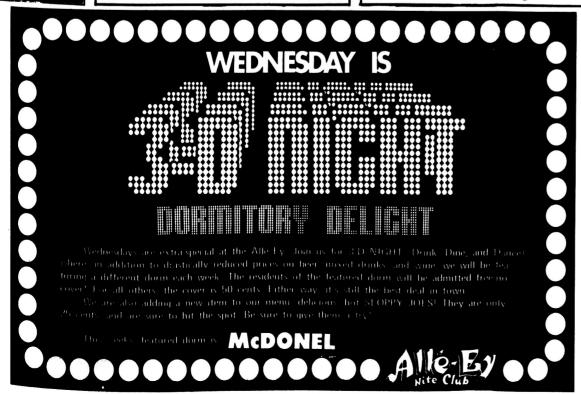

MSU's Lori Fiesselman will be lost to the team for one week after twisting an ankle and sitting out the second half Tuesday.

Why tomorrow's professionals choose Hewlett-Packard's first family of advanced calculators today.

They're proven performers. In space. On Everest. In the labs of Nobel laureates. Since we built the first, back in 1972, our advanced calculators have been tested by millions worldwide, and they've passed.

They have staying power. Today's classroom problems quickly grow into tomorrow's on-the-job problems. HP calculators are designed and built to handle both. They're investments in a future that happens fast.

They're straightforward. "Advanced" doesn't mean "complicated." It means "uncomplicated." HP calculators are, above all, straightforward.

They're easy to use. HP calculators not only grow with you; they grow on you. They feel natural, comfortable, because we designed them to work like you think.

They're efficient. HP calculators take the direct approach. All feature RPN, a time-saving, parenthesis-free logic system. All programmables feature a memory-saving keycode merging capability. They're personal. Professionals design their own ways to solve their particular problems, and they expect their calculators to be versatile enough to accommodate them.

There's a variety. To say we offer a full line is an understatement. We offer a choice. That's why we publish a unique "Selection Guide" that spells out the capabilities of each. Your HP dealer has your free copy.

The delay will allow law enforcement agencies and hospitals alike more time to provide adequate alcohol treatment programs by the effective date. So far, the Ingham Eaton area has barely begun coordinating efforts among local agencies. "Nothing has been done on the local level," said Harold Old, who is implementing the new law on the state level though the Office of Substances Abuse Services. "Community attitudes and sufficient support are crucial for success on the local level."

Old went on to say he is confident that most hospitals will be able to provide services by the effective date and that the program will meet with success.

But a public relations official for St. Lawrence Hospital, which provides an alcoholism center, said the hospital has serious reservations as to which responsibilities they will have and which the police will have under the new law.

Other problems have arisen on the legal side. The new law will permit police officers to take an incapacitated person into protective custody without the person's consent.

Some police officials have testified that provision may not hold up the courts.

Milliken also signed a companion bill spelling out clearly that an intoxicated person who endangers other persons lives or disturbs property may be charged with a criminal misdemeanor.

This will give police officers the option of taking a disruptive person into custody rather than turning him over to a hospital or other treatment facility.

The thrust of the new law is to force recognition that drunkenness is not a crime, but rather a public health problem. said Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Basil Brown, D-Highland Park.

A 30,000-member Syrian peace-keeping contingent has imposed a cease-fire in all but the southern part of Lebanon. They have checkpoints set up, demand identification, and check for weapons — "all to ensure there is no outbreak again of the fighting," Najjar said.

But while the majority of the country is now peaceful, Najjar said there was virtually no hope for permanent peace in Leba non without a settlement suitable to all for the Arab-Israeli conflict.

"A settlement (for the Lebanon war) depends largely on the Arab-Israeli conflict," he said. "Without a settlement of that conflict, there is no place for the Palestinians to go and the Christians rightists are adamant about having the Palestinians leave Lebanon.

"They refuse to discuss an internal reconciliation unless Palestinian armed militia leave Lebanon."

The Arabs are demanding the set-up of some type of homeland for Palestinians displaced during the 1948 war as part of a Mideast settlement. There are 400,000 Palestinians including about 6,000 guerillas living in Lebanon.

Najjar said contrary to press reports the civil war was not as much a sectarian conflict between Christians on the one hand and Lebanese Moslems and Palestinians on the other, but more a war between conservatives and leftists.

"There's of course some fear of Christians going into Moslem sections and the reverse," he said. "But that's mainly because they fear they might be recognized as the militia members during the war."

However, Christians generally mix with Moslems, he said.

"In fact, I heard of a nun who was collecting for a church in a predominantly Moslem area."
Certain rightist groups, mainly those connected with Maronite Christians, live in sealed off areas where there are no member of the leftist alliance. Due to this separation, Lebanon is a split country.

a wide margin of safety," Dr. Zabik points out. "Even if you ate one-half pound of fish that contained PCBs at 30 ppm per week, your total diet would contain PCBs at less than one half ppm, which is well below recommended levels."

Because PCBs are primarily an aquatic problem, you are not likely to get them from food sources other than fish. Unless you lived exclusively on large, fatty, highly contaminated fish, you are unlikely to get enough of the material to cause any ill effects.

Academic Council approves amendments

By JIM SMITH State News Staff Writer

Academic Council ended its first meeting of the term Tuesday by approving five Student Council supported bylaw amendments.

Other issues discussed included degree requirements, graduate student representation on Academic Council and ports tickets to, among others, legislators.

The longest debate occurred over a bylaw change, which while emphasizing the widest possible university representation, relaxed the requirement for graduate student selection to Academic Council.

Previously, selection had been limited to one representative per college. The new bylaw change allows for multiple college selections as long as student appointments are from different departments.

Questions were raised by faculty representatives regarding a change in requirements for a nursing degree recommended by the University Committee on Curriculum (UCC).

While not specifically questioning the nursing degree changes under discussion, University College Acting Dean Willard G. Warrington request ed a future Council review of course substitutions.

John A. Fuzak, Athletic Council, was quizzed on price increases for faculty season tickets, the use of student fees for athletics and the issuing of complimentary tickets to sports

Fuzak, responding to an inquiry by student Denise A. Gordon, steering committee representative, confirmed complimentary tickets were given to legislators, among others. He emphasized a service charge was levied which brought ticket prices above those charged to students.

Fuzak, in response to a question raised by chemistry rofessor H. Horne, noted the Athletic Council had approved an increase in faculty season

MSU President Cllifton R. Wharton, Jr. assisted Fuzak in explaining to graduate student Jeffrey Friedle, steering committee member, that the level of student fees used for athletics had not increased over the Wharton said athletic fees were once collected separately but are now simply disbursed from the general fund.

Wharton also announced that "bumper number" of students, 43,937, had enrolled at MSU this year and predicted the final figure would go above 44,000 - a 400-500 student increase over last yes.

MSU Provost Clarence L. Winder, in describing the 1977-78 Academic Agenda, recommended greater attention to affirmative action and the improvement of recruiting, admitting and retaining of students and faculty.

Smydra to hold on-campus office hours

In keeping with his campaign romises, Trustee Michael Smydra, D-Lansing, will begin holding on-campus office hours Friday.

Smydra, who was elected to the board in 1976, campaigned heavily on issues of student concern, including trustee accessibility. He has been under fire recently for his move to South Bend, Ind., to enroll in a joint master of business and law degree program. South Bend is about two-and-one-half hours by car from MSU.

The trustee said he will be available to anyone who wants to see him about anything concerning MSU and will handle visitors on a first-come, first-serve basis. He emphasized that all visits would be kept confidential.

"I'm not sure whether there's a need to hold office hours, but one way to find out is to try,' Smydra said.

Lansing council continues fight; council divided, and for the past week caused heated discussions during its public meetings. Last Friday, when confronted with the problem of no funds to hire a private attorney to represent the city, council member Lucile Belen said she would come through with her personal funds if needed.

Although it might cost Belen, a florist, as much as $2,400 of her own money, and her winter vacation, she said at the special council meeting that the cause is important enough. The city council has $3,000 in funds to hire outside legal counseling. However $2,400 has already been used this year. At Monday's city council meeting the issue of the Poxson Building came up again when Blair tried to get temporary stop sign at the corner of Stonewood and Hillgate.

Adado accused Blair of raping the committee system because the Public Safety committee, which Adado heads, recommended no sign be in-Adado said Blair's action was similar to when Adado pulled the Poxson Building out of the Building and Property committee and put it before the city council for action.

"It just amazes me-when I do it (pull an issue out of committee), it is for political rea-sons," Adado said during the meeting. "When they do it, it is for some other reason.

Monday:
The city recovered the 100 block of Michigan Ave. for $496,000 from Indiana Mortgage Co., which had held the mortgage on the property for over a year.

The city council will now look for a developer for the property. But to sell it, the city council has to follow a federally approved urban development plan that calls for a hotel convention center to be built

The council agreed to transfer funds of $100,000 for the purchase of a new police heli-

NBC cancels Pryor show

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC-TV has confirmed it is cancelling the controversial Richard Prvor Show and The Sanford Arms.

NBC said Pryor's show will be replaced after airing the third week in October. The Man From Atlantis, an action-adventure series that began the season on Thursdays at 9 p.m., will fill the slot, 8-9 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning Oct. 18.

The last Pryor show in the current run will be seen at 9 p.m. Oct. 20, NBC said. The network noted Pryor has a long-term contract.

Progress in Africa comes in inches. But even inches ad up: 2,000 wells in drought-stricken Sahara. Grain losses cut from 33 percent to 3 percent. Second school students better prepared to pass the difficult state exams. Over the past years, Peace Corps Volunteers have proved that they have a lot to offer in the areas of education, agriculture, nutrition, engineering, to mention only a few. And they get back even more than they give...

Peace Corps/Africa is alive and well...come to the African Studies Center and let tell you more--room 106, International Center, 353-1700.

The Evelyn Wood challenge:

Bring the toughest textbook or reading material you own to tonight's Free Speed Reading Lesson and we'll show you how to read it faster, with comprehension!

If you're like most people, you're probably skeptical about our ability to make Speed Reading work for you.

O.K. Tonight we'd like the opportunity to prove, as we have to millions, that you can read faster with comprehension.

In fact, we challenge you . . . challenge you to come to tonight's Free Speed Reading Lesson armed with the toughest textbook or reading material you own.

We'll show you how to read faster, with comprehension. And, remember, we're not using our materials . . . books that you may feel are too easy . . . we're using yours . . . the toughest you can find!

If you're open minded and want to improve your reading ability, we challenge you . . . challenge you to begin tonight, to make reading work for you!

Schedule of Free Mini-Lessons October 3 thru 8 Monday - Friday
