AT LEAST 100 CASUALTIES

Rhodesians bomb Zambia

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Rhodesian warplanes defiantly ignoring British efforts to build up Zambia's air defenses staged a lightning bombing run Thursday on a black nationalist position outside this capital city, reportedly inflicting at least 100 casualties.

The Rhodesian military said the target was a black Zimbabwean guerrilla camp. The Zambian government contended it was a refugee children's camp, but at least one independent source disputed this.

It was the Rhodesians' first cross-border strike into Zambia since airborne raiders attacked a dozen black guerrilla camps two weeks ago, killing a reported 1,500 insurgents. Since then Britain has airlifted ground-to-air missiles, radar networks and anti-aircraft batteries to Zambia, a former colony, in an obvious effort to ward off further Rhodesian air attacks.

The Carter administration quickly denounced the cross-border sally, as it did after the Oct. 19-21 raids. In Washington, State Department spokesperson Kenneth Brown called the latest attack a "further unwarranted and deplorable escalation of the Rhodesian war."

"Such actions can only add to the tensions, bitterness and distrust among the parties and make it more difficult to achieve a settlement that will end the fighting and bloodshed," he said.

The raided camp was about 10 miles west of the capital. Observers in Lusaka could hear the explosions and see columns of smoke rising in the sky during the attack.

In London, Foreign Secretary David Owen, speaking to the House of Commons, expressed "grave concern" over the raid and added, "This incident again striking deep into Zambia can only make more difficult the achievement of a negotiated settlement for which we continue to strive, particularly if as some early reports suggest, it involves casualties among unarmed civilians and even children."

Owen told the Commons that Britain would send a total of $65 million in aid to Zambia. That includes the already-airlifted military equipment, mining development funds, and an advance payment of $40 million for Zambian copper to be delivered in 1980.

Apparently the sophisticated new British equipment was not put into action Thursday. A British Embassy spokesperson here said part of the aid program would be the assignment of British technicians to teach Zambians how to operate the weapons.

Red Cross ambulances and private cars ferried casualties into Lusaka hospitals. One Lusaka medical source said about 100 casualties, described as "soldiers," were brought into the main Lusaka hospital. It was not clear whether they were dead or wounded, or whether they were Zimbabwean guerrillas or Zambian troops.

The Rhodesian military issued a communique in Salisbury saying all its planes returned safely after the raid. An hour before the attack was announced in Salisbury, that city's residents heard three Hawker-Hunter jet fighters fly overhead.

A Zambian government statement said the raiders bombed a refugee camp for Zimbabwean children. But a Red Cross official who visited the two known black Zimbabwean refugee camps on the outskirts of Lusaka reported that neither had been hit.

Rhodesian military sources in Salisbury identified the camp as "Victoria," a guerrilla base used by fighters of Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African People's Union, which is fighting a six-year-old war inside Zimbabwe to topple the Salisbury government. In another conflicting report, ZAPU sources in Lusaka said the camp was named "Victory" and housed as many as 10,000 women, babies and girls.

The Rhodesian sources said the Victoria camp was some distance from Victoria.

The Salisbury communique said the raid was carried out with "pinpoint accuracy" and was ordered "as a result of information received from captured terrorists."

The war in Zimbabwe has escalated sharply since Prime Minister Ian Smith last March reached a settlement with three internally based black moderate leaders for a transition to black-majority rule. Nkomo and his Patriotic Front ally, Mozambique-based guerrilla chief Robert Mugabe, have denounced the settlement as a sell-out to white minority interests.

Nkomo and Mugabe have an estimated 25,000 trained guerrillas in camps in black states bordering Zimbabwe. An additional 8,000 guerrillas are believed by Rhodesian intelligence sources to be operating inside the country.

After the Oct. 19-21 raids into Zambia, Nkomo vowed he would not take part in all-party peace talks with Smith, a proposal being pushed by the United States

'U' College phase-out causes some concern

By CATHERINE RAFTREY

Although some faculty members are optimistic concerning proposed plans to phase out University College, many are concerned as to what the changes will mean to MSU.

Henry Silverman, chairperson of the American Thought and Language department, said he was disappointed that he was not consulted before the decision was made.

"This was certainly a blow to our academic government system," he said. "I would have preferred we had the opportunity to give our point of view."

"I feel this change was a mistake on the part of the provost," he said.

However, Silverman added that the test of the program will be in the leadership it receives.

"One of the first steps will be in the search and selection for the new dean of Arts and Letters," he said.

He also said he was concerned that the Humanities and ATL departments have an active role in this selection.

"I am disgusted at the secrecy that surrounded the announcement," said Franklin D. Platt, chairperson of the humanities department.

"One cannot help but admire the surgical neatness of the reorganizational plan," he added.

Platt said he "despised the lack of trust" connected with the decision. But, he said he believed that with good leadership and patience, the departments could work toward a new structure that would benefit the University in the long run.

"I don't agree with the provost that the change will help enhance general education," said Matthew H. Epstein, professor of social science.

Treasurer for RHA announces resignation

By JENNIFER DIXON
State News Staff Writer

Residence Halls Association treasurer Scott Denison announced his resignation at the RHA meeting Wednesday night.

Denison said when he took the position as treasurer he would step down if there were any problems with his performance.

"There have been problems," Denison said.

His resignation is effective Dec. 31 or until a replacement is found.

Denison received a letter from RHA president Tim Van Antwerp and vice president Mike Zimmer Oct. 23, stating their concerns with Denison's performance.

"It was a very personal thing between Mike, Scott and I," Van Antwerp said, "but not personal reasons. It wasn't a do-or-die letter. Scott made the decision to resign."

His resignation was approved by the RHA representatives.

Denison told the representatives, "I honestly thought I was doing my job."

He explained there was a misunderstanding of expectations and performance and a "Big communications gap."

"They just never saw me working," Denison said.

The bottle bill law, which goes into effect Nov. 20, was also discussed at the meeting. After that date all beverage cans will be returnable.

Although the details have not been worked out, there will be six locations on campus where students can return any carbonated beverage can sold on campus for 10 cents. The return stations will be open from 7 to 11 p.m.

The Union Building, International Center, Brody Complex, Synder-Phillips, Wilson and Holmes Halls are designated as can-return centers.

The Assembly also discussed The Lord of the Rings which will be shown at the Campus Theatre Nov. 14 at 9 p.m. United Artists are sponsoring the invitation-only screening and giving RHA 600 double tickets.

Tickets are free and will be rationed according to residence hall size.

VOTER MANDATE NOV. 7

Dayton Hudson nears resolution

By JANET HALFMANN
State News Staff Writer

City of East Lansing Proposition No. 1 is the last item on this year's lengthy election ballot.

Voters will answer the question, "Do you approve of the adoption of Ordinance 400 which would permit the construction of a regional shopping mall by Dayton-Hudson Properties at the corner of Lake Lansing Road and U.S. 127 within the City of East Lansing?"

A "yes" vote will mean the Dayton Hudson can proceed in constructing a mall on the proposed site, said city planner Brad Pryce. It will also mean that Citizens for a Livable Community, an anti-mall group, will no longer pursue the zoning issue, he added.

A "no" vote will mean Dayton Hudson won't build the mall on the proposed site and City Council will change the B-2 business zoning to another classification.

The land-use question ended up on the ballot as the result of a petition signed by 7,000 residents.

City Council approved the rezoning of 86 of the 200 acres owned by Dayton Hudson in the northwest corner of the city from agricultural to business in a 3-2 vote in August, 1977.

Dayton Hudson proposes to build a 510,000 square foot, two-story regional center with two anchor department stores, according to the site plan approved by the city.

J.C. Penney's and J.L. Hudson's, would

The shopping center, parking lot, and landscaping would cover 46 acres.

Two additional phases of development are planned by Dayton Hudson around 1985, according to its updated impact study.

Phase two would include an expansion of the shopping center with the addition of a 150,000 square foot department store and 50,000 square feet of mall space. "The Cedars" would then be slightly larger than the Lansing Mall, including the new Hudson's which will open there in 1979.

Phase Two also projects a 100,000 square foot convenience commercial center, 10.8

acres of other commercial uses, and nine acres of additional parking space.

Phase three would consist of a 200,000 square foot office building.

Any expansion or development included in Phases two and three would have to be approved by the city. Such approval is usually given if a project is of good quality design and the land space can accommodate it adequately, Pryce said.

Additional commercial development would front on the Dayton Hudson parking lot rather than adjacent roads, said Peter Hutchinson, director of Dayton Hudson Properties.

EACH CHARGES DISTORTION, COVER-UP

Milliken-Fitzgerald debate heated

By ANNE MARIE BIONDO
State News Staff Writer

DETROIT — Political bickering dominated the third debate between Gov. William G. Milliken and state Sen. William B. Fitzgerald Wednesday night when each candidate jumped at the chance to tell voters the "truth" about the issues.

In a debate taped by WXYZ-TV Channel 7, the two gubernatorial candidates accused each other of distorting and covering up facts about such issues as PBB, mental health and the economy of the state.

The debate will be aired statewide Sunday at 5 p.m. on WILX-TV Channel 10, Lansing.

Fitzgerald began the hour-long session by saying Milliken's leadership has been "pleasant, but it hasn't been aggressive."

In his characteristic mild-mannered style, Milliken said "the only thing Fitzgerald hasn't attacked me personally on is the snow storm of last year."

But before the debate was over, Fitzgerald found fault with the way Milliken handled the blizzard emergency that paralyzed the state for several days in January.

Saying that Milliken "knew the storm was coming," Fitzgerald accused the governor of waiting 24 hours before notifying federal authorities for emergency aid.

"Now he's blamed me for that too,"

Milliken said with a shrug.

On the issue of PBB, Fitzgerald said he does not blame Milliken personally, but his administration "dealt with it as an issue of economics, not as one of public health."

"The governor empaneled a group of scientists who suggested reducing the (legal) levels of PBB (in cattle)," Fitzgerald said.

Calling his opponent's statement "typical of the distortion," Milliken said Fitzgerald has been continually attempting to "install fear that is not justified by facts."

"I fought Sen. Fitzgerald for lower tolerance levels," Milliken said. He added that the state Senate delayed action on PBB for "13 long months," during the period Fitzgerald was Senate Majority Leader.

FLINT — President Jimmy Carter boosted the Democratic slate Thursday when he attended a "get out the vote" rally here to praise statewide candidates.

Speaking to a capacity crowd of 5,500 people in the Industrial Mutual Association auditorium, Carter threw his support to U.S. Senate candidate Carl Levin and gubernatorial hopeful William B. Fitzgerald.

Carter also plugged his new anti-inflation program, stressing the need for strong leadership to make it work.

"Fighting inflation has not been an easy job," he said. "It requires the co-operation of elected leadership. Levin's opponent has already discounted the effort to fight inflation."

He called Levin a "senator who will help me help you fight inflation." "I am going to breathe a sigh of relief when Carl Levin comes to Washington as your new U.S. senator," he said.

He said a strong relationship is needed between state administrations and Washington, with strong leadership that will "work hard to bring down inflation." "Fitzgerald has the kind of leadership we need," he said. "He's raised legitimate issues about public health problems and is a courageous leader."

Carter said since he has been president the $66 billion deficit he "inherited" has been cut by more than $25 billion. He added that he is working on a federal budget now that will cut the current deficit in half.

"We're looking forward in the future to having a balanced budget in the country," he said.

He also mentioned the Civil Service reform as an accomplishment which he said will reward the dedicated public servant and discharge the others.

Carter told the cheering crowd that they have a responsibility to their state and country.

"It's time for you to make a decision," he said. "Don't leave all the responsibilities to me or to those who seek public office, share it."

Saying he was worried that two-thirds of the people will not vote next week, Carter urged the crowd to become "campaign managers for the Democratic ticket."

"If you don't vote Tuesday, then by default you have let your nation down," he said.

parents, Fitzgerald admitted the boy had died in 1970.

Milliken said Fitzgerald has been absent "45 percent of the time when the Legislature was voting on funding for mental health."

"He's hardly qualified to talk about this with such conviction," Milliken said.

Milliken told reporters after the debate that he does "recall some incidents (of death in mental health institutes) a number of years ago," but does not recall that specific incident.

Saying that he will hold Fitzgerald "accountable for that charge," Milliken said he would not comment further until "more facts" are available.

Gas fire kills 52 in truck-stop area

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A natural-gas pipeline ruptured and sent a huge fireball roaring through a crossroads truck-stop area in southern Mexico late Wednesday, killing 52 persons, officials of the national petroleum company Pemex reported.

Pemex spokesman Miguel Tomasini said 21 other persons were hospitalized with burns.

He said the pipe, the major line linking Pemex fields near Vera Cruz with Mexico

City, was leaking gas that burst into flames when it reached the crossroads area.

The Tabasco state police chief, Capt. Jose Serna Garcia, said the flames destroyed a group of about a dozen small restaurants and taco stands that served bus and truck drivers at the crossroads stop, which is about 360 miles southeast of Mexico City and 48 miles west of the Tabasco state capital, Villahermosa, in Mexico's richest petroleum-producing region.

Striking Iranians ignore work order

TEHRAN (UPI) — Striking oil workers Thursday balked at a government order to resume work in southern Iran oilfields while tons of commercial and passenger cargo remained loaded on Iran Air planes grounded by a walkout.

Houshang Ansary, chairperson of the state-run National Iranian Oil Company, flew to the strike-bound oilfields for another round of talks with the strikers who demand concessions from the shah newspapers reported.

Officials threaten to prosecute the strikers had no effect. Oil workers trickled into the idled refineries and production centers but did not work.

The spiritual leader of the strikers said in an interview Wednesday that if the work stoppages do not win concessions from the government, he would form his own army.

If the government does not grant our demands, we may form our own army and fight the government," Ayatollah Kazem Shariatmadari told the Pars news agency from his headquarters in the holy city of Qom, 80 miles south of Tehran.

Cosmonauts end longest space mission

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet Soyuz 29 cosmonauts ended their 139-day mission in space — the longest in history — Thursday with a safe return to Earth, the official Soviet news agency Tass said.

Tass reported that cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalenok and Alexander Ivanchenkov made a soft landing in the recovery zone in Soviet Central Asia today.

Kovalenok and Ivanchenkov, who were launched into orbit at 2:17 p.m. EDT on June 15, set a new world manned spaceflight endurance record in the course of their four and a half month space mission aboard the Salyut 6 space lab.

Kovalenok and Ivanchenkov broke the world manned spaceflight endurance record of 96 days, 10 hours set by two of their Soviet colleagues earlier this year.

Grandmothers crusade for tax breaks

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — Grandmothers too pay for their children's broken marriages, and a group of them is organizing a crusade about it. They want tax breaks for the trouble they take with their grandchildren, and guaranteed rights to see them.

The crusaders are not numerous — yet. But when a dozen grandmothers held an organizational meeting in this suburb of Boston, they took a name as ambitious as it was unpronounceable: NOCOGAPS, the National Organization of Concerned Grandparents — Grandchildren Affected by Parental Separation.

The group says situations such as these are becoming all too common:

• A son gets a divorce settlement which straps him financially. He brings home his young children for grandma and grandpa to raise — just at the time the older folks are contemplating a future free of youngsters. The oldsters say that calls for tax breaks.

• An ex-daughter-in-law takes the grandchildren to a new home, barred to the paternal grandparents. In that case the grandmothers want assurances they can see the children.

Grandmother Doris Thaler Rosen, 65, who organized NOCOGAPS, says other grandparents are ignored in divorce.

She says the organization grew out of her own problems, and those of her other friends and Belmont neighbors.

Carter signs major education legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has signed major education bills giving another 2 million young people access to college grants and loans and providing a $50 billion federal boost for grammar and high school children.

The college bill is specifically aimed at providing grants for an additional 1.5 million students from middle-income families that bring home $15,000 to $25,000 a year. And it paves the way to federally backed loans for another 457,000 students from even higher-income families.

The second bill — a $50 billion, five-year extension of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act — includes a new program to beef up basic reading, writing and math skills among students.

It also orders school boards to consult parents before giving psychiatric tests to children.

Corporations face fixed meter pricing charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two corporate giants — Rockwell International Corp. and Textron Inc. — face charges they conspired to fix prices on millions of gas meters sold throughout the country from 1973 to 1977.

The Singer Co. also was alleged to have taken part in the conspiracy, but it was not named in the indictment handed up by a federal grand jury in Philadelphia Wednesday.

Justice Department officials said Singer was given lenient treatment because it volunteered evidence that led to the antitrust investigation.

The three companies were said to have sold about 5.9 million gas meters for $231 million during the period of the alleged conspiracy, accounting for about 98 percent of the gas meters made and sold in the United States.

REPORTS REMAIN UNCONFIRMED

Vietnam, China in border clash

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam said Thursday its forces repulsed two separate attacks by hundreds of Chinese troops who crossed into northern Vietnam and killed or wounded many Vietnamese soldiers.

A Voice of Vietnam broadcast from Hanoi said thousands of Chinese reinforcements were dispatched to the border area on the Chinese side.

It described the situation as "critical" and said the Foreign Ministry condemned the alleged border violations as "criminal acts."

Western sources in Bangkok said tension along the frontier has mounted in recent weeks, but speculated that a full-scale conflict was unlikely. They also noted that official Chinese media have not reported much on the border situation.

The quarrel was sparked earlier this year by Chinese accusations that Vietnam was mistreating its ethnic Chinese population. The situation worsened as about 160,000 of the Chinese made their way to China. Beneath this, most analysts see China's anger at Vietnam's close ties to the Soviet Union and Vietnam's ongoing border war with Cambodia, a Chinese ally.

The official Vietnamese broadcasts claimed that a large number of Chinese troops penetrated the Trung Khanh district of Cao Lang Province on Wednesday. A later broadcast said hundreds of Chinese soldiers crossed into Cao Loc district, near the site of the earlier incident, opened fire and set up observation posts before being driven away by Vietnamese militia Wednesday night.

The radio said many Vietnamese were killed and wounded at Trung Khanh. It gave no casualties for the Cao Loc fighting. There was no independent confirmation of the fighting. The area of conflict is about 140 miles northeast of Hanoi, the Vietnamese capital.

Tanzanian president vows military reprisal

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — President Julius K. Nyerere vowed on Thursday that his army will hit back hard at the "barbarian" Ida Amin, whose Ugandan invasion force reportedly captured a strategic bridge and tightened its grip on a chunk of territory in northern Tanzania.

Nyerere called on his forces to drive "this snake from our house."

Government sources said Tanzania was planning a counter-attack aimed not only at driving the invaders back across the border but also at destroying the core of Ugandan President Amin's military strength. They said the government was considering a general mobilization to mount the offensive.

There were no new battle reports here, but Western diplomatic sources in Nairobi, Kenya, quoted Tanzanian officials as saying the Ugandans were in control of the important Taka Bridge over the Kagera River and were at the outskirts of the crossroads town of Kyaka, at the southern end of the bridge.

Uganda said Wednesday that its troops, who invaded Tanzania last Monday, seized a 710-square-mile area of swamp and scrub land south of the Ugandan-Tanzanian border and annexed it to Uganda.

Progress in talks reported by Begin

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin embraced President Carter at a hastily scheduled meeting Thursday and announced "real progress" had been made in two and one-half hours of talks with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on the Israeli-Egyptian peace talks.

Vance and Begin joined Carter at an East Side townhouse following the president's campaign appearance in the Wall Street area on behalf of Gov. Hugh Carey.

"Mr. President: We've made real progress," Begin said in greeting Carter at the home of Democratic fund-raiser Arthur Krim.

Meanwhile, sources in Washington said the treaty between Egypt and Israel was "almost ready" for another round of study by officials in Jerusalem and Cairo.

Negotiators for both sides agreed on a draft treaty two weeks ago, only to have their governments ask for changes.

Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman planned to leave for Israel Thursday night to brief the Israeli cabinet on developments, the sources said.

Carter and Begin had said as late as midmorning Thursday they had no plans to talk face-to-face during their overlapping visit to New York City. Some published reports said Carter was "snubbing" Begin because of their disagreement over Israeli plans to expand settlements on the West Bank.

Illegal payments charged at ITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission charged Thursday that International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. made millions of dollars in "illegal, improper, corrupt and questionable payments" to foreign government and business officials from 1970 to 1976.

In a new disclosure of widespread attempts by an American corporation to buy influence overseas, the SEC detailed complaints against ITT in nine countries.

In a previously sealed complaint ordered released by a federal judge Thursday, the agency cited ITT's operations in Indonesia, Iran, the Philippines, Algeria, Nigeria, Mexico, Italy, Turkey and Chile.

The SEC said the questionable payments resulted in hundreds of millions of dollars of business for the giant international corporation.

The gains were concealed through "false and fictitious entries" made on the books of ITT and its subsidiaries and affiliates in Belgium and West Germany.

In Chile alone, ITT dished out at least $400,000 between 1970 and 1972 to Chilean politicians.

Sweetener removed due to 'public fear'

CHICAGO (AP) — The Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co. said Thursday that it has removed the natural sweetener xylitol from its Orbit chewing gum because of what it called unwarranted public fears that the substance might cause cancer.

William Hagenagh, Wrigley vice president and treasurer, said that sales of the chewing gum have dropped since a controversial study in England last November implicated xylitol in causing bladder cancer in experimental animals.

Hagenagh said the public's fear is unwarranted and expressed particular regret that xylitol had to be removed because, he said, a number of studies have found it to be helpful in reducing tooth decay, in children by as much as 90 percent.

He said Orbit has been reformulated because "we don't want to risk doing anything dangerous."

	Drinking age	Assessment testing	Tax proposals	Birth control	Main- streaming
Dade- D	Opposes Proposal D. Present age of 19 is sufficient, schools must find other ways to keep alcohol out.	Is one solution to fight deficiencies, more programs must be devised to help students with learning difficulties.	All a farce, promise less taxes and do opposite.	Strongly favors it, students must be aware, sees increase in teen pregnancy as a real problem.	Should be encouraged, stresses more pronounced difference when separating different types of students.
Dumouchelle- R	Strongly against, is member of the state board to oppose legislation raising drinking age, argues 20-year old son who served in army old enough to drink.	Believes assessment testing is worth while if properly used, in favor of instituting more testing programs before grade 12.	Supports Headlee tax limitation plan, does not agree with voucher plan, very much against Tisch tax cut.	Delicate religious and moral issue, best taught in home, schools second best, care in finding qualified teachers to instruct such classes.	Believes in mainstreaming, teachers must be specially trained, would help children adjust later on in society, special programs must be instituted for all students.
Kanoyton- R	In favor of proposal, thinks it is a way to keep alcohol out of the high schools. "Most 21-year olds do not hang around with high school students."	Believes assessment testing is a good way to determine students' strengths and weaknesses, important to do testing at every grade level and correct problems prior to graduation day.	Voucher a disaster for public education. Places entire system in chaos. Tisch obviously detrimental, Headlee is least disastrous of all.	Should be taught in schools, but parents must have choice in the matter, believes it could destroy society by having children mothering and fathering.	Strongly in favor, classroom should be mixture of society, students must be sensitized to one another.
Miller- D	No need to raise drinking age to 21, 19-year olds responsible enough.	Very little proof to show it does any good, sometimes only a reflection on the teacher. Would be OK to continue testing only if used to devise better programs for students.	Voucher potentiality destructive to both public and private schools, specialized schools should be self supportive. Tisch and Headlee both hoaxes on the taxpayers.	Should be part of regular sex education classes, can be taught in a healthy way without frightening or creating problems in the community.	Strongly supports, children must be exposed to variety of other people, is, as all, a part of education.

Malcolm Gray Dade, Jr. believes the City of Detroit needs representation on the State Board of Education.

Dade, who has served as an executive assistant to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young since 1974, emphasizes the importance of both parents and students working together to reach an educational "plateau."

He stands firmly on the belief that every measure should be taken to ensure that students receive the best possible education.

The 47-year-old Democrat believes children with mental and physical handicaps should be exposed to a standard classroom.

Labeling it "the ultimate tool available in collective bargaining," Dade said teachers should be allowed to strike. He said it is one privilege which should not be taken away.

Malcolm Gray Dade, Jr.

Dade earned his bachelor's degree at Wayne State University. He is a deputy chairperson of the Michigan Democratic Party, and served as special assistant to the late U.S. Senator Phillip A. Hart.

Barbara Dumouchelle strongly opposes raising the drinking age to 21 and has campaigned vigorously in efforts to defeat the proposal.

Serving as a member of the Board of the Michigan Committee For The Age Of Responsibility, which was formed to defeat Proposal D, the 46-year-old incumbent believes the proposal is not the answer to eliminating drinking problems in high schools.

Dumouchelle, a former Lansing elementary school teacher, has served six years on the State Board of Education after being appointed to fill a vacancy. She earned a bachelor's degree at Siena Heights College and did graduate work at MSU. Presently serving as an area vice president for the National Association of State Boards of Education, Dumouchelle has also been a delegate to state GOP conventions for 18 years.

Silverenia Q. Kanoyton is the first black woman ever nominated for a statewide office by the Republican Party in Michigan.

The 30-year-old deputy director of the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation said she believes The State Board of Education needs youthful leadership.

She is strongly convinced the schools must "return to the basics."

"We have gotten so many programs in education at this point that we're not really doing a good job anymore," Kanoyton said.

"If we can produce students that graduate, who are able to read, write, add, subtract, multiply, divide, speak and are able to solve science problems, we will have done a really magnificent job," Kanoyton said.

Kanoyton created a development center for high school teachers at Wayne State University. She also organized a training program on enforcement of affirmative action programs for the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Annetta Miller has received across the board endorsements from every major educational group in Michigan.

Elected to the State Board of Education in 1970, the 57-year-old Democrat has served as vice president for eight years.

She said assessment testing is often used incorrectly and said there is very little proof to show it makes a difference in a student's progress.

She supports mainstreaming, explaining that it is necessary for children who are gifted as well as those with a handicap to be exposed to others. Miller said all children could benefit from such exposure.

A registered nurse, Miller is a senior at Wayne State University majoring in art history. She was a delegate to the 1972 Democratic National Convention and is an honorary lifetime member of the Michigan Education Association.

Proposal D must be defeated—vote No

Proposal D has been beaten to death on this page during the past few weeks. We came out strongly opposed to this proposal from the start. We have urged various student groups to take similar stands. Individuals have written columns on the subject and readers have penned numerous letters and viewpoints. We have tried to print as many possible, figuring not enough could be said on the issue.

At this point it is up to the voters — especially the student voter. Drinking is not a right, it is a privilege that is granted under the right of being an adult. If it was a genuine right, it would be impossible to take it away. But since it is merely a privilege, the Coalition for 21 has a very good chance of denying that privilege to many young adults. We cannot let this happen — D must be defeated.

The statistics used by the Coalition have proven to be insufficient. Eighteen to 21-year-olds have not demonstrated a preponderance for auto fatalities any more than other age groups. We question whether or not alcohol use in high schools really has increased since lowering the age of consent to 18. Alcohol always has and always will be a problem of young adults as long as parents and school officials fail to provide proper education. However, Proposal D merely ignores the disease rather than treating its symptoms.

If Proposal D is not defeated, East Lansing and similar college towns could face financial ruin, or at least a significant portion of those economies. The tax revenues generated by bars and alcohol retailers, via sales taxes, property taxes, and liquor taxes would all be gone.

Enforcement of such a law would be patently impossible in this town and campus. Would DPS be expected to spot-check residence hall rooms to arrest these new criminals? Would older fraternity brothers face fines for giving younger members a sip of beer? Would parents face contributing to delinquency charges for serving wine at the dinner table? The proposal is clearly a ridiculous proposition and deserves to be laughed off. But it, unfortunately, cannot be. The Coalition for 21 is serious in their drive to reinstate prohibition in this state and we must be just as serious in our drive to defeat this proposal.

We strongly urge voters to vote No on Proposal D.

State needs a viable constitution—Yes on A

We feel Proposal A is the most important issue on the November ballot. Considering the potential ramifications of the tax proposals and Proposal D, it is imperative that Proposal A be accepted. We strongly urge a yes vote on this proposal.

The constitution we are presently living under was penned in 1963 by a Republican-dominated convention. When it was written, it included a provision that said it would be up for review in 1978. Here it is, 1978, and we must commend the foresight of the 1963 Republicans because the constitution is sorely in need of revamping.

Taxes are the focus of most Michigan citizens, and rightly so. They unfairly eat into everyone's income — especially property taxes. All three tax proposals are a venting of this justifiable outrage, but none of the three will do anything to pacify this rage. A new constitution, however, could be written to take into account the mood of the people, both conservative and liberal. School funding can be made by other means than property taxes. An equitable system of income taxing can be instituted, such as a graduated income tax.

Proposal D, if passed, could be negated at a constitutional convention by more sober-minded delegates who would take into account the age of consent — 18. Opponents of the convention say that emotionally charged issues such as abortion, capital punishment and busing would dominate the debates — but that is just where such issues should be settled.

We urge all voters who seriously consider issues, be they Republican or Democrat, to vote yes on Proposal A. Despite the fact Democrats will have a numerical majority in the convention, there is no guarantee that what is produced would be a triumph for liberality. Considering the conservative swing of many Democrats, what would be produced would be something all the people of this state could live with. Give it a chance — vote Yes on Proposal A.

Proposal B ignores rehabilitation—No

Crime is obviously a problem in this state, as it is in every state in this country. L. Brooks Patterson's brainchild — Proposal B — is an attempt to deal with this pervasive problem. But what he proposes is as reactionary as he is. Proposal B must be voted down for the sake of those few criminals who are genuinely rehabilitated from their criminality.

Opponents of this proposal, including most of the state's judges and correction officers, say it would remove any incentive for felons to behave while imprisoned. We must agree. If a felon knows that it wouldn't do any good to follow the straight and narrow — a sentence will not be reduced under any circumstances — then what is the point of doing as they're told? If anything, passage of this proposal would breed resentment among imprisoned individuals, causing them to be even more of a danger to the state's citizens.

Michigan's jails are already filled to the brink, and in some cases severely overcrowded. Passage of Proposal B would keep people behind bars longer than is sometimes necessary, further contributing to overcrowded conditions. As far as violent and habitual criminals are concerned, state parole boards already have the power to keep hardened criminals behind bars for their full sentences. Parole is not an automatic phenomenon — it is only granted when it is deserved.

Unfortunately, when people speak strenuously against such proposals as B, they are considered to be soft on crime. Actually, nothing could be further from the truth. We are appalled at violent crime and violent criminals as L. Brooks Patterson. And we strongly endorse stiff mandatory sentences to those who are convicted of such crimes. We do, however, recognize some people make mistakes, and further, we recognize some people realize they make mistakes and vow never to make those kinds of mistakes again. It is for those people that we urge voters to set aside their justifiable anger and vote No on Proposal B.

Proposal K presumes guilt—vote No on K

Proposal K, if passed, would undoubtedly be ruled unconstitutional for denying reasonable bail to people charged with crimes. Avoid this unnecessary litigation and vote NO on Proposal K.

As with Proposal B, it is unfortunate that people who endorse defeat of this proposal are labeled as being soft on crime. We are not soft on crime, but we do believe in constitutionally guaranteed rights. If Proposal K is passed, people charged with certain crimes would have to sit in jail whether they are guilty or innocent. The unique thing about American jurisprudence is that people are presumed innocent until proven guilty. Proposal K presumes everyone is guilty until proven innocent — everyone sits in jail.

As it is under present law, if a judge is reasonably convinced someone is in fact guilty, or is worried that freedom on bail might result in other crimes, the judge can set bail so high that it is virtually impossible to meet. This protects citizens from repeat offenders and keeps them in jail where they belong. Under K, a judge would not be able to exercise this judgment — all would go to jail.

As it is, jails are already severely overcrowded, especially at local levels where people awaiting trial would be incarcerated. K would have the effect of compounding that problem by putting everyone accused behind bars. The function of bail is to make a monetary incentive to keep people from fleeing trial. Considering the amount of most bail, it is effective. Bail should not be used as punishment, especially since it is punishment without a trial. It is arbitrary and unjust.

Habitual criminals should be given stiff sentences, they should be denied parole if they don't deserve it and they should not be allowed freedom on bail. But the state already provides such actions without passage of Proposal K.

We urge voters to vote No on Proposal K because of its unnecessary, unjust and unconstitutional nature.

Yes on M for transit

Proposal M is a ballot proposal intended to earmark up to 25 percent of the sales tax revenue from cars, auto parts and gasoline for non-highway (mass transit) programs. In addition, about 10 percent of the fuel taxes and license plate fees would be used for mass transit programs.

The need for a comprehensive mass transit program is obvious. In Detroit, the bus system, which is really the only mass transit network in the city, is usually thought of as a poor person's way to travel. In Detroit, "we all own cars."

But in other major cities in the world, including the United States, it is possible to travel through the metropolitan area without gas-guzzling automobiles. It helps the air, it helps the less-than-rich commuter, and it helps the energy situation.

Railroads have gone to shambles in this county, while they thrive in other nations. Even commuter trains from perimeters to the downtown areas are a dying breed. A "Transportation Commission" would attend to this problem.

The Legislature has balked at giving mass transit proper funding. They appropriate inadequate amounts and then point to the subsequent failures (for lack of funds) as reason to halt future funding. The last transportation bill almost died because legislators were afraid of the political ramifications of increasing spending during an election year. It earmarked some money, but not nearly enough.

The Michigan government has clung to the automobile as the primary mode of transportation, but we know the car cannot go on at its present pace if we are to solve the problems of our cities and the environment.

We strongly urge a "Yes" vote on Proposal M to take mass transit funding out of the arena of partisan politics and assure the public good.

Troopers need G, Yes

Proposal G brings out some strong emotions. It would permit state troopers to bargain collectively and submit unresolved disputes to binding arbitration. This proposal has revealed many misconceptions of these basic management/labor tools.

Collective bargaining means, simply, that troopers will be permitted to negotiate the terms of their contract as a unit, rather than just taking what the state has to give. It is a benefit enjoyed across the nation in nearly every field. Other Michigan police departments have had this tool since

Pay and benefits would probably increase with collective bargaining. This is necessary. We hold state troopers in high regard in Michigan, yet we pay them less than many local cops, whom are often subject to ridicule. State troopers deserve more than just a pat on the back — they deserve pay commensurate with their duties and their respect. This may be a way to keep good troopers, rather than economically forcing them to join local departments.

Proposal G would also require binding arbitration. Binding arbitration means unresolved labor/management disputes are solved by an unbiased arbitrator. It keeps small disputes out of the crowded courts, yet guarantees justice to all involved.

Many fear that collectivism will cause a strike threat. Under law, the state troopers are and will be prohibited from striking. And given binding arbitration, they will not have cause to strike — their grievances will be resolved in a fair and orderly manner.

Promotions under Proposal G would remain under civil service guidelines. Troopers will remain "professionals." But they will be guaranteed the basic concepts of labor justice. Vote "Yes" on G.

Rails needed—R, Yes

Proposal R would authorize the state to create a Railroad Development Authority, which would have the power to issue bonds and then make loans to railroads for redevelopment projects that would benefit national defense or state industries.

This proposal would guarantee the railroad industry be given proper funding to revitalize rail transportation. It is no secret the condition of railroads has been declining. But the railroad remains a vital part of the transportation industry.

Railroads have been caught in a vicious cycle. Declining popularity led to declining conditions, which further fueled the declining popularity. But many businesses have rediscovered the railroads as an economical form of transport.

But the railroads, caught in that cycle, have been unable to secure contracts because their roadbeds have deteriorated and their rolling stock is outdated.

This proposal would secure loans (not outright grants) to railroads. It would improve the transportation network in Michigan to the benefit of the entire economy.

We urge a "Yes" vote on Proposal R.

Yes on C for State

We support Proposal C, which would allow the state to deposit state funds in credit unions and savings and loan associations.

Under present law, the state may only deposit its funds in banks. That provision of the law was written into the constitution of 1908, long before credit unions and S & L's were around. It was retained in the Constitution of 1963, before those establishments experienced their great growth into stable businesses.

There is no reason except tradition to keep state funds out of credit unions and S & L's. There are no tremendous risks now that these organizations have matured. They are as secure as banks.

The state would benefit from the increased availability of places to deposit its money. Although there would probably be no outright competition between interest rates, it would give the state the advantage of a higher rate since credit unions and savings and loan associations are permitted by law to offer one. It may not bring about an immediate wholesale transfer of state funds, but it gives the state the option when it becomes beneficial.

No on all three tax relief hoaxes—J, E, H

Taxes stimulate emotions to the point of hatred. Mention the possibility of tax reduction, and the world will bow at your feet. At least Robert Tisch and Richard Headlee hope so.

There are three emotion-packed tax proposals on the Nov. 7 ballot. We urge all voters to use their heads, and not rely on their initial emotions, and vote "No" on all three proposals.

Proposal E, the "Headlee" amendment, attempts to limit state taxes and revenues to its current proportion of total state personal income. Proposal J, the Tisch amendment, intends to roll back property taxes. Proposal H is designed to remove property taxes as the source of school funding and establish a "voucher" system for school financing, both private and public.

The effects of any one of the three would be harmful; the effect of any combination would be disastrous.

Proposal E (you should be familiar with their letters — the names "Headlee" and "Tisch" do not appear on the ballot) claims to be a tax limitation proposal. But it is an inflexible plan that would prohibit the government from adjusting the tax and revenue structure to meet economic conditions. Essentially, it freezes the future of taxation into a pattern following today's economic conditions.

Proposal J would lower property taxes in Michigan. Unfortunately, it would increase total taxes. Property taxes are only one part of Michigan's tax revenues. It does not reduce taxes, as it claims. It only reduces one area of taxation. Local governments would be forced to make up a large portion of the difference, and there is no doubt local services would be cut in response.

Proponents of Proposal J contend it would eliminate government waste. But in eliminating programs, whole chunks, and not just the waste, will be eliminated. Total waste may go down, but so will total benefits. Proposal J will also prevent the state from participating in federal projects requiring any state funds — the money simply won't be available. Progress will suffer.

Proposal H would eliminate property tax funding of education and create "competition" between schools to vie for student vouchers. The public schools in many communities are in bad enough shape. This will make it worse. The schools will be unable to improve due to lack of funds, and unable to close down because the state is committed to providing free public education. Besides, the courts have consistently ruled such support unconstitutional.

Any combination of the three would compound the problems caused by any one. For example, private schools would have to be state-funded, but the necessary taxes could not be raised because of the limitation. These three proposals are hoaxes; not only do they not give taxpayers their money's worth, they would cause more problems than we already have.

Principle isn't real

The controversy of the Women's Lounge has come to a halt as the Anti-Discrimination Judicial Board deliberates on whether to integrate the lounge. Before the board makes its decision, I would hope they have weighed all the arguments and, most importantly, taken the real world into account.

Bruce Guthrie's complaint, under the letter of the law, is a justifiable one. I agree with him wholeheartedly on the basis of principle — everyone should and must have equal access to all University facilities.

However, principle does not rule our world. The reality that is being confronted by Guthrie's complaint is a painful one for all those who fight for equality. The truth, as we all know it, is that women are not treated equally and will not be until all women unite and demand equality. Closing the Women's Lounge will not change reality.

The Women's Lounge creates an atmosphere where women are comfortable. It is a place in the Union where women can go and be assured they will not be stared at or harassed. But, more importantly, the lounge brings women together — an opportunity not only to be with their own sex but also to talk and learn.

Keeping the lounge is much more constructive, for if women can learn from one another perhaps the unity that is so desperately needed will come about. Of course, no one is foolish enough to believe that putting women into a room will suddenly solve all the problems that now exist, but women must come together in all places to learn how to fight the painful reality.

And it is a fight — a militant education that will teach both men and women that places like the Women's Lounge should not be necessary to protect a person's safety.

The legal rationalization to integrate the lounge is sound, but why should women be forced to give up the only place on this campus that is truly the one facility set aside for them? The argument that everything uniquely for women should be taken away so they can gain equality is empty. Women have not yet gained that status and until they do, why should they have positive things taken from them?

I am a sound proponent of immediate change. However, in my too-few years it has been pointed out to me that change does not come about in a speedy fashion. It is unfortunate that I must admit real equality will be a painfully slow process, but this is the only realistic way to view the situation — as long as the fight continues.

Therefore, I find it frighteningly unfair that the lounge could be taken away from the exclusive use of women by reversing the feminist argument. Women have been forced to live under the double standard for centuries but are now being asked to give up their facilities when the standard lives on. The argument makes no sense and is hardly judicious.

When the judicial decision is made, I hope the rational legalistic argument of Guthrie is tossed aside, not because it is wrong but because it is too soon for such a move. Let women keep the Women's Lounge with the possibility that they can learn from one another. Until this University sees a real change, and women are no longer treated as persons slightly below the level of the male ego, the lounge should remain in the Union as the Women's Lounge.

'LASH' LARROWE

Let's hear it for H

I'm judging Halloween acts at Wonders Tuesday night, trying to figure out how I'm going to make a date with this unreal belly dancer, a James Madison student creeps up behind me.

"Can I see you for a minute after the contest's over, Lash?" he whispers.

"If it doesn't take too long," I whispers back. How'm I gonna make my moves, I say to myself, if I get tied down in a heavy rap with this turkey?

The lights come up and the creep's right there alongside me before I can escape into the crowd.

"What I wanted to ask you about, Lash," he says, "you being an economist and all, how do you feel about Proposal H?"

"That's the one would raise the drinking age to 21, right?" I says. "I'm all for it. I damn near got run down on my way over here by a drunken teen-ager in a Trans-Am. Anyway, I'm sick and tired of my students showing up in class smashed out of their skulls."

"You ever stop to consider," he smirks, "maybe the only way they can stand your lectures is to get wasted before they come to class?"

"That's only your opinion," I snarls, edging away from the turkey, looking around for the belly dancer, but I've lost her.

"Cool it, Lash," he says sticking to me like a leech. "You're talking about D. Proposal H is the voucher system for the elementary and secondary schools."

"I've been too busy revising my textbook to keep up with all these proposals," I says. "How would this 'voucher system' of yours work?"

"For one thing," he starts out, "it would

No more lines with D's passage

I used to enjoy going to the bars in East Lansing. It was an opportunity to catch up on recent news with friends and to relax. Unfortunately, for some time this has not been the case.

First of all, just getting into a bar around town is a feat in itself. It seems like there is always a long line, which is often made longer by the arctic-like winter East Lansing gets. Once inside, after paying a high cover charge, finding an empty seat is often impossible. If you can find a place on the wall to lean against you are lucky. Dance floors are packed, and the drinks are watered down and/or overpriced.

The solution to this situation is Proposal D. If this proposal passes on Nov. 7, the legal drinking age in Michigan will be raised to 21. The effect of this will be to end the "seller's market" that exists with East Lansing bars. At present, there are so many MSU students aged 18 to 20 over 25,000 according to the reference library that the bars have no problem packing people in and charging outrageous prices. Preventing these people from going to bars by raising the drinking age to 21 will force the bars to become more competitive in order to get customers. The long lines will be eliminated, customers will be able to find seats, and prices might come down.

With winter approaching fast, I know I don't want to stand outside for two hours in a line. I'm voting for Proposal D. If my experiences sound familiar to you, you should vote in favor of Proposal D on Nov. 7.

"I know, you're a smart man, with a dollar, Lash," he says, "you gotta be against that. Especially when the state business tax would be raised to pay for the increased cost of education. I know you yourself that's a grossly unfair tax."

"If being close with a dollar means I need to get my money's worth when I part with my coin, I plead guilty," I says sternly. "If I gettin' excellent at K-12 through your voucher system costs a damn bit more, I'm sure I and the citizens of Michigan are more than willing to pay for it."

I thought I could get to you by appealing to your pocketbook," he says, "and I see I've failed. Maybe I can get through to you with this? If tax burden increases, we used to pay for an education in a parochial school, that's a flagrant violation of the First Amendment, separation of church and state, OK. Surely you agree with me on that, Lash?"

"Whether it's constitutional or not is not for me to say," I says modestly. "That's for the U.S. Supreme Court to decide. And with the clown's Nixon puttin' there, is anybody's guess what the court will say about the voucher system."

Aerosmith: live and raunchy

By JOHN NEILSON
State News Reviewer

Alright, I admit it. I like Aerosmith. Not enough to buy every one of their albums, maybe, although I have a couple of them now. I do, however, like them enough to crank up the radio when one of their tunes comes on, and if I'm at a party where the record choice comes down to Aerosmith, Frampton, Cat Stevens, or disco... well, you get the picture.

You see, Aerosmith has always struck me as being among the least obnoxious of the "heavy" American bands of the '70s. They're rawer and less pretentious than Boston, Styx, and (urp!) Kansas; they have better songs than Ted Nugent; they don't flog the dead horse of Boogie with the Southern rockers; and they play heavy without being as vacant as Kiss, REO, and Van Halen.

In fact, this band sounds as if they're the 70's incarnation of the Rolling Stones, with Steve Tyler and Joe Perry playing the roles of a surrogate Mick and Keith team. Of course, being a good '70s band, Aerosmith has no message to speak of — they're just a guitar band with great tunes and great riffs for a whole new generation of rockers to cut their teeth on. Their sound is firmly based on Sticky Fingers/Exiles-vintage hard rock, and they're fun to listen to when you're driving around, so what more do you want?

Being that Aerosmith is a guitar band, I'd always looked forward to hearing a live album from them. Obviously a lot of other people must have felt the same way, because in an effort to "beat the bootleggers" CBS has just released the official Aerosmith Live/Bootleg. While it isn't the definitive album I had hoped for, it's far from being a disappointment, and it's an enjoyable document of the band's career.

The album starts off loud and sloppy with "Back in the Saddle," which sets the tone for much of the rest of the LP. The songs on Live/Bootleg are all raunchier than the originals, which should be a warning to anyone expecting the spit 'n polish of the album versions. The band sums up its philosophy on these matters by quoting a line to the effect that "there's nothing like a tortured Strat" — and tortured guitars don't sing, they scream.

The screaming on the first side reaches a peak on "Lord of the Thighs," which is longer and more frenzied than the original. "Toys in the Attic," which follows, is also taken at a manic pace, but unfortunately this song pales in comparison with the intensity of the album version.

The second side kicks off with a sassy "Last Child" before launching into a grinding version of "Come Together" that sounds much better than the leaden single from Stigwood's Sergeant Pepper. "Walk This Way" was recorded before a Detroit audience, and it's an infectious and snappy number. Unlike so many "heavy" bands, Aerosmith knows how to write tunes that are highly danceable, and this is one of them.

Side three of Live/Bootleg is easily the weakest. The live version of "Dream On," for example, doesn't have the impact of the hit single because of its lack of polish, and the two songs from Draw the Line deserve the same fate as that album, i.e. a quick death. Even "Mama Kin," which is the song that first got me interested in the band, fails to save the side from its tedium.

The medley of "I Ain't Got You Mother Popcorn" is the oldest material on the album, being taken from a 1973 radio broadcast of the band in their native Boston, and the addition of a sax on the latter tune helps to capture some of the funky quality of James Brown's original. "Draw the Line" sneaks through next, unannounced on the liner notes, and the LP winds up with a furious rendition of "Train Kept A Rollin'" complete with a snatch of "Strangers in the Night" to keep everyone on their toes.

Aerosmith Live/Bootleg contains no real surprises, and no masterpieces, just a vinyl record of the band's live sound. There are plenty of wild guitar forays, but no drum solos, and although Tyler's voice often reverts to a screech it doesn't grate because it's kept well down in the mix by Jack Douglas, as usual. The album even contains a lot of firecracker explosions to satisfy all those who seem to enjoy them so much.

After the failure of Draw the Line, Live/Bootleg was probably released to keep the band in circulation, and while it won't have the success of the Kiss and Frampton double LPs, it should have no problem satisfying the band's fans.

Even fair weather fans, like me.

Guitarist Kottke due

Leo Kottke, described by Rolling Stone's Cameron Crowe as "a virtuoso's virtuoso," will appear at Dooley's Monday night for two shows at 8 and 10:30 p.m.

Kottke was born on Sept. 11, 1945 in Athens, Georgia, and raised in Wyoming, Oklahoma, and Virginia. He began his career recording for the obscure Oblivion, and later Takoma, label. He gained a more commercial following when he signed with Capitol, recording seven LPs.

Kottke recently signed with Chrysalis records, the first American artist ever signed to that label. He has released two albums for Chrysalis — Leo Kottke and the most recent Burnt Lips, the latter which includes Kottke's first vocal composition in three years.

Tickets for Kottke's two performances are $7.50 in advance, and are available at Dooley's and both Recordland stores.

Ignore Reggie at your own peril!

By BILL HOLDSHIP
State News Reviewer
HEY!! YOU!! YEAH, YOU,
DAMN IT!! READ THIS RE-VIEW!!

Now that I have your attention, let me explain that I'm not trying to be obnoxious. It's just that I really want to tell you about this new album by the Reggie Knighton Band — The Reggie Knighton Band (Columbia JC 35286) — and I know from personal experience that most people would skip over a review on an unknown artist like Knighton. Besides, the unimaginative graphics on the LP's cover make it look like a record by the Michael Stanley Band or one of those other processed Velveeta rocker bands (I wouldn't buy it if I just saw it on the store racks), and no one wants to read another review of a bland band headed for the obscure graveyard, right?

This is unfortunate because the album — Knighton's second for Columbia — is extraordinarily good, and I'm really worried that no one's ever going to discover what a great record it really is. CBS seems to be putting minimal if any promotion behind it, and I've yet to see a review or article on Knighton anywhere. From the moment the LP kicks off with a sinister Keith Richard-like one chord beat, it's apparent that this band really cooks. The guitar work is superb throughout, and the backbeat hits the listener continuously. Roy Thomas Baker handles production, but — have no fear — there is nothing akin to Queen here. The production is closer to Baker's work on the Cars' LP, and there are little dadaist touches all over the place.

As great as the music is, Knighton's lyrics are what make the record truly excel. Knighton is a true madman rock eccentric and his lyrics are reminiscent of a grown-up Jonathan Richman with Lou Reed's rock 'n' roll heart (his "Highway Patrol" is Richman meets Broderick Crawford) and, at times, David Bowie circa "space invader/rock 'n' roll bitch" with a sense of humor. The latter aspect is especially evident in Knighton's two moonage daydreams — "Rock 'N Roll Alien" ("I come from planet XBI") and "UFO" ("UFO/Up in the sky/You're scaring the hell out of my family and I.") songs are back-to-back on side one. The first is a beautiful pop love ballad in the tradition of early Paul McCartney, Eric Carmen and Todd Rundgren, and it should become a single. Even a Barry Manilow fan would treasure the lovely melody of this tune. But when Knighton sings the lyrics — "I know you're thinking, baby/I'm the man you loved before/I'm not the guy you think I am/And that will always be/You'll never know he's lost in space/On a government journey/I'm a clone in love/And a clone in love/Is alone in love" — the result is hysterical.

The LP's two most brilliant

"The King and I," the other number (which isn't a tribute to Yul Brynner), is my personal favorite. When Knighton sings: "The King And I/We got so much in common/We got good taste in guns and drugs" or, better yet, "We got so much in comr on/We both shoot up our televisions," and concludes it with "We got so much in common/We both very religious men," one realizes that this is the greatest tribute to Elvis Presley yet, and it makes all the other "Ah useta stand in front of mah mirror and pretend ah was Elvis" crap obsolete.

The Reggie Knighton Band isn't a perfect LP, but I'd still rate it in the top 20 released this year. Knighton is currently touring with 10cc (the show will be at Cobo Hall Nov. 13), and hopefully this will grant him some of the exposure he needs. As Knighton sings on "The King And I": "Mama, can't you see/You'll be so proud of me/With all these similarities/ Making it should be a breeze." Let's hope so. If you love rock 'n' roll, buy this album. YEAH, YOU, DAMN IT!!

Clarinetist Elsa Ludwig-Verdehr of the MSU music faculty will give a recital at 5 p.m. Sunday in the Music Auditorium. Accompanying her will be pianist Ralph Votapek, cellist Owen Carman and french hornist Douglas Campbell. Among the works Verdehr will play is "For An Actor" a recently-premiered clarinet solo by the Israeli composer Shulamit Ran of the University of Chicago.

The world's largest and most comprehensive musical tribute to Franz Schubert opened Thursday in Detroit, presented by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Antal Dorati. The musical festival continues through Nov. 15 and commemorates the 150th anniversary of Schubert's death. The Friday concert will feature a quintet and octet by the composer, the Saturday concert presents Schubert's Quartet in D Major and the "Death and the Maiden" Quartet. Sunday's concert is a lieder recital featuring the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, Wolf and Robert Strauss.

MSU looking for fourth straight

By JOE CENTERS
State News Sports Writer

The MSU football team, which has outscored its last two opponents 104-16, and which is riding a three-game winning streak, will travel to Champaign, Ill., to play the Illinois Fighting Illini Saturday in a 2 p.m. East Lansing time contest.

They are a much better football team than they were a year ago," said Spartan coach Larry Rogers. "They're a very young football team. We're very impressed with them as a team because they're aggressive."

Illinois may be aggressive, but they're still only 1-5-2 on the season and in ninth place in the Big Ten with a 0-3-2 record. Last season, the Spartans demolished the Illini 49-20 in Spartan Stadium.

Sophomore quarterback Rich Weiss leads Illinois' attack and he "makes the offense go" according to Rogers. Weiss has completed 37 of his 67 passes this season and he has run the ball 100 times for 211 yards and one touchdown. Junior Lawrence McCullough has also seen considerable time this season as Weiss' backup.

Wayne Strader is the leading rusher for Illinois with 301 yards in 61 carries, but the offense has been very unproductive so far this season with only 71 points in its first eight games.

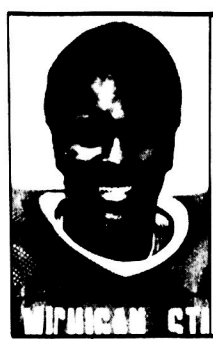

In this week's Big Ten statistics, Illinois is ranked ninth in total offense with an average of 204.4 yards per game. On the other hand, MSU is ranked first in the Big Ten in total offense, fourth in the country, with a 452.3-yard average.

The offense, as usual, will be under the control of Eddie Smith and his aerial show. Smith has passed for over 300 yards in three of his last four games; the sub-300 game was his 248-yard passing performance against Michigan, and this week he is again leading the Big Ten in passing with 99 completions for an 8.4 yard per throw average and is fifth in the nation.

Senior flanker Kirk Gibson is the leading receiver in the league with 25 receptions, and teammate Eugene Byrd and Mark Brammer are tied for third with 23 catches. One other Spartan, sophomore punter Ray Stachowicz, is still leading the Big Ten with a 44.7 yard per kick average.

Junior linebacker Dan Bass is still way ahead of his teammates in defensive statistics. He has been in on 92 tackles so far this season, 28 more than Melvin

Correction

In Thursday's story about senior tackle Jim Hinesly, he said that being an offensive lineman he doesn't expect any recognition. Well, the State News shouldn't surprise him. With the story, we inadvertently put in a picture of defensive tackle Melvin Land. This is the real Jim Hinesly.

Land who is second behind Bass, who last week set a Big Ten record with a 99-yard pass interception for a touchdown.

This will be the third game in a row that the Spartans have been heavy favorites to win. Earlier this week, MSU was ranked 18th in the country by the Associated Press and with the schedule the Spartans have remaining, that ranking could get a lot better before this season is over.

If the Spartans could win their last four games and go into next season with a seven-game winning streak, the end of the rainbow could be near.

"With the athletes we have now, there's nowhere to go but up," commented senior tackle Jim Hinesly.

us miss key opportunities this year.

"We played with intensity and beat them to the ball. We had a ton of chances, but we just couldn't finish."

The Spartans second consecutive shutout lowered their record to 5-5-2 with two road games remaining on the schedule.

"Our .500 record is appropriate for us right now since we are only half of a team," Baum said. "We have a fine defense, but we have no offense. Therefore, we are only half a team, and it shows with us winning only half of our games."

Baum was especially pleased, though, with the play of fullback Bill Abbott.

MSU will conclude its four-game road trip to finish the season against Bowling Green today and Albion Tuesday.

Bowling Green is ranked fifth in the Mid-east and has a 7-2 record. Their only losses came to Cleveland State, which is rated second in the Mid-east, 3-2 and Akron, ranked third.

Gopher icers come to MSU as a strong league contender

By JERRY BRAUDE
State News Sports Writer

After dropping both games to open the Western Collegiate Hockey Association season against Denver, things won't get any easier for MSU's hockey team as they host pre-season favorite Minnesota tonight and tomorrow night at Munn Ice Arena.

The Gophers have everybody coming back from last year's squad, which finished fourth during the regular season in the league.

"Minnesota is the only team in the league that didn't lose anybody," coach Amo Bessone said. "They're big, strong and fast. But we've been working hard and our spirit is great. It should be a tough series."

Minnesota coach Herb Brooks feels he is more confident for this season than any other.

"Looking at our potential, I have to say that with a concentrated effort, a healthy season physically, and if we get our fair share of the plus breaks and positive bounces of the puck, we could win it all," Brooks said.

Minnesota has experienced depth at just about all of the positions. They will be strong up the middle with junior centers Steve Christoff, Rob McClanahan and freshman Neal Broton, who scored two goals and had three assists during last weekend's series with Wisconsin.

Minnesota, which is 3-1 overall, split its opening WCHA series against the Badgers last weekend, winning Friday 8-4 and losing Saturday 6-5 at home.

In the opener, Christoff, who was sixth in WCHA scoring last year, and Eric Strobel, who was moved from center to wing, scored hatricks after the Gophers were trailing 2-0.

The following night, Minnesota built up a 4-2 lead in the first period. But the Badgers scored three straight third period goals after Minnesota took a 5-3 lead, to keep the Gophers from sweeping the series.

The Gophers are also experienced on the left wing with senior Phi Verchota, junior Don Micheletti and sophomores Steve Ulseth and Dave Terwilliger. The defense, led by senior captain Bill Baker is also strong. Bessone feels Minnesota's Bart Larson has the best shot on the club.

The Spartans have been working on their back checking and power play this week in preparing for the Gophers.

"We'll need to be more physical this weekend," Bessone said. "Minnesota will be hitting us, and we'll have to be ready. We weren't physical enough last weekend in Denver."

"We'll also have to forecheck and cover our wings better than we did last week," Bessone added.

Mark Mazzoleni will start in goal tonight. Bessone is not sure though if he will keep Mazzoleni in goal for Saturday night or go with Doug Belland.

Bessone is moving leftwinger Mike Stoltzner onto the second line with Aaron Rucks and Dave Gandini.

"Stoltzner worked so hard this week that I had to put him there," Bessone said. "He looked the best of anybody this week."

There are still plenty of student seats available for the series and for the rest of the season. Students can purchase bench seats for $3. The public can purchase bench seats for $4 and chair seats for $5.

MSU spikers at UCLA tourney

By ADAM TEICHER
State News Sports Writer

MSU's volleyball team hits the beaches of California and some of the toughest competition in the country today and Saturday as it competes in the UCLA National Invitational Volleyball Tournament in Los Angeles.

The tournament features 24 of the top teams in the nation, divided into four pools of six teams apiece. In each pool, there will be round robin play with the top two teams from every pool advancing to the quarterfinals. From there, it will be single-elimination event, similar to last week's Big Ten tournament.

The pool with MSU also contains University of the Pacific, University of California at Santa Barbara, San Diego State, Nebraska, and the highest seed in the pool, Utah State. "Our pool is pretty tough," Spartan coach Annelies Knoppers said of the competition her team must face. "California teams are always good and Nebraska is the strongest team in their region. Utah State is one of the strongest teams in their region. Utah State is one of the seeded teams in the tournament."

Other pools are also loaded with talent. USC and Pepperdine, always volleyball powers, top a pool with Arizona, Western Ontario, San Jose State and Washington State. UCLA heads a pool that includes California, Portland State, Brigham Young, La State, Long Beach, and Illinois State. The fourth pool has Hawaii, Arizona State, Long Beach State, Alabama, Stanford, and

Kickers fall to Wolverines; travel to meet Bowling Green

By JERRY BRAUDE
State News Sports Writer

Welcome back anemic offense.

MSU's soccer team fell back to its early season form Wednesday as the Spartans dominated the University of Michigan in every aspect of the game except on the scoreboard, where the Wolverines came out on top, 1-0.

"I've never seen a team dominate play so much and lose," coach Joe Baum said. "We just didn't have the concentration to finish off our plays."

The Spartans outshot U-M 25-6 for the game. Although the Wolverines only had two shots in the second half, while MSU had 16, they both played a part in their only goal of the evening. The first second-half shot was blocked by MSU goalie Rob Grinter, but Thor Koltay scored on the rebound with 12 minutes left in the game.

"I was in disbelief that we couldn't score," Baum said. "If we don't score, though, then we don't deserve to win. I'm so tired of seeing us miss key opportunities this year.

"We played with intensity and beat them to the ball. We had a ton of chances, but we just couldn't finish."

The Spartans second consecutive shutout lowered their record to 5-5-2 with two road games remaining on the schedule.

"Our .500 record is appropriate for us right now since we are only half of a team," Baum said. "We have a fine defense, but we have no offense. Therefore, we are only half a team, and it shows with us winning only half of our games."

Baum was especially pleased, though, with the play of fullback Bill Abbott.

MSU will conclude its four-game road trip to finish the season against Bowling Green today and Albion Tuesday.

Bowling Green is ranked fifth in the Mid-east and has a 7-2 record. Their only losses came to Cleveland State, which is rated second in the Mid-east, 3-2 and Akron, ranked third.

Gandini packs punch

By JERRY BRAUDE
State News Sports Writer

Needing more scoring punch than last year, MSU's hockey team wanted to get the puck to Dave Gandini more often this year, hoping that he would bounce back from a disappointing freshman year.

And so far, he hasn't been a disappointment. At right wing Gandini scored a goal in each of the first three Spartan games and had an assist before being shut out in the fourth game of the season at Denver.

"I've been satisfied with my play so far, but I still like to improve on my forechecking and position play," Gandini said. "My backchecking has been all right, though."

Before coming to MSU, Gandini had 108 points with the Detroit Junior Red Wings and was second in scoring in the league to now Spartan teammate Paul Gottwald.

With those credentials, he was expected to be a top performer for MSU. But he was only the 15th leading point getter on the squad last year with four goals and six assists.

"At first, I wasn't disappointed with last year, but then the pressure started to be too much," Gandini said. "The pressure made me worry, and I fell into a bad slump. In the spring I just forgot about hockey until August, where I had a new attitude in working hard. I've been playing hockey for a long time, and I didn't want to blow it all now."

Coming into this year, Gandini also had a better idea of what coach Amo Bessone wanted from him, which was to utilize his shot — one of the hardest on the team — more often.

"I feel that with my hard shot, I can score goals if I get the chances to shoot," Gandini said. "As long as I get my shots in, things will come out all right."

Gandini attributes many of his scoring opportunities to his center, Aaron Rucks. Rucks and Gandini have been on the same line all season though they have now gone through three leftwingers — Gary Harpell, Brad Dredge and now

WHAT ABOUT THE PROPOSED REGIONAL MALL FOR EAST LANSING?

LET'S ASK THE MAN WHO INVENTED THE MALL.

VICTOR GRUEN IS THE INVENTOR OF THE CONTEMPORARY SHOPPING MALL, HE IS THE INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS ARCHITECT AND PLANNER WHO DESIGNED NORTHLAND AND OTHER MALLS FOR THE DAYTON HUDSON CORPORATION.

WHAT DOES HE SAY NOW ABOUT THE IMPACTS OF REGIONAL MALLS?

1. Energy Waste. "Gruen is especially distraught by Regional Shopping Malls, built in outlying locations that cause long, energy-wasting automobile trips."
2. Harm To Community Environment. Regional Malls "lack identification with existing communities," and are "separated by roads and acres of asphalt parking lots, creating a non-walkable, inhumane environment."
3. Urban Sprawl From Mall Development. Gruen warns America: "In the long run it cannot afford the wastage of land, of time and of energy which its system of dispersed development creates."
4. Harm To City Center Environment and Jobs. "Cities increasingly recognize the threat that large Regional Malls pose to city-center retailing." A proposed Regional Mall in Vermont would constitute "Premeditated Murder of a City by robbing it of practically all its retailing."
5. Lack Of Sensitivity To People. Gruen calls regional malls "just one expression of an unfortunate monoculture of functional ghettos, fostered by excessive zoning and lack of people-sensitive planning."
6. There's A Better Way To Grow. Gruen would "reinforce city cores as the heart, brain and soul of the entire urban organism."

If The Man Who Invented The Mall Is Now Rejecting The Regional Mall, Maybe We Should Too. You Have The Opportunity On Tuesday.

WISCONSIN THE TOP FOE

Runners compete in regionals

By ADAM TEICHER
State News Sports Writer

MSU's women's cross country team will wage a battle with old nemesis Wisconsin Saturday when the Spartans run in the AIAW Midwest regionals in Macomb, Ill., on the campus of Western Illinois University.

Close to 20 teams will be running, but MSU head coach Eric Zemper feels the meet will boil down to the Spartans and Wisconsin. "Primarily, it will be between us two," he said. "I don't see anyone breaking in and beating out either one."

The top three teams will advance from the regionals to the national AIAW finals in Denver two weeks from Saturday. Zemper sees a tight three-team race for the third spot behind the Spartans and Wisconsin between Western Illinois, Illinois, and Ohio State.

The Spartans have lost to the Badgers twice this season in invitational. The two teams met in the Badger-Spartan Invitational in late September in Madison, Wis. Wisconsin took an easy 29-46 win, although MSU ran without one of their top runners, Lil Warnes, who was bothered by a foot injury.

The two teams battled again in the Big Ten championship two weeks ago in Madison, and the Spartans managed to cut the Badgers' margin of victory to just 11 points, 21-32. The Spartans once more were without the services of one of their top runners, Sue Latter who started the race but had to drop out because of cramps in her legs.

Zemper has never seen the course at Western Illinois, nor have any of his runners run on it, but he expects to see some fast times. "Last week's Illinois State championships were held there and the times were fast," Zemper said.

The Midwest Regional consists of teams from West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, as well as Michigan. All of the Big Ten teams will be there, except for Iowa and Minnesota, whose teams will be running in the Central States Regional, and U-M, whose teams is on the club level and does not have the money to go to the regionals.

Stickers win; state tourney today

By CHERYL FISH
State News Sports Writer

Finishing up the regular season with a 3-2 win over Albion College, the MSU field hockey team now will travel to Kalamazoo for the State of Michigan Association of Intercollegiate Athletics For Women (SMAIAW) championships today and Saturday.

The win gives MSU their ninth victory bringing their record to 9-2-3.

The Spartans are seeded second in the tournament, with Western Michigan University getting the top seed.

"We won, but we were not aggressive enough in this game," MSU coach Sam Kajorsin said.

The score after one half of play was 1-1. The Spartan goal was scored by Julie Johnson.

The second half proved to be better for the Spartans, as they scored two additional goals. Nancy Lyons and Debi Peven tallied to make the score 3-1.

However, with one minute left in the game, Albion scored one to narrow the game to 3-2. "It's a good thing there was not more time left in the game," Kajorsin said.

"We still have some work to do before the tournament,"

Kajorsin said. "There are still some problems we have to iron out."

Passing is one area that the Spartans need to sharpen. "We have been too sloppy in our passing lately," Kajorsin said.

During the game, the stickers were on the left-hand side of the field for about 70 percent of the game. "It's easier to attack on the right side, and harder to score on the left," Kajorsin pointed out. He went on to say that it is natural for a player to go to the left, and that she must turn around to send it down the right side. "They don't think about it," he said.

The stickers are not scheduled to play their first game in the tournament today until 3:15 p.m. They will play the winner of the Northern Michigan Alma game. This will give Kajorsin time to look over the rest of the teams.

We will be watching to see the strategies of these teams that we may end up playing in the second or third round of the tournament," Kajorsin said.

It will take three games to win the tournament. The team that comes in first place will go to the regional meet. "Our goal is to be first. We've worked hard all year, and this is what it comes down to," Kajorsin said.

On the campaign trail

Banners, pamphlets, bumper stickers, tabloids — all part of the tedious campaign trail.

Handshakes, smiles, frowns. Next week the voters enter the black-clothed cubicle. Last-minute campaigning.

Candidates have come to campus this week trying to persuade students, faculty and staff to vote. And especially to vote for them. Students wearing back packs and jeans are greeted by outstretched hands emerging from starched white shirt cuffs, covered by expensive looking, stylish suits.

Even though the candidate seems relaxed and casual, time is crucial. A tight schedule with little room for a moment's break. Traveling throughout the East Lansing and Lansing area, one place to another all afternoon, encountering all kinds of people; all of them potential voters. He talks to everyone he can persuade to pause and listen. Some avoid him, some make remarks as they pass. Time's up. The candidate is whisked away to his next appointment.

Next stop: Frandor shopping center. Amid the hustle and bustle of shoppers, he vies for their attention for just a moment, just long enough to make personal contact. Just long enough to maybe win a vote. Few take time to talk, saying, "You've got my vote," or "I've decided . . . it's not you," while others reply they are undecided or aren't registered or just don't have time. Or maybe don't care.

The candidate is due to arrive 10 minutes before he does, but making arrangements for a press conference the following day costs him the delay. Panic-stricken campaign workers try hard to minimize his short absence. Then sigh with relief when he appears. He is attentive and forceful toward those who have the time or courtesy to stop and respond. Then he takes a moment to glance through a local newspaper which features an article about his opponent. As time grows short, all too quickly, it is again imperative to move on.

Next stop: Fisher Body plant on Lansing's west side. Workers are changing shifts. Filling the gates are men and a few women dressed in casual clothes carrying vacuum bottles and lunch pails.

From some of their back pockets, grease rags hang effortlessly. These people all seem receptive to the candidate, while few are flabbergasted that he would spend his time at their plant.

As the sun is going down and the cold autumn wind begins to stir, the gates of Fisher Body become deserted.

Cars are being built inside. And outside, it is again time for U.S. Senate candidate Carl Levin to move on to still another campaign stop.

Editor's note: The State News asked both U.S. Senate candidates to cooperate in a pictorial report of a day on the campaign trail. The incumbent senator and his staff have so far failed to acknowledge both written and telephoned requests.

MSU goes after high finish in Big Ten

The men's cross country team is on the road to Bloomington, Ind., with high hopes and good spirits for the Big Ten meet on Saturday.

"Hopefully we can gain the fifth spot," said coach Jim Gibbard. That would mean the Spartans would qualify for the NCAA district meet in Minneapolis on Nov. 11. Last year the Spartans finished in a dismal last place in the Big Tens.

Defending champion Wisconsin and Michigan are favored in the meet.

Outstanding individuals cited by Gibbard are Steve Lacey of Wisconsin, Gary Gichen of Illinois, and Doug Spivey of Indiana.

"Indiana will also be very tough on their home course," Gibbard said.

The Spartans are expecting freshmen Martin Schulist, Michael White, Mark Mesler and Harold Rutala to come through for them.

"This will be a difficult race for freshmen to run. There will be 70 men running the race," Gibbard said. "It takes years to learn how to do this and feel comfortable about it."

He pointed out that they are talented runners. "You're awed and scared out there, but hopefully they will relax and do their best."

The team has worked extensively on speed the last few weeks, and showed improved times in the double dual meet against Minnesota and Miami of Ohio last Saturday.

"We're as ready as we'll ever be," Gibbard said. "Everyone is really looking forward to it. I hope they do what they are capable of doing."

MSU needs scoring punch from winger Gandini

Mike Stoltzner.

"Rueks is the best play-making center on the team," Gandini said. "He's smart, and he always knows where the wingers are. One reason I started scoring is that he's been setting me up with good passes, and that's what it's all about."

One of the aspects that Gandini enjoys the most is playing on the power-play unit. Bessone has used the sophomore from Warren on the wing and on the point this year. But now Bessone is keeping him on the point, where he can get away more slapshots.

"I like shooting," Gandini said. "From there, I will get more shooting opportunities. I think I can help the team more on the point."

Gandini is shooting for 20 goals this season, and would like to play in the playoffs.

Spikers play at UCLA

University of California at Riverside.

Both Knoppers and senior Mitzy Hazlett were a little awed at their first glimpse of the mass confusion that takes place on the floor of UCLA's Pauley Pavilion during the tournament. "They have several games going on at the same time. It gets a little crazy," Knoppers explained.

Hazlett, playing in the UCLA tournament for the third straight year, said she warned some of her teammates of the hazards. "It's hard to keep your mind on the game with everything happening around you, but you have to. The teams in the tournament are real good."

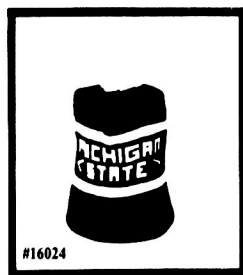

"This tournament is like a pre-nationals. The team that wins this tournament usually wins the nationals. UCLA is great competition for us. It gives us a chance to show our stuff," she said.

Hazlett agrees that the West Coast has superior teams, but that they don't have better athletes. "We can jump as high and run as fast, but they do have much better technique. The high school programs they have for volleyball are much better than our own."

Band initiations will be silent

By R.W. ROBINSON
State News Staff Writer

The traditional initiation ceremony for new members of the percussion section of MSU's marching band will not be the same anymore unless "Spartan" large set of drumsticks are found.

Spartan is the 10 and one-half foot statue which "guards" the campus throughout the entire year.

The statue's job in the initiation ceremony is to hold the large drumsticks while veteran members of the percussion section initiate their new members — in a secret manner.

The percussion section saw the drumsticks Monday night when they initiated six people into that section of the band, but they have not seen them since.

"Somehow we just forgot to remove the drumsticks from Spartan's hands when we were through that day," Cal Moss, a member of the percussion section said.

He added that some students told percussion section members that they saw the drumsticks up in Spartan's hands early Tuesday morning, yet later that afternoon they had disappeared.

Since Tuesday nobody has reported seeing the drumsticks, nor has anybody contacted the music department concerning their recent disappearance, he said.

"The people that took them probably don't realize what they mean to the percussion section of the band," Moss said.

The drumsticks have been part of the percussion section for many years. They have been brought out for initiations, during the marching band seasons and especially for the annual football game with the University of Michigan.

"They mean an awful lot to the whole section," Moss added.

The drumsticks are four feet long and three inches in diameter and could be bought from a special store, but "it won't be the same as that pair that's been around for years," Moss said.

A new pair would cost the percussion section about $25-30.

"It troubles me to see this tradition which has been going on for years stopped because of this," Moss re-emphasized. "They mean just so much to us."

Moss and several other members of the percussion section are planning on rewarding the person or persons who bring back Spartan's drumsticks.

"If somebody knows where the drumsticks are and wishes to pick up the reward they can take them to the music department," Moss said.

Chrysler hires Ford executive

DETROIT (AP) — Lee A. Iacocca, ousted president of Ford Motor Co., jumped into the president's job at financially strapped Chrysler Corp. on Thursday in a rescue operation that stunned the auto industry.

With the surprise move, the cigar-chomping Iacocca, 54, forfeited more than $1 million in deferred bonuses he stood to receive from his former employer.

Iacocca, a sales and marketing whiz at Ford, is expected to have a free hand as chief operating officer of the No. 3 automaker. He had been ousted from Ford, which is No. 2 behind General Motors, in July after Chairman Henry Ford II reportedly told him, "I just don't like you."

The Iacocca shift was the most dramatic cross-over in the auto industry since Semon Bunkie Knudsen, passed over for the presidency of General Motors, was hired away in 1968 to become president of Ford. Nineteen months later, Knudsen was fired and replaced by Iacocca.

"It's an astounding development," said Detroit-based auto analyst Arvid Jouppe. "It's terrific news for Chrysler. And Iacocca has an opportunity to be a hero."

Late Wednesday, Ford announced a settlement with Iacocca that gives him a total of $675,000 through next year and pension benefits starting in October 1979, when he turns 55.

There was no official word on Iacocca's pay at Chrysler. The Wall Street Journal said he would get several million dollars in cash and an option to buy Chrysler stock.

"If he was a baseball player, he'd be the highest-paid relief pitcher in history," said Jouppe.

WHY NOT THE BEST?

THE AUDIO SPECIALISTS AT MARSHALL'S SOUND SHOP ARE THE TOUGHEST CRITICS IN TOWN.

We are far more critical of the audio components we sell than most other dealers. "State-of-the-art" in components designed to be aesthetically pleasing to the most perceptive buyer, coupled with a host of rigorous lab and listening tests are the criteria used in Marshall's selection of audio components.

So it is superb performance that is available to you from our wide selection of high accuracy components. Come, look, listen, compare, deliberate, without the "buy now" or "sale today" pressure you find in most other stores.

STATE-OF-THE-ART QUALITY IS AFFORDABLE TO ALL!

Admittedly, some of our systems are quite expensive, however we have many very affordable systems you can be extremely proud of.

IS SERVICE IMPORTANT?

You bet it is!!! For the past 30 years Marshall's has been known for their fine service. We now have 20 trained technicians in our service centers.

police briefs

An MSU woman was assaulted Wednesday night by an old hag described as "having many warts, orange hair and a large nose," Department of Public Safety police said.

The old hag's green face is currently being held as evidence with the DPS.

Police said two men wearing sweat shirts and Halloween masks threw beer and shaving cream at a Yakeley Hall woman as they ran past her. The woman told police she chased them down a stairwell and managed to grab the hood of one of the assailants.

As she grabbed the hood, and subsequently the mask, the man swung around and hit her in the nose with his palm, police said.

She was neither injured nor able to identify the man who assaulted her.

The case is being referred to the prosecutors' office.

While peddling on his bicycle last week, an MSU graduate student lost six chapters of a forthcoming book somewhere on campus, Department of Public Safety police said.

Dick Poynton, an education specialist, dropped his manuscript on prisoner rehabilitation while either crossing West Circle or peddling down West Circle Drive and out Beale Entrance onto Michigan Avenue, police said. He has no copy of the sixth, and most important, chapter.

He can be reached at 489-5371. He is offering a reward.

A man was chased from the Administration Building at 1 p.m. Thursday and apprehended by employees for losing his temper.

The man, apparently a student, lost 65 cents in a cigarette machine in the basement of the building, lost his temper and kicked and stomped the machine.

Mountaineering #2.

SELECTING THE PROPER GEAR

The Busch label is where it all begins. Note the snowy, craggy peaks affixed thereto. They are the mountains.

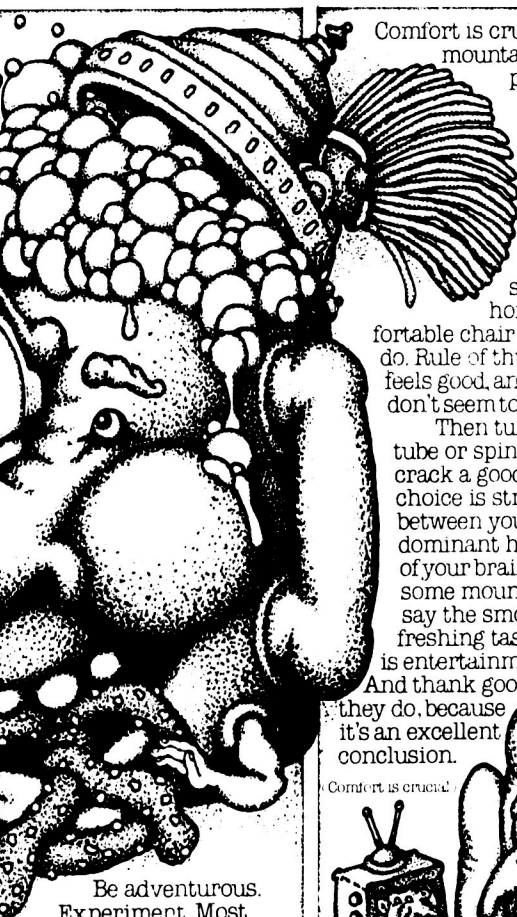

You are the mountaineer. And this is an ad. The subject of which is selecting the proper gear for mountaineering. (It all fits together so nicely, doesn't it?)

First and foremost, you'll need to pop the mountain top. For this task, faithful mountaineers use a church key. Secular mountaineers use a bottle opener. Don't be confused by these antics with semantics. Just remember, the opener is your primary tool. Be true to it and it will be true to you.

Second, choose a glass. Here the options become immense. German steins, hand-blown pilseners, old jelly jars, that cute little (Church key used by faithful mountaineers.)

Mr. Boffo mug you've had since third grade.

Be adventurous. Experiment. Most mountaineers have a personal preference. You'll develop one too.

Food is next. Proper mountaineering, not to mention proper nutrition, requires a smorgasbord selection of snacks. Some mountaineers have suffered from a potato chip deficiency, a pretzel imbalance or other serious dietary defects. Plan ahead.

Comfort is crucial. If you mountaineer in public, pick a padded bar stool, preferably one that spins (to facilitate admiring the scenery). At home, a comfortable chair or sofa will do. Rule of thumb: if it feels good, and the police don't seem to mind, do it.

Then turn on the tube or spin a tune or crack a good book. The choice is strictly between you and the dominant hemisphere of your brain. Of course, some mountaineers say the smooth, refreshing taste of Busch is entertainment enough. And thank goodness they do, because it's an excellent conclusion.

Don't just reach for a beer. BUSCH Head for the mountains.

Proposed ordinance draws comments

A proposed ordinance to make existing child day care centers in East Lansing legal drew comments from about 18 residents at a Planning Commission meeting Wednesday night.

Under the existing city zoning ordinance, the 15 private and commercial child day care centers in the city are not legally provided for.

To alleviate the problem, the city planning staff has proposed an ordinance for city adoption that is compatible with state laws regulating day care centers.

In departure from standard commission procedure, chair person Ralph Monsma opened the committee of the whole meeting for public comment on the issue. Traditionally the committee is used as a working session.

"We are concerned over the safety of the children being cared for in these homes," one unidentified resident from the audience said.

A number of residents said they were concerned about a specific private child day care home which they claim has been letting children play unsupervised. The name of the home was not given.

Another group of residents urged that the commission avoid confusing the issue of a specific case with that of the proposed ordinance.

"We have been unable to get the city to act on illegal day care centers," Bob Adams, 940 Huntington Road, said. "The city just seems to bail out."

Several commissioners said that they did not want to get into the process of licensing day care centers.

"I think the city's position is that they're concerned over the inspection and welfare of thousands of students and rental properties but don't give a damn about preschool children," a member of the audience said.

The commission moved to table the discussion until the public hearing Nov. 9 and 7:30 p.m. District Court 54B 301 M.A.C. Ave.

MSU woman assaulted

A MSU woman was assaulted twice while walking through a parking lot north of the Men's IM Building at 6 p.m. Thursday, campus police said.

Police are seeking a male MSU student in connection with an assault with a vehicle and simple assault.

Words were exchanged between the two students before the offender, driving a white Camaro, struck her with his car, and then stepped outside the vehicle and pushed and shoved her, police said. The woman escaped into the IM Building.

Police said the woman was not injured seriously.

Employment forum to be held

By DEBBIE CREEMERS

An all-day Graduate Student Employment Forum sponsored by the Council of Graduate Students, Placement Services and MSU's Graduate School will be held Monday Nov. 6 in Kellogg Auditorium.

The forum was announced at COGS' bi-weekly meeting Wednesday night.

The presentation, to be held from 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 5 p.m., will be conducted by Richard N. Bolles, author of "What Color Is Your Parachute? A Practical Manual for Job Hunters and Career Changers."

Linda Smith, COGS treasurer, told the council the forum would be taped.

"Because we are expecting a good turnout, two additional rooms have been reserved for overflow," she said.

Night security in the Student Services Building was also discussed at the meeting.

The first- and second-floor offices in the building close at 5 p.m. but ASMSU, COGS, and the Volunteer Action Corps and the State News offices on the third floor have run into late-night security problems.

A proposal to hire a work study student to patrol the building, with costs split between the four organizations, will be voted on at the next meeting.

The original proposal to limit access to the building after 6 p.m. by requiring students to sign in and out raised objections from the Counseling Center concerning the confidentiality of their students.

An additional proposal to close the building from midnight to 6 a.m. requires the approval of Jack Shingleton, Placement Services director. Students frequently stay overnight outside the Placement Services Office to sign up first for interviews the next morning.

Shingleton refused to comment until he meets with Tricia Wilcox, executive assistant to the ASMSU president, about the problem.

Smith also reported that $755 in day care scholarships have been awarded to graduate students.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — More than 300 taxis snaked five miles through Newark on Thursday as cabbies formed a funeral cortege for a driver killed during a $7.64 robbery attempt.

And as they paid their tribute, they made a point.

They want more police protection and cab safety devices to prevent the type of incident which took the life Saturday night of Leroy Davis, a 33-year-old father of two young children.

Cabbies mourn driver

The motorcade was led by Davis' cab, draped in black and wreathed in flowers. For two hours, the city had to do without the services of its estimated 1,000 cabbies.

"Leroy was not only a taxicab driver, not only a friend, not only a member of our organization, he was a good father . . . and a good, upstanding citizen of the city of Newark," Louis D. Smith, president of the Newark Taxi Drivers Association, told hundreds of mourners crowded into a suburban Newark church.

would be required on each cab by Nov. 13. "It won't stop crime," he told the drivers assembled for the funeral, "but it may lessen crime by 5 percent and that means a lot to cab drivers."

The cabbies also want legislation requiring safety partitions and mechanical locks in cabs. Smith said Davis would still be alive if his taxi had the locks. "He could have locked the robbers into the back seat when he ran from the cab."

Traffic.

Traffic congestion helps no one and hurts everyone. That's why Dayton-Hudson has studied this impact more than any other.

Traffic volumes along Lake Lansing Road and adjacent streets will be far below what they are on Grand River. In fact, The Cedars may take some east-west traffic off Grand River.

As you can see, travelers to The Cedars will use US-127 (the freeway) for most of their trips. Only local residents will use local streets.

Before The Cedars is built, Dayton-Hudson will, at its own expense, make additional improvements. These improvements will include special turn lanes, safety medians, synchronized traffic signals and traffic islands to prevent through traffic from using local streets. In addition, special provisions will be made for access by pedestrians, cyclists, and bus riders.

When you think about it, the last thing Dayton-Hudson wants is a traffic problem that discourages its customers.

Dinosaur roaming campus without permission

By DARLENE DONLOE
State News Staff Writer

A large papier-mache dinosaur bearing the words "Stop Dayton Hudson" is roaming the MSU campus without permission, according to some University officials.

The dinosaur, constructed by a group of East Lansing residents against the Dayton Hudson mall, has been seen in recent weeks in different parts of campus.

Lana Dart, assistant director of the Office of Student Activities, said the creation is appearing on campus against University regulations.

Any display appearing at MSU must obtain clearance from the Grounds Department, the Department of Public Safety, and her office, she said.

The creators of the fake reptile say they built the dinosaur as a costume and not a display. Dart disagreed.

"The dinosaur is a display and not a costume," she said. "That is a fairly large display, much different from one individual with a mask on."

The dinosaur, which fits two people inside, is sponsored by Students for a Livable Community when it appears on campus, Mike Price, 417 Clarendon St., one of the builders said.

It stands 12 feet high and is 35 feet long, and, powered by its two inhabitants, walks and talks.

Ed Weiss of the television show Ed-itorial Weiss-cracks, was involved in the construction of the papier-mache creation.

Weiss said the symbol of a dinosaur was used because, like the dinosaur, "malls are becoming extinct."

"Dinosaurs, like Dayton Hudson, have small brains and are attracted to swamp areas," he said.

Weiss said he was referring to Dayton Hudson's plan to build the mall in a marsh area at Lake Lansing Road and U.S. 127.

Price said since there were two people inside of the dinosaur, he didn't think it was necessary to register with the various departments.

Dart said that with such a large stationary display, the participants should have filled out an activity planning form with the Department of Campus Parks and Planning.

Milton Baron, director of Campus Parks and Planning agreed with Dart.

"Whether it has people in it or not doesn't matter, they still should have cleared it with us first," he said.

Baron said the dinosaur could have been picked up and removed because it was against University ordinances.

He said the purpose of getting permission was to have a orderly arrangement so the campus isn't "cluttered."

Major Adam J. Zutant, DPS police commander, called the display an advertisement.

RE: Helping abused and neglected children and their families

On November 7th you will be voting on many important issues which will directly affect your life. While you are casting your vote, I hope you will take a moment more, and help re-elect Judge Donald S. Owens, of Ingham County Probate Court.

I have worked in the field of child abuse and neglect for 15 years. Because the most serious cases of abuse and neglect are brought to Probate Court, I have repeatedly been impressed with the importance of having experienced, respected judge in Probate Court.

Judge Owens is such an individual. During the 4 1/2 years he has been on the bench, he has learned a great deal about the problems of the troubled family, the needs of children whose care is in question, and the family law that helps resolve many of these complex issues.

I support Judge Owens. I feel he will continue to help these children and their parents in the same manner as in the past. Your help in re-electing Judge Owens will be felt and appreciated by hundreds of abused and neglected children and their families during the years to come.

Paid for by the Committee for Judge Donald S. Owens, P.O. Box 18213, Lansing, MI 48901

'U' College phase-out

However, he said his major concern as east complex director of student affairs was how the new structure would be set up to advise no-preference students.

As of yet no concrete plans have been established regarding advising programs to students who have not declared a major. Richard J. Seltin, chairperson of natural science department, said, "We must make the best of it."

He said he felt the program would "set back one of the top universities in the country."

Seltin added that his department members were numb and upset over the proposed reorganization plans.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — What do you do when you walk into your bathroom and find the toilet occupied — by a boa constrictor?

It happened to Lennart Persson, 20, in Goteborg last weekend.

First he called police and a terrarium office to get the serpent out of there.

Then he called his neighbor, Hans Goldman, a 22-year-old student whose hobby is snakes.

Bruce and Mary Fossum

'Jock' duo loves MSU

by JENNIFER DIXON
State News Staff Writer
Editor's note: This is the last of five interviews with MSU faculty members who are married and work at the University.

An office on the third floor of Jenison Fieldhouse is filled with basketballs, golf clubs and trophies. Music from the gym floats into the office and wafts of smoke float out the open door.

The sounds of basketballs thumping and people shouting fill Bruce and Mary Fossum's office.

Bruce is the men's golf coach and an assistant professor of physical education. Mary is the women's golf coach.

"We're a bunch of jocks," they said about their family. They have two sons and two daughters — all are sports people.

Bruce started playing golf when he was 10 years old and Mary has been playing "forever" or since she started "trailing along with my dad and swinging the clubs," she said.

The Fossums met on a golf course in Green Bay, Wis. and were married nine months later, almost 30 years ago.

They moved to East Lansing and he began teaching at MSU in 1959.

Bruce has been the men's golf coach since 1965 and Mary became the women's golf coach in 1972. They came to MSU when Bruce received an offer to become assistant basketball coach, a position he held until 1965.

"We both love it here, very much indeed. And we both love the type of thing we're doing. For the family there can't be anything better," Bruce said, putting out a cigarette in an old tin top.

"When Mary took over the coaching job it added a new dimension to our marriage," he said. "Being herself, doing something she could do well gave her something very vital at the time. To work with the sanction of her husband didn't do anything but good."

"It was the greatest thing that happened to our marriage," Bruce said.

"We're fuel for each other," he added.

During the last couple of years, Bruce's teams have not been doing well and Mary's has. Although many other people have mentioned the difference, Bruce said he has not received "a lotta ribbing" from Mary.

Besides his dedication to being a good teacher and golfer, Bruce likes to fly fish on the Au Sable River.

"We both like to drink beer and enjoy each other's company," he said. They also like to stay home and entertain friends.

They have a "deep understanding" that when one is traveling with their team, the other takes care of the house.

"I like to cook but I'm not much with making beds and rug keeping," Bruce said. "Heck, I don't mind doing the dishes, particularly when she's active."

Trophies scatter their office and the walls are lined with certificates — commemorating Bruce on his contributions to golf and MSU.

"I'm most proud of my family. I love 'em. Family is family and not an achievement. The kids and Mary are more valuable and vital than anything else," Bruce said.
