Need for Scheurer EMTs is critical!

Classes to start Sept. 20

Scheurer Hospital, Pigeon, is in critical need of Emergency Medical Technicians and Administrator George Desmarais is hoping that the local community will answer that need.

Persons interested in becoming EMTs for the hospital ambulance service can begin classes on Tuesday, Sept. 20 at the Huron Area Skill Center. Classes are set for every Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 10 p.m., for 15 weeks.

"If you like helping people and think you could handle emergency situations well, working as an EMT is a very satisfying job," explains Desmarais.

Scheurer Hospital would like to encourage area residents who live within five to eight minutes of the hospital, by offering financial assistance to those who enroll for the class through Scheurer Hospital.

For more information, prospective EMTs can contact the hospital at 453-3223. The deadline for enrolling in September's class is Friday, Sept. 16.

Elkton's AutumnFest only a week away

By AMY HEIDEN

Plans for the 1988 edition of the Elkton AutumnFest, coming next weekend, Sept. 2-5, are being finalized, according to Elkton Chamber of Commerce President Phyllis Podlaskowski.

Several new events have been added this year, includ-

a fireworks display sponsored by AIW Local 628, games on horseback presented by Indian Trails Riding Club, and the unique chainsaw competition, among others. SCHEDULE: The weekend begins with a Pig Roast at 5 p.m. Friday at Ackerman Park, followed by the crowning of Elkton's Teen Queen at 6:30 p.m. from a field of 11 of Elkton's loveliest teens.

Dusty D. Clown will entertain children of all ages after the Teen Queen crowning, and the evening will be capped by the Teen Dance at 9 p.m, with D.J. CO2 spinning the latest hits.

On Saturday, plenty of bargains will be found at the flea market which runs all day long.

The Grand Parade begins at 11 a.m., starting at the north village limits and ending at the Methodist Church.

The ever-popular chicken barbeque, sponsored by the Elkton Rotary Club, begins at 12 noon at the Civic Center, while at Ackerman Park, Horseshoe Tournament Qualifying will also start at

Children will scramble for candy during the candy drop at the park at 12:30 and the Kids' Games will start at 1

What will the peanut butter pie sell for at YFC Auction?

By AMY HEIDEN

Dwight Gascho says the big question facing the organizers of the ninth Annual Bluewater Youth for Christ Auction is "What will Katie Albrecht's peanut butter pie sell for this year?"

 $He \, explains \, that \, for \, the \, past$ eight years, Mrs. Albrecht has baked a delicious pie to be sold at the auction, and last year her creation sold fetched a handsome price of $87.50

"Maybe this will be the year it hits the $100 mark,"

Gascho says. NEXT WEEKEND: The auction, held to benefit the Bluewater Youth for Christ group, is planned this year on Saturday, Sept. 3, starting at 10 a.m., at Pigeon Recreation Park.

Bake sales will run all during the auction, with all proceeds going to the youth

FEATURES: Gascho says the auction will feature several outstanding items, such as a 1952 Chevrolet with only 41,000 miles on its odometer, and a beautiful 1983 Chevrolet Caprice Classic Wagon.

Other special items include a 20-ft. wooden boat built by a General Motors engineer in 1950, and 8 ft. by 10 ft. hip-roofed shed, and many beautiful and unique quilts.

"This year we've probably got the nicest selection of antiques we've ever had," Gascho savs.

INCENTIVE: At last year's thank-you banquet, held in appreciation for the 80-plus passed out nearly $3,000 in cash, and told each worker to use the money to find something for the auction that would sell for more than the amount each worker received.

"I think that's one of the reasons we've got such nice things this year," Gascho explains. "Our auctioneers used their money to buy things at their auctions that were selling for under their

"We've gotten several nice antiques through the efforts of the auctioneers."

Gascho emphasizes the auction has something for nearly everyone. "If you're a farmer, we have tools. If your interest runs to craft items, you'll find those, too.

"Things are coming in all the time, right up to the date of the sale.

TRULYNEEDED: Bluewater Youth for Christ depends on the auction to augment its $250,000 annual budget. and Gascho says the group must raise about half of that budget.

Last year's auction brought in about $16,000, and organizers hope this year's event will raise more than that. That figure differs considerably from the $4,000 the auction raised in its first year.

FUN FOR ALL: The auction is a family event, Gascho says, and everyone is encouraged to bring a lawn chair and spend the entire day.

In case of rain, the auction will be moved under tents, with plenty of room for bid-

"It's a fun day for everyone, and people can get a good buy and feel good knowing the money goes for a good cause," Gascho says.

As We See It....EDITORIALLY

Congress should practice what it preaches...

Few things are harder to put up with than the annoyance of a good example," Mark Twain said. A growing number of employers disagree today - seeing two standards from our governmental leaders.

Members of Congress should "set the example" by practicing the laws they enact, says National Federation of Independent Business President John Sloan. He makes some extremely valid points along Congress employes 38,000 people, yet members do not pay Social Security or unemployment compensation taxes. And, lawmakers don't have to worry that the OSHA inspector or trouble with the minimum wage or overtime requirements might result — they're exempt from those laws, too, Sloan points out in a recent statement.

And, federal legislators even have exempted themselves from laws that guarantee basic American civil and employment rights; the Civil Rights Act and the Equal Employment Opportunity Act.

Isn't it ironic? Congress passed those measures in the name of protecting American workers, but in reality, business is stuck with labor laws that mandate terms that neither employer nor employe wants, Sloan points out.

THE WILLOW BY WANDA EICHLER

A Heifer that cares

It was a Saturday evening to remember. Vans pulled up at the retreat center in Little Rock where the National Town and Country Network of the United Methodist Church was meeting. Over 20 of us from all across the U.S. piled in for the 40-mile trip to Perryville, Arkansas's famed Interna-tional Learning and Livestock Center, more commonly known as the Heifer Project Ranch, or, to those who visit it often or work there, just "Heifer."

Arkansas scenery is beautiful and after the heat of the day, the cool hills and their breezes were welcome. We pulled into Heifer about 6 p.m., just in time for a generous sandwich and salad meal prepared and served in the new visitor center which was built with volunteer labor.

On a hayride around Heifer, we were chauffeured behind a John Deere green machine on a comfortable wagon. Big black Brangus bulls (3/8 Angus, 5/8 Brahmin) contentedly chewed while we heard about their fathering capabilities and learned that sale of their progeny and sperm produce income for other Heifer projects. A cement-floored piggery prompted a question about the availability of concrete in Third World situations and we learned that cement can be obtained in most places.

Katahdin hair sheep grazed in several pastures. Developed as a meat breed that needs no shearing, the Katahdin sheep flock also provide income for Heifer. Recently, the ranch received a special gift, a llama named Shep, who now shares the sheepdog responsibilities with several dogs on the ranch. Shep obliged us with a walk along the fence where we could easily take his picture.

Global education is mandated by state law in Arkansas public schools so literally thousands of schoolchildren visit Heifer every year. The major part of their learning experiences happen along the small farm project learning trail demonstrated. Visitors get to see how weeds can be made into thatched roofing, draft horses plowing, soil being made plants used as shade, solar drying and cooking of food and, into bricks, rooftop water reclaimed by cisterns, overhead of course, livestock being raised with resources appropriate to the developing areas of the world.

Most impressive is the intensive 2 1/2 acre site where a small home, built and furnished by Habitat for Humanity as a model home which Habitat built in Guatemala, and its garden and livestock are modeled as sustainable agriculture for a family of four in a developing country.

The project, supervised by a South African woman, Jennifer Shumaker, includes erosion control, trees and plants specially chosen for their survival benefits and land holding ability and livestock, including a donkey used for labor. Many perennial plants are used because of their ability to hold the soil and moisture. Crops as varied as honey and blueberries are raised with the intention of providing food for a family and cash crops for the marketplace.

Mrs. Schumaker's two children and her husband are living on the site with her this summer as their family experiences and demonstrates what life can be like for a family in a developing country. Her enthusiasm for the

And, Congress doesn't have to abide by any laws.

Sloan cites several examples. Can an employe work half a day on Saturday in exchange for extra vacation time? Not under the Fair Labor Standards Act. Yet, members of the U.S. Congress can arrange any work schedule they choose for their employes.

The most frustrating example, however, pertains to Social Security taxes. Here too, Congress applies the same double standard. When the Social Security trust fund was nearly broke several years ago, Congress set up mandatory tax increases for businesses through 1990. But they themselves don't pay into the system - and neither do their own em-

To be fair, they should sign on to pay their fair share — but Sloan reminds us they haven't done so thus far. And there's no reason to believe they're

Every working American has 7.51% of their income forcibly removed for federal Social Security taxes. Imagine what a WONDERFUL trust fund, pension or IRA you could set up for yourself if you could (and would) set aside 7.51% of your income in the program you choose.

But, there's more — much more. Many people don't realize their employers MATCH that 7.51% rate, coming from their own profits (whether or not the company has any). So, an amount more than 15% of your gross income is being deposited in the Social Security system for you every year. It should reap GREAT dividends when you retire — but knowledgeable people say you'll get bare-bones coverage then from an overtaxed SS system... if you get anything at all.

Even so, Congress workers aren't involved in this system — even though Congressmen vote to require business owners (and employes) to participate. Small business owners recently voted two-to-one in a NFIB poll to require Congress to comply with its own federal labor laws.

NFIB President Sloan suggests that members of Congress, always seeking new sources of tax revenues, try conforming to the existing laws themselves before passing more (and more costly) ones in the upcoming 100th Congress. Sloan notes, "Congress is an employer just like any other. If all other U.S. workers should have the protection enacted over the years, so should thousands of people on the Congressional payroll."

We couldn't agree more...

project and understanding of the principles behind the crops and soil decisions is encouraging and exciting to see. Also accompanying us on our tour was Mel West, a Habitat for Humanity volunteer, who built all the furniture in the house that the Shumakers are living in. Mel walked 1.000 miles for Habitat in the fall of 1986 (from Americus, Ga. to Kansas City, Mo.) and, like most of the Heifer and Habitat people I'm getting to know, is living testimony to people helping people and people who care about others. All of Heifer Project International is bsed on the principle that peace is possible and that people can be helped to help themselves and others. Heifer Project strives to be a part of the answer to world hunger, not a part of the problem. Those who receive Heifer animals are expected to give an offpsring of their animals to someone else. In that way, each one helping another, food is provided for the future. Jerry Bedford, an Elkton native and director of planned giving at Heifer Project, is one Thumb Area product who presently works for Heiter. Others from our area, Mennonites especially, have worked for Heifer at one time or another. Heifer Project has been active in over 100 countries

People helping people through livestock. People working to eradicate hunger. People who care about others, That's what Heifer is. It is a Heifer that cares!

DEAR EDITOR:

There are a lot of things going on this last while and just don't do everything I'd like to do.

Last week week I had the pleasure of meeting with the Sebewaing Historical Society. I took my daughter, who is here on a visit from her home in the Netherlands. I gave a little talk and she told a few things about her home.

There was a little mistake in the paper about my past work. I worked on the road from Caseville to Bay Port instead of from Caseville to Port Austin.

Then on Aug. 12 I went to Caro to the old gasoline engine show. I went there several times before, but I always see soemthing I didn't see before. They had a lot of old engines that people used before 1900 to grind their grain or saw their wood.

My Father used to fire an old steam engine that they used to pull with a team of horses. When the gasoline engines came along, he got one, but he never could run one as well as he could a steam engine.

Then that evening I went to the Pigeon River Churchretreat at Bay Shore for supper and a good meeting with speaker from Pennsylva-

I went there again on Saturday morning then to a sale at St. John's Lutheran Church, Kilmanagh. I saw a lot of people I knew and a lot of people I didn't know, but not a rich man, but I can if I knew all of the people who call me by name I'd know most of the people in the western part of Huron

County and some in every state of the union!

I bought several things that I didn't need, but I always like to think that if I'd have a sale and nobody came to buy something, I'd sure feel bad

Sunday was the final day at the retreat. Then on Sunday afternoon, I went to the Pigeon Historical Museum and looked things over.

More people ought to go there because it might not be as big as some are, but they have a lot of things that bring back old memories.

Then I went to Caseville andwalked on that big walk by the harbor. It's a nice walk and because it was so hit, it felt good to get that breeze from the lake.

On Monday I wasn't feelingvery well. I had that stomach flu that's going around and for two days I was "on the blink." But I'm feeling good now.

We didn't get a lot of rain, but what we got sure helped and I have to mow my lawn again, but after all that heat, I'm glad to do it. I usually go the Specialty House in the morning for breakfast and there are always a lot of men sitting around the table, drinking coffee and "shooting the breeze."

In Psalm 16:6 it says, "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places. Yea I have a goodly heritage."

Well, I had good parents and a lot of good friends. So far I've had good health. I'm easily get by on what I have, so I have a goodly heritage. SINCERELY YOURS,

GEORGE KEIM

Audubon group meets

Huron Audubon Club's meeting of Sunday, September 11, will feature Gary Zellar of Ducks Unlimited with a wildfowl identification program, according to Monica Essenmacher, HAC president. The program will be offered at Port Crescent State Park Headquarters from 3-5 pm, and will follow the regular club meeting. President Essenmacher called attention to the change in meeting date from the first to the 2nd Sunday.

In addition to the program, club members will discuss Huron County Road Commission's practice of spraying roadsides and ditches with chemical herbicides.

Said President Essenmacher, "Many game birds use roadsides in Huron County for nesting, cover and food sources, and we want to knowifchemical spraying is destroying this valuable habitat."

At the meeting we will share the information we have compiled and we will report on our meetings with the Road Commission, she explained.

People with questions are invited to call President Essenmacher at Port Austin 738-7578, or Vice-President Roy Elie, at his headquarters at the Park, 738-8663.

Members of HAC are invited, and all interested persons are also urged to attend, the president stated.

Outdoor Report

The DNR released the 1988-89 hunting and trapping seasons last week and for the first time in 19 years duck hunters will not follow the point system in determining their bag limit. The duck season will be reduced to 30 days and will be from October 15-November 10 and November 25-27 for this zone. The rest of the state will have a 32-day season. Shooting time will be from sunrise to sunset

Hunters may take 3 ducks per day but only 2 of them can be Mallards and only one can be a female. Hunters also cannot shoot more than 2 Wood Ducks, one Black Duck or one Redhead per day. A special restriction allows hunters to take one Pintail during the first 7 days of the season and 2 male Pintails during the final 7 days of the season. No Pintails can be shot during the middle 16 days. Canvasbacks are protected again this year.

Hunters are reminded that steel shot is required for all waterfowl hunting in Zone 3. All rules, dates, and times will be printed in the waterfowl hunting guide that will be released on September 10.

Goose hunters can expect good hunting for the 1988 season. The early hunt will be from September 1-10 with a 3-bird limit. The second season will run the same as duck season and hunters will be allowed 2 birds per day. Biologists indicate the summer drought has had little effect on goose populations. Most local birds were nesting before the drought hit and the migratory flocks come from James Bay where rainfall has been adequate throughout the summer.

During the past several weeks a couple of big fish have been taken out of Thumb waters. A 33- and 37pound King Salmon were caught near Grindstone City and Harbor Beach within 2 days of each other. A Monroe fisherman and a Delaware angler were the lucky twosome.

CASEVILLE RETIREMENT CLUB

A total of 99 members and two guests were present for the Aug. 16 meeting of the Caseville Retirement Club at the American Legion Hall.

President Tom Beadle introduced guests Harold and Mary Jane Hunt and asked all to stand and greet their neighbors before leading in The Lord's Prayer before lunch.

The meeting opened with the Pledge to the Flag.

There were 43 blood pressure readings by Rose Koenig and Marion Parent, assisted by Louise Gerrard and Marion Smith.

President Beadle thanked Peg Hill, Lu Bartman, Elsa Kerr and Stella Budrick for the "earlybird" goodies and those who donated to the Food Pantry.

Welcomed back were Past President Clyde Schamel and his wife, plus other long absent members.

Travel club member Ray Gerrard reported that those who attended the "Star of Detroit" trip really enjoyed themselves. Celebrating birthdays were Marie Watts, Eleanor and Arthur Fiergolla, Florence Carravallah, Virginia Kreig, Helen Schultz, Gladys Bondy, Marion Gardner, Vera Jamison, Shirley Paquette and Virginia Bengamelli. Hospitalized at Bay Medical Center is Ed Allward and recuperating at home is Lee Marries, who also wrote the group a thank-you note.

President Beadle thanked Hank Hill and Ed White for installing an amplifier anda vote was taken to purchase a new microphone.

NEW IN TOWN: Pigeon's newest downtown business is the Magpie's Nest, owned and operated by Mary Ellen Miller. The store, located on Michigan Avenue in the Pigeon Auto Parts building, sells a complete line of tea, coffee, spices, Watkins Products, Blair Products and Stanley Products.

Miller says if a customer wants a particular product that is not in stock, it can be ordered and in the customer's hands within two or three days.

The Magpie's Nest, named after the blackbird notorious for it collecting habits, is open Monday through Thursday from 10-5, Friday from 10-8, and Saturday from 10-4. By ED HUTCHISON

The practice of composting garden and kitchen scraps has finally become civilized, especially for the Thumb gardener with no place to hide the pile. Many organic gardeners take great pleasure and find beauty in a pile of decomposing leaves, eggshells, corn husks, grass clippings and what not. Most of us don't compost because it takes time and the pile is unsightly.

If you are among the legions of gardeners who have never composted, had bad luck before or simply don't posting really becomes more of an art than a science," like the looks of a compost pile, then read on for a different look at the subject.

WHAT IT IS: Compost is loosely defined as organic material (leaves, egg shells, grass clippings, etc.) that has broken down into crumbly, fluffy "stuff." Added to the garden, this "stuff" improves the soil structure so roots have an easier time growing and taking oxygen, nutrients and moisture from the soil.

Time and disorder have doomed many a compost pile and discouraged many a gardener. Unless it is loosly enclosed, the pile becomes an unsightly heap that doesn't stay hot inside and without internal heat, de-

Many gardeners consign their pile toa remote, unseen area and because it is out of sight, they forget to stir it every few weeks and the process is again slowed. A lot of people find the pile virtually disgusting and want nothing to do with it.

Happily, there's new hope for would-be composters, thanks to the time of year and product development efforts of two horticultural service companies.

WHAT TO USE: There's plenty of compostable material available now: grass clippings, vegetable peelings, skins and husks and soon, fallen leaves. At least two months of warm, moist weather lay ahead, so a pile can be well underway before late autumn turns chilly and slows decomposition.

Gardeners have long dealt with keeping the pile together by using pens made of wooden slats, chicken wire or vinyl fencing. Some put their pile in drums mounted on standards and rotate the drum to aerate the

A Canadian firm has a practical way of keeping the pile tidy and working. It markets a plastic bin (tradenamed Soil Saver) that looks something like a squatty, square garbage can. There the resemblance ends. Five slats on each of four sides provide air to all levels of the pile inside. This high degree of exposure to air speeds up decomposition and virtually eliminates odors. There's a lid on the top for adding material and a sliding panel at the bottom for removing finished compost.

I've been experimenting with a Soil Saver for the last 12 months. Its sturdiness, efficiency and easy use and relative good looks are impressive and justify its $100 price tag. The only drawback may be capacity for the gardener in need of lots of compost.

Capacity for most us, though, is not a huge issue arrange their physicals each siince compost can be created in as little as four weeks. The Soil Saver process is continuous so there is usually compost ready at the bottom, providing the right mix of raw materials are added and the pile is stirred in the bin every few weeks. Clinic

FAITH SHOWS YOU HOW TO BEAT THE LATE SUMMER DOLDRUMS

About this time every year, some of us experience a condition known as the late summer doldrums. Suddenly we long for the cooler, more colorful days of autumn that we see on the horizon, and this fills us with a listlessness and lack of purpose. If you are feeling these symptoms, there are remedies at hand. Do something! Write those letters you've been putting off. Clean out that closet and check your fall wardrobe. Take those things you never wear and give them to the poor. Above all, go to your House of Worship each week. It will help revive your spirits and renew your inspiration. Moreover, with a lot of the congregation still away on trips, your presence there will be appreciated more than ever. Faith knows no season, and there's no better time than now to reaffirm

How can you qualify for disability income that starts when your regular income stops? No problem.

Fabric & Country Accents

Bad Axe

Staying financially healthy after an illness or accident can sometimes be rougher than recuperating. That's why Auto-Owners has Disability Income Insurance which qualifies you for payments fast. Just ask your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent about Disability Income protection. It's a healthy way to pay the expenses that don't stop when your regular income does.

Words fail to express our thanks to our family and friends for all of the kindness they have shown us during Karl's illness these past ten months. Thanks to Dr. Ray and Dr. Girgis for all they have done, and to Freda Maust for helping to care for Karl the last week of his

Thanks to Elmer and scott for the fine service they provided. We appreciated so much those who took part in the Memorial Service - Rev. Hastings, those who gave tributes to Karl and for the beautiful music.; for all the foods that was brought in, and for the luncheon following the service we are most grateful.

And as the cards and other expressions of sympathy continue to come, we again say thanks, and may God bless you for your love and concern.
