SATURDAY IS OPENING DAY...

Michigan's 38,000 miles of streams and 7740 lakes will likely cause many people to call in sick over the weekend as the 1991 fishing season officially gets underway Saturday. April 27 marks the opening day of trout, pike, walleye and muskie fishing on inland waters of the Lower Peninsula. There are approximately 1.5 million persons licensed to fish in Michigan, making baiting a hook an industry worth several billion dollars.

LOTS OF ZEBRAS DISCOVERED

The first "major" discovery of zebra mussels in Saginaw Bay has been discovered in the Essexville area. Zebra mussels were discovered at the Consumers Power Co., Karn-Weadock Plant in the main water tunnel during a routine inspection. Reports indicate enough of the pesky mollusks were found to fill a 55-gallon drum last week. The zebra mussel is a clam-like organism that attaches itself to boats, municipal water intakes and other smooth surfaces in the same way as barnacles do, but they are hard to spot with the naked eye. The zebra was found in the Great Lakes in 1986, and the mussel was first spotted in Saginaw Bay and River last spring.

PETROGLYPHS FUNDING SET

Phil Leipprandt leads pork group

By AMY HEIDEN

In his first article for the Michigan Pork Producers Association News, Phil Leipprandt chose to title it "Create Success."

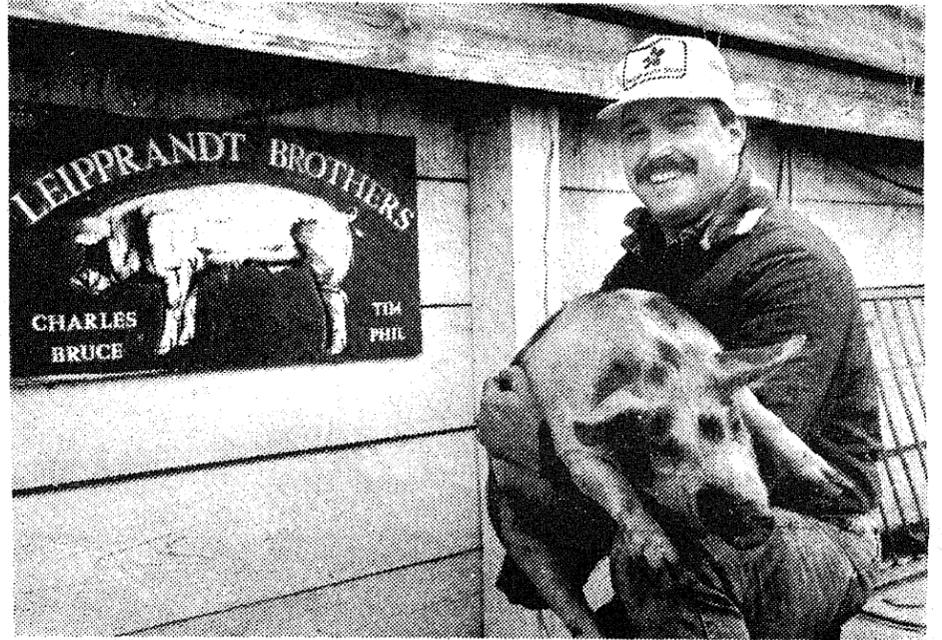

He might well use that title for his own story, as he has risen through the ranks of the state organization to become its latest president, elected in February at their annual meeting in Lansing.

Caseville resident Leipprandt has been an active member of both the state and the Huron County Pork Producers organizations for a number of years, practicing what he preaches about local grassroots involvement.

"I'd like to increase our membership at the local level in order to make sure our money gets spent in the appropriate places," Leipprandt said.

He previously served as a director of the Huron County chapter, a member of the MPPA Executive Committee, and was the organization's vice-president.

In his new position, Leipprandt will be working to attain what pork producers see as their most important goal—to make pork "the meat of choice by the year 2000."

PHIL LEIPPRANDT and one of his "workers."

There are three ways to do that, he says.

"First, we raise the check-off rate. Everyone contributes to that, it's fair and its equitable, and it's going to benefit everybody," Leipprandt said.

Pork producers, with checkoff rates, contribute a portion of the sale of each hog to the national organization for national advertising, lobbying and promotion.

The second way is to maintain lobbying efforts in Congress on behalf of issues affecting agriculture.

The third way is to step up promotional efforts to get pork on Americans' tables, not just at breakfast as sausage.

Ward Carter is Caseville Township's new policeman

By SALLY RUMMEL

Caseville Township will once again have full-time police protection, following months of hard work by the Township Public Safety Commission and the Huron County Sheriff's Department.

Ward Carter, 22, a native of Sebewaing, has been hired by the Sheriff's Department to work exclusively in law enforcement in Caseville Township, unless an emergency call for assistance comes from another area.

His work in the township will be kept separate from the law enforcement work being done in the Village of Caseville by Police Chief Jack Jensen and officer John Gussell.

According to Ken Hill of the Public Safety Commission, this contractual arrangement between the township and the county came about after the retirement of township Police Chief Jack Hopkins a year ago.

"Residents of the township expressed they wanted more police protection, so our Township Board formed a Public Safety Commission to study different alternatives," explained Hill, spokesman for the commission.

After holding several public meetings, the commission put a millage vote to township residents, who voted a one mill increase for two years for increased police protection.

In exchange for the mill, the township agreed to have a 40-hour per week policeman work for the township, plus hire an additional 40-hour policeman for the peak months of summer, May 15 through Sept. 15.

The Public Safety Commission then met with Huron County Sheriff Mike Gage, to see what alternatives

Stirrett steps down from 37-year Laker career

By AMY HEIDEN

Gordon Stirrett says he'll find it hard to step down as Building and Grounds Director for the Laker School District.

After all, he's had the responsibility for every aspect of maintenance for all the district's buildings since 1965, but he's been employed in the schools since 1954.

He's the last school employee left who was with the district when Elkton, Pigeon, and Bay Port consolidated operations in 1958.

But on June 30, he'll retire after 37 years with the school district.

Actually, his stepping down may be harder on the remaining maintenance staff than on Stirrett, says Laker Supt. Robert Drury.

"He has all the mechanical, electrical, and construction diagrams for all the buildings right in his head. His leaving will be a tremendous loss," Drury said.

"He probably has as much concern for each building as he does his own home."

Born in Chandler Township and raised in Elkton, Stirrett starting working at the old Elkton School -- his alma mater -- in 1954, fresh from a stint in Korea with the Army.

He credits Fred Gebert with his hiring.

"He asked the board if they would consider hiring me, and they did," he said. Gebert and his wife Ella were both custodians at the Elkton school and guided Stirrett as he started his new job.

At Elkton, he served as custodian, bus driver, and wherever he was needed. Before he joined the Army he worked at the Elkton Co-op, but once he joined the schools, he decided to stay.

"It wasn't high-paying or anything, but it had security," he said.

Stirrett played a big part in the construction of the Elkton Elementary school in 1955. And after the consolidation in 1958, he helped build the new high school and was there as head custodian when the doors opened in 1960. He became director of buildings and grounds in 1965.

"I've accomplished quite a bit of tasks in my years here," Stirrett says, and the phrase "quite a bit" may be a bit of an understatement.

OBSERVATIONS BY CO-PUBLISHER MARK RUMMEL AND ANYBODY ELSE HE CAN GET TO WRITE 'EM!
SARAH & ANDY UPDATE: This part is being written (and typed) by fourth-grader Sarah:

On Friday, we piled into our tan Taurus to head for Frankenmuth for a convention of the Rotary Club, with 50's music by the Pigeon Flashbacks (Dad's band).

After we got there, we went swimming, until Dad had to play. The next day, Andy and I went on a tour of Frankenmuth until coming home for dance rehearsal. (Good job, Toots! She always finds some activity to keep busy with... and keep smiling about!)

Last week was "Grandparents' Week" at school, and my Dad Walt Rummel very nicely came to class to spend part of his day with Sarah and kindergarten Andy.

Sarah was very hospitable, as she shared lunch with Grandpa and introduced him nicely to her class.

It was a little different with Andy, though. When he was called upon to introduce Grandpa to his classmates, Andy was a typically-shy 6 1/2-year-old. So before he could introduce his Grandpa, Andy had to whisper to his guest, "What's your name?" since he never called him anything except Grandpa!

MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC: Sally and I must be the only people in the world who don't own a compact disk (C.D.) player yet. Why not? Oh, I own plenty of albums, but it seems as though they're going the way of the dinosaur.

And, we've got a few cassettes, since they can also be played in the car, but we just haven't gotten into C.D.s yet, even though ads make it seem as though everyone else is...

What are the 10 most often performed songs of the last 50 years? The music licensing company BMI has kept track, and they say the top 10 (with composers) are:

1. "Yesterday" by Paul McCartney and John Lennon;
2. "Never My Love" by the Dradris brothers;
3. "By the Time I Get to Phoenix" by Jim Webb;
4. "Gentle on My Mind" by John Hartford;
5. "More" by Ciocriolini, Newell, Oliviero and Ortolani;
6. "Something" by George Harrison;
7. "Bridge Over Troubled Water" by Paul Simon;
8. "You've Lost that Lovin' Feelin'" by Barry Mann, Phil Spector and Cynthia Weil;
9. "Mrs. Robinson" by Paul Simon, and
10. "Georgia on My Mind" by Hoagy Carmichael and Stuart Garrell.

DIET ICE CREAM? We who are ice cream lovers may be happy to learn that the U.S. Food & Drug Administration has approved use of the fat substitute Simplesse in frozen desserts.

It's made by the Simplesse Co., a subsidiary of the NutraSweet Co., and is a cholesterol-free, low-calorie fat substitute. "Simple Pleasures" is the brand name under which the first Simplesse desserts will be marketed this summer.

And more may be coming, too. Kraft Foods and Procter & Gamble also have fat substitutes being tested by the FDA... Wouldn't our Great Grandparents be amazed at the variety and type of "imitation" products available these days??

NBC IS TOPS: NBC won the TV networks' 1990-91 ratings race, says the A.C. Nielsen Company. Overall, NBC's "Cheers" had a 34 share (34% of TV's in use watched it), the first time ever that a comedy has been No. 1 in its ninth year on the air.

It was followed by "60 Minutes" on CBS, "Roseanne" on ABC, "A Different World" and "The Cosby Show" on NBC.

plans to open the Petroglyphs from 1 to 5 p.m. Thursday through Sunday from Memorial Day weekend through Labor Day. A staff person will be on site during the open hours for the first time ever, and an estimated $3000 in funding is planned to provide the worker. In past years, volunteer historians/neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Spencer have served as caretakers.

An estimated 3500 persons visit the carvings each summer, which were discovered in the late 1800s after the Thumb forest fires had burned away ground cover on them.

$100,000 BOND IN ELKTON SIEGE

Kenneth J. Prill, 22 of Bad Axe, is being held in the Huron County Jail in lieu of posting a $100,000 bond, after he held an Elkton woman and her two sons at gunpoint in a house on Whalen Street on the night of April 8.

Prill was bound over to Huron County Circuit Court on charges of felonious assault with a dangerous weapon and possession of a firearm during commission of a felony. Police say he smashed a window to enter the house and hold the 28-year-old woman and her 9- and 11-year-old sons at gunpoint until the next morning. Police found a 12-gauge shotgun and shells at the house after the incident.

Prill is scheduled to appear for arraignment on the charges on April 29.

And he'll still answer the call from the school when it comes. "I'm still willing to help when they call. It's been my life, really."

FOURTH-GRADERS AT ELKTON Elementary were thrilled to meet a real live "celebrity" at their school Friday, when WNEM-TV5 anchorperson Lorna Barrett visited the school to read to the students.

Her visit was in celebration of National Library Week and the Great American Read Aloud.

Barrett chose the book "Follow the Drinking Gourd," the story of Peg-Leg Joe who helped fleeing slaves travel to Canada and freedom. And after reading, she fielded plenty of questions from the audience.

"I really think it's important to spend time with children, and reading is a good way to do that," Barrett said. "Since they see me on TV, I try to be a good role model for them."

Stirrett steps

After all, he's supervised the building of the new junior high school in 1978, supervised the renovation of the schools to make them more energy-efficient, convinced the school board to convert the old fuel-oil fired boilers to gas, helped install a generator to keep essential lights on in case of power loss, built the weight room near the gym, and made a press box from the old stage in the gym, and plenty more.

And when he leaves the school at the end of the day, he's still very much in touch. His home phone is connected with a computer in his office that warns him of any malfunction at the secondary school complex.

"That computer warnings system was installed at his request after the school experienced a power failure on a Sunday. A friend had come to check on the buildings that day and found the power out.

"The building was ice cold, the pipes were frozen, and the heater was frozen," he says.

Three plumbers worked on the water pipes, and miraculously, classes were only cancelled for one day.

It wasn't unusual to find Stirrett at the school at 3 a.m., working on a problem when it was needed.

He says his wife Edythe has woken up several times in the middle of the night and later found him at the school, fixing an emergency problem.

What's his motivation for such dedication, which is all too rare these days, when employees hop from job to job?

"I always felt that I just had a job to do and I do it. I've had the opportunity to go other places, but I was always satisfied with what I had here.

"I felt being here at all hours was part of my job. I've never been on an hourly rate," Stirrett says.

When he retires, he says he has plenty of work to do around his yard, but after remodeling his house three times, he won't be trying that again.

Edythe won't retire from her job for another two years, so he'll have plenty of time on his hands.

But it's safe to say that the phone won't stay quiet, since Drury says he'll be keeping in touch with Stirrett on some ongoing school projects.

"We'll continue to use him and his services on such projects as the asbestos removal or the underground storage tanks," Drury said. "But now he doesn't have to worry about being the first one called when a light bulb won't work or the toilets won't flush."

Stirrett may not have a job to go to every morning after July 1, but he'll have no lack of other activities to fill his time.

He's a 32nd Degree Mason, a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, a member of the Elkton VFW Post, and a Shriner. He gives of his time freely to all of them, he says.

As we see it

They're cities of cheese, chairs, chili, churches, etc!

Grand Rapids is Furniture City, as you may or may not know. Detroit is the Motor City and Flint is Buick City, while Denver, Col., is the Mile-High City. So many of these town nicknames come from proud town fathers hoping to gain notoriety that it seems all sizes of communities are trying the "name game" even today.

Maybe you knew that New York City is the Big Apple, but did you realize that Sheboygan, Wis., is the City of Cheese, Chairs, Children and Churches? City leaders there REALLY bit off a big bite with a moniker like that, right?

From Boston -- the Athens of America -- to Fairbanks -- known as Frostbite, Alaska -- many towns have nicknames that honor their dominant industry or celebrate tourist attractions or other past glories. And you wouldn't believe how many of these exist across our land!

April's edition of American Heritage magazine has put together a huge list of these names, and it's amazing to behold. Most are informal, many are anachronisms -- and almost all are incredibly corny!

Take the honor of being Athens, for instance. Boston may claim to be the Athens of the whole country, but Lexington, Ky., is the Athens of the West, Waco is the Athens of Texas, Fayetteville is the Athens of Arkansas, Leonia is the Athens of New Jersey and so on! Tulsa, Ok., is the Most Northern Southern City. Got that?

Pullman, Ill., is the City of Brick. New Haven, Conn., is the City of Elms -- a glamor that has faded since the spread of Dutch elm disease. Hoboken, N.J., is the Mile Square City and Lake Placid, N.Y., is America's Switzerland. Elsewhere in New York State, Albany calls itself America's Edinburgh.

Rapid City is the Denver of South Dakota and Lincoln, Neb., is the Hartford of the West. Its namesake, Hartford, Conn., meanwhile calls itself the Insurance City.

Some towns can't decide what they are. Rochester, N.Y., is both Snapshot City (home to Kodak's headquarters) and the City Built By Hands. Plus, the American Heritage story points out, Fairbanks, Alaska is also known as the Kansas City of Alaska.

Times may change, but some nicknames stay around and around and around. Westfield, Mass., is known as Whip City -- even though buggy whips aren't selling as well as when the moniker was earned back at the turn of the century. Nearby Holyoke, Mass., is called the Paper City, although that industry moved away long ago.

So, perhaps calling local towns like Bay Port the Perch Capital of Michigan, Caseville the Swimming Capital, Sebawaing the Walleye Capital and Pigeon the Farming Capital of Michigan aren't so far out of line, after all!

sage and bacon, but with other cuts as well.

"The McRib at McDonald's was successful, but we need to develop more of these markets," he said. "Pork is already into the breakfast line, but when you get out of that, you're more limited."

Leipprandt has been raising feeder pigs since 1978, as a member of West Huron Farrowing Enterprises near Pigeon. West Huron maintains about 850 sows and sends out its feeder pigs to be finished out for market.

He receives 500 feeder pigs every four months, feeding out 1,600-1,700 pigs per year, about 10 percent of the enterprise's production.

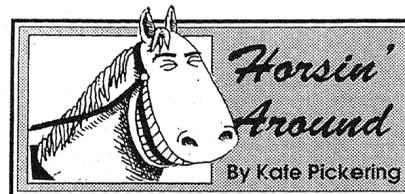

Control of the genetics of his pigs and having a single source of quality animals are the biggest advantages of being a partner in the farrowing enterprise, Leipprandt said.

He received his Bachelors and Masters degrees in Agricultural Education from Michigan State University, then taught school in Laingsburg for a short time.

He then returned home to become a partner in the family farming operation with the father Charles, uncle Bruce and brother Tim. They currently farm nearly 1,900 acres of cash crops such as sugar beets, corn, dry beans, oats, wheat, and hay.

Leipprandt and his wife Sherry, who owns Sherry's Dance Studio in Pigeon, have three children, Phil, Jr., 15, Chris, 8 and Cody, 5.

BATTLE AT WOUNDED KNEE

Last week I watched a most disturbing short news report on CNN about several Sioux Indians re-enacting the ride to Wounded Knee, South Dakota that 300 of their ancestors rode 100 years ago.

It wasn't a war party that headed out that frigid winter of 1890 - it was a frightened and starving band of men, women, and children who were fleeing from their small reservation for fear of their lives. They had heard of the recent, unprovoked shooting death of neighboring Sioux Chief Sitting Bull by something called "The Indian Police," and - fearing that these police might also come for them - the Indians gathered their belongings and fled.

But the cavalry interpreted this sudden and swift movement as an affront, an obvious war party. At Wounded Knee Creek the military met up with the fleeing Indians, rounded them up, took their horses, disarmed them and gunned them down... yes, all 300 weaponless Sioux Indians - women and children too - who were on the move simply in an effort to avoid being gunned down! Only about 50 wounded people survived the massacre.

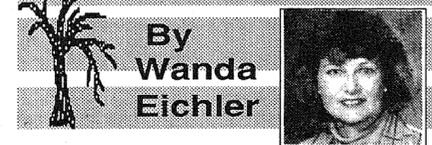

After the bodies lay on the frozen prairie for over a week, a mass grave dubbed "Death Gulch" was dug by order of the Federal Government, and the Indians thrown in and buried.

Several of the cavalymen who participated in the slaughter were awarded the Congressional Medal Of Honor for their "heroic efforts" in the battle.

The news reporter had procured some grizzly ancient photos of the many huddled, dead bodies, the mass grave where the Indians were buried, and one particularly eerie picture of the elderly Sioux Chief Big Foot who led his people to their untimely fate. In the photo it looks as though he struggled to the last, propped up on both elbows - frozen stiff.

So, what's my point? I guess I don't have one, and neither did the reporter on CNN. But then again... neither, apparently, did the soldiers who killed 300 innocent Sioux Indians On December 29, 1890 at Wounded Knee.

From Under The Willow

THE GOOD EARTH

In these spring days when the rivers and land awaken to another season of planting and growth, it is time to remind ourselves of the goodness of the earth. The National Association of Soil and Water Conservation is celebrating a week that again reminds us of the importance of conserving soil and water. Here in the Thumb where our soil and water are a source of agriculture and tourism, we would do well to pause to consider these precious resources.

Liberty Hyde Bailey, in his little book, "The Holy Earth" says: "We seem to have overlooked the goodness of the earth in the establishing of our affairs and even in our philosophies. It is reserved as a theme for preachers and for poets. And yet, the goodness of the planet is the basic fact of our existence."

Bailey, who was a professor at Cornell at the beginning of the century, had a sense that the earth was being squandered. He lived in the days when national parks were just being set aside, when Theodore Roosevelt was championing the cause of conservation in a way that no president had done yet.

We live in a different era. Just last weekend, Brewster Shaw, the Cass City born and bred astronaut, showed the area's Rotary Clubs photos of the earth that were taken from 130 miles out in space. Shaw said that in the years that he has been doing space shots, he has noticed the graying of the earth from pollution.

He showed photos of the Los Angeles basin and told how the smog covering is advancing in over the land in the LA area. Cities appear as gray spots of concrete on the 130 mile photos. Heavy and polluted air is obvious even from that far out in space. Shaw's message was that we need to take care of the planet. His was a gentle, but firm reminder that the soil and air and environment that we have can be spoiled.

It's a long way from the turn of the century. It's a long way from the classrooms of Cornell to the confines of a space orbiter. Yet, there are two men of very different disciplines telling us the same thing. "The earth is holy. Take good care of it."

Makes you think twice about recycling and planting trees, doesn't it? The earth is good. Let's keep it that way.

RECOLLECTIONS
Of By-Gone Days
BY GEORGE KEIM

Last week one day, I heard some of our young farmers talk about some tractors that had a lot of horse power and what they could all pull and how many acres they could go over in such a short time. They have to because they have so many acres to work and then when I talk to some of my old friends, we always end up saying we worked hard, but were just as happy as a lot of these young guys are.

Once I hired somebody to do my combining and harvesting my crops. He was in the field on a big $80,000 rig. I gave him a check for $700 and he thanked me for it and said that would pay his interest for a few days.

Well, he was a lot younger than I am, but I wouldn't trade places with him. Years ago, this time of the year, we farmers would clear a spot of the barn floor and take some oats out of the bin and run it through our farming mill, which every farmer had and spray it with formaldehyde and cover it up with a tarp 'til we were ready to sow it. We always sowed our oats on bean ground and as soon as the ground was a little dry on top, we'd get our oats sowed.

A lot of times it snowed on it and we got some very cold weather, but it always came up. If you got 70 bushels per acre, you had a good crop. But some of our oats went 100 bushels, but it used to test 38 and if you put it in a bushel basket, it didn't fill it. I never had a big tractor but I used to have four good horses and a three section spring tooth harrow. Once I harrowed 10 acres over and planted it in two days and I thought I did pretty well.

The strange thing about oats is that you had to trade seed oats with somebody a few miles away every other year or your seed didn't produce too well.

I was at a sale awhile ago and I got a grass seeder -- one that you swang a horn back and forth. I had one with a crank on it and one with a fiddle bow.

A lot of people don't even know anything about a grass seeder, but I used to wait 'til a wind still day and I'd go out in the field and try to seed 10 acres 'til noon.

If the weather was good, I could do a good job. Most of our land wasn't tilled, but we used to run furrows in our fields and that got rid of most of the water.

I was looking around in my machine shed and found a big wooden hammer. Every spring, most of us farmers went down our lanes and pounded our fence posts down. That was the hired man's job.

I don't read the Bible as much as I should, but if any of you want to read something very interesting, read the Book of Genesis and I'm sure you'll get a new idea about the wisdom of God and how this old world was formed. Even if we think we know a lot, we haven't even started yet.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS: She LOVES local Library!

DEAR EDITOR:
The Pigeon District Library is wonderful!

On a recent weekend visit with friends, I was introduced to your Pigeon District Library. A personal tour was conducted by Librarian Naomi Jantzi. The positive influence of the Public Library is demonstrated well in Pigeon.

The big, beautiful dramatic picture of life is all there. A public library is something wonderful, uplifting and grand. Images and facts of spirit, symbols, traditions, discoveries, changes and refinements of our ancestral voice -- in units and collectively -- rest within the public library.

The deep, underlying worth of the public library is that it cradles our reach for freedom: the promise that Literacy is Liberty.

This letter is written especially to thank all the extraordinary people who've had a part in, and who continue the excellent service and reputation of the Pigeon District Library. Ultimately, we all gain by this significant gift.

IN SINCERE APPRECIATION,
Peg McClain,

BYFC thanks Gascho

Dwight Gascho was honored by the staff and directors of Bluewater Youth for Christ for his many years of service to the organization, at their annual banquet.

Gascho of Pigeon served 14 years as executive director till he stepped down to become administrator of Scheurer Hospital last May. He was presented with a clock, with an engraved plate recognizing "the years of work providing effective ministry to the teens of Huron County. The award was presented by BYC executive director Ken Smeader.

Over 500 teens and adults were present at the April 16 banquet, and over $40,000 was raised for the work of the organization. A program of singing was

Laker girls split Valley Luth. twinbill

The Laker girls' softball split a twinbill with Valley Lutheran in last week's games.

The Lady Lakers won the first game 11-1. Neither team could score until the third inning, when Beth Roestel moved two runners up with a sacrifice bunt and Brenda Beyer hit a double, scoring both runners.

With Beyer on second, D.J. Ferris walked, then Holly Esch hit Beyer in with a single up the middle.

Jody Beachy hit Ferris in with a shot down the third base line, the Hollie Born finished off the six-run inning with a two RBI double.

Valley Lutheran's only run came in the bottom of the third with a lead-off single to center field. The runner went to second when the Laker center fielder mishandled the ball. She was then sacrificed to third and scored on an infield hopper.

The Lakers came back in the fourth inning with five more runs. With one out, Roestel and Beyer hit back-to-back singles. Ferris walked to load the bases.

Esch then hit a two rbi double and Ferris scored on a passed ball. Born hit Esch with a three bag smash down the right center gap. Jenny Henne then singled Born in to score.

The game ended after five innings under the 10 run mercy rule.

Jody Beachy completed the game, giving up just three hits, five walks, and three strikeouts.

In the second half of the doubleheader, the Chargers turned the tables on the Lakers, winning 11-8. Ferris put the Lakers on the scoreboard first when Esch singled her to third, then Ferris scored on a passed ball. The Chargers came back in the bottom of the inning with two runs on three walks and a single.

Both teams were scoreless in the second inning, but in the third, Ferris walked and scored from third on an infield hopper to tie the game 2-2.

The Lakers got the lead back in the fourth with two runs, when Henne singled, Kelly Champagne walked, Roestel hit Henne in, then Champagne scored on Ferris' slow roller to shortstop.

In the fifth, the Lakers failed to score, and Valley Lutheran led off with a triple to deep center field. They got a total of four runs before the inning was over, and led 6-4.

The Lakers once again took the lead in the sixth with singles coming from Tracy Filion and Ferris to make the score 8-6. But Valley Lutheran came back in the bottom with five runs on four singles. The Lakers went down 1-2-3 in the last.

Laker netters win

The Laker tennis team got their season off to a good start with a 7-0 win over Imlay City last Tuesday, then followed up with a 5-2 victory over Frankenmuth.

In the matches against Imlay City, Bato Navaro won number one singles against Josh Drisoll 6-2, 7-5. Dan Gonzales defeated Nate

Hope is the Anchor

"WE HAVE THIS HOPE AS AN ANCHOR FOR THE SOUL, FIRM AND SECURE." Hebrews 6:19

Where would we be without hope? How would we see our future if we had no hope? Hope can mean achieving a goal, gaining a degree of comfort, or overcoming a fear or despair.

For Christians, hope is based on the sure knowledge that God will comfort us and care for us—in this world and the next.

Through the Bible we even know the name of this hope. It is Christ!

We need hope in this sin-sick world, where many of the long-held values seem to be losing out to the greedy, the bad, and the evil.

But even in this sick world, we find our hope in the most unlikely place—at the foot of the cross. There, in the darkest hour of history, God shone His light on a dying Jesus which gives us the hope, the anchor for our soul.

Thus, we recognize that hope is God's gift, presented daily for strength and confidence.

Without hope there would be little to live for in this world, or the next.

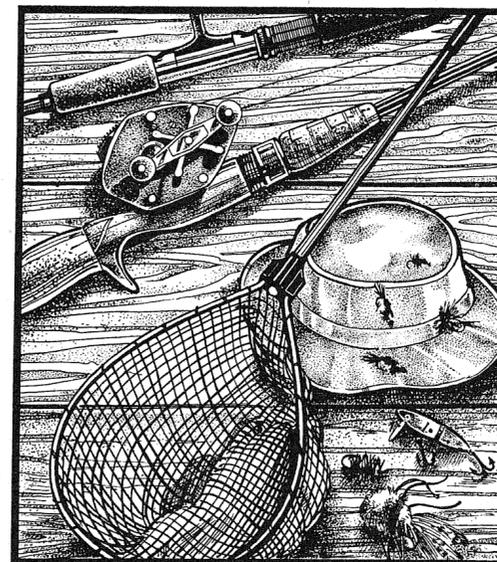

With hope, we have it all, the firm and secure anchor that shines through us to everyone around us.

Lord, help us see that God is at work in us, turning the dark into eternal light. Amen.

there might be to hiring their own police officer.

The commission members felt it would be more cost effective to work through the county so that the township wouldn't have to deal with the administrative aspects of hiring their own officer.

They also hoped a 40-hour policeman hired by the county would be able to spend 100% of his time protecting residents of the township, rather than up to a quarter of a week's time in paperwork.

Huron County Sheriff Gage also sees advantages in the arrangement for the county.

Now he doesn't have to dispatch a deputy from the other side of the county when a call for help comes from Caseville Township. He knows for sure that there is adequate protection in Caseville Township, one of the busiest locations in the county during the summer. And Gage adds he already has the administrative costs of scheduling, liability insurance, etc. with his other deputy officers out on the road.

"These commission members have really worked hard to make this police agreement work," said Gage. "They have literally spent days in meetings this year, trying to work out the best arrangement for the township and its residents."

All of the commission members expressed praise for the work of new officer Carter, who has been on the job full-time since March 23. "Undersheriff Dave Neuendorf and Mike Gage certainly did an outstanding job in selecting candidates," expressed Hill. "Carter has really impressed me personally since he has been on the job."

NEW CASEVILLE TOWNSHIP police officer Ward Carter comes to his new job with an impressive background of education and strong goals for the future.

A graduate of Kirtland Community College in Roscommon, Carter earned his Criminal Justice degree in preservice and administration. He also received a 15-credit certificate in Corrections, enabling him to accept a state job in the area of Corrections.

His job in Caseville Township is his first full-time position in police work and Carter says he's planning on "learning day-by-day." A USA High School 1987 graduate, he is the son of Janet and Jeri Carter of Sebawaing.

CASEVILLE KIWANIS CLUB

By CHARLIE KIRK, Reporter

Members of the Caseville Kiwanis Club and their guests became guests in turn of Administrator Dwight Gascho at Scheurer Hospital in Pigeon on April 16.

An enjoyable and tasty luncheon, complete with freshly-baked bread, was served by members of the staff. Kiwanian Bud Lankey was heard to remark it was his first meal at the hospital that someone didn't say, "You can't eat that," which made his day.

Superintendent Jim Stahl, as director of the program, wasted no time in showing off the talents of four of his students. All four were FHA members.

Stacey Meissner demonstrated her public speaking talent by presenting a speech entitled "Teenage Suicide." Kim Pittenger, Erica Jones and Stephany Maust then presented a skit demonstrating Social Skills training.

Paul Clabuesch, chairman of the Board of Directors at Scheurer Hospital, spoke to highlight the fact that although the facilities are located in Pigeon, the hospital serves all of the Western part of the Thumb and draws support from many communities.

Host Dwight Gascho, shared with his audience that Scheurer Hospital is accredited and has recently been given an "A" by the Accreditation Focus Committee. He then shared his concern regarding the impact of possible Medicare cuts on patient access to full health services.

Other areas of interest covered included physician recruitment, resident care and long-term care programs, plans for a retirement center as part of the hospital complex and current educational classes, including CPR and Lamaze Childbirth Preparation.

He beamed with pride as he lauded the projection of concern and caring in a professional manner by every member of the staff. Gascho concluded with a grand and educational tour of the hospital.

Kiwanis President Mike Power presented Gascho with a $100 contribution to the Hospital Fund, on behalf of the Kiwanis Club of Caseville.

BAY PORT WOMAN'S CLUB

President Jan Forge led in the Pledge to the Flag and prayed the Club Collect. During the business meeting, reports were given; decisions concerning donations to be made; May 14 plans to visit Dow Gardens; next year's meeting place was determined; a bake-sale on June 1 was set.

All present officers are to remain in place for another year.

Roll call was "My Favorite Flower." Mrs. Wooster then conducted a challenging contest called "Flower Feud," patterned after the TV game "Family Feud." Only authentic answers were accepted, concerning names to flowers that were needed to win. The questions were about annuals, perennials and seedlings. The winning side was given bookmarks decorated with dried flowers, also made by Mrs. Wooster.

Each member present was given a handmade gift.

1936. She told of some of the programs and also of projects accomplished by the club. This included the Flowing Well, the town clock, help with the Village Park and many years ago purchasing new stage curtains for the Elkton School.

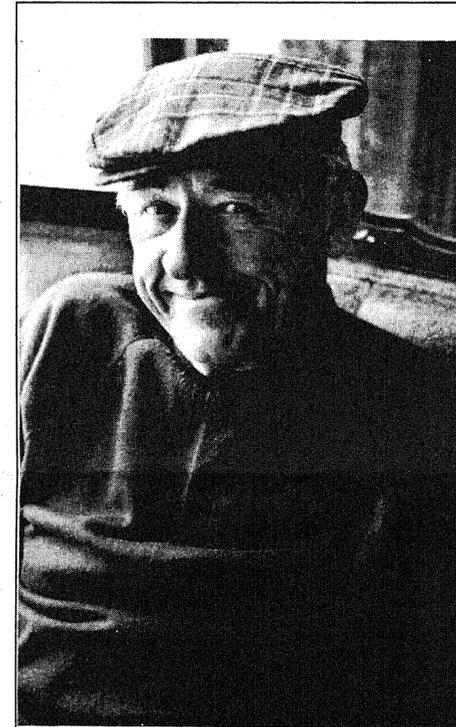

Election of officers was held. The officers are President Phyllis Snider, Vice President Betty Elsser, Secretary Della Trudgen and Treasurer Rosa Mae Krohn.
