Chicks, chicks, and more chicks!

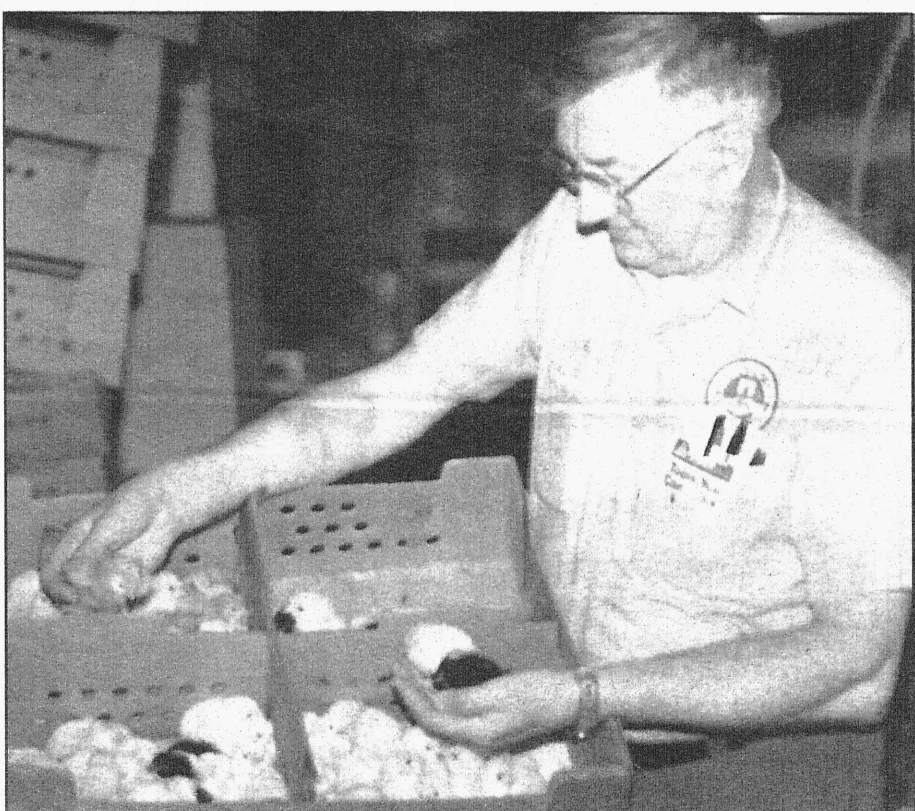

More than 2,800 chicks — ranging from bronze turkeys to White Mountain broilers to Pekin ducks — made their presence known at the Co-operative Elevator's Sebewaing office during Chick Day last week.

Store Manager Ken Licht said the chicks were hatched less than 24 hours before delivery to the Co-op... but lack of maturity didn't mean lack of noise!

The Co-op store's storage room was alive with the din of the chicks' cheeping and peeping.

HERE, Licht proudly displays a box of the colorful little cheepers.

Keena is A-F principal

Joseph Keena of Sebewaing is the new Akron-Fairgrove School's junior/senior high school principal. Keena replaces James Ross, who is resigning at the end of the school year.

Keena recently resigned as marketing instructor at the Huron Area Skill Center, Bad Axe. Before that he served for about nine years as a business teacher at Lakers.

"We are looking forward to his move to our district to become a part of our community," said Supt. Kenneth Tafts.

Keena has a bachelor's and master's degree from Michigan State University. He will take over his new position Friday, July 1, with a starting salary of $53,000.

Keena was selected from a field of 18 applicants for the position.

Sebewaing grave tour is May 22 for Memorial Day

The annual Graves Decoration Tour for Deceased Veterans interred in the Sebewaing area will be conducted Sunday, May 22, by members of Sebewaing American Legion Post 293 and VFW Post 4115.

All members of the Posts, along with other ex- and present-servicemen, are urged to participate. Meeting time is 1 p.m. sharp, at American Legion Hall on M-25.

The group will start at St. John's Lutheran Cemetery in Sebewaing, then move on to Sebewaing Cemeteries Complex on Bay and Mill Streets, followed by New Salem Cemetery on Caro Road.

The group will then travel to St. Peters Lutheran Cemetery near Bach, and will close at Sebewaing Township Cemetery on West Bay Street.

As computed on May 3, 1994, there is a total of 294 graves which will be decorated this year.

An American flag will be placed on each individual veteran's grave, and appropriate ceremonies will be conducted at each cemetery.

A breakdown of area veterans' war services is as follows:

Civil War - 9	Spanish-American War - 2
World War I - 82	World War II - 141
Korea - 28	Vietnam - 18
Peacetime - 14	Total - 294

Lunch and refreshments will be served at American Legion Hall, Post 293, following all rituals.

(Information was compiled by Don Rundell of Sebewaing).

The long and bumpy road...

After years of complaining about Pigeon Road (M-142) between Elkton and Pigeon, motorists will soon have a nice, smooth road to drive on.

Ah, but there's a catch. You'll have to wait until the middle of August to really enjoy the road to its smooth-riding fullest — because that's when construction is expected to be finished.

Lakers looks at Young 5's program

By AMY HEIDEN

Parents of five-year olds sometimes face a dilemma when deciding whether or not to send their child to kindergarten.

Their child may be eligible by turning five before Dec. 1, but parents may feel the child is not quite mature enough or academically ready.

So Laker School District officials are exploring a "Young 5's" program, which would allow those not-quite-ready children to get a leg up on kindergarten.

Supt. Robert Drury said the principals of the district's three elementary schools will be surveying parents to determine if such a program is feasible.

At least 15 children must be enrolled for the district to offer the program, and a half-time teacher would be hired.

The program would follow the same format as the current kindergarten program, in which children attend school three days a week, Drury said.

The School Board got a bit of good news when informed of a reduction in its premium for property and casualty insurance.

The district's insurance carrier, SET/SEG, an arm of the Michigan Association of School Boards, insures the district in a pool with other districts, and as fewer claims were made this past year, the premium will be reduced by 15%.

The district also received a check for $27,350 as a dividend on the premium, Drury said.

In other business, the Laker School Board:

■ Accepted a letter of resignation from high school Nathan Blecke. Blecke's resignation takes effect immediately, as he will be trying out for the Detroit Neon, a professional soccer team.

■ Learned that graduation ceremonies will be held Sunday, May 29 at 2 p.m. Alumnus Alison Eicher will be the commencement speaker, and Board member Clare Swart-zendruber will hand out diplomas to the graduates.

■ Accepted a letter of retirement from Elkton Elementary paraprofessional Lois Bruderrick, who will be retiring at the end of the current school year.

Art, dulcimers this Saturday

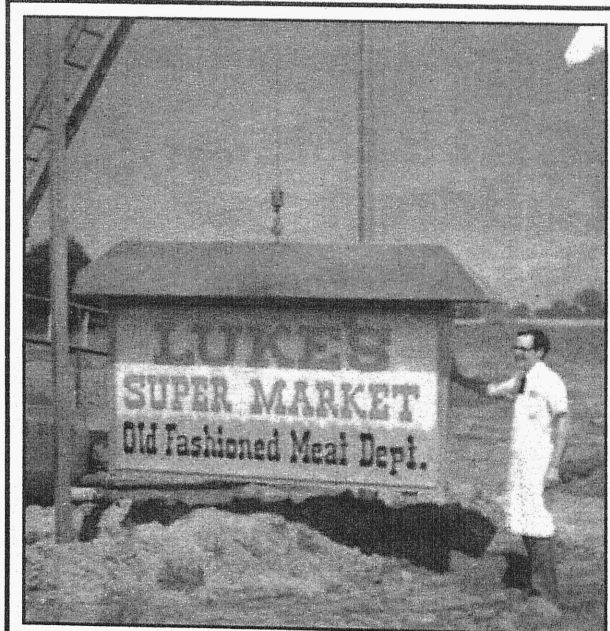

Sleeper State Park in Caseville will be alive with the sweet sounds of Dulcimers playing and Huron County artisans working their crafts this Saturday, May 21 — helping to celebrate the 75th Anniversary of Michigan State Parks.

All types of art, including paintings, photography, woodcarving, pottery, stained glass and more, will be exhibited — some for sale — on the grounds of the picnic area from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There is still more room for artists and pre-registration by calling park headquarters at 856-4411, according to Manager Roy Elie.

Everyone is invited to a Dulcimer Contest at the west end of the camping area from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

"Bring along a lawn chair and join us for an evening of fine entertainment," invites Elie.

IT WAS 20 YEARS AGO in 1974 that Don Bollstetter, the owner of the new Luke's Market, watched as the first sign was erected on M-25 south of Sebewaing, pointing to the original building of his grocery store's new mall.

Co-op Elevator now state's largest

By MARY DRIER

A $1.5 million construction project is underway at the Akron Plant of Cooperative Elevator — making the Pigeon-based company the largest-capacity elevator in Michigan.

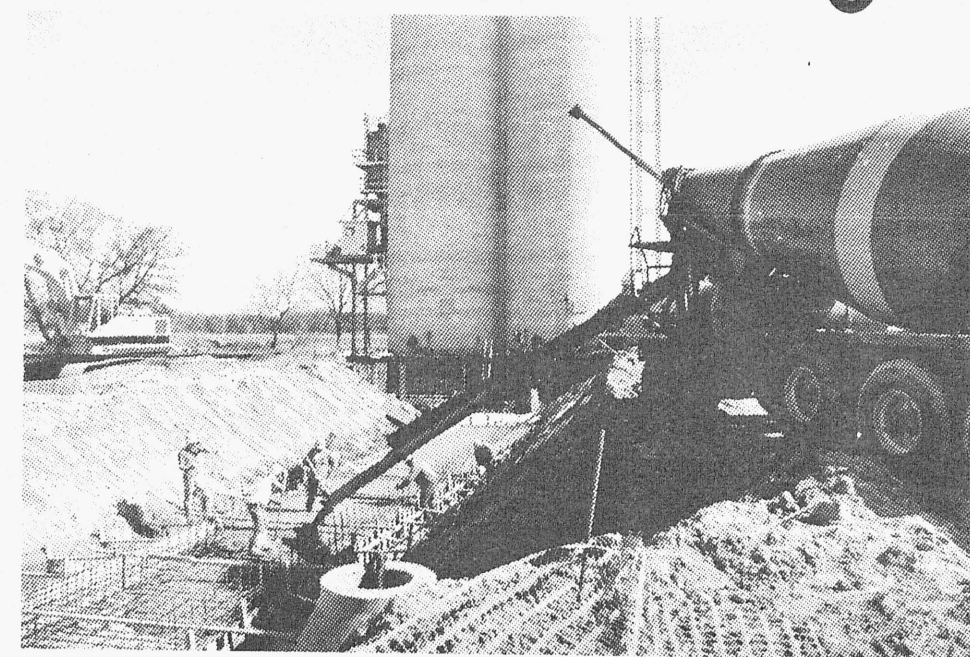

"We are adding 750,000 bushel of grain storage, a new grain dryer and another receiving pit," said John P. Kohr, Co-op Elevator president and CEO.

"We're building three steel storage containers, two 75-foot in diameter and one 60-foot in diameter." Also, the company is replacing its old scale and will build a new office and warehouse. Saginaw Foundation of Saginaw is general contractor on the project. The expansion will create two additional jobs. Completion is expected by August, in time for this year's harvest.

The company has requested an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate, allowing a 50% property tax break for 12 years on the cost of the project.

A public hearing on the exemption is scheduled this Tuesday, May 17, at the Akron Village Hall at 7:30 p.m.

"This work will complete our grain- and bean-receiving facility here," said Kohr. The Co-op spent $1.6 mil-

"Altogether the Akron Plant will have a storage capacity of 1.2 million bushels storage, with four receiving pits

The Akron Plant serves about 250 customers, said

AKRON Plant Manager Ron Will.

"This project is great. I'm glad to see it happen in the Akron Area," said Will.

Laker Band wins internationally!

By AMY HEIDEN

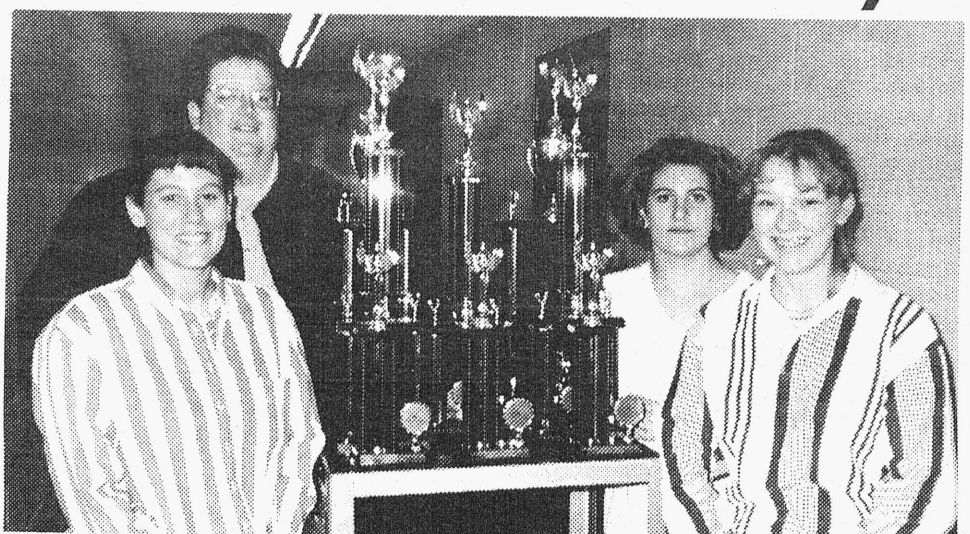

History was made at Laker High recently, when its high school band traveled to Toronto for the "Music in the Park Series" international competition.

The band was so successful that — had they won another trophy or two — they might have needed to hire a U-Haul trailer to bring back their hard-earned loot.

As it was, they needed extra room to bring home the eight trophies they did win in the prestigious competition.

And what an impression they made.

Resurfacing and repaving the shoulders of the 4 1/2 mile stretch of highway began Monday, as workers from Saginaw Asphalt of Carrollton showed up with their machines. There may be some delays as driving lanes are repaired, and traffic will be controlled by flaggers. Patience is advised, but that should be easy as local drivers have been waiting for years for the heavily-traveled road to be repaved. — By AMY HEIDEN

USA sells school building

Only one bid was received this week, to buy USA School District's Middle School building in Sebewaing.

AJD Management, Inc. of California submitted the lone bid of $150,001 for the 55,000 square-foot middle school and its 21.50 acres, site of the former Sebewaing High School.

The company plans to use the structure for a senior citizens' living complex.

In a special meeting Saturday, USA Board of Education members approved accepting the purchase offer, pending a formal written agreement worked out by attorneys. That's expected in time for action at the 7 p.m. meeting on June 13.

The agreement is only provisional, because of possible contamination from underground gasoline storage tanks. "The risk of extensive contamination is too great to go ahead without this provision to back away," said Timothy Downing, president of AJD. Removal of the tanks and soil testing is expected within the next month.

If the site proves "environmentally satisfactory," Downing plans to convert the school into a 55-unit assisted housing facility for senior citizens.

USA is selling the facility because it is building a new Middle School wing at the USA High School complex, on M-25 between Unionville and Sebewaing. Completion of the wing and finalization of the Middle School property sale is expected in September, 1995.

Downing estimates it will take about a year after securing the property to make necessary renovations, using mostly local contractors for the work.

When the complex is complete, it will create about 10 full-time jobs. Also, long range plans are to build an additional 200-unit assisted-living complex on the back part of the property, near Bay Street, and to consider allowing Bay Medical Services to build a medical clinic on the south side of the property off Bay Street. — By MARY DRIER

In Tuscola County, both judicial elections are uncontested. Tuscola Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent, Jr. and Circuit Court Judge Patrick Joslyn are unopposed for re-election to their six-year seats.

As we see it

Size of a man isn't just physical height

This past week's sudden death of former Gov. John Swainson was sad, yet gives pause for reflection of just how far a person can go in life... even if he has no legs to stand on.

Born in Windsor, Ont., 68 years ago, Swainson grew up in Port Huron and seemed destined for leadership roles from his youth on: longtime Boy Scout, later an Eagle Scout, captain of his high school football team, leading scholar and so on. An engaging speaker with a firm handshake and friendly smile, Swainson had "success" written all over him.

Then, World War II completely changed John Swainson's life. While on patrol one night, he stepped on a land-mine and woke up several days later with "my stumps," where his legs had been. The land-mine destroyed his legs just below the knees — and that cruel war deed might have made a lesser man bitter forever. But not John Swainson.

In public, he almost never mentioned his "handicap." In private, the only reference he would make to himself was in humorous terms. Artificial legs were fitted and John Swainson walked on through life, never looking back.

He got his bachelor's degree, married and earned his law degree. While fathering three children, he became a state senator, lieutenant governor under G. Mennen Williams and then was elected Michigan's youngest governor of this century.

Even after he was defeated by Republican George Romney in 1962, Swainson kept going. He became a state Supreme Court justice and later served with love and attention as president of the Michigan Historical Commission. John Swainson never had time to look back.

What most people DIDN'T know about Swainson was the comfort and support he gave to other amputees, without fanfare or payment. A Detroit Free Press report recalled how he took off his artificial legs for a three-year-old boy who lost both his feet in a haymower — proving life must go on. He was even known to bounce on a small trampoline, calling himself "the world's shortest ex-governor."

John Swainson never gave up. He never gave in. Even today's Gov. John Engler, while exactly opposite Swainson's ideology, said "John Swainson's legacy is this: Never quit! He was a man of great courage who overcame tremendous obstacles to achieve a remarkable career."

Who of us, whether 18, 38, 68 or 98 years old, could ask for any more of an epitaph? John Swainson is gone, but he'll never be fully forgotten... for he stood TALL.

Solch ein wein!

Heute gibt es eine kurze Lesson zum ein Deutsches Wort aus-straichtenen. In April fangen Dandelions an zu blühen, und in Mai sind Sie in full-blossom, so wunderte ich wie man "Dandelion" sagt auf Deutsch.

Ich hab meine kleine Dictionary consulted, und fand das die Englische Dandelion ist ein "Loewenzahn" und das hat mir confusiert weil ich dachte das wir immer den Name gaben zu "Snapdragons." Da hat die Dictionary mir wieder ge-rescued, while Snapdragon heisst "Loewenmaul" (Lion's Mouth) in Deutsch. Die Dandelion ist ein Loewenzahn (Lion's Tooth). So, das ist aus-ge-straightened.

About 20 Jahre ago hat mein Nachbar, Sam, mir convinced das wir sollen nicht die Dandelions wassen, weil es war ein Banner Year fuer Dandelions und sie waren gross und numerous. Wir fanden Sie in ein Pasture, Millions davon, und weil die Blumen im tiefen Grass wachsten, standen die Blossoms hoch im Grass und wir konnten Sie easily picken. Sam hat mir ge-notified das mann muss nur die Blossoms picken, keine Blätter, kein Stem und nicht even den green Calyx unter die Petals. "Das gibt Wein ein bitter Taste," hat Sam ge-warned.

So haben wir gepickt, und gepickt und gepickt. Es nahm eine lange Zeit, aber endlich hatten wir 4 oder 5 Shopping Bags voll mit Dandelion Blossoms. Wir hatten ein 20-Gallone Crock in Sam's garage und ein 10-Gallone Crock in unsere Garage.

Wir haben die Blossoms aus-ge-weighed zum sure machen das wir die richtige Proportions hatten.

Dann wurde Boiling Wasser herueber ge-poured, etwas Zucker und eine tighte cotton Dopper Sheet ueber den Top gebunden.

Wir hatten Zucker ready fuer die appointed Zeit, und Rosinen, und Kirschen, koestliche Flavors und etliche secret Ingredients.

Unter die Cotton Sheet fing die Brie an zu bubbeln und gurgeln, und wir fanden schnell das wenn wir die Garage Tueren aufliessen kamen Honeybees und even Butterflies hinein und haben herum ge-fluttered.

Of course, die Cotton Sheet hielt die Insekten heraus, aber es war obvious das Sie haben sich enjoyed.

Jetzt geben wir den Wein eine Woche zu "worken," und wir werden Euch nexte Woche den tragic Comission erzaehlen about mein prachtvoller Loewenzahn Wein.

Die Moral in die Story ist das obwohl alles zuerst gut aussieht, Danger und Schmerzen lurken nahebei.

'Least, or most?'

"He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much," LUKE 16:10a

The matter of being "faithful" comes up many, many times in the Bible, in the Old Testament as early as Numbers and all the way through Revelation.

Being faithful is described in numerous ways—always in a positive, God-pleasing manner.

Faithful is, we see through reading the Bible, desirable, even vital, in everything—not only in big things, but in small, unseen actions as well.

Being faithful is often presented as a "test," whether we prove ourselves worthy or not.

In Luke, the warning is that being faithful in "least things" qualifies us to be faithful in much.

In contrast, we also read that those who are unfaithful in wrong and false things, will surely not be trusted in "true riches." And, if one is not faithful handling another person's possessions, who would trust someone with his own?

Finally, in The Revelation, St. John tells of the suffering and tribulation we may face, and then he shows us how to cope, and what is truly the eternal prize.

In Revelation 2:10b he tells readers of the final prize, the most-needed result, in these words, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

That's it: Faithfulness in small things as well as big, and faithful to our God and Savior in the final trial, as we pass from this life to death. There, for the faithful, the Crown of Life awaits.

B. of Sebawaing: If we're talking about education, I just saw a survey that said German and French high school students spend more than 3,200 hours on required courses, such as English, math, science and so on. But we Americans spend 1,460 hours on those classes. We will never beat them, or even catch up to them, until we study the basics more and in a longer school year.

D. of Caseville: We see they are opening a casino in Windsor, across from Detroit. Do we really need another one? After all, we have them in Mount Pleasant and Sault Ste. Marie. I think there will be too many of them.

(Casino Windsor opens today (Tuesday.) D., but remember that's in Ontario, not Michigan, and it's Ontario's first casino. They DO expect about 80% of their players to be from the U.S., though...)

W. of Caseville: I cannot believe we will ever make it as a country with such narrow-minded people. These NRA people say they are having their right to bear arms taken away because a small number of assault weapons are being banned. Wake up, folks!

You need a license to drive a car, go fishing and have a dog, but not to own an assault rifle! Wake up, our priorities are wrong.

M. in Pigeon: When are they (Channel 5) going to replace Mike Hoffman, the weatherman? (Channel 5 says they're looking for a full-time meteorologist, and are having staffers fill in until then. Hoffman went to an Indiana TV station, to be closer to his family and home.)

A. in Pigeon: When is Caseville's Bowfishing Tournament? (The Great Lakes Bowfishing Tourney is June 4 and 5.)

P. of Bay Port: Why haven't we had any big Lottery winners from around here? I don't know of one in the past 10 years. (Good question, with two answers: first, Lottery officials now let winners take their money and not be publicly identified, where they formerly had to be revealed. Secondly, the big cities seem to get all the winners because there are more folks there, and they supposedly play more than do rural folks...)

P. from ????: I'm tired of all the whining and complaining about how the paper favors one school or area over another. I don't think that's true at all. I think they do a good job of getting a little of everything in.

C. of Pigeon: Hey, I can't wait until they're done paving M-142. My car is being pounded to pieces.

W. of Bad Axe: Why is a caboose sitting at the Co-op in Elkton? I just drove by it again. Does the Co-op own it? (No, the Co-op doesn't own it. It belongs to a Huron and Eastern employe who plans to move it to his property later on.)

B. of Elkton: How can a family doctor get away with charging $50 for an office call? No wonder no one can afford health care anymore.

T. of Sebawaing: We just got a call from someone saying they were from The Newsweekly. Is that you? Is it on the up-and-up? (Yes, selected area homes are being phoned by our staff, inquiring about delivery and subscribing. Ask them for a phone number or more details, any time you doubt a phone call you may get at home.)

F. & R. of Elkton: Thanks very much. We just loved the graduation section. We learned a lot about these kids, going out into the world.

M. of Caseville: The Caseville Chamber of Commerce Fireworks 1994 Committee needs help in raising the $5,600 needed for the fireworks show on Sunday, July 3. If you can help sell tickets, or put out donation canisters or make a donation, please contact the Fireworks 1994 Committee, care of Caseville IGA, Box 129, Caseville, 48725. Thank you.

W. of Sebawaing: Why does our school district say they have to ask for millage? I thought that's why we passed Proposal A. (All properties now have a six-mill tax. That's the normal amount homesteads [the main house where you live] will pay. There is an additional 18 mills charged on non-homesteads. That includes stores, factories, vacation cottages, vacant land and rental properties. Proposal A is a big tax break for homesteads and a smaller tax cut to other properties. But remember, that's much less than the 32 or more mills formerly charged on all properties.)

Only a few hours after the May 10 Newsweekly edition was delivered last week, Bob Cartwright of Unionville called to say he remembered well the "Yarns" article on Jean LeRoy and his intricately-carved Circus which he displayed in Schmidt's Garage during a Unionville anniversary homecoming. "I haven't heard about the LeRays for years," Bob declared, "but Mrs. LeRoy was Lorna Reithel, and Merrill Reithel is her brother. Why don't you call him and let us know about the LeRays?"

Since we're full of curiosity, too (like Bob), we called the Reithels, and were told by Mrs. Merrill Reithel that Jean LeRoy, who made a highly-successful career of carving and painting models, has been deceased about 15 years. His widow, Lorna (Reithel) LeRoy, resides in Tucson, AZ, (she was in the UHS Class of 1928), and much of that hand-carved circus that was shown in Unionville, is now on display "behind glass" in one of Tucson's finest restaurants...

Congratulations to Rep. Jim Barcia of Bay City for his "no" vote on the House bill to ban so-called "assault" weapons.

Recollections Of By-Gone Days

by George Keim

DEAR EDITOR:

In my last two articles, I told how I took care of turkeys and worked on a farm in Iowa. Well, coming home is a story of its own.

I wanted to cross Wisconsin and Lake Michigan on a car ferry, but when I got to Milwaukee, I found out that the ferry wouldn't go until the next day. With gas being only nine gallons for $1.00, I decided to go around the upper way and come down through Upper Michigan.

I had an aunt and several cousins in a little town called Millerbough up there and I thought maybe I could see them. So I started out and went up north.

I slept beside the road one night in my car and the next day I started out. They were building a new road and I met two women walking on it. I saw a car beside the road and there were several women around it. I stopped and asked if I could help them. They had a flat tire and no jack or log to change their tire.

I got my own jack out and took their tire off and put their spare on. I got my hand pump out and pumped it up for them and they told me I was a very nice fellow.

They wanted to pay me, but I told them I couldn't take any pay for it. "Well, buy yourself a drink," they said, and I told them, "I don't drink or smoke."

I told them I go to Sunday School, but I did take $1.00 and they thanked me all over and invited me to come to see them.

Well, I didn't get around to it yet! When I got to the ferry, they were shut down for the night, so I drove my car into an empty garage and took off my shoes and slept in the car again.

The next morning, I stopped for breakfast and drove to the ferry and they started across the water.

I met several big wheels from Lansing on the ferry. Then I drove to Millerbough and my aunt was glad to see me. Several of my cousins were there too.

The water was low in my radiator in the car and I stopped at a place and asked for some water. The lady was washing and she said they didn't have a well. So I asked her to let me have her wash water and she did.

I don't know what was in the water, but it didn't leak anymore. When I got home, my Dad was in bed and he was glad to see me and said his Prodigal Son had come home.

Well, I got lots of jobs thrashing and then got a job in the canning factory, which paid 30 cents per hour - the going rate at the time.

The Lord was and still is good to me. Thanks for all the cards and I hope to see all of you again soon.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE KEIM

Horsin' Around

Waiting and hoping

I sure relish these special weeks of mid-May! Not because spring has sprung nor because there's a three day weekend coming up, but because it's "legend hopeful" time.

Every year after the Kentucky Derby I harbor a not-so-secret hope that a bona fide racing legend will emerge at the end of six weeks. After all, no one knew for sure that Secretariat would power his way through the Preakness and the Belmont after his initial Derby victory back in 1973, so maybe - just maybe - this year's Derby-winning dark horse "Go For Gin" will end the summer of 1994 as a super-horse himself.

And perhaps his cute and somewhat emotional trainer - Nick Zito - will find himself the newest member of racing's prestigious triple crown fraternity.

Of course, there are lots of reasons why he and his horse may not achieve this goal, as Go For Gin isn't the biggest or most impressive horse to ever step on the track, nor is he previously undefeated. But he posted an impressive wire-to-wire victory in the sloppy mud and heavy traffic of the 120th run for the roses, and that's what makes a horse race a horse race, as the old saying goes.

After all, we all know from personal experience that "anything is possible," and we often disappoint ourselves when we try to peg a champion before he has proven himself. (Many big beautiful race horses are born each year with more royal breeding than the Queen of England herself, but those pedigrees don't mean a thing if a colt does not have the drive and ambition to be up front at the end of his races!)

And so we wait and wonder... but it is delicious, hopeful wait for those of us who have never given up on adolescent visions of regal horses draped in wreaths of roses, nuzzling silver trophies.

It's just a few days till Saturday's running of the Preakness Stakes in Baltimore, Md. - the second jewel of the triple crown - and that makes it my favorite time of year. A time when, for naive girls in love with horses, "anything is possible."

READING IS MORE fun when you can also be an author. USA Elementary School first-graders show their own versions of their favorite books, as part of a reading and writing program taught by Suzanne Burrows and Jill Haag. Students are, front row from left, Nichelle Wineman, Brenna Markle, Cameron Wildner, Kyle Sprague, Kacie Sutherland; second row, Matthew Winieckie and Sarah Bernia. They wrote their own version of their favorite books.

"Phonics isn't the only answer to teach reading," said Burrows. "Students need to read and to write to be better communicators. They have to see now reading and writing from grocery lists on up is necessary in their lives."

After the project of adapting stories comes retelling stories and creating their own stories.

'Citizen Dodge' honored by Sebewaing Rotarians

By WALT RUMMEL
William Dodge, superintendent of schools in the Sebewaing and USA School Districts since 1964, received the first "Citizen of the Year" award ever presented by Sebewaing Rotary Club Saturday evening before an audience of 80 in Sugar Creek Restaurant.

the awards committee, told of the school chief's many contributions to education, to the community and to the area.

Dr. Coe paid special emphasis to Dodge's goal to always "put people first," and he paid tribute to Dodge's personal generosity in launching and managing the Caring/Sharing program for the past 27 years.

He called the recipient "the nameless Good Samaritan."

In response, Dodge credited those around him, who work with him—the school board, staff, friends and other associates—and he gave a deep thanks to his wife Ruth and his family for their support and cooperation.

On his staff he also singled out Carol DeSimpelare and Linda Bohn for their ever-ready help to his projects.

Sebewaing Village President Dave Wineman described Dodge's generous cooperation, and the school chief's attitude of the importance of "always putting boys' and girls' needs first."

Wineman also introduced Jenny Leach from the staff of State Sen. Joel Gougeon (R-Bay City) who brought a legislative commendation in the name of the Senator, Gov. John Engler and Rep. Dick Allen (R-Caro.)

Brad Halst, son-in-law of the senior Dodges, read a poem in the school chief's honor, composed by Connie Gremel. The invocation and table grace were given by Pastor Terry Weavil of Unionville Moravian Church.

The musical program was by the Praise Quartet, which received strong applause. Clifford Jacoby, speaking for the quartet, added his appreciation for Dodge's help through the years.

20 years for Luke's Market

By WALT RUMMEL
Luke's Mall on M-25 just south of Sebewaing has become such a familiar place of business in the past two decades that many folks have little recollection of the Charles Hess farm and buildings that had stood there for nearly a century.

Twenty years ago this month the new Luke's Market began business on the former Hess property.

It was Thursday, April 25, 1974, that the new 9,600-square foot food supermarket opened its doors for business, having moved from its long-time location on North Center Street.

MANY HAPPENINGS

The year 1974 was a year of many new developments in addition to the beginning of the first—and only—mall in the Sebewaing Area. Among the happenings of that year just two decades ago were the following:

- Completion and dedication of the new Sebewaing Township Building and Fire/Ambulance Station;
- Construction of the new Farmers & Merchants State Bank Building—now First of America Bank. The dedication attracted 4,500 visitors;
- Start of construction for the new Holy Family Catholic Church on South M-25;
- Enlargement of Boat Launch Park on the south bank of Sebewaing River;
- Construction of the new Riverview Apartments on M-25, north of the River;
- Opening of Wright's Pharmacy/Walgreen Agency in the new Luke's Mall in August;
- Construction of the new Unionville Post Office and Good Shepherd Lutheran Church near Caseville;
- Construction of a new home on Gremel Road by USA Building Trades Project.

- The political visit of President Richard Nixon to the Thumb April 11;
- The USA football team's undefeated season and winning of the Big Thumb West League championship, and Gary Loeffler's injury in the St. Mary's game;
- Birthdays of Sebewaing's two centenarians, Martha Kroll who was 103, and Sarah Otto 101;
- Kilmanagh United Methodist's celebration of its 100th anniversary and the Caseville Methodist 100-year-old wood steeple being replaced with a new metal one.

CELEBRATING 20th ANNIVERSARY
Now, in 1994, Luke's Market owner Don Bollstetter and his 47-member staff, are celebrating their 20th anniversary with special prizes and a variety of prizes as described in the four-page advertisement in this edition of The Newsweekly.

Among the prizes are a trip to anywhere in the USA, a bicycle, free bread for a year and a number of gift certificates. The anniversary celebration started Monday, May 16, and the drawing for prizes will be Tuesday, May 31.

The Bollstetter Family has been in the food market business in Sebewaing since March, 1952. Don's father, the late Lothar "Luke" Bollstetter, managed the A&P Store on the south side of Sebewaing River for 14 years. Then Luke and wife Marion moved to Big Rapids for two years, after which they returned and opened their own market on N. Center Street, where the business operated for 22 years.

The store was enlarged in March, 1963, to double its size, about 4,000 square feet, by expanding into the former Lange Hardware. Later that became Western Auto and is now part of Dast Pharmacy.

Following the deaths of Luke and Marion Bollstetter, Don assumed ownership. In expanding in the early 1970s, he chose the M-25 farm site for the large new store and what has grown into Luke's Mall.

When he built the new store in 1974, it was a new all-steel building with an old-fashioned meat department, frozen foods, produce and Dairy. It was flanked by two 40x80-foot business places.

Since construction, many additional businesses have been added, the original Luke's Market building went through two major expansions, and a series of improved designs and layouts were made, in addition to adding many new lines and departments.

The meat counter is one of the store's chief attractions, as the longest counter for fresh meats and home-made sausages in the Upper Thumb. Mrs. Bollstetter is the former

IN THE LATE SUMMER of 1974, a second building of Luke's Mall was built and occupied by Wright Pharmacy. To herald that occasion, Luke's Market and the pharmacy staged a pancake supper which attracted more than 3,300 diners.

There were still many in line when the event had to be brought to an end because of a sudden windstorm that struck, and diners and workers were forced to seek shelter inside buildings and cars. (NEWSWEEKLY ARCHIVES)

This week's news about Sebawaing's Lake Huron Community Arts Council

THE TRAGEDY of the sinking of the Edmund Fitzgerald on Nov. 9, 1975 was relived Thursday night in the "Lord of the Lakes" presentation by the Lake Huron Community Arts Council at Trinity United Methodist Church, Sebawaing. The 729-foot ship, known as the Queen of the Inland Seas, sank in Lake Superior about 60 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie, taking all 29 crew members down with it.

Vic Winkel of Harbor Beach, a retired U.S. Steel second mate was one of several guest speakers at the program. He read the list of missing crew members and tolled a bell in their honor, according to maritime tradition.

Other guest speakers included retired Captains Bob Brissette and Jack McCoy. For more information about the Lake Huron Community Arts Council and its programs, call 883-9093.

Losing 'weight'...

The men I envy most are the long hunters who blazed the wilderness trails beyond the Appalachian Mountains during the 18th century. These trekkers of the "middle grounds" (that's what they called Kentucky and Tennessee when these two states were considered the Western frontier of America), were self-reliant souls who could carve out an existence with little more than a rifle and an axe. I play the re-enacting game as often as I can. Sporting the clothes, tools and various accoutrements of the long hunters, give me a chance to ply my "getting along with almost nothing" skills with other hardy souls who share my interest. The problem is, other than at a muzzleloading shoot or a reenactment event, you look a little out of place in the normal flow of outdoor activities.

So in order to keep my survival skills honed to a razor's edge I am deeply involved in backpacking.

Not ordinary backpacking with its space-age tents, candle lanterns, sun showers, freeze-dried foods and cappuccino makers, but "barebones," "no-frills," just passing through backpacking where you get to feel you are a part of nature instead of being insulated from it.

In order to get comfortable with this type of camping, you have to shed some pounds - not from yourself (so drop the Slim-Fast), but rather from the gear you think you must carry in order to have a reasonably good time. While camping in general means staying put for a period of time, backpacking deals more with just passing through.

Let's start with the pack. My first one was a Boy Scout rucksack and my second was an Army surplus job that wasn't much better. Both were made of canvas and weighed a ton.

I flirted with an Alaskan packboard for awhile and although they are great for lugging out a quartered elk, they are not very serviceable when it comes to trekking for long distances.

My present pack is an external framed, expandable model that can grow or shrink in relationship to the size of the load and the size of the person who is carrying it. It weighs just under six pounds and is a joy to tote.

The next item to come under scrutiny is the tent.

While comfortable to recline in during a howling rainstorm, most times they are not needed and really do little more than place a sheet of nylon between you and the most beautiful night sky you will ever see.

And should it rain, you can't imagine the fun it is to work at finding a suitable shelter to spend the night. Letting your imagination wander, you can come up with several options better than lugging those extra pounds.

A sleeping bag is a must, but if you look around there are some dandy lightweight ones.

I have an Eddie Bauer inner bag that weighs 15 ounces and rolls to the size of the loaf of bread. It is 20 years old, filled with goose down and has never let me down (no pun intended).

I hear horror stories of what will happen if the down gets wet, but to this date, it has never happened to me and I refuse to worry about it.

You don't need a stove or lots of pots and pans to enjoy trailside food. I don't know who gave us the idea that all food has to be hot in order to be enjoyable.

I have backpacked numerous times without a stove or without building a fire, subsisting on a pack full of munchies.

Breakfast can be a ziplock bag full of granola, sugar and powdered milk. A splash of cold water and a little stirring will fortify you for an active morning. Lunch could be nothing more than a Power Bar, a handful of dried fruit and a bag of M&M's.

A supper of beef jerky, pilot biscuits, more dried fruit and a long drink of clear, cold water will last through the entire night. If you are afraid of getting hungry, slip some more M&M's beneath your pillow.

A good way to start paring down before your next backpacking trip is to lay out all of the equipment you think you will need and then leave half of it home. You will be surprised at how little you really need to have lots of fun with lightweight trekking...

■ Researchers have discovered that during periods of low and high tides, animals such as fish seem to lose much of their natural caution. These periods are referred to as Major Periods and last approximately an hour.
■ Later, it was determined that about midway between the Major Periods there was frequently an intermediate period of somewhat shorter duration, which are referred to as Minor Periods. The inclination of the moon's orbit to the Equator also affects Solunar Periods and, in extreme cases, there will be only one Major or Minor Period for the date.

Laker Fine Arts Dinner Thursday night

The term "art" encompasses a lot of territory. We consider art to mean just about anything that needs a healthy dose of creativity and talent to create.

And art will be the focus of all attention at the Laker Fine Arts Dinner this Thursday, May 19, when the artistic talents of Laker students will be showcased.

There'll be displays of art works by all grade levels in the district, as well as performances by the Jazz Band, Junior High Band, and the Senior High Band.

Snippets of performances from past musicals will be presented, such as "Quilters," "The Wizard of Oz," and the fourth-grade recorder players will also perform, as well as the Laker High School Choir.

The evening begins at 5:30 in the Laker High Student Center with a viewing of the students' artwork, with music provided by the Jazz Band.

LAKER ELEMENTARY Music teacher Laura Witczak leads Wanda Hebert, left, and Andrea Siver in a rehearsal. The two girls will be performing a duet at the Laker Fine Arts Dinner.

A baked chicken dinner will be served from 6-7 p.m. in the gym with continuous musical performances, and the main program will be presented in the auditorium at 7:15.
Tickets are available at the Laker High School office.

Get canning check-ups now

Canning season isn't far away and the MSU Extension Huron County, Bad Axe, is offering a free pressure canner dial gauge check. The test takes about one-half hour so it is recommended to drop the lids off for later pick up.

Having gauges tested assures that food is being processed at correct pressure, said Barbara Neuman, Huron County Extension home economist. Also, the extension office recommends using a Ball Blue Book guide for canning and has the 32nd edition available for purchase.

Tuscola offers soil tests now

Tuscola County's Cooperative Extension Office in Caro offers a soil testing service for soil nutrient management.

Testing soil for nutrients is a simple process which a farmer can do himself or have done by an agribusiness company.

"Tuscola is very lucky that it has a Farm Scouting Cooperative which, for a small fee, will undertake the soil testing process," said Dennis Stein, County Extension ag/natural resource agent.

For details, call Stein at 673-5999, ext. 228.

FOLLOW THE (YELLOW) BRICK ROAD: The new brick pathway in downtown Pigeon is leading to the completion of a downtown mini-park, slated for completion yet this month.

Located between Main Street and the Pigeon Historical Depot Museum, the mini-park is designed to link downtown with the depot and provide a landscaped, lighted park area for town visitors and residents to enjoy.

HERE, Troy Gunden of Lee's Landscaping lays the bricks, many of which are engraved with names, handed to him by James Bohn of Sebewaing.

The project was funded by a donation from the Pigeon Historical Society and fund-raising efforts by the Pigeon Beautification Committee, which sold over 425 bricks to area families, businesses and groups.

Over $10,000 was raised for the project, which will be landscaped and lighted. Park benches may be added at a later date, according to Beautification Chairman Neal Eichler.

"READING IS A MAGIC TRIP" was the theme of a Family Reading Program held April 11-23 at the Pigeon District Library, with a party held on May 6 to celebrate family reading. Family members, which read a total of 112 books, included the Stig, Selbig and Badgerow families of Pigeon and the Karl family of Caseville - all pictured here.

Entertainment was by Sarah White of Elkton, who told some stories and Illene Stahl of Pigeon, who organized face painting. Punch and cookies were served, along with a certificate of participation and a free video rental.

Thumb nails...

Compiled (and stolen) by Newsweekly Staff & Friends

■ It's very gratifying to hear from former Thumb Area residents who've moved away, and discover they're still touched by happenings in their home town.

For instance: in the days following the recent death of former President Richard Nixon, Sherril (Caeth) Rybkowski of Bay City and formerly of Sebawaing, notified her sister Janet (Caeth)

Sharpsteen of a previously-unpublished photo of President Nixon that appeared in the April 27 edition of The Bay City Times.

The photo was shot during a campaign swing in 1960 by then-candidate Nixon. It clearly shows three former Sebawaing School teachers in the crowd greeting Nixon: the late Marie Lovelace, Virginia (Brade) Strucinski and the late Elizabeth Oehmke.

Incidentally, the photographer was one of the present stars of the Times staff, Dick Van Nostrand, who was just 17 years old in 1960. Thank you, Sherril, and thank you, Janet!

■ Earlier this year "The Doings" newspaper of Oak Brook, IL, published a large article and photo of one of its advertising sales reps, who happens to be a native of Sebawaing — Brenda Ann (Myers) Wible, daughter of Burdette and Arlene Myers of Sebawaing.

In the article, Brenda describes her duties of helping advertising customers sell and market their products and services. She told of former jobs on daily and local newspapers in Michigan, and described her husband Mike Wible as "my most-prized possession."

Brenda called the birth of her son Ryan as her most important achievement. She listed her hobbies, her favorite TV shows, her happiest memories and why she enjoys her job.

Incidentally, she describes her "worst job ever" as one summer's task of pulling and hoeing weeds in sugar beet fields.

Thanks to Burdette and Arlene for sharing the details with The Newsweekly staff, and congratulations to Brenda on the success she's made in her job.

Glad you like newspaper work, Brenda, we like it, too...

■ Know a kid who's staying out of trouble, keeping up his or her grades, and is just generally a great kid?

He or she may get some special recognition from WNEM-TV5, through a new public service campaign, "TV 5's Great Kids." They'll have 60-second vignettes of local kids who are doing good things every day.

The station says they want to focus on kids of all ages, in all parts of the TV5 news viewing area. Viewers are asked to nominate kids they know in their communities.

Kids selected will be announced twice a month on Take 5 with Dick Fabian and Leslie Davis, and the vignettes will air throughout each day at various times.

If you know a kid you'd like to nominate, send that info to

WNEM TV-5
P.O. Box 531
Saginaw, MI 48606

Include complete details about why you think the kid is a "Great Kid," and include your name and phone number.

■ When you plant a seed in a fertile mind, it's amazing what wonderful things can grow and flourish.
