THE FIVE HOATTS An Oriental Tale. Once on a time, its Indextan,
A thief conceived a cunning plan
(So potent is the voice of Hupe)
To save his throttle from the tope,
Though now the day was drawing nigh
When he by law was downed to die.
He bade the jailor tell the King
He fain would show a wondrous thingA precious secret fairly worth-A precious secret fairly worth.
The ear of any prince on earth.
And now the culprit, being led I planted will become a tree
Whose fruit—increased a hundred fold
Will be like this, the purest gold. Will be like this, the purest gold.

Will be like this, the purest gold.

I pray your majesty to try
If this be true, before I die."

With this the King and courtiers went into the garden with intent
To plant the curious coin of gold.

But now, when all was ready, "Hold,"
Exclaimed the thief, "this hand of min
would surely spoil our whole design;
The hand that plants the gold must be
(Else all is naught) entirely free
From stain of fraud; and so I pray
Your gracious majestry will bay
The seed in earth." "Yes—no—in soo
The King replied, "for in my youth
I pillered from my sire; some stain,"
For all my sorrow, may remain.
My good prime minister is here;
His hand no doobt is wholly clear of any taint." "Nay," he replied,
That's more than I can well decide;
Astu-receiver, now, I may
