MY LITTLE BLACK-AND-TAN.

Of all the friends that I have had-

Or friends that seemed to be—
They left me when reverses came,
Save one, who atayed by me.
This friend that I am speaking of
Is neither child nor man;
It is a faithful dog at home,
My little black-and-tan.

No matter where I wander to,
No matter where I roam,
I know I have at least one friend;
My little dog at home.
I love to hear his playful bark—
He's truer friend than man,
No one can take his love from me,
My little black-and-tan.

He knows my step upon the walk,
He also knows my rap,
And when I sit down in the house,
He jumps into my lap;
And when his shining eyes meet mine,
For speak they almost can,
I see true friendship beaming forth,
My little black-and-tan.

Nor chide me not for loving him,
For love bim well I do;
(if all the friends that I have had,
Alone he has been true.
He does not leave me, though I'm poor,
He loves me better than
The ones that left me in distress—
My little black-and-tan.

The November number of Scribner's Monthly is the best of all the year. After carefully reading all the first-class publications, we are compelled to confess that we consider Scribner's monthly far superior to them all as a magazine for the people. The new novel just commenced in Scribner's is excellent, and every one should read it. Parties with ing to see Scribner's Monthly can do so by calling at this office. The Womon's Temperance Alliance of this county will hold their first annual meeting at Saline, on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 28th and 29th, 1875, at the Presbyterian Church, commencing at half-past ten o'clock. Every union in the county it is expected will send delegates. What are the village authorities doing in regard to the purchase of some kind of an aparatus for the protection of the village against fire? Nothing. What do they intend to do? Nothing. And one of these days a terrible conflagation will sweep over this village, destroying property enough to pay for a dozen engines. We are often asked the question 'Why don't the Insurance Companies pay Mr., Reynolds' insurance on the paper mill?' We are not prepared to answer in, but hope we may at some future day. We understand that Mr. R. stands ready to engage in business the moment he gets his money, and as he has always been an active business man, until his mill burned down, we have no doubt his enterprising spirit will soon show itself and our village will be greatly benefited by his efforts. John Nestell found a lot of horness in his horn a few nights ago, at the band from. He shook them out on the floor and commenced playing. He soon felt something crawling on the inside of his pants leg and in attempting to put a store to further proceedings, found it a warm job. He danced the 'green corn' and Sioux war dance, swung his arms about, and a direct called for fried eggs, (and got none), prayed, swore—a little, and finally shook seventeen hot-footed cusses out on the floor again. We found the following in a late copy of the Bellevue Gazette:—Our townsman, Rev. Darius R. Shoop, has accepted an invitation to become pastor of the Presbyterian church, at Manchester, a live town in Washtenaw county, and will, within a few days, remove with his family to that place. During the past few years Mr. Shoop has been prominently identified with the interests and prosperity of Bellevue and Eaton county, first as a pastor in Bellevue, and later as county superintendent of schools for two years, and where there has been right to uphold, or wrong and oppression to condemn, he has not been found wanting. In going from this place to their new field af labor, Mr. & Mrs. Shoop will take with them the kindest remembrances and best wishes of our citizens for their future success and happiness. The Boys Room.—We wish, especially to urge upon mothers the propriety of giving up to the boys, as soon as they reach the age of twelve or fourteen, one room (not a bedchamber), for whose (reasonably) good order they shall consider wholly their own. The floor should be uncarpeted, of oiled wood; the furniture of the same material. Let it be papered, curtained, decorated according to the boys own fancy; if the taste is bad, they will be interested after a while in correcting it. berries swimming in to tiew, little gourmands that we were.

It took some time to get enough horey, for we must have been obliged to capture at least eighteen or twenty-nests. Some of them contained several great spooffuls of honey, others but very little.

In the course of an hour or two, we had our big platter of berries pretty well covered. Each of us had a spoon; and there, in the shade of the barks, our fingers sell covered. Each of us had a spoon; and there, in the shade of the barks how the studied with fix also our fingers sell covered. Each of us had a spoon; and there, in the shade of the barks owner. The bees were the yellow at the legans of a red gragereable termination.

In taking so many nests, many of the first bushes, and of course the grades that began so, sweetly was destined to covered, and or more of the girls screamed and ran, brand-hing the major, it is more furnous were the maged bees had escaped, and were shifting around the meadow in spitchill.
